flower bed in front of Mrs. Husband's home. "God Bless America" was written across the flag. Kenzie said she didn't know the husbands, but wanted to do something.

Sandra Knight, a neighbor of Mrs. Husband's contacted the local Kiwanis Club to ask them to put out U.S. flags at homes on the street where Mrs. Husband lives.

The civic club normally puts the flags out as a fund raiser but only on national holidays. After checking with others who live in the block, Mrs. Knight offered to pay an extra fee for this weekend's task.

Burwell Southern with the Kiwanis, who lives only a block away told Mrs. Knight that they were going to put out the flags Sunday throughout the neighborhood and not to worry about any charge.

Mark Fullerton, an Amarillo firefighter who grew up with Rick Husband's younger brother, Keith, arrived at the Husband home as the clouds in the western sky turned blood-red. He said he just wanted to stop by the house that held so many memories and say a prayer for the Husband family.

"We were in Cub Scouts together," Fullerton said of Keith.

Fullerton said that Keith

Husband's room as a child was always a mess.

"I helped make it that way," Fullerton said.

By contrast, Rick's room was always neat and tidy.

"We used to sneak down the hall from Keith's room to Rick's and just sit there and look at the model rockets and airplanes," Fullerton said. "We knew better than to touch them."

He said everything in the room had to do with flight.

Fullerton said the room was dominated by a large balsa plane that hung from the ceiling that Rick Husband had built.

"We lost a really good guy," Fullerton said.

One small bouquet of flowers had a note that read:

"I know not when My Lord will come At night or noonday fair Nor if I'll walk the vale with him Or meet him in the air."

The note was unsigned. Donna Faucett and Joann Casasanta put a small toy red, white and blue windmill with the silk sunflowers and U.S. flag that Mrs. Husband left in a planter on her front porch when she left for Florida to see the launch of the shuttle.

After the launch, Mrs. Husband stayed with her sister in Orlando, planning to stay in Florida until her son returned.

music, said Hill.

She said when she went to the launching she met many people and was impressed by the experience. Staying in the same hotel as the Israeli delegation, she said the security was tight.

On the causeway about six miles from the launch site, Hill said it was a very exciting experience. She said she wished the landing had been as happy as the take-off.

Hill was impressed with a special reception Husband's wife Evelyn hosted on the night before the launch. She said it was a prayer service and several Christian singers performed.

"Many lives were touched by Rick Husband. Even with the brief encounter with him I had for two days, I knew he was genuine. He made everyone feel special," Hill said. "It wasn't just me, it was everyone."

Experts in Texas, Louisiana gather debris from shuttle

NACOGDOCHES (AP) — Under rain clouds that threatened to hamper their search, authorities returned to the forests of East Texas on Monday to hunt for more debris from the space shuttle Columbia and remains of its seven astronauts.

Hundreds of investigators with expertise in airline accidents, engineering and forensics converged on Texas and Louisiana to join in the painstaking job of retrieving pieces of wreckage from a huge swath of forested country bigger than the state of West Virginia.

Teams of global positioning satellite technicians were back in the field at daybreak to continue logging the location of debris for investigators, said James Kroll, director of the Emergency Geospatial Mapping Center at Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches.

"We're still out there. We've got 15 teams mapping stuff all over, if they ever decide to come pick it up," Kroll said.

Overwhelmed local authorities scrambled to locate and guard objects in the sprawling debris field, as NASA established command posts in Lufkin and at Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana to oversee recovery and examination of the wreckage.

Among those standing guard was school Principal Jay Tullios, waiting for experts to collect the 25 pieces of debris that had fallen on the grounds of a school in Douglass. Classes were cancelled Monday.

"They said they'd be here first thing in the morning. We're waiting on a call," Tullios said.

About 300 people from 30 agencies — including the FBI, Federal Emergency Management Agency, National Transportation Safety Board and the Texas Department of Public Safety — were being assigned to collect thousands of pieces as small as pebbles and as big as pickup trucks.

Once in hand, the wreckage will be trucked to Barksdale, where engineers from shuttle contractor United Space Alliance will sort through it in search of clues to what caused Columbia to break apart over Texas on Saturday morning just minutes before its scheduled landing in Florida.

Their goal is to reconstruct what is left of Columbia and establish a sequence of how each part peeled off during its high-speed re-entry into the atmosphere.

The salvage operation covers an area that stretches from the rolling hills of East Texas to a suburb of New Orleans, where authorities found what could be insulation from Columbia.

Louisiana state police confirmed more than a dozen chunks of debris in eight different parishes.

However, the search for wreckage has focused on Texas, where Gov. Rick Perry said 33 counties — a 28,000-square-mile area from north of Dallas all the way to the Gulf Coast — had reported debris. That amounts to about 10 percent of Texas' land area, or more than all of West Virginia.

The heart of the operation is East Texas, a region of thick forests of pines and oaks, expansive farm land and cow pastures. It holds four national forests, covering almost 700,000 acres, and two reservoirs that together span about 300,000 acres. The thick woods also are home to wild hogs and bobcats.

While the region is a magnet for hunters, boaters and anglers, its challenging terrain makes the job facing Columbia recovery teams that much more difficult.

"This is forest — dense forest," said Kroll. "There is no way to describe how many pieces there are and how spread over the landscape they are."

"Ten years from now, folks are going to be walking around the woods and finding stuff."

In Nacogdoches County alone, authorities have logged more than 1,200 confirmed debris sites. State troopers and local authorities didn't have enough personnel to protect every piece, but they manned 130 spots — alongside two-lane highways, restaurants and ranches — to guard debris against scavengers.

They said NASA had provided a list of priorities: anything that could contain data or resembles computer circuitry, or potentially radioactive materials.

Among the items discovered so far: a car-size chunk that splashed into Toledo Bend Reservoir on the Texas-Louisiana state line, a 7- to 8-foot door-like fragment, what resembles part of a windshield and a 5- to 6-foot-long object authorities suspect could be part of the landing gear.

In San Augustine, just east of Nacogdoches, Larry Epps placed a 55-gallon barrel to protect a piece of metal that landed in his hay meadow.

"If it hit me, my wife would have been a widow," he said of the hollow gray object that resembles a tire. He later found what appears to be a circuit board about 100 yards away from his front yard and a half dozen 2-by-2-inch metal pieces in his meadow.

Marc Masferrer, editor of The Lufkin Daily News, said a landowner led him to what appeared to be a seat from the shuttle in a pasture 20 miles west of Nacogdoches.

There have been more grim discoveries — human remains, including a leg, torso, thigh bone and skull. NASA confirmed the remains of some of the seven Columbia astronauts had been recovered.

Hammadi: U.S. will suffer casualties 'beyond imagination' if Iraq invaded BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq will inflict massive casualties on American troops if the United States launches an invasion to topple Saddam Hussein, a senior Iraqi legislator declared Monday.

Iraqi parliament speaker Saadoun Hammadi told a group of legislators from the European Parliament that Iraq "will not turn the other cheek" should the United States use force to make Saddam's regime give up banned weapons programs.

"American aggression will end up in a catastrophe for them," Hammadi said. "They will incur casualties beyond their imagination."

U.N. resolutions passed since Iraq's defeat by a U.S.-led coalition in the 1991 Gulf War prohibit nuclear, chemical and biological weapons programs in Iraq. Thousands of such weapons were destroyed under a U.N. inspection program in the 1990s.

The United States and Britain insist Saddam is still hiding banned weaponry and say they will disarm Iraq by force. The United States has deployed almost 90,000 troops in the Gulf region, a number that may double soon.

Iraq has steadfastly denied it has weapons of mass destruction, but it is under pressure to make concessions and show progress in the U.N. inspections process in hopes of blocking any U.S.-British diplomatic bid for military action.

The inspectors have yet to find anything conclusive and Iraq has claimed that U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell will fabricate evidence against Saddam when he appears before the U.N. Security Council on Wednesday to try to prove the Iraqis are hiding banned weapons.

Powell shot back Monday in a commentary published in the Wall Street Journal, warning that the United States "will not shrink from war."

DEAR ABBY

written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanna Phillips

House-Sitting Husband Turns Home Into Hotel

DEAR ABBY: I am a single mother and have taught school for 20 years. Two months ago, I began a sabbatical out of state and took my teenage daughter with me. Prior to leaving, a good friend, "Marjorie," accepted a job transfer that required her to move out of state as well. Marjorie suggested that since her husband wasn't ready to leave town due to some personal business, he would be the perfect candidate to house-sit for me. It seemed like a good arrangement.

Within a few weeks, former neighbors started calling and telling me that Marjorie's husband was having women stay overnight at my house. I have since learned that Marjorie had asked a mutual friend to keep an eye on her husband to find out if he's cheating. Our friend refused, but confided to me that it's as plain as day the guy is cheating and everyone in town knows it.

We don't want to hurt Marjorie — nor do we want her husband to humiliate her. Should we tell Marjorie what's going on or let her find out on her own?

INSURE IN MESA, ARIZ.

DEAR UNSURE: Tell her what the neighbors told you. Marjorie already has suspicions, so it won't be a shock. And get her husband out of your house. The last thing you need is strangers walking through and possibly helping themselves to your possessions.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl in high school. Recently I was required to make a presentation in my science class. Naturally, I wanted to look my best. That morning I selected a denim skirt and black shirt — neither of which was too short or low-cut. Black nylons and chunky-heeled black shoes completed my ensemble. I headed off to school feeling confident about my appearance.

The minute I arrived on campus, I realized I had made a severe miscalculation. It was as though I had broken some unspoken, but well-known, rule. Kids looked me up and down and stared at my legs. One astonished girl gasped, "Oh, my god! She's wearing black stockings!"

Abby, I am a reasonably conservative person. I have never worn anything outrageous and would never intentionally go to school wearing something risqué or improper. I still think the black pantyhose were appropriate for my outfit. Could you shed some light on this?

DAZED AND CONFUSED IN THE MIDWEST

DEAR DAZED AND CONFUSED: Perhaps your classmates were surprised to see you "dressed up." If you had violated a dress code, I'm sure you would have been told about it by a teacher or the principal. From what you have described, your outfit was appropriate for the occasion.

DEAR ABBY: I have a precious 6-year-old niece on the East Coast whose father just died. I have been searching for a sympathy card designed for a child, but have found nothing. "Thinking of you" cards don't seem quite right. How best can I let this little girl know how sorry I am for her loss?

CONCERNED AUNT IN COLORADO

DEAR CONCERNED AUNT: Buy a pretty blank card and write a short note of sympathy to your niece, in lettering she can easily read. Tell her how much you love her, that you're thinking of her, and how sad you are for her loss.

Former Longhorn captures MVP award

Williams scores two TD's in AFC Pro Bowl Victory

HONOLULU (AP) — Ricky Williams nearly collided with Rich Gannon while taking the handoff. Then Ricky ran right — and fullback Lorenzo Neal ran left.

It should have been a disaster of a play, but Williams just lowered his head and bulled over two defenders into the end zone.

The AFC simply couldn't be stopped in yet another Pro Bowl — not by the NFC, and not even by themselves.

Williams ran for 56 yards, scored two touchdowns and forced a fumble on special teams to earn the MVP award as the AFC beat the NFC 45-20 on Sunday for their sixth win in the last seven Pro Bowls.

Williams' multifaceted performance was the highlight of a dominant afternoon for the AFC, which got three 100-yard games from its quarterbacks and six interceptions from its defense as the NFL wrapped up its season with another high-scoring all-star game.

"It seems every time we're over here, we do pretty well," said Kansas City tight end Tony Gonzalez, who had five catches for 98 yards. "The last couple of games I've played in, it wasn't even close."

With his dreadlocks, surfer wardrobe and profoundly mellow ways, Williams is right at home in Hawaii — both on its beaches and in its football stadiums.

In his first Pro Bowl, Williams won his second MVP award in a Hawaii all-star game. In 1999, he capped his Heisman Trophy-winning senior season at Texas by dominating the Hula Bowl.

Hawaii suits his famously detached personality, but his effort was anything but mellow.

"What's fun is how laid-back everything is," Williams said. "It's always great to get in the end zone, but it's especially great to do it against the best players in the world with millions of people watching."

Williams, who led the NFL in rushing for the Dolphins after three tough seasons in

New Orleans, also caught three passes as the AFC jumped to a 28-6 halftime lead and eliminated the tension — already minor at best — from this good-natured exhibition.

"I always like coming here, because it's a free vacation," said Oakland safety Rod Woodson, who had two interceptions in his 11th Pro Bowl appearance. "We were able to jump on top early with some big defensive plays, and that's all you need in this game."

Gannon, the MVP of the regular season and the previous two Pro Bowls, went 12-for-18 for 102 yards and two TDs. Drew Bledsoe passed for 122 yards, and Peyton Manning had 100.

The AFC nearly broke the Pro Bowl record of 51 points set by the NFC in 2000. But Buffalo's Eric Moulds was ruled out of bounds in the end zone with 1:24 left after a 36-yard pass from Manning.

The coaching staffs from Philadelphia and Tennessee made sure the game was decided in the air. The teams set records for most combined pass attempts (101) and combined interceptions (8).

A sellout crowd at Aloha

Stadium enjoyed another blowout victory for the AFC, which has dominated the matchup in recent years. Each of the AFC's players earned $30,000 for the win, with the NFC's stars receiving $15,000 apiece.

Jerry Rice, the oldest starter in Pro Bowl history, had four catches for 36 yards in his 13th appearance — his first representing the Raiders with the AFC. Manning made several attempts to throw to Rice in coverage, trying to live his dream of throwing a TD pass to football's greatest receiver.

Gannon appeared to be recovered from his Super Bowl malaise, though facing only a few players from Tampa Bay's punishing defense probably helped.

Asked if the AFC was seeking revenge for the Buccaneers' Super Bowl triumph, safety John Lynch said: "It seemed like Rich Gannon did. I don't know what it is. They've been getting the better of us in this game."

Jeff Garcia, making his first Pro Bowl start, threw three interceptions in the first 17 minutes. Donovan McNabb wasn't much better for the NFC, and New England's Ty Law returned one of Buccaneers QB Brad Johnson's passes for a touchdown in the fourth quarter.

The NFC's best performance might have come from its kicker. Philadelphia's David Akers set a Pro Bowl record by kicking a 53-yard field goal against a strong crosswind in the second quarter.

The Super Bowl champions were well-represented, with six Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the lineup. Linebacker Shelton Quarles was a last-second addition; he already was in Hawaii for a vacation when Atlanta's Keith Brooking dropped out.

The AFC had a balanced effort, but Williams won the MVP Cadillac with several key plays. In the second quarter, Williams even forced a fumble while playing on the kickoff coverage team for the first time since the eighth grade.

"I had a great time this whole week hanging out with the guys," he said. "I got a chance to see this beautiful island and relax. Hopefully I'll be able to come back many, many more times."

SOCCER

PAMPA — The Pampa Harvester Soccer Booster Club will meet at 7 tonight in the high school athletic fieldhouse.

All club members are urged to attend.

Pampa opens the district season Tuesday at Canyon.

WAILUKU, Hawaii (AP) — Dan Nystrom of Minnesota made a 44-yard field goal with 4 seconds left to cap a 24-point fourth quarter in the South's 27-24 victory in the Hula Bowl. The South overcame a 24-3 deficit.

GOLF

KAUPULEHU-KONA, Hawaii (AP) — Former club pro Dana Quigley is still amazed by his success on the Champions Tour.

"After six years I still can't believe I belong out here," Quigley said Sunday beating Larry Nelson by two strokes in the season-opening MasterCard Championship.

He has eight victories on the 50-and-over circuit and has earned more than $8 million.

"I quit my job as a club pro to come out and start Monday qualifying," he said. "I just thought if I could come out and keep my card and play a few years that would be my lot in life. ... The success I've had is something I'll never get over."

But there has been no secret to Quigley's success. He loves the game and plays almost every day, even in the offseason. In fact, playing fewer than 36 holes a day constitutes his offseason.

The MasterCard Championship was his 202nd consecutive start, a record. No wonder he looked as if he was in mid-season form at Hualalai Golf Club.

Quigley birdied two of the last three holes to finish at 18-under 198 and collect $250,000, the biggest check of his career. The 55-year-old former club pro from Massachusetts has won two of his last three starts dating to last year.

"My season never ends," said Quigley, who shot a closing 5-under 67. "My friends think I'm crazy, but this is my life. My passion for golf, you cannot believe it."

"It's pretty hard to describe, but to have success like this against these guys is a dream come true."

Quigley responded admirably when one of those guys, Nelson, put heat on him down the stretch.

Nelson, the 2001 winner, weathered an up-and-down round to put himself in position to force a playoff. In a four-hole stretch starting at the par-5 seventh, he went eagle, bogey, double-bogey, eagle. Nelson also bogeyed 12 to fall back into a tie, but he rebounded with birdie putts of 20 and 35 feet at 16 and 17 to regain a share of the lead at 17 under.

Pampa at Caprock Tuesday for more District 3-4A action

PAMPA — Pampa will be looking to draw closer to a playoff berth with a visit to Caprock in District 3-4A action Tuesday night.

With three games to go in the regular season, the Harvesters are holding onto the third-place playoff spot with a 5-3 record. Caprock at 4-6 is tied with Hereford for fourth place.

Thanks to a big fourth quarter, Pampa routed Caprock 71-46 in the first round in McNeely Fieldhouse. The Longhorns stayed close for three quarters and trailed by only six going into the final eight minutes.

Pampa will be looking to stop Caprock guard Cheston Mitchell, who has been on a scoring streak. Mitchell, a 6-0 junior, is averaging 21 points a game. He hit for 33 in Caprock's 58-56 win over Dumas last weekend.

High School Basketball

Will Mitchell (6-3 junior) is another strong player for the Longhorns. He had 12 points to go with Cheston Mitchell's 15 against the Harvesters in that first meeting.

Ryan Zemanek (6-3 senior) and Chance Bowers (6-1 junior) are averaging 15 and 14 ppg, respectively, to lead Pampa scorers.

For the season, Pampa is 9-12 and Caprock is 15-14.

WHEELER — Danny Spikes drilled 22 points to spark Wheeler by Wellington 66-57 last weekend in a District 1-1A clash.

Wheeler pulled away in the final minutes after leading by only three (51-48) after three quarters.

James Chapman added 14 points and Brad Masters 13 to the Mustangs' attack.

Kevin Thomas was Wellington's high scorer with 20 points. Aaron Taylor added 14.

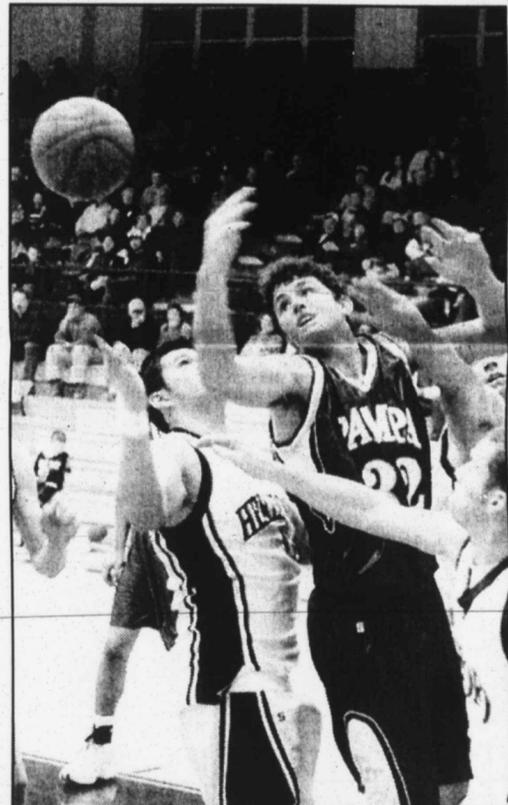

The Mustangs are 4-5 in district play while Wellington is 2-7.

Wheeler came away with an easy 83-49 win in the girls' game.

Wheeler's leading scorer was Lyndi Finsterwald with 26 points. Amy Osborne was second with 18. Andrea Jones followed with 15.

Andi Needham and Jessica Archie led Wellington with 10 points each.

Wheeler improved to 6-3 in the district standings while Wellington is winless at 0-9.

Ryan Zemanek (32) is averaging 15 ppg to lead the Harvesters in scoring going into Tuesday night's District 3-4A game with Caprock.

Rockets defeat Webber-less Kings, 105-89

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets sure didn't miss Sacramento star Chris Webber.

While they offered differing opinions about how Webber's absence affected Sacramento on Sunday, none of the Rockets were complaining after beating the Kings 105-89.

The Kings are 5-3 this season without Webber, out at least three weeks with a sprained left ankle. More importantly, it was the fifth loss in the last six games for Sacramento.

"I'm not disappointed," Yao Ming said of Webber not playing. "The team always wants to get a victory and if they're missing a key player, that's actually good for us. It definitely did help us that Webber was not out there. He is a very important part of their team."

Yao had 18 points, 11 rebounds, four blocked shots and a career-high six assists. But coach Rudy Tomjanovich said he didn't feel Webber's absence made that much difference.

"They're a very dangerous team even without Webber," Tomjanovich said. "We know what they did earlier in the year establishing a good record, and they did a lot of that without Webber."

The Kings didn't argue the point.

"Guys have gotten accustomed to the fact that whether we have all our guys or not we're going to win the game, because we've been able to do it in the past," Doug Christie said. "That won't always be the case. We're going to have to find ways to win regardless of who we have on the court."

"Actually, I felt good. I don't know about the rest of the guys. I have no excuses."

Peja Stojakovic, who led the Kings with 31 points, agreed.

"We just have to change the way we approach the game," Stojakovic said. "We have to be more aggressive on defense and help each other and get back on track and get our confidence back."

Coach Rick Adelman offered no alibis.

"We just didn't do anything," Adelman said. "You can't come in and just expect to win. We got our heads hammered today."

Conversely, the Rockets were playing one of their better games, especially on defense.

They tied a season high by blocking 13 shots. Houston is 19-1 this season when blocking eight or more shots.

"Those blocks are big," Tomjanovich said. "It's not only a defensive stop, but it also gives you an emotional lift and is an emotional downer for the other team.

"Defense has got to be our foundation. That's the biggest accomplishment this team has made, to become defensive conscious. But we can be a lot better."

Steve Francis had 21 points and also pointed to the defense.

"When we were winning early in the year, the defense was the key," he said. "We're starting to really get back to that. We were really focusing on the team aspect today, not only passing but defensively. We were really helping each other out on defense."

Eddie Griffin led the Rockets with 22, while Cuttino Mobley also had 21.

"They just got me the ball early and I was hitting," said Griffin, who had 11 points the first quarter. "I have gotten in foul trouble early in some games lately, so I was focusing on staying in the game.

"A win is a win. We don't care who plays."

The Rockets hit 52 percent from the field (44-of-86) after hitting a season-high 58 percent (50-of-86) against Minnesota in a 121-101 win Friday night.

"A lot of people are having trouble with field-goal percentage when you look at most teams this season," Tomjanovich said. "It's just the way the game is, with zone principles and how people help out. To have two 50 percent games in a row, that's pretty good."

Notes: Kelvin Cato did not dress because of sore hips — he injured against Minnesota on Friday. He's expected back Tuesday night when the Rockets visit the Timberwolves. ... The 12 points the Kings scored in the first quarter tied a season low by a Houston opponent (set by Denver on Jan. 11).

Stars' Turco saves game for Western Conference in NHL All-Star contest

SUNRISE, Fla. (AP) — If not for Dany Heatley's four goals in the All-Star game Sunday, Western Conference goaltender Marty Turco would have been the MVP.

If not for Turco, a first-year starter making his first All-Star appearance, the West would have lost.

"Before the game I was a little nervous, and then sitting alone and freezing didn't help," said Turco, who played behind Colorado's Patrick Roy and Chicago's Jocelyn Thibault. "Once I got out on the ice, and the fans were excited, I felt fine and I wasn't that nervous."

Turco, in his third season with Dallas, spent last year backing up Ed Belfour. Belfour signed with Toronto in the offseason, leaving Turco to start for the Stars. He has made the most of the opportunity. After totaling 28 wins in his first two years, Turco already has 24 this season.

He also leads the league in goals against average (1.79) and is second in save percentage (.931).

He has helped the Stars to 72 points, the most in the NHL, and first place in the Pacific Division.

He had a similar impact for the Western Conference on Sunday.

After allowing a goal to Olli Jokinen in the third period, Turco kept the East team almost quiet in overtime and the shootout.

He stopped one-on-one scoring opportunities against Alexei Kovalev, Miroslav Satan and Jokinen.

Jokinen's shot hit the post and secured the West's victory.

"I don't like it one bit, but it worked for us tonight," Turco said of shootouts. "You heard the fans. They didn't want to go home without somebody winning the game. They wanted the East to win, and that got me pumped."

Turco had been in dozens of shootouts in the minor leagues, and few of his memories are fond. Until now.

The exciting finish even had some of his opponents watching intently.

"I've never seen any games like this," Eastern Conference goaltender Nikolai Khabibulin said. "The last five minutes and overtime were unbelievable, with guys taking chances, goals making great saves and then the shootout. I think fans definitely got their money's worth."

Florida State topples No. 5 Duke, 75-70

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Duke is trying to figure out what's going wrong on the road.

Duke lost at Florida State for the second straight year Sunday night, falling 75-70 for the No. 5 Blue Devils' first three-game losing streak in the Atlantic Coast Conference in seven seasons. "We missed shots that we've hit a lot of times," coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "We could never get the lead."

Adam Waleskowski's left-handed hook with 18 seconds left gave Florida State a 71-67 lead.

Duke (14-3, 4-3 ACC) pulled to 71-70 with 10 seconds left on Daniel Ewing's 3-pointer, and immediately fouled on the inbound pass.

Tim Pickett's two free throws gave Florida State a 73-70 lead with 9.9 seconds left. Duke raced down court looking for a tying 3-point shot, but Chris Duhon slipped and fell in front of the Blue Devils bench, losing the ball with 6 seconds left and leading to the game-ending dunk by Waleskowski.

"They just knocked us back," Krzyzewski said. "Our defense could not stop their offense. They were not going to be denied."

In other games involving ranked teams Sunday, it was: No. 10 Maryland 85, Loyola, Md. 58; Michigan State 68,

No. 13 Illinois 65; No. 17 Wake Forest 79, North Carolina 75; and Southern California 91, No. 22 Oregon 76.

Pickett had 15 points, nine rebounds and four assists for Florida State, which made nine of its last 10 free throws.

"We're just trying to have a fresh start," Pickett said. "I feel like this is the beginning."

"Our guys made big shots and big plays at the end," first-year Florida State coach Leonard Hamilton said. "We want this to be a regular occurrence. "We don't want to storm the floor just because we beat someone we're not supposed to."

Florida State (11-8, 2-6) shot 60 percent from the field while holding Duke to just 34.7 percent.

Dahntay Jones, Duke's leading scorer entering the game at 17.6 points per game, finished with a season-low two points and fouled out with 1:42 remaining. He was 1-of-10 from the field and missed two free throws.

Jones reached double figures in 14 consecutive games, the third-longest streak among ACC players before Sunday.

Freshman J.J. Redick led Duke with 16 points and Nick Horvath added 10 points and 12 rebounds.

Florida State led by 11 points twice in the second half, the last time with 15:36 left on a jumper by Anthony Richardson, who finished with 14 points.

Duke responded with a 12-1 run over the next five minutes, tying it on Ewing's layup with 11:33 remaining. But the Seminoles came right back with seven straight points, taking a 56-49 lead on Nate Johnson's 3-pointer with 8:35 remaining.

Duke rallied again and tied it at 56 when Lee Melchionni connected on a 3-pointer with 6:48 left.

Florida State freshman guard Todd Galloway had 13 points, including two free throws with 57 seconds left that gave Florida State a 69-65 lead.

"Our guys played focused and positively and with a lot of confidence, which is something they haven't done," Hamilton said. "Hopefully this will give us enough confidence to continue to keep playing this way."

No. 10 Maryland 85, Loyola, Md. 58

At College Park, Md., Drew Nicholas scored eight of his 15 points in an opening 14-0 run as Maryland won its fifth straight.

Ryan Randle scored 17 points and Steve Blake had 10 assists for Maryland (14-4), which stretched its home winning streak to eight with its eighth straight victory over Loyola.

Bernard Allen had 16 points for the Greyhounds (4-15).

Michigan St. 68, No. 13 Illinois 65

At East Lansing, Mich., Paul Davis and Alan Anderson each scored 15 points for the Spartans (12-8, 4-4 Big Ten), who closed the game with a 9-3 run.

Brian Cook had 13 points in a foul-plagued 22 minutes for the Fighting Illini (15-4, 5-3).

No. 17 Wake Forest 79, North Carolina 75

At Chapel Hill, N.C., Josh Howard had a career-high 32 points, including the go-ahead three-point play with 21 seconds left, to lead the Demon Deacons (15-2, 5-2 Atlantic Coast Conference).

Jawad Williams had 22 points for the Tar Heels (11-9, 2-5), who lost their season-high fourth straight.

Southern California 91, No. 22 Oregon 76

At Los Angeles, Errick Craven scored 18 points and Greg Guenther added a career-high 16 as the Trojans (8-9, 4-5 Pac-10) ended the Ducks' five-game winning streak.

Southern California had lost three straight and five of six.

Luke Ridnour had 21 points for Oregon (15-5, 5-4).

Hands up!

Lefors' Savannah Smith and Jennifer Sprouse (22) have their hands up in calling for the ball in a recent game against Miami. The Warriorettes were victorious in the District 2-1A game.

Weir wagging again, wins Hope Classic

LA QUINTA, Calif. (AP) — Mike Weir cut out the wagging and started struggling. Now he's wagging and winning.

Weir birdied the final three holes Sunday and won the Bob Hope Classic when Jay Haas hit into the water on the last hole after Tim Herron had dropped back by taking a quadruple bogey on No. 16.

Weir shot a closing 5-under 67 to finish the five-day event at 30-under 330. Haas, the 1988 tournament champion who also led during the final round last year, had a 69, including a bogey on No. 18, to finish two shots behind. Herron shot a 75 to drop into a third-place tie at 26 under with Chris DiMarco, who had a 70.

After an impressive 2001 season, Weir struggled last year and his best finish was a tie for 11th in the Honda Classic. He's off to a good start this year, with the Hope victory coming a week after he finished tied for ninth at Phoenix.

"Last year, I was just kind of trying to find a path to get better, and I went down the wrong road," Weir said. "I was working on a bunch of things in my swing that were not panning out.

"At the beginning of the year, I was not wagging the club like I usually do. I went back to that near the end of the year and, even though I didn't have any great finishes, I started playing much more solidly at the end of the year."

- Mike Weir

"At the beginning of the year, I was not wagging the club like I usually do. I went back to that near the end of the year and, even though I didn't have any great finishes, I started playing much more solidly at the end of the year."

The Hope was the fourth tour victory for Weir, a 32-year-old Canadian who slipped to 78th on the money list last year with $843,891. A year earlier, he was 11th with $2.78 million, won the Tour Championship and had six top-10 finishes.

He was steady down the stretch in the Hope while first Herron, then Haas ran into trouble.

On the final hole, Weir opted to lay up. Haas, going for the green, hit his approach shot short and into the water.

Weir insisted both he and Haas made the right decisions. "My only option, really, was to lay up. If I hit 10 balls about what could have been." The 49-year-old Haas led with eight holes to go last year, but struggled down the stretch and finished with a 74 that left him tied for 16th.

Playing conditions were ideal and scores low for the first four days of the 90-hole tournament this year, but swirling wind on the final day made club selection difficult and sent scores higher.

David Gossett matched par to finish fifth at 24 under, and defending champion Phil Mickelson, who came on strong after an opening 70, had a 67 to finish in a tie with Pat Perez for sixth at 23 under. Perez shot a 71.

Herron's troubles on the 364-yard, par-4 16th ran the gamut of hazards — sand, rocks and water — as he took eight shots.

He hit his tee shot into a bunker, wedged his next shot off the fairway and under a large rock, took a penalty, then hit over the green and into the water. After another penalty, he pitched within 15 feet of the hole, but his putt from there curled just over the rim of the cup, and he finally putted out. "In hindsight, I think I could have beat 8," Herron said, his sense of humor intact.

Horoscope BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Tuesday, Feb.
 4, 2003:
 Events might not be happening fast enough for you this year. You have unusual creativity, but each step comes slowly. Know that when you take each step, you need to be well-grounded and sure of yourself. As a result of the slow pace, you will have everything together.
 Deal with others in a more dynamic way.
 Be open to uncomfortable changes. If you are single, you open many doors, especially when you're off doing things for yourself. Explore your options. Be open to off-beat people. If you are attached, you will want to set certain goals for you two as a couple. By working to achieve them, you will bond even more closely. PISCES helps you make money.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive;
 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
  Understand that others mean well. In fact, if you create a clearing, you find that others will express their intentions a lot easier. A boss could give you a sign of approval, be it a pay raise or promotion. Keep discussions open, even if you feel like closing down. Tonight:
 Talk out a problem.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
  Aim for what you want.
 Understanding others helps you move forward on a major project but also allows you more opportunity for self-expression. Right now, work from the premise that others mean well, even if their actions don't support it. Get to the bottom of a problem. Tonight: With the crowds.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
  How you see someone could be considerably different if you just relax and kick back. An associate goes out of his or her way to make your life more pleasing or rewarding. You might not always be sure of this person. Soon, you will be. Let it all hang out. Tonight: A force to be dealt with.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
  Someone has his or her eye on you. You might not be exactly sure which way to go in a personal matter that might be very important. Explore your options. Open up discussions. Don't even think that you have to come up with the solutions and/or ideas. Tonight: Hop on the computer.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
  Making that extra effort will make a difference. Allow more sunshine in your professional and day-to-day lives. Help those around you feel more valued. Just by asking for advice or for help, you can give another person a sense of importance. Tonight: Togetherness counts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
  Your efforts do make a difference, as others will let you know.
 Pressure builds in a new way, if you're not careful. Discussions illuminate someone's position in your life. Your ingenuity helps you get past a problem.
 Tonight: Reach out to a child or loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
  Pace yourself with a co-worker.
 You might like to see a personal matter resolved. Go out of your way to talk to family members. Together you will build on strong feelings. Decide on a purchase that could or will change the quality of your life. Tonight: Put in overtime if you must.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
  How you communicate what you need can make or break what is going on. Listen carefully to a child or loved one who expresses hesitation.
 Understand the basis he or she is coming from. Evaluate the situation with openness and caring. Tonight: Continue with what is going on.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
  Build on basics, with the knowledge that this, too, can change. Float with situations. Someone might project his or her displeasure on you, not realizing what is going on. Your ability to treat a loved one well could help ease him or her off a problem. Tonight: Say "yes" to a family member.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Bush proposes $2.23 trillion budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush sent Congress a $2.23 trillion spending plan Monday that would accelerate tax cuts to bolster the weak economy, overhaul some of the government's biggest social programs and shower billions of additional dollars on defense and homeland security.

Even though hundreds of other government programs would be squeezed, the president projects the deficit will still hit record highs of $304 billion this year and $307 billion in 2004. Over the next five years, deficits would total $1.08 trillion.

Bush's budget plan for fiscal 2004 that begins Oct. 1 will set off months of heated debate in Congress. Democrats attacked the tax cuts as a boon for the wealthy that will do little to help the economy but will rob Social Security of the money needed for baby boomers' retirements.

"Instead of offering the nation a plan for long-term economic prosperity, the Bush budget burdens us, and our children, with trillions of dollars of new debt," said Sen. Kent Conrad D-N.D.

"His plan will push up interest rates, retard economic growth and create massive problems for the soon-to-be retiring baby boom generation," said Conrad, the Senate Budget Committee's top Democrat.

The president blamed the deficits "on a recession and a war we did not choose." He said his budget would impose "spending discipline" through such efforts as reshaping the government's big health care programs, Medicare and Medicaid, along more conservative lines.

"The budget for 2004 meets the challenges posed by three national priorities — winning the war against terrorism, securing the homeland and generating long-term economic growth," Bush said in his budget message to Congress.

Bush sent Congress a 5-inch stack of books, weighing 13 1/2 pounds, spelling out his proposal. The five separate documents, featuring a bright blue line drawing of the White House, included one extra book this year analyzing the efficiency of hundreds of federal programs, part of a Bush management initiative.

The budget was released two days after the Columbia space shuttle disaster. In the NASA section, prepared before the accident, the administration proposed a substantial increase in spending on the shuttle in 2004. The spending had dropped 1.9 percent this year.

In its management assessment of NASA, the administration said of the shuttle program: "Shuttle operations are well managed but investments to improve the shuttle suffer from inadequate planning and poor cost management."

Bush's $670 billion economic stimulus tax cuts include eliminating the double taxation of stock dividends, plus making permanent his 2001 tax cuts that are now set to expire after 2010. Taken together, all the new tax cuts Bush is proposing would add up to $1.3 trillion over the next decade, on top of the $1.35 trillion tax reduction passed in 2001.

Democrats have vowed to fight the new tax reductions, saying the country can't afford them when the nation is preparing for possible war with Iraq.

The defense budget would increase by a sizable 4.2 percent. That does not include money for a war with Iraq. The proposed increase, combined with an even bigger 11 percent boost in the current year, is the biggest defense buildup since President Reagan's in the 1980s.

The $15.3 billion boost in defense spending represents half of the $30 billion the president's budget is seeking in new money for the operation of all federal agencies. These increases do not include automatic spending for the government's huge benefit programs such as Social Security and Medicare, which account for two-thirds of the entire federal budget.

The $2.23 trillion total spending for next year reflects a 4.2 percent increase. The budget proposal projects that revenues will rise by 4.7 percent to $1.92 trillion. That would leave a deficit of $304 billion for 2004.

The president also sets aside a large increase for the government's newest agency, the Department of Homeland Defense, created just 10 days ago, which would see its spending rise to $23.9 billion in 2004, an increase of 8 percent over the amount expected to be spent this year.

Doctors in New Jersey rally, march for malpractice reforms

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey doctors canceled rallies and agreed to pare down protests over malpractice insurance costs in deference to the space shuttle disaster.

They stressed that Monday's work slowdown wouldn't cease completely. "Despite this great tragedy, the need for patient care remains the top priority of physicians throughout the state," said Dr. Robert S. Rigolosi, president of the Medical Society of New Jersey. "So, we will continue onward with the job action."

Physicians planned to withhold nonemergency services, but it was not clear how many of New Jersey's 22,000 doctors would take part.

Some hospitals reported business as usual in their emergency rooms. Officials of St. Peter's University Hospital in New Brunswick and the four Virtua West Jersey hospitals near Philadelphia said patients coming to their emergency rooms were there because of medical emergencies.

New Jersey doctors are the latest in a line of medical professionals around the nation to launch such protests in recent months. In Biloxi, Miss., five of about a dozen surgeons who started a walk-out last week decided to return to work Monday at

Tennessee ARC blood put on hold

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Red Cross quarantined 70 percent of its blood supply in the Nashville region after a mysterious contaminant was found, agency officials said.

The tainted blood was discovered by the Tennessee Valley region of the Red Cross following reports of white particles in donated blood.

There have been no reports of harmful effects on patients.

The Food and Drug Administration and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention were testing the particles, which were not considered dangerous or infectious.

The quarantine has left the region dangerously low on red blood cells and plasma, the Red Cross said.

Some Southern hospitals canceled surgeries, and the Red Cross shipped blood from other regions to increase the supply.

Blood in bags manufactured by Baxter International Inc. had been found to be contaminated. A spokeswoman for Baxter said the particles were not related to the manufacturing of the bags. Baxter's test results could be ready Monday.

The Tennessee Valley Blood Services Region serves 84 counties in Tennessee and counties in southern Illinois, southwest Kentucky and eastern Missouri.

The 70 hospitals in Tennessee that receive TVR blood have been notified. All have expressed "general concern" about going ahead with scheduled surgeries, Red Cross spokeswoman Patricia M. Smith said.

Anne Neff, director of transfusion services at Vanderbilt University Medical Center, said the hospital's supply was not affected Sunday, but worried about problems later in the week.

"Our major concern is that the Red Cross is down 50 percent to 70 percent," she said. "If they don't have anything to supply us with tomorrow or the next day, we could be in bad shape."
