San Salvador To Santa Fe

Woman Ends Long Journey

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI)—A San Salvador woman and her five children made the last leg of a long journey Wednesday when they drove from the Albuquerque airport to Santa Fe where they will start a new life on a nearby goat ranch.

Mrs. Hortencia Beltran Rivas arrived about 3:15 p.m. from El Paso where she had been temporarily staying. Her journey started several months ago when she and her family started hitchhiking toward the United States.

Mrs. Rivas has told officials she and her five children walked and hitchhiked from San Salvador to Albuquerque to find work.

They were taken to El Paso where they faced deportation until U.S. Rep. Thomas Morris, D-N.M., introduced a bill in Congress to let her stay. Until a decision is passed on that bill, she will be allowed to stay in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Lalo Enriquez, owners of a goat ranch about nine miles south of Santa Fe, have offered to give Mrs. Rivas a job and sponsor her there.

They said they made the decision after hearing that Albuquerque attorney Mary Walters was seeking someone—preferably in the country—to give Mrs. Rivas work. Mrs. Rivas and her children were being detained in El Paso.

Enriquez said he and his wife talked it over and "decided we could help."

"We felt the family needed help," he said. "I can't see where this country is as abundant as it is for people to have it so rough."

The Enriquez family lives in a 12-room home on the farm, and they said the addition of Mrs. Rivas and the children would not crowd them. "It won't be any problem at all," Enriquez said.

A graduate of New Mexico State University in agricultural science, Enriquez taught agriculture in a Santa Fe county high school. During World War II he rose to captain in the Army Chemical Corps.

Enriquez said he began seriously working with the farm about four years ago. Prior to that time, he said, he had only worked it part-time as a hobby.

GLOUCESTER, England (UPI)—A judge Wednesday banned Arthur Perrett, 18, from driving for 41 years for driving his automobile over the toes of a policeman.

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia said today he would call on Communist forces to help stop American military pressure on his border with South Vietnam if it intensifies much more.

He said U.S. troops were threatening to occupy Svay Rieng province and if they do "that would be war with the United States."

Youth Listed In Good Condition

Bob Cameron, 18, son of Rev. and Mrs. Dan Cameron, was listed in good condition today at Highland General Hospital with injuries received yesterday when a dump truck he was driving overturned.

According to Texas Highway Patrol officials, the accident occurred when Cameron apparently lost control of the three-ton vehicle, which struck a median and overturned once. The accident happened about 11:30 a.m. yesterday near the intersection of U.S. 60 and Texas 152.

Cameron is employed this summer as a laborer with the county's Pct. 2.

3 Entered In Texas 4-H Horse Contest

Three Gray County 4-H youths will be participating in the State 4-H Horse Contest being held today through Saturday at Will Rogers Coliseum in Fort Worth.

They are Nancy Stockstill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stockstill, east of city; Janelle Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Johnson, west of city; and Jim Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reeves, south of city. Brenda Winters of Kingsmill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Winters, was eligible to compete in state finals but was unable to attend.

The Gray County youths will be competing with others from throughout the 13 districts in the state. A total of 16 contestants from District I, which includes Gray County, will be competing.

Miss Stockstill, a student at Miami High School, was high point individual in the District I Horse Contest held here July 16.

Accompanying the youths to Fort Worth were Jesse Hoermann, assistant Gray County agricultural agent, and parents of the 4-H'ers.

Nixon Picks Maryland Governor Agnew For Vice President Post

Pat Remembered A Similar Scene Eight Years Ago

By HELEN THOMAS

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Pat Nixon watched the mass of humanity on the floor of convention hall erupt into a wild demonstration for her husband and remembered a similar scene eight years ago.

"This just doesn't come to me twice in a lifetime," she said incredulously. But she still recalls the pain that followed Richard M. Nixon's nomination in 1960 with his loss to John F. Kennedy.

Tears streamed down her face that night in November but now, she said, "The mood of the country is different."

She stood alone at the 1960 convention, but Wednesday night her daughters were with her. The family left convention hall before the balloting began to be with Nixon.

After he went over the top on the first ballot, Mrs. Nixon said "It's a great feeling—the way a wife feels when her husband is shot into space."

"It was the proudest moment of my life," said daughter, Tricia, 22.

"I'm so happy... I couldn't be more excited," said Julie, 20.

The Nixon women, accompanied by Julie's fiancé, David Eisenhower, 20, arrived at convention hall just before their candidate's nomination. Bedlam for Nixon broke out soon after they were settled in their box.

Besieged by cameramen, reporters and well wishers, they leaped to their feet, clapped and shouted to each other over the din. Pat, wearing a gold chignon dinner dress and diamond jewelry, pulled off her shoes and scrambled up on a chair to get a better view.

Back at the Hilton Plaza, when it was all over, Nixon beamed on his family and said, "No one has ever had a family that was of greater assistance."

The girls plan to begin campaigning for their father Monday. Mrs. Nixon will join her husband at some of the strategy meetings at Mission Bay, Calif.

Ratification Of The Selection Set Tonight

By RAYMOND M. LAHR

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon opened his second campaign for the presidency today by choosing Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland as his running mate.

Nixon, who won the Republican presidential nomination early today on the first ballot, made the surprise announcement less than 11 hours later.

"I have now made a decision. I shall recommend to the convention that it nominate for vice president on the Republican ticket Gov. Agnew of Maryland," Nixon said at 12:39 p.m. EDT.

Agnew will be ratified tonight at the final selection of the 29th GOP National Convention. Nixon will make his acceptance speech at the same session and outline the policies he hopes will carry him to the White House.

The 49-year-old Agnew, who nominated Nixon for President at the Republican convention Wednesday night, had not been mentioned among those reported on Nixon's final check list of possibilities for the vice presidential spot.

He said he selected Agnew after setting three requisites: First, a man "qualified to be President, second one who can campaign effectively, and third one who can assume the new responsibilities I will give the vice president particularly in the area of problems of the states and cities."

When Nixon made the announcement before television cameras and microphones, there was hardly a murmur of surprise or elation from the half dozen party workers assembled at the Maryland delegation's headquarters at the San Souci Hotel.

Nixon said: "Gov. Agnew has been informed and he is on his way to the hotel. I will meet with him and after we have met, I will bring him into this room so all of you will have an opportunity to take a picture of him if you like and then answer questions."

Agnew had not been a central figure in the speculation about a vice presidential nominee. Most of the talk centered about Sens. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, Charles Percy of Illinois, Howard Baker of Tennessee, and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York.

Agnew, who started the year as a charter supporter of Nelson A. Rockefeller, later drifted away from the New York governor.

Many observers dated this to Rockefeller's surprise original announcement that he would not seek the presidency. Agnew had not been invited of this decision and had invited newsmen to his

Reagan Backers Look Ahead To 1972 Campaign

By DEVAN L. SHUMWAY

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—When Ronald Reagan got back to his headquarters hotel shortly after 3 a.m. EDT today, the campaign signs were still up. But the 1968's had been crossed out. Now the signs read "Reagan for President in 1972."

In his first bid for the Republican presidential nomination the California governor had not been expected to win. But there was no doubt the showing he made, and the publicity he got carried him far down the road to another try in four years.

His partisans were ready to go. Reagan figured the question was premature. "Oh, for heaven's sake," he replied.

"Between now and then there will have to be a decision on who is going to be governor of California."

His term runs through 1970. "Are you sorry you lost?" he was asked.

"How can you lose when you can go back to being governor of California?" Reagan replied. "You know I'm not going to be exactly unemployed."

The governor clearly felt his strategy in his first time out had been proper. He ran only as a favorite son until almost the end, when he admitted he really wanted the nomination.

"I could not set out as a newly elected governor of California with my eyes on another job," he told newsmen as he left convention hall after asking the delegates to make the nomination of Richard M. Nixon unanimous.

Then he sped—still with Secret Service protection—to Sunrise Island for a short visit with his backers and back to his headquarters to be greeted by a shouting crowd of about 300 urging him to try it again.

It was 2:55 a.m.—nine hours after his name had been placed in nomination for the most awesome job in the world—

Negroes On Rampage In Miami; 3 Are Shot

By JOHN W. ROSS

MIAMI (UPI)—Negroes rampaged early today through a wide slum area across the bay from the Republican National Convention in a sudden outburst of violence that left three persons shot and at least 10 more injured from bricks, rocks and beatings.

At least 100 persons were arrested by a 500-man police force armed with carbines and shotguns that moved into the area to put down a wave of looting, burning and brick throwing that began Wednesday. Authorities laid down a blanket of tear gas to break up one unruly mob early today.

A National Guard force of another 500 to 600 men was put on standby alert at a nearby armory. But they were not called out on the streets and about 1:30 a.m., CDT, today an uneasy quiet settled over the area that led many of the policemen to leave the district.

All three shooting victims were Negroes. Police said they shot one man in the leg when he ignored their order to halt when fleeing with an armload of clothes from a dry cleaning establishment. Another man was felled by a sniper's bullet and a third was shot in the back by another Negro, who

Detective Killed As Roving Gangs Fire On Police

ANKSTER, Mich. (UPI)—A state police detective was shot and killed early today and two city policemen were wounded when roving carloads of snipers opened fire on police cars in this Detroit suburb.

State police said detective Robert F. Gonsler, 34, Detroit, and his partner were in a cruiser driving through a Negro area about 1 a.m. Gonsler was behind the wheel.

A car coming from the opposite direction suddenly stopped when it came abreast of the marked police car. One of the occupants, a Negro male, leaped from the car with a rifle and opened fire, police said.

The bullet slammed through the window of the car, striking Gonsler in the head. He was dead on arrival at Detroit General Hospital minutes later.

Several state police cars had been sent to the area a few hours earlier when two policemen were wounded by shotgun pellets.

The officers were in their patrol car when a shotgun blast shattered the window and struck them in the face.

Police said the attacks were unexpected and unprovoked. There had been no prior incidents, they said.

More Prisoner Releases Goal In US Gesture

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States decided to release a large number of North Vietnamese prisoners to encourage Hanoi to free more of the hundreds of U.S. military personnel it is detaining.

State Department officials said today arrangements are being worked out with the North Vietnamese for the return in the very near future of the 14 North Vietnamese naval personnel designated for release by U.S. negotiators in Paris Wednesday.

This group, which fell into U.S. Navy hands July 1, 1966, would be the largest group the United States has freed at one time since the Vietnam War began.

From time to time, South Vietnam in coordination with the United States has released somewhat larger groups of North Vietnamese prisoners captured during land engagements. The North Vietnamese sailors were taken by U.S. authorities in a naval engagement between three North

Nine Die In Coal Mine

By CARL MILLER

GREENVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Nine miners, trapped by an explosion in a sprawling new soft coal mine near this western Kentucky community, were found dead by rescue workers early today.

Rescuers toiling with picks and shovels in stifling 90-degree heat reached the miners shortly before 3 a.m. CDT, about 16 hours after the blast occurred. Eight bodies were recovered in the area of the explosion, about two miles inside the shaft and about 180 feet below ground level. Rescuers said the ninth body was found a "considerable distance" closer to the mouth of the mine.

The bodies were carried on stretchers to waiting ambulances and taken to a morgue set up at Muhlenberg Community Hospital in Greenville.

Relatives and friends of the miners, who sat in an office at the mine waiting word on the fate of the men, were escorted

The dead men were identified as Will Rice, 31, of McHenry, Ky.; Robert Fridinger, 38, Madisonville, Ky.; a foreman at the mine; Bobbie G. English, 34, Beach Creek, Ky.; Ernest W. Miller, 45, Central City, Ky.; James Harris, 33, Sacramento, Ky.; Frankie Epley, 45, Greenville; Paul Creekmore, 44, Central City; Denny Saling, 56, Echols, Ky.; and James Bryant, 25, Cornwell, Ky.

"Don't hijack any planes that have passengers who are delegates to the Republican Convention—they've got enough troubles!"

Quotes From The News

By United Press International
 MIAMI BEACH—Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, talking to a delegate who said he had read that Richard Nixon would win the Republican presidential nomination on the first ballot.
 "Don't you believe all you read."
 MIAMI BEACH—The Rev. Ralph Abernathy, leader of the Poor People's Campaign speaking after leading a group into the spectator's gallery at the Republican convention:
 "We are here and we are going to stay here."
 HARVEY, Ill. — Undersheriff Bernard Carey, commenting on whether or not a shooting incident in which seven police were wounded was spontaneous:
 "There must be some plans. You certainly don't plan to go duck hunting out here in Harvey."

'Steep' Prices Are Paid By GOP Delegates

By SAM FOGG
 MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The local chamber of commerce says that Miami Beach merchants, hotels, restaurants and night spots are "holding the line" on prices during the Republican National Convention.
 If so, it's a pretty steep line. The coffee shop menu in a large hotel offers these prices: Hard boiled egg sandwich, 80 cents; French fries, 40 cents; Corned beef or pastrami, $1.80; coffee, 25 cents. Below this notation: "To guide your tipping. In answer to many requests, we respectfully suggest the following: (per person) Breakfast, 35 cents; lunch, 45 cents; dinner, 75 cents."
 Dinner at a first rate hotel dining room can cost you $15 a person with no special extravagances.

Open handed tipping isn't frowned on in Miami Beach. It's expected. If a snack runs to $2.95 and you hand the waiter a ten spot, he'll return with a five, two ones and a nickel on the tray. He doesn't expect you to leave the nickel and you don't intend to leave the five which leaves this option: Which one of the ones is he going to get.

Hotels sternly inveigh against guests taking towels from their rooms to poolside. Beach towels can be obtained from the beach boys, the sign says. That beach boy has both hands out—and only one has a towel in it.
 The nightclubs soak visitors $2 per drink—even for beer. The taxi charge 40 cents a mile on the beach; 50 cents a mile in Miami. They bear a sign in small print telling customers that during convention week they are entitled to deduct a dime from the fare showing on the meter. There's no reason why you shouldn't do it—if you are big, healthy, strong and indifferent to what anyone says about you.

Reagan almost missed the placing of his name in nomination. He still was meeting with delegates in a last, desperate effort when Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, California's state treasurer, made the speech.

He dashed to a TV-equipped trailer parked behind Convention Hall to hear the final words and to witness the demonstration that greeted his nomination.

Later, during the balloting, Reagan and his lieutenants tried to change the tide that clearly was running to Nixon. They called into the trailer delegates from such key states as Ohio, North Carolina, Idaho, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Washington, Missouri, Alaska, Louisiana, Montana and Iowa. But the effort was futile.

Finally came the night's most mysterious event. Reagan raced from the trailer and sped around the Convention Hall to meet with Mississippi delegates. They wanted to know who he would make his vice presidential nominee.

He said it would be Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio. He raced back to the trailer. By then it was all over but the counting. His dream of the presidency was ended. Or maybe it was only interrupted.

4,000 Invade

A Shau Valley

By JACK WALSH SAIGON (UPI)—An invasion force of 4,000 soldiers has swept into the A Shau Valley to stifle a growing Communist threat to the allied war bastion at Da Nang, military spokesmen said today.

The drive, underway for four days, was the second time U.S. and South Vietnamese troops had entered the valley to stop the flow of Communist soldiers and supplies through A Shau into the northern war front.

"We are going in there to destroy everything we can find," said Maj. Gen. Melvin Zais. "We are spoiling for a fight."

The first invasion in April cost the allies 100 helicopters shot down in the opening days. This time Communist resistance was light.

Military spokesmen said American B52 bombers had dropped nearly five million pounds of bombs onto Communist hideouts in the valley since Sunday. U.S. fighter-bombers logged 127 missions there.

American soldiers uncovered four 2 1/2 ton trucks hidden in the valley Wednesday, evidence the Communists had again been using the stronghold as an infiltration route toward coastal Da Nang and Hue.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander, called the offensive a "spoiling action" aimed at breaking up the fresh Communist buildup in the valley.

DE WITT, N.Y. (UPI)—Police in this Syracuse suburb theorized today that the thieves who stole $900 worth of liquor from the Hillside Steak & Alehouse Wednesday may be thinking of setting up shop themselves.

The thieves also cleaned out the restaurant's supply of swizzle sticks and salt and pepper shakers.

Predicts Approval

ATHENS (UPI)—The Greek military government said today the Sept. 29 national referendum on the nation's proposed new constitution would be "the purest, most moral and honest" vote ever held in Greece. Deputy Premier Stylianos Patatakis predicted the people would approve the new constitution.

Urges Acceptance

PARIS (UPI)—Cardinal Joseph Lefebvre, president of the Catholic Episcopal Council of France, today urged acceptance of Pope Paul VI's encyclical on birth control "with absolute respect and the full confidence that the true spirit of faith inspires." The encyclical banned the use of artificial birth control by Roman Catholics.

Early in the 4th Century there were 36 triumphal arches in Rome, built to commemorate the outstanding deeds of men. Three of the arches have survived.

Skellytown Youth Saves 'Dad', Sister

SKELLYTOWN — A Skellytown youth has been credited with saving his father and sister from drowning last Sunday.

Michael Ledford, 14, was with his family on a weekend outing Sunday at a small pond north of Spring Creek.

His father, A. J. Ledford, Skellytown, and sister, Karen, were playing in the water with a truck inner-tube when they drifted over deep water. The inner-tube overturned.

Trying to swim back to land, the two went under water several times. Michael, watching from the shore with his mother, heard them yell for help.

He grabbed another inner-tube, went out to the couple and brought them back to shore.

"We're awfully lucky," his father said. "We wouldn't be alive today, if it weren't for him."

"I'm glad it's all over," Michael said.

Burglary And Thefts Are Noted Here

Cameron Marsh, Pampa High School principal, reported to police today that a burglar had taken a typewriter valued at $135 from a coach's office.

Police said the burglar knocked the bottom glass pane out of the window in the basketball coach's office at Harvester Field House. The burglar then reached through the window and took the typewriter off a nearby desk, a police report said.

The typewriter was described as a gray Smith-Corona.

Theft of four hubcaps valued at $100 was reported by Superior Used Car Lot, 860 W. Foster. And in other police news:

A 1965 model auto reported stolen early today was recovered a short time later and an 18-year-old suspect has been apprehended.

The auto was taken from the residence of R.M. Colson, 1164 Terrace. It was reported missing at 3:05 a.m.

The car was later spotted by Patrolman B. J. Dyer, who arrested the youth driving the auto shortly before 4 a.m.

Foreign News Commentary

By GUILLERMO PIERNES

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—By nature, Argentines are averse to the temptations of narcotics. And for this reason, their capital is becoming a main pipeline for illicit drug traffic to the United States and Canada.

Nine Argentines, six of them women, have been arrested in the past two months trying to smuggle heroin and cocaine past customs officials in New York and Montreal. Officials of the two countries stated flatly that the smuggling operation is centered in Buenos Aires, using narcotics processed in Europe.

Argentine police are cooperating with international police officials in trying to crack the rings. They have had a good measure of success, as the flurry of recent arrests show. But the campaign has not ended.

An Argentine police official, who heads a specially created anti-narcotics squad, said the nature of Argentine laws makes it difficult to make narcotics arrests here. But Argentine police pass tips and other information to international police bodies to aid them in spotting couriers using Buenos Aires as a base.

"Women are often selected as couriers because there exists a tendency among customs agents not to search them—out of modesty," said the official, who asked that his name not be used.

"The narcotics rings prefer to use Argentines—preferably Argentine women—because this is a nation without a narcotics addiction problem," he continued. "Thus, our people arouse less suspicion among customs agents than would, say, a Bolivian or a Brazilian."

The police official said operators of smuggling rings here offer prospective couriers $2,000 plus air fare to the

Farmers Union Chartering Set Here On Aug. 16

R. B. Brummett, and Roy Kretzmeier, both of Pampa, temporary chairmen of the newly-organized Gray County Farmers Union, announced today that the chartering ceremony will be held at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 16, in the Black Gold Restaurant.

Jay Naman of Waco, president of Texas Farmers Union, will address the meeting and present the charter. Naman, Farmers Union president since 1961, also will explain policies and objectives of the general farm organization.

An affiliate of the National Farmers Union, Texas Farmers Union is now chartered in over 110 counties.

Naman will discuss farm legislation recently passed by Congress including extension of the 1965 Farm Act, "inverse payments" on exported wheat, and a bill which will give farmers and livestock producers the legal authority to negotiate prices with processors and handlers. Texas Farmers Union supported extension of the 1965 Farm Act and denounced a ceiling on payments.

Preceding the charter meeting will be an afternoon business and planning session of officers and directors from all counties in TFU District I. "Buck" Breeding of Samnorwood, TFU director for District I, will preside at the afternoon session.

"Anyone believing family type farms are worth saving is urged to attend," Breeding said. The planning session and Gray County Farmers Union meeting will be open to the public.

Nixon

Agnew was shaken by Rockefeller's disavowal of candidacy. Rockefeller's aides later claimed they had tried to reach the Maryland governor by phone.

While Agnew later insisted he was "not miffed" at Rockefeller, he nevertheless drifted steadily toward Nixon. He endorsed Nixon and released his favorite son delegation Monday night.

Agnew had been under heavy pressure from Rockefeller and his supporters to remain as a favorite son and hold Maryland's 26 delegate votes uncommitted to either major candidate.

On the roll call for the presidential nomination early today, however, Maryland cast 18 votes for Nixon and 8 for Rockefeller.

Nixon had originally announced he would reveal his decision between 10 and 11 a.m. EDT today, but at 11:10, Herbert G. Klein, his press secretary, told reporters Nixon was still undecided.

He said Nixon was "having difficulty" making the choice, and added: "The problem is just weighing the merits of several outstanding candidates."

Nixon then returned to his hotel suite at the Hilton-Plaza to confer further with a small group of advisers. He emerged at about 12:35 p.m. and walked into the American Scene room to make the announcement.

Nixon won nomination without any of the rancor that split the party in 1964 and received immediate pledges of support from his two principal rivals—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was stricken Tuesday morning with his sixth heart attack only hours after he addressed the convention by television, from Walter Reed Army Hospital, said today he was "delighted" at Nixon's nomination.

In a message to Nixon, Eisenhower said: "you know I am an honorary delegate and could have been there and voted

United States or Canada for delivering packages of narcotics to contacts. He estimated that the drug dealers net $30,000 on each transaction.

Last July 12, customs agents at Kennedy International Airport in New York found $4 million worth of heroin taped to the bodies of two Argentine teachers, who had just arrived from Buenos Aires. They were charged with smuggling and held in $100,000 bond each.

Paul Gregory, a foreman on the rescue team which recovered the bodies, said the eight others were killed by an explosion and not a resulting cave-in.

"They were not caught by any cave-in," Gregory said. "They were killed by an explosion of some kind."

The men were trapped at mid-afternoon Wednesday by an explosion in the giant River Queen mine, a Peabody Coal Co. operation opened less than a year ago and located about eight miles north of here. The blast triggered a slate fall.

Rescuers dug through debris in the main tunnel on the slope mine by hand for fear of another cave-in.

J. H. Mosgrove, assistant commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, said the explosion was caused by explosives.

Helicopters' Are Club Subject

The important role of helicopters in the Vietnam conflict was outlined in a film shown to members of the Pampa Rotary Club yesterday in the Coronado Inn.

Helicopters are being used in Vietnam to provide ground cover for American and South Vietnamese troops, as troop transports, aerial bombardment, the evacuation of the wounded and in aerial reconnaissance.

The film was presented by Bell Helicopter of Amarillo.

Amarillo Is Recommended For 'Mental Health Funds'

AUSTIN (UPI) — The commission of 27 community center boards of trustees exceed the amount allocated to the department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation has reported he is recommending nine Texas communities to share in the $3.5 million mental health appropriation of the Texas Legislature.

Dr. John Kinross-Wright said he will ask the board to give follow-up or new grants for community mental health centers in Amarillo, Bell, Bexar, Dallas, El Paso, Harris, Hidalgo and Jefferson counties.

"Although the legislature added a half million dollars to last year's appropriation, requests boards of trustees exceed the amount allocated to the department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation has reported he is recommending nine Texas communities to share in the $3.5 million mental health appropriation of the Texas Legislature.

"State grant-in-aid allocations are not intended to replace local existing support. We asked community boards to show sources of new money to be combined with grant-in-aid funds to establish and/or expand services."

The review committee also allowed for 14 community center areas now in the planning stage and funds for treatment service in 13 communities," he said.

Reward Offered For Return of Checks

A $100 reward is being offered by Andy's Supermarket, 600 S. Cuyler, for the return of checks valued at $4,380, which were thought to have been taken from the store Monday.

The checks were endorsed "For Deposit Only" to the supermarket and have no value to other persons, police said.

The checks, mostly payroll and social security, were in a zipper bag near the office when last seen.

The theft is thought to have occurred Monday between 11 a.m. and 9 p.m.

Prisoners

North Vietnam has released small numbers of U.S. prisoners in gestures much appreciated by U.S. officials.

But on the whole Hanoi has been uncooperative in regularizing prisoner exchanges by refusing to supply a list of the Americans in its hands.

U.S. officials report there are more than 650 American military personnel missing or captured in North Vietnam.

The exchange of prisoners gained new momentum last Friday when north Vietnam released three more American fliers, who are now back in the United States.

Byrd Demands Reason For 'Pampering' Of Carmichael

WASHINGTON (Sp) — Senator Harry Byrd, D-Va., is demanding an explanation from the State Department for the restoration of Stokely Carmichael's passport. It was revoked last December after the strife-agitating former head of the militant leftist-leaning Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) returned from an extended tour of Communist countries during which he repeatedly excoriated the U.S. along party lines. The State Department gave no explanation for reinstatement of Carmichael's passport. In fact, there was no announcement about it. It was done virtually surreptitiously.

Senator Eyrd formally called the Senate's attention to the matter with a blistering denunciation of Carmichael and the State Department.

"Carmichael's passport was revoked," pointed out Byrd, "because he traveled to restricted areas, specifically to Castro's Cuba and to North Vietnam. In each country he publicly and violently attacked the United States and our troops."

"Carmichael obviously gave aid and comfort to North Vietnam, a nation at whose hands the American people have suffered 191,328 casualties, 38 per cent of those casualties having occurred during the past six months. Yet the State Department has restored his passport, thus making possible other such trips and other such denunciations of the American people and American soldiers in Vietnam."

"We hear a great deal today about people losing confidence in their government. Is there any wonder that more and more citizens are losing confidence in their government when the government acts in such a foolish, absurd and pusillanimous manner as it has in pampering Stokely Carmichael, not only by permitting him to make treasonable statements on foreign soil, but also permitting him to incite rioting in this country without penalty."

For some time, the Justice Department reportedly has been investigating Carmichael for possible prosecution. But repeated inquiries about this by reporters and others have brought no information.

One Justice Department official is credited with saying, "So far we have been unable to put together a case that would hold water legally. We have published accounts of what Carmichael is quoted as having said, but we have been unable to get any witnesses to support these reports. Without witnesses we don't have a case."

HIS LATEST OPERATIONS—Since early this year, Carmichael has been active in Washington's predominant Negro population organizing and manipulating from behind the scenes a so-called Black United Front.

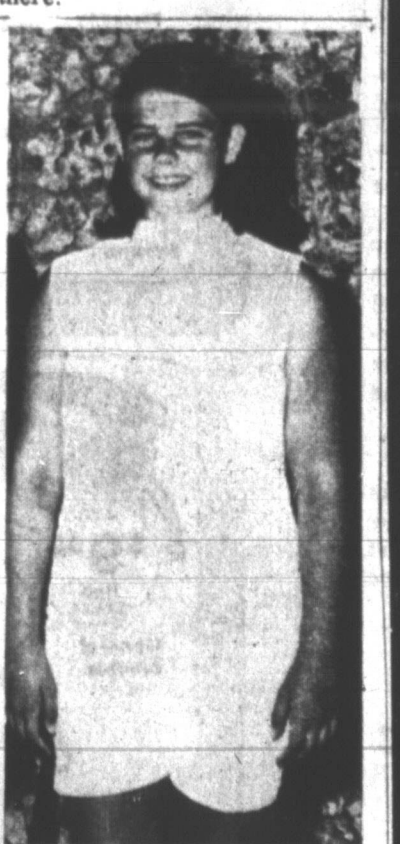

While he has cannily kept in the background, he has used various prominent moderate Negro clergymen to spearhead his policies and tactics.

Foremost among Carmichael's aims is Negro control of the capital's 3,100-member police force, which President Johnson has recommended be increased to 4,100. Carmichael's scheme is so-called "community control" of the police; that is, the residents of each district would determine the personnel of the local police force and its officers.

Another Carmichael-inspired maneuver was the claimed unanimous adoption of a resolution by the Black United Front declaring that the slaying of one policeman and the serious wounding of another by three Negroes charged with robbery whom they attempted to arrest was "justifiable homicide."

GREENVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Mine foreman Paul Gregory, commenting on the deaths of eight miners in the Giant River Queen soft coal mine:

"They were not killed by any cavein. They were killed by an explosion of some kind. There may be another body back there."

AT CAMP—Cassandra Mangold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Mangold, 2405 Mangold, is attending Heart O' the Hills Camp near Hunt. The camp provides a 5-week session of sports, recreation and instruction in outdoor activities.

The sound of a powerful ad opens up people's eyes. And minds. It starts them. Starts them marching in to buy your product. And often at less cost-per-thousand to you than any other person-to-person message.

(The Classified Section is one example. Remember how disappointed you were the day you called on that Want Ad, and found out the item had just been sold?)

Print bugles like that. Sharp and clear. Which is just the call to action you need when your adversary is public inertia. And it generally is. Newspapers. Magazines. Brochures. Mailings. These are all print. And they all work to muster the troops. Use them. It'll be a monumental campaign, General!

Two Specialties 'Baked' With No Oven Brighten Appetites

To brighten jaded appetites, why not try these two elegant specialties — a cool and creamy Lemon pie or an airy chiffon pie?

Both are simply elegant because they free the cook from that hot oven and leave you time to enjoy your guests or family and your reputation as a fancy chef.

Cool and creamy lemon pies always seem to spell summer in capital letters. Add a topping of halved fresh strawberries, a current jelly glaze, and you have a light and luscious dessert in a million. It is called a Lemon Patio Pie because it's just the sort of dessert that summer hostesses love to show off when they entertain for lunch or dinner out of doors.

Canned lemon pie filling is joy to see, and to taste, just as it comes from the can. Beaten into a whipped package of eight ounces of whipped cream, cheese, it gives you the most wonderful party-pie filling ever. Spoon the mixture into a cooled baked pastry shell, get it in the refrigerator to chill and you're half way to perfection. . . .dessert-wise, that is.

When the mixture is firm, cover the top with the halved strawberries. Or you can use other favorite fresh fruits if you like. Then spoon-melted currant jelly over the crown of fruit. Chill again, and get ready for the party and the compliments.

Just because it's called a "Patio Pie" doesn't mean, however, that you can't serve it indoors or in any season. The family would love to try it any night the pie-eating mood comes over them, and a daughter who is starting her own special recipe file would find this an easy-to-fix signature special.

What is more perfect for a summer dessert than an airy chiffon pie? Those slim, mery fluffy slices always have a special elegance that enhances the meal — and the cook's reputation as well.

This new recipe for Peach Chiffon Pie is certainly one of the elegant ones. What is more, it is almost ridiculously easy to prepare thanks to the use of canned peach filling as the main ingredient. A package of lemon-flavored gelatin adds the bounce to it. A hint of cinnamon adds a tiny taste of spice. One cup chilled whipped evaporated milk with two tablespoons lemon juice help make it creamy as a cloud.

Pour this marvelous mixture into a nine-inch crumb crust chill until serving time, and there you have the simply elegant dessert, that will add lustre to any party.

Breath of Mint Blesses Chicken

By GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Food Editor

The Roman naturalist, Pliny, almost 2,000 years ago, wrote "The smell of mint does stir up the taste to a greedy desire of meat." Lamb and mint have long been famous as a team, but chicken, too, can be enhanced with the most delicate bit of mint flakes.

Mint flakes are among the newer of the twist-of-the-wrist seasoners. Add them toward the end of the cooking period whenever practical. If used without cooking, as in a salad dressing, give mint flakes about an hour in a liquid to release aroma.

Dredge chicken with flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Heat oil in Dutch oven or large skillet. Add chicken and brown well on all sides. Meanwhile, mix powdered mustard with 1/2-teaspoon warm water; let stand 10 minutes. Add mustard and remaining ingredients to chicken. Cover and simmer 45 to 50 minutes. Serve with rice, noodles or mashed potatoes. Four portions.

Summer Fruits, Creamed Celery Get Top Billing

By GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Food Editor

Now is the time to enjoy fresh fruit. It is abundant, particularly plums and Bartlett pears. Production of watermelon is up and the canteloupe output is high, also. So indulge yourself for pleasure and health.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture - Plentiful Foods - List also includes summer vegetables. Although celery is available all year round, let's use it now cooked as a vegetable, rather than served raw.

CREAMED CELERY

- 1 large bunch celery, cut into 1/2-inch slices (about 6 cups)
- 1 cup chicken bouillon
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine (optional)
- Salt and pepper to taste. . .

Combine celery and bouillon in 2-quart saucepan. Cover and simmer about 15 minutes, or until celery is just tender. Mix cornstarch and cold water together thoroughly; stir into celery. Cook over low-medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens (about 2 minutes). Stir in butter or margarine. Season with salt and pepper. Four servings.

WANDA MAE HUFF, Women's Editor

This summer you can go barefoot in the park or on your own private terrace. But half the fun is adorning pretty pedicured toes and encircling ankles with twinkling jewelry. For patio and beach parties (top left) here's a giant toe ring from India. With ingenuity and humor, you needn't worry about marring the effect if you have a blemish. The "ring" adorning the little toe (top right) is actually a decorated piece of moleskin. The product adheres to the skin and it's easy to decorate the old glue. Glittering rosettes glued to mole- top side with tiny sequins, using household skin form the paste-on jewelry (lower left). Twinkle-toes for summer patio parties (lower right) draw every eye to bared feet and make the pedicure part of your grooming routine.

Adolescents Need Guidance to Build Religious Beliefs

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
Woman To Woman

NEW YORK (UPI)—You go over this list every now and then—maybe in the middle of the night or while having coffee in mid-morning while alone in the kitchen.

You provide your adolescent with food, clothing, shelter, life and health insurance, charge accounts, money in the bank for college, a driver's license, a car, background in baseball or some sport, ability to succeed academically and socially, straightened teeth, vitamins every day, all the proper immunizations.

But what about religion? Have you been firm about his being exposed to some structure or order of religious beliefs? Or have you been like a wet noodle on the subject, letting him make up his own mind?

If the latter is the case, give yourself a failing mark.

Dr. James A. Knight, professor of psychiatry and associate dean at Tulane University School of Medicine in New Orleans, is one among many experts who say religion plays a part in the personal development of most adolescents.

In a report in "Voices," a journal for those in the mind sciences, Dr. Knight gives some reasons for his stand.

"Adolescents have a need to be exposed to some structure or order of religious beliefs that they can interiorize for themselves or reject," he said.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good man in many ways, but he has one terrible fault which I think is inexcusable. He "tells all" (and I do mean all) to his men friends.

I feel that we have no intimate husband-wife secrets like other married couples. My husband tells guys he hasn't even known very long everything that goes on between us. I know he has because he's told me so.

Knowing that all his men friends know all those intimate things about me, I can't face them.

What is the matter with a man who acts like this? I have grown cold toward him, and we have only been married 2 years. Do you blame me?

COLD WIFE

DEAR COLD: Either your husband is very immature or he thinks he's invented something. Your talkative husband is "telling all" to the wrong people. If he can't keep his mouth shut, he should lie down on a couch, and tell it to a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I am a recent divorcee, and as such, most men take me for an "easy mark." They all ask the same question, "What do you have to lose?"

I am in my late thirties, and I'm certainly not a child. But what is a good answer for these eager beavers? The word "NO" doesn't seem to mean anything to them. They want to know WHY! Please give me a good answer.

INDIANA READER

DEAR READER: Just say, "No—that's not my style," and don't engage in a debate with any of these clowns or you are sunk.

DEAR ABBY: Ben and I have been happily married for 4 years (no children yet) and I wouldn't think of being unfaithful. He says he trusts me, and he isn't the least bit jealous.

Well, the employees at my office recently got up a bowling team, and since I am a pretty good bowler, I joined. The other married bowlers always come alone and go home alone, and their spouses never come to "watch" them.

Ben and I each drive our own cars, but on my bowling night, Ben drives me to work. I go to the bowling alley with a co-worker, then Ben calls for me at the alley. He always comes so early that it's right at the beginning of the game, so he "waits" for me. While he waits, he watches every move I make. This affects my game and I go to pieces and can't bowl. Once Ben had car trouble and didn't get there until after the game, and that was the only time I bowled my usual game and our team won.

I can't tell Ben not to come so early or he'll think I am hiding something. Yet when he watches me bowl I am so bad the team suffers. Please, please help me.

BOWLING BLUES

DEAR BLUES: Don't pussy-foot around. Tell Ben that you cannot bowl your best when he is watching you, so to please do you, and the team, a favor and come AFTER the game. CONFIDENTIAL TO S. S.: In seeking a career for yourself choose a tough one. That way you won't have so much competition.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

GENERAL FORECAST: This is a day when you can LIST changes occur in your associations and in any school of thought or viewpoint that has already served its purpose in your life. You would be wise to look at the principles under which you are existing and fit in if they are in harmony with the way you are expressing them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—If you do some serious contemplating, you get the right answers so that you can plan a far better life for yourself in the future. Be more controlled where your regular labors are concerned. Some work brought could be very helpful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)—You find that regular group of friends have made quite a state toward you, so do something to fix up the situation. Get busy and make new friends also who are up to your line of thinking. Be more progressive.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Stop to think how to make several avenues of your endeavor more successful. And then put ideas in motion quickly. This could be in business affairs also. More study is also wise where career is concerned.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 22)—You have some excellent new ideas that should be put into effect, but be prepared to make right changes for best results. Be careful to what persons of much experience and who are wise have to say. This helps you greatly.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23)—All that work ahead of you should be tackled early without expecting others to do your bidding, if you really want to get ahead faster. Show that you have initiative. Success is commensurate with your effort.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)—A day to have the sort of amusement you like with persons you admire, but at the minimum cost. Loved one desires more of your time, attention. Schedule your hours so that you can please and be happier yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—Listening to what kin have to suggest for great success in the business, career, world, can lead to just that. Follow advice religiously. You are at rather a low ebb but a sudden upturn can change all that.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21)—Follow that course that can bring the benefit you want and see deserving of. Some close lie wants to place your relationship on a different basis, which is good. Let your hair down and take it easy tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Doing whatever will please kin and take away the stress and strain of present mode of living is wise. Some comfort add to your home, etc., can also be appreciated by others. Be helpful to one who is not feeling well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Have those talks today with partners that can make your operations with them more ideal mutually for the future. Be sure that car of yours is running well. Avoid liver crowded thoroughfares.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Get 21st your appearance more charming is a good thing to do now. Be clear of that argument with a close tie or there can be an unfortunate severance of connection. Give those who are deserving a real break.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: You can do something constructive about making your fascinating progeny a real success in life if you will teach to cooperate with others early, since there is a very fine mind here.

Parisian Hardware Dress Appears in Style

By JOAN DEPPA
PARIS (UPI)—Manuel Ungaro's itty-bitty Bikini dress is not so much hard to wear as just plain hardware.

The two-piece evening dress Ungaro showed recently was made of silver metal worked in a scroll pattern that curved across the bosom, curling up to cover only the essentials.

His metal skirt encased the wearer like a modern chastity belt, framing the model's well-tanned abdomen in more scrollwork.

The outfit, invulnerable to everything except laughter and snide comments, was part of the increasing trend towards symbols of violence and feminine aggression which were the latest shock tactics of the avant garde fashion world.

Pierre Cardin, who showed one of the most dramatically pretty collections in Paris Friday, accessorized his curvy, thigh-high mini-dresses with over-the-elbow gloves and leg-covering boots in black patent leather.

The gloves, which widened out at the biceps, had particularly sinister connotations.

Modern School

Both Cardin and Ungaro are in what could be called the "modern school" of Paris fashion but fortunately both also believe in the pretty softness espoused by the rest of French couture.

Neither expects their customers to go around looking like Amazons all or even most of the time.

But Ungaro also shows a charming white minidress with big white plastic flowers applied on silver-beaded organza and a one-piece bloomer short suit in red and white under a white miniskirt belted with re-appliqued flowers.

Newest Fabrics

His daytime clothes please rather than shock with their simplicity, melting colors and some of the newest fabrics in Paris.

Cardin's line was so pretty generally that one almost forgot by the end of the collection that he had ever shown anything aggressive.

It introduced, among other things, the use of an exciting new yarn which allows fabric to be molded into three-dimensional patterns.

The yarn, made from dnyel, allows dresses to be stamped out rather than sewn and mass produced in large quantities. The dresses are expected to be on the market within months at prices beginning at about $20.

Tough Course Attracts Record Field In Golf

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—The largest field in the seven-year history of the American Golf Classic teed off today on a soggy Firestone Country Club course, rated one of the toughest in the world.

The field of 128 professionals and three amateurs made their bid in the opening round of the $125,000 72-hole tournament. Heading the pack was defending champion Arnold Palmer, who usually plays his best on the 7,180-yard, par-70 Firestone course.

Most of the entrants completed rain-interrupted practice rounds Wednesday both before and after the thunderstorm hit the area. The rain was expected to slow down the course, which could mean plenty of over-par rounds on opening day.

"The course is in fine shape," said newly crowned Western Open champion Jack Nicklaus, who completed his practice round after the rain hit.

Nicklaus was one of the favorites to land the $25,000 first prize along with several others, including long-hitters Tom Weiskopf, U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino and George Archer.

Three amateurs in the tournament, which boosted the field to 131, were Billy Capbell of Huntington, W. Va., Ohio amateur champion Bob Lewis Jr. of Warren, Ohio, and Karl Schmidt of Akron.

Only seven golfers have been able to break par 280 in a 72-hole event during the last eight tournaments played here.

Rookie's Home Run Leads Detroit Win

By AL DALY
UPI Sports Writer

This has to be "The Year of the Tiger"—rookie Dave Campbell hit a two-run homer, his first hit in the majors, while playing with a 102 temperature.

Campbell's homer highlighted a three-run eighth-inning uprising that put the finishing touches on a 6-1 Detroit victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night after the Tigers made the last three putouts of a 5-2 triumph in a game suspended Tuesday night.

In other American League action, Oakland and New York split a doubleheader with the Yankees winning the opener 3-0 and the Athletics taking the 10-inning nightcap 4-3, the Boston Red Sox edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2, the Baltimore Orioles swept the Minnesota Twins 3-0 and 9-6 and the California Angels defeated the Washington Senators 4-2.

In the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals clipped the Cincinnati Reds 3-1, the San Francisco Giants downed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3, the Atlanta Braves drubbed the Chicago Cubs 10-2, the Houston Astros nipped the New York Mets 4-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2.

Wilson Gets Win
Eddie Fisher relieved Sam McDowell after a single and a walk in the first inning of the Tigers' regularly-scheduled game in what may have been a ruse by Cleveland Manager Al Dark but Al Kaline singled in one run and Bill Freehan followed with a two-run double. Earl Wilson, aided by Daryl Patterson's three innings of scoreless relief, raised his record to 10-9.

A two-run pinch double by Kaline and Norm Cash's 16th homer were the big hits in the Tigers' victory in the suspended game.

Mel Stottlemyre pitched a six-hitter for his fifth shutout of the year and Joe Pepitone hit a two-run homer for the Yankees in their opener. The Athletics gained a split in the nightcap, however, when Reggie Jackson's single scored Mike Hersher with the winning run in the 10th. Joe Keough hit a homer in his first major league at bat for the Athletics.

Harrelson Homers
Ken Harrelson hit a two-run homer in a three-run first inning and Dick Ellsworth scattered nine hits to win his 11th game for the Red Sox. It was the seventh win in eight games for the Red Sox.

Frank Robinson and Curt Blefary backed Jim Hardin's six-hit pitching with homers in the opener and Paul Blair's two-run single sparked a three-run rally in the sixth inning of the nightcap as the Orioles remained 6½ games behind the Tigers. The Orioles added three more runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap with the help of Ellie Hendricks' run-scoring single and a two-run double by Brooks Roginson.

Don Mincher doubled and scored on Chuck Hinton's single in the seventh inning to help Sam Ellis to his ninth victory for the Angels despite homers by Frank Howard and Cap Peterson.

NECK 'N' NECK 'N' NECK, three horses come down the home stretch at Lingfield, England. The photo finish required a 25-minute inquiry by stewards who finally decided on the winner as "Ascend," center. "Tantalum," right, placed second and "Flail" copped the show money.

Mexico Is Site For Pro Football

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—"Futbol Americano" makes its debut in Mexico Sunday when the Detroit Lions and Philadelphia Eagles meet in the first U.S. professional football game ever played outside the country.

Thousands of Mexican fans are expected to witness the exhibition contest between the two National Football League teams in a game that will be televised nationally across the U.S.

Although it will be the first pro game in Mexico, American football was introduced 40 years ago when a Boston reporter, Arthur Constantine, helped finance the first team at the National University.

Today, interest is mushrooming and high schools and colleges are fielding teams and forming leagues. A great deal of the credit for this interest must go to the Dallas Cowboys, who televise their games south of the border and have a huge following in Mexico City.

The U.S. Embassy has published an explanation of the game in its press information service, informing the local editors that except for the 11 players per team, the sport bears no resemblance to the one called futbol in other countries but known as soccer in the U.S.

Many Mexicans are reportedly "fascinated by the lust for brutality" Americans show and wonder how they can feel sorry for a bull facing a matador and then cheer for "human beings, getting smashed around..."

Cardinal Manager Rests Regulars

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Life with the St. Louis Cardinals is so good these days that Manager Red Schoendienst can do more than talk about the weather.

He can do something about it. "All this heat is bound to get to various players," observed Schoendienst Wednesday night. "So, I like to give a man a day off or two off once in awhile."

Schoendienst wasn't talking about the heat of the pennant race, of course, because the Cardinals' nine so-called rivals are stone cold dead. The Cardinals' 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night was their 20th in 30 games since the All-Star break and boosted their league lead to a massive 14 games.

With such a lead, Schoendienst has been resting veterans like Orlando Cepeda, Tim McCarver and Mike Shannon and plans to rest others like Curt Flood and Dal Maxvill. It hardly makes any difference because the Cardinal juggernaut just rolls on and on.

Three Out
Three regulars were out of the lineup Wednesday night but Mel Nelson and Dick Hughes combined for an eight-hitter as the Cardinals dealt George Culver his 11th straight nine victories. Cepeda, McCarver and Phil Gagliano each knocked in a run and only Pete Rose's sixth homer of the year averted a Cincinnati shutout.

The Atlanta Braves romped over the Chicago Cubs 10-2, the San Francisco Giants shaded the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3, the Houston Astros nipped the New York Mets 4-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2 in other National League games.

In the American League, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians 5-2 and 6-1, the Baltimore Orioles swept the Minnesota Twins 3-0 and 9-6, the Boston Red Sox edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2, the New York Yankees beat the Oakland Athletics 3-0 before losing 4-3 in 10 innings and the California Angels topped the Washington Senators 4-2.

Rookie George Stone pitched a six-hitter and drove in three runs with two singles to win his second game for the Braves and deal the Cubs' Ken Holtzman his eighth loss against eight victories. Jim Hickman hit his third homer and Ernie Banks his 20th for the Cubs.

McCovey Homers Twice
Willie McCovey led off the eighth inning with his second homer of the game and 28th of the season to give the Giants their victory. Frank Linzy, who took over from Ray Sadecki in the eighth inning, received credit for his fifth win.

Larry Dierker squared his record at 10-10 with late-inning relief help from Pat House and Steve Shea as the Astros handed the Mets' Tom Seaver his eighth loss against 10 triumphs. An error by second baseman Phil Linz and an infield out by Jim Wynn enabled the Astros to score two runs after filling the bases in the

Giles Sets Deadline For Montreal Club

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal's hopes of fielding a major league baseball team next year rested in the hands of National League President Warren Giles and the vote-conscious city administration today.

Giles, tentatively due to meet with city officials again today (5 p.m. EDT), Wednesday gave promoters of the still unnamed club until Aug. 15 to put up $1.2 million as an initial investment and asked for written assurance the team would have an adequate place to play.

Montreal now has no suitable baseball stadium and has had none since the triple-A Montreal Royals, an International League farm club folded nearly 10 years ago. The city has talked about leasing an open-air stadium called the Autostade, built for Expo 67, putting a roof on it, and later building a domed stadium at a cost estimated anywhere up to $60 million.

Giles spent six hours at City Hall here Wednesday, discussing the issue with two of the club's millionaire sponsors and a group of city-officials headed by Mayor Jean Drapeau.

The NL prexy left for the United States following the meeting, but reportedly promised he would return late this afternoon for further discussion. Before departing, Giles started to tell a reporter that Montreal was on its way to getting the franchise confirmed, but then checked himself and said, "Well, they have until Aug. 15."

Most of Montreal's problems supposedly center around city politics.

Distillery heir Charles Bronfman, head of the group sponsoring the franchise which has already lost three of its original members because of uncertainties about the team, insisted that money is no problem. However, finances are a major obstacle as far as Drapeau is concerned.

Drapeau's administration, last elected in 1966, already is deeply in the red. With another election due in 1970, the city administration is reported cold

East Texas Eliminates Dumas Team

ABBEVILLE, La. (UPI) — Defending world champion Louisiana edged Oklahoma 6-5 Wednesday night to gain the Babe Ruth playoffs.

Both teams were undefeated going into Wednesday's action. Louisiana moves directly to the finals Saturday. Oklahoma plays the winner of today's East Texas-Abbeville game Friday night. The winner of that game plays Louisiana Saturday night for the championship.

In other games Wednesday, Abbeville downed Arkadelphia, the Arkansas Champs, 2-1, and East Texas (Flax) beat West Texas (Dumas) 4-3.

Both Arkansas and West Texas were knocked out of the tourney with their second defeats.

Lombardi Honored By Green Bay Fans

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—Vince Lombardi's first reaction to the idea of Title Town U.S.A. having a day in his honor was skeptical.

But by the end of Wednesday the former head coach and still general manager of the Green Bay Packers admitted he was emotionally overwhelmed.

Vince Lombardi Day was this salute to his favorite son for bringing new fame to Green Bay by his unprecedented success on the field.

"I have been practicing keeping the lump down all day. I hope I can continue."

The celebration started Wednesday morning when Highland Avenue, in front of Lambeau Field, was renamed Vince Lombardi Avenue. It climaxed 11 hours later with a rousing salute before a near capacity crowd of 5,100 at Brown County arena.

Representatives of 10 National Football League teams, among them Cleveland Browns owner and NFL President Art Modell, then overwhelmed it would be gross understatement," he said.

that included Lombardi's former associates at Fordham University, former Packer players and numerous state officials.

RACERS COMPETE
HOUSTON (UPI)—A.J. Foyt, Mario Andretti and Parnelli Jones are among the racing greats invited to compete in a $25,000 midget auto race at the Astrodome next year.

Astrodome president Judge Roy Hofheinz Wednesday called the event, scheduled for next March 8, "the race of races in the midget car field."

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

America Is At The Crossroads

There are two events according to Don Oakley Newspaper Enterprise editorial writer, which would instantly make the mass of Americans drop everything else they were doing and unite in a common purpose: Invasion and revolution.

There is no present threat of an invasion by a foreign enemy. There is, however, increasing evidence that certain domestic enemies really mean what they have been saying for so long—that they intend to make war on the United States with the object of overthrowing or destroying its government.

According to columnist Drew Pearson, the FBI is aware of black nationalist plans to take over the city of Washington by force. From other sources come reports that an uprising is planned in Chicago with the hope of capturing the hall in which the Democratic convention will be held. Apparently the recent attack on policemen in Cleveland was only a modest rehearsal for the real thing to come.

The black extremists, of course, have no chance of winning a war against the United States, and they know it. But if we can believe their threats, they are quite prepared to try to burn the country down even if they perish along with it.

They are frustrated, despairing men, possessed by a rage few whites can comprehend. In a tragically twisted way, they are heroes and fully in the tradition of all martyrs to lost causes. In them, the chickens of racial hate hatched over the past 100 years have come home in the shape of avenging birds of prey.

Should such a revolution come about, it would find civil libertarian and bigoted racist alike joined together to crush it, by whatever means necessary. In the process, every gain so painfully won by Negroes could be lost, if democracy itself were not dealt a mortal blow. This too, the black nationalists know. But so alienated are they from a nation they see governed by and for the white majority that they seem to relish the prospect of the homicide of hope and the suicide of sanity in a mutual blood bath.

The question is, will other black Americans, who are the overwhelming majority, stand by and let it happen?

White police and white soldiers can put down any conceivable rebellion, but it is only the black community of moderate, sane men and women who can nip rebellion in the bud by ridiculing, opposing and adjuring the few fanatics among them. To do this, however, they must know that the overwhelming majority of white Americans are really on their side and that the American dream is really meant for them, too.

The nation is at the crossroads. It must either decide that the Negro is an unassimilable subject and begin building actual physical walls, around the ghettos, or it must once and for all commit itself in unmistakable terms every black American can believe to the goal of providing full human and civil rights and equal opportunity to all citizens.

Cries for law and order are fine. But after that, what? There was, let us remember, perfect law and order in Nazi Germany. There is perfect law and order in South Africa today.

Post Office—Sacred Cow

Now that the Post Office Department has budgeted Congress into eliminating the department from economies which were voted it appears that postal service will not be reduced after all.

For some strange reasons, carrying of the mail and the schooling of children are thought of as functions which only governments can perform. Both beliefs, putting it mildly, are ridiculous.

Obviously, both the carrying of the mail and the schooling of children are services which people, as individuals, either do or do not want. If such services ARE desired, then, in reason and in justice, they should be paid for, individually, by those who use them; in which case, plainly, they should be provided in the private enterprise market place, not by the government. If, on the other hand, they ARE NOT desired by individuals, then, clearly, for the government to compel such individuals to pay for them is an imposition and an injustice. It is just that simple.

But, since even the government admits that the Post Office Department, with its rising prices, growing deficits and worsening service, is in trouble let's talk about carrying the mail today.

Could private enterprise carry the mail if the government would give up its tax supported monopoly? We believe the answer is an unqualified YES. And we believe that a single visit to a super market while observing the literally thousands of items brought and assembled there for the convenience of its patrons from the far corners of this country and, in deed, the world, would be enough to convince anyone willing to look and think. Moreover, there is abundant evidence elsewhere.

Private enterprise delivers a pound of oil, liquid, explosive and difficult to transport, from the Persian Gulf to the Eastern Seaboard for less than the government mail monopoly will deliver a one-ounce letter across the street.

Private enterprise delivers milk, a highly perishable commodity, to your doorstep . . . and on time.

Private enterprise delivers freight, millions and millions of tons of it daily, often in mixed lots and complicated consignments— heavy, fragile, liquids, gases, you name it—again, to and from the far corners of the world.

Private enterprise, via telephone and wireless, will place you in communication with another person half-a-world away in a matter of seconds or minutes without you having to leave your office desk, bed or easy chair and will bring the happenings of the world, in voice and in picture, into your living room in a matter of seconds . . . the latter in color, yet.

And, last, not forgetting the business we're in, private enterprise assembles the news of the world and the bargains of the day in readable, comprehensive form and delivers them to your door each day at a price in the case of this newspaper, a trifle more than what the government, again, charges to deliver that one-ounce letter across the street.

But let's not belabor the obvious. Could private enterprise carry the mail? Of course it could! Then, why doesn't your government let it? Talk about the sacred cows and rats of India! We've got a few of our own on our hands, eating out our substance.

The American Way

By D. R. SEGAL

There is a great to-do about the nominations of Homer Thornberry and Abe Fortas, but Ev Dirksen made the most trenchant observation of all. When somebody charged Lyndon with "cronism," the venerable Ev replied: "What do you expect a President to do? Nominate somebody he doesn't like?"

That sums it up. We try to put some pretty impressive labels on the machinations of politics; but politics translates into a game of favoritism, cronyism and to put one of those fancy labels on it—loyalty. What is cronyism to one man is "loyalty" to another. I have heard many politicians openly accepting the label of being "loyal" but I don't think any of them would accept the laurels of "crony."

But the thing that seems to me to be most alarming about the Supreme Court is not Abe or Homer or even Earl Warren, the California thingamabuddy, but the way the court has drifted into the habit of confusing public with private. I can go along with the court when it says that since the colored man is taxed without discrimination he is entitled to use the proceeds of those taxes without discrimination. But I'll be damned if I see what right anyone has to tell me I can't, in the management of my private property, dedicate it to any fey and cuckoo sort of discrimination that meets my fancy.

The trend to break down the distinction between public and private goes hand-in-glove with another slide into limbo, and that is the assumption that monopoly is a synonym for evil. (This excludes, of course, that most stunning of all monopolies—the post office.) If these two judicial trends continue to their logical conclusions, there are some great and interesting changes ahead. For example, it appears to me that the most ancient and traditional form of monopoly is the one a man and woman enter into, legally and philosophically, when they pledge to forego all others. This removes from the market two viable pieces of merchandise—one man, one woman. It denies some other man, if the law is kept, from making good use of this woman; and the lawfully wedded husband is similarly restrained from making himself available to another woman who might like to compete with his wife. Clearly, this has got to go. It is a powerful violation of the anti-trust law, and if the marriage is consummated by crossing a state line, additional charges are appropriate.

Then, too, there is the question of what happens if an Indian maiden turns down a white man who is wooing her, and instead marries an Indian boy. Has she discriminated unfairly against a white? How about the Irish Catholic girl who does not like the script of Abie's Irish Rose—is she discriminating? I wonder what will happen to the white girl who decides not to marry a Negro suitor. Will she have the feds after her on an equal opportunity rap?

I am glad I am finishing out my race before some of these things come before the court I am not sure I would survive under what I am sure are going to be the new ground rules.

Today is Thursday, Aug. 8, the 211st day of 1968 with 145 to follow.

The moon is full. The morning star is Saturn. The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history: In 1940 the German Luftwaffe began a series of daylight raids on the British Isles. The raids continued until October 31.

In 1945 President Truman signed the ratification of the United Nations Charter. Also in 1945 Russia declared war on Japan—seven days before Tokyo surrendered.

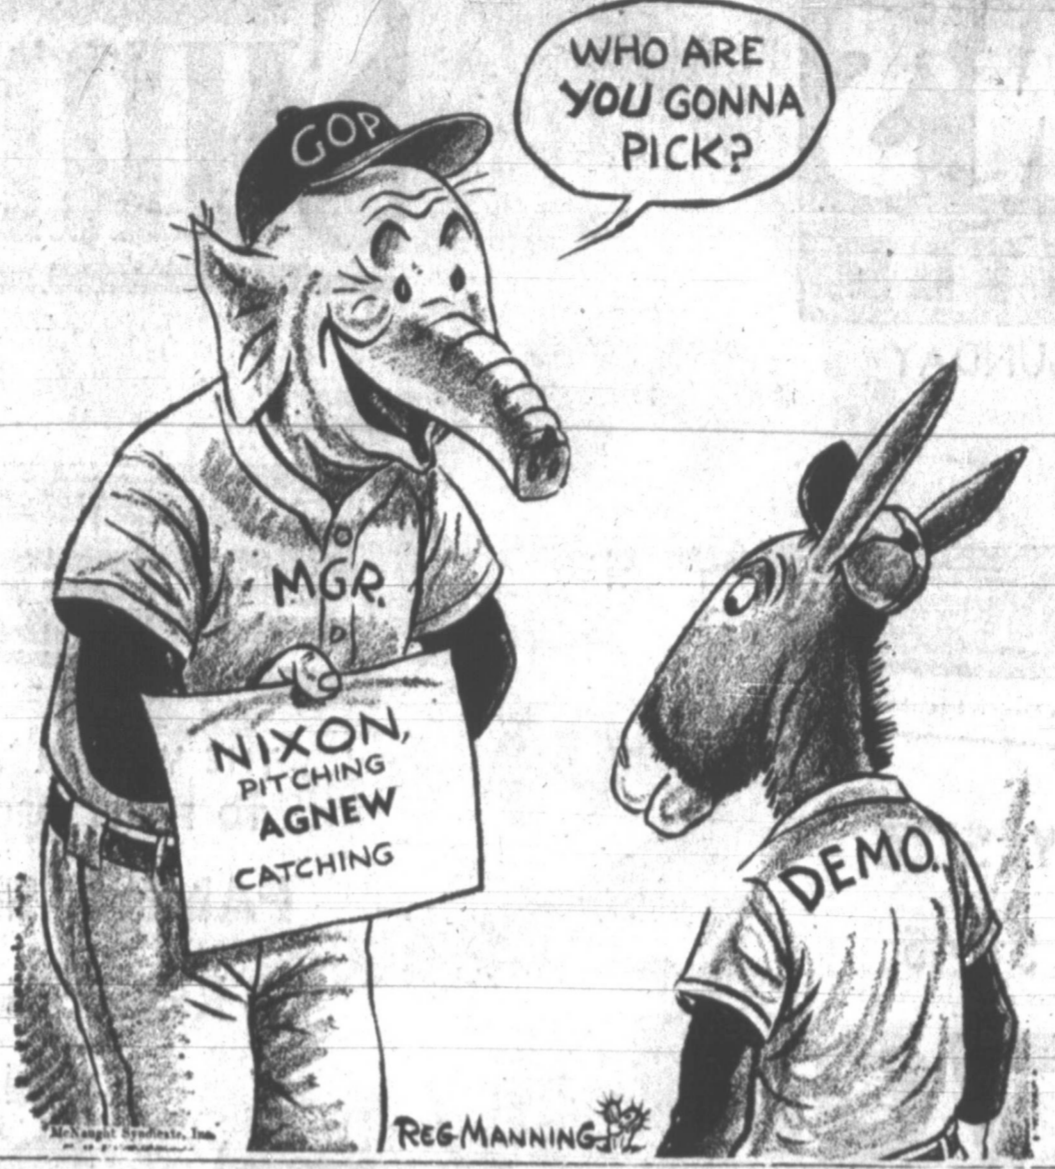

In 1963 a gang of masked bandits robbed a British mail train of $7 million.

In 1950 Florence Chadwick, San Diego, Calif., set a woman's record by swimming the English Channel in 13 hours and 28 minutes.

A thought for the day: Thomas Mann said, "Time cools, time clarifies; no mood can be maintained quite unaltered through the course of hours."

held hands with the best man, who wore a flowered caftan over orange trousers. And the queen attended!

Here's My Battery For The Big Game

The Manion Forum

By MARILYN MANION

Mrs. Alice Widener, syndicated columnist, contributor of Barron's Weekly, and editor of U.S.A. Magazine, has a knack for unearthing the unlovely truth about the so-called "New Left" on campus.

While other journalists harp about identity crises and the generation gap, Mrs. Widener digs up information concerning Forum microphone last who are using this country's young people as tools to promote revolution. Over the Manion Forum microphone last March 31, she predicted the nationwide rash of student disturbances that took place subsequently in April. Mrs. Widener has no crystal ball. Her predictions are based on concrete facts, which she gleans by her attendance at the conferences of New Left leaders.

She learns such things as this: "We're going to take the student movement out of the hands of the undergraduates and put it in the hands of politically sophisticated, better-disciplined graduate students. We have some good ones at Stanford and the University of Chicago. We've brought some good foreign ones in through the Fulbright fellowships." The quote above came from a guest who attended an extraordinary luncheon in New York a few weeks ago. The luncheon was hosted by the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., the Yale chaplain who has been sentenced to prison for his anti-drug activities.

According to Mrs. Widener, luncheon guests agreed that "Phase One" of the New Left's "Revolution" had been completed. (In case you are out of touch with the Revolution, Phase One included such items as the Columbia fiasco, LBJ's decision not to run again, and the great number of students who backed Eugene McCarthy. McCarthy himself was regarded by revolutionists as unimportant—a "throwaway.")

On the agenda at the luncheon was the formation of a new movement, called the New University Conference, The N.U.C., in the words of its national director, Chicago graduate student Robert Ross, will "lend organized support to student rebellions." It is "an organization of radical scholars, students and intellectuals, working to transform the universities and to use them in the movement for social change."

Meanwhile, the rebels at Columbia promise more trouble; J. Edgar Hoover charges that SDS is conducting workshops in the art of sabotage and the use of explosives; and there is "student" trouble brewing again in Berkeley, California. School may indeed be out for the summer, but the Revolution goes on. When will the American people get around to realizing that?

The Doctor

Says:

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

No Single LE Victim Gets All Complications Q—What is the skin disease that appears in the shape of a butterfly? What are the symptoms and the duration? Is it a real disease or just in the mind?

A—Lupus erythematosus (LE) is sometimes called the butterfly disease because of the configuration of the skin lesion over the bridge of the nose. It is a systemic rather than a skin disease and may cause swollen lymph nodes in the neck and armpits. Most victims have bouts of severe joint and muscle pain. The disease may affect the retina. It may cause pleurisy, heart disease, peptic ulcer, nephritis and convulsions. No one victim, however, gets all of these complications. The disease is chronic and is far from being a figment of the victims' imagination or the result of a nervous upset.

Q—What causes LE? Is there any cure? Can it be inherited? Where can I get the latest literature about it?

A—LE is believed to be caused by a defective gene but the defect may show up in future generations as any one of the so-called collagen diseases which, in addition to LE, include scleroderma, rheumatoid arthritis, dermatomyositis, Hashimoto's thyroiditis and several others. Pregnancy sometimes triggers or aggravates this disease. Although there is no specific cure, much can be done to control the disease if the treatment is started early in its course. Exposure to direct sunlight should be avoided. Surgery should be undertaken only if it is necessary to save life. Antimalarial drugs, salicylates and drugs of the cortisone group are helpful. For more detailed information you may write to the Lupus Erythematosus Foundation, P. O. Box 92, Wyckoff Station, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Q—I use an infrared lamp every morning for 10 to 15 minutes to relieve a backache. Is this treatment beneficial? Could its prolonged use be harmful? Is it necessary to keep the lamp 21 inches from my body?

A—This type of treatment is of value in relieving inflammation and soreness, and is in no way harmful. The lamp should be kept a safe distance from your body to prevent burns—18 to 21 inches is sufficient and will still give you enough heat to be of benefit.

Q—What happens to the gains from this tax increase? The Post Office Department, finally getting "relief" so desperately needed, takes the extra money and raises the pay of all Post Office workers. It never fails—it's like the sunrise.

Naturally, at this point all the other bureaucrats, holler, "me too!" Certainly it is unfair the Post Office workers to be paid at a rate out of line with the rest of the government workers. Anybody can see THAT! So then all the other departments raise salaries to stay in line. (Makes no difference whether this money comes from still higher taxes or merely kicks the national debt higher—it just HAD TO BE. Who could object to the pay of servicemen at war?)

Most people (including some of the politicians) think the politicians (elected officials) run the Federal Government. But in Washington circles that is a big joke. It's the bureaucrats who runs the government. The bureaucrats play the politicians like a musician plays a flute.

It makes little difference to the bureaucrat which party is in power, or which man. Secretary Ezra Benson (R) once told me, "no man alive can handle the monstrosity called USDA." And Senator Herman Talmadge (D) once said in private, "We are going socialistic (that's all-governments—where the bureaucrat is "class"); you can not whip 'em; you might as well join them."

Some may be harder to handle than others, but up until now the bureaucrats have continued to play all the politicians—and all the taxpayers—for the suckers they really are.

During my years in Washington I watched this maddening cycle turn-over and over. One Washington daily has a writer who spends full time on a regular column which does nothing more or less than keep government workers informed about the progress toward their next pay raise. The pattern is always the same.

First, the Post Office reports it is "losing money" (like now); they say unless more money is made available, service will have to be curtailed. Maybe an increase in postage will solve the problem; let the Post Office break even and continue daily service. Of course postage is a tax, but one disguised in such a way that folks don't see it as such—and the biggest "load" can be put on selected groups. So postage is increased.

And what happens to the gains from this tax increase? The Post Office Department, finally getting "relief" so desperately needed, takes the extra money and raises the pay of all Post Office workers. It never fails—it's like the sunrise. Naturally, at this point all the other bureaucrats, holler, "me

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Solemn Promise Kept

Once upon a time in Bessemer, Ala., a 7-year-old boy lay in a hospital bed recovering from a mastoid operation. The lad had visited the Valley of the Shadow at a very tender age, had for days been near death and now was recovering. He was sick enough to hurt, well enough to complain. He wanted to go home.

On the day he was most miserable he was visited by a family friend who mentioned praying for him. "I attend church regularly," the visitor said.

Little Hilary Milton, 7, then said, "If I ever get well I am going to church every Sunday as long as I live!"

He got well and he set out to keep the promise. His first Sunday out of the hospital was the last Sunday of June, 1927. He went to church then and thereafter.

The weeks of perfect attendance stretched into months, then years. The boy's daddy died in April, 1933—on a Sunday. Though his heart was heavy with grief, Hilary Milton went to church.

In 1938, when Hilary was 18, he agreed to an emergency appendectomy only when assured that the preacher would conduct a church service in his sickroom.

Then there was a Sunday in August of 1942 when Aviation Cadet Hilary Milton, stationed in San Antonio, was assigned to hurricane duty. Though threatened by the advancing storm, he and 13 other cadets and three chaplains took time for a worship service in a tent—a tent which shortly thereafter was blown apart and blown away.

Hilary graduated from the University of Alabama in 1949. His church attendance record yet intact. During the winter of '58, Hilary was grown, married, living in Washington, D.C., when there was such a storm that every church in the area was closed. But Hilary pleaded with a pastor until the pastor agreed—then both of them fought their way through the storm to the church—and again Hilary kept his covenant.

In 1962 Hilary joined NASA, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. In his spare time he wrote a book called "The Giltaway Box." No sex, no violence, no pornography—but a success nonetheless. . . . believing on these things, all else shall be added. . . ."

End of January, 1966, another storm hit the Washington, D.C., area. This time it closed all churches and all roads. This time Hilary made arrangements with the C&P Telephone Co., set up and paid for a special conference call linking himself and his family to church services being conducted in a Methodist Church in Oakton, Va.

Then, Christmas, 1967, snow fell relentlessly for two days. The plows were powerless to move it from in front of Hilary's suburban home. But he, determined to keep his promise, set out on foot toward Vienna, Va. Halfway there he got a ride on a truck—and made it to the church on time.

I telephoned Hilary Milton on the 41st "anniversary." He and his family had attended the Church of The Good Shepherd in Vienna.

It has been more than 2,000 Sundays since a little boy in an hour of fear on a bed of pain made a solemn promise. And kept it.

Branch Head Bill Says:

by BILL KENNEDY

They say the Post Office Department "lost" a whole billion dollars over the past year. Wonder how many billions the State Department "lost"?

The Post Office Department has never paid its own way and it never will. It was never really expected to—no more than any other bureau of government is expected to pay its way. So why all the fuss about the amount of money the Post Office costs us—and the talk about cutting back on services?

Let me count the whys. The immediate why is because LBJ wants the people to know what the mean old Congress did to us by (figuratively) cutting back federal spending by $6 billion—instead of $4 billion as he recommended. But that is only a sidelight to the real issue: it's just something for the political analysts to write and talk about.

The big why is because it is time in the bureaucratic cycle to convince the citizenry of the country that the Federal Government needs more money. The Post Office is invariably used for this purpose because it comes nearer affecting all citizens than any other bureau. (Everybody wants the mail to come, even if it's only to find out that he did not get a pay today.) Only after the people are convinced of the need can the bureau expect them to sit still for increases.

And it takes "more money" for the bureaucrats to raise their salaries and hire more people. During my years in Washington I watched this maddening cycle turn-over and over. One Washington daily has a writer who spends full time on a regular column which does nothing more or less than keep government workers informed about the progress toward their next pay raise. The pattern is always the same.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The 17th century was crowded with simultaneous publication of great books and coincidental birth and death of men of genius. The World Almanac notes. The century began with the publication, in 1605, of Bacon's "Advancement of Learning." Cervantes' "Don Quixote" and Shakespeare's "Hamlet." Newton was born in the year that Galileo died, 1642, 100 years after Copernicus' "Revolutions of Heavenly Spheres" appeared.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thomson & McKinnon notes with regret the disappearance in recent years of the "long-term investment mentality."

The firm finds the root of the change in investors' loss of faith in the stability and resilience of our socio-economic institutions. "We think in terms of six month and two years because we may have lost our courage to think in terms of decades," the firm notes.

Tessel, Patrick & Ostrau, Inc., looks for a rally of at least two-weeks duration and perhaps lasting into September, following last week's dip into "deeply oversold territory." The firm points out that many leading issues have entered good support areas, while many others, having remained firm, "appear on the verge of moving out to new heights."

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—In old films on the late show, the reporter races into the newsroom shouting: "Stop the press! I've got a scoop!"

Anyone whose ideas of reporters and the way they go about their craft comes from this suspect source could have had a brilliant example of the way they actually work in real life by staying up early this morning to watch the voting in the Republican National Convention.

Before Richard Nixon grabbed the nomination in the first ballot at Miami Beach the alert Dan Rather of CBS-TV picked up a rumor that the Rockefeller and Reagan strategists were going to try to force the convention to adjourn the vote until today. The theory was they might have more time overnight to break the phalanx of Nixon delegates.

The cameras closed in as Rather checked the story with Sen. John Tower of Texas who believed it. In his glass enclosed anchor booth above the convention floor Walter Cronkite took over the role of a city editor on a newspaper. He directed his floor staff to run down the rumor.

There followed an impressive demonstration of topflight journalists at work. Bill Stout flagged down Rogers Morton, Nixon's floor manager. Mike Wallace burrowed into the Mississippi delegation and found they had been summoned to an immediate caucus with Reagan. Joe Bentl buttonholed Frank Farley of New Jersey, a Nixon stalwart. Ike Pappas stopped Meade Alcorn, Rockefeller floor manager.

Professionals at Work
The cameras followed them. John Hart then got the complete genesis of the rumor from Rep. Clarke MacGregor of Minnesota. All the interviewing was sharp and to the point; the speed and savvy of the floor reporters highly professional. What it added up to was that

Texas Capitol Gets New Look, 'Putrid Yellow'

By ANN WATSON
AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas capitol is getting a new look—putrid yellow.

Tourists and capitol regulars hardly knew whether the new color scheme represented a late April fool joke or an early Halloween.

Bluebonnet lovers suggested the yellow-orange seeping down the 293-foot high dome is part of a plot by sunflower advocates to get the state flower changed.

But state officials offered assurances that the bright unappearing color is only temporary.

"It's a zinc chromate primer that is applied to the metal to provide a seal and a base to which a finish coat can be applied," explained William J. Burke, executive director of the State Board of Control.

Although the dome appears normally to be made of the same pink granite as the rest of the massive statehouse, it actually is constructed of steel.

"We keep it painted pink to match the rest of the building," Burke said.

He said the repainting job is the first in 14 years for the capitol.

"In that time, under the boiling sun and all the elements, the paint is inclined to crack and break away clear down to the primer," he said.

So the old paint and undercoat were sandblasted away, leaving the dome slate gray until the yellow coat was applied.

Only the white 16-foot statue atop the dome remained untouched.

The Nixon adherents firmly believed the story. The Reagan-Rockefellers solidly poo-pooed it. But the exercise lifted the dreary chronicling of every minute of the convention out of the tedium of taking too long to reach a foregone conclusion.

Incidentally although you never see them on the tube, good newspaper and news agency men operate with the same plan. The best thing to do when the next Hollywood cinema-type reporter shouts "Stop the press!" is laugh right into the face of your set.

The coverage of the convention by all three networks has been commendable, particularly the floor reporting of John Chancellor of NBC. But CBS and NBC were prisoners of their own format, i.e. the complete convention gavel-to-gavel. Chet Huntley and David Brinkley of NBC labored as valiantly as Cronkite to inject verbal adrenalin into our quadrennial tribal rites but the thing simply went on too long.

Wrapup Lacks Spark
ABC-TV was thus presented with a glittering opportunity to sweep the ratings with its nightly 90-minute wrapup of the day's events. Howard K. Smith anchored a workmanlike production which somehow lacked the spark that would have—as many in the industry believe it could have—completely demolished the opposition prime time. ABC had the advantage of lead-ins from such alternate and widely popular fare as "Cowboy in Africa," "Rat Patrol" and "Garrison's Gorillas."

It also had one of the delights of the convention coverage, the urbane, elegant duel of wits between the right wings' William Buckley Jr., and author-politician Gore Vidal who belongs to the liberals. Buckley said Wednesday night that he was convinced crime in the streets would be a bigger campaign issue than Vietnam.

ABC's coverage did improve Wednesday night after a choppy start Monday and it is no secret its summary formula was closely studied by the other networks. The 1968 conventions may be the last uncritically followed for every moment of their existence. The man who said: "The true essence of art is knowing what to leave out" wasn't referring to politics, but NBC and CBS might do worse than ponder his words for 1972.

Washington Report

From Congress
BOB PRICE, 10TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

The House of Representatives last week passed a one-year extension of the present four-year farm program which would expire at the end of 1969. The Senate had already approved a four-year extension.

But in addition to the extension, an amendment to limit payments to any one farm operator to $20,000 was also tacked onto the bill. The Senate had rejected limitation amendment attempts.

So if any extension is approved this year, it will have to be a compromise between the House and Senate versions of the bill and there is some question whether an agreement can be reached.

I supported a one-year extension of the farm program to give farmers the lead time needed to make essential plans for planting and marketing. At the same time it would provide the necessary interval in which the next Congress, and the next Administration could formulate an effective farm program, a program which would improve the economic status of American agriculture, reverse the trend from costly government programs, and assure an adequate food supply at reasonable rates.

I opposed any limitation of payments because I believe this will penalize those who are willing to take the risks and initiate involved in larger operations or in expansion. Also, it will force the larger operators into unlimited production and bring on lower prices for both small and large operators.

Why should the farmer who operates an efficient farm and has been willing to assume the debt and risks of a larger operation be penalized for trying to expand and better himself? Net income even to large farm operators is certainly far below the average returns for most other business and industry. I certainly do not believe the present program now in its third year, has done what it was intended to do in achieving a parity position for our farmers with other citizens in industry and commerce.

The parity ratio, which averaged 85 during the eight years of the Eisenhower Administration, averaged only 74 for 1967 as a whole and is now down to 73. Even the adjusted parity ratio, which includes direct payments to farmers is down eight points and on both an adjusted and unadjusted basis, the parity ratio is the lowest it has been.

ABC's coverage did improve Wednesday night after a choppy start Monday and it is no secret its summary formula was closely studied by the other networks. The 1968 conventions may be the last uncritically followed for every moment of their existence. The man who said: "The true essence of art is knowing what to leave out" wasn't referring to politics, but NBC and CBS might do worse than ponder his words for 1972.

Unemployed Who Don't Want To Work Drove Company To Mexico

By KENNETH R. CLARK
REYNOSA, MEXICO (UPI)—Unemployed Americans who "don't want to work" have driven T. A. Tredway to Mexico—and he said recently he intends to stay there despite U. S. Customs laws which charged are jeopardizing the Mexican frontier industrial program.

Tredway, whose textile manufacturing firm turns out infant wear and little girls' dresses on a world-wide marketing scale, is the first American manufacturer to move to the city of Reynosa under terms of Mexico's border program. Those goods to come into the country duty-free, to be finished by Mexico labor for export back into the U. S.

The motive—as with firms establishing plants in Hong Kong and Taiwan—is low cost labor, but according to Tredway, his move so far has induced one headache after another. Most of the pain, he added, has been centered north, not south, of the border.

Tredway said his greatest burden so far has been U. S. Customs insistence that any 100 per cent cotton fabric, take into Mexico for export back into the United States, be charged against Mexico's cotton allotment.

As a result, the Mexican government has refused Tredway a permit to manufacture all-cotton garments at this Reynosa plant. Pure cotton, he said, normally comprises as much as half his company's output, and without it, he is unable to set up the ideal system of a continuous production line.

"This really is just a technicality," he said, "and it's ridiculous. All of the cotton we use is grown, picked, ginned, and spun in the United States. We cut the fabric at our Denison (Tex.) plant, and ship the piece goods over to Reynosa for finishing. There is no logical reason why its return should be charged against Mexico's cotton allotments because no Mexican cotton is involved."

He said an "equally ridiculous" U. S. Customs ruling forces duty on the frilly infant clothing the manufacturers from 20 to 42.5 per cent. The higher rate is levied on "ornamented goods" and for a firm that buys and sews 1.5 million yards of French lace a year, the difference is considerable.

As a result, the Mexican gov-
