'AMERICA' IS FINALLY SHOT FROM RUNWAY

Bad Weather Reports Delayed Trip For Weeks

SUDDEN START IN DEFIANCE

Small Crowd Present As Great Ship Leaves

(By The Associated Press.)
LOUISBERG, Nova Scotia, June 29.—The "America" left the coast of Nova Scotia at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon and headed out at sea for Newfoundland. There was no fog of this section of the coast.

(By The Associated Press.)
ROOSEVELT FIELD, June 29.—Commander Richard Byrd and his three-man crew took off on their long delayed scientific air expedition to France in the monoplane, America, at dawn today.

The great three-motored Pokker took the air at 5:24 o'clock eastern time, just 48 seconds after being released from the top of the runway, where it had been tied for the past six days while unfavorable weather forbade the flight.

Storms that had blocked the flight during more than a month and a half seemed last night as great an obstacle as ever, but in the early hours of the morning Commander Byrd suddenly announced that despite the weather man's report, he had decided to leave.

Shortly before 5 o'clock Byrd with his crew, Bert Acosta, George Noville, and Bart Balchen, drove out to the plane. The crew waved a last farewell, climbed into their places, and a mechanic standing behind the plane slashed at the restraining rope. As the engines roared and the ship shot down the field in the misty light of early dawn, only a small crowd witnessed the take-off. Among those present were the wives of Byrd, Acosta, and Noville. Balchen is not married.

NOW SPEEDING TOWARD FRANCE

BOND PASSAGE TO OPEN WAY TO REMOVE UGLY DUMPYARD

Of interest in connection with the municipal bond election to be held July 19 is the sewer extension program, which includes removal of the disposal plant from its present location to a point more than a mile to the east.

At the existing outfall is the unsightly dump grounds which northeast side people petitioned to have removed several weeks ago. The plans of the bond issue call for purchase of enough ground to form a new dump grounds, and there lies the possibility of actually removing the dump yard and effacing the unsightly mass from the hillside adjacent to the city.

The trash at the dump grounds, according to City Engineer Doucette, may be covered up and used to level the site without much expense, using surplus dirt in the process. This method of disposing of city refuse is widely used in Europe, where uncovered dump grounds are practically unknown.

Passage of the bond issue is regarded as the best way to get rid of the present dump grounds.

Officers of the organization are: Tom Rose, president; J. P. York, vice-president; S. C. Pierson, secretary; J. M. Dodson, treasurer. Members of the board of directors are Walter Coffey, J. E. Murree, Jr., C. S. Barrett, and Carson Loftus.

The picture of Byrd and his companions was taken while they were preparing the big triple-motored monoplane, America, (above) for her ocean jaunt, with Europe the goal. Today's journey followed the general direction of the Rock Island railroad.

Indian Jim Lays 50,400 Bricks In Seven Hours Here

Indian Jim Brown, world's champion brick layer, made a Pampa record yesterday when he laid 50,400 bricks in seven hours, or an average of 7,200 bricks an hour.

Between 8 a. m. and 12 m. he placed 32,000 bricks, which would have broken his world's record if it had not been necessary for him to stop for material.

The company ran short of brick this morning and work will be stopped until a shipment, which should have been here several days ago, arrives.

50 TEACHERS TO BE NEEDED NEXT SESSION

Fifteen Hundred Pupils Expected To Enroll First Day

PLANTS NOW BEING EXPANDED

Five More Instructors Employed—Yet No Principal

With every prospect of having 1,500 pupils enrolled when the fall term opens, the Pampa Independent School district is one of the biggest educational institutions in West Texas.

This means that Pampa will have 50 teachers in the city. The school board elected five additional teachers Monday, and others are to be employed as soon as possible, including the principal. The board has two men in mind for principal and has written them in regard to the position but secretary C. P. Buckler has not heard from them.

The new teachers are Helen Anderson of Pampa, for the grades; Byrd Whitely, sister of Miss Bernice R. Whitely, for the intermediate department, Mabel Campbell of Winsboro for the grades; Margaret McDonald of Fort Smith, Ark., for the primary department; and Miss Louise Magee of Lubbock, who will teach shorthand and typewriting.

Not less than 1200 pupils will be in the division below the high school, and if there are 36 teachers for them, each teacher will have a grade with more than 33 pupils. The state recommendation is to have 24 to 32 pupils per teacher. This arrangement leaves fourteen teachers for the high school and administrative duties.

Supt. R. C. Campbell believes that the term should be started with 50 teachers as a minimum, and if the enrollment reaches 1,600 another congested situation may result temporarily.

The school plant will be enlarged before the school opening, and the new south side ward school will be completed.

AMARILLO BODY WORKS MOVES PLANT HERE

LONG FLIGHT REQUIRES BUT ONE FULL DAY

Plane Settles Upon Hawaiian Field At 6:22 Today

SEEN ONCE BY A STEAMER

Ship Breaks Through Haze As Crowd Is Leaving

(By The Associated Press.)
WHEELER FIELD, Island of Oahu, Hawaii, June 29.—The first to make the 2,400-mile flight between San Francisco and Honolulu, the army aviators, Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger arrived here at 6:22 a. m. today.

The army fliers, who left Oakland, Cal., at 7:09 a. m. yesterday, finished their trans-Pacific flight in 25 hours and 43 minutes. Throughout the long flight, the plane had been reported seen only once, which was by the steamer, Sonorma, when 750 miles from the California coast.

The aviators came through the bright sunshine that had cleared away rain and gloom of the night that had shrouded their landing place.

The thousands who had waited through the night had begun to disperse when the fliers came through the haze to a triumphal landing.

In the flight the men complete the longest trans-ocean airplane flight ever accomplished.

The landing was made on a rain-soaked field. The plane came to the front of a review stand, where highest army and navy and civil authorities of the island were awaiting the fliers.

It is believed that more than 100 dogs will be entered for the prize which will be offered. The show will be a fully authorized event complying with all regulations of national dog shows.

MUCH GOOD COMES OUT OF BALTIMORE

Baltimore is not a popular name in some circles. Lots of radical ideals are disseminated here. Science has a strong hold on the population. Johns Hopkins university has much influence in that country, and the institution is not noted for religious piety.

But Baltimore is, nevertheless, an important city. It has wonderful hospitals. The physicians and nurses are not afraid to experiment. There's little about the human form they have not probed, and they are still experimenting.

The latest announcement concerns surgery. They are using a kind of surgical acetylene torch, known as the accuser, which seems to make the knife medieval. This new instrument, a needle carrying a high frequency electric current, makes an incision without touching the flesh. A thin blue flame opens an incision cleanly, affording automatic cautery, stopping the flow of blood, and preventing spread of infection from drawing of a knife through an infected area.

Experimentation is not always popular, but the greatest strides are made by obscure experts, working tirelessly over test tubes and other equipment. Medical science has made huge progress in the last century, but its usefulness is still far from the development yet to be.

TWINKLES

It looks like El Paso's best convention slogan is "Near Juarez."

Ten girls are opening Lindbergh's mail—which, next to having a date with that young man, must be the best kick of all.

Man is a machine: You have to be careful how you steer him, but point him right and he is apt to go in the desired direction.

News is hard on those who had seen Kimes "the day before" he was captured afar off.

Coolidge is to be dubbed Chief Still Water by the Sioux Indians. Ugh, Injuns fooled too?

"I'd die for you," he vowed. "Well, I've died for you," she quoth.

Better Than a Bonus

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — The Republican elephant, still displaying that ease and grace of movement with which he has generally stifled competition since the Civil War, is stamping down with both forefeet upon every spot which presents the possibility of trouble in 1928.

Calvin Coolidge rides in the seat of the mahout. It is he who has been personally directing counter-offenses on all fronts almost before an opposition could get started.

On at least three battlefronts — South Dakota, New York and Illinois — warfare is being carried on openly.

Politics, as everyone concedes, dictated the choice of South Dakota as a vacation site. But the president is aiming his trusty slingshot at more birds than one.

South Dakota, in the heart of the more or less disaffected farm belt, borders on most of the states where the president and his party are likely to encounter trouble next year! Montana, which votes for such men as Wheeler, Tom Walsh and LaFollette; North Dakota, which harbors Nye and Frazier; Minnesota, which kicked Kellogg out of the Senate and sent Shipstead; Iowa, which shelters the Lowden movement, and Nebraska, which boasts of Norris and Howell.

From all these states it is just a step across the border to see the president and be properly impressed. The glory of his presence radiates across state lines. Also, South Dakota has a peculiar primary law. High spots of her progressive primary formerly came in September, November and March. The legislature has shoved these dates back, but South Dakota remains at least as valuable a weathervane in the presidential primary as Maine is in an election, especially since Maine is incurably Republican.

The president's attack in New York apparently is premised on the candidacy of Governor Smith. Mr. Coolidge is doing everything possible to strengthen the position of the party in the Empire state. The patronage system is being worked for all it is worth and the Al Smith casualties have been well taken care of. Appointment of Ogden Mills and Seymour Lowman as assistant secretaries of the treasury are notable examples of the administration's solicitude for the New York faithful. Jobs such as these two New Yorkers now hold possess great power.

In Illinois, the principal manifestation of administration strategy has been an amorous advance toward Mayor Bill Thompson of Chicago, who is relied upon to wreck Lowden's hopes for a majority of the Illinois delegation at the convention. Big Bill was officially recognized as sponsor of the Chicago flood conference and the welcome mat is out for him at the White House or in the Black Hills. In fact, nothing will be too good for Big Bill if he comes to see the light.

PRESS FORUM

THE NEWSPAPER

The most influential institution in all the world today is the daily news. The churches touch the lives of a bare majority. The schools mold only the minds of the young. Homes are handicapped by environments, clubs, societies and various organizations are limited largely to their constituent memberships. The daily press finds its way into every kind of life. It is eagerly read by multitudes who never glance at a single page of anything else. It tries to express the sentiment and desires of its constituency. More frequently it is the creator of a low or high type of life according to the character of the editors and news gatherers. Therefore it becomes important that the men back of the daily page be mindful of humanity's greatest needs.—Arkansas City Traveler.

Of all the laws of minor importance enacted by the recent legislature, the one requiring all automobiles and trucks to use mufflers while on the roads is one that will probably be appreciated by more people than any of the rest. Now will we have peace

SOUTH PRODUCES WRITERS

ATLANTA (AP)—The only part of the United States that has any men-ners left, according to Frances Newman, author, is the south.

GRADUATE STUDENTS INCREASE

AUSTIN, June 29. — An enrollment of 2,810 students for the first term of summer school at the University of Texas makes a very gratifying start, said Dr. Frederick Eby, director of the summer session. This enrollment represents about 200 more students than were enrolled during all of the first term of summer school during last year, according to Dr. Eby.

This year's summer school is marked by the increased number of graduate students taking courses in the university. During the first term of summer school last year there were 481 graduate students while thus far this summer there are over 600 and by the second term there will be fully 150 more registered, estimated Dr. Eby.

These figures are significant in that they show that our summer session is rapidly developing from an undergraduate institution purely to being predominately an advanced school, said Dr. Eby.

Grass Finished Cattle Important To Many Markets

(By The Associated Press.) KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 29.—Grass finished cattle to value of many millions of dollars from the range and pasture areas of the west and southwest will be marketed this summer and fall, according to the United States Department of Agriculture bureau here.

These cattle, termed "western grassers" in the market reports, from not only a very material quota of the cattle marketings, the bureau says, but, as contrasted with corn belt marketings of fed cattle, constitute a distinctive class as well.

The importance of the western grazing areas from the standpoint of the country's beef cattle production, the bureau says, is shown by the fact that, according to official estimates, the group of 17 states lying west and southwest of the Missouri river have 46 per cent of the bulls and 52 per cent of the calves in the country.

Since cattle in the west grazing areas in this region are for the most part finished on grass, their marketward movement is highly seasonal, being embraced for the most part with in the period starting from July to November. During these months the market movement from the states included in this region ranges from 36 to 88 per cent of their yearly total and for the region as a whole is considerably in excess of 50 per cent. Indicative of the significance of this movement is the fact that marketing of cattle and calves during September, October and November comprise approximately 35 per cent of the year's total receipts at all public stockyards, the bureau says.

NEW LINKS AT WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP)—Two golf courses are to be laid out on Crown land in the neighborhood of the Royal Castle at Windsor. The work will occupy about a year and will be carried out by the Crown Lands Department of the British Government. This will be the first time the State has undertaken the construction of golf courses.

During the Great War a large portion of the great Windsor Forest was cleared. The golf courses and a few country residences are to occupy this area.

Windsor forest has many romantic and historic associations. Kings of England once hunted wild boars there.

More than 75,000 words were written about Col. Lindbergh by four press correspondents aboard the Memphis during the aviator's trip aboard the cruiser.

Sandstorms Cause Much Electricity, Says Tech Teacher

LUBBOCK, June 29.—Unusual electrical conditions during West Texas sandstorms has been the subject of extensive investigation by the physics department of Texas Technological College. During stormy periods severe shocks are frequently received from radio antennas, fence wires, and automobiles. Many of the large automobile trucks have a chain dragging on the ground suspended from the rear axle in order to ground the electricity which develops. During severe windstorms automobile ignition systems often refuse to function.

Dr. E. F. George, head of the physics department, has attempted to measure the electricity thus generated during storms. A radio antenna formed the basis of the preliminary measurements. Potentials of over 40,000 volts, as measured by spark gap between spherical electrodes, were thus obtained. Further experiments are to be conducted.

So remarkable a phenomenon has created widespread interest in scientific circles. Dr. George is now in Reno, Nev., to read a paper before the American Physical Society in the subject. The Physical Review, a magazine devoted exclusively to research in physics, will print an article in its next issue by Dr. George.

Dr. George would not say that he believed this large amount of electricity could be utilized in a practical way, though it is regarded as a possibility.

Scions Break Even In Cahokia Politics

CAHOKIA, Ill.—More than two centuries after the founding of Cahokia, first white settlement west of the Alleghenies, political rivalry has broken out between descendants of the French founders and newcomers to the village.

Cahokia was incorporated in April, and at the first election two parties appeared, the organization group made up of residents of French lineage, and the independent party, comprising newcomers.

When the votes were counted, Eugene Sauget, son of French forefathers, and George Lobenhofner, his opponent, had 49 votes each for village president, and Joseph and Lucien Sauget and Louis Rey had 50 votes each for trustee. The Saugets won the draw for trusteeships and lost the presidency.

Abilene Paving To Fort Worth Of Bates Type

(By The Associated Press.)
ABILENE, June 29.—By September 15, or at the latest, October 1, there will be a paved road all the way from Abilene to Fort Worth and Dallas. This is assured with letting of a contract by the State Highway Commission to the McClung Construction company for surfacing 5.8 miles on State Highway No. 1, east from Abilene to the Callahan county line.

Officials of the concern have announced they will have a force of men on the job within ten days and they will be able to complete their work by September 15 if no unavoidable delays result.

This strip of road was the last on the Bankhead highway from Abilene to Fort Worth to be contracted for. All the rest of the road is now hard surfaced or will be shortly. The McClung company is now on a short strip in Callahan county, which will be finished in a few weeks.

Concrete is to be used on the Taylor road. The Bates type of construction will be employed. The concrete is to be nine inches thick at the outside and six inches in the center. The road will be eighteen feet wide.

CARRIERS WILL ASK ROAD AID

Association Bill Would Appropriate Millions Annually

(By The Associated Press.)
ABILENE, July 29.—Senators and congressmen of Texas will be asked by the Texas Rural Letter Carriers association in its annual meeting here on July 4, 5 and 6 to actively lend their support to a bill which will be presented to the next regular session of congress in which that body will be asked to appropriate $75,000,000 each year for use in improving the post roads of the nation, according to Earle Slater of Clyde, president of the Rural Carriers state organization.

According to Slater, such a measure was introduced during the last congress, but on account of lack of general interest never reached a vote. The national association of rural carriers have been considering the proposition and are favorable toward it, he declared and he has the assurance that the membership of the Texas division will favor it unqualifiedly.

The United States has at this time approximately 215,000 miles of post roads, according to Slater. In Texas alone, there are 65,000 miles of roads which are so designated and over which the carriers travel regularly in distributing mail to the rural people.

With $75,000,000 annually from the Federal treasury being expended in improving the post roads of the nation, Slater declares that in a few years the country would have a very good highway system designated.

"Such action from the national government," Slater says, "will not only benefit the rural carriers, but it will also be helpful to the entire country. One of the greatest needs of the nation today is for better roads and with the postroads put in better condition, hundreds of thousands of rural citizens will be the beneficiaries."

Texas carriers, in their coming meeting here, will likely memorialize the State of Texas to designate the postroads in this state as secondary highways and ask further that there roads be given more attention from the highway department, Slater thinks.

Chinese Chariots Of 500 B. C. Found

(By The Associated Press.)
 WASHINGTON — While Chinese armies are engaged in civil warfare with modern weapons, American archeologists have brought to light two Chinese war chariots, 2,500 years old. The chariots, which were excavated by Smithsonian Institution scientists near Cheng Chow, Honah province, indicate that the ancient Chinese civilization antedated the western civilization in the use of wheeled vehicles. The Chinese chariots, the archeologists assert, date back to 500 B. C., the latter part of the Chou dynasty, while the earliest wheeled vehicles found in the western sections of the world date back only to 400 B. C.

The ancient chariots were found by accident. A Chinese farmer while sinking a well dug up a number of bronze vessels, which he sold to some local dealers in antiques. The military authorities heard of the find and took possession of the relics, the Smithsonian expedition later taking charge of the excavation work. Coincidentally, the discovery disclosed that a Bronze Age existed in China as well as in other parts of the world, the chariots having been made of that metal. It also showed that the Chinese, like the westerners followed a custom of burying chariots, horses and other valuable possessions with their owners.

Two diminutive models of the chariots, fashioned after the excavated models, have been placed on exhibition by the Institution. Unusual features of the ancient chariots were the great width of the hubs and large number of spokes in the wheels. Each spoke had a flange extending out a considerable distance to prevent it from sinking in the mud. It is believed oxen drew the chariots, although at first it was supposed that man-power was used. The vehicles were equipped with huge bamboo umbrellas, similar to those seen on present-day farm wagons.

Large Collection Of Relics Given Historical Society

CAYNON, June 29.—An unusually large and varied collection of relics has recently been deposited with the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society by Mr. J. W. Dalton of San Saba. It is made up of a collection of geological specimens, Indian and ranch relics for the most part. Mr. Dalton was a pioneer in the South Plains country and has spent almost a lifetime collecting relics, especially relating to West Texas.

In the collection which he gave to the Historical society there are numerous Indian pestles, a metate from near Fort Davis, and a number of Indian flints. The collection of ranch relics contained branding irons from the Matador and Spur ranches, two of the most noted of the West Texas companies, and notable as being two of the last big companies in the State. There are rawhide hobbles, ox-bow accessories, relics from the old Will S ranch in Crosby county, and various types of stirrups which were used in the olden days.

The collection received from Mr. Dalton contained over seventy specimens. It is one of the most valuable and most interesting because of its wide range that has ever been received for the museum by the society.

Splawn's Successor Probably Not To Be Chosen Soon

(By The Associated Press.)
 AUSTIN, June 29.—A successor to W. M. W. Splawn who has tendered his resignation as president of the University of Texas probably will be chosen soon. C. D. Simmons, secretary of the university board of regents, predicts.

"Two years were required to name President Mezes' successor and one year to name that of Dr. Vinson," Simmons said, "so I believe the board will not be in a hurry to appoint the man to succeed Dr. Splawn."

Adoption of the budget for 1927-28 and election of the faculty for the coming biennium likely will be principal business of the board in its July meeting, Simmons said. Unofficial reports generally state that the regents also will consider the "athletic situation" and the report of the faculty committee which investigated athletics at the institution.

Moros Are Recommended To Those Craving Thrills

(By The Associated Press.)
 WASHINGTON—For those who must have thrills, the heart of Mindanao, a Southern Island of the Philippines, is recommended.

There, says Lieutenant Calixto Duque of the native constabulary, the hunting of Moro outlaws could provide enough excitement to satisfy almost anybody craving adventure. Duque himself has faced the poisoned spears, the arrows, man-traps and razor-edged knives of the outlaws with such courage that he has been rewarded with a year's visit in the United States to study military tactics at Fort Benning, Ga. He has just completed his course and is on the way back to the Philippines. Telling of his experiences in Mindanao, he recalled an expedition against a band of 150 Moros accused of killing a constabulary officer, a sergeant, three privates and a civilian, whom scouts had found fortified on a hill rising from a plain and backed by a wall of mountains.

He set out with his company before sun-up, carrying a long staff with which he probed the ground before him to avoid stumbling into a man-trap. To fall into such a trap would mean death on the poisoned heads of implanted spears.

When the party approached the Moro stronghold, they saw an earthen wall on the hill crest and a wide dry moat at its base. Volunteers to scale the wall were called for, and the officers, exercising their privilege under the constabulary code, crept toward the wall. The Moro's opened fire, but the constabulary replied in kind, silencing the outlaws' guns. When the latter ceased firing, the officers made a rush for the wall, and Duque leaped across the moat and clambered up the tangle of bamboo and creepers which formed its outer side.

Reaching the top of the wall, he emptied the three cartridges of his sawed-off shotgun into the enclosure. Abandoning the women and children they had with them, the outlaws dashed into a dugout, from which some escaped through an underground passage.

For a moment, the 24-year-old lieutenant seemed to be an undisputed conqueror. But only for a moment. A half naked Moro arose like a shadow near him, spear poised, its deadly tip glistening in the hot sun. Duque's comrades opened fire, but the Moro appeared immune to their bullets and the conqueror raised the stock of his empty gun to parry the spear thrust. It wasn't necessary to swing the gun, however, for a bullet which had been sapping the life of the outlaw suddenly proved too much for him and he pitched headforemost into the redoubt.

Horses Rate High In Trials For Canadian Rodeo

CANADIAN, June 29.—The Fifth Annual Rodeo and Cowboys' reunion that is to be held at Anvil Park lake July 2, 4 and 5, will not be an exhibition, but will be a competitive contest of cowboy sports, where the participants do not receive a guarantee of any sort. In fact, everyone pays an entry fee and their own expenses, and no one receives money unless adjudged a winner in the various events. This contest will be judged by association rules, and any cowboy winning a prize can proudly say that he won it under the fairest and hardest set of rules governing any association rodeo.

Every event on the program is a real thriller and is open to all who can qualify under the rules. Playing on the square and giving the contestants a voice in the management of the show have been the rules of the management.

M. F. McLain of Sun City, Kans., has arrived to arrange the preliminaries before the show. Mr. McLain is this year's manager, and will make every effort to give the public a snappy program. Accompanying him is Oscar Wolcott, the announcer, who with his fog-horn voice will inform the guests of the different events that will be run off in the show.

Harry Coffee of Miami, with his riders, rode out each bucking horse a few days ago, and each horse was given a grade. They ranged from 65 to 100 per cent, the largest majority was in the 90 and 100 per cent class. "Timberline" was given a grade of 100 per cent, "and then some" according to the competent judge doing the grading. "Who da thot it"; "Tequila"; "Texas"; "Budweiser"; "Red Bird"; and "Jimmie" were all given a grade of 100 per cent. There is the largest array of bucking horses in the Southwest assembled for this show.

Fortified Mountain Is Key To Adriatic

(By The Associated Press.)
 VALLONA, Albania—Saseno (or Sazan), the mountain in the sea that guards the entrance to the landlocked harbor of Vallona, has acquired the new name of "The Italian Sentinel of the Balkans."

Albanians say the Italians, who acquired it from Albania a few years ago, have so fortified it that it not only protects the harbor, but that its guns, uniting their fire with those of Brindisi, can close the Adriatic to any sort of navigation. They also command the Albanian coast as far north as Durazzo.

The island, rising gradually from the sea to a height of 500 feet, is of limestone. Roads the Italians have built to the summit and the earth works erected there and on the flanks of the mountain may be seen from a distance.

Yale Crews Meet Harvard After 6 Straight Triumphs

(By The Associated Press.)
 NEW LONDON, Conn.—Yale's crews enter the sixtieth annual regatta with Harvard on the picturesque Thames River course with a varsity winning streak of six straight years, equalling the record for this classic American boat race.

Only once before since the universities began their rivalry in 1852 has either won over as long a stretch. That achievement went to Yale's credit from 1900 to 1905, inclusive. The latest victorious sweep of the Elis, coached through the last four years by Edward O. Leader, has put them well into the lead for the ancient series. Of the fifty-nine races from 1852 to 1926 Yale won 32 and Harvard 27.

Yale's sixth straight triumph last year was rowed to the tune of a new record for the upstream pull over the four-mile Thames course. The Elis covered the distance in 20 minutes, 14 2/5 seconds. The best record for the course, however, is 20 minutes, 2 seconds, made by Harvard in a downstream race in 1918. Harvard's performances have been better in the freshman and junior varsity events, rowed at two miles each since 1902. Last year the Crimson won both preliminary races in impressive fashion, thereby halting the clean sweep of the Elis after it had run three years.

Harvard has won 12 and Yale 10 of the 23 freshman races. The race in 1902 ended in a dead heat. In the Junior varsity test Harvard has won 14 times and Yale 9.

A. P. Man Declares Doctors and Press Have Mission

HIGHHATTING IS MUCH DEPLORED

Medical News Worth Printing Outlined At Meeting

(By The Associated Press.)
 SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., June 29.—Newspaper readers are done with the bunk of yesterday and they look to science not to magic for their maximum well-being and enjoyment of life, Edward McKernon, superintendent of the Eastern Division of The Associated Press, today told the annual conference of Health Officers and Public Health Nurses.

Speaking on the subject of how the health officer can use the newspaper for the dissemination of health news, McKernon said the masses "look to you for medicine for that public health without which no nation can long endure."

"You cannot overtake disease but you can head off that which threatens. You can't treat the millions but you can teach the millions to treat themselves. Here are the people. In the press we offer you the only medium through which they can be consistently reached."

Real News Only

Mr. McKernon urged the health officers to approach the press in the name of News.

"That is your only claim to space in the strictly news column," he continued. "Honest news walks in the front door of the newspaper shop and is welcomed by the editor. Subtle propaganda climbs up the fire escape and is thrown out the window. It must be so."

"When you board a train you expect to travel in the direction that the train takes, but every intelligently conducted railroad welcomes suggestions for the improvement of the service. When you board the newspaper train, don't try to take charge of it but have faith in the experience of those who have struggled with the exigencies of publication. At the same time I am sure that you will find the editors will gratefully accept any suggestion that appears constructive. Your object is the same; to reach and interest the public. You can learn much from those whose livelihood depends upon just that thing."

"There are a few practical considerations that suggest themselves. Every health officer should have a heart-to-heart talk with the local editor looking to close cooperation. Enlist the aid of the executive secretary of your local tuberculosis and health committee. Ask these volunteers to prepare news stories to be submitted to you for approval before publication. I am sure you will find them eager to help."

Make News Impersonal

"Do not exploit yourself. Exploit the news. Do not label every story that originates with you with your name. Occasional official statements issued by you will be good, but generally speaking make your stories impersonal."

"Get the reporter working for you by giving him tips on stories. Tell the reporter that there is a story in the health menacing dump in the north end of the city. Tell him why there is news in that situation. Help him to be technically correct in his stories, but do not be too fussy about having him use just the phraseology that you would use. You cannot write news in the Latin of medical prescriptions. You must write in the language that the newspaper readers will understand."

"Try to see the brighter side of your work. Make your stories cheerful. Emphasize not death with depressing statistics, but stress the joy of life. Let sunshine radiate from the office of the health commission. Throw a scare into the community now and then if it seems necessary, but remember that newspaper readers shrink from the unpleasant. Accomplish the thing you have in mind by telling them how they can live long and get the maximum happiness out of life. When all is said and done, that is what they wish to know."

Need Publicity

"These are practical considerations offered for what they may be worth. But now I wish to go a little deeper into the essentials of medical publicity, having in mind the profession as a whole. If you hope for successful publicity, you must first sell yourselves on the idea of publicity. The profession of medicine is the most poorly advertised of professions, and this because it has never been sold

WOMAN'S PARTY CONVENTION IS FIRST SINCE SUFFRAGE PASSED

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)

The first national convention of the National Woman's party since the suffrage amendment was passed six years ago will be held in Colorado Springs, Colo., July 7-10. A new constitution will be adopted, national officers elected, and plans for international cooperation with foreign feminists will be arranged.

Last summer the International Women's Suffrage Alliance refused to admit the National Woman's Party to membership at the Paris convention. The former body contended that the two groups did not employ the same working methods.

"A strictly feminist international is being urged upon us," said Miss Mable Verron of Wilmington, Delaware, executive secretary of the National Woman's Party, who will be in charge of the convention. "Leading feminists all over the world, such as Lady Rhondda and Dr. Aletta Jacobs of Holland and Betty Kjelberg of Norway, are anxious for the American feminists to form such a group, since the existing international women's organizations are not devoted wholly to feminism."

Not Wholly Frank

The medical profession never has been wholly frank with the press. One might think that illness was regarded either as something sacred or as something of which to be ashamed. When the President of the United States speaks we hang on his every word. If he travels we wish to know all about where he goes and what he sees. Is he on vacation? We must learn the size of the trout he had for breakfast. All quite right and proper. He is our president and we are interested in all that concerns him. But let him fall ill and suddenly he is encompassed with a professional silence as impenetrable as the reason for it. The physicians pussyfoot. The nurses pussyfoot. The servants pussyfoot and even the reporters get to pussyfooting in the highly charged professional atmosphere. As a result the public which may be wrought up to a high pitch of excitement, receives such illuminating reports as these:

Such Reports as—

At 2:01 p. m. Dr. Blank came out of the sick room looking grave.

At 2:02 p. m. Dr. Blank returned to the sick room still looking grave.

"A recent concession to popular interest in the condition of an outstanding personage who has been quarantined from the press, is the practice of issuing official bulletins at fixed intervals of the day and night. These are good so far as they go, but they do not go very far. Sometimes the names signed to the bulletins take up more newspaper space than the bulletins themselves. The bulletins tell us that at a certain hour the patient's pulse was 80; respiration 32; and temperature 100. All of which means much to the medical profession but little or nothing to the general public. Now if they would tell us that at midnight the sick man awakened and asked for a ham sandwich, we who have been ill and experienced the sense of returning appetite, would know that the patient was better."

"Now there is a very serious aside to all this. The millions of this country want to know what's what and they have a right to know. The newspapers do the best they can to tell them, but in my opinion the poorest reporting that is done is that with sickness.

the League of Women's Rights, would like to see the Woman's Party play an international role. She also favors the formation of an international group which would lobby for equal rights and feminist action at strategic points in Europe, such as Geneva.

Mrs. O. P. H. Belmont, president of the Woman's Party and one of its founders, is in Paris. American women could stimulate feminism abroad by a more aggressive policy, she believes.

Miss Anita Pollitzer, national secretary of the party, will go to the Colorado Springs convention straight from a year abroad to talk on the international situation.

Representatives from 37 states will be present at Colorado Springs as well as visiting delegates from other countries.

"In recent years, however, there has been a distinct improvement. Today, I think, the profession is trying to cooperate with the press and the newspapers are giving more careful attention to medical matters."

"It all goes back to this: We of the press and you of medicine must arouse ourselves to a sense of profound responsibility to the public. We are natural allies and should work in the closest cooperation, for I solemnly believe that the destinies of the nation and the triumph or collapse of modern civilization will rest more on the character of the two professions represented here today than on any other human agency."

"Sanity and sanitation; in these will be found the promise for the future. Healthy minds and healthy bodies are fundamentals of democracy. The responsibility is shared equally by the profession of journalism and the science of medicine."

"The sanity of the world depends upon the sanity of the press. If newspaper editors generally lose their sense of proportion, their readers will go mad. Society sees itself in the news columns, and the serious thing about it is that it believes what it sees. If the daily picture is consistently falsified—trivialities made to appear important, the exceptional, as the rule; credence given to every elusive rumor and fact confused with speculation—the vision of the public is bound to be distorted. In such circumstances there never can be a sane public opinion and without this Democracy cannot survive."

"We must know the facts of life

The woods are full of those who are everlastingly telling us what we ought to be. The supreme mission of journalism is to tell us what we are. For it is only through an understanding of himself and of human nature and of the necessities of community existence, that the individual may hope to comprehend the advantages to him of popular government and adapt himself to it.

"It is the conviction that the sanity of society depends upon the sanity of the press that impels the more than 1,200 daily newspapers engaged in the cooperative effort of the Associated Press to maintain in these days so much yellow publicity a news report that is non-partisan, honest, and decent and to invite the cooperation, to this end, of every profession that recognizes that no profession can live to itself alone."

"Here is where medicine takes up the lead. The masses have been made to think and they are to be reckoned with from now on. They stopped throwing salt over their shoulders. They are wise to the quacks. They want to be well and enjoy life to the maximum. They look to science, not to magic, for their well-being. The 'bill of rights' has lost its appeal. What the average American wants is not more rights but more comfort. Their conception of Democracy is a government with which all will be so concerned that each will give to the group according to the talents with which he is endowed. To you of medicine they look for that public health without which no nation can long endure."
