gaps in social services

By NANCY YOUNG Managing Editor

Filling in the gaps is what a group of local residents is trying to do as they organize Gray County Community Partners.

We're trying to provide a helping hand to Department of Human Services (DHS) caseworkers," said Ann Franklin, "We want to establish an area referred to as a Rainbow Room at the local DHS building to place necessities needed by local

"The Rainbow Room is a room at the DHS building in which we are stocking supplies which are needed by many of these people," said

"The child protective caseworkers have said when children are taken into custody by them that it is frequently at night, and these children do not have the necessities." she said. "We are trying to establish a well-storked area to supply these children with these items when they need them."

Clothes, shoes, diapers, baby food, formula, school supplies, toys — are just a few of the items which children require at times such as these.

"Many times these children have never had new clothing or toys," said Sam Shields, another board member. "We are contacting local organizations, businesses and corporations asking for their assistance to provide these necessities for these children. He also said often times families fall on hard times and DHS workers are aware of those who need help.

Shields said a co-worker of his at Cabot has asked him what her quilting group could do to help. He said she suggested her group might be interested in making items such as quilts, blankets, and other like articles people might need.

He said local organizations such as these could really meet a need of the children and adults. One local church group is interested in making diaper

"We want to promote and support the CPS workers as well as the Adult Protective Service workers by helping provide much needed assistance to those who need it," he said.

Four held in hold-ups

By DAVID BOWSER Staff Writer

Four juveniles have been detained in the Hemphill Correction Services detention center in Canadian today after a police detective questioned them about two convenience store robberies in Pampa.

Pampa Police Officer David Conner said today that he became suspicious after reviewing a report made by Sgt. Tom Pickering concerning a convenience store clerk seeing two boys outside her store Tuesday.

"I read that and went back and read the reports of the March robberies of the Allsup's store at Wilks and Faulkner," Conner boys she saw were juveniles. She said she saw them putting on bandannas, then a car drove up and the two boys got in and drove away.

In talking to juvenile authorities, a suspect was developed, Conner said, and after questioning him, several others appeared to be involved.

Wednesday, the four, ranging in age from 14 to 16, confessed to robbing the Allsup store and were transferred to the Canadian juvenile facility pending sentenc-

Conner said that during the robberies, two of the juveniles would cover their faces with bandanas, go into the store waving a toy pistol wrapped in a towel and demand cash from the City plans summer projects for kids

Library offers reading program

By NANCY YOUNG Managing Editor

"To the Library and Beyond" — That is the theme for the Pampa summer reading program, and children may begin signing up at the Lovett Memorial Library.

Local children are challenged to read books learning all around the world and beyond. Children who read three hours will receive a free book donated by the Friends of Pampa Library. At the end of the reading game, children who turn in their reading logs to the library will be eligible for a drawing for five gift certificates. The top five readers in the program will also receive a gift certificate. Children can participate by going to the library to pickup a reading log, and they will receive a bookmark and a book

bag. Each time the young readers go to the library they can post the number of minutes they have read on the bulletin board and help the library reach its goal.

Preschoolers are welcome to participate in the program. They may be read to by a parent or older child, and qualify for the reading times. The program is for children preschool through sixth grade.

During the month of June story times will be at 10 a.m. every Monday and Tuesday. "There will be stories and crafts. Children between the ages of 18 months and six years will enjoy the programs the most," said Shanla Brookshire, the children's librarian. "No registration is required for story time. Mediators declare impasse in talks; attendants expected to reject arbitration DALLAS (AP) — The first step to a strike by which represents 23,000 flight attendants at the American Airline Inc.'s flight attendants has come nation's largest air carrier, would be free to strike with an impasse declared in stalled contract negoti- after the 30 days.

The Association of Professional Flight Attendants' president said the union board likely will reject arbitration. But a final decision will come when board AFPA could set up a walkout in the days leading up to the busy July 4 holiday.

Meanwhile, the Fort Worth, Texas-based airline was accepting the offer of arbitration by the National Mediation Board Wednesday evening.

"We are accepting, and we hope APFA will do the same," American spokesman Gus Whitcomb said Sea turtle nests found on North Padre Island Wednesday.

Accidents

Pampa Police Department reported the following accidents during the 48-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

Tuesday, May 22

A 1989 Ford Ranger pickup driven by Elisha Carol Lane, 15, 1917 Hamilton, was turning left from Brown onto Cuyler when she was in collision with a 1976 Chevrolet pick n driven by Angel Andres Mata, 56, 625 N. West, about 10:15 p.m. Tuesday. Lane was cited for failure to yield right-of-way and not having a driver's license.

A 1994 white Oldsmobile Cutless driven by Kasey Charles Presson, 16, 2124 N. Sumner, was in collision with a 1995 Chevrolet Lumina driven Lauren Ashley Cortez, 15, 335 Faulkner, shortly inside, Conner said. after noon Tuesday in the 1300 block of North Charles. Presson was cited for failure to control speed and not having proof of insurance.

Rejection of arbitration by either side triggers an immediate 30-day cooling-off period. The AFPA, Flight attendants have been working without a new contract for more than two years. In February, they voted to authorize a strike. But under federal law, airline employees can strike only if a mediator members meet as expected next week. Rejection by declares that contract talks are hopelessly deadlocked.

In April, a federal mediator notified the airline and the union that she would lead a new round of talks this month in Washington. The impasse was declared after three days of intense negotiations.

Help eliminate cancer while remembering a loved one

Memorial Day is a time to remember someone held dear. A memorial gift to the American Cancer Society supports programs of research to find a cure for cancer; education to promote the prevention and early detection of cancer; advocacy to enact laws that help the ACS's mission of eliminating cancer; and service to help everyone touched by cancer make it through the journey. By making a gift to ACS for Memorial Day, you are actually making two gifts. First, you are making a gift to the family of the deceased. Second, you are making a gift to all of the people who have cancer or may one day be diagnosed with cancer.

Memorial contributions can be made through Amarillo ACS office at 3915 Bell, Amarillo, TX 79109; by telephone at (806) 353-4306; 24-hours a day, seven days a week at 1-800-ACS-2345; or via the Internet at www.cancer.org.

Texans air views on gun control

My annual opinion surveys asked Texans their opinion on several issues currently pending before Congress. This week's column reports your answers to the third segment of the questionnaire, which addressed campaign finance reform and Second Amendment rights.

The first question asked if readers would change the current federal campaign finance law that allows a candidate to loan himself or herself an unlimited amount of campaign funds, and then hold fund raisers to reimburse himself or herself after the election. I wanted to know if you think there should be a limit on such self-loans. Nearly three-fourths of those who replied, 73 percent, said that such selfloan arrangements should be limited.

When asked if you would support changing the current $1,000per-individual, per-candidate contribution limit to adjust for inflation, 49.13 percent of you said yes, and 50.87 percent said no almost a draw. Only 16 percent of you replied that the current federal campaign finance laws yield a level playing field for candidates who challenge incumbents, while 84 percent said they do not.

Here are some of your comments regarding campaign finance: -From Fair Oaks Ranch: Before we add any more campaign finance laws, let's enforce the ones that are on the books. Denton: Have a set amount each candidate can spend so no one has the advantage. -Leonard: We need to ensure that no other country gets a hold over any of our elected officials by contributing to their campaigns. -Georgetown: Every form of contribution, advertisement, flyer, circular, etc. ought to have to be attributed to specific, individual candidates. All the costs of the production and distribution of such materials ought to be used in calculating a maximum amount of spending allowed. The penalties for abuse would be loss of tax-exempt status —Amarillo: I would eliminate all corporate contributions. —Tyler: Unions should not be allowed to contribute. I was a union member and I did not want them to use my money to campaign for someone I wouldn't vote for. -San Antonio: Candidates should only be able to accept money from their home districts, or states if it's a statewide race. No out-ofdistrict contributions from anyone.

My view: Campaign finance reform can make the election process more responsive to voters and more accessible to potential candidates. But workable reform has to acknowledge the central role played by legitimate, voluntary contributions from individuals and organizations. Voters need good information, and getting that to them costs money. Inherent in our democracy is the right and ability of candidates for public office to publicize their views before an election so the electorate is able to make an informed choice

When I asked you if gun owners should be registered and licensed, only 19 percent answered in the affirmative; 81 percent answered with a resounding no. Next, only 27 percent said it is reasonable for the government to require trigger locks be provided with the sale of every gun, while 73 percent voted no. When asked if the federal government should encourage state-sponsored voluntary programs, such as the one in Texas, where trigger locks are distributed at no cost but their use is not required by law, 61 percent of you said yes, while 39 replied in the negative. Similarly, only 34 percent said they would support more stringent requirements on vendors at gun shows, with 66 percent saying no they would not. And finally, 72 percent said imposing more stringent requirements on firearms vendors has the potential to drive gun shows underground and might, therefore, result in fewer background checks on buyers, while 28 percent said it wouldn't.

Here are some of your comments regarding firearms: -San Saba: Guns are not a problem, it's a lack of the enforcement —Texas City: Each gun should be sold with a trigger lock. If you have to pay for it, you'll be more likely to use it.

Lockhart: The Second Amendment addresses tyranny, not dove

-Temple: God, guts and guns made America free. To disarm America would only serve to enslave us.

-Georgetown: As a taxpayer, I'm the one who is really paying for that "no cost" trigger lock -San Antonio: We need a mandatory background check and trigger locks on all hand guns from this date forward. -Ozono: Criminals have guns. Private citizens should not be punished because of what criminals do. We need to be able to protect ourselves, since law enforcement can't.

-Horseshoe Bay: Australia banned all firearms and crime has -Dayton: People need to take gun safety classes and be responsible gun owners.

—Amherst: The accidents and tragedies we see are the price we pay for freedom. It's too bad, but that's the way it is.

My view: As a strong supporter of the 2nd Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, I believe we should crack down on those who use guns to commit crimes rather than usurp the rights of law-abiding citizens. I will continue to support legislation that both fights crime and upholds the Constitution.

The positives of vacation by car

I didn't learn much about vacations when growing up in the 1950s and 1960s, as my family didn't much believe in them. Airfare was expensive, and we almost never drove away from metropolitan Boston. I thought the constellations pictured in the encyclopedia were imaginary, like Greek mythology, because city lights kept the sky from getting dark enough to see more than a few stars.

One reason we didn't travel was that we had no pressing reason to journey afar. All the relatives lived within a few miles of each other. To see the ocean, we could go to nearby Revere Beach (although I had to wear sneakers in the water because of broken glass). To see a Major League Baseball game, I could take the subway to Fenway Park, the best ballyard in the coun-

But I wanted to see the whole country, and my first great trip was by bicycle, coast-tocoast, right after graduating from college. Snowcapped mountains and constellations really existed, and both my body and my character were stronger by journey's end. When I started having children six years later, I wanted to give them what I hadn't had: Lots of long trips (although by car rather than by bicycle) like all overambitious fathers, I made tons of like armies, travel on their stomachs. The best time to teach patience and perseverance is not when kids are hungry, the temperature is 100 degrees and the place where we'll eat lunch is a long walk away. When visiting a zoo, do not think you are on a research expedition and must see every animal. After spending big through occasional frustrations, because interbucks for some tourist trap or theme park, do esting things are coming. (That's a good lesson not think that getting your money's worth for life generally.) means having to stay to the point where kids start getting hot and whiny.

The positives, however, vastly outweighed those negatives. When taking long car trips, we'd typically start at 4 a.m. The kids with their quickly. Long-distance auto travel can be great, pillows would sleep in the back, waking up to and economical for big families, as long as par-Beethoven's "Ode to Joy" just as the sun was ents can answer two vital questions: Are you coming up. We'd have Pop Tarts for the kids to going this way only because you can't afford and lots of character-building. And of course, eat in the car for first breakfast, before stopping going some other way? Do you think the trip is a couple of hours later for a real breakfast - something to be endured, or is car travel an milk and cereal on the hood of the car when we important and enjoyable part of the vacation Here are a few lessons learned; I'll list them were poor, restaurant meals later. that a benefit of car travel is gaining a sense of what's going on outside the window. Baseball cards every hour as rewards for good conduct Simple pleasures were the best. Playing tortoise-and-hare on the grounds of Duke University. Catching crayfish at a battlefield in Tennessee. Spotting turtles along the Natchez Trace Parkway in Mississippi. Canoeing in Oregon or throwing snowballs in June in Colorado mountains. Finding what we believed were perfect hamburgers in a little town in Oklahoma. Singing along with a Bob Dylan tape as we drove across Texas. All our children have turned out to be terrific travelers: They developed a sense that it's worth waiting

The tendency this summer, with low Saturday-night-stay airfares and high gasoline prices, will be to go by plane rather than car, but something's lost by getting to destinations

Americans need to be aware of FTAA

Before Congress hands the president fast-track authority to negotiate the Free Trade Area of the Americas, several conditions should be attached.

First and foremost, the negotiations must be conducted in public instead of in secret, as they currently are being done. Negotiators don't have to sit on a stage in front of an audience. But working papers and drafts should be made pub-

Second, environmental, labor and religious groups should be given the same access to the process as transnational corporations and those who have bought access with big-money contri-mental or worker-safety laws are "impediments

It allows corporations to sue sovereign on workers in Mexico. There is always a poorer cy states and other government entities outside the country where people have no choice but to court system. The FTAA appears to be simply an expansion of NAFTA with all its defects and broken promises.

Free trade could be done on one sheet of paper by simply publishing a small tariff schedule that would apply to all imports. These multithousand-page documents, such as NAFTA was and rialistic foreign policy, we have to restore FTAA will be, really concern managed trade deals and subversion of national sovereignty under the guise of trade treaties.

Fundamentally, the flaw in this process is that it is driven entirely by the goal of enhancing corporate profits and return on investments. Yakking about promoting democracy and raising the standard of living is just window-dress-

In the meantime, the FTAA will also accelerate the de-industrialization of America. Already America imports far too many critical items. called the importer of democracy but we no longer qualify for the title "arsenal of democracy." We would be hard put to supply ourselves, much less others, in a major war.

At the heart of this problem of trade agreements is a difference in philosophy. Unfortunately the purpose of NAFTA and FTAA is to enhance and protect corporate interests. The purposes governments should be pursuing are the health, safety and prosperity of their people. The two are not synonymous.

Many people were lied to during the selling of NAFTA, and I fully expect the same deal on this one. They have to lie because, if they told the truth, it wouldn't get ratified.

You need not expect any detailed coverage of the pros and cons of this treaty in most American newspapers. They will as usual play the parrot on the corporate shoulder and dismiss any criticism as uninformed or radical.

Fortunately, you can find a lot of alternative viewpoints on the Internet. Just do a search for NAFTA or FTAA. You will find not only criticisms and analyses but also alternative proposals. RRC remind backyard cooks of new safety measure for older propane cylinder AUSTIN — The long Memorial Day weekend is traditionally the start of backyard grilling season, and with an estimated 4.5 million Texans expected to fire the liquid flow into the cylinder. Filling to 80 percent up their propane grills, Railroad Commission Chairman Michael L. Williams, Commissioner Charles Matthews and Commissioner Tony Garza today reminded Texans of a refilling safety measure required for older propane cylinders.

An overfilling prevention device (OPD) is now required by the Railroad Commission's new LP-Gas Safety rules for propane cylinders at least 12 years old. The OPD offers protection against filling the cylinder with too much propane.

"Here in Texas it's outdoor barbecue season almost year-round," said Chairman Williams. "Properly and safely refilling your propane cylinder will help ensure the safety of your family backyard barbecues not only this Memorial Day, but every day."

"Propane is cleaner burning, less expensive and cooks your food faster than other fuels, but as with any flammable energy source it must be used safely and correctly," said Commissioner Matthews. "By CLEAR (800-642-5327), or www.rrc.state.tx.us installing this simple device, Texans are given that Created in 1991 by the Texas Legislature, the added safety benefit."

Texans need to remember that there's more to a great summer cookout than just the burgers and meat on the grill," Commissioner Garza said. "Safety, both in how you operate the grill and in how you refill the tank, is key. The new requirements for propane cylinders will help ensure that summer cookouts are safe cookouts."

The OPD is similar to the float in a conventional toilet tank. As a cylinder is refilled and the propane liquid level rises, the floating device also rises. When the propane liquid fills approximately 80 percent of the cylinder's volume, the OPD valve mechanism shuts off allows room for expansion due to warmer weather. Since Oct. 1, 1998, all newly manufactured small propane cylinders are equipped with an OPD. There are two ways consumers can tell if their propane bottle has an OPD: The tank may have a special triangular hand wheel with the letters 'OPD' on it, or the tank may have an OPD wrapper or warning label.

Commission rules require that if the cylinder is at least 12 years old, it must be periodically 'requalified' to ensure that it is safe for continued service. At the time the cylinder is requalified, the Commission now requires the cylinder to have a new OPD valve installed. Starting April 1, 2002, cylinders without OPDs cannot be refilled.

The Railroad Commission of Texas' Alternative Fuels Research and Education Division (AFRED) can provide consumers with basic safety tips, as well as additional propane uses and rebates by calling toll-free, (800) 64-

Alternative Fuels Research and Education Division of the Texas Railroad Commission is charged with researching and educating the public about propane and other environmentally beneficial fuels that can help reduce air pollution in Texas. In addition to researching propane as a clean-air fuel, the division develops marketing, technical training, advertising, and information programs to increase public awareness about the fuel. Funding for the division comes from an industry fee paid on each gallon of propane sold in the state.

Lesbian Who Felt Lost Found Peace and Hope in Gay Church

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from "Hurting in Houston," the gay man whose parents told him he and his partner were no longer welcome in their home, I felt the need to speak to him from my heart. Abby, I would be honored if you would print my message to him:

Dear Hurting: I am a lesbian. I want you to know that you are not alone. I sympathize with how you feel. My father is homophobic. Need I say more? What people like your parents and my father don't realize is that the gay community is much larger than they think. Chances are, most people in this country have some connection to someone

Is there a PFLAG (Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays) near your parents? That would be a good place for them to express their concerns among people from their side of the fence.

There is nothing "horrible" about being gay. God didn't "goof" when he made us. He wanted us this way, and no matter what other people might tell you, God loves us just the same as he loves anyone else. I don't know how you feel about God, but I know that I would not be alive today if he were not walking through life right beside me.

You wrote that you're having trouble sleeping at night. I've been there, too. My advice to you is to find somewhere you and your partner feel comfortable to worship God. There are gay and gay-friendly churches in this country. I know wasn't sleeping well, and I didn't feel like eating as much as I normally do. I was depressed, and I knew it; but I didn't know what to do about it. Then I heard about a gay church near where I live. I went one day. By experiencing God's unconditional love, I feel that life is better. I'm sleeping at night now, and my appetite has returned. If God can give me peace, he can do the same for you. I'll be praying HOPEFUL IN HESPERIA, CALIF.

DEAR HOPEFUL: I'm sure your words of encouragement will bolster the spirits of more hurting individuals than the young man who wrote. Not all families reject or fear their gay relatives. And your message that while some churches teach homophobic doctrine, others are gay-friendly is an important one. Some of them even have membership that is primarily gay and lesbian. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are dismayed over "Hurting in Houston's" problem with his parents.

We have lots of love to give and would like "Hurting" to know that we would be happy to be his parents. Whether it be a legal adoption or a spiritual one, we would like to be his family.

He will get a mom and dad who will love him, worry about him, respect him and accept that he is gay. He will gain two brothers who have been taught to love and treat others with kindness. He and his partner can openly come to our home and all family functions. We will brag about him, call him often, and bore him with our stories. In short, we will make him and his partner feel very much a part of a PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Larry Brown was the overwhelming choice for the NBA's Coach of the Year Award after leading the Philadelphia 76ers to their best record in 16 years.

Brown, winning the award for the first time in his 18-year NBA coaching career, received 85 votes from a 124-member media panel. Rick Adelman of the Sacramento Kings finished second with 11 votes and Don Nelson of the Dallas Mavericks was third with 8. No other coach received more than 5 votes. numerous Despite injuries, Brown led the Sixers to a 56-26 record, matching his best winning percentage as a coach.

BASEBALL

PHOENIX (AP) — Barry Bonds' home-run streak ended Wednesday night. So did the San Francisco Giants' losing skid.

Bonds, batting cleanup for the first time since August 1999, hit an RBI single off Randy Johnson that helped the Giants beat the Arizona Diamondbacks 5-1.

Bonds entered the game with the National League record for homers in six consecutive games (nine). He would have set a major league record for a sevengame span with one more home run.

Instead, he joined his teammates in snapping their three-game losing streak. The Giants had dropped five of six during Bonds' spree.

SOCCER

DALLAS (AP) — San Jose goalie Joe Cannon, who hasn't yielded a goal in his last 218 minutes in goal, finished with his third shutout of the season and five saves as the Earthquakes defeated the Dallas Burn 2-0 Wednesday night.

"I"ve just been steady and consistent all year long," Cannon said. "The back line has been awesome this year, and that's been a big difference."

"I don't have to worry about if we're going to score, it's been more along the line of better team play," he said.

Wednesday's victory gives the Earthquakes a 5-2-1 record. The team remains in first place in the Major League Soccer Western Division. Dallas dropped to 3-

Earthquakes forward Ronald Cerritos scored the game's first goal in the 15th minute when he knocked a header past Burn goalie Matt Jordan. Richard Mulrooney crossed a pass to midfielder Wade Barrett who found Cerritos just outside the goalie box to set up the goal. San Jose's Dwayne DeRosario closed out the scoring in the 90th minute when he fired a shot into the left upper corner, Barrett assisted on the goal.

Junior Rodeo is coming to Pampa

PAMPA — Junior Rodeo action will be coming to the Top Of Texas Arena on Saturday, June 2.

The Northwest Oklahoma Junior Rodeo Association will have the second in a series of 12 rodeos, starting at 10 a.m. in
