Biggest Naval Bill in Years Presented to House Today

RIISING COSTS ARE CITED TO COMMITTEE

Supply Budget Total Is $3,59,190,000, Report Reveals

10 NEW WARSHIPS ARE REQUESTED

Modernization, Aviation, Replacements Need Big Sums

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(P)—Proposing the largest expenditure for Naval establishment since the Washington limitations conference, the annual Navy department supply bill was reported to the House today by its appropriations committee.

The measure's total, $359,190,000, was an increase of $20,384,000 above current funds, but a decrease of $1,288,000 below budget recommendations.

The committee report, drafted by Representative French, Republican Idaho, said that the increase was brought about "chiefly by the mounting costs of naval aviation" and also by the "fact that all eight of the 10,000-ton cruisers authorized in 1924 will be under construction at one time."

"The committee can vision no prospect of declining naval costs in the immediate future," the report added. "Indeed, all indications point to an appreciable and immediate upward trend."

The 16 new warship construction program recently approved by the House aviation, modernization of capital ships and the possibility of replacement of existing ships several years hence were referred to as prospective causes of increased appropriations.

The report said that some economies could be effected, including the decommissioning of ships "admittedly of no military value."

For heavier-than-air aviation the bill allotted $21,315,000, an increase of $11,215,000, plus a contract authorization of $10,000,000. This would provide for the delivery of 271 new planes during the year, 1928-29. In addition, $2,000,000 was recommended to start work on two new dirigibles.

To complete the eight cruisers and two V-type submarines, all of which are expected to be finished by 1930, an appropriation of $46,000,000, an increase of $13,500,000, was recommended.

The Marine corps received a total allotment of $24,186,000, or $1,040,000 above current funds. The report did not say whether any or all of this increase was necessitated by the sending of Marines to Nicaragua and China.

The appropriation would provide for continuing the corps at its present size, 18,000 men and 1,176 officers. The committee, however, did say that 7,534 Marines are on "foreign shore duty" in connection with carrying out our national policies and that there was no expeditionary force under training and available for active service in an emergency either of peace or war.

Regarding submarine disasters, the committee said it had been prompted by the tragic S-4 crash to conduct extensive inquiry into possible ways of building or equipping under-sea craft to lessen the dangers, and that $200,000 had been provided for the Navy continuing safety device work. Besides the present salvage ships Falcon and Widgeon, the report said that the Ortolan and two other vessels would be assigned to such work, thus providing a salvage ship each for the Atlantic, Canal Zone, Pacific Coast, Hawaiian and Philippine areas.

Thirty Mexicans Arrested as Rebels

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—(P)—Thirty persons including four women in the town of Leon and six women in Mexico City were under arrest today after a series of raids in which police claim they found rifles, ammunition and seditious propaganda.

The raids were made on several private homes in Leon and one in Mexico City. Police charged that the arms were intended for insurgents in the states of Jalisco and Guanajuato.

THE WEATHER

EAST TEXAS: Tonight and Thursday mostly fair; warmer in northeast and central portions tonight; light variable winds on the coast.
WEST TEXAS: Tonight and Thursday fair, little change in temperature.
OKLAHOMA: Tonight and Thursday fair, little change in temperature.

He Built the St. Francis Dam

The picture shows Stanley Dunham, the man who built the St. Francis dam near Los Angeles, which cost nearly 300 lives and wrecked millions of dollars of property destruction when it crumbled and flooded the San Francisco and Santa Paula district. The picture was taken at the scene of the disaster.

HOUSTON LIKELY CANDIDATE FOR NEXT MEETING OF CATTLE MEN

AMARILLO, March 21.—(P)—With Houston banners and badges in evidence everywhere and no opposition yet developed for the 1928 convention, members of the Texas Southwestern Cattlemen's association entered the second day of their annual meeting here today.

President R. M. Kieberg of Corpus Christi opened today's program on which three speakers are scheduled, L. C. Brito, president of the American Livestock association; L. Gough, president of the Texas Wheat Growers association, and C. B. Denman, president of the National Livestock Producers association, were to speak on the subject of cooperative marketing.

44 Delegates Are Pledged to Smith in Three States

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 21.—(P)—Three North Central states—North and South Dakota and Minnesota—have pledged 44 delegates to the presidential candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the Democratic national convention.

In the Republican party, North Dakota and South Dakota assured Frank O. Lowden 13 electors each, Minnesota's Republican presidential preference will be finally determined this week-end.

Gov. Smith's pledged delegates represent the full quotas of these states—ten each from North and South Dakota and 24 from Minnesota.

While two Lowden and two Hoover delegates already have been named in Minnesota, the other 23 from this state in the Kansas City convention will not be named until Friday in district conventions and Saturday in the state convention in St. Paul. A majority of the county delegates to these conventions have been instructed for Lowden.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 21.—(P)—Governor Smith has stepped into the arena of professed presidential aspirants.

Throwing aside the cloak of silence that has shadowed his attitude toward national politics, he has consented to the use of his name in the Massachusetts presidential primaries.

Rotarians to Charter Pullman for Trip to Lubbock Meeting

A chartered Pullman will carry 25 or more Pampa Rotarians to the Lubbock district convention April 19 and luncheon meetings today. Twenty-one men have signed for the trip.

Visitors today were T. G. Calhoun of Dallas and B. W. Rose.

The Rev. D. H. Trubitt and Tom Ed Vaughan will leave this afternoon for Oklahoma City, where they will attend a state B. Y. P. U. convention Thursday.

DR. R. A. WEBB HEADS LEGION POST OF CITY

Lewis Cox Is Praised for Work During His Term

DRIVE TO BEGIN FOR MEMBERS

Much Enthusiasm Is Shown at Organization's Session

Dr. R. A. Webb, local physician, was elected commander of the Pampa American Legion Post No. 334 last night at the largest meeting held here since the opening of the post. The large club room was filled with enthusiastic members who are behind the American Legion movement.

Following several nominations, the race dwindled down with Dr. Webb and P. E. Boyd in the voting, Dr. Webb winning in the run-off.

The retiring commander Lewis O. Cox, who has served the local post for several months and who is vacating the command told the members that it is his opinion they could not have made a better choice. He also said that he is with the boys and that at any time he could be of service to the new commander and his fellow members that he is on call.

In taking over the command of one of the largest and most enterprising posts in the Panhandle, Dr. Webb stated that he knew what has to be done in the next 90 days and with the help of every member he plans to make a better and larger legion. He paid a high tribute to the retiring commander, stating that one look at the present Legion home would speak louder than words for the enterprising and progressive retiring commander.

J. Frank Thomas was re-appointed adjutant of the post, an office he has held since its organization.

A new membership drive is to commence immediately, with Lewis O. Cox and C. E. Cary as captains of teams, the losing team to banquet the winners. August Gordon has offered a prize to the Legionaire securing the most members.

A car will be given away by the American Legion soon. Further particulars will be announced later.

The Legion post is in debt due to the re-modeling of the home and purchasing equipment, and the new commander is confident with the co-operation of the corps that he can have the debts paid off by the time of the National convention meeting in San Antonio in June.

In order to create an interest in the affairs of the Legion and among its members, every Legionaire holding a 1928 paid card will be admitted to all Legion affairs at half the admission price.

Charges to Legion members attending the dance tonight at the Pla-Mor will be 75 cents with a 1928 card. This will also be carried out at the boxing matches every Monday night at the Pampa Athletic club.

The club slogan is "Join the Legion now."

Lynn Boyd Out for Reelection to City Commission

The candidacy of Lynn Boyd, prominent local business man, for commissioner No. 2 was announced today subject to the municipal election of April 3.

Mr. Boyd now holds this position having been elected four months ago when city-manager government was adopted under the new city charter. He is seeking re-election in the belief that a sound business administration following the plans that are now being formulated by the commission, is vital to the city at this time.

He was a member of the charter commission which drafted the governmental plan under which he is offering his services.

RADIO AND GENERAL MOTORS STOCKS SOAR TO NEW LEVELS

NEW YORK, March 21.—(P)—Radio and General Motors, soaring to record levels at $122.25 and $175 a share, respectively, led another violent upturn in prices on the New York stock exchange today. Early gains in the General list ran from $1 to nearly $20 a share, with several blocks of 2,000 to 10,000 shares changing hands as powerful speculative pools resumed their offensive against a trapped short interest.

Porter Malone returned from Wichita, Kansas this morning after purchasing new furniture for the G. C. Malone Furniture company.

Boy Who Killed Man Must Father Orphan Children

MUSKOGON, Mich., March 21.—(P)—John Yokubones, 16, has discharged his first obligation under a sentence given him a few days ago by probate judge Ruth Thompson to serve as "big brother" to two small boys he made fatherless two weeks ago when his car struck and killed Floyd Torrey.

The youth, who works at a bench in a shop here, took several bundles, including toys, to the boys, Gene Torrey 6, and Paulie Torrey, 4 years old, and promised to visit them again soon. He visited the mat the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Jennie Torrey, with whom they are now making their home and saw them for the first time.

He came away expressing a desire to "do all I can for them." The woman probate judge, who refused to permit prosecution of the youth, sentenced him to visit the fatherless children at least once every two weeks for two years and to spend at least $400 of his earnings for their support during that period.

The unusual sentence is regarded as an experiment and is attracting widespread attention.

Defense in Gray County Oil Suits to Study Cases

WICHITA FALLS, March 21.—(P)—Attorneys for some of the defendants in suits brought by the state to cancel oil leases on state lands were to confer in Fort Worth Wednesday, according to R. O. Kenley, Wichita Falls attorney.

Judge Kenley represents the Danciger Oil and Refining company, whose lease on large acreage of Gray county land is attacked by the State's suit. Wells now on the lease, he said, are producing about 4,000 barrels daily.

Murfee Announces His Candidacy for Commissioner No. 1

J. E. Murfee, Jr., city councilman during the last two administrations of Mayor F. P. Reid, and who voluntarily retired before the city-manager plan was adopted, will be a candidate for commissioner No. 1 in the municipal election of April 3, it was learned today.

Mr. Murfee was a councilman during the boom days of oil development and devoted much of his time to municipal affairs of that period. That service demanded so much of his time that when the improvement program was carried well toward completion he asked to be allowed to retire in order that he might give more time to his business.

He was a member of the charter commission and favored the city-manager plan because it places the administrative burden upon a manager, rather than upon the council. This system having been put into effect, friends of Mr. Murfee have persuaded him to offer his services as commissioner.

D. W. Osborne, Now Commissioner, Out for Pampa Mayor

D. W. Osborne, present city commissioner No. 1 and acting mayor of Pampa in the absence of T. D. Hobart, today announced his candidacy for mayor, subject to the election of April 3.

Mr. Osborne, elected four months ago when the city-manager government was inaugurated under the charter, bases his candidacy upon his broad knowledge of civic affairs and his familiarity with the program now being planned.

He has been a participant in Pampa affairs since the founding of the town, and as commissioner during the part-term administration of Mayor Hobart has helped to formulate a program in which he is much interested. His desire to see the new plan of city government function well during this crucial period in Pampa history prompted him to announce his candidacy.

TEXAS GIRL HONORED.
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 21.—(P)—Twenty-four girls, including Beatrice Burnett of Waco, considered the prettiest members of the sophomore class of Vassar college, were named today as bearers of the traditional daisy chain at the class day exercises on June 11. The daisy chain procession is the chief feature of the class day pageant in the Sylvan theatre on the college grounds.

DANCIGER HAS GUSHER TODAY IN BIG POOL

No. 10 Jackson Flows Wild—Makes 5,000 Barrels

OPERATORS IN THE FIRST PAY

Empire's No. 1 Bender Is Looking Good After Clean Shot

Blowing the tools out of the hole and smashing the crown block, the Danciger Oil and Refining company's No. 10 Jackson in section 88, block B-2, of the Bowers pool, hit pay yesterday morning and flowed wild for eight hours before being turned into the pipe line.

The big pay was picked up at 3,027 feet, and the well is making more than 5,000 barrels a day. It was drilled in with rotary tools.

The Operators Oil company's No. 2 Jackson in the northwest corner of the north half of the northeast quarter of section 88, block 2, is reported to have picked up big pay late yesterday at 2,870 feet and is flowing 1,500 barrels a day with the first pay just pierced. Second pay is expected 40 feet deeper.

This location is an offset to the same company's No. 1 and to the Texas company's No. 1 Bowers in section 88, block B-2.

After going over the top of the derrick and flowing 75 barrels the first hour, the Empire Gas and Fuel company's No. 1 Bender in the southeast corner of section 164, block 3, west of here flowed 240 barrels the first fourteen hours and gives promise of being a good well. Very little gas was encountered and as a result the well will have to be swabbed or put on the pump.

A shot of 230 quarts was placed from 3,145 to 3,300 feet by the Independent Torpedo company and, according to oil men, was the cleanest shot that has been put off in this section of the Panhandle. The shot went off at 4:26 yesterday afternoon.

The gravity, first test, registered 40 or the highest in the West Pampa field.

Offsets have been made by the Magnolia Petroleum company on the Harrah lease in section 150, block 3, and the Danciger Oil and Refining company's direct offset in section 149, block 3, on the Smith lease.

Fall Not Able to Attend Trial, Senators Told

EL PASO, March 21.—(P)—It was learned today that Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was examined by two El Paso physicians as to his physical condition at the request of Owen Roberts and Atlee B. Pomeroy of Washington.

The examination was made for the purpose of determining whether Mr. Fall will be able to attend the Fall-Sinclair trial at Washington April 2. Although the physicians have not made public the results of the examination, the El Paso Times says a telegram was sent to government counsel in charge of the case stating that it would not be advisable for Mr. Fall to attend the trial.

Mr. Fall said today that if the government obtained a severance of the Teapot Dome cases and proceeds with the trial of Mr. Sinclair alone that his testimony probably would be taken here. "I am not only willing but anxious to testify in the trial," he said. "In fact, I am not afraid of the facts. They will bear out my acts. I do not think that it is physically possible for me to make the trip."

ELEVEN WORKMEN KILLED

MUECKENBERG, Saxony, March 21.—(P)—Eleven workers were killed and seven seriously injured today in the collapse of an elevator crane under construction at the Brown Coal Works. The crane collapsed during a storm.

SEEING TEXAS

One thing; travel insight into the what one sees is quite Sightseeing is not as tant as sight and idea ing.
Many people are Texas, and opportuni this state are being va reported. We recently ed out some smart-ale marks by a St. Louis man affected to measure Dallas against his home town with derogatory declarations against this state. By so doing he certainly did not help St. Louis, and he misrepresented Dallas.
Another example of writing on Texas comes to our attention, and we pass it on as something different. We quote William Allen White's Emporia Gazette:
We left New Orleans at night and came into Texas in late January. Texas holds more of the west than south. Here one began to find a stable agriculture with decent, well-painted, prosperous farm houses and out-buildings, silos, barns, and sheds. Apparently the same kind of folks dominate agricultural Texas as those who live in Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, and on up to the Canadian line. Texas, however, still remains a bit of the pioneer state. It is comparatively undeveloped for all its big, beautiful, prosperous cities. It will take another generation, perhaps half a century, for Texas to unfold all her richness and to reach her best prosperity. Texas is such a whale of a state! It is farther from El Paso to Texas than it is from Kansas City to Chicago, but it is full of hustle, enterprise, energy, with a youthful people. There is no decadence in Texas.

OLD STUFF—Louis J. Wardlaw, candidate for governor, has some good ideas, but he falls back upon the threadbare declarations for tax reduction and law enforcement. There has not been a candidate in a decade who has failed to do this very thing, and the public knows that a promise is merely a promise, and ability to concoct constructive legislation and get it passed is quite another thing.

Tax reduction is not in itself a good plank in a platform. Any statesman would like to reduce taxes if this were possible in connection with a progressive program. But the state has only enough revenue to meet the demands of its institutions, its law enforcement machinery, and to finance its railroad building program. In some phases of statehood there are dwarfed departments, under-financed. Law enforcement will take money, more roads will take money, a better penitentiary system will require more funds.

Tax equalization, not simply reduction of ad valorem taxes the issue in Texas today. The former demands statehood, while the latter is a rally-cry to delude the taxpayer. If all the taxes now being levied were collected, state demand from property could be lowered. Where a candidate who will argue later revenue from more taxes, along with lower propertaxes? The "interest" see to it that such men

Fortunately, there are men of growing calibre in Texas who are shrewd enough to argue tax reduction and have the mental reservation that they do not intend to decrease the total state income. Perhaps Mr. Wardlaw is such a man. We do not know. He has declared himself, "in favor of every educational advantage the people are able to pay for." So far, so good. But the voters are going to desire from every candidate a rather frank definition of "the people" who are to bear the state burdens.

Next Time Maybe Willie Will Keep Away From Such Playmates

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Politicians are interested in politics, and the people generally seem willing to let them take care of it. The fact that politicians are thus left in charge of the national welfare means that no vital problems are to be disposed of unless large organized groups persuade the politicians that it is politically dangerous to dodge them. It also means that no man may be nominated and elected president merely because he is the popular choice.

All this has been especially demonstrated in years divisible by four and its truth is again evident in 1928. Congress, apparently afraid to do anything in the face of elections, doesn't. And those who once believed that the primary system would result in popular rule must confess again that the primaries generally can be controlled by politicians, despite some notable exceptions which may justify their existence.
Take first the pre-convention Republican campaign. It is the best example of the prostitution of the primary because the Democrats are more accustomed to factional discord and because their leading candidates are in some instances fighting one another for the same delegates. The outstanding Republican candidates are not to be found fighting each other for primary delegates in one of the 17 states which have the presidential primary.

The largest presidential primary state is Pennsylvania, with 10,000,000 inhabitants and a mob of 79 delegates. Not a single candidate for nomination filed his petition before the closing date and Ross Ware and the Bosses Mellon are sending an uninducted delegation to Kansas City. The bosses will decide for the great mass of Republicans in this great Republican state just whom they want to be president. They told the candidates to keep out of the primaries and they kept.

The same thing has happened in Massachusetts. In Illinois, only Lowden has entered himself—it's his state. A notoriously corrupt Chicago machine hopes to deprive him of the delegates there by pretending a yearning for Coolidge! Pro-Lowden and anti-Lowden politicians will fight

The primary certainly has no warm friend among politicians, but its nearest approach to a champion is Hoover in Indiana and Ohio. It is interesting to note that his opponents, Senators Willis and Watson, are regarded as stalking horses for Dawes, who is violently against the direct primary.

But Hoover only entered these states after it proved impossible to make political deals. He knew that in such deals lay his best chance. Now he is out to get what he can and to break up the anti-Hoover game of stopping him with favorite son delegates known to oppose him.

In both states, with certain exceptions in Ohio, Hoover has merely permitted his name to be used by political "outs" anxious to beat political "ins." They needed the prestige to be borrowed from Hoover's name. Hoover needed their influence. Each rides on the coat-tails of the other. But Hoover is the only candidate to declare himself in doubtful primary territory and only the primary gave him a chance in Ohio and Indiana. As a matter of good politics, Lowden refused to divide the anti-Hoover vote by opposing him in Illinois. Hoover ought to get more than twice as many primary delegates as Lowden.

Voices have been raised in the past for a national direct primary system, but politicians have opposed that—and the voters have yet to organize any shirt-tail parades in its favor.

Ford is considering metal dirigibles. That man seems determined to wrap a piece of an around our necks, one way or another.

The U. S. A. is turning to politics, and it looks like the only fight We Democrats are apt to get into down here is with ourselves.

Spring is here, and how many vitamins are you hitting on? With Panhandle fresh air, we evidently do not need the old-fashioned filters, of which we lack the main's.

Republicans are spreading some broad smiles, and what we fear is that they are the kind that won't come off after the Houston convention. Hope we can leave it to Mr. Jones and company to make it otherwise.

Now that we can get our minds back on routine things, we should recall that house numbering is one of our greatest needs. Let's work this matter out now.

ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Sally Ford, 16, lives in the state orphanage, the only home Sally has known since she has four. It is rumored that the matron, Mrs. Stone, has selfishly frustrated several proposed adoptions of Sally, wanting to keep her "close where she understands and sympathies with the small children make her a valuable helper."

She is summoned to the matron's office where a man, a farmer, judging from his clothes, awaits her. Sally is suddenly paralyzed with fear. She wonders what it all means. Then brightening with the hope that perhaps it is a father come to claim a long-lost daughter, she hurries to the office door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

When Sally Ford opened the door of the office of the orphan asylum, radiance was wiped instantly from her delicate face, as if she had been stricken with sudden illness. For her worst fear was realized—the fear that had kept her awake many nights on her narrow cot, since her 16th birthday had passed. She cowered against the door, clinging to the knob as if she were trying to screw up her courage to flee from the disaster which fate, in bringing about her 16th birthday, had pitilessly planned for her. Instead of the boon of long-lost relatives for which she had never entirely ceased to hope.

"Sally!" Mrs. Stone, seated at the big roll-top desk, called sharply. "Say 'how do you do?' to the gentleman. The girls are taught the finest of manners here, Mr. Carson, but they are always a little shy with strangers."

"Howdy-do, Mr. Carson," Sally gasped in a whisper.

"I believe this is the girl you asked for, Mr. Carson," Mrs. Stone went on briskly, in her pleasant "company voice" which every orphan could imitate with bitter accuracy.

The man, a tall, gaunt, middle-aged farmer, nodded, struggled to speak then hastily bent over a brass cuspidor and spat. That necessary act performed, he eyed Sally with a keen speculative gaze. His lean face was tanned to the color and texture of brown leather, against which a coating of talcum powder, applied after a close shave of his black beard, showed ludicrously.

"Yes, mum, that's the girl, all right. Seen her when I was here last June. Wouldn't let me have her then, mum you may recollect."

Mrs. Stone smiled graciously. "Yes, I remember, Mr. Carson, and I was very sorry to disappoint you, but we have an unbreakable rule here not to board out one of our dear little girls until she is 16 years old. Sally was 16 last week and now that school is out, I see no reason why she shouldn't make her home with your family for the summer—or longer if you like. The law doesn't compel us to send the girls to school after they are 16, you know."

"Yes'm, I've looked into the law," the farmer admitted. Then he turned his shrewd, screwed-up black eyes upon Sally again. "Strong, healthy girl, I reckon? No sickness, no bad habits willing to work for her board and keep?"

He rose, lifting his great length in sections, and slouched over to the girl who still cowered against the door. His big-knuckled brown hands fastened on her forearms, and when she shrank from his touch he nodded with satisfaction. "Good big muscles, even if she is a skinny little runt. I always say these skinny, wiry little women can beat the fat ones all hollow."

"Sally is strong and she's marvelous with children. We've never had a better worker than Sally, and since she's been raised in the Home, she's used to work, Mr. Carson, although no one could say we're not good to our girls. I'm sure you'll find her a willing helper on the farm. Did your wife come in to town with you this afternoon?"

"Her? In berry-picking time?" Mr Carson was plainly amazed. "No, mum I come in alone. My daughter's laid up today, with a summer cold, or she'd be in with me, nagging me for money for her finery. But you know how girls are, mum. Now, seeing as how my wife's near crazy with work, what with the field hands to feed and all, and my daughter laid up with a cold, I'd like to take this girl here along with me. You know me, mum. Reckon I don't have to wait to be investigated no more."

Mrs. Stone was already reaching for a pen. "Perfectly all right, Mr. Carson. Though it does put me in rather a tight place. Sally has been taking care of a dormitory of 19 of the small girls and it is going to upset things a bit for tonight anyway. But I understand how it is with you. You're going to be in town attending to business for an hour or so, I suppose, Mr. Carson? Sally will have to get her things together. You could call for her about five, I suppose?"

"Yes, mum, five it is!" The farmer spat again, rubbed his hand on his trousers, then offered it to Mrs. Stone. "And thank you, mum. I'll take good care of the youngun. But I guess she thinks she's a young lady now, eh miss?" And he tweaked Sally's ear, his fingers feeling like sandpaper against her delicate skin.

"Tell Mrs. Carson, Sally, that you'll appreciate having a nice home for the summer—a nice country home." Mrs. Stone prompted, her eye stern and commanding.

And Sally, taught all her life to conceal her feelings from those in authority and to obey implicitly, gulped against the lump in her throat so that she could utter the lie in the language which Mrs. Stone had chosen.

The matron closed the door upon herself and the farmer, leaving Sally a quivering sobbing little thing, huddled against the wall, her nails digging into the flesh of her palms. If anyone had asked her: "Sally, why is your heart broken? Why do you cry like this?" she could not have answered intelligently. She would have groped for words to express that quality within her that burned a steady flame all these years, unquenchable, even under the soul-stifling, damp blanket of charity. She knew dimly that it was pride—a fierce, arrogant pride, that told her that Sally Ford, by birth, was entitled to the best that life had to offer.

And now—her body quivered with an agony which had no name and which was the more terrible for its namelessness—she was to be thrust out into the world, or that part of the and his family. To eat the bitter bread of charity, to slave for the food she put into her mouth, which craved delicacies she had never tasted; to be treated as a servant, to have the shame of being an orphan, a child nobody wanted, continuously held up before her shrinking, haunted eyes—that was the fate which being 16 had brought upon Sally.

Every June they came—farmers like Clem Carson, seeking "hired girls" whom they would not have to pay Carson himself had taken three girls from the orphanage.

Rena Cooper, who had gone to the Carson farm when Sally was 13, had come back to the Home in September, a broken, dispirited thing—Rena, who had been so gay and bright and saucy Anne Springer had been his choice the next year, and Anne had never come back. The story had drifted into the orphanage by some mysterious grapevine had it that Anne had found a "fellow" on the farm, a hired man with whom she had wandered away without the formality of a marriage ceremony.

The third summer, when he could not have Sally, he had taken Ruby Presser pretty, sweet little Ruby, who had been in love with Eddie Cobb, one of the orphaned boys, since she was 13 or 14 years old. Eddie had run away from the Home, after promising Ruby to come back for her and marry her when he was grown-up and making enough money for two to live on.

Ruby had gotten into "mysterious" trouble on the Carson farm—the details—and Ruby had run away from the farm only to be caught by the police and sent to the reformatory, the particular hell with which every orphan was threatened if she dared disobey even a minor rule of the Home. Delicate, sweet little Ruby in the reformatory—that place where "in-correctibles" poisoned the minds of good girls like Ruby Presser, made criminals of them, too.

Sally, remembering, as she cowered against the door of the orphanage office, was suddenly fiercely glad that Ruby had thrown herself from a fifth-story window of the reformatory. Ruby, dead, was safe now from charity and evil and from queer, warped, things as they huddled on the cots of their cells.

"Oh, Sally, dear, what is the matter?" A soft, sighing voice broke in on Sally's grief and fear, a bony hand was laid comfortingly on Sally's dark head.

"Mr. Carson, that farmer who takes a girl every summer, is going to take me home with him tonight," Sally gulped.

"But that will be nice, Sally!" Miss Pond rushed. "You will have a real home, with plenty to eat and maybe some nice little dresses to wear, and make new friends—"

"Yes, Miss Pond," Sally nodded, held thrall by 12 years of enforced acquiescence. "But, oh, Miss Pond, I'd been hoping it was—my father—or my mother—or somebody I belong to—"

"Why, Sally, you haven't a father, dear, and your mother—But, mercy me I mustn't be running on like this," Miss Pond caught herself up hastily, a fearful eye on the closed door.

"Miss Pond," Sally pleaded, "won't you please, please tell me something about myself before I go away? I know you're not allowed to, but oh, Miss Pond please! It's so cruel not to know anything! Please, Miss Pond! You've always been so sweet to me—"

The little touch of flattery did it, or maybe it was the pathos in those wide blue eyes.

"It's against the rules," Miss Pond wavered. "But—I know how you feel, Sally dear. I was raised in the Home myself, not knowing—I can't get your card out of the files now; Mrs. Stone might come and catch me. But I'll make some excuse to come up to the locker room when you're getting your things together. Oh—"

"I was just telling Sally how nice it will be for her to have a real home Mrs. Stone."

Mrs. Stone closed the door firmly her eyes stern upon Sally. "Of course it will be nice. And Sally must be properly appreciative. I did not at all like your manner to Mr. Carson, Sally. But run along now and pack. You may take your Sunday dress and shoes and one of your every-day gingham. Mr. Carson will provide your clothes. His daughter is about your age, and he says her last year's dresses will be nicer than anything you've ever had."

"Yes, Mrs. Stone," Sally ducked her head and sidled out of the door, just before it closed she exchanged a fleet, meaningful look with Miss Pond.

"Im going to know!" Sally whispered to herself as she ran down the long, narrow corridor. "Im going to know! About my mother!" And color swept over her face, performing the miracle that changed her from a colorless little orphan into a near-beauty.

In the next chapter Sally departs on her great adventure.

Texas Pitching Expected to Be Best in History

(By The Associated Press)

Predictions of observers that the Texas league this year will witness the best pitching in its history is borne out by the great work of a number of rookie hurlers who are attracting attention in training camps.

Four of these, Baker of Dallas, Clements of Houston, Tising of Beaumont and Fish of Fort Worth, the first two former stars at the University of Texas, held the spotlight yesterday with their excellent mound form.

In a nine-inning practice game at Dallas, won by the regulars, 7 to 2 Baker held the first string men to six scattered hits and not a single earned run in six frames.

At Houston, Clements allowed the Rice Institute Owls but two strikes in the five innings he worked, and led the Buffs to a 6 to 3 victory.

At Lake Charles, La., Tising yielded but five hits and one run in five frames, but Williams who succeeded him was unsteady and the Exporters were beaten by the Kansas City Blues, 2 to 1.

Fish, a left-hander, held the hard-hitting Oklahoma City Indians to nine scattered blows at Weatherford, and helped the Fort Worth Cats to a 4 to 2 win, the third straight victory for the Panthers.

A veteran, Hilt Steenrafe, who won many games for Wichita Falls last season, was not as effective, however, and the Chicago White Sox defeated the Spudgers, 7 to 0.

At Waco, the Cubs won their third straight game from the House of Davvid nine, 13 to 11. Both teams slugged the ball hard, annexed 11 hits each, and contributed a flock of errors.

The Bears at Fredericksburg had a brisk workout in preparation for a clash Friday with Detroit.

Two Questions Are Bothering White Sox Management Now

SHREVEPORT, La., March 21.—(AP)—If the Chicago White Sox management knew the answer to two questions, it would have a fair idea of what the 1928 baseball season holds. Will Chalmer Cissell, high priced shortstop, hit American league pitching and can Johnny Mistil come back to a point approximating his former greatness after a year out of the game?

If Cissell hits and Mistil brings his fancy outfielding back with him, the team will furnish spirited opposition Good pitching is seemingly assured the hope.

Ted Lyons and Alphonse Thomas take their places in any compiled array of the best pitchers in the league and Ted Blankenship, who suffered a poor season last year, has shown an indicated return to form this spring. George Connally may be expected to turn in some victories and the veteran Urban Faber can stem the tide on occasion. Charlie Barnabe, a southpaw who failed to win a game for the White Sox last year, may have to give way to a recruit.

Roy Wilson, a lefthander from Sar Antonio, has shown promise and Willie Goodell, coming from independent baseball at Tulsa, may jump from the lots to the Majors without a stop along the route. Al Williamson, who pitched for Shreveport, seems to have an excellent chance to stick with Chicago.

George Cox from Jackson of the Cotton States league probably will be sent out to gain experience. The fate of Grady Atkins from Shreveport and Phil Hensick of Monroe, La., remains in doubt.

INDIANS CRIPPLED

CLEVELAND, March 21.—(AP)—A crippled squad of Cleveland Indians was at Gulfport, Miss., today to do battle with the Columbus American association team.

Shortstop Joe Sewell has a badly split lip and his chief understudy, Jonah Goldman, has a sprained thumb. John Hodapp, third baseman is nursing a sore arm.

COCHRAN LEADS SCHAFER

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 21.—(AP)—The battle of the ex-champions between Welker Cochran and Jake Schaffer today was going in favor of the former. At the end of yesterday's 18.2 balkline billiard match Cochran had credit for wins in both blocks played and an edge of 257 points.

The score to date is Cochran 1,000 points and Schaffer 743.

Today's play was to end the 1500 point match.

A Loose Grip for Better Control

Every time I see a toiling duffer clutching his driver with a fervor that whites his knuckles, for all the world as if he fancied somebody was going to sneak up behind him and take it away from him, I think of Bill Goebel's new grip.

Bill Goebel is the professional at the Charlotte Country Club, Charlotte, N. C. and one of these days Bill is going to blossom forth as a tournament golfer and win a flock of titles. He is more on the stay-at-home side now, being a thoroughly conscience "teaching pro" and looking after his members with a commendable devotion. Still, he won the Southeastern P. G. A. championship a couple of years ago, from a good field; and he can indubitably play golf.

Bill plays better with a loose grip too, and that is why he comes to mind when I hear the struggling duffer complaining that he didn't hold the darned club tight enough and it turned in his hands, and the shot was ruined, also his hands, almost.

Now, many years ago Chick Evans told me that when he was playing his avocational best, he was holding them so lightly that they felt as if they would fly out of his hands when he swung.

And lately Bill Goebel told me he had changed his driving grip so as to leave all but the two middle fingers of his right hand off the shaft, and that these two fingers held "very lightly."

I knew Bill was a tremendous wall-popper, and I asked if the change had cost him much distance.

"Not exactly," he said, "and I can now tell approximately where the ball is going."

So I told Bill to put up his hands aiming a Graflex at him the while, and I photographed Bill's capable hands at the top of a driving swing.

The left hand, you may see held loosely, with no evidence of clutching. And the right hand—well, it appears merely to be up there. The grip is as delicate as a billiard expert's.

Goebel is a thoughtful teacher. His explanation is:

"A tight grip makes the wrist and forearm muscles rigid and unworkable, and they tend to pull the club-head out of line in the downswing. Besides, it isn't the left that gives length to the shot, it's the speed of the club-head at impact. And you can hit faster with a loose grip."

One more tip, in this connection: The club turns in your hands because the ball was not hit at or near the center of the face of the club. The reason it was hit off-center very likely was because you were clutching the club with a death-grip, to keep it from turning

West Texas Oil Production Shows Another Big Gain

TULSA, Okla., March 21.—(AP)—The gap between the West Texas and Seminole oil fields widened further in the week ending March 17, when the former's average daily production increased approximately 11,000 barrels while Seminole slumped about 4,000 barrels. The Oil and Gas Journal will say today. West Texas is now leading the Seminole area by about 46,000 barrels daily. The total daily production for the United States increased 7,095 barrels during the week, the eWest Texas increase more than offsetting decreases in other areas.

Oklahoma fields remained fairly steady, with the total daily average production for the week being 651,895 against 653,395 barrels for the week ending March 10.

Texas fields other than the West Texas area either remained steady or showed slight losses, excepting the Gulf coast area, where daily production or heavy oil increased more than 8,000 barrels.

Arkansas remained practically steady, while North Louisiana and Kansas had slight losses. California production also slumped about 9,000 barrels.

Daily average production of light and heavy crude in the United States was 2,403,781 barrels for the week, as compared with 2,396,686 barrels the preceding week.

MANY ENJOY BALL

Spaniards, troubadors, pierrets, dolls, milk maids and many other vocations and nationalities were represented at the Pla-Mor masquerade ball held Monday night.

A large crowd was present and enjoyed the music by Jesse's orchestra.

To Miss Lorene Johnson, dressed as a doll, was awarded the ladies' prize, while Bob Meadows, a brave troubador won the men's prize.

The prize for the best waltzers of the floor was awarded to Mrs. K. S. Boehm and W. M. Watkins.

Income Tax Receipts Show Big Increase

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Treasury receipts from the March 15th income tax payments, which are being watched closely by Congress and the administration, show that at the close of business March 17, the government had obtained payments of $215,550,008.07, while on the same date last year the total was $197,690,398.51.

If this proportion should carry through the entire collections of 1928 the treasury would be likely to have about $100,000,000 or more above its estimates. On this showing hinges the fight in congress over tax revision but Secretary Mellon is expected to await a fuller showing before announcing his position on this issue.

Double Knockout Results in Death of California Boy

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 21.—(AP)—What seemed to have been a double knockout in a friendly boxing bout between two students in the University of Southern California gymnasium turned to tragedy last night when it was found that one of the boxers was dead.

The dead boxer was Michael Carnakis, 26, of Bakersfield, a sophomore.

His opponent, Phillip Bromley, 19, of Los Angeles, was unconscious for an hour and 45 minutes after being knocked out in the furious exchange of blows.

The boxers, both welterweights, pounded each other for three rounds. In the fourth they were engaged in a swift exchange of punches when suddenly, to the surprise of spectators, both tumbled on their faces in the ring. Bromley was the first to fall. Carnakis was declared the winner. Then attendants began to try to revive them. Carnakis was dead.

Detroit Boosts Best Infield of American Circuit

SAN ANTONIO, March 21.—(AP)—Neun at first, Gehringer at second, Tavener shortstop, and McManus at third.

This infield combination, which barring injuries, will be in the opening lineup for Detroit, is believed by Manager Moriarty to constitute the smartest first line defense in the American league. Its members are agile and accurate fielders, while each is also a formidable batter.

SHOTTON OPTIMISTIC

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Despite the fact that the service of Frank Ulrich, his pitching ace, will be lost to him when the season opens, Manager Burt Shotton of the Phillies has not receded, his earlier prediction that the Phils are going somewhere this year. Ulrich, ill with influenza probably will be out of the game until May or June.

COBB TO DRILL

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Ty Cobb will not take the five day barnstorming trip through Northern Florida with the Philadelphia Athletics, starting today, but instead will remain at the training quarters here for intensive drilling.

MINOR PLAYER RETURNED

ORLANDO, Fla., Mar. 21.—(AP)—Emmett McCann, who played second base for the Columbus club of the American association last season, has been returned to that club by the Cincinnati Reds.

Gillis Looks Able as Senator Backstop

TAMPA, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Bucky Harris has at last found a youngster to fill Roger Peckinpaugh's shoes at shortstop—at least for the time being.

He is Grant Gillis of the Birmingham club. His tentative selection to play short for the Washington team means that Bob Reeves and Jack Hayes, two other promising youngsters, will have to be used for something else, for the three were fighting it out for the job.

Hopkins and Griffin were slated for mound duty against the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were defeated by Washington yesterday, 6 to 2.

Browns Think Their Work Above Average

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—The reorganized St. Louis Browns have looked themselves over and found they weren't so bad thus far this season. They have outscored, out-hit, outslugged and even outfumbled their opponents this season. They have won five out of eight games played against Cincinnati, Philadelphia, and Newark.

Braves Cheered By Bell's Coming to Their Squad

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Yesterday's victory over the New York Yankees was not half the cause for joy to the Boston Braves today that the news was that Lester Bell, Cardinal third baseman, would wear a new uniform this season.

There was so much pep in the Braves when they learned of the High-Bell deal that they looked like the champions instead of the Yanks. The combination of Hornsby and Bell, it was predicted, would go a long way toward helping the Boston Reds clinch the pennant. Bell did his best work while under the management of the peerless Rajah.

Carson Loftus, as the "poor husband" came back from his honey-moon drunk caused by some "tooth-ache medicine" given him by a traveling professor.
