School Sponsors Boxing Meet to Be on March 10-11

Sophomores, juniors and seniors began training Thursday for their boxing tournament which will be held March 10 and 11.

Winston Savage, Tom Herod and Harry Kelly are acting as coaches. There will be three different divisions and eight classes to a division.

Sophomores will eliminate sophomores, juniors will eliminate juniors and seniors will eliminate seniors. On March 10, sophomores will fight juniors and on the following night, the winners will fight seniors. There will be one winner from each group. Pampa will then probably challenge other towns for fights.

Any boy may enter this tournament in his weight class:
Fly weight-112 lbs., bantam weight-118 lbs., feather weight-128 lbs., light weight-135 lbs., welter weight-145 lbs., middle weight-160 lbs., light heavy weight-175 lbs. and heavy weight over 175.

Tickets for Play On Sale Now

Senior play tickets went on sale Wednesday, February 23. Mrs. Frances Alexander is in charge of the ticket sales. Student and adult tickets are 25 and 35 cents with reserve seats at 10 cents.

The play, "Her Step Husband," is to be presented March 3 and 4. Proceeds are to be applied to the senior trip to Carlsbad. All students with 11 1/2 credits are eligible to make the trip. Seniors are urged to check out tickets to help defray their expenses. As many tickets as are wanted may be checked out.

Students receive three-fourths of the sales; however all money must be turned in to Mrs. Alexander. Just before the trip to New Mexico, checks out tickets to help defray their expenses. As many tickets as are wanted may be checked out.

The ticket sale of the senior play annually helps students to go to Carlsbad at a very small cost to themselves.

Seniors Discuss Big Events at Meeting

The senior play, announcement of the second run-off of senior candidates, the Carlsbad trip and the all-school boxing tournament were the subjects discussed at a meeting of the seniors Thursday afternoon.

D. F. Osborne and Winston Savage explained about the Carlsbad trip concerning transportation and lodging. Mr. Savage talked to the boys about trying out in the all-school boxing tournament.

A committee for selling tickets in downtown stores and another to put up posters will be needed," Ernest Cabe said in regard to the play.

Kenneth Carman gave a short summary of the senior play.

Pauline McKay Wins Tennis Tournament

Pauline McKay, a sophomore, won the tennis tournament for girls' singles which were played off last week. All the girls are working hard, according to Miss Eugene Johnston, for there will be another tournament in about two weeks. This tournament will determine the girls who will represent Pampa High school in the girls' singles and doubles at the county meet.

County Teachers Form Organization

A banquet was held for all Gray county teachers in the high school cafeteria Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a Gray County Teachers association to be a unit of T. S. T. A. Approximately 200 attendees.

Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State college of Canyon, was the main speaker on the program. F. L. Mize, superintendent of Lefors schools, was toastmaster. St. Patrick's day motif was carried out in the decorations.

Officers elected are president W. B. Weathered, Pampa; first vice-president, F. L. Mize, Lefors; second vice-president, R. A. Selby, Pampa; secretary, Miss Jewel Cousins, Lefors; treasurer, J. H. Duncan, Lefors. Eight voting delegates were elected for the Canyon conference to be held on March 18.

Woodrow Wilson and B. M. Baker were hosts for the affair. Ken Bennett played on an accordion. Girls who served were Mary Walton, Vera Sackett, Eula Taylor, Leona Parks, Christine Kidwell, Sanny Barnard, Joan Garley, Gail Ross, Charlene Jaynes and Margaret Spangler. Miss Arlean Pattison and Mrs. Bob Sanford, home economics instructors of high school, were in charge of the girls.

Arrangements for the convention plans were made in the last meeting of the student council, February 22.

Interscholastic Events Announced by Sponsors

Interscholastic League events that high school students may enter are: One-act play, declamation, debate, extemporaneous speaking, essay writing, spelling, Latin, art, golf, tennis, track and volley ball.

The one-act play, debate and declamation are to be under the direction of Kenneth Carman. Mr. Carman directed the one-act play winning state last year. The play to be presented this year is "Rich Man, Poor Man." Try outs will be held Wednesday at four. Debate teams have been working out for several weeks. Declamation try-outs will be held next week.

Extemporaneous speech is under the direction of Ernest Cabe, head of the history department. All pupils interested should see Mr. Cabe. Essay writing is to be directed by Miss Anna Louise Jones. Entrants are asked to sign up before next Monday.

Latin is coached by Miss Mary Idelle Cox.

Spelling is under the direction of Miss Loraine Bruce, math instructor. Harry Kelly will have charge of the art contest. Entrants from Junior and Senior High will compete at Canyon at the regional meet.

VFW Ladies Auxiliary to Give Three Awards

There were three smiling students on the school campus one day last week, or there should have been when they learned that they had won in the essay contest sponsored by the V. F. W. Ladies Auxiliary to the Constitution of the United States of America and What It Means to the American People.

The students who won these three prizes are Carrie Ann Elkins who won first place or three dollars. Her essay will be sent to state and if it wins there it will be sent on to the national contest. She is a student of Miss Anna Louise Jones, English teacher.

Hazel Bath won second place or two dollars and Howard Jensen won third place or one dollar. They are students of Mrs. Hol Wagner. Believe it or not they are all members of Mr. Cabe's history classes. Hazel Bath and Howard Jensen won prizes last year in a similar contest sponsored by the same club.

These prizes will be awarded by Mrs. John Bradley on March 8 at a dinner at which the winners will be guests.

Jackson, Wray Win First and Second Year Latin Contests

The winners in the Latin essay contest from the first year class were Jackson and Wray. The subject, "A Roman Triumph," won first place; Ellen Keough and Peggy Williamson placed second and third respectively.

Leona Wray's essay, "The Commentaries, the Report of an Explorer," won first place in the second year.

Every student of the classes was required to enter the contest. Only one essay from each class will be sent to the state director who will have them checked with other essays sent in from this district.

The report of the winners will be made at a Latin banquet following the tournament at Wellington on April 2. Two students from each of the Latin classes will attend this tournament.

New School Board Member Favors High School Dances

An intrepid interviewer walked down the street boldly outwardly (more or less) with shaking knees and a smiling face. Turning to the right, he marched into the Hindler-Tier Tool company and inquired the whereabouts of L. L. McCollm, newly elected member of the school board. The reporter was started to receive word that Mr. McCollm was standing next to him.

Mr. McCollm immediately smiled at the green reporter, gave him a warm handshake and invited the young reporter into his office.

After murmuring and stammering, the reporter managed to break the ice with a dull leek in the form of the first question that came into his mind. "How long have you lived in Pampa, Mr. McCollm?" Mr. McCollm replied, "I've lived in Pampa since October '32--a little better than five years."

Encouraged by the success of the first question asked, the reporter proceeded to punish his victim further with more questions. (The victim should have punished the reporter.) From these further questions the reporter learned that Mr. McCollm is a member of the Lions club, Mrs. McCollm is a member of the Parent-Teacher association and that Margery and John are members of the McCollm family. Incidentally, Margery is attending Senior High school and John is attending Sam Houston school.

Running out of questions, the Little Harvester reporter struck up

Favorites Elected By Classes for Coming Contest

Candidates for the annual popularity contests were named by classes last week.

Seniors named the following entries: Best all-around boy, Junior Williams; most popular boy, Roy Showers; most beautiful girl, Dona Gay Watson; most popular girl, Alberten Schulky.

Juniors: Best all-around boy, Bob Andis, most popular boy, Jimmy Mosley; most beautiful girl, Mary Jean Hill; most popular girl, Tommy Lee Close.

Sophomores: Best all-around boy, Grover Lee Heskell; most popular boy, Walter Word, A. C. Miller, Hazel Claxton; most popular girl, Jerry Smith.

It was necessary to have three run-offs in the case of the senior and sophomore class entries. Junior majorities were won in the first nomination.

Campaign managers will be named this week and candidates will be introduced in assembly. Votes for the candidates will be sold for one cent. Funds will go to assist in the publication of the annual.

'Papa Dionne' Frazier Fondly Cares for His 25 Fluffy Children

"Eastah time is de time foh eggs
And de time foh eggs is de Eastah time."

When little black Bosko of the movies was swinging his rhythmic refrain, he probably had no idea that A. E. Frazier, agriculture teacher in E. H. S., would have little Easter children way ahead of Easter.

Little fluffy yellow chicks--25 of them, to be exact--are bringing out all the maternal instincts in Mr. Frazier and his agriculture boys. The boys, who are in charge of the food troughs, are very particular about the calories, vitamins and carbohydrates that their little chickie children receive. The temperature of the room also has to be just right.

Last week the boys had a frightful scare when they arrived at school in the morning to find their little children looking very droopy and weebone. They concluded after observation that the chicks were coming down with bronchitis. Everything was administered from bayer aspirin to Vicks nose-drops and the chicks soon perked up.

When a little chirp or cheep interrupts a serious class discussion, the boys merely glance fondly toward the corner--the children always play there--and say, "Johnny and Mary are disagreeing again. 'Be quiet, children.' 'Bill sounds hoarse today, doesn't he?' or something of the sort.

The other day the boys found a couple of red bumps on Oscar. Now they are afraid that all their children will soon be down with measles! (Parenthood does have it)

Correction

The Little Harvester staff wishes to apologize for the omission of Bert Barrett's name in the cast of the play, "House of Juke," in last week's edition.

The play was presented to the Twentieth Century Culture club in the city club rooms Tuesday.

KATHERINE BARRETT

HOWARD JENSEN

Sagebrush by the Sage

Boy, oh, boy! did anyone notice the picture that followed this column last week? What I mean to say, there is a girl after my own heart. Me thinks I go home.

Topsy, Norman and Hunky seemed to have a little difficulty last Wednesday when they collided with a Plymouth at the intersection of Frost and Foster.

The Sage is of the opinion that Kenneth Carman has less spirit, so to speak, than any other teacher in school, he wouldn't get excited at the ball game with Berger. By the way, congratulations to the Harvester basketball team.

Don Hughes sends Carolyn Surratt to Dona Gay Watson with a book, Love and Romance, and inscribes: To a girl who flirts too much.

Alberten and Margaret Carr, should wear print dresses all the time.

Sock! Sock! Hit him again, kill him, hit him for me! Boy, there was a fight. These will be the mutterings of the P. H. S. students when the boxing tournament gets under way. Here is a chance to see your friends beat the tar out of your enemies, I hope. Someone might hit the guy that is looking for the Sage.

The student opinion of the Little Harvester is becoming very popular. It is a chance to let the other fellow say what he thinks of this and that.

It's almost time for six weeks exams again and the student body is in the same fix as usual. They wish they could be postponed for another six weeks.

One teacher asked her pupils to name a great desert in Africa. A bright pupil by the name of Bert Isbell replied, "Jello!"

One of the secretarial training girls just lost her job because her boss was bow-legged. (She couldn't stay on his lap.)

People You Ought to Know
Tall, lanky, Harvester, wavy hair, Betty's beau.
Small, typist, Dorothy Jane's cousin.

Spelling to Bring New Grade Points

Grade points will be given to students spelling in home rooms if they make an average of 30 or above, according to Miss Loraine Bruce, director of spelling. Three grade points for an average grade of 90 to 100 and two grade points for the average of 80 to 90.

The spelling team of Senior High is making much progress. There are ten students who are now out for the team which includes: Maurice Arnold, Lois Daugherty, James Foran, Eileen Gray, Doris Jackson, Myrtle Frances Jones, Everett Sparks, Irene Stallings, Peggy Stephens and Raymond Stephens.

Buick, Plymouths To Be "Sold" by Mr. Curry's Sales Group

To be listening in on Bob Curry's salesmanship class sometime this week, one would think the students had certainly gone into business.

Upon being asked what he was going to sell for the time, Topsy Reynolds announced that he has chosen Buick cars, H. T. Hampton is selling Plymouths and Maxine Hutchins is following her "daddy's" footsteps by selling refrigerators. And imagine Jack Cunningham trying to sell frigidaires.

These are only a few of the projects chosen by the students of salesmanship. Each one is to choose some project to work on during the semester. He is to get all the material he can find about this one thing. Before the end of the semester each student is to make a sales talk to the class about his project, says instructor Curry.

Sale of Tickets To Help Seniors Earn Trip Money

Barrett and Jensen Have Leading Parts

"Her Step Husband," annual senior class play will be seen on the stage of the high school auditorium two nights, March 3 and 4 and will start promptly at 8 o'clock. Admission is 25 and 35 cents, reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Katherine Barrett will be seen in the role of Mary Marshall. Howard Jensen will play the part of Harvey Marshall. Others in the cast are Junior Williams as Dr. Gerald Niles (Jerry), Leona Hurst as Sylvia, Maitie Brown as Aunt Emmy, Dona Gay Watson as Florence Anislee and Jeannette Cole as Stella (the maid).

Jack Hesse plays the part of officer Shea with big feet and John Henry Nelson is an ex-convict, Limpy Lammigan.

Stage manager for the play is Jack Cunningham. Lois Foster acts as prompter and the property committee consists of Elizabeth Mullinax and Hazel Bath. Kenneth Carman, head of the speech department, directs the play.

The play, which was originally a comedy, but was changed to a farce by Mr. Carman, takes place in Harvey P. Marshall's bungalow at Crestdale, a suburb of New York. As the scene opens the entire cast is scurrying right and left in an effort to cover up little white lies of Mary before Aunt Emmy arrives. Mary has been trying to impress a bitter enemy with stories of wealth and distinction that are not based wholly on the truth; and Aunt Emmy hears the stories and Mary and all her friends pay as you may see for yourself Thursday and Friday nights at 8:00 o'clock.

Citizens of Pampa will get their money's worth when they see Harvey, Mary's husband playing bouncer; Stella, the maid, handling both roughhouse Willie (Mary's baby) and Limpy Lammigan, an ex-convict. Aunt Emmy raving and raging; and by all means, seeing how Florence and Jerry end up, believe previewers of the play.

Come out Thursday and Friday and see the senior play, thereby helping the seniors pay their way to Carlsbad and seeing a good play in the bargain!

Chicks and Table Among Projects Tried by Ag Boys

J. L. Lester and A. E. Frazier, agriculture instructors, are conducting several new projects in agriculture classes.

One of the projects is the one on raising chicks. Little chicks, three days old, were placed in an electric battery brooder last week.

They will be cared for about six weeks until they are broilers or weigh approximately one and one-half pounds. About 50 pounds of feed will be required to cure them.

They are White Rocks and are being raised as a demonstration for the boys. The brooder has troughs on three sides and light bulbs in the fourth side to keep the little chicks warm. The room will be kept at a suitable temperature.

For his project, Clarence Cunningham is making a table for an electric sewing machine.

Kenneth Holt is making out of single iron, wood, net wire and hard wire cloth a battery brooder that will hold 200 chicks, until they are friers. He plans to use the brooder at home when it is finished.

Several milking stools, saw horses and window boxes have been made in the classes. In one of the window boxes a narcissus is blooming and in another Mr. Lester's pumpkin is asking in sunlight and seclusion.

Banquet To Be Given For Harvester Boys

Mrs. Laura Brown, president of the Harvester mothers' club, announced that there is to be a banquet for the 38 basketball team in the high school cafeteria Tuesday, March 1.

The boys who work the district title this year and the ones who are to be at the banquet are: Claude Heskell-captain, Bob Andis, Norman Cox, Topsy Reynolds, Pete Dunaway, Jack Cunningham, Junior Foster, A. C. Miller, Omar Harrel, Grover Heskell, Glen Dull and Jim Brown.

Debaters Practice For Coming Matches

Debates are scheduled to start within the next week when Pampa teams will endeavor to defend the district title won last year by the boys' team.

The teams are composed of Madge Sirman, Carolyn Surratt, Wayne Coffin and Don Taylor.

"They lack everything except the spirit," states Kenneth Carman, debate instructor.

Girls Finish Dresses

Home economics girls are finishing their dresses for pre-school children. The dresses will be finished this week and if the children for whom they are made are not ill, they will model them," says Miss Arlean Pattison.

Get Set On Your Mark, GO!

The district Interscholastic League meet will be held in Pampa April 7, 8 and 9. Students from all over this district will enter the various contests included in the state-wide meets.

Interscholastic contests of this type have more value than physical education. They teach students how to mix and mingle, how to conduct themselves, acquire poise and self assurance and broaden their personalities. Long trips are made, friends are won and valuable experience is gained.

Interscholastic league contests sometimes lead to valuable occupations or hobbies. One-act plays make actors; ready writing develops authors; commercial contests train efficient business men and secretaries.

There's something to school life that many students have never discovered. Extra-curricular activities can become more enlightening and absorbing than school work. School doesn't end in the class room. Aside from all these advantages there are always the attractive sweaters and medals one may win.

Start now on Interscholastic League work and "Be Prepared."

Negative or 4 Plus?

"Oh, I don't want them to stick that old thing in me." This was like a few of the complaints made when students were asked to take the tuberculin test. Maybe students think they are too healthy to have tuberculosis, but doctors say that it often exists in concealed form in unsuspecting persons and that it is important to make this discovery in order to check further spread of the disease.

Doctors agree that it is a dangerous disease, and yet students are interested in a simple test for a perfectly harmless test for their own good. (Imagine having this disease and not knowing it!) Doctors promise this test will leave no scar or cause any after effects and does not mean students must quit school and go to a sanatorium, but to let them know that they need to build up their resistance while there is still a chance.

A famous Greek doctor, Hippocrates, some 400 years before Christ named this terrible disease "phthisis," meaning "wasting."

If students cooperate in these tests, they are helping to prevent and reduce tuberculosis deaths and making this country a more healthy and happier place in which to live, as well as protecting themselves.

Student Opinion

Many students find it necessary to spend a considerable amount of time on their lessons so they will have all their work in on time.

However, some other student lets his work slide, merely giving an excuse and promising to make it up the next day or, at least, very soon. This method is all very good for this student, cooperate in these tests, they are helping to prevent and reduce tuberculosis deaths and making this country a more healthy and happier place in which to live, as well as protecting themselves.

So teachers, who not give those students who are prompt at least a slight advantage over the ones who apparently just can't find time to do their lessons and daily work.

HARVESTER FOOTBALLERS TO GET SPRING TRAINING UNIFORMS TODAY

50 PROSPECTS AND COACH TO 'TALK IT OVER'

The bulletin board in the high school was a popular meeting place this morning. On it, in box car letters, read an announcement that Coach Odus Mitchell and J. C. Frejan wanted to meet all boys interested in going out for football at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the high school gymnasium.

A "talkfest" will be held after which Business Manager Tom Herod will pass out uniforms to the prospects, expected to number about 50. That group will include 16 lettermen from last year's squad. Few, very few, of them, however, were considered starters on the 1937 team.

The Guerrillas of Coach Bob Curry are expected to furnish several prospects while a few are scheduled to come up from Coach Bill Huckeba's Junior high Reapers. Both the Guerrillas and Reapers had a big 1937 season.

Lettermen expected to report this afternoon are:

BACKS—Captain J. W. Graham, John Kidwell, Albert Kemp, Bob Karr, Melvin Watkins, Pete Dunaway, Jack Leavitt.

GUARDS—Bill Stiles, Welby Parish, Truman Rumpke.

TACKLES—Leonard Dull, Tommy Solomon, Carl Brown.

ENDS—Bob Andis, Eugene Fleming.

CENTER—Glenn Nichols.

Guerrillas scheduled to report include: Lester Clemmons, Robert Clemmons, Wayne Giddons, L. C. Bailey, Clifford Bailey, Carl Ripple, R. G. Chandler, Doyle Andis, Walter Word, Willard Sausbury, A. C. Miller, Grover Lee Heiskell, Cal Montgomery.

Cretney Shoots First Birdie at Country Club

Two unusual incidents occurred at the Pampa Country club yesterday afternoon when even a soggy course failed to keep addicts from their favorite pastime. A large number of players took advantage of the spring weather to play a few rounds.

The first birdie of the year went to Warren Cretney who made a two on the eighteenth hole. While a birdie is not an impossibility, many having been made on the local course, Cretney's was an unusual one.

His first shot was close to 200 yards but the ball curved into the rough on the left side of the fairway. It was a bad place to get loose from but "Cret" blasted away and saw his ball arc over the hill. He later found it in the cup, more than 100 yards away.

Oklahoma City Bowlers Win 7 Of 8 Titles

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 28 (AP)—Oklahoma City pin topplers held today seven of the eight championships of the Southwest Bowling tournament.

The Hi Paul Clothiers with 3,060 took first in the class A five-man team competition while fellow Oklahoma citizens, the Ed L. Hahns' five, turned in a 3,032 for second. Third was Trotter's sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo., with 3,004.

In the class B five-man event Oklahoma City tea as made off with the three top places. Oklahoma National Stockyards was first with 2,857, Champagne Velvet second with 2,703, and Junior Chamber of Commerce third with 2,701.

Charles Sausberry of Oklahoma City saw his 653 stand up for first prize in the class A singles.

N. Burton of Dallas hit the maples for 1,802 to take the class A all events title.

Clint Moss, Dallas, Tex., was elected vice president.

The association voted to hold its 1938 competition in Wichita Falls, Tex.

New directors named included William E. Huff, Wichita Falls and Moss.

Golden Gloves Tournery Finals Begin Tonight

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—A small army of amateur boxers start shooting punches in three rings at the stadium tonight in the eleventh annual Golden Gloves tournament of champions.

The 300 young leather tossers, survivors of an original field of 22,000 hopefuls from 26 states, open an elimination test which will run Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, narrowing the field to 22 boys who will fight it out for titles in the finals March 11. Houston Quint Favored In Cage Tournery Finals

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Staff Writer

The John Reagan Bulldogs of Houston will bear the tag of the favorite in the Texas Interscholastic league basketball tournament at Austin Friday and Saturday but seven other teams will try to prove the critics are all wrong.

Reagan heads an impressive array of regional champions to the state tournament, several of which have left sensational upsets behind them. The Bulldogs, with 30 consecutive victories without defeat, gave every indication they deserved that rating by their fine showing in the region 5 tournament.

Carey's Cardinals, defending state champions, stumbled but regained their footing in time to nose through with the region 1 crown. Their ability to take it as well as dish it out indicates the Cards must be reckoned with all the way. Carey won the regional title for the third straight time.

Besides Reagan and Carey, other regional champions are Abilene rated the best of them all by many observers; Woodrow Wilson of Dallas, a smooth-functioning quintet ranked at the top by North Texas critics; Bailey surprise winner over Kilgore; Belton, which staged a startling upset to take Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio out of the running; Kingsville, class of the Rio Grande valley and South Texas, and Bowie of El Paso, the powerhouse of far West Texas.

Drawings were to be made Monday for the state tournament. First round games will be played Friday at 2 p. m., 3:15 p. m., 7:15 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. Semi-finals will be Saturday at 10:15 a. m. and 11:30 a. m., with finals Saturday night at 8:30. The third place game will be at 7:15 p. m.

Officials in the state tournament will be Ziggy Sears, Dusty Boffess and Ab Curtis.

BAD BOY POGI

Showing his huge muscles is the one and only Gorilla Pogi of the Argentine who will meet Arkansas' bad boy, Sailor Jack Moran in the semi-final wrestling match Monday night at the Pampa Athletic arena. The two have threatened to use the corner posts if necessary to win. Sailor Otis Clingman and Bob Cummings will headline the card with Jerry Hollis and Tex Hager in the opening battle at 8 o'clock.

Pampans Close Another Successful Cage Season

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

The Harvesters had a great deal to be proud of and nothing to be ashamed of this morning as they put away their basketballs and turned in their suits. It was as successful as any basketball season any Harvester team ever enjoyed. The team went to the finals of the Interscholastic League regional meet at Canyon, as three other teams did in the last four years.

No other team in this region has gone to Canyon as many times as the Pampa Harvesters and no other has gone to the finals as many times as the Harvesters. Lubbock, for instance, has never got out of the district. Carey which beat the Harvesters in the final game Saturday night 39 to 35 has been to the region three times and has been a winner three times. Amarillo has won the district title once. Plainview and Eger have never represented their districts in the regional meet.

Good Teams Every Year Every year Coach Odus Mitchell turns up with a fine football team and then in a few weeks after the gridiron season closes he whips a fine basketball team into shape. This happens year after year. He has won the district title in four out of five years.

Schools which have good football teams usually do not have good basketball teams, but Pampa high school has been the exception to this rule.

Lost Like Champions The Harvesters don't need any alibi for losing Saturday night. They played their best that night. Their spirit is to be praised and commended. They lost like champions; they didn't blame anybody but themselves, and there was no complaining nor sniveling among the boys. They won in the district like champions and they lost like champions.

They had trouble all year hitting their free shots consistently. In recent weeks, they had been sinking their charity tosses with success, but Saturday night this early-season weakness came back to plague them. The Carey Cardinals were assessed five less fouls than the Harvesters, and the Childrens county lads missed only a few free shots. Pampa and Carey scored the same number of field goals, 14 each, but the Cardinals piled up the margin in free shots.

And now a word about the Carey team. One could see Coach Catfish Smith of Borger, who coached the Cards last season, sticking out all over the team. They say down at Childress that Coach Herman Moseley is unlike his predecessor, the Catfish, and that may be true, but Moseley's team at Saturday had the unmistakable brand of the Catfish on it.

Same Offense

The Cards had the same offense, the same defense as the Borger Bulldogs; the same court tactics, the same self-confidence. One thought he was seeing the Borger Bulldogs coming out on the floor when the Cardinals came out Saturday night. Just as the Bulldogs did in Pampa, the Cards whistled, yelled, hollered, patted each other on the back. In brief, they had every mannerism, every characteristic of the Bulldogs—and they got them last year when the Catfish coached at Carey.

The Childrens Index carried an article last week which read like this:

"The exact antithesis of the boastful, blatant 'Catfish' Smith, his predecessor is unassuming Herman Moseley, who surprised the entire southeastern Panhandle in coaching the Carey Cardinals to the district 4 basketball championship. Smith who carried the Cardinals to the pinnacle of Texas high school basketball during his two-year reign at Carey was a convert of every superstition known to the world of sport. He expressed loudly and at length, his confidence in the ability of his team to perform any feat. During a game, he twisted, squirmed, cursed, belabored and roared. He made some enemies, many friends, and got results. Moseley has obtained the same results without fanfare or racket."

That all may be true, Mr. Childrens Index, but the Catfish stuck out all over the Carey team in every game they played at the regional meet. And speaking of the Catfish, he and his entire team attended the final game of the regional meet Saturday night. They sat on the Carey side.

H-S Cowboys To Play at Canyon

CANYON, Feb. 28—With their affections definitely turned toward the Denver and Kansas City national tournaments and only two more scheduled games to play, the Buffaloes of West Texas State College are expected to be at their best in entertaining the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys Monday and Tuesday evenings.

The locals, tallest team in college basketball, will be seen by record crowds in their last home games. Winners over the Cowboys in two contests at Abilene this season, the Buffs are favored to repeat here, but they are not expecting easy games. The Kimbrough men have always been hard for the locals to defeat.

Panhandle fans are especially interested in the coming series because of the peculiar stalling tactics used by the Cowboys. The ranch hands, unwilling to "mix it" with the giants of W. T., frequently sit on the ball, or pass it idly back and forth, when the score is close. They do this hoping to win in a scoring spurt near the conclusion.

BORGER LOSES IN AAU MEET

Borger High school's Bulldogs rounded out their 1937-38 basketball season with one victory and one defeat in the Munday A. A. U. tournament Friday and Saturday.

They reached the semi-finals Saturday morning, bowing at that stage of the tournament to Quail, 32-24.

MUNDAY, Feb. 28—Quail, Collingsworth county, won the finals here in the state AAU basketball tournament, defeating Plainview 36-28.

The all-state AAU team includes Lowe of Quail and Barron of Borger, forwards; Morgan, Quail, center; Lovorn, Plainview, and Brisbin, Quail, guards.

Friday night the Bulldogs defeated the Avoca cagers, 42-24, in their first contest of the meet. Avoca had defeated Munday that day.

Led 13-12 at Half In the Avoca victory the Bulldogs led 13-12 at the half and after intermission they boosted their margin so that the second string played all of the fourth quarter.

Barron, captain-center, led the attack for Borger with 20 points.

20 Victories, 12 Losses Barron again was high-point man in the loss to Quail with 12 points; Kendrick, forward, made 7, Dye, forward, 4, and Johnny Williams, guard, 1.

The tournament loss and victory leave Coach "Catfish" Smith's boys' season score at 20 victories and 12 defeats.

Cunningham Runs Greatest Mile

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—The master miler complained with some bitterness that he "didn't get warmed up enough for that last race."

A ripple of laughter swept through the locker room at Madison Square Garden. The athletes had just returned from watching Glenn Cunningham run the greatest indoor metric mile in history to set astonishing new indoor record of 3:48.4 for the 1,500 meters in the National A. A. U. championships Saturday night.

Glenn looked a little hurt. "No, I mean it. I had a radio appearance and got there a little late. Say that first half was slow, too. 2:05, I understand. But I guess I can't kick. I've got to rest. I have to run another 1,500 in the medley relay."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 28 (AP)—Dizzy Dean's greatest mound performances are still ahead of him "if he is ready to do some earnest pitching," Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals predicted today.

A Wrestling "Natural" Scheduled For Tonight

Tonight's wrestling card at the Pampa Athletic arena is what is referred to as a "natural." Even a little rain, or a big rain, shouldn't keep fans at home. Promoter Cliff Chambers will give fans Sailor Otis Clingman and Bob Cummings in a scientific main event; Sailor Jack Moran and Gorilla Pogi in a wild and woolly semi-final; Tex Hager and Jerry Hollis in a mixed preliminary beginning promptly at 8 o'clock, rain, shine, snow or moonlight.

Admission will be the same as usual, too, 65 cents ringside reserve, tax paid, and 40 cents general admission for adults and 25 cents for children.

Clingman and Cummings are a couple of wrestling gems. Both are ring masters, know all the holds and like to break them, and like to wrestle. Both have been known to lose their heads while up against roughsters but against each other they should be naturals.

The semi-final will be a dog-eat-dog affair. Sailor Jack "Heart Punch" Moran is the ring's No. 1 villain but he is liable to lose his title to Gorilla Pogi, bad man of the Argentine in tonight's semi-final. Pogi has announced, and calmly, too, that he will keep away from Moran's famous heart punch the meanwhile administering some of his own poison.

Bewhiskered Jerry Hollis will meet a streak of greased lightning in Tex Hager who has been developing speed and tricks to offset his lack of weight.

All in all, it will be a mighty big night at the Pampa Athletic arena and fans are advised to be on hand early.

The most common impurities of water are common salt and lime.

Bowling Congress To Open Thursday

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—The stars of the sport will be "on the spot" when the American Bowling Congress opens its 38th tournament at the coliseum Thursday night.

After the 40 regular division teams complete their turns, tourney officials and Chicago bowling leaders will participate in opening ceremonies.

TODAY'S SERMONETTE

And the people of Jesus' home town marveled at the stories coming to them of His miracles, of the power which He exerted over people, a carpenter, and refusing to receive Him. Whereupon the Savior voiced that statement which is often true of the good man or woman of your own community. "A prophet is not without honor, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house."—Chivers.

SPEAKING OF ILLUSIONS ABOUT THE NEXT WAR

If the Japanese invasion of China and the Spanish civil war have left you any illusions about humanitarian rules in war, let recent, casually spoken remarks from Russia blow those illusions sky-high.

Said Commissar of War Klement E. Voroshilov, explaining that the Red army was ready to use poison gas:

"Because Fascist countries violated the 1925 convention on the use of gas in warfare, we were forced to train chemical troops.

"If the enemy spreads gas behind our frontiers, we will pour buckets of poison gas on the heads of those gentlemen."

The commissar didn't raise his voice. He might have been talking about pouring paris green on potato bugs.

And that is the way war will be. Army flyers with fine accuracy will bomb munition stations and shipyards. Recruited army flyers with less accuracy will bomb munition stations and shipyards—but will hit apartments and hospitals and schools three blocks away, for three blocks is a short distance when you're bombing from 10,000 feet.

There will be cries of "atrocities" and then there will be retaliation. And then there will be gas by the bucketful.

War isn't a simple contest between the strength of men and armies any more; it's a complex, jumbled puzzle where propaganda is as important as bullets and the front is anywhere that life exists.

Have no doubt that gas will be used in the next widespread war, for gas is a weapon, one of the deadliest, and gas is demoralizing, and that is reason enough.

Gas will be used with cause, for cause can be found. It will be as simple as false propaganda, as simple as touching a lever in an airplane 10,000 feet up, as simple as the wind which carries rolling clouds of death through city streets and country lanes. Gas will be used.

SAVE HALF A BILLION

It's a little old-fashioned, this idea brought forward by A. R. Ellis, president of the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratories, that "savings of hundreds of millions annually would be made if consumers generally had the opportunity of taking advantage of the latest scientific developments."

Choosing just three products — hosiery, automobile tires, and coal—Ellis remarked that from 20 to 30 per cent of the nation's bill for those necessities could be saved by general use of new and improved products.

That saving, according to Ellis, would amount to approximately $428,000,000 a year in the United States.

The saving and economy instincts haven't been greatly extolled virtues in the last few years. We've been too busy spending and consuming, so that others could have something to spend and likewise consume. We've been quick to "wear it out and buy another."

It does seem, though, that Ellis' appeal to take advantage of these newest scientific accomplishments to save nearly half a billion dollars a year would fit rather easily into the present scheme of things.

It's really simple. We could have that half billion and then spend it for something else. That's the way this country was built up in the first place.

It's just another of the little nursery tales similar to the one which is supposed to make Feb. 2, Groundhog, a day when natives can tell what the weather will be for the following six weeks. . . We Americans cling too much to these fairy tales.

It is the same way that superstition and the supernatural hold an appeal of some kind for 75 per cent of people who should be able to do a little thinking for themselves. . . It always has been a mystery to me why persons will flock to a card-reader or a tea leaf reader, listen to a lot of hokum, and take it seriously. . . It is surprising how many apparently normal people take deep cognizance of what they are told by so-called "seers" of sundry types. . . Barnum's old wheeze, "there's one born every minute," is just as sound today as it was the day he uttered it, one suspects.

City politics are warming up a bit in Pampa. . . Three names have been tossed into the city commission race, and although they have been as quiet as the proverbial church mice, it is reported that incumbents will toss another piece of wood on the fire about two weeks ahead of April 5, which is municipal election day. . . The "we wuz robbed" line doesn't apply to Pampa's loss to Carey at the regional basketball tournament in Canyon Saturday night, says Archer Fullingim who was there from start to finish of the tourney. . . Carey had the best team, reports Fullingim, and Pampa's players just couldn't get going all at once. . . When Cox was hot, Heiskell was off. . . When Heiskell was hot, Cox was off, and so on and so on. . . It is the fourth time the Harvesters got that far and no farther, the statistics show.

City Manager C. L. Stine says the mud which drops from the fenders into the downtown streets is one of the biggest problems with which he has to contend. . . Just try to figure out a way to solve the situation. . . He estimates that 2,000 loads of dirt have been hauled into downtown Pampa during the past wet spell. . . If you haul it away, there's a new crop to take its place just as soon as another line of cars is parked. . . You can't make a WPA project out of the dirt removal because there aren't enough men on relief here to get the job done. . . That's a pretty healthy sign of conditions in Pampa, but it still leaves the streets' dirty.

BUSINESS MEN NOW ONLY OFFICE BOYS
When we are looking at the figures for relief and the number of unemployed and the rapidity with which this unemployed number is increasing recently and the prospects for the future, the reason for this is not hard to see for those who are not afraid to look at things from a realistic standpoint.

Gradually, over the last quarter of a century and increasing in geometrical ratio, during the last decade, has the fawning, cringing, sycophantic legislators reduced men with courage, men with vision, men of action, men of honor, men of goodwill, to the mere position of office boys. There is now not much any man in private life can do to raise the standard of living, to increase employment, to increase the real wages of workers.

You ask how? The last and most serious and most drastic laws passed by these intriguing legislators to reduce business men to office boys were the Wagner Labor Relations Act and the Undistributed Profits tax. If our legislators are not sycophants, then they are puerile or unsophisticated. Under the Wagner law the man who has employed labor now has not the right in many cases, to promote or demote his employees, to select his employees, to discharge his employees, to make his own selection of help, to reduce the wages of an employee without the consent of some appointee of the government. In fact in many cases, they have not the right to set the price of the commodity they are to produce.

Anybody with any experience in business knows that the individual who has the right to do all these things is the real manager of the business. Now that this management has been taken out of the hands of those with experience and turned over to those without experience, these men with vision are almost as helpless as a child, as far as furnishing employment or raising the standard of living is concerned.

Yet, our demagogues or "friends of people" who have made a failure in their own undertakings and pose as great benefactors of the unfortunate contend that business men are sulking, that they are lying down on the job, that they are not trying, that they are combining to thwart the aims of the administration.

As long as the public believes this, just so long will our standard of living continue to go lower. We might have temporary spurts but in the long run there can be no prosperity, no advancement, when the people with courage, goodwill, judgment and foresight are reduced to the position of errand kids by the politicians.

The Attack On The Business Problem

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sometimes, while beachcombing along the seacoast of Bohemia, I find myself before Papa Moneta's door, in Mulberry street. Invariably go inside to bathe my spirits in things antipasto, for there one always is sure to be treated to some delightful Italian word-pastel.

So it is, with minestrone stains on my vest and a sprig of celery in my hair, I relay the story of Mama Pinto. If you are inclined to doubt it, come to New York and I will introduce you to Mama Pinto herself, with one of her sons as interpreter (for Mama Pinto speaks no English), that every word I tell you is true.

Mama Pinto came to New York from the olive country of Italy 60 years ago. She was a shy bride, as brides were wont to be in those days, and lived only for her home. Eventually there were 17 little Pintos and pintettes in all, and as time went on they too became family men and women and reared broods of their own.

Meanwhile Mama Pinto continued to dwell in the house of her husband, honored and loved by the great host of children, grandchildren and great grandchildren that dotted the countryside.

One day one of the younger Pintos said "Papa is dead now, and Mama should have a house of her own, in the green country where the green grass grows and the birds sing and the pirate bees steal honey from the treasure trove of the flowers. We will all chip in and build this house, and there are so many of us we shall miss the money not at all."

So it was, and then they went to Mama Pinto with their marvelous surprise.

"No," said Mama Pinto, "it can not be. I am proud of this thing you would do for me, but all my life I have had a great fear of anything with wheels. I will not ride in a car, because a car has wheels, nor will I go in a bus or a wagon, because they too have wheels. . . But wait, yes, I will have this beautiful house, my children, I, Mama Pinto, will walk."

"But, Mama Pinto, the house is in Queens. It is miles and miles from here."

"I will walk," reiterated Mama Pinto. "I have an attitude of good friends, is how an old, old lady accompanied by first one son then another (for she walked the pants off them), negotiated the weary asphalt miles out of Manhattan across the great bridge and on far into the pleasant Queens country, there to dwell in the house bestowed by her sons and daughters.

It took her two days, but there was always the home of some one of her chicklets in easy halting distance. Have I not said that Mama Pinto's children covered the landscape like the dew?

This paragraph today is devoted to Topy Reynolds who played at a guard position on the Harvester basketball team. Topy is the boy with the shining, coal-black hair who sort of resembles Sam Baugh. . . Well, the sports writers who are always trying to find the ideal athlete could go to Topy Reynolds for a lot. They might not find everything they wanted there but they could find a lot.

For instance, nobody on the team was ever jealous of Topy or had it in for him. You could always hear the fans say, "so and so was off tonight," but it was rare indeed when they could say that about Topy. He was the boy who turned the tide in that last game with Borger in the district. He was the boy who intercepted the ball and passed it to Claude Heiskell for the basket. Yet Topy did not want any credit for it, and he got little. They didn't put him on any all-tournament teams because he was a team player through just as he did in the Borger game. So when Topy fouled out Saturday night the fans knew he wouldn't be able to work another miracle. And Topy played as he always had played—so well that you didn't notice how good he had been until he went out. This one regrets that Topy has played his last year for Pampa high school. He was at the head of his class any way you wanted to look at it.

In "White Banners" Claude Rains plays the role of a benevolent gentleman who gives fatherly advice to young Jackie Cooper. . . The embarrassing thing is that Jackie, at 15, has sprouted up until he's taller than Rains. . . So in all these scenes Jackie has to be bent over a work bench or a desk while Rains stands beside him, to make Rains look bigger. . . For all that, Jackie isn't too grown-up yet. . . He kissed his uncle, Norman Taurag, by way of congratulations, after the "Tom Sawyer" preview. . . Fritz Lang is a director who believes in MOVING pictures. . . During filming of "You and Me" he virtually has monopolized Paramount's two camera booms. . . He made the camera dance with George Raft and Sylvia Sydney for one sequence. . . When the camera isn't moving, the actors—at least for one scene the other day—are mechanically transported. . . This was a scene on a department store escalator. . . Raft coming down, Sidney going up, their hands meeting briefly in passing. . . Scene was a close-up of the hands, and the stars—no doubles allowed—were at it, off and on, nearly three hours. . . "Very important scene," said monocol Fritz, "because it's the first time we show these two have a romantic interest. . . If this sounds a bit weird, don't forget Lang made "Fury" the picture it was by just such attention to detail. . . A parking lot attendant button-holed me for five minutes telling me what a terrible picture "A Damsel in Distress" was. . . Having heard it, I was surprised when he said the audience was as impatient with it as he. . . And then it came out: He'd seen it on a multiple bill which included the long "Wells Fargo," several shorts and newsreels, AND Bank Night!

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GILDSTON, M.D.

Dr. Horace Newhart of Minneapolis recently said that the ear, in proportion to its importance, is the body's most neglected organ.

Most of us little appreciate the extent to which normal intellectual development, learning to speak, and the maintenance of social and economic security depend upon good hearing.

In the United States, 10,000,000 persons have a deficiency of hearing causing a recognized or potential handicap. Three million of these are school children, and among them 300,000 are known to be handicapped in their scholastic achievements.

The hearing sense is particularly important to the young child whose early education depends so much on speech. Unfortunately, many school children suffer from slight loss of hearing which cannot be recognized except on careful testing. Imperceptible though the hearing loss may be, it is frequently sufficient to cause retardation, speech defects, emotional disturbances and consequent undesirable behavior.

The hearing ability of every child should be periodically tested. In a number of communities the schools build a fleet sufficient to overcome that inequality.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER, Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Hello, Latin America! This is Station U. S. A. broadcasting. . . The band will now play "You're a Sweetheart—If There Ever Was One." "Lovely to Look At." "Bring It On Down to My House, Honey." "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" and "Ten Pretty Girls."

That is to say, the Monroe Doctrine is being all polished up and Uncle Sam is getting a new haircut as he sets out to woo those brown-eyed babes below the Rio Grande. Any young gentleman who has ever courted a female and, being turned down, goes back to the girl he left behind him only to find she suddenly also has become popular with the boys, will get the point.

Our state department has had to give up the idea of an understanding with England since England succumbed to the desires of Germany, Italy and Japan and now turns almost its entire attention to Miss Latin America with the hope that we can persuade her to remain cool to the blandishments of such fascist fellows as Mr. Hitler and Mr. Mussolini.

Already, it is possible to report much glee in the state department over the Latin American reaction to the whirlwind visit of six army "flying fortresses" to Buenos Aires—with strategic stops at other capitals—and the reception of Roosevelt's bid for inter-American cooperation in a message to the new president of Argentina, Dr. Robert M. Ortiz. The "flying fortresses" were direct counter-propaganda to the spectacular flight of young Bruno Mussolini to Rio de Janeiro.

"Couriers of democracy," Argentine newspapers called the six war planes, contrasting them with "the planes of Mussolini which bomb women and children."

Our diplomats are hopeful that they can offset the German-Italian cultural-political-economic invasion of South America. They feel that the "good neighbor" policy of the Roosevelt administration has led to more friendly relations with the other American republics than ever existed before.

It is now firmly established that this government, in stressing its adherence to the Monroe Doctrine, has given up its claim to the privilege of policeman-like intervention and seeks only to protect other nations of the hemisphere in preservation of traditional ideals of democracy and freedom from foreign invasion. (The fact that Latin American countries mostly are governed by dictators of their own is embarrassing, of course. But what this country wants to be sure of is that they're not dominated by European dictators.)

There will be many obvious signs of this government's determined effort to cultivate better political, cultural and trade relations with South America.

The Maritime Commission's decision that the government should buy and operate three steamships for the South American run, as just announced, was inspired by the state department.

Radio Woeing? A government broadcasting station whose function will be to offset the barrage of European fascist radio propaganda in South America, is an early likelihood. Recently, although few noticed it, the Federal Communications Commission took action for the use of four unassigned South American short wave bands, to the General Electric Co. and two to the Worldwide Broadcasting Corporation, a non-profit, educational group in Boston.

The contract bars advertising and, most significantly, is practically revocable on 24 hours' notice—which means, in effect, that these bands are being reserved for possible use by a government station directing its messages to South America.

Senators McAdoo of California and Chavez of New Mexico have introduced a bill for a government-owned station which would be operated by the navy and whose pro-

The Capitol Jigsaw

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—Attorney General William McCraw almost blushed the other day. It was during a press conference.

Asked about issues in the land controversy he drew from an inside coat pocket a printed copy of a "column" by Gov. James V. Allred, a column which circulates among weekly newspapers.

"Can I believe my eyes?" ejaculated a correspondent. "Are you carrying around Jimmy Allred's column?"

McCraw's ruddy face appeared a bit ruddier and he lost no time explaining he was not a "constant reader" of the governor.

In the column the governor was sharply critical of McCraw's attitude toward the land leasing investigations. McCraw had the copy in his pocket for reference.

A bearded poet and composer of ten seen about the capital, Homer E. Miller, has something on the rest of the public which rents post office boxes.

He received permission from the post office department to pay rent on a box annually instead of quarterly as most folks do.

Some weeks ago Miller wrote Postmaster General James A. Farley suggesting that as a matter of convenience payments be placed on an annual basis.

One of Farley's assistants replied arrangements would be made for Miller to make such payments if he would do more than the idea was so good for the country as a whole and would not be adopted.

A bright yellow-red flower in his coat lapel, Col. E. O. Thompson, member of the railroad commission and candidate for governor, breezed into the press room.

"What's that you're wearing?" someone cried.

"Dogwood blossom," coolly replied the colonel.

In Washington, Governor Allred had said he would announce his future political plans "when the dogwood blooms."

Gerald C. Mann of Dallas, candidate for attorney general and a former secretary of state, is "deeply grateful" for Lieut.-Gov. Walter F. Woodul's "kindness" to him and others and contemplates re-paying it with interest.

Woodul also a candidate for attorney general, was quoted recently he had to spend too much time telling voters "who those fellows are." He referred to his opponents.

Expressing "gratitude," Mann, who once starred in football at Southern Methodist University, said he would overlook no opportunity to tell the public who Woodul was.

"I'll do more," he said. "I'll tell them whom he represents."

One of the best "campaign" voices in Texas, capitol press correspondents agree, is that of former Gov. error Dan Moody.

Secretary of State Edward Clark goes further than that, asserting Moody's voice for campaign purposes, is the best in Texas.

"He can address 3,000 or 4,000 persons and make every word he says understood," Clark said in a discussion of the value of "sound trucks" for political meetings.

Lieut.-Gov. Woodul, participating in the discussion, groaned at the cost of the loud-speaking devices, opining he probably would get along without them this year.

He said it had been estimated an average of not more than 100 persons would gather around a sound truck for brief speeches made on short notice and he figured he could "make that many hear without mechanical assistance."

Spoke up a correspondent who had "covered" Moody's campaigns: "What Dan Moody needs on a campaign is a bathtub, not a sound truck. On a hard speaking trip he took three and four baths a day.

grams would be supervised by the secretary of state along "spiritual, economic, cultural and political" lines. There's lots of support for this measure.

For Love of Polly

By RACHEL MACK

Yesterday: Arriving too late at Cherbourg to sail back to America, Jerry and Polly are married while they wait Banks' plans to procure a ship of his own.

CHAPTER XXII
AT the end of a week Cabell Banks arrived at the hotel and asked to see "Monsieur Jeremiah Whitfield."

"Le voila!" said the innkeeper, as he pointed out Jerry just coming in at the door with his wife. Cabell wrung Jerry's hand and kissed Polly on both cheeks, to the intense pleasure of some native onlookers who had supposed all Americans to be cold and restrained. Jerry asked Cabell to come with them to their room, and presently the two men were deep in conversation at a window looking toward the harbor, while Polly sat across the room with her knitting.

She would not, she mentally vowed, intrude on the friendship of Jerry and Cabell Banks. It was a strong masculine thing, built of mutual misfortunes and shared dangers. Their three futures were cradled in this friendship. The two young men had a plan, and Cabell was impatient to get on with it. And so was Jerry. Polly admitted, trying to feel no jealousy.

Cabell said, "I've found the ship for us, Jerry! She's tied up at Carteret. We'll be able to get out of Carteret."
Jerry mentally located the little port 29 miles to the south. "We might get out of there all right. Yes, I think we could. What's the ship like?"
"A clipper. Built in Baltimore." Jerry's face fell. New Englanders don't hold with those ships, Cabell. They're too flimsy. They're the fastest things on water.

"I doubt if I could handle one. No, I don't believe I could bring one home right side up," Jerry declared.
Cabell hooted in disagreement. "My friend, I've been harping things about you. There are a number of stranded American sailors in this port and some of them are from down Connecticut way. They tell me you saved Captain Cobb's barkentine Eliza from the rocks in a hurricane on a trip around the horn? You were just 20 at the time."

Polly looked up quickly. There was so much Jerry had told her. "How did you do it, Jerry?"
"It was just chance, you might say. It was the trip we lost our first mate in a blow and our second mate from a fever. Cap'n Cobb was down in his bunk with a broken leg and I had to take charge. The bosun or the galley cook could have done just as well, if they had been put to it. Cap'n Cobb made me first mate afterward. But there are better and older sailors than me that've never had the chance."

"Maybe," Cabell agreed dryly. "Look out or you'll get conceited over your modesty. . . . This clipper now."
"What's wrong with her? What's she doing in a little port like Carteret? How long has she been rotting there?"
"She's been there only a couple of months and she's sound. The captain died of a fever the day she put in there. Her owner's a Baltimore merchant who's financially pressed. He wants to sell her."

"That means he wants ready money. You could hardly get her on credit, I reckon?"
"I reckon not. But wait till you hear this! His agent's the same French banker here in Cherbourg my father transacts business with. I've convinced this banker that Mr. Cabell Banks, senior, of Boston would want me to have the ship to get home in, and that he'd like me to have enough money advanced to outfit the clipper and pay the crew for five weeks. The chief expense will be a pair of long guns, properly mounted, but he'll stand for it. It's a perfect situation, friend Whitfield. Where've we to snipe at fate?"

"A Baltimore clipper's not safe, Banks. These Marylanders are mad to build them. Too flimsy. Too fast."
"Too flimsy, I grant you. But not too fast. Nothing could be too fast for us now. Do you realize, Jerry, we've got no right to fight the British till we get our commissions? If we tried it we'd be pirates instead of privateers. We've got to get home, and quick. We'll be a hare pursued by a hundred hounds, this crossing."

"You've convinced me," Jerry said. It had occurred to him that no ship could be too fast to get Polly home in. After they'd made America they could trade the thing for a stout New England craft that wouldn't topple in a gale or crush like an eggshell when fired upon.

TEN days later at the small harbor of Carteret Polly Whitfield went aboard the Clipper Gray Gull owned and captained by Mr. Cabell Banks, junior, of Boston, and whose first mate was Jeremiah Whitfield of Newburyport, Massachusetts.
"We've kept her old name," Cabell explained to Polly as he escorted her aboard. "We had the name Revenge, that we had such a hanker for, it's already in use."

"Gray Gull seems suitable," Polly said. She looked up dubiously at the remarkably tall mast, so different from Cousin Tim's stout, heavy ones. These masts seemed to dwarf the slender hull from which they sprang. There were so little freboard visible that the Gray Gull seemed shallow as well as slender; when Polly mentioned this to Jerry, who had come from behind to take her in charge, he assured her that the Gull belied her looks. She had a stout keel, he said, as sturdily laid as if New England carpenters had built her. Already he was proudly possessive, like a loving relative showing off a beloved child. And so was Cabell.

Polly thought: "Even before they've put to sea they're crazy about their Gray Gull! How much more Jerry's going to love her after he's sailed her awhile!" She knew the way of men with ships, for her father had been a typical seafaring man. After he lost his Froud Lyme off Nantucket five years ago he grieved for her as he grieved for his wife, who died the same year.

Not the least of Jerry's pride in the Gray Gull was the beautiful quarters for Polly. He took her there now and watched her anxiously as she looked around. When she exclaimed with delight over the white painted walls and the warm carpet on the floor he was touched and pleased. "It's none too good for you," he said. He told her that there had been one long cabin, but Cabell had had a partition built, generously giving them the larger quarters and reserving the smaller for himself.

Jerry left her, and a sailor brought her little trunk into the cabin and stowed it beneath the bunk. "That's shipshape!" she told the ship's lad. He seemed very young, not over 17, and Polly opened a box of French pastry she was carrying and gave him some. When she was alone she took her bonnet and sea coat, feeling that she was one with all the women on earth who had followed their men to sea. Though she was the least them, she would not shame them.

For those on board the Gray Gull the hard part must come now. The waiting. The watchful waiting. The run to sea when the time came. Though no English vessels patrolled the insignificant harbor, one knew that they lurked to the north, watching Cherbourg, and to the southwest, blockading Brest. The Gray Gull must take her chance. Her 50-odd sailors were impatient to be off—Americans, most, weary of an enforced sojourn on the wrong side of the Atlantic.

Polly sensed the tenseness that first night aboard. The second night was worse. For a sharp breeze was blowing like a clarion call. Jerry and Cabell stood at the wheel, staring toward the west and talking earnestly. No one seemed to remember her existence. That, too, was part of being a seaman's wife. . . . Then came Cabell's low called commands, relayed by Jerry. Sailors began running, ropes were hauled. . . . Polly looking up into the starlight saw the masts boom with canvas, saw sails fill and spread. The Gray Gull, like an eager bird, was running out to sea.

DAVIS NAMED COUNTY WILDLIFE CHAIRMAN

Mel B. Davis of Pampa has been named chairman of the Gray county committee for observance of National Wildlife week, March 20-26.

Dr. Walton said necessity for more adequate conservation measures to protect Texas' annual $93,000,000 wildlife crop, large in the nation by word of the U. S. biological survey, would be stressed in educational programs over the state.

The state chairman named 20 Panhandle county chairmen to arrange local programs and said other appointments would be made shortly.

Southwest Shippers TO DISCUSS OUTLOOK SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 28 (AP)-Southwestern shippers will put their heads together here Thursday and take a look into the future.

A forecast of business in order to determine what transportation facilities are needed for the second quarter of this year will be a major problem at the 47th regular meeting of the southwest shippers advisory board.

Van B. Myers, of Dallas, general secretary, has advised 600 members in Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas of the March 3 meeting.

General Chairman Homer J. Conley, of Fort Smith, Ark., will preside. Preliminary meeting will be held Wednesday, Myers said.

Plans will be completed for an April "perfect shipping month campaign" during which shippers will attempt to reduce loss and damage to freight and express shipments.

Employees of the Pampa Daily NEWS Saturday wondered if a gasser had blown in at 322 West Foster, when they detected a strong odor of gas in the NEWS building.

The Central States Power and Light company, in response to a telephone message, sent a man to check the trouble. The gas company employee, accompanied by Jake Garman, son of the Central States Power and Light company manager, found nothing wrong, until an investigation on North Somerville by young Garman revealed a pool of drip gasoline in the gutter along the east side of the street.

Pampa firemen were notified. They posted two men at the spot, and kept parking space clear, and swept away the gasoline to accelerate evaporation.

L. H. Bond Heads Lipscomb TSTA HIGGINS, Feb. 26 - L. H. Bond, Booker, was elected president at a meeting recently held at Lipscomb for the purpose of organizing a unit of the Texas State Teachers association, and H. W. Deane of Darrouzet was named first vice president.

O. C. Henderson, Higgins, was made second vice president. H. A. Roberts, Booker, secretary, and Miss Leona Mays, Booker, treasurer.

Supts. R. D. Snider, Higgins, and J. L. Hill, Pollett, were named as delegates to the district meeting, 1845.

SISTER OF PAMPAN DIES IN ENNIS, TEXAS ENNIS, Feb. 28 (AP)-Mrs. Walter Sullivan, 57, resident of Ellis county all her life, died here today after a brief illness.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Wood Overall, of Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood Overall reside four miles south of Pampa near the Merten lease, in the home of a son, E. S. Overall, Magnolia employe.

They moved here several years ago from Electra. Mrs. Overall is a member of the Central Baptist church here.

William F. Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, was born on Feb. 26, 1845.

TEXAS EXES BANQUET WILL BE WEDNESDAY

Wednesday, March 2, anniversary of the signing of the Texas declaration of independence, will be the date for the banquet to be held here by ex-students of the University of Texas, living in Hutchinson, Roberts, Carson, Wheeler, and Gray counties.

Tickets to the affair will sell at 75 cents. Today is the last day to make reservations. There may be made by calling County Attorney Joe Gordon, telephone 1238, or Clifford Braly, telephone 426.

Lacking a complete list of the ex-students residing in the five counties, John V. Osborne, who has been named chairman for the meeting here by Hermon Pipkin of Amarillo, regional chairman, said that all former students of the University of Texas are invited to attend the banquet here, whether or not they receive one of the invitations mailed to all those on the list.

Place of the meeting has not been determined, pending a report on the total reservations. The banquet will be held Wednesday night, not Tuesday, as was incorrectly stated Sunday.

Mrs. Hol Wagner is chairman of the program committee.

12-YEAR RESIDENT OF PAMPA DIES SUDDENLY

The body of Leo J. Fry, 42, will be sent to Cameron, W. Va., tomorrow morning by Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral home. Local services were conducted at 8 o'clock last night in the funeral home chapel with the Rev. Charles A. Knapp, assistant pastor at Holy Souls church, officiating.

Mr. Fry died of a heart attack enroute from work yesterday morning about 10 o'clock. He had been a resident of Pampa for nearly 12 years. At the time of his death he was employed as a driller for the C. & H. Drilling company, working on a well on the west edge of the city. He became ill at work and fellow employes were bringing him to the hospital when he was stricken.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Fry, Cameron, W. Va., and two sisters, Mrs. Frances Westenhamer, Wheeling, W. Va., and Miss Helen Fry, Cameron.

JAP NAVY FAR SUPERIOR SAYS REAR ADMIRAL

TOKYO, Feb. 28 (AP)—A leading Japanese naval authority asserted today that "America is unable to have anything like confidence in her navy's ability to cope with Japan" because Japan has defeated the United States in naval building.

The authority, Rear Admiral Tota Ishimaru, retired, considered one of Japan's foremost commentators on naval affairs, made this analysis of the sea power of the two countries in a new magazine article.

The Japanese navy, he said, is superior in quality to the United States fleet now. He added that Japan has no need to fear a naval building race.

A naval war, the retired admiral said, would be dangerous to Japan only if Great Britain were able to enlist both the United States and Russia in such a conflict.

Citing what he termed the lessons of previous building races, Ishimaru declared that a poorer Germany outlasted a wealthier England before the world war and that Japan was "far from the loser" against the United States.

"In competition with Japan," he wrote, "the United States was financially harassed. It has been discovered that Japan was far from being the loser.

"The Japanese navy's qualitative efficiency is superior to America's to such an extent that America is unable to have anything like confidence in her navy's ability to cope with Japan."

Ishimaru concluded that a naval building race was inevitable, and added significantly:

"Despite the (Japanese) foreign office's denial that Japan is building 43,000-ton capital ships, the race already has started. Since Britain is rearming, America must take necessary steps to keep her navy on equal terms. Japan, too, will be forced to participate."

THOUSANDS IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28 (AP)—All the honest burghers polished up their dancing shoes today because tomorrow, Mardi Gras, they celebrate.

Tens of thousands of visitors will be here to help them dance in the streets. Clear weather seemed assured.

Just to prevent a lag in the big build-up for Tuesday, King Alla VI, carnival king of Aalborg—the suburb across the Mississippi river from New Orleans—arrived today at the head of a river procession. Saluting him, craft in the harbor made the city dizzy with the whine of sirens and the groan of foghorns.

And tonight Proteus, God of the sea, dripping in gold trimmings and glass gems, heads a huge parade.

From dawn to dusk tomorrow there will be masking, and the general merriment will go on into the night. Parading too will be the Negro carnival organization of Zulu Kings with grass skirts and cannibal cooking.

The friendly Zulus, uninhibited by the vast style of Rex and Proteus and their socialite knights, wind their parade through the Negro sections of the city.

The Krewes of Comus will end the Bedlam with a night parade. At midnight the courts of Comus and Rex, after separate balls, will meet for the final ceremony of the 100th New Orleans carnival.

When the city wakes after its jumpy night it will face ash Wednesday and the 40 penitential days of lent.

SUPPLIES MAILED TO SCHOOL ENUMERATORS

Supplies for taking the annual census of Gray county school children will be mailed this week to 13 common school districts of the county from the office of the county superintendent.

Independent school districts will receive their supplies direct from the Texas Department of Education.

There will be 17 enumerators working in the county for the month beginning tomorrow. Gray county's school children will total 5,700, it is estimated.

Cooperation with enumerators was urged by school officials, who emphasized that the per capita scholastic apportionment was $22 and that each scholastic not enumerated meant just that much less that Gray county schools would receive from the state.

The census blank form used by enumerators will show the names of all children between the ages of six and 18 in Gray county, name and address of parents or guardian, any physical defects of child, such as blindness, deafness, speech impairment, name of county in which parents last resided on April 1, 1937, and nationality.

COURT UPHOLDS LOWER TULSA PHONE RATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The supreme court dismissed today litigation brought by the Southwestern Telephone Company in an effort to set aside a rate reduction ordered by the Oklahoma Corporation Commission for Tulsa.

A motion by the corporation commission to dismiss the appeal by the telephone company was granted.

That left in effect a decision by the Oklahoma supreme court sustaining the $80,000 per year cut in local exchange rates.

Highway Employees Taking First Aid

Employees of the Texas Highway department in Pampa are manifesting a keen interest in the American National Red Cross first aid training course being taught by Tom Eckerd, of the Pampa fire department.

Bandaging and treatment of unconscious persons will be the subject of the lesson tonight. The class, which includes 30 members of the Highway department, meets at 7:30 o'clock each Monday night at the Pampa fire station. Tonight's lesson will be the fourth of the series.

Artificial respiration, bandaging, and the application of splints for broken legs have been taught to the class by actual demonstration.

Vermont leads all other states of the nation in marble and granite production.

FRANK FORD BECOMES CARSON FARM AGENT

PANHANDLE, Feb. 28. — Carson county has a new farm agent and a new agricultural association treasurer as the result of the resignations of Agent M. P. Leaming and Treasurer Mrs. Letha Gramer.

Frank Ford succeeds Mr. Leaming as Carson county farm agent. Mr. Leaming left last week for College Station, where he will work week before going on to Washington to accept a position in the southern division of the federal farm program.

Ford comes to Carson from Armstrong where he had been county agent since 1935. He has been in extension service 12 years, having been Oldham county agent for two years and assistant agent in Potter, before coming to Carson.

Miss Mittie B. Roberts, for the past two years employe of the Panhandle State bank at Borger, has begun work in the county agent's office, succeeding Miss M. A. Chanceller, who has accepted the position of agricultural association treasurer, upon the resignation of Mrs. Letha Gramer. Mrs. Gramer becomes librarian tomorrow of the Panhandle Public library.

WHAT CONGRESS IS DOING

(By The Associated Press)

Today

Government reorganization—Senate takes up administration bill.

LAKE CHILDRESS TO GET BASS, CRAPPIE

CHILDRESS, Feb. 26.—A sufficient supply of fry fish to fill the five rearing ponds at Lake Childress almost to capacity has been allotted to Childress by the federal bureau of fisheries through the efforts of the Childress chamber of commerce.

Word has been received by Jerry Debenport, secretary of the chamber of commerce, that 105,000 black bass and crappie had been set aside at the federal hatchery at San Angelo for Childress.

The city of Childress will send a truck to San Angelo Monday and the 30 10-gallon cans of fry fish, with some 3,500 fish to the can, will be brought here and placed in the rearing ponds.

The allotment is the first from a federal hatchery ever secured in Childress.

NO WONDER YOU ARE CONSTIPATED!

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? Do wonder you're constipated—due to lack of "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft, bulky mass in the bowels. It's this mass that helps your bowels move.

The common sense thing to do about it is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-ionic, vitamin B. Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Allison Girls To Play Conlen, Mobeetie Stars

Girls' basketball will reach a climax this week when the undefeated Allison Lassies will meet a team of Mobeetie and Conlen girls in a series in Wheeler. The Allison team will enter the state A. A. U. tournament in Greenville next month.

Game time will be 8 o'clock on Wednesday and Thursday nights with admission 35 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Coach John Peoples will present an Allison team that has won 33 consecutive games this season. Opponents will be four girls from the 1934 state championship—Conlen team and two girls from this year's Mobeetie team.

The Allison sextet will be battling a jinx. They have never defeated a team on which the four Conlen players were members. Since that time, however, Allison has lost only five games.

The Conlen players were their home court and that was in 1932.

M. B. Blankenship of Mobeetie will be in charge of the Mobeetie-Conlen team.

DEFENSE BILL TO AMOUNT TO OVER BILLION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The nation's annual defense bill, informed officials predicted today, will amount inevitably in the next decade to $1,200,000,000 or more.

This would be double the $617,314,000 allotted in 1923, when the Washington arms limitation treaty first was effective, but would be well under the $1,744,000,000 spent in post-war 1920.

Exclusive of the increases which Mr. Roosevelt has recommended, prospective outlays for the army and navy this year aggregate about $1,000,000,000.

The chief factor in the future calculations is the $1,156,000,000 officially estimated as the cost of increasing the fleet's tonnage by 20 per cent and augmenting the naval aviation force by 960 planes.

It would be prorated over the six or eight years which the house naval committee has been told would be required to complete the program.

The navy figures it ultimately will need 20,000 or more sailors—in addition to the present 105,000 enlisted men—for the recommended 47 warships, 22 auxiliaries and 1,000 planes.

As for the army, Secretary Woodring said in his annual report that despite advances in mechanization and efficiency, it was "relatively weaker, compared with the armies of the other great countries, than it was a year ago."

The first 16,000 annual increase in the enlisted reserve force proposed by the administration would boost the army's net total of trained men to 500,510—just beyond the 497,000 of Argentina.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 28 (AP)—Led by new crop futures, the Chicago wheat market ranged about 1 1/2 cents a bushel lower most of the time today.

Improved crop prospects in domestic wheat territory southwest, together with slackness of North American export demand, were chiefly responsible.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were: hard red winter (No. 2) 93 1/2; No. 3 93 1/2; No. 4 93 1/2; No. 5 93 1/2; No. 6 93 1/2; No. 7 93 1/2; No. 8 93 1/2; No. 9 93 1/2; No. 10 93 1/2; No. 11 93 1/2; No. 12 93 1/2.

BARUCH PUTS ALL BLAME ON GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Bernard Baruch, New York financier, told a senate committee today that government policy was more responsible for unemployment than anything else.

"I say it with regret, but I would be less than candid if I failed to express my opinion that unemployment is now traceable more directly to government policy than to anything business could or should do," said the white-haired Baruch, a personal friend of President Roosevelt and sometimes consulted by the chief executive on economic questions.

Baruch testified before the senate committee on unemployment. He recommended enactment of wage-hour legislation which he said "seems to me a necessity of our times" but criticized some other administration policies, particularly the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.

These taxes, he said, "practically arrest" the operation and expansion of new industries.

He said there is ample credit now to support much greater business activity than that of even 1929 and added:

"The single missing element in a great forward movement is a feeling of security—a belief that money can be spent or invested without confiscation of reasonable profits by inordinate taxation."

"The combination of millions of cautions" caused by doubts about the trend of government, he said, has held back private spending.

"Of course," he said, "all this depends on national policy."

"If it remains what recently it has appeared to be, there is no hope of re-employment and substantial recovery."

Baruch criticized the social security tax as tending to retard business and cause unemployment.

"In addition to deducting a tremendous sum from the direct purchasing power of the poorest classes," he said, "it serves as a powerful incentive" to employers to replace workers with machines. He suggested substitution of a gross sales tax or a machine hours levy.

Baruch urged enactment of wage and hour legislation to help "stabilize our economic engine."

He opposed establishment of a board to fix wages and hours, recommending that congress set those limits with "reasonable differentials" to cover established production areas. A board could be permitted to vary the rules to cover emergencies, he said.

NEW YORK CATTLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 28 (AP)—The market for cattle was lively during the morning and toward mid-session active positions sold at levels 1 to 3 points below the previous close.

Hedge selling was augmented by liquidation from the long side.

March contracts sold at 9.25, May at 9.25, July 9.32, Oct. 9.39 and Dec. at 9.38.

Domestic cotton good, market steady. The tender Saturday was 24,250 bales and open commitments 417,000 bales, a decrease of 2,850 bales from the previous day.

CONTINENTAL PIPELINE BOUGHT BY BELL FIRM

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 28 (AP)—The Bell Oil and Gas Company, Tulsa, announced today the purchase of the Continental Oil Company's main pipeline from Burkburnett to Wichita Falls and the connecting "feeder" system.

Bell also bought shallow production, including 81 wells, in the south Burkburnett field from Continental.

The newly acquired system connects with Bell's present one in north Texas and ties to the Bell pipeline to Grandfield, Okla., refinery, extending the system to a 450-mile total in the area.
