

TEX'S TOPICS

You read about the influenza epidemic and how it cuts its swathe across the country, taking victims here and there. Some get well and some do not. And then—although you figured all along that you were immune—first thing you know you are thrown for a loss and find yourself in the middle of a bed, a thermometer in your mouth and a doctor holding your hand.

That's what happened to us last Thursday. . . . We always figured it would be a pretty tough crowd of "flu" germs to get the best of us. . . . But, the doctor knows best. . . . After determining that we had a temperature of 102 and a rapidly climbing pulse, the medicine man of the plains decided it would be a splendid idea for us to go out of circulation for a few days. . . . That's why this column you are now reading (if you are) is being dictated from bedside.

Being ill, however, has its advantages. . . . Friends call on you and help to kill time. . . . There is B. S. Via, self-appointed guardian in the absence of our family, marooned by midwest floods in Indiana. . . . Mr. Via comes morning, noon and night with palatable foods. . . . Chief among these have been oysters from the Chesapeake, done to a dandy in new fat for a king.

Boys from the Kiwanis club come out to sit in for awhile. . . . We chew the fat and stuff. . . . The doctor orders up sundry medicines and we have difficulty trying to remember which should be taken and when.

With one-half of bachelor hall being on the casualty list, it makes it pretty tough on the other half, although he has become pretty adept at the art of being in two places at the same time. . . . Just when we are feeling pretty low, anyhow, there comes a call from Indiana. Flood zones carrying news that the family en route to Ohio, is marooned there, unable to find a safe highway or even to make a rail connection because of high water.

Ordinarily, you find Pa Pampa in this space on Sunday, but they called me from the office and said Pa was out of town and wouldn't be back until the middle of the week, so, sick or not, it fell to our lot to cook up something to fill out the column. . . . Just to take some of the edge off of the decidedly gruesome task of being forced to remain in bed, we have taken a copy of "Fun In Bed," the convalescent's handbook, by Frank Scully.

The book helps some. . . . It is the latest and gayest handbook of the horizontal life. . . . Scully and a glittering all-star cast of wits and half-wits have turned it out, their idea in mind being to make you forget trouble, even though you may be only three steps around the corner from Death's door.

Here's one from "Fun In Bed."—Topping the innocent interne who treated a man for yellow jaundice for six weeks before realizing the poor fellow was a Chinese is the equally young doctor who took a man's temperature with his fountain pen instead of a thermometer and, to the astonishment of the rest of the staff, diagnosed the case as black fever.

Still another. . . . Bed of diagnostic stories to date concerns the doctor who examined the chest of a radio blues singer with his stethoscope. He shook his head over what he heard, and tried one place after another. . . . "What's the matter?" she demanded, "can't you find a good program?"

When they have you down on your back—right there and then is when you figure out that the Recovery Act is okay. . . . Somehow or another, we suspect Bill Jarratt, also bed-ridden in his own hospital, is getting some fun in his convalescent moments out of "Bed-side Manna."

On Page 151, W. S. Gilbert writes a piece we like. . . . It goes like this, poetically: "You're a regular wreck, with a crick in the neck, and no wonder you ain't getting no fun in the floor, and you've needles and pins from your soles to your shins, and your flesh is a-creep, for your left leg's asleep, and you've cramp in your toes, and a fly on your nose, and some fluff in your lung, and a feverish tongue, and a thirst that's intense, and a general sense that you haven't been sleeping in clover."

"But, the darkness has passed, and it's daylight at last, and the night has been long—ditto, ditto my song—and thank goodness they're both of them over!"

Being a sick man, we like this one, too: "Now, when I have a cold, I am careful with my cold, I consult my physician, and I do as I am told. . . . I muffle up my torso in woolly garb, and I quaff great flagons of sodas. . . . I munch on aspirin, I lurch on water, and I wouldn't dream of consulting anybody's daughter. . . . And to anybody's son I wouldn't say howdy, for

HARVESTERS HOLD LEAD THROUGHOUT GAME TO DEFEAT PLAINVIEW 20-18

Texas Teams Will Feature Harvester Football Schedule Of 1937

LOCALS SHOW OLD FIGHT IN CAGE BATTLE

IT LOOKS AS IF THEY HAVE TAKEN TURN FOR BETTER

By ARCHER FULLINGIM
A smothering defense that cropped up in the first quarter and held the Pampans down for the remainder of the game, was the key to the Harvester victory over Plainview last night. The Harvester defense, which was tactically brilliant in spots and ragged in patches, the Pampans developed a new outstanding weakness last night. All along they were missing the ball, fumbling it more than they ought to have, but last night the ball went through their hands and arms as if it were a jumping seal. Cox, Dewey, McKay, Reynolds, Heiskell—all were offenders.

The Harvester took the lead in the first quarter and held it most of the way. Twice the score was tied. The score at the quarter was 2 to 0 and at the half 7 to 2. Those figures indicate the nature of the game which was largely defensive. If you were there, and you probably weren't because only the faithful Harvester supporters go to basketball games, you saw the Bulldogs miss 90 per cent of their tries at the basket. They scored the hard way. They could not swim the net. In the scoring circle around the basket, but Miller, forward, who scored eight of his team's total, chose far-away angles from which to arch the ball and score.

The Harvesters also missed all the easy ones and made the hard ones. The Bulldogs who sought to give the Pampans theitters by yelping at them capitalized on their free play. Six of their points were made from the free throw line. The Bulldogs missed only three tries, whereas the Harvesters gang up six and missed seven. Referee Guy Richard called 10 fouls on Plainview and eight on Pampa.

As usual, no single Harvester could take more credit for the victory than any of the other members on the team. Cox scored 3 points, Dewey 2, Ayer 5, Reynolds 2, Heiskell 4 and Enloe 4. Enloe replaced Cox who went into the game three times. Dewey made three fouls in the last quarter. Enloe seemed to be back in Miami tournament form. Ayer played a great defensive game as usual, but he too was guilty of fumbling the ball more than usual.

If Reynolds had not let the ball slip by him several times, one might have said that he played the best game on the court. Plainview's center, Sigmund fouled out early in the fourth quarter and both Ayer and Dewey each had four fouls against them.

Although the Harvesters, after the game, realized that they played badly and couldn't get going like they should and wanted to, and although Coach Mitchell agreed with them, they showed great improvement and warmed the cockles of the hearts of basketball lovers. After all, one cannot expect a first year player to play a Chopin concerto. The Harvesters are gradually losing their most obvious and glaring faults. They do the wrong thing less and less in every game, and it is sincerely believed they will slowly develop fitness and skill.

Considering the experience of the team as a whole, there was nothing discouraging about either Friday night's defeat and last night's victory. The improvement would have existed even if they had lost to Plainview.

The Bulldogs went to Berger Friday night and mopped up on the Berger quintet 35 to 17. That score indicates that the Harvesters have improved more than the Borgans. However, it might be as the Plainview coach says, and as most other coaches say, when their teams lost, "my team was off." Lubbock's maulers beat Plainview 24 to 14 on the Westerner court.

PLOWBOYS WIN 67TH STRAIGHT CAGE TILT

DECATUR, Tex., Jan. 23 (AP)—The Plowboys of John Tarleton junior college at Stephenville made it 67 straight basketball victories tonight. They overcame Decatur Baptist college 77 to 32, and left the court feeling better than they did last year when the Baptist came within a point of knocking them over and spoiling what even then was an amazing three-year winning streak. The score then was 39-38.

The Plowboys, remembering the score they got last year, started fast and kept up a terrific pace on the floor and under the basket and were leading by a substantial 37 to 19 margin at the end of the first half. They had hoped to make as many points in the first half as they had totaled in the full game last year and would have done it except for the defensive work of Johnson and Larkin, Baptist guards who strove manfully to hold the score down.

Pace-setter for the Plowboys was the lanky McConachie, center, who tallied 23 points.

CAPITOL HILL AND CLOVIS TO PLAY IN PAMPA

DATA ABOUT PLAYERS TO BE PUBLISHED IN PAPERS

The 1937 Harvester football schedule will include only two out of state opponents if Coach Odus Mitchell completes his planned schedule. Friday in Plainview the District 1 conference games were amicably arranged.

Coach Mitchell has seven games already scheduled and is in contact with three other strong teams. Only setting of dates is believed to be necessary.

The season will begin on September 17 with the Harvesters in Childers. The Capitol Hill Indians of Oklahoma City will be here on September 24. The longest trip ever made by a Pampa football team will be on the 15 when the Harvesters go to Port Arthur.

Conference play will open on October 29 with the Harvesters at Lubbock. On November 11, Armistice Day, the Amarillo Sandies will invade Pampa. Plainview's Bulldogs and the Harvesters will clash on November 19. The game is scheduled to be played in Plainview but it may be transferred to Pampa. Berger in Pampa November 25, Thanksgiving Day.

Long Trip
Setting of dates for the coming of the Clovis, N. M., Wildcats and the Greenville Lions to Pampa will be decided soon, Coach Mitchell said. Tivy of Kerrville is the other team being contacted. If a suitable date can be set, Kerrville will probably come to Pampa. Should negotiations with Kerrville be unsuccessful, some other strong team will be contacted.

Conference schedules and other important district matters were discussed at a meeting of superintendents and coaches in Plainview Friday. C. E. Davis of Plainview was reelected president of the superintendents' association with R. B. Fisher of Pampa re-named secretary.

Those present voted to approve the plan of dividing schools for football according to enrollment. All schools of between 500 and 1000 students would play Class A football with all schools with more than 1000 enrollment playing in Class AA bracket with the two winners meeting in the state playoff. It was believed the method would speed up the date of playoff and be better for Texas high school football.

Eligibility Stressed
Eligibility was discussed at length with the result that a motion was approved to ask newspapers in cities in District 1 to publish before October 1 the name, date of birth and place of birth of every boy out for athletics so that fans could assist in checking eligibility. An eligibility meeting will be held in Amarillo on October 9 when all complaints will be heard.

Coach Odus Mitchell of the Pampa Harvesters made a surprise announcement when he agreed to meet Amarillo in Pampa on Armistice Day instead of asking for the Thanksgiving Day game. Pampa has played Amarillo the last three years on the big holiday.

It will be remembered that the only time a Harvester football team had won from Amarillo was on Armistice Day. This year may be the second.

Agreeable Schedule
The 1937 District 1 conference schedule as arranged Friday follows:

Oct. 23—Lubbock at Borger.
Oct. 29—Pampa at Lubbock.
Nov. 5—Lubbock at Plainview.
Nov. 11—Plainview at Borger, Amarillo at Pampa.
Nov. 19—Pampa at Plainview.
Nov. 20—Borger at Amarillo.
Nov. 20—Borger at Amarillo.
Nov. 25—Borger at Pampa, Lubbock at Amarillo.

The Plainview Chamber of Commerce was host to all present at a dinner in the Hilton Hotel. B. C. Camp, newly installed president of the Plainview chamber, gave his approval to furnishing the dinner as his first official act.

Those present were: Superintendents—Chairman Davis, Plainview; Secretary Fisher, Pampa; Kenneth Oberholzer, Lubbock; C. M. Rogers, Amarillo, and W. A. McIntosh, Borger.

Principals—O. J. Laas, Plainview, and Jack Adkins, Borger.

Coaches—Weldon Chapman, Lubbock; Madison Pruitt and Mickie Poole, Plainview; Odus Mitchell, Pampa; Carl Moulden, Borger, and Howard Lynch, Amarillo.

Sports writers—Luron Brown, Plainview Herald; Howard Arnborg, Borger Herald; Harry Hoare, Pampa News; Collier Parrie, Lubbock Avalanche-Journal; and Jerry Malin, Amarillo News-Globe.

E. J. Lowrey, Lubbock high school's business manager of athletics, also was present.

Harvesters Hold Abernathy To 25 To 23 Cage Victory

There was not a person in the gym Friday night who was not proud of the Harvester basketball team, even though the boys lost to Abernathy 25 to 23 in the last minute of the game. Two and one-half minutes before the game ended, Pampa had a five-point lead.

In their zeal to protect that lead, the Harvesters (Dewey) fouled twice, and the Antelopes stood on the free throw line twice and made their shots good. Those two points assessed in the last minute proved to be the margin of victory.

The margin of victory was surprising only in that most observers expected it to be larger. Lubbock's Westerners which whipped the Harvesters 36 to 19 Thursday night have lost to the Antelopes. However, the two teams are rated about equal, and it is likely that they would play a neck-and-neck game if they met again. Referee Richards watched personal contact of the holding, shoving, bumping variety, and as a consequence the Harvesters were able to throw their offense into action.

It was predicted that the Westerners would not be able to play a quarter if they go to the regional, if they should play in the Canyon meet as roughly as they played here.

In their previous meet at Abernathy, the Antelopes smothered the Pampa cagers 31 to 16. Last night, the Harvesters led 8 to 6 at the quarter; the score was tied 13 to 13 at the half, and the Harvesters were ahead 19 to 15 at the third quarter.

Abernathy's coaches claimed their team was badly off. They pointed out that Houpt, center, rated as the best player on the South Plains, made only five points. Coach Odus Mitchell pointed out that he had two men on Houpt, and spectators noted that Ayer and Cox smothered him every time he got the ball.

The Harvesters shagged the rebound Friday night. They got their share of the rebounds, whereas the previous night, they did not get 10 per cent of the rebounds.

Ayer got the tip on the six-foot-five Houpt part of the time. It was good to see Reynolds sink two into the net. The Harvesters used clever deception to maneuver Reynolds under the basket for crisp shots. Reynolds is also developing an eye for long-distance shooting. He has shown almost phenomenal improvement every time he got the ball.

Ayer, who must be on when everybody is off, as he was Thursday night when he shot every field goal

Pampa made except one, was instrumental in stopping Houpt. Ayer hit the basket three times from the field. Thompson was the boy that the Harvesters could not stop in the first half. Thompson made three field goals from impossible positions before the Pampans blocked this shooting.

James (Admiral) Dewey was the fair-haired lad most of the time—at least until he went haywire and made two fouls in the last minute. He led the scoring for both teams with 10 points. Dewey who plays most of his time on his feet, and an interesting portion of his time rolling, tumbling, sprawling, sitting on his bottom in a wild determined quest for the ball, made 7 points in the first half.

Heiskell, still ailing from a bad cold which has bothered him for a week, alternated with Kilgore at one end of the guard positions. There was little difference in the playing of the two boys except that Kilgore did not hit the basket and Heiskell's passing was not as effective as spectators hoped. Heiskell, in a slump now, should begin to come out of it soon. He should not be discouraged, because with constant trying he is certain to improve soon.

TEXAS AGGIES TURN BACK RICE 28 TO 24

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Texas Aggies hustled their way from a tie for the cellar post in the Southwest Conference basketball race into a four-way tie for second when they turned back the Rice Owls 28 to 24 tonight in a rowdy game.

The Aggies, Rice, Baylor and Arkansas now occupy second, one game behind Southern Methodist.

Capt. Ed Lee, Aggie guard, and Wade Owan, Owl forward, were ejected in the closing minutes for unsportsmanlike conduct and immediately after the final gun, Johnny Morrow, Aggie forward, and Willis Orr, Owl center, tangled in a brief fist fight. The Aggie cadet corps gathered around to watch with enthusiasm, and the floor was a mass of milling spectators until quiet and order were restored. The hubbalo lasted for 20 minutes after the close of the game.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines, youthful American tennis star, defeated Fred Perry 6-1, 7-5, in their exhibition match here tonight. Perry was badly off from the first set, losing six straight games after winning the first.

Eyestrain picks its victims young

Learn how "measured light" protects young eyes and old... Ask for free check-up!

Most parents unknowingly make this mistake—they assume that their children's eyes are perfect at birth and will remain so for years. Unfortunately this isn't always the case. Scientists tell us that by school age approximately one child in every five has something wrong with his eyes.

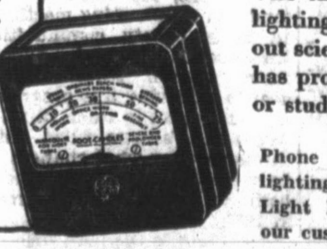

One thing important to watch is lighting... and now you can find out scientifically whether your child has proper lighting for easy reading or studying without eyestrain.

Phone us and let us measure your lighting with the new invention, the Light Meter. This service is free to our customers.

NEW I. E. S. BETTER SIGHT LAMP GIVES BETTER LIGHT AT LOW COST

This is the lamp millions now use for glare-free, sight-saving light. Every child should have one for reading and studying. Gives far more and better light than ordinary lamps using same amount of current.

Here is the new Light Meter that measures lighting as accurately as a thermometer measures temperature.

PLIGHT OF WELL-TO-DO FAILS TO AROUSE TEARS.

Trying to get the ordinary person to shed a tear over the sad fix of the man who has an income of $75,000 a year is as fruitless a task as trying to weave a rope of seafoam and sand.

The effort is made, just the same, in a recent issue of Harper's Magazine. An anonymous lady whose husband occupies that exalted salary bracket writes copiously to prove that life for the rich is far from a bed of roses.

There are, she says, four people in the family—herself, her husband, their daughter, and her mother. They occupy a simple 16-room-and-four-bath house.

First of all, Uncle Sam takes away rather better than $10,000 in income tax. Real estate taxes and interest on the mortgage take another $4,800.

To divers relatives the family gives about $3,000 a year; to charities, $5,000; to sundry business clubs, $1,275.

The lady of the house spends $2,790 for clothes; the husband, $410. Hubby's cigars, lunches, railroad fares, and incidentals eat up $2,700.

Altogether, counting these expenses and various incidentals, it costs this family $56,000 to get through the year, leaving only a scant $19,000 to invest or put in the bank.

And does all this add up to the life of Riley? Take it from the lady who writes about it, it does not. When hard times come, and the $75,000 shrinks to $40,000, it is almost impossible to economize; they are on everybody's sucker list, they are expected to keep up their clubs and their social activities, their fixed charges cannot be cut much, and if they fire the servants they simply create more unemployment.

Altogether, says this lady, it is pretty much of a headache and anyone who thinks that $75,000 a year ends all one's troubles simply does not know what he is talking about.

Nevertheless, this is a cold and unfeeling world; and in view of the fact that the average American has to feed, clothe, and house his family, provide for his old age, pay his taxes, and find whatever recreation he can on substantially less than this lady spends for her clothing in one year, it is doubtful that anybody is going to extend much sympathy to her.

For these upper-bracket folk, although they may have their troubles, are at least free from that haunting, spectral fear that goes with a low income—that feeling of insecurity, that realization that a bad break in the luck may mean utter helplessness in the face of disaster.

Free from that fear, they start life with a tremendous advantage over the rest of us. If, with that advantage, they can't find happiness, it must be pretty largely their own fault.

RELIEF CHISELING

At a time when thousands of Americans, in real need of aid, are viewing with concern administration intentions to cut down on relief appropriations, it is aggravating to read such stories as those out of New York City and Sarasota, Fla.

In a safe deposit box rented by a New York relief recipient, $250,000 in diamonds were found. In Sarasota, at the home of Mrs. Margaret Bruce McLair Hughes, a 72-year-old relief client who reputedly was the first woman to reach the Yukon during the Klondike gold rush, a small fortune in diamonds, rubies, pearls, and cameos was discovered.

Such stories as these dramatize the "chiseling" which is taking place in greater or less degree throughout the country.

It is possible that if all avaricious ones could be dropped from relief rolls, there would be enough funds to care for the really needy citizens, even after appropriations had been sliced.

"UNWORKABLES"

The jobless men who hung around the outside of his foundry always interested Joe Hume Gardner, president of a Buffalo, N. Y., iron and steel plant. He frequently wondered what they would do if they had jobs. The other day he decided to experiment, and hired 25 of the men.

Only seven of the group stuck it out. "They're good workers, too," says Mr. Gardner. "But there were several cases that were just plain 'unworkables.' They had one desire; to sit behind a desk and look at figures."

If Mr. Gardner's little test proves anything, it is that, in every group of men, there are a few who are congenitally opposed to work and it is for that reason that joblessness can never be entirely erased from the economic picture.

Washington Letter

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The steam-rolling to which Senator Harry Flood Byrd was subjected the other day might not have been so utterly complete if so many Senators had not suspected that Harry was seeking to build himself up as 1940 presidential candidate and at the same fighting out an old grudge with Roosevelt.

The Senate voted, 73 to 1, for the administration's bill to extend life of the RFC for two and one-half years, Senator Byrd being the lone member to vote nay. Byrd's amendment to extend RFC's life only a year had been beaten, 53 to 22.

On the surface, the conflict between Byrd and the President may look like an honest difference of opinion.

The Senator thinks hundreds of millions of dollars can be saved through a reorganization program eliminating duplications and overlapping.

The chief executive believes that only minor savings can be made through reorganization, insisting that his program of reorganization for efficiency purposes be kept separate from any program of economy which will eliminate governmental functions.

Insiders who know the background of the Byrd-Roosevelt relationship realize that there is far more to it than that. And even more to it than the mere clash between the conservatism of Byrd and the liberalism of Roosevelt.

According to Jim Farley's "For Roosevelt Before Chicago" boys, Byrd started out with them at the outset of the 1932 pre-convention campaign, then was persuaded by "Wall Street Democrats" to become a candidate for the nomination himself.

At any rate, he controlled the Democratic machine in Virginia, chose delegates for himself, and was prominent among the favorite sons who held out with Al Smith, John Raskob, Jouett Shouse, and other conservatives in the "stop-Roosevelt" effort.

It was generally understood that the Virginian was out for the vice presidency if he couldn't capture the major prize.

After the election, Byrd was an unannounced candidate for secretary of agriculture or for a sort of an "assistant president" job which would give him charge of White House political relations.

But Byrd's presidential ambitions, his conservatism, and the question whether he could be depended on for full loyalty to his chief were more than enough to cause Roosevelt to turn him down for any appointive job.

Byrd then had himself appointed and subsequently elected to the U. S. Senate when Claude Swanson resigned to become secretary of the navy in 1933. He became perhaps the most persistent critic of the administration in conservative Democratic ranks, attacking one administration measure or policy after another.

Various optimists proposed him as a presidential candidate on a conservative Democratic ticket.

As 1936 approached, it began to be common talk among various Virginia politicians that Senator Byrd, still in control of the state machine, was figuring on having the Virginia delegation to the convention vote for his own nomination.

That's the background as told by New Dealers, in explanation of why the President, with his own reorganization program, doesn't intend to be "pushed around" by Harry Byrd.

This thing of laying out streets in curves would be all right, if automobiles knew their way home at night as horses used to.

Britain continues ruling the wave and everybody else continues waiving the rules.

MEN AT WORK

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A bit of a story here, a trifle of story there, and you have New York. To wit—this conversation overheard on a commuter's train:

"The man in question sat next to an acquaintance of about 40. After the preliminary greetings they began to talk, and suddenly the elder one said:

"I saw the Duke today."

"The listener's eyes and ears became alive with interest.

"He came up to me in Houston street and said hello, but I walked on past him. He said, 'I'm not drinking now, Jack. I won't let you down as I did the last time—as I have so often before.' I didn't answer or look at him. I think he realizes how disgusted I am."

And that was all—for then they began to speak of other matters. An O. Henry or a Richard Sherman could twist this into fascinating fiction. But in a column it can only be set down as a fragment of fact—an unfinished episode in the life of "The Duke."

Then, these notes anonymously set down on an envelope. I picked them up on the subway this morning, dropped by some person who may have been you, or you.

"My father never forced me to practice," those notes said. "He must have been disappointed in me, but he never said so. I must see Grainger and get those dimensions." With this there was a line of figures, as if someone had been figuring finances.

Probably some clerk who has a habit of writing down his thoughts. Still, it is interesting to speculate.

At the very bottom of the envelope was a pamphlet which writes one after another with experimenting, and I am definitely ready to go ahead."

Here is a story that describes, I think, a bit of the unpredictable aspect of New York. A printer tells me a pamphlet which writes one after another on how to make money. . . . But the author never has enough money to pay his printing bills.

Too, there is a writer who authored a book on the beauties of Babylon. It was lyric prose of high excellence, extolling the glory of that ancient city. This tome made him considerable money, and now he is accepted as an authority on the subject. An amusing commentary on the author is that all of his information came from reference books. He has never been to the Near East. Indeed, he has never been out of the United States.

Then there is that new comedy, "Howdy Stranger," which depicts life on dude ranches out west. The critics sharpened their barbs, one appraiser signifying thumbs down with "So Long, Stranger."

It seems originally the play was called "Git Along Little Dogie," and this was all another sharp-shooter was looking for. Ending on a sour note, he declared, "Don't worry, little dogie—you'll git."

CHAPTER X.

Dawn was breaking, at last, when Paul finally went up to his dressing room. The last of the guests had left, the orchestra and the paid entertainers had gone, and the tawdry equipment of the party—the rows of Japanese lanterns, the dance floor on the lawn, the flimsy platform for the orchestra—looked forlorn and dingy in the clean morning light.

The sun came up over the water and turned the bay and fish flanking shoreline to a place of enchantment and mystery. It gave the water a richer deeper blue than any sailor had seen, it made the red roofs and white walls of the villas gleam with a radiance of their own, and it lit the far tip of rocky Cape Roman as if it were lighting a beacon on the sea-road back to a lost kingdom.

Paul took a last look from his balcony and went into his dressing room. There was a tap on his door, and Ardath came in. She wore a negligee over her night robe, and her face was anxious.

"There you are," she said. "Paul, where have you been? You worried me."

Paul looked at her. His face was pale and his eyes were tired; and he looked for a long time at the woman whom he had followed and loved through a year of exile. He sat down, at last, and turned wearily away.

"I've been a long way off—a very long way," he said slowly. "So far that I could see us—as I never was able to see us before."

Her brow wrinkled with worry. "Paul, dearest, what do you mean?"

"It's a funny country I went into," he mused. "A country where all the shams and pretenses fall away, and see yourself—and other people—as you and they really are. It isn't really very pleasant, Ardath."

"She came and sat down beside him. 'What is it, dear? I don't understand.'"

"I suppose," he went on, as if he were talking to himself, "that we aren't meant to do that. We aren't meant to see ourselves as we really are. We must have our illusions. We aren't strong enough to get along unless we wrap ourselves and our lives up in a little glamour. When we get to a place where the illusions dissolve and the glamour falls away, we don't have anything left."

He gave her a quick smile then. "You see, my dear," he said, "I saw a weakling and a romantic coward where I had always seen a king. . . . and I looked at the queen of all the earth, who wore the stars on her cloak and had a wonder and a marvel in her eyes and a smile on her lips. He took her hand and stroked it gently. 'And I saw a mortal woman,' he said.

"Dearest boy—"

"And I saw that all the things these two people had done together—his love, his devotion, his faith in me, his joy in my life—were all moonlight and laughter, the love-dreams they had shared, the moments when they had helped each other stand above the stars and look off through infinite space at a flame that glowed far away in the sky—"

He paid his bill and got aboard. A swarthy dock-loafer unfastened his mooring lines and Paul rolled and stowed them, while the little sloop drifted slowly away from the quay. Then he started the auxiliary motor and the boat moved out into the bay.

Half a mile out he caught the offshore breeze. He stopped his motor and hoisted mainsail and jib. The boat heeled over slightly and gathered speed. Paul crossed in the weather side of the cockpit, the tiller under his arm, and set his course for the tip of Cape Roman, far off to the north.

The wind held, and the sloop stood out to sea. The shore line receded, and the brightly colored villas, so gay with their red and white, faded into the distance. The green lawns and the fringe of golden sand at their feet, merged with the land and became indistinct. Cape Roman drew nearer, seemed to lengthen, thrusting its long granite arm far out like a barrier to human aspirations, a challenge for men to meet and surpass.

By mid-afternoon he was abreast of the point. He took his bearings from the lighthouse and consulted a chart on the seat beside him. The coast of Northumbria lay 200 miles away. He gave the water a richer deeper blue than any sailor had seen, it made the red roofs and white walls of the villas gleam with a radiance of their own, and it lit the far tip of rocky Cape Roman as if it were lighting a beacon on the sea-road back to a lost kingdom.

Dust Swirls Over Sooner Dust Bowl

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23 (P) — Dust swirled over the western side of the Oklahoma Panhandle today even as winter prepared to depart from central and eastern sections, snowed under after a two-day storm.

It began snowing again at Tulsa, however, where low temperatures prevented a thaw of a seven-inch layer of snow.

Visibility faded into a block at Boise City as a stiff southwest wind kicked up the loose soil, unprotected by snow which fell elsewhere in the state. Dust blew at Guyton, but the soft clouds did not cut visibility perceptibly.

VERNON PAIR DIE IN FIRE

THREE CHILDREN ARE PROBABLY FATALLY BURNED

VERNON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Duke were burned to death and their three children were probably fatally burned after they were sprayed with gasoline in the locked kitchen of their farm home near here today.

One of the children, Glenn, 12, ran screaming with his clothes affixed to a neighbor's house where he told Mrs. J. C. Gray and Mrs. Edna Fain that his father had locked the family in the room and set fire to their clothing after throwing gasoline on them.

He repeated the story to newspapermen later. County Attorney Curtis Renfro said that a sanitary hearing for Duke, 60, had been set for next week. Duke had recently returned from a Fort Worth hospital where he was treated for a mental disorder.

The other two children who were so badly burned that physicians gave them virtually no chance to recover were Mozella, 14, and Tommie, 7.

Glenn said his father sent him to town to buy a can of gasoline, and that the fire was started soon after his return.

He said he and his sister, Mozella, fought their way out of the kitchen by breaking through a door and ran toward the neighbor's house. Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Fain smothered their flaming clothing with quilts, but not before the children were badly burned over their bodies.

The body of Mrs. Duke was found in the kitchen by firemen who extinguished the burning house. Duke's body was found in the yard. His clothing was still burning when firemen reached the scene.

Masters to Come As Speaker for Christian Church

The evangelistic meeting, which was to have begun last Sunday at the First Christian church but was postponed on account of the serious illness of the evangelist, will begin tonight instead. The meeting will continue indefinitely with services every night except Saturday. Marshall Masters has been secured as evangelist in place of George Davis who is still unable to come.

MARSHALL MASTERS.

Mr. Masters comes to Pampa highly recommended as a speaker of unusual ability. He is the minister of the First Christian church in Greenville which ranks among the largest churches in the state. Mr. Masters is a young man who, by ability and concentration to his task, has become one of the best known preachers among the Christian church. He has a very pleasing personality and the enthusiasm that puts his message across to his hearers. He will arrive here on Monday and preach his first sermon on Monday night.

The program for tonight includes special music by the choir, a solo on the vibraphone by Howard House and a crayon picture illustrating the song "The Church by the Side of the Road." The picture will be given away to the largest delegation. The sermon by the minister, John S. Mullen, will be "A Religion that Produces Character."

Follows letter received yesterday by Mr. Duncan. Many persons have visited him and have used the telephone to express their approval of the plan.

The following letter is from Edward J. Gething of Laketon: "I read your article in the Pampa NEWS about a lake in Gray county. I believe that would be a great asset to the county and every one would pay for it. I would pay for it in a short time."

"It would bring in a good revenue for Gray county, would create lots of work. I have talked to several; they all endorse it. I know of a good location on McCallan creek. Keep the good work up. Let's have a lake and good fishing."

Along the strike front of half a hundred closed General Motors plants, striking members of the United Automobile Workers of America, a C. I. O. affiliate, and idle non-union employees of the corporation watchfully awaited future moves in the dispute.

William S. Reiterating General Motors' willingness to negotiate when sit-down strikers evacuate two Fisher Body plants at Flint, Mich., focal point of the present deadlock, Knudsen defined the strike issue as "property rights or no property rights."

The next step, he said, "is up to the union. It's up to those fellows to leave the plant."

Homer Martin, U. A. W. A. president who returned here for a few hours before leaving for Toledo, contended that if the corporation would "get down to collective bargaining, we can settle this strike and the men can be back at work in 24 hours."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

(By NEA Service.) When the sky turns gray, the pie should be bright. Cherry red understands dark weather moods. Cherry-Pineapple Pie.

Two cups canned cherries, drained, 1 cup pineapple chunks, 1/2 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons quick tapioca, 2/3 cup cherry and pineapple juice mixed, 1 tablespoon butter.

Combine fruit, sugar, tapioca and fruit juices and let stand while pastry is being made. When the pie plate is lined with pastry, fill with fruit mixture and dot with pieces of butter. Roll out remaining part of pastry for the top. With a sharp knife make several slits to permit steam to escape. Place upper crust over the filling; press edges together and trim off surplus pastry. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 45 minutes, or until filling is cooked.

Pie Pastry. Two cups sifted flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup shortening, 1/3 cup cold water (about).

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut in shortening until pieces are about the size of small peas. Add a small amount of water at a time, mixing with fork only enough to make flour hold together. Form lightly into a ball and place on floured board. Roll out about 2/3 of the pastry in 1/8 inch thickness. Line a 9-inch heat resistant glass pie plate. Moisten edges with cold water.

You remember Barnum's Famous Cherry Colored Cat? It was black, just like the cherries used in this recipe. But you won't be fooled this time.

Black Cherry Pie. (9-inch pie.) Two and one-half cups canned seeded black cherries, drained, 3/4 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons quick tapioca, 2/3 cup cherry juice. Combine cherries, sugar, tapioca

Chic Accessories Bridge Wardrobe Gap in Midwinter

By ADELAIDE KERR. NEW YORK (AP)—Want a "new" wardrobe to bridge the months until spring?—Just add a few accessories.

They provide the ways and means of lifting clothes you have worn all season out of the midwinter blues and are often neither expensive nor hard to find. The recipe for chic from January to March is a liberal supply of imagination, plus careful shopping and a knowledge of yourself.

Here are a few hints: Get a half dozen chiffon handkerchiefs in as many different colors—some with your initial applique in velvet. Add a drop of your favorite perfume and carry them with your soubriest clothes.

Wear a pair of jeweled clips on the lapels of your dark suit instead of the boutonniere that has been so long in vogue as a mid-season brightener.

Biege and natural tones are being discussed for spring. Add biege suede gloves and biege stockings as a smart touch to your midwinter black.

New Hat Will Help. Try a new hat. It can do wonders for your midseason morale and appearance. One of the new harem hats—a trim pillbox with a long attached scarf of colored chiffon which swatches about the throat—or a bright draped turban of green or royal blue silk can make "a new woman" of you.

Buy a new scarf—a colorful wool or Paisley silk—and wear it under your coat.

Get a new bag to replace the old one that has begun to bulge.

Fix Your Heels. Have the heels of your shoes repaired so that you can walk straight as a die. Well kept heels give the smoothly-shod appearance that is one of the first essentials of chic.

Add a jacket of brocade or sparkling sequins to the dinner dress that is beginning to bore you a bit, and wear it to the theater.

Bank a cluster of new spring blooms at decollete or the waistline of the evening gown in which you have danced so many miles this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Paris spent Tuesday in Wheeler visiting Mrs. Paris' father and mother.

Mrs. Holland and daughter of the Keplinger community paid a call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Arnett Wednesday night.

Ray and Paul Jones and Charles Martin Leckath accompanied by their parents, attended the theater in Pampa Wednesday night.

Mr. Counts went to Amarillo Wednesday on business.

Because of final examinations, report cards for last six weeks' period were not issued Friday as usual, but will be given Monday afternoon.

A banquet for high school band and pep squad members, an annual entertainment, will be given at high school cafeteria Friday at 6:30 by the High School Parent-Teacher association with cooperation of the athletic association.

P-TA BIRTHDAY TO BE HONORED

Spring Conferences Loom on District Program

BY BETTY PEARSON HODGES, District Chairman, 18th District, P-T-A.

The National Congress of Parent-Teacher associations will celebrate a fortieth birthday in February, and plans for the participation of all units in the celebration will be sent to the associations with the next district president's letter.

The state board of managers is asking all members to contact their state senator, Clint Small, and their representatives, Eugene Worley, G. H. Little, Max Boyer, or Bob Alexander, urging them to support the child labor amendment, the adoption of which the P-T-A favors. A postal card address to them at the state capital at Austin will reach them.

Plans are being made for the Northwest Texas Educational conference at Canyon on March 12-13. Supt. Irby Carruth of Canyon is president of the conference for this year, and March 12 the date when parents and teachers from all over this district are urged to attend. Speakers will include Dr. Waverburn, superintendent of the Winnetka, Ill. schools, and Dr. Bruner, professor of education at Columbia university, Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar, district president, will be on the program, representing parents and teachers.

The spring conference meets in Perryton, when the Ochiltree County council will be host. This is the first time that a county has entertained the conference. One of the main features scheduled will be a panel by superintendents of schools all over the district, which is being planned by Mrs. J. M. Crain and Supt. C. M. Rogers, both of Amarillo.

Mrs. D. L. C. Kinard of Memphis has traveled 135 miles in her duties as fifth vice president, has contacted 12 units in her territory, held conferences with the Clarendon president, Mrs. Oscar Jenkins; the president of the county council of Childrens, Mrs. Earl Williams; and the president of the Hall County council, Mrs. Roy Guthrie. Mrs. Kinard is president of the Memphis city council and has completed the Texas procedure course.

She is now planning a joint meeting for the counties of Childrens, Hall, Donley and Collingsworth early in February. Mrs. Hunkapillar has promised to arrive with a "Flying Squadron" to help attack various P-T-A problems.

Wheeler county units will meet to organize a county council next Saturday, Jan. 30, when the "Flying Squadron" is also expected to appear to help with the organization.

Mrs. H. P. Clemons of Dimmitt, seventh vice president of the district, announced the Castro county council was organized on Jan. 23. She will be the guest of the Farmer county unit in February. Three new units have been organized in Castro county under Mrs. Clemons' supervision.

Panhandle P-T-A will pledge a life membership at the spring conference. Their unit is working for a superior rating this year.

Ochiltree, Lipscomb and Hereford have recently organized county councils.

Two new associations are welcomed to the district: Brjcoec, with Elmer Simpson serving as president, and Bushland, with Mrs. Henry Blessin as president.

6 New Wells In Panhandle Test 2,609 Barrels Of Oil

Activities in the Panhandle field quieted last week after several months of feverish activity. Six oil wells were tested by Railroad Commission employees and given a total potential of 2,609 barrels. Two gas wells added 42,946,000 cubic feet.

Gray county came back to lead the active Hutchinson county field with four of the completions. Hutchinson had the other two with the big well of the week, the Turman Oil Co. Whittenberg No. 9, section 11, block M-21, TC&RR survey, being good for 728 barrels.

Five new locations were staked, a drop of 10 from the previous week and nine less than the opening week of the new year. Gray county led in locations with three, followed by Carson and Moore with one each.

Completions of the week by counties:

Gray County.
Sinclair Prairie Oil Company No. 3 Smith, section 139, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 400 barrels with pay in the lime from 3,164 to 3,260 feet. A shot of 490 quarts was placed from 3,164 to 3,275 feet.

King Oil Company, No. 9 Archer, section 139, block 3, I&GN survey, gauged 480 barrels in lime play from 3,136 to 3,210 feet.

Anna-Gray Oil Company No. E-2 Morse, section 6, block 26, I&GN survey, was completed for 21 barrels in granite wash pay. First show of oil was from 2,442 to 2,523 feet with a slight increase from 2,650 to 2,654 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 9 Haggard, section 113, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 612 barrels in lime play from 3,275 to 3,302 feet. Total depth was 3,310 feet.

Hutchinson County.
Turman Oil Company No. 9 Whittenburg, section 11, block M-21, TC&RR survey, tested 728 barrels after a shot of 540 quarts from 2,850 to 2,910 feet. Pay was in lime from 2,850 to 2,900 feet.

Drilling & Exploration Company No. 8 Halle, section 5, block M-21, TC&RR survey, was finally completed for 368 barrels. After pay had been located from 3,024 to 3,068 feet in lime, a shot of 330 quarts was placed from 3,024 to 3,075 feet. Later 1,000 gallons of cold acid was poured in the hole to complete.

Gas well tested, by counties:

Potter County.
Canadian River Gas Company No. A-18 Bivins, section 17, block M-20, G&M survey, tested 17,261,000 cubic feet.

Moore County.
Texoma Natural Gas Company No. 9-SN, section 27, block 1, J. Patila survey, gauged 24,685,000 cubic feet.

NEW TYPE EQUIPMENT BOOSTS GAS RECOVERY

From Ponca City, Okla., headquarters of the Continental Oil Company, comes word of a new development in the conservation of American oil and natural gas resources which is expected within a reasonable length of time to result in annual savings to the petroleum industry of approximately $100,000,000 through recovery of by-products now lost in evaporation while the crude oil is being handled in the field.

First installation of the new type of equipment, which recovers in the form of gasoline about 60 per cent of what were formerly regarded as inevitable evaporation losses, was made recently at Conoco's famed Tepehate field in Basile, La., and special repressuring equipment soon to be installed in the pioneer Tepehate plant will permit the return of residue gases into the well for future use.

OIL ALLOWABLES
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23 (AP)—An increase for South Louisiana but a decline for the state was ordered in the allowable productions for oil fields by the Louisiana conservation department for February. South Louisiana may increase its daily output by 6,050 barrels of crude. Production in North Louisiana was sharply curtailed, with the Rodessa field's allowable cut from 62,500 barrels to 50,000 barrels of crude daily in the ensuing month. This curtailment was designed to curb gas wasting in the rich Rodessa area, according to the conservation department.

TEN-STRIKE FOR BOWLING.
NEW YORK (AP)—New Jersey, with the American Bowling congress tourney scheduled March 9-April 30 in New York City, is going as crazy over bowling as Kansas is over basketball. Already 815 5-man teams from New Jersey have entered the tournament. There are more than 20,000 Jersey bowlers. Newark alone is sending 200 teams of maple-crashers.

KANSAS 'BABY' STAR.
LAWRENCE, Kas. (AP)—Roy Holliday, 5-foot-10-inch 165-pounder is the smallest man on the University of Kansas cage team, and the scrappiest. He plays the key position on offense, starting the plays, because of his egressiveness and excellent ball-handling. A substitute last year, Holliday has won a starting berth on the current quintet.

THREE BILLS ARE URGED BY CHAS. ROESER

Chas. F. Roeser, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, has issued the following statement pertaining to bills affecting the petroleum industry that have been introduced in the present session of the United States Congress:

"Three bills now before Congress and affecting the oil industry deserve early and favorable action. Two of them are vital to a continued prosperity advance. All three are sound economic proposals.

"Senator Tom Connally of Texas, has introduced a bill to continue his 'hot oil' law which expires this year. This measure forbidding interstate transportation of oil produced in violation of state laws or regulations has made effective the operation of these laws and regulations. It has been of great value to the petroleum industry and a factor in prevention of waste. It is hoped that Senator Connally will have success in securing favorable consideration for this bill.

"Congressman Morgan Sanders of Texas, proposes in H. R. 88, the continuation of the present excise taxes on imported petroleum and its products. These taxes expire in June of this year. Mr. Sanders' bill would increase the present one-half cent per gallon tax on imported crude petroleum and fuel oil and would continue the present taxes of 2 1/2 cents per gallon on imported motor fuel, 4 cents per gallon on imported lubricating oil and 1 cent per pound on imported paraffin and other petroleum wax products, adding a new tax of $2 per ton on imported asphalt. Mr. Sanders' bill also would clarify the present law in regard to exemption from excise taxes now granted supplies of vessels by making it clear that this exemption should not apply to petroleum products.

"The effectiveness of the conservation policies of the various states and the stabilization program of the industry depend upon the adoption of these measures introduced by Senator Connally and Congressman Sanders. They have the active support of practically all the domestic petroleum industry.

"The bill of Congressman John Dempsey of New Mexico authorizing appropriations for the survey to determine the quantity and character of crude petroleum in storage, would make available to the industry and to the government, necessary information upon which to base industrial and economical policies. The bill should receive the active support of the industry."

FAVORITES FOR BIBLE POST ARE DISCUSSED

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 23 (AP)—The University of Nebraska athletic board did not know today who would fill Coach D. X. Bible's shoes as football mentor and head of the department. The board, in fact, said it had not even been formally notified of his decision to coach at Texas university.

But the "Monday Morning Coaches club"—fans in barber shops, hotels and on the streets—knew all about it.

They gossiped of these favorites for the job:

W. H. Browne, Bible's assistant and in charge of Husker basketball;

Guy Chamberlain, University of Nebraska grid star of years ago; Francis Schmidt, former Husker and now coach at Ohio State; Willard "Dutch" Withe, another Scarlet letterman, now coaching at Wyoming; Lonnie Stiner, Oregon State coach, and Fred Thomsen, Arkansas mentor, both former Cornhuskers.

Speculation also included Ed Weir and Roy "Link" Lyman, both assistant Husker coaches now.

It's One Grand Plan

[QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING]

"What does 'liquid' mean in banking?"

THE term "liquid" in banking, is used to denote assets in the form of cash or readily convertible into cash.

A bank does not keep all of its depositors' money in currency and coins, for such money would stand idle. Some is used to buy Government of other bonds and commercial paper, and some to make short-term loans. These are liquid, because they may be quickly converted into cash. Long-term investments, such as mortgages, are not considered as liquid because they cannot always be turned into cash promptly and without sacrifice—even though they represent sound value.

One of the banker's problems is to keep his bank liquid enough to satisfy all probable demands of depositors for funds, and yet participate, by sound loans, in the constructive development of the community.
