U.S. Senate OK's Bill On Draft Exemptions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved an amendment to the draft bill Monday that would grant exemptions to any sons in a family who has lost an immediate member in the armed forces.

The bill would cover those now serving, as well as potential draftees.

The rider, the first added to the bill to extend the draft for two years, won on a 56 to 9 vote despite the strenuous objections of Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., who is guiding the bill through the Senate.

Before the amendment was passed, Stennis had managed to maneuver his bill unchanged through 17 roll call votes on attempts to amend it.

Present law grants an exemption from the draft only to the sole surviving son in a family.

But the amendment, sponsored by Sen. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore., would provide that no person could be inducted into the armed forces — unless he volunteers — if his father, brother, or sister was killed in action; died in the line of duty; or died later as a result of injuries or disease incurred in service.

Similar to a provision passed by the House and certain to become part of the law, the exemption also would cover sons whose relatives are prisoners of war or listed as missing in action.

Those now in the armed forces — except if they are facing a court-martial or have been convicted — could apply for a prompt discharge.

78 Persons Killed In 2 Air Disasters

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — The crash of an Allegheny Airlines propjet which killed 28 persons could have been prevented if a requested instrument landing system had been installed at the Tweed-New Haven airport, according to the airport's manager.

Only three persons survived the disaster Monday which occurred while the plane's pilot tried to fly visually through fog, flew too low, and crashed.

Visibility was about 200 feet at the end of the runway near New Haven harbor at 9:52 a.m. EDT when the Convair 580 struck chimneys of three empty beach cottages and high tension power lines before it crashed in sandy marshland and exploded.

John Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, said the plane was flying too low and hit the chimneys of the cottages.

James M. Marky, manager of Tweed-New Haven, said after the crash an instrument landing system (ILS) could have prevented the accident.

"If an ILS were there, I feel confident ... that the pilot would not have been down at that altitude," Marky said.

The federal Aviation Administration said the ILS was not installed because of lack of funds.

Union Leaders Threaten To Continue N.Y. Strike

Nixon Accused Of Delaying End To Indochina War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Monday accused President Nixon of prolonging the war in Indochina to gain maximum political impact for his re-election bid in 1972.

Kennedy said the only reason Nixon continues a "discredited" policy of Vietnamization is the President's "intention to play his last great card for peace at a time closer to November, 1972, when the chances will be greater that the action will benefit the coming presidential campaign."

The Massachusetts Democrat spoke to a band of high-level lobbyists in town in an effort to talk Congress into ending the Vietnam war this year.

"What has the President to fear?" Kennedy asked the lobbyists involved in the "Lobby of Americans" activity. "Surely not the loss of office. Surely not the judgment of history."

"The loss of office is fear that can never justify the sacrifice of a single human life. And the judgment of history should not be feared at all, since it is a judgment made long ago on Vietnam by people throughout the world."

There were about 1,500 lawyers at the meeting, most of them conservatively dressed. They along with business, religious, civil rights and other contingents of the "Lobby of Americans" planned to rally on the Capitol steps today and to spend much of the week visiting Congressional offices in small delegations.

The lobby, says it brought 2,500 Americans to town from all sections of the country, claims about 40 solid Senate votes for an amendment which would cut off funds for deployment of troops in Vietnam after Dec. 31. But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield expressed skepticism the peace workers would gain any ground.

"The vote they would get a week or two from now is the vote you would get today," he said Monday. "I think the people have their minds made up."

28 Bridges Inoperable

NEW YORK (UPI) — City officials and Army engineers worked through the night to keep New York City functioning today and prevent a repeat of Monday's massive traffic snarl caused by a municipal employee strike.

No one guaranteed they could do it. Union leaders threatened an escalation of the strike.

Drawbridge operators employed by the city walked off the job Monday morning, leaving 28 of the city's 29 vital drawbridges open and inoperable. Other city employees left trucks stalled in traffic lanes.

The result was tens of thousands of motorists lined bumper-to-bumper coming in and out of Manhattan during the morning and evening rush hours. The commuters' plight worsened when the temperature rose to 93 degrees, New York's hottest day of the year.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers worked Monday and this morning to close the bridges — a job made harder because many fuses had been removed and operating devices tampered with. Most of the major bridges were in operation today.

The strike came as a result of the State Legislature in Albany declining to consider a pension plan for city employees that would bring pay to those retiring after 40 years of service.

Victor Gotbaum, executive director of District 37 of the Municipal Employees Union, and 400 delegates of striking employees voted unanimously Monday to continue and escalate the strike.

Mayor John V. Lindsay met Monday night with Gotbaum and Barry Feinstein, head of Teamsters Local 235 representing the drawbridge operators. Gotbaum told Lindsay the city could expect an escalation of the strike but did not say what form it would take.

"And I said, 'This is no way to behave,'" Lindsay told the news media after the meeting.

Lindsay, who earlier Monday called the strike "immoral, illegal and outrageous," said at one time the National Guard might have to be called in to help but said today there was no immediate need for the guard since police and other agencies "have the city under control."

Gotbaum and Feinstein were ordered to appear in State Supreme Court at 2 p.m. today to answer temporary restraining orders issued Monday against the strike. Gotbaum said he would ignore the court order.

Hoover Admits FBI Taps 47 Telephones

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI, according to Director J. Edgar Hoover, currently is tapping 47 telephones and has secretly planted at least six microphones for security reasons or to investigate organized crime. None of them, Hoover said, is being used on congressmen.

The FBI chief provided the information to a closed door House appropriations subcommittee hearing, "to put the record straight" concerning his increasingly criticized agency. The heavily censored testimony was made public today.

House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana charged earlier this year the FBI was bugging congressional telephones. Boggs, however, never produced evidence of his charges.

Hoover cited a newspaper article (Washington Post) which he said raised "suspicion that Sen. Birch Bayh's (D-Ind.)

office was bugged during the Judge Clement Haynsworth controversy." Haynsworth's nomination to the Supreme Court was rejected by the Senate last year, with Bayh among the more vocal Haynsworth opponents.

"We, of course, never had any electronic coverage of Senator Bayh or any other senator or congressman," Hoover said. "Furthermore, the charge that the FBI has tapped Central Intelligence Agency phones is absolutely false. At no time in the history of FBI has this ever been done."

"I would like to add, also, we have never tapped a telephone of any Congressman or any Senator since I have been director of the bureau," said Hoover, the first and only FBI director.

Hoover said his testimony on FBI electronic surveillance was cleared by Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

City Okays Nucleus Of Drug Task Force

A Community Task Force to coordinate local activities on drug abuse moved into the first stage of organization today with approval by the Pampa City Commission of a membership nucleus.

Mayor Milo Carlson and city commissioners listened to Don Losher of the Suicide Prevention-Crisis Information group explain purpose of the task force plan.

"There are several segments of community life involved in current activities in this direction," Losher said, "and we need to coordinate these splintered efforts into one channel."

Mayor Carlson added it would be the intention of the city commission to expand membership of the task force to include all areas of community activity interested in prevention of drug abuse.

Current members of the initial task force group named today include Losher, Rev. Martin Hager, Dave Redus, Mrs. C. L. Farmer, Dr. Royce Laycock, Kay Fancher, Ben Sturgeon, Mayor Carlson, City Manager Mack Wofford and members of the news media.

Functions of the task force, as explained by Losher, would be to outline existing and prior social systems, converge on areas of concern, utilize existing coordinating forces, diffuse basic program ideas, secure commitment to action through school-community cooperation, and mobilize resources for speakers and materials.

In other business today the commission

Approved lease of farm land at the old air landing strip on US 70 to W. C. Epperson on a three-year basis for $10,863.

Authorized "yield" sign installation on 19th and 22nd streets to make them through thoroughfares from Hobart to Lynn.

Authorized the sale of all surplus Canadian River water, totaling 1.124 billion gallons, to Lubbock and Lamesa for $36,645 during the fiscal year. Lubbock will take 1,094 billion gallons and Lamesa 30 million gallons.

Heard a proposal from school superintendent James F. Malone on joint city-school installation of new tennis courts at the high school and decided to draw up specifications and seek bids to determine exact cost before making any commitment.

Renewed a 3-year contract with the Texas Railroad Commission for use of office space in City Hall at a cost of $30 a month.

Okayed routine salary changes and approved payment of $39,892.69 in city bills for May.

Local Cancer Unit Official To Attend Amarillo Meeting

Dr. Victor Trammell, president of the Gray County Unit of the American Cancer Society, today announced that Mrs. O.C. Penn, vice-president will attend the District 3N annual meeting set for tomorrow in Amarillo.

A feature of the meeting will be a plan and evaluation session where state, district and local volunteers will discuss how district program committees can help county chairmen with the program for the coming year.

Special guests will be Curt Reiman, vice president of the Texas Division; Harry Mill, national staff member and Gordon Hollon, State board member.

According to recent figures, Texas is leading the nation in the largest Crusade gain for 1971. The Texas Crusade goal is $3,500,000. Gray County Society efforts raised $8,143.63 during the April Crusade.

Trammell pointed out that the district meetings of the society provide an opportunity for ACS leaders to learn how to implement new local cancer control program measures in Gray County, and its incorporated towns and rural areas.

Governor Smith Says He Will Sign Redistricting Bill

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Preston Smith said he will sign the controversial legislative redistricting bill passed during the special session of the legislature.

Smith said he would make no value judgements concerning the bill.

"It's not up to the executive branch to determine its constitutionality. I'm not a lawyer, and if there are any avenues of relief it's the federal courts," he said.

During a press conference Monday Smith also said he would sign the ethics bill and another which provides state aid to private school students.

The governor described the ethics bill sponsored by Sen. Ralph Hall, D-Rockwall, as a "real strong ethics bill. I want to see it passed."

New York City Sewage Workers Join Strike By Bridge Tenders

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sewage treatment plant workers joined a wildcat pension strike by the city's bridge tenders today causing an estimated 1.3 billion gallons of raw sewage to be dumped into the city's surrounding waterways every 24 hours.

The mushrooming wildcat strike action began Monday with the walkout by bridge tenders to back their demands that the state legislature approve a pension plan that would give many city employees half pay after 20 years service and full pay after 40 years.

The pension plan was approved by the city but needs legislative approval to become effective. The bill on pensions has been referred to committee, in effect killing it.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has indicated he will use National Guard troops if necessary to replace the striking workers.

City sanitationmen did not join in the strike and the city's fresh water system was not affected, officials said.

Also joining the walkout today were stationary firemen at city incinerators and gardeners and foremen at city parks.

The new strike action by city employees came as traffic into the city eased considerably today when many commuters used public transportation to get to their jobs.

Cholera Kills 900 East Pakistanis

KARIMPUR, India (UPI) — Their road began in East Pakistan and ended in a lush green field a few miles inside India, where cholera struck them down.

About 900 civil war refugees from Pakistan lie here in mass graves dug during the past 10 days as the disease ravaged the men, women and children fleeing to safety in India.

The trucks brought them.

The only sign to mark the graves was a bamboo tripod atop one of the piles of earth with a chunk of wood dangling from a string in the middle. It was, Bhattacharjee explained, a scarecrow-like device to keep animals from digging into the graves.

In one case along the highway, said Bhattacharjee, "a mother had already died from cholera and we found a baby still sucking milk from her breast." The child was taken in by Indian villagers near where the mother had fallen, he said.

The epidemic the refugees brought with them appeared to be on the wane in Kalimpur, but nevertheless Bhattacharjee had to pick up 17 bodies from the dispensary and 20 more from along the roadside during the morning.

At midday, there still were five bodies left along the stretch from Kalimpur to Bettal, 15 miles to the south.

Two were sprawled under a tree in one place. The others, shriveled from the body dehydration which kills when cholera strikes, lay in the open.

EPIDEMIC CONTINUES

Wisps of discarded bedding and clothing lying in the mud showed where others had fallen.

The 900 victims were a small part of the 200,000 refugees who have entered Kalimpur since the start of the exodus from East Pakistan. They were moving on the road, sitting in improvised camps along its shoulders and taking shelter on the porches and verandas of every house at its side.

In Krishnagar a group of about 50 persons moved along the road, chanting and beating drums. A young girl at the head carried a plate to collect donations of money.

The money was not for the refugees but as an offering to pacify the Hindu goddess Maa Sitaala.

Pampan, Injured In Car Accident, Remains Serious

A Pampa resident, David Pilcher, 44, 2544 Aspen, remained in serious condition in an Amarillo hospital today. Pilcher was injured in a three-car accident Sunday night near the old Amarillo Air Force Base. He sustained injuries when he stopped to render aid to persons occupying an automobile which had crashed into a power pole earlier.

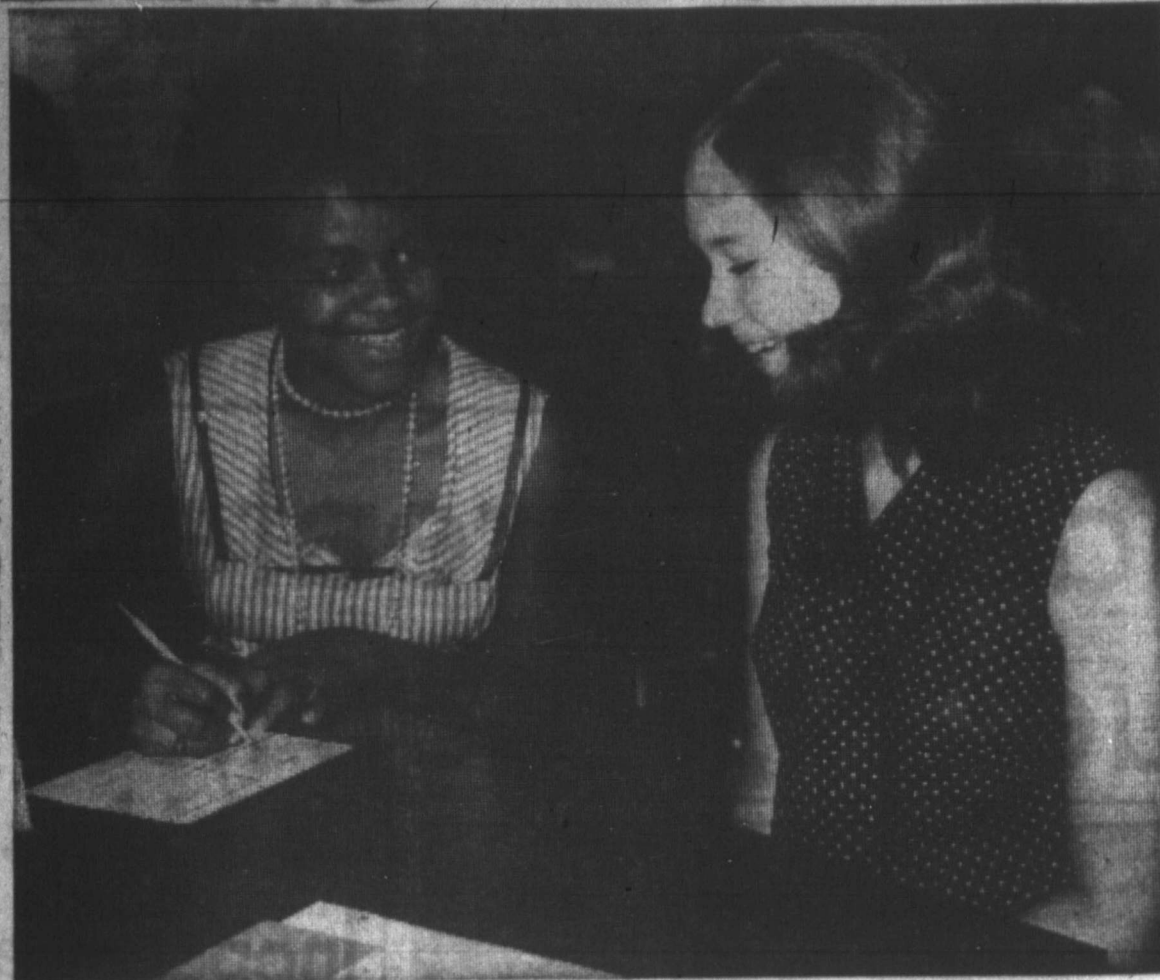

Pilcher's automobile was struck by the third car involved in the pile-up. Department of Public Safety officers said.

Mrs. Lucretia Hertz, 75, and her husband Glenn, 71, Norwalk, Calif., were injured in the first accident.

The driver of the third car, Leroy Robertson, 71, Amarillo, was not injured.

Speaker Happy With Court Ruling Upholding Multimember Districts

AUSTIN (UPI)—The U. S. Supreme Court ruling upholding the selection of several legislators from one district was "hardly unexpected" by House Speaker Gus Mutscher, and he says it confirms his conviction that multimember districts are legal in Texas.

"This reasoning is based on the premise that legislators running at large in our cities can better represent the interests of the entire area," Mutscher said of Monday's high court ruling.

The Supreme Court ruled 6-3 to overturn a lower court decision which had barred multimember districts in a Marion County, Ind., case.

"The decision handed down Monday by the Supreme Court supporting multimember legislative districts reflects many of the principles upon which Texas' multimember districts have been designed in the past," Mutscher said, "and upon which the 62nd Legislature based its plan."

Mutscher said the Supreme Court decision was "certainly gratifying but hardly unexpected."

"When we began the difficult task of redrawing boundaries of Texas House districts, we sought the advice of attorneys experienced in constitutional law," he said. "At that time, we were assured the theory behind our use of multimember districts was fundamentally sound."

The Supreme Court's ruling puts the burden of proof on areas within a multimember district to show that their area is not properly represented. Republicans and minority groups in Texas have long sought limiting each district to a single representative, arguing this would give a more accurate representation.

Rep. Delwin Jones, D-Lubbock, chairman of the House Redistricting Committee, echoed Mutscher's sentiments, but said the Supreme Court ruling is not likely to discourage legal challenges of the Texas redistricting plan.

"I doubt that anybody will withdraw their suit because of it," Jones said. "I believe each case will have to stand on its own merits, and I think they are going to go ahead and see if our case is any different in some way."

Jones said the Texas plan of multimember districts in five metropolitan areas of Texas is "the way we felt would best represent the people of Texas."

Under the plan, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, and Austin elect all their representatives at large within the county. Harris County is divided into five four-member at-large districts and one three-member at-large district.

Mitchell Says Thieves Got Away With $400 Million In Securities

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorney General John N. Mitchell told new congressional hearings into organized crime today thieves got away with upwards of $400 million in securities in the United States in 1969 and 1970.

Mitchell said the theft of securities was a growing problem, spurred by a large increase in the volume of trading in securities, a related increase in the number of employees in brokerage houses, and a realization by members of organized crime that there are "low risks and ... high reward in marketing stolen securities."

Justice Department records showed "upwards of $400 million worth of securities had been stolen and not recovered in 1969 and 1970," Mitchell said.

But he said this record gave only part of the picture.

"Many thefts of securities from brokerage firms, banks and other financial institutions involving large sums of money go unreported or unnoticed, according to industry sources," Mitchell said.

The hearings began before the Senate investigations subcommittee and were expected to stretch over at least the next 18 months.

MOSTLY ODD JOBS

YES Working Hard To Find Positions For Local Youths

Current trends in the labor market are making it extremely difficult for young students seeking employment to find a job.

Local affiliates of the Youth Employment Service are working hard to find positions for students desiring to work through the vacation months.

Charles Vance, Texas Employment Commission spokesman in Pampa, said today that there are about 200 young people registered with the local service.

Residents are cooperating by calling in with jobs offers, he pointed out, but about 95 percent of them are temporary.

Girls seem to be out of luck on the job market this summer, officials reports. There are just no jobs for returning college girls or high school students. Pampa's unemployment rate is up, following a pattern nationwide, authorities said.

This is the second year of a saturated labor market.

Boys are finding jobs easier, though a great percentage of them are temporary or one-day employment prospects. Janitor duties, yard-work, farm work and some types of construction work head the list of job placements this summer, according to YES workers.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A girl signed "WONDERING" asked you how men felt about marrying an unwed mother, and you invited me to write in and tell her. Here's my story:

When I met my wife, she was 18 and five months pregnant. She told me all about herself and even who the baby's father was, but it didn't make one bit of difference to me. We were married a month before her baby was born, and I couldn't love my own flesh and blood more.

I admired this girl for being absolutely truthful from the start. A girl with two strikes against her tries twice as hard to show her appreciation for being treated with love and respect. I have been married to this wonderful girl for six years and we have had two other children, and I love them all the same.

LUCKY IN WENATCHEE

DEAR ABBY: In starting married life with another man's child, I would consider myself fortunate to have an unwed mother as my intended.

There would be no sessions of private grief for a killed-in-action husband, no trying to keep his memory alive in the child. No problems with previous in-laws or dotting grandparents. And there would be no emotional hangovers from a previous marriage that misfired or helping her live down her first love.

As far as I am concerned, unwed mothers are definitely choice material.

FRANK IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR ABBY: I would advise an unwed mother to keep the story of her mistake to herself. I married a girl who had had a child out of wedlock. She told me who the baby's father was and all the details of the whole rotten mess, and I have wished a thousand times that she hadn't told me. If she had made up a story about having been "raped" I would have been much happier.

CAN'T FORGET IN MINNESOTA

DEAR ABBY: Please tell WONDERING not to wonder any more. No man of quality will think less of her for one mistake. I know. I met a lovely little woman, and I fell hard! She knew I was getting serious, so she confessed that although she had never been married she had a child six years old. I met the child, and she won my heart! In less than a year I married the unwed mother and adopted her child. We subsequently had five other children and now have a grand total of 21 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. We have had 55 beautiful years together, and I consider myself the luckiest man in the world. NO REGRETS IN PENSACOLA

DEAR ABBY: I married an unwed mother 15 years ago, and we now have the most beautiful 16-year-old "mistake" in the world.

PROUD IN ALLENTOWN, PA.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe "WONDERING" would like to hear from a mother whose son married an unwed mother. To me there is no finer lady than my new daughter, Barbie. I also got a beautiful grandbaby in the bargain, which I love as much as my other grandbabies.

When my son married Barbie her baby was five months old. There was some ugly talk, but my whole family held their heads high and paid no attention. My new daughter showed her true character by accepting her responsibilities and not lying about her mistake. This has made us love her all the more.

I am proud of my son for being able to accept an unwed mother without shame. I have another son, and if he chooses to marry an unwed mother who is as sweet and nice as Barbie, I would be as proud of him as if he had married a virgin.

White House Bride Keeps Away From Public Spotlight

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the first in a two-part personality sketch on the stars of Saturday's White House wedding, Miss Tricia Nixon and her fiancé, Edward Finch Cox, a 24-year-old Harvard Law School student.

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Tricia Nixon is realist enough to know she can't avoid being in the limelight on June 12, the day she will be married to Edward Finch Cox in a White House wedding.

But as soon as the wedding is over, she will resume the passionate quest for privacy which has been her trademark as a presidential daughter.

Her distaste for publicity is so great that White House reporters, frustrated in repeated attempts to obtain interviews or pictures, have nicknamed her "The Phantom of the White House."

Tricia is unperturbed by her reputation for secretiveness. She points out that the White House is—at least until June 12—her home, and a lady surely is entitled to some privacy in her own home.

President Nixon understands and sympathizes with his 25-year-old daughter's feelings about keeping out of the public eye. He said recently that Tricia is "an introvert like myself... not one who enjoys the spotlight."

But when circumstances compel Tricia to play a public role, as they will at her wedding, she invariably carries off the occasion with great aplomb. "She's a born actress," says one White House aide.

Families Attend

Reunion Social

WHEELER (Sp)—Supt. and Mrs. Dorman Thomas and family attended a family reunion at Paducah, last weekend. This was the reunion held for the Eason Family. There were five generations on both sides of the family.

On Mrs. Thomas's mother's side (Eason) there were Mrs. Elsie Eason, Mrs. Everett Cornell, Mrs. Dorman Thomas, Mrs. Mike Clark and Little Miss Keitha Clark. On Mrs. Thomas's father's side there were Mrs. Z. C. Cornell, Everett Cornell, Mrs. Dorman Thomas, Mrs. Mike Clark and Little Miss Keitha Clark.

Tricia is a quiet and reserved girl, strong-willed and extremely intelligent. She thinks for herself, and is definitely on the conservative side in her political and social views—much more so than her future husband, and well to the right of her own father.

Blonde and pretty, Tricia fits the description "petite." She is five feet two inches tall, weighs around 92 pounds and wears sizes four and five in dresses. Some fashion critics have called her "Alice in Wonderland," because she favors a little girl look in her clothes. Women's wear Daily, the garment industry paper, recently gave her its "Best Dressed Child" award.

Tricia apparently is taking notice of these remarks. She has lately been moving into more sophisticated outfits. Actually, her choice is limited because of her well-proportioned but tiny figure. Her engagement party dress was white, very low cut and banded with ostrich feathers befitting a movie star.

She was born and reared in a world of politics. Nine days after she was born Feb. 21, 1946, in Whittier, Calif., her father announced his candidacy for California's 12th Congressional seat on the Republican ticket.

She is close to her father and has rejoiced in his political victories, suffered in his defeats. While he was a congressman, then senator and later Vice-President she lived in Washington attending public schools and later Sidwell Friends, a Quaker school.

She spent her sophomore and junior high school years at the Marlborough School for Girls and then enrolled in the exclusive Chapin School in New York City. There in 1963, she met "my first and last love" Eddie Cox at a school dance. "He was so tall. I was almost smothered dancing with him," she recalls.

Then on to Finch College, a liberal arts institution in New York where she majored in modern European history and was elected class president in her junior year. Throughout college she was an honor student.

When she is upset it shows first in her eyes. But she is not one to put her emotion on public display, except for the shining expression she wears when she is with Cox.

Speeches of living in the White House she once said: "It isn't a burden. It is something one learns to appreciate the longer one is there. You are living history. It's great to be able to share it. When you see the light in children's eyes... a party is a guaranteed success. You can't give a failure in the White House."

Marriage inevitably has interfered somewhat with Tricia's once very close relationship with her sister, Julie Eisenhower. But there still is much warmth between her and her sister and brother-in-law, David Eisenhower.

Editors Question

White House Chef

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After a week of ups and downs, White House Chef Henry Haller began Saturday to bake Tricia Nixon's 350-pound 6-foot wedding cake.

Only the bride-to-be was on hand from the First Family to oversee the project. Other members were spending the weekend at Camp David, the presidential retreat in nearby Maryland.

Mrs. Nixon and her other daughter, Julie Eisenhower, flew to the mountaintop hideaway Friday night after a reception with the diplomatic corps honoring Tricia and her fiancé, Edward Finch Cox. They will be married in the Rose Garden Saturday.

Tricia has confidence in Haller's skill, although his reputation was at stake earlier in the week when food editors around the nation questioned his recipe for old fashioned pound cake, using only egg whites instead of whole eggs.

"It takes a real gourmet cook to prepare it," she said. "I think a few people need cooking lessons."

Cox, 24, flew back to Cambridge, Mass., Friday night to pack up and move out of his bachelor apartment and into the new one that he and Tricia will occupy this fall. He will return to Washington on Wednesday for a series of pre-nuptial parties and last minute wedding arrangements.

Tall, blond and handsome, Cox was asked whether he wished he was eloping. He grinned and said "no comment."

"He's taking the fifth," Tricia said. Wedding gifts continued to pour in. The bridal couple already had received silver tea and coffeesets along with other presents from wealthy friends. The designer of Tricia's wedding gown, Priscilla of Boston, will arrive Thursday to give her a last fitting. Tricia's junior bridesmaids, her first cousins, Beth and Amy Nixon, 11 and 13, will arrive from their home near Seattle on Thursday. They are the daughters of the President's brother, Edward Nixon, a mutual fund executive.

Problems Facing U.S. Withdrawal And Vietnamization

SAIGON (UPI) — The "phased withdrawal" system of ending American participation in the Vietnam War will be two years old on Wednesday.

In black ink on the ledger are the facts that U.S. troop strength has been halved, U.S. war deaths have been cut by 80 percent, the South Vietnamese army is fighting more and better, and Communist strength, despite localized "offensives," is declining.

The red ink is also well used. The U.S. military establishment remaining in South Vietnam is racked with a serious drug addiction epidemic. "Fragging" incidents—attempted murder by hand grenade—have risen alarmingly. Anti-Americanism by South Vietnam to the point where the U.S. command has written a contingency plan to cover possible fighting between South Vietnamese and American troops.

Program Hits "Stone Wall"
High-ranking officials in Saigon also admit that the heralded pacification program has run into a stone wall in attempts to extend government control to the hardcore Communist-controlled areas of the country.

The red ink entries in the past two years have brought mounting pressure for a faster, and complete American pullout from the war.

In the United States, there is another move in Congress attempting to force a complete U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam before the end of 1971.

President Nixon, however, said at a news conference on June 1 that slower, measured withdrawals are necessary to prevent "a takeover of South Vietnam by the Communist aggressors" and to end the war "in a way that we give the South Vietnamese a reasonable chance to defend themselves against Communist aggression."

Attitude Changes
In the two years since the Nixon administration announced the first 25,000-man American withdrawal, a discernible change in attitude has taken place among U.S. officials in Vietnam.

At first appalled by withdrawals and the Vietnamization program, civilian and military officials now support them, and on occasion have urged stepped up pullouts.

"The Army in Vietnam is going to hell," said a U.S. lawmaker visiting Saigon recently, after briefings from top officials.

"The generals can see the whole military falling apart here. They're behind the withdrawals. They want to get out of here, reorganize and regroup and save the U.S. military."

A high-ranking military source said he felt all American ground combat troops could be pulled out immediately with no serious detrimental effects on the war.

Nguyen Cao Ky, a former hardline hawk who urged American invasion of North Vietnam, said "When I was prime minister (from 1965 to 1967) we had the best conditions to win a military victory," Ky said. "But now, it's too late, the conditions have changed."

"If Vietnamization means only the withdrawal of American troops, then you will see that Vietnamization will be completed next year. I favor this."

"We must fight for our own country. We have asked the foreigners for aid to help us, but now we must fight."

GETHIN WINS RACE
Pete Gethin, Belgium (UPI) — OLDER, Belgium (UPI) — Pete Gethin of Britain, driving a McLaren, Sunday won the first Canam race ever held in Belgium. He won the first heat and placed second in the second heat.

Question is "When"
The debate no longer involves the "if" of American withdrawal from Vietnam. The question now is "when."

Nixon has said a "residual force" of Americans would remain past his main withdrawal target date next year until North Vietnam agrees to release American prisoners of war.

Military sources at the U.S. command headquarters in Saigon said that a residual force would be needed for "some time" to ship surplus war goods from Vietnam back to the United States in any case.

"Winding down a 17-year-old war can't take place in three or six months," one source said. "The bureaucracy needs a lot longer than that for a total pullout."

Ky's Opinion Changes
Perhaps most indicative of the change in mood favoring an early complete American withdrawal has been the change in opinion by Vice President at a news conference on June 1 that slower, measured withdrawals are necessary to prevent "a takeover of South Vietnam by the Communist aggressors" and to end the war "in a way that we give the South Vietnamese a reasonable chance to defend themselves against Communist aggression."

Sketch On Pampa To Be Featured In Musical Drama

By CAROL CRAIN

A sketch of early pioneer days in Pampa will be featured in this year's souvenir program for the musical drama "Texas."

The pen and ink drawing is titled, "Bones" Hooks rides a bad one during a train stop at Pampa, Texas in 1911."

The sketch is one of thirty drawn by Paul Laune of Phoenix, Arizona, the 1971 program artist.

Laune grew up in Woodward, Okla., where his father, fresh out of law school, made the "run" into the Cherokee Strip. A few years later the young attorney made visits to the Texas Panhandle where he courted and married Seigniora (Nonie) Russell, who in her teens had gone with her family to settle in Collingsworth County.

The artist's interest from boyhood days were horses and pictures. Long before it was time for him to go to university and art schools he had become an experienced hand with horses and cattle.

His description of "Bones" Hooks rides a bad one during a train stop at Pampa, Texas in 1911" states: Matthew "Bones" Hooks, a Negro bronc rider and horse-trainer, and later a civic leader in Amarillo, worked for Joe Williams, when Joe was ramrod on the old RO range. Joe told of an incident that took place when "Bones" was a pullman-porter on the Santa Fe's crack train that crossed the Panhandle.

"Bones" overheard some men on the train talking about a horse that "couldn't be rode." Finally, "Bones" broke in to say he'd like to try his luck with such a boss. The upshot was that a purse of $50 was put up, and several days later, when the train stopped at Pampa, the bad horse was waiting there, when "Bones," booted and spurred, and sans white porter's jacket, piled off the train.

As "Bones" later told Joe Williams, "I combed that bronc from his ears to his tail, rode him to a standstill, collected my money, and was back on the train when it pulled out seven minutes later."

Laune studied at the American Academy of Art and the Art Institute in Chicago, the Art Student's League and night courses in New York, followed by study and travel in Europe. In Rome he studied etching in the studio of Carlo Petrucci.

He has been a free-lancer ever since he was head of the art department of the New York Sun. His illustrations have appeared in many books, and his paintings hang in homes from coast to coast.

This summer a definitive book on the Quarter Horse, written and illustrated by Laune, will be published by Doubleday and Company of New York. The title has not been released.

The original sketches for the 1971 "Texas" program may be seen at the Canyon Art Gallery, 2710 Fourth Ave. in Canyon.

Other program artists have included Don Ray, 1966; G. Harvey, 1967; Ross Stefan, 1968; Byron Wolfe, 1969; and Ben Carlton Meade, 1970.

The programs have fast become collectors items as a portfolio of an artist's interpretation of the Panhandle of the 1890's and past copies are nonexistent.

The musical drama plays nightly except Sundays, from June 24 through Aug. 28 in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in Palo Duro Canyon. A special Sunday, July 4 performance is scheduled.

Ticket requests may be sent to "Texas" Box 268, Canyon, Texas, 79015.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — An army spokesman said Monday that troops in Belfast Sunday evening came under attack from stones flung by a crowd which had gathered at a fire on Whitecross Road. The spokesman said the soldiers were called by firemen after they were unable to move the engine. The fire, a small one, was quickly put out.

NOT YOUR USUAL WAR PROTESTER, Anne Upshure's fight for peace began more than a half century ago and now finds her taking on peace movement leaders as well. An exception to avoidance of publicity was her arrest during Washington's May demonstrations.

Washington Window

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Here is a fact to ponder next time you're fighting your way home through a rush hour traffic jam:

By this time tomorrow, there'll be 8,000 more cars, trucks and buses on the road. Admittedly, that is not a cheerful thought to roll around in your mind as your car, bus or taxi inches forward. But it's a fact whose implications Americans sooner or later must face.

To provide running room for this avalanche of automotive equipment, we are spending upwards of $15 billion a year for new highways and streets. This huge outlay enables us to pave the equivalent of 1 million acres of land each year. We now have one mile of road for every square mile of land.

Look at it another way: Americans, who comprise only 6 per cent of the world's population, drive 53 per cent of all the passenger cars and 38 per cent of all the trucks and buses in the world. To get around, we need, or feel we need, an average of one motor vehicle for every two persons. The British and West Germans get along with one vehicle for every five persons, the Italians with one for every seven persons, and the Russians make do with one vehicle for every 50 citizens.

If the quality of men's lives can be measured by the abundance of motor vehicles they possess, we Americans can lay un-disputed claim to the world's highest standard of living. But is there, could there be, more to life than ceaselessly going and coming in rubber-tired conveyances propelled by monoxide-belching gasoline engines?

If Americans don't begin to wrest seriously with that very basic question, they'll wake up ere long to find it has been answered for them by default. Our cities increasingly are designed for the convenience of cars rather than people. The motor vehicle lobby already is so powerful that the nation's capital cannot obtain funds for a desperately needed subway system without throwing in a new network of freeways for autos.

Obviously, no one in his right mind would propose a ban on production of motor vehicles. They play a vital part in our national life, and their manufacture and distribution is a major industry whose economic welfare is properly of concern to all.

But to acknowledge these facts is not tantamount to saying that a large and continuing annual increase in the number of motor vehicles operating in America is necessary and desirable.

Doctor Says Hair Fall In Female No Longer Regarded Cosmetic Flaw

By ROBER MUSEL
LONDON (UPI)—Women are beginning to develop a type of baldness which bears a resemblance to the so-called "pattern baldness" considered normal in mature men, according to Dr. Irwin I. Lubowe, who is Clinical Professor of Dermatology at New York Medical College.
Prof. Lubowe stopped off in London on his way to deliver one of the first reports on the condition at the symposium on the biopathology, disorder and treatment of the pilosebaceous system at Crans in Switzerland.
He said it was a far more serious condition than baldness in men because of the psychological effect of losing her hair on a woman—an effect far more dramatic than the fatalism with which most men accept the inevitable.
"Excessive hair fall and thinning of the hair in the female is no longer to be considered a cosmetic defect," Dr. Lubowe reported. "Serious medical complications may occur such as severe mental depression, neurosis and psychosis. These may result in alienation from her family and even attempts at suicide."
"In a woman excessive hair fall must be treated as a medical disorder. Dermatologists and endocrinologists must devote serious study to this affliction so that every therapeutic approach can be made available to these patients."
Dr. Lubowe said it was "fortunate" that few women develop as complete a baldness as men. But, he added, "the incidence of hair loss is increasing at a rate so rapid it is startling to the doctor as well as the patient."
"We used to joke that women's liberation would not be satisfied until they had achieved complete equality with men in everything including baldness. It's not so much of a joke any more."

Earth Technology Satellites To Be Fired In Next 2 Years

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ingenious people keep thinking up new chores for space satellites. Maybe, it has now been suggested, satellites can speed the day when earthquakes and volcanic eruptions can be predicted with some accuracy.
This and many other labors were proposed by spokesmen for the U.S. Geological Survey at a recent international workshop on earth resources survey systems at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.
The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) plans to launch two experimental earth resources technology satellites (ETS) in the next two years.
They will be equipped with remarkable sensors, many of them already tested aboard airplanes and spacecraft, which can:
— Discriminate between healthy and sick crops, discover geological formations which might harbor valuable minerals, ascertain the physical condition of forests, spot oil seeps marking new petroleum resources, detect environmental pollution, find unsuspected water supplies, provide photographic evidence of land-use patterns and urban sprawl, and supply information quickly about impending natural disasters.
Of course, some satellites already are in the business of reporting large-scale weather patterns, spotting hurricanes, and keeping a space eye on sea ice and mountain snowpacks.
But it appears, much more is expected. One geological survey team said quick relay of global information by communications satellites is essential to monitoring seismic data in time to use them for earthquake prediction purposes.
The same goes for volcanic activity.
Satellites Invaluable
Satellites also will be invaluable for quick dissemination of water resources information in a period when man's use of water is rising rapidly.
Remote sensors aboard satellites are expected, moreover, to provide new dimensions of detail and precision to "the enormous task of mapping the earth."
Dr. Ferdinand T. Pecora, former director of the Geological Survey and now interior undersecretary, noted that a grim contest is under way to determine whether the earth can support its mushrooming populations.
Space technology, he said, offers "the basis for another giant step forward—an extra-dimensional view—in the essential monitoring and assessment of the resources riches which are contained in the cornucopia of the earth's crust."

Hollywood Reports

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—ABC-TV, which erred badly in canceling the Pearl Bailey Show, compounded its mistake during the weekend by offering the new summer variety series that replaces it: a Saturday hour with British performer Val Doonican.
This new program is everything the Bailey show wasn't. Whereas Miss Bailey was a legendary, one-of-a-kind star, Doonican, who seemed personally a nice enough fellow, came across as no better a singer, and no better a performer, than countless entertainers one might run across in ordinary clubs and television shows across the nation.
Whereas Miss Bailey's series was elegant, richly mounted and gave the feel of top-level show business, the Doonican hour seemed to be miserly in every respect—sets, technique, originality and wit. Taped in London, this kind of television show is doing the British reputation no good at all, because summer variety series from England are becoming synonymous with cheapie productions.
Incredible as it may seem, seven writers were credited with having written the Saturday night Doonican show, and one can only wonder how Shakespeare ever managed to compose "Hamlet" all by himself.
Doonican is described by ABC-TV as a "British television and recording star," and if one were ranking video imports on the basis of their magnetism, it would be safe to say he does not have the obvious big-name potential of Engelbert Humperdinck and Tom Jones.
It is, in fact, something of a mystery that ABC-TV, certainly aware of this truth and with all kinds of major talent available, would choose to build an entire summer series around a so-so performer from abroad.

News In Brief

NAIL RECORD
ARDAGH, Ireland (UPI)—Tim Hayes, 33, claimed a world record today by lying bareback on a bed of six-inch nails for three hours, 25 minutes and 11 seconds.

FBI CARS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI received 26 threats on the life of Director J. Edgar Hoover, last year and 16 so far this year. That's why the FBI has four armored cars.
Hoover disclosed in testimony made public today that both he and Attorney General John N. Mitchell have used the $27,865 cars in getting around New York City and Los Angeles.

CHOLERA RELIEF
LONDON (UPI)—The British government bypassed slow-moving international organizations today and mobilized its own emergency airlifts for cholera-stricken East Pakistani refugees in India.
The only major multi-national group effort was by the World Health Organization (WHO) in Geneva, which said Monday it would send 30 to 40 tons of supplies to India each week for 10 weeks.

Your Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 9

YOUR BIRTHDAY WEDNESDAY, pragmatic necessity characterizes the year ahead. Much that you have held out for sentimental reasons is left behind as you think bigger, cope with broader changes, develop greater spiritual resources. Personal responsibility increases, so you may as well do what you want to make the best of it.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Almost nobody is going to do things your way Wednesday. So expect nothing and give them access to all past you on their own terms.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Postpone drastic action even where your decisions are quite firm. Accept slow motion for the moment, long enough for a pattern to complete itself.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do what you must, acting on your own initiative. Plenty of discussions dissect all the reasons later so don't bother with preliminary talks.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Allow for differences and for emotional surges. Use your patience to preserve relationships.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Tact and diplomacy are part of the best requirements in the various stand-offs that are ahead. Take the time to listen carefully while quietly persisting in your efforts to get routine fulfilled.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You wind up leading a new change, perhaps where you are not certain, but setting the pace and direction. Be specific, define your doubts as you go along for help but not guidance.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Personal matters compete with your work obligations in time and attention. Settle things quickly, the nearest expedient may have to do.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep going along with the tide of natural forces and enjoy the big of your expression—forcing no issues, posing no drastic questions.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Extreme but worthwhile measures might be needed to achieve serious communication. Lay out your main lines of logic and reason for action.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You must somehow reconcile your plans with others and go on interwork, despite the result of Tuesday. An early start is in order. Take an early turn from work to family and social diversions.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accept guidelines, whether set by circumstances, your own, or others' plans or people that just happen to be involved. Thus, time and energy is saved.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Persist in your own path and according to your own intuition. Others will find their divergent routes, receding and come back to compare notes.

PLAGUE DEAN KENOSHA, Wis. (UPI)—Dean Dr. Earl Spangler of Carthage College says he may be "a plague" to some persons on campus but he didn't realize "it had reached such proportions." He said his daughter registered as an outpatient at a hospital recently and gave her father's occupation as "academic dean at Carthage College." Several days later Spangler received the hospital bill. The parent-spouse line read: "Father is the epidemic dean for Carthage College."

NO B.O. HATFIELD BROAD OAK, England (UPI)—Pensioner Jack Brooks thinks the sign outside his village reading "Hatfield B.O." stinks and he has complained to county authorities. "B.O. had odorous overtones because of the T.V. soap advertisement," Brooks said. "The sign is a slur on this lovely village. It could embarrass visitors and give the place a bald name."

OMBER HUNTED BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Security forces today hunted for a man an army patrol surprised as he was laying an explosives ambush, an army spokesman said. The patrol, called to the city's west side by a report of a knifing found the device, containing about 20 pounds of explosives, an army spokesman said the patrol—the apparent intended victims—had arrived at the scene in the opposite direction to the way they were expected.

Pirates Sure Make A Guy Really Feel Wanted

By United Press International
The Pittsburgh Pirates sure know how to make a manager feel wanted.

The Pirates, who celebrated the return of manager Danny Murtaugh Sunday with a 17-hit attack, collected 15 more Monday as they routed the Chicago Cubs, 11-6, to remain a half game behind the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League East.

St. Louis rallied from behind to edge Atlanta, 7-6, in 10 innings in the only other major league game.

Murtaugh had been sidelined for nearly three weeks with chest pains but returned Sunday to watch the Pirates outslug the Houston Astros, 9-8. He was at the helm again Monday as the Pirates pounded six pitchers for 15 hits, including homers by Willie Stargell, Al Oliver and Bob Robertson.

Despite the awesome show of power over the last two days, Murtaugh was more impressed by the team's relief pitching.

Bob Veale and Dave Giusti turned in 6 2-3 innings of scoreless relief against the Cubs, although Veale suffered an injured shoulder and was forced to leave the game.

"The reason we're in the race is because of our bullpen," said Murtaugh. "Giusti and Veale did the job today and Mudcat Grant is capable of doing the same thing."

Veale, who took over from starter Nelson Briles in the third and worked 2 1-3 innings before injuring his shoulder, said he doubted the injury was a muscle pull.

"I felt something tear in the back of my left shoulder, high up. It's not a muscle pull. I've had those before and it doesn't feel like that. It just hurts like hell. I'm going to talk to the club doctor and I hope it's not serious. I'm usually a fast healer so I hope there's no problem."

The Cardinals rallied from a four-run deficit to tie the score in the ninth before winning in the 10th on a run-scoring single by Ted Simmons. Matty Alou was hit by a pitched ball on a controversial call to lead off the 10th then stole second before scoring on Simmons' hit.

Two-run doubles by Ted Sizemore and Gerry McNertney in the ninth enabled the Cardinals to tie the score. Hank Aaron, Ralph Garr and Zoilo Versalles each collected four hits for the Braves.

PINIELLA BACK
KANSAS CITY (UPI)—The Kansas City Royals Monday took Lou Piniella off the disabled list. Piniella fractured his thumb May 4 while batting against Cleveland.

Pancho Gonzales Goes For Another Try At Wimbledon

There was a time Pancho Gonzales was the world's No. 1 tennis player. He isn't anymore, Rod Laver is, but there's a lingering feeling that maybe he can get the adrenalin working sufficiently so that he can knock over Laver, the way he did once last year, and that in itself can keep a man going for awhile. Who knows, he says to himself. It could happen again at Wimbledon, couldn't it?

Gonzales doesn't try to hide the fact he has to make certain concessions on the court because of his age.

"I have been for the last three years," he says. "The fact I've been able to win certain events surprises me, but I'm always hopeful and I try to get into the best shape I can."

There are certain little tricks a man can use.

"I lob a lot more than I used to," Gonzales says. "Most of the young players don't have a technique for lobbing. In a lot of cases it's a tiring shot for the fellow on the other side of the net, lob after lob after lob, and it also keeps your opponent from closing into the net so much. If you can keep him backing up just a little bit, it'll not only keep him off balance but eventually it'll make your passing shot more effective."

Pancho Gonzales used to be almost as famous for his explosive temper as he was for his explosive serve but those old flare-ups of his only make him laugh now.

"As a youngster you do some of those things without realizing them," he says. "Then when you get halfway through your career you may tend to ham it up a little bit, and as you get older you realize you don't have the energy to spend on acting like that. When you get older you have to get less excited. Excitement uses up energy. Nervous tension just works you up, so you try to slow everything down to a medium tempo."

Gonzales can hit more shots now that he ever could. Getting to the ball though is another matter.

"When I get tired physically out on the court," he laughs, "I just look at myself and say what am I doing out here."

The truth is that medium tempo doesn't ever figure to beat Rod Laver. For Pancho Gonzales the hope now is that ... maybe ... maybe ... maybe it might.

Major Kendall recently won the National Rifle Association's South-eastern Smallbore Regional Championship in Knoxville, Tenn. In addition to this honor, he set what has been claimed a national record by hitting the bull's-eye on a 50-meter range 120 consecutive times. The former record was 48 bull's-eyes in a row. Ogletree Says Lalinas Will Get College Series Call EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—Coach Al Ogletree said Lupe Salinas, who threw only 67 pitches in a seven-inning 3-0 shutout of a semipro team over the weekend, would get the starting call in the College World Series at Omaha, Neb., Saturday night.

"Salinas looked pretty sharp," the coach said after his NCAA District 6 champs swept a fourgame tuneup series against a Lower Rio Grande Valley semi-pro outfit, Eddie's Glass.

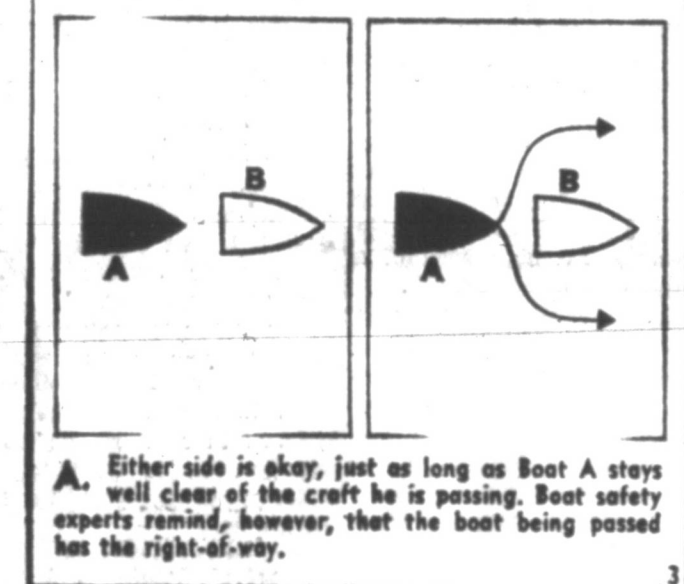

The righthanded ace of the Broncos' staff will hurl the first game against Southern Illinois, a team which Ogletree has scouted and terms "another ace club, like ours."

Southern Illinois, which boasts a 40-7 record compared to 42-7 for Pan American, has stolen 117 bases in those 47 games. Pan American has pilfered 105 in 49 games.

Ogletree said that the Broncos would use Gary Doyle 10-1, the club's only southpaw pitcher, in the Sunday game and that either Andre Rabouin 7-2 or Powell Brown 5-1 would get the nod for a third game if the Broncos survive that far.

Ogletree used second stringers in the last portion of the fourth game of the series Sunday and they committed three errors, breaking a string of 39 consecutive errorless innings over the past five games.

Interleague Hockey Draft Dumps Veteran Goalie

MONTREAL (UPI)—Seven-teen-year veteran goalie Glen Hall was waived out of the National Hockey League Monday, the only highlight of the opening day of the annual NHL meetings.

The four-day sessions continue today with the intra-league draft, with each team protecting 18 players plus two goaltenders with leftover talent being available for $40,000 each.

Hall was waived out of the league by the St. Louis Blues during Monday's draft of players from the Western and American Hockey Leagues.

The Blues wanted Jim McLeod of the WHL Portland Buckaroos, so they were forced to let go of z-sgyzezzzsczyz to part with Hall, who says he's going to retire anyway. No one picked up the veteran netminder and for the moment he was placed on the list of Denver in the WHL.

Only three other players were acquired for the $40,000 draft price on Monday. The California Seals took Goalie Gary Kurt from Cleveland of the AHL while another netminder, Andy Brown, moved from Baltimore to Detroit. The only other player to be drafted, Irwin Spencer, moved from the AHL's new Tidewater club to the Vancouver Canucks.

Detroit was forced to ask waivers on Goalie Roy Edwards, who announced his retirement from hockey late last week. He was grabbed by the Pittsburgh Penguins.

The convention led off with a meeting of the rules committee and only a few minor changes were announced. More severe penalties will be handed down to players who leave their bench to participate in brawls on the ice.

The first identified player to enter an altercation from his own bench will be thumbed from the game and in addition his team will continue to receive a two-minute minor penalty. Any other player who receives a penalty after leaving the bench will also receive a game misconduct.

Freddie Steinmark Flown To Denver For Rosary, Burial

DENVER (UPI)—The body of Freddie Steinmark, who was stricken with cancer at the height of his college football career in 1969 and died Sunday at the age of 22, has been flown home to Denver.

Parents of the former University of Texas athlete said they will announce funeral arrangements later today. Tentative plans called for a rosary at the Church of the Risen Christ in Denver.

Steinmark, who was hailed and admired widely because he refused to give up hope to the last days in his battle with cancer, lived for about 18 months after he helped his Texas Longhorn teammates defeat Arkansas 15-14 in 1969. The win clinched the national collegiate championship for Texas.

Shortly after the game his disease was discovered and his leg amputated in an attempt to stop it from spreading.

But the cancer reappeared, and Steinmark was readmitted to the M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston April 20 for the last time.

Colorado Gov. John A. Love said he was grieved "as I am sure are many across the nation" to learn of Steinmark's death.

"His tremendous courage and his attitude—on the field and throughout his seige with cancer that finally claimed him—were an inspiration to us and a credit to this fine young man we are proud to say was a fellow Coloradan," Love said.

Steinmark, the son of a Denver police detective, was born in Wheat Ridge, Colo.

John Coats, his coach at Wheat Ridge High, remembered him "as possibly the best running back I ever had. Freddie was our leader and the player we couldn't afford to lose."

Texas Coach Darrell Royal said he will go to Colorado to attend the funeral "wherever or whenever it is."

Balloting Shows Yastrzemski Leading In American League

NEW YORK (UPI)—Early returns from fans voting for American League all-stars put Boston Red Sox outfielder Carl Yastrzemski in the vanguard of the balloting for the 1971 mid-season classic in Detroit, July 13, it was disclosed Monday.

Yastrzemski, a three-time A.L. batting champion who is currently hitting .296, polled 31,645 votes to take a commanding lead for one of the three starting outfield posts. Tony Oliva of Minnesota collected 19,707 votes and Frank Robinson of Baltimore received 17,924 in the outfield balloting.

Baltimore has three players leading in the voting according to Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. The Orioles' other Robinson, Brooks, heads the third basemen with 27,818 votes and Boog Powell appears headed for the starting first base position with 28,458.

Boston had another apparent starter in Luis Aparicio when the Red Sox shortstop gained surprise leading margin of 19,434 despite a batting average that has dropped below .200.

Rod Carew of Minnesota led all second basemen with 18,978 and Bill Freehan of Detroit was ahead in the poll for catchers with 15,181 votes.

Top runners-up for each position were Norm Cash of Detroit at first base, 8,047; Dave Johnson of Baltimore at second base, 8,759; Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota at third base, 13,266; Jim Fregosi of California at shortstop, 7,082; Ray Fosse of Cleveland, catcher, 13,066; and outfielders Bobby Murcer New York, 14,993; Frank Howard, Washington, 13,146; and Al Kaline Detroit, 8,120.

Earl Weaver of Baltimore, who will manage the American League will choose the pitchers and substitutes.

The National League first returns will be released Friday.

Stars Speak Against Federation Suspensions

BRISTOL, England (UPI)—Arthur Ashe suggested a walkout; Ismael el Shafel spoke of a vendetta against the professionals, while Marty Riessen called it plain stupid.

That is how three of 32 World Championship tennis (WCT) professionals saw the International Lawn Tennis Federation's action in suspending three of their colleagues from tournament's under ILTF jurisdiction because of their failure to turn up for the recently concluded French Open in Paris.

Defending Wills Open champion Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia, Tom Okker of the Netherlands and El Shafel were the WCT men suspended along with German independents Ingo Buding, Helga Masthof-Niessen and Helga Hoad.

Ashe, from Gum Springs, Va., who is second seed in the Wills tourney, said: "The WCT players should stick together and—maybe—pull out of Wimbledon."

El Shafel, who was bounced in the first round of the Wills by South Africa's Cliff Drysdale, said: "Nobody troubled to inform me of the suspension. I heard it on the radio and then read about it in the newspapers. This is only another move in the ILTF's vendetta against us."

"Stupid, that's what the ILTF stepped from the showers following his 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 first round win over Australia's Phil Dent. "It's foolish because the suspensions will have to be lifted once the facts come out."

As the $48,000 Wills Open is a WCT circuit event, there was no problem about the participation of El Shafel, Pilic and Okker in the tournament which carries a top prize of $10,000.

Rod Laver, after a three week rest so his injured back could be ready for his challenge for the Wimbledon title, showed he was in fine fettle by taking just 37 minutes to beat fellow Australian Fred Stolle, 6-1, 6-2.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

4-The Vertical Turn

If you put a man on a rapidly revolving pedestal, his arms would fly out horizontally. That's the natural way for an animal of our physical characteristics to swing, say, a baseball bat.

Unfortunately, it is not the way to swing a golf club, which is an unnatural set of movements that must be perfected through constant repetition. That's why the pros hit a thousand balls a week.

The key is to feel that you are getting your right shoulder up behind your right ear and your left shoulder under your chin. It will feel awkward at first, but it's the way to play golf well, and eventually it will seem natural—almost.

The 'Oil In Vietnam' Hoax

A bit of a stir was caused a couple of months ago when an outfit calling itself "Another Mother For Peace" dispatched a nationwide mailing alleging that American boys are fighting and dying in Vietnam in the interests of "Big Business" oil magnates. The mass mailing, reputedly going to a list of 240,000 women ominously asked, "Is petroleum the reason we are slow in getting out of Vietnam?"

at present, who has the slightest intention of drilling on or near Vietnam; Vietnam doesn't even have so much as a single oil refinery; all of their oil is, in fact, imported.

NLRB Needs Impartiality
For many years, the National Labor Relations Board was virtually owned by the labor unions. It didn't know the meaning of impartiality. Management was automatically considered wrong. In the last two years, however, there have been a few constructive changes in the NLRB's interpretation of the law. Chairman Edward Miller has worked to institute fair procedures and decision-making.

The Wall Street Journal, noting a recent NLRB decision involving multi-plant bargaining, said that "it's good to know that a majority of the board is beginning to see the virtue of impartiality." But the public has to be alert to the possibility that old-style bias in favor of unions will return.

A case in point is legislation now before Congress—House of Representatives bill 7152. Under the guise of expediting the processes of the NLRB and strengthening its remedies, the bill would delegate board decision-making responsibility to the trial examiners.

A specialist in NLRB procedures advises me that "under H.R. 7152, decision-making would be turned over to an entrenched bureaucracy, appointed under Civil Service virtually for life. Review of a trial examiner's decision would require an affirmative vote of at least two board members. Under the present law, the trial examiners issue a proposed report and recommended order to which any party may take exception, whereupon the case automatically goes to the board."

The House bill also amends the Taft-Hartley labor law by providing treble damages where an employee alleges discrimination in violation of the Act. Thus aggrieved employees could bring an action in a federal district court under section 301 and collect treble the wages lost by reason of a discharge for union activity.

What this means is that replaced strikers—employees terminated because of a shut-down—would be able to bring an independent action in the courts for treble damages, costs of suit and attorney's fees. This action could be brought while an employer was defending an action involving an alleged unfair-labor practice before the board and through the courts. The employer could be brought to trial in a separate action for damages prior to an actual determination concerning his violation of the Act. This proposed procedure is perhaps the ultimate in unfairness. It would compound all the unfairness built into NLRB procedures over many years.

It is to be hoped that the President will have an opportunity next year to add new members to the board who will endeavor to promote fairness. But the NLRB, in the past, has not acted as an impartial quasi-judicial body. Instead, it has been a policy-making tribunal slanted in favor of Big Unionism and biased against free enterprise. Indeed the whole concept of administrative justice is fallacious. Disputes now handled by the NLRB could be much better adjudicated in the U.S. district courts. The rights of employers and employees would be better protected if labor disputes were turned over to the judiciary.

It May Look Cute On Small Figures—

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Should kiddies be given drugs to make them calm? Mark's mother deserves a compliment for her shrewd diagnosis of her son. But millions of adults are addicts of drugs! And these are not the hippies who smoke pot or take LSD. They are jittery grownups on a barbiturate "binge."

CASE Q-574: Mark D., aged 11, is high-strung. "Dr. Crane," his mother began, "Mark is a very nervous type of child. But his daddy is like that, too. So now Daddy suggests we give Mark some tranquilizers to keep him quiet."

But I feel that he merely needs more outside exercise. His grammar school had a football team last fall and asked Mark to join the squad. But his daddy thinks he should be more interested in music and literature. Is it wise to give children drugs just to keep them quiet?"

Drug Dangers
If Mark's daddy is a jittery adult, he's the one who apparently needs tranquilizers! Actually, tranquilizing drugs should be used very rarely on children and even on adults. Yet elderly people in Nursing Homes, as well as hospital patients are routinely given such drugs at night. For then they will be more docile and not disturb the nurses or doctors till morning.

Alas, any drug that "tranquilizes" your brain, also reduces your appetite for food and even erotic calories! So elderly people often start downhill in their health when they begin using sedatives, sleeping pills and all such tranquilizers. For then their stomach doesn't register normal hunger! So they have a squeamish appetite and thus don't eat enough.

As a result, they grow weaker and more anemic. But anemia and weakness then produce LESS appetite, which means they are even not as hungry as the day before. A vicious circle then ensues, often ending in premature death!

America has become a nation of jitterbugs. For people stimulate themselves with caffeine drinks and cigarettes, sex movies and late-TV shows. Their children are no longer able to run and romp outdoors, as was so true 50 years ago and certainly in pioneer days. Yet children, like all healthy young creatures (puppies, kittens, lambs, et al) almost explode with excessive inner energy. Instead of trying to allay such nervous vitality by a chemical "club" that knocks them out, as it were, it is far better to channel such verve into athletic outlets.

Obviously, you can quiet a jittery person by striking him over the head with a baseball bat. Then he will lie still as in a coma. Well, why "club" children, as well as adults, with a chemical baseball bat?

Yet Dr. Leo E. Hollister, Medical Investigator for the Veterans Administration, testified before a Senate Committee last winter, and estimated that as high as 30 percent of kiddies in some elementary schools are now receiving drugs to quiet them down!

Cataracts Obscure Normal Vision

Dear Dr. Lamb—Please tell me why no one writes about eyes? Are they not important? I think our eyes are as important as any part of our body. I am one who has learned the hard way. I wish someone had educated me before it was too late. I could have expected the trouble and maybe gone to see my eye doctor sooner.

I am 47 and recently found out I had cataracts on both eyes and I had to have them removed. It had been eight years since I had had my eyes checked.

Please tell me what causes cataracts and where they grow. Dear Reader—Yes the eyes are important and no one knows how important until they have lost their use. Most family doctors can give adequate examinations for the eyes and know when to refer a patient to the eye doctor. Unless you already have an eye problem and are being treated by an eye doctor the right place to start is with your family doctor. This allows the eye doctor time to look after important problems, like removing cataracts.

You probably didn't lose a thing—not going to your eye doctor sooner. I doubt that any doctor could have told you eight years ago that you were going to have cataracts.

A cataract is the gradual thickening of the lens of the eye. The lens is a round gelatinous like structure just behind the black opening of the pupil at the front of the eye. It is surrounded by muscles that compress and stretch the lens to change its thickness. This changes the lens so you can see at a distance or close. When the sunlight is strong the pupil is small and when it is dark the pupil is large, allowing less or more light to pass through the lens. The lens acts like the lens to a camera.

Report Goldwater May Resign — Barry Challenges McNamara Silence
John Goldsmith
Robert Allen

WASHINGTON — Senator Barry Goldwater did some characteristically forthright talking in the Senate that inexplicably was ignored by the media — although what he said was timely, pertinent and important.

In effect, what the plain-talking Arizonan did was to bluntly accuse former Defense Secretary Robert McNamara as being directly responsible for the numerous military cost-overruns totaling billions of dollars, and then ask why the censorious liberals and other rancorous critics denouncing these "wasteful excesses" never blame McNamara or demand an explanation from him.

The "Pentagon," the "military-industrial complex" are endlessly investigated, berated and condemned. But astoundingly, Goldwater caustically pointed out, McNamara, the official immediately accountable for these "outrages," is never mentioned and never probed.

Highly significant, Goldwater's challenging accusation went unanswered and undisputed.

The liberal crusaders and other headline-conscious expositors sat silent and unmoved. They have yet to reply. And the same goes for McNamara. Throughout the many disclosures of huge cost-overruns, he has steadfastly maintained tight-lipped silence and avoided investigative interrogation — and gotten away with it.

Asked Goldwater: "Why? I believe Mr. McNamara owes the Congress and the American people some kind of an explanation as to why his highly publicized system of 'cost effectiveness' in the Defense Department turned into the mess that our Senate liberals keep telling us exists in defense procurement. Certainly, if I were Mr. McNamara I would be eager to define my stewardship."

"Far from being too busy, I would be demanding the opportunity to be heard from the very first time that the charges of widespread waste and inefficiency and scandal were raised."

TAKING A POWDER—But not McNamara—the rhapsodized idol of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. Not only has the former Defense Secretary persistently kept out of sight and sound, but when Senator Goldwater expressly asked one of the chief Senate expositors to summon McNamara, he got the following alibi. Said Goldwater:

"I personally have repeatedly asked Sen. (William) Proxmire (D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Committee on Defense Production) to call Mr. McNamara as a witness during his prolonged investigation hearings on waste, inefficiency and extravagance in the Pentagon. I was informed by Senator Proxmire that his committee had extended an invitation to Mr. McNamara, but that he felt his duties as president of the World Bank would not permit him the time required."

That was McNamara's out then, and it still is.

Noting that a recently published book relates in extensive detail the so-called "C-5A Scandal," Goldwater characterized it as the latest "tool" of the rabid opponents of the American military establishment. But neither the book nor the liberal reviewers of the book a word about McNamara — primarily responsible for this excessively costly aircraft project.

As an irrefutable illustration of this curious silence, Goldwater cited a long review in the Washington Post, a leading Ultra-liberal critic of the Pentagon.

"Although the book and the critique offer the C-5A as a model of boondoggling and faulty military procurement," said Goldwater, "neither of them point out that the whole thing began and matured in the Pentagon, regime of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara."

"For some reason, liberal authors and reviewers and congressional critics seem curiously reluctant to place the blame for the waste and ineffectiveness which reached its high tide of impropriety in the McNamara era exactly where it belongs. The procurement system which led to such things as the cost-overruns we are now seeing in defense contacts was devised by McNamara and his cost-accounting experts in the Pentagon."

"It's more than passingly strange. It would be highly revealing to know what's behind this enigma. Maybe we ought to have an investigation of it."

Every Individual Superior

The West Los Angeles Tribune recently noted a few shrewd observations by Mr. Millard Bennett, a successful author, lecturer and business executive. Said Mr. Bennett:

"Recently I heard a speaker state, 'The Declaration of Independence says that all men are born equal.' Period. This is a ridiculous assertion.

"There is no such thing as equality in nature. No two snowflakes are of equal weight or exact in design. No two blades of grass are identical and so on throughout nature.

"The difference between human beings is even more pronounced. The physical difference is markedly evident in every contest of strength, skill and endurance. This is what makes a football, baseball, basketball game or prize fight attractive to the spectators. They believe their favorites are superior.

human being has great potential in some area of human endeavor.

"Psychologically, we know that an individual can do well that which he likes to do. The wise individual will recognize this truth and resolve to learn to like a line of work. Then through study, thought and practice, he will improve himself in that area.

"Many years ago I heard Heber J. Grant, then president of the Latter Day Saints Church, make a statement which I have never forgotten; 'That which we persist in doing becomes easier to do, not that the nature of the thing becomes less difficult, but, through doing our power to do increases.'

"Moral: Less talk about equality except that unalienable equality before the law upon which this great nation was founded, which embraces equality of opportunity. Let us put greater emphasis upon intelligent and persistent effort for self-improvement. This is every individual's only answer to a fuller and richer life."

Jail Deserved

There are times when it is sad to see someone go to prison. On the other hand, there are those who deserve to go to jail. Such as, for example, the Los Angeles 31-year-old Hippie character who thought it might be "fun" to spike potato chips with LSD, and then serve them to guests at a large party.

Within fifteen minutes, the 50 victims began to experience what was described as a "hallucinogenic nightmare." Before it was over eight of them were in such danger that it was necessary to rush them to a hospital. Fortunately, they lived.

suicides and of long-lasting mental and emotional disturbances caused by "acid" is well known. The Federal Bureau of Narcotics has warned that LSD is one of the two most dangerous drugs known — the other being heroin. LSD is so powerful that a single teaspoonful can "blow the minds" of over 1,000 people. A speck no larger than the point of a pin will take a user on a "trip" from 8 to 16 hours.

Fortunately, the Superior Court judge who heard the case sentenced the "prankster" to a term of six years to life in prison. We hope that the case will serve as an example and a warning to others who might be inclined to pull such a thoughtless trick.

Sorry About That

The Conservative Book Club informs members that the Columbia Encyclopedia identifies Francisco Franco as a 'Spanish general and dictator,' and Joseph Stalin as a 'Russian statesman and Communist leader.' How, we wonder, does the encyclopedia identify 'Liberal Bias'?

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Well, Don't Just Sit There!

Records are crashing; this is not just rain on the way, it's thunder and lightning and tornado warning. And it's the worst drought and the most pollution and the recession is a depression and don't just sit there — worry!

There's no way things can be as bad as they sound. The late Joseph Wood Krutch was a personal friend, but he never read these columns because he did not take a daily paper.

Dr. Krutch, whose great depth perception allowed him to see today from 30 years away, said he could not allow every-hour-of-the-hour crises to preoccupy him or he'd have no time to "think."

petition for your attention from a multiplicity of media, the agitation is steadily worsening. Beaches are inviting, but look out, the pollution count is six-and-seven-eighths.

You and I grew up earning merit badges by assisting elderly ladies across the street, picking up homebound schoolboy hitchhikers. Now every newscast warns that she may be a mugger and he may be a killer.

News isn't news any more — it's a round-the-clock warning. Don't breathe — the air is toxic! Don't eat — food is contaminated! Don't drink water with chemicals in it and for heaven's sake don't drink water without chemicals in it.

289 Princes In India Face Fate Of Losing Titles And Privileges

By VIVIAN WILLIAMS

London Financial Times—UPI
NEW DELHI—India's 287 hereditary princes, faced with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's resolution to abolish their privileges and privy purses, are turning themselves into merchant princes.

The princes have virtually abandoned any hope of dissuading Mrs. Gandhi from pursuing her declared intention of de-recognition them. The maharaja of Dhrangadhra, who presides over a grouping of Indian princes, commenting on the situation, said: "We are prepared to cooperate with Mrs. Gandhi, if she will cooperate with us. All we ask is to be treated with honor, and respect. We would much rather go through with this on a basis of mutual understanding and free and willing consent. The rulers shall never be found wanting or backward in rendering whatever humble service they can to the state and the people of India."

The intangibles of public respect and their traditional standing as Indian rulers are probably far more important to the maharajas than the tangible privy purses. Local people, particularly in rural areas which constitute the greater part of princely India, still look to their rulers for employment and social leadership.

Most of the princes have no other source of income than their privy purses. Most of the purses are small but several are worth more than $135,000 a year.

The total amount disbursed is $6 million a year, a sum which the rulers tend to dismiss as insignificant in terms of the whole Indian economy.

The amount disbursed is reduced each time a new ruler succeeds to his title, and there has never been any adjustment of the purses to offset depreciation in the value of the rupee. This year could be the last in which any purses are paid at all.

One would have thought the princes would have made greater efforts to arrange alternative sources of income, since most depend on them for their livelihood. The maharaja of Dhrangadhra says he may go back to research in social anthropology at Poona University. Others have posts in public services. The maharaja of Alirajpur, for example, is India's ambassador to the Congo. The maharaja of Jaipur, who succeeded his father last year, is colonel of an Indian paratroop regiment.

For those wholly dependent on state purses the transition to earned income has begun. But as the maharaja of Mewar says, "It takes time to learn to earn. We have been more used to giving than to getting."

UNSEINKABLE CASH

OBAN, Scotland (UPI)—Sailor Ian McIntyre was tossing old newspapers, magazines and letters into the Atlantic when suddenly he realized his pay packet with 19 pounds ($45.60) in crisp notes had been committed to the deep.

He told his captain, Robert MacEachern, master of the lighthouse supply ship, Mac-

Eachern ordered the craft turned around and "after a good mile and half, one of the crew spotted the little green envelope bobbing on the waves."

A small boat was lowered and the packet recovered. "It was amazing luck," the captain said.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"With a prospect of four or five quarters of expanding corporate earnings, the stock market should perform favorably over at least the next six months," according to Halsey, Stuart & Co. Although the firm says high interest rates may "siphon" some funds away from stocks, it does not expect it "to become a serious problem as long as the earnings picture is improving."

The long-term picture for the economy, corporate earnings and monetary fundamentals "all point to further gains in stock prices," Value Line believes. The newsletter urges "100 per cent" investment in stocks "well ranked for probable relative market performance over the next 12 months." Among the top-rated industry groups, Value Line includes toys, school supplies, conglomerates, real estate, publishing, advertising, personal services and life insurance.

Since there is so much publicity about the 900 level on the Dow Jones industrial average as a major resistance level, Fraser Management Associates would not be surprised "if the average slides down through 900 without much hesitation." And "if an upturn from 900 does occur, it will not go far," Fraser believes.
