Governor Connally Reported Not In Running For Vice President

Nixon Promises Criticism Of War

By DANIEL RAPAPORT and FRANK SWOBODA
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Republican Presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon, after a meeting with President Johnson, said Saturday if Johnson calls a complete and unilateral halt to the bombing of North Vietnam, he will start criticizing the administration's conduct of the war.

But Nixon also said Johnson told him he had not changed his position that he would not stop the bombing without some corresponding de-escalation by the Communists.

Discusses Trip
Nixon also disclosed in answer to a reporter's question that he understood from a July 26 briefing at the White House that U.S. and Soviet officials have held discussions at "various levels" about a trip by Johnson to Russia before the end of the year.

"There was no discussion today about a trip to the Soviet Union," Nixon said.

Nixon and his running mate, Spiro Agnew held a two-hour and 15-minute discussion with Johnson and top administration officials at the President's ranch.

Afterward, Nixon held a news conference at the San Antonio International Airport before leaving for California, and White House Press Secretary George Christian briefed newsmen at the LBJ Ranch.

Lists Topics
Christian covered only the names of the participants and gave brief listing of the topics.

Nixon said at San Antonio: —Johnson reiterated that he would not order a complete halt of the bombing in North Vietnam unless the Communists cool down the war on their side.

—A unilateral halt would probably destroy the negotiations in Paris, and if such a bombing halt were ordered, Nixon would feel free to break his "moratorium" on criticism of the administration's war policies.

Nixon and his running mate, Spiro T. Agnew, arrived at the LBJ ranch at noon, CDT, in a helicopter from San Antonio, after flying from Miami Beach.

They began their briefing session with the President, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, CIA Director Richard Helms and Paris negotiator Cyrus Vance at 12:25 p.m. CDT after a brief drive with the President around the ranch grounds.

The briefing ended at shortly after 2 p.m. CDT with Nixon and Agnew immediately returning to San Antonio.

The subject of the Russian Area Hereford Breeders Group Slates Stop Here trip came up after a reporter asked Nixon about published reports such a trip was in the wind.

"There was no discussion today about a trip to the Soviet Union," Nixon replied. "But I understand some kind of meeting with the Soviet leaders concerning such a trip between now and the end of the year has been held."

Issues Statement
After the Johnson-Nixon-Agnew meeting, Christian issued this statement:

"The President met today with Former Vice President Richard Nixon and Gov. Spiro Agnew for a general review of the international situation. They covered both foreign policy matters and special situations of a national security importance."

"Following opening remarks by the President, CIA Director Richard Helms gave Mr. Nixon and Gov. Agnew a general briefing on major developments with special attention to Czechoslovakia." (See NIXON, Page 3)

The Pampa City Commission is expected to give authorization Tuesday to the final release of paving units in the 1968 summer street paving program in city residential areas.

The commission also is expected to authorize refunding of escrow deposits for non-participating units.

Want Him To Change Parties

Demos Hit Hazlewood

By TEX DEWEESE
The Democratic Executive Committee of the 31st Senatorial District met Saturday in Dumas and went on record urging Democratic State Senator Grady Hazlewood of Canyon to "immediately change his party affiliation."

The meeting was called by State Committeeman Dick Brown of Hartley and State Committeewoman Claudia Brummett of Amarillo in the aftermath of Senator Hazlewood's appearance at a Republican fund-raising dinner in Amarillo in July.

At that GOP meeting, Hazlewood endorsed Ronald Reagan for president, gave his blessing to Paul Eggers, Republican candidate for Texas governor and praised Bob Price of Pampa, the Republican 18th Congressional District candidate for re-election.

This was too much for the Democrats. The Potter County Democratic Executive Committee called for Hazlewood's resignation from the Party.

Hazlewood forthwith issued a statement castigating members of the Potter County committee and announced he had no intention of resigning.

This was followed with a statement from the Hutchinson County Democratic Executive Committee chairman Leroy Hu-val asking Hazlewood to change his party affiliation.

In the next breath, Randall County chairman Grady Fox defended Hazlewood's right to endorse whomever he wished.

All of this led to the calling of yesterday's meeting of the District Executive Committee in Dumas.

Mrs. Ruth Osborne of Pampa, sister of Wylie Reynolds, Gray County Executive Chairman, who was unable to attend Saturday's Dumas meeting, represented McGovern. She said she had no intention of meeting the press while in the French capital.

The North Vietnamese mission to the Paris talks refused comment on further speculation that Mansfield might meet with the Hanoi negotiators. But conference sources considered this a highly unlikely possibility.

As the senator arrived, Paris negotiation-watchers turned serious attention to a report, first published in the Wall Street Journal, that Johnson sought a "secret promise" that North Vietnam and Viet Cong forces would not attack South Vietnamese cities, as a basis for ordering a full halt to American bombing of the North.

PRAGUE (UPI)—President Tito of Yugoslavia, who led his nation out of the Soviet orbit 20 years ago, pledged solid support Saturday for Czech leaders making a similar course.

Senator Meets With Averell Harriman

By SANFORD J. UNGAR
PARIS (UPI)—Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who has been critical of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam, arrived in Paris Saturday amid new speculation that President Johnson was seeking a "secret promise" that could lead to a Washington-Hanoi agreement.

Mansfield flew into Paris from Prague for a four-day visit concluding a European tour shrouded in secrecy. The trip included a stop in Moscow and touched off reports he was on a mission connected with the Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam.

The senator refused to make any declaration on his arrival at Orly Airport. He would not even smile for photographs. He was greeted by a high-ranking U.S. Embassy official, then rushed in a limousine to his room in the fashionable Continental Hotel.

Mansfield was reported conferring this weekend with Averell Harriman, head of the American delegation to the Paris talks.

Diplomatic observers speculated that Mansfield, who had advocated de-escalation of the American effort in Vietnam and a cutback in U.S. troops stationed in Europe, may be involved in new third party efforts to mediate in the conversations between North Vietnam and the United States.

They suggested the senator might be carrying a message from Moscow, where he spent 24 hours, or even from Prague, concerning the progress of the Paris talks.

"Personal" Stop
But if he is, Mansfield himself was unlikely to reveal this or other reasons for his "personal" stop in Paris. He scheduled no meetings with French government officials and apparently had no intention of meeting the press while in the French capital.

The North Vietnamese mission to the Paris talks refused comment on further speculation that Mansfield might meet with the Hanoi negotiators. But conference sources considered this a highly unlikely possibility.

As the senator arrived, Paris negotiation-watchers turned serious attention to a report, first published in the Wall Street Journal, that Johnson sought a "secret promise" that North Vietnam and Viet Cong forces would not attack South Vietnamese cities, as a basis for ordering a full halt to American bombing of the North.

PRAGUE (UPI)—President Tito of Yugoslavia, who led his nation out of the Soviet orbit 20 years ago, pledged solid support Saturday for Czech leaders making a similar course.

These have to do, he stated, with hoped-for changes in the law relating to receiving and concealing stolen property, improvement in the current law governing oral confessions of arrested persons, changes in the law on appeals from convictions, and the standardizing of jail requirements with reference to medical aid to afflicted prisoners.

These are four of the main projects on which the association will strive for improvements," Sheriff Gabriel said, "and Sheriff Jordan will lead the committee action to get legislative relief in these areas."

Source Says Texan Not Considered

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Texas Gov. John B. Connally is not in the running for vice president and he knows it, a source close to the vice president said Saturday.

The source, who is in contact with Connally as well as Humphrey, said Connally is not among those being considered. He declined to say who is.

Connally's name has been mentioned frequently for the no. 2 spot by both his friends and enemies.

Many moderate to conservative Democrats in Texas and other Southern states would like to see Connally on the ticket, but some labor leaders and Mexican-Americans threaten to withhold their support from Humphrey if he picks Connally.

Humphrey himself declined to say whether he is considering Connally, but said he is under "absolutely no pressure from anyone" to choose the Texas governor and has not received an especially large number of recommendations for Connally.

Humphrey's private delegate count shows him within easy reach of a first ballot win, even without Texas and other favorite son states.

Humphrey's associates say they are far from the necessity of making any deals (See Connally, Page 3)

Jordan Gets Post In Sheriffs' Association

Sheriff Rufe Jordan of Gray County has been appointed chairman of the Legislative Affairs Committee of the Texas Sheriffs' Association, it was announced Saturday by Sheriff A. M. Gabrel, of Odessa, who recently was elected president of the state-wide association.

"The Legislative Affairs Committee chairmanship is one of the major jobs in the association," Sheriff Gabrel said, "and we feel Rufe Jordan, the dean of Texas sheriffs, is the man to handle the job."

Gabrel made the announcement from Austin where he spent the weekend conferring with other officers on association organization.

"The association, through chairman Jordan's committee," Gabrel said, "is hoping to stir action in the next legislature on four major projects."

Fort Worth, and Sheriff Joe Townsend of Brownwood. There will be other splinter sections of the main Legislative Affairs Committee, Gabrel stated, and these appointments will be left up to Sheriff Jordan.

32 Are Killed In Crash of Airliner

And DANIEL HOSE

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A Piedmont Airlines turbo-prop aircraft crashed in a thick fog Saturday while making an instrument approach to Kana-waha Airport, killing all but five of the 37 persons aboard.

An eyewitness, Ralph G. Stone, 32, of Charleston, said the airliner "would have missed the runway by 50 feet even if it had the altitude to land safely."

Burst Into Flames
As it was the F227 plane, en route from Louisville, Ky., to Norfolk, Va., slammed into the edge of the runway, bounced onto the grassy portion to the right of the concrete and burst into flames.

"At least 32 persons died and five were alive and admitted to hospitals," Charleston Police Chief Dallas Bias said.

At noon EDT 25 bodies had been taken to a temporary morgue in the West Virginia Air National Guard Armory at the airfield. Seven other victims were dead on arrival at Charleston hospitals.

J. E. Gunn, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Pampa, announced Saturday that the Federal Land Bank System has adopted as a permanent slogan, "Serving America's Farmers: Providers of Plenty." The local association is a part of a national network of 12 regional banks and 695 local associations.

The Land Bank System, which last year celebrated its 50th anniversary, is moving ahead into the second half-century of operations with renewed dedication of purpose to meet the essential long term financial needs of the nation's farmers and ranchers, Gunn stated.

"Our System has coped with a variety of great demands made upon it during the past 50 years, all the while maintaining a dependable loan service to farmers and ranchers," he said.

"As agriculture continues to increase its productive capacity through technology, it will be our purpose to continue to serve the changing credit needs of farmers and ranchers."

Manhunt Near Shamrock Futile

SHAMROCK — A widespread manhunt Friday afternoon and early Saturday morning near here failed to flush out an escapee from the Oklahoma State Reformatory who was reported to be in the area.

The search was called off at 3 a.m. Saturday after 30 law enforcement officers from Texas and Oklahoma failed to find the man. The men were reported "standing by" in case the search was resumed late Saturday afternoon.

Andrew Camp, 20, of Wewoka, Okla., who was serving a four-year term for burglary, was reported to be in the Shamrock area in Wheeler County after he and another man escaped from a dairy detail at the reformatory early Tuesday near Granite.

Freddie Dakeketa, 17, of Ponca City, Okla., was captured about 2:20 p.m. Friday near Erick, Okla. The arresting officer, a deputy sheriff, saw the youth standing beside the road. Camp is reported to be armed with a small caliber pistol.

Early Friday Camp and Dakeketa stole a car and a rifle from Mrs. Floyd Clark of Mangum, Okla. The two reportedly left the car and rifle near a roadblock and then split up.

Camp, who was thought to have walked to just east of Shamrock near a carbon plant, was sighted twice in that area between 9 and 9:30 a.m. Friday, according to law officers.

The officers, armed with shotguns, rifles and side arms, converged on the area and began the search on foot, from the air, on horseback and from cars, but with no results.

Wheeler County Sheriff George Dorman, 54, was admitted to Shamrock General Hospital late Friday suffering from heat exhaustion from the above-90 degree weather. He was in good condition.

Eggers' Twin Brother Joins GOP Trail

WICHITA FALLS (SpI) — Paul Eggers has a surprise to add to this political year of the unexpected. Eggers is the Republican candidate for governor and he plans "double trouble" for his opponent, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith.

Monday evening from Walla Walla, Washington, Arthur (Art) Eggers will arrive on the Texas scene for several campaign appearances with Paul. The two will meet in Dallas at the airport and proceed to Wichita Falls Monday night.

This is "double trouble" for his opponent? Yes.

Art is Paul's identical twin. He concedes he may be a "little" heavier, but he says this is because he hasn't been campaigning like Paul.

Paul has, in fact, been campaigning long and hard. Since the Republican State Convention in June, Paul has visited more than 100 cities on a bus tour.

After a brief timeout for business at the national convention last week, Paul will get together with Art in Paul's hometown, Wichita Falls, then it's back to the campaign trail.

On Tuesday, the Eggers duo will "blitz" Iowa Park, Electra, Vernon, Chillicothe, Quanah, and Childress. Voters in these Northwest Texas cities have been "warned" in advance, through their newspapers, to expect Paul to show up with his look-alike brother.

the Drama of DRUGS

by Tom Beard

If we're not feeling up to par physically, the chances are that we'll also be out of sorts mentally, and the opposite is also true. Whatever affects the mind affects the body, so inseparably are they linked.

Consequently, our motions, if we permit them to get out of hand, can affect our general wellbeing. We all have emotional crisis from time to time and this is normal, provided they do not become persistent and induce pathological tension.

This type of tension is usually the result of unresolved emotional conflict caused by the failure to face problems openly or realistically.

Intelligent, honest appraisal of ourselves and our problems is the best possible preventive of emotional upset.

Change of Pace Finds District Judge Marrying Couple Here

By JEFF HOLLADAY Daily News Staff Writer For District Judge Grainger McIlhenny, it was an unexpected but satisfying change. His Fridays here in district court are usually taken up with divorce proceedings. But this Friday it was different: he performed a marriage ceremony—his first. "When I went to Pampa Friday I assumed I would untie several knots," the witty magistrate said. "But I was happy to tie this one when the couple asked me." The judge said he was surprised when the couple asked him. "It isn't very often that people get married by a district judge," but he said the "proceedings were pleasant and I was happy to do it." The single-ring ceremony, which William T. Staple of Midland and Cay York of Denver, was performed at mid-afternoon Friday in the judge's chambers in the county court house. Staple, around 40, and his bride, in her late 30s, are visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lincecum. Lincecum, a lawyer, is employed with Cabot Corp. here. He and his wife are "old friends" of Staple. The marriage was something of a surprise for not only Judge McIlhenny but the Lincecums as well. "They've been engaged for some time," Mrs. Lincecum said, but it just didn't occur to us that they would get married here. "We all got along so well —

Rain Finally In Visit To Local Area

Area residents can expect to enjoy the break in the recent "heat wave" of last week as cloudy skies and intermittent rain and drizzle are expected to continue through tonight. Overcast skies yesterday prevented the high from reaching above the mid-70s, despite the high of the upper 90s that had been forecast. The high today is forecast to stay near 70, with a low near 60. A thirty per cent chance of showers exists today, decreasing to 20 per cent tonight. Scattered thundershowers hit most parts of the northern Panhandle Friday evening and night, dropping moisture measuring from a trace to over an inch. Despite a few electrical storms, including one at Pampa, no damage was reported. Pampa recorded from .39 to .50 inch of rain, most of it coming in a shower late Friday afternoon. Other rain fell in slight showers that night. Around Pampa, showers measured from a trace to .90 inch. Areas south-southwest of the city recorded amounts from .10 to .90 inch. North of the city, .25 inch was reported. A trace was reported east of the city. Laketon received .20 and Lefors, .25. Rainfall in other parts of the Panhandle varied from a trace to over an inch at Dalhart. Other cities reporting moisture included Dumas, .50; Canyon, .20; Amarillo, .12 to .70; Panhandle, .30; Borger, .01; Hereford, trace; and Dimmit, .50.

"We're more concerned about the states that come early in the alphabet," said one worker. "By the time it gets to states like Texas and Virginia, they won't have much of an option left."

Although Connally apparently is out of the picture for vice president, Humphrey is working closely with Connally's organization in Texas. His staffers say they are in frequent contact with Connally. Texas House Speaker Ben Barnes, a Connally ally, also is in close touch with the Humphrey camp. He had a private breakfast with Humphrey in the vice president's hotel room Saturday. Corpus Christi attorney Cecil Burney, a longtime Connally-Johnson man, is being mentioned in the Humphrey camp as a possible Texas campaign chairman. Burney said he did not know whether he would be chairman, but said "I will be doing something."

Seeks Restraint McGovern said he would fight at the Democratic convention for a foreign policy plank of "restraint and peace, not one that seeks to make us the world's policeman, its banker or its judge."

He also called for a "systematic reduction of our overgrown military-industrial complex," a volunteer military force to replace the present "unfair and wasteful" draft system, and "an end to shameful remnants of racism and poverty that still afflict our country."

McGovern said he had received "substantial indications of support" from the Kennedy forces, but said he could not estimate how many of the late senator's 300 committed delegate votes he could count on.

Cobb told police that he thought he might have hurt one of the youths, but police reported that a check with local hospitals and doctors indicated

Prairie Trails & Pioneer Tales Former Shamrock Police Chief Becomes A Minister

By TRACY D. CARY
Chairman, Gray County Historical
Survey Committee — Box 676

A Family Treasure Box
The young lady elected most popular girl in Pampa High School by the Class of 1921 was back home to visit her brother who has recently been ill, and we enjoyed a leisurely morning visit with them both last week at Casa Del Nursing Home where the brother, Larry Rider of Lefors, is now recuperating.

Mrs. J. B. Logan of Lubbock, known to her many friends throughout the area as Kathleen Rider called to say that she had brought a large box of mementos and items to be used in the Gray County book soon to be published: And what a box of treasures it proved to be. Pictures of what was at the time the equal of our present day Cadillac, Chevrolet or Ford Agencies—the Jim Rider Livory Stable, which stood about where the White House Lumber Co. is today. There horse or hack could be rented or sheltered or where the teams could be fed and watered that provided Pampa's transportation service in 1903, the year the Rider Family moved to town from their ranch near Lefors where they settled in 1893.

Also a picture of the picnic at Lefors in 1902 celebrating the organization of Gray County. A picture of the 1919 office of Dr. Lee Longino, Pampa's first optician located in the back of the First National Bank Bldg. (Dr. Longino married Alberta Crawford, Mrs. Jim C. Rider's sister), and pictures of brother Larry's hunting trips along White Deer Creek about 1919 with all the coyote and beaver pelts strung up in the back to prove his marksmanship.

Mrs. Jim Rider, mother of Kathleen and Larry, was Pampa's first resident teacher of piano and some weeks ago we had written Mrs. Logan to see if the family still had Mrs. Rider's account books which would list the names of the host of pupils she had taught over the years. It was a wonderful surprise to find in the box the receipt books for pupil's tuitions dating back to 1912! This list from 1912 to 1924 will be included in the Gray County Book. Mrs. Laura Fatheree has a 1914 copy of Mrs. Rider's recital program of that year.

Pampa Scenes 49 Years Ago
Mrs. Logan also brought with her a copy of the 1921 (the first) and the 1922 Pampa High School Annuals. The same chosen for the first volume was "THE HARVESTER" and the person who is credited by Mrs. Logan as having named both annual and the football team (the Harvesters) was Ramon Cary Wilson who served as editor-in-chief of the 1921 issue. Ray Wilson is today Gray County Auditor with many years of service in that office and is still a number-one fan of the Harvester team having been a player himself during his high school days.

An interesting sidelight was pointed out in a conversation with Ray this week concerning how the green and gold were chosen as the school colors. "Miss Mary Vergin was our faculty sponsor during the discussion as to what the school colors should be. . . that particular day she was wearing a green and gold Baylor U. sweater and everyone liked the combination so well we decided to adopt them. Miss Vergin was the daughter of Rev. Vergin, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Amarillo for many years."

Also in Mrs. Logan's box was a copy of the PAMPA WEEKLY NEWS for Sept. 9, 1921, which contained the following items: Occurring Wed. Morning Sept. 7, at the Methodist parsonage, officiated by Rev. M. S. Leveridge, was the double wedding of Miss Ruby Henry and Mr. Howard Logan and Mr. Joe Logan and Miss Kathleen Rider. . . Miss Pattie Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. SHAMROCK, Tex. (UPI) — It was after midnight one night in 1964 when Ell Rushings came across three kids who had run away from their Ohio home.

Their broken down automobile barely had made it to Shamrock, Rushings learned. He talked to the boys about their problems at home and on the road.

Rushings walked away from the conversation with one thought in his mind. It was become a minister.

Was Chief
The switch in vocations does not seem too strange until one realizes that Bill Rushings, former Navyman and ex-used furniture salesman, was the police chief of this small Texas Panhandle town.

"The young people of this land are very near and dear to my heart," Rushings said recently, explaining his actions. "When I look around me and see what is happening to America's young, it strengthens my belief in my duty to become a pastor.

Wife Undecided
Rushings first approached his wife Jean, whom he married in 1949, with the news four years after their marriage. She viewed her husband's move with mixed reaction.

"I was a preacher's daughter and I wasn't sure if the preacher's life was the kind I wanted for my husband," she said. "I didn't want Bill to have the same hard life my father had."

It was several years later, however, before Rushings made firm his decision and announced it to his wife.

Was Salesman
"At that time I was happy for him," she said. "I accepted it. I was proud of him."

Rushings was a used furniture salesman and owned his own store shortly after he moved to Shamrock in 1959. That same time, I thought hard until about a year a half ago when I finally made up my mind to make the conversions," Rushings recalled.

Work of Devil
He can't explain fully why it took him so long to reach his ultimate decision. "I feel it was primarily the work of the devil. It took the Lord 41 years to get me to preach. All that time the devil stayed between me and the Lord," he said.

When he decided to resign his post as police chief, the Texola church asked him to become their pastor.

Youngsters Attend
"When I made my first appearance at the church in Texola there wasn't a youngster's face in the congregation," said Rushings. "Today I have between 16 and 18 young men and women who attend the church regularly."

Rushings plans to use his experience as a police chief in his new duties.

"In my five years as chief, we didn't have a juvenile problem in Shamrock. I tried to be close to these kids, listen to their problems, get to where I could work for them and with them. I want them to be better citizens. I want to work with the young people to show them we have a good United States—a land where we are free to worship as we see fit."

But the item we enjoyed most was the advertisement of the Tolleson-Osgood Co. (Ph. 139), "No other phonograph even dares the test which the New Edison underwent Wednesday, June 15, before a large audience at the Pampa High School Auditorium. The fact is something for you to think about. For, the New Edison stood by Helen Davis' side in Pampa High School Auditorium. If you were there you heard the living voice and the re-created voice brought into direct comparison. You heard Sibel, Sanderson Fagan make a similar test with her whistling selections. You know there was no difference between the original performance and its re-creation."

Somehow, I think we really missed an experience by not hearing Sibel, Sanderson Fagan's whistling selections. . . the original performance!

Our special thanks to Mrs. Logan for sharing these wonderful reflections of former days with us.

Longview Is Planning For An Oil Museum

LONGVIEW, Tex. (UPI) — Thirty-seven years after the discovery of the great East Texas oil field Gregg County residents are organizing a $2 million museum for oil and the history of East Texas.

To be known as the East Texas Historical and Petroleum Center the proposed museum will house collections of historical documents and East Texas oil memorabilia. Donors from all over East Texas are being relied upon to fill the museum.

Dr. G. W. Tate, a Longview physician, said he and Alf Jerigan of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce toured small museums in the U.S. a few years ago and, "We decided we should have a museum and could put one together better than the ones we had seen."

Tate, who is a life-long resident of Longview and whose great grandfather built the fourth house in the city, then gathered citizens of the county and impressed them with the idea.

The Gregg County Historical Foundation was formed.

Plans Studied Carefully — Plans were studied for about two years. The Community Service Bureau of Dallas was hired as development counselors and plans were drafted for the buildings. During that time the Foundation joined with nearby Kilgore College to support the educational aspect of the museum.

"We joined with Kilgore because we feel that history is also a study," Tate said. A scholarship to encourage study in East Texas history is planned by the foundation.

Then just recently Mrs. B. A. Skipper, wife of the first man to bring in a producing well in the country, donated a 10-acre site between Longview and Kil-

Top Safety Record For U.S. Gas Lines

NEW YORK — Natural gas gathering lines have achieved a near-perfect safety record in recent years, according to Oil Facts.

About 98 per cent of the lines head to cross-country pipelines are far removed from populated areas. Surveys covering the years 1962 through 1967 show that no accidents occurred on the small percentage of gas gathering lines located in developed areas.

Only one serious accident occurred during those six years on gas gathering lines outside urban or subdivided areas.

gore for the construction of the buildings.

That really gave the foundation a boost and now the search is on for an estimated $2 million to finance the construction. Newberry is heading that drive.

No Rush Job
"We plan to bring people into it (the money raising) who were some of the first implementers of the oil field. You can not rush it. We are looking at a time schedule of about one year," Newberry said.

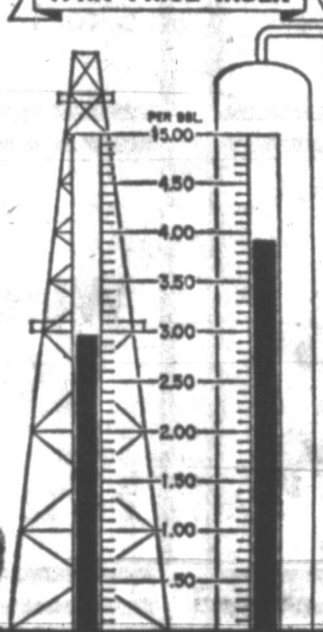

Tate said the museum will represent the history of East Texas and will necessarily include the history of the oil field, at one time the largest in the world, but any historical collections will be accepted.

He said he has received calls from all over Texas from people wanting to contribute.

So far listed for inclusion in the museum is an antique car

Oil and automotive industry scientists predict that they will eventually be able to reduce pollution from cars by more than 90 per cent, PETROLEUM TODAY reports.

Selective Service Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state selective service director, 209 W. 9th St., Austin, Tex., 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—It is my understanding that graduate student deferments may be given to those studying medicine. I have been accepted for enrollment in medical school. How do I proceed to get the deferment?

A—Write a letter to your local board requesting deferment, give the facts in your case, sign it, and give your Selective Service number. After you have commenced your studies, have your school send a printed form called "Graduate or Professional Certificate (SSS Form No. 103)" to your local board. The school may also send a form of its own design. Assuming the school certifies that you are pursuing satisfactorily a full-time course of study, you will be qualified for classification in class II-S.

Q—We are very curious as to the classification given by the draft board to the son of one of our friends. Is this public knowledge?

A—Both the current classification and the classification history are matters of public knowledge. Current classification is posted on a bulletin board for public inspection. The past classifications are in a public record called "Classification Record (SSS Form No. 102)."

Labels To Soon Give Ingredients Of Canned Items

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Beginning in six months, consumers who buy canned corned beef hash will be able to find out exactly what is in it by reading the label.

The same will be true for canned chopped ham, the Agriculture Department, has reported.

The department said it was revising its meat inspection relations to require labels to show a statement of ingredients.

No statements had been required in the past because no processor could label a product as "corned beef hash" or "chopped ham" unless it conformed to long-established federal content standards.

The minimum standards remain unchanged. But the Agriculture Department said it decided consumers should be given ingredient statements on each can so they can make value comparisons or avoid items to which they may be allergic.

New labeling regulations will go into effect in six months to allow processors time to use up current labels and prepare new ones, the department said.

Under existing food standards, corned beef hash is legally defined as a semi-solid meat food in the form of a compact mass prepared with beef, potatoes, curing agents, seasoning and certain optional ingredients. The product must contain at least 35 per cent of beef.

Church Sets Open House Here Today

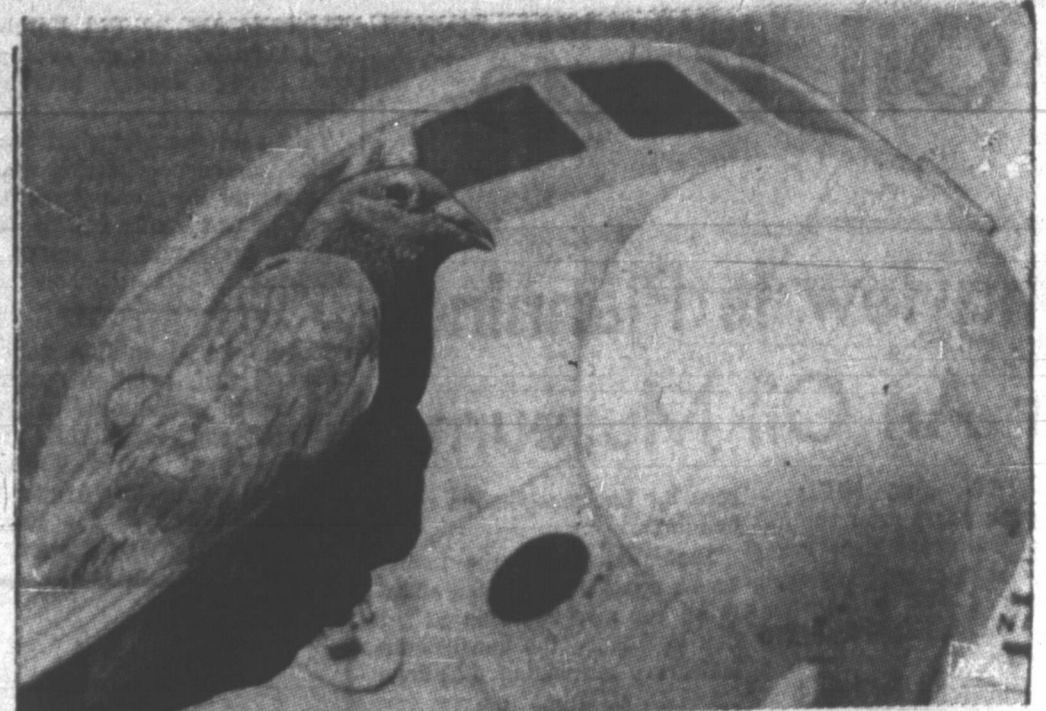

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints' (Mormon) Pampa chapel, 731 Sloan, will hold an open house from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. today. Various displays and a 20-minute film will be shown to visitors by members of the church.

The film, entitled "Man's Search for Happiness," will be shown several times during the afternoon. Produced by the church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, the film also is currently being shown at HemisFair in San Antonio.

Various displays, including exhibits from the New York World's Fair, will be shown by the different auxiliaries of the church. These include the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association, the Young Women's Mutual Improvement Association, the Relief Society (a women's organization) and the Genealogy Committee.

In 1776 a committee of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson suggested the U.S. adopt "E Pluribus Unum" as the motto for its great seal.

In 1963 President Kennedy's son, Patrick Bouvier, was born. He died 2 days later.

WISE OLD BIRD knows the answer to instant navigation; but will it tell? Using a computer and a grant from the Office of Naval Research, a Bowling Green (Ohio) State University mathematics professor is endeavoring to discover how pigeons navigate in the air. The birds are observed in flight, both from the ground and at times by following them in helicopters. The recorded data is then processed in an IBM computer to plot performance averages as well as spot any deviations in the bird's flight pattern. Since a pigeon's uncanny navigational ability enables it to do in seconds what now takes minutes for an aircraft navigator, it is hoped the study will result in benefit to future air travel.

Foreign News Commentary

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International
Windon on the World Equal Time:

"If Nixon comes to Moscow can Humphrey be far behind?" Political observers in Moscow have predicted a vote catching Moscow visit by Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon and say it is almost certain Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will follow if he gets the Democratic nomination.

Observers said the Russians can be expected to give equal time and equal consideration to both men if they arrive and in fact probably would go out of their way to show formal impartiality.

August Troubles:
The Gaullist government in Paris looks with fear and dread to the autumn "rentree," or return to work and university classes after vacation when the 1968 "French revolution" may flame anew. Rebellious students are rumored to be planning new uprisings.

Sino-Indians:
Diplomatic sources in New Delhi consider it likely India will step up efforts to talk with Communist China, perhaps before the year is out. The last strong attempt, an abortive one, was made in Peking in 1960 following the border war. Now parliament is talking again of a detente, not because India is angered at Pakistan's arms deals with Russia but because India's heavy defense budget causes an almost unbearable strain on the economy.

Uneasy:
The Nationalist Chinese government is expected to raise strong opposition to Japan's projected ambassadorial level talks with Red China, fearing the talks could lead to eventual Japanese recognition of Peking and a subsequent lowering of Nationalist prestige in Asia, informed sources say.

Morris Promoted By Cabot

A. P. MORRIS
...mgr., engineering design

R. G. Norton, Cabot Corp. engineering division general manager, announces the promotion of A. P. Morris from process engineering manager to manager of engineering design. In his new position he will be responsible for the total design engineering going into the division's construction of industrial plants and equipment for Cabot throughout the world.

Morris received his Bachelor of Science degree in chemical engineering, with honors, from the University of Birmingham, Eng., in 1954. After military service, he joined Cabot in 1956 and served in England as Stanlow Plant engineer, research engineer, research group leader, process superintendent, and assistant works manager. He transferred to the Engineering Division in Pampa in May 1967 as Process Group leader. Last October he was named process engineering manager.

Tony Morris, his wife Deana, and their daughters Jane, six, and Julie reside at 1001 N. Sumner. In Great Britain children may enter school at the age of four and a half, so Jane had completed one year at Rossett Primary School, Denbighshire, N. Wales, when the family moved to Pampa. Denbighshire County adjoins Cheshire County England, where Cabot's Stanlow Plant is located. Last year Jane attended S. T. Mathews Episcopal School in Pampa, she will enroll there again fall.

Morris says that in Great Britain children attend primary school until age 11, when they enter secondary school. There is no specific time for completing secondary school no formal graduation. Students enter college when they are at least 17 years old and are able to satisfy entrance requirements. College courses are completed in from three to four years.

A member of the Toastmasters Club, Morris says his family's main outside interest is to thought to stopping periodically. This is not the way to travel with children. They don't have the patience. They need to use rest rooms more frequently. They like to get out of the car and walk around. Therefore, it is a good idea to stop several times during a long trip.

During the actual driving time, children will enjoy looking at the scenery. Point out places of interest.

Bring along games, books, pencil and paper. Use them slowly. Save some for later in the trip.

A vacation trip should mean fun and relaxation for the entire family. Plan ahead and everyone will benefit.

HIGHWAY TRANSPORTATION systems geared to sustained speeds of 100 miles an hour are possible—you could be using them for intercity travel by the year 2000, according to a report from Research Trends. Drawings show concepts of a Century Expressway interchange terminal and a special cruiser designed for use on the super-speed thoroughfare. Century Expressway traffic would be limited to passenger cars meeting performance and safety standards. Only motorists holding special licenses would be permitted to enter. Trucks would be barred. If the motorist does not own his own Century Cruiser, he could rent one at the entrance terminal. His car would have to pass a 90-second automatic inspection of critical safety items, such as tires, brakes, steering, communication and signaling equipment. The driver then would be tested to determine his steering ability and reaction time. A computer-controlled system would merge incoming cars into the high-speed traffic flow. Lanes would be 13 to 15 feet wide with each having its own hard-surfaced emergency escape shoulder.

Are you planning a trip with the entire family? Driving can be fun but as the hours and miles roll by the children can become restless. Why not be prepared? It can make it much more pleasant for everyone.

Plan the trip so that, if possible, the driving can take place over a period of days. Try to stop at places which will have some interest for the children. There are historical sites, swimming, and recreational facilities in almost every area. If you are stopping at motels, make sure you arrive early enough in the day for the children to go swimming.

The planning can be fun. Involve the children. Obtain the travel guides and maps of the area where you will be going. Read them carefully with the children. Pick out the places of interest. Find them on the maps.

Now, what about the driving and time in the car? Some people tend to drive long distances without giving any

Texas Town Boasts Female Firefighters

By LINDA CHAMBERS
WOODBINE, Tex. (UPI)—When anyone yells "Fire!" in this sleepy ranching and farming community, the ladies scramble.

They do not shinny down a steel pole—they do not even have a firehouse yet—but these woman drop what housework they are doing, round up the kids, and drive into town to see what all the commotion is. The ladies are Woodbine's fire department.

The Woodbine Ladies Fire Department is an all-female nucleus of volunteer firefighters, the forerunners of most big-city fire departments today.

The nearest large city to Woodbine is Gainesville, in North Central Texas, about 10 miles from the Oklahoma border.

Need For Speed
Woodbine's "fettes" say it takes about 20 minutes from the time Gainesville gets a call to the time they reach the scene of a fire.

"A burning hay barn or grass fire in the dry season just won't wait that long," one said.

On the "fettes" first call in June, late in the afternoon, Fire Chief Bonnie Jeffcoat said the ladies were at the scene in three minutes, arriving about the time a Gainesville fire truck did.

That meant dropping supper preparations or getting up from the table at eating time, rounding up their children and driving to a grass fire, set by sparks from a train. It was strictly a "come as you are" affair.

One lady arrived in a dress and another in shorts.

Fast Action Counts
Gainesville turned its fire truck over to them, and the fire along the Katy Railroad tracks, the only ones running through the tiny community, was put out in 20 minutes.

The Fettes' own truck, a 1942 model nicknamed "Little Willie" after a member's 84-year-old grandmother, was in a garage for repairs.

The truck and most other fire equipment have been purchased with proceeds from bake sales, raffles, donations and an entire day of being dumped into a dunking machine by scores of sharp-eye July 4 picnickers.

After the ladies got the truck, the Denton Fire Department showed the ladies the basics of driving it and handling the 24-foot ladder, nozzle settings on the hose and also how to engage the pump—build up enough pressure in the 250-gallon water tank to put out a fire.

Learning To Drive
Two members—Mrs. Brenda Crawford and Mrs. Jackie Proffitt—drive the truck, but all were learning to drive it. The assistant chief of the outfit is Faye Jeffcoat, sister-in-law of the chief.

The ladies, as most other people, laughed at first at the possibility of a female fire department, but in the six months since Horace Jeffcoat, husband of the chief, advanced the idea, the 12 members have begun taking themselves seriously.

But, they have not gained complete confidence of the community. "Some in the community have said that they would not call (the Fettes) even if their house was burning down," said Mrs. Bonnie Jeffcoat.

The acquisition of the fire truck made some of the laughter die down, but the group hopes that with the construction of a fire house everyone will see the project has a future.

Labor Donated
That may be a while yet, though, because it takes a lot of raffles and bake sales to raise the money for materials. The labor has already been donated, and one community resident may donate the land.

When the firehouse is completed, it will be unique in the nation, if not the world. It will have a nursery and a babysitter. It will also house the fire truck, now kept in the garage of a member, Mrs. Margie MacDonald.

Most of the members are "young marrieds" in their 20s and 30s and have pre-school aged children. These will stay at the fire house with any one of the members who could not answer the fire call. One, for instance is expecting a baby now, and she would be baby sitter until the child was old enough to be left at the nursery.

Men will be included in the Fettes' number some day—in fact some are planning to let the ladies show them fire fighting basics—but right now the ladies are taking credit for getting things started.

That is why they put "ladies" in the name of the department. "When men come in, we'll just drop it," Mrs. Bonnie Jeffcoat told one man who complained.

Washington Window

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon has chosen a Republican he called "one of the most underrated men in America" to be his running mate in his campaign for the presidency. His choice was Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland.

His decision leaves Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey free to choose an equally obscure but underrated Democrat as his running mate if, as expected, he wins the Democratic presidential nomination.

Nixon won the GOP nomination at the convention at Miami Beach last week. Humphrey still must win the Democratic nomination at a convention to be held at Chicago, unless strikes, demonstrations and picketing shove travel and communications services into Lake Michigan.

More Likely
At Miami Beach, Nixon won with a few less delegate votes than his campaign managers had claimed on the first ballot but he still had far more than were conceded by his opponents, Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan.

A three-man race with the help of some favorite son candidates is more likely to deadlock a convention and force it into extra ballots than a two-man race.

With the Democratic convention set to open in two weeks, Humphrey faces only a two-man race against his fellow Minnesotan, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. There are several favorite son candidates, virtually all leaning toward Humphrey if the choice is between him and McCarthy.

The only other potential candidate so far bold enough to show the top of his head is Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota. McGovern is just about as unknown as Agnew despite his 10 years of federal government service—two in the House, two in the Kennedy administration and six in the Senate.

With his current weaknesses, largely resulting from his identification with the Johnson administration, Humphrey still looks like the winner of the Democratic nomination.

If he wins, he must grope like Nixon for a vice presidential candidate who will offend the fewest voters and still add weight to the Democratic ticket. There has been much speculation that the man might be McCarthy, who came from nowhere this year to reweave the entire fabric of American politics. But McCarthy and Humphrey are far apart on the Vietnam issue.

Youth Appeal
In the 1968 campaign, Humphrey would need a running mate with appeal to youth, to the voting blocs of Democratic bastions in the big cities. He also could use a partner who was not a conspicuous hawk on Vietnam.

Humphrey can find little help among the Democratic governors. The best known are Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, too much a carbon copy of Humphrey, and Gov. John Connally of Texas, a counselor and friend of President Johnson, but a hawk and a conservative. None of the Democratic congressional leaders appears to have the national appeal that Humphrey needs in a running mate. But he could look at men like Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the respected, soft-speaking chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, or Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, one of his youthful campaign managers who looks like a comer and learned about the problems of the cities as a member of the Presidential Commission on Civil Disorder.

Like Nixon, Humphrey can rely on television to build a relatively obscure vice presidential nominee into a national figure in a short time.

ENEMAS ARE NOT HARMFUL

According to Dr. Walter Alvarez, Emeritus Consultant to the Mayo Clinic, in his half century of a busy practice, he has never seen a person harmed by enemas. When taking an enema, put a tablespoon of salt into the bagful of water. This lessens and irritates.

Daily bowel movements are not essential to better health, except for people with a so-called mucous colitis. Some have a large bowel which is too sensitive for comfort, without a daily evacuation. We have a complete variety of enema bags and cans.

SAN FRANCISCO—The Golden Gate Bridge is getting stiff joints at the age of 26 years, its caretakers disclosed Friday.

The span's 175 expansion joints will be rebuilt of durable neoprene. Bridge authorities said the job will take two months, making it necessary to restrict traffic to two lanes each way starting next week.

Houston Meets Jets In Exhibition Game

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Eastern Division champion Houston Oilers, whose zesty defense picked off a half dozen Joe Namath aerials the last time the two clubs met, take on the New York Jets in an American Football League exhibition game Monday night in the Astrodome.

The two clubs fought down to the wire for the division crown last year and in their only meeting played to a 28-28 tie with the Oilers' defense scoring or setting up all four Houston touchdowns.

Monday's game will be the second annual Houston Post Charities Game and the crowd should approach the 41,868 which saw the Oilers bat the Washington Redskins 9-3 in the domed stadium 10 days ago. The Jets will be making their first appearance of the season.

Namath, who wears white shoes in all other games, will have to be content to wear the same special black shoes furnished all visiting teams for the Astrodome.

Defensive backfield standout Miller Farr still is out of action recuperating from hepatitis and two offensive starters will be missing because of injuries against the Jets. Tackle Walt Suggs is nursing a shoulder separation and flanker Glenn Bass has an ankle sprain.

Rookie Elvis Bethea will replace Suggs, while rookie Mac Haik, who caught a Pete Beathard pass for Houston's only touchdown against the Redskins, will fill in again for Eass.

Linebacker Olen Underwood, who missed the opening practice game with a virus, will return to action Monday.

Coch Wally Lemm expressed pleasure at the Oilers' passing game against Washington when Beathard hit 16 of 26 for 158 yards but the AFL's top rushing backfield of 1967 did not come up to expectations and Lemm hopes to find it improved against the Jets.

BALTIMORE'S ROBINSONS: Frank (left) and Brooks have fallen on somewhat harder days from their glory year of 1966, when they led the Orioles to a world championship. But, while Frank is being booed, Brooks still receives applause. The reason: Their popular images are as diverse as their names are similar.

Texan Grabs Two-Stroke Lead

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Sandra Haynie fired a three-under-par 74 Saturday to grab a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $28,500 Ladies Concord Open golf tournament.

Miss Haynie mastered the huge 6,954-yard course, the longest on the women's tour, by driving well and generally "staying out of trouble."

The 25-year-old Texan went out in one-over-par 39, but came home with a four-under-par 35 to move out front in the richest event ever on the PGA tour.

Non-Violent Hurler Involved In Fight

UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Don Cardwell is a great believer in non-violence.

He goes about his business pitching for the Mets, professionally but quietly, and the only time he ever made any real headline before this was back on May 15, 1960, when he pitched a no-hitter against the Cardinals for the Cubs two days after they got him from the Phillies.

Within the past couple of days, though, Don Cardwell has been in the headlines twice.

Last Sunday he and teammate Ron Swoboda got into this thing over whether Swoboda should wear love beads or not, and last Wednesday night when people were watching to see whether Nixon would make it on the first ballot in Miami Beach.

Don Cardwell got in the first punch at Houston in what was to become a lulu of a free-for-all.

Kevin Collins of the Mets actually were the key figures in the fuss but Don Cardwell was the surprise enforcer.

"It all took place in the Astrodome after Rader tripled to left field, slid into third and eluded Collins with such force on the side of his face with an elbow that the Mets' third baseman had to be carried off on a stretch and taken to a hospital.

to these cities four times. Houston, Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Omaha make four appearances in Amarillo and the locals will travel to these cities for five games each.

Donna Capont put together nines of 38-38 for a 76 that gave her second place, a shot in front of both Shirley Englehorn and Gerda Whalen.

Cardwell didn't swing at Rader immediately. He merely stood listening as both dugouts emptied and everybody converged around third base, including Harry Walker and Gil Hodges, the two managers.

"I stood there and didn't do anything for a while," says Cardwell. "I had Rader in my sights, though. If someone was going to start something, or if someone was going to get hit, I wanted to make sure the guy who was to blame for it all wouldn't get away. Before you know it, everybody started shouting. Then he (Rader) said something that didn't set right with me. I don't remember too much after that."

In announcing the home schedule for the new club, General Manager Jack Button expressed a great deal of satisfaction with the slate: "We are certainly delighted with the way the schedule turned out for us," stated Button. "Our schedule includes 27 week-end dates out of our total 36 game schedule and it is well balanced throughout the season. We are quite happy to be able to provide such a slate for the Panhandle, especially in our first year."

Professional hockey's debut in the "Golden Spread" on the 13th opens a 72 game campaign for the Amarillo club in the Central Hockey League. Amarillo plays 36 games on home ice at the Civic Center and an equal number in the other eight cities comprising the CHL.

Bies Nabs Two-Stroke Lead In Third Round

By ROBERT GRIMM
UPI Sports Writer
AKRON, O. (UPI)—Don Bies, a part-timer on the rigorous professional golf tour, mastered the difficult Firestone Country Club course Saturday with a record-shattering 64, which gave the 30-year-old Seattle, Wash. club pro a healthy two-stroke lead at the third round mark of the American Golf Classic.

Bill Campbell, who led at the end of the second round. Bies, a teaching pro at the Seattle Golf Club, was just another name grouped at two-over-par at the beginning of this round.

Bies, who would rather play part-time on the tour to be with his family, shot a perfect round of golf and then some, over the 7,180-yard, par-70 Firestone course. He shot six birdies while most of the better-known names spluttered on a chilly and windy day.

But he quickly shot out of the pack, picking up two straight birdies on the second and third holes and canning birdie putts of 20 and eight feet on the seventh and ninth greens to make the turn at 31 and dip two under par.

The almost unbelievable 64, which broke the course record tied only two days ago in the first round of this $125,000 tournament by John Schlee, put Bies at a two-stroke lead over Arnold Palmer and amateur

Author Writes On Injured Indian Hurler

By TOMMY THOMAS
NEA Sports Writer
NEW YORK—(NEA)—The last chapter of Phil Pepe's new book, "Winners Never Quit," is devoted to Herb Score. The preceding sections are about athletes like Mickey Mantle and Jackie Robinson and Ken Venturi, stars who overcame handicaps to achieve success.

Score, you'll remember, was the American League's rookie of the year in 1955, leading the majors in strikeouts. In his second season, he won 20 games for Cleveland, again leading in strikeouts. Mantle was saying Score was the toughest he'd ever gone against and the Red Sox were ready to write the Indians a check for a million dollars for his services.

But on the night of May 7, 1957, Gil McDougal of the Yankees smashed a line drive that hit Score in the eye and, for practical purposes, ended his career.

After recovering from the accident, Herb came back with Cleveland in 1958 but was ineffective. Same story the following year. In 1960, he was traded to the White Sox. He pitched well until the last few weeks of the season when he again lost his effectiveness. In May of 1961, Score pitched his last major league victory, a two-hitter against his old club, the Indians. Two weeks later he was sent to the minor leagues. He spent the next three years there, finishing at Indianapolis, where his pro career had started.

Compared to some other athletes, Herb Score's tragedy may not seem so serious. He lived through it and is in good health. He has nice family and is now an Indians' baseball announcer on radio.

In his book, Pepe draws the comparison between Score and the others athletes. Each of the others came back to become champions while Score could only try.

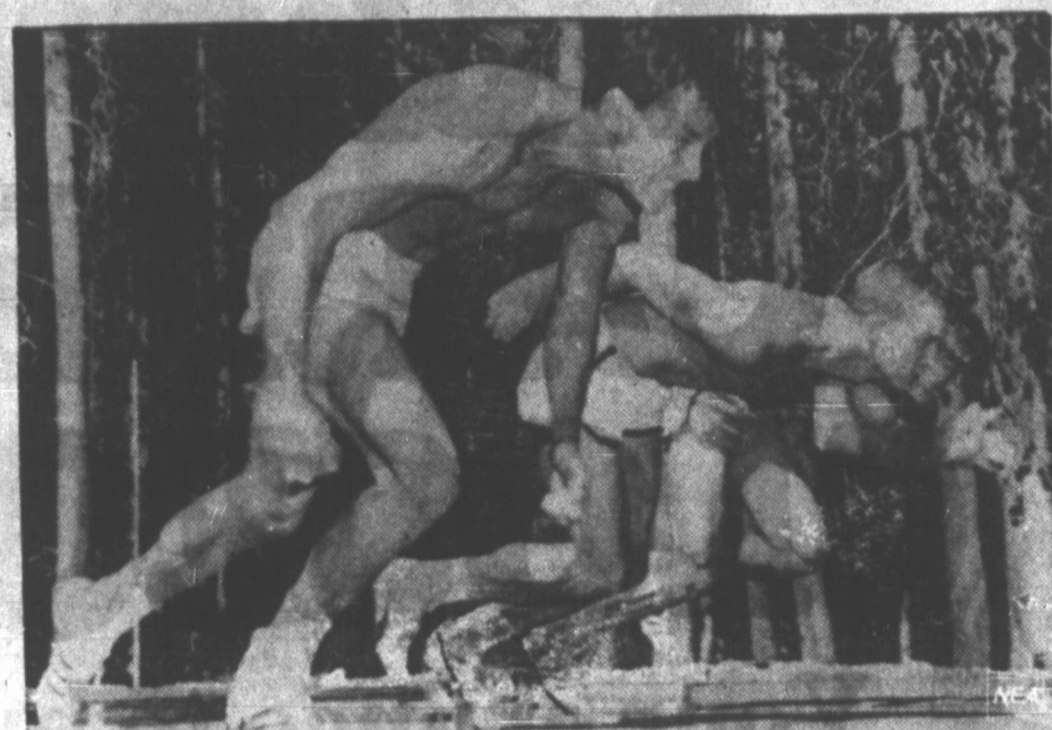

"He could have tossed in the towel many times and nobody would have blamed him," writes Pepe. "He could have played it for sympathy. . . . could have cursed the fate that reduced him from a superstar to just another unsuccessful pitcher. Herb Score did not make it back, but he did not stop trying."

And Score says, "I could have quit instead of going to the minor leagues, and I'm glad I didn't. It would have haunted me the rest of my life. I feel I'm very fortunate to have played in the majors and I am convinced I went as far as I could go. I have no regrets."

ELLISWORTH DOWN
CHICAGO (UPI)—Lefthander Dick Ellsworth will be lost to the Boston Red Sox for 10 days to three weeks because of the mumps.

Ellsworth, the team's winningest pitcher thus far, has an 11-6 record.

U. S. grain stocks of wheat on July 1 totaled 537 million bushels, 26 per cent more than last year but 44 per cent less than the five-year average.

off starting blocks during workout at 7,377-foot level track, 28 feet higher than at Mexico City. Center, Army Cpl. Tom Farrell, Ron Whitney and Ron Kutchinski tune-up in 600-meter race. At right, hammer thrower August Zillmer winds up.

One Armed Texas Golfer Shoots Ace In Clovis

CLOVIS, N.M. (UPI)—A Dalhart, Tex., man fired a 207-yard hole-in-one last week under a real handicap. He plays with only one arm.

Delbert "Zip" Butler used a 3-iron on the 11th hole while playing in the colonial Park Country Club pro-amateur tournament. Butler's eagle on the hole, incidentally, enabled his team to win the tourney with a best-ball 58—by two strokes.

He was playing with Darwin Brewster of Dalhart, Gordon Kaiser and Betty McNeill of Clovis.

Butler, 42, swings a golf club with only his right arm. He lost his thumb and virtually all of the four fingers of his left hand several years ago in an ensilage cutter on his farm near Towner, Colo.

Butler, who used to have to drive 21 miles to Tribune, Kan., or 55 miles to Lamar, Colo., to the nearest golf course while he farmed at Towner, was determined that the accident was not going to interrupt his golf game. He learned all over again how to swing with just the one arm.

Butler moved to Dalhart 15 months ago and operates a farm in the Coldwater community. But, he lives in town so he can be near the Dalhart Country Club links.

The 6-foot 1 inch, 190-pounder normally plays "more under 40 than above it" on the par 36 nine-hole country club course and for 18 holes usually shoots between 78 and 82.

His golfing friends say he drives 240 to 250 yards and plays "so well, we darn sure don't spot him anything even in a friendly match."

New Houston Manager Experiments More Than Any Pilot In Baseball

By PHILIP WHITE JR.
HOUSTON (UPI)—After 50 games at the helm of the last place Houston Astros, former National League batting champion Harry Walker has experimented so much he probably could qualify for a degree in chemistry.

During those 50 games, during which the Astros went 24-26, Walker experimented more than any manager in baseball.

"The players don't know what they can do until they try. I've been pushing them to try some new things. We've had more base stealing, hit and run plays, suicide squeezes and many personnel shifts," Walker says.

When Grady Hatton was replaced by Walker on June 18, they played considerably better baseball under Walker through Aug. 7 when their 47-63 mark was the second-best record at that point in the team's seven years of life.

And Walker was generally pleased with the progress of his young team.

"The most pleasing thing is seen in 10 years. This may not sound like much but it's an important aspect."

The chief debit, of course, has been the outfield. Both defensively and offensively, the outfield has left much to be desired. Speedy Dick Simpson, acquired from the Cardinals this summer to take care of one of the outfield spots, was batting .179 after 63 games and his fielding was less than spectacular. Jim Wynn was hitting .247 and his lackadaisical attitude in the field caused Walker to bench him for a couple of games in early August. Bob Aspromonte, Bob Watson, Norm Miller and Lee Thomas were popping in and out of the outfield setup.

"I was worried about Simpson for a while because he seemed contented with his .170 average and all his strikeouts," Walker says. "But now he has shown a desire to want to work at hitting and he's really trying. This is the important thing. You can expose a man to all the knowledge in the world and it won't help unless he has the right attitude."

When Walker took over, he said he expected to exercise a lot of patience. He said he hadn't run out of it 50 games later.

"I've tried to have more patience than in the past. This is a young team and they're going to make some mistakes. It's a tough game. Nobody feels sorry for you. You must learn to improve yourself," he says.

Fishin' Roundup

By MELVIN CLARK

Dave Turcotte, and his wife, Lois, of 1701 Hamilton-caught 4 channel cat with a total weight of 14 lbs. in a farm pond near Mobeetie. The largest one weighed 4 1/2 lbs. Their bait was stink bait made of minnows.

Lee Roy Jackson, 1004 Prairie Drive, Gary Lynn and Patricia caught 38 crappie and channel cat at Geenbelt Lake. These were caught during the hours between two and five last Sunday morning. They were using minnows for bait.

Dillon and Juanice Ferguson, 333 Canadian, Darell and David Nipp, and Gary Riley of Amarillo fished the Cimarron Canyon mountain stream at Eagle Nest, New Mexico last week and caught 103 trout in 4 days. The fish were biting rather fast at one time when Dillon caught 6 in 5 minutes. They were using live worms.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ferguson, 812 Beryl, also visited Cimarron Pass and Eagle Nest recently and brought home 58 nice trout.

Dallas Plays Frisco In Exhibition Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Dallas Cowboys and San Francisco 49'ers, both still a bit shellshocked from last week's opening exhibition losses, renew their all-even pre-season warfare Sunday here.

The two clubs have met each of the previous eight seasons of the Cowboys have been in existence and their series is a 4-4 standoff, but San Francisco holds a 3-1 edge in regular season play.

Last week, the Cowboys lost a 30-24 decision to the Chicago Bears while the 49'ers bowed 30-18 to the San Diego Chargers of the rival American Football League.

The game, which is expected to attract 30,000 fans, will mark the first clash between the clubs since 49'ers coach Dick Nolan left the Cowboys' staff where he was defensive coach.

Coach Tom Landry hopes to take a longer look at some of his rookie crop than was the case against the Bears, but all of the veterans except center guard Leon Donahue, both returning from injuries, are due to see action.

So are a pair of rookies from the All-Star game, receiver Dennis Homan and linebacker D. D. Lewis.

Landry has scheduled No. 3 quarterback Jerry Rhome to work the second half of the game with veteran Don Meredith the first half. Rhome will be attempting to win the No. 2 spot from Craig Morton, who had some bad moments in the loss to the Bears last week.

Rookies Charley Collins, the lightweight sensation of camp so far, and Ed Harmon are due to get considerable work behind middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan, while Lewis and John Douglas will be spelling outside linebackers Chuck Howley and Dave Edwards. Landry must find two rookies from among this group or start looking for a trade.

John Wilbur will start in place of Donahue, but rookie Isaac Brigham will get a chance to show his wares—as will rookie Bob Taucher behind offensive tackle Ralph Neely.

Landry also wants to watch Rayfield Wright, formerly a defensive end, in game action at his new post, defensive tackle.

Newcomer Mike Clark, who kicked a 54-yard field goal against the Bears last week, again will handle the placekicking, while the punting will be shared by hopefuls Bill McWilliams and Ron Widby.

Hunting Licenses Go On Sale Monday

AUSTIN (UPI)—Licenses for the 1968 hunting season will go on sale in Texas Monday. A man for the Parks and Wildlife said licenses were mailed to license deputies Friday.

He said the total face value of rushed to hunters planning to participate in the early deer hunts in Aransas National Wildlife Refuge could buy their licenses, fill out the free hunt application card and return it by the 5 p.m. Aug. 27 deadline. Application cards for the hunt must bear a hunting license number.

Frio said total face value of the license shipment is $4.2 million.

The 1968-69 licenses have four tags he said, two for buck deer and a bonus antlerless deep permit and a mule deer buck permit good only in the Trans-Pecos regulatory district.

TREE-SHADED PATIO — Mrs. Lee Moore, right, tour refreshments chairman, and her committee members, Mrs. V. N. Osborn, Mrs. C. J. McNaughton and Mrs. C. G. Matheny, plan tour refreshments while sitting in an enclosed patio in Mrs. Thelma Bray's back yard. Refreshments will be served to tour visitors in Mrs.

Bray's yard, 1305 Hamilton. Tour visitors may start at 9 p.m. Aug. 19 at any of the five yards designated. Mrs. Mildred Prince, Pampa and Mrs. Peaches Stevens, Borger, will be at Mrs. Bray's and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lyons' homes to explain garden lighting methods they used on the tour.

A PAMPA FIRST— Mrs. Thelma Bray, 1305 Hamilton, one of the five hostesses for Pampa Garden Club's first lighted garden tour, and her poodle, Babette, check the effect lights give their tree-shadowed back lawn. Refreshments during the Aug. 19 tour will be served in Mrs. Bray's back yard. Tour tickets are being sold by garden club members and will be available at the five yard gates. Proceeds will be used to finance city beautification projects.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS— Shadows of a birch tree, small shrubs, phlox, and two pyracantha trellises reflect against the garage wall in this lighted garden area. The area is one of several in Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Boynton's back yard, 1035 S. Hobart, which will be lighted during the Aug. 19 tour. The yard is bordered with several varieties of shrubs and flowers and shaded by a 75-foot tall Chinese Elm tree which is 33 years old and grew there from a seedling.

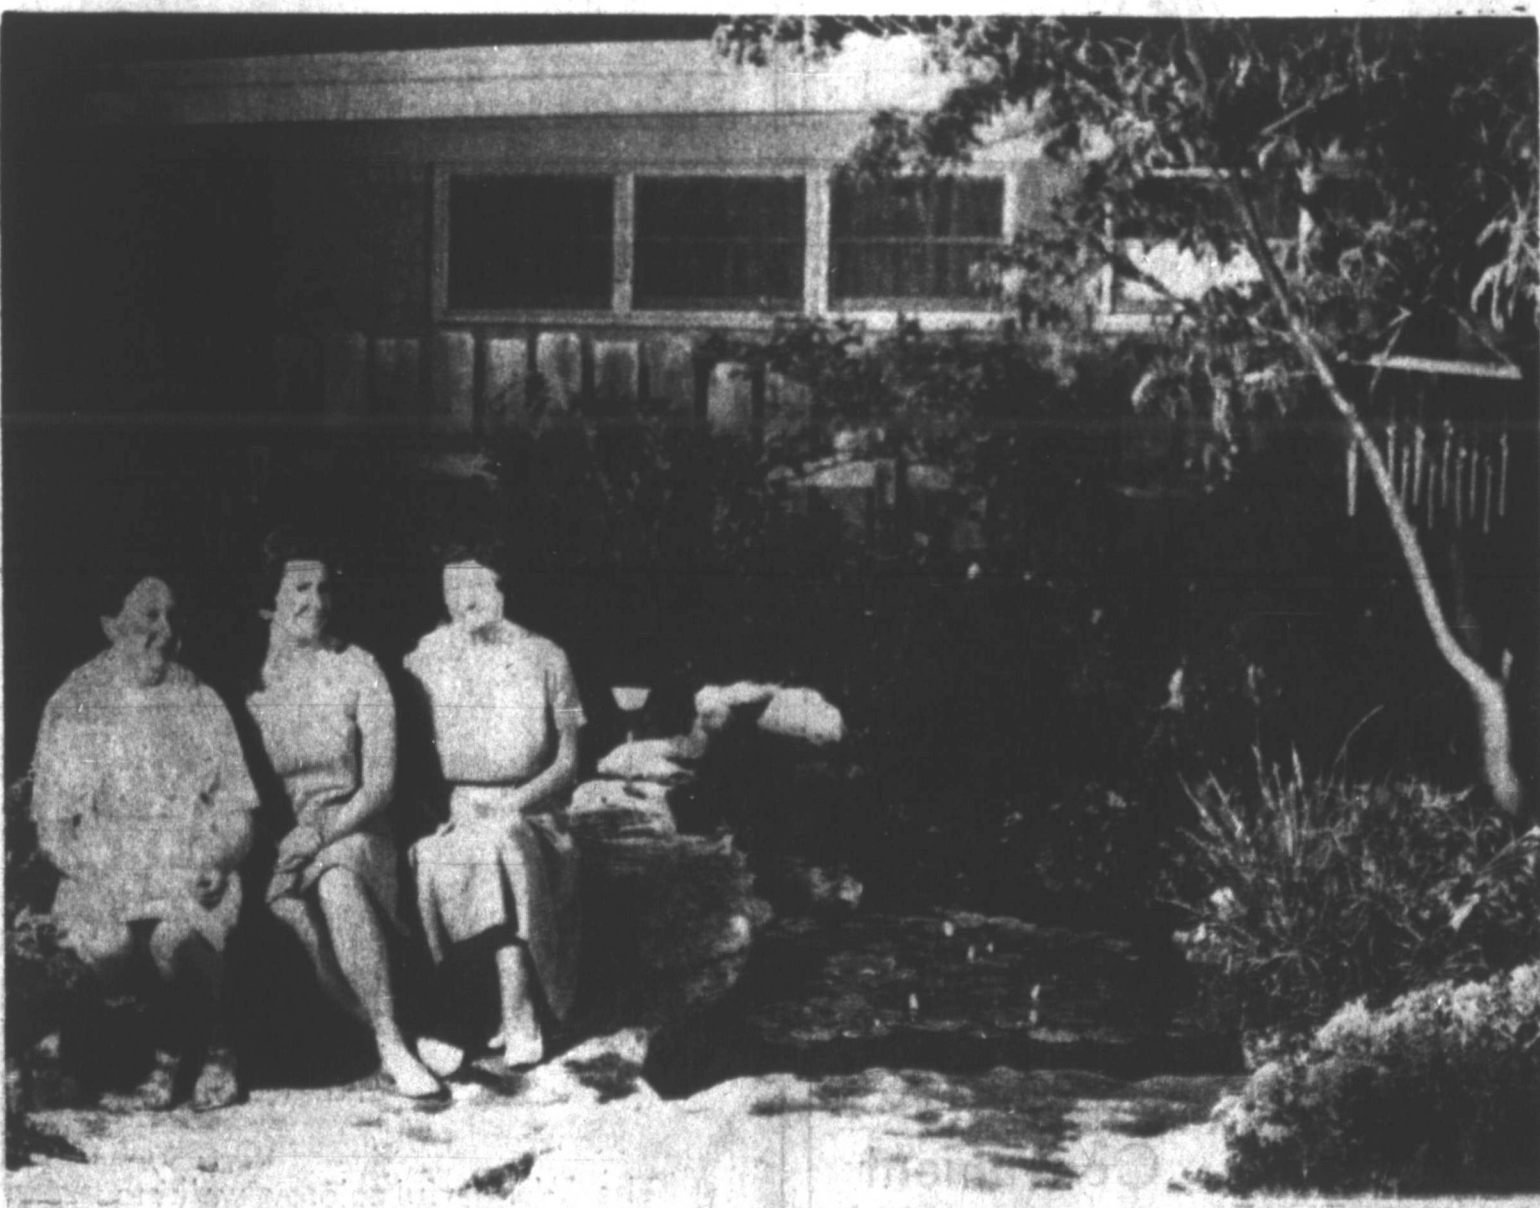

NIGHT LIGHTS IN A PAMPA GARDEN — The grass covered lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lyons' home, 1726 Evergreen, illustrates how lights can be used to brighten a corner tree or shrub and tree-bordered patio. During the garden club tour soft and subdued light will glow throughout the lawn's border of low hanging trees, flowers and plants and show how illumination can add sparkle to a backyard fence.

COMBINATION OF LIGHTS — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Curtis, 1928 Grape, step through the side gate leading into their back yard, which will be lighted on the garden club tour Aug. 19. The six-foot pine tree spotlighted with blue reflects against a plexiglass fence lighted in the back with red. In the yard, beyond the gate, a spotlighted golden rain tree overhangs the fence. Lights also define ivy vines trailing up the buff colored brick wall and orange marigolds growing in a border beside the house.

LILY POND REST STOP— Mrs. W. E. Hinton, left, tour ticket chairman; Mrs. Melvin Stephens, contacts chairman, and Mrs. Mary Weaver, hospitality chairman, rest beside the lighted lily pond in Mr. and Mrs. Milo Carlson's back yard, 2211 Charles. Small fish swim through the lily pads and under the waterfall which flows down over rocks into the water. Lights reflect from wind chimes hanging in the tree to the right. Mrs. Holly Gray, not pictured, is general tour chairman.

A WALK THROUGH THE GARDEN — Highlight of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Carlson's garden tour, at their home, 2211 Charles, is a stroll through their lighted brick walk way which winds around large rocks inset with lighted plants and shrubbery. Other gardens included on the

Some of the multitude of cosmetics task that baby oil performs well include: whisking away make-up quickly, even stubborn eye make-up. A thin film of the oil left on overnight keeps your skin lubricated and helps prevent moisture loss to keep it smooth and soft.

CHANGE YOUR HAIRSTYLE

If you are planning a switch from miniskirts to midi, make certain you are ready for the change. The current look is one of old-fashioned softness with new-fashioned charm and your hairstyle should reflect this. The word from many leading hair stylists is that the curly "Little Orphan Annie" style will sweep out the ever-popular straight ones. Others favor a midi hairstyle, neither curly nor straight, but a flattering compromise.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle something for us? What do you think about sending wedding invitations, announcements of same, graduation invitations, birth announcements, etc. to out-of-town relatives who live great distances and would never make the trip? We are having a difference of opinion at our house.

DEAR B AND B: Those with invitations and announcements to send should know their own relatives and try to anticipate their reactions.

Some relatives would interpret such invitations and announcements as a hint for a gift. Others would feel genuinely hurt to have been overlooked. Everyone has both kinds of relatives. The trick is to know which is which.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning to marry a widower in the near future. I have a lovely diamond from my deceased husband which I have never worn in the presence of my fiancé because I did not want to upset him. But he still wears his wedding ring from his deceased wife.

I once hinted that I thought he should put his wedding ring away, but either he didn't hear me, or he chose to ignore me. This man claims he loves me very much. Do you think he does if he continues to wear his wedding ring? Or is he living in the past?

DEAR WONDERING: Yes, he could love you very much and continue to wear his wedding ring. If it bothers you, do not "hint"—tell him.

Whether he is living in the past is something only he knows. I would advise a woman to think twice before marrying a man with whom she cannot speak frankly.

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns a small business and employs four men. One of these men lives in our block with his wife and four young children. They are not the nicest or neatest family on the block, but my husband has always thought the wife was tops.

I have suspected for quite some time that something was going on between the wife and my husband, but I tried to overlook it. Her husband didn't seem to see this, or else he just didn't care. I do care!

Now something has to be done and I don't know where to turn. They have finally admitted what has been going on between them. She is pregnant.

and my husband is the father of this baby. She also admitted that the last baby she had — 2 years ago — was my husband's. We have three teen-aged children, and I don't want them to find out about this. I don't know where I failed as a wife. I thought I was doing a good job. I've never been unfaithful to him. I know, no matter what he says, he will continue to see this woman. He has made promises like that before, and they don't mean anything.

What should I do? I know I have grounds for divorce and wouldn't have any trouble getting one. I just haven't the money for one now.

HEARTBROKEN DEAR HEARTBROKEN: If you can't afford the services of a lawyer, go to your local legal aid society. No woman has to live with a man who has fathered another woman's children.

Former Pampan Honored At 'Mexico' Shower

Home Accidents Spur Safety Suggestions

NEW YORK (Spl)—Judging by recent accident statistics, Americans are safer crossing a street or riding in a car than they are in their own homes.

Many misadventures stem from cultivating unsound habits that persist until just that certain set of circumstances, and then...!

Deadliest of all household malpractices, says a leading kitchen accessory manufacturer, is the way women do such overhead chores as reaching for dishes on upper cabinets, adjusting drapery hooks or changing a light bulb.

Need a dish that's too high? Haul over a kitchen chair as a stepping stone to a slippery counter top. As for the light bulb, how many will tackle the job by clambering up on a folding chair? One misstep and it'll fold up on her! And what about the drapery hook? Even Little Miss Cautious who drags out her step ladder is none too safe. Fine for the pro, ladders provide the novice with considerable room for error. Besides checking that the folding brace has snapped into place, there's the question of positioning the feet just so on its narrow steps and remembering to kick off high heels!

Safest solution is having a step-stool handy. Particularly conscious of the safety factor, a company has engineered one of steel frame construction that will support over 900 pounds of avoirdupois. Its steps are skid-proof and extra-wide for sure-footed comfort, and its legs open to an extra-broad base for greater stability.

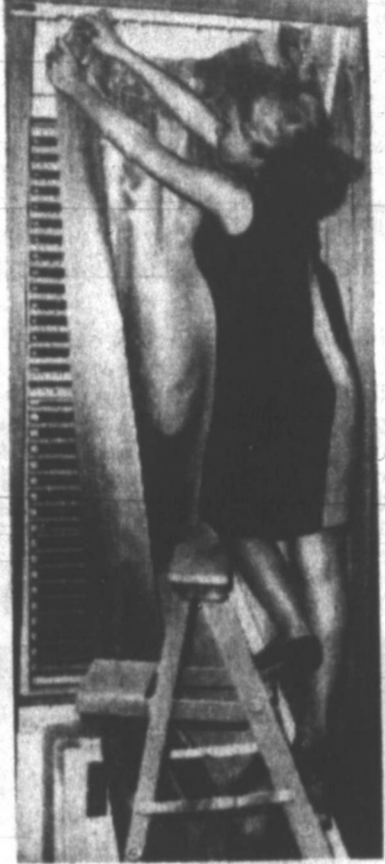

Just as mindful of esthetics is a step stool that, for the first time, will color coordinate with existing pantryware. Its safe. Fine for the pro, ladders provide the novice with considerable room for error. Besides checking that the folding brace has snapped into place, there's the question of positioning the feet just so on its narrow steps and remembering to kick off high heels!

Where kitchen space is scarcer than hen's teeth, it's comforting to know these stools are designed to fold perfectly flat for compact storage.

MRS. DWAIN URBANCZYK nee... Norma Jean Collins

Miss Norma Jean Collins, Dwain Urbanczyk Exchange Marriage Vows in Church Ceremony

Miss Norma Jean Collins was united in marriage with Dwain Urbanczyk in a double-ring evening ceremony in St. Vincent dePaul Catholic Church Saturday. Rev. William V. Brennan, O. F. M., officiated for the exchange of vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Collins, 312 N. Ward. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Urbanczyk, south of city.

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a peau de soie and lace wedding gown designed with straight scalloped lace neckline and unlined lace sleeves. Her straight skirt was made with an empire waistline and a lace bodice.

The eight-foot train extended from the shoulders in lace over peau de soie. Her shoulder-length veil was attached to a crown headpiece. She carried a cascade arrangement of happiness red roses.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Suzy Collins, New York City, was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants were Mrs. Aquilla Gowen, Electra; Mrs. Georgia Mason, Lubbock; Mrs. Jennie Seltz, Portland, Ore.

They were each dressed in floor-length gowns of cardinal peau de soie with bodices of beige and pink brocade designed in gold leaf. A shocking pink bow hung from the empire waistline to the back hemline. They wore pink shoes and carried cascade bouquets of feathered pink carnations.

Best man was Ronald Urbanczyk, of Colorado. Groomsmen were Jerry Wright, Condra Reischer of St. Mary, Pa.; Freddy Reck, Amarillo. Ushers were Charles Jackson, Will Rapstine and Robert Anderwald.

Ringbearer was Carl Kirbie Glendive, Mont., the bridegroom's nephew. Flower girl was Miss Elaine Seltz, Portland, Ore, the bride's niece. She wore a peau de soie shocking pink floor-length dress with white lace trim.

Decorations in the church were two pedestal baskets of gladiolus on both sides of the altar. Tracy D. Cary, organist, played "The Lord's Prayer," and traditional wedding marches, and accompanied Mrs. Betty Garcia, coloratura soprano, as she sang "Ave Maria."

The bride's mother wore an aqua lace dress over matching silk organza. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a pale green lace tunic over matching silk organza. Both wore white roses for their corsages.

RECEPTION
During the reception in St. Vincent's Cafeteria, Mrs. Dottie Alexander, the bride's aunt, of Duncan, Okla., registered guests.

Mrs. Norene Kirbie, Glendive, Mont., the bridegroom's sister, served punch as Mrs. Leatrice Reck, Amarillo, served cake. Mrs. Irene Hessey also aided with the reception. Bridesmaids' bouquets were placed around four pink candles for the reception table centerpiece.

For the honeymoon to Colorado, the bride traveled in a navy blue crepe dress with white lace cuffs and matching shoes. She wore the red roses from her bouquet for her corsage.

The couple plan to live south of Pampa where the bridegroom operates a farm and ranch.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Some Tarnish Rubs Off

If the man destined to be our next chief justice of the Supreme Court is guilty by association—with Alger Hiss and Harry Dexter White (who turned out to be Soviet agents), Owen Lattimore ("a conscious, articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy" according to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee)—how guilty is Lyndon Johnson through association with Abe Fortas?

Oh, come now, we're not even calling Abe Fortas that. But he's had some interesting associates over the years, in addition to Hiss, White, Lattimore—and LBJ.

The reason we can't seem to keep LBJ off any list of Fortas associates isn't due to our concern with subversion Red Style. It's a different "frame of reference"—and that's an expression that means we're getting serious now.

Fortas, it was, along with the present secretary of defense, Clark Clifford, who tried to shush up the news that LBJ aide Walter Jenkins had been arrested on charges of perversion.

Fortas also tried to divert attention of newsmen from charges that Bobby Baker, LBJ protege and former Senate secretary, had sold favors, using Johnson's name.

Another kernel of interest in the history of your next chief justice: He is a former member—his name appeared on the letterhead, anyway—of the International Juridical Association, which was alleged to be a part of the International Labor Defense, which was cited by the U.S. attorney general as "the legal arm of the Communist Party."

And next, but not least: It was Abe who fixed the opposition after Lyndon's election to the Senate in 1948 when the opposition sought court relief on the grounds the way the election was conducted smelled like 100 acres of dead stunks.

It was in that election LBJ won also the title "Landslide Lyndon." First results showed he had lost the election, then 200 votes "turned up" resulting in LBJ's "landslide" of less than 100 votes. Some of those "turned up" votes came from the cemetery, some who saw the voter listed claimed.

Anyway, the Supreme Court had been asked to have a look at the Texas election, but Abe Fortas fixed it so the court kept its hands off. (Just for double protection, the ballot box disappeared. But we don't imagine Abe had to come to Texas to arrange that.)

The point of all this is to suggest that Fortas is something more than crony ordinaire to Lyndon Johnson. He's been a fixer, and if anybody has been ahead of him in the fixers—for LBJ—ranks there are some hot stories about the President that have not been told.

Reward for services rendered is part of politics, and say what people will, Supreme Court appointments are part of that game. Fortas' services to LBJ really went beyond the call of duty. How cynical a justice he must be, knowing how he got there.

Credit: Economic Block

Our children are taught in school to drive a car, but are given absolutely no guidelines as to how to budget this major purchase against other necessary expenditures they will have to face when they become working adults.

They are taught how to handle an automobile safely, but not how to handle budgets and credit safely.

Making this charge is S. C. Patterson, president of the National Foundation of Consumer Credit, which reports that an estimated $500 million evaporated from the economy last year as 192,000 "overextended Americans" flocked to the bankruptcy courts at the rate of more than one a minute.

Except for a hard core of perhaps 10,000 "credit drunks," who will never be able to handle their personal financial affairs, most of this 192,000 didn't get into trouble deliberately and

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: Since our form of government is by representation, services hired by the people and called the government, would not private employees of a company be the heads of said company? Should employees set the rules, or the employer?

ANSWER: Theoretically, the employer sets the rules, and hires the employee to function within those rules. In a private company, when the employee fails to operate under the rules laid down by the employer, he can be fired. An owner (stockholder) who does not approve of the way the employee is handling company affairs, can join with other stockholders and attempt to remove directors and officers of the company. If he fails to get this result and is still dissatisfied with the management, he can get out by disposing of his stock.

In government, the theory is similar, except the individual "stockholder" is supposed to be able to exercise the same control over his employee (representatives), by voting the unsatisfactory representative out of office. However, if he fails in this effort and is still dissatisfied, he is unable to withdraw. And those in government become more powerful by their ability to tax and spend to keep themselves in office. They disregard those they represent as long as they are able to maintain themselves in office by various handouts to members of special voting blocs.

This was predicted by French philosopher Alexis de Tocqueville in his 19th century study of America. He wrote, "Democracy in the United States will last until those in power learn they can perpetuate themselves through taxation."

Editor: It does not make sense, when we are supposed to hate little Rhodesia for being "racist" when it has more Negro representatives in its Parliament than the U.S. and Britain combined.

So, we don't buy Rhodesian chrome used to make stainless steel. So, Rhodesia sells it to Japan, they sell it to Russia, who doubles the price and sells it to the U.S.

This makes as much sense as the current move to punish guns instead of criminals.

It's time we had someone in Washington who will stand up for honesty, integrity and America.

GOP Platform Has "Sleepers" Such As Stand On 40-Hour Week And Revision Of Draft Age

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Republican National convention spiced its 1968 party platform with a handful of "sleepers" which will be loudly trumpeted to the voters in the campaign weeks ahead.

Publicized controversy here has centered, for the most part, on the official GOP position on Vietnam. The attack on crime and the crisis in the cities got an occasional secondary mention in the accounts of platform drafting sessions and convention action.

Overshadowed by those controversies, however, are equally important party pronouncements on such issues as the draft and the 40-hour week. Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., chief architect as resolution chairman, thinks the platform will play an important role in this year's presidential and congressional campaigns.

Platforms of both political parties have had little campaign impact in recent elections. Generally the bland party pronouncements have been forgotten once the candidates began airing their own views on national issues. Here, however, are some of the party statements which could, as Dirksen predicts, give the platform new meaning in this campaign year.

VOTE—More states should reconsider their laws with respect to a vote for 18-year-olds and "each such state should decide this matter for itself." The platform urges such a reevaluation "now."

DRAFT—The platform pledges action to reduce the number of years in which a young man is vulnerable to the military draft. Further, it states that "when military manpower needs can be appreciably reduced, we will place the selective service system on stand-by and substitute a voluntary force obtained through adequate pay and career incentive."

SOCIAL SECURITY—Long sought improvements are promised in several phases of the Social Security system. The platform then promises to "provide automatic cost of living adjustments under Social Security and the Railroad Retirement Act."

WORK WEEK—The 40-hour week adopted 30 years ago needs reexamination to determine whether or not a shorter work week, without loss of wages, would produce more jobs, increase productivity and stabilize prices," the platform says.

COLLEGE—The platform favors an off-the-top tax credit to help parents meet the increasing costs of college for their children. It also endorses a new plan, advanced by the National Association of Life Underwriters, which would let parents set aside an annual amount, tax free, for future college costs.

EV PRAISED—Dirksen, an old hand at legislative compromise, is being credited with resolving platform disputes so as to leave no scars. According to one participant, Dirksen shed his even temper on only one occasion during the long late-night deliberations and apologized for that lapse.

One source of possible dispute was skirted when the Resolutions Committee adopted language which barely suggested the current senate controversy over President Johnson's nomination of Abe Fortas to be Chief Justice and Homer Thornberry to be an Associate Justice. Dirksen has been supporting the president's Supreme Court nominees, but Sen. Robert P. Griffin, Mich., had said he would seek a platform statement opposing them.

The approved language says only that public confidence in the courts is "absolutely essential" and pledges "a determined effort to rebuild and enhance public respect for the supreme court and all other courts in the United States." It says the GOP urges application of the "highest standards" in making court appointments.

In other platform maneuvering, Sen. Karl E. Mundt, S.D., reportedly worked behind the scenes to make sure that the GOP pledges of help to the cities did not completely subordinate the traditional pledge to help the farmer get his fair share of the national income.

THAT'S POLITICS—A little less than a year ago Michigan Gov. George Romney was a front-runner, with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, for the GOP presidential nomination. Then Romney said he had been brainwashed on a trip to Vietnam, and his campaign began to sag.

A very disconsolate figure at this GOP convention, Romney is reported to have put out vice presidential feelers to the camps of Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Romney was, however, not immediately solicited by either as a possible running mate.

Instead, according to one GOP official, Romney was, himself, asking friends to intercede with new front-runners in behalf of Romney for vice president.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Congressmen Go Home!

By PAUL HARVEY
American workers are increasingly objecting to supporting the nonworkers.

Congress flirts with various proposals for a guaranteed annual wage for everybody, work or not.

Such congressmen are bidding with our money for 8 million welfare votes but 76 million dues-paying Americans are getting fed up.

Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio says a member of Congress can hide from the world in those air-conditioned palaces along the Potomac, that Washington, D. C., is the worst place in the world to learn what's going on in the world.

Bow says members of Congress need to get out of that artificial atmosphere and get back to the grass roots where hinterland homefolks can help restore their perspective.

For those who presently cannot or will not go home, may I relay two messages from home?

From Milwaukee: "As soon as Congress agrees to pay everybody $3,000 a year whether he works or not, my husband and I intend to take our savings, buy a small farm in the north woods and declare ourselves poor farmers. My husband has a Ph. D. in mathematics, but we can explain that academic life is bad for his eyes, give up teaching and collect our $3,000 a year while we hunt and fish and go canoeing and have children. By the time they are ready for college, the government will see to that. Besides, we'll probably get a bonus for having more children. My husband and I, in our 20s now, look forward to a lifetime of leisure."

The writer admits that there is one problem. She and her husband have an old-fashioned complication called "pride." It makes them feel unclean when they are sponging on others. They may not be able to overcome this feeling, but they are confident millions of others will.

Then, they wonder, who will pay the bill for all this guaranteed annual vote bait.

Another constituent heard from in Reading, Pa.:

"It's a beautiful day outside but I feel beat, tired, sad. Our state has been marched on by a group called the 'Rights for Welfare' organization. The group is demanding—not asking, demanding—more welfare money.

"One protestor says he has a bad back and can't work, but his back is strong enough to march a mile to the governor's office carrying a huge placard.

"He says he gets only $238 biweekly and can't live on that. "He is thus getting $6,188 a year for doing nothing which is more than a beginning teacher gets for teaching. Also he lives in a housing project, pays minimal rent of $48 a month, no water, electric or gas bill.

"Dog-gonit, Mr. Harvey, I have a wife and seven children and diabetes and lots of mornings I don't feel good at all. Should I sell everything, put it in the children's names, take bankruptcy and a pauper's oath and live off welfare?"

But this writer, too, goes on to say that his pride and his Pennsylvania Dutch wife will not allow him to become a beggar. So he will go on working, raise his children to be taxpayers—not tax burdens—and continue working and hoping and praying that the next generation can be an improvement on this one.

Congress needs to spend more time with the disorganized majority. Sam Rayburn once said, "If the next three Congresses would convene January 5 and adjourn January 6 and leave the country alone, we'd all be better off."

PINE TREE FEATURES

by Robert Lefevre

HUMPHREY OR NIXON: ANY DIFFERENCE?

Campaign year 1968 is rapidly educating the American people to the futility of the undemocratic nature of the electoral process. For in the face of all the polls and other expressions of public opinion that reveal McCarthy and Rockefeller as by far the most popular of their respective parties, the party hacks who run the Democratic and Republican conventions are determined to nominate their choices: Humphrey and Nixon. This blatant flaunting of the will of the oligarchy in the face of popular choice shall not be forgotten this time; and many millions will become permanently disenchanted with the entire American political process.

It is also more evident than ever before that there is hardly a smidgen of difference between the two major party candidates. Both Humphrey and Nixon are pre-eminently the spokesmen of hawkishness and aggression abroad and of the welfare-warfare corporate state at home: Both want to continue the New Deal-Fair Deal and both want to combine the carrot of federal funds with the stick of armed suppression to deal with the urban ghettos.

The fact that Humphrey's rhetoric is slightly more progressive-statist and Nixon's more conservative-statist is purely a function of their respective constituencies within the broad Corporate State consensus. The difference is purely that: a matter of rhetoric only.

And yet the disquieting thing is that Nixon, over the years, has shown the ability to attract a number of people who even call themselves "libertarians." I remember well the campaign of 1960, when a whole slew of my friends and acquaintances, many self-styled "Libertarian," began popping up in the Nixon camp, some high among his staff of advisers. Their story was always the same: "Privately, Dick really agrees with us; he told me this many times..." Et cetera. What a malarkey! Why didn't they realize that being all things to all men, that agreeing with whomever is last in your office, is the politician's stock-in-trade? Put not your trust in princes; consider only their public performances, and not their private promises. One would think that libertarians, at least, would be sensitive to this truth.

And now the whole farce is being repeated once more; again, self-styled libertarians are high up in the Nixon campaign and again they proclaim his devotion to liberty, privately and down deep. Men who refuse to work with anyone who deviates one iota from the pure libertarian cause are now gleefully paid advisers to Nixon; the deadly smell of power is doing its work. It is almost a good enough reason to take sides in this repellent campaign: to thwart the corrupted ambitions of "libertarians" who have surrendered to the siren song of Power.

One of the best businesses today is the Poverty Business.

Richard Frost is an Upward Bound official who draws a thousand every month for salary. But that ain't enough for him—he also grabs off 100 bucks a day as a consultant to a OEO contract firm to review Upward Bound grants. Now wouldn't that Frost ya?

What Upward Bound does is hang around schools and watch to see which students drop out, then they pounce on them, offer them money, and they re-enlist again.

Frost is also a deputy director of an Upward Bound program in an Oregon prison. I guess that's in case some of the prisoners decide to drop out, too.

Just in case he can't skimp along on this amount of money, Frost is also a professor at Reed College in Portland, Ore. and gets between $16 and $18 thousand gets a year. Multiply old Frosty by thousands and what have you got—a bankrupt country.

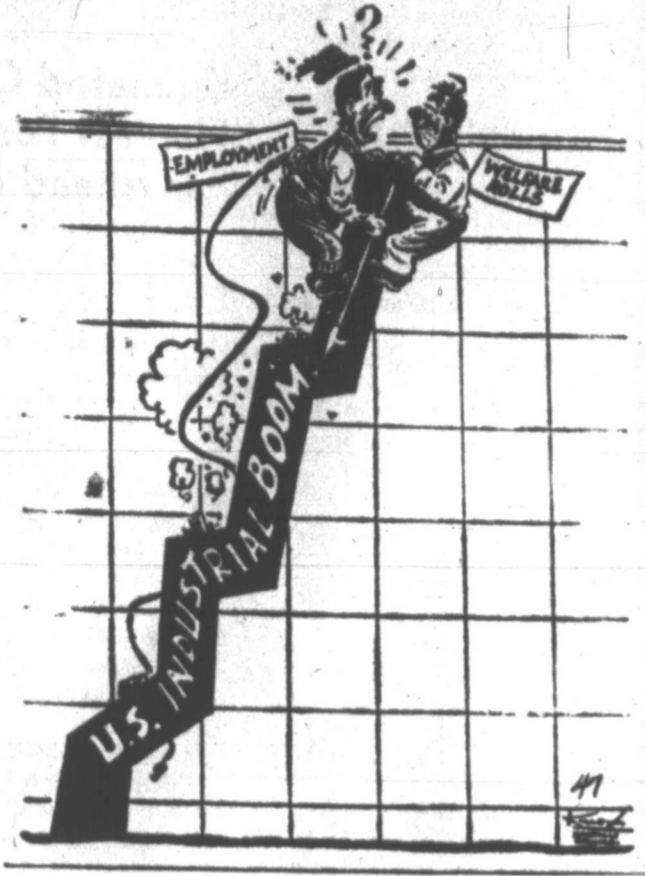

They got a bill in congress now that will transfer the Upstairs Bound from OEO to the HEW. So now they'll switch some of the gravy train specialists around and come up with a new batch of patronage grabbers.

So you littler fellers need't start dancin in the streets. It's just the same old saw with a new set to it.

The Soviet War Of Nerves

(Wall Street Journal)

"In a war, those who have the stronger nerves and the greater coolness always win in the end." So the Czechoslovak Communist Party's chief military spokesman addressed his nation the other day. War it certainly is—thus far a war of nerves waged by the Kremlin against the liberal Communist leadership in Prague, but it could all too easily lead to Soviet military intervention. At the least the disgraced Soviet behavior once again exposes the arrogance and hypocrisy of orthodox communism and serves as a warning to those in this country who are always quick to see the best in the Soviets. Whether the Czechoslovak people and leaders will in fact keep their cool and calm down the Soviets are indeed the big questions. Six weeks or so ago it seemed that the peaceful revolution, which earlier this year had ousted the rigid Stalinist regime in Prague, was well entrenched at home and that the Kremlin had decided the better part of wisdom was to keep hands off. Then the Soviets sent in quantities of troops and materiel ostensibly for Warsaw Pact exercises. They didn't leave on schedule; they still haven't left, despite a pointed Prague request that they do so. Meantime the regimes of the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria have sternly demanded that the Czech leadership meet them in two weeks to explain the democratic reforms. It is quite possible there are divisions within the Kremlin about intervention. In any event it may be the decision has not yet been made. The Soviets may figure the troop presence, plus the unsold hint that the soldiers could be back in a hurry and when they do leave, will prove sufficient to unseat the liberals. In addition, plenty of hard-lining Czech officials are still around and might try a comeback. Naturally the Soviets are worried; some reports say they are so obsessed with the Czech situation that they can hardly put their minds to other matters. Already it is thought the sweet winds of liberty are beginning to sweep across the Czechoslovak border into the Ukraine. And of course there is no little restiveness elsewhere within the Soviet Union and in other satellites, so Moscow morosely

More Regimentation

(The Free Trader, London, England)

On December 21st "The Times" published a letter from Sir Roy Harrod. He argued that the British people should give up what he called "their insensate preference for foreign goods and buy British." "If the voluntary system does not work," he said "then temporary import restrictions should be imposed. To ensure that the unfortunate devaluation, entailing a rise in prices, does not reduce standards of living, taxes should be reduced; the Budget surplus is now unnecessarily high. If that did not suffice, subsidies should be applied to essential items, as was done successfully during the war. If the voluntary system does not work, then a temporary legal wage freeze should be imposed." Sir Roy added "Our official foreign creditors would not like this policy. However, they would probably accept it if we showed sufficient resolution. But, in the last resort, if they cut up rough, we should break loose from our dependence on them by letting the pound float. He concluded "I am convinced that the idea that austerity is an appropriate remedy for our troubles has been the most important cause of them in recent times." Over the years we have had a lot of curious stuff from Sir Roy Harrod. But one day many of our people will have to learn that if one spends more than one earns the time must come when consumption has to be reduced. The British people have no "insensate preference" for foreign goods. They merely want to buy what is cheapest and best and in that they are

How To Raise Wages

BY YALE BROZEN (The Freeman)

The greatest help we can give the Negro today is to repeal the statutory minimum wage. Instead, we are raising it. By doing this, we are foreclosing opportunity for Negro teenagers. Many are now unable to obtain the jobs where they could learn the skills which would enable them to earn far more than the statutory minimum.

We do want low wages raised. But passing a law is not the way to do it, although it seems so very obvious that passing a law will raise the minimum wage rate. Unfortunately, what it does is to lower the wage to zero for a great many people. When the minimum wage went up on February 1, 1967, non-white teen-age unemployment jumped from 20.9 per cent in January to 26.3 per cent in February. The increase on February 1 this year jumped non-white teen-age unemployment from 19.1 in January to 25.2 per cent in February (all figures seasonally adjusted).

The lowest wage rates can be successfully raised by improving our technology, by increasing the amount of capital—the amount of tools, machines, and other equipment—and by allowing people entering the labor force to obtain jobs where they can learn the skills which will bring a much higher wage—an opportunity barred to many by the statutory minimum wage. The minimum wage cannot be raised by law without enormous deleterious effects ranging from unemployment for many to riots in the cities where the unemployment is concentrated.

Side Effects of the Law Before passing on to other illustrations obviously true propositions concerning economic policy which are false, let me mention a few other side effects of the minimum wage statute. Among other things, it has resulted in the maintenance of segregated work forces in plants where segregation would otherwise have disappeared. Since an arbitrary increase in wage rates decreases the amount of employment, employers have found that they could fill the reduced number of jobs in any given plant with the available white workers. Without this forced economization of labor, they find it necessary to hire blacks as well as whites to fill the larger number of jobs. Another effect has been to force rural and Southern residents to emigrate to Northern and Western cities since the minimum wage has had its greatest impact on disadvantaged areas not close to major Northern and Western metropolitan markets. The result of this is greater population density in Northern city slums, a greater problem of assimilation, and a breakdown of order in the overpacked slum areas. A third effect is that wage rates in our lowest wage occupations such as domestic servants, and anti-war protesters, toward the nomination of Sen. McCarthy. According to Mr. Harrington, they will go "far beyond the New Deal" in advocating government intervention in the economy in behalf "of the poor and of the workers"—especially through a massive and all-embracing antipoverty program. All of this fits in neatly with the sentiments already expressed by Sen. McCarthy and the Americans for Democratic Action, which is already behind McCarthy. If the Democratic party goes along with this program, it will be another example of history repeating itself and will raise the specter of more years of irresponsible handouts and inflation. If it doesn't, and if the McCarthy backers are rejected, a new party may be formed anyway—and if it is honest it will call itself Socialist.

Mama Goes Home To Daughter

(Chicago Tribune)

After a half-century of ups and downs, the Socialist party of the United States has given up trying to be a third party and will join the left wing of the Democratic party. It would hardly be accurate, however, to regard the Socialist party as a failure. Quite the contrary. The Socialist platform has been taken over by the Democrats, plank by plank. Norman Thomas, the perennial Socialist candidate for President, lamented some years ago that the Democrats had left nothing for the Socialists to stand on.

Many of the Socialist planks have become law. The graduated income tax, social security, minimum wages, and the Tennessee Valley authority are among the many Socialist programs which the Democrats have appropriated and taken credit for themselves. And having long since taken over the Socialist party's goals, it is only reasonable that the Democrats should now absorb the party itself. Michael Harrington, a leader of the "new left" and national chairman of the Socialists, says that they will work with dissent Democrats, black mill-

Gun Law Mistrust

(Portland Oregonian)

Registration of guns would not impose, in itself, an unbearable obstruction to the proper use and enjoyment of firearms by hunters, ranchers, target-shooters and collectors. It would be a nuisance. It would be an added expense. It would lead to federal licensing, which is undesirable. It would bring a fee system which eventually would become another tax. It would be widely evaded. It would lead to a black market in guns. And although it would help police to trace guns after the fact of their use in crime, it would not prevent such use.

The banning of interstate sales of rifles and shotguns would help local dealers at the expense of mail-order firms, and present an economic rather than a security question. Requiring the purchase of guns in shops would facilitate a registration process. None of these restrictions, however, provides certainly that the millions of guns now in private hands would be registered or kept out of the hands of criminals. Over a period of 50 or 75 years, perhaps, the number of unregistered guns could be gradually reduced.

The chief argument for gun restrictions is not—despite the emotional bling of the moment—the prevention of assassinations; it is the possible reduction in the number of killings of passion, derangement and accident. But these would be reduced only proportionately to the reduction of the number of guns in private hands. Even so, there is no guarantee that such killings would not be accomplished by other means.

Some of the departments and agencies of the federal government have looked with favor on steps toward licensing of hunters and fishermen on federal lands, including grazing lands and national forests, primarily. The states have properly resisted this movement, on apparently sound constitutional and common law grounds. It would be a short congressional or administrative step from gun registration to federal licensing of hunters and unwieldy, unrealistic restrictions on hunting dreamed up in the political atmosphere of the Potomac. That is certainly to be avoided.

The states themselves have been negligent in failing to adopt more uniform legislation on registration of pistols and revolvers—guns which were designed to kill people, not animals or birds. The federal crime control law bans interstate sales of short guns. But state and municipal registration laws for this class of weapon are a hodge-podge and should be unified to require registration. The same thinking does not apply to shotguns and rifles, and neither the registration nor prohibition of interstate sales would assure any real regulation without the tracing of every weapon by an army of federal and local policemen—and probably not then.

In Oregon, as in other states, a great deal of progress has been made in the training of young sportsmen and target-shooters in safe handling and respect for the lethal potentials of long guns—a requirement for licensing to hunt. This moves in the right direction. Lawful and safe use of guns can be encouraged by sound legislation, but none but the individual gun handler can make it effective. We mistrust the federal bills now being forced through a reluctant Congress by political hysteria in a period of semi-

Joint Monopoly

(The Freeman)

This has been the usual evolution of collective bargaining in England and Western Europe and in the United States. Everywhere the same results follow. The employer-union relations become substantially collusive arrangements. Concessions are more willingly granted because everybody makes them simultaneously and because labor concessions can forthwith be translated into price increases which also everybody simultaneously makes. The public interest, then, is subordinated to this new joint interest of capital and labor, or employers and union, and the influence of competition is further impaired.

In practice, under such arrangements, employers' associations join with unions in fixing costs and prices and lose much of the interest competing businesses have in keeping their costs and prices down.—Leo Wolman.

That Boy She's Raising—

The New Ordeal By Planning

(The Free Trader, London, England)

On February 14th The Times published an article by Mr. Fred Catherwood, Director of the National Economic and Development Council. In it he wrote "The trouble with the anti-planners is that they seem to live in an idealized world with a perfect self balancing international economy and not in the rough, hard, unbalanced world of today, a world of restrictive practices, international tariffs, quota restrictions, border taxes, economic nationalism, absenteeism and all the other actions of non-economic man."

Mr. Catherwood was inspired to make this extraordinary statement in reply to Professor John Jewkes whose book The New Ordeal by Planning had just been published by Macmillan at 42.

In his book Professor Jewkes had concluded that the Government must change its priorities and concentrate its energies and ability upon the primary but neglected duties of providing for national defence, curbing internal violence and maintaining the value of the currency. That is a conclusion which all Free Traders will agree with. Our present government has neglected national defence to an extent which has undermined a serious degree of the morale of the men engaged in the defence services; it has accepted policies which could only result in increasing tensions between the various communities and sections of the nation and its economic policies have disastrously weakened the national currency.

Valuable Contribution In his book Professor Jewkes makes a valuable contribution to current economic discussion. The weakness of Mr. Catherwood is that he does not seek to get rid of the restrictive practices the unbalance of trade and the quotas and tariffs but accepts them as a permanent part of our economy. He thinks that by central government planning the combined wisdom of a few men like himself in Whitehall can offset the rapidly changing decisions of like-minded people around the world and in our own country. That is complete nonsense. By the time the central planners have decided upon their policies and then changed them to meet overnight changes elsewhere circumstances will have changed again and possibly in an entirely different direction. Mr. Catherwood and his friends who have been and will continue to be hopelessly unsuccessful in their efforts must have to work night and day breathlessly trying to keep up with what is happening.

In the process of doing so they are creating precisely that chaos for which Free Traders are constantly and improperly condemned. Mr. Catherwood's efforts would be little worthy of consideration were it not for the fact that they are bringing a great nation to its knees with the possibility in time of creating the conditions under which fifty-two million people on a small island will not be able to feed themselves or defend themselves. He, of course is quite unconscious of what he is doing. Free Traders, in contrast are campaigning to get rid of the restrictive practices and are convinced that the Free Trade policy provides the key to the national sickness and is the key to freedom of all the freedoms. In the process of providing for Free Trade there must be also the abandonment of all exchange controls. The people must be allowed to do what they like with their own money. Mr. Catherwood would doubtless argue that they should not be allowed to do what they like with their own money. He would doubtless like to convince us that there are certain things which we should not be allowed to buy. He would like to convince us that there are certain places in the country where certain types of production should be carried on and he would tell us where they should be carried on. He would give privileges to some sections of industry which he and his associates think should be carried on in this country and not bought from other countries. In that respect he is not very much different from a number of members of the Tory Party.

The policy of protection first accepted once again in 1915 as a war time measure and accelerated since that time is the primary cause of the present condition of our country. Without the restrictions on imports and the imposition of exchange controls socialist policies could never have been accepted in our country. And it is the maintenance of exchange control which permits the present Labour government to carry out its policies which by denying the right of individuals to make the best use of their abilities is impoverishing the whole country. When the Free Trade policy was abandoned the natural disciplines resulting from free competition from abroad and compelling them at home were also abandoned. And it is Mr. Catherwood and his associates who are persistently forcing upon us the unnatural disciplines of something like a police state in the belief that they can be a substitute for natural disciplines. They cannot be. They merely create new injustices between our own peoples and promote international tensions with people who in a free economy as we used to know it were pleased to be our friends.

Mania For Instant Power

By FRED G. CLARK AND RICHARD S. RIMANOCZY (American Economic Foundation)

The vast majority of America's Negroes realize that their people have already (in the context of history) made phenomenal economic and social progress and can continue to do so in an atmosphere of law, order and personal self-improvement. They also realize that the current irrational mania for "instant" power and prosperity, which extends from the Congo to Harlem, threatens to violently disrupt and seriously delay this progress. It is impossible to exaggerate the potential tragedy.

In the words of the prominent Negro columnist George S. Schuyler, "There are too many retardate, criminally inclined people in our population whose expectations have to be kept in check. They provide the fuel of great social conflagrations."

Who (and what) is going to keep them in check? The "white man's" forces of law and order (which could be overwhelming) can discourage and punish violence, but some other force must divert this driving impatience into constructive channels.

As we see the problem, its solution rests upon action by millions of the realistic forward-looking Negroes who command respect among their people. They can and should, through informal but intensive adult community educational programs, establish two facts, 1) the enormously beneficial nature and supreme importance of economic freedom and 2) why and how the American economy provides a place for almost every Negro who is willing to develop his natural abilities.

Worst Enemy The worst enemy of the Negro is the self-appointed "champion" who tells him that his future holds no hope; who tells him that the system is stacked against him; who prods him into senseless violence, crime, property loss and bodily danger.

The best friend of the Negro is his fellow Negro who shows him that his future lies within himself; who shows him that the system is teeming with opportunity; who prods him into qualifying for his place in the economy; who, by example, inspires self-respect and quiet confidence.

This approach will not change the small violence-prone minority, but as George Schuyler writes: "The goal of the overwhelming majority of American Negroes is middle-class existence. Millions have attained that status, and more are doing so all the time."

Although the schoolroom is the ideal place to start effective motivation it requires more time than is now available. Something must be done immediately on a mass, crash program for self-evaluation and constructive action.

To be effective this must be a program by Negroes for Negroes. Money is no problem. The right type of educational material is not lacking. The scarce ingredient is community leadership—Negro leadership—because "white men" cannot "get through" to the black audience.

This is the black man's burden. All the white man can do is help with money, facilities and materials. Tragic as the violence has been, it has done one thing: it has made everybody, white and black, take time to think. This sets the stage and makes the burden lighter.

Much Of State Needs Rain But Crop Outlook Is Good

COLLEGE STATION (UPI)—Rapidly developing crops and hot and dry weather have brought on a need for rain over the western two-thirds of the state, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said today. Irrigation was general over the High Plains and in far West Texas and crops were responding to the favorable growing conditions. South Plains cotton, the service said, was fruiting heavily and insect infestations continue tight.

Crop growth in far West Texas was described as excellent except for those on dryland. Cotton growth and development also were good over the Rolling Plains. West Central, Central and North Central districts but insects are causing some damage in these areas, the service noted. Producers are watching the situation closely. Showers continued to delay cotton defoliation and harvesting in far South Texas and prospects for the crop in coastal areas were not very bright due to the excessive rains and insect damage.

From 50 to 75 per cent of the South Texas grain sorghum crop has been harvested. Yields have generally been good, the service said, but prices low. Some early fields of grain sorghum have been harvested as far north and west as the Rolling Plains. Early corn harvests have been good and the crop was rapidly reaching the harvest stage over the eastern half of the state. Peanuts generally were making good progress but leafspot is causing concern in some areas, the service noted. Pecan prospects continue to hinge on damage from mildew, webworms, and walnut caterpillars.

Now is the time to pay particular attention to water stress in irrigated sorghum crops. Watch the first area watered and go back and water it as soon as it needs it—even if you have to forego watering some other parts of the cropland. Experiments show that you will have better production if you don't allow water stress to set in. Needless to say, if you get too much behind in watering, a large portion of your crop could suffer water stress.

Conservation work currently going on in Gray County includes the following: Construction of parallel terraces on the Dick Dickens farm, and completion of the same on the Bill Waters farm. Topographic mapping is being carried out on the Robert Rapstine farm in preparation for construction of parallel terracing. Land leveling is going on at the Frank Daugherty and Reyx McKay farms. And installation of underground irrigation pipe is being carried out on the farms of D. W. Swain, George Philpott, Tom Anderwald and Jack Barnett.

Hereford Breeder Group To Begin Tour Tomorrow

The Panhandle Hereford Breeders Association will begin its second annual regional cattle tour tomorrow across the eastern part of the Panhandle. The tour will include an overnight stop in Pampa.

The second annual event will start at Perryton and end at Conway, with 20 stops during the two days.

The tour will assemble at 8 a.m. tomorrow at the C. A. Hoover & Son ranch five miles east of Perryton on Highway 15. The tour will then proceed on to view the commercial herds of Wallace Hampker and H. C. Brillheart & Son. The next scheduled stop will be the registered herds of Alex Born & Sons. The noon stop Monday will be at the Clark Mathers Ranch, north of Canadian, where the Pampa Shrine Club will prepare a barbecue courtesy of the tour participants.

After lunch a representative of the American Hereford Association will talk about the Total Performance Records program.

The first afternoon stop will be at the Holland Hereford Ranch located 16 miles south of Canadian on Highway 83, then on to J. W. Thompsons and Breeding & Caldwell's ranches. The tour will view the commercial herd belonging to Ellis Locke with the next stop at Orval Christopher's ranch. The 12th and last stop of the day will be at the Maddox Hereford Ranch located five miles west of Miami on FM Road 282.

Overnight headquarters will be at the Coronado Inn here in Pampa, where the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will host a social hour at 7 p.m.

Eight stops are scheduled on the tour's second day, with the first one being at 8 a.m. at Frank Carter's One Bull Ranch north of Pampa. The next stop will be the Emmett Lefors Ranch and then on to view the commercial herd of Billy B. Davis. The tour will continue on to the Clyde J. Magee Ranch and the F. Jake Hess Ranch. The noon stop will be south of McLean at the Sitter Headquarters where H.M. "Flip" Breedlove will prepare a barbecue courtesy of the tour participants. L. E. (Sonny) Nance, co-owner and manager of Hall-Nance Ranches, Haslet Texas, will be the noon speaker. The title of his presentation is "What TPR Has Done for Me."

First stop of the afternoon will be at the Tomie M. Potts ranch, Memphis. The last stop of the day will be at the Caliham Ranch, Conway.

FHA Offering Assistance For Grazing Assn'

Farmers and cattlemen are acquiring needed land resources by forming grazing associations and obtaining financial assistance from the Farmers Home Administration, the agency's Gray County supervisor, Claude Moore, said this week. A grazing association is composed of a group of family farmers and ranchers who join together to acquire and develop land to provide seasonal grazing for livestock belonging to its members. The nonprofit association is owned, operated, and managed by its members.

"Small farmers" Moore said, can increase their incomes, make better use of land and water resources, and develop larger equity in land through use of a grazing association. This program often provides small farmers with their only opportunity to remain in farming on a profitable basis.

"Results benefit the entire community," Moore said, because associations accomplish better use of land and water resources and provide expanded tax bases and more local buying power.

The grazing associations now in operation in Texas range in size from 4 to 43 members, depending on the number of livestock to be supported and dimensions and quality of the land. Eligible to form associations are neighboring farmers and ranchers who operate family size units. Financial and technical assistance is provided by the Farmers Home Administration. Additional aid often is provided by the Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and the Extension Service.

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS

The Water Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce met in Wichita Falls recently to be briefed on the progress of the Texas Water Plan and the importation plan of the West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and Western Oklahoma organization formed two years ago to promote it.

This organization was named Water, Inc. and it has moved rapidly ahead with studies to find the best and most economical routes to bring in the water.

George McClesk of Lubbock, is the new chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Water Committee. McClesk is legal attorney for the High Plains Water Conservation District and has been in the forefront of the water effort for West Texas since 1950. He is probably the best informed attorney on the legal status of water and water conservation is real.

Water, Inc., the water action arm of the Panhandle and West Texas, is still interested in getting new members. A recent communique from Cliff Chamberlain, the executive director of Water, Inc., stated that 250 members had renewed membership during the month of July. Chamberlain also announced that Thomas C. Williams had joined the staff of Water, Inc. Williams is a West Texan with a masters Degree from Hardin Simmons University. National Water Commission The U.S. House of Representatives during the final week of July gave approval to a bill passed by the Senate in 1967, creating a National Water Commission. The bill allows President Johnson to appoint a seven member commission with a five million dollar budget.

Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma are not the only states involved in state compacts concerning water. Regional water planning in other areas of the nation is moving ahead. Congress has just passed and sent to the President a bill granting content to a Great Lakes Basin Compact aimed at promoting the best development, use, and conservation of water resources in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. These states have shown a keen interest in working out their own common problems on a local basis, rather than having the federal government move in.

Population Explosion

A lot of people are refusing to get interested or alarmed at the growth of world population. They can't comprehend what the population experts are talking about. These experts tell us that it took up to the year 1901 for the world population to reach one billion. These same experts tell us that world population grew to three billion by 1966. They estimate that by the end of the year 2000 we will have a population of more than six billion.

This means that our increase in the next 40 years will equal the rest of man's sojourn on the earth. William Draper of the Population Crisis Committee sums it up in two words—public health.

This also means that a tremendous amount of water will be needed. Where it will come from is a source of great concern to all fore-sighted persons.

The import water requirement previously presented for West Texas and Eastern New Mexico total 16,551,000 acre-ft. per year for projected year 2020 conditions, consisting of 952,000 acre-ft. for municipal and industrial use; 15,555,000 acre-ft. for irrigation; and 44,000 acre-ft. for recreation in N.M. These requirements represent required deliveries at a Lyndon Almond, entomologist, with the Extension Service in Lubbock, says the greenbug and cornleaf aphid problem on milo is just as severe on the South Plains as in our area. Almond says research had shown that attempted control measures didn't pay.

I asked him about the severe damage done to lower leaves of the taller irrigated milo. His reply was, "These leaves have already served their function and because they are unable to get sunlight, their loss is not important."

I visited with a number of County Agents from the South Plains at a state meeting in Abilene recently. Many of them told of the futile efforts of many milo growers. Some had sprayed as many as three times at four-day intervals and after each spraying a re-infestation would occur.

Estimated Cotton Harvest For 1968 Far Ahead of 1967

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Texas cotton production for 1968, as of an Aug. 1 estimate, was placed at 3,325,000 bales, up 558,000 from 1967 production of 2,767,000 bales. The Agriculture Department, in its first cotton production forecast of the year, estimated the national 1968 crop at 10,976,000 bales, up 47 per cent from last year's subnormal crop.

The 1968 estimate compares with a 1967 crop of 7,455,000 bales, smallest since 1295, and a 1962-66 average of 13,986,000 bales.

Included in today's estimated production was a crop of 72,800 bales of extra-long staple American-Egyptian type cotton. This compares with a 1967 crop of 69,800 bales. The long-staple fiber is grown in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

The new crop prospects were up because government officials, after two successive years of sharply reduced production,

TEXAS A&M ECONOMIST SAYS Farmers Should Take Advantage Of Their Existing Market Power

COLLEGE STATION—Farmers can enjoy a better life if they'll use more of the market power they already possess, according to W. E. Black, Extension marketing economist, Texas A&M University.

They have the potential for a lot of market power but are using very little of it, he added. Farmers want to enjoy and share in the American standard of living, he continues. They want and need a more stable income. Ups and downs in the market are getting harder to take because more and more of the things needed to produce are purchased for cash. They want to continue the American way of independently-owned farms.

In short, they want to be more certain about the future. The want to be market makers rather than market takers, he said. What are his sources of market power? There are at least six, said the economist.

First, farmers can market more of their products through cooperative marketing associations. Today, farmers sell only about one-fourth of their products through cooperatives. If this share were to double, they could begin to exert real market influence. Although Texas ranks third among all states in agricultural production, it ranks sixth in cooperative marketing.

Second, farmers can buy more supplies and needed services cooperatively. Today about one-sixth of these items are purchased through cooperatives. These include such things as fertilizer, feed, insecticides, machinery, tools, electricity, credit, etc.

Third, farmers themselves can control the flow of products to market through marketing orders. Here farmers shape their own controls which are administered by the Federal government. The results of this are never very dramatic, but when properly used can keep the market from falling too low.

The fourth way, Black said, is through integration of two or more business steps under one management. Smart management can bring under one umbrella production and marketing, yielding profit to the farmer all the way. This source of market power is available to those who normally buy the farmers' products, as well as to farmers. Retailers can reach all the way back to the farm for supplies, while farmers can own retail stores. Who will ultimately enjoy the power that comes from integration has not been determined, he said.

The fifth source of power comes from building a bigger market, through advertising, merchandising, branding and product improvement of things farmers have to sell. Those farmers who merely produce the raw products for someone else to process and sell cannot use this means to get more market power. Successful market development carries big rewards.

The sixth source of market power is group bargaining. Here farmers try to influence the price and non-price terms of sale through group action. The rewards are generally small, but this system may become more common if contract farming increases—and there is every indication it will. A strong bargaining cooperative can build efficiency into production and handling as well as help write the contract.

Another source of market power, although less obvious, is to continue the present trend toward fewer, but larger farms. As this process goes on, those who survive will form even stronger marketing associations than are possible today. But farmers can't wait. This is the most disruptive road to market power, but all indications point to its continuation. Today, only one-eighth of Texas farmers produce over 60 percent of the state's agricultural production.

The way to market power is group action. Farmers must sell on a GROUP basis if they are to own farms on a FAMILY basis, concluded Black.

NBC Taking New Run At Quality Dramas

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—NBC is dead game. It's making another run at quality drama on a "live" basis.

The "live" is in quotes because the new shows will be taped.

Sprinkled throughout the 1968-69 season will be five dramas originating from New York. Two of them will be 90-minute efforts and the remainder one hour shows.

The series will be titled "Prudentials on Stage" with NBC-TV's Alvin Cooperman, vice president for special programs, running the show.

Cut Down
A couple of years ago the distinguished Hubbel Robinson attempted somewhat the same kind of programming with his "Stage 67." It was cut down by the ratings.

Cooperman is optimistic about the future of his new baby. He has to be optimistic or go mad. The record of serious live drama as opposed to the likes of "Petticoat Junction" and "The Lucy Show" can be compared with Uruguay's achievements in the Olympic Games.

Still, Cooperman has something original going for him—happy endings. In past eras live New York television meant Ben Gazzara attempting to fight his way out of the slums while his poor old mother ironed his shirts next to the water heater in a fifth floor tenement apartment. Inevitably Gazzara wound up dead or in jail.

Copperman is by-passing this tripe. "We want to look and sound like today. Right now," he said.

Three Qualities
"I've told the writers we must have three qualities—drama, contemporary settings and an affirmative outlook."

"The author must say that either man or the society in which he lives is good. We want to end up saying that man can lift himself above animals. I don't want anything that puts down the human spirit."

"I believe audiences are weary of being told there is no hope in life. Man does have a spirit and it should be seen."

What makes Cooperman think he can produce five top-flight stories when Broadway and Hollywood rarely come up with five excellent originals a year? "Maybe we won't get five," he answered. "But we're striving for them. We have fine writers. And within the showcase of TV the opportunity is greater than the arenas of Broadway and Hollywood."

LAST MINUTE CHANGE is made by ballerina Vera Zorina (in slacks) who directed the Santa Fe Opera Company's production of "Madame Butterfly." The 280-member company opened its 1968 season in a new $1.7 million theater nestled high in New Mexico's hills.

In 1965 a Titan missile site explosion at Searoy, Ark., killed 63 persons.

'Texas' Releases Results On Profile of Audiences

"Texas has passed the half-way mark in performances for the 1968 season and to mark this date, Raymond Raffard, the executive vice-president who manages the "Texas" company, is releasing an analysis of four surveys taken during the first four weeks of this season.

The surveys were made by young businessmen and women of Canyon and were designed to show a profile of "Texas" audiences. Information was gathered in the parking lot as the patrons drove in. About a thousand heads of parties answered the questions.

Three and one-half per cent of the parties came from Canyon, 18 1/2 from Amarillo, 5 1/2 from Lubbock, 26 1/2 from an area within 100 miles, 23 from Texas out of the area. 21 from out of the state and 1 1/2 from foreign countries.

The percentages were similar to those obtained this year, except that those attending from Amarillo this year form a slightly higher proportion.

The average size of the party was 4.3 persons. Sizes ranged from one person to 19. In reply to this question, "How did you hear of Texas?", 68 per cent checked "by word of mouth," 12 per cent mentioned newspapers, 10 per cent radio, three per cent television and the rest were scattered.

It was interesting to note that most Amarillo families mentioned "word of mouth" and no other source, whereas area visitors indicated that newspapers, radio and TV had aroused their interest.

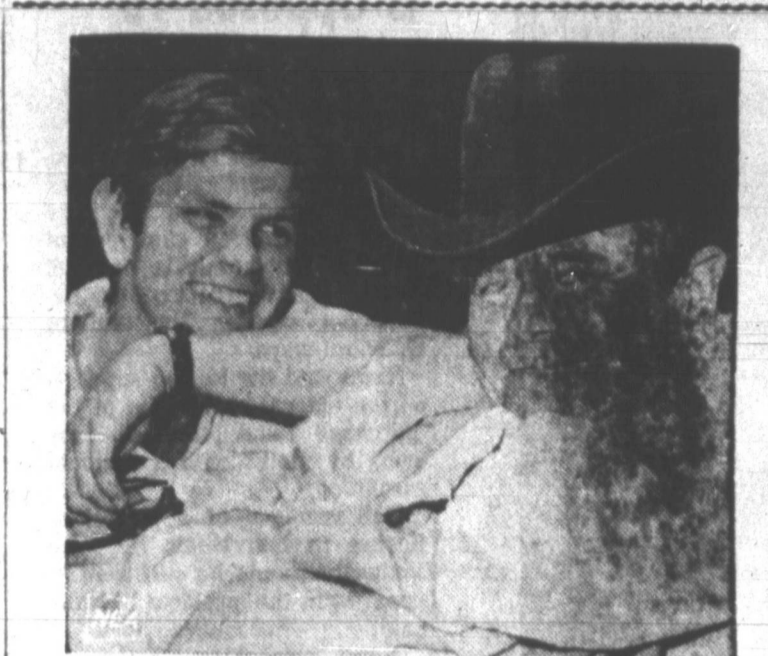

"Texas" plays nightly except Tuesdays in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park near Canyon and Amarillo. It is the story of the carving of ranches and farms from the great western distances and is told in song, drama, dance and sweeping light and sound, a moving story in a magnificent place.

CHAPARRAL System Tested

The U.S. Army's CHAPARRAL air defense system is prepared for launching during initial production tests at Fort Bliss, Tex. Air defense artillerymen are checking modifications to be sure the surface-to-air weapons systems are ready for use in the field.

U.S. Army air defense artillerymen at Fort Bliss, Tex., are conducting initial production tests on the CHAPARRAL surface-to-air missile system.

The CHAPARRAL is part of the larger VULCAN/CHAPARRAL air defense system that the Army plans to field with battalion-size units.

The present test series is intended to assure that the system, which is now in production, is ready for issue to troops. Modifications not previously tested will come under special scrutiny.

Also, before the system is approved, it will be tested under extreme environments at the U.S. Army Arctic Test Center, Fort Greely, Alaska, and the U.S. Army Tropic Test Center, Fort Clayton, Canal Zone.

CHAPARRAL is an infrared, heat-seeking missile system mounted on a tracked vehicle. Aeronautics Division of Philco-Ford Corp. is the prime contractor for the system.

CHAPARRAL complements the VULCAN, a six-barrel, 20mm weapons system. Together they provide a low-altitude air defense capability for commanders in forward battle areas. (ANF)

UPPINGHAM, England (UPI)—Within hours after hotel manageress Jill Barr found 53 four-leaf clovers; a guest was injured at the hotel, a hotel station wagon was wrecked, her husband's car broke down, a guest's dog soiled several carpets, and Mrs. Barr caught her finger in a refrigerator door.

CAGED

BERLIN (UPI)—A judge suspended Ulrich Enzenberger's slander trial Thursday and jailed him for six days for eating sandwiches in court, throwing a lemon at his attorney and tossing an egg against the courtroom wall.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pretty Jeanne Collier, 27-year-old star of British documentary films, has this thing about her nose—she won't have it pierced so she can wear a silver ring in it, even to please her producer.
