Paris Resounds With Cheers Today As Legion Convenes

HISTORY MADE AS MEN OPEN NINTH MEETING

President Doumergue Is Guest of Honor Today

MANY WOMEN ARE IN PARADE

Flowers Are Placed On Grave of Unknown Soldier

(By The Associated Press.)
PARIS, Sept. 19.—With a tremendous roar of applause and cheers for President Doumergue, Marshall Foch, General Pershing, and National Commander Howard Savage, the ninth convention of the American legion opened this morning in the famous Trocadero palace.

President Doumergue, head of the French republic, was guest of honor and members of the cabinet, senators, deputies and leaders in military and diplomatic life in France occupied the platform.

The opening session's business was very brief, a few committee reports being hastily adopted and orders given the committee chairmen for the afternoon parade.

Fourteen thousand men of the American Legion, who fought for France, and many of their women folk today marched in a great parade under the Arc de Triomphe and in homage to the Unknown Soldier placed red, white and blue flowers around his grave.

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Sept. 19. (AP)—Support will be given to the European impression that all Americans are millionaires when Pawhuska's delegation of 17 full-blooded Osage Indians, garbed in barbaric splendor, arrive in Paris to dance for the American Legion convention.

The Osage tribe is rated as the richest race, per capita, in the world. With its vast income from oil royalties pooled in a common fund, the tribe distributes about $15,000 annually to each of its 2,200 members.

Despite their wealth, the Osages cling to many primitive customs. The throb of tom-toms, accompanied by the plaintive wailing of the old warriors, is preferred to jazz bands for dance music.

CABLE STRUNG OVER A RIVER

Span of 3,000 Feet Is Attempted by Empire Engineers

A 3,000 foot span of cable with a 45-foot away is an engineering feat being accomplished by the telephone and telegraph department of the Empire Fuel and Gas company. The line is to be strung across the Canadian river along the right-of-way of the 20-inch pipe line from Pampa to Ponca City, Okla.

The erection of towers, 110 feet high on each side of the river, commenced this morning. The base of each tower is of concrete and will be 14 feet square at the top. It will widen toward the bottom, which will be sunk about 20 feet. The towers will set back from the bank of the river several yards.

Copper clad wire about the thickness of a match is being used in the crossing the river, and there will be six such lines in the cable. After crossing the river, the wires will be strung back to 45-foot poles for a distance and thence to the regular 25-foot poles.

This undertaking is one of the greatest feats that has been attempted for some time, and is being watched with great interest by engineers of the state. It will take the company several weeks to make the crossing.

Firemen to Dine Well Tomorrow

Members of the fire department, the mayor and city council, and city hall employees are to be tendered a banquet at the new Schneider hotel tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. At the dinner a detailed report of the accomplishments and work of the fire department will be given by Chief Ben White.

The mayor and members of the council will be asked to make short talks and entertainment is being arranged for the evening.

J. H. Lavender returned Sunday from three weeks in the West Texas oil fields. He visited Odessa, Midland, Pecos, Wink, and other oil towns. He reports no activities there at present, but says that the field is the best he has ever seen, and when oil prices go up a boom is expected.

RANGERS STILL IN BORGER, BUT LITTLE TO DO

Raids On Underworld Made Saturday; Big Still Found

BOND FORFEITED IN MURDER CASE

Trial of Walker And Bailey Continued To December

(Special to The News.)
BORGER, Sept. 19.—Rangers who Saturday night and Sunday assisted local officers in several fruitful raids on sections of this vicinity are still in the city today.

The state officers were not sent for, so far as is known, but are merely here temporarily on one of the periodical raiding parties they stage at intervals in various parts of the state. About two dozen arrests were made of undesirables, many of whom were women.

An 85-gallon still was confiscated in one of the raids.

Eighty-fourth district court opens in its fall session in Stinnett today, by the trial of Charles Hale, indicted on a charge of murdering Ray Martin at a roadside near Pantex, first on the docket.

Hale failed to appear, and forfeited his $7,500 bond. The sheriff was notified to arrest the man if he could be found.

The trials of Ed Bailey and "Whitey" Walker on charges of murdering Deputies Terry and Kenyon near Borger last spring have been continued to the December term of district court.

Charter Will Be Presented Tonight To City Council

The proposed city charter, which has been prepared by members of the charter commission during the past few months, will be presented to the city council tonight at its regular meeting.

Before presenting the charter for the approval of the council the members of the commission will meet at the Chamber of Commerce rooms to make any necessary changes. The commission, with T. D. Hobart at its head, has been working steadily since its appointment.

Wade Moves And Enlarges Store

Wade's Variety store moved to new and larger quarters today and is serving the public from the new location at the corner of Cuyler street and Kingsmill avenue, formerly occupied by the White House cafe. The stock is more varied and more complete than formerly.

Mr. Duncan opened his business in December of 1925. In his new store he has added a complete line of golfers' needs, the hunter's necessities and enlarged all the sport department as well as his other stock.

Industrial Alcohol May Be Closely Regulated Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Rigid regulations as to the control of the amount of industrial alcohol each manufacturer in the United States may produce as a step to cut off the lawless fringe in this field will be issued soon by Prohibition Commissioner Doran.

GULF'S BOWERS WELL NOW MAKING 70 BARRELS HOURLY

Oil Followed Bit Last Night At 10 o'Clock After Being Drilled Into the Second Pay.

With a first flow of 85 barrels and a later steady flow of 70 barrels an hour the Gulf Production company's No. 1 Bowers in section 92, block B-2, came in last night about 10 o'clock after the drillers had pulled the bit from the hole.

The well had been making about 10 barrels an hour for the past week and after drilling 10 feet into the second pay heavy production was found.

The total depth of the well is 3,003 feet. First pay was struck a week ago Friday at 2,908 feet with an increased flow at each cleaning. The well is making about 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

Three other wells in the Bowers pool are expected in within the next few days. The Blackwell-McGee No. 6 and the two Gibson wells are in pay.

State Shivers As First "Norther," of Season Arrives

(By The Associated Press.)
DALLAS, Sept. 19.—Riding upon high winds, the first norther of autumn struck Texas late yesterday and sent the mercury tumbling 30 degrees over the greater part of the state.

A light rain fell as far west as Weatherford, southwest to Brownwood, and east to Erwin, and left autumn weather in its wake.

Pampa folk shivered and slipped through a cold rainy Sunday as the first touch of Fall broke the early September warmth.

Precipitation of .35 of an inch was distributed over many hours of drizzle, and the sun was scarcely seen until toward noon today. Roads were slippery yesterday, but soon dried off under heavy traffic today.

First of Plane Flights To Spokane Start Today

(By The Associated Press.)
AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—The Farmers National bank at Buda was robbed today for the second time by a lone bandit. He was a heavy set man who ordered the cashier, F. A. Jamison, and his assistant, W. M. Wood, into a rear room while he leisurely scooped up approximately $1,100.

The robbery occurred immediately after the bank opened for business this morning. The robber escaped in a small coupe in which an accomplice was waiting.

JURY DELAYED FOR HOURS BY SINGLE BALLOT

GUILTY VERDICT FOUND SUNDAY

Charge Was Murder In Robbery of Beggs Bank

(By The Associated Press.)
OKMULGEE, Sept. 19.—Mathew Kimes, youthful Oklahoma outlaw, today was sentenced to death by the Okmulgee county district court jury that convicted him for murder for his alleged part in the double bank robbery at Beggs, in which Police Chief W. J. McAnnally was killed.

The jury found Kimes guilty late yesterday, but disagreed on the punishment that should be given him. After hours of deliberation the jurors reported today that they were hopelessly disagreed, 11 to 1, on the degree of the punishment.

District Judge Hayes, however, instructed them to continue the deliberation, and the verdict was returned a few minutes later.

Fight Blows To Be Megaphoned

Fistic fans who are anxious to know that, despite bad weather, they will receive fast returns on the Tunney-Dempsey bout Thursday night may rest assured that the blow-by-blow will be megaphoned.

The Pampa Daily News will receive the full account by telegraph from the ringside, the only relay point being the Dallas bureau of the Associated Press. This newspaper also likely will get out a complete "extra" on the fight if the crowd is big enough.

Oden Music Shoppe will cooperate with the Daily News by furnishing an R. C. A. Superheterodyne for the occasion. The big radio will be tuned in on a Chicago station. Whichever method is most rapid will be used as a basis for the megaphone, which can be heard for blocks.

The Pampa Grays will have some reserve seats close up for those who wish to be seated. The fight party will be held opposite the Daily News building, where the street will be roped off during the fight. Come out and be with the gang.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 Markham has his friend Vance, a wealthy idler and art connoisseur, accompany him to the scene of Alvin Benson's murder. Benson has been shot through the head while reading in a chair.

CHAPTER V
 After a casual inspection of the gloves, Markham opened the handbag and turned its contents out onto the table. I came forward and looked on, but Vance remained in his chair, placidly smoking a cigar.

The hand-bag was of fine gold mesh with a catch set with small sapphires. It was unusually small, and obviously designed only for evening wear. The objects which it held and which Markham was now inspecting, consisted of a flat watered silk cigar case, a small phial of Roger and Gallet's "Fleurs d'Amour" perfume, a cloisonne vanity-compact, a short delicate cigarette-holder of inlaid amber, a gold-cased lip-stick, a small embroidered French-linen handkerchief with "M. St. C." monogrammed in the corner, and a Yale latch-key.

"This ought to give us a good lead," said Markham, indicating the handkerchief. "I suppose you went over the articles carefully, Sergeant." Heath nodded.

"Yes, and I imagine the bag belongs to the woman Benson was out with last night. The housekeeper told me he had an appointment and went out to dinner in his dress clothes. She didn't hear Benson when he came back, though. Anyway, we ought to be able to run down Miss 'M. St. C.' without much trouble."

Markham had taken up the cigarette-case again, and as he held it upside down a little shower of loose dried tobacco fell onto the table. Heath stood up suddenly.

"Maybe those cigars came out of that case," he suggested. He picked up the intact butt and looked at it. "It's a lady's cigarette, all right. It looks as though it might have been smoked in a holder, too."

"I beg to differ with you, Sergeant," drawled Vance. "You'll forgive me, I'm sure. But there's a bit of lip rouge on the end of the cigarette. It's hard to see, on account of the gold tip."

Heath looked at Vance sharply; he was much too surprised to be resentful. After a closer inspection of the cigarette, he turned again to Vance.

"Perhaps you could also tell us from these tobacco grains. If the cigarette came from this case," he suggested, with gruff irony.

finger deep into the case, he drew out a small cigarette which had evidently been wedged flat along the bottom of the pocket.

"Myolefact'ry gifts won't be necessary now," he said. "It is apparent even to the naked eye that the cigarette is, to speak loosely, identical—eh what, Sergeant?"

Heath grinned good-naturedly. "That's one on us, Mr. Markham." And he carefully put the cigarette and the stub in an envelope, which he marked and pocketed.

"You now see, Vance," observed Markham, "the importance of those cigarette butts."

"Can't say that I do," responded the other. "Of what possible value is a cigarette butt? You can't smoke it, y'know."

"It's evidence, my dear fellow," explained Markham patiently. "One knows that the owner of this bag returned with Benson last night, and remained long enough to smoke two cigarettes."

Vance lifted his eyebrows in mock amazement. "One does, does one? Fancy that, now."

"It only remains to locate her," interjected Heath.

"She's a rather decided brunette, at any rate—if that fact will facilitate your quest any," said Vance easily; "though why you should desire to annoy the lady, I can't for the life of me imagine—really I can't don't y'know."

"Why do you say she's a brunette?" asked Markham.

"Well, if she isn't," Vance told him, sinking listlessly back in his chair, "then she should consult a cosmetician as to the proper way to make up. I see she uses 'Rachel' powder and Guerlain's dark lipstick. And it simply isn't being done among blondes, old dear."

"I defer, of course, to your expert opinion," smiled Markham. Then to Heath: "I guess we'll have to look for a brunette, Sergeant."

"It's all right with me," agreed Heath jocularly. By this time, I think, he had entirely forgiven Vance for destroying the cigar butt. (Friday, June 14; 11 a. m.)

"Now," suggested Markham, "suppose we take a look over the house. I imagine you've done that pretty thoroughly already, Sergeant, but I'd like to see the layout. Anyway, I don't want to question the housekeeper until the body has been removed."

Heath rose. "Very good sir. I'd like another look myself."

The four of us went into the hall and walked down the passageway to the rear of the house. At the extreme end, on the left, was a door leading downstairs to the basement; but it was locked and bolted.

"The basement is only used for storage now," Heath explained; "and the door which opens from it into the street arway is boarded up."

The Platz woman sleeps upstairs—Benson lived here alone, and there is plenty of spare room in the house; and the kitchen is on this floor."

He opened a door on the opposite side of the passageway, and we stepped down into a small modern kitchen. Its two high windows, which opened into the paved rear yard at a height of about eight feet from the ground, were securely guarded with iron bars, and, in addition, the sashes were closed and locked. Passing through a swinging door we entered the dining room which was directly behind the living-room. The two windows here looked upon a small stone court—really no more than a deep air-well between Benson's house and the adjoining one—and these also were iron-barred and locked.

We now re-entered the hallway and stood for a moment at the foot of the stairs leading above.

"You can see, Mr. Markham," Heath pointed out, "that whoever shot Benson must have gotten in by the front door. There's no other way he could have entered. Living alone, I guess Benson was a little touchy on the subject of burglars. The only window that wasn't barred was the rear one in the living-room, and that was shut and locked. Anyway, it only leads into the inside court. The front windows of the living room have that ironwork over them, so they couldn't have been used, even to shoot through, for Benson was shot from the opposite direction. It's pretty clear the gunman got in the front door."

"Looks that way," said Markham. "And pardon me for saying so," remarked Vance, "but Benson let him in."

"Yes," retorted Heath unenthusiastically. "Well, we'll find all that out later. I hope."

"Oh, doubtless," Vance drily agreed.

We ascended the stairs and entered Benson's bedroom which was directly over the living-room. It was severely but well furnished, and in excellent order. The bed was made, showing that it had not been slept in that night; and the window shades were drawn. Benson's dinner-jacket and white pique waistcoat were hanging over a chair. A winged collar and a black bow-tie were on the bed where they had evidently been thrown when Benson had taken them off on returning home. A pair of low evening shoes were standing by the bench at the foot of the bed. In a glass of water on the night table was a platinum plate of four false teeth; and a toupee of beautiful workmanship was lying on the chiffonier.

This last item aroused Vance's special interest. He walked up to it and regarded it closely.

"Most int'restin'," he commented. "Our departed friend seems to have worn false hair; did you know that, Markham?"

"I always suspected it," was the indifferent answer.

(To Be Continued)

Fifty-four was the home run number registered by Babe Ruth in the second game yesterday. He is now five behind that 1921 record and going strong.

SPORT TALK

The Amarillo Sandies walked on Canyon high Saturday by a 59 to 9 score. It should be known, however, that Canyon's football talent is divided between the city school and the preparatory high school at the Teachers college. The score should be different when the Harvesters meet the Sandies Saturday. The home team should be improved over the initial showing, and Pampa is behind its boys to the nth degree.

Oldtime football stars got two thrills in one last Saturday when Hardin failed to go behind the goal posts to score that touchdown. To those who did not know the posts have been moved back 10 yards under the new rules, the act looked like folly, but it was all in the game.

Tonight the wrestling gladiators of the ring meet at the Pampa athletic club on West Foster avenue. Finaof Hussain, that man of Turkey, meets Bobbie Chick, in a best two out of three falls, which should be a wow. Neither of these boys are reported to be exactly gentle when they get into the ring.

An idle day didn't affect the standing of the Pirates, as the Giants split a double header with the Reds. In the first battle Lucas held the hard hitting Giants to three safe bingles and took the game 7 to 0.

An early lead-off May gave the Giants the second 4 to 2.

With a double victory yesterday over the Phillies, the Cardinals crept to within half a game of the second-place Giants. Alexander and Littlejohn were the pitching heroes of the game.

Dempsey Looks Good To Farley, But Legs In Debated Condition; Tunney's Eyes Are Ready for Bout

By CAL FARLEY
 (Special to The News.)
 LAKE VILLA, Ill., Sept. 18.—We drove over to Jack Dempsey's camp Sunday and watched the Manassa Mauler training for his attempt at what is considered the impossible—that of a former heavyweight champion to regain his title.

The former champ seems to look and feel just as good as ever, and that famous left hand can still put the boys to sleep when properly applied, judging by the way his sparring partners acted when kissed with that left mitt.

Jack's spirit seemed to be exceptionally high as he went about his workout smiling at his friends at the ringside. He really acted as if he enjoyed the work.

All of the boys who are supposed to know anything about comebacks and condition of fighters seem to be a bit skeptical about Dempsey's legs. He doesn't seem to be getting around quite as fast as he did during his former training periods, but as for the legs, that will never be settled until Thursday night, when he meets the champion before the greatest crowd that ever gathered to witness a sporting event at Soldiers' field.

Tunney also went through five rounds of fast boxing Sunday and appeared to be raring to go. All the dope on his eyes being bad from cuts is nothing to be excited about, as they are both in condition and well healed. Of course, if Dempsey lands on the cut he will reopen it, but that should not have much bearing on the outcome.

Between 8,000 and 10,000 people were on hand at both Dempsey's and Tunney's camps.

Monday the two battlers will box their last time before entering the ring Thursday night. Both went through their Sunday work-outs without mishaps, and each stated he was ready for the going.

BILLY EVANS Says

Feel Pity for the Umpires
 In the nerve-racking race now being staged in the National league, one hears plenty about the mental strain the players are under, but seldom are the umpires mentioned in connection with the hectic struggle for the senior organization pennant.

During the month of September the National league umpires have my heartfelt sympathy and best wishes for all the good luck in the world. In all probability some umpire or umpires will be the "goat" of the race. Only one who has been through a pennant race that goes down to the final week, often the final day, before it is decided, can appreciate the position of the umpire. During my 22 years in the American league I have been through about eight such campaigns.

No matter how well the umpires work, nothing is said, but let them be the deciding factor because of some close decision, and magnates, managers and players have an all-but usually worked overtime.

The outcome of many a bitterly contested ball game finally hinges on the calling of a certain ball or a questionable decision on bases. Pennants are often decided by a one-game margin.

Big Strain All They Have
 With four pennant contenders, as is the case in the National league this year it is just one day of mental strain followed by another for the umpires.

There being four prizes to shoot at each first division team cutting in on the world series receipts, there is never a let-up until the race is definitely over. That was the purpose of such a sharing of the receipts.

To the magnates, a close race such as is being staged in the National, means plenty of money at the gate for the entire league, but to the umpires it adds only woe.

Yes, sir! The courageous umpires of the National league have my sympathy. The best they can get in such a close race is the worst of it, including a helluva lot of trouble.

SLICING CHAMPION
 SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The golfing duffer who curses his slice every time he hits the ball may gain some consolation from the fact that Texas has a slicing champion who is wearing the state amateur crown.

Lewis Levinsen of San Antonio, who always slices, and is left handed, fought his way to the title through a field of the best golfers of the state. Levinsen's left-handed slice bothers him considerably, but he has leaped to make allowance for it and arrive at the green by the Great Circle route almost as well as the man who plays them straight down the fairway.

CONDITIONING FOR BASKETBALL
 RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Golf has entered another field as a good "training sport" in order to get their eyes and arms coordinating for a hard basketball season, candidates for the fast Y. M. C. A. quintet of this city have been ordered to indulge in a month of golf this fall, before the regular training season opens.

Ira Matheny, physical director and coach, believes a full month on the links will put his cagers in condition.

ILLINOIS GRID CANDIDATES
 CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Zuppke, back from a summer in Europe, is to begin his fifteenth year as football coach at the University of Illinois, will rally 65 candidates for the eleven. The years at Illinois have had but little apparent effect on Zuppke, who goes at his work with as much punch as back in 1913, when he jumped from Chicago's Oak Park high school to Illinois and in short order became one of the country's most famous football coaches.

RETRIEVING BALLS
 RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—These frugal youths who wait outside the fences for a baseball as their admission to local Virginia league games must wear bathing suits, or own a boat. Few balls outside the diamond fall on dry territory.

The baseball park is on Mayo Island in the James river. All balls clearing the short left field fence are consigned to a watery grave unless saved by the official ball boy, who wears a bathing suit. Fouls high enough to clear the back screen go into the other channel of the James or into the swimming pool of the Virginia Boat Club.

The Richmond club spends more than $2,000 a season on baseball.

Prohibition Law Fundamentally Is Sound, Says Administrator Working In Texas and Oklahoma Territory

(By The Associated Press.)
 HOUSTON, Sept. 19.—The prohibition law is fundamentally sound and it can be enforced, in the opinion of A. R. Butler, assistant prohibition administrator in charge of enforcement in the district comprising Oklahoma and Texas.

Mr. Butler made the statement here after conferring with George Hammons, deputy administrator, about enforcement conditions in the Houston section. Incidentally he said that the small, family home brew outfits, which were apparently plentifully scattered through Houston, and presumably in many other cities, are not the immediate objective of federal prohibition enforcement officers.

He discussed several angles of prohibition enforcement. For instance he said, that "the statement that more liquor is being consumed now than ever before strikes me as funny. It's like a man whistling to keep up his courage while going through a graveyard at night. Right now in Texas there is less liquor than ever before, particularly good liquor. State, city and county co-operation with federal officers have turned the trick."

Mr. Butler would make no prediction whether time would bring modification of the Volstead law. "In my opinion," he said, "the time will come when prohibition is enforced as well as the narcotic laws are now enforced. As with drugs, as long as there is a demand, certain men will risk everything for the 'big money' to be made."

Mr. Butler readily admitted that literally thousands of persons are making home brew. But just now, he added, "there is nothing that we can do about it. Possession of liquor," he pointed out, "is not a felony. In such cases a small fine is the penalty."

"We are concentrating efforts," he continued, "on the big sources of supply, the rings which transport liquor across the state. Conviction for such offenses means prison sentences. Fines mean nothing to a bootlegger when his business is good."

Practically no bonded liquor is procurable, Mr. Butler thought. "Some of it was good, maybe, when it left Cuba or wherever it was made but by the time it reaches the man who drinks it—that's different."

"A rum-runner, say, brings a cargo from Cuba. He has his stuff in barrels. Most of it comes in barrels, the pretty bottles many customers pay for notwithstanding. The rum-runner adds enough water to make about three barrels out of each barrel in his cargo. That is just the first process. By the time it reaches the ultimate consumer, every one who has handled it adds something or other."

Discussing the customer, Mr. Butler indicated that the two chief classes responsible for liquor violations are the old-timers, who drink because drinking has become a habit or drink through resentment at losing their "personal liberty," and the most reckless of the younger set who consider a flask a prerequisite for a joy ride or a dance.

But solution of the problem is rather simple, according to Mr. Butler, who said the "old soaks will die off and the young folk will realize how foolish they have been."

False affidavits charging officers with improper conduct are frequent, he said. But a recently established bureau in Washington investigates all such charges. If the officers if found not to have conducted himself in a proper manner, he rectified, he will be assumably discharged. If it is found that the charges are false, the person who made the accusation will be prosecuted.

MUSEUM GETS OLD PAINTING CHARLESTON, N. C.—A painting by Chao Meng Fu, artist at the court of Kubla Khan when Marco Polo was its guest, has been purchased by Miss Laura M. Bragg, director of the Charleston Museum. The picture, painted in 1312, is on exhibition.

FEATURES FROM OTHER LANDS

GERMAN VILLAGE TEACHES ITS CHILDREN CHESS
 BERLIN (P)—Virtually every inhabitant of the little village of Stroebeck, near Halberstadt in the Harz mountains, can play chess. Proficiency in chess playing ranks with reading, writing, and arithmetic in the Stroebeck school.

Every year before Easter the school closes for a chess tournament. The winners receive chess boards donated by the village.

Tradition has it that the Stroebeckers have known how to play chess since the eleventh century. At that time Bishop Arault of Halberstadt defeated his opponent, Count Gutzelin, with the aid of the villagers of Stroebeck. The Stroebeckers held the count captive in an old tower, still known as the chess tower, until he was ransomed by friends. To while away the time, Count Gutzelin began to instruct his guards in chess. The guards passed the knowledge on to the other villagers, until everybody knew the game. Since then it has been a matter of communal pride to instruct each succeeding generation in the art.

AGED POLO PONY IS "PENSIONED OFF"
 BERLIN (P)—"Rich," an Argentine polo pony, 40 years old, has been "pensioned off." His owner is Carl Weinberg, a noted breeder of Walfried.

In the Hoppegarten paddock "Rich" was well known as a polo pony with a character of his own. He came as an "old horse" from Argentine 22 years ago to train young blood horses here. "Rich" was always patient and reliable. His nose grew white with age and he gained a great reputation for equine sagacity.

STORKS DYING OUT IN GERMANY

BERLIN (P)—The story is dying out in Germany. In twenty years the number of occupied nests has decreased by approximately 70 per cent.

This is regarded as a bad omen by think themselves twice blessed if a the superstitious peasantry who story builds on their roof. Indeed, in many villages the peasants go to the length of putting a cart-wheel on their chimney, in order to entice this haringer of good times.

vance for this decrease is very curious. In the winter the story goes to South Africa, where his chief food is the locust. In recent years the South African farmers have been waging a highly organized war on the locust. In this campaign arsenic plays a leading part, and it has been proven that whole colonies of storks have perished from eating essential poisoned locusts.

SAYS HINDENBURG HAS DOUBLE IN AMERICA

BERLIN (P)—President von Hindenburg has a double in America, Ambassador von Maltzan informed a group of American correspondents.

"In the course of my western trip," the ambassador observed, "I stopped at St. Cloud, Minn. I was told that there was an old German gentleman in that city who looked exactly like President von Hindenburg, but that he was not well enough to attend the exercises in my honor."

"So I went to him instead. His likeness to the head of our nation is indeed striking. I am sure that if he were to stroll down Unter den Linden in Berlin everybody would proclaim him president."

A Charleston contest was held in Constantinople during the celebration when Brock and Schlee arrived there.

Joe Humphreys says: "Holbrook Blinn is right—Luckies are certainly good"

Noted sports announcer, talking to his son, George Cohan Humphreys, at their home in Fairhaven, New Jersey, recommends Lucky Strikes.

Holbrook Blinn, Noted Stage Star, writes:

"Each performance brings with it its attendant nervousness and I relish the opportunity for a soothing smoke while playing. During the course of 'The Play's the Thing' I am called on to smoke at frequent intervals. It is always a Lucky Strike. I know from many years' use of this cigarette that my throat is constantly protected and that it will give me the greatest enjoyment."

Holbrook Blinn

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

On a world tour for "rest," Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the resigned generalissimo of the Chinese Nationalist forces, is pictured here as she arrived in San Francisco the other day. Mme. DONDS, CONTRACTS—The decision to advertise the Pampa district road bonds in a bond journal is a good one. County valuations are now in and bond men are exceptionally well pleased with the financial strength of this county. Placing of the facts before many buyers no doubt will bring about competition and better prices.

The McLean bonds, sold without wide publicity and before property values were fully known, commanded a low price before the small number of buyers, who apparently had a prior understanding, but later offers were made by two companies and par was received.

A little publicity now should be effective. A few points differences in longtime bonds mean thousands of dollars saved. Pampa and Gray county have now met the urgent demands, and there is no longer a need for break-neck speed. Both can save money by calling in all the bidders possible and taking the best offer. It is a well known fact that some companies, who face an idle winter, will make a very low offer to keep from suspending operations. Some have outlays of equipment which enables them to bid lower than others. Some bond companies instruct buyers to cut deep in bidding if necessary.

Astute presentation of Pampa and Gray county business should result in substantial savings.

Early work, which at best will be next spring, should be done on the portion of the district paving involving federal aid, since both state and federal approval will be necessary. Many counties have had much grief over delays, and constant attention to details is necessary.

COURT DELAY—The mills of the gods may grind slowly, but they turn out highly finished products. No so the trial courts, however, although they too grind slowly.

The reason: "Certain rules of pleading, under which a defendant can unduly postpone the reaching of an issue; use of jury trials; habits of procrastination on the part of the bar, coupled with certain traditions to grant continuances and extensions of time; the present method of assigning cases for trial; illness and similar accidents causing the absence of attorneys, parties, or witnesses at the time set for trial; summer vacations of the courts; crowded condition of trial dockets; and appeals from the judgments of trial courts."

The above report by a faculty member of the Yale law school is upon New York state, but it is applicable to Texas as well.

Another report, upon Connecticut, strikes at lawyers as a class, saying they are "prone to procrastinate and this often without regard to whether the parties they represent are plaintiffs or defendants." In the cities of that state there are more than 8,000 cases carried over from last year.

The mere fact of delay, however, is not as dangerous as the growing tendency to make delay one of the most important defense weapons. Whether it be murder or misdemeanor theft, the defense attorney immediately seeks a change of venue, continuance, or other means of delay, providing the client can foot the bill. It is the system, and the attorney is not to be blamed too severely for falling in line with the times.

Certain law firms make a specialty of fighting for continuances, and make reputations as trial lawyers. There often develops a kind of trial court monopoly, and a term resolves itself into a drawn-out skirmish between a few lawyers and the hard working prosecuting attorney.

The preponderance of legal talent is defensive, and its influence is for the perfection of defense tactics. But despite this inevitable occurrence in trial court procedure, the profession should give thought to the efficiency of the courts and work for court reform. The profession at large has adopted resolutions along this line, but much work will be necessary to pass the measures through constitutional elections, in which a public decides usually by voting "no" in matters on which it is confused.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — One of the interesting things that may happen during the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination is an endorsement of Secretary of Commerce Hoover by Senator Borah.

Borah admires Hoover more than he admires any of the other important candidates and there is reason to believe that Hoover likes Borah.

At any rate, some of Hoover's friends are hoping that Borah will support their man. Insofar as they are concerned, Hoover and Borah would make a great national ticket. Borah might conceivably consent to such an arrangement, despite his refusal to run with Coolidge in 1924, but there may be even more implications.

Suppose the Hoover strength at the convention, when it becomes apparent that Hoover can't win in the face of eastern and agrarian opposition, turns to Borah? The present dope is that neither Hoover nor Borah can win the nomination, but if such a development should come it would bring Borah much nearer to the nomination than he has ever been before.

No close personal friendship exists between Hoover and Borah such as is found between Lowden and Dawes, but in some respects their interests are the same.

Hoover has a passionate desire to be president and thinks he has a chance. Borah would like to be president, too, but he has no illusions which allow him to think that he can get the nomination under the party's present set-up. On the other hand, there are those who think that Hoover is in much the same boat as Borah—that the party's leaders and controlling influences won't let him have it because he is too honest and too much his own man.

Borah is understood to regard Hoover as a man with some "moral fiber." In his heart he is rather contemptuous of the reactionary candidates for the nomination such as Hughes and Dawes. He is convinced that the big boys of the party have determined to block Hoover's campaign for delegates by putting up Hughes to beat him in the east. In other words, the same crowd which has kept him from the nomination is out to knife Hoover. Borah has never played ball with the politicians.

Out of this bond of sympathy may grow a feeling on the part of both men that they will each be stronger if they unite against the influences

FACTS ABOUT TAXES

Six years ago the citizens of Wichita Falls were complaining about taxes. There was a big advance of taxes, due to the quick growth of the city. We remember well the prediction made by a professional man of the city, who claimed that it would bankrupt the city and drive people and industry away. The reverse has been true. Taxes have been lowered and the city is two or three times larger. That is always true in city development but the difficult thing is to convince taxpayers of that fact. Childress now has higher taxes than Wichita Falls. A few years ago it was the reverse. Childress is now growing rapidly and due to the laws putting collection of taxes from 18 to 20 months behind the growth of a city it makes it like a burden when increased taxes are levied. Childress folks have seen the school faculty increased from 30 to over 50 teachers within three years. Likewise, the city has spent a million dollars for water, sewers and paving. All of it was demanded and the demand continues. Within another three years the tax rate will begin to decline. Even the county and school rates will show a decline because values can be lowered. When taxes are discussed don't complain but just consider what we have today with that of yesterday.—Childress Daily Index.

Newsboys cannot cry out the contents of their papers in Oklahoma City. They will have to go somewhere else to get away with murder.

Historical note: How times have changed since the Panhandle Herald 40 years ago ran an ad for "one hundred single young women who are prepared to rough it for a time to come to Panhandle and marry our thrifty young men who have located on 640 acres of land and are living in dugouts, tents and cabins."

Let's hurry up with this paving so these rainy day joyriders can make a complete circle instead of making a U-turn every two minutes.

It is just like some of these Missourians and such like to growl at a few rainy days, the like of which are a score times more numerous this time of year where they came from.

PARIS HOSTESS PLANS GALA DAYS FOR WOMEN OF AMERICAN LEGION

The Women of the American Legion will be greeted by a staff of hostesses led by Mrs. Arthur W. Kipling, (left), wife of an American resident in Paris and president of the Auxiliary Unit of Paris Post No. 1; Mrs. Lucy Boyd of Indianapolis, (center), national secretary of the women's auxiliary who has been operating an information service for visitors; and the latter's daughter, Miss Margaret Boyd (right) who is one of the debutantes who will entertain the younger generation.

PARIS, Sept. 19. (AP)—Being hostess to several thousand strangers may seem a formidable task, but it does not daunt those in charge of the reception to the women of the American Legion Convention in Paris. Mrs. Arthur W. Kipling, president of the Auxiliary Unit of Paris Post No. 1, will be a hostess to 6,000 guests when the convention is in full swing. She does not expect, however, to be any busier than the average hostess with a big and important party on her hands. Her poise, she admits, is possible because she has been preparing for the 6,000 visitors for more than a year.

Furthermore, she has been assisted by a group of women who are members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Legion. For weeks before the opening of the convention Mrs. Lucy Boyd, national secretary of the Women's Auxiliary, has been operating an information and organization headquarters at the Hotel Continental. French and American staffs there worked day after day perfecting details of the women's five day convention program.

Mrs. Boyd, who comes from Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Kipling checked every detail of the convention program. It will begin Sunday, September 18, with an Aloah breakfast, and end Thursday, September 22, with a banquet of Association secretaries. The formal opening of the Auxiliary sessions will be held Monday, September 19. Tuesday the women will meet with the Legion in a joint convention at the Trocadero. The following day will be given over to reports and election of officers. The week-end is to be devoted to dedication ceremonies, sight-seeing, and showing by the Legion women.

The Paris chief hostess to the Legion is an American by marriage only. She was born in Ireland and did not visit the United States until after her marriage to Dr. Kipling, an American resident in Paris for many years.

Few French women have more distinguished war records than Mrs. Kipling's. She is entitled to wear, and possesses, the 1914 Mons Star from the British Government, the Palms of the French Academy, the French Medal of Gratitude and the Volunteers Medal as well as the white ribbon with gold palms for nursing for France. She was one of the five women who organized the American Ambulance at the Lycee Pasteur in Neuilly on August 5, 1914. She immediately prepared herself for auxiliary nursing and was soon serving with a volunteer motor ambulance service, organized by her husband and attached to French and British armies at the front. When the United States entered the war she was one of the highly trained canteen and library center workers for the Red Cross and one of the last officers they mustered out of their service in France.

As its chairman Mrs. Kipling will give an official welcome to the members of the Auxiliary when the women's convention opens September 19, at the Continental hotel. Among her assistants will be eight young and agile pages who will run errands for the national and convention officers.

One of them will be Miss Margaret Boyd, daughter of Mrs. Lucy Boyd, National Secretary of the Auxiliary. Miss Boyd graduated last June from the Technical High School in Indianapolis. She is one of the most enthusiastic of the Legion's debutantes in the Auxiliary.

left-over corn on the cob. To four tablespoons fresh corn add one teaspoon melted fat, one teaspoon baking powder, one egg, one-half cup milk, one cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt. Mix to a batter and fry in deep fat.

Curried veal is a good dish to serve when lima beans are in season, because the flavor of curry goes well with lima beans. Cut two pounds of stewing veal into small pieces and simmer in water enough to cover until almost tender. Then add two cups of fresh lima beans. In another pan cook one medium-sized onion, chopped fine and one-half a green pepper, chopped, in a small amount of butter. Add to the meat. When the beans are done, thicken the liquid slightly with a little flour which has been mixed with one-fourth teaspoon curry, one one-half teaspoons salt, and a little cold water. Add one cup diced cucumber and cook a few minutes longer. Sprinkle chopped parsley over the top when serving.

USES FOR CELERY

Finely chopped raw celery improves many dishes, such as creamed beef, fish, crabmeat, oysters, potatoes, cabbage or hard-cooked eggs. Try it in cream sauce for serving on croquettes, with creamed canned peas an dlima beans, stewed tomatoes and other vegetables.

HINTS FOR FARM and HOME

by THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

When the honeyflow is over, all empty supers should be removed so the bees will not be forced to keep empty spaces warm during the winter. Comb honey left on the hives becomes soiled and discolored.

A 6-pound hen laying 144 eggs in a year produces about three times her body weight, and one laying 240 eggs produces about five times her own weight. For such hard work a hen must be vigorous and in the best of health. Vigor is indicated by a bright, full eye, bright red comb and wattles, a well developed body and strong, well-placed legs. A poor layer usually has a dull eye, narrow beak and head, an extremely long and narrow back, weak abdominal muscles, and sometimes weak legs.

To keep butter from sticking to paddles and other utensils these should be thoroughly rinsed immediately before using, first with hot water, then with cold water. This fills the pores of the wood with water and prevents the butter sticking to it. Wooden utensils should be cleaned immediately after using so that the fat will not have an opportunity to get into the pores of the wood.

After the calf is two weeks old give it access to plenty of fresh, clean water at all times, and when old enough to eat roughage see that salt always is accessible. The calf needs water even though it does drink milk.

A horse may be taught to overcome the habit of kicking every time something touches his heels. Take a stick four feet long, tie a gunny sack around one end, allow the horse to examine it with his nose, then rub it over his body and legs. After he becomes submissive to the pole, tie the sacks of hay to the traces and breeching, and continue the lesson until he pays no attention to them.

Sweet potatoes and apples are good baked together. Boil the sweet potatoes in their skins, peel and slice. Place in a baking dish with alternate layers of sliced apple. Sprinkle each layer with brown sugar and dots of butter. Put about a half cup of water in the bottom of the baking dish. Finish the dish with a layer of sweet potatoes, over which brown sugar and buttered crumbs have been spread. Bake until the apples are done and the top is brown.

Buttermilk contains most of the vitamins B and C, present in whole milk. Since the butterfat has been almost entirely removed, vitamins A and D, which are soluble in fat, will be limited in amount, depending on how much butterfat remains. Buttermilk is valuable as a food in spite of this lack, but when it is necessary to include larger amounts of A and D in the diet, whole milk should be used.

To prepare horseradish, grate up good sound roots and pack at once into bottles. Cover with a small quantity of spirit or distilled vinegar and seal tightly. Make in small quantities, only enough to use up promptly.

Serve all lamb dishes hot, on hot plates, because many persons object to the texture of the fat which hardens as it cools. Tart jellies and tasty sauces also "cut" the fat and tone down the pronounced flavor of the meat.

Taxation of All Dormitories Now Texas U. Problem

(By The Associated Press.)
AUSTIN, Sept. 19. — A public meeting will be held here September 26 by the city council at hear arguments against taxation of dormitories maintained at the Texas University by churches and organizations.

In the past, these dormitories have been exempt from city taxes the same as buildings comprising the university proper, but it was proposed to tax them this year.

Those involved are the Scottish Rite Masonic dormitory, Newman Hall (Catholic), Grace Hall (Episcopal), and Kirby Hall, (Methodist), Alice Littlefield dormitory (memorial), all homes for university girls, the latter, just completed, being for freshman girls only.

Aristide Briand, French minister, threw consternation into an inter-parliamentary conference by warmly praising Germany for her efforts to make peace.

University Trains Athletes By Mail

WILL IT COME TO THIS? JUNIOR "BABE RUTH'S" A LA MAIL!

LAWRENCE, Kan., Sept. 16. (AP)—Timid souls who have harbored secret ambitions to become athletes may now do so in the privacy of their own homes.

Football, basketball and track courses by mail are offered by the extension department of the University of Kansas.

Every home may have its own Red Grange. High school coaches and others who wish to brush up on the fundamentals of different sports without devoting too much time to it may do so under the Jayhawk plan.

Franklin C. Cappon, football coach, using a series of lecture notes prepared by Fielding H. Yost, University of Michigan football mentor, is responsible for the extension gridiron sport.

Dr. Forrest C. Allen, basketball coach at the university, who has turned out more consecutive championship basketball teams than any other coach in college conference circles, created the extension course in basketball.

Dr. H. J. Huff, who determines the destinies of K. U. track and field teams, provided the mail course in track.

Miss Margaret Marto, head of the women's physical education department, is working out courses which will be offered by mail to teachers of physical education.

Amendments Lost By 7 to 1, Final Count Reveals

(By The Associated Press.)

AUSTIN, Sept. 19.—One of the most apathetic, and yet extremely one-sided, elections Texas ever had is reflected in official figures on the August 1 pollings at which the four proposed constitutional amendments were beaten.

Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, gave out the complete figures today for each of the 188 counties reporting returns, showing a total of 80,000 votes cast, with a general average of about 7 to 1 against all the amendments. The tax amendment suffered the worst defeat.

Among the 64 counties failing to report returns are Harris and Wichita, in which Houston and Wichita Falls, respectively, are located, Gray county also was missing.

Some interesting and bizarre comparisons are offered in the county-by-county figures. Cass county was against all amendments by a general average of about 41 or 42 to 1, while Hidalgo county carried them all, three of them better than 2 to 1.

Cameron county carried the judiciary and fee amendments, while El Paso carried the judiciary, fee and salary propositions, all by a good majority.

Williamson, home county of Dan Moody, defeated all amendments at an average of 5 to 1. It is also the home county of Senator A. E. Wood and Representative Claude Teer, administration flood leaders in the legislature.

The state election board, composed of Governor Dan Moody, and attorney General Pollard, got together last Saturday, 40 days after the election, as required by law, opened the sealed returns, counted them and this is what they got:

Amendment to revise the judiciary system, for, 10,830, against 69,754.

Amendment to separate the objects of taxation, for, 7,557, against, 70,983.

Amendment to abolish the fee-system of paying county officers, for, 8,783, against, 68,626.

Amendment to raise the present constitutional limit on salaries of the governor, state officers and legislators, for, 8,645, against, 70,276.

Doubt Anthrax Rife In Valley Flood Zone

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Government authorities are not inclined to be alarmed at present over reports on anthrax infection among cattle in the Mississippi flood area.

It is true, they say, that anthrax virus thrives best under certain soil conditions and on territories subject to floods and inundations, and that fields containing stagnant pools, vast number of which were left by receding waters in the Mississippi delta, are a potential source of infection.

However, officials say, it is too early to expect an outbreak of anthrax, even if the flood did carry spores into the river country. Federal agents have reported no serious condition. In the meantime measures of prevention are urged. Medical treatment usually is of no avail in acute cases. When the progress of the disease is not too rapid, the injection of antianthrax serum often will bring about a cure.

Anthrax, or charbon, is caused by a vegetable spore which may enter the body without a slight wound or on food. Cattle and sheep are most susceptible, although none of the domestic animals are exempt.

GERMAN HOTEL BUILT IN AMERICAN MANNER

BERLIN (AP) — The "Duisburger Hof", the new hotel just opened in Duisburg, has a double interest. It is owned by the City of Duisburg, and American methods were followed in designing it.

The rooms have built-in clothes closets, instead of portable wardrobes usual in Europe. Half of the rooms have private baths. Since the hotel is designed chiefly to serve guests who come to Duisburg on business, 80 per cent of the rooms are single rooms. Rooms without bath cost $1.44 to $1.92; with bath, $2.40 to $2.88.

Count Solms boasts of having one of the oldest and most interesting organs in Germany. It is so rare a specimen of the art of organ building

Milk Beats Beer As English Drink

LONDON, Sept. 19. (AP)—Prohibitionists are encouraged by government statistics showing that more milk was drunk than beer in England, Scotland and Wales last year. The milk consumed amounted to 850,000,000 gallons, against 749,531,184 gallons of alcoholic beverage.

Calculating the population at 49,970,000, this makes a consumption of 19.5 gallons of milk per head, compared with only 17 gallons of intoxicants.

SAYS HUNGARIAN CSARDAS RESEMBLES CHARLESTON

BERLIN (AP)—Anybody who can dance the Hungarian csardas should automatically be able to dance the American Charleston, in the opinion of Ellen Richter, Hungarian movie star.

"The movements of the legs, the slapping together of the knees, and all the other contortions, which, if executed gracefully, are decidedly beautiful, are about the same in both the csardas and the Charleston," Miss Richter observes. "Of course, there are rhythmic differences. Then too, the csardas, even in its simplest form, is a figure dance, which the Charleston is not."

Twins Teach In Two-Room School

Gladys (left) and Garland Norris, 23-year-old school teachers of Topeka, Kan., who teach in a two room school, to the confusion of their pupils.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 19. (AP) — Twin sisters whom their teachers could not tell apart now are having the fun of confusing their own pupils.

The sisters, Gladys and Garland Norris, 23 years old, are the teachers in a two room rural school near here.

The Misses Norris dress exactly alike, and they look so much alike that few persons outside their own family can distinguish between them. Several of their pupils have found themselves in the wrong grade because of this likeness.

Each has about 25 pupils. The pupils are not only getting instruction in the three R's, but in observing faces.

Who Is Author Of News Serial?

Who is S. S. Van Dine, author of the mystery serial now running in the Pampa Daily News?

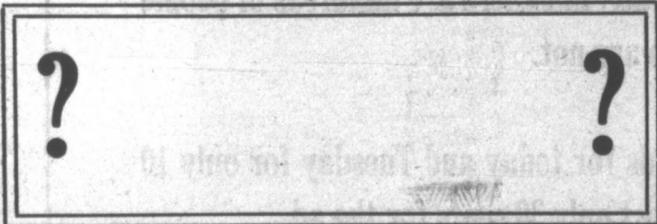

Daily News readers were promised an unusual story. The Benson Murder Case is that, and more. The author has disguised his name, and the rumor is out that he is a professor of psychology in one of the large Eastern universities.

He is thoroughly familiar with New York's police procedure and criminal history, and has woven a story entirely out of the class of ordinary newspaper fiction. Literary critics are much interested in the story and its author. Follow the tale daily in The News.
