VACATION NOTES
 (By Olin E. Hinkle Managing Editor)

TAOS, New Mexico—Taos has a traffic problem, but no one seems worried about it; indeed, one would gather that the natives are rather proud of it. Age hangs heavily upon this ancient village, and if there is an active chamber of commerce it must be engaged in keeping things as they were generations ago. The narrow streets barely permit parking. Tourists gaze in wonder as they thread their way thru traffic lanes which demand full attention of drivers. Adobe store buildings beckon with stocks of Indian and Mexican merchandise.

The first thing that captures the writer's attention is the old mission church at near-by Ranches de Taos—reputably built in 1715. It is in fair condition, for in this dry climate adobe construction is very nearly as durable as brick is in wetter regions. Another shrine is the old home of Kit Carson, Wild West hero and scout. His modest adobe home is being kept open to tourists by a granddaughter four months in each year. One learns that he left relatives few personal effects, and that most of his guns are in the hands of relatives elsewhere. But the house itself is interesting enough, and a drink from the open well at the rear is satisfying. Carson and his white wife (he also had an Indian wife for a time) are buried near Taos. He died in Colorado but requested that his body be taken "back home."

Having arrived early, the Pampan was somewhat ahead of the business schedule. Desiring a shave, he found only an apprentice barber, a Mexican, on duty. After considerable thought, during which the Mexican youth stoutly maintained he was proficient and experienced, the writer ventured to get into the chair. After all, he thought, traveling affords hazards which must be endured, and Mexicans are supposed to be proficient with knives. The ordeal apparently was a fifty-etaoin shrdl rd was a 50-50 proposition, for the sun-tanned and wind-toughened whiskers from the plains well matched the evident inexperience of the youthful razor artist. Skilled union barbers, it should be said, have a deft and soothing touch that is hardly noticeable. But our Mexican invented more original holds and movements than the uninitiated would believe exist. But with much stropping and perseverance the barber reached what he termed, end of the shave, and the victim did not demurr. Not long afterwards, however, the traveler was possessed of Mr. Gillette's well known invention and accessories and the shaving process was repeated with far better grace and nerves.

Proberly shorn, the Pampan fared forth to test his Spanish and see the town. An hour passed quickly before a lucky chance acquaintanceship pointed the way toward some short expeditions of interest. A brother of Miss Louise Miller, Gray county deputy district clerk, was encountered at a large general store. He welcomed the scribe as a Texan and when Pampa was mentioned reminiscences were exchanged for a considerable time. Much of the remaining time was spent under kindly and skilled direction.

Two miles east of Taos are the pueblos, where Spanish conquerors corralled the Indians and where the latter still live in considerable number. The adobe houses, as much as four stories in height in the set-back architecture now being used in our great skyscrapers, have stood the test of time and the encroachment of civilization. The Pueblos have learned to like the purchasing power of the white man's coin, but they scorn his customs. Tourists are permitted to inspect the exterior of the Indian homes, but only occasionally is a visitor able to persuade the native "governor" to permit entrance. For one dollar visitors are permitted to take pictures under the direction of the governor, providing no pictures of Indians are taken without special permission. The Pampa editor had omitted this formality in his hurry to make friends with an Indian maiden of the probable age of three. The wee miss showed considerable interest in the newspaper man's Graflex camera and boldly opened the conversation with a frank "Whatcha say?" Her vocabulary was limited almost to this amount of English, but her willingness to pose was as great as was the chief's unwillingness until the dollar was in his hand. The copper hued little girl, her hands full of Uncle Sam's coppers, smoothed things over and the picture making continued satisfactorily to all concerned.

The Indians themselves showed little interest in tourists and for the most part kept out of sight. They answered questions in monosyllables and many signs. The men sat stolidly, if not majestically, in the shade while the squaws did whatever work the simple life demanded. Bread making in the large, oval outdoor ovens greatly interested the visitors. The ovens are heated with wood fires, and the squaws, noting with nicety the proper time to draw the blaze by watching the color of the clay interior, sweep the coals aside and insert the bread. In about 45 minutes a thick brown crust is formed on the cakes, while the middle is softer. The cooking is done by the heat retained in the clay—a sort of fireless cooking principle which is well adapted to the Indians' needs. The resulting food is healthful, even if not especially palatable to the tongues of those accustomed to condiments in more generous measure.

One would like to stay in Taos long enough to dig into the connections of local scenes with Southwestern history, for in this territory did American annals gain many thrilling early chapters. But Santa Fe, oldest town inhabited by whites in America, beckons, and there this narrative will be resumed in another letter to the News.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Senator Cole Blease, who can always be depended upon to say things that no other senator would say, believes his fellow Democrats are making a tactical error when they fight so hard against the Republican tariff bills.

"Let the Republican majority pass the bill," says the South Carolina statesman, "and next year we ought to be able to elect a Democratic Senate and a Democratic House. The House bill is so bad that if the tariff law finally passed is anything like it will wipe out the Republican majorities and give Hoover two years more in office with a Democratic Congress."

Of course, this is far from the official Democratic attitude. The party is fighting the Republican tariff revisions bitterly. Nobel as its position may be, however, it does not appear to contain the political sagacity of the proposal by Blease, who may make a brief speech pointing out the evils of the measure, but will otherwise confine himself merely to voting against it.

He says the Democrats can't possibly lose more than two Senate seats in the next election, whereas the Republicans may lose several.

Blease never went to any party caucuses to learn what to do.

"Nobody ever dictated to me," says he. "My daddy never did and my mother didn't try."

He is famous for the fact that he has voted dry while publicly admitting that he took a drink when he wanted one. But he has just returned from South Carolina and now he says:

"Prohibition has got so ridiculous that I've quit fooling with it. There isn't any. I've been looking for it everywhere I've gone and I can't find any prohibition anywhere."

"I've stopped drinking lately, anyway. Take a little drink once in a great while, of course, but you can't get any good liquor now and this bootleg stuff isn't fit to drink. That's why we have so much crime."

"Here we have a large commission investigating crime and lawlessness, but everybody ought to know there are two main reasons for it:

"First, temporary insanity caused by bootleg liquor, and second, abolition of the family altar at the fireside."

I mean by that, the passing of family prayer. I remember when I used to be invited into a home there would be morning prayer and evening prayer, but you never see that any more. There aren't even any blessings at the table any more. We just sit down and go ahead and eat.

"Family prayer used to make the kids sit down and think. It got them thinking about high ideals and Christian doctrines. Now they get up and frolic all day and all night, with movies, swimming, automobiles, dancing and sports."

"Often there aren't any meals at home to say grace over, anyway. Lots of families just eat out because they're too-lazy-to-use-canopeners."

Nurse One-Game Lead After Yesterday

WATLE TALBOT, JR.
Press Sports Writer

Quarter pole in the north-south junket through the state was reached today by the Nurse, who was leading yesterday and favored to win the final game of the series. The Nurse's lead was extended to three days.

It looked like a real break for the Nurse yesterday, but it was a parting victory over the Oilers, 12 to 4, and with Andy Hager ready to go against his former team in the opening game, things were looking up. The Nurse has been up before everybody else, so there is good reason to believe it will be the Nurse.

Leaders are hitting what is the soft spot on the Nurse's defense, Houston, respectively, will be engaged in a game of cut-throat in the series. The Nurse were two runs back of the Oilers, with an attempt to climb into second place in the week's crucial series, if the Nurse can get a chance to lead in the second half, faced a trio of Oilers. A set-back here would be fatal to Sport hopes. Fort Worth, led by it and bulldozed by the Nurse, invaded Katy Park for three days, during which usual quota of homers no doubt would be knocked.

George Payne so far has proved the position of the Spudders on their team. Out of three victories over the Oilers in 10 starts on road, of rubber arm has turned two. He limited the Exporters to a knock yesterday and, incidentally, ran his personal record to 24 and 10 losses this season. His rivals, Caldwell of Waco and Payne of Houston, have won 18 and 17 games respectively.

The Nurse needed only two big innings to salvage the final game of their series and knock the Buffaloes to the peak. Four runs off Wachter in the second and two more in the third accounted for the 6 to 3 victory. Paullo allowed his old mates 16 runs, Bonowitz, with a double and a homer, was the worst offender. Wachter relieved Walkup in the fourth and whiffed the last three bats.

WACO ADDS TWO .400 HITTERS

WACO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Addition of two .400 hitters to the Waco Texas League team, announced by President O. R. Turner yesterday is expected to increase the team's offensive power.

Ed Kallina, who has had a previous tryout in the Texas League and short-stop Boken were purchased from Midland. Kallina, in addition to hitting around .440, has made 45 home runs this year. Boken also hit better than .400.

Cub Batsmen Are Good Protection In Pennant Hope

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
When Cub pitching fails, Joe Mc-

Carthy's batsmen come to the rescue with basehits to keep the Bruhs well in advance of any National league pursuers.

It was a terrific batting rally in the eighth inning yesterday that enabled the Chicago pennant hopes to down Cincinnati, 8 to 5, and stretch their lead over the second place Pittsburgh Pirates to 13 1-2 games.

Hornsby and Kiki Cuyler were the active basemen with three hits apiece. A crowd of 35,000 turned out to see the battle.

In the only other National league game of the day, the Phillies nosed out the St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 6, in a hectic fray decided in the last two innings. The Phils, trailing by 6 to 2 at the end of the first half of the eighth, came within one of a tie when Davis hit a home run with two on. In the ninth three singles and a wild throw by Ernest Orattl gave the Phils two more runs and the game.

The American league had a day off while Eastern teams were getting back to their home bases from the west.

R. C. Campbell and daughter, Miss Christine, visited in Clarendon yesterday.

Society No Help To Farmers Says Alexander Legge

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (P)—Alexander Legge was loath today to become excited over his status in Washington society.
The chairman of President Hoover's new farm board displayed interest over reports that Washington hostesses were at a loss how to classify him socially. As Mr. Legge saw it, the question was whether he rated near the head of the table or the foot. To solve the problem, he suggested that he eat in the kitchen.

"Get this right," said the man who resigned a $100,000 a year job with the International Harvester Company to help the administration with the farm question, "when it comes to society, I'm a dud."

He explained his social status became a matter of concern shortly after he went to Washington. Hostesses and their secretaries began telephoning, inquiring of his stenographer into the Legge family history and his Chicago social connections.

"I told my stenographer I'd handle all future inquiries of that nature myself," Legge said, "soon I got a call from one of them. I said to him:

"My first claim to any prominence was robbing Wells-Fargo stage coaches. When that went out I took up train robbery, rustling horses between, as a member of Doc Middleton's gang of horse thieves.

"Since I've been in Chicago, I signed up with Al Capone, and you can just put me down whatever this rates me. The fellow hung up before I finished.
"We farmers are busy and we don't hanker after any social functioning. We don't want to go to any select dinners; but if we have to, and we have to put on fried shirts and such things, then all I want to say is this:

"We respectfully ask that we be given places in the kitchen, with the rest of the help, and if that interferes with the culinary business, we want to wait for the second table. We don't belong in any high crowds, and we want to be just farmers. It don't seem to us that

Twenty-Seven Jews Buried in Common Grave Following More Attacks of Arabs Yesterday

JERUSALEM, Aug. 27. (P)—Jewish dead in four days of bitter race warfare with Arab Moslems today numbered more than 100, of whom 15 were Americans, students at the Rabbinical college at Hebron. Arab dead were assumed to be as numerous. Hundreds suffered from wounds.

Southern Palestine momentarily seemed quiet, but fierce outbreaks between the wild bearded Islamic tribesmen and Jews were reported from northwestern Palestine, particularly in the vicinity of Haifa.

There were recurring attacks at both Tel Aviv, all Jewish city, and nearby Jaffa (Joppa), where British police fired upon a crowd attacking government office and killed five Arabs, wounding 30. In two attacks at Tel Aviv, six Jews and more than 20 Moslems were killed and more than 20 Jews wounded.

The government began to disarm the Jews, but it was understood the Arabs were continuing to obtain arms and ammunition from trans-Jordania. About 100 British soldiers were here today, and others were en route from two British warships anchored at Jaffa. The forces are equipped with machine guns, armored cars and airplanes.

Policing in Jerusalem has largely devolved upon a force of 600 British volunteers who are patrolling the streets night and day to maintain order. With appearance of British bayonets in the Holy City the situation became somewhat easier, although hundreds of Jews remained in hiding.
Jewish dead numbering 27 were buried last night in a common grave, similar to the first tomb dug in the side of the mount of Olives for bodies of 16 slain Jews. One of the six victims of the fighting at Tel Aviv was said here to be the son of the noted Jewish philanthropist, Isaac Leib Goldberg.

Two Englishmen were killed in disturbances at Ain Carim, Arab village near Jerusalem. Bedouins attacked the Jewish colony of Befaifa in Esraeldon valley, their sheik being killed. Five or six more Jews were killed in a new outbreak at Kastina colony.

Forty Arabs, members of a group which attacked the suburb of Hadar Haamuel, near Haifa, were arrested and taken to Haifa, where many other disturbers have been interned. Haifa was attacked both Sunday and yesterday, and many Jews were wounded with some dead.

At Beisan all Jewish houses were burned, one Jew was killed, and 21 wounded. Rehovoth, south of Jaffa, was attacked but no casualties were reported. The Jewish colony at Artuf, between Jerusalem and Jaffa was set on fire.

Considerable looting has occurred all over Palestine and Arab atrocities were reported from Mozza but not confirmed. Many Christians in Jerusalem marked their houses with blue crosses as a sign the building harbored neither Jews nor Moslems.

There is a scarcity here of medical supplies and food. Prices for the latter have reached almost famine level. The Jerusalem Jewish communal board has started a fund to maintain the refugees, who have come here from all Palestine.

The disturbances began last Friday as a result of contact growing out of controversy over the walling wall, what is left of the old left wall of Solomon's temple, used by the Jews in religious observances. The Arabs have maintained the observances constituted an obstruction to traffic.

Mr. and Mrs. George Walstad and daughter, Louise, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom E. Rose were among the Pampa visitors to Camp McQuiddy Sunday.

W. R. Campbell, President of Local Oil Companies, and Miss June Collins of Channing Married Today at Bride's Home

The marriage of Miss June Collins of Channing and Mr. W. R. Campbell of this city was solemnized at 10 o'clock this morning, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Collins. The Rev. Tom Brabham, pastor of the First Methodist church, Pampa, officiated in the ring ceremony.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left on a motor trip to Colorado and the far Western states. Upon their return, they will make their home here in a new residence under construction on North Somerville.

The bride was a teacher in the local schools a few years ago, and since then has visited here several times. She has a large group of friends to welcome her return. During the last three years she has taught in the public schools of Wichita Falls. Her parents are pioneer ranch owners, and her father is president of the First National bank of Channing.

Mr. Campbell, a resident of Pampa for more than ten years, is prominent in both the business and the social circles of the city. He is president of the Camel Oil company and the Guernsey Oil company, and the owner of a farm near here and Pampa city property. He is a member of the Rotary club and the official board of the Methodist church.

J. G. Burgess and O. W. Ferguson fellow members of the church board, were among the guests at the wedding.

West Texas League Playoff Thursday

COLEMAN, Aug. 27. (P)—The first game of a seven game playoff for the West Texas League championship will be played here Thursday. Midland coming to Coleman for the first two games. The teams will rest Saturday, playing at Midland Sunday and Monday. If another game is necessary, it will be played here Tuesday, and if a sixth game is necessary, it will be played in Midland Wednesday. Should the series go seven games, a coin will be flipped to decide where the final game is played.

Clarendon Open Golf Tournament September 6 to 8

CLARENDON, Aug. 27. (Special)—Golf enthusiasts entering the Panhandle Open Golf tournament at Hillcroft club, Clarendon, Sept. 6, 7, and 8, will compete for trophies and cash prizes worth $700.

Business men and merchants of the city have donated, in addition to the silver loving cup, prizes ranging from golfing togs and sports goods to Oriental tapestry rugs and boxes of chocolate candy.

Golfers from all clubs of the Panhandle are expected for the three day competition, and a big welcome is in waiting.

3-Cornered Duel Is Prospect for 15-Mile Marathon

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 27. (P)—Another three-cornered international duel is in prospect in the fourth Wrigley 15-mile marathon swim in Lake Ontario here tomorrow.

In a field of more than 400 entries, three stand out in advance calculations—George Young of Canada; Ernest Vierkoetter of Germany, and Georges Michel of France.

Young first leaped into fame when he captured the first Wrigley marathon at Catalina Island three years ago. Vierkoetter won the second and Michel took down most of the prize money last year although he failed to finish. The Frenchman covered 12 1/4 miles in 11 hours and 12 minutes and was the sole survivor when he was forced to withdraw.

Mrs. Edna Underwood returned Sunday from Canyon, where she attended the summer sessions of West Texas State Teachers college.

Oklahoma-Texas Boundary Change Believed Fixed

AUSTIN, Aug. 27. (P)—Action of the Texas legislative committee in refusing to make recommendations to the legislature bearing on the boundary dispute with Oklahoma was regarded as a victory for the Sooner state today.

The delegation from Oklahoma, headed by Assistant Attorney General V. P. Crow of Oklahoma City and Rep. Jim Nance of Walters, speaker of the house of representatives, presented a proposed compact which would call for leaving the boundary line where it has been since 1898, instead of placing it on a new line fixed as the 100th meridian in compliance with a decision of the supreme court of the United States.

The Texans were asked to recommend to the legislature that it ratify the compact, but the committee voted 11 to 1 in executive session to merely transmit the document to the legislature and leave it free to reach whatever decision it cared to make.

Both Crow and Nance said action of the Texas committee in not voting to disapprove the compact heartened them.

Between 28,000 and 40,000 acres of land and about 500 people will be affected by the boundary change, this area being shifted from Oklahoma to Texas. Oklahoma's proposed compact offered to pay $150,000 to Texas to defray whatever expenses it might have incurred during the dispute and to assume all responsibility of claims to the land which might be filed.

City Marshal Bud Bickle of Panhandle was here yesterday looking for two youths who held up an elderly lady in her home at Panhandle Sunday night, taking about $50.

Miss Della I. Davis of Norman, Okla., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. C. F. Sloan.

Local Tire House Ranks Second Now In Zeppelin Race

Pampa is one of the best cities in Texas and Oklahoma for the sale of automobile tires, according to Jack Baker, manager of the Adkisson and Gunn Tire company here. He has the proof in the fact that his station here is surpassed only by Oklahoma City in the Zeppelin race conducted by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. Points are given on tire sales and Pampa ranks second in the Oklahoma City division, Class A.

The local company has been conducting a sale of all Goodyear tires, the first time in thirty years that the Goodyear company has allowed sale prices to be put on all their tires. The sale and the Zeppelin race will close Saturday night when winners of the nation-wide race will be decided.

A PICNIC on CONOCO!

Extra miles paid for everything at this party.

PERHAPS you have been accepting the extra miles that are packed into Conoco gasoline as a matter of course. You expect an organization with such facilities and resources as those of the Continental Oil Company to produce a motor fuel of highest efficiency and greatest economy. And you have never been disappointed!

But have you ever figured in a concrete way just what you could buy with the savings which Conoco's extra miles bring to you... Last week's picnic, for instance... Did it occur to you that, after all, you were having that party on Conoco... That the extra miles you have been getting from Conoco all summer really paid the picnic bills?

Prove this for yourself. Note your speedometer reading the next time you fill with Conoco... Then keep an accurate record of your miles per gallon. That will be convincing evidence of the economy which comes from using Conoco.

Get extra mileage for your gasoline dollar at the Conoco sign.
