FREE SERVICE IS ASSURED BY LATE ACTION

Two Carriers Named From Regular Staff

PROPER ADDRESS NOW IMPORTANT

Street Numbers Must Be Specified in Future

Free mail delivery in the zones recently approved by the U. S. Postal department will begin October 1. It was announced today by Postmaster W. A. Crawford.

Through the efforts of the post office, B. C. D., Lions club, and others, mail boxes have been erected preparatory to inauguration of the service.

Two mail carriers have been appointed, and a third will be chosen soon. Alton Maricle, transferred from the clerking department, will deliver on Route 1, and Dallas C. Caldwell from the same division will take care of Route 2.

It is imperative, the postmaster points out, that in the future mail should be addressed to the proper street number.

Granting of the service will help to relieve congestion in the post office and to put Pampa into the list of cities having such facilities. Numerous inspections have preceded authorization of free delivery, and Congressman Marvin Jones made a trip here to assist in bringing local equipment and service up to the demand. Postmaster Crawford has added many new clerks and has altered interior equipment to add facility in handling the mails. Letter boxes have been placed at the Santa Fe station.

T. D. Hobart Named Active Pallbearer in Turner Funeral

AMARILLO, Sept. 16. (P)—Automobile accident injuries took Thomas F. Turner's life here yesterday and caused C. F. Collier, driver of the machine which collided with that of the 65-year-old prominent attorney, to suffer a slight brain concussion.

Judge Turner was one of the best known Panhandle pioneers, and was president of the Panhandle-Plains Historical society before Mr. Hobart succeeded him. The two had been close friends for many years.

RECENT GRADUATE OF CENTRAL IS DEAD

Miss Lareva Atkinson, 18-year-old daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Atkinson, died at the family home at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after a short illness. Funeral services will be held at the Malone Funeral home at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with the Rev. Tom W. Brabham, Methodist pastor, in charge of the last rites. Burial will take place in the Odd Fellows' Memorial cemetery at Amarillo.

Miss Atkinson was a member of the class which graduated last spring from Central high school. She had attended school here only her senior year, but during the time she had made many friends among the students and teachers. She was a member of the girls' debating team and of the staff of "The Spotlight," student newspaper. Before entering high school here, she attended at Vivian, La., where she and her parents lived for several years. She recently spent two months in California. Returning home, she planned to take a post-graduate business course in the local high school. She enrolled Tuesday and attended classes during the day. She became ill Wednesday. Although her health had been poor for several months, the seriousness of her illness was not known until the last few days before her death. The end came suddenly before many of the girl's classmates and friends knew of her illness.

Lareva Atkinson was born Oct. 3, 1910, at Pawnee, Okla. Her parents later moved to Vivian, where Mr. Atkinson was in business for eight years. The family moved here a year ago, and for several months following, Mr. Atkinson was associated with the Siskelly Oil company. Recently he has been with the Forrest E. Gilmore Gasoline company. He is a member of the Odd Fellows lodge. Mrs. Atkinson is a member of the Rebekah order.

DELUGE FALLS NEAR CITY IN SHORT PERIOD

Four Inches North of Pampa Registered by Gauge

TRAFFIC HALTS ON HIGHWAY 33

Mud on New Paving Is Barrier to Many Motorists

A downpour such as oldtimers could not recall as having been surpassed in intensity fell west, north, and east of Pampa early last night, inundating roads and making "navigable streams" really navigable.

Although only 1.3 inches fell in Pampa, as much as 4 inches was reported a few miles north and from residents along the Miami road. While no damage of note was reported, highway traffic was demoralized and rural telephones were not working.

Louie Behrends, who lives a few miles northwest of the city, has a rain gauge which showed a precipitation of slightly more than 4 inches. The rain fell in blinding sheets, accompanied by heavy thunder and lightning.

Hundreds of cars returning from Amarillo and other points west were delayed for more than a hour last night when motorists became stuck in mud which had not been scraped from the lap of paving only opened yesterday all the way to White Deer. Some one took the barriers down where highway workers had intended that a short detour be used pending removal of the approximately three-fourths of a mile of earth used in curing the concrete. Some of the cars went through, while other motorists returned to Panhandle and came on to White Deer or Pampa by train. Several cars were damaged by collisions during the blinding rain which fell about 8 o'clock.

The water course through the Cook-Adams addition was 50 feet wide and 15 feet deep last night and was still flooded today.

Safety-First buses were running somewhat behind schedule today on account of the roughness of the roads, but drivers reported that ruts were well beaten thru the mud, which was drying rapidly. The rain extended in every direction and well into Oklahoma. Roads that were extremely slippery in early morning very easily passable this afternoon.

Mussolini Quits Work—Lets Oxen Do It

Now that Benito Mussolini, dictator of Italy, has seen fit to turn over to his assistants seven of the numerous portfolios in his cabinet he has been filling himself, perhaps he will have more time to spend on his farm. Above is a recent picture of the premier of Italy, showing him seated with one of his children in a wagon drawn by two oxen on his Italian farm.

LeFors School Much Crowded

County Superintendent John B. Hesse reported this morning that the LeFors school is badly crowded, with an attendance of at least 150 more than was expected.

The LeFors school plant was built to accommodate 350 students, and the present enrollment is at least 400. There are too few desks, and not enough books to take care of the large enrollment.

C. G. Sanders, former superintendent at McLean, is superintendent of the LeFors school.

All Schools in County in Action

With the opening of three schools this morning, all the schools in Gray county are now in action.

The Hopkins school, 7 miles south of the city, began work this morning in a new $12,000 building. According to Mr. Hesse, this is the most modern school plant of the rural schools in Gray county and one of the most modern in the Panhandle. R. E. Page is superintendent. His wife, who is teaching with him, has undergone an operation and Miss Clara Brown is substituting until Mrs. Page recovers. The Schaffer school is opening its doors in a new location. It has been moved from its former position to the Clarendon and Jericho highway. Mrs. Jimma Alexander is teacher of the Schaffer school.

Six miles north of McLean, the Back school opened. Misses Ivy and Stella Hinkle are teaching this school.

Del Pratt Says Dallas to Win

DALLAS, Sept. 16. (P)—Manager Del Pratt of the Waco Cubs has picked Dallas to defeat Wichita Falls in their five-game play-off for the Texas league flag. Speaking over radio station WRR here, Pratt said:

"I hate to have to pick a play-off winner, but with both teams in there hustling as hard as they can Dallas ought to come out on top."

Hunt Sees Pampa as Well Founded

"Pampa seems to have settled down to a sure business foundation," were the words of Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry College, in an interview with a News reporter this morning. "It seems to me," Dr. Hunt went on to say, "that Pampa is different from any other oil town that I have seen. Pampa is settling down to a sounder and more solid basis than the others. There seems to be less of the speculation so common to the ordinary oil town."

Borger Man Is Fatally Stabbed by His Guests

BORGER, Sept. 16. (P)—Said to have attempted to quiet two guests scuffling at his door, Melvin Hochkiss, 26, operator of a truck line between Borger and Amarillo, was stabbed fatally last night.

Hochkiss died as a neighbor, C. N. Melton, newspaper man, called a doctor. Two men and the wife of one of them were held in jail at Stinnett, the county seat, in connection with the stabbing.

The victim is survived by his widow and a small child in addition to his parents in Denver, and one sister, Mrs. Sylvia Bissell of Westport, Okla., Kansas.

BORGER TRIAL PLAYED

BORGER, Sept. 16. (P)—The trial of Charley Hale, charged with slaying Ray Martin December 23, 1926, near here, was postponed today until later in the week by Judge E. J. Pickens at Canadian.

Canyon Boy Kills Self Following Quarrel With His Sweetheart

CANYON, Sept. 16. (P)—Stewart Jennings, 15, died here last night from poison after a quarrel with his sweetheart.

W. W. Merten, well known longtime Pampa resident, died at a local hospital shortly before midnight Saturday. His condition after an operation had been considered serious, but not until Saturday morning was his recovery doubtful.

The Rev. A. A. Hyde, minister of the Presbyterian church, preached a brief funeral service Sunday afternoon at the home, where friends of Mr. Merten gathered. The body was sent on the early morning train today to Clay Center, Kans., for burial.

Mr. Merten was a native of Kansas, having been born at Morganville in 1885. In 1919 he was married to Miss Abbie Denman, who survives him. He leaves a son, Walter W. Jr., 6 years old.

Coming to the Panhandle in 1917, he engaged in farming near Pampa until August, 1926, when he moved with his family to this city. They have since called Pampa their home, although they have spent several winters in California. Their most recent plans were to build an elegant residence here.

Mr. Merten was of a family of seven children. H. H. Merten, the father, died in 1925 and the mother in 1920. The six surviving brothers and sisters are: H. J. Merten, E. E. Merten, P. H. Merten, Mrs. W. F. Hanson, and Mrs. J. G. Hughes, all of Morganville, Kans. and Mrs. A. A. Shideman of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Merten aided in the formation of the First Presbyterian church of Pampa, and the former was one of the first elders. He with J. S. Wynne built the Wynne-Merten building on South Cuyler street in 1928, and he had extensive oil land and real estate holdings.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Herbert Walker visited friends in Miami yesterday afternoon.

STORES CLOSE AT BORGER FOR AFTERNOON

Miami Masons Are to Have Charge at Panhandle

NOTHING NEW IN MAN SEARCH

Officers Secretive as Hunt for Slayer Proceeds

BORGER, Sept. 16. (P)—Based, it was learned, upon the description of a woman said to have been a spectator to the slaying of District Attorney John A. Holmes Friday night, an arrest was made by officers here today.

No charges were filed immediately against the man held in jail, and officers continued their investigation of all possible clues. They would not divulge the names of those questioned nor the line of questioning employed.

The Gray county courthouse was closed this afternoon while officials and employees attended the funeral in Panhandle of John A. Holmes, slain district attorney of the 84th judicial district.

BORGER, Sept. 16. (P)—Developments of the John A. Holmes slaying here Friday night were kept from the public today by investigating officers. Ranger Captain Tom Hickman, reported to have gone on a secret mission yesterday, would not discuss the case.

Meanwhile arrangements for the funeral of the district attorney of Hutchinson county were completed. The services will be in charge of the Panhandle Masonic blue lodge. Burial will take place at 4 p. m. today in Panhandle.

City departments and business places were closed here today out of respect for Holmes. Hundreds of persons followed the body to Panhandle. The services were to be in charge of 25 Masons from Miami, Texas. Mr. Holmes' former home. They will be assisted by Borger and Panhandle Masons.

Officers seeking the slayer of the attorney, who had been very persistent in eliminating this county of its lawless elements, announced they had found no new developments.

BORGER, Sept. 16. (P)—Apprehension of the man whom the widow of District Attorney John A. Holmes believed was the assassin of the young official was expected today by Texas Rangers leading a great group of officers thrashing out clues since Holmes was cut down by three pistol bullets Friday night.

Mrs. Holmes, who wept at the thought that had she not left her husband's automobile in the driveway to go into the house a few steps ahead of him Holmes might not have been slain by the killer who lay in wait a few feet away, told Ranger Captain Frank Hamer she believed she knew whose hand held the gun. Captain Hamer planned to take the man she named in custody today.

The towering ranger chief, main figure in this perhaps the biggest criminal search in his many years of experience, learned from the widow that Holmes had been expecting an attack, but whether he also was informed of the source from which the district attorney had believed it would come was not revealed.

Hickman Disappears

Meanwhile, Hamer's colleague, Captain Tom Hickman, departed mysteriously, and it was thought possible he had gone to arrest the suspect of

THERE IS NO MORE GENUINE WRATH than that of a man whose car has stuck in the mud. And if the motorist happens to be a tourist he is not apt to see anything good for miles thereafter, particularly not in any city nearby.

There was a motorist' "convention" a little way beyond White Deer last night. The concrete was open on the east end at White Deer, but at the west end where a detour was lately used about three-fourths mile of earth had not been removed. Cars driven into this mud on the paving instantly became unmanageable, hour for a motorist to negotiate it required as much as an extra ribbon of slippery concrete. Cars were backed up for nearly a mile at one time. Many motorists, including the writer, returned to Panhandle to spend the rest of the night until John Santa Fe operated his all-weather train.

The indignation of the crowd was all too prophetic of the feeling which is going to be aroused by the ending of the paving at the Carson county line, leaving about 9 miles of mud to traverse into Pampa every time it rains. This gap must be closed as soon as possible. People cannot be expected to be anything but impatient with the situation. They are not in a mood to hear explanations. They know they voted money for this paving and they know the road has not been built. It is very probable that a majority of the voters of the precinct had rather take off a mile elsewhere in the program rather than do without this important stretch. Explanations are of value only when difficulties they represent may be overcome. The people expect the county and the state to formulate a solution.

The question of a 100-foot right-of-way, which would necessitate a large expenditure along the present route, is precipitated by an unexpected demand from the state highway department. Settlement of this question and letting of grading, drainage, and bridging contracts at one time would hasten the date of paving completion, but it seems doubtful that the stretch can be taken out of the mud before spring.

The Pampa district's failure to close the gap is causing many false reports and assumptions. One hears that Pampa is afraid of losing trade if the paving is laid, although the assumption is false and has no bearing on the case. Panhandle's experience is proof enough that paving helps trade. Panhandle's trade area has been at least doubled in the oil field territory by completion of paving in two directions. Her business men testify to this fact. Shoppers do not mind distance if the highway is passable, and they will drive miles to avoid mud.

Much attention is being paid to the connecting of county seats with paving. Proud Pampa cannot afford to remain long in the position of having failed to close the gap of concrete laid virtually to her front gate by a neighboring county.

THOUSANDS FEEL THE LOSS OF THOMAS F. TURNER, one of the finest representatives of Panhandle pioneer days. Tom Turner, as he was known, was dean of Plains lawyers and typical of the hearty good-fellowship of the early days. He was sturdy at 65, and had not an untimely accident injured him fatally he likely would have lived many years longer.

With Tom Turner's passing went one of the best informed minds in the Panhandle with respect to pioneer history and conditions. Judge Turner was one of the organizers of the Panhandle-Plains Historic Society, which he also served as president. His witty sessions as toastmaster over the banquets of the organization will be remembered as among the most enjoyable moments in the reunions of those who came to the Panhandle in the '80s.

Mr. Turner had that facility for which so many of the princely early citizens are remarkable—of easily spanning the gap in his thinking between the past and the present. His mind was as keen as the mentalities of the Teachers college students with whom he loved to mingle.

Truly, Judge Turner was of plains royalty—a man whose services could ill afford to be terminated. In striving to perpetuate the memory of his contemporaries he not only left a priceless heritage, but carved for himself an unforgettable place in the Panhandle hall of fame.

The Governor and Clemency
 Yesterday's press wires carried a brief and humorous story to the effect that Governor Dan Moody had extended the reprieve of a condemned negro from today to tomorrow because today was charted on the calendars as "Black Friday". The story made good reading and quoted one of the governor's secretaries as its authority but The Morning Avalanche is of the opinion that it was more humorous than true.

From time to time this newspaper has carried editorial comment concerning Governor Moody and his official acts. Most of the time the Taylor red-head's policies have concurred with those of this publication, although, as is perfectly natural, we have disagreed with him at times. But however that may be, The Avalanche puts little faith in the story of the governor's superstitions on "Black Friday" for his handling of the problems of pardon and parole has certainly been more sensible.

The governor, thus far in his position, has reviewed hundreds of applications for paroles, pardons and reprieves. If he has erred in a single one—which certainly would be human enough—it has not come to the attention of the public and his acts in this particular phase of his duties, have been singularly refreshing, coming as they did upon the heels of the unenviable record of his predecessor.

Any man who is big enough to be Governor of Texas must be as big as Governor Moody's solution of the clemency problem indicates that he is. He must act in justice and not in mercy. He must not set himself up as the superior to courts and juries which have passed sentences—yet at the same time he must view impartially later incidents which have bearing upon each individual case.

Imagine, if you can, yourself in the governor's place. Here is a man condemned to die for a crime which a jury—and in some cases judges, too—has convicted him. You know little or nothing of the case as it was tried. You only know the man was convicted and sentenced.

On the other hand there is a plea of mercy—a plea which has always brought an answer from mankind. And here are facts which may be either true or false, concerning incidents after the trial which indicate that there is a chance, even though it may be remote, that the condemned man is innocent. What are you going to do?

You don't know. You're in a quandary—and so is the governor most of the time. The only difference between the two of you is that you can't feel what the governor feels by the simple virtue that he's responsible and you are not!

The Morning Avalanche is in favor of law enforcement. It believes crime should be punished. Yet, at the same time, it sympathizes with Governor Moody and seizes happily upon this opportunity to opine to the world that he's doing a most commendable job in this particular.—Lubbock Avalanche.

WASHINGTON LETTER
 BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 WASHINGTON — Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway of Arkansas will resume his campaign to unmask the Washington lobbyist during the next regular session of Congress, beginning in December. Caraway says the lobbying business here is pretty largely a graft, victimizing people over the country who are paying out money for influence which doesn't exist.

"I know a hundred people in the District of Columbia who have been here ever since I have been here and who are being supported in affluence on someone's theory that their lobbying activities are worth money", the senator says.

"And not one of them has a speaking acquaintance with a dozen men in public life or the remotest kind of influence anywhere."
 Caraway has a bill which would require all paid lobbyists to register themselves and tell how they work for and how much they are paid. It applies to any lobbyist "who shall engage for pay to influence legislation by the National Congress" and defines lobbying as "any effort to influence the action of Congress upon any matter coming before it, whether it be by distributing literature, appearing before committees of Congress or interviewing or seeking to interview individual members of either the House of Representatives or the Senate."

This bill has been passed by the Senate, which presumably will pass on it again.

"I'd like to get those autocrats in the House to let it go through too", Caraway says. "There's no reason why Congress should let these fellows be protected in their practice of milking the country."

"I want to give these individuals and meaningless associations a chance to expose themselves. I want these business classes and philanthropic persons who support them to realize that they don't get anything for their money except receipts."

"It is seldom difficult to predict the course of legislation in Congress a short way ahead. After a bill is passed it's easy enough for these special representatives to claim much of the credit whether any belongs to them or not."

"The really important influence that is brought to bear on Congress comes from back home. These people who tour around speaking to the Lions clubs, Rotary clubs and Chambers of Commerce, propagandizing and planting resolutions, are much more important than the fellows we have here."

"The railroad companies were especially active in that way when we had the Robinson bill to abolish the Pullman surcharge. People who hardly ever rode on a train were persuaded to make protests to Congress. Letters and resolutions came from everywhere, and most of them were worded almost identically."

"As far as I can see, the regular professional lobbyist in Washington is as useless as the fifth wheel on a wagon."

Among the events marking the renewal of club activities in the city was Child Study club's opening meeting of Friday afternoon, at which Mrs. S. A. Hurst, the new president, made her address to the members.

Mrs. Raymond Harrah, program leader, as well as hostess, directed an excellent program on child training, introducing a course which will be followed thru the club year. Her own paper was a discussion of methods, including precept, example, and illustrative story, as they apply particularly to problems in training boys.

There followed a round-table discussion on why so many parents fail to keep a strong hold on their sons. The gist of Dean Stanley's advice to boys was given by Mrs. W. Purviance. "Boys that Are Wanted," a reading in harmony of the theme, was given by Mrs. Raymond Harrah. "Character of a Happy Life," an old English poem, was read by Mrs. Lee Harrah.

Mrs. Tom E. Rose, club musical director, discussed in interesting style the southern plantation songs. Following her talk a phonograph record of "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" was played as the closing number of the program.

Arab Trouble on Sea of Galilee Is Disturbing Factor

JERUSALEM, Sept. 16.—(AP)—News of a new outbreak at Hattin, near the sea of Galilee, in which raiding Bedouin tribesmen lost 16 lives and many wounded before being dispersed by British military patrols, today disturbed the peaceful atmosphere of Palestine where no trouble between Jews and Arabs had been reported for a week.

There was a tendency to regard the affair as purely local. No fears were entertained that the affray would in any way affect the proposed visit of 200 prominent Egyptian Arabs to Palestine for the purpose of bringing about a reconciliation of the two peoples.

Reports to the Jewish telegraphic agency stated there was growing feeling among Egyptian Arabs that the grand mufti of Jerusalem, recognized Moslem leader, was partly responsible for the recent troubles in the country. Dissatisfaction with the grand mufti was said to be partly due to his alleged failure to fully account for funds raised in Egypt for repairing the mosque of Omar.

TEXAS LEAGUE LEADERS REST FOR PLAY-OFF

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.

Five months of endeavor behind them, members of six Texas league clubs were scattered over the continent today with their final salary checks in the old sock. They have until next April to reflect on the wisdom of a diamond career.

Members of two more fortunate outfits, the Dallas Steers and Wichita Falls Spudders, were preparing to fight it out for the right to pluck an additional financial plum. They will clash in a five-game series starting Wednesday, the winner to meet Birmingham, Southern Association champion, that's gold in their 'thar' Dixie series.

Both finalists were expected to take a rest today, with a final tune-up scheduled Tuesday afternoon. Manager Milt Stock, Steer pilot, announced he would take his first half champions to Spudderville early tomorrow. Games will be played there Wednesday and Thursday. A resumption of hostilities is scheduled at Dallas Saturday.

With the second half crown clamped upon the Spudders' brows and nothing in particular at stake, the final games were run off in desultory fashion. Most of the pilots took advantage of the opportunity to try out rookies.

Three thousand Dallas fans were treated to the sight of Randy Moore, Steer outfielder, sewing up the league batting championship. While the Mavs were taking the Waco Cubs, 6 to 3, Randy smacked one hit in four attempts to finish with an unofficial mark of 368. Fred Bennett, Spudder sige gun, who was idle, was close behind with an average of 367.

Larry Bettenourt, Spud utility man, played every position for one inning as his team dropped an 8 to 6 decision to Beaumont. Only two other Wichita Regulars got into the contest.

San Antonio closed all other wise drab season with a 7 to 5 triumph over the Sports, who employed a make-shift line-up. Shreveport already had clinched second place for the full season and thus will receive a slice of the Dixie series mutton.

The Panthers closed their books by overwhelming the Buffs, 14 to 1.

CONNIE MACK'S DAUGHTER TO BECOME A NUN

Connie Mack and his pennant-bound Philadelphia Athletics have lost one of their most faithful rooters—Connie Mack's daughter, Mary Cornelia, 18, who daily sat in a seat back of the A's dugout and rooted for the Athletics, has entered the convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph at Philadelphia, where he was educated, as a novice to become a nun. While attending the convent school, she was prominent in athletics.

Slaton High May Furnish Friday Opposition, Otherwise Open Date May Be Unfilled for Harvesters

Does Slaton wish to meet the Harvesters? Coach Odus Mitchell today was awaiting an answer to this query before trying elsewhere to match a game for Friday's open date. Mitchell, it will be remembered, formerly coached the Slaton eleven.

If Slaton is unwilling to meet the locals, Friday may remain an open date. Teams unmatched for the day are very scarce. The Harvesters need a tough encounter to condition them for the game with Memphis, Sept. 27. Memphis will bring one of the strongest teams the Harvesters will meet this season. The squad has consistently been strong in recent years. It won a 33-7 victory over Eldorado Friday, and the latter is not a weak eleven.

The Central high boys will go to Canyon October 4 for a game with the Canyon high Eagles, who are reported not as strong as usual but always dangerous.

Mack Proves He Is Not "Too Old"

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16. (AP)—Connie Mack, 66-year-old manager who has just guided the Philadelphia Athletics into their seventh American league pennant, was a lively refutation today of the old axiom, "they never come back."

"Well I guess they have been shown," Mack said. "They kept telling me I was too old." He referred to the persons in and out of baseball who showed criticism on him during the many years after 1914 when the Athletics were not so good. They were quick to forget Mack's successes in the past, his six league championships and three world series victories.

"I'm too old, am I?" he continued, repeating remarks made about him during the seven straight years the Mackmen finished in the cellar. "I guess they won't be saying that about me for a while. I'm a lot older than when I used to hear it and read it every place I turned. They advised me to quit, to give up the reins of the club a dozen years ago. All along the baseball front I was told I was too old, that I should get out and give a younger man a chance.

"But I'm not ready to step down just yet. When I meet the man I think known more baseball than I feel I do, then he can have my job."

The next voice referred to, by Dr. Hunt, was the voice of the world. He brought out the fact that need cry on every hand to those who possess the means to aid.
 The last voice of the speaker mentioned was the voice of God. "The voice of God is the still small voice that speaks to all," said Dr. Hunt. "When God once speaks to a human all the jangling discords of the world disappear."

Inner Voices Are Described by Hunt in Address Here
 Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry college at Abilene, delivered a sermon on "The Three Voices" at the First Methodist church Sunday morning. Dr. Hunt spoke from the text, "He that hath ears to hear let him hear."
 The three voices the speaker referred to in his sermon were the voice of conscience, of the world, and of God. "Conscience," said the speaker, "is that inner voice that man hedges and sandbags into quiescence." He brought out that conscience shows man the right and wrong in his motives. Regardless of what man does, if he does it with a wrong motive conscience always tells him of his wrong. Many times men commit acts for wrong motives as they attempt to make the public believe the motive behind the act is good. The speaker then said, "One of the sins of the day is that men and women have not kept their consciences sensitive to the touch of truth."

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 MOLLY BURHAM, charming playright, has a stormy scene with BOB NEWTON and RED FLYNN. Bob has been drinking, and insists that he wants his baby. Molly took the child when Bob's wife died, and now she lives in mortal terror lest she take her own child, and who will she reveal about the baby.
 After Molly gets rid of her quarrelsome child, she writes a letter to her old sweetheart, JACK WELLS, who is going to the States to admit her love and longing, and says that she wishes they might go together.
 Molly writes and breaksfast time, when Red Flynn telephones to say that MRS. BULWER-EATON, a successful milliner, friend, and Jack on the Levee. Then she destroys her letter.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXVIII
 THERE were stories after that about Jack and Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton. They said that in the Bulwer-Eaton mansion there was a golden bathtub, with eucalyptus painted on it. And they said that a French maid bathed the pomeranians each morning in the gold tub.
 There were rumors that the two were married, although no record could be found of a marriage license. It was whispered, also, that the old woman had adopted Jack, and would make him her sole heir.
 European correspondents met the Levithan when she docked at Liverpool. Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton was accompanied by her personal maid, a secretary, and two stalwart guards. With plenty of team work the quartet fended off reporters, and Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton made a successful getaway.
 Jack was not with her, and there was a rumor that he had gone ashore disguised as a steward.
 Still, the couple were news. Cameramen bribed the servants, and gained entrance to the various Bulwer-Eaton homes. They photographed the million-dollar bathtub. And the statues of Cupid and Psyche in the old lady's boudoir.
 Feature writers did articles on the mosaic floor in the ball room, comparing it to the art of Nero's banquet hall. They described, in great detail, the rug woven in Tunis for Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton, depicting the characters of a famous comic strip. They counted the cut crystal chandeliers, and the gold handles on the bureau drawers. . . . And, by the time they were through, half the world thought young Mister Wells had done pretty well by himself. And the other half thought he ought to be ashamed, and shouldn't be allowed to live.
 Everybody read the news but Molly. She had given orders that every word about the infamous Bulwer-Eaton-Wells affair be destroyed before the papers were brought to her.
 Once Red Flynn had tried to talk about it.
 "That's an awful riding there, ain't giving young Wells," he observed, meaning to sound quite casual.
 Molly said nothing.
 "It's a flock of lies and horse feathers. If you ask me," he vouchsafed.
 Molly shrugged her shoulders.
 "I didn't ask you," she remarked pointedly.
 "Well, I'm telling you then," he pursued unruffled. "If the old dame doesn't take them for a few millions in libel suits, she's a dumb Jane. As for Wells—my gosh, they've taken him for an awful ride. And I ask you—what have they got on him? Nothing. Nothing at all. A man's got a right to go to Europe. He don't have to tell the cockeyed world about it, does he?"
 Molly faced him angrily.
 "It's about time you observed," she told him cuttingly, "that I'm not interested in Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton and her boy friends, if any."
 Red whistled.
 "But you don't really think—" he began.
 "I don't think anything about it," she flashed. "And what's more, I don't want to. If I'd lived as long as you have, Red Flynn, and had as little tact . . ."
 "Oh, all right," he soothed. "Don't get excited, Sweetness. By the way, speaking of boy friends, how's your little pal, Bob?"
 "Better wouldn't melt in his mouth," she admitted, "since he apologized for that dreadful night. He's nice as nice can be. He simply went down on his knees. He was thoroughly ashamed of himself. And he's tried so hard to be sweet since. It's rather pathetic."
 Red looked annoyed.
 "Once an egg, always an egg," he observed. "I'm glad, though, you never tried to go through on that custody business. No excuse for you pulling a low-down trick, because the other fellow's rotten."
 "No," she admitted. "I thought that over afterward. I'll never try to take Rita away from him. It hasn't the right. The thing that hurts, Red, is knowing that he has the right to take her from me. If Bob should marry again, he probably would want Rita."
 "Probably," acknowledged Red.
 "The only way you can beat that," he added carelessly, "is marrying him yourself."
 "I've thought of that," she said quietly.
 "Molly! My God, are you crazy!" Red clenched her arm roughly.
 "Don't!" she exclaimed. "You hurt. Can't you take a joke, Stupid?"
 "You didn't sound like you were joking, Molly."
 "Well, I was. Anyhow why all the excitement?"
 "I'd marry you myself," he declared, "rather than let that sap have you."
 "Indeed!" She swept him a mocking little courtesy. "That's awfully good of you, Mister Flynn."
 "The next afternoon Bob called with a French primer for Rita. Molly meant never to be at home when he came. She was jealous of Bob, and it hurt her to see the comradely spirit that was developing between him and his daughter. She felt, also, that she could never

"Conscience," said the speaker, "is that inner voice that man hedges and sandbags into quiescence." He brought out that conscience shows man the right and wrong in his motives. Regardless of what man does, if he does it with a wrong motive conscience always tells him of his wrong. Many times men commit acts for wrong motives as they attempt to make the public believe the motive behind the act is good. The speaker then said, "One of the sins of the day is that men and women have not kept their consciences sensitive to the touch of truth."

—after that dreadful night—came to marry you. You'd be a fairly lovely wife, my dear. You are the sort of woman man dreams about when he thinks of the woman whom he would most desire. Dream-figures are made of your sweetness, and tipped with your flame—did you know that, Molly? You're the kind of girl—" "Bob!" she cried.
 "Oh, I know, dear—I'm a good all of an egg, and I've an awful urge to ask you to marry me. I've even a couple of unpleasant conditions of just what kind of a sump I am. And it's damn generous to expect you to list them. . . . But after all, Molly, there are certain circumstances to be considered. I happen to be the father of a child whom you adore. You should marry me, you would me Rita's mother. That ought mean something to you."
 But Bob's head whirled. You didn't ever take her from me! Rita is mine," he said, "suppose, that you should marry someone. Would you expect me to up my child?"
 But I'm not going to marry you, Bob!"
 "No," he insisted, "a matter which I can handle any children. I almost always succeed. If I marry, you would probably a child of your own."
 "I love Rita most," she declared.
 But I couldn't let you have her, protested. "You must believe I'm a silly child, Molly."
 Why, of course you love her! Everybody loves her. It's goodness, what are we talking about? Bob'd think!" She laughed roarsly. "I'm sure I've no hope of getting married, or having a family, or anything of the sort. But you ought to think that's what matter with you, Molly. You're incomplete. You need a husband. Children. Required love." "Bob!" she appealed. "You sound like an old maid with a complex. Stop it!"
 He put his arm around her awkwardly.
 Now listen to me, little girl. I've been friends for a long time. We know each other's very well."
 She nodded, squirming uncomfortably.
 "Well, I'm a fairly broad-minded sort of chap. I've stood back and kept my mouth shut. I believe that a girl should have enough experience to get a sane slant on love, exactly as men do. It gives them a better chance of happy marriages based on reasonable values."
 "Sometimes, Molly, it's made the pretty cora, seeing you surrounded with Flynns. That night I came in and found you in his arms. . . ."
 "Bob!" she cried.
 "But that's all right," he went on. "If you hadn't played around a bit, the first man who broke through your guard to kiss you would have given you such a devastating thrill, you'd have thought it was love-for-life stuff. Now you know better than that. You know, for instance, that Jack Wells and Flynn can both thrill you. . . ."
 "See here!"
 Molly thrust him from her, and catching his coat lapels in both hands, held him. Searching his eyes with hers.
 "You mustn't talk to me like that."
 "Why not?" he demanded. "We might as well be honest with each other. Now listen, Molly. . . ."

Waggoner Held in Wyoming Jail

NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—C. D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, Colo., today was indicted by a federal grand jury for mail fraud in connection with the manipulation by which he obtained half a million dollars in credit from New York banks on fake telegrams.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 16. (AP)—Although he was one step closer a final accounting for his $500,000 manipulation at the expense of six New York banks, it appeared likely today that C. D. Waggoner, president of the closed bank of Telluride, Colo., would remain in the Laramie county jail here for perhaps a week.

Chained to a deputy sheriff Waggoner was brought here yesterday from Newcastle, Wyo., where he was arrested Tuesday following discovery of his puzzling half million dollar transaction.

After a day of discussion between Waggoner, his counsel and relatives of the banker, A. D. Walton, United States attorney, announced the next move in Waggoner's case would be held up pending further action of New York authorities.

The attorney expected an indictment to be returned against Waggoner by a New York federal grand jury, and he said he would await receipt of the indictment and perhaps a bench warrant before holding a hearing on the removal order already received.

from Holmes office files appeared to have lost some of their lure as investigators, as far as could be learned, yesterday pushed the matter back among their minor concerns.

An investigation of the garage at the district attorney's home by Rangers convinced them the slayer either leaped out of the building upon Holmes, firing as he came, or hid in a corner and curled his trigger finger as the victim drove the machine in and temporarily was blinded by the flood of light which the car's lamps made in the small area.

Rangers were reported to have questioned several persons this morning. Their names and the line of questioning were kept secret.

DOUBLE BILLS ARE ARRANGED FOR FAN BAIT

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major leagues dipped down into the minors yesterday for an idea to bolster box-offices weakened by the unseemly decision of both pennant races in mid-September. Games scheduled for later dates at Boston, Cincinnati, and St. Louis were advanced to manufacture artificial double-headers as fan bait. Some 15,000 Cardinal clients contributed cash to see the Giants perform twice at St. Louis, but there is no report of any riots before the gates of Redland field or Braves field, Sunday home of the Red Sox.

The Cubs filled Wrigley field on a one-game basis, and delighted their 40,000 customers with a victory over Brooklyn, 13 to 4. The result placed the Bruins within one victory of the flag, and dropped the Robins to sixth place below the idle Phillies.

The Cubs had three chances today to nail up their flag, their own game against Brooklyn and the two the Pirates must play against the hard-swinging Phillies.

Bill Walker pitched masterful ball against the Cardinals in the opener to win 4 to 0 on four runs presented to him by his support in the very first inning, but Larry Benton failed in the nightcap, 6 to 4.

Any designs the Braves may have on seventh place were quieted yesterday when the Reds won both halves of the Cincinnati bargain 6 to 1 and 4 to 3. This double-triumph gave the men of Hendricks a margin of ten games in seventh place, and a fighting chance to overhaul either the Robins or the Phillies.

The Pirates and the Phillies were idle. At the Yankee stadium where a natural double-header was played due to a postponement when Cleveland last visited New York, a surprising crowd of 40,000 turned out to see the fallen Huguenot divide two with the Indians. The veteran Tom Zachary just out-pointed Willis Hudlin to win the opener 1 to 0, adding his eleventh victory to a record which shows no defeats.

The Indians walloped Waite Hoyt and Fred Heimach impartially in the second game, piling up fourteen hits to win 10 to 0.

whose whereabouts he seemed informed.

An unconfirmed rumor that some of the scores of police officers determined to run down Holmes slayer thought "politics" might have been involved in the murder sent that theory to prominence among the vast press of leads muddled over.

Assistant United States District Attorney Alex G. Mood's conference with Rangers yesterday caused speculation in the direction of 14 Berger men and women scheduled for trial today in federal court at Amarillo on liquor charges filed after a raid by state officials here in July. Holmes was to have assisted the government in the cases.
