Soviet Armies Facing Czechs

By HENRY SHAPIRO
MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today massed armies for maneuvers from the Black to the Baltic Seas in the face of defiant Czechoslovakia. Diplomatic sources said the Soviet-Czech crisis is now "very grave."

Viet Guerrillas Press Northern Terror Campaign

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong guerrillas pressed their northern terror campaign today, invading Phu Dau village and burning 200 dwellings in an attack that left 1,000 civilians homeless, U.S. spokesmen said.

Snipers Are Using Automatic Weapons

By DAVID SPURR
CLEVELAND (UPI)—Snipers with automatic weapons fought police through the night and late morning today in what was described as a nationwide black power plot. The fighting turned a major section of the city's predominantly Negro east side into a battleground.

Top News In Brief

CINCINNATI (UPI)— Gov. John Connally, nearly endorsing Vice President Hubert Humphrey for the presidency, said Tuesday the next administration should work on perfecting present programs rather than offering new ones.

Russian sources said the Soviet Communist party president, the 11 men who rule this country, moved through the madding regular troops and reservists to a showdown meeting with the Czech leaders whose "democratization" drive has roused Russian fear and anger.

BULLETIN

AUSTIN (UPI)— The rape conviction of T. R. Vessels of Pampa was reversed by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday on grounds that Vessels was denied the counsel to which he was entitled.

The diplomatic sources said the Soviet war games stretching 1,000 miles along the western border are "unprecedented in size, scope and duration."

Congress Is Nibbling At 'Economy' Package It Pushed Upon Johnson

By JOHN HALL
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress, under threat of slow-downs in airline service and mail deliveries, already is nibbling at the economy package it thrust upon the Johnson administration a few weeks ago.

Police made 53 arrests, most of them for looting.

"I believe this is a conspiracy by black militant groups to cause disturbances not only in Ohio but all across the United States to prove they are a power to be reckoned with and that they can do anything they want at any time," said State Adj. Gen. S. T. Del Corso, commander of the Ohio National Guard.

Intelligence reports from the military and FBI indicated in advance that trouble would start sometime today in Cleveland, other cities in Ohio and six or eight other cities elsewhere. This trouble is across the nation. I think it is a plot to spread destruction, disrupt the government and show their strength. That is, the black militants and black power groups.

Apartments, stores and cars were set afire. For two miles along both sides of Superior Avenue, a major thoroughfare, firemen braved sniper fire to battle blazes ignited by Molotov cocktails.

The flames ranged from East 105th Street, in the area where the snipers were holed up, to the city limits two miles away.

The shooting lasted more than five hours Tuesday night and early today. It subsided during a driving rainstorm, then erupted again at an intersection in the heart of a five-block area where the disturbances first broke out.

Nine Die As Train, Bus Collide

BUENA VISA, N. J. (UPI)— Mrs. Mary Howell and three of her 10 children had earned a total of $10.10 for a 12-hour day of picking blueberries Tuesday.

Chester, Pa., a "crew leader" for the Crescent properties at Mays Landing, N.J., where Mrs. Howell and the others worked.

At day's end, they wearily boarded a wicket yellow schoolbus with 36 other migrant farm laborers for the journey back to their home in Wilmington, Del. The Howells excitedly discussed plans for spending their wages at a church picnic Thursday.

"Suddenly, the bus seemed to stall at the railroad tracks," Mrs. Howell recalled. In the next instant, a passenger train taking commuters from Philadelphia to their Atlantic shore homes slammed the bus broadside.

The force of the collision hurled the 15-year-old bus into the air, overturning it several times. Bodies flew out the torn sides of the vehicle, some landing as far as 200 feet from the railroad crossing. Nine of the migrant laborers were killed, 23 others injured. None of the 100 passengers aboard the Pennsylvania Reading Seashore line train was injured.

Mrs. Howell, 50, was knocked out of her shoes but escaped injury. So did her daughter, Yvonne, 12.

'Secretary Of The Year' Is A Softspoken Company Officer

By ROBERT AULRICH
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The international secretary of the year is a softspoken corporation officer who thinks secretarial spelling has gone to pot. She is Bobbye N. Ogden, secretary-treasurer of Innkeep Management and Service Inc., Dallas.

"At this stage there are three of us," said Mrs. Ogden of her firm. "There are three directors, three officers and the three of us do the work."

In addition to serving as secretary to Fred Brown, president of the year-old firm, she is the company's record keeper and takes part in planning and policy making. While the two men in the operation do most of the traveling she manages the home office.

Mrs. Ogden was picked as secretary of the year at the National Secretaries Association convention. She won over four other "Girl Fridays" from other sections of the country.

Way to Start
Mrs. Ogden, a divorcee, considers a secretary's job a very good way for a young woman to start if she wants to get into business management although she concedes it isn't the only way.

"Prejudice against women in business is disappearing rather rapidly," she said in an interview. In our Dallas area there is very little of it. We have many women in management in all fields.

The Secretary of the year got a head start on her career with secretarial courses in high school at Sugar Land, Tex. She majored in merchandizing at Texas Woman's University and the University of Texas at Arlington.

"I never worked in merchandizing," she said. But no matter what you do in business you are selling something.

She spent five years with firms involved in various aspects of the oil and gas business before she began working for Brown, then a Dallas hotel manager, more than 10 years ago.

Last summer, she joined Brown in the new venture, which is a national distributor of premium stamps (S and H green stamps) to hotels and motels. The firm also provides some management counseling in the hotel-motel field.

Now in a position where she could be hiring secretaries herself, Mrs. Ogden said she would look not so much for skills as for attitude. A secretary must have the basic skills.

Once she has those, Mrs. Ogden would look for a "willingness to learn," an ability to make decisions, initiative, judgment, loyalty and conscientiousness.

As for that spelling, Mrs. Ogden said: "There has been a distinct deterioration in the ability to spell. I think it's due to the reading system they use in schools."

THE LIGHTER SIDE A Troubled Marriage?

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — My wife and I have a wedding anniversary coming up this week and don't mind saying I am under a terrific strain.

The trouble is that we seem to be ideally mated. After all these many years I still regard her as a perfect wife, lover and mother of my children. She, in turn, continues to appreciate my many sterling qualities, which grow more numerous as the years roll by.

In all of our married life, there has never been a shot fired in anger, and seldom even a discouraging word. This is extremely frustrating, to say the least.

For one thing, it makes it difficult to plan a proper anniversary celebration.

The custom is to treat a wedding anniversary as a special occasion. The husband takes his wife out to dinner at a place he can't afford and that sort of thing.

No Great Thrill
In our case, however, just being together makes every meal ambrosia. Consequently, there isn't much point in trying to gild the lily.

wide manufacturer of carbon black and in the U. S. also produces crude oil and natural gas, machinery, titanium tetrachloride and titanium dioxide, specialty chemicals, and plastics piping systems.

Another big frustration stems from the fact that the largest single body of humor in America is built around marital friction.

Guys are forever coming up and telling me jokes of the Maggie-and-Jiggs type. But since I am unable to relate them to my own experience, I miss the punch lines.

I have said "I don't get it" so many times that people have begun to regard me as a hopeless square.

Then there is the matter of party conversation, which is based in large measure on the battle of the sexes. "I find myself unable to participate and as a consequence am rapidly becoming a social outcast."

Out Of Step
In short, I have started to wonder whether there is any longer a place in America for a well-adjusted couple. And the other evening I spoke to my wife about this.

"Sweetheart," I said, "What's wrong with us anyway? We have become total misfits. Our marriage has worked out so well its almost unbeatable."

"I know," she said, being ever understanding. "Every day that passes without a quarrel makes it more difficult to hold the marriage together."

Apparently, however, we are stuck with each other. My lawyer says it's impossible to obtain a divorce on grounds of compatibility.

"There is a definable group involved," Stokes said. "We've been running it down since yesterday afternoon. We were trying to ascertain just what the fragments of information were."

Police said the snipers were using automatic carbines, at least one machinegun, M1 rifles and shotguns.

Fred "Ahmed" Evans, a black nationalist leader arrested by three policemen before dawn, told officers he and 17 others instigated the shooting.

"If my carbine hadn't jammed I would have killed you three," police quoted him as saying. "I had you in my sights when my rifle jammed."

"Worthy Cause"
Patrolman David Hicks said Evans boasted that he and 17 other men began firing at officers because "you police have bothered us too long."

When told that three snipers had been slain, Evans said, "They died for a worthy cause," according to Hicks.

"We asked him where his weapon was," said Sgt. Ronald Heinz, and "he pointed to bushes in front of a house. We found a loaded carbine, five boxes of ammunition and a first-aid kit."

In May, 1967, Cleveland Det. Sgt. John Ungvary said black nationalists under Evans' directions were plotting a "block revolution" in the city to coincide with "a war between Red China and the United States."

Ungvary said Evans predicted that once the war started, National Guard and reserve units would depart, leaving Cleveland defenseless against a black rebellion.

Gov. James A. Rhodes mobilized the state's 15,200 National Guardsmen and sent 4,000 of them to Cleveland. Stokes first requested the troops be kept from the area of violence to give the Negroes a chance "to see if they can control their community."

Moments later, he relented and 2,600 troops took to the streets. Elected Negro Cleveland, the nation's eighth largest city, experienced a major riot in 1966. The election of Stokes last year had given rise to hopes the city would be spared racial disturbances during his tenure.

Police said the disturbances first began about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday with a surge of gunfire at the intersection of Lakeview and Arbondale Avenues.

Witnesses said a group of five Negroes armed with carbines and automatic rifles poured bullets into a police cruiser and a tow truck that pulled up to the intersection to pick up an abandoned car.

Within 30 minutes, the violence flared in a five-block area around the intersection. Police were pinned down by heavy fire from apartment houses ringing the intersection.

Witnesses said one of the five gunmen, who retreated into an apartment unit, shouted, "We'll shoot anything that's white."

Moments later, the sounds of gunfire rolled across the hot, sultry night and large bands of Negroes gathered at various intersections. Stores were fire-bombed and looted.

Intense Gunfire
Police deployed their men, who were fired at as they crouched behind cars and utility poles. Gunfire was so heavy at times police could not go to the aid of wounded comrades.

A UPI reporter was trapped for two hours by crossfire between police and snipers in an apartment building a few blocks away. He said a young man in his 20s was lying on the street twitching as bullets whizzed over him.

"A young girl darted out and scurried over to the man and

Gunnye Shack Sets Night For College Students

The Gunnye Shack, newly opened coffee house organized by Pampa youths, will sponsor a special college night starting at 8 o'clock Friday. The coffee house is located at the corner of Kingsmill and Somerville Streets.

Linda Hubbard and Carl Scott will be masters of ceremonies for a program including Phil Hall, who will play guitar and sing, and Beau Bond, who will write and read poetry.

College night is planned for all college students, including entering freshmen, according to Carol Campaign, interim president of the Pampa Youth Council.

No admission fee will be charged. The program and menu will be designed in black on luscious white paper. Pampa Youth Council members, operating board of the Gunnye Shack, will be waitresses, Miss Campaign said.

U.S. tankers and infantrymen patrolling the Phu Dau area only Tuesday killed 70 Communists against three Americans wounded, spokesmen said.

The northern actions left little doubt the four-week drop-off in fighting had ended and the Communists were perhaps on the verge of launching their long-awaited nationwide offensive, expected before Sept. 1.

Allied soldiers guarding Saigon for the possible invasion attempt clashed sharply with Viet Cong regulars 18 miles southwest of the capital in the heaviest fighting there since July 16, spokesmen said.

Thirty-two Communists were killed against 10 Americans dead and 9 wounded, the announcement said.

The Communists slammed about 100 mortar rounds into Loc Ninh, an outpost 70 miles north of Saigon astride Communist infiltration routes from Cambodia, killing two government soldiers and wounding two.

The U.S. command said pilots flew 122 missions into North Vietnam on Tuesday. One plane, a Navy A4 Skyhawk, crashed during launch from a carrier offshore and the pilot was killed, spokesmen said.

Governors

(Continued From Page 1) hoped it would never accept it. He also urged the governors to review their state tax systems and employment services.

Demand Federal Action
The President said people will demand action by the federal government unless it and the states work together to provide jobs, carry out the model cities program, protect infants against disease and provide higher education for all who want it.

"The answer must never lie with the federal government alone," he said.

Of Vietnam, he said all Americans wanted peace but that some of them ignored the presence of an irreconcilable enemy.

"We are doing everything we can to get the enemy to meet us at least half way," he said. "Up to now they have shown no disposition to do that. We are willing to go as far as honor and safety permit us to go. But we are not going to impose a coalition government or any kind of government on the people of South Vietnam."

"And with all the power at my command I am going to do my duty as I see it regardless of the pressures and strains of this political year."

managed to drag him to safety," the reporter said.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fryer watched the shooting start from their home near Lakeview and Arbondale. Mrs. Fryer said a policeman was lying on the sidewalk in front of her home.

"He was screaming, 'My leg's been shot off for the longest time,'" she said. Mrs. Fryer said an ambulance inched down the street amid the bullets and rescued the officer as she and her husband huddled in their darkened home.

Stokes was under heavy police guard when he addressed a news conference at the peak of the disturbance.

"I don't intend to permit this kind of lawlessness and violence to go unchecked in this community," he said.

Man Is Killed In Truck Accident Near Clarendon

CLARENDON — A Florida man was killed and another injured early yesterday when the double-decker cattle truck in which they were riding overturned in a culvert two miles east of here.

Richard Rudolph Martin, 39, of Princeton, Fla., was dead on arrival at Adair Hospital. His body is at Murphy Funeral Home. Listed in satisfactory condition at the hospital is Willie C. McCall of Winter Haven, Fla., who was riding in the sleeping compartment of the truck.

Investigating officers said the truck apparently slid off the road on the right side and when Martin tried to turn back onto the highway it skidded and overturned in a culvert.

Seven cattle in the truck were killed and it was feared others would have to be destroyed.

Suit Is Filed In Court Here
Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Brown of McLean have filed suit in 31st Judicial District Court here against Plains Creamery, Inc., and asked that they be awarded $2,835 in damages.

The plaintiffs contend that a container of sour cream dressing they purchased from a food store in McLean caused them to be sick. They further allege that the container was taken to a local physician in McLean and found to contain foreign matter.

They also allege that the foreign substance was in the container at the time the container was filled at the Plains Creamery.

The suit contends that the law imposes an implied warranty of purity on food sold commercially and that the defendant is thus negligent.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Usually when a presidential candidate makes a speech, excerpts from his remarks are sent hither and yon, to and fro, around and about the country. It doesn't seem right to deny Pat Paulsen the same privilege. Let's be fair about this.

As you may have heard, Paulsen, the freelance candidate for the presidency who also works for CBS-TV's Smothers Brothers in case he doesn't get elected, was given an 89-cent-a-plate testimonial dinner in a Beverly Hills cafeteria during the weekend. In return, he gave a speech, and here are some excerpts from it:

"Friends... freeloaders... scribes... gossip-mongers... regular cafeteria patrons..."

CIA agents... my fellow Americans.

"As I look out over this large gathering, past the television lights and steam tables, I find that I know a great many of you, perhaps a little too many. Some of you I know personally, some by reputation and some by fear..."

"We might be honored tonight by the presence of Richard Nixon. I want to congratulate him for finally getting the endorsement of Mrs. Eisenhower. It was a well-thought-out, carefully-considered endorsement... which Mrs. Nixon first requested eight years ago..."

"President Johnson indicated at first that he would be here. Apparently he is not exactly being flooded with invitations these days... not the kind he wants to accept, anyway. But we got a wire earlier today saying he would have to cancel out in order to attend another gathering: 'President Johnson sends regrets but unable to leave Washington due to emergency meeting of 'Friends of Hubert Humphrey.'"

"So the President is lending his personal support to a minority group. 'Before giving you a brief report on my campaign, I'd like to say something about the gun control controversy... but let us not be guilty of oversimplification. If we outlaw all firearms it will merely cause other problems. Without guns, how can we shoot any body? Suppose a man goes home early and finds another man making love to his wife. What's he supposed to do... poison him?'"

"... But let us be objective about this. Guns are not the real problem. The real problem is bullets. If I am elected I'll see that there are plenty of guns for everybody. But we'll lock up all the bullets."

"Please do not get the idea that I want to change the presidential election system. Every four years some busy-body reformer comes up with some kind of futuristic 20th century concept to let the people select the nominees. We must defend our present system with its built-in checks and balances which prevent the majority from seizing control and abusing the rights of those who run the government. If we ever allow the voters to select the man they want to be president, before you know it, they'll want to take over the whole country."

Foreign News Commentary

By LEON DANIEL
TOKYO (UPI)—The Japan Communist Party (JCP) was beginning to look like a tired old woman before the recent upper house elections, but now the Japanese Reds are battling their eyelashes at the Kremlin—and vice versa.

The JCP, showing increasing signs that it is not unwilling to be "seduced" by the Soviets, announced it will send a delegation to Moscow later this month to discuss "normalization" of relations between the party and the Soviet Communists.

Relations Better
Actually, those relations have been improving for some time, particularly since February when Mikhail Suslov, secretary of the Soviet Central Committee, came to Tokyo for a series of closed-door conferences with JCP leaders.

The ideological dispute between Communist China and the Soviet Union played a key role in separating and later bringing together the Japanese and Russian Communist parties.

In 1963 the JCP was firmly behind Peking in the Sino-Soviet war of polemics. The JCP broke off its relations with the Russians when the Soviets signed the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

But the JCP realized in 1967, after Mao Tse-tung launched his Cultural Revolution, it could not go along with Peking's hardline policy. Peking now lists the JCP as one of its major "enemies" behind "U.S. imperialism, Soviet modern revisionism and reactionary Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato."

Turned Down
During his visit, it is known that Suslov attempted to persuade the JCP to send representatives to the international conference of Communist parties in Budapest last February. The JCP turned him down. But the Soviet and Japanese Communists found areas of agreement in the Tokyo meeting and those talks led to the forthcoming meeting in Moscow.

The most powerful political force in Japan is the ruling (LDP), which after the July 7 upper house elections appears to have a firm grip on the reins of power. Its major opposition is the Peking-oriented Japan Socialist Party (JSP), which dropped seven seats in the balloting for the 250-member House of Councillors.

Way down there among the minor parties is the JCP, which wins a few and loses a few but in the long haul seems to be gaining.

The JCP boosted its strength in the balloting for seats in the upper house from four to seven and in the January voting for seats in the 486-member lower house from four to five.

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—

Backstairs at the White House: On the hot summer nights prevalent in Washington this time of year, President Johnson has been making frequent use of the USS Sequoia, an ancient cruising craft normally assigned to the secretary of defense.

The Sequoia is smaller than the Honey Fitz, the 90-footer used by Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy, and Johnson prefers the size and configuration of the Sequoia of those of the larger boat.

Johnson has the Sequoia cruise on the Potomac River for three or four hours and one of the items of entertainment while he is afloat is showing motion pictures on the upper deck.

The Sequoia crew at movie time erects a plywood windscreen to keep the motion picture screen from flapping during the show.

Naval personnel report that on a cruise not too long ago, there was such a following wind behind the Sequoia as she proceeded up river that motion picture viewing was next to impossible.

Someone had a brilliant idea—turn the Sequoia around and have her back upstream. Orders were given and the boat proceeded upstream, stern first for more than 20 miles.

Movies Aren't 'Grand Repository' Of Cliches They Once Boasted

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Movies aren't the grand repository of cliches they once were. Only the late, late television shows provide the predictable nuggets uttered in tense dramatic scenes:

Remember these:
The oil wildcatters in a saloon showdown: "T his town ain't big enough for the both of us, Blackie!"
The Air Force chaplain to the colonel: "You can't send those boys up again in these old crates—it's suicide."
Poor boy to rich girl: "I can't marry you, Jeannie. I'm from the wrong side of the track".

Trapped cowboy to his idiot sidekick, surrounded by Apaches: "Look, Ringo, I got a plan."
Heroine of the old prison picture visiting her man behind bars: "Where did I let you down, Jimmy? We could have made it together."
Gangster as he's being handcuffed by the polic: "There ain't no jail in the world that can hold me, copper."
Country girl in love with a song-and-dance man passing through town: "You'll forget all about me when you get back to the big city, Ace."
The couple carrying on an extra-marital romance when the leading lady cries: "John, we

5 Former Priest Marries Ex-Nun

CUERNAVACA, Mexico (UPI)—Gregory Lemercier, Belgian monk who led his entire monastery out of the church in a dispute with the Vatican over psychoanalysis, has married a former nun.

The priest, formerly of the Monastery of St. May, Lemercier married Graciela Rumayor.

The bride was once a nun in a convent attached to the monastery.

They were wed in a civil ceremony by Cuernavaca Judge Ignacio Lopez, then attended a "wedding mass" said by one of the former members of the monastery.

Lemercier was defrocked by the Vatican for his activities, but the other priests and monks were allowed simply to renounce their church functions.

Lemercier got into trouble with the Vatican when he sponsored group psychoanalysis sessions for the monks in his monastery. He said psychoanalysis had greatly helped him, and he thought they should try it.

Producer rushing up to a chorine just before opening curtain: "Gloria Glamour's quit, kid, can you remember her songs?"
And of course, the grandest cliché of them all when the leader of the posse hollers: "We'll head 'em off at the pass."

Dead Soldier's Mother Is Getting A Different Kind Of Mail This Week

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—Mrs. Y. F. Reeves, of Mercedes, is getting mail of a different sort this week—and she's getting it from all over the nation.

Much of it is bitter. Most of it shows anger. But all of it has come in resounding support of her statement last Tuesday that she would rather see her soldier son dead than a member of any of the anti-war groups which have been taunting her through the mails since he fell at his machinegun last January in south Vietnam.

"The draft card burners and demonstrators have been getting all the headlines," she said Monday, gesturing at the religious life, saying they discovered in analysis they had become monks only because of subconscious fears of sex—cured by the analysis.

Called to Rome, Lemercier refused to accept Vatican orders to renounce psychoanalysis and stop talking about it in public. He and the monks voted almost unanimously to withdraw from the church organization instead.

They turned the monastery into the 'amaus psychoanalytic treatment center,' traded their cowls for blue jeans and t-shirts and now support themselves making and selling modernistic religious art and treating those who come to the former monastery for analysis.

Oklahoma, Tennessee, Florida, Missouri, North Carolina, and Texas.

There also have been long distance phone calls—some from mothers who also have also lost sons in Vietnam, and some from recent veterans of that conflict.

Here are samples of the re—"It's a terrible, bitter agony that brave men like your son must die for the freedom these scum abuse."—T. R. McNamee, Charlotte, N.C.

Most Know Situation
"Over 99 per cent of the people of this country know and appreciate the great debt that we owe you and your son."—Henry Loeb, mayor, Memphis, Tenn.

"I can't understand the attitudes of so many people who can be so stupid and cruel to their fellow man, and still say they are for peace and love. They are the dead—not our heroes." Mrs. Charles Temple, Tarzana, Calif.

"When I get letters like these," said Mrs. Reeves, "I know the people are behind me and what my son stood for, and it makes it all worthwhile, somehow, I'm prouder of him now than I have ever been. These people have picked up the battle and fought it for me, and I want them to know I'm deeply grateful."

Miscalculation
LONG EATON, England (UPI)—Harry Price, given only a few weeks to live when he got a disability discharge from the army in 1917, celebrated his 101st birthday today.

CANBERRA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Gorton today ordered an urgent investigation into how to protect Australia's fishing rights within the 12-mile territorial limits from its shores. Fishing operators say boats from Taiwan, Japan and Indonesia have been intruding.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR THURSDAY, JULY 28
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's New Moon comes under extremely important and interesting aspects. You should be wise to take full advantage of these to get a better and more well-founded understanding of what you can do in the future to gain long-time desires from an entirely new angle.

MARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) More study is necessary if you want everything to come to more ideal, harmonious, and also being so lachrymastic. Others are worrying — help them. More benefits can be yours as a result.

AURUS (Apr. 20 to May 21) — Sit down and talk out what you have in mind with partners so that you understand each other better. Then handle that correspondence with those out-of-towners who have the right data, answers for you. Be specific, clever.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Doing whatever will make financial experts open up with ideas, backing in your best light now. Have you done anything yet?

REBEKAHS SELECT 2 Grand Officers
 — Mrs. Verson Alexander presided as noble grand and Mrs. Eunice Maddox as vice grand in the last Pampa Rebekah Lodge No. 355 meeting at the lodge hall, 800 E. Foster. Members nominated Mrs. Alexander as noble grand and Helen Ritzenhouse as vice grand for the next six months term.
 — It was announced the section scribe school will be in Waco Aug. 10 and 11, and that lodge members were to attend a circle meeting in Panhandle this week.
 — The July committee will serve refreshments Thursday night for all members having July birthdays.
 — Mr. Ben Bancroft, Borger, district deputy, assisted by Mr. Bess Gillman, also of Borger, held a school of instructions recently for 23 members and two visitors.

Mrs. Gary Cook Feted at Shower

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Mrs. Gary Cook, Skellytown, was honored with a wedding shower recently in the CA hall of the Assembly of God Church.
 Hostesses were Mmes. Herman Mayfield, Melvin Beighle, Bevie Harris, A.B. Thomason, Robert Bailey, Donnie Howard, C.L. Heibert, and Miss Mary Dramer.
 Mrs. Cook was assisted by Miss Kathy Kramer who recorded gifts as they were opened. Miss Beverly Cook presided at the guest register.
 The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth over blue. A blue floral arrangement in a crystal bowl served as the centerpiece flanked by copper hurricane lamps with cut glass shades with blue lighted tapers. The white sheet cake had a border of blue rose buds with two large wedding bells with the names Gary and Sandy inscribed in blue. Mrs. Melvin Beighle served cake and Mrs. Herman Mayfield presided at the punchbowl.
 About 50 guests attended or sent gifts.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband, Mike, and I are both in our early forties. We have four children. Mike is busy with his business and I am busy with my house and the kids.
 Lately Mike has been getting up at 5 a.m. He doesn't have to be at work until 8 and he has only a 20-minute drive to get there. Well, he rushes around getting showered, shaved and dressed and he runs out of the house like he is going to be late for something. When I ask him why he is going so early he says, "no where — I just like to ride around." I am getting suspicious and would like to know where this guy goes. Should I follow him?
BERTIE
DEAR BERTIE: No, but ask him what he would think if you did the same thing.
DEAR ABBY: I work in a large office and have a very responsible position. My husband keeps on calling me at work and if I'm not at my desk when he calls, I go through the third degree. "Where was I? Who was I talking to? I don't ever do any work around there!" Then bang goes the receiver, Abby, that leaves me a nervous wreck all day.
 It so happens that I must do a lot of work in the files which are about 50 feet away from my desk, so someone has to call me to the telephone.
 When I get home I am faced with more questions and insults. He accuses me of having boy "friends" at work, Abby, I have received awards for being an outstanding secretary. Besides I am 47 and settled down. I can't have any friends or go to the store without him. My only pleasure is work, and now that's no pleasure anymore. I do all my own housework, laundry, and the meals are always on the table when he gets home. No waiting. What else does he expect from a wife! Please tell me what to do.

TIRED OF IT ALL
DEAR TIRED: A man who is accusing and suspicious with out just cause is sick. And a wife who puts up with it without attempting to get to the bottom of it is as sick as her husband.
DEAR ABBY: Every time I see a teen-age girl who can scarcely keep her hands and eyes off the boy she thinks she "loves," I feel compelled to write to you about my daughter. Hers is an old story of young passion and the price she paid for it.
 She became pregnant at 16. After the first shock, we accepted it as all parents must when they are faced with this nightmare. You hear from the girls who describe what they go thru at such a time, but have you ever heard from mothers who tell what they go through!
 The lies when taking their daughter out of school. The long miserable hours she must spend indoors for fear a neighbor will see her condition. Then the final break, when a mother must leave her half-child half-woman in a home for unwed mothers to endure alone what should be a woman's most beautiful experience — giving life. But in giving life, to know only shame. I know it takes two to tango. But after the dance is finished the girl is left to find her way back alone. Sign me.
A BROKEN HEARTED MOTHER
DEAR ABBY: This letter is not likely to impress Mrs. Planned Parenthood, but that is all right, because her letter didn't impress me either.
 I would like her to know that some of us with bigger families "plan," too. Only we plan on having children first — then we have our expensive homes, fancy cars, pleasure trips, etc., if we can afford them, that is. I agree with her on one point,

Paris Designer Favors Subdued Colors in Fashion

PARIS (UPI) — Couturier Pierre Balmain is in favor of the new restrained look in fashion — almost too much in favor of it.
 The man who has dressed such elegant royals as Thailand diminutive Queen Sirikit opted for flashless, colorless gentility, though he raised hemline resolutely back above the knee after dropping them last season.
 White, grey and black were his favorite colors, occasionally sparked with red or blue, and they were repeated over and over in the two-hour show.
 It couldn't have been more of a contrast to the light, bright show staged immediately afterwards by the youngest of Paris haute couturiers, Jean-Marie Armand.
 Armand, who made his debut only last season, showed a short bell-shaped silhouette that ended 8 to 10 inches above the knee. Most of his colors were pastels and white with one stark black and white.
 He also shortened the bell sometimes to let it serve as the jacket of nest, bell-bottomed trouser suits.
 It was a look in the modern school of Courreges and Ungaro, but different enough to be new and individual.

Miss B. M. C. H. Mauchline Repeat Marriage Vows in Albuquerque, N.M.

Miss Leslie Jeannette Bell exchanged marriage vows in a candlelight ceremony with Lt. Chester Howard Mauchline in Immanuel Presbyterian Church, Albuquerque, N.M. Rev. J. Denton Simms read the double-ring wedding vows July 13.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Bell, Albuquerque, N.M. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Socha, Albuquerque, N.M. The bride's parents are Pampa High School graduates.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory peau de soie gown shadowed by an Alencon lace and English net cage with seed pearl embroidery. The bouffant train fell from the shoulders and was decorated with a sunburst of Alencon lace with seed pearl embroidery. The tiered veil of ivory silk illusion with matching lace motifs was attached to an open crown of ivory peau de soie.

The bride's bouquet was a semi-cascade of gardenias surrounded by bachelor buttons and Sterling Silver roses.

A bouquet in the bride's colors of green and blue decorated the church altar. The choir rail and candelabras were entwined with fresh greenery.

ATTENDANTS

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Joseph G. Moore and Miss Linda Bell, the bride's sisters. Candlelighters were Miss Cheryl Dpene, Albuquerque, and Mrs. Randall W. Eakin, Los Angeles, Calif. Guest book attendant was Mrs. Steve Verkamp, Tucson, Ariz.

The matron of honor and bridesmaid carried bouquets of bachelor buttons and wore floor-length gowns of lime chiffon. Eandaus of fresh bachelor buttons in their hair completed their ensembles. The candlelighters wore identical dresses of turquoise chiffon.

Richard Riedy, Albuquerque, was best man. Ushers were Stan Bolton and Wayne Socha, the bridegroom's brother.

After the reception, the couple left on a honeymoon to Santa Fe, N.M. By July 28, they will be at their home in Laredo.

The bride attended the University of New Mexico where she was a secondary education, English major. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. and Mrs. L.J. McCarty, formerly of Pampa. The bridegroom, also a graduate of the university with a degree in business administration, was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. A lieutenant in the Air Force, he will start flight training at Laredo Aug. 12.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Irl Smith of Pampa.

WCSA Attends Groom Meeting

GROOM (Sp) — The Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the Methodist Church parlor recently with Mrs. L. M. Rutherford, president, in charge. Mrs. B.H. Cooper gave the program entitled "Americans Abroad". Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. C. A. Morrow and Mrs. Margie Emery to members: Mmes. L.M. Rutherford, Ray Elmore, Cleo Schaffer, Lilla Hess, B. H. Cooper, Duane Stamps, Bill McKee.

Confederate Cannonballs Are Found

HOUSTON (UPI) — Carroll Lewis Jr., supervisor of an expedition digging in the muddy depths of Buffalo Bayou, reports 17 or 18 rare Confederate cannonballs, many of them "live," have been recovered.

"The cannonballs are not a common type and some are in remarkably good condition," Lewis said. "Some seem as if they were made yesterday."

The expedition by the Southwestern Historical Society was financed by the Houston Antique Gun Collectors Association. The association will display the findings at its gun show Aug. 4.

Lewis said pistol balls, grape-shot and bones also were found by his crews.

Sunk Century Ago

The expedition was begun because a Civil War blockade runner was believed to have sunk in the area near the present Milam Street Bridge—only blocks from the heart of Houston.

John Gresham, a retired bank employee, walked aboard the schooner Augusta before it exploded in the bayou in 1910. Lewis said he could not be sure the ship was the Augusta, but the expedition "found enough to show that it was a schooner, a supply schooner, and it did sink there."

"We didn't really expect to find any of the ship except maybe a plank or two," Lewis said. "We did find a lot of metal and supplies left and it had to be from a very large vessel."

Relics Get Cleaning

The relics were brought up with a crane and electromagnet and placed on screens and washed down with a high-powered hose.

Lewis said the cannonballs

61st YEAR THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS WEDNESDAY, JULY 24, 1968

would be deactivated and then everything would be cleaned and catalogued before the gun show. After the show, the relics will be put on display at the Houston Museum of Natural Science.

The expedition will not go after any more relics in the bayou. But Lewis said if anyone else is interested, his expedition left many Civil War relics in the bayou to be brought to the surface.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Secrecy In Washington

As most everyone knows by now the Federal Trade Commission has voted 3 to 2, to ban all cigarette advertising on radio and TV. Of course the FTC is not empowered to enforce any such ban; in fact, it is precluded by law from doing so. But the majority, all three of them, suggest that the Federal Communications Commission could act to enforce the ban under its authority. That sounds a little like little brother getting big brother to do the bullying on the block for us, but that's a subject for another day. The thing that intrigued us about this FTC recommendation was that newspapers had it all over their front pages that such a recommendation was coming before the FTC's annual report to the Congress was delivered. Far be it from us to belittle the industry of an enterprising newsman who can pry information out of the crooks and crannies in Washington, but it has always been a wonderment that so many matters of this kind seem to get a fanfare in the press before being officially announced. Which suggests that someone wants it that way. We wonder if it has ever occurred to you to wonder what the most secure agency or instrument of government in Washington is. If the CIA or the National Security Council or the Atomic Energy Commission crossed your mind, you're guessing in the wrong side of town. The Supreme Court wins, hands down. When the Court is in session, it hands down decisions every Monday, sometimes several of them. Yet there has never been any advance "leak" as to what a decision was going to be, nor, for that matter, is it even known in advance what cases will be decided. Obviously it would be worth great amounts of money to some persons if it could be learned in advance what certain rulings would be. But the record of the Court is above reproach, and what ever else one may think or mutter about its findings, it does make those findings in admirable secrecy. Secrets circulate the corridors of the Pentagon with the speed of an atomic reactor. Unidentified spokesmen stand in every doorway at the State Department and the White House. A lot of Federal agencies and departments could do worse than to study the Supreme Court's security system. It works. Of course, if we were party to some of those decisions of the Court we'd want to keep them secret too.

Inflation And Farmers

This is the busiest time of year for the farmer. In some areas, one can see tractors in the fields around the clock. The elements put pressure on the farmer, but they are as nothing compared with the government's pressure of inflation. For years now the farmer has found it impossible to get more for what he raises, and he has worked harder to compensate for the low prices by being more efficient, by increasing production. But for many farmers it has been a losing battle. Everything that the farmer has to buy has gone up in price — farm help, equipment, repair parts and repairs, doctors, lawyers and processed foods. And prices and farm produce haven't kept pace with upward costs. No business in the country has been hurt as badly by inflation as the farm operator. In the past six years the prices farmers have to pay have gone up 14 per cent. The prices they get have gone up something like 5 per cent, and commodities have not done that well. A manufacturer can sometimes add increased costs to his product and the buyer pays more. Labor unions have negotiated contracts tied to the "cost of living" and pay scales escalate when the cost of living rises. Not so the farmer. Taxes and interest rates have inflated skyward in recent years along with the cost of living and the cost of farming. The toll that inflation has taken on the farms across the country is perhaps best evidenced by the fact farmers have gone nearly $20 billion deeper in debt in the past six years. It seems to us the most important thing any farmer can do today is to take half an hour before going to the fields to write his local newspaper to editorially insist that the federal government stop the spending spree, and stop printing paper money, and recognize that inflation is destroying the agricultural economy of the country. Only a few weeks ago the House passed a bill providing that the executive branch may issue $5 billion in Treasury notes and "sell" them to the Federal Reserve. This is nothing more than printing press money.

BERRY'S WORLD

"If you're so smart—why aren't you DE GAULLE?"

Sensing The News

By THERMAN SENSING

The Fortas-Warren Maneuvers The more complex the political maneuvers become to force Senate confirmation of the nomination of Justice Abe Fortas as Chief Justice, the more clear it is that the Senate will act responsibly and in the public interest if it rejects the nomination.

On the one hand, Chief Justice Earl Warren is busily trying to pressure the Senate into confirmation. He threatens to remain on the bench if Mr. Fortas is not approved as his successor. Under the U.S. Constitution, a justice of the Supreme Court has no voice in the selection of his successor. This does not deter Mr. Warren, however, who is already guilty of many usurpations of power and who has only contempt for the procedures of constitutional government. The Senate has an unquestionable right to refuse to confirm any judicial nomination it deems improper. Indeed one-sixth of the Supreme Court nominees presented to the Senate in our country's history have been rejected. In such cases, it is the President's duty to submit the name of other nominees, more acceptable to the Senate. Certainly, the Founding Fathers never intended for a Supreme Court justice to play a part in naming a man who succeeds him on the bench. If Mr. Warren is allowed to get away with this grossly political maneuver, designed to elevate another "liberal" activist and fasten that philosophy in the court for years ahead, the other justices likewise will be encouraged to take a hand in choosing their successors.

What Earl Warren is doing is an affront to the Senate and to the people. He would render meaningless the power to confirm or reject, that the Constitution assigns to the Senate. As the next President will be chosen by the people, Mr. Warren is trying to silence the voice of the people. He is playing politics in a way unheard of in the history of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The whole deal involving Mr. Warren's negotiated retirement, which constitutes maneuvering to create a vacancy on the bench is sordid in character. It smacks of something worked out in a smoke-filled room at a political meeting. It is cynical as well as unconstitutional. As U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin has said, the maneuvering "suggests a shocking lack of faith in our system and the people who make it work." Leaving aside these aspects of the nomination, there is the question of Justice Fortas' activities to consider. It appears that Mr. Fortas, while on the bench, has displayed little respect for the principle of the separation of powers that is basic to our constitutional system. The New York Times Magazine said June 4, 1967, that Mr. Fortas is "drawn into non-judicial matters by friends who want government jobs and know he still carries weight at the White House." The Times cited Justice Fortas' role in landing a federal judgeship for one man, in advising the President on coping with steel increases and in helping to frame measures dealing with labor disputes.

United Press International said June 27, 1968, that "Fortas has been one of the President's closest advisers, in a wide range of governmental matters, even while serving as an associate justice." This involvement is ample cause for rejecting his nomination. It is a much more serious matter than mere cronyism for a judge of any court should know that he has no business taking part in the decisions of the executive, whether of a state or of the nation. A Justice who also is a political adviser and aide to a President cannot be impartial when he goes on the bench. He is a participant in the political process when he is an adviser, and this a judge has no right to be. A judge who is an agent or a political co-worker of the Chief Executive is violating the deepest traditions of the Anglo-Saxon legal system. Mr. Fortas apparently does not recognize it, he is contemptuous of the obligations of a judge in this respect. Whatever his rationale for working for a White House adviser, the relationship he had maintained is an improper one. It profoundly disqualifies him for the high position of Chief Justice.

Fight Against Confirmation of Court Nominees Puts Griffin in Line for GOP Senate Power Bid

by Robert Lefevre

WASHINGTON — By leading the fight against President Johnson's Supreme Court nominees, Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., has dealt himself a hand in the 1969 power game which is already under way among Senate Republicans. Major prizes, to be won or lost when Congress reconvenes in January, are leadership positions as GOP whip — assistant party leader — and as chairman of the Republican Policy Committee. Lesser party posts and some very attractive committee assignments also will be awarded.

Sen. James H. Kuchel, Calif., the present Republican whip, will not be returning since he failed to win renomination in his state's Republican primary. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Ia., the Policy Committee chairman, is not seeking reelection. The Policy Committee chairmanship is surely beyond the grasp of freshman senators such as Griffin. It has usually been reserved for senators of top seniority, and Hickenlooper's recent predecessors include such senior party statesmen as the late Robert A. Taft, O., and Styles Bridges, N.H.

Griffin just might have an outside chance to be elected whip, however. That position, in both parties, has sometimes been awarded to able senators who are low on the seniority ladder. This is not to say that Griffin's campaign against the nominations of Abe Fortas to be Chief Justice and Homer Thornberry to be an associate justice began as a calculated bid for advancement on the political ladder. All evidence indicates that the campaign started as a political propaganda ploy and snowballed into a major controversy.

In the controversy, however, Griffin has emerged as the leader of a large bloc of GOP senators who are opposing Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., and his support of the Johnson nominees. That sort of role could be the start of something for the 44-year-old former House member.

DIRKSEN'S CHOICE — Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., is generally assumed to be Dirksen's choice as assistant leader. Hruska, completing his 14th year in the Senate, has been a Dirksen confidant, and that close relationship may not help him join the leadership ranks. Like Griffin, Hruska is deeply involved in one of the day's major congressional controversies. As top-ranking GOP member of a Judiciary subcommittee he has played a major role in Senate consideration of gun control legislation and has been an opponent of tight restrictions. Friends note that Hruska has now dropped his opposition to restriction of mail order sale of rifles and shotguns. They say that change in view shows that Hruska is far from an inflexible conservative. Nevertheless, he is classed as a Dirksen conservative by the Senate's GOP "moderates."

In recent years an increasing number of moderates have been able to insist on a "mix" in the GOP floor leadership. On that basis Kuchel, a moderate, was elected whip at the behest of GOP senators who chafe under Dirksen's conservative helm-manship. Even if one of the moderates — probably Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me., or Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa. — is elected Policy Committee chairman to succeed the rather conservative Hickenlooper, the moderates will want one of their own to succeed Kuchel. That could be difficult for Hruska.

Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kans., has been mentioned as a moderate who might be acceptable to all segments of the party. Griffin might also fill that bill after pressing the fight against Fortas and Thornberry. In the more likely event that the whip assignment is given to a more senior senator Griffin may well get a lesser prize when Republicans hold their organization meetings for the 91st Congress early in January.

GOP POST-SCRIPT — On the other side of the Capitol, Republicans are confident that they can win control of the House in the November elections, polls to the contrary notwithstanding. I. Lee Potter, the experienced GOP strategist who directs the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, sees no reason to alter the prediction of House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., who has said Republicans will net 40 additional seats in November and take control. As in 1966, when Republicans made a net gain of 47 House seats, Potter says Republicans have nominated an excellent group of candidates for the House. They should be able to repeat the 1966 successes, according to Potter. GOP strategists were surprised, Potter says, when recent polls showed a strong showing by Democratic candidates in congressional races. They were, in fact, so surprised by one such poll that they took a close look. Potter says. Analysis indicated the poll was based on a nationwide sampling

There are a couple of things you should remember if you are planning to drive to Mexico this summer to see the Olympic Games or just to see the country. First, you will need car insurance issued by a Mexican insurance company and a tourist card. The latter can be picked up at the point of entry, but the insurance should be arranged in advance of your trip by your own agent. Otherwise, you'll have to take care of it at a Border insurance office.

The Doctor Says:

Deep Breathing Dangerous Practice for Swimmers

If you plan to dive and remain under water as long as possible, it would seem logical to take a few deep breaths first. Even though professional pearl divers do this, it is a dangerous practice and should be discouraged, according to Dr. James R. Webster of Chicago, who has treated many victims of near drowning. Taking 10 or 12 deep breaths, a process known as hyperventilation, will replace with oxygen much of the carbon dioxide normally present in the deeper recesses of your lungs. This will quickly lower the carbon dioxide concentration in your blood to a point below the level needed to stimulate the normal flow of blood to your brain. Then, even though you may feel fine, you may suddenly lose consciousness while under water and be unable to come up for air. Fainting in children has been known to occur through a similar mechanism. This happens when a child at play hyperventilates and a play-mate comes up from behind him and tightly squeezes the abdomen. Drowning is still one of the leading causes of accidental death. Any victim of drowning should be rushed to a hospital. Attempts at resuscitation can be carried out en route. Even if the victim appears to have been revived he may need expert care because his injured lungs may go on filling up with body fluids exuded from his lymphatic vessels.

Today's smile: A social worker asked a youngster "How many children are in your family?" The youngster replied: "Ten counting me." "Goodness that's a big family the- days," said the social worker, "and they must cost your parents a lot of money." "No, they don't," said the youngster. "They can't afford to buy them so they raise them."

A New York advertising executive whose firm specializes in plugging products with such superlatives as "marvelous," "amazing," "greatest," etc. made a study of the Bible and discovered 13 adjectives used in Chapter 1 of the First Book of Moses. He says they are: one, second, first, good, dry, green, own, greater, lesser, moving, living, winged and creeping. He now believes a product can be sold without resorting to using superlatives. "We read recently that the amount of lipstick used each year by American women would be enough to paint 40,000 barns a bright red. We believe it."

Thoughts while shaving: In colonial times and even until the middle 1800s travelers shared their beds at times with other travelers. The beds were large enough to accommodate two persons and the innkeepers didn't consider their houses full until every bed was yielding double income. The owner of Boston's famous Parker House was the innovator of private rooms in hotels about 1850. Alaska has the longest coast line of any of the 50 states, as you might easily guess. It runs about 4700 miles, but when you include the various islands and inlets along the Alaskan coast it measures out to a gigantic 33,904 miles. . . Although it is illegal for U.S. citizens to own gold these days there are shops in Switzerland that will sell gold bars to anyone who has the price for one. Of course the catch to buying a gold bar is that you couldn't get it back to this country without running afoul of the Customs Inspectors. And, that prompts the question: What would you do with a gold bar anyway? Speaking of gold reminds us the British government mints a 28-shilling gold piece bearing a likeness of Queen Elizabeth. As coinage it's worth about $2.40 but if you try to buy one in a London coin shop you'll pay about 85 shillings ($120), four and a quarter times its value. . . The New York DAILY NEWS reported in a story: "The youngsters, released in custody of their parents by police, will be in juvenile court tomorrow for a rearing." If their parents had given them a little better "rearing" they would not be showing up in court.

Q—In a recent column you recommended the use of mineral oil in the nose to soften dry crusts. In another column you said that taking mineral oil for constipation may cause an inflammation of the lungs. Couldn't mineral oil used in the nose reach the lungs?

A—If you use a cotton swab you should squeeze it nearly dry before applying it to your nasal mucous membrane. This will not only eliminate any danger of inhaling the oil—it will also avoid "drowning" the delicate cilia of the lining of your nose.

Q—Is there a hormone that is effective in the treatment of tic douloureux?

A—No. Injecting the facial nerve involved is still the most satisfactory treatment.

"Education is all very fine, but we must do something now." "It's all very well for you to theorize, but we have to take practical steps." "You're right about education, but we must be a rear guard to buy the time so you'll be able to go ahead with your educational plans."

All of which is just so much alibi. There's only one way to go ahead with educational goals and that is for people who waste their money on politics to begin concentrating on education. Sure, it will be a long time before they see any immediate or tangible result. But then, slowly, with the passing of time we'll begin to see ideas of truth and right emerge from hiding. Slowly but surely the follies of the past will be replaced by an emergence of the virtues; the concept of private property and a morality resting upon the premise, "Thou Shalt Not Steal."

That is the direction in which we must move, and the more who will move that way, the quicker we can make some real headway. Every dollar you spend in politics and every hour you devote to trying to get people to vote a particular way is a dollar wasted and an hour lost. And if my friends would see and understand that, a lot still could be done.

Country Editor speaking: "These days a lot of fellows are working themselves to death in order to live better."

Editor: The 99 percent non-communist part of our population have been losing a battle for 35 years to the 1 percent who are better organized. If many patriots will refrain from hating this 1 percent and instead appraise and cultivate the enemy they will acquire valuable information and know-how tuition free which cannot be purchased nor learned from even their closest friends. Patriots will find the erstwhile enemy eager to meet them halfway. Their attitude and aptitude may be the secret of the success of this dedicated, well-organized minority which is winning.

These highly intelligent patriots may transmit this knowledge to fellow non-communists who will help them convert the dupes and stooges who are never apathetic but always anxious to "take a side" and eager to "get in on the act," whether wrong or right. We may, through simply increasing our understanding of human nature, begin winning before it is too late.

Davis Cup Tennis Team Plays Two Matches

HAVERTFORD, Pa. (UPI)—America's Davis Cup team members will have to play two matches today for taking a day off from the 69th annual Pennsylvania lawn tennis championship at the Merion Cricket Club.

Charles Pasarelli, Arthur Ashe, Stan Smith and Bob Lutz went to Washington, D.C., to play exhibition matches there.

Top-seeded Bob Hewitt and fifth-seeded Ray Moore, both members of the South Africa Davis Cup squad, faced a similar situation Tuesday and came through with a pair of victories each. Hewitt and Moore were a day late arriving for the tournament because of playing Davis Cup matches in West Germany on Sunday.

Hewitt defeated K. S. Reynolds, Cambridge University, 7-5, 6-4, and then eliminated Tito Vasquez, Argentinian Davis Cupper, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, in a second match. Moore put out Rupert Dorey, Oxford University, 6-2, 6-4, and Richard Leach, Arcadia, Calif., 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Second-seeded Vicky Rogers, the Rye, N.Y., southpaw, led the women's field into the fourth round with a 6-4, 6-3, victory over Betty Grubb, Santa Monica, Calif.

Third-seeded Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, Calif., defeated Gail Hansen, Palo Alto, Calif., 8-6, 9-7, in a second-round match.

Tory Fretz, Sherman Oaks, Calif., ousted Stephanie Grant, Beverly Hills, Calif., 8-10, 6-3, 6-4.

Jim Osborne, Honolulu, won from Stanley Passarelli, brother of Charles, 9-7, 6-3 and fourth-seeded Marty Riesen, Evanston, Ill., defeated Paul Sullivan, Cambridge, Mass., 6-4, 7-5.
