Officers Arrest Counterfeiters

By JEFF HOLLADAY
 Pampa News Staff Writer
 Three Liberal, Kan. men and one man from Pampa are being held in Gray County jail on charges stemming from passing counterfeit $20 bills here yesterday.

The four were all arrested yesterday afternoon and arraigned before Justice of the Peace E. L. Anderson shortly after 4 p.m.

They were identified as Harold K. Wares, 29, John Richard Flores, 22, and Willis F. Whitley, 37, all of Liberal; and Clyde T. Durham Jr., 35, of Pampa. Durham and Whitley are Negroes.

Gray County Sheriff R. H. (Rufe) Jordan said 12 counterfeit $20 bills have been recovered so far. He said at least four of the bills were passed and recovered and the rest were recovered from clothing and wallets of the four men.

"We know there's some more bills out," Sheriff Jordan said, "but we haven't been able to round them all up yet."

Jordan said he received a tip about 11:15 yesterday morning that the counterfeit bills were being passed in the south part of town.

Units from the police and sheriff's office converged on the section, hoping to catch the counterfeiters.

"We were all there about nine minutes after I got the news, and I hoped that we might be able to seal the area off," the sheriff said.

Jordan, who was coordinating the units, said he received a call about 12:30 that a car fitting the description of the one sought had been spotted.

Wares and Flores were in the auto, apparently waiting for Whitley, who had gone to pass one of the bills at the nearby Top O' Texas Conoco service station, 845 W. Wilks.

The two men in the auto were arrested and Whitley was caught a short time later. He was apprehended in the south part of town, where he had fled after noticing that Wares and Flores were not in the auto.

Ronnie Hadley, the attendant at the service station, identified Whitley as the man who had passed a counterfeit bill at the service station.

United Fund Drive Still Shy Of Goal

Pampa United Good Neighbor campaign leaders are spending the weekend checking out the still unworked prospect cards and packets.

According to past experience and the number of cards and packets still unworked, these should contain enough money to make the drive a success.

Pampa United Good Neighbor totals are now just in excess of $70,000, with the goal set at $84,200.

There is at least one major contributor which will make the total much better than it does when it is turned in. Even with this added to the total however, it remains for the other outstanding cards to make the drive a success.

The drive has been extended in order that all these cards can be worked and United Fund leaders again asked that workers complete their cards or turn them in so that someone else may work them. They also asked that everyone check "Fair Share Giving" when the United Good Neighbor Worker comes along.

Durham, the fourth member of the counterfeiting team, was arrested a short time later.

Durham, Whitley and Flores have been charged by district attorney's office with passing as true a false instrument. Wares has been charged with possession of false instruments with intent to pass.

A Secret Service agent arrived late Saturday from Dallas to continue investigation.

Sheriff Jordan had high praise for the law enforcement agencies who participated in the capture of the counterfeiters.

"Our boys, the police and the Highway Patrol all worked real hard and fast on this and stopped this from spreading further before it had really gotten started good," the sheriff said.

Political Pot Begins To Boil In Local Races

Political heat will begin to intensify this week as local and district candidates seek to clear the last hurdle in their quest for public office—the Nov. 5 general election.

Two of the hottest races are expected to be for representative of the 18th Congressional District, and county attorney for Gray County.

Incumbent Republican Bob Price is being challenged for his post of 18th Congressional District Representative by J. R. (Dick) Brown of Hartley, the Democratic candidate.

Locally, Republican candidate Ben Sturgeon and Democratic nominee John Warner square off in their bids for the job of county attorney in what some observers see as an exciting down-the-wire race.

The post was thrown open when County Attorney Don Cain, who has held office for 15 years, announced his intention to run for district attorney after Dist. Attorney Bill Waters said he would not seek re-election.

Warner won the Democratic nomination when he narrowly defeated Harold Comer in the May Democratic primary.

Cain was narrowly defeated in that primary by Guy Hardin of Shamrock, county attorney of Wheeler County, whose victory is tantamount to election since Hardin is unopposed in the general election.

In other opposed elections, Joe K. Clarke of Lefors, the Democratic incumbent county commissioner of Pct. 1, is being opposed by Republican Buddy Cockrell; Democratic incumbent H. A. Doggett, constable of Pct. 2, is being challenged by Republican James Lewis; and Justice of the Peace of Pct. 2 Place 1, Nat Lunsford, the Democratic incumbent, faces opposition from Republican nominee Homer Gibson.

Unopposed district and local candidates are:

State Representative, 79th District — Malouf Abraham of Canadian, Republican, the incumbent.

District Attorney, 31st District — Guy Hardin of Shamrock, Democrat.

Gray County Sheriff — R. H. (Rufe) Jordan, Democrat, the incumbent.

Gray County Commissioner, Pct. 3 — James McCracken, (See RACES, age 3)

'Gladys' Rips Path Of Death Across Florida

By CHARLES S. ALDINGER
 JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Hurricane Gladys ripped a path of death and destruction across the waist of Florida from the gulf to the Atlantic Saturday, then edged menacingly toward the Carolinas with new-found fury and 100 mph winds.

A hurricane watch was ordered from Charleston, S. C. to Hatteras, N. C.

Gladys left three dead and drove 40,000 persons from their homes in its destructive march across Florida. Officials said damage in the Sunshine State would be counted in the millions of dollars.

Changes Course

The storm turned its destructive force on the Jacksonville Beach area after emerging into the Atlantic, then began inching again toward the mainland as it swirled generally northeastward in the Atlantic.

"Reports from an Air Force reconnaissance aircraft and from radars at Daytona Beach and Charleston indicate that Hurricane Gladys is momentarily moving closer to the U.S. coastline and has reached a greater intensity than at any time in her history," the Weather Bureau warned at 2 p.m.

At that hour the storm was centered about 85 miles southeast of Savannah and 370 miles southwest of Hatteras, N. C. The Weather Bureau said that "while the recent small change in course to the left is not expected to bring Gladys inland, it will bring the center to within 30 to 50 miles of the coast later this afternoon and tonight."

Florida's gulf coast got the initial blast from the storm, which thundered ashore on a high tide at midnight at Homosassa Springs, 50 miles north of Tampa.

Driven by winds that gusted at over 100 mph, an eight foot wall of water smashed over seawalls, inundated highways, tore homes from their foundations and consumed valuable tourist beaches.

Insured losses in Ocala alone were estimated at $250,000 and Pinellas County (St. Petersburg) Sheriff Don Genung said damage in the Sunset Beach area would total over $1-million.

"Most of our damage was from high water," said Genung, who estimated total damage at "perhaps several million dollars."

Damage Negligible

Winds of about 70 mph raked the northern fringe of Florida's million dollar citrus belt, but early reports indicated damage to the crop was negligible. Some citrusmen said the heavy rains were welcome to build up irrigation ponds, although there was some droppage and scarring of fruit.

City Commission To Study November Holidays 'Switch'

The Pampa City Commission will consider a plan Tuesday to switch November holidays around so they will really count.

The proposal is to change the currently authorized Veterans' Day holiday on Nov. 11 to the Friday after Thanksgiving, effective next month.

If the change is okayed by the commission, city workers would work on Veterans Day and take off Thanksgiving Day and the day following. This would provide a four-day holiday period through Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The change, Mayor Jim Nation said Saturday, will be made to permit commissioners and other city officials to attend the annual meeting of the Texas Municipal League Nov. 10-13 in Dallas.

Other business scheduled on the Tuesday agenda includes: Receiving bids for commercial refuse containers and a report from the consulting engineer on the city's 1968 paving program.

Demonstrations To Close Arts, Crafts Fair Here

The second annual Arts and Crafts Fair, being held on the mall of Coronado Center, will close this afternoon. The exhibition is being conducted under the sponsorship of the Pampa Fine Arts Association.

The fair features outdoor booths occupied by artisans exhibiting their crafts. All items excepting those in the special Rotary Club exhibit are for sale.

Pampa Rotary Club is sponsoring a special exhibit of serigraphs, woodcuts and line prints by foreign students. The club sponsors the exchange of original art between Pampa High School students and students of other nations.

These items will not be sold but will be shown for enjoyment of the public, according to Rev. Sam Hulsey, chairman.

A series of demonstrations have been scheduled for this afternoon. A demonstration on making pottery will be given from 1 to 2 p.m. by Mrs. Charles Henry, Dodge City, Kan. Marion George will demonstrate wood carving from 2 to 3 p.m.

Chris Gikas, professor of art from Eastern New Mexico University, will offer a demonstration on jewelry making from 3 to 4 p.m. China painting will be demonstrated from 4 to 5 p.m. by Mrs. Olive Hills.

Demonstrations yesterday included sponge painting, Mrs. Olive Hills; sculpturing of spheres in stone, C.W. Stowell; making artificial flowers, Pat Howell and Lil Hall, and arrowhead chipping, Joe Keel.

Booths offering arts and crafts items for sale are conducted by Mrs. J. V. Gallegos, Tucumcari, N.M.; Marion George, Mrs. Lloyd Harvey, Mrs. Don Minnick, John Palminteri, Sue Shirley; Mrs. Charles Henry, Dodge City, Kan.; Eura Saul, Miami; Keel's Rock Shop, Paint Pot and Piddle Club and Pampa Art Club.

A White Elephant booth, under the direction of Mrs. Tommie Grant, will offer for sale items donated by patrons of the association.

A gourmet booth featuring food prepared by local cooks will be open during the fair. All proceeds will go to programs benefiting the community as sponsored by the association.

Peace Talks Impossible?

By DANIEL SOUTHERLAND
 SAIGON (UPI)—President Nguyen Van Thieu said Saturday an unconditional halt in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam was "impossible" and that South Vietnam would never negotiate with the Viet Cong.

Thieu outlined South Vietnam's position in a news broadcast throughout South Vietnam. It was his first public statement since he began a series of urgent meetings with U.S. ambassador Ellis Bunker over the possibility of an agreement on a bombing halt between the United States and North Vietnam.

Returning to this theme in this television address, Thieu indirectly warned the United States against a sellout to the allied governments and peoples, the government and peoples of the free world, and the persons who have shown their love and goodwill for peace.

The South Vietnamese leader was adamant about his refusal to recognize the National Liberation Front (NLF), political arm of the Viet Cong, or hold any talks with it. He said North Vietnam must "talk directly" with South Vietnam.

"We never recognize the NLF so we never negotiate with them as individuals, an entity, much less as a government," Thieu said.

Unconfirmed Reports

There have been unconfirmed reports that a U.S. bombing agreement admitting South Vietnamese officials and NLF representatives to the Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam, thus expanding conference into full-fledged peace negotiations.

Thieu said that before a bombing halt could be ordered North Vietnam would have to agree to de-escalate the war. He said a bombing halt would be a matter of "goodwill" so North Vietnam would have to answer with its goodwill also.

Restates Stand

President Nguyen Van Thieu Saturday reiterated his hardline stand in the face of worldwide speculation about a possible U.S. bombing halt against North Vietnam. He said such a halt was "impossible" without reciprocal de-escalation by North Vietnam.

"Missions were scheduled for Saturday and bombers are flying right now," a spokesman for the U.S. Command said.

Monsoon rains and clouds pouring out of China were restricting pilots, and headquarters said only 102 missions were flown Friday.

Thieu spoke with newsmen at Vung Tau a few hours after Communist troops fired 107 of their big 122mm Soviet-made rockets into the coastal resort, 42 miles southeast of Saigon.

SAIGON (UPI)—American bombers streaked into North Vietnam for a new series of raids Saturday, and the U.S. Command reported 135 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in a series of scattered battle in South Vietnam.

Despite the fighting, the ground war remained in a general lull and a further reduction in combat was expected as tropical storm Hester bore down on the South Vietnamese coast 100 miles east of Saigon.

Island Is Polished To Last Stone

By ROBERT MUSEL
 UPI Senior Editor

NIDRION, Greece (UPI)—The Isle of Skorprios, polished down to the last stone, fairly gleamed Saturday for the Sunday wedding of Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Aristotle Onassis.

The couple, along with a dozen or so guests already on hand, spent their pre-wedding night aboard the yacht Christina, anchored in a deeply inset bay of the island. It was expected there would be a party aboard the ship, virtually a floating palace.

The Christina was being used as a house, since the 62-year-old Onassis has not gotten around to building a 180-room mansion he has planned for the island.

Quiet Day

Aside from some trouble with the hordes of journalists and photographers who have descended on the area, Saturday was spent quietly. There were reports Onassis and Mrs. Kennedy, 39, went to the little white chapel on the island, where they will be married in a Greek Orthodox ceremony Sunday, for a wedding rehearsal. But this was not officially confirmed.

The latest arrival was Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and her husband, Prince Stanislaus Radziwill. When they arrived at Athens airport before flying to Skorprios Princess Radziwill told reporters the wedding would take place at 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EDT) Sunday and would last for about an hour.

It was the first word on any exact plans.

Religious Barriers 'Clearing Up'

ATHENS (UPI)—Informed sources said Saturday religious barriers to the wedding of Jacqueline Kennedy and Aristotle Onassis apparently have been cleared. They said the marriage Sunday will be recognized as valid by both the Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox church.

There had been some confusion among laymen and churchmen over Onassis' divorce in Alabama eight years ago by his first wife.

As a Catholic, Mrs. Kennedy is bound by church law holding that marriage to a divorced person is "an adulterous union," rather than true Christian matrimony. Vatican legal experts said Friday she would be regarded as a "public sinner" in the eyes of the church if the Greek Orthodox church did not recognize the Onassis divorce.

On Saturday, a church spokesman said Mrs. Onassis obtained an ecclesiastical divorce (See RELIGIOUS, Page 3)

Knife, Fork Club Will Hear East Texas Humorist In Tuesday Meet

East Texas residents will tell you that the biggest integration or segregation problem is in Texas itself and, among all things, Texans themselves.

According to some of the old East Texas residents, their "folk" don't "cotton" much to people residing in other parts of Texas. East Texans, they insist, are a brand unto themselves.

One of those East Texans... to some of the area's theories, is coming to Pampa. He is "Bob" Murphey, a member of the legal profession who says he has won more cases from the speaker's platform than from the courtroom. He will be "on trial" Tuesday evening at 7:30 when the Pampa Knife and Fork Club meets in the Starlight Room at Coronado Inn.

Tickets are now on sale at Malone Pharmacy in Coronado Center. Deadline for purchasing tickets is Monday at 1 p.m.

Murphey, a native of Nacogdoches, says he speaks perfect East Texas and fair English. He enjoys life in the Deep East Texas region where he was born and reared. Murphey has observed the Texas scene as a war-time Merchant Marine officer, sergeant-at-arms of the Texas House of Representa-

Prairie Trails & Pioneer Tales

By TRACY D. CARY
Chairman, Gray County Historical
Survey Committee — Box 676

CAN YOU TELL US?

With the passing of the years, many interesting personalities, businesses, and events that played a prominent role in our community life in former days have almost been forgotten and the memory of them all but gone. . . . If any of our readers has knowledge of the following, we would like for you to contact the Historical Survey Committee. . . . in a conversation with a friend this week he mentioned that there was at one time a cotton gin in Pampa located near the railroad in the southwest part of town. . . . can anyone give us more information about it? . . . who owned or operated the gin and what name did it have? . . . also, we would like to know more about the nitro-glycerine plant that was at one time located just east of Pampa. . . . and does anyone know what became of the World War I cannon that used to be on display on the north side of the Pampa City Hall? . . . and we'd also like to have more information on the old swimming pool that was located just east of Gwendolen St. and Price Rd. . . . the ruins of the concrete walls of the pool are still standing. . . . the committee would like to know when this pool began and who operated it.

WORLD'S TALLEST MAN

To have an opportunity to see the thinnest, shortest, heaviest, oldest, or fastest of anything is to experience something which leaves an indelible impression. . . . such was the case when the world's tallest man, Robert Pershing Wadlow, made his appearance in Pampa and we were among the many people who saw him make his bow to the local scene at the corner of Cuyler and Foster Sts. in front of where Levine's Department Store was then located. . . . born an 8½ lb. baby in 1918 in Alton, Illinois, he died on July 15, 1940 at Manistee, Mich., weighing 491 lbs. . . . he attained the astounding height of 8 feet 10.3 inches. . . . modern opinion now tends to the view that Robert Wadlow was the tallest man of time of whom there is irrefutable evidence. . . . does anyone remember the exact date he came to Pampa? It must have been in the late 1930's, but we need the exact date.

PAMPANS IN THE MOVIES

Also in the 30's when the "Our Gang Comedies" were the rage and every Saturday night was bank night at the LaNora Theatre, a Motion Picture Company from Hollywood came to Pampa and conducted a screen test, auditioning talented (and some not-so-talented) youngsters for what loomed as a promising and fabulous career alongside Spanky, Alfalfa, Buckwheat, Darla and all the rest. . . . preliminary auditions and eliminations were conducted prior to the filming. . . . and when the final scenes were shot (and many of them were just that) the vocal solos and dancing acts were filmed on the front porch of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Rose, 1900 Mary Ellen St. . . . the late Carl Benefiel was then manager of the Lanora Theatre and a roll of this film was developed in California and sent back to him. . . . from time to time over a period of some ten years, Carl would surprise the theatre patrons with an "extra comedy" and play a re-run of "Our Gang—Pampa Style" . . . this was the first time, as far as we have been able to determine, that a real-live Hollywood movie crew ever filmed a motion picture in Pampa. . . . the result was probably so hilariously devastating they just never had the nerve to come back, notwithstanding several admirably performed acts and a skit involving the "kidnap" and "rescue" of the charming young heroine in true "Our Gang" style there were also other little bits of disaster. . . . one 7-year-old nearly gave the director apoplexy in making his entrance to perform vocally "Sing an old Fashioned Song to a Young Sophisticated Lady" . . . was struck with stage fright at the sight of the cameraman and a front lawn full of on-lookers and sang instead, "Is It True What They Say About Dixie?" . . . ah!way through the song, the director realized that the lyrics were going in the direction of Jones' and the accompaniment was going in the direction of Smith's and called "Cut! Cut! Cut!!!" The whole thing had to be shot again. . . . and Shot it was, but the Lanora was packed for the first showing. A large group of Pampa youngsters were in this film, and we would like to hear from any others who performed in it. . . . it is thought that the copy Carl Benefiel had was destroyed when the Lanora burned. . . . does anyone know for sure? We would like to have the complete list of performers for our records.

EARLY LEFORS PAPERS

The Committee extends a special vote of thanks to Mrs. R. C. Ogden of Lefors for providing us with a copy of the very first issue of The Lefors News, issued Thursday, Sept. 25, 1930, and advertised as "the Successor to the Alanreed Herald" . . . the charge for a one year's subscription was $1 per year. . . . and we are a bit confused by the date line, however, as it says Volume 4, Number 15. . . . perhaps this refers to the predecessor, The Alanreed Herald. can anyone tell us for sure about this? The publisher was C. C. Warford. . . . we will have more news from this rare issue at a latter date. . . . by Nov. 4, 1932 the depression had hit and the price was 50 cents a year.

REMEMBER

"BULL" DURHAM? The Friday, Sept. 30, 1932 issue of The Lefors News sent in by Mrs. Ogden states that possibly the highest price ever received for a sack of tobacco was obtained on a South Sea Island in 1903. A tourist who had missed his boat whiled away his time watching the pearl divers of the island. . . . One of the natives who saw him roll himself a cigarette from his sack of "Bull" Durham offered to buy the tobacco. As it was the last one available on the island, the tourist was reluctant to part with it for any price; so the pearl diver finally offered him the pearls in the next five shells which he was about to open.

The traveler agreed. . . . the first four shells contained only very small seed pearls, but the 5th disclosed a pearl of size, coloring and texture that allowed the traveler when he returned to his home to sell the pearl for $16,400. . . . all for his five-cent package of "Bull" Durham.

PIONEER HISTORIES

There is still time to be included in the Pioneer Family section of the Gray County History now underway. . . . we would like to have the story of every Gray County Family who came here by Jan. 1926. . . . if you need any other information, please call MO 5-5528.

Onassis The Golden Greek

By United Press International
Aristotle Onassis—The Golden Greek who won the heart of Jacqueline Kennedy

Aristotle Socrates Onassis is quite a guy in anybody's language.

He knows seven languages and when he talks somewhere between $500 million and $1 billion speak. Pretty good for a little fellow who began his adulthood in a prison in Smyrna, Turkey. Nine years later he was a millionaire in Argentina. Twenty years later he bought the bank at Monte Carlo. Now he is going to marry one of the world's most famous women, Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

As he sees it, success was just a matter of "hard work—and eagerness to go ahead and do something." He sometimes goes a week with only three or four hours of sleep a day, then sometimes he sleeps for 24 hours. Sometimes he stays up all night in nightclubs.

Onassis' background and that of John F. Kennedy, born to wealth and political position are very contrasting. His father was a Greek tobacco merchant, one of many Greeks living in the Turkish empire. When the new Turkish government under Kemal Ataturk drove the Greeks from the Aegean littoral in 1922, Onassis lost four uncles and aunts and numerous cousins in the slaughter. He himself was imprisoned briefly.

Emigrates to Argentina
The family fled to Athens but times were hard and 17-year-old Aristotle, who had gotten little formal education, decided to emigrate to Argentina. He took only $60 with him and by teaching himself Spanish and getting a night telephone operator job, he was able to deal in tobacco during the day. Within several years he had imported $2 million worth of Greek tobacco and earned $100,000.

Onassis next tried his hand at manufacturing cigarettes and added wool, hides, grain and whale oil to his interests. During the depression he bought six ships from a Montreal company for $120,000, and later began to build up a tanker fleet. By 1939 he had commissioned his own tanker and in the ensuing war he and his future father-in-law Stavros Livanos, and his brother-in-law Stravros Niarchos dominated the allied tanker fleets.

Monaco Headquarters
In the 1950s he purchased the world famous Monte Carlo Casino and made Monaco headquarters for some 30 of his business firms. Later he had a falling out with Prince Rainier III and withdrew most of his interests from the principality. In 1957 he founded the Olympic Airlines, a Green national line which was flying transatlantic within 10 years. He has put more than $50 million into the airline alone.

Onassis married Athina (Tina) Livanos, fragile blonde daughter of his competitor in 1946 when she was only 16. The marriage soured after he met colorful opera singer Maria Callas more than a decade later and Mrs. Onassis obtained a quickie divorce suit in Alabama on grounds of mental cruelty in 1960.

The couple have a son, Alexander, 20, and a daughter, Christina, 18. Both are U.S. citizens.

Onassis treasures the memories of his friendships with Sir Winston Churchill, who used to cruise on the palatial Onassis yacht, and President John F. Kennedy. He introduced Sir Winston to Kennedy shortly before Kennedy became president.

LEE TRACY
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Lee Tracy, who played a wise-cracking reporter in "The Front Page" in the 1930s and who parodied Harry Truman in "The Best Man" in the 1960s, died Friday at age 70.

Funeral services were to be held in Beverly Hills with burial in Shavertown, Pa, beside the graves of his parents.

DEWARD BECK
Funeral services for Deward Alexander Beck, 66, 312 N. Banks, who was found dead at his home shortly after noon Friday, were held at 4 p.m. Saturday at Pampa Baptist Temple, with Rev. Cliff McDougal, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Memory Gardens directed by Duenkel Funeral Home directors.

G. L. (Nat) Lunsford, justice of the peace, ruled death by self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

Mr. Beck, born Aug. 8, 1902, at Bryson, was a retired employe of the Pampa street department. A former McLean resident, he moved to Mobette in 1940 and in 1950 moved to Pampa. He retired from the city in Jan., 1966.

Survivors are his wife, Lorene, Pampa; one son, Larry Beck, Amarillo; one daughter, Mrs. Eldon Brown, Amarillo; two sisters, Mrs. Claude Brown and Miss Ann Beck, both of Phillips; two brothers, Luke E. Beck, Wellington, and L. O. Beck, Canyon City, Colo.

Palbearers were Wilton Harvey, Elvie Baumgardner, Willie Hunt, Jerry Reagan, William Kpler and Jesse Ring.

HELEN MAE GREGORY
Helen Mae Gregory, 72, born July 23, 1896, in Oklahoma, died at 1:55 p.m. Friday in Highland General Hospital, after a two-year illness. She had been hospitalized here about five days.

A Borger resident 20 years, she was a member of the Borger Church of Christ.

Survivors are her husband, Oliver C. Gregory, Borger; one daughter, Mrs. Pauline Draper Frith; four sons, Harold Gregory, Phoenix, Ariz., Quentin Gregory, Whitesboro; Hershel Gregory, Denison, and Jimmy Gregory, Sweethome, Ore., one sister, Mrs. Fae Coleman, Denison, six brothers, Leonard Ramey and Imer Ramey, both of Denison; Carl Ramey, Kindel Ramey, and Arley Ramey, all of Colbert, Okla., and O. C. Ramey, Hendrix, Okla., and 18 grandchildren.

Richard's Funeral Home of Whitesboro will have charge of services. Time of services is pending. Pampa arrangements were directed by Carmichael-Whately Funeral Home Directors.

American Party Headquarters Slates Opening

Campaign headquarters for Gov. George Wallace, third-party presidential candidate, will formally open Monday at 1321 Wilks (Amarillo highway), announced Jerry Perry, county chairman for the American Party.

American Party volunteer workers will be on hand from 9 a. m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, Perry said.

Literature, bumper stickers and other information on Wallace and the American Party will be available. The headquarters will remain open until election time.

"We must stand on our feet now, while we can do so," Perry said, "for the time seems alarmingly near when we will be in the position of trying to resist communism in our government, and the job then will be harder, if not impossible."

A sample ballot will be posted so everyone can look it over and see who all the candidates are and familiarize themselves with the ballot, Perry explained.

lians were killed and 19 other persons, including eight U.S. servicemen, were wounded in the attack, spokesmen said.

The boatload of Communists believed responsible for the Vung Tau attack paid for the vessel with about 20 Reds aboard was apparently trying to make a getaway when it ran into a pair of U.S. Navy gunboats in the Mo Nhat River.

Texans Get Chance To Abolish Some Property Taxes Nov. 5th

(Note: This is the first of four articles on the 14 proposed constitutional amendments that will be on the Nov. 5 ballot in Texas.)

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texans will get a chance Nov. 5 to abolish part of their property taxes.

One of the 14 proposed constitutional amendments on the Texas ballot—amendment No. 7—would phase out all of the state ad valorem tax except the special levy of 10 cents per $100 valuation that finances construction of college buildings.

The present 35-cent state levy that goes for public school operations would be reduced by five cents each year, beginning in 1969. By 1975 it would be abolished.

A special two-cent levy that provides pensions for Confederate widows and Texas Rangers would be replaced with a trust fund by 1976, leaving only the 10-cent college building tax.

Other taxes would have to be collected, of course, to absorb the loss of revenue. In fiscal 1968, the ad valorem tax levies that would be abolished by amendment No. 7 raised $47 million.

City, county and school district taxes would not be affected. Since these levies make up most of the property tax bill, most taxpayers would see no dramatic reduction in their total taxes.

Gov. John Connally proposed abolition of the state ad valorem tax on grounds it is inequitable, hard to collect, and of minor importance in the total state revenue picture.

There is no organized opposition.

Two other amendments affecting property taxes are on the ballot. They would retain their importance even if No. 7 is approved, because they grant exemptions from local as well as state ad valorem taxes.

Amendment No. 6 would permit the legislature to grant tax exemptions to industries that intend to comply with pollution requirements.

Details are left up to the legislature, and the enabling legislation has not yet been written.

The only restriction in the amendment is that the equipment must be installed to comply with or exceed air or water quality standards established by law.

State Rep. Rex Braun of Houston.

'Discrimination' Is Charged By Wallace Group

AMARILLO (UPI)—The chairman for the George Wallace campaign in Amarillo, W. M. Anderson, Saturday complained his candidate has been discriminated against in the city.

Anderson said he had information that the Amarillo city manager's office "had succumbed to threats of violence" and that Wallace signs on city buses which run through Negro communities had been removed.

"Is the NAACP running the city, or our city manager John Stiff?" Anderson asked.

Dr. Richard W. Jones, president of the Amarillo NAACP, said the organization had threatened the city with a boycott if the signs were not removed. He said that while the organization did not threaten violence, he knew it would very likely occur if the signs were not removed. Stiff was unreachable.

Pampan Escapes Injury in Wreck

A 20-year-old Pampa man escaped serious injury early Saturday morning when he lost control of his vehicle in the 300 block of S. Tignor and skidded 200 feet before his auto struck a Santa Fe flatcar at a siding near Tyng St.

Domingo Velasquez of 901 E. Gordon was taken to Worley Hospital by Pampa police, suffering from cuts and lacerations. About 40 stitches were taken in his left shoulder, police said, but he was later released.

He was arrested at his residence a short time after the accident and taken to Worley Hospital. He was given tickets for speeding, disregarding a stop sign and failure to leave information at the scene of an accident.

ton, an anti-pollution crusader, is leading an attempt to defeat the amendment on grounds it would cost state and local governments at least $100 million a year without substantially reducing pollution.

Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, who sponsored the amendment in the legislature, said it would encourage industry to speed up anti-pollution efforts.

Amendment No. 13 would provide a tax exemption for merchandise stored temporarily.

The exemption would apply only to property shipped to or from a warehouse by private carrier, and stored for less than six months while en route to an out-of-state destination.

All of the states bordering on Texas offer such tax exemption and manufacturers claim the Texas tax puts the state at a competitive disadvantage and retards its growth as a distribution center.

Smoking Dangers Are Cited By Tuberculosis Chairman

"The time to stop a youngster from smoking is before he starts—not after," says Dr. James P. Cornette, newly-announced chairman of the Top O' Texas 1968 Christmas Seal campaign.

Dr. Cornette, President of West Texas State University, mentioned that over a thousand deaths from emphysema—sometimes called "the smoker's disease"—occurred in Texas last year. "If we are going to prevent emphysema at age forty or fifty," he said, "we have got to educate the individual to the danger of smoking by age fifteen—or before."

Numerous medical groups have warned that smoking is a causative factor in emphysema, a condition in which the small air sacs of the lungs have lost their elasticity to the point that they cannot expel carbon dioxide from the lungs and replace it with fresh air. The end result is a slow, smothering death as body cells deteriorate from lack of oxygen—along with changes of personality, disastrous to marriage and other personal relationships as the brain cells deteriorate.

Sponsored by the Top of Texas Tuberculosis Association, the campaign will fund a massive health-education campaign directed toward the dangers of the cigarette habit and in-little to be seen of Mrs. Kennedy, and Onassis himself did not appear above decks on the Christina.

Powerful motorboats with sailors and men from the island aboard kept reporters and newsmen away from both the island and the Christina.

When Mrs. Kennedy finally appeared on deck, accompanied by her two children, 10-year-old Caroline and John Jr., 7, they were allowed in close to take pictures of her.

Hugs and Smiles
Dressed in white slacks and a black high-necked sweater, she hugged her children and smiled as the flashbulbs popped from the small flotilla of rowboats on the emerald green sea beside the yacht.

One photographer yelled in English, "How are you?"

"I am very happy," Mrs. Kennedy replied with a smile.

Throughout the day there was activity on Skorpios and both the helicopter and Onassis's seaplane, which can be kept aboard the Christina, were in constant action.

For the few hundred citizens of this little fishing village that sits on the island of Levkas just across the way from Skorpios it was a day to remember. Fishing was forgotten as the men hired their boats out to the swarms of newsmen and photographers. That came to an end late in the day when the harbor master—apparently on a request from Onassis—closed the harbor to small craft, successfully cutting off the rowboat trade.

Another thrill for the local people, who live on a day to day survival basis that strongly contrasts with the multimillion dollar luxury of the Christina and the antiseptic, polished beauty of Skorpios, came when Onassis helicopter buzzed the village.

For no apparent reason, just as dusk was falling, it swept low over the bay and village several times.

It appeared to be a joy ride—and the villagers took it as such. It was impossible to see who was aboard the craft at the time.

Police Probe 2 Break-Ins

Break-ins at two Pampa businesses were reported to police Saturday morning, but investigating officers said nothing was taken from either place.

The break-ins occurred at the Pampa Roller Rink, 123 N. Ward, and the Harvester Pit Barbecue, 1404 N. Banks.

In other police news over the weekend:

—James Lloyd Larkin of 1102 E. Francis told police shortly after midnight Saturday that someone had run into the fence and garage at the residence which he rents, causing an estimated $250 damage.

—An estimated $25 damage was caused by vandals at a used car lot on W. Foster. The incident was reported Saturday morning.

—Hubcaps valued at $20 were reported taken from a vehicle parked at Pampa High School Friday afternoon.

—An estimated $35 damage to a residence at 1148 Varnon Drive was reported Friday afternoon. Police said a fence had been torn completely down.

—A bicycle valued at $39 was reported taken from a parking lot near Robert E. Lee Junior High School Friday afternoon.

Wallace Still Man To Beat In The South

By JAMES K. CAZALAS
ATLANTA (UPI) — Subtle shifts are taking place in the South during the final days of the presidential campaign, but George C. Wallace is still the man to beat.

Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey have made some gains in Dixie but Wallace still has a healthy lead in most states.

The former Alabama governor has his home state in his pocket and is well ahead in Louisiana, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and Arkansas. He is running "neck and neck" with Nixon in Florida, a strong second to the GOP candidate in Tennessee and a distant second in Virginia. Humphrey is trailing in all 10 states although a Wallace-Nixon split of the conservative vote on Nov. 5 could give him some of them.

Nixon Gains
Democratic defections and heavy campaigning have helped Nixon in the South in recent weeks, and some observers say there is a trickle of support coming in from conservatives who once backed Wallace. The observers say the conservatives now feel that Wallace could possibly win the White House and are fearful of what would happen if he did.

Humphrey also swung through the South a couple of times recently and he, too, has benefited from undercurrents. In North Carolina, for instance, Humphrey appears to be slowly gaining ground because Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jim Scott has relaxed his hands-off policy and the state Democratic organization finally is pushing the Humphrey-Muskie ticket.

A North Carolina poll several weeks ago gave Nixon 28 per cent, Wallace 27 and Humphrey 26. When the poll was updated recently, Wallace had 38 per cent, Humphrey 29 per cent and Nixon 27 per cent. While Humphrey was climbing slowly, Wallace was streaking.

Although Humphrey has gained strength in Dixie and Nixon has won the support of Rep. A. Sidney Herlong, D-Fla., and five Georgia state officials who bolted from the Democratic party, the two appear to be no match for Wallace's home-grown campaign in most states.

Wallace's tough stand on law and order, his invective against the "briefcase-totin' bureaucrats" and his denunciation of anti-war protesters all have been extremely popular in the South, especially the rural South.

Law and order is the top issue for the South's 6 million-plus voters, controlling 103 electoral votes. Tennessee's Gov. Buford Ellington, a staunch Democrat, friend of President Johnson and supporter of Humphrey, says the people are demanding that their public officials "draw the line against lawlessness and violence."

Lack of Enthusiasm
The lack of enthusiasm for the national ticket is evident. Gov. Robert E. McNair of South Carolina, a strong Humphrey supporter in Chicago who said his state had entered "the mainstream" of the Democratic party, has been silent since returning home. "I don't need to tell the people of South Carolina how to vote," he says.

Nixon hasn't had this trouble. Southern Republican politicians, intent on strengthening their fledgling organizations in the once-solid South, have embraced Nixon with fervor. "I wish to make it clear," says Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., "I'm supporting Richard Nixon."

Wallace, of course, has no elected American Independent party officials to back him, but he has something better—disaffected Democrats with big names.

Wallace Backers
Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia not only openly supports Wallace, but has recently begun making campaign trips for the third party candidate.

Mississippi's Gov. John Bell Williams and Alabama's Gov. Albert Brewer, both Democrats, are openly supporting Wallace along with a host of former officials—including three former Louisiana governors.

The Negro vote—about 2 million—will swing heavily to Humphrey but his strength here is dependent on how successful he is on getting the Negro to the polls on Nov. 5. If he is successful, the Negro vote could be decisive in the South for it could vault the Democrat past the Nixon and Wallace-as-they-split conservative votes.

Wallace is taking votes away from Humphrey as well as Nixon. Many blue-collar workers, traditionally Democratic, have gone to Wallace even though the upper echelons of labor are counted in Wallace's camp.

Humphrey recently said he has "not written off the South," and said he was doing well in North Carolina and Virginia. But obviously he is counting on a conservative split of the Wallace and Nixon votes, which would allow him to squeak into first place come election day.

Jackie's Marriage May Be Void In Eyes Of The Church

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy's proposed marriage to Aristotle Onassis will be null and void in the eyes of the Roman Catholic Church unless and until he gets a Greek Orthodox annulment of his first marriage, a Vatican legal expert says.

"I don't know if Mrs. Kennedy has approached church authorities at home or the Holy See," the expert said. "But I can't see how the Catholic Church could grant dispensation for the marriage unless Mr. Onassis' first marriage is annulled by Orthodox authorities."

Onassis, 62, married Athina (Tina) Livanos in 1946 when she was 16. They had two children. She obtained a "quickie" divorce in Alabama in 1960 on grounds of mental cruelty. Their marriage was a Greek Orthodox Church rite, which the Roman Catholic church recognizes as valid.

As a result, the expert said, the Catholic Church considers Onassis still married to Miss Livanos unless and until Orthodox Church authorities annul the marriage for some reason. In Athens, Roman Catholic Archbishop Benedictus Printesi expressed surprise "that a good Catholic like Mrs. Kennedy could marry a divorced man." He said he had no advance notice of the marriage plans, and in any event "our religion does not allow such a marriage." The Catholic Church considers marriage a sacrament, and a sacrament cannot be dissolved by divorce.

US Reaction To Jackie-Onassis Marriage Varies

By United Press International
A New Jersey housewife was bitter. A Miami waiter was happy. A San Francisco secretary didn't believe it.

Only Mrs. John F. Kennedy storied former First Lady of the United States and widow of the nation's 35th President, could have caused such mixed reaction. She did it by announcing her impending marriage to Greek shipping billionaire Aristotle Socrates Onassis, 62.

Jack O'Lone expressed the feelings of many when he said early today from an Irish pub in San Francisco: "It kind of blows the Camelot image, right?" But Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, who was president Kennedy's personal secretary for 12 years, summed up the happiness many felt for the woman who charmed the nation with her courage.

"She is a young woman and has a long life to live," Mrs. Lincoln said. "It is up to her and I wish her the very best. I wish her all the happiness."

Mrs. Nancy Graower of Hackensack, N.J., said she was surprised and bitter. "I thought she would be married soon, but not to him. It certainly ruins the image that Jackie Kennedy has given the nation."

But an unidentified Miami headwaiter said he wished Mrs. Kennedy "all the luck in the world" in her second marriage. "If it makes her happy, God bless her," he said.

Many persons across the country were surprised Mrs. Kennedy, 38, chose to marry a man 23 years her senior. "I think the marriage is a disadvantage to the children because of his age and position," said Dallas banker

College Is Conducting 'Education Experiment'

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—At Pan American college, 17 of the brightest young minds on the campus have just launched what Dean H. A. Hodges said today is an experiment unique in education.

The 17—ten of whom have received $1,000 annual scholarship honors course ever offered at Pam Am. According to Hodges, it probably is the first honors course anywhere in which the special classroom treatment has been extended to freshmen.

Educational enrichment for students with enough brainpower to make the grade is the goal of the program, but one of its prime motives is a bit more pragmatic.

"One of the reasons the board of regents was interested in the program is the fact that many top high school students go off to other schools every year and never come back," said Hodges.

"We're hoping that by offering the honors course, we can hold them here in the Valley—maybe permanently."

The bait for keeping Valley talent in the Valley is one of the toughest and most challenging curricular available.

Students in the honors courses are given, in addition to the college's regular scholastic program, extra exposure in four specific areas, communications, social studies, mathematics — which includes computer technology — and "Colloquia,"

The later is an intensive course in Western philosophy from the Greeks to the present day.

In addition, they are expected to plunge into one or two extra regular courses in the line of their intended majors, and to conduct a sizeable measure of independent study, outside the supervised classroom. "So far, it's working quite well," said Hodges. "They've developed a sort of camaraderie of their own, and they've made the competition intense. Believe me, nobody loafs, and the competitive pressures are applied strictly by their own colleagues."

THE LIGHTER SIDE Unwearable Wares

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — One sure way to achieve instant success in the fashion industry is to design a garment that women won't wear. This, however, is extremely difficult to do.

A quick glance at any fashion magazine will convince you there is almost nothing women won't wear. And occasionally almost nothing is what they do wear.

The closest thing we have had to an unwearable garment in this decade is the topeless bathing suit that Rudi something-or-other invented a few years ago.

Except for a few robust publicity-seekers, women shunned it like a plague. I have been hanging around beaches and swimming pools ever since it was introduced and I have yet to see a woman in a topeless suit.

Needless to say, this massive rejection of his creation propelled Rudi to the top of the fashion world, where he remains to this day.

Other designers immediately began striving to duplicate his achievement, but they encountered little or no sales resistance.

They tried cutting off skirts to a ridiculous length. Women wore them. They tried sheathing the legs in outlandish boots. Women wore them. It was a discouraging period for aspiring designers.

Now, however, it appears that a couple of the boys have hit upon something promising. I refer, of course, to the new "see through" blouses.

There is every possibility that "see through" blouses will be as universally unworn as topeless bathing suits. And for much the same reason.

The reason most women won't wear "see through" blouses is obvious. Or it would be obvious if they wore "see through" blouses.

Fashion writers realize that "see through" blouses are widely unwearable, which is why they are giving them so much publicity. Anything that women won't wear is automatically big news.

Unless someone happens to invent an invisible brassiere, the designers should make a fortune.

APPENDICITIS IS STILL A KILLER

Anyone's appendix can be affected. This disease is common among children and particularly dangerous for the elderly. Their appendix tends to perforate easily, leading to serious infectious complications.

Cramp-like pains, nausea, and a slight fever are warnings of a possible appendix infection. If these symptoms persist, it is wise to consult a physician. Self-medication may delay treatment too long, sometimes actually permitting a dangerous appendix rupture. Often appendicitis is difficult to diagnose, for it's symptoms mimic other abdominal diseases.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
County Agricultural Agent

Damage by weather was rather large over parts of the Panhandle last week.

However, Gray County farmers were jubilant over the one-inch average rain across the county. Some farmers report larger amounts. This should be sufficient to root the wheat down for grazing. Two inches would have been better. With a few days of warm weather you should begin to see cattle being placed on wheat all across the area. We have had no report of hail damage. A few farmers were in the process of harvesting irrigated milo.

Milo Harvest

Most farmers who have harvested milo have been disappointed in their yield. As one farmer put it, "This just hasn't been a good milo year". Rains came in the Spring at such a time to delay plantings too long.

Green bugs and corn leaf aphids (that your County Agent and the Bushland Entomologist said wouldn't hurt) took a heavy toll of your yield. No alibis—we struck our neck out—it got chopped off.

One fellow from the Groom area cornered me and said you are all wet about not spraying this milo.

He had sprayed twice with a systemic insecticide.

When I asked if the chemical had been approved by Food & Drug he said, "I saved my milo, and my neighbor that didn't, lost his. So I'm not worried about what the label said you can or can't do."

We will have to admit the fellow has an excellent point.

It is our understanding the Experiment Station is making a complete re-appraisal of the research work on spraying green bugs on milo.

Wheat Pasture

We have had a number of calls and callers asking what we think the price will be on wheat pasture.

I'm always very careful in answering this question until I find out whether the fellow has cattle and is looking for wheat pasture or if he has the wheat and is looking for a speculator that wants to put cattle on his wheat.

If you tell a cattlemen that wheat pasture is going for a dollar per hundred weight he will get mad at you because he is trying to get it for 75 cents. If you tell a wheat farmer who takes in someone else's cattle that seventy-five cents is all he can expect, he gets mad at you because he is trying to get a dollar.

I'll tell you a true story that was a little amusing to me about a fellow I know in Armstrong County.

He was telling me: "I have leased wheat pasture for the last four years and paid one dollar a hundred each year. I've lost money every year."

I inquired if he planned to stock his wheat this year. He said "No", he was trying to get a dollar a hundred for his pasture.

So you can see it depends on which side of the fence a fellow is on, which amount he thinks wheat pasture will be priced.

I have good friends that are cattlemen and good friends that are wheat farmers. I am for my friends.

4-H Club News

By JEANNE FORD and JESSE HOERMANN

The Grandview 4-H Club recently elected officers for the coming year. They are, Vicki Smith, president; Sandra Smith, vice president; Maria Ritter, secretary-reporter; Debbie Fields, treasurer; Isaac Baggerman, council delegate; and Margie Baggerman, recreation leader. Their organization leaders are Arletus Ruthardt and Mrs. Don Smith.

The Sundowners 4-H Club also recently elected officers. They are Mary Margaret Spearman, president; Wesley Miller, vice president; Sharon Miller, secretary; and Dusty Morrison, council representative. Their organization leaders are Don Morrison and John Spearman.

More about 4-H Club work: 4-H'ers are boys and girls between the ages of 9 to 21. Two local adult organization leaders are responsible for club activities during the year.

Members of the 4-H Club meet regularly with their organization leaders. Subject matter leaders, interested parents and friends are always welcome.

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS
The House Interim Water Committee of the Texas Legislature, received some very positive answers during the public hearing at Hereford on Oct. 5.

Representatives from West Texas and the Panhandle were on hand to give their replies to questions raised by the Interim Water Committee headed by State Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake. Other members of the committee were Menton Murry of Harlingen, Neal Solomon of Mt. Vernon, Bill Finch of San Antonio, and Bill Swanson of Houston.

In order that all water users of our own area know what was accomplished at the meeting, we are listing the questions raised by the Water Interim Committee of the Legislature, and some of the answers given by those who testified. The questions were:

(1) In view of the development of the total water resources in Texas, is there a need for change in the present ground water law pertaining to private ownership or should there be State-wide control of ground water resources?

(2) Will the economic benefits of imported water justify the cost to the West Texas area?

(3) If water could be delivered to West Texas at approximately $20 per acre foot plus a 10 percent increase in all property taxes, would you be willing to contract for water at that price and pay the additional tax?

(4) Assuming the cost figures mentioned in item 3 are correct, would non-irrigation water users be willing to pay the 10 percent increase in property taxes?

(5) Would you favor a Master District, Agency or Authority to contract for imported water provided they were given powers essential to its operation if those powers included the following:

(A) Power to contract with United States, States of Texas and their respective agencies.

(B) Power to tax property for operational cost and to secure bonds.

(6) If you favor such a master District, Agency or Authority, what territory should be included and, particularly, should your county be included?

(7) Does the Water Quality Act sufficiently cover pollution problems created from feed lots and other agri-business industries?

(8) As was suggested by an Association of water District Managers from the lower Rio Grande Valley, a question was posed as to whether there should be two distinct sets of statutes in the Water Control and Improvement Districts Law: one set for Districts that provide domestic water services, and one set for Districts that provide water for irrigation purposes.

(Answers to these questions will be run in this column next week.)

Fruit Growers Will Discuss Competition

McALLEN, Tex. (UPI)—Elimination of one kind of competition, and a united front against another—that will be the dual goal this Tuesday when citrus men from Florida and Texas get together in McAllen to pool their resources in a common battle.

J. Frank Gross, manager of the Texas Valley Citrus Committee, headquartered in Pharr, announced Tuesday that Florida's 28-member citrus committee has agreed to participate in the first Common Policy meeting in the history of the industry.

Gross said two problems will face the group—the annual market-cutting competition of orange imports from Mexico, and disparity in harvest and shipping times of fruit from the growing areas of Florida, Texas, Arizona and California.

Screwworm Eradication Is Made Difficult By 'Hard-Headed' Cattlemen, Official Says

By KENNETH R. CLARK
MISSION, Tex. (UPI)—Dr. S. C. Garton, screwworm eradication program director, said last week the current plague of screwworm infestation in Texas is being continued by "hard-headed" cattlemen who persist in animal surgery despite repeated warnings from the control center at Mission.

"We still have ranchers who are dehorning and castrating, despite the fact the screwworm case load is the heaviest in the history of the control program. Why do they do it?" — "Why has a leopard got spots?"

Garton said the plague had not yet gotten out of control but admitted it was now a matter of "grave concern." The problem being the increased threat in the coming spring.

Bigger in Spring

"The bigger the outbreak this fall, the greater the problem will be this winter, and the more screwworms we are going to have to fight next spring," he said.

Official concern, rising during the past month, was spurred again Monday with the largest single day's count recorded since the program was initiated in 1962.

The new record of 323 new cases on one day brought the total this year to 5,206, compared to 835 cases in Texas last year and a national total of 872.

Another official, Dr. W. A. Belcher, field veterinarian with the program, said the actual infestation in Texas may actually run as much as 15 times more than the recorded total.

Larva Samples

The daily totals are compiled from larva samples sent to the lab by stockmen who removed the larva from wounds in the flesh of their animals.

The highest number of infestations Monday were reported in Valverde County with 35, Kinney County, with 24. Uvalde, Frio, Edwards, Zavalla, Medina, Schleicher, Brooks and Hidalgo Counties were also hard-hit.

Prime targets of the screwworm—a grayish-white maggot usually three-fourths of an inch in length and voracious, are the navel openings of new-born calves, open wounds caused by castration and dehorning, and incidental cuts and scratches normal to most animals.

The maggots hatch from eggs laid in the open sores by screwworm flies. The maggots feed on the flesh of the host animal and continue their life cycle until eventually the fly reappears to lay more eggs in another open wound.

Fly Fighters

The laboratory in Mission fights the flies—and the maggots—by trying to make a break in the life cycle. Weekly lab technicians release millions of radioactively sterilized male screwworm flies over affected areas hoping they will breed with female flies which will then not produce any offspring.

In this way screwworm eradicators in 1962 reduced a plague, once thought virtually unstoppable, in which case totals ran in the millions.

Garton emphasized, "We are nowhere near that level and we don't want to be. So we will go right on telling the stockman, and reminding him—it is his money that is being lost."

Japanese Officials Put The 'Bite' On Texas Watermelons

DENVER (UPI)—Colorado agriculture officials learned last week why two state-grown melons never got to their destination in Japan. Two customs officials, who claimed the fruit was diseased, ate them.

Clinton Jeffers, State Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture, said the melons, a cross between a watermelon and a musk melon, were grown on a farm near Rocky Ford, Colo.

The melons were grown from seeds which state officials received on a trade-promoting trip to Japan last spring.

Shortly after the melons were sent overseas, a cable came from customs officials in Japan stating two of the three melons sent were diseased.

"We knew that wasn't so because they were thoroughly checked before we shipped them," Jeffers said. "We contacted an airline official in Japan who promised to talk to the customs office and he found the two melons being happily consumed by two Japanese customs officers in a corner of their office."

Jeffers said the remaining melon was eaten by the authorized Japanese melon distributors to whom it was sent. They said the fruit would be salable in Japan.

Jeffers said no complaint would be lodged against the melon-loving customs officials. "We enjoyed the fact they liked the melons," he said. "It is one of those situations where you have to smile a little."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thus far in this campaign there have been public opinion polls showing us what we think about every aspect of politics—with one possible exception.

I have not yet seen a public opinion poll showing us what we think of public opinion polls.

To correct that oversight I have commissioned the Nosesy Nellie Public Opinion Polling and Sampling Co. to prepare a questionnaire with which to survey our opinion of opinion surveys.

It is important that the poll be conducted scientifically. A representative sampling cannot be obtained if every Tom, Dick and Harry in the country put in their two cents worth.

Therefore, this questionnaire should only be filled out by voters named George, Elmo or Louis.

1. Indicate which of the following you believe in most strongly: —Public opinion polls. — Santa Clause. — Flying saucers. —Used car salesmen.

2. When a poll shows your favorite candidate is running behind, how do you react? — Lose faith in polls. —Lose faith in the candidate. —Look around for another poll. —Look around for another candidate.

3. When a poll shows your favorite candidate is running ahead, how do you react? — Regain faith in polls. —Regain faith in candidate. —Remember what happened in 1948. —Try to forget what happened in 1948.

4. When one poll shows your candidate is ahead and another shows he is behind, how do you react? —Regained faith in polls is shaken. —Regained faith in candidate is shaken. —Figure there must be something screwy going on. —Develop schizophrenia and decide not to vote at all.

5. If the polls show your candidate is ahead and he loses the election, how do you react? —Regret having lost faith in polls. —Regret having regained faith in candidate. —Lose faith in elections. —

Defense Resumes Testimony In Shallowwater Parricide

EL PASO (UPI) — The defense resumed testimony Tuesday in the murder trial of Dolphus Jack Brown, 26, of Shallowater, Tex., charged with the beating death of his parents in April 1967.

The trial is being held here on a change in venue.

The state rested its case at 2:22 p.m. MDT Monday, and Judge William E. Ward immediately called upon the defense to open its case.

Four witnesses were called by the defense but Dist. Atty. Alton Griffin of Lubbock did not cross examine any of them.

The state rested after testimony by Mrs. Anita Roberson and Department of Public Safety chemist Leslie C. Smith.

Motion Overruled

Brown is charged with murder with malice, but the state is not seeking the death penalty. The court overruled a motion to instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty before the defense began its presentation.

Key testimony from Mrs. Roberson, the "girlfriend" with whom Brown allegedly spent part of the night of April 17 and early morning hours of April 18 in a Lubbock motel, indicated the defendant changed pants during the evening his parents were slain. The chemist testified, however, that examination of a hammer found in the Brown backyard "did not have traces of blood, hair or flesh."

The hammer was believed to have been the murder weapon. Mrs. Roberson testified she had spent part of the evening and early morning hours with Brown in a Lubbock motel.

"I was with him, off and on, from 3:15 p.m. on April 17 until 3:15 a.m. April 18," Mrs. Roberson said. "When he picked me up he was wearing some dark checked pants, but sometime later he changed to a pair of blue jeans."

Talked Friendly
Mrs. Roberson said she and Jack went to the family farm home 12 miles northwest of Lubbock about 5 p.m. and saw the elder Brown driving from the field to the house. She said Brown talked briefly with his father and they then went inside the house.

"I'm not sure if Jack changed pants then or not," she said. "He also changed shirts sometime, but I'm just not sure when."

She identified a shirt introduced into evidence as a blood-spattered shirt worn by Brown when he picked her up, and said sometime during the evening he changed into a light blue shirt. Again she was unsure when the change was made.

Television In Review

Television In Review
By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Soul," a one-hour Negro variety special modeled after "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," was presented on NBC-TV Thursday night. If it gets a strong popular reception, it may be turned into a series.

It was no accident that "Soul" resembled "Laugh-In," because Thursday night's special was put together by the same production firm that created the hot Rowan and Martin series. As usual, the gags took potshots at everybody and everything in sight, but with the same general good nature as "Laugh-In"—even the rough bars.

So much for the basic details. As a special, "Soul" was a straightaway smash hit. It was, for instance, superior overall to the original "Laugh-In" special that resulted in a series. The superiority came Thursday night in the high-style mixture of song and dance keyed to the basic comedy structure, whereas the original "Laugh-In" special did not have the luxury of such a musical cushion.

Comedy Material Consistent
One tremendous advantage of the rousing musical support is that the comedy doesn't have to be spread quite as thin, which means a higher proportion of successful gags. The original "Laugh-In" did not have the same consistency of comedy material as did "Soul."

"Soul" was that rare show business sight—a collection of showstoppers, almost without pause. The cast was virtually all black, and included singer Lou Rawls, a great stylist who revealed much presence and poise as the closest thing to a host.

Other performers included Martha Reeves and the Vandellas, driving singer Joe Tex, the Chambers Brothers, the superb H. B. Barnum orchestra, Leroy "Sloppy" Daniels, George Kirby, Redd Foxx, Slappy White, Nipsey Russell, the Soul Sisters and Hines, Hines and Dad—all accompanied by an attractive group of singers, dancers and jokers.

Watts Contribution

In addition, there was material by fresh talent from the Watts Writers' Workshop in Los Angeles, Mark Warren was the director, and George Schlatter, who produces "Laugh-In" was also at the helm for "Soul."

There were, of course, numerous gags referring to the current relationships of blacks and whites, along with other minority groups. But the good nature of the hour established itself quickly when the performers poked fun at Negroes—in short, themselves—as well as at anyone else, thus taking a weapon away from offended comedic targets.

Simpson Led So. Cal. Nips Washington, 14-7

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The brilliant O. J. Simpson marched University of Southern California 99 yards and scored a tiebreaking touchdown in the fourth period to lift the Trojans to a hard fought 14-7 Pacific Eight victory Saturday over the University of Washington.

The touchdown came on the only sustained scoring drive of the game and followed a brilliant goal line stand by Southern California on the one-yard line. It took the Trojans 11 plays to cover the 99 yards with Simpson carrying seven times for 37 yards and scoring from nine yards out.

Southern California scored a touchdown in the first period after a fumble recovery. Washington tallied in the third quarter following a pass interception to leave the teams deadlocked midway through the fourth quarter when the Trojans put on their sustained march to victory. The win left the No. 1 ranked Trojans with a 5-0 seasonal record.

Southern Cal took the opening kickoff and drove to the Huskies 27. On the first down Ron Ayala's field goal attempt was short. Bill Sprinkle fielded the ball on the four, fumbled and it was recovered by USC's Dick Allmon on the seventh.

Simpson carried the ball four times and on fourth down dived over from the one.

Neither team could mount a scoring threat for the remainder of the first half. But in the second half the Huskies moved to the 24 where a field goal attempt was short. On the first Trojan play quarterback Steve Sogge's pass was intercepted on the 38 by Al Worley who returned it 10 yards.

Washington came to life and moved 28 yards with Buddy K. Kenamer breaking over the middle for eight yards and the touchdown.

Washington appeared on its way to another score after Simpson fumbled on the 13 and the Huskies recovered on the USC 20. But with first down on the seven they drove to the one and were held. It was then that the Trojans put on their longest march of the season for the game-winning touchdown.

Purdue Boils, 28-27

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Purdue stumbled through three periods but put together two touchdowns in the final period to pull out a 28-27 victory Saturday over upset-minded Wake Forest.

The winless Deacons shocked the fifth-ranked Boilermakers by taking a 17-7 halftime lead and held a 27-14 margin with 12 minutes left in the contest. But Purdue's All-America Leroy Keyes came to life in the final period and sparked the winning margin.

Boilermakers' offense with determined running. Keyes had fumbled six times in the first three periods, and Wake Forest recovered four of them. The Deacons converted three of the recoverts in two touchdowns and a field goal.

Purdue, which lost its top-rated when it fell last week to Ohio State, got a touchdown on a 14 yard run by Jim Kirkpatrick with seven minutes remaining in the contest.

Reserve quarterback Don Klepert, filling in for the injured Mike Phipps in the waning minutes of the game, guided the Boilermaker offense on the final scoring drive, capped by a two-yard run by Keyes with only 1:15 to play.

That tied it and Jeff Jones booted the extra point for the Keyes earlier had scored on a 19-yard run in the third period.

Tom Deacon got Wake Forest off and running with a 28-yard field goal in the first period. Then fullback Jim Johnson galloped 24 yards in the second stanza to give the Deacons a 10-0 spread.

The Boilermakers finally got on the scoreboard in the second period when fullback Perry Williams plunged from the 2-yard line, but Wake Forest's star quarterback, Freddie Summers, moved across from four yards out to give the Deacons their halftime advantage.

Buckeyes Pound 'Cats

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Rambling Rex Kern, Ohio State's touted sophomore quarterback, passed for two touchdowns and ran for another to lift unbeaten and second ranked Ohio State to a 45-21 victory over winless Northwestern.

Kern completed 8 of 14 passes for 170 yards and added 121 yards on the ground in a sparkling performance in a nationally televised Big Ten game to give Ohio State its fourth straight win.

The red-haired Kern stunned the Wildcats with a 72-yard pass play to end Jan White in the first period and connected with Bruce Jankowski on a 23-yard pass in the third period to put the game out of reach.

Kern ran seven yards for Ohio State's second touchdown early in the second period. Ohio State fullback Jim Otis scored two touchdowns on a pair of six-yard runs and sophomore Leo Hayden scored on a three-yard jaunt in the first period.

quarterback Dave Shelbourne passed for a pair of touchdowns, hitting ends Pat Harrington and John Hittman with tosses of 15 and 27 yards respectively.

Shelbourne scored himself on a four-yard keeper for the final Northwestern touchdown.

Underdog Northwestern, which had lost to four of the top 11 teams in the nation, finally caved in the fourth period as the Buckeyes exploded for three touchdowns.

Ohio State marched 69 yards in just nine plays the first time it had the ball in the final period, with Otis bulging over from the six. But it was Kern who kept the drive in motion with 18 and 23 yard strikes to White and Hayden.

The Buckeyes ground out 80 yards in 15 plays, later in the quarter, with Hayden leading the charge. He accounted for 51 yards in six trips including the three yard touchdown run.

The Buckeyes scored their final touchdown on a 37 yard pass from third string quarterback Ron Maciejowski to end Ed Bender.

North Texas Nips Tulsans

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — North Texas State won a passing match with Tulsa, 20-17, Saturday despite a Golden Hurricane drive that came to within four yards in the last seconds of the fourth quarter.

Right linebacker James Ivy of North Texas turned in the first touchdown in the second quarter when he intercepted a pass by Tulsa quarterback John Dobbs and carried it 62 yards.

North Texas' Mike Gaddis contributed field goals in the first and second quarters for another six points.

Then quarterback Steve Ramsey tossed a pass to flanker Ronnie Shanklin for a 53-yard touchdown play in the third quarter.

Cal Rips Bruins, 39-15

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Quarterback Randy Humphries led California on a 23-point scoring burst during six minutes, 45 seconds of the third period Saturday as the Golden Bears demolished UCLA 39-15 and dropped the Bruins to their third straight defeat.

It marked the first time that UCLA has lost three consecutive games since coach Tommy Prothro started his regime there in 1965.

The 39 points represented Cal's highest output in the 38-year-old series.

During the rout, Humphries passed for two touchdowns and scored another while Ron Miller kicked field goals of 27 and 30 yards.

UCLA held a 15-13 lead when the third period opened. Then Humphries hit Paul Williams with a 39-yard scoring bomb that put the Bears ahead to stay.

TWO OILERS INJURED

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Oilers Friday placed John Whittenborn and flankerback Glenn Bass on injured waivers after both men suffered groin injuries. The Oilers activated Wayne Walker and Dudley Meredith.

Kansas Routs O-State Behind Douglass, 49-14

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Fourth-ranked Kansas rolled over outmanned Oklahoma State 49-14 Saturday on the talents of quarterback Bobby Douglass, who totaled 234 yards and accounted for three touchdowns.

Douglass, a rangy 6-4, 220-pound southpaw, plunged one yard for a touchdown and passed 50 yards to split end George McGowan for another in staking the unbeaten Jayhawks to a 14-0 halftime lead.

The win was Kansas' fifth of the season and second in the Big Eight Conference. Oklahoma State now is 1-3 overall and 0-1 in the league.

Junior Riggins' 3-yard dive and Douglass' nine-yard scoring pass to John Jackson moved the Jayhawks into a 28-0 lead before the Cowboys scored with 3:21 left in the third period.

Quarterback Ronnie Johnson hit halfback Pat Brown on a 58-yard pass play that cut the Jayhawks' lead to a 28-6 but sophomore fullback Rich Rucker's two-yard plunge netted the first of three Kansas touchdowns in the final period.

Jim Ettinger, Douglass' backup man, engineered the final two scoring drives, passing 43 yards to Jim Hatcher for one and plunging one yard for the other.

Oklahoma State's second touchdown came midway through the final quarter on a three-touchdown edge. Defensive end Vernon Vanoy set up the fourth score by recovering an Oklahoma State fumble at the Cowboy 20.

Kansas moved to the 15 where it attempted a field goal that was wide to the right. But a penalty kept the Jayhawks' drive alive and Douglass scampered for a first down to the nine and then passed to Jackson on the next play for a touchdown with only slightly more than four minutes left in the quarter.

The output stretched Kansas' point total to 225 in five games.

through the final quarter on Duane Porter's two-yard run.

Kansas took the opening kickoff and drove 67 yards in 10 plays to take a 7-0 lead in the first three minutes. Douglass' one-yard dive capped the drive.

With Sugar and Orange Bowl scouts watching, Douglass totaled 93 yards rushing and 141 yards passing. His 50-yard strike to McGowan came with 4:10 left in the first period.

Both teams struggled through an uneventful second period before Kansas started rolling again late in the third quarter. After Riggins' plunge gave KU

Hanratty Passes Irish Over Illinois by 58-8

SOUTH BENE, Ind. (UPI) — Terry Hanratty passed the legendary George Gipp as Notre Dame's greatest ground gainer Saturday, passing for three touchdowns and racking up 269 yards over all in a 58-8 massacre of Illinois.

It was Illinois' fifth defeat in a winless season and the most lopsided they have suffered in 62 years. The record books have to go back to 1906, when the University of Chicago trampled Illinois 63-0, to find a greater humiliation of the Illinois.

Hanratty finished off the Illinois in a hurry. He connected of all three of his touchdown passes in the first half—for 9 yards to Coley O'Brien, for 23 yards to Bob Gladieux, and for 18 yards to Jim Seymour. To boot, he carried the ball five times for 41 yards to total 253 yards and eclipse the Gipper's four-year total offense record for the Irish with the game just half over.

Notre Dame's total yardage of 669 yards also broke the school record of 673 yards set in 1932 against the Haskell Indians.

Hanratty took part in the second half on only one series of downs and drove the Irish 65 yards for a touchdown on O'Brien's three-yard plunge.

For the game, Hanratty had 212 yards passing and 57 running for 269 yards to boost his career total in 24 Notre

SAIN TO RETURN

DETROIT (UPI) — Pitching coach Johnny Sain, credited with a major role in developing the mound staff that brought Detroit the World Series title, will return next season in the same capacity with the American League club.

The Tigers rounded out their coaching staff for next season Friday by reappointing Sain and bullpen coach Hal Naragon.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Gerry Melnyk, a former center for the Philadelphia Flyers, has rejoined the National Hockey League club as a scout. Melnyk, forced to retire from hockey because of a heart ailment, will scout the Canadian provinces of Alberta and British Columbia from his headquarters in Edmonton, Alberta.

Anderson Leads Colorado To Rout Of Kansas State

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Bob Anderson, Colorado's stubby quarterback, threw three touchdown passes and picked Kansas State apart Saturday to lead Colorado on a 37-14 rout over the Wildcats in a Big Eight football contest.

Anderson, who completed 16 passes for a school record of 216 yards, flipped scoring tosses of 25 and 17 yards to Monte Mike Pruett. The 200-pound quarterback also rushed 76 yards for 292 yards total offense. He set school records in passing yardage, most scoring passes and total offense.

Walsh added a one-yard score. Gary Kuxhaus blasted in from 15 yards out and Dave Haney booted a 23-yard field goal for Colorado.

Kansas State, unable to move on the ground against Colorado, went to the air in the second half for both scores. Tailback from four yard out to cap an 80-yard drive in the third period and Jerry Lawson scored from one yard out just as the game ended.

The Wildcats were unable to get past their own 41 in the first half, completing only one of six passes, and had only three first downs before intermission.

Cheifs, Raiders Meet In Offensive Show Today

By United Press International — A high-speed scoreboard may be required in Kansas City's Municipal Stadium on Sunday when the Chiefs entertain the Oakland Raiders.

The two teams boast the most potent offenses thus far in the American Football League, Oakland scoring 174 points in five games and Kansas City showing 158 points in six games. The Chiefs lead the Western Division with a 5-1 record while the Raiders and San Diego Chargers are tied for second at 4-1.

A full lineup of games is scheduled for Sunday. The big game in the Eastern Division will send the reeling New York Jets and the revitalized Oilers who fought their way back into contention with two consecutive victories.

In other action, Denver is at San Diego, Buffalo at Boston and Miami at Cincinnati.

Oakland had its 14-game regular season winning streak snapped by San Diego last week and Raider coach John Rauch has worked hard all week to help his team snap back.

The Jets still are trying to overcome the effects of last week's shocking loss to Denver, when New York quarterback Joe Namath had five passes intercepted for the second time this season. With Namath receiving full support from coach Weeb Ewbank, the Jets are favored by 4½ points.

If New York fails, Boston (2-3) can move into a first-place tie by whipping the Bills. The Patriots are picked by three points over Buffalo, which will go without fullback Ben Gregory (knee surgery) and possibly strong safety Tom Janik.

San Diego, buoyed by its big wins, but the Chargers know they triumph over Oakland is a solid 14-point choice over the Bron-can't treat the game lightly as Denver also is riding high.

The Cincinnati Bengals are favored by two points to pick up their third victory against four losses in their first season of play. Miami, 1-3-1, probably will go without rookie fullback Larry Csonka, who suffered a concussion last week.

Cowboys Offense Gets Test Against Minnesota

By United Press International — Offense should be the order of the day in Minnesota today when the high scoring Dallas Cowboys tangle with the Vikings' one-man scoring machine, Bill Brown.

Brown is off to a record setting pace with nine touchdowns in his first five games, one TD ahead of the pace set in 1965 by Gale Sayers, holder of the National Football League record with 22 touchdowns.

Dallas, on the other hand, doesn't have any individual leaders in the offensive categories but the Cowboys lead in 14 team offensive departments and are coasting along with a 5-0 record in the Capital Division.

In other NFL action Sunday, the Rams are 20 points over Atlanta at Los Angeles, Chicago is one over the Eagles in Philadelphia, the Colts are 16½ over Cleveland in Baltimore, Green Bay is a slim one point pick over the Lions in Detroit, New Orleans is two over the Steelers in Pittsburgh, the Cardinals are a touchdown choice over Washington in St. Louis and the Giants are four over San Francisco in New York.

Earl Morrall and Johnny Unitas will probably split the quarterback spot against the Browns. Baltimore cannot take the Browns too lightly now that Bill Nelsen has given the team some offensive life at quarterback and Ernie Green is expected to play for the first time this season.

Los Angeles figures to have an easier time with the Falcons than the Giant did last week but Coach Norm Van Brocklin has his team feeling confident and the Rams might be in for a tougher game than expected.

Both the Eagles and the Bears are having poor seasons with only one victory between them. This may be the Eagles' best chance for a victory this season with Norm Snead due to be sharper after having a fall game under his belt.

The Green Bay dynasty may be crumbling but the oddsmakers don't believe it yet. The Packers though, will have to beat the Lions, whom they've lost to once already this season, or face the fact that a fourth straight NFL title is an impossibility.

Mel Farr and Bill Munson have given the Lions a well balanced attack and Detroit has visions of going all the way this year.

The Packers may have to play without Bart Starr again Sunday, and that won't make matters any easier for the defending World Champions.

New Orleans finds itself tied for the Century Division lead despite a 2-3 record and the Saints will be going all out against the Browns and also team.

St. Louis finally got going against the Browns and also shares a part of that Century lead. Washington's Sonny Jurgensen (89-of-143 for 1,092 yards and 11 TD's) is a doubtful starter after suffering a broken rib last week.

Gophers Clip M-State, 14-13

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Minnesota linebacker Tony Pahlula and teammate Steve Thompson smothered Michigan State quarterback Bill Triplett on a two-point conversion effort with 2:30 left to play Saturday to preserve a 14-13 Big Ten football victory for the Gophers.

The dramatic "sudden-death" effort came from the seven-yard line after Michigan State was penalized five yards for delay of game following an 88-yard touchdown drive.

Triplett rolled to his right and looked back to his left for a receiver, but was greeted by the thundering Pahlula and Thompson.

Moments later, the Spartans again marched deep into Minnesota territory but the sophomore quarterback, starting his first game due to an injury to regular Bill Feraco, was again thrown back for losses and a last-gasp 53-yard field goal attempt by Gary Boice was way short.

Minnesota scored both of its touchdowns in the third period, one a 58-yard punt return by safety Doug Roalstad.

The winning score came late in the period on a three-yard pass from quarterback Phil Hagen to fullback Jim Carter, climaxing a 50-yard Minnesota drive. Bob Stein kicked the Michigan State punted an overflow homecoming crowd of 74,321 by taking a 7-0 halftime lead on a 13-yard pass from Triplett to end Frank Foreman.

But the pleasure quickly turned to gloom after the intermission when Roalstad, a 5-foot-11, junior, rambled unmolested down the sideline with a Michigan State punt for the first Gopher score.

The Spartans fought back with a swift marches to the visitors 10-yard line. Three attempts to penetrate the end zone failed and the scoring threat fizzled when a 27-yard field goal attempt by Boice went bad.

Michigan State refused, however, to give in to a rugged Minnesota defense—one that forced seven Spartan fumbles—and regrouped for a touchdown with 2:34 remaining in the contest. The score came on a 17-yard pass from Triplett to Foreman. The ill-fated "go-for-broke" effort followed on instructions from head coach Duffy Daugherty.

Pampa Chapter of Business and Professional Women announced Mrs. M.E. (Mae Etta) Powers, 1301 Garland, as winner of this year's B & P W Woman of the Year honor during the annual B&PW Week breakfast today in the Coronado Inn. Mrs. Powers, immediate past president of the Pampa B&PW Club, is parliamentarian and co-chairman of the legislative committee this year. She has served on all club committees, and was instrumental in arranging the bus tour to see "Texas" in the Pioneer Amphitheater in Palo Duro Canyon. A native Oklahoman, she moved to Texas in 1928 and has spent 35 years in the merchandise field as buyer, department manager and in sales. A member of First Baptist Church and the Naomi Sunday School Class, she and her husband, Manuel, have one son, John Paul McKinley. Their son and his wife, Millie, have two daughters: Carolyn and Gayle McKinley. During the annual National B&PW Week, the Pampa group will sponsor a covered dish dinner, a luncheon, two breakfasts, and two coffees. Mrs. H.F. McDonald Jr. is general chairman and coordinator of the week for Pampa. Mrs. McDonald is currently serving as legislative chairman and has been club president twice in 1952-53 and 1965-67. She was District Nine Director of the Texas Federation of B&PW Clubs in 1956-57, and in 1957-58 was state secretary of the Texas Federation of B&PW Clubs. Mrs. Ralph Headley, Perryton, the current District Nine director, was speaker for the 7:45 a.m. breakfast today in the Inn's Starlight Room. Mrs. Headley works as secretary for her husband, manager of Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Agency. She graduated from West Texas State University with a Bachelor of Arts Degree with majors in business administration and English. After teaching in Perryton High School, she was employed as an insurance clerk in a Perryton clinic and in a Perryton hospital before taking her present position. A past president of the Perryton B&PW Club, she has been chairman of several committees and was a charter member of the Perryton Chapter of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Headley is a member of Perryton Sorosis Club, was president two years, and is a member of Perryton Methodist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Headley have five children and three grandchildren. During the breakfast, members will honor presidents of other business women's clubs and past presidents of Pampa B&PW Club. After the breakfast they will attend First Baptist Church as a group. Mrs. G.E. Tinnin is chairman of the covered dish dinner scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the City Club Room. Mrs. Ruth Sewell will show films of her world tour to members and guests, who are members of clubs in District Nine. During the noon luncheon

Wednesday in Furr's Cafeteria, Mrs. Inez Carter, club mother will be honored and presented a corsage. Mrs. D.C. Ash will preside as J. A. Martindale speaks on Constitutional amendments. Mrs. Carter, a business woman, civic leader and philanthropist, is a native of Wichita Falls, and moved to Pampa in 1930. She is a member of First Methodist Church, Chamber of Commerce, Altrusa Club, B&PW Club and has an honorary life membership on the Pampa Salvation Army Advisory Board. She was chosen Pampa Woman of the Year in 1958. She has helped to financially support Pampa Community Hotel, the Coronado Inn, Pampa Youth and Community Center, Girlstown, and Texas Tech scholarship funds for Gray County. The program Thursday includes a 7:30 a.m. breakfast at Mrs. Pearl Castka's home, 1712 Fir; a radio program, and the weekly Senior Citizens' party at Lovett Memorial Library. Mrs. Powers is Senior Citizens' Party chairman. Miss Jo Ann Clements, Plainview, third vice president of the Texas Federation of B&PW Clubs, will be guest of honor during the 7:30 p.m. coffee and reception Friday in Mrs. Earl Eaton's home, 1601 Mary Ellen. Miss Clements' state offices have included recording secretary, 1967-68; District Nine director, 1966-67; chairman, career clubs, now called Nike-Samothrace Clubs, 1965-66; and member of career clubs committee and District Nine nominating committee. A Plainview B&PW Club member since 1945, and president 1959-60, she has been district nine conference chairman and seminar chairman, is the Plainview civic participation chairman, and held every Plainview club office except treasurer. Employed as the Hale County agent's secretary, she is a graduate of Lippert's Business College, past president of Wesleyan Service Guild of First Methodist Church and member of Las Camaradas Club. Mrs. Elsie Cunningham is chairman of the last B&PW Week program, an informal coffee 9-11 a.m. Saturday in Citizens Bank Hospitality Room. The coffee is sponsored to honor all working women of the Pampa area. Chairmen and members of six local B&PW committees, personal development, civic participation, world affairs, legislation, membership and public relations, are assisting Mrs. McDonald in the week's activities. The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs was founded in 1919 by a small group of business and professional women who realized working women should and could share equal status with men in the business and professional world. Mrs. McDonald women: to raise standards for women in business and professions and to offer educational opportunities in industry, science and the vocations," she said. All women who are employed full time or part time in business or a profession are eligible for membership. B&PW clubs are developed in three basic areas of interest to career women—personal development, civic participation and world affairs. Club programs vary with the community's needs and members' interests, Mrs. Cunningham said. The federation of B&PW Clubs has 178,491 members in 3,850 B&PW clubs in every state in the union, including the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, and Washington, D.C. The Texas Federation has 7,694 members including the 49 members in the Pampa B&PW Club. The National Federation is a part of the International Federation of B&PW women's clubs which is composed of 26 member countries and four associate members. This provides an opportunity to develop better understanding and friendship among business and professional women throughout the world. An international conference is held every three years," Mrs. Cunningham said. "B&PW aims and objectives are to promote interests of business and professional women; to create a spirit of cooperation among the United States' business and professional clubs as a non-profit organization for research. It maintains a reference library, sponsors seminars, provides grants, fellowships, bibliographies and performs other services to benefit business and professional women. Communications among members is maintained through conferences and state and national publications. The Pampa B&PW Club was organized in 1929 and federated that same year. The program theme for 1968-69 is "All Systems Go—Unite, Share, Act." The Pampa club contributes annually to the Lilystrom Foreign Scholarship. This year the award went to Misako Uemura, a Japanese student majoring in linguistics at the University of Texas. She has been offered a teaching fellowship by the university to continue work on her Ph.D. The local club also shares in the Maffett Fellowship to assist in training and furthering women's education in the nursing field in the Republic of China. To encourage local young women in their educational goals, the Pampa B&PW Club recognizes a Pampa High School student through its "Girl of the Month" program which maintains a loan fund for Pampa girls who need educational assistance. A new scholarship has also been established as a grant to a needy woman student in the 1969-70 school year.

MARTY PRICE'S DAY — About 200 Pampa area Republican women honored Marty Price, wife of Pampa's Republican congressman, Bob Price, at a luncheon Friday in the Pampa Country Club. Mrs. Scott Nisbet, president of the Pampa Republican Women's Club, welcomes guests and the honoree, Mrs. Price, left, Rep. Price, and Mrs. Raymond Harrah. Mrs. Harrah spoke on incidents of Mrs. Price's life in Washington D.C. Marty and the three Price children are living in Pampa this Fall for the children to attend school.

Pampa Area Women Celebrate 'Marty Price Day'

About 200 Pampa area women honored Mrs. Bob Price with an Appreciation Luncheon Friday at the Pampa Country Club. Over 200 guests were welcomed by the Top of Texas Republican Women's Club, who sponsored the event.

Mrs. C. Scott Nisbet, president of the Top of Texas Women's Republican Club, welcomed guests and introduced Mr. and Mrs. Carl White, Oklahoma City, Okla., parents of Mrs. Price; Mrs. Jack Hart, Gruver, deputy president of the Texas Federation of Republican Women, and Mrs. Terry Thomas, district director, 31st Senatorial District of the Texas Federation of Republican Women, as special guests.

Rev. Dan Cameron, pastor of First Baptist Church, gave the invocation.

Entertainment was provided by a high school folk group, Freedom's Children. The group included Jo Hiatt, Carolyn McKinley, Barbara Brown, Debbie Veale, David Cory, Ken Lee and Tim Doke. Mrs. J. B. Veale Jr. and Bill Atkinson directed them. They sang "This Land Is Your Land," "Sounds of Silence," and "Marty," a song especially written for the occasion and dedicated to Mrs. Price. Mrs. Raymond Harrah spoke for Mrs. Price giving highlights and special events in her life since moving to Washington, D.C.

Ben Sturgeon, Pampa attorney, introduced Congressman Bob Price who spoke on threats to freedom of tomorrow's children.

Mrs. Vernon Watkins, chairman, assisted by Mrs. J. D. Cree decorated individual tables with red pom-poms and shooting stars in keeping with the patriotic theme.

Reservations were directed by Mrs. George Cree Jr. and Mrs. Carlton Nance, who were assisted by Mmes. John R. Ellis, Walter Colwell, F. W. Power, Lewis Meers, David Picher, Jimmie R. Hayes, W. L. Gray, Jack Skelly, John McKnerney, and James C. Smith. Guests were registered by Mrs. Cree.

Special hostesses Mmes. Ben Sturgeon, Jean Martindale, Bill Atkinson, Lee Fraser, Harold Cox, Bob Rogers, James T. Brown, James Alexander, John R. Ellis, Walter Colwell, Carlton Nance and Jimmie Hayes greeted guests and assisted in seating arrangements. Mrs. Robert E. Imel was general chairman.

Area cities represented were Amarillo, Canadian, Estelline, Gruver, Groom, Memphis, Miami, Perryton, Spearman, and Wellington.

Rebekah Lodge Honors Noble Grand With Formal Installation Ceremony

Mrs. Verson Alexander was installed as Noble Grand and Mrs. Paul Rittenhouse as Vice Grand of Pampa Rebekah Lodge No. 355 in a ceremony in the Odd Fellow Hall, 800 E. Foster.

Mrs. Alexander wore a long turquoise formal and Mrs. Rittenhouse a long pale green and silver formal.

Couple Celebrates Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pyles Sr., of Pampa were honored recently for their 50th year wedding anniversary. Hostess were their son and his wife Mr. and Mrs. J. James Pyles, Jr., Glenview, Ill.

Golden chrysanthemums, leaves and ribbon decorated the serving table in the Coronado Inn Cibola Room for the celebration. Gold candles surrounded by small golden chrysanthemums completed the table decorations.

The white anniversary cake was decorated with gold roses wedding bells, gold leaves and metallic golden '50'.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ken Johnson, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. John Heisler, Wichita, Kans.; and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones, Valley Center, Kans.

Other guests from Pampa were Mr. and Mrs. Myron Marx, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Zm-tony, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Benton, Mrs. Alex Schneider, Mrs. William McIntyre, Mrs. F. A. Riley, Mrs. Jennie Dittmore and Mrs. M.L. McWhorter.

Panhandle Plains Women Attend B&PW Meeting

More than 100 Business and Professional Women's Club members from 13 clubs in the Panhandle Plains area met in Borger recently for the 40th annual conference of district nine of Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

Pampans attending were Mmes. Pearl Castka, J. A. Knox H. F. McDonald, Jr. C. C. Rhoades, Tommie Stone, Eli E. Ethridge, Noel Thompson, Ruby Cunningham, G. H. Anderson and Miss Elsie Cunningham.

Mrs. Castka, president, was official Pampa club delegate, and gave the club's report on civic participation at the workshop session.

Mrs. Rhoades, past director of district nine, served at an afternoon reception honoring state officers and club presidents.

Mrs. James E. Pendleton, president elect of the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, spoke on "Prognosis." Mrs. Pendleton has been presented the meritorious civilian service award and medal, since she has served the government 25 years. She is stationed at the River Army Depot, Texarkana.

The conference consisted of workshops, general assemblies, business sessions, memorial service at Frank Phillips College and several social activities.

Mrs. Ralph Headlee, Perryton, was re-elected district nine director and Dumas was selected as the host city for the 1969 district conference.

Odd Earrings Make Necklaces, Ornaments

DEAR POLLY — If Mary's add earrings are of good metal, she could have a jeweler remove the shank from a particularly lovely one and apply a loop or ring, then hang it on a matching metal chain and have a beautiful pendant necklace. If they are of the inexpensive costume kind, she could remove the clips or shanks herself and apply pin backs, such as used by those who make shell or plastic jewelry. They can be bought at hobby shops.

—Mrs. P.S.B.
DEAR POLLY — I have a much-admired small, table-sized Christmas tree which is entirely decorated with odd brooches, buttons, earrings and beads. They were put on a foam pyramid-shaped base with straight pins and small hairpins. I am now saving jewelry to make a mate for it.

To scrape gum or any other sticky substance off my linoleum, I use an old-fashioned Mason jar lid. Place it flat and work the sharp edge under the sticky substance.

—V. J.
DEAR GIRLS — Alice wrote that she removes the back from odd earrings with pliers and then uses them to decorate gifts, such as a hand mirror, an easel-type picture frame, on bottles and on bells. The best idea caught my eye.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Some weeks ago a neighbor boy brought me a pathetic looking kitten and begged me to take it as his mother wouldn't let him keep it. He said it had been crying at their back door for several days. Being an animal lover, I took the kitten, even though we already had a cat and dog. The kitten looked so sickly, I took it to the veterinarian who discovered it had worms and distemper. But he got it back to good health, instructing us to feed it a special diet in order to build it up, which we did. Yesterday I saw an ad in the paper for a "lost kitten." I think it's this one. Both my husband and I are crazy about this cat now. If we hadn't paid to nurse it back to health, it surely would have died. We have given it a good, affectionate home. We have no children. In the ad there is no reward offered. Under these circumstances, is it our place to phone these people who advertised for the lost cat?

DEAR ABBY: I think my wife is an exhibitionist. She walks in front of the windows with the shades up and nothing on. When she dresses, she never closes her bedroom door, and we have kids all the way from 10 to 19 of both sexes who always have friends over. She has even gone down the hall and from one room to another in various stages of undress (and NO dress) when we've had house guests. If I tell her to put something on she says, "I don't have anything to hide." What is wrong with her?

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently hired a very cute young secretary. Lately, he has been rushing thru dinner so he can shower, shave (again), pick up his secretary and go back to the office to "catch up." Should I be jealous?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old boy with an 8-year-old brother, named Burton who is a fink. Burton wore my Boy Scout hat and took my brand new bugle outside and blew it all day Saturday while I was at the dentist's.

DEAR ABBY: When I found out about it I gave him a little tap on the arm. He fell against the fence and got a little tiny cut on his head and maybe two drops of blood came out. Burton ran in the house screaming and told our mother, and now I am grounded for a whole week.

DEAR ABBY: She didn't say one word to Burton about wearing my hat and blowing my bugle. Was this fair? How can I make my mother realize that when something happens it is not always my fault because I am older and should know better? (her words.) Thank you.
The Older One

DEAR OLDER: Tell your mother what you have told me, (or show her this item) and ask for her comment. Meanwhile, as a Boy Scout you are pledged to be "kind, truthful, and obedient." If you are, "flak" may follow your example and become a Boy Scout, too.

DEAR HUSBAND: Some people have a neurotic need to "hide" what they have. Others have a neurotic need to "show" it. Your wife could belong to the latter group.

DEAR WIFE: Not unless you know what he goes back to "catch up" on.

SHAMPOO FALSE EYELASHES: False eyelashes are now an important cosmetic accessory in the best of circles. But how do you clean them? Here is one sure way: Dunk them several times in a solution of warm water and a dash of gentle baby shampoo to loosen dirt and hardened eye make-up. Rinse thoroughly in cold water, carefully removing any clinging particles with your fingers or using a pin without tugging at the lashes. Then, lay the lashes out on a clean towel to dry in a warm spot.

Students To Enter VFW Script Writing Contest

Mrs. Jess Hatcher, president, presided over the recent meeting of Ladies Auxiliary to Pampa Post 1657, Veterans of Foreign Wars as Mrs. Emma Tinsley, conductress, instructed the floor work ceremonies and color bearers presented the colors. Mrs. Harry Hoyer, patriotic instructor, gave her charge followed with the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Mrs. Josephine Blalock, chaplain, offered the opening prayer.

Mrs. Hatcher stated several new members would be given the obligation of membership and initiation ceremony would be held at the next meeting. The auxiliary and Pampa VFW Post No. 1657 held a joint dinner meeting in VFW Hall with 65 persons attending.

Tim Duke presented the oratorical speech which won second place in the Optimist National contest and received a $1,000 scholarship.

Cleo Goff, Pampa Post member, was appointed chairman of the Voice of Democracy national broadcast script writing contest co-sponsored by the VFW

Patch-work scarecrows standing amid pumpkins and fall leaves decorated tables in the Pampa Club recently as Pampa Panhellenic officers were installed during their annual dinner and installation service. Mrs. Gwen Rabb, Amarillo, a Kappa Delta Sorority Alumnae, told the 40 members and guests attending "if you are concerned about the safety and welfare of young women in college, then you should be concerned about the fate of collegiate sororities and fraternities."

Stressing the challenges facing youths to abandon their integrity, morals, and traditional values, Mrs. Rabb said student pressure groups such as the Students for a Democratic Society are intimidating social and academic leaders to give them more power and control over student behavior.

"The alumnae's recommendation system as a prerequisite for membership is their target now. They want freedom of all control by alumnae, because they say it is a barrier to equality. We, like other voluntary association groups, are suspect because we try to excel," she said.

"Most young people are not involved in these pressure groups to break down the traditional values of a democratic society. To answer the question 'Why keep sororities?' the young people need us, now as never before because we are one of the last collegiate groups that is still concerned about the total lives of young women, their spiritual, intellectual, physical, academic, social and mental lives.

"Several colleges are lengthening curfew hours, permitting young women to stay out sometimes until 5 a.m. and some I have been told are 'abandoning the archaic rules governing behavior of young college women' (those are their words, not mine), and not forbidding girls to stay all night in men's dormitory rooms," she said.

"A second reason for sororities and fraternities, is that the young people want us. I'm convinced that if all sororities across the nation were abandoned today, not a year would go by, but a group of young women would want to set up a set of values, a set of rules for their behavior, and a bond of friendship between them."

CREAMED COLONGE LASTS

Attorney Speaks To Club Members

Ben Sturgeon, local attorney, told the members of the 20th Century Collihan Club. "It is conceivable that one vote could prevent a revolution, stop a war, reverse our foreign policy, bring about a return to law and order, or end all hope of freedom - therefore, all Americans entitled to vote in all elections should do so."

Speaking at the home of Mrs. Martin Hager, 1712 Holly Lane, Sturgeon advised members of the study club that a change in the Texas Election Code could cause many ballots to be thrown out if all people are not aware of the change. In future elections, including the election on Nov. 5, a voter must indicate the person whom he desires to vote for by marking an "X" or check mark in front of the person's name in the appropriate box provided. It will not be necessary to scratch or mark out the name of the candidates not wanted.

"In a national election, in 1960 one additional vote per precinct in Illinois, Missouri, New Jersey, and Texas could have put Nixon and Lodge into office," Sturgeon declared. "One vote could decide an election and ultimately decide the course and fate of our nation."

MISS DEB

Answers questions about Junior Miss etiquette, grooming and interests.

Q. I always forget to polish my shoes and purse until 15 minutes before leaving for a party. The problem is my hands! I'm left with the decision to wear unpolished shoes and purse or ruin my neatly manicured hands with the polish stains. Is there any way I can do the polishing without messing up my hands?

A. Polish away — wearing gloves! And we don't mean your pretty white ones. Try plastic gloves. They're "thin-skinned" to fit, and strong enough so that fingernails won't break through. When you are through, put them in your polishing kit for later use. Wash your hands, apply your favorite lotion, and voila! Pretty shoes, purse, and hands.

Q. All the heels on my shoes are sort of ground down at the outside edges. Does that mean there's something wrong with the way I walk?

A. Probably. Take a stroll around the room. Notice how your weight falls to the outside edges of your feet? Now shift your weight slightly to the inside of your feet. If you walk is a habit rather than a physical problem (check with your doctor to make sure), concentrate on keeping the weight off those outside edges of your feet. As a first step, take all your "ground down" heels to the shoemaker for a beauty treatment. Then work on developing good walking habits. Remember, beauty begins at your toes, because the way you walk affects your entire carriage.

Q. Our class is going to take several weekend trips this year. Is there any way to keep my clothes presentable without an iron? We'll be going out to dinner, so I want to look nice. Are there any tricks?

A. Wouldn't you believe paper towels as an alternative to ironing? When packing, place long strips of paper towels on sleeves before you fold them. When you arrive at the hotel, hang the dresses on hangers in the bathroom. Let hot water run in the tub until the room is full of steam. After a half hour to an hour your dresses will be virtually wrinkle free! Keep the paper towels for the trip home, and you'll save yourself some ironing when you return.

Mrs. Ellis Gives Program for Club

La Cultura Club met recently with Mrs. John Ellis to hear a report on William McKinley, the 25th United States president.

Mrs. William Chafin speaker said he was a "courageous educated man, with deep religious convictions, and a man whose concern and devotion to his invalid wife touched the heart of a nation during his presidency."

"His career was ended abruptly during his second term when he died from gunshot wounds inflicted by an assassin," Mrs. Chafin said.

Guests attending were Mmes. Charles Areledge, Kermit Lawson, Tom Perkins, and Tommy Williams. Members present were Mmes. Carl Adcock, William Chafin, John Ellis, Jimmie Hayes, Scott Nisbet and Philip Rapstine.

Women Wear the Pants in Parisian Collections

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Paris Correspondent

PARIS (NEA) — There were many disbelievers when avant-garde designer Andre Courreges predicted that the time was not far off when women would wear pants throughout the day and on into evening. It was four years ago when he showed a collection almost entirely conceived on that theme. Today his hunch has been proven right.

Since pants may be here to stay, it seems a precautionary note is in order. No matter how ideal your vital statistics may be, wear a top, be it jacket, cardigan, tunic or what-have-you that extends below the derriere.

You can never be quite sure about the view from the rear. And if it's covered, it can't be ludicrous.

Paris featured a bewildering choice of pants suits and ensembles. And it's a safe bet that this is a fashion which will take, not only for sports and country wear but for city dwellers, career women and students.

Most of the new pants have lost their masculinity. Some are pipstem-slim, others widen at the hem. Several are cuffed and in many instances there are no creases down the front.

The bottom of the new pants reaches the top of the shoes, giving a long-legged look. The pants are worn with chunky square-toed shoes with thick, three-inch heels.

Topping the pants—a category that also includes jumpsuits—are many variations on the tunic theme, the long fitted jacket and the pea jacket. Slim shirt-waisters, Mao shirts or wool or jersey sweaters with enormous roll collars are teamed with these.

Also part of the daytime picture are the culotte-dress worn under a seven-eighths coat and the Bermuda shorts suit with the longer jacket offered as an alternative to the conventional skirt.

Pants have invaded the evening scene with some very formal numbers. They reach below the ankle and are very wide as shown in the Yves Saint Laurent collection.

One was a slinky black crepe satin jumpsuit with long and wide bell sleeves worn under a glittering tunic of gold lame brocade, belted in gold with a long black silk tassel.

Another equally formal model was a floor-length tailored, long sleeved coatdress in silver and white lame over wide pants of the same fabric.

At Nina Ricci there was a luxurious pajama for evening in white crepe satin. The wide pants were topped by a long tunic with full sleeves cuffed in glittering embroidery. This in turn was topped by a long, sleeveless coat with all-over embroidery of raised gold flowers.

The one strange note in the Paris pants picture is that although all the leading style-setters, headed by Saint Laurent, went all-out for pants outfits for the coming winter, Courreges, who predicted their popularity, did not.

Pythian Sisters Attend Convention Of District Ten

The Pythian Sisters Temple No. 41 met recently for the regular scheduled meeting which was conducted by M.E.C., Annie Brown. Reports of District 10 Convention held at Lamesa, Oct. 12, were given.

Nine Temples were represented at the district meeting which three Pampa sisters attended: Grand Manager, Lucille Weathered and Cecil Dawes and Pearl Bernard.

The meeting ended with refreshments being served to 16 members present.

A gift was given to Pearl Bernard, in honor of being the only charter member.

Jog in Comfort

If you're jogging—and just about everybody is these days—here's a special comfort tip for you from track stars. Under your jogging togs and inside your sneakers lavishly dust super-absorbent baby powder. The powder will keep your clothing from sticking and your feet from burning.

Grandview 4-H Elects Officers

GROOM (Spi) — The Grandview 4-H Club met at the Grandview School recently to elect officers.

Officers are president, Vicki Smith, vice president, Sandra Smith; treasurer, Debbie Fields, secretary and reporter, Marla Ritter; council delegate, Isaac Baggerman; assistant council delegate, Schellon Barnett; recreation captain, Margie Baggerman and assistant recreation captain, Isaac Baggerman.

Typical of the pants suits shown by Yves Saint Laurent in his current winter collection is the model (left) teaming a beige long jacket in heavy jersey with a jump suit in iron gray jersey, low-belted and high-collared and fastened at the side. For country wear Jean-Louis Scherrer suggests the pants-outfit (center) with sleeveless scoop neck tunic worn over a turtle-neck sweater and midi-length pants. Jeanne Lavin's contribution to the pants craze is derived from the judo jacket and teamed with bermuda shorts (right). Matching cap completes the outfit.

Your Horoscope JEANE DIXON

Sunday, October 20, 1968
Your birthday today: During the year ahead prepare for the ending of many old situations; renounce what you can no longer accept. Changes will often be sudden but quite beneficial if you avoid sensational financial schemes. Today's natives thrive on personal opposition.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Your Sunday is packed with things which you've put off for weeks. Get down to details early. Brainstorming future plans is favored. Bring your loved ones in on your speculations.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Reading and study are productive today; be receptive to self-improvement activities. Retire early to give your unconscious a chance to catch up with your experience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Hobbies, sports, and public amusements suit your mood. Make the rounds with friends and relatives. Seldom is there likely to be so pleasant a day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Consolidate family plans. Visitors are likely to bring you interesting tidings. Spend the evening going places yourself, but relax early.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Careful handling of the missions entrusted to you brings satisfaction. Exercise your mental powers, settle details of plans.

Visits can be pleasant this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be prepared for a minor disappointment in an emotional matter. Some people are a bit touchy about what you do for them. Busy yourself with your favorite studies.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Visitor's bring more than they take if you count the intangibles and intellectual stimulation. Be the gracious host or go visiting this pleasant day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This is a day of unusual visiting activities. Mental processes are favored. Follow a sudden hunch and be aware of what you avoided by so doing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Strive to learn something new today. It will more than reward any effort you put forth. Get a bit of exercise and turn in early to be fresh for a big tomorrow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A little effort goes a long way today. Organize the things you have been trying to get to for some time into a workable schedule. Enjoy a pleasant day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Intellectual, rather than physical exertion takes precedence today. Press for lasting agreements with relatives and in-laws. Begin laying out additional plans.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Your church needs your support today. Check over your position, your prospects, your holdings; the results should cheer you up somewhat. Relax with reading this evening.

Altrusans Review Educational Grants

At a recent Altrusa Club meeting, Mrs. Holt Barber introduced members of the International Relations Committee, presenting the program on Grants-in-Aid.

Mrs. Elma Vanderburg said grants were first started in 1945 to students in other countries doing graduate work in universities in the USA and then returning to their homes.

Between 1945 to the present, a total of $449,188, has been given to 990 graduate women from Latin America, Asia, the Middle East, Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

A study of the files on these GIA students show that they have returned to their homeland to work in classrooms, administrative offices, research laboratories, and mass media divisions, striving to upgrade the academic levels of their fellow citizens.

Mrs. Frank Heare conducted a question and answer session with most of the members taking part, giving details on how applications are made for these grants and how they are processed.

The meeting opened with the Altrusa blessing in unison, led by Mrs. M. Q. Wilson, president. She introduced Mrs. Kay, guest of Mrs. Roy Kay, Carolyn McKinley and Joe Hiatt, Altrusa girls of the month.

Evelyn Mason read a letter from Renee Secrest, who is attending college at Nacogdoches. She thanked the club for the Inez Carter Altrusa Scholarship.

Other correspondence was a letter from Mrs. Joe Tooley, Gainesville.

Also a letter was read from Mrs. Floyd Yeager who is now living in Phoenix, Ariz.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Oct. 28 at the Coronado Inn. The program will be a report from the District Conference in San Antonio by the two delegates, Mrs. M. Q. Wilson and Mrs. C. C. Fitzgerald.

Two True Western Men To Join Talents in Movie

By VERNON SCOTT, UPI Hollywood Correspondent
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—There is still a breed of Western men who judge other men by the way they ride a horse, look you in the eye and whose word is better than any contract ever drawn.
 Two such men got together recently to make a new movie—ex rodeo bronc rider Casey Tibbs and actor Joel McCrea. Tibbs, now a producer-director, already has turned out "Born to Buck," a movie of the West that is making money in the boondocks. McCrea will star for him in his second venture, "Born Wild."
 "I think Casey's smart, and I hit it off with him just like I did with Gary Cooper and Will Rogers," McCrea said the other day.
 McCrea hasn't made a picture in more than five years—since "Ride the High Country." He is a millionaire cattle rancher and doesn't have to work in movies any more, and doesn't want to.
 "I'm doing this picture because Casey asked me," McCrea explained.
 No contracts have been signed (and probably won't be), but he will have salary or percentages been worked out.
 Western Stock
 McCrea, unlike Tibbs, is a big man physically. But they both have the same weathered faces. Their blue eyes are the color of a Montana or Wyoming sky in the first autumn cold snap. McCrea thinks Casey is much the same kind of man as Rogers: Honest, tough, intelligent.
 "I began with Will Rogers back in 1931," McCrea said. "He told me to buy land. So I bought 1,000 acres for $12,500, and I didn't even have the $8,000 down payment. I had to borrow it from a bank. But Will came out and looked it over and gave his approval."
 "The man who sold the land in various parcels for more than $5 million.
 "Somebody told me when you get to my age and station in life you become either a public benefactor or a public nuisance. I hope I'm a benefactor. I spend a lot of time doing things for charity."
 Why, then, has he decided to return to the screen?
 Ambitious for Tibbs
 "Well," said the Montana man, "I think Casey Tibbs can become the Disney of Westerns. I have more ambition for his future than my own career at this point as an actor."
 McCrea stretched his long legs. "I agreed to work with Casey only if he produced and directed the picture. I don't want to work for a high-powered director or a mid-European producer who demands that the leading man hate his mother."
 "He's going to shoot the picture in South Dakota next June. I've been up there, and I didn't know unspoiled, beautiful country like that still existed."
 "The picture will capture all that, and the story is a good, clean example of what a decent man can do with a camera and film—a story about horses, youngsters and the great Western country."
 Whether he knows it or not, McCrea is passing along the tradition of Will Rogers to a tough, young Wyoming man named Casey Tibbs.
 Somehow, it's good to know that tradition is still alive.

SKIRTING THE ISSUE? It appears that these men are hiding behind a woman's skirt. They are actors Gene Wilder, left, and Donald Sutherland, in a movie scene with British actress Rosalind Knight.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Have We Seen Last TV Debate?

There is an interesting similarity between that controversial fourth game of the World Series and the presidential election campaign.

The game, it will be recalled, was played despite intermittent heavy rain. Ordinarily, it would have been postponed, but it wasn't, some sports writers charged, because of the overriding interests of the television industry — specifically, sponsors' money and viewer ratings.

Just as the St. Louis Cardinals, who were leading, accused the Detroit Tigers of stalling in hopes the game would be called before the end of five innings, which would make it an official game, and the Tigers, who were losing, accused the Cards of excessive haste in trying to reach that crucial point, so the politicians have traded blows over a question that also involves television.

Hubert Humphrey, the underdog, early began appealing for a series of televised debates with Richard Nixon, accusing the latter of ducking the issues. Republicans countered that Humphrey was seizing on the debates as a means of getting nationwide exposure to inject some hope into a desperate campaign. Third-party candidate George Wallace accused both of the others of being afraid to face him.

Controversy over the fourth game of the series is purely academic now, since Detroit made a sensational recovery from that defeat to win the world championship. Academic, too, is the whole matter of a three-way candidates' debate since the Senate refused to second the House-passed bill authorizing them.

Would Nixon's five o'clock show have come back from 1960 to haunt him? Would Humphrey have shown himself to be something more than the talkative incompetent his opponents say he is? Would Wallace have been exposed as a shallow charlatan, or would he have exposed the others? Would, maybe, a little light have been shed on the shadowy issues of this campaign?

Or would none of these things have happened? Would the debates have been just a form of entertainment for an apathetic electorate that already has its mind pretty well made up? Edmund Muskie, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, soundly castigated Sen. Everett Dirksen, the Illinois Republican, for decreeing, through the stratagem of a threatened filibuster, that 74 million voters were not to learn the answers to those questions.

In fairness to Dirksen, however, he had a point when he recalled that it was another Democratic vice presidential candidate, whose initials are HHH, who opposed debates between President Johnson and Barry Goldwater in 1964, when it was the Republican candidate who was the underdog.

Politics being politics, it may be that Americans witnessed in 1960 the first and last televised debates between presidential candidates they will ever see. And it may be just as well.

All those debates suggested, and as the fourth game of the World Series of 1968 confirmed, and as political front-runners instinctively know, that magic all-seeing eye called television has an unpredictable way of assuming the role not of recorder of history but maker of it.

Straw In The Wind

There may be a hint of what is ahead in the 1972 Presidential race in the million-dollar deal just consummated between the Kennedy family and that national magazine. The timing is such that the purpose may be less to "maximize the income" to the estate of the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy, as the announcement put it, than it is to minimize the effects of a newly published book on the political future of Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

The book, "Dagger In the Heart," by Mario Lazo, an outstanding Cuban lawyer, deals with American policy failures which lost that country to Communism, and it is critical of the roles that President Kennedy and his brother played in the debacle. Dr. Lazo throws a far different light on the missile crisis of 1962 than has been presented by those two family-table historians Theodore Sorensen and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., who were Presidential advisors.

The famous confrontation has been set forth by them as one of Kennedy's great achievements. Lazo tells a different story. After facing up to Khrushchev, the President temporized and retreated, and a series of concessions was needlessly made to the Soviets. The missiles were presumably removed, but there is no certainty even of this, since the President did not follow through with the on-the-ground inspection agreed to by Khrushchev.

Another damaging concession was made at Adlai Stevenson's suggestion. This was that we show our good faith by removing our missiles from Turkey. Most damaging of all, however was the agreement Kennedy made that if Khrushchev removed the missiles this country would never try to eliminate Castro and it would guarantee that no other nation would either. This gave Communism a sanctuary in Cuba and, as Dr. Lazo points out, ended the Monroe Doctrine.

So dramatic was this story that part of it was published in Reader's Digest in advance of publication of the book. Possibly it was just a coincidence, but before most Americans had read the article, or newspaper accounts of it, the Kennedy family went into a huddle and decided to offer for publication a 25,000-word memoir of Bobby Kennedy's dealing with the same subject. There will be a magazine feature, a book later, and maybe a movie. The book by Dr. Lazo would make an excellent double feature.

Youngsters in A-chord

Just when we are about ready to write off the human race, something always comes along to remind us that things can't be too hopeless as long as kids are still kids.

In Today's Education, the magazine of the National Education Association, a music teacher offers these gems some elementary school children came up with when asked to define musical terms:

"An encore is what audiences get if they are unruly."

"Refrain means don't do it! A refrain in music is the part you better not play."

"Music sung by two people at the same time is called a duet."

"Fandol was half German, half Italian and half English. He was rather large."

Wit and Whimsy

Scientists may still wonder where the center of the universe is located, but not the young man who's finally found the girl he loves.

Jerry was visiting his grandfather's plantation.

Grandfather Gray (with pride) — This my boy, is a tobacco plant in full bloom.

Jerry (lost in admiration) — Gee, (There was a pause, and then he asked), but grandpa, when will you be able to pick the cigars?

The High Cost of Poverty

If the 1968 elections weren't so vitally important to the future of this planet, we'd be tempted to sit back and laugh at the current campaign.

Candidates—for lower offices as well as for the Presidency—nearly bump into each other as they lean over backwards to prove they love all the poor people. No sooner has a would-be president, or senator, or congressman pledged to save some of the taxpayers' money, than a thousand voices attack him for starving the poor. No politician wants to have THAT kind of reputation, because people with their hands out don't vote for stingy candidates.

Despite the fact that millions of dollars are being spent, many of them with no discernible effect, the "war on poverty" is a positive phrase, and to be against it is akin to opposing motherhood and apple pie. Among other things, this "war" is hailed by many as the perfect—and only—solution to the crime, riot and mayhem which plague our society today.

And so one who opposes the "war on poverty" seems to favor crime and riots, which is almost as bad as favoring starvation. Not many of us are brave enough to risk defamation by damning the poverty war, but one talented young woman has done just that.

The lady is Mrs. Shirley Scheibla, Washington Correspondent for BARRON'S WEEKLY. She has written a book called "Poverty Is Where The Money Is." She discussed the book over a recent Manion Forum radio broadcast. Here are excerpts from her remarks:

"I am convinced that the 'war on poverty' is responsible for the riots.

"Take, for example, Community Action, one of the biggest and fastest growing programs of the Office of Economic Opportunity, which, I am sure you realize, is part of the 'war on poverty.'"

"The inspiration for Community Action was a book titled 'Delinquency and Opportunity.' This book advocated the organization of those in rebellion against the established social order. Taking this as an aim, the pilot project for Community Action was Mobilization for Youth, a three-year social experiment on the lower east side of New York City. In 1962 President Kennedy gave it several million dollars in federal funds.

"In capsule form, MFY had most of the troubles which later developed in Community Action programs all over the country. Though it is hard to believe, Communists and other subversives on the payroll of Mobilization for Youth preached revolution, organized rent strikes, and aided school boycotts, 'Poverty Is Where The Money Is' has an extensive rundown of subversives, their names, titles and activities in the Community Action Program.

"Believe it or not, after this experience with its pilot project, the 'war on poverty' then set up over 1,000 Community Action centers, patterned after MFY, and scattered all over the United States."

"That's only the beginning of Mrs. Scheibla's testimony. For all of it, and for information on how you may obtain a copy of 'Poverty Is Where The Money Is,' send fifteen cents to the Manion Forum, South Bend, Indiana. Ask for Broadcast No. 725.

Canada's first book to gain international recognition was "The Clockmaker, or the Sayings and Doings of Samuel Silk of Silksville," 1835, by Thomas Chandler Haliburton. The World Almanac says. As the first book written in American dialect, it introduced the style used by Artemus Ward and Mark Twain.

Justice Dept. Backs Hershey in Supreme Court Appeal to Prevent Civil Suits That Could Disrupt Draft Procedure

WASHINGTON — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey has finally won the Justice Department's only slightly qualified support for his drive to bar civil suits which could delay and disrupt the military draft.

In two briefs, filed with the Supreme Court in separate draft cases, Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold supports Hershey's view. The draft director contends that Congress acted constitutionally last year when it prohibited such suits with respect to draft classifications.

As previously reported in this column, one federal district court, in San Francisco, has ruled, in precedent setting cases, that Congress acted unconstitutionally. Under a special provision of the draft law, Hershey asked the Justice Department to appeal the ruling directly to the Supreme Court.

In his two Supreme Court briefs Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold calls the congressional action constitutional. And he asks for a review of one of the Federal District Court rulings.

In a third brief, however, Griswold contends that a ministerial student, specifically exempt by the terms of the draft law itself, may bring a civil action before induction if ordered into service by his draft board. That case grows out of Hershey's attempt to use draft machinery against anti-war and anti-draft protesters who violate the law.

All three cases involve a complex legal issue. Hershey is afraid that adverse rulings could result, quite simply, in a flood of suits challenging draft classifications, which would seriously interfere with draft operations.

At issue is a provision of the draft law which denies court review of draft classifications by local boards until a registrant has been ordered to report for induction. Once inducted he can seek a court order challenging his classification. If he refuses to report, his classification becomes an issue in the resulting criminal proceedings.

POTENTIAL THREAT — As previously reported here, the San Francisco district court ruled in May that those judicial review provisions were a denial of due process of law as guaranteed by the Constitution. Hershey said that finding, by Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoll, was "a potential threat to the effective operation of the nation's military manpower procurement program."

The draft director urged that the ruling, in a case brought by Norman Lloyd Petersen, would "open the door to so much 'litigious interruption' of the selective service processing as to hinder severely the efforts of the United States to provide itself with the military manpower required for its defense."

The Petersen case is still entangled in proceedings in the district court. It has been the basis for two subsequent and similar rulings, however, and the Justice Department's brief asks the Supreme Court to review one of them, an action brought by Charles J. C. Gabriel.

In the Gabriel case the San Francisco federal court ruled that "no review at all" would be afforded Gabriel's claim that he was improperly denied a conscientious objector classification even if he risked the hazards of a criminal prosecution. The chief judge of the district, George R. Harris, then issued a court order barring the Alameda County draft board from inducting Gabriel.

The Justice Department is now asking the court to look at that case and the constitutional question involved. Griswold says the broad ruling by Harris "is likely to engender a large number of suits by registrants seeking to avoid induction on various grounds."

Pull Up A Chair

It's always a pleasure to visit Boston and sample the seafood at Louis Dini's restaurant, located midway on the famed Freedom Trail. In our opinion it is the finest seafood restaurant in the country and we've visited a few. Dini specializes in broiled Scrod, which is another name for New England codfish. He serves more than a ton of it every week, which is ample proof that it is a delicacy relished by Bostonians and visitors to the Hub city alike. His fish chowder cannot be surpassed anywhere. And for a real treat try one of his many ways of serving lobster. Each is a production in itself and an experience that will make you wish you lived in Boston where it would be readily available.

Thoughts while shaving: The "best-known" bell in this country is not the Liberty Bell as you may suppose, but the symbol of the telephone company. It has been reproduced millions of times on company stationery, telephone books, utility vehicles and public telephones. . . . And the best-known statue in the world is not the Venus de Milo, but Daniel Chester French's "Minute Man" at the old North Bridge, Concord, Massachusetts. That, too, has been reproduced millions of times on postcards, magazine covers, posters and government bonds.

The restoration of colonial Williamsburg in Virginia was started by the Rockefeller family in 1926. To date they have spent $61 million there and the work is still in progress. . . . A physician friend tells us the lowly dried bean is one of the best of all foods. He says it's an excellent source of calcium, phosphorus, iron, manganese and copper and contains many vitamins. . . . The telephone company distributes 9 million classified directories in the metropolitan New York area every year. If they were placed on a bookshelf side by side they would stretch a distance of 250 miles. That's much too far to walk through the yellow pages. . . . The St. Louis (Mo.) GLOBE DEMOCRAT headlined a story: "Chifford Evans 3rd Funeral Tuesday." What happened at the first two?

It's hard to believe but it is true: The U.S. government is spending $50,000 of your tax money for the study of "The Bokhara Dialect of Persia" and $13,000 to ascertain how the octopus learns. They also appropriated $249,000 to study "Happiness" in Puerto Rico. (They finally discovered that people are happier when they have money.) Wonderful news.

Almost everyone knows Gutenberg printed the first Bible, but a few years before he did that he published the world's first book — "The Constance Missal." This is an extremely rare volume. The Bible, since first published, is still the world's best seller. Last year more than 61 million copies, or parts of the Scripture, were published Christ set, and in the instruction which He gave to His disciples, the noblest conception and the finest pattern of life. But the mental acceptance of these things does not make a man a Christian. Nor does the fact that a nation recognizes in its constitution some of the truths which Christ taught make that nation a Christian nation, nor does it establish His kingdom upon the earth. Christ Himself taught definitely that to become a Christian one must be born again (John 3:3). We do not grow into the kingdom of our Lord, we are born into it by trusting faith in Christ and by acceptance of Him as personal Saviour and as Lord of our lives. We do not become Christians when we accept the truth of His teachings. We become Christians when we accept Him, who is the Truth.

We do not hear much preaching these days on the new birth. There is a great need for it. "Ye must be born again" (John 3:7), says Christ, and until a man is born again, he has no right to call himself a Christian, however much intellectual assent he may give to the truth of Christ's teachings. As for attaining a state of absolute equity and justice and final peace upon the earth, that is something we shall never experience until the Prince of Peace Himself comes to reign over the earth. Then the kingdoms of this world will become in reality the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ (Revelation 11:15).

Life Begins At Seventy

BY LEONARD E. READ
(The Freeman)

Popular expression has it that "life begins at forty," thirty years ahead of my suggested figure. But life really begins each moment one grows in awareness, perception, consciousness; that is, the budding process is a continuous beginning. The moths that have come and gone do not necessarily measure growth or its ending; now and then life flaps in the teens; on occasion it accelerates in the nineties. If seventy seems less likely than forty for a new beginning, the reason is that so many have died on the vine in that interval. Glory to the man who can truthfully attest, "Life begins at ninety!"

Twenty years ago—at the age of fifty—I discovered this: "The normal human brain always contains a greater store of neuroblasts than can possibly develop into neurons during the span of life, and the potentialities of the human cortex are never fully realized. There is a surplus and, depending upon physical factors, education, environment, and conscious effort, more or less of the initial store of neuroblasts will develop into mature, functioning neurons. The development of the more plastic and newer tissue of the brain depends to a large extent upon the conscious efforts made by the individual. There is every reason to assume that development of cortical functions is promoted by mental activity and that continued mental activity is an important factor in the retention of cortical plasticity into late life. Goethe... (and others) are among the numerous examples of men whose creative mental activities extended into the years associated with physical decline... There also seem sufficient grounds for the assumption that habitual disuse of these highest centers results in atrophy or at least brings about a certain mental decline."

And now, on rereading Ortega, I find: "As one advances in life, one realizes more and more that the majority of men—and of women—are incapable of any other effort than that strictly imposed on them as a reaction to external compulsion. And for that reason, the few individuals we have come across who are capable of a spontaneous and joyous effort stand out isolated, monumental, so to speak, in our experience. These are the select men, the nobles, the only ones who are active and not merely reactive, for whom life is a perpetual striving, an incessant course of training."

Enter Into Life

There is more to the observation of these two scholars—a biochemist and a philosopher—than first meets the eye. A worthy ambition, they quite correctly imply, is "to die with your boots on" or "to go down with your colors flying." For what other reason are we here than to get ever deeper into life? And if there are any certain keys to personal happiness, it involves the use and development of the faculties—the expanding mind being the most important and, by and large, all that remains for the elder citizen.

But there is another reason for looking so favorably on those who insist on "a perpetual striving, an incessant course of training": Each of us has a vested interest in these "select men, the nobles." We can live our own lives to the fullest only insofar as they dwell among us. The society in which we live—the environment—is conditioned by the absence or presence of those who persistently pursue excellence. The rise and fall of society depends upon this kind of nobility. These "select men" are essential to us, and striving to be numbered among them is a worthy aspiration.

Yet, many persons lack such aspiration. Analogous is the tree with every appearance of health, its blossoms beautiful to behold, fruit developing normally toward full size. But, alas, before it ripens, the fruit falls to the ground—big and well-shaped, but useless!

We witness so many promising individuals falling by the wayside, stepping away from life, forsaking the effort essential to life's full cycle, just when the process of maturing is to begin! In a word, the fruit of life abandoned!

To associate old age with mature judgment is indeed a mistake, simply because, as Ortega suggests, too many elders react only to external compulsion. The lesser development that is prerequisite to maturity tends to terminate too soon. Old age, more often than not, can be associated with senility. Yet, the greater the age, the richer the maturity, assuming, of course, that the budding process is alive and functioning. In these rare cases, old age and mature judgment go hand-in-hand; the older the wiser!

If I am not mistaken, freedom is to be expected only in societies distinguished by a significant number of mature and wise men. And maturity and wisdom of the quality required is reserved to those who can retain the budding phenomenon—cortical plasticity—into those years normally associated with physical decline, that is, into the period when maturing of the intellect becomes at least a possibility. In any event, I am certain that the type of maturity here in question will never issue among those who, for whatever reason, permit themselves to "die on the vine." Thus, it is of the utmost importance that we reflect on the obstacles to maturity. If they can be identified, we can, hopefully, reduce them.

The Urge To Quit

The most formidable obstacle on the way to maturity is covered by the idea of retirement! Two forces move us toward retirement, namely, temptation and compulsion.

Many are congenitally lazy, if not physically, at least mentally. Their mental activities have stagnated, leaving them uninteresting even to themselves, let alone to others; they cannot stand their own company or abide being alone with their thoughts. They seek excitement and diversion supplied by others, like a man walking down the street with a radio glued to his ear. Any excuse, however flimsy, to avoid thinking for self! Such persons have no fruit to ripen, no mental activity to mature.

There are others who have had no thought since early adulthood but to "get it made." By the time that goal is achieved, abstract thought has been too long neglected for reactivation or renewal; half-hearted attempts prove unavailing, so the temptation is to forever any conscious effort. Mature thoughts are out of the question.

Ever so many persons of high potential look to a vocation for fame or fortune and forget to choose one in harmony with their unique capabilities. As a consequence, the job is likely to be boring; holidays and vacations—little retirements—are highlights of the season; and as the years pass, full retirement seems more and more attractive. There is no incentive to extend mental activity to its maturity.

Relative Retirement

The thought of retirement is anathema to me. I have not experienced any of the temptations and, thus, can list only a few of the more obvious examples. But it seems clear that there would be little drive for compulsory retirement if retirement were not a common goal. It seems to add up to this: Let's formalize and legalize that which the vast majority so ardently favor! The following examples of compulsive forces stem from these common temptations.

Retirement, of course, is a relative term. The shortened work week, enforced by edict, is a case in point. One must retire, not work beyond the legal forty hours, or the employer will be forced to pay a higher hourly rate, in effect, a fine.

Legal holidays seem never to be abandoned even after the case they were meant to celebrate has been forgotten. Instead, there are countless excuses for increasing their number. Minor retirements en masse!

Social security payments are withheld from senior citizens who elect to work and earn. Activity is penalized; inactivity is rewarded.

Governmental unemployment payments often exceed what some persons could earn by working, thus inducing retirement.

Most corporations, educational and religious institutions, chambers of commerce, trade associations, and other organizations compel retirement at 65; many make it attractive to retire at 60; and we hear more and more of retiring at 55. The sole criterion is the number of months that have come and gone; whether the budding process is dead, or at its very peak, is not even considered. As a consequence of this indiscriminate, rule-of-thumb procedure, many of the nation's best men are "put out to pasture."

Common Fetish

These illustrations suffice to emphasize the retirement syndrome. It is, today, the common fetish and the end is not in sight. Under these circumstances, it is remarkable that even a few individuals are capable of spontaneous and joyous effort, that is, are able to experience the maturing period. No wonder that the perceptive Ortega observed such individuals as "stand out isolated, monumental!"

In one sense, it is lamentable that those who have advanced in wisdom and maturity should "stand out isolated, monumental." Far better if there were more such persons—the few less conspicuous than they are. Not everyone will make it, of course, but maturity surely is within the reach of thousands at the modest price of conscious, persistent, dedicated, praiseworthy effort. The reward for realizing one's potentialities, whatever they are, may be the highest earthly life has to confer.

That my life still begins with each moment can be assigned in part to a stroke of good fortune—vocation and avocation are identical; work and pleasure are one and the same.

Beyond this, I have a first-rate retirement policy: short of effective compulsion to the contrary, I propose to ride my bicycle till I fall off!

Wit And Whimsy

A young woman took down the receiver and discovered that the telephone was in use.

"I just put on a pan of beans for dinner," she heard one woman complacently informing another.

She hung up the receiver and waited. Three times she tried to use the phone and then, exasperated, she broke into the conversation: "Madam, I smell your beans burning," she announced crisply. A horrified scream greeted the remark, and the young woman was able to put in her call.

The Art Of Correcting Another

(The Watchtower)

Anyone can correct another. But to correct another in a way that does some good is an art. It is necessary to know, not only what to say, but when to say it and where and how.

Take, for example, this true-life incident. In a certain living room there was a group of what might be called well educated people. All were listening intently as one of their number, a man, told an interesting story. At one point HIS WIFE INTERRUPTED TO CORRECT HIM ON A SLIGHT MISTAKE IN GRAMMAR. Clearly displeased, the husband repeated his grammatical error with added emphasis and proceeded with his story. Obviously, his wife had not learned the art of correcting another.

Most important in the art of correction is the question of motive. The motive should never be a negative one, TO BELITTLE, TO EMBARRASS ANOTHER, OR OUT OF RESENTMENT OR SPITE. THE VERY BEST MOTIVE FOR OFFERING CORRECTION IS LOVE. No doubt the wife who corrected her husband in the matter of grammar did so because of her love for him. She probably would not have thought of saying anything if another man had made that mistake, because it probably would have meant little to her. NO DOUBT ABOUT IT, AMONG THE WAYS THAT LOVE CAN BE SHOWN IS BY OFFERING CORRECTION. AS God's Word says: "Faithful are the wounds of a friend." — Prov. 27:6 RS.

Empathy Needed

However, one who is truly a friend, and who really loves others, also needs to cultivate empathy. More is needed than good intentions. They might be likened to the power needed to run machines important as the power is, it is also important for machinery to be finely adjusted, with gears and bearings not too loose nor too tight, and essential also is enough of the right kind of lubrication. Otherwise, in spite of all the power available, the machine will soon grind to a halt. Similarly when correcting another, you need, not only good intentions, but also the wisdom of empathy, that is, the ability to put yourself in the other's place, so as to know how to go about it, that the correction might do some good.

IMPORTANT IN THE ART OF CORRECTING ANOTHER IS BEING CERTAIN OF YOUR FACTS. You may think you know, and then find out you were mistaken and so suffer embarrassment for having presumed to correct. Not to be overlooked is the need to take into consideration circumstances that might have a bearing on whether a thing is WISE OR UNWISE, whether a certain course of action should be criticized or not. A person may make a very poor showing along a certain line of activity, but if you know all the facts, ALL THE OBSTACLES HE HAD TO CONTENT WITH, YOU MIGHT BE LESS INCLINED TO CORRECT HIM. Under the circumstances he might be doing very well indeed.

There is also the matter of CORRECTING TRIFLES. One young husband complained to his very bright young wife: "Dearie, within just two minutes you have corrected me four times, and that in regard to sheer trifles. DID IT REALLY MATTER WHETHER THESE LITTLE THINGS WERE DONE IN JUST A CERTAIN WAY?" NO, it would not have mattered, and in mentioning them she betrayed a lack of empathy. Apparently she was letting herself get into the bad habit of correcting her spouse in regard to trifles, unessential details, and so was in danger of becoming a nagger.—Prov. 21:9, 27:15.

Why did she do it? Why do so many others like her do it? It could well be because of some unconscious discontent with the lot of submission as defined in the Scriptures. Or it might be a feeling of rivalry of which not even she herself was aware. This, in turn, might be due to thoughtlessness on the part of her husband. A wise and loving husband can do much to remedy matters by ever showing appreciation for what his wife is and for all she contributes to his comfort, pleasure and well-being, physically, emotionally and intellectually. — 1 Cor. 11:3, 8.

When and Where?

If it seems advisable to give correction, it is well to keep in mind that, whenever possible, it is best to correct another in private. Illustrating this is still another true-life incident.

A mature Christian was training another Christian, a motherly person, in the house-to-house ministry in one of the low income housing projects in Brooklyn, New York. As was his custom, from time to time he would offer suggestions on how she could improve her ministry, correcting her. Afterward he felt he had done quite well in giving thought, time and effort to help this beginner. But that was the last time he saw her for months. What had gone wrong?

When another mature Christian called to find out why she had stopped attending the congregation's meetings he learned that she had been greatly hurt because she had been corrected in the presence of others, fellow Christians. It took considerable patient explaining to help her get over her hurt and see matters in their right light. After that she again began to associate with her fellow Christians at the local Kingdom Hall. What a lesson that was for the minister who had tried to help her in the first place. Unless we are careful and display empathy, we can do more harm than good, even with the best intentions in the world.

Married couples in particular do well to keep this principle in mind. As one Christian marriage counselor well observed: "IT IS GOOD FOR MAN AND WIFE TO GIVE COUNSEL TO EACH OTHER, BUT ALWAYS DO IT IN PRIVATE. HAVE REGARD FOR EACH OTHER'S FEELINGS. DO NOT BELITTLE YOUR MATE BEFORE OTHERS. Nor is it wise to do it in the form of teasing." This includes parents' not correcting each other in the presence of their children.

But it must be added that AT TIMES THOSE IN AUTHORITY MIGHT BE REQUIRED TO GIVE CORRECTION IN THE PRESENCE OF OTHERS, even as noted at 1 Timothy 5:20:

"Reprove before all onlookers persons who practice sin." However, that is done, not over minor matters, but when one makes a practice of sin. And it is not so much for the sinner's benefit as for the benefit of onlookers, even as the apostle Paul goes on to say: "That the rest also may have fear."

How And To Whom?

Except for such rare occasions, it is always wise to put the one to be corrected in a receptive frame of mind. One of the ways this can be done is by first giving some praise or commendation. By first having something favorable to say you can make a person more amenable to correction. It will help him to appreciate that you are not prejudiced, that you take note of the strong and good points as well as the weak points and, more than that, that you have empathy and appreciate that receiving correction is not likely to be pleasant.

If you would master the art of correcting another you must be concerned with how you give the correction: UNLESS THE ERROR IS VERY SERIOUS and there is willfulness or indifference associated with it, it is best to proceed in offering correction in a gentle manner, with kindness and mildness. Wise is the inspired advice: "Brothers, even though a man takes some false step before he is aware of it, you who have spiritual qualifications try to restore such a man in a spirit of mildness, as you keep an eye on yourself, for fear you also may be tempted." (Gal. 6:1) Yes, kindness and mildness make it so much easier for another to accept your correction. This, however, requires self-control, for correcting another in mildness, in kindness and calmly is not following the line of least resistance.

The art of correcting another includes taking into consideration the matter of position. CERTAINLY THOSE IN AUTHORITY NEED NOT FEEL APOLOGETIC WHEN THEY, IN WISDOM AND WITH MILDNESS, OFFER CORRECTION TO THOSE IN THEIR CHARGE. Administering correction is part of the duty of husbands, fathers, teachers and Christian shepherds. True, these themselves might at times err and have need to have an error called to their attention. This, of course, should be done in a most respectful manner.

All these principles governing the correcting of another can well be applied by Christian ministers to their preaching and teaching activity. It might be said that they have been commissioned by Jehovah God to offer correction to all with whom they come in contact in their ministry. How so? In that they have been commanded to warn the world of mankind of the impending destruction of this system of things. To carry out this commission effectively requires their mastering the art of correcting others.

So they also must, first of all, BE FULLY INFORMED so as to know what to say; they must also have the right motive, giving the warning OUT OF THEIR HEART, BECAUSE OF LOVE, EVEN THOUGH OTHERS MAY NOT APPRECIATE IT. They must consider the time and place, not insisting upon being heard when it is not convenient for others to listen. Neither do they press their message on those who do not appreciate scared things; they do not throw what is holy to dogs! And in doing all this they give with mildness and kindness a reason for the hope that is in them. By thus mastering the art of correcting another they can hope to do the most good for their Christian ministry. — Matt. 7:6; 1 Pet. 3:15.

Foolish To Run On Wrong Road

REED BENSON AND ROBERT LEE
American Opinion

The gun-control legislation which has been promoted by the anti-gun elements in Congress reminds us of the Chinese proverb which suggests that it is foolish to run when you are on the wrong road. Those who claim to believe that gun registration or licensing will significantly relieve the burden of crime in our nation, or prevent the assassination of political leaders, are traveling the wrong road. And not only are the proposals they advocate foolish — they are dangerous as well.

Gun-control laws simply tend to decrease the ratio of lawfully held firearms to illegally-held firearms and the reason is quite simple: Law-abiding citizens abide by laws, and criminals do not.

Scripps-Howard reported recently that in Great Britain, where hardly anyone owns a gun, an amnesty was declared in 1961 during which those who possessed guns illegally could turn them over to the authorities without being prosecuted. Approximately 70,000 guns were surrendered. Four years later, in 1965, another amnesty was declared, and 40,000 additional guns were turned over. That means that, in tiny Britain which virtually prohibits private gun ownership, at least a hundred thousand guns were being held illegally.

It is of some significance to note that it is not even possible in some instances to keep guns out of the hands of hardened criminals already in jail. Not too long ago, for instance, two murderers escaped from the maximum security area of San Quentin Prison using a machine gun they had clandestinely manufactured inside the prison. And more recently, on June 11, 1968, four convicts in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, one of the nation's three maximum security penal institutions, were able to keep police at bay while holding 53 hostages at gun-point following an attempted escape. Now, you just know that there are gun-control laws in effect at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

than illustrated in the State of New York, which has perhaps the strictest gun-control provisions of any state in the Union. As Sen. Roman Hruska (R-Neb.) pointed out on the floor of the Senate on May 15, 1968: "... the New York State Legislature's joint committee on crime reported that in 1966 the use of homemade zip guns exceeded the misuse of rifles and shotguns in murders, robberies, and assaults in New York State. Misuse of rifles and shotguns in crimes totaled 785 as against a zip gun total of 978. This is a state which has had the Sullivan Law for over 50 years."

And a further indication that criminals simply ignore licensing and registration requirements is contained in the following statistic cited by Congressman James B. Utt (R-Calif.) in a House speech on June 17, 1968: "In New York City, which also has one of the strictest gun-control laws in our nation, requiring a police permit to possess a handgun even in your own home, in 1966 not one of that city's gun-involved homicides was committed by a licensed firearm."

So you see, gun registration affects law-abiding citizens — not criminals. It is somewhat analogous to the government's attempts to control narcotics. Robert Welch has noted: "The federal government cannot even prevent anybody willing to pay the price from getting heroin, when there is almost no legitimate use of heroin to be considered in connection with law enforcement. Yet, we are to believe that it can stop criminals from obtaining guns, when the legitimate uses for firearms are legion."

Now, here is an excellent point to keep in mind when you hear the antigun lobby claim that a gun-control law would have saved the life of Sen. Robert Kennedy: Congressman Utt pointed out in that key speech to the House on June 17 that the accused assassin of Sen. Kennedy violated at least five sections of California's stringent gun control law. What we need is not stricter laws but stricter enforcement of the laws we already have.

control provision of the omnibus crime bill which is now the law of the land prohibits the sale of handguns to persons under the age of 21 presumably on the grounds that persons under that age are not responsible enough to handle such firearms. But many of those who voted for the provision are now leading the furious clamor for a constitutional amendment that would lower the voting age to eighteen, presumably on the grounds that persons between 18 and 21 are fully qualified to properly exercise the franchise to run our nation. Curious. Very curious.

As another illustration of inconsistency, note that Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark has called for the registration of all firearms and the licensing of all owners, because — he alleges — it will reduce the crime problem. But the attorney general has also called for complete abolition of capital punishment, and has publicly refused to enforce provisions of the anti-crime bill which make it possible, under court order, to use wiretapping against hardened criminals and members of the crime syndicate. He says he fears that such a measure may invade their privacy. Atty. Gen. Clark apparently has no such reservations about invading the privacy of the millions of law-abiding Americans who lawfully and constitutionally possess firearms for sport or self-defense.

When the gun-control "liberals" tell you that their real concern is the reduction of crime in America, don't you believe it! Their gun-control proposals represent just another step on the road to people control in America. Our Founding Fathers inserted the Second Amendment into the Bill of Rights for a reason. As Professor Susan Hock has put it, "They were not afraid to trust the people with firearms because they were not selling out their country."

Gun-control proposals such as those being forwarded by the administration and Sen. Thomas Dodd (D-Connecticut) and Joseph Tydings (D-Maryland) should be opposed vigorously. As one of our American Opinion colleagues has said: "A blast aimed at criminals which hits maybe fifty million law-abiding citizens is a sorry piece of marksmanship on its own."

The Prairie Wind

By CLEO TOM TERRY

SKELLYTOWN — After a two week stay in the hospital, Mary Gray together with her husband Buel, went down near Dallas to visit their children, the Jim Tom Nicholls. Back only a little over a week, and now in the hospital again. It's sad for someone good as Mary to stay sick all the time.

Buel helped the C. E. Terry's bring weaner calves up from the north pasture Monday evening, and both he and yours truly were ridin' sort of light. Reason: Applejack and Joe, young horses.

Buel remarked, "Wonder how long it is going to take to get the colt out of them," then decided, "No oftener than cowmen ride nowadays, it may be quite a spell; they could even be 'colty' when old horses!"

A long time ago boy babies often were called "shirt-tail boys". Well, we got a "minis" shirt-tail boy now around over Skellytown and vicinity. Wayne Beigle, who soloed sometime ago is minus a shirt-tail. It hangs in the barber-shop now. Evidence of his having soled.

Flossie and Dock Stockton are minus their old dog, Herkabit, who had grown stiff and old and gray. Herz, who always stayed close by the house, somewhat surprisingly wandered off and must be dead. And, I have lost an old friend. Herkabit loved us, too.

Lots of people working cattle these days. Bill Thompson and Leonard Johnson are helping his brother-in-law Bob Holloway to deliver Johnny Hines' yearlings. Hal Brown, manager of Hay Hooks east of us, and headquartering near Pampa, is working different pastures nearly every day. The Paytons on Crutch ranch delivered calves and are getting ready to ship old cows this week. The Duncans on White Deer Creek will work pastures Monday and Tuesday and brand next Saturday.

Rained a whole 30-inch last Tuesday night. Von Payton wondered over the phone why it couldn't have come a month ago! They got an inch, Leonard Johnson got .65 on White Deer, and Bill Langley at Recreation Park in Pampa got over an inch.

The Bill Pfeffers were visitors in the Terry home recently. So were Randy and Bryan Pulse and Ernie Jones of Pampa, who spent the night in order to help the Boss and Charlie Bell haul cane bales from near White Deer. The lucky boss had Ernie Bell, James and Bryan and Billie Bob, to haul his first load of nearly 200 bales from there, the week before.

"If you're out of beer, you're out of beer," sings the advertisement. Well, from the looks of our county road they "ort" to be about out! Beer bottles have been a source of annoyance around this community, especially as it makes the road look sloppy and might cut up a tire. But to me, it was only a source of annoyance until the day I found several beer bottles thrown over in our horse pasture. Then I became really worried. A horse could be cut, and his feet ruined for life by broken glass. And I had no way to warn the folks who simply do not realize the danger of a thing as careless as this. Nobody would want to cripple an animal, and yet they may do just this, through careless habits.

Leon and Waddeen Nicholson bought steers and heifers in Oklahoma last week and were looking them over at the weaner calf sale in Amarillo on Tuesday. Also on hand were Mr. and Mrs. Homer Miller of Allison and Junior Wilson of near Miami and the Terrys and their weaner calves.

Texas Colleges and Universities Showing Increase in Enrollment

By Stephen H. Gardner
 United Press International
 A survey of all Texas colleges and universities Monday showed enrollment up this fall by 8.42 per cent or 28,515 students—enough to fill a good-sized campus.
 Dr. Jack Cross, assistant commissioner for senior colleges and universities, said the growth rate was slightly higher than the national average.
 "This fall we had 374,418 college students in both private and public schools compared with the 1967 figure of 345,903," he said.
 An independent poll by United Press International, which included, for example, seminary schools, vocational enrollments and others, showed total enrollment in 1968 as 397,018—over the total last year of 370,922.

 The UPI poll included every school from the University of Texas in Austin with 32,091 students to the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest, also in Austin, with 42 students.
 Cross said the totals recorded by the coordinating board produced no big surprises.
 The following is an enrollment list of this year and last from the larger schools across the state.
 The University of Texas at Austin, 32,091 in 1968 compared with 29,841 in the fall of 1967; the University of Houston, 23,741 and 21,770; Texas Technological College in Lubbock, 19,034 and 18,646; North Texas State University in Denton, 14,803 and 14,673; Texas A&M University in College Station, 12,837 and 11,782; University of Texas at Arlington, 12,556 and 11,873; San Antonio College, 12,131 and 11,637.
 Lamar State College of Technology in Beaumont, 10,358 and 10,051; University of Texas at El Paso, 10,170 and 9,029; East Texas State University in Commerce, 8,890 and 8,328; Stephen F. Austin College in Nacogdoches, 8,717 and 8,102; Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos, 8,458 and 7,491; Southern Methodist University in Dallas, 8,226 and 7,663; and Sam Houston State College in Huntsville, 7,669 and 7,102.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wright Investors Service notes that the "tax loss" selling season reaches "vigorous maturity" during the second half of October and thus "it is wise to take shelter." It advises investors to "sell high but wait... in order to buy lower—later."

W. E. Hutton and Co. says while there is no "good reason" for long term investors to sell their good stocks, this may not be "the most prudent time" to add to holdings in many issues, adding that "a better time" may crop up later. The analyst, however, adds that the short term outlook is for higher prices.

Abraham & Co. says it believes the market is "vulnerable" to "some sort of reaction" right now, but insists that such a reaction "will be of modest proportions." But the company offers the opinion that it would not let its "overall market view" interfere with purchases of stocks with "particularly intriguing" prospects.

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Fred die Lee McKenzie, 27, was convicted of murder with malice Thursday night and sentenced to die in the electric chair.
 McKenzie was being tried for the death of one of the eight persons who died in the Fort Worth nightclub fire, Luckey's Grave, May 5.
