NEXT ELECTION IN TEXAS WILL BE SURPRISING

Colquitt Believes Many Will Announce For Governorship

SPECULATION IS CAPITOL PASTIME

Moody and Ferguson May Seek Senate Position

(By The Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, May 19.—Texas is to be wooed in 1928 with as hearty a political campaign as has ever been made, in the opinion of former-Governor O. B. Colquitt of Dallas.

Colquitt, who frequently drops in at the state capitol to act as chairman of the Texas tax survey commission, says at least four prominent men are contemplating the gubernatorial race.

From what he learned, he said, they are R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo, speaker of the House of Representatives; Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller of Dallas, Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, and Clarence E. Gilmore, chairman of the state railroad commission.

All these, the former governor believes, will run if Governor Dan Moody elects to try for the United States senate or in any other manner fails to seek re-election.

Colquitt, who campaigned for Governor Moody and is conceded to be close to him, is doubtful as to Moody's course of action.

The governor, he said, "might and might not."

"However, this much I have learned from a reliable source; former-Governor James E. Ferguson, has said that he will run for the United States senate if Moody does.

Governor Moody recently denied that he was contemplating seeking a senate seat in 1928.

Colquitt did not make a statement concerning the possibility that he himself might become a candidate for the national senate.

His prediction provoked much speculative interest about the capitol, especially since United States Senator Earl B. Mayfield of Austin is already campaigning for re-election and Congressman Thomas I. Blanton of Abilene virtually has entered the ring for the same place.

The possibility of a Love-Miller-Bobbitt-Gilmore race drew comments from those who claim to know political ramifications. Love and Miller, both from Dallas, are "right in geography," the experts believe.

On the other hand, "Bobbitt's geography is all wrong," but in a showdown, administration leader and friend that he has been, he might secure at least Governor Moody's unofficial endorsement.

Gilmore, although he has been in public life many years, would be regarded as more or less a dark horse, current opinion here holds.

He likely would not have endorsement, but likewise he probably would not have the administration to fight.

There also is a possibility of a fifth candidate in Charles O. Austin, who has said he may enter the race under certain conditions.

Ex-Governor Colquitt, digressing from the state political situation, put forth his sentiments regarding the national race.

Neither Governor Al Smith of New York nor William Gibbs McAdoo suits him as a possibility for the democratic presidential nomination.

Nor does Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, fill the bill, "I think," Colquitt said, "I'd like to see Governor Donahue of Ohio get the nomination."

"Strange things may happen in the convention, however."

OSAKA—Breeding of small birds such as canaries and macaws is becoming popular in Japan. There are 13,000 birds in Sakai, near here.

Must County Clerk Translate Chinese?

AUSTIN, May 19.—(AP)—Ability to read Chinese is no part of the required qualifications of a county clerk, insofar as is known here.

Therefore the local clerk's office required a translated copy when the will of Wong Lim On, lately deceased employe of a local cafe, was filed. The strange assortment of hieroglyphics in the original will purported to bequeath all the earthly possessions of Wong to his son, Wong Tan, who is to take the $7,000 back home to his mother in China.

LEOPOLD WELL GOING DEEPER

Test to Be Drilled To 3,600 Feet—Below Sea Level

Drilling operations are again under way at the Pampa Production company's well on the Mrs. Mary Leopold property in the southeast corner of section 141, block 3, in Gray county, situated about four miles north of Pampa.

B. E. Finley, W. R. Campbell, and O. R. Kretzmeyer have purchased E. E. Strum's interests in the well, and with H. G. Twiford intend drilling to about 3,600 feet.

Drilling was abandoned about a month ago at 3,430 feet on account of saltwater in the hole. This water has been shut out and there is now a slight showing of oil at 3,430 feet. It is the intention of the company to drill to the Pennsylvania sand at about 3,600 feet where, according to geologists' reports, a pool may be reached.

Magnolia petroleum company will drill a south offset to the Archer well in section 174, block 3. Drilling to a depth of 2,973 feet, the Texas company struck oil, but on account of salt water had to plug back to 2,963. The well is now making 100 barrels a day.

The well is in the center of section 3, on G. H. Saunders' property, situated about four miles east of LeFors.

'All Is Not Well With Texas Wells'

AUSTIN, May 19.—(AP)—A disillusioned man from Flint, Mich., has written State Blue Sky Commissioner J. W. Martin here, intimating that all is not well with Texas oil wells.

Martin, referred to as "Most Honorable Sir," was requested to send a "book of charter laws."

The letter: "Would you be so kind as to send me a blank copy of a Texas charter or a book of your charter laws. I belong to several of your oil companies, and am not getting satisfaction at all. They tell me more than they know before buying and nothing afterward."

"One refuses me as a stockholder the total location by county, block, and section of our holdings. One will not answer my letter at all. Three keep holding off. Why? Please answer."

Martin said that he is afraid there is little he can do about it.

Kehoe Killed Wife Before Dynamiting School Building

BATH, Mich., May 19.—Mrs. Andrew Kehoe, wife of the maniac who yesterday blew up the consolidated school here with a loss of 43 lives, his farm home and him self, was the first victim of his fury, it was established today as a portion of her body was found in the ashes of one of the outbuildings at the Kehoe farm.

Her skull was crushed, leading to the belief that Kehoe had killed her before casting her body into the building to be burned.

Several persons are believed drowned in Peoria, where 6 inches of rain fell within a few hours, flooding basements in downtown streets. The loss is estimated at $750,000.

More than a hundred persons were injured in Indianapolis when an 80-mile-an-hour gale struck the city. The damage is estimated at $3,000,000.

A jeweled centerpiece worth nearly $230,000 is missing from the Mexico City Catholic Cathedral.

Committees Now At Work To Raise Fund to Aid Relief of Victims of The Greatest Flood Problem of History

Committees from the Lions club, Rotary club, and Chamber of Commerce are at work today raising a Pampa Flood Relief fund, the minimum of which has been set at $500.

Good progress was reported at the Lions club luncheon today. Charles Goin, now with the Pure Oil company but formerly of Lake Charles La., made an address on the magnitude of the flood conditions. Before this talk the Rev. James Todd, Jr., spoke on building of leadership in small cities, and Mrs. Neal McCullough sang, accompanied by Miss Mary Hobart. Mrs. P. B. Carlson gave a reading.

The club directed its members to give all the time possible to raising its share of the relief money.

In the Mississippi flood, the American Red Cross has confronted its greatest task since the World War.

It is the worst disaster of the kind in the history of Red Cross relief work, covering more territory and involving more individuals than the San Francisco fire in 1905, the Ohio River flood in 1913, or the Florida hurricane last fall.

W. Jones, of Beggs.

Jones declared the robbers had apparently headed for Osage county, where it is thought they have been making their headquarters.

BEGGS, Okla., May 19. (AP)—Reports that the robber band headed by Ray Terrill and Matthew Kimes, which robbed two banks here yesterday, had been cornered a Quay was denied this afternoon by reports from Quay.

FARM WOMEN

The statistics of a survey of the conditions under which Texas farm women live and work should give many people food for thought.

Public speakers and especially educators have been deploring the country-to-city movement, but without giving enough thought to the various angles of the subject.

The late report, while it does not apply as much to the Panhandle as to some other parts of the state, is nevertheless an indictment of even Plains farm conditions. The inference is that farm husbands are to be blamed for the situation — and perhaps there is much truth in it. Luxuries are now symbolic of city life, although many farm homes of some sections are equally comfortable and convenient. But so many rural homes are devoid of comforts that interested people are anxious to do something about it.

The whole matter, of course, is linked with the farm problem now confronting the entire nation. But diversification, giving a day-to-day cash income in which the women should share, will greatly help in a remedial way. Unless better methods are used in rural homes, it is difficult to see why the younger generation should not look with some distaste upon farm life.

The farm woman has a good opportunity to get the recognition and conveniences she has long desired.

CONSERVATION

While many plans for solving the oil problems are being suggested, conservation of natural gas and the resultant saving of crude oil appears to be the most logical step.

This means, in short, state control of methods to a degree not yet exercised. Says E. W. Marland:

"A solution of the present problem of overproduction apparently lies in the following thought:

"It is common knowledge that producers generally, as their desires or necessities dictate, are wasting greater quantities of their own and their neighboring landowner's natural gas, thereby increasing their own and their neighbor's future production costs from the same property and causing to be left under the property great quantities of oil difficult, if not impossible, of future recovery.

"It should be self-evident that the desires or necessities of the many different owners in the usual oil field cannot always be exactly similar and that the majority of owners of land in any pool have no right to attempt to control the action of any other owner of land in that pool when on his own land and when attempting to recover his own property, which action might be entirely proper for him to take in light of his desires or necessities, though seemingly improper from the point of view of his neighbors. I say they have no right to interfere with his action unless such action entails a loss of their property, such as would be caused by unnecessary depletion of gas pressure in their oil land."

As long as companies seek to grab oil production after the manner of small boys chasing pennies, there can be no conservation in the oil industry.

But there is little chance of voluntary equitable curtailment of production. Even those who habitually oppose state or national regulation of industry will see the advisability of more strict conservation laws.

Furthermore, there should be more adequate publication of production statistics. It has been fully shown recently that there is no real overproduction at this time, and that the big interests are filling storage with cheap crude. However, there is a possibility of a huge over-supply, and new gushers are coming in almost daily.

If the market were stabilized by removing this fear of overproduction, the price should rise immediately. A far-reaching conservation program should be of great value.

AGAIN?

Much news comes out of Austin without containing much inspiration to the people who send representatives down there. Now going the rounds in the capital city is political palaver, conjectures as to whom may next be governor.

To many voters, the issue of Fergusonism seems dropped from state politics. But Jim's latest remark has a deep, if not alarming significance; that if Moody runs for the senatorship he will be an opponent.

Regardless of the side of the issue a voter may be on, it is doubtful whether any good can be seen for a continuance of grudge politics in Texas. The feud has gone far enough. Should Moody and Ferguson and McAdoo and Smith tangle politically in the next campaign for office, the spectacles will not be amusing.

For lack of a real issue, personalities and prejudices spring up. Party fights are no worse.

TWINKLES

To replace our Mr. Lowe, resigned, Mr. Pond has joined the News staff. And now visitors call our curb lake Pond's pond.

Law enforcement note: If you have a cellar, warn the wife not to call the officers to look for a burglar.

Summer school is announced. That's a good way to keep an expensive plant paying dividends, and a way for the kiddies to have something on their minds. Too bad Panhandle farms offer such few inducements for the children.

The Italian government has announced a general reduction in retail prices. But Mussolini's advice is wholesaled only.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — Silk stockings and cigars are two principal factors in one problem of international relations which the American people seem to know little about.

The two nations who are parties to this momentous bit of dickering are Cuba and the United States.

There is no danger of war, of course, but just the same there is an "issue" and diplomats love "issues."

The question was formerly "Shall the Cuban flapper have expensive silk stockings, or shall she not?" It was settled amicably and the brown legs of the señoritas may now be made as sheer and shiny as those of her American cousin at just about the same price.

That was that, but events came to pass, and one thing led to another till the "issue" is now stated in these terms:

"If the Cuban flapper has cheap silk stockings why shouldn't your old man and my old man have cheap cigars?"

Your correspondent owes his information on this burning question to delegates to the Third Pan-American commercial conference in Washington. The United States and Cuba some time ago negotiated a parcel post convention to extend some of the benefits of the great parcel post system to the smaller republic. Today we send almost everything to Cuba by parcel post except automobiles and apartment houses, which are too large.

The small Cuban merchant is able to buy a gross or two of silk stockings, the principal item of Cuban-bound parcel post traffic, and sell them at moderate prices. If he were to depend on freight consignment, prices would have to go up. Cuba is a foreign country and the smallest possible freight shipment costs $15 by the time all the charges are added.

So far so good, but tobacco isn't included among mailable commodities. The Cuban merchant can eliminate the middleman in ordering silk stockings, but the American small merchant or big consumer can not do as much in ordering Cuban cigars and the Cuban idea is that the whole plan should work both ways.

The Department of Commerce seems to side with the Cubans.

It is also to be gathered that the commerce department sympathizes with the Argentine meat barons, whose beef is barred from this country through fear of the hoof and mouth disease. Most of the Argentine delegates were incensed about the beef ban. The commerce department is opposed to the hoof and mouth disease, but it rather regards as brusque and undiplomatic the action of the Department of Agriculture in suddenly barring the Argentine beef without any preliminary salve or warning. The annual Argentine beef shipments to the United States were only 3,000,000 pounds, so the ban wasn't a catastrophe, but that is only a very small fraction of what Argentina sells to Great Britain and the Argentine is worrying lest Britain take a tip from the United States.

PRESS FORUM

Pampa Daily News: A 21 year old Indiana schoolmaster was fined $5 when he whipped 20 children because of their failure to learn the "Village Blacksmith."

In other words, he was fined 25c apiece for the children he whipped. Cheap enough, we say, if he was downright angry. Also he had handsome precedents for his guide. Teachers used to whip unruly and dull students. State Press knows, not that he was unruly or that he was ever a teacher. He never was either. But he knows. Also he knows that when a piece of poetry was given to the children to learn they learned it or took the consequences. "The Village Blacksmith" was never assigned to S. P. when he was going to school. But he was given "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star." And he worked hard on it, he worked consistently on it. And after a while he got it so he could say it by heart, except that the middle verse was mastered less completely than the others. He always had to have a bit of prompting on the middle verse. "The Village Blacksmith" is not ranked as a great poem by the authoritative rankers. But it is a quotable poem, a poem whose lines linger in the memory. If that isn't a good sign of a great poem, what is a good sign? Certainly a poem that nobody can quote from memory, one which contains nothing applicable to common cases, should not be accounted the greatest. But the experts do count after that fashion. The strophes of Keats and Shelley are held up as shining examples of poetic genius, and the ponderous epics of Milton and Homer and Dante are represented as world-markers. But who, reading this, can quote at the moment a single line from Shelley, Keats, Dante, Virgil, Milton or Homer? Of course it may be that no bright people are reading this, and if that is the fact then our test isn't quite fair. Anyhow, one bright people is writing it, and he can't quote a line or a sentence from the authors he has listed.

Why Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES Wear Longer

WE recently were given the tremendous advantage of having the mammoth Firestone factories brought to us. In Tire Educational Meetings we were shown, by means of motion pictures, charts, tire samples and complete engineering data, the details of Firestone tire design and construction—and how Firestone and Oldfield tires and tubes are made in the world's most efficient and economical rubber factories.

Firestone pioneered the original low-pressure tire and made it practical by Gum-Dipping. The motion pictures showed us how the cords of the carcass are dipped in a rubber solution, thoroughly saturating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber. Simple demonstrations and tests illustrated the great advantage of this process, which supplies the extra strength to withstand the extra flexing strains of low-pressure construction—one of the reasons why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are establishing such unheard-of mileage records.

We learned why the Firestone Balloon Tread gives extra safety, comfort and long wear. We were shown why Firestone, from the very beginning, designed and continue to use the round Balloon Tread, minimizing "shoulder breaks", so destructive to tires. Excess rubber at the edges of a Balloon Tread is wasted—actually detrimental to tire mileage. In the Firestone Tread the small units and sharp projections are scientifically placed to permit easy flexing, resulting in extraordinary riding comfort.

Come in and let us put a set of these Gum-Dipped Tires on your car—you can forget about tire trouble. Quality is higher than ever before—prices are lowest in history. Buy now!

LAD WITH T. R. GRIN ROCKETS TO BANTAM FAME IN 19 MONTHS

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Editor)

CHICAGO, May 19.—Tony Canzoneri, a New Orleans youngster with a Rooseveltian smile, has rushed in 19 months to the forefront of contention for the world bantam-weight championship...

From his early teens Canzoneri has followed Herman around, and today, at 21, he gives promise of overshadowing the spectacular ring career of his friend and teacher.

Climaxing the scant year and a half since he fought his first professional bout, Canzoneri is matched for the second time to battle for the world bantamweight crown...

He meets Buddy Taylor, blonde Terre Haute terror, here June 26 in a match figured to end dispute over ownership of the title.

Canzoneri, like Herman, is a native of New Orleans. An Italian with the vivid imagination of his race, he became a worshiper of Herman at 14...

When Pete retired in 1920 he gave long hours to developing the natural talent Tony possessed and found in him courage, skill, punching ability and real ring smartness.

After Tony won 17 straight amateur victories in New Orleans, Herman sent him to his oldtime manager in New York.

Fencing Kills More Than French Duels

PARIS, May 19.—Sword-play practice is more deadly than the duel in France.

Three men have been killed in fencing rooms in three years and fencing masters are issuing new rules for safety.

Strong canvas vests and masks are obligatory, but frequently sword blades break, leaving a jagged point that is easily forced through mask or vest.

Duels are safer than practice because when the adversaries face sharp points they fence cautiously.

First National, were invaded immediately.
"Throw up your hands," came the command almost simultaneously in the two banks, and employes and others in both institutions complied. Both groups then began a systematic search for money. Mrs. Charles Campbell, a shopper, left her children in an automobile and ran into a poolhall crying an alarm. M. C. McAnnally, marshal, went immediately to the Farmers National bank, arriving just as the robbers were emerging. Pulling his pistol, McAnnally opened fire on the racing figures and a hail of bullets answered him, one piercing his breast and killing him instantly. Mrs. Campbell was struck in the head by a bullet and was believed to have been mortally injured.

Attacked by the shots, townspeople poured into the streets. The men hastily gathered up all available firearms, loaded into motor cars and took up pursuit. Within an hour one of the bandit cars had been found, abandoned eight miles west of Beggs, near the ranch on which Kimes spent his boyhood. The country into which the outlaws fled is rugged and heavily timbered, affording many ideal hiding places.
