Allred Cites Sufficiency Of Road Funds, Asks An Early Decision DEBT UNCERTAINTY SENDS POUND STERLING TO NEW LOW

TWINKLES
The Pampans' absence from the office is explained by the fact that he has been trying his own advice on bad colds. And since we're back on duty, why say more?

The West Foster grouch says that while Ben Franklin invented the heating stove, no inventor has been able to make one of the things for Panhandle weather.

Speaking of Franklin, did you know that morally he was one of the least admirable of our immortals?

When the wet-dry battle in Congress is decided, they won't need to repeal any laws against drunk drivers. Old Dobbin took many a sore home, but any car that can move is dangerous with a brain-dead man at the wheel.

When more powers are needed by governors, Bill Murray will invent them. Beside Bill, our Ross is a freshman.

Mrs. Ferguson's opportunity for mischief as governor is huge. When a state starts regulating business, it can't make many moves without going in the wrong direction. And equity isn't often found in a hands-off policy, either.

It's our opinion that as long as it's only a touchdown separates Pampa, Lubbock, and Amarillo football teams, no two-ply "tradition" is worth a continental dam.

The man in the street does much talking about debts owed to the United States by our wartime allies, but according to international observers, he makes the fundamental error of assuming that nations look upon their obligations as do individuals or small units of government. The belief persists that the European debtors can pay and pay in money. In the case of France, this seems to be for the present at least, true. But Great Britain and the lesser countries are rather obviously unable to pay except in goods.

The man in the street—meaning most of us—is quite able to understand why this country wants none of Europe's goods. We have an under-consumption of almost every American-made article, together with unemployment in the manufacturing industries with which any importations would compete. Unquestionably the greater portion of the money borrowed from American bankers and American depositors came back into this country in the form of foreign trade which dried up when the borrowing ceased. As a matter of exact truth, much of the gold borrowed in this country never left our shores, being transferred from bank ledgers to manufacturers' bank accounts with no more red tape than the flourish of an ink-laden pen. With exception of France, international experts tell us, our debtors in the European family of nations simply cannot pay in

PREMIER MACDONALD TO SEND SECOND APPEAL

WARM DEBATES HEARD

FRENCH TAKE MUCH TIME TO FRAME POLICY

LONDON, Nov. 29. (AP)—The pound sterling reached a new all-time record of $3.15½ today under the influence of continuing uncertainty affecting the war debts, but rallied slightly and closed at $3.15½.

By The Associated Press
Europe's debt to America still occupies the statesmen of every country concerned with the exclusion of other issues.

Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain is giving his entire attention to the preparation of a second note by which he hopes to convince the United States that postponement of the $65,550,000 payment due Dec. 15 is essential to the economic well-being of the world.

The French chamber of deputies engaged in some acrimonious debate, but agreed to give Premier Herriot more time to determine the policy of France. This government also is preparing another note for Washington asking postponement of the $20,000,000 due next month.

Austria, although it is not directly concerned in the negotiations with America, is deeply interested, for if France and England have to pay, it may be impossible to obtain ratification by those two countries of a $4,000,000 conditional loan which the League of Nations was to extend.

E. J. Ayer Struck By Truck; Injuries May Be Serious

Ewell J. Ayer, owner of the Ayer Mattress factory on South Cuyler street, is in Worley hospital after having suffered a broken left leg, broken right arm, and severe head injuries when struck by a truck about 6:30 o'clock last night. He was rushed to the hospital in a Stephenson ambulance immediately after the accident.

The truck, driven by Ed Foran, was proceeding east on Foster avenue and neither man was aware of the other's presence until the truck hit Mr. Ayer.

NOVEL—THESE NEW CARDS

Christmas cards with a new touch are in demand this year, and there seems to be one for every taste. Among the newest are those decorated with penguins, one of which is shown above. Greetings are suggested by the Victorian age, and "depression" card in the new forms are other favorites.

The Pampa Daily NEWS has a large assortment of clever Christmas cards—call and see them.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—To achieve novelty without extravagance—that is the thing most of the Christmas card designers strive for this year. And a glance around the shops shows that they have pretty well succeeded.

"Novelty" in Christmas cards permits a wide range—into the past as well as the future. The big idea is to get away from last year's designs and the year's before that. But go back to the Victorian age for suggestions and the field is as fertile for novelty as the old little creations of the reckless modernists.

More Depression Cards
The old booby, the Depression, still inspires a number of tricky cards. The spirit of these is spoofing, satirical. They gain effect from materials as well as design. Some of them are printed on wrapping paper, wall paper and paper bags.

Oil Worker Has Injury to Neck

R. J. Kizer, employe of the Clayton Dwyer company, is in Worley hospital with a severely injured neck, suffered when two 2x12 pieces of lumber fell on him yesterday while he was working on a rig in the South Pampa oilfield. Physicians believe that Mr. Kizer will recover.

The lumber fell with such force that it broke the sixth vertebrae at the top of the spine.

COMMISSION IS TIED UP BY ACTION OF FERGUSON

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—The third court of civil appeals today set for hearing on next Saturday at 9 a. m. an appeal filed by James V. Allred, state attorney general, from a district court order restraining the Texas highway commission from awarding further construction contracts.

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—The Texas highway commission, restrained in district court by James E. Ferguson and others, from spending further funds on construction, today carried its case to a higher tribunal.

James V. Allred, state attorney general, appealed from the lower court's order direct to the third court of civil appeals here.

Allred also filed a motion asking the court to advance the case so that it could be determined at the quickest possible day. It was expected the court would set a date for hearing at once.

The restraining order was obtained upon the ex-parte application of James E. Ferguson, husband of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, governor-elect, John M. Chamberlain and Bailey W. Hardy.

It enjoined the highway commission from awarding contracts or receiving bids for highway construction or from "in any wise creating or attempting to create any liability against the state of Texas or the state highway fund for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1933."

In his motion to advance Allred (See FEDERAL, page 6.)

Spearman Editor Declares Eleven To Beat M'Lean

That the Spearman Lynx fully intend to defeat the McLean high school football team here next Friday was declared by W. J. Miller, editor of the Spearman Reporter, in telephone conversation with 'The NEWS' today.

Mr. Miller pointed out that the Lynx had not been beaten while at their full strength and while meeting a team using only eligible players. They will be at the peak of their season when they come to Pampa, he added.

Far from being the underdogs, the Lynx should be considered the favorites in Mr. Miller's opinion. He added that Pampa fans "hadn't seen nothing yet" and that even the Harvesters could learn a few tricks by watching the Spearman eleven.

plan, sponsored by the Jaysees, 100 per cent both by subscriptions and backing. Arrangements have been made to give prizes of cash for the best decorated home and the best decorated store with ribbons for the best floats entered in the parade. Every committee is functioning and the day is expected to be the greatest in the history of the Panhandle.

Dr. H. H. Hicks invited every member to the Fat and Lean football game Thursday afternoon. Bob Fuller spoke on the McLean-Spearman football game and the good will work done by attending. Geo. Briggs invited members to make the trip to Mobeetie tonight.

Music was furnished by Bob Daugherty and his cornet with Sid Merion at the piano. The members decided to make the charter installation night a stag banquet and postpone the ladies' night until some time in January.

"COWPATH" SEES COW

Northwood Susan Sixth, grand champion milking shorthorn, tossed her head proudly as a big crowd watched her step along in Chicago with Buttercup, her three-weeks-old calf. She had reason to be proud, for she was treading a $177,000 cow-path for the first time any cow had walked it in 50 years. Nearly a century ago, William Jones bought a lot of Clark and Monroe acres, in the frontier city of Chicago. He had a truck farm and a cow, and as the city grew, sold off front strips of his land. But he kept one strip, 10 feet wide and 177 feet long, for a cow-path to take his cow from stable to pasture. Cows, stable, and pasture have vanished from downtown Chicago, but the dedicated cow-path remains, running right through a 20-story building. To mark the opening of the International Livestock Exposition, Susan was led through the walled passage, now valued at $177,000. At the left you see Susan being taken for her harmless ride, and, right, you see her being milked by a pretty milkmaid, to Buttercup's evident distress.

Bohn Hilliard, Texas Gridder, Denied Divorce

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—Bohn Hilliard, star University of Texas football player, was denied a divorce from his wife by Judge W. F. Robertson in Travis county district court today.

Hilliard brought suit for divorce, alleging cruelty, several weeks ago. Mrs. Hilliard filed a cross action. Judge Robertson ruled that there should not be a divorce.

Hilliard did not appear in court but was represented by his attorney.

Pampans Invited To Mobeetie Event

Mobeetie fathers and sons have extended a very hospitable invitation to Pampa fathers and sons to attend a banquet in the high school gym at Mobeetie tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Several Pampans have already announced their intention of going, and George W. Briggs of the chamber of commerce, believes that making the trip will indicate invaluable good will.

Pampans are invited to bring their sons, but if they have no sons or if the boys can't go, Mr. Briggs urges the men to make the trip anyway.

All who intend to go are asked to meet at the city hall at 6:30. Admission price for Pampans will be thirty cents.

Coach's Attacker Pays Small Fine

CANYON, Nov. 29. (AP)—L. T. Barksdale, high school football coach, continued to improve today, while Dutch Oberst, who Saturday night slashed Barksdale with a razor, was free after paying a $15 fine for fighting.

In pleading guilty to a charge of fighting, Oberst said Barksdale blamed him because three members of the high school football team broke training rules. The violations led Barksdale to suspend the players on the eve of a district championship game with McLean.

ORDER MERGES NEW IDEAS ON OIL PRODUCING

WELL PLAN RETAINED TEMPORARILY BY STATE

OBSERVANCE IS URGED

COMMISSION ASSERTS TEXAS HAS BIG STAKE

AUSTIN, Nov. 29. (AP)—A top reduction allowable of 325,000 barrels daily for the East Texas oil field was fixed by the Texas Railroad commission today.

The commission decided to adopt a combination per well, bottom hole pressure and acreage plan of production. Two-thirds of the top allowable will be allocated to the wells and one-third to pressure and acreage.

The new order will be made effective at 7 a. m. on December 1, but until the per well, acreage and pressure formula can be worked out, the commission fixed the per well allowable at 97 barrels daily in the field. The existing per well limit is 40 barrels daily.

Col. Thompson To Make Speech At Oil Banquet

Ernest O. Thompson of the Texas Railroad commission will be the chief speaker at the annual banquet of the Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum institute at the Schneider hotel Dec. 13.

Election of officers for the coming year will be the major business at a session in the city hall auditorium preceding the banquet.

Another prominent man who will be on the program will be H. M. Stalcup of Tulsa, vice-president of the Skelly Oil company. Other well known figures in the oil industry will attend the banquet and make addresses.

The local chapter has been one of the most active in the state. It was organized a year ago with Ed Warren of Borger as chairman. Meetings have been held every month. The chapter has a membership of more than 400.

BRIEFS AT PRESS TIME

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 29. (AP)—Earl Quinn, the ex-convict accused of the highway murders of Jessie and Zexia Griffith, Blackwell school teachers, won a new trial and reversal of his death sentence in the Oklahoma criminal court of appeals today.

The court ruled that Quinn, held for a year in death row at state's prison, McAlester, did not receive a fair and impartial trial. It reversed the sentence of the Kay county district court and directed that the former Missouri convict be retried in another county.

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 29. (AP)—Charles Owens pleaded his own case before a fifty-first district court jury here today but was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years on an automobile theft charge.

E. T. Mills yesterday afternoon was given a five-year suspended sentence on a charge of passing a forged instrument.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Some uncertainty over whether the house of representative will have its promised vote Monday on prohibition repeal emerged today at the capitol, in the wake of a prediction that—if taken—the vote would show a hundred or more republican members favoring the Garner resolution.

It was the republican whip—Bachman of West Virginia—who made the forecast, as he dispatched summons to his party members to be sure to be on hand. Such a showing of republican strength for repeal would about assure adoption by the two-thirds vote required, if the democrats remain unified.

MIAMI-BILTMORE GOLF COURSE, Coral Gables, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., swung into a tie with John Revolta, young Menominee, Mich., professional, at the 54th hole in the Miami-Biltmore open today when he scored a 34-35—69, two under par, for a 216.

A WAR WE MISSED

The most interesting part of the study of history, very often, is a consideration of the things that might have happened but didn't.

Gen. Juan Barragan, former Mexican chief of staff, provided an opening for that kind of meditation not long ago when he published in a Mexico City newspaper an article asserting that Mexico had come close to declaring war on the United States early in 1917.

General Barragan was a confidant of Venustiano Carranza, then president of Mexico, and was chief of staff of the Mexican army at that time. Germany, via the famous Zimmerman note, had just suggested that Mexico make war on the United States and induce Japan to do likewise; as a prize, it held out the vision of recovery by Mexico of the vast territory lost in the war of 1848.

That offer, says General Barragan, came very near being accepted.

President Wilson had sent Pershing into Mexico after Villa, in spite of Carranza's protests. According to General Barragan's story, only the fact that Pershing was finally recalled and the expedition withdrawn prevented Carranza from leading his nation into war.

Now it is hard to think of anything more ridiculous than the suggestion that Mexico seize from the United States such states as California, Texas, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. But it is interesting to speculate on what course history might have taken if the attempt had been made. If Mexico had gone ahead and declared war, as Germany suggested, and had been able to induce Japan to go along—well, the history of the last 15 years would have been different, at any rate.

Instead of sending practically all of our trained troops to France, we would have had to keep a very sizeable army busy in our own back yard. Our navy would have had to operate in the Pacific, and could have done little to help the British in the submarine war. All in all, the situation would have been very favorable for Germany.

But for Mexico it could have been a catastrophe. Mexico is very fortunate that Carranza finally decided to turn the German proposal down.

The election settled another annoying question: Where Dolly Gann will sit.

These are the days when Sunday's leisure lies buried under the ashes in the basement.

The government plans to forbid transatlantic stunt flights. But the venturesome still can go rabbit hunting on the first day of the season.

If it's true that 7 per cent of humanity does the thinking for the other 93 per cent, that leaves most of us in shape to do the kicking.

With 40,000 horses on the racing tracks this year, it was just as hard as ever to pick the winner.

There's no friend like an old friend—if he can "fix" a traffic sticker.

Ox Teams Have Come-Back in Show-Me State

LEES SUMMIT, Mo., Nov. 29. (AP)—Ox teams have come back to this country where once covered wagon drivers assembled their teams for the start westward over the perilous Santa Fe Trail.

From high ground east of Lees Summit, one may look over the tops of huge motor trucks roaring along on concrete highways to the very hills from which the covered wagons started and muse on progress.

But the decades vanish when one turns at the crack of a big black snake whip to see six huge oxen straining at their yokes on the Colburn farm, with Russell Lewis urging them on. And with the whip's explosive report comes also the old-time litany of progress.

"Gee Spot! Gee! Hike! Hike! Hike! tighten up here!" Hike! Hike! When Lewis started training a team of Shorthorn steers as a novelty he found they could do certain kinds of pulling better than horses.

So, to near ox Spot and far ox Bright, he added pointers Zuck and Ben and Wheeler and Jiggs and Dinty. Neighbors laughed.

But Lewis had his laugh, too. A big truck stalled in a pasture. Its powerful motor could not extricate it. Teams of horses failed to budge the deeply sunken wheels. Lewis yoked up Spot and Bright, went over and hitched on. The oxen leaned against the yokes, their huge hoofs spreading to obtain a sure grip where the horses had slipped. The truck moved slowly, steadily, out of the muck.

Says Lewis: "The muck shouting you do, the better oxen work. The near ox usually has a sharp name that may be spoken rapidly. He is the one the driver addresses."

He Knows Politics

For this part of his new duties, Mr. Roosevelt is equipped by a long experience in practical politics.

The word "politician" has no especially pleasant odor, but the successful presidents have been, almost without exception, men deeply versed in the intricacies of this great American pastime.

Not only does a chief executive find seasoned politicians in the important committee posts in congress, but he learns that even in his own cabinet the men who can do most to build up popular esteem for the administration are the men who have political influence.

That may not be as it should be, yet it is the fact. The whole tenor of history is that a president, to get what he wants, must know how to handle the politicians. It is the job the president-elect now is undertaking.

A Test

Countless Mr. Roosevelt has in mind the hazards as well as the advantages of close relations between White House and capitol.

President Taft was much criticized for yielding too often to the opinions of his party leaders in congress, just as President Hoover has been much criticized for making major decisions without consulting congress.

As a student of politics, Mr. Roosevelt has observed both of these things in his time. Warm Springs and the events flowing therefrom during the coming weeks should afford some measure of his ability to translate his training into results.

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE

The democratic conferences at Warm Springs have a political interest far out-reaching the immediate public issues involved. Their real significance is measured by the degree to which they develop a working understanding—or lack of it—between the next president and the leaders of the next congress.

To appreciate the complexities and the importance of this first step toward inaugurating the "new deal" at Washington, it is necessary only to ask two questions:

Who is to be elected to the democratic house speakership which Mr. Garner will vacate on March 4 to become vice-president, and for which a half-dozen candidates are contending? What measure of recognition is the new democratic senate to give to those insurgent republican senators who supported the democratic national ticket in 1932?

Answers Important

In terms of legislative accomplishment—always a most important consideration for any administration—the answer to each of these two questions means very much indeed to Mr. Roosevelt.

Such problems as these, moreover, are the sort of thing a president or president-elect must handle with gloves; for the legislative branch of the government is jealous of its constitutional independence.

All Mr. Roosevelt can do openly is to say that what the senate and house do is their own business. Yet if he wants the kind of leadership every president aspires to, and if he hopes to have the way smooth for his legislative program, it will be of highest concern to him who sits in the places of authority on capitol hill.

Whatever he may do must be done with the greatest political finesse of which he is capable if it is to produce real results.

Essay Declares Ballyhoo Could Change Student

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 29. (AP)—Modern ballyhoo as a means of setting up a "new ideal of a student" was urged on the University of Minnesota by a undergraduate.

The institution should, wrote Thomas Gaddis in an essay winning first place in a contest sponsored by the class of 1931, take a hint from advertising and publicity methods to build a "tradition of study and an atmosphere of scholarship."

Gaddis, first year medical student from St. Paul, went on: "Let there be subtle campaigns which have as their object an unobtrusive style setting and pace-making endeavor."
"The 'collegian' and the 'collegian' then will be dissolved by the acids of ridicule."
"By quiet acceptance there will be erected into the student tradition a new ideal of a student who can think as well as drink, who can manipulate theories as well as campus politics, who can write and speak as ably as he can manage his coat or tie, who can carry out a project in his course as competently as he can engineer a house party."

BANKS CLOSE EARLY
CANYON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Canyon's two banks have begun closing their doors during the noon hour each day because of the numerous bank robberies in small cities over the country. The First National bank was robbed of $15,000 little less than two years ago.

MC'LEAN AND SPEARMAN TEAMS ABOUT EVENLY MATCHED

RECORDS OF 2 LEADERS SHOW EQUAL POWER

EXPECT GREAT CROWD FOR CHAMPIONSHIP BATTLE

Two teams with a terrific scoring punch and defenses that have baffled all opposition during the current season, will clash at Harvester park Friday afternoon in a bi-district title game. Both teams are undefeated.

The McLean Tigers, winner of a district in the class B race, have won nine games without a loss and have allowed only 13 points to be scored against them, while they have been running up a total of 247 points. Spearman's Lynx, winners of their section, scored 207 points in nine games with only 17 points against them. They were led twice, one by Berger, class A team, and again by Elkhart, Kan.

Cricket Christian, McLean quarterback, is high point scorer of his district, while Madden, Spearman fullback, heads the same honors in district. Both players are lightning fast and fast and Pampa fans who will swell the crowd from the two other cities are scheduled to see one of the fastest games of the season. The youngsters play real football without a let-up.

Officials for the game will be Gib Jackson (T. C. U.), referee; W. O. Vackman (ETSTC), umpire and John Gilliam (WTSTC), headlinesman.

Records of the two teams this season:

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Geography Lesson
An analysis of the motions that an All-America football team picks goes through probably would be more interesting than the team itself. Geography, of course, is the dominating idea.

This writer would as soon have the Purdue team of 1932. We would back the Purdue team against any ball club in the country—except the Green Bay Packers. (This is not being written by a graduate of Purdue.)

Yet it is obviously impossible, in selecting an All-America team, to name an entire team. There has to be some swivel-hipped gent from California, a guy from down south, a dude from the east, and some ball totter from the middle-west. Otherwise the team runs for Mr. Sweeney.

Looking Back
The Notre Dame team of 1930 was one of the greatest teams of all time. It was a perfectly coordinated unit. It had blocking, ball carrying and thinking qualities that excelled. No team in the country could have beaten that little body of wildcat men from South Bend that year.

The Notre Dame line was a great line—as good a line as any coach could ask for. The same could be said—and was said—of the backfield. Yet, of that splendid team only two men were chosen for All-America honors, Carideo and Schwartz.

Who's Best?
For the tackle positions different selectors picked these men: Sington, Alabama; Rhea, Nebraska; Hein, Washington State; Edwards, Washington State; Lubratovich, Wisconsin; Ahlskog, Washington State; Price, Army, and Van Bibber, Purdue. A consensus of selectors gave the job to Sington and Price. Sington and Price were deemed better than Rhea, Lubratovich and all the other tackles in the United States.

Better than Culver, of Notre Dame? Or better than Nurdy Hoffman, of the same team? How do you know?

These two tackles broke the path ahead of the Notre Dame ball carriers. No ball carrier can gain through a line that hasn't been broken for him. Schwartz could not have gone one foot without Culver on one side of the forward wall, and Hoffman on the other.

Rockne himself knew this better than any other man in the country. He did not name Schwartz for All-America honors. But he did name Brill, a Notre Dame back whose duties consisted mostly of blocking. Who knew best about Schwartz as a halfback—his coach or the selectors who chose him ahead of Brill or any of the dozen halfbacks nam-

HARVESTER CAGERS TO PLAY CLARENDON ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Youth Leading In Miami Open

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Nov. 29. (AP)—A slender, bushy lad led the heavy artillery of gold into the fast 36-hole play of the $10,000 Miami Billmore open golf tournament today with a score of 144 to take the lead at the halfway mark yesterday.

The leader was John Revolta, born in Missouri but more recently of Mesquite, Mich. Revolta scored 95-45-71 for his yesterday's play as scoreboard watchers were preparing to divide second day honors between Johnny Farrell, New York, and Al Espinosa, Akron, who were tied at 145 each for 36 holes. Farrell, Farrell and Espinosa were followed by 29 golfers who had scores within eight strokes of the leader.

Related Hancock, Stoneham, Mass., was third with 146. Six professionals started the day's play with 147s. They were Cattell, Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, Paul Runyan, Westchester, N. Y., Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., Walter Hagen, Detroit, and Tommy Armour, Boca Raton, Fla.

Dary Shuta, Cleveland, Mike and Joe Turnea, Elmford, N. Y., and Al Watrous, Detroit, were bunched at 148. Gene Sarazen, defending the title he won at the $10,000 Miami Billmore open tournament in March of this year, was within the first twenty finishers with a 150.

Ernest Smith, Oak Park, Ill., and a pre-tournament favorite, was well down the list of 62 professional qualifiers with 154.

Bowling Scores

The Junior chamber of commerce bowling team in the City League jumped into second place last night, with three straight wins over the fast-stepping Texas company five.

The Kiwanis No. 2 team continues to lead the way but with a small margin. The Jayces walked away with the first two games but won the third after a score of 819 pins in the final game had been settled.

Wanted by Coach: Man To Fill Bed

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 29. (AP)—University of Kentucky basketball coaches were extremely interested this fall when Brad Lair, former Monticello, Ky., high school star, enrolled at the university.

Reason: Lair was six feet, eleven inches tall, and used his height to no small advantage on the court. Adolph Rupp, head coach, considered the prospect so highly that he had constructed especially for the mountaineer a nine-foot bed so Lair could sleep in comfort in his room at the dormitory.

Came Thanksgiving. Lair by then had decided college life wasn't so hot, and had returned to his beloved hills near Monticello.

Now Coach Rupp wants to sell the lengthy bed or find a basketball player to fit it. He much prefers the latter.

ed by various pickers?

Advisors Great Help
Chosen at halfback by this one or that one were Dodd, Tennessee; Finckert, Southern California; Guthrie, Alabama; Duffield, Southern California; Macaluso, Colgate, and Robert, Stanford.

The backfield that year finally resolved itself into Carideo, Schwartz, Finckert and Macaluso. Some of the selectors never had seen Macaluso play. Some never had seen Finckert. Others had not seen the Notre Dame team of that year in action at all. Advisors from here and there had sent in their comment from week to week, relating the deeds of this player or that.

Pickers thumped out the whole crop of advice from here and there, set down with a map and selected. They have been doing it for 40 years, and getting away with it.

Girls Will Meet White Deer Team; Both Games in High School Gym.

Two basketball games will be played at the high school gymnasium Friday night, when both boys and girls teams will swing into action. The boys will play the fast Clarendon Bronchos, while the girls will be meeting their old rivals, the White Deer sextet. The first game, between the girls teams, will start promptly at 7:15 o'clock and the second game will follow.

Both Pampa teams started intensive training for the games during practice sessions yesterday afternoon. Work on plays and hard scrimmage featured both practices which lasted two hours each. The teams are slow rounding into shape and it is going to take a lot of practice to be ready for the season opening.

The boys still think football and lumber down the floor and shoot like forward passing. However, the team has a bright outlook with an entire line-up of letters available. Miles Marbaugh and Foot Fullington, the two "longest" members of the team, are still crippled from football. Marbaugh has a bad leg while Fullington's ankle, injured in Oklahoma, is still bothering him.

The power of the Clarendon team is unknown but their football team will be remembered. The Bronchos have been practicing for some time and should be ready for the opening game. The new rules will be entered in the game.

Coach Harry Kelley is anything but satisfied with the appearance of his team and he is working at top speed to secure a working combination. Only two regulars from last year are back.

Texarkana Golf Tourney Opens

TEXARKANA, Nov. 29. (AP)—A crack regiment of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Jersey, Louisiana, and Colorado amateur and professional golfers started a sharp-shooting barrage today against general par and his standing army of 18 holes in the first annual Texarkana Country club $500 open tournament.

Ben Hogan, long hitter from the Fort Worth professional ranks; Edwin McClure for consecutive times Louisiana amateur champion; and Oren Williams, of Longview, started the field today on the first 36 holes of the 72 holes of medal play which will be concluded tomorrow. At the end of the golf reserves the winning professional along with the second, third, and fourth place winners will harvest the $500 in gold.

To the low amateur will go a set of matched irons, and to the second low Simon-Pure a set of matched woods. The Texarkana Country club course, ranked by the United States Golf association as a severe test of shot making, was in grand condition today for the start of the 72 holes parade.

End of Semester Rule Is Predicted

Pampa teachers who attended the State Teachers convention at Fort Worth during last week-end returned confident that the eight-semester rule will be repealed next spring at the meeting of the state interscholastic league.

The convention voted almost three to one on a resolution urging the league to vote on the rule again. Much opposition to the rule was heard during discussion of the resolution, and little approval of it returned confident that the eight-semester rule will be repealed next spring at the meeting of the state interscholastic league.

Just where the final championship battle will be held is unknown. It was played at Fort Worth last year, and the Panther city is sure to make a bid for this year's final game along with Dallas, Waco and probably Houston.

Roy Henderson Busy Man Now

Associated Press Sports Writer Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the Texas Interscholastic league, will be a busy man for the next month. He will be in direct charge of the bi-district football battles that will eventually lead some class A team from one of the sixteen districts to the Texas schoolboy championship.

Henderson advises that in class A the usual practice of playing-off in numerical order will be followed at least for the first round games, namely, 1 vs. 2; 3 vs. 4; 5 vs. 6, etc. The state also reserves the right to re-arrange the schedule for subsequent games if the locations of the surviving teams justify such action. Eliminations will begin the week ending December 3 and will advance each week thereafter until two teams are left to battle for the state crown.

Just where the final championship battle will be held is unknown. It was played at Fort Worth last year, and the Panther city is sure to make a bid for this year's final game along with Dallas, Waco and probably Houston.

EXPERTS PICK ALL-EASTERN GRID ELEVEN

TWO FROM EACH OF 4 SCHOOLS PLACED ON TEAM

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—Pittsburgh, Cornell, Army and Pennsylvania share top honors, each contributing two men to the mythical all-eastern football team picked annually for the Associated Press today by sports writers.

One representative each from Columbia, Fordham and Colgate, the latter the sole undefeated, unscathed upon team in the section, round out the first team.

Group honors for the second team went to Brown, with three nominees, but as a whole the choices for the reserve eleven were more widely scattered. Columbia placed two men on the second team, Army, Cornell, Pittsburgh, Washam, Yale and Villanova one each.

Apparently the severe injury of Dick King, Army's great end who suffered a broken leg in the Harvard game, a one legged Cadet from placing three men on the first team.

As it was King, rated almost unanimously by the experts as the greatest end in the country up to the time of his injury, trailed just far enough behind Joe Shaldady's Pitt's burly wingman, and Jose Martinez-Zollita, the Mexican jumping jack of Cornell, to slip to the second team along with Tony Matul, fiery, red-headed Columbia end.

The ballots of fifty sports writers chose a backfield that would delight the eyes of any coach in the nation.

A quarterback the scribes placed Cliff Montgomery, the limber-hipped Columbia ball carrier, a splendid passer, kicker, field general, along with his ability as a broken field runner. Montgomery was the general first string choice over Bob Chase, Brown quarterback, and received more votes than any other back named.

To run with Montgomery from the halfback positions, the experts chose Warren Heller, mainstay of the Pittsburgh offense, and volatile little "Pick" Vidal, of Army, who ran wild all season until copped short by Notre Dame Saturday. There was little opposition to the choice of Captain Bart Viviano, of Cornell, for fullback, a powerhouse back whose line plunging and tackling have been features of the Huskies' play for three years.

"Howie" Colehower, a big, fast tackle, and Roy Engle, great defensive center, both Pennsylvania stalwarts, were far in front in the votes for the line posts. Milton Summerfelt, Army guard and captain, also overshadowed his opposition.

Walter Uzdavins, Fordham tackle who was in every minute of all his team's games this season, was paired with Colehower on tackle. Bob "Kewpie" Smith, Colgate captain and brilliant running guard, was picked to team with Summerfelt.

GRID DEATH TOLL AT 37

Fatalities Are Only 13 Less Than Record Number of 50 Last Year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—Football's death toll for 1932 had reached 37 today, the second highest total since national records on grid-iron fatalities first were compiled.

The drastic changes made in the football code after last year's record number of 50 fatalities apparently have cut appreciably into deaths and serious injuries where they have been strictly enforced. This year's list of football dead showed only five from college yards, and of these only one was fatally injured in actual competition. He was Ralph McClure, of Colorado college, whose neck was broken in a game against the University of Colorado.

Most of the fatalities of the season now drawing to a close occurred in high school or sandlot contests where strict supervision often is not possible.

In addition to the five college players fatally injured, there were 17 high school and 15 sandlot and prep or club team player fatalities.

Eight of the 37 victims died of broken backs; six from head injuries other than fractured skulls, which took five more lives. Five others died of infections following injury. Internal injuries and cerebral hemorrhages each were charged with three deaths. The remaining fatalities were due to scattering causes, spinal injuries, heart ailments, etc.

The Pittsburgh offense, and volatile little "Pick" Vidal, of Army, who ran wild all season until copped short by Notre Dame Saturday. There was little opposition to the choice of Captain Bart Viviano, of Cornell, for fullback, a powerhouse back whose line plunging and tackling have been features of the Huskies' play for three years.

TED TRAVIS TO GRAPPLE WITH DOG MUELLER

SLEEP EXPERT THINKS HE CAN THROW BIG CALIFORNIAN

Ted Travis, the Los Angeles wildcat who threw Joe Kopecky for a big loss last Wednesday night, is scheduled to meet Doc Mueller, Austin sleep-hold artist, in the main event at the Pla-Mor auditorium tomorrow night in a finish match. Travis made a real hit with Pampa fans last week and they will be looking for him to beat the much disliked Mueller.

It will be Travis' first time against the nerve-hold specialist and he will likely be at a loss. However, the Californian showed that he knew something about the nerve pressing game when he "thumbed" Kopecky a couple of times last week. It would do the Pampa wrestling audience good to see some one hand Mueller his own medicine.

Other matches on the card had not been released this morning but they were said to be real surprises.

H. L. Brown of Wichita Falls was a Pampa visitor yesterday.

THE AMOUNT of fish eaten by a full-grown, three thousand-pound walrus in its native haunts can only be guessed at. Three very young ones, owned by Carl Hagenback, consumed almost three tons of fish per month.

Southern Fairs Flourish as in Days Now Gone

GALLATIN, Tenn., Nov. 29. (AP)—The pink and lavender days when the county fair was about the only excitement of the year have flushed red and purple with new thrills but the fairs flourish on.

Dixie is sentimental and its fair grounds will draw crowds as long as there remains alive any of the generation that can remember how they carried the least rough plow horse, blacked his hoofs with axle grease, put a collar on his neck and hitched him to a fringe-topped carriage to take the family on its annual outing.

The women went to the exhibits of jellies, cakes, crocheting, quilts, and rather sketchy artwork by the school kids while the men looked over the stock, new farming implements and then took in the harness races.

Meanwhile, the boys and girls strolled up and down the "midway," switched each other with "souvenir riding whips," flirted mildly with "comeback balls" and rubber strings, and saw the sword swallowers swallow and the snake charmers charm.

Couples rode proudly painted, if fantastic, animals on the merry-go-rounds to slightly old and discordant music or got in ferris wheels where the girls screamed and the boys hoped they'd get up to the top of the swing so they could be right nonchalant way up there in the air 30 feet or so.

Officials reported increased interest this year in fairs in South Carolina. Mississippi fairs had a good season and there was interest in Louisiana county gatherings. Agricultural exhibits were good but fairs few in Virginia and the North Carolina state fair made money for the second time in its history.

Radio Telephone Will Be Common, Marconi Opines

ROME, Nov. 29. (AP)—Within a few months ultra-short wave radio telephone service is likely to be in everyday commercial operation. Guglielmo Marconi said today as he left for London, where before a meeting of scientists, he will make an address in which he expected to reveal some of the secrets of his revolutionary method of transmission.

The world's first ultra-short wave wireless telephone, invented by Senor Marconi, now is operating experimentally between Vatican City and the papal summer home at Castel Gandolfo.

This system is complete except for the substitution of permanent wiring for temporary wiring, but it will not be formally inaugurated until the inventor returns from London.

Marconi has no doubt about the practical application of the system. The present apparatus is small, reasonably simple and quite cheap in comparison with long-wave commercial system. The power consumption is only 30 watts, the equivalent of a small electric light.

According to the inventor, the cheapness of the ultra-short wave method offers great possibilities—in Italy for instance, it would mean that nearly every island along the coast could have inexpensive telephone communication with the mainland and with the rest of the world.

The ultra-short wave telephone "line" is secret, the inventor pointed out, and no other waves can obliterate it. Nor is there atmospheric interference.

He considers the system particularly well adapted for airplanes and for military purposes. Roughly, the system consists of somewhat modified telephone instruments of normal appearance connected to combined transmitters and receivers through a central station connection. That means that the ordinary telephone user can bridge the air gap to an island or a ship and speak with other telephone users in their homes or ship passengers in their cabin.

Col. Miller Glad For Murray's 'Guts'

MARLAND, Okla., Nov. 29. (AP)—His cell unlocked by a threat of military force, Col. Zack Miller waved a plainsman's thanks today to a governor who's got "guts" and took time to "enjoy the open spaces" of his one-time empire of the range, the 101 ranch.

He marched jubilantly from the Kay county jail at Newkirk yesterday at dusk, pardoned by Governor William Henry Murray from a contempt of court conviction and imprisonment which followed his failure to pay temporary alimony to his estranged wife. And more than that, he said he thought the sweeping clemency order "may eliminate me" from the effect of other orders of the court, some of which have concerned the receivership under which the vast ranch is operated.

"I must admit," Col. Miller told a crowd of nearly a hundred friends who met him as he emerged from jail and started home to the ranch white house, "that the jail was too confining. From now on I am going to enjoy the open spaces." "Sunday was the longest day I ever spent. I read all the papers I could get hold of. Hell, I even read the want ads." "I'm glad Oklahoma has a governor who's got guts."

Taxi-Driver Walks Barefooted After Robber Takes Car

AMARILLO, Nov. 29. (AP)—Joe Doyle, Amarillo taxi cab driver, walked back barefooted from his own ride early this morning.

Doyle answered a call to an apartment house. There he was confronted by an armed man, who forced the driver to take him 10 miles south of here. At that point Doyle was forced to take off his shoes and socks and start walking.

After a half mile hike over a cold, unpaved road, Doyle, a former railroad man, flagged an incoming freight train and rode to Amarillo.

The taxicab was found abandoned in the residential district. Police believe the cab was commandeered to haul liquor to Amarillo.

A PATH TO PARADISE

by Coningsby DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: In celebration of Clive's new job, his wife Santa and Dicky Dick, her former husband, go out for dinner and the waiter, Santa and Clive had quarreled the night before; Santa fancies both Dick and Clive are indifferent to her. At last she and Clive get down to cases.

Chapter 35 HEART TO HEART FORGIVENESS is up to you, Santa," said Clive. "To kiss and cuddle isn't forgiveness. Before one can forgive, one needs to understand. If one doesn't uproot the causes of disaster, he walks straight out and tumbles into the same traps."

"There oughtn't to be traps on the road to heaven," she whispered. "Don't get you?" "Your road to heaven you called me."

"Did I? My steep ascent to heaven would be closer to facts. I expect that's how I appear to you." "No, Clive. Every day you grow dearer."

"Can't we stop exaggerating?" He bit his lip. "There are things we ought to learn about each other." She became wide-eyed and panicky.

"On my honor, I've never kept any secrets." "Only the ones that I've prevented you from telling. On what grounds did you obtain your divorce from Dak?"

"You could have learned that any time. You would never allow me to mention him. The grounds were cruelty."

"What constitutes cruelty?" "The phrase is elastic. It can include anything from yawning to feeding virgins to babies."

"It could include, for instance, the scene we're now enacting?" She hung herself at him, heedless of whether her embraces were ignored.

"The fool I've been to kill your affection!" For the first time he ceased to look through her. Her soft arms were about him. The weight of her body dragged on him. Her head was thrown back, her face imploring. She was no longer the masterful young matron who'd sailed ahead, shaping both their lives. She was yielding, adorable, adoring. Stopping to her long, white throat, he met her half way in forgiveness. Not a word spoken.

He laughed, and snatched his dressing-gown from the bed and wrapped it around her. "And now where shall I seat you?" "I'll flop." Collapsing cross-legged on the carpet, she grimaced up at him. "It smells of you—I mean what's coming to me."

"Coming to us both," he corrected. "I wish you'd smoke—do something natural. Here!" He handed her his lighted cigarette. Seizing his fingers, she drew her lips across them.

"I daren't be tender." He patted her head and dived for the chair he had vacated. Having regained it, he crouched, shaking a finger at her as though she were a puppy. "I mean business—let's cut out the pathos and the comedy. Yesterday you walked out on me and I didn't find it a bit funny. Today your guilty conscience has made you afraid that I'll do the same by you. If you were only trying to throw a scare into me, you were idiotic. I might have taken your distaste for me at face value."

"That's how divorces start, by one party taking the other's actions at face value. Perhaps I haven't been easy to live with. At first I didn't earn enough to contribute my proper share. Then losing my job. As regards your previous marriage, I own I haven't been reasonable."

"You've been a lamb," she purred; "I'm the one who's been unreasonable. But why did you ask me on what grounds I got rid of Dicky?" "Because—" He interrupted himself. "You're not playing the game, Santa; you're edging nearer. Because I've found him to be an exceedingly pleasant fellow."

Golf Tourney At Texarkana Opens Tuesday

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 29. (AP)—Many of the crack golfers of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana are here today for the first annual Texarkana Country club open tournament.

L. G. Wilson of Dallas was official starter. The event of the day was the pro-amateur sweepstakes, with professionals drawing for their amateur partners. Handicaps applied to amateurs.

Today the first 36 holes of medal play will be teed off and Wednesday the final 36 holes. The low medal for the combined 72 holes will be awarded first prize.

Ten 'Forgotten States' Bid For Places in Roosevelt's Cabinet

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—President-Elect Roosevelt will be confronted by a list of ten "forgotten" states when he sets about determining the personnel of his cabinet.

A perusal of political pages of the past disclosed today that these states never have been represented in the official family of any president, and that one of them—Rhode Island—is one of the original thirteen states.

The others are Florida, Nevada, Arizona, Idaho, Montana, North and South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming. Arizona, the youngest of the group, was admitted to the Union in 1912.

New York has contributed the largest number of cabinet members of past administrations, 47 sons of the empire state having held 53 cabinet portfolios.

Next in line is Pennsylvania with 44 portfolios distributed among 34 men. Massachusetts has had 40 portfolios among 33 residents.

Five states have been represented but once. They are Arkansas, the residence of Augustus H. Garland, who served as attorney general under Cleveland; Alabama, home of Hillary H. Herbert, secretary of the navy under Cleveland; Washington, home state of Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior under Taft; New Mexico, youngest state to have had a cabinet member and which furnished Albert B. Fall as secretary of the interior in Harding's cabinet, and Kansas, residence of William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture in Coolidge's cabinet.

No state has the distinction of having been represented in the cabinet of every president, nor has any state held a portfolio of every department. New York, with all of its cabinet positions has never had secretaries of either labor or agriculture.

Maryland, with only little more than twice Rhode Island's population has had 19 cabinet members, and Delaware, also a small state, six. North Carolina also has had six, but whereas cabinet members from other states were distributed among the various departments, all from North Carolina served as secretary of the navy.

Theodore Roosevelt made the most cabinet appointments. He named 29 men, there were six secretaries of the navy along during his regime. Grant, with five secretaries of war, made 25 appointments.

Michigan Lawmaker Succumbs Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Representative James C. McLaughlin of Michigan is dead at Marion, Virginia.

Word of the sudden death today reached his colleague, Representative McLaughlin, who is 49 years old. The former powerful companion of Lenin, Trotsky, and Stalin apparently has a heart attack although no public announcement of the cause of death.

It is known Zinovieff long suffered from heart attacks, and he had been in the Kremlin hospital for some time recently. It was Zinovieff who was alleged to have written the letter to British communists in 1924 that led to the rupture of diplomatic relations with Great Britain.

The letter was alleged to have contained instructions to British workers to seek the violent overthrow of British institutions.

CIVIL SUIT STARTS The suit of John Clevenger vs. Carl B. King Drilling Company was tried in county court this morning before Acting Judge Claude Williams of McLean. The suit involved a contract for the hauling of tools from Pampa to Valley Center, Kans. The plaintiff was represented by Chas. C. Cook, and the defendant by Gordon and Gordon.

Legion, Fighting Opponents Seeks New Vets' Help

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—To forestall threatened reductions in allowances to former soldiers of all wars, the American Legion is undertaking a counter-attack to gain new benefits for new world war veterans in the coming congress.

The plan as described today at Legion headquarters, involves four major points—including the bonus—which would cost upward of two and a half billion dollars in ten years.

The Legion, said officials, is proceeding on the theory that the justice of the things they think are needed should decide the fate of legislation rather than any need for economy.

As outlined, the program calls for: Immediate cash payment of the adjusted compensation certificates, requiring around $2,000,000,000. Pensions for widows and orphans of world war veterans, which the veterans administration estimates would cost $13,531,000 the first year and $454,000,000 the first ten years.

Amendment of existing law to permit the presumption that veterans asking for hospitalization or other benefits for some constitutional diseases contracted those ailments while in the service. This would cost near $12,000,000 the first ten years, it is estimated.

Establishment of a special senate committee to handle veterans' legislation only. The bonus, Legion officials say, "can wait a while." But, proposing to push the other legislation for immediate action, they say that justice demands payment of the compensation certificates too. When that comes along, they remark, "it is not our problem to say how the money can be raised." They point out, though, that every recent issue of government securities has been over-subscribed five or six-to-one.

Former Soviet Leader Is Sick

MOSCOW, Nov. 29. (AP)—Gregory S. Zinovieff, of the "Zinovieff letter" fame, who twice was expelled from the inner councils of the Soviets, by the powerful Joseph Stalin, was ill here today.

Zinovieff, who at one time was the head of the comintern (the third international), is 49 years old. The former powerful companion of Lenin, Trotsky, and Stalin apparently has a heart attack although no public announcement of the cause of death.

Trotsky Approves Soviet Experiment

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—Leon Trotsky, exiled leader of the Red Russian armies, declares that the Russian masses are creating a better future with their own hands.

Speaking from Copenhagen to the American people, Trotsky said that the "Russian masses today endure great privations, but not passively. With their own hands they are creating a better future."

"They want to create it at any cost. But let any enemy attempt to impose its will from the outside on the impatient masses and you will see whether they are passive or not."

"The deepest, the most objective and most indisputable criterion of social progress is the growth of the productivity of social labor. The justification of the Russian revolution from this point of view is already gained from experience."

"These mistakes can and will be corrected. The first attempt was not perfect. This is a great question which goes far beyond the limits of my talk."

"The performance significant of that revolution, however, consists in the face that it forms and tempers the character of the people."

Are you hesitating about buying the things you need and really can afford?

DOES TIMIDITY OR FEAR OF CRITICISM KEEP YOU FROM DOING A REAL SERVICE TO THE COUNTRY AND TO THE UNEMPLOYED?

It is true that many people have been hard hit by the depression and are struggling to make both ends meet. We all know it is difficult for them to make purchases beyond the bare needs of existence.

There are many thousands of men and women, however, who are still receiving a fair income and who could be of tremendous help in aiding the business revival. All you need to do is to buy things you need and can actually afford.

That doesn't mean that you should buy extravagantly, wastefully, or recklessly. It simply means buying what you need when you need it in a normal, natural way.

Have you been hesitating about buying of timidity or a fear that you might be criticized? Exactly the reverse should be true.

You are doing a real service to the country, to the unemployed and to yourself when you purchase the things you need and can afford to buy. Every purchase that you make now—large or small—helps to create work and wages for those less fortunate than yourself.

When you buy a new dress or a new pair of shoes or a new radio or a new refrigerator or a new car you help to give work and wages to people in many sections of the country. When you have the house repainted, rooms repapered or the roof fixed you directly assist other deserving workmen—perhaps in your very neighborhood.

Nothing you could possibly do for those who need help could be more helpful or resultful than this. Sincere, honest, deserving people everywhere would rather have work than charity. That's the big, broad humanitarian side of it. The other side is what it means to you personally to buy the things you need and can afford to purchase now. Never were such bargains available. Never were prices so low.

But price isn't everything. Today, as always, quality is the important thing to look for. It pays to buy standard, trade-marked merchandise from firms you can depend on. You're almost always disappointed when you experiment with some unknown brand just because it is cheap.

From day to day in this newspaper are advertisements featuring many unusual values. Read them and take advantage of the opportunities they offer. Business revival will be speeded up if people will again buy the useful, necessary things they need and can afford to purchase.

Mrs. Barrett Is Hostess Monday To Club Mayfair

Questions of current political interest have been suggested in some of the smartest club and private parties recently, but none have been more cleverly employed than the question of the eighteenth amendment featured yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Julian Barrett.

In entertaining Club Mayfair, Mrs. Barrett used the amendment idea in game appointments, in refreshments, and in the prizes, which were awarded as follows: High club, Mrs. Clyde Fatheree; high guest, Mrs. R. S. Lawrence; low, Mrs. Harry Burr.

MARY MARCHES RIGHT ALONG

A lack of acting experience didn't stop Mary Carlisle when she sought film success in Hollywood. She kept trying and now she's headed for bigger and better parts.

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Pert little Mary Carlisle is beginning to hit an effective stride in her Cinderella march from obscurity to recognition.

Without stage training, without movie experience, she made a Hollywood with her mother from Boston, her home city, and began a saucy rapping at the doors of casting offices.

Two or three years ago she had her first screen test, inspired by a lunch in a studio restaurant where she was seen by Carl Lennick, Jr. The test never brought anything. "It was too awful," says Mary.

Not long after that she obtained a job in a dancing chorus at M-G-M. It was a "break" that almost proved her undoing.

"I couldn't dance a step, and I was the first of a lot of new girls to be tried out," she says. "Naturally, I wasn't so good. But I danced for a while, until someone kindly suggested I try for a place in the studio stock company. I did, and got it."

In the dancing chorus at the same time was Ann Dvorak, who hadn't been able to dance either when she began, and Ann helped Mary learn the steps. Ann's rise to fame, once it began, was steeper than Mary's has been, but Mary is pushing along, taking whatever parts and even bits she can get, and making it.

In her first film parts, Mary began stealing scenes, and recently there were those who contended she all but stole "Down to Earth" from Will Rogers, the star. One of her first bits in the picture was in the final sequence of "Grand Hotel," good out so that she drew notices in a comparatively insignificant role.

She has featured roles in several films and played inconsequential bits in many pictures—all of them training for the day when that one Big Chance would come.

Her work in the Rogers picture has brought her the Big Chance closer, and the day is close at hand when Mary Carlisle—five feet one inch tall, 100 pounds in weight, blond hair and blue eyes—will no longer be sent out for more training.

For she is conceded the material of which stars are made.

LESSONS ALSO STUDIED WHEN CIRCLES MEET

REPORTS OF TEN GIFT BASKETS MADE BY GROUPS

Circles of the First Baptist W. M. S. yesterday afternoon made plans for the observance next week of the Moon week of prayer. Meetings will be held Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of next week, with Circle 1 in charge on the first day, and the other circles following in regular order. Christmas offerings will be made at that time.

The circles also reported that 10 Thanksgiving baskets were given to needy families this year. Mrs. J. A. Meek, W. M. S. president, visited all circles yesterday.

Circle 1, meeting in the home of Mrs. T. W. Jamison, had a lesson on tithing led by Mrs. J. C. Solomon, and plans were made to study "Our Lord in Ours."

Those present were Mesdames L. H. Greene, Anna Brooks, C. L. Stephens, P. O. Anderson, H. E. Crocker, W. W. Martin, K. T. May, J. E. Reynolds, G. C. Malone, J. C. Solomon, and T. W. Jamison.

Business Meeting Held.
A business meeting was held by Circle 2 in the home of Mrs. Tom Perkins with Mrs. C. H. Schukley, co-chairman, in charge. Those attending were Mesdames T. E. Morton, C. H. Schukley, Mary Binford, J. A. Meek, R. E. Lantz, and Tom Perkins.

Circle 3 heard a lesson from "How Pray" led by Mrs. E. L. Anderson in the home of Mrs. G. D. Stockton. At the close of the lesson the Harmony Twins of Woodrow Wilson school entertained, and lovely refreshments were served.

One visitor, Mrs. Wright, attended and members present were Mesdames E. L. Anderson, F. E. Hoffman, R. W. Tucker, T. W. Cox, Buster Bailey, Ernest Fletcher, Wilton Hatcher, T. W. Barnes, W. B. Murphy.

Sale Are Awarded.
Ten silver seals and 16 gilt seals were awarded members of Circle 4 for the last two books studied.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. G. H. Covington. Mrs. J. A. Arwood was in charge of the devotion, during which scriptures on home were read by Mesdames Eugene Johnson, W. B. Henry, C. C. Matheny, and L. M. Keeling.

During the business meeting it was decided to buy study books with money earned by quilting, and the next book to be used will be "Why and How of W. M. U."

The following attended: Mesdames L. M. Keeling, C. E. Lantz, W. B. Henry, J. C. Bernard, E. H. Shannon, Eugene Johnson, F. M. Perriaz, L. A. Baxter, O. C. Williams, H. C. Wilkie, T. L. Anderson, and the hostess.

CANTATA PLANNED
The Treble Clef club made further plans for its Christmas cantata when it met Saturday afternoon at the church. The cantata, "In Bethlehem," will be presented Dec. 16.

STEPS HIGH—IS DRUM MAJOR

What's this? A drum majore? Yes, it's Mary Katherine Richter, who leads the band on parade at Capital university, Columbus, Ohio. And she's an expert at twirling the baton.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some go to football games to watch the players. Others turn out to see the crowd, and yet others just go to watch the band parade.

But it wasn't the band—it was the drum major who drew the biggest hand when Capital university's brilliantly uniformed organization booped and bum-bummed its colorful way up and down the gridiron here this season.

For Capital's major is a co-ed—no less.

They were trying to decide on a major to strut his stuff with the little Lutheran school's band two or three years ago when somebody suggested Mary Katherine Richter.

Always it had been a man's job. Co-ed had never even thought of trying out for it.

But one look at Mary Katherine convinced the judges. She has been leading the band ever since. No Capital drum major ever stepped so high, wide or handsome, nor twirled a baton so expertly.

COUNTY CLUB MAKES PLANS OF NEXT YEAR

MERTEN CLUB TO SHOW CAKE-MAKING ON DEC. 8

Home demonstration club yesterday elected Miss Joy Enloe and Mrs. B. T. Hargis as delegates to the dramatic school to be held in Pampa, Dec. 12-16.

The meeting yesterday was held in the home of Mrs. C. B. Haney with 12 members and two visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Haney gave a report of the recent county council meeting and the treasurer's report was read by the past secretary, Mrs. J. C. Browning, who will be party demonstrator during the coming year. Mrs. Fred C. Fischer will be bedroom demonstrator; Mrs. T. D. Alford, wardrobe demonstrator. Committees were appointed by Mrs. J. H. Smith, president.

A fruit cake demonstration was announced for Dec. 6 in the home of Mrs. J. H. Smith. Not only members but others wishing to attend may do so.

Plans were made to make the coming year even more profitable than the past. A Christmas party will be planned for the next meeting, which will be held in the home of Mrs. A. C. Enloe.

Delightful refreshments were served to Mesdames E. F. Strickland, J. C. Browning, Fred C. Fischer, Gray Culchouse, A. G. Enloe, H. B. Knapp, J. H. Smith, L. A. Laverly, B. T. Hargis, Oils Carruth, Elta Logan, Miss Joe Enloe, and the hostess.

Meat Canning Has Become Popular

Meat canning is requiring the attention of scores of Gray county farm men and women, according to Ralph Thomas, county agent.

Not many years ago, meat canning was almost unknown in this section. Today it is popular and farm families are taking steaks, ready for eating after being heated, from the cans.

Better methods of cutting and curing also are being followed in recent years. Farmers are eager to learn the latest methods, and tracts printed by salt manufacturers are in demand. Frequent demonstrations are being given by Mr. Thomas and by Miss Ruby Adams, demonstration agent.

Tips on CONTRACT

HANDS MUST FIT

By TOM O'NEIL
Bridgemen are careful not to make their contracts with big hands impossible of fulfillment when the bidding indicates that their cards do not click with those of partners. On the other hand, at times they will try for game or more on comparatively little strength if these seems to be a good fit.

An illustration is a game made recently in the Vanderbilt cup tournament when the declarer held only four trumps to the ten-spot, contrasted with a hand from a rubber game at the Des Moines club, New York, in which a master's over-enthusiastic partner, dazzled by possession of three aces, three kings and three knaves, went down at a slam contract.

Here is a hand on which David Burnstine and Edward Schenken, ranking players and members of the team of four that was runner-up in the Vanderbilt tourney, fared better than any other pair playing the same cards:

BURNSTINE NORTH		SCHENKEN
♠ 2	♠ 10 7 6 5	♠ 10 9 5	♠ 8 7 4
♥ 9 7	♥ A 9 5 4 3 2	♥ 8 6	♥ K 8 4
♦ J 10 9 5	♦ J 8 3 2	♦ A 10 7 6	♦ K 8 4
♣ 6 5 3 2	♣ A 10 7 6	♣ A 10 7 6	♣ K 8 4
WEST		EAST
♠ 10 9 5	♠ A 8 7 4	♠ 10 9 5	♠ 8 7 4
♥ J 8 3 2	♥ K 8 4	♥ 8 6	♥ K 8 4
♦ 6 5 3 2	♦ A 10 7 6	♦ A 10 7 6	♦ K 8 4
♣ A 10 7 6	♣ K 8 4	♣ A 10 7 6	♣ K 8 4
SOUTH		NORTH
♠ 10 9 5	♠ 8 7 4	♠ 10 9 5	♠ 8 7 4
♥ J 8 3 2	♥ K 8 4	♥ 8 6	♥ K 8 4
♦ 6 5 3 2	♦ A 10 7 6	♦ A 10 7 6	♦ K 8 4
♣ A 10 7 6	♣ K 8 4	♣ A 10 7 6	♣ K 8 4

East opened the auction with a spade. South could double, or bid two diamonds or two hearts. He preferred the diamonds. West passed and north offered three clubs. East passed and south rebid the diamonds, thereby warning Burnstine against clubs unless especially strong.

West passed and Burnstine bid three hearts. East passed and Schenken jumped to four hearts, the contract. East opened a diamond and Burnstine took all the tricks except the ace of spades and one trump.

Edwin A. Moore, another master, had the hard luck of having a bust opposite a partner's big hand in the following deal:

MOORE NORTH		DEALER
♠ 3 2	♠ Q 9 5 3	♠ 9 8 4	♠ 8 7 6 4
♥ 10 7 4	♥ 10 6 3	♥ 9 3 2	♥ Q 8 2
♦ A 6 5	♦ A K 10 2	♦ A K 10 2	♦ A K 10 2
♣ A K 10 7	♣ A K 10 2	♣ A K 10 2	♣ A K 10 2
WEST		EAST
♠ 9 8 4	♠ 8 7 6 4	♠ 9 8 4	♠ 8 7 6 4
♥ 9 3 2	♥ Q 8 2	♥ 9 3 2	♥ Q 8 2
♦ A K 10 2	♦ A K 10 2	♦ A K 10 2	♦ A K 10 2
♣ A K 10 2	♣ A K 10 2	♣ A K 10 2	♣ A K 10 2

South opened the auction with two spades. West and east kept silent till a slam contract was reached, when there came a double from west, mostly on suspicions, aroused by the bidding, that the south and north hands did not fit.

Over south's two spades north bid two no trump, the best response, and south offered his next best bid—three diamonds.

North then offered four hearts. South bid five clubs.

North then tried to stop the bidding at five spades, but south, misinterpreting the jump in hearts, went to six spades.

Three queens in the adversaries' hands set the contract two doubled vulnerable.

Mrs. Raymond W. Harrah, who has been quite ill for several days, was enough improved this morning for her nurse to be dismissed.

CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Netherism and Hypnotism, Denounced" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 27.

Among the passages read from the Bible was the following from James 3: "Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? Let him shew of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom."

For where envying and strife is, there is confusion and every evil work."

The lesson-sermon also included citations from the Christian Science textbook by Mary Baker Eddy, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," one of which was as follows (p. 407): "Man's enslavement to the most relentless masters—passion, selfishness, envy, hatred, and revenge—is conquered only by a mighty struggle. Every hour of delay makes the struggle more severe. If man is not victorious over the passions, they crush out happiness, health, and manhood. Here Christian Science is the sovereign panacea, giving strength to the weakness of mortal mind—strength from the immortal and omnipotent mind, and lifting humanity above itself into purer desires, even into spiritual power and good-will to man."

Baker Parents Do Red Cross Sewing

Ten dresses and 17 pairs of bloomers were made by members of the Baker Parent-Teacher association who met Monday afternoon to do Red Cross sewing. Those working were Mesdames E. L. Cottrill, Roy Holt, Carl Dunlap, J. D. Campbell, A. A. Day, W. G. Irving, Robert Followell, and Claude Lard.

A. E. Drake of Amarillo made a visit to Pampa yesterday.

"Tacky" Dance Is Pla-Mor Offering

The first "Tacky dance" held at the Pla-Mor auditorium in two years will be offered this evening, starting at 9 p. m.

There will be costume prizes for men and girls and a grand prize waltz as well.

Joe Norman's orchestra will furnish music for the event.

Parents Will Hear Address by Hyde

The Rev. A. A. Hyde will speak on the spiritual training of children at a meeting of Sam Houston Parent-Teacher association Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Other numbers will include a piano solo by Pauline McKay, a little play, "The Elves and the Shoemaker," by Miss Lillian Mullinax's room, and a piano solo by Mrs. Irvin Cole.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Carl S. Boston, who was injured in an automobile accident recently, has been brought from an Amarillo hospital to her home in Pampa. She is improving rapidly but will be confined to her bed for several days.

Mrs. J. W. Richards, who underwent an operation in Oklahoma City recently, has returned to Pampa. She is doing nicely. Mrs. W. Wilkes, who accompanied her to Oklahoma City, also has returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fischer and daughter have returned from Spur, where they spent the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mrs. E. Ewing Leech, who has been ill of influenza for more than a week, has improved rapidly but is unable to address the federated club women at a tea this afternoon. Mrs. Leech was asked to make a report on the state club convention at which she represented all of the local federated clubs. She is president of the Twentieth Century Culture club.

Famous Pot Is Reported Missing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Mrs. Garner's famous coffee percolator, the handsome one given her by Representative Kleberg, which bubbled in her capital office all last session, has disappeared.

For several days after arriving from Texas, Mrs. Garner was too busy to make her customary coffee. And when today's brisk weather brought tantalizing thought of hot coffee—Mrs. Garner hunted high and low, but no percolator could she find.

About 25 members of the Journalism club and their guests were present at a party held in the Central cafeteria last Wednesday night. Games were played with most zest being shown by every one. A number of popular songs were sung by some of the members present.

Two contests were held with every one taking part. The first contest was at the turkey in which every one did his best to write the correct answers to some questions written on the paper. Five members tied for this contest. The second contest was a music contest. Josephine Langston, one of the popular singers on the piano, and everyone was supposed to write the names of the songs she played. This contest was won by Wayne Hutchins. A cake was the prize for the first contest, and the song "Sweetheart, Forever" was the prize for the second contest. Cocoa and pumpkin pie were served as refreshments.

COPS CONVENE

The Junior Police held their regular meeting just before noon yesterday to organize for the week's duty.

EXES RETURN

It has been a great treat to have so many exes on the campus during the past few days and to realize that the college students look back to "Dear Old Pampa High School" with pride.

gold without a favorable exchange of trade with us. Virtually every method by which Europe could pay the United States is not acceptable to the man in the street.

It happens that there are other men in other streets, in other countries. The rank and file in Germany still believes the kaiser's claims that the world war was a defensive war for Germans. Younger Germans, however, heavily armed France at Germany's warfare was financed at home, and France realizes that Germany cannot and, furthermore, will not meet her reparations obligations. That is why that France has permitted the German obligations reparation is not to the American way of thinking logical or fair. The French man of the streets, however, think it is an unjust debt, and that we, as a wartime ally, should put it down as a contribution to the struggle.

Some justification for scaling down of the war debts can be seen if we view the obligations in the light of the present dishonest dollars, which are much harder to obtain now than they were in war time. The same principle applies to domestic obligations as well, and illustrates the need for moderate monetary inflation.

It is obvious that American public opinion will not permit either cancellations of the debts or payments in goods. And no less an expert than Frank H. Simonds declares that European sentiment will not longer permit payments of any kind. It looks very much like a technical deadlock with Uncle Sam's experienced diplomats trying to squeeze a bit of disarmament and a few unwiling dollars out of foxy Europeans to whom diplomacy is a major sport. The American man of the street, however, is on the corner, and Uncle Sam himself are going to have to charge off quite a row of naughts to experience in international affairs. It is quite possible, moreover, that we are not as eager to collect the debts in full as we think. The economics of world trade cannot be measured in terms of any experiences with which most people are familiar. But Americans learn fast when they pay dearly for their education.

HIGH SCHOOL DRAMATICS CLASS PRESENTS ONE-ACT PLAYS UNDER DIRECTION OF MISS A. O'KEEFE

"On with the Show" is the cry of the high school dramatics class. In fact, the last three weeks have been spent preparing and presenting a group of one-act plays.

The purpose of the project was to give students further development in lines of acting to which they are not particularly adapted either by previous experience or natural habits or ideals. With this end in view, Miss A. O'Keefe cast the members of the class in parts of her own selection.

Two of the plays, "The Finger of God" and "Thursday Evening," have been presented to the class. Another, "Two Crooks and a Lady," will be presented tomorrow. Each of the plays was under the supervision of a student director.

Work on contest plays will begin soon. All students are invited to take part in the try-outs and preliminaries. People interested will find it helpful to attend ahead of time the plays considered suitable material for the contest. Titles of these plays may be obtained from Miss O'Keefe.

Pep Squad May Develop Into Girls' Chorus

Pampa high school and all of Pampa are proud of our pep squad. This organization is said by many to be the best in the state.

The pep squad was organized at the first of the year for the purpose of cheering the football boys on to greater glory. It earned much praise for its well drilled execution of designs and singing of songs. The plain green uniforms with gold emblems look specially well on the girls and have won the compliments of many visitors.

The Amarillo News-Globe says that Pampa's pep squad is the best in the district and praises the girls highly.

It is the hope of the sponsors that the pep squad may be turned into a girls' chorus, now that football is over, although there is a chance that it will continue as a cheering section.

Teachers Oppose 8-Semester Rule

With reports from the State Teachers association forecasting the downfall of the eight-semester rule, prospects of a 1933 Harvester football squad have brightened immensely. Losing only 3 or 4 of the 1932 squad, Pampa will again be qualified to call herself one of the "Big Three" of District 1 football.

Sentiment at the teachers' meeting was against the rule, and a vote will be called next spring.

The one-year transfer rule was debated but was more favorably considered than the semester rule.

Students Visit Pampa's Office Supply Company

All adults in the commercial department made a tour of inspection of the Pampa Office Supply company yesterday.

The purpose of this visit was to investigate the importance of neat and orderly files. Paul M. LeBeuf, manager of the Pampa Office Supply company, explained the newest development in filing systems and displayed other office supplies. The latest models in typewriters were also exhibited by Nick Carter.

Approximately 200 students visited the office during the day under the direction of Misses Zenobia McFarlin and John Kelly Houssels. The commercial department wishes to thank C. H. Walker and his assistants for this courtesy.

Band Will Play For Spearman-McLean Battle

The high school orchestra played for the reception given by the federated clubs at the Presbyterian church this afternoon.

The band will play for the McLean-Spearman football game Friday afternoon. It will be a guest band and will root for both teams. "Pop" has ordered several new pieces of band music which will be here soon.

GOLFERS IMPROVING

The high school golf club, under the direction of T. H. McDonald, is developing some good material. The club is having a match game this week-end. So far the club has tied with Canadian and lost to Amallo.

According to statements made by Mr. McDonald, the boys are getting to be pretty good golfers. Few shoot an 80 or below.

EAST TEXAS

The new order will expire April 1 next.

R. D. Parker, chief of the oil and gas division of the commission, said he believed the new combination formula could be put into effect not later than December 10.

The plan adopted by the commission, the one outlined by E. O. Buck, commissioner of petroleum engineering, before a hearing of operators last Saturday.

Considerable dissatisfaction to the plan was expressed by several groups of operators.

They claimed it would be unfair to small operators and discriminate in favor of the major companies. Those who dissented from the idea proposed that the field be regulated by a per well and pressure combination without the acreage feature.

Allowables for other Texas fields, due to be fixed at once were not announced immediately. Parker said they would be computed during the day.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 29. (AP)—

The Oklahoma corporation commission focused its attention today upon allegations of irregularities and "hefts of crude in the prorated Oklahoma City oil field as H. F. Wilcox of Tulsa served notice he would move his company to Texas "because of unfair political interference with the oil business."

Continuing the field's allowable production for the field of 73,510 barrels through December, the commission yesterday began hearing the application of the Anderson-Pritchard Oil corporation for a new basic prorated order, enforcement of the notable taking law and adjusting of potential production estimates.

The commission declined to make

Charge in Civil Suit Is Drawn

The jury was expected to begin deliberations in the suit of J. S. Morse against Carl Heffner late this afternoon. Judge W. R. Ewing was finishing the charge this morning, and arguments were scheduled to be delivered in the afternoon.

Mr. Morse is suing for foreclosure of note and deed of trust. The defendant alleged that foreclosure could not be made, claiming protection of the "mestead" law.

The plaintiff alleged that purchase money was involved and the homestead law did not apply.

H. B. Hill of Shamrock is attorney for the plaintiff and Judge Reynolds of Shamrock is representing the defendant.

Jurons in the case are A. N. Dille Jr., C. C. Gillis, C. O. Seeds, S. H. Sifton, Max Mahaffey, E. L. Goad, R. S. Jordan, H. D. Lewis, F. M. Scott, Milton Carpenter, W. F. Holland, L. L. Palmer.

Keys Optimistic About Business—Has New Clerks

Business in Pampa is much better than at the same time last year, according to H. D. Keys, manager of the J. C. Penny store here. Last Saturday Mr. Keys found it necessary to add 10 clerks to his staff. That many or more will be employed each Saturday between now and Christmas, Mr. Keys said.

Not only on Saturdays is business better, but every day trade is on the increase over last year, according to the manager. Four additional clerks have been added during the week and if business continues to improve, more salespeople will be needed to handle the trade.

T. L. Chambers of Oklahoma City is here on business today.

H. S. Kay of Denver is in the city on business this week.

Wilks Chapman New President Of Hi-Y Group

Election of new Hi-Y officers for the year were held last Tuesday night in the high school library. Wilks Chapman was elected president. Paul Schneider, a sophomore, and Paul Schneider and Wiley Reynolds were chosen vice-president and secretary, respectively.

James Todd Jr. spoke briefly to the boys before the business session on worship and service.

Wilks Chapman, the newly elected president, is a senior who has been active in Hi-Y for the past two years, is editor-in-chief of The Little Harvester, and has played in the band for three years. The vice-president, Paul Schneider, is a sophomore and has belonged to the Hi-Y club ever since he entered high school. Paul also plays in the band. Wiley Reynolds, the secretary-treasurer, is a senior and a Harvester. The meeting tonight will be held in the gym at 8 o'clock.

CARDS--

Last year Santa Claus was put in the bread line. Well, this year his reindeer have found him. Then there's the fellow who apparently has lost his shirt. He stands in a barrel and explains: "Greetings—Between 'Hard Times' and the 'darned Depression,' Ain't got nothing left but this pleasant expression."

Getting back to the Victorians, the treatment of types and scenes of the era is refreshing. This trend in Christmas cards is a reflection of style trends in furniture, clothing—and what have you.

Recent years have been so full of the zig-zags, contortions and distortions of modernism that the pretty sentiments and conservatism of those dim days are novel indeed. Of course, there are some cards that take sly pokes at the Victorians, for those who want to follow a style but make their friends snicker as well.

Fel lovers must have their animal cards so there is an abundance of these, both quaint and modern in treatment. And those queer little penguins, who have wobbled their way into such popularity in all manner of decorative art, will go thru the mails on many a Christmas greeting this year.

Those who want to be ritzy have plenty of opportunity, and the costlier cards are not so costly as they were in other years—speaking relatively, that is. There are some exquisite imported numbers, clochings and fine pen and brush work.

For the younger generation, sports scenes are stressed. And there are cards appropriate to "kid" friends who wax enthusiastic over such things as movies and what-not.

Scouts Advanced In Honor Court

Scouts were advanced to a higher rank at a court of honor held last night at the district court room by officials of the Adobe Wells area council, with the Rev. A. A. Hyde in charge. He was assisted by Ray Wilson, Philip Pond, and W. H. Curry. Talks were made by Mr. Curry and Rev. Hyde.

The following scouts were advanced: from the tenderfoot class to the second class rank, Carl Brown, Robert Kilgore, Richard Kilgore; from second to first, Rex Rose.

Five-year veteran scouts honored were J. D. Sackett, scoutmaster; Franklin Baer, first class; Wilks Chapman, eagle; Berton Doucette, eagle; Buck Munday, eagle; Leon Robison, life; Claude Sullins, eagle; all of troop 80.

Merit badges were awarded as follows:

John A. King, animal industry, poultry keeping, public health; Gerald Maxey, cooking, leathercraft, public health, personal health, swimming; Glen S. Maxey, leathercraft; Joe S. Peacock, woodcarving.

Troops 3, 20, 17, 4, 80, were represented.

BELIEVES ROOSEVELT SINCERE

An attitude of solicitude and genuine humane concern unusual in a president-elect of the United States and reminiscent of his references to the "forgotten man," was evident in a letter received recently from Franklin D. Roosevelt to Fred Kreiger, editor of the Hansford County News and shall be pleased to receive further issues. Very sincerely yours (Signed) Franklin D. Roosevelt.

One wonders if Mr. Roosevelt has answered the thousands of letters which he has probably received in the last few months. Wrote Mr. Roosevelt to Mr. Kreiger: "Thank you very much indeed for your letter of Oct. 24 and for the copy of your paper, which I read with interest. I am grateful for the splendid support of the Hansford County News and shall be pleased to receive further issues. Very sincerely yours (Signed) Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Mr. Kreiger believes Mr. Roosevelt is a sincere man, and that the president-elect means to redeem his pledge to the "forgotten man."

That phrase, Mr. Kreiger says, includes the millions of people who are scarcely known outside their own neighborhoods and communities, but make up the major part of the U. S. population.

Mr. Kreiger is an applicant for the northern district of Texas. He introduced the operation of the central jury system in Dallas county as a deputy sheriff about 15 years ago. Yesterday he had about 30 Panhandle editors on his petition of endorsement and a number of county officials of ten Panhandle counties.

FEDERAL--

pointed out that of the approximately $4,000,000 worth of work the commission had hoped to contract at once, that amount "to be expended in fifty counties," more than $3,500,000 "is to be paid, and will be paid, by the federal government, and is now available and will be available."

The motion said that "in addition to the regular federal aid given to this state, there has been made available to the state of Texas as 'emergency federal aid' a total of $7,864,621; that if this emergency federal aid total of $2,870,804.31 is and will be included on projects advertised for letting" on yesterday and today.

It recited that "it is necessary to place under contract immediately the emergency federal fund as the same must be earned through completed work by midnight of June 30, 1933; that a failure to earn the emergency federal funds by that time will mean that any unearned emergency funds will be canceled in Texas."

Continuing the motion said: "That the primary purpose of the emergency federal aid funds, and of that portion amounting to $7,864,621 made available to Texas, was for the purpose of relieving unemployment and aiding the people of this state in their present distressed conditions. That, as alleged by appellees, Ferguson and others, in the court below, this state in common with the country at large, is suffering under a very great stress of financial condition, and that thousands of people in the various counties in Texas (including the fifty counties in which building projects were advertised for award on November 28 and 29), are walking the streets unemployed. That in keeping with the general policy of the government, and in an effort to alleviate the suffering of the people, the appellants constitute the highway commission of Texas, had proposed to make available, at once, the vast sums of money allocated to Texas as her part of the emergency federal aid fund, and that in carrying out their statutory duties of maintaining the state highways of Texas, and of continuing to build a connected system of state highways, while at the same time believing unemployment and distress, appellants had advertised and given notice of their intention to receive bids and make awards for these projects and improvements."

The motion advised the court "that appellants would welcome, and are anxious for a trial of this cause upon its merits, but that the trial court is now in vacation and the judge thereof is sick and unable to hold court; that as this honorable court well knows, if appellants made a motion to vacate

TOBACCO IS DRUG

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—The stock market made a rather feeble effort to rally today, but selling of the tobacco stocks in the last half hour proved unsettling, and the list closed with a barely steady tone, with mixed gains and losses, largely in proportion to the volume.

The turnover was only about half a million shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 29. (AP)—Reflecting a new record breaking smash of the British pound sterling, wheat today quickly went to within 1/2 cent of the all time bottom record. Wheat prices, however, rallied almost at once.

COTTON IS EASY

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29. (AP)—The cotton market opened rather easy today. Although Liverpool was a shade better than due; sterling was very weak making a new low price level for all times at $3.15. First trades here were unchanged to 3 points down. The market continued easy, mainly on the weakness in sterling but there also was some hedge selling and very little buying support.

Wade Burial To Be at Norman

The body of Robert Wade, 37, of LeFors, will be sent to Norman, Okla., by the Stephenson Mortuary at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Burial will be in Norman tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Wade died in LeFors Friday night following a long illness. He was a former resident of Pampa.

Mr. Wade is survived by his wife, two children, two sisters and four brothers.

FATS-LEANS--

Bean of Wine university and the one and only Ed Bisset of Skellings Prep. Captain Cook has also been busy and has signed up Russell Acklam of Panthers U. and Frank Hill, star at Insurance HI.

Starting line-ups will probably be announced at tonight's sessions. There has been considerable charges of professionalism floating back and forth. The squabble over officials is still unsettled but the captains are expected to get together after the meetings tonight and settle the question. Captain McGrew is afraid that Coach Odus Mitchell, named referee, will forget himself and grab the ball for a touchdown.

The Fats have also demanded that tickling be barred, along with tripping. The Leans also want "bread basket" pushing barred.

Tickets for the big game have been placed on sale at City Drug, Harvester Drug, and Fathes Drug No. 4. Prices are 15 cents for children and 40 cents for adults. The money will be used to send some worthy student to college who would otherwise be unable to attend.

VACATION ANNOUNCED

Rural schools of the county under the supervision of Supt. John E. Hessey will close for the Christmas holidays on Friday evening, Dec. 23, and will open again on Jan. 3.
