EAST TEXAS IS PROUD OF HER C. OF C. WORK

Young Organization Is Holding Its First Convention

MEMBERSHIP IS GIVEN AS 4,000

Five Cities Bidding For 1927 Meeting Of Body

(By The Associated Press.)

TYLER, April 20.—A year's cooperative effort by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce was reviewed by R. M. Kelley of Longview, president of the organization, in his address at the first annual convention of the organization here today.

Kelley said the record of the chamber of commerce is without parallel, and attributed its phenomenal growth to widespread and growing demands for the organization and the service it renders.

From nothing last June, the commercial body has grown to a membership of 4,000, and has demonstrated, according to its president, that all East Texas can and will join in great cooperative undertakings.

A hot fight for the 1928 convention was in prospect today, between Greenville, Marshall, Palestine, Paris and Beaumont.

Ten special trains are due today, bringing delegates and visitors from many cities. Accommodations for 2,500 persons have been provided in private homes in addition to the 3,500 hotel accommodations.

Among the prominent persons who will address the convention are Governor Dan Moody and Senators Shepard and Mayfield.

Tuesday Storms Cause 19 Deaths In 5 Illinois Counties

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 20.—The casualty list in yesterday's tornadoes, which struck sections of five Illinois counties, today stood as nineteen dead and nine other listed as probably fatally injured.

About 100 were less seriously hurt. Property damage is estimated at one million dollars.

ATTEND CHURCH MEETING
W. M. Baker, pastor of the Presbyterian church, is in Amarillo today attending a meeting of the Presbytery, in the interest of a pension fund for retired ministry.

School Board Elects Teachers For Next Term

At a meeting of the board of education Monday, several teachers for the next term were elected and new applications were received.

Among those chosen were:
Mrs. M. I. Goodfellow at Hoover,
Mrs. Jessie Beard at Kingsmill.

Mrs. J. L. Lester, Mrs. Sam Irvin and Mrs. A. B. Austin for the South side.

Miss Mary Nell, Mrs. J. W. Cornelius, Mrs. Anna Daniels, Miss M. Stalls, Miss L. Durrenberger, Miss J. Caraker, Mrs. J. W. Morris, Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, Mrs. F. A. Hunter, Mrs. C. W. Stowell, Miss Lucy Herlacker, Mrs. A. Cockerill, Miss Wilma Pylon and Principal Rex McKay, for the central grade school.

Miss B. Whitely, Miss Velora Reed, Miss H. Reeves, Mrs. W. F. McCracken, Miss G. Carter, J. L. Lester, Verde Dickie, Oscar Dial and Supt. R. C. Campbell of the high school.

Several applications have been received and will be considered at a later date by the board.

Contract Is Let For Presbyterian Church Building

The contract for the new Presbyterian church building has been let to William Mullinax, local contractor, and work on the building will commence immediately.

The new building will be situated on the northwest corner of Browning and Russell streets, and will be cottage style and built of brick veneer. It will cost about $7,000 and will be finished about July 1, according to Mr. Mullinax.

In the event of a church being erected at some future time, the building will be made into a manse for the minister. The church building will be made up of a rostrum, a main body, choir platform and pulpit.

Tornado Inquiries Pile Up In Office Of Weather Bureau

(By The Associated Press.)

HOUSTON, April 20.—Tornadoes over the United States are causing many inquiries to be made of the government weather bureau here, as to their origin. H. L. Dangerfield, in charge of the bureau, explains the twister as follows:

"The ingredients are a couple of fast traveling air currents over a low pressure area, traveling in opposite direction but flowing beside each other.

"The connection between two such currents," he said, "dragging material from each other, necessarily produces rotation and always in the opposite direction to that of the hands of a watch. In short, the tornado is a joint product of cyclone and anti-cyclone low and high pressure areas—generated by convection along a mid-air wind shift line. It does not occur in tropical regions where the anti-cyclone is unknown."

Lieut. Wilkins Is Safe, Not Lost, Says New Report

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, April 20.—The North American Newspaper Alliance today was informed that Lieut. George Wilkins, arctic flier, who has been missing since March 29, when he hopped off from Point Barrow, Alaska, for unexplored regions to the North, has made a safe return to Beechey Point.

Lon A. Smith To Broadcast Talk On Oil Tonight

AUSTIN, April 20.—Hon. Lon A. Smith, railroad commissioner, tonight from radio broadcasting station KUT will deliver an address concerning the oil industry.

Conservation, which is handled by the oil and gas division of the railroad commission will be stressed and the methods and purposes of the department will be explained.

Rumanians And Russians Fighting

VIENNA, April 20.—An unconfirmed report from Bucharest says there was fighting last night between Rumanian and Russian border troops, with many deaths and injuries on each side.

Peking Government Rejects Demands Of Soviet Authorities

PARIS, April 20.—Rejection by the Peking government of demands of the Russian Soviet government in connection with the raid on Soviet buildings in the embassy at Peking is reported today in dispatches to the Indo-Pacific agency.

The raid, made on orders of the Northern Chinese authorities, was carried out April 6.

THE MARINES MARCHING IN SHANGHAI

This striking picture, just received from China, shows American marines parading down the Bund at Shanghai with Old Glory and the regimental colors flying. Additional detachments of marines are now en route to Shanghai to augment the force there, charged with the responsibility of protecting American lives and property in China.

FARMERS AND MERCHANTS OF WHITE DEER DISTRICT MEET AT BANQUET TABLE

BY STAFF CORRESPONDENT

WHITE DEER, April 20.—Farmers became articulate here last night in a farmer-merchant banquet sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and had better than an even break in the verbal exchanges of an enjoyable evening.

More than 200 persons, most of them of White Deer, sat down to a bountiful banquet spread by women of the town.

Out-of-town guests included I. E. Duncan, J. M. Dodson and Olin E. Hinkle of Pampa, each of whom made short talks on their city and its inter-relation to other communities, and the Harmony Four of Panhandle led by W. R. Arnold, who spoke for his city. John R. Edmunds of A. and M. college and P. C. Bennett, agricultural agent for the Amarillo Board of City Development, were among the speakers.

Mayor J. C. Jackson in delivering the address of welcome, especially noted the presence of many old-timers among the farmers. E. Gaston Foote, toastmaster, whose jokes and animated manner were marks for comment during the evening, introduced E. H. Grimes, a farmer living near White Deer for the response to the welcome.

Mr. Grimes, prominent in county affairs, spoke pointedly on many matters. He stated first that he is probably the oldest citizen of the White Deer community in point of continuous residence, having been there 40 years. In the early days, he said, a herd of white deer roamed the creek country near the town and it was from them that the name was derived, even before the railroad came through in '87.

Wants City Planning.
Speaking briefly of agriculture, he said he is raising more cane in every other row than he formerly produced in planting every row. Then, turning to White Deer's future, he suggested that the town employ a city engineer to plan drainage, paving, sidewalks and other public improvements. He caustically referred to the condition of the streets, as compared with country roads. A sewer system was advocated. Good-natured jibes were passed by representatives of Pampa and White Deer as the respective steps of progress were outlined.

"Keep a warm feeling for the banker, so you can borrow money—then don't borrow it," said W. W. Evans, another of the several farmer-speakers.

Need Daily Incomes.
Prof. Edmunds of A. and M.'s extension division told of the work of the college in relation to farm economics. A one-course system will not build a prosperous community, he said, but there are many farm products which give daily cash incomes. He cited the example of a North Plains county agent who recently resigned to follow his own advice. Now he is marketing 50 dozen eggs a day, in addition to other produce, and is highly prosperous.

Proper farm methods will bring stability to the farms and make the farmers heads and social companions of the bankers and merchants, he said. He warned, however, that selling cream from pint-cup cows, poorly fed and poorly cared for, will not prove profitable.

Livestock Essential.
Mr. Bennett declared that city development is largely based upon sound agriculture, and that no permanently prosperous farming can be done without livestock raising.

"And agriculture is not a national problem," he said. "It is a local problem, and lastly, an individual one on each farm. The Plains goes too much to extremes. I have noticed that on a 10-year average wheat does not alone pay well."

"The farmer in trouble is the one who must sell his crop. I have not seen many farmers complaining who were able to hold their crops if they desired to do so. I think this saying is good advice: Make your living, then farm."
Any farmer should be able to derive an income of $2 per year from each chicken, Mr. Bennett asserted. He did not advocate a big chore route, but said that self-feeders and an efficient system on the farm

City Equalization Board To Meet

The City equalization board will meet tomorrow at the city hall.

The meeting was set for today but on account of illness of a member till another member has been appointed.

The assessed valuation of Pampa property is approximately $5,000,000 according to the city assessor, as compared with $1,600,000 for last year.

The present equalization board is composed of C. H. Fisher, secretary, A. A. Tieman; P. C. Ledrick, and a member to be appointed to fill the place of Dave Osborne.

Biggest Decrease In Farm Population Since 1920 Reported

(Special to The News.)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A decrease of 649,000 persons in the farm population of the United States during the last year, the largest decrease of any year since 1920, was announced today by the department of agriculture.

The department estimates that there were $27,892,000 persons living on farms last January 1.

Gulf Well At Noelton Is Making Over 950 Barrels

Flowing 1,180 barrels in the first 16 hours, 1,320 in the first 24 hours, and 950 the second 24, the Gulf Production company's No. 3, J. L. Noel, on section 198, block 4, looks like a fine producer and a boost to the Pampa field.

The flow came at least 20 feet above the depth where oil is expected in that section.

The Gulf No. 1, J. M. Saunders, section 49, block 3, stands at 3,075 feet and practically full of oil. Drilling is going to a depth of 12 feet below sea level and a shot will likely be used, according to a report from the company.

In all, five new Pampa field wells have been brought in during the past four days, and many more are near the pay at the present time.

BOATS SWEEP DOWN STREETS IN SMALL CITY

Clarendon and New Madrid, Ark., Are Struck

BUILDINGS ARE HALF SUBMERGED

Little Rock Receives Heaviest Rainfall In Months

(By The Associated Press.)

HELENA, Ark., April 20.—The White river levee protecting Clarendon, Ark., gave way today, according to information received from the manager of the telephone exchange there.

The manager said the water is surging through a gap and that all obstructions in its path were swept aside. Its rush carried big cabin boats through the center of the town.

Clarendon is a town of about 3,500 population.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW MADRID, April 20.—Virtually all of New Madrid's population has abandoned the town as a result of flood waters from the Dorena levee break.

The business section today was under from 5 to 15 feet of water.

(By The Associated Press.)

LITTLE ROCK, April 20.—Little Rock today experienced the heaviest rainfall in months.

A four-hour fall amounted to 4.4 inches. The streets became raging rivers, and the low places in many parts of the city were flooded.

Epidemics Break Out

LITTLE ROCK, April 20.—(AP)—An epidemic of measles, mumps, and whooping cough has broken out in the flood refuge camps at Wynne and Parkin, Ark., where it is said there are 250 cases each of measles and whooping cough and 50 cases of mumps.

MEMPHIS, April 20.—(AP)—It is estimated today that 100,000 persons are suffering from the floods along the Mississippi valley and that 50,000 of these are refugees.

Relief work has been handicapped by crippled railroad and telegraph work, but is being carried on from Cairo, Ill., to Helena, Ark.

Calculations here place the number of acres covered by water at a minimum of 4,000,000.

Confederate Living Veterans Will Be Honored In Book

DALLAS, April 20.—A plan has been devised by the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association to honor the living veterans by enrolling their names in a giant Book of Memory, together with their war record.

A gold star will be placed opposite each name and a triple-plated gold medal presented to each. This book will be deposited on an altar in Memorial Hall at Stone Mountain as a permanent record and will endure for all time.

A charge is made of $5.00 for the medal and enrollment. Subscriptions are being made by business and professional men, organizations—patriotic, civic, religious and fraternal—and by individuals such as friends and relatives. After the cost of the medals and enrollment has been deducted, the remainder goes towards carrying the likenesses of Davis, Lee and Jackson on Stone Mountain.

Each county's quota is equal to the number of veterans in the county.

In observance of San Jacinto day, both of the Pampa banks will be closed all day tomorrow.

HOW THINGS GROW

Speaking before a large audience of farmers and merchants at White Deer last night, P. C. Bennett, agricultural agent of the Amarillo Board of City Development, advanced several ideas very pertinent to this section.

Said Mr. Bennett, "Industry is an outgrowth of community development, rather than efforts on the part of chambers of commerce or other groups." He declared that few industries move or are established except through the stimulus of the right conditions, which must be brought about by the people themselves.

The solution of every big problem, it was pointed out, rests with the individuals. The dairying industry does not grow out of a creamery, but the creamery is made a profitable possibility when sufficient cream becomes available. Only by some definite organization can the two activities develop concurrently.

With oil leases or royalties giving Gray county farmers good incomes, agriculture is apt to suffer. It will be unfortunate if this section lags agriculturally, clinging to the one-crop system, while the oil constitutes the cash crop. The one-crop plan will not support population. Present business is being built upon a stable population for this area. More intensive agriculture will offset any decline in number of people as the oil field workers migrate elsewhere. At the present time the business man, not the farmer, is the one who should give serious thought to the problem.

The Pampa Daily News proposes, over the next few years, to give full publicity to methods of farming in this territory, and to further a program which will tend to stabilize population and business.

The press of the Panhandle and the chamber of commerce are aligned in their efforts to build for permanency. But the merchants and professional men, as well as the farmers, must cooperate to make any plans effective. With fast vehicles and fair roads, the farmer is a business man of more than ordinary means and alternatives. He is better situated in many respects than the average merchant, and through control of the land yields a strong influence in determining the future of this section.

Think it over.

TWINKLES

It is desired to teach those Mexican Indians modern methods of running, and, we presume, absolutely nothing else modern.

The tide has turned, and now the Panhandle farmer is complaining because he has to ride from his good roads to streets from which he has to wade mud to the sidewalks.

What Kind of a Fit Will It Be?

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service-Writer.

WASHINGTON. — One hears that Governor Al Smith is gaining strength within the Democratic party and that he is more likely to be nominated than anyone else.

An attempt has been begun to identify him to the public with at least one national issue, the hydro-electric power issue, and it is not unlikely that Governor Al's scope will be similarly broadened as the time draws nigh for the party to deposit in someone's hands the little red apple which last turned to a decayed raspberry in the hands of the estimable John W. Davis.

In these days prior to convening of the next Congress one man's hazy conjecture is as good as another's, but it is hard to believe that Smith's nomination is as nearly certain as many insistent persons would have us all believe. The swing to Smith may be in progress, but various obstacles remain. And there are those who will stick as many more obstacles into his path as they can.

Millions of Democrats would almost rather take poison than a candidate from New York. Some of this feeling doubtless is traceable to a stupid hatred of New York and all its works. Bitter memories of the last national convention intensified the sentiment. But there is much more to it than that.

"The Democrats," says an important southern politician, "haven't had an electoral vote from New York in any presidential election since 1892, except in 1912, when the Republican party was split."

"The same is true of New Jersey, where the Democrats couldn't even win for Wilson in 1916."

"We haven't had an electoral vote from Illinois since 1912 that was the only time since the Civil War."

"We haven't had one from Rhode Island since 1912."

"Never in the history of the party have we had an electoral vote from Massachusetts, except in 1912."

"We haven't had one from Pennsylvania since 1912."

"Nor from Delaware, except in 1912, since 1892."

"We're not afraid of losing with either Smith or McAdoo. If McAdoo wins he will have a better than fighting chance to win with the vote of the south and west, discarding the northeast. If Smith is nominated, we might well win with a combination of southern, western and northeastern states and will lose some of the doubtful states.

"But we've got to be shown that Mr. Smith can do better for us than Mr. McAdoo."

Speaking of the progressive vote, however, it should be added that some of the late Senator LaFollette's best friends here are confident that Smith, if nominated, would inherit virtually every vote that was cast for the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket in 1924.

PRESS FORUM

WHAT'S THE REMEDY?

In view of the fact that another season of production is at hand it would seem to be well worth the while of farmers, cooperative companies, county agents and others interested, to prepare to make a concerted effort to avoid the enormous waste of perishable products that annually takes place on the farms of the country.

Out here on the Plains, we import from California thousands of carloads of fruit and vegetables while at the same time, thousands of cars of these same products go to waste in other parts of the states of which the plains area is a part. It is said that more fruit and vegetables rotted on the ground in East Texas last season than was shipped from that section, and all the while, people in the Plains towns were eager to get those products and in many cases could not do so.

With the settling up of this country, it is becoming less necessary for us to go so far away from home for those perishable products. Farmers who grow gardens at all, nearly always have a surplus to sell but, at the present time, they frequently complain that there is no local market for them. The reason for this is that there are few regular truck farms in this region and it is not possible for the home merchants to depend entirely upon their supplies of vegetables and fruit from the local farmers. Town folks must have these things every day of the week and for that reason, grocers must place orders for deliveries to meet the daily demand. As a consequence, when the farmer brings in his truck, he finds the local markets supplied and he must peddle his wares to the householders or take them back home.

At least a part of this trouble could be obviated if the farmers who expect to have surplus vegetables would contract beforehand to supply some one or more of the local grocers with certain vegetables and then take care to fulfill their contracts. Of course, there are catastrophes like hail or unusual insect infestation that would have to be allowed for but if the farmers are careful to make deliveries as promised under all ordinary circumstances, so that the merchants could have no cause for complaint on that account, it would seem that such an arrangement would be profitable to all concerned.

Either the county agents or some organization would have to take up the matter of surpluses which would have to be shipped and with so many counties supplied with these agencies, it would seem that they might well add to their duties that of keeping in touch with production in different parts of the state in order to find markets for the perishable farm products. The opinion is growing among farmers that they have greater need of marketing aid than of aid in the matter of production. Many of the county agents render some assistance along this line but there is no concerted effort among them as a whole and consequently the work is not as effective as it might be made.

Another remedy for the surplus situation in as far as it concerns many products is the establishment of cannery factories, but here again there are handicaps. A cannery factory cannot make use of a few bushels of beans today, tomatoes tomorrow and beets the next day. It must have a dependable supply all through the season and it is impossible to secure such an enterprise on the chance that conditions will be favorable and the farmers will bring in plenty of products to keep the factory running.

This Hen Likes Kittens As Well As Little Chicks

DALLAS, April 20.—Hocus! Focus! Presto change is the trick an old hen and a pussy cat worked on H. P. Milam here.

Having an idea that something was wrong in his chicken house where his old hen was mothering seven small chicks, Mr. Milam went to investigate. His imagination proved true, for when his hand reached under the feathers of the old hen he did not feel the touch of a fuzzy little chick, but in its stead it felt the warm fur of some sort of another creature. The old hen was immediately jerked from her nest and to the amazing eyes of Mr. Milam five young kittens were revealed.

In front of the old hen lying on the ground was an old cat. At first Mr. Milam could not grasp the game but after a few deductions he concluded that the pussy cat did away with the old hen's babies and she in turn adopted the cat's kittens for sweet revenge.

Ping-Pong Revived By Fans In France

PARIS.—Ping-pong is coming back into its own in France and a Ping-pong federation has just been formed to organize sectional and international matches and lay down rules for their conduct.

Ping-pong is by no means a game only for weak women and children, say proponents of the sport, who declare it calls for the greatest skill and subtlety.

Scores of sectional clubs have been formed with a view to affiliation with the national organization.

Wins Cage Renown In Half a Season

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Loren Hughes, sophomore strapping of Purdue University, hurdled 28 hours of classwork in a semester in order to become eligible for basketball in mid-season, and won honorable mention among Big Ten centers. Now he is destined to win some repute in track as a hurdler. He has more speed than his loping stride reveals, and is blessed with a pair of hands that can pick a basketball off the floor and shoot for the basket from either side.

Postal Clerk Not Inquisitive, Says Houston Postmaster

HOUSTON, April 20.—When postal clerks ask a prospective shipper the nature of the contents of a package, it is through no desire to add to the sum of their personal knowledge.

Sometimes such questions are resented, but "before the government will insure a package," according to Roy Nichols, postmaster at Houston, "it requires the clerk to learn the nature of the contents and find if it is properly made ready for shipment. There is nothing unusual about it, since to insure anything, certain questions must be answered, whether it is a house or a life."

Scenery Figures In Championship Match

PINEHURST, N. C.—The Pinehurst golf course, with its beautiful surrounding scenery, is one of the most picturesque in the country—and the scenery had a great deal to do recently with the defeat of Virginia Van Wie, youthful Chicago golfer, when she was battling Glenda Collett for the annual North and South women's championship.

The two came to the fifteenth, a water hazard hole, with the Chicago girl two down to Miss Collett. Virginia's drive went into the canal and it cost her a stroke. She dropped the ball on the bank and her iron shot flew across the green to a clump of pines and shrubbery, five feet away. She took three strokes to get back to the green and was down another hole. Had her ball not landed in the leafy background she stood a good chance of taking the hole, as Miss Collett required four strokes to get on.

Denver Swamped By Amarillo Texans In Tuesday's Game

AMARILLO, April 20.—Landing on pitcher Greer's offerings from the first man up, the Amarillo Texans Tuesday hit safely fourteen times to defeat the Denver nine 10 to 2.

Fred Newton, getting his stride for the first time this season, showed some of the hurling which made him a star last year and held the Denverites without difficulty.

Remade Athletics Cost Mack $750,000

(By The Associated Press.)
 PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—Experts figure that Connie Mack has spent more than three-quarters of a million dollars to rebuild the Philadelphia Athletics, his dismantling of which in 1915 by the sale of his "$100,000 infield"—Baker, Barry, Collins and McInnis—started the baseball world.

After the sale of his famous infield, Mack announced that he hoped to develop another pennant winning team from young players who had little, if any, big league experience. This he accomplished twice and felt confident he could do it a third time. But the years passed and the Athletic machine was puffing at the end of the parade. So Connie changed his tactics and four years ago went on open market for his material.

It is estimated that the salaries of 14 players on his roster today, including what he will pay Cobb, Collins and Wheat at the end of the 1927 season, have cost him close to $600,000 since 1923. Lesser stars account for the other $150,000.

Starting with the purchase in 1923 of Sammy Hale and Rube Walbers, for whom he was reported to have paid $75,000 and $25,000 respectively, the Athletic's pilot has added one or more high-priced players each season. From Baltimore he purchased Max Bishop for a reported price of $50,000; from Milwaukee Al Simmons for $30,000 and from Portland Paul Strand for $20,000. Strand later was sent to Toledo in a trade for Bill Lamar, who was said to have cost Mack approximately $30,000.

Then Mack paid $50,000 for Micky Cochrane and the same season climaxed his high priced purchases by paying Baltimore $100,000 for Mose Grove. In 1925 he spent several thousand more to obtain Jim Foote from the coast, and the Athletics were runners-up for the pennant. There was little change in the personnel of the club last year.

But the team finished third and Connie decided it needed further bolstering. The first move for 1927 was the purchasing of Jack Boley from Baltimore for $50,000 and Dudley Branon from Kansas City. The details of the Branon deal were not revealed but he was reported to have cost $50,000, including Hauser and Wambegans who went to Kansas City in the exchange. Another $20,000 went to Dallas, Tex., for pitchers Elliott and Barrough.

Ty Cobb's contract for the season was reported to call for $60,000. The salaries of Collins and Wheat have not been made public, but they are estimated at $20,000 each.

Claude Elliot and son and Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Norman of Fort Worth are here organizing a Union Rescue mission.

SPORT TALK

Baseball Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock—are you going? The Wheeler team will provide the opposition and is strengthened by some outside players.

The playing field will be in good condition and fast ball will be played. The boys are out with rakes and levelers and the infield will be especially fast.

Bob Clark of the permanent grin will likely be in the box for the Grays. The big fellow had a sore arm last Sunday.

The colored boys from Amarillo and Wichita Falls are providing the entertainment for baseball fans this afternoon. Some of these colored teams play fast ball.

Boston had a lucky day yesterday and New York teams were the goats. The Yankees lost their first game and the Giants dropped two.

Amarillo seems to be showing the rest of the teams their dust. Their loss to the Grays seems to be having results. It gives the Texans a lot of pep.

Costly Toledo Star To Warm Sub Bench

CHICAGO—Elwood English, star shortstop of the Toledo American Association Club, who came to the Chicago Cubs this season for a $50,000 purchase price, is starting his major career on the bench.

Jimmy Cooney, veteran Cub infielder, retains first claim in the Cub shortstop job because of his experience. English shows great promise, but lacks the skill which enabled Cooney last season to set a fielding record for the National League shortstops with a .972 average for the season.

EYELASHES "ASSAULTED"
 LONDON—William Edwards, an elderly man with long gray hair and bushy eyebrows, applied to a London police court for a summons for assault against a hair dresser.

"I was being shaved and while I was in the chair he took his scissors and clipped off my eyelashes," Edwards explained.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Chesser have returned from several days visit to their home in Littleview.

PRINTER WANTED!

RALEIGH, N. C.—The state's modern printing plant here is missing a foreman, but is running just the same.

The last foreman finished his prison sentence and other printers seem to be steering clear of the penitentiary.

Janice Purviance is able to be up after having an attack of the measles.

WOMEN MORE PROMPT

Stamford, Conn.—After barbering men for 30 years Emilior Greco has decided that he will devote his professional talents to women. He says they are less fussy and more prompt in keeping appointments than men.

Mrs. John Roby went to Amarillo today to shop.

Boss of Dude Ranch Succeeds As Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — With the "rah, rahs" of undergraduate cowboys on her Hawaiian "dude ranch" ringing in her ears, Miss Armine von Tempski pegged at her typewriter, nourishing in odd moments an ambition to become an author.

When her father died from the effects of injuries sustained in roping a bull, she was left with a cattle ranch and a young brother and sister to support.

"I did everything from cooking and pitching tents to cutting firewood and teaching dudes to ride without galling a horse," she relates, "but I wouldn't swap the eight hard years of my life that I struggled before I sold my first book for anything."

"Hula," Miss von Tempski's first successful novel, has run through three editions, and publishers have accepted two more.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. DeGraftonried are in Breckenridge visiting friends for a few days.

Many Paris Artists Aid Isadora Duncan

PARIS—If Paris artists succeed in raising sufficient funds the former home of Isadora Duncan, American dancer, near Paris, will be dedicated as the Isadora Duncan Memorial School.

The plan is for Miss Duncan to occupy the house and carry on a dancing school there during her lifetime and upon her death the school will become a memorial to her work, but owned by the French government.

Courtier of King Edward Bobs Hair

LONDON—The Hon. Mrs. George Keppel, who was considered the most brilliant woman in the group prominent at court during King Edward's reign, has surprised her London friends by bobbing her gray hair and occasionally wearing a red beret.

She has returned from her villa in Florence to be near her daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Roland Cubbitt. Mrs. Keppel possesses the rare conversational gift of being amusing without being malicious. King Edward often said that no company was ever dull when Mrs. Keppel was present.

"THE SCARLET LETTER"

(At the Crescent theatre today and tomorrow)

Unrest is written on the faces of this generation of Americans. This is the startling discovery made during the casting of Lillian Gish's new starring vehicle, "The Scarlet Letter," in which most of the principals, with the exception of Miss Gish, and nearly half the extra people in the big crowd scenes, are of foreign birth.

The new story, adapted from Nathaniel Hawthorne's dramatic tale of the Puritans, called for types to mirror the early Pilgrims. There folk, although stern in their intolerance, had a consciousness of right which gave them a serene expression. To portray them the actors had to have serene countenances, and most American players displayed an alertness akin to unrest. Victor Seastrom, the director, says that the modern age of jazz and excitement in America is probably the cause.

Miss Gish plays the tragic "Hester Prynne" in the big Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, now being shown at the Crescent theatre. It is a vivid tale of a Puritan girl who bears a letter of shame through life to shield the man she loves. Lars Hanson, the famous Swedish star, plays the hero, and the cast includes Henry B. Walthall, Karl Dane, Marcelle Corday, Jules Cowles, William H. Tooker, Mary Hawes, Joyce Coad, Fred Herzog, James A. Marcus and other noted players.

A complete reproduction of the first Puritan village in America was constructed for the massive crowd scenes and the dramatic climax of the story before the pillory. Another trouble, says Seastrom, was in finding extras without bobbed hair—as, of course, Puritan women couldn't be seen with flapperish locks.

BANQUET—

Grading Is Best. Speaking of dairying, he said the farmer should not buy his way into the business, but start with what he has in most instances, grading up his animals through mating with pure sires. The animals topping the markets today are not registered, but are graded stock, it was pointed out.

A community program was advocated, directed by a rural advisory board. When production exceeds the local demand, marketing becomes a problem and quality, uniform produce must be available. Among the statistics he cited was the figure that 700 carloads of hogs are shipped into Texas every year. While every farmer should not go into the hog business, he should raise his own meat, it was stated.

The program of the evening was directed by Mr. Foots, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Richard E. Hughes, secretary of the organization. Music was provided by Herman Kreiger, violin; Ed Warminski, cornet, and Mrs. Frank Elliott, piano.

Turkish President Gets Many "Mash" Notes from Women

(By The Associated Press.)

ANGORA Turkey, April 20.—Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of the Turkish republic, is the successor of Rudolph Valentino as the world's favorite "shiek."

The great and growing number of "mash" letters he receives every day from lovelorn girls in the Kanas cornbelt, from the heights of Montmartre, from Mayfair, from slant-eyed maidens in dreamy Nippon, all indicate that the Ghazi (Victorious) has a more important role in the eyes of the female world than that of being Turkey's "man of Mystery."

Kemal typifies to them the silent, ruthless superlatively handsome hero. Neither his divorced wife, Latife Hanem, nor envious males deny the Ghazi his good looks or magnetic personal charms.

Unlike Valentino, the Anatolian fighter is as fair as a Norseman, with intensely blue eyes. Tanned, stalwart, the Ghazi carries his six-foot height and his 46 years becomingly. Angora has even become a place of pilgrimage for those women who can afford the journey. They are quite willing to cross the wilds of Anatolia to the isolated fortress capital for the sake of one dance with the Ghazi, one flash of his smile or merely the sight of his broad-shouldered, martial back. The regret of these admiring women is that Kismet has made into a mere president of a republic, a man who might have out-shieked Valentino on the romantic deserts of the cinema screen.

But Mustapha Kemal is not a "tea hound". When it was bruited about that Mussolini was casting covetous glances on the rich province of Anatolia, the Ghazi is reported to have said for the benefit of Il Duce (the conqueror):
