Hinojosa added that if the project is found unsuccessful, plans would be modified and the suggestion of the line to Matamoros accepted.

GAINESVILLE, Jan. 27.—A posse of 100 officers was searching the Red River bottoms north of here today for one of the men who robbed the bank at Marietta, Okla., Wednesday.

The officers were working on a tip which they believe will lead to the recovery of the loot taken.

Woman Candidate Says Election of Smith Would Disrupt Party—Hopes Moody Will Run for Re-Election

DALLAS, Jan. 27.—Prediction that the nomination of Gov. Al Smith of New York as the democratic presidential nominee will mean defeat of the party was made here by Mrs. Edith Wilmans of Dallas, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. She announced her own stand strongly in favor of prohibition and said:

"We must have a dry candidate for president as well as for vice-president." She discussed reports that efforts would be made to nominate Governor Dan Moody for president or vice-president and expressed a wish that he would be a candidate again for governor against her. In part she said:

"The people of Texas must be careful and consider well the national situation, for regardless of how strong a prohibitionist we may have in the vice-president's office, it will make not the least difference in a vote for or against a repeal of the prohibition amendment.

Power Not Used
"Mr. Moody, as governor of Texas, has 100 per cent more power to assist in the enforcement of the prohibition laws, both state and federal, and compel legislation relating to their enforcement, than he would have as vice-president, and yet he has made little headway in remedying the situation in Texas, with every power at his call.

"I am not at this time taking issue with any candidate on their prohibition record, but we must not let the entering wedge in, which may cause such confusion at the last moment which will result in the nomination of an anti prohibition candidate for the presidency, for Al Smith, or any other wet president, would undo the work of the moral forces of the United States for the last fifty years, in passing the prohibition amendment, for as the president would have the power to veto any act calling for a repeal of our prohibition amendment, so a president would have a vast influence on legislation to repeal our present prohibition laws, or to make our enforcement laws stronger. This is why I am making this appeal to the people to really and seriously study the situation from every standpoint, and be prepared to vote against any delegate who favors a coalition of the wet and dry forces to elect Smith as the standard bearer.

Fears Party Split
"If we nominate Al Smith as the choice of the democrats for our next president, it means another defeat for the Democratic party, for there are many states who, after voting against any wet candidate will, if a wet is nominated, either not vote, or bolt the Democratic party.

"If the nomination of Mr. Moody for vice president will make our chances stronger to win a Democratic victory for president, then by all means let us lend every effort to his nomination. But let us not forget that the vice president of the United States can have very little to do with the support or repeal of the prohibition amendment.

"As President of the Senate, he could not vote on any measure except in the case of a tie, and in a vote to repeal the Volstead act, or any other amendment to the constitution, or to modify same, it will take a two-thirds majority vote of both houses to re-submit the question to the legislature of the several states, or to call a convention for the purpose of a repeal by the people. Hence, Mr. Moody as Vice President, would have absolutely no voice in the question, one way or another.

"I would advise the public of

Only 175 Dogs Privileged to Live

"There are more than 175 dogs in Pampa, and yet only that number of tags has been purchased this year; some one is going to lose a valuable pet one of these days and then negligent dog owners will pay their dog tax," Chief of Police John Andrews states.

He further says that he is going to rid the town of stray canines which are likely to spread rabies during the hot weather.

BAPTISTS IN BIG MEETING

Many Delegates Here for Conquest Campaign Conference

With prominent Baptist masters and laymen present from many cities, the denominational conference is under way here today. Dr. F. Groner of Dallas and Dr. G. L. Yates of Amarillo were prominent speakers of the morning.

The subject of the gathering is the Conquest campaign of Texas Baptists. Educational affairs of the denomination are in a crisis owing to increasing indebtedness of the last few years. The challenge of this situation has been met through the inauguration of the Conquest campaign, which will if successful relieve local college trustees of their heavy burdens.

Among the speakers present are Dr. F. S. Groner, executive secretary of the Texas Baptists, of Dallas; Prof. L. A. Myers, a teacher in the Baptist seminary, of Fort Worth; the Rev. G. L. Yates, pastor of the First Baptist church of Amarillo, and Mrs. J. H. Weatherby of Hubbard, City, who were the chief speakers.

Panhandle towns represented are Perryton, Mr. and Mrs. Short; Higgins, the Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Reed, and seven delegates; Canadian, the Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Harrison; Mrs. J. W. Sanders and others; Miami, the Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Jackson, the Rev. E. G. Pennington and others; Salem, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Kitchen, and Wm. Brown and daughter; Shamrock, the Rev. and Mrs. Baxter, the Rev. Baird and others; McLean, the Rev. and Mrs. D. H. Brynoff; White Deer, the Rev. and Mrs. Douglas Carver; Amarillo, Dr. J. E. Nunn, the Rev. G. L. Yates and J. M. Cook.

Wagon Factory at Texas Penitentiary Destroyed by Fire

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 27.—A loss estimated at $20,000 was sustained by the Texas penitentiary system when the wagon factory was destroyed by fire early today.

The origin of the fire was ascribed to a heater left burning or to a short-circuited electrical wire by R. E. Miller, assistant warden of the prison.

No prisoners escaped, nor was there any disorder among the convicts, the assistant warden declared.

W. K. Clayton, president of the Purple Sage Oil company of Denver, is here looking over his oil properties. The Purple Sage company has much acreage in southeast Gray county, and is drilling a well north of Alareed.

LAND BELOW BOWERS POOL BELIEVED RICH

Eslick, Reiger and Sines Buy From Mrs. Hopkins

PRODUCTION IS 3 MILES AWAY

Trend Is Believed to Run in Southerly Direction

Important Gray county leases, involving $150,000, were exchanged this morning in the South Pampa pool when E. H. Reiger, and Sines, the original holders of the Delaney interest, bought much acreage from Mrs. Maggie Hopkins and associates.

The lease transaction included the purchase by the three men of the following leases: the northeast quarter of section 84, the southwest quarter of section 84, the northeast quarter of section 97, the east half of the southeast quarter of section 97, and the west half of section 97, all of block B-2, in the Bowers pool of the South Pampa field.

These leases are a mile west and south of the old Riley-Heck No. 1 Hopkins, and at least three miles south of production in the Bowers pool.

A location to drill a well has been made in the northeast corner of the west half of the southwest quarter of section 84, block B-2. Material is arriving for the rig.

Following a geological survey, these prominent oil men have decided that the trend of the field is in the first to drill in that territory.

It is expected that the sudden development in this territory will mean a heavy run of leases in that territory.

The men who are drilling this well believe that an increase in the price of crude oil will be reported early next month.

The Feenberg Pipe and Supply company has opened a pipe supply yard and threading machine shop in the South Pampa field. This shop is situated in the southwest quarter of section 63 block B-2, on the midwest Exploration company's Bowers lease.

J. H. King will be in charge of the new plant, which will accommodate oil field trade especially in emergency cases. The company also has a shop at Roxana where they have been for the past year.

Wm. Feenberg, with offices in the Brunow building, is in charge of this territory. The company headquarters is in Tulsa.

Houston Will Let Gulf Breezes Fan Demo Delegates

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—An immense made-to-order auditorium which will house the Democratic national convention at Houston will be especially designed to take full advantage of the cool Gulf breezes, and a permanent fireproof roof insulated against heat and having a mechanical ventilating system will guarantee comfort for the delegates, Jesse Jones of Houston, director of finance of the Democratic national committee, said today.

All sides of the great hall will be left open to admit the breeze and several city blocks are to be raised and cleared for the auditorium, which will be of the stadium type.

THE STORY THUS FAR

"The gentleman came out of Miss Odell's apartment about 11:30," said Jessup, "and asked me to call him a cab. While he was waiting Miss Odell screamed. We rushed back to her door and he knocked. She answered and said everything was all right and for him to go home. About ten minutes later someone called her on the phone and a man's voice answered from her apartment. No one else had come in, said Jessup, or gone out. The only other means of exit or entrance was the side door to the alley, and that had been bolted on the inside the evening before and was found that way in the morning. Yet Margaret Odell's strangled body was found in her apartment the next morning."

CHAPTER X

"But even if Dubois does identify those prints," said Markham, "we'll have to show how the owner of them got into this place last night. He'll claim, of course, they were made prior to the crime."

"Well, it's a sure thing," declared Heath stubbornly, "that there was some man in here last night when Odell got back from the theatre, and that he was still here until after the other man left at half past eleven. The woman's screams and the answering of the phone call at twenty minutes to twelve prove it. And since Doc Doremus said that the murder took place before midnight, there's no getting away from the fact that the guy who was hiding in here did the job."

"That appears incontrovertible," agreed Markham. "And I'm inclined to think it was some one she knew. She probably screamed when he first revealed himself, and then, recognizing him, calmed down and told the other man out in the hall that nothing was the matter. Later on he strangled her."

"And I might suggest," added Vance, "that his place of hiding was that clothes-dress."

"Sure," the Sergeant concurred. "But what's bothering me is how he got in here. The day operator who was at the switchboard until ten last night told me that the man who called and took Odell out to dinner was the only visitor she had."

Markham gave a grunt of exasperation. "Bring the day man in here," he ordered. "We've got to straighten this thing out. Somebody got in here last night, and before I leave I'm going to find out how it was done."

Vance gave him a look of patronizing amusement.

"Y' know, Markham," he said, "I'm not blessed with the gift of psychic inspiration, but I have one of those strange, indescribable feelings, as the minor poets say, that if you really contemplate remaining in the bestrewn boudoir till you've discovered how the mysterious visitor gained admittance here last night, you'd do jolly well to send for your toilet accessories and several changes of fresh linen—not to mention your pajamas. The chap who engineered this little soiree planned his entrance and exit most carefully and perspicaciously."

Markham regarded Vance dubiously, but made no reply.

(Tuesday, September 11; 11:15 a. m.)

Heath had stepped out into the Jessup had been. Patently, Miss Odell had gone out at seven and returned at eleven with the same man.

"Now, resumed Markham, putting an added stress on his words, "I want to know who else called on Miss Odell between the time she went out to dinner and ten o'clock when you left the switchboard."

Spively was puzzled by the question, and his thin arched eyebrows time."

"Couldn't any one have come in the side door?"

"What! Was it unlocked?" Spively's tone was startled. "It never is unlocked at night. The janitor bolts it when he leaves at six."

"And you didn't unbolt it last night for any purpose? Think!"

"No, sir, I didn't!" He shook his head earnestly.

"And you are positive that no one got into the apartment through the front door after Miss Odell left?"

"Positive! I tell you I didn't leave the door the whole time, and nobody could've got by me without my knowing it. There was only one person that called and asked for her—"

"Oh! So some one did call!" snapped Markham. "When was it? And what happened?—Jog your memory before you answer."

"It wasn't anything important," the youth assured him, genuinely frightened. "Just a fella who came in and rang her bell and went right out again."

"Never mind whether it was important or not," Markham's tone was cold and peremptory. "What time did he call?"

"About half past nine."

"And who was he?"

"A young fella I've seen come here several times to see Miss Odell. I don't know his name."

"Tell me exactly what took place," pursued Markham.

Again Spively swallowed hard and wetted his lips.

"It was like this," he began, with effort. "The fella came in and started walking down the hall, and I said to him: 'Miss Odell isn't in.' But he kept on going, and said: 'Oh, well! I'll ring the bell anyway to make sure.'"

"A telephone call came through just then, and I let him go on. He rang the bell and knocked on the door, but of course there wasn't any answer; and pretty soon he came on back and said: 'I guess you were right.' Then he tossed me half a dollar, and went out."

"You actually saw him go out?" There was a note of disappointment in Markham's voice.

"Sure, I saw him go out. He stopped just inside the front door and lit a cigaret. Then he opened the door and turned toward Broadway."

"One by one the rosy petals fall," came Vance's indolent voice. "A most 'nusin' situation!"

Markham was loath to relinquish his hope in the criminal possibilities of this one caller who had come and gone at half past nine.

"What was this man like?" he asked. "Can you describe him?"

Spively sat up straight, and when he answered, it was with an enthusiastic

"My God, sir!" he exclaimed. "So that's how they murdered her!"

and now returned with the day telephone operator, a tall, thin young man who, we learned, was named Spively.

His almost black hair, which accentuated the pallor of his face, was slicked back from his forehead with pomade; and he wore a very shallow mustache which barely extended beyond the alae of his nostrils. He was dressed in an exaggeratedly dapper fashion, in a dazzling chocolate-colored suit cut very close to his figure, a pair of cloth-topped buttoned shoes, and a pink shirt with a stiff turn-over collar to match.

He appeared nervous, and immediately sat down in the wicker chair by the door, fingering the sharp creases of his trousers, and running the tip of his tongue over his lips.

Markham went straight to the point.

"I understand you were at the switchboard yesterday afternoon and last night until ten o'clock, is that correct?"

Spively swallowed hard, and nodded his head. "Yes, sir."

"What time did Miss Odell go out to dinner?"

"About seven o'clock. I'd just sent to the restaurant next door for some sandwiches—"

"Did she go alone?" Markham interrupted his explanation.

"No. A fella called for her."

"Did you know this 'fella'?"

"I'd seen him a couple of times calling on Miss Odell, but I didn't know who he was."

"What did he look like?" Markham's question was uttered with hurried impatience.

Spively's description of the girl's escort tallied with Jessup's description of the man who had accompanied her home, though Spively was more voluble and less precise than lifted and contracted.

"I—don't understand," he stammered. "How could any one call on Miss Odell when she was out?"

"Some one evidently did," said Markham. "And he got into her apartment, and was there when she returned at eleven."

The youth's eyes opened wide, and his lips fell apart.

"My God, sir!" he exclaimed. "So that's how they murdered her!"

He stopped abruptly, suddenly realizing his own proximity to the mysterious chain of events that had led up to the crime.

"But nobody got into her apartment while I was on duty," he blurted, with frightened emphasis. "Nobody! I never left the board from the time she went out until quitting

DAILY NEWS' 1928 PROGRAM FOR PAMPA

- One or more new railroads. New city hall-auditorium. County agricultural agent. Additional street paving. Oil Exchange building. Expedite road paving work. Encourage existing industries. Invite new industries. Complete water, sewer systems. More and better homes. Extend Pampa trade territory. Develop dairying industry. Municipal band. Municipal airport. Pampa Fair. Associated Charities. County home demonstration agent. High school gymnasium.

OUR RAILROADS—As the date of the beginning of construction of the Pampa-to-Cheyenne railroad nears, it becomes very apparent that this city's immediate future will be much determined by this road.

There is a very distinct reason for this, in connection with the fact that many businesses of a wholesale nature will not come here until they are given outlets in more than two directions.

Concurrent with the announced plans for the Kell road, other plans have been taking place. On the basis of known facts, the assumption is warranted that if the road is built a number of small industries, and many new territorial businesses will be located here before construction is completed.

Mr. Kell's projects attract wide attention because they usually open up new territories and make way for much new business. His railroad from Pampa will attract businesses and industries as much or more than any other single factor that can be considered.

In view of these facts, and remembering that Mr. Kell has made an admittedly very reasonable offer in regard to Pampa's part in the venture, it is apparent that Pampa citizens should wholeheartedly support the financial program necessary to fulfill the contract recently agreed upon.

new railroad. The burden of obtaining the right-of-way and terminal will be lessened by the same degree of reasonableness which has dominated land owners on the eastern portion of the right-of-way. The opening of a new market will mean much to the people of this territory, and it is believed those through whose land the road will run will be glad to cooperate in giving the right-of-way free or at a nominal price. Poll taxes are important, but here is a project which is even more vital for the future, and the whole community must cooperate in its immediate completion.

MAN TO MAN—The advantage of personal contact in obtaining accurate understandings has long been recognized. There is something in the manner and inflection of speech which is self-interpretative. The telephone as an instrument for transmitting speech has just recently begun to reach its possibilities in business transactions. You can now talk from coast to coast for only $9, under a new reduced schedule of rates. That is going to make calls more frequent, and therefore lay the basis for more habitual use of the phones.

Eventually, no doubt, television will be added to present equipment, giving the effect of annihilating distance. Wireless telephone, with the same advantages but, as yet, a number of disadvantages, gradually will cut down the amount of physical equipment necessary to transmit messages. The telegraph, following similarly progressive lines, has many advantages of its own. Considering the cheapness of wire and wireless communication, it is to be wondered that so many people of means depend upon the mails when other methods are so much more modern and rapid.

PRESS FORUM

CENSORIOUS.

Pampa Daily News—Honesty, even in Government, is sometimes costly. Padding of the scholastic census in Texas counties has become a pernicious practice. Those counties which report actual attendance suffer the loss of many $15 apportionments. Gray County, having discovered an error of one scholastic in favor of the State, returned that apportionment. Such honesty is hewing to the line and is as notable in that way as the practice of some counties is notoriously the opposite.

To read Brother Hinkle's fulmination, you would think that the editor of the Pampa Daily News has reached the conclusion that honesty is a bad policy. You would think that he wants Pampa, which claims to have lost $14,000 last year because nearly a thousand of its scholastics registered after the census, to pad its roll and otherwise bamboozle the State of Texas until it gets its money. But, bless you, that is just Olin Hinkle's way of talking. He wouldn't have his county certify to a single future President who isn't actually learning the three R's. He wouldn't want Gray County to have held on to those three five-dollar greenbacks it received for a schoolboy it did not actually have. What Hinkle really wants is an honest count by an honest county and State supervision in the counties

"Iron Mike" Here to Start Service With Daily News

"Iron Mike," who for a time at least is going to be known as the smartest "man" in the Pampa Daily News office, has arrived in Pampa and at present, is a guest of the telephone exchange.

"Mike" is the marvelous printer-telegraph which the Associated Press is placing with the News to bring a tremendous flood of words to Pampa's own daily. Parts for the remarkable instrument have been arriving for several days, and experts will be busy this week-end getting Iron Mike ready for his daily grind.

Few small dailies are able to enjoy the efficient service of the automatic leased wire, and the coming of Iron Mike lends distinction to this fast growing publication.

Boycott of Fans

There is some talk that the irate baseball fans of New York will boycott the Giants next season to make the dear old owners feel their protest against the trade that sent Rogers Hornsby to Boston.

From previous experiences it has been demonstrated that the feeling of the major league club owners are rather hardened against the utterances of the public and that their most vital spot is the old dough roll.

Anyone who is at all familiar with baseball conditions in New York knows that any talk about an organized boycott to punish the Giant owners for the harsh way they treated the poor Rajah is the bunk.

They don't take baseball that seriously in New York. The fans have had enough to steam them up to the boycott heat in the past with the Dolan-O'Connell, the Phil Douglas and Hal Chase affairs and the Black Soxers, but they cooled off and continued to visit the Polo Grounds occasionally.

We don't subscribe to the claim of the magnates that baseball is the heart of the nation and the savior in time of war and peace, but there is something about the game that strikes a forgiving note among the customers.

Had Cause for Kick

The fans who support the Giants in New York like to go to the Polo Grounds for some reason, but there certainly is no precedent to make one believe that they will stay away because Hornsby was chastised by Charley Stoneham.

On the other hand, it will be interesting to count the boys on the third base side, where some betting is done, when Hornsby pays his regular visits with the Braves or whatever team he lands with. The boys in that section haven't much regard for a person who considers that certain kinds of debts cannot be collected legally.

If there ever had been any real occasion for the irate fans to arise to the heights of irritation it was when Frank Frisch was sent down the river to t. Louis.

Frisch was a New Yorker on a New York club, and a Bronx boy at that. He was a colorful ball player and popular, but no societies for staying away from the gate were organized when Stoneham swapped him for Hornsby.

What's the Public?

Hornsby, for a good many reasons, never would have been as popular in New York as Frisch was and if Bronx pride could not heat the customers up enough to sock the pocket-book of the Giants they won't go to the floor for dear old Rajah.

It is quite possible that there may be a decrease in attendance at the Polo Grounds next year, if the Giants don't get a second baseman that can stop a ball they will lose a lot of ball games and the particular type of fan that supports the Giants demands his winning baseball.

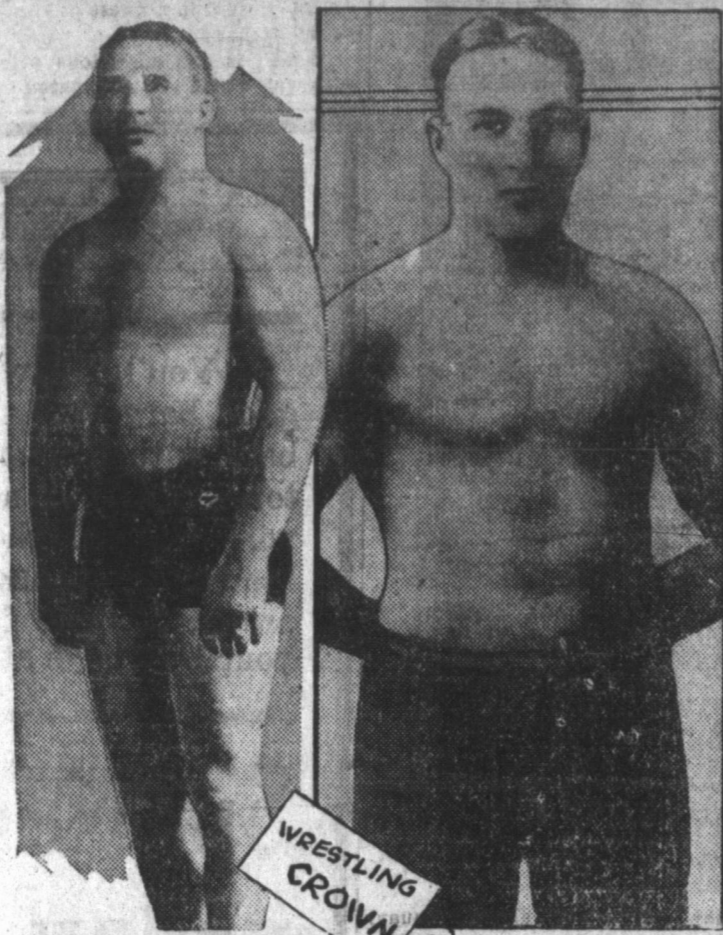

During the discussion about the New York-Boston deal it was heard frequently—"The public demands an investigation." "The public will not be satisfied until all the details are made known." "The public this and the public that."

It brings up the question—what is that public and where is it?

It is mindful of the time in Washington when a writer asked Commissioner Landis for a copy of the testimony taken from Cozy Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell on the grounds that the public was entitled to it.

"Since when are you the custodian of the public?" the commission-

Lewis-Stecher Bout to End Seven-Year Dispute Over Champ Title

CHICAGO—The world's heavyweight wrestling championship, a title that meant something when Frank Gotch had it, will be taken out of the committee room and tossed to either Ed (Strangler) Lewis or Joe Stecher next month.

After seven years of ballyhooing, Lewis and Stecher have at last agreed to wrestle to a finish in St. Louis February 20. The event is designed to settle the question, "Who is world's heavyweight wrestling champion?"

The match will be staged in the Coliseum at prices ranging upward to $25 for the ringside locations, with the promoters expecting a gate of $150,000, a record in wrestling.

Both Claim Crown

Both Lewis and Stecher have claimed the title since 1925. Stecher was recognized as champion in some spots; Lewis was the title holder in others, depending upon the particular locality in which he chose to wrestle. They went their separate ways, each working a certain territory in which they were regarded as champion.

They have been matched on previous occasions, but something always came up to side track the contest. Lewis once posted a forfeit of $5,000 to wrestle Stecher in Los Angeles, but claimed an injury at the last minute, with the result that the bout never came off. It is an air fight agreement this time, the promoters say, with the winner taking the title, each having posted $5,000.

Met Twice Before

Lewis and Stecher have met twice before and since their first engagement a bitterness has existed between them that still endures. Backer asked with a mean look.

As long as the customers pay, baseball hasn't much concern about the public, and unless some tremendous change has happened in sentiment, New York will continue to be a paying customer for some time.

In 1915 they wrestled five hours to a no-decision contest at Omaha, and on Dec. 13, 1920, they met again in New York with Lewis winning the championship for the first time in his career by pinning Stecher in a single fall in an hour and 41 minutes.

But "Big" Munn was flattened by "Old Man" Stanislaus Zbyszko on the eve of a return match with Lewis, which the latter won. Then Stecher threw Zbyszko and both Lewis and Stecher clamored about being champion.

The history of the wrestling championship since Gotch's reign has been filled with claims and return matches with the champions meeting men they have beaten over and over again. Now the Lewis-Stecher match promises to end the merry-go-round.

Buffaloes to Clash With Wildcats at Canyon Tonight

(Special to the News)

CANYON, Jan. 27—There will be a great deal of old rivalry in the games Friday and Saturday nights in Buffalo gym between the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes and the Abilene Christian college Wildcats.

It was the Wildcats that dealt a crushing blow to the Buffalo championship hopes back in 1926. That year the Buffaloes boasted a team that knew no superior and few equals, but the Wildcats came to Canyon with a proverbial "blood in their eyes" and played sensational basketball to split the two-game series with the Buffaloes, a factor that proved the undoing of the Buffaloes and their race for the championship. They still talk about the speed of those two games in Canyon and many look forward to a repetition of that basketball drama when the Buffaloes and Wildcats meet Friday and Saturday nights.

To judge by the dope of games played this season, the Buffaloes will be the favorites in the games this week. The Christians won both games of a two-game series with the Southwestern Teachers of Oklahoma by small scores, whereas the Buffaloes gave the Bulldogs two severe lacerations, almost doubling the score in both of the games.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE
by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

... that showed he had taken special note of the visitor.

"He was good-looking, not so old—maybe thirty. And he had on a full-dress suit and patent-leather pumps, and a pleated silk shirt."

"What, what?" demanded Vance, in simulated unbelief, leaning over the back of the davenport. "A silk shirt with evening dress! Most extraordinary!"

"Oh, a lot of the best dressers are wearing them," Spively explained, with condescending pride. "It's all the fashion for dancing."

"You don't say—really!" Vance appeared dumbfounded. "I must look into this. . . . And, by the bye, when this Beau Brummel of the silk shirt paused by the front door, did he take his cigaret from a long flat silver case carried in his lower waistcoat pocket?"

The youth looked at Vance in admiring astonishment.

"How did you know?" he exclaimed.

"Simple deduction," Vance explained, resuming his recumbent posture. "Large metal cigaret cases carried in the waistcoat pocket somehow go with silk shirts for evening wear."

Baker School Notes

The pupils of Mrs. Stowell's room have organized a "Clean club." Each member was given a travel book in which the colors one page every day that he comes to school with clean hands, face, and ears. If he is not clean according to the rules of the club, he must get off the train for that day. Today the class is in Spain where the olives grow and the oil is taken from them to make Palmolive Soap.

Mrs. Cockerell's third grade is very sorry to have one of the A students, Scott Mullins, ill with pneumonia. The pupils tried to show their sympathy with a bouquet of carnations. There have been several absents in the last two weeks. Others have come back after an absence of a month or more, they are Victor Wade, Harlow Felks, and Virginia O'Donnell. There is an enrollment of 42.

The last two weeks have been very busy, as each child has made a "Baby" booklet and a "Story Hour" booklet, from old readers.

Last Monday the following were given a prize for being neither absent nor tardy for the first semester:

Lamar School Notes

The pupils of the sixth and seventh grades have begun their work for the new term with much enthusiasm. These who failed on subjects for the mid-term are planning to exert a great deal of effort to raise their grades to pass this term.

The basketball team of the Lamar school played a team in Miami last Friday. The score was 17-34 in favor of Miami. We have a very good team this year, and the defeat will not discourage the girls, but will make them more determined to win the next game played with one of our neighboring schools.

We are very glad to have a new teacher, Miss Moore, with us. Miss Moore has been teaching the second grade, but she exchanged positions with Mrs. Strickland, who has been teaching spelling and geography in the intermediate grades.

The pupils in Miss Herlacher's room making a general average of A for the first semester's work are Georgia Lou Prichard, Clea Killebrew, Wilma Battle, Sybil Husted, Juanita Husted, Edna Busbee, Audie Myatt, Alvin Kennedy, Harvey Reynolds, Lonzo Cash, and Floyd Arthur.

The pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy this semester are W. J. Brown, Georgia Lou Prichard, Sybil Husted, Juanita Husted, and Wilma Battle.

COMMERCIAL STUDENTS FORM CLUB WEDNESDAY

The Commercial students of the Central high school called a meeting Wednesday noon and organized a Commercial club. The following officers were elected:

President, Susie Bell Smalling, Vice-president, Doyle Ward, Secretary, Daisy Dean, Treasurer, Edna Baird.

Another meeting will be held Thursday. A name will be given the club, and further arrangements will be made for the Annual.

BEAT McLEAN IS SLOGAN

A list of the officers and directors of the Gray County Interscholastic Meet has been published. The meet will be held at Pampa in April. In order to win, it is absolutely necessary to begin training at once. Every student should enter some athletic or literary event and do his bit for the Pampa schools and for himself. What is your talent? If you know, ask your teacher. Our rival, McLean, is busy. Let's begin now!

Those wishing to enter the essay division of the league work will meet in Room 205 Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Any student making passing grades in three literary courses is eligible. Only students who believe that it takes work and lots of it to win are welcome.

Mrs. Kirby, the new expression teacher, has begun her work. We welcome Mrs. Kirby in our school and hope that she shall soon feel a part of our faculty and school.

Sammy H: You shouldn't use rouge. It injures your skin.
Maxine S: Well, who ever sees that?

Her: Where were you born?
Him: On a boat.
Her: That must be what makes you so dizzy.

Central High Notes

The last week may be considered reconstruction week in Central high. Several departments in the high school were reorganized, new sections were created, and the failures were enrolled in special sections where the work of the first semester will be repeated and the weak students will be given an opportunity to make of least a half credit of their courses.

Monday morning the students met in the auditorium to hear the announcements concerning new courses, schedule changes, and home room assignments for the second semester.

Supt. Campbell and Principal Fisher expressed their appreciation of the work done last semester.

Tuesday morning all free state adopted textbooks were checked and examined carefully. Students must pay for lost books before getting new ones.

The girls basketball team wishes to express its appreciation to Mrs. Daniels for the use of a few of the lockers in Central ward. The girls consider the use of the nice lockers a real privilege and they are eager to cooperate with the teachers and pupils of the Central ward.

The students and faculty of Central high welcome all the new students who have enrolled this semester. We hope they have enrolled here with two great purposes in mind—to gain the most for themselves and to help make Central ward school the best in the state of Texas. Those students who have transferred from other schools are:

Wit and Humor

Bob Kahl had got into the clutches of the law and was talking things over with his lawyer.

"I think," said the attorney, "I can get the jury to exonerate you."
"Sir," said Bob, "I don't want to be exonerated. I want to be let loose."

Perry M: That rich uncle must have lots of vision to get where he is.
Kupie D: Yes, but not much division.

When Loyd Mason emigrated from Arkansas to the U. S. he had to answer several questions before becoming a citizen. Here they are:

"Born?"—"Yes, sir." "Where?"—"Arkansas." "What part?"—"All of me."

"Why did you leave Arkansas?"—"I couldn't bring it with me."

"Where were your forefathers born?"—"I only got one father."

"Your business?"—"Rotten." "Where is Washington?"—"He's dead."

"I mean the capital of the U. S." "They loaned it all to Europe."

Woman Candidate-

Texas to not let the candidacy of Mr. Moody for nomination as vice-president, cloud the issue as to our selection of a presidential nominee, and I concur in all that has been said in the press against nominating a wet candidate for president—but I do not think the movement now on foot by some of the Moody supporters to back Moody for the Presidency, is a wise one."

Pampa Lions Grow Rapidly in Number

Pampa Lions, with a membership augmented by several new members and a number of guests, filled the club room at the New Schneider hotel yesterday and discussed current civic affairs.

Enthusiasm was manifested over the poll tax campaign, and an investigation showed that each Lion had paid the tax. City Manager F. M. Gwin made a short speech in which he declared the Pampa Lions club shows less age and more action than any club he has seen in West Texas. He urged a continuation of the spirit which is building the Greater Pampa.

Lion R. B. Fisher sang several clever songs, and Joe Strother delighted the club with piano solos.

Visitors of the day included F. M. Gwin, Edwin Vicars, K. T. Vicars, Donald Farrar, Clyde Fatheree, Howard Myers, and L. M. Ballew of Pampa, and Floyd V. Studer and Ed Ryan of Amarillo.

Approximately 12,000 yards of pavement was laid in the four blocks which marked the beginning of White Deer's paving program.

Petitions have been received by the city commission for more paving here, and it is expected that action will be taken soon.

Mercedes Farmers to Take Over Privately Owned Irrigation

MERCEDES, Jan. 27.—The largest privately owned irrigation system in the world is about to be changed to a water improvement district under the laws of Texas and to be taken over by the farmers living on the tract.

The system is that of the American Rio Grande Land and Irrigation company, embracing 100,000 acres and owned by Harry and Blake Seay of Dallas.

Farmers have voted to form a permanent district, have named a board of directors and have elected to issue bonds in the sum of $50,000 to be used in making a preliminary survey and to pay the cost of having a valuation estimate made. This is in accordance with state statutes.

The system embraces the towns of Veslaco and Mercedes, of several thousand population each, and all territory for miles in each direction from the towns. There are more than 1,000 miles of canals and laterals on the tract to distribute the water and the pumping lifts a small riv-

"The Cream of the Tobacco Crop"

"When I am selling tobacco, I average over six sales a minute. This, of course, is a terrible strain on my throat. To protect that, I smoke LUCKY STRIKES. I also know from what I have seen with my own eyes that The American Tobacco Company buyers are interested only in 'The Cream of the Tobacco Crop.'" writes:

"The Russian lady—ah, how she delights in the puff of a fragrant cigarette! As a Russian I have tried them all—the cigarettes of Cairo, Paris, London, Madrid—but here in my adopted country, America, I have found my favorite cigarette 'The Lucky Strike.' In addition to its lovely fragrance and wonderful flavor it has no bad effect upon my voice—so even when I go abroad I carry with me my little trunk of Luckies—and enjoy a puff from America."
