A Fine Lunch.

The club members met at noon at the First Christian church parsonage, where a bountiful lunch was served. During the meal a thorough explanation of Lions methods and ideals was given by F. R. Newman of Greenville, district governor.

"The Lions club offers a means by which men with the best interests of their communities at heart, to the extent of being willing to give part of their time, may make their city a better place in which to live," declared the governor, who said public opinion—the most powerful community builder—can be formed by group effort when individuals have little effect.

Charter Due Soon.

Weekly luncheons will be held, and ladies' night will be observed.

Stars of Comics Come To Pampa

Comics—there is no substitute for them.

Starting as a regular feature of the Sunday issues of the Pampa Daily News, NEA comic stars Sunday will make their bows.

Big attractions these: Freddie himself, Major Hoople, Slesman Sam and the laughable Pa, Ma and the kids of "Out Our Way." Follow them every Sunday in Pampa's own daily newspaper.

And don't fail to appreciate two other star services of the Pampa Daily News—namely, the NEA news features and comics—cartoons, Washington letter and the like—and the big, exclusive Associated Press feature service. These are the same big metropolitan newspapers of the world boast about, brought right here to Pampa by the local daily.

Read the Pampa Daily News—and also remember the score boards which show the baseball results every evening.

Frost Kills Fruit In Ozark Region

JOPLIN, Mo., April 22.—A killing frost swept over the Ozark fruit belt last night, causing damage exceeding $2,000,000, Charles Carmichael, secretary of the Ozark Fruit Growers association, estimated today.

Funeral services were conducted for Andrew Jackson Meers, father of J. F. Meers, at the Christian Church, Tuesday afternoon, by the minister, James Todd, Jr. Mr. Meers visited his son here several summers until a year and a half ago and will be well remembered by residents of this community.

Life Sketch

Andrew Jackson Meers was born in the state of Georgia, May 17, 1842. In early manhood he came to Yell County, Arkansas, where he resided for about 20 years, teaching school and engaging in his profession of civil engineer. He met and married Miss Helen Huckleby, and to them were born nine children; Ora who passed away at the age of seventeen years; William, of Cutter, New Mexico and his twin brother, Dan, who died at about eight years of age, Cynthia, Mrs. Bogar, whose residence is not now known, J. F. Meers of Pampa; Mae, now Mrs. Wynne of Osage, Okla.; Dollie, now Mrs. Candler of Sayre, Okla.; Archie, now Mrs. Stewart of Capitan, New Mexico, and Myrtle, now Mrs. Hurt, also of Capitan.

Moved to Texas

The family moved later from Yell County, Arkansas, to Georgetown, Texas, and again to Palo Pinto county and after a residence of five or six years moved on to Greer county, Okla. In Greer county, Mrs. Meers became a contributing factor in the development of the country, being in the service of the government in the granting of land to the Kiowa and Comanche Indians in the early days.

Cook Calls Meeting To Work On Road Problems

Homer D. Wade manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, B. Frank Bennett, assistant manager and Gordon Hill of the Amarillo Board of City Development, were guests and speakers at the local Chamber of Commerce business meeting last night.

About 50 members were present, and C. C. Cook, president of the local body, was chairman. In his opening address, Mr. Cook stated that it was important that the membership drive be completed, and called on Mr. Bennett. Mr. Bennett spoke of the activities of the W. T. C. C., of the local body and the coming campaign.

Homer D. Wade, principal speaker of the evening, stated that it is the duty of every business man in the city to give some of his time, mind and means to the building of his city.

"The meanest man in town," Mr. Wade said, "is the one who will not give assistance to the Chamber of Commerce, but stands on the street corner and criticizes those who do."

"Do not talk about donations to the Chamber of Commerce. It is not a donation, it is an investment, and if Mr. Bennett cannot show you in dollars and cents that it is an investment, do not buy a membership. I remember that when I came to Pampa a year ago to stimulate attendance at a convention in Amarillo it was a 'cold proposition,' but I picked up your Pampa Daily News tonight and saw a headline reading, 'Wichita Falls Committee to Seek Sponsor.' I am pleased and elated at the interest being manifested in the Chamber of Commerce here."

Cook made a short address on good roads and said that the last road bond issue was defeated because the right roads were not selected. He suggested a mass meeting to work out an issue that will be satisfactory. Such a meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms next Thursday night, and all are requested to attend this important meeting.

Coolidge Appeals For Aid—Red Cross Named

(By The Associated Press.)

TEXARKANA, April 22.—Emergency crews are being maintained today at railroad bridges near Texarkana as a precautionary measure against high waters.

Heavy drifts are threatening to sweep structures into the Red river.

Cold weather made last night disagreeable for refugees, especially in Arkansas, where disease has broken out in a number of places.

Nearly every major stream in Arkansas is rising as it spreads out through crevasses or moves toward the Mississippi.

Between 90,000 and 100,000 acres of land is reported under water in Northeast Texas and South-eastern Arkansas. Five thousand people are refugees in what is considered the worst flood of these sections in history.

FLOOD RECEDES

MEMPHIS, April 22. (AP)—Sunshine came into the lives of refugees in the concentration camps that dot the Mississippi valley today as flood waters moved slowly south.

Loss of life was placed at 28, but it is impossible to estimate the probable loss in hundreds of square miles of inundated territory from which no word has come.

The Marquis de Casa-Maury, a well-known racing motorist in this country, as well as on the continent, has become a director in a British motor car company and will reside here most of the time.

The Marquis, whose wedding took place at St. James Church, Spanish Place, London, attracted much attention in society circles because of the Tutankhamen touch in her bridal veil and gown. As a girl she was known as "the Gellibrand," a tribute to her great beauty.

SEEN About New York

NEW YORK—The squatter is an anomaly in urban life, yet he is well known to the real estate trade of New York.

Many cases are on record where long legal fights were necessary to dispossess casual tenants who simply moved in upon a vacant lot, erected a habitation and remained undisturbed for many years.

The latest incident, however, has to do with the construction of a score of pretentious cottages upon city park lands.

Sign in a barber shop, "No loitering. Use park benches."

The austere and simple business officer are going, going, nearly gone.

There are no government statistics to explain whether this is due to the invasion of women in business, enticement of customers or just to plain prosperity, but the fact remains.

Upholstered furniture, floor lamps, frequently with highly decorative shades, and other ornamentalations, have turned many offices into places where the motto might almost be, "business for art's sake."

A window display in a luggage shop is an alligator smoking a leather cigar.

One apartment dwelling neighborhood has opened a defensive war against four footed midnight serenaders.

Despite the hardships of life in a congested city district without back alleys, cats seem to thrive in New York. Whenever a back fence offers opportunity they strain their vocal chords in the small hours in their own inimitable version of jazz.

One owner, spurred by his tenants, strung a double line of barbed wire along his back fence. Other landlords erected similar barricades. Now the mired prowlers are keeping trysts in other territory.

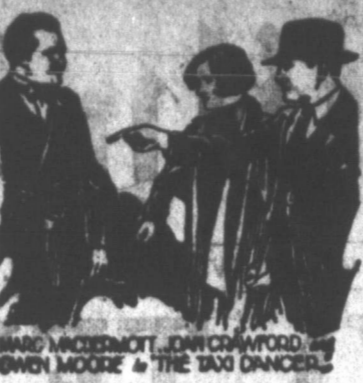

Mistiguett's Diet Keeps Famous Form

PARIS—Frog legs for her figure carrot juice for her hair and oranges for her complexion are Mistiguett's recipe for her prolonged youth. Her legs are the boast of Paris music halls and have often been called the most beautiful pair in the world. Mistiguette was born at the same time as a lot of people who have lost all claim to being young. She, however, seems to have discovered the secret of how to ward off gray hair and wrinkles.

"For one thing," she explains the matter, "I eat 12 oranges a day."

AT THE REX TOMORROW

MR. AND MRS. J. S. WYNNE, OWNERS OF THE REX THEATRE.

ABOUT "THE TAXI DANCER"

By Joan Crawford, who is seen in the title role of "The Taxi Dancer," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture coming to the Rex theatre Sunday.

The first requirement I would make of a husband is that he should not be in the same profession as mine. But I know one thing, and that is I shall never marry until I have become satisfied with my career and am willing to leave the screen forever.

When I am ready to leave the screen, then I will be willing to settle down to domesticity, and I will want a man who is handsome, who has pleasing personality, and who, above all else, has high ideals.

I think now that I would not marry a man in the motion picture profession, because I believe that people who are too much alike do not get along well together. I would be afraid that if I married an actor there would be professional jealousy in the family. And that is a thing I could not abide.

I am feminine enough to want the man I marry to be handsome. But good looks are not everything and they do not last forever. High ideals and standards are like the Rock of Gibraltar. And after all, it is strength that counts in a man much more than good looks.

Legion Head Defines Major Issue Of Work As Service To Community

(By The Associated Press.) DALLAS, April 22.—"Community service" as the major issue for the 1927 program of the American Legion was outlined here today by Howard P. Savage, national commander of the organization. Mr. Savage is visiting a number of Texas posts.

In explaining this service, Mr. Savage told of the other works the Legion has accomplished since 1919, the year it was organized. He estimated these steps in organization years from 1919 to 1920; the establishing of itself as an institution of service in 1921; the forming of its rehabilitation service in 1922; the winning of adjusted compensation for war veterans in 1923 and 1924; the drive for funds to care for war orphans in 1925, and the membership movement in 1926. In reference to the last step mentioned, the commander said the legion now has a membership of nearly three-quarters of a million.

Like War Record "In community service," Mr. Savage said, "the Legion has found an issue that is as great as the Legion itself. In giving service to its community—constructive service, the Legion is rendering a service truly comparable with the magnificent service its individual members gave in 1917-1918.

"Stop for a moment and visualize the results of 10,258 posts doing some worthwhile thing for the particular communities during 1927.

"In the year to come, playgrounds will keep children off dangerous streets; libraries will offer opportunity to hard-pressed workers in small communities; educational ventures will raise us on the scale toward that goal of an Infinite God that none may know but all wish for—the perfection of man. And the Legion will know that it has performed its task; fulfilled its destinies, and handed on to posterity a tradition and a nation that all may be proud of.

"But great as is this community service program—and I admit of none greater save care of our disabled, which is being done—there are other things the legion must do for its country, because out of its experience the Legion has gained wisdom along certain lines. And if it has wisdom about anything it is about war. The Legion knows war, and knows it firsthand.

Wants No More War "And knowing all this the Legion wants no more of it. To the extent that its members pray to God to spare this world another holocaust like the one that tore at our very existence for four years, the Legion is pacifist. But, it is not an extreme pacifist, and it does not advocate disarmament.

"It does not shut its eyes to the fact, and it does not believe that another war is not possible. It was because it realized that Utopia is still a dream that the Legion in 1920 got behind what was known as the Army Reorganization Act, and helped to have it made into a law known as the National Defense Act. This act was and is a military policy—the first one this nation has ever had. It is a rational measure, democratic in scope, and provides for an adequate national defense at a minimum cost. "That act is the law of the land. But it is not being lived up to. Our national defenses are far below the par created by its provisions. I tell it to you as a fact that this nation is the richest on earth and the least protected.

Advocates Preparedness "If war were suddenly to descend upon this nation as it did in 1917, were transported to a Houston chemical plant where they were ground to bits and reduced to what is known as animal charcoal.

Through this denatured material the dingy sugar syrup is run at sugar refineries.

The animal charcoal is supplied to refineries at Sugarland and Texas City and is also shipped to other refineries in New Orleans, New York, Cuba, Canada, Mexico, Germany and England.

you would witness battlefields bathed in blood, freely given by men who will not realize that their lives are wasted toll, the results of a careless policy of national neglect. And remember that unpreparedness is a breeder of war.

"The Legion, knowing out of experience the folly and stupendous waste of non-preparedness, calls upon Congress to appropriate at this session sufficient funds to bring our national defense up to the standard prescribed by the National Defense Act of 1920. We ask no more and will be satisfied with no less. Let me further add that all that I have said leads to one of the great public things the Legion is doing this year—making a pilgrimage back to the graves of our comrade dead in France. This brief outline of the Legion leads to those graves because it is to those dead that we owe the obligation of carrying on in peace-time for the ideals they died to uphold."

SPORT TALK

The Pampa Grays had a real workout last night and looked like a million dollars. The infield was especially fast and sure of themselves.

Tom Clayton, behind the bat for the Grays, is an oldtimer and can judge a batter and work a pitcher with the best backstop of today.

There is some talk of our local colored folks getting up a ball team. It would be at least interesting to watch the dusky boys playing as the fans got a kick out of the Wichita Falls-Amarillo game.

The golf course is in good condition and numerous followers of the little white ball are out practicing. As soon as the weather settles the members of the club will be out for their daily walk.

The course is one with natural hazards and bunkers and the fairways are in excellent condition. Golf in Pampa should be good this year.

Tennis also is beginning to get under way and the new club courts will be ready for play in a few days.

Demons Lose To Texans In Race For Batting Honors

AMARILLO, April 22.—The Texans had to come from away behind here Thursday to win a baseball game from Des Moines, but they did it, 12 to 11.

Or rather, Art Smith, Texan center-fielder, did the hero stunt, sweeping the bases in the second and seventh innings, with two and three men on, respectively, besides scoring twice during the game himself.

For Des Moines, Knothe, shortstop, drove out three three-base hits in four times at bat, and the other Demons were not so bad, either.

Australia Has New Davis Cup Hope

SYDNEY, Australia.—Great hopes are being built on Davis Cup possibilities displayed by Jack Crawford, 18, of this city. When Gerald Patterson beat him in the Victorian championship final 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, young Crawford gave a fine exhibition of well-concealed placements, combined with dash and stamina.

Experts consider Crawford is showing greater ability than J. O. Anderson and G. L. Patterson did when of the same age. Norman Brookes says Crawford's game needs speeding up, and he is occasionally weak overhead, but considers the youth's concealment of shots is extraordinarily good and that he is the coolest player in Australia.

Aquatic Athletes To Swim Around Alameda

ALAMEDA, Cal.—Long distance swimmers are offered a new competition in a swim around this island city, May 30. The Alameda Marathon is held out over a course approximately 14 miles in length. Between eight and nine hours is expected to be taken for the race. Those participating will travel the waters of three cities, Alameda, Oakland and San Francisco. The race is open to swimmers of both sexes.

There is a prize of $1,000 for the winner. In addition if a man takes first place, the woman who is first to finish will receive $500.

Entry No. 1 in the race was Mrs. L. B. Fourrier of Long Beach, Cal. She swam 13 miles in the Catalina Channel contest last January.

Ban Got Baseball Fever In College

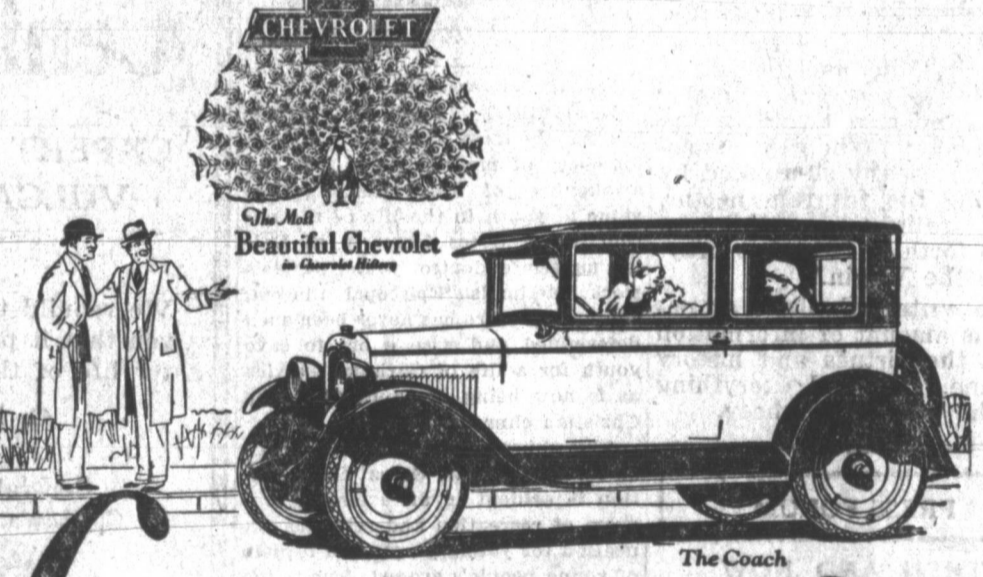

MARIETTA, O.—Long before Byron Bancroft Johnson, lately retired president of the American League, became interested in professional baseball, he played the game so well at Marietta, Ohio, college that the school paper suggested organization of a team around him.

Ban was a freshman member of the Alpha Kappa Literary society at Marietta college when Charles G. Dawes was president of the society, and he got his bachelor's degree the year Dawes was made a master of arts. The former American League president lately gave Marietta $25,000 to help build a new gymnasium.

Hagen Will Train By Playing Baseball

(By The Associated Press.)
PINEHURST, N. C.—Playing baseball to get into condition for golf tournaments may sound odd even in these modern days when diamond stars include the Scottish game as a part of their training camp routine, but this is exactly what Walter Hagen says he will do.

Hagen, who has temporarily dropped golf because of a bad foot, believes the baseball workouts will help him get back into condition for the Ryder Cup matches, at Worcester, Mass., when he will captain the American team of professionals.

PLAINS PRESS

Panhandle editors are the honored guests of Amarillo today and tomorrow, and few Plains publishers will fail to attend part or all of the sessions.

There are better writers, perhaps in some sections than in Panhandle journalism, but not better all-round newspaper men. There is no section in which the editors and publishers take a more prominent part in community affairs. Professionally, their standards rank very high; mechanically, they are next to the best if not the best equipped in the country.

Almost every Panhandle publisher knows something of printing, and most of them know a great deal. Their newspapers are typographically attractive and contain good volumes of reliable home news.

Along with the general prosperity they are making progress; enlarging plants, erecting new buildings, increasing their payrolls. Their credit at the bank is strangely unlike that of the traditional editor, about whose bank account—or lack of one—many jokes were concocted.

In this growing section, with its thousands of new people, the press is doing a bigger service than most people imagine in maintaining the true Panhandle spirit, and acquainting all alike with the opportunities of the moment.

Practically every person one meets believes he could put out a better paper than the newspaper men, although the profession requires a working knowledge of practically every activity in which humans engage. Countless experiments have been made to test out people who have pronounced ideas about newspaper work, with enlightening the unsatisfactory results to all concerned.

The Star Player of the Whole Neighborhood and He Won't Play

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — Civilization seems to have moved rather rapidly.

Back in 1860 the Department of Agriculture was a small branch of the patent office, spending about $50,000 a year. Today the publications division of the department alone spends more than $1,000,000, and the whole department somewhere around $175,000,000.

The report of the commissioner of patents on agriculture for 1860 had no apparent foresight of such progress as this, but it did congratulate the whole of North America. "It may be regarded as a highly interesting and gratifying evidence of the progress of civilization on this continent that general attention is turned toward the cultivation of the grape and the manufacture of wine," said one section of this report, which devoted nearly 100 small-typed pages to such cultivation and manufacture.

The dozen or less members of the personnel of the agriculture bureau of those days had little suspicion of how differently civilization would be measured in this generation.

"There seems to be," remarked the inspired writer, after pointing to evidence of how wine had increased in popularity, "a general recognition of the fact that in the scramble for wealth and in the greed for wide possessions as well as in the inherent difficulties of our situation—thrown as we have been upon a new continent—we have too long neglected one of the most ancient and useful arts in life; an art which in all ages has been the fruitful source of comfort and luxury, of health and happiness, to the masses of mankind. The neglect of this important and beautiful department of agriculture is the more remarkable since our country embraces every degree of latitude and every variety of climate and soil in which the grape is known to flourish."

Whereupon the good book went on to paint a glorious future for husbandry in these United States. At 25 cents a gallon, for which wine could be produced, it would become one of our cheapest articles of food. America, and not France, would soon become the world's great wine country.

"We," the agriculturalist went on, "who only consume wine as it is sold at the rate of one or two dollars the bottle, can scarcely believe that in Europe it is a cheap article of food in which the common people indulge daily.

"It is difficult to overrate the importance of this subject to the industrial, the social and the moral interests of society.

"If we have reference to the health, the comfort and the sobriety of the people, the importance of grape and wine culture becomes still more striking. Its introduction will have the most beneficent effect upon the morals of the country."

Tracing the ancient art of fermenting the juice in Armenia, the report said of the Armenians: "When their spirits were greatly stimulated by imbibing the fragrant nectar, their religious enthusiasm broke forth in incessant prayers to the Virgin."

The writer submitted an enormous amount of information about the virtues and history of wine. He had everything but the gift of prophecy.

PRESS FORUM

THEN AND NOW

Ten years ago America was being toasted in Europe, except in Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey. Today America is most cordially hated all over Europe by her former enemies as well as her late allies.

It is surprising that such a change could take place in a decade. Can it be possible Europeans are so unappreciative that they forget America stepped into the conflict at the moment when the allies were in grave danger of losing the war, that Americans poured in millions in relief work among the inhabitants of the war-ridden nations, that two Americans, backed by the prestige of America, devised and put into execution a plan that brought order out of chaos in Germany?

It is not forgotten. Memory serves better than that. The nations of Europe are judging us by their own standards. They have been questioning America's motives since the war and have entirely lost sight of the good deeds.

The British resent the debt settlement because it brought increased taxes and the French are angry because of America's insistence upon payment of war debts, believing it to have caused the collapse of the franc and the rise in living costs. Italy is bitter because of Wilson's attitude over Fiume at the peace table and America's restriction of Italian emigration. Germany feels she was the victim of fraud when she concluded the armistice and blames America.

This is a fair estimate of the general attitude in Europe toward America. Whether the bitterness will grow or a better feeling develop is a question difficult to answer. Certainly the present situation makes Americans wonder whether the war was worth the price.—Panhandle Herald.

Says Church Is Now Realizing The Place of Youth

(By The Associated Press.)

NASHVILLE, April 22.—Asserting that the most significant religious discovery of modern times is the awakening of the church to the value of youth in the life of the nation, O. S. Gates formerly of Dallas, superintendent of young people's work, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, said there has never been such determined and wise effort to save youth for a life of Christian service as is now being inaugurated in the Christian church.

This church-wide interest in youth as fostered by Mr. Gates' denomination is evident in an extended program of recreation and religious education for young people and leaders of young people's groups. Among the main lines of work in behalf of Methodist adolescent groups are included a graduate seminar course to be conducted at Lake Junaluska, N. C., during the approaching summer; a series of summer camps for boys and girls at Lake Junaluska; approach to the home through mother and daughter, father and son, and similar movements; cooperation with editorial departments in furnishing material for special publication for young people.

Another manifestation of increasing interest in youth, according to Mr. Gates, is to be seen in the work of organized Wesley classes and 419 new young people's classes have registered as organized Wesley classes.

Save Gas By Use Of Pan of Water

Place Cans of Food, Various Kinds, In One Dish

A simple expedient for economizing gas is to cook several different kinds of food at the same time over a single burner. This is done by placing three or four cans of food, of different varieties in a large pot of boiling water, and heating them simultaneously. In this way one may serve a dinner of hot tinned beef, baked beans, brown bread (which comes in a can) and plum pudding, an entire meal, with a few moments of heating over one gas burner. Open the hot cans, take out the different foods, and they are ready for the table. The number of foods that can thus be heated at once is limited only by the size of the pot. This method will also prove exceedingly handy to the camper, whose cooking utensils are necessarily few.

Cheese roast makes an excellent meat substitute, cheese being rich in protein of high food value. This dish also contains kidney beans of large vitamin content. Drain the liquid from a can of kidney beans, rub through a grater 1-4 pound of cheese and run both beans and cheese through a meat chopper. Add 1 onion chopped fine and cooked in 1 tablespoon of butter and a small amount of water. Mix thoroughly and season. Mold into a roll or loaf and moisten with melted butter and water and roll in bread crumbs. Bake in oven at moderate temperature until nicely browned, basting all the while.

Household Hints

Rhubarb should have a dash of salt cooked in with it in the spring-time.

A few drops of kerosene on a damp cloth will clean the bath tub perfectly without harming the enamel.

Be sure to look over your screens and get them mended and in place before the first flies appear.

Before washing paint, wipe the dry dust off with a clean cloth. It will prevent streaking and muddy appearance when dry.

Doors should be oiled in spring to prevent squeaking when warm, moist days arrive.

Soap softened in hot water or warmed sealing wax will stop an emergency leak until the plumber arrives.

Fireless cookers should be dried immediately after the food is removed. The cover should be left open when not in use.

The feed from tank to burner in kerosene stoves accumulates sediment and should be drained frequently.

Fresh vegetables and fruits should be used the minute they appear on the market, when possible, for their medicinal value.

In washing mirrors do not let the water or other cleansing fluid run under the frame. It will loosen it.

An orderly sewing basket or table saves time. Keep thread wound up, mending in one corner, new work in another and so on.

Spring should be the time to clean out all drugs over a year old unless sure they do not deteriorate with time.

If patching wall paper, be sure to fade the patches before pasting them on.

If your children have listless appetites in spring, why not buy a new plate, cup and saucer for them? Sometimes an individual colorful milk pitcher may encourage a child to drink his much-needed ration.

With the first gust of spring wind and dust, every garment of value should have its own cover. Inexpensive figured materials can fashion these simple covers and a little time will sew them up.

University of California athletes are paid for damages sustained in college games. One player received $75 to replace teeth lost on the gridiron, and a wrestler received $20 to have his ear repaired.

A diamond was lost in a chicken yard in Denver. The 200 chickens were killed, searched and eaten, over a period of a year; the 200th chicken was killed the other day and the diamond was found in its gullet.

OUT OUR WAY

"INSIDE" INFORMATION

Roasts from the so-called tender cuts are better if cooked without water. Sear the outside at a high temperature to keep the meat juices within, then lower the temperature somewhat and roast for 15 to 20 minutes to the pound.

To cook turnips or rutabagas in a quick way, pare them, cut in fairly thin slices, and cook for 15 to 20 minutes in lightly salted water. Drain and mash, season with butter. Some people like the slices intact, with plenty of butter melted over them.

Children who profess not to like milk or eggs will often eat custards, omelets, milk puddings, milk-vegetable soups, and egg-milk drinks if well flavored. The wise parent, however, will not call attention to the ingredients of such dishes, but simply offer them as a matter of course in their regular place in the meal.

Alkalis discolor aluminum, therefore it should never be washed with strong soap or strong washing powders, or washing soda. The dark color on aluminum pans and utensils may be rubbed off with whiting or with very fine steel wool, or dissolved by the acid of vinegar or diluted oxalic acid. All acids must be thoroughly washed off. Oxalic acid is a poison and should be marked, and kept out of the way of children.

The idea that hot breads contain harmful gases has no scientific support. Fresh bread made of good ingredients contains nothing harmful either to children or adults. Fresh bread, however, is rather moist and soft and a young child may eat it without sufficient chewing. The crusty parts are necessarily chewed, and if the fresh bread is crusty, it is entirely suitable for children.

COOKIES IN RHYME Ginger Cookies

One cup and one-third of brown sugar.

A cup of shortening too; Then mix this well together Before anything else you do.

One cup of good molasses, Well beaten eggs, one or two, A tablespoonful of ginger And stir it through and through.

One good half cup of hot water, Two teaspoons of soda in it, And you will hear a foaming In less than half a minute.

Salt, flour enough to stiffen, Roll out and cut and bake; And you will have of cookies The best you ever ate.

The hotel will be seven stories in height, and will cost $375,000. Plans call for its opening on next New Year's day.

UNREST PREVAILS IN POLAND AS HEALTH OF DICTATOR FAILS

(By The Associated Press.) WARSAW, Poland, April 22.—

Speculation as to what will happen to Poland when Joseph Pilsudski relinquishes his hold on the republic have become rife with reports that the health of the marshal is anything but encouraging and that he is a very tired man.

Since the Pilsudski coup d'etat of last May the marshal has held the country in the palm of his hand, but more and more of late there have been rumblings of growing opposition in various groups that aim to be prepared to assume power in event of "an emergency."

Lack of harmony among the followers of Pilsudski is pronounced. He is supported by a majority of the country, but the support is purely personal. He has made no attempt to create other ties than sentiment for himself.

Pilsudski is a man of today. Tomorrow may take care of itself.

The lack of consistency of the Pilsudski cabinet is partly explained by the lack of unity among its members, as royalist land-owners collaborate with difficulty with the socialist leaders. These dissensions often are manifest by the activities of individual members in open contradiction to the policy of the cabinet as a whole.

Roman Dmowski, who has been endeavoring to form a strong organization which would be the nucleus of a government system after the end of the present dictatorship, hopes to step into Pilsudski's shoes as the head of a movement which has the external form of a fascist.

The activity of Dmowski has taken a pronounced anti-communist aspect in view of the Soviet, too, having already laid plans with the hope of stepping into power if the opportunity presents itself.

Pilsudski is 60 years old. He has not been well for years. After the coup d'etat of last spring he criticized the quarrelsome factions of the diet and took various political leaders to task on the ground that the country had been ridden with graft. There were a great number of personal changes. Pilsudski took full control of the government machine and has held full sway ever since.

In Paris Flat
PARIS—There is a "House of Boys" in Paris, an apartment building where only families with children are admitted and where births so far are of boys.

A widow, with nine grand-children Mme. Abel Barre, built the place in an airy quarter to make life easier for large families. On one of the six floors there are ten boys.

Mme. Barre has a standing offer to pay for the champagne at the party to celebrate the birth of a girl, but "I haven't opened a bottle," she says.

W. A. French, a state highway division engineer, called on Mayor F. P. Reid yesterday while on a tour of inspection.

J. F. MEERS—

of Ft. Sill. Later in the coming of the cattlemen he was employed by them in laying out the lines when land was leased by them from the Indians for grazing. In the Texas-Oklahoma state line controversy Mr. Meers was sought as the chief witness because of his exactness in making his calculations as a civil engineer and surveyor.

Active Church Member
Mr. Meers became a Christian in early life and united with the Methodist church, in which he was an active member throughout his entire life, being especially active in the Bible school and prayer meetings.

About twelve years ago he became a resident of the Confederate Home at Austin, having served in the Confederacy where he attained the rank of captain. It was during his residence there that a group of his poems were published, featuring his poems "The Dying of the Confederacy" and "In the Congress Halls." Later he became a patient in the sanitarium at Wichita Falls, Texas, where he passed away Tuesday morning, April 19, at 9 a. m., at 85 years of age. His wife preceded him February 22, 1924.

In addition to the sons and daughters mentioned above he is survived by nineteen grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

COOLIDGE ASKS AID

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Coolidge today issued a proclamation asking for aid for the sufferers in the area flooded by the Mississippi river and its tributaries.

The flood situation is indeed grave, the President's proclamation said, and for the task of caring for thousands of refugees additional funds must be obtained immediately. He designated the American Red Cross as the agency through which the aid should be distributed.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW MADRID, Mo., April 22.—Receding flood waters, caused by a break in the Mississippi river levee, and bright sunlight today sent a ray of hope through New Madrid flood area and prospects are that conditions will gradually improve. This morning the backwater in streets of New Madrid was from four to five feet under water, which had receded between two and three feet during the night.

WASHINGTON, April 22.

The federal government entered more actively into the Mississippi flood relief work today with the appointment by President Coolidge of four cabinet members to cooperate with the Red Cross. Secretaries Davis, Wilburn, Hoover and Mellon comprise the committee.

periodically. The club will start with 20 members on the charter list. The charter will be presented at the convenience of the local club after being granted, which is expected to be a matter of a week or 10 days.

A delegate likely will be sent to McAllen, May 10 and 11, to a district convention.

There are 85 Lions clubs in Texas, with a total of 4,000 members. There are 1,100 clubs in the United States. The organization, now international in its scope, was first formed in Texas in 1917. It made progress during the war period, and has enjoyed phenomenal growth since that time.

Governor Newman left this afternoon for Clarendon to visit a strong club there.

Men Tailors Do Better Work Than Women, Says Boss

(By The Associated Press.)

HUNTSVILLE, April 22.—Colonel Neal A. Quist, foreman of the tailor shop of the Texas state penitentiary system, located on the Goree state farm for women, is one of the oldest officials in point of service now in the prison system.

Colonel Quist is a native of Sweden. He left Sweden at the age of 18, going to Berlin, Germany, where he studied for 13 years the arts or a tailor. Becoming dissatisfied with the ways of the Germans and hearing about the "land of promise" across the Atlantic, he boarded a ship and landed in New York city in the fall of 1882.

Couldn't Speak English

From New York he drifted to Chicago. Unable to speak a word of English he started tailoring the best way he could and soon picked up enough English to handle his business. Thence from Chicago he came to Texas, and shortly afterward he was married. He plied his trade in West Texas towns until 1910, when the board of prison commissioners heard of his ability as a tailor and employed him to take charge of the making of clothes for prisoners. He has been connected with the tailor shop of the Texas prison ever since.

The tailor shop was located inside of the "walls" here in Huntsville, until 1920 and run by men convicts until it was removed to the Goree state farm and the women prisoners were given the job of sewing.

Colonel Quist said, "I had much rather work men prisoners in the tailor shop than women, and I have had many men under my supervision that could beat any woman sewing."

A Sham Battle

Speaking of his varied experiences in handling convicts he said:

"One day I went to the shop and just as soon as I stepped through the door I could tell there was something up among the prisoners for every now and then one would lean over and whisper a word or two to the man sitting next to him. Every man I had working was a 'lifer' and among them were some of the most notorious criminals that ever lived in Texas. About 10 o'clock the two men cutting cloth started a fight with the butcher knives that were kept for the purpose of cutting cloth, and in five minutes all were in the fight. The guard made a break for the door and I didn't see him for five hours afterwards. I knew it was just a sham fight so I just stood by and asked them if it wasn't bad enough to be in the prison without trying to kill each other. Finally the men stopped fighting and went back to work without saying a word."

Prisoner Took Watch

Colonel Quist explained why he had a patent device to hold his watch to his chain.

"A prisoner walked up to me one day and began to tell me about his skill as a pickpocket, and told me that some day he would get my watch without me knowing it. The man went back to his work and in about 30 minutes I fell for my watch and it was gone. The prisoner walked up and handed me my watch. He had lifted it from me while he was talking."

Colonel Quist is known all over Texas. He is now 16 years old, but can still thread a needle without glasses. Many people in Huntsville and from adjoining towns and counties hire him to make their clothes.

China Is Buying Increasing Supply Of Texas Goods

HOUSTON, April 22.—Exports from the United States to the Far East during February of this year amounted to $69,625,000 which was an increase of $14,043,000 or 25.3 per cent over the total of $55,582,000 exported in the same month of 1926, according to information just received by Ernest L. Tutt, from the department of commerce.

The increases, Mr. Tutt said, ranged from 2.8 per cent in China to 11.7 per cent for India. On the basis of actual exports increase, however, Tutt says Australia ranked first with India second and Japan third. "It will be remembered," he said in a statement issued here, "that exports to China in 1926 were greater than for the previous year and 1927 is starting out with China buying more American goods than in 1926, all of which is exceedingly interesting, in view of the military difficulties that are now occurring in that populous country."

Tutt says the report also shows that despite the military disturbance in China, the opening of the main rivers and canals for traffic a few months ago, as well as the necessity for renewing greatly depleted stocks in Northern China, particularly, stimulated the trade with the United States.
