

IVY E. DUNCAN FAVORS SITE OF BIG LAKE

Urging the public to accept the government's selection of a new location for the Gray county lake on McClellan Creek, Atty. Ivy E. Duncan addressed members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at their weekly luncheon yesterday, and gave an outline of the lake plans progress from birth of the idea until the present time.

"The original Beaver Dam site is out of the question," Judge Duncan said. "It is impossible financially and on top of that government engineers say that the sandy formation there precludes the successful construction of a dam."

The new location, while it is a little farther from some of the towns in the area, Judge Duncan stated, the change in plans is not great enough to inconvenience any particular community.

"I am sure we cannot get the Beaver Dam site," he added, "and I believe that the people of Gray county should unite to accept the government's new location, rather than get no lake at all."

Judge Duncan was introduced by County Judge Sherman White. Six new members, W. F. Parker, Howard Armburg, A. W. Yowell, R. S. Dietz, D. Altman, and T. B. Richmond were introduced by Walter Rogers and welcomed into the club by Tex De Weese. The meeting was presided over by Dr. C. H. Schukley, president.

The local Jaycees will send a delegation to Berger next Tuesday to participate in that city's 12th birthday anniversary celebration.

GARBO AND STOKOWSKI AT CAPRI—TOGETHER

AMALFI, Italy, March 2 (AP)—Greta Garbo of the movies and Leopold Stokowski, the orchestra conductor, identified as such by the mayor of Amalfi, today visited the famous island of Capri together.

The mayor said he had seen their passports. Local officials said Miss Garbo held a Swedish passport, No. 53, issued at Stockholm Jan. 29, 1938. Stokowski's American passport, they said, was No. 489, issued in Washington Dec. 20, 1937.

The actress and musician, who late last year denied reports of a romance, arrived at Sorrento, on the Bay of Naples, by motor car and boarded a private launch for the island.

It was disclosed that Miss Garbo had been at Ravello, hamlet in the environs of Naples, since Feb. 25. Stokowski, who was divorced last Dec. 3 and who sailed from New York for Naples Feb. 5, is known to have been in Rome recently. On Feb. 24 a train employed to transport a woman he believed to be Miss Garbo had arrived in Rome from Florence. Station employes said she was met by a man resembling Stokowski.

Miss Garbo was seen leaving the Ravello village this morning, wearing her famous dark glasses. The housekeeper said she was expected to return in a few days.

A romance between Miss Garbo and Stokowski was reported as long ago as last October, but both denied the reports at that time.

WOMAN DIPLOMAT WILL SPEAK FRIDAY AT WTSC

CANYON, March 2—Persons living as far away as Big Spring are coming to hear Ruth Bryan Owen in her address at West Texas State college Friday evening, March 4.

Many, remembering her dynamic message given at a homecoming occasion several years ago, are eager to hear her and to give her another ovation. Her address will begin at 8 o'clock.

The former Congresswoman and former minister to Denmark has had many unique experiences and has made a record of exceptional achievement. Her oratorical ability has brought her into contact with millions in this and other countries. Her colorful sentences make clear the peoples and customs of Egypt, England, Denmark, Greenland, and other countries.

Few speakers can better discuss the opportunities of citizenship under the American flag. By many she is regarded as the No. 1 commentator on public affairs.

HOME MAKING TO BE DEDICATORY THEME

CANYON, March 2—Home making will be the theme of the program Friday afternoon, March 4, at the dedication of the new Phebe K. Warner Home Management House on the campus of West Texas State college.

The $18,500 structure was named for Mrs. Warner because of her substantial contributions to better home-making on the plains. The program will begin at 3 p. m. in the college auditorium, but students of the home economics department and honorary hostesses will keep the building open all day.

Music for the program will be contributed by the college orchestra, directed by Prof. Wallace R. Clark, the women's chorus as directed by him, and by Mrs. Robert Wilson of Amarillo.

Brief talks will be made by a number of persons who are especially interested in better homes.

How To Be A Big Shot Statesman— Grow Yourself A Mustache

By JOHN SHEA
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Most of Europe's big shots are brothers under the nose.

You can take it for what it's worth—the truth is that European super statesmen with bare upper lips are rare indeed.

Bold Adolf Hitler, one of the most important figures in the world today, has a mustache (or half of one). And he's proud of it, but becomes furious when people compare it to Charlie Chaplin's.

Hitler is believed to be pointing his mustache at Czechoslovakia, a country run by another mustachioed man, President Edouard Benes.

Benes expects some support from his pal Joe Stalin, who favors a modified form of the handlebar mustache. But Stalin hesitates to get his Soviets mixed up in the European imbroglio because of the threat of Japan with her little Emperor Hirohito and his little mustache.

Back in Europe again, we find mustachioed boys in the drivers' seat in Great Britain. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, another mustache bearer, put himself right on top in his nation by getting parliament to back his let's-be-pals attitude toward Germany and Italy.

Angered by Chamberlain's stand was Anthony Eden, who sports one of the world's most carefully tended mustaches. Young Eden quit as foreign secretary when Britain refused to protest the Nazi move into Austria, where the head man is Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, another who affects a fancy lip.

Insiders believe Italy permitted the Nazi coup in Austria only after Mussolini had made a deal with Hitler to ensure ultimate victory in Spain for Fascist Francisco Franco, still another wearer of the mustache.

Mussolini, by the way, is the exception that proves the rule, the only one in the world who has no hair on his upper lip—he has no hair on the top of his head.

Holbrook Flings Playing Politics Charge at M' Crow

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP)—Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston today flung back at Attorney General William McCraw the charge of "playing politics" which McCraw hurled at him last week in connection with his conduct of a senate committee investigation.

In a long talk to members of the committee which he heads, the senator again disclaimed any political motive in subpoenaing bank accounts of Mr. and Mrs. McCraw and permitting detailed questioning of McCraw's former law partner, Tom C. Clark of Dallas.

The committee is empowered to investigate all state departments, "Neither I nor any other member of the committee," he said, "is in the slightest degree responsible for the testimony that has been deposed during the several hearings on matters relating to the conduct of the high office which the attorney general holds. Notwithstanding his statement to the contrary, I have had no part in building up a political conspiracy against him."

"I assume by his tirade against me in that direction he has decided the dogwood has commenced to bloom and it is time to set his political sail to the breeze, by creating a smoke screen rather than discuss seriously and frankly the things which relate to the high trust the people have reposed in him."

After the subpoena was issued at Dallas last week for Mrs. McCraw's bank account, the attorney general, who is running for governor, sharply criticized Holbrook and Senator Joe L. Hill of Henderson for dragging a woman into "political warfare." He said he had stood their repeated insinuations against him without protest but prying into Mrs. McCraw's private affairs violated the rules of common decency.

Holbrook in the speech to his colleagues, agreed with McCraw there should be a "showdown," adding in that connection that McCraw's case long since would have been much nearer solution had Tom Clark furnished the information for which the committee thrice had asked.

"The fact Clark's income increased substantially after the attorney general's election," Holbrook said, "is and has been for a long time widely commented on throughout the state."

Clark would not authorize his Dallas bank to hand the committee subpoenaing Mrs. McCraw's account and that of the old McCraw-Clark law firm. He stated, however, he would gladly produce the records on any transaction named by the inquisitors.

Holbrook said the sole purpose of subpoenaing Mrs. McCraw's account was to check whether Clark ever had made any deposits to its credit.

No Insult Meant.

"This summons was not out of order," he asserted. "It meant no insult to Mrs. McCraw; nor was it intended as such. Women are citizens, as well as men, and who better would be able to defend the virtues, or portray the vices, of a husband than his wife? The fact is, many of them hold the purse strings of their weaker half, and know more about their business relations than any one else...."

FILM ENJOYED BY STUDENTS

Pupils of Pampa grade schools will have an opportunity to see an educational movie titled "Something About Crackers" during the next three days.

The film was shown Monday to Pampa Junior High school students. Educational value of this picture is enhanced by the romance and color of the Far East, whence come the spices; by scenes of the sugar cane fields of Cuba, the beet sugar fields of Colorado, the waving wheat fields of America's Midwest, the pineapple groves of Hawaii, the coconut jungles of the Philippines, and the cocoa bean vines of Caribbean shores.

Science plays an expert part in this vivid lesson in geography, modern business methods and home economics. Revealing every step necessary, in which 17,000 workers daily produce 175,000,000 crackers, the picture moves from gleaming dairies through the laboratories in which skilled chemists scientifically test every ingredient.

Then through great mixing rooms to the 200 foot ovens, from which long streams of crisp, brown crackers pour out onto conveyors, to be packed in moisture-proof packages, ready for their trip through the food store into millions of American homes.

3 PRINCESSES WANT TO SEE GIRL SCOUTS

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—Three royal princesses of Albania who look like the pretty stars of a Graustarkian light opera shrugged their slim shoulders at romance and frivolity today and started with serious mien to see America.

Our Girl Scouts, our up-to-date cities, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Yellowstone park were what appealed to Mysejen, Maxhide and Rubie, sisters of King Zog, ruler of the tiny kingdom in the Balkans.

They like silk, stocks and lipstick, permanent waves, and short skirts, but night clubs—no; and the mention of swing music failed to elicit much warmth. The princesses, all in their twenties, chose to spend their first evening in New York with a quiet dinner in the royal suite at the Ritz.

There is no motive in our trip, except a friendly curiosity. We are tourists on vacation," they said, but there was a gleam of merriment in their eyes—and one princess was wearing eye-shadow—which indicated that the lighter side of American life, maybe later, will have its appeal.

And are the princesses really in search of wealthy American husbands, as indicated by advance publicity? To that question, the answer of Faik Konitza, Albanian minister to Washington and interpreter for the princesses was: "Why don't you grow up?" The question was not related to the princesses.

The princesses, who had sat smiling and uncommunicative near a statue of the Venue De Milo in the arriving Conte Di Savoia, relaxed in their hotel suite, and spoke Albanian, French and German.

"We start our day in Albania with horseback riding," they said. "Then we make contacts with the Girl Scouts, and see how they are faring."

"If time and weather permit," they said, "we should like to visit Yellowstone park and see how it compares with the scenery of Albania. But we have no definite plans about anything."

King Zog is engaged to be married next May to the Countess Geraldine Apponyi, whose mother was Gladys Virginia Stewart of New York. The three princesses plan to return before the wedding.

Judge Admits This Is Good Reason for Overtime Parking

BELLINGHAM, Wash., March 2 (AP)—The case of Clyde Anable, charged with overparking, was called in magistrate J. F. McGinn's court.

"Have you anything to say in your own defense?" Judge McGinn asked.

"My wife was having a baby. "Were you ever tagged before for overtime parking?"

"Yes, about three years ago. "What delayed you at that time?"

"My wife was having a baby. "Good afternoon," said the judge. "See you again in about three years."

HUSBAND SOBS AS SHERIFF LASHES BACK

BALTIMORE, Md., March 2 (AP)—Twenty lashes from a cat-o-nine tails seared the bare back of Clyde Miller before 50 witnesses at the city jail today as part of his sentence of six months imprisonment for beating his wife last Thursday night.

Sheriff Joseph C. Deegan, six feet, two inches tall and weighing 200 pounds, wielded the whip on the 37-year-old, 145-pound prisoner.

Miller cringed under the first blow but gave no sound. At the third, he whimpered, and thereafter at each blow he gave way to an uncontrolled sob.

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, 33, who had said she would take someone along to describe the flogging if her blackened eyes still remained closed, was not there.

At 11:05 a. m. five minutes after the scheduled time, Miller was brought into the three-story lobby of the big city jail, where the black whipping post and the whiplashes stood. He wore a gray blanket draped around his bare shoulders and prison dungarees.

As three guards strapped his bandaged wrists to the cross-trees and belted his legs and waist to the post, he watched silently. At 11:10, the final adjustments were made and Sheriff Deegan, who flogged two men for wife-beating in 1931, came in and took the whip from an attendant. The prison physician counted the strokes.

"He is the only one I have flogged that really showed the effects and seemed to be in agony," the sheriff said later.

The whipping post, used exclusively for wife-beaters, was revived in 1882, and the flogging today was the heaviest since 1889 when 13 lashes were applied to a prisoner.

Miller has been the usual sentence. Judge J. Abner Saylor after pleading guilty as a second offender to

HALF BILLION TO BE SPENT ON AIRFORCE

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—Tossing more fuel into the roaring rearmament furnace, Britain will spend more than half billion dollars on her airforce in the year beginning April 1.

Air estimates announced today totaled £73,500,000, or $367,500,000, as against £56,500,000, or $282,500,000 last year. This total is the estimate for specific and apparent expenses on the airforce.

The larger figure, however, taking in interest charges, etc., shows the real measure of British spending to make the British airforce the world's best.

The figures, released by confidence on the heels of German field Marshal Goering's boastful assertion yesterday that the German airforce would be "awful in action" if war should come, included expenditures for the fleet air arm—planes attached to the naval fleet.

TODAY'S SERMONETTE

There is a place for all who profess faith in Christ to serve, a place for the boy and the girl as well as the adult, and when it came to Jesus feeding the five thousand, He was told by one of the apostles: "There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves and two small fishes, but what are they among so many." But Jesus took the offering of the lad, blessed and multiplied it and fed the five thousand.—Chivers.

IDLENESS AND CRIME

There has long been a suspicion that idleness was no breeder of virtue. Especially when it was coupled with other old offenders—like bad companions and lack of proper home influence.

But now idleness marches to the head of the class as the chief reason for crime, according to Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing prison. Some years ago gambling headed the cause-of-crime list. Liquor same second and immorality third. Liquor and immorality are still holding their places, but gambling is way down the line and idleness takes its place.

Warden Lawes blames the depression and points to the result. He said:

"There are more first offenders getting into difficulty in tough times than when times are good. That's why the proportion of first offenders in prison is increasing lately."

The warden didn't add what he might have: that most of these first offenders would have been both honest and at liberty if they had been able to find jobs. Idleness will always be productive of crime, in just about the direct proportion that men can't get work.

UNION BIG BUSINESS

One phase of the wave of union organization that has been sweeping the country has largely escaped notice. That is the union business as a business.

It is getting to be a big one. A recent estimate was that during the year 1937 the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. took in and spent approximately $85,000,000, with about 70,000 people employed, mostly professional organizers and clerical help. The estimate may not be accurate, but it reflects an unquestioned tendency.

That means that simply as a business, unionism already has annual revenues greater than sales volume in the jewelry, typewriter, hat, or glove industries. The United Mine Workers alone had more than $2,000,000 on hand at last report.

Many and many a "little business" isn't as big as that. There is a certain humor in watching organized labor, which has rallied for years at "big business," itself growing gradually into a big business of its own.

CONGRESS BARES SALARY LEADERS

The above statement was recently headlined in the newspapers. Then followed a list of salaries ranging from over half a million annually down to $100,000.

Such items are perfect rabble-rousing publicity. Nothing is said about the fact that on each of these salaries, government gets a lion's share. After each such salary or earning figure there should be another figure showing government's tax share in the salary, which for Federal surtax alone, not counting normal Federal tax or state income taxes, graduates up to a maximum of 75 per cent.

If government taxes on each large salary or income were headlined, it would be shown that government and not the individual pockets the bulk of the money.

LIBERTY AND VOTING MAJORITY DEMOCRACY

Some of the so-called liberals are always contending that if we are not to have a voting majority democracy, what can be substituted in its place and that they prefer that a voting majority decide things to any other method of making decisions.

This statement makes us wonder whether there ever has been a place in all history when a true liberal form of government was established by the voting majority.

Benjamin Kidd in his great book, "Western Civilization," contends that the first real liberal Bill of Rights was presented to the people by the Army in 1649. When the Articles of Confederacy were adopted, a large part of the citizens at that time did not have the right of franchise, nor did they have the right of franchise when the present Constitution was adopted and the Constitution was presented to them with no alternative but to retain the Federation or adopt a Constitution.

The voting majority, therefore, did not establish our Constitution and when the Bill of Rights was added, a large percentage of the population was without the right of franchise.

So we wonder whether there has been, or

The New U. S. Ambassador Arrives in England

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It may be I am seeking too far after eventualities in bringing up certain improbabilities in the theater, yet I am haunted by a desire to know what Lynn Fontanne would do if she misplaced her thimble in that sock-mending scene in "Amphytrion 38."

Probably she would manage well enough, but none the less there exists the possibility of at least one circumstance that would tax even her nimble wits. I mean that scene where Alfred Lunt comes in with a hole in his sock.

Every night and sometimes in the afternoon she makes him take it off and gives it the benefit of needle and thread. This homey chore is accompanied by a line of appropriate chatter, and in the end Alfred gets his sock back.

But suppose some night there should be no thimble. Suppose by mistake she should plunge the needle into her finger. What I want to know is, would Miss Fontanne the actress go right on talking according to script or would Lynn the woman yell "Ouch!" and thrust the digit into her mouth? It's an interesting point.

"Dear George—Was just passing your typewriter and, being a nosy fellow, I read what you had written just above. I can tell you exactly what she would do, being that I saw something very similar actually happen to her. It was several years ago when I was managing the Theater Guild comedy, 'Caprice,' in which Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne starred.

"It happened in Chicago on our tour of this country before we took the play to London for its long run there. On our opening night I was standing in the back of the theater engaged in 'counting house' during a scene on the stage between Miss Fontanne and Leonard Lunt. Suddenly, to my horror, Miss Fontanne's panties dropped over her shoes, the elastic having broken.

"Without faltering a word of her dialogue, she quietly kicked the silken undergarment from her feet under a nearby divan, and so quickly and smoothly did she do the trick that not a dozen people in the audience saw what had happened. She went on with her performance without faltering a syllable and sitting up to what a great actress Miss Fontanne is under any circumstance.

"Incidentally, 'Caprice' is the play that I fruitlessly tried to persuade Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne not to produce. It was, I argued as we rehearsed in Philadelphia, a play without the slightest chance of making a penny. I still argued this after we had opened to unanimous laudatory reviews on Broadway, and I continued arguing the point. My walls of fear for the success of the play grew weaker and weaker as I added up the box office statements each night, and the play turned out to be one of the richest hits in Broadway history.—Mark Barron."

Ge, Mark—thanks!

People You Know

The good Samaritan of the highways nowadays is the person who knows what kind of first aid to give an injured person and how to give it. Like Monday morning when a fast-traveling car overturned on the Pampa-LeFors road. The driver was painfully injured, but he was able to crawl out of the wreckage. He had that dazed, unheeding look in his eyes that is seen in the eyes of most car wreck victims, that seemed to say: "I've been afraid all the time I was going to have a wreck and now I've had it. I can't believe it, because I really didn't think it would ever happen to me." A deep gash encircled his head. It followed the line where his hat fitted. The windshield broke into a hundred pieces and cut his face, hands, head. There were pieces of glass sticking in his face. Blood was streaming. It had filled his ears, eyes when the first car stopped. Then the good Samaritan, an employee of a major oil company here—a company which teaches all its employees first aid—drove up. He grabbed his first aid kit and rushed to care for the victim. He worked with the assurance of a surgeon. The man already was weak from loss of blood. First thing, the trained fingers found the pressure points in the head and he stopped the flow of blood; then he put on deft bandages and took him to the hospital. The victim's savior, dressed in oily, grimy boots, grease-spattered shirt, trousers and hat, did not look as if he would have known but he did know. "Our company teaches us," he said. "You have to know," he said. "If people who care for accident victims knew first aid there would not be so many permanent injuries, and recovery would be quicker—and not so many would die of injuries."

Around Hollywood

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Have you been missing those "three little words" in movie dialogue lately?

You have, and there's a reason. Screen dialogue writers will go to desperate lengths to avoid having characters say "I love you" in so many words. Most of them agree that tender passion makes the toughest dialogue.

Sam Hellman seethes "I love you" because it's "the hardest thing in the world to get an actress to say those three words convincingly." And if it isn't done convincingly you get a laugh.

Lamar Trotti concurs. Says he: "All scenes are hard to write and the love dialogue particularly so. Romantic scenes are difficult to keep within bounds. Unless you watch your step, they're apt to go sour, maudlin and overly sentimental. In 'In Old Chicago' the love dialogue between Alice Payne and Tyrone Power was much easier because we had the elements of antagonism and humor to set off the love interest."

Takes Ingenuity

Sonya Levien, who co-authored the screen play of "In Old Chicago" with Trotti, is of the same mind: "Personally, I find that more ingenuity and effort is required in writing these (love) scenes than in all others. Nowadays, the action may say 'I love you' but not the words." Miss Levien took more time on one love scene than on any other sequence in the film.

Richard Sherman dissents but slightly: "Any scene dealing with deep and profound emotion is difficult; and love, I find, is a harder to treat intelligently in writing than death, sudden disaster and other occurrences in life that shock and move the heart. . . They are all hard, in fact."

But Ernest Pascal insists the love stuff is easy if it is "honest and sincere. If the love scene or any other situation is synthetic and contrived, it is the most difficult to get down."

All Scenes Tough

Morris Ryskind ("Stage Door," "There's Always a Woman," etc.) concurs in spirit but won't take sides: "All scenes are tough. The next scene in the picture is always the toughest."

Sidney Buchman ("Vacation Bound") finds one scene like another—equally difficult "if conscientiously approached." The writer who finds a particular scene apparently easy to handle should examine it suspiciously for cliches, he declares.

Gladys Lehman opines that the most difficult thing is to get "effective naturalness" with the economy of wordage imposed by film technique—in a love scene or any other.

Love Is Dangerous

And John Lee Mahin holds that the best love scene is the one with the least dialogue.

"Dialogue," says Mahin, "is always dangerous in love scenes. The least lack of balance can betray a tender passage into raucous merriment."

The veteran H. J. Mankiewicz sums it up aptly:

"Love scenes are incredibly hard to dialogue—even when they're on the level—as when a boy is actually trying, in real life, to make love to some girl. And I don't know why art should be any easier than nature. The ability to carry off love scenes must carry with it the ability to believe yourself in love while you are writing. It's a quality that many an otherwise fine writer lacks."

It wouldn't be Hollywood if Nick Thompson, who for 29 years has been playing movie Indians, really were an Indian. This is Hollywood, Nick's of Italian parentage, born in Houston, Texas.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER, Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Business men may still believe its too good to be true, but they have persuaded the President that he ought not to do or say anything which might cause him to be accused of rocking the boat.

For a while, at least, Roosevelt plans to sit inactive in the middle—and quietly, too, except for frequent optimistic and inspirational assurances designed to improve business psychology.

The President is tired and he is especially tired because so much of the New Deal recovery has been lost so rapidly. Although various plans for another reorganization are in abundance, he clings to the hope that business will recover under its own steam.

Avoiding Disturbance.

For some time it has been observed by visitors that F. D. R. doesn't seek to monopolize conversations as he once did.

And lately they have reported that he greets proposals looking to reform, even of the mildest nature, with the objection that they might cause him to be accused of "disturbing business."

The little business men's conference, from which Roosevelt expected at least some sympathy and conservative support, appears to have saddened him and led him to pay more heed to business protests. He has not swung from the New Dealer reform group into the arms of the Richberg "co-operators" since no program for letting business organize to police itself is yet in the cards.

But he has sought ground between. It looks now as if business might get practically all of the tax revision it has asked for.

Wage-Hour May Be Dead.

Although it's reported that wages and hours are a White House "must" measure, some of the best friends of wage-hour legislation have given up hoping that Roosevelt will really fight for it again this session.

The opposition apparently will continue to slash away at his reorganization program. It seems doubtful that the President will seek to insist on new monopoly legislation, or even an investigation of that problem.

No new important legislation will be proposed unless depression exigencies eventually demand it.

"Attacks on business," as the speeches of Assistant Attorney General Robert Jackson were quickly termed, have ceased. Jackson's last speech, made in New York and admittedly the last he expects to make on business and government for some time, was more of a plea and an explanation than an attack.

Reforms Still To Be Sought.

Nevertheless, Roosevelt still yearns for further social-economic reforms. Delegates of the Consumers' National Federation, who met with him for half an hour, gathered that impression despite the fact that the President was lukewarm to their request for a congressional investigation into "flagrant under consumption of the necessities of life," commercial devices and practices which keep housewives from getting their money's worth and business and financial controls "which deny to workers and farmers the right to enjoy the abundant standard of living which they are ready and able to produce."

The President, although apparently unwilling to make any move that would "upset business" was sympathetic as President Michael Quill of the Transport Workers' Union—a New York City councilman—and F. B. McLauren of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, told him that the cost of living was bearing down hard on their members and that wage increases meant nothing if they were promptly eaten up by higher prices.

Roosevelt pointed out that the price of food wasn't a new problem for government. It bothered Queen Elizabeth, he said, until she finally made production of bread a public utility. It stayed that way in Eng-

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GILDSTON, M.D.

Sir James Crichton-Browne, the eminent British physician and brain specialist, died recently at the ripe old age of 97. Since he belonged to the Victorian era, he was not well known to this generation. But his position in the medical world was high because of his scientific and literary accomplishments.

In 1905, when Sir James was 84, he spoke on "The Prevention of Senility" before the preventive medicine section of the London congress of the Royal Institute of Public Health. Much that he said on the subject deserves repetition particularly since those "40 and over" have become a commonplace topic of late.

In any discussion of "40 and over" the name of Sir William Osler is likely to bob up. This great physician was the victim of a misunderstanding. He ironically quoted, from Anthony Comstock's novel, "The Fixed Period," the suggestion of a college into which men should retire at 60 for a year contemplation before a peaceful departure by chloroform.

Osler was saddened "by those who cannot see a joke that is not of elephantine dimensions" with this suggestion as a solemn expression of his own matured professional judgment and he had to defend himself against this charge for many years.

Osler did say, however: "Subtract from the sum of human achievements in science and literature and in art, the work of men above 40 and we should be, notwithstanding the loss of a few scattered treasures of great price, practically where we are today."

Crichton-Browne vigorously disagreed with Osler's statement. He maintained that much of the best work of the world has been done by men over 40. He pointed out that Nelson was 47 when he won Trafalgar, Moltke 66 when he entered on the direction of the war of Prussia against France. Bismarck's most successful statesmanship followed his 50th year. Wren designed St. Paul's when he was 44 and continued to decorate London with choice specimens of architecture for another 30 years. Titan's most remarkable pictures were painted when he was 50. Locke's essays concerning the Human Understanding was published when he was 58. Bacon was 59 when his master work, "Novum Organum," was given to the world.

So They Say

At least a part of present day war-mongering is due directly to the clogging of the channels of world trade.

—HENRY A. WALLACE, Secretary of Agriculture.

Nothing has ever been accomplished without the spirit of adventure behind it. But through the ages the style of adventure has changed from one based on physical courage to one based on intellectual energy.

—BYRON A. JOHNSON, president, Rochester, N. Y., City Club.

If sanctions had been put on Italy in the fall of 1935 there would have been no Ethiopian conquest, no Rome-Berlin axis and the Democratic nations would not have been scared.

It will be hard to keep out of war, but that is about all we can try to do now. We do not need a super-navy for defense.

land, with prices fixed, for 100 years.

The President also recalled his old story of how the British government first entered the transport business by breaking a oneboat ferry monopoly on the Thames. He indicated he would like to see a far greater abundance of bread, milk, and other necessities.

J. P. DECLARES HE'LL NEVER DRIVE AN AUTO

SALT LAKE CITY, March 2 (AP)—Veteran Justice of the peace Herman Gygi declared today he never had and never would drive an automobile "because of the horrors I've seen during my eight years in office."

Justice Gygi has been acting coroner in investigations of many fatal accidents. He estimates he's heard 3,000 traffic cases in his office.

"Drunken drivers and speeders are potential murderers, as deadly as a sniper in the woods," he said. "Our highways are filled with thoughtless maniacs who have no thought for anyone—even themselves. I'll never get in the driver's seat myself."

Justice Gygi avoids riding in automobiles as much as possible. If he goes to court by car, his son, Herman Jr., drives him. Sometimes, he says, he trusts a deputy sheriff or state highway officer as chauffeur, "but only in emergencies."

During a cross-country air race, Gerald Wilson, pilot of the Golden Arrow, was forced to the ground because of motor trouble. Wilson selected the most favorable appearing plot of ground below him and landed there.

SPRING TRAINING WILL BE ROUGH, COACH MITCHELL PROMISES BOYS

FUNDAMENTALS WILL FEATURE GRID PRACTICE

Spring training for Harvester football prospects is going to be rough and tough and the boys who "can't take it" have been notified that uniforms may be turned in at any time. Yesterday afternoon the space behind the east grandstand at Harvester field resembled a mob scene in a movie with little boys, medium size boys and a few big ones dashing around.

"Spring training is going to consist of fundamentals, blocking and tackling, hard scrimmages and games," Coach Odus Mitchell informed the boys. "Length of the training period will depend on the interest shown and the work done so step right in and let's get it over in a hurry."

Yesterday afternoon was spent mostly with relay races, kicking, blocking the dummy and dummy scrimmage, in which coaches and their experienced boys and rah of few plays so that newcomers could be given a chance to select their playing position.

"We want each boy to try out for the position he desires to play," Coach Mitchell told the boys, and there were several on hand. "If we think he is suited to that position we will leave him but if he appears to be a natural at some other place we will suggest a change."

Coaches hope to have their charges so far advanced during spring training that they will be able to step right out in September with a team ready to play games.

It will be several days before coaches will have a line on their prospects. A few boys have yet to report.

Several Horses Have Chance to Win Rich Race

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (AP)—Far be it from anyone's mind to spread confusion, but Foppon, Seabiscuit and Ansel are not the only horses billed to run in the $100,000 race classic at Santa Anita Saturday.

A little guy named Earl Sande has a pair of likely looking candidates in Seenshifter and Staghand, and has them trained with the very idea of knocking over such big shots as the trio named above.

Staghand upset a select gathering of favorites in the recent $50,000 Santa Anita derby—Tiger and Sir Raleigh, for instance—and Seenshifter is regarded as having a better chance of belittling the older stake horses, if Staghand doesn't.

Major Austin C. Taylor, wealthy Canadian sportsman, has Whichever in at a mere 110 pounds, and he didn't sign Harry Richards to ride him just because he thought the jockey would look well in the Taylor silks.

Nor did Richards take Whichever simply as a whim. He chose Rose-

AMARILLOANS IN LINEUP OF TEXAS ELEVEN

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP)—Summer sports—baseball, track and field tennis, golf and swimming—ruled at the University of Texas today.

Yesterday saw the death of spring football and the basketball team polished off plays for the season's swan song at Texas A. & M.

The Longhorn swimming contingent was en route to Stillwater for a contest with Oklahoma A. & M. aquatic experts tonight.

A record of 18 Southwest Conference baseball championships behind him, coach "Uncle Billy" Disch pronounced himself pleased with 30-odd hopefuls who answered his call but admitted his hurling staff as weak.

Mound candidates included squadmen John "Lefty" Garnett of Henderson; Kirven Fields of Austin and Guy Aldridge of Littlefield, last year's freshman star.

Coach Dana X. Bible said a better Longhorn grid team than last year would take the field next fall but declared he could use a top-notch signal caller.

Track Coach Clyde Littlefield, most of his point-makers gone by the graduation route, depended on the reliable Judson Achison of Baird in the broad jump; Hugo Wolfe of Stephenville, discus and shot; Hugh Graves of El Paso, dash man, and Sam Patillo of Denison, a miler.

Promising newcomers to varsity went last year, and Rosy did right well for him in the $100,000 battle by winning.

Taylor has Indian Broom, too, and many believe the Broom has another great race left in him; as good or better than the third he ran in the big race last year.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press) BATON ROUGE, La.—With few, if any, worries as to who will play what position on his New York Giants, Bill Terry already is concentrating upon the finer points of baseball. He had his pitchers fielding bunts yesterday and practicing covering first base while the first sacker handled grounders rolling down the line.

NEW YORK.—The Brooklyn Dodgers' first squad leaves today to open the training camp at Clearwater, Fla. Four players, Alia Cohen, Clyde Sukeforth, Walter Singer and Jack Kimball will start from here.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—There's an obvious reason why Outfielder Jake Powell joined the New York Yankees' squad several days before he was due. Scaling '39, he is 4 pounds above normal weight.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Manager Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators set aside today for the first session of his annual endeavor to teach Monte Weaver how to conceal his pitching delivery. Harris says Weaver's habit of exposing his grip on the ball cuts his effectiveness 30 per cent.

NEW ORLEANS.—Oscar Vitt, Cleveland's new manager, says he regards fifth place as an important spot in the batting order and for that reason the Indians will present a new lineup for their exhibitions. Vitt favors a left-handed heavy hit-track were Gilliam Graham of Brownfield, Interscholastic javelin champion; Milo Cox of Denison, sprinter; Boyce Gatewood of Electra, high hurdler, and Bryan a pole vaulter.

Dr. D. A. Penick, professor of Greek, and tennis coach at the university the past 24 years, expected lettermen Eobhy Kamrath of Austin, George Dullin of San Antonio, Edgar Weller of Austin and several others to carry Longhorns hopes on the courts. Dr. Penick's teams have never failed to win the Southwest Conference singles or doubles or both.

Steer golf expectations rested largely with Captain J. Ward Fouts and his brother, Jack Fouts of Dallas and Wayne Middleton of Fort Worth who are working out under the watchful eye of golf pro Harvey Penick.

In getting Hemsley as No. 1 mask-and-pad guy, the Tribe didn't give up anyone they'll miss very much. Billy Sullivan, although handy with a war club, didn't fit into the picture, either as catcher or infielder; Roy Hughes' hitting hasn't been anything to write home about, and Ed Cole, a rookie pitcher, is strictly an unknown quantity.

The White Sox came out with a neat profit in their ivory dealings. Although they gave up a 15-to-20-game pitcher in Vernon Kennedy, they certainly can hope for 15 games from C. Walkers big bat and Mary Owen's defensive ability at third base.

St. Louis miserable 1937 campaign showed that the Browns, rather than replacing their manager, should have found a new team. They gave up Joe Vosmik, a capable cloutier; Hemsley, a crack catcher whose extra-curricular activities did not make him altogether an asset; Shortstop Billy Knickerbocker, and Pitcher Elon Hogsett, who hasn't been any great shucks in his nine-year career.

In return, they obtained Buck Newson, who can win 15 games any year, given proper support; Buster Mills, one of the better outfield rookies last year; Sullivan, who probably can fit better into the Browns set-up than he did in Cleveland; Don Hefner, one of the fastest infielders afloat, and such other candidates as Shortstop Red Kress, comingback after a big batting season in the minors; Ed Linke, Jim Weaver and Vito Tamulis, who may prove some help in answering the pitching problem, and Cole.

When weather is at its worst in Verkhoyanski, Siberia, the exhaled vapor of one's breath crystallizes into need of ice, making breathing painful.

For the spot and believes this may call for Earl Averill, who had batted third ever since he joined the club nine years ago.

BAER TRUNKS AROUSES IRE OF OPPONENT

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—Those who have followed the fistie career of Buddy Baer, the sinner of the two brothers, will feel led down to learn that the secret of Buddy's mounting success has, or will be exposed.

The disclosure, for such it is, comes at a particularly painful time, for the cub of the Baer family is scheduled to meet his first really important test at the Gilbert Friday night against Gunnar Barlund, the flailing Finn.

Some of Buddy's more enthusiastic admirers, influenced by his knock-out victories over such tough customers as Abe Simon and Eddie Hogan, were beginning to see in him the successor, several times removed, of his big brother Max as world's heavyweight champion. Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, had even predicted that Buddy would win the title by 1940.

But now comes Barlund's manager, Paul Damski, with a revelation that shocked the boxing commission at its meeting yesterday.

Damski has discovered, so he claims, that Buddy has been wearing special tailor-made ring trunks that are, by artificial design, full three inches higher around the waistline than any ever made before. They rise, he claims, almost to Buddy's armpits and are a serious mental hazard to an opponent.

"No fighter's ever dared take a shot at his stummick," Damski told the amazed commissioners. "Why? Because they can't see it for all those clothes he wears. We demand he cut them off at least three inches north and south, or we don't fight."

Nobody before Damski, apparently, had noticed Baer's highwater britches, but his charges immediately recalled to ringsters that Buddy hadn't in fact, been socked much around the body in his sensational knockouts of Simon and Hogan, though he exhibited in each fight an abnormal ability to take it on the jaw.

"Sure," Damski agreed. "He's got a good jaw, better than Max's. But what Gunnar and me want to find out is how does he like 'em down below."

Faced with such logic, the commissioners had no alternative. Buddy will come into the ring Friday night, they stipulated, in store-bought, sensible garments, and that will be calling to a scion of pugilism's best dressed family.

York Hopes to Smash Home Run Record in 1938

LAKELAND, Fla., March 2 (AP)—Rudolph Preston York, preparing for his second year in the big time with the Detroit Tigers, expects to top the 35 home runs he pounded out last season.

The unassuming Rudy, first string catcher for the Tigers, won't predict that he will beat out Joe Dimaggio, Hank Greenberg or Lou Gehrig in the American League slug derby, but he argues the law of averages should be in his favor.

In fact, York indicated he believes he might have led Dimaggio last season had he played the full schedule. The Yankee outfielder hit 46 round-trippers in 620 times at bat while York made his 35 in 375 visits to the plate.

Mickey Cochrane, the Detroit manager, has predicted Rudy and Greenberg will out-homer Dimaggio and Gehrig in 1938 and York is confident he will do his part.

The first catcher to arrive at the Tigers' training camp, the 210-pound Georgian, who tried out as a first baseman in 1936 and as a third baseman last year, is elated over his regular job and is determined to hold it, come what may.

The second year flinx, which often catches up with big league sophomores, holds no terrors for Rudy. He sees no reason why he should not lift his 307 batting mark of 1937. "My defensive work should be improved, too," he said. "I'll know my pitchers and my signals better."

32 Cage Teams Entered in K. C. College Tourney

KANSAS CITY, March 2 (AP)—A bracket of 32 teams is assured for the first annual National Inter-collegiate Basketball tournament, to be held here March 7-12. Emil S. Iliston, chairman of the tournament board of managers, said today.

Twenty-three teams from nearly as many states have entered and elimination tournaments and completion of conference races are expected to boost the total to 32 or more.

Late entries included North Texas Teachers and New Mexico State College, Border Conference champions.

Lubbock, March 2—Two Pampans are on the list of B. O. T. C. officers for the spring semester at Texas Technological college. They are Tow Sweetman, staff sergeant, Company B, and Wayne Winkler, color guard corporal, battalion staff.

BOXING OPPOSED AS CAUSE OF STUDENT PUNCH DRUNKENNESS

SEATTLE, March 2 (AP)—Dr. David C. Hall, director of the University of Washington health service, advocated today abolition of college boxing, which he said "often leads to student punch drunkenness."

The campus physician, a former middleweight boxing and wrestling champion at Brown University, said "any sport, the object of which is to render an opponent unconscious is fundamentally wrong and should be abolished."

He viewed the sport as an excellent body builder if it is confined to scientific sparring in which attempts at physical injury are abandoned.

Considering boxing especially injurious to students, he pointed out "the more acute the intellect, the more susceptible is the brain to injury. Blows to the head cause small hemorrhages of the brain. Continued concussions of the brain build scar tissue impairing the athlete's effectiveness, finally resulting in 'punch drunkenness'."

30 KAYOED IN GLOVES FIGHTS

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—The four bigger divisions demonstrated their collective punching prowess last night in the second round of battling in the eleventh annual Golden Gloves tournament of champions by compiling a record of 30 knockouts and technical knockouts before 15,000 spectators in the Chicago stadium.

The welters, middleweights, light heavies and heavyweights outdid the smaller boys, who had the three rings to themselves last night.

One-round victors included Babe Ritchie, Lubbock, Tex., heavyweight who thumped out Al Stein of Stretford, Ill.

Fields in all eight classes will battle down to the semi-finals tonight, then will rest until a week from Friday, when the championships will be decided.

Ski-Jumping in L. A. Seen by 20,000 People

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (AP)—Los Angeles' first ski-jumping contest over a man-made course was proclaimed a success in every way today—except for the weather.

Postponed once because of rain, the meet was held in Memorial Coliseum last night, with 20,000 spectators present.

There for a thrill, the throng got one with the first jump. Si Brand of the Mount Lassen, Calif., Ski club, pitched over head first as he hit the lower slide, and was carried off the field on a stretcher, not seriously injured.

Soon after Birger Ruud, Norway's Olympic games champion, made the winning leap of 136 feet, a drizzle broke over the coliseum and the skiers in subsequent jumps tried more for form than distance.

LONGHORNS IN FOURTH PLACE

(By The Associated Press) The University of Texas Longhorns, in fourth place, journey to College Station tomorrow to do battle with the fifth-place Texas A. & M. college Aggies. The game will be one of three remaining on the South west conference basketball schedule. Saturday night Baylor university goes to Dallas to play Southern Methodist university.

The scramble for runner-up honors to the champion Arkansas Razorbacks has been eclipsed by the scoring feat of Baylor's Hubert Kirkpatrick, who has run his scoring total for the season to 197, a conference record.

The cellarite Texas Christian university Frogs finished the season last night with another loss, score 37-30, to the Methodists. The latter rallied in the last eight minutes to play to win the game. At halftime, the Frogs were leading 23-16.

Personal fouls sent Brad Snodgrass, T. C. U. guard, from the game shortly after the first half. After that S. M. U.'s J. D. Norton had things his own way, negotiating a one-handed rush shot that gave the Mustangs the lead, 31-30. Then three more shots by Norton from the field wrote "fins" to the Frogs' dying gasp.

Jockey Woolf To Ride Seabiscuit

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (AP)—Jockey George Woolf, veteran rider and the man who piloted Azucar in his surprise victory in the initial $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, was named to ride Seabiscuit in the Santa Anita classic Saturday.

Seabiscuit's regular jockey, "Red" Pollard, broke his collar bone in a fall 10 days ago.

Fields in all eight classes will battle down to the semi-finals tonight, then will rest until a week from Friday, when the championships will be decided.

He saw a bootblack arrested for disorderly conduct. He gave his card to the bootblack, told the boy he'd appear for him.

"If I was arrested, Cassidy said, 'The officer said he didn't care who I was.'"

NO INFLUENCE PHILADELPHIA—Deputy Attorney General Gilbert Cassidy, Jr., was wanted in court today—on charge of interfering with a policeman.

Appearing for sentencing on a grand larceny charge, he told Judge Malcolm Douglas he had gained 50 pounds in two months in jail. Judge Douglas sent him to prison for 15 years.

Babe Ritchie Wins Fight in Round

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—Three Texans emerged unscathed last night from fights in the Golden Gloves National Championship tournament.

Carl Hilger, Fort Worth, knocked out James Young, Indianapolis, in two rounds. The 160-pounders were in the second round of the tournament.

Arthur Dorrell, Dallas, advanced through two rounds in the 147-pound class by outpointing Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati, in three rounds. It was Dorrell's second win of the evening.

Babe Ritchie, Lubbock, won over Alfred Stein, Stretford, Ill., in one round in a heavyweight first-round match.

GOING UP SEATTLE—At this rate, L. C. Mathison is going to pick up 4,900 pounds.

Basketball Players Run Twice As Far As They Did Back in 1931

GREENCASTLE, Ind., March 2—Psychologists and scientists who believe that there is enough basis for argument about the new style basketball game to put their ear into it, come up with some interesting data as a result of experiments.

It is stated that cagers this season are traveling twice as far in a game as they did in 1931. The contention is made by Paul G. Fay, psychology professor, and L. L. Messersmith, physical education professor of DePauw University.

After checking four DePauw players in as many games, it was found that each traveled nearly four miles per contest.

When the last check was made in 1931 it was found that the average distance traveled was from 2.25 to 2.5 miles. This year, the average is approximately 3.9 miles.

Use Simple Contraption. In determining these figures, Professors Fay and Messersmith constructed a miniature court made of tin that is fastened to a wooden base.

A metal "follower," attached to a storage battery, is used to follow the players' movements on the floor while a clock-like instrument records the number of feet traveled.

The two most important rule changes since 1931 have contributed mostly to this long-distance traveling, namely the 10-second limit on bringing the ball to mid-court on offense, and the elimination of the center jump.

Checking a guard in the DePauw-Boston contest, the experimenters found that he traveled exactly 3.9 miles. In the DePauw-Ball State engagement, a forward covered 3.96 miles. A guard moved 3.87 miles in the DePauw-Franklin scrap. A center traveled 3.97 miles in the DePauw-Earlham battle.

A Lot of Movement. The forward who was followed in the Ball State game, moved 12.13 feet on offense and 8.798 feet on defense. Because Franklin used a delayed offense during the second half, the guard checked in this contest traveled 11.748 feet on offense and 8.698 feet on offense. In addition to checking the dis-

Paul G. Fay, left, and L. L. Messersmith, DePauw University professors, at work on their device by which they check the distance traveled by a basketball player in a game.

A close-up of the "follower" in action on a miniature court, made of tin with a wooden base. The "follower" is attached to a storage battery, and movements which correspond to those of the player register on the clock-like instrument.

The boys are on the go much more than in former years, but the figures do not prove the new game detrimental to the athlete's well-being.

The battle rages, but the players themselves do the least complaining. ACTION—Use the Want Ads.

For Love of Polly

By RACHEL MACK

Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

Yesterday, skimming across the ocean, dodging British vessels, Polly says "good bye" to Jerry, who is on watch. She is fearful.

CHAPTER XXIV

GOOD weather held. The Gray Gull was cutting the deep green water of the Atlantic now as if she ruled it. Fear gave way to a feeling of well being, rasping whippers turned to shouts. The sailors sang chautaus as they climbed the shrouds and washed down the deck. At night they told tales of the seven seas, wonderful to hear.

There were others besides the old French harbor pilot who could stand turn as helmsman to relieve the captain and his mate at the wheel. Nobody was overworked. Food was good and plentiful, and the crew did not quarrel or fight among themselves. All were proud of the little schooner's clean speed. They made wagers among themselves as to whether she was making 14 knots or 15; and they kept her guns clean and shining—her two long guns and her 10 carromades which could create havoc at close range.

A score of the crew claimed to be excellent gunners and these men boasted of what they could do to an English brig. They grumbled a good deal at their inactivity.

"Bide your time!" Cabell told them shortly.

It was Jerry who was more explicit. He was not the sort of officer who believed in hiding plans from the crew. From experience and memory he knew how such a course breeds uneasiness and discontent. Though sea-men are rather an insensitive lot, he knew they could develop the nerves of caged animals when kept in ignorance of what they were to face. And so he explained plainly:

"We'll hold the course we've taken and try to enter Chesapeake Bay. We'll run up the Potomac if possible. Then Captain Banks will go into Washington and get our Orders in council from President Madison. Without our papers, we're floating dead-wood. With them, we can go after English merchantmen and keep the booty. There'll be an honest division of booty, you understand. When we harass the enemy for our country, we benefit ourselves."

As a matter of fact, Jerry gave little thought at this stage of the game to booty, yet he knew the part that prize money would play in the minds of the men. It would be the means of paying them and of rewarding them on to a valor that patriotism could not always inspire. That was the privateer officer's code, and Jerry was too honest to gloss it over with a shining idealism. In time, he would care would he be thinking only of the prize dollars a captured ship full of tea and silk would yield? The thought disturbed and saddened him.

POLLY kept much to her cabin, but when Jerry permitted it she would go on deck with him or with Cabell and watch what went on there. The sailors were respectable and agreeable to her and seemed to attach no omen of ill luck to her presence on the ship.

When she wondered at this, Cabell explained it. "I weeded out the superstitious ones to save trouble later on. Every time I interviewed a sailor I said, 'My first mate's taking his wife, this crossing. Furthermore, we've got a black cat in the galley. Only one man refused to come aboard and he was a Portuguese.'"

Polly laughed at sharing status with the black galley cat. "It's a fine voyage," she told Cabell. "I'm not afraid of anything any more, now that we're getting close to home."

Cabell Banks made no answer. His own apprehension, like Jerry's was growing keen again. "It's time to cross paths with some British merchantmen coming up from Jamaica. The Caribbean was a nest of war sloops also; there they reasonably suspected, were being sent north to close American ports."

That evening well after sunset the two lookouts riding at the masthead yelled down in unison, "Sail, ho!"

"Where 'way?" the cry went up. And Lie answer: "To larboard!"

Jerry climbed the shrouds with his binoculars. He could, by that time, make out two sails, then three, then four, then "God knows how many more." His voice held a sort of awe.

"It's a convoy," he said to Cabell and the gaping crew. "Merchantmen, from the looks of them."

Cabell climbed to have a look. "They're bearing down on us fast," he called, "and there's a war schooner leading them!"

"We'll run for it," Jerry decided aloud. And to the bosun: "Pipe all hands!" Suddenly he remembered that Cabell Banks stood beside him and Cabell Banks was the captain of the Gray Gull. "Beg your pardon!" he said in confusion.

"It's all right," Cabell replied when the whistle had ceased shrilling. "In danger let the best man take over.... Or shall we try it together?.... Take the wheel. I'll climb for another look."

AS Jerry turned, he saw Polly standing, wide-eyed, near a companion ladder. "Go below and stay there," he shouted at her. She would not have dared disobey for Jerry Whitfield seemed suddenly a stranger to her.

They manned the sweeps then and wore ship; and when proper sail had been crowded on under Jerry's shouted directions, the Gray Gull fell away from the convoy and ran tranquilly north.

The convoy ships kept to their course, but the big warship, as if out of sheer devilry, gave chase. It was like an angry hen that would punish a sparrow for looking at her chicks.

Jerry at the wheel laughed and bared his teeth. Cabell, clinging to the ropes above, laughed too and gave news of the frigate's progress. "If night falls soon enough we'll lose her!" he shouted.

The Gray Gull seemed to be sailing before the great spread wings that pursued her. Under those menacing wings there would be two decks pierced with long guns, Cabell calculated, and a crew of 400 men. There would be officers in gold braid, important young midshipmen, surgeons to dress wounds, carpenters to repair damage to masts and hull....

Jerry Whitfield too was seeing those things as he carried the Gray Gull before the sloop of war; was seeing, as well, the stragglers where a man could be tied and lashed at a captain's whim. Under his wind-whipped sea-coat his scarred back crept in a sort of angry frenzy while his thoughts seethed like the foam that spread from their prow.

"I'm like a drunken man," he thought, and was suddenly ashamed. There came to him a saying of his little New England "luther": "No man does his best when the devil's stirring him."

With a super effort of will Jerry laid his devil. He who was free under God's sky should not hate like a man in a dungeon. Perhaps no one should hate anything—not even British naval officers.

As he accepted this great truth and let it wash over him like a wave he saw his hands grow steady on the wheel. His body relaxed and he felt an influx of strength. It was an "experience," and he could not account for it. It was his own, never to be shared.

When night had almost fallen and one bright star stood in the northeast, the menacing sails were no longer to be seen. Jerry and Cabell held council and there was jubilation aboard the Gray Gull.

They wore ship again and sailed southwest, for they were a little off their course....

Jerry wondered if Polly was no longer to be seen. Jerry and Cabell held council and there was jubilation aboard the Gray Gull. They wore ship again and sailed southwest, for they were a little off their course....

Jerry wondered if Polly was no longer to be seen. Jerry and Cabell held council and there was jubilation aboard the Gray Gull. They wore ship again and sailed southwest, for they were a little off their course....

THE HIGH MARK FOR MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL ATTENDANCE WAS THE YEAR 1930, WHEN 10,186,000 PERSONS PAID ADMISSION.

MAJOR LEAGUE baseball attendance for 1937 was approximately 9,447,497, an increase of 10 per cent over 1936.

The American League drew about a half-million more fans than the National. More than one million persons paid their way into the home grounds of the Detroit Tigers.

NAZIS ASSAIL VATICAN IN CHURCH ATTACKS

GRAZ, Austria, March 2 (AP)—Nazi leaders in this center of Austrian Nazidom advanced a demand today that the traditionally Catholic nation modify its relations with the Vatican.

The Concordat must be changed, they said, as the Nazi-inclined Minister of Interior, Arthur Seyss-Inquart, continued efforts to mollify the excited national socialists.

Handbills assailing the church were distributed. They did not, however, specify changes in the Concordat or set forth the Nazi reason for wishing to alter church-state relations.

Seyss-Inquart, whose appointment to the Austrian cabinet last month was approved by Germany's Fuehrer Hitler, came here to the welcome of an estimated 20,000 Nazis who paraded noisily through the city last night by torchlight.

Police and soldiers did not interfere. Seyss-Inquart had before him the delicate problem of satisfying, on the one hand, the Nazis bent on complete union and Hitlerization of Austria; on the other, Chancellor Schuschnigg's program to coax the Nazis into his fatherland front party, with the condition that they strive wholeheartedly for independence.

While it was a Nazi day in Syria, in other provinces there were signs of an upsurge in Chancellor Schuschnigg's popularity.

WITNESS SAYS BOSS PAID FOR 'GHOST VOTES'

KANSAS CITY, March 2 (AP)—testimony that James Pendergast had provided money to pay Republican City Committeemen "an agreement" to countenance a "big pad"—padded Democratic registration rolls—was written into Kansas City's eleventh ward fraud trial records today.

The federal court jury also heard that a Democratic worker said the city committeemen "an agreement" to countenance a "big pad"—padded Democratic registration rolls—was written into Kansas City's eleventh ward fraud trial records today.

It was the first time a Pendergast's name had been written into the records at any of the fraud trials.

The testimony came from Mrs. Elva O'Byrne, Republican committeewoman, who pleaded guilty to vote fraud conspiracy and became a government witness. Eight other Republicans and Democrats are on trial.

Mrs. O'Byrne testified that at a conference with Democratic workers she and Lester L. Augur, Republican committeeman, received $100 each not to challenge "padded Democratic registration." She said Augur told Mrs. Frances S. Ryan, Democratic committeewoman "We (Republicans) needed some money to pay our workers for their dinners."

"And Matt Devoe spoke up and said 'Each ward was to get $500 Republican campaign money for their ward that day' from the Democratic organization.

Devoe is a Pendergast party worker in the twelfth ward. He has not been charged. Mrs. Ryan is a co-defendant in this trial, Augur is charged separately.

Nephew Gave Money
Mrs. O'Byrne said the meeting was in the office of Mrs. Ryan, Superintendent of the Jackson County Parental school and known as Kansas City's only woman "ward boss."

The witness said Mrs. Ryan told her and Augur "I had a hard time getting this money ($200); I had to make two trips to see Jimmy Pendergast."

James Pendergast, T. J.'s nephew, directed the Pendergast organization

Mrs. O'Byrne, mother of three girls between 32 and 20 years old and wife of a packing company employee, further testified:

"Mrs. Ryan said to me that Jimmy Pendergast had told them to give the Republicans 2,600 votes in the twelfth ward and we had given them only between 1,300 and 1,400. She said he didn't like it but that she could tell by his actions he was more than pleased."

Mrs. O'Byrne told the jury Mrs. Ryan also paid her and Augur $20 each for replacing Republican judges objectionable to the Democrats with other Republicans "who would not do too much investigating of the pads" (padded Democratic) registration rolls.

HOLBROOK PREPARED TO ANSWER PROBE CRITICS

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP)—T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, head of the senate's general investigating committee, disclosed today he was preparing a reply to criticism leveled at him for subpoenaing the Dallas bank account of Mrs. William McGraw, wife of the attorney general.

He will make the statement, he said, at the outset tomorrow of the committee's resumption of its sessions.

"We never intended to make public Mrs. McGraw's private banking matters," he said. "We simply wanted to check on one phase of the testimony of Tom C. Clark (McGraw's former law partner)."

TRANSPORTER CARRYING NINE PERSONS DOWN

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2 (AP)—TWA officials said they were informed today that an Oakland radio amateur had picked up a message saying, "We are all safe, but very uncomfortable." The officials said the report was being checked to determine whether it could have been from the missing TWA plane.

FRESNO, Calif., March 2 (AP)—Caught in a storm, a missing transport plane carrying nine persons was believed today to have crashed in rugged mountainous country east of Fresno.

Air officials concentrated on Fresno during the early morning to begin a daylight search for the big Transcontinental and Western Air express plane, last heard from at 11:16 o'clock (SCT) last night.

From the Huntington Lake region in the high Sierra 45 miles northeast of here came a report a plane had been sighted, flying at an altitude of only about 500 feet.

Soon after the report TWA and other air officials left from San Francisco, where the plane left at 8:30 o'clock last night, and from Los Angeles, where the ship was bound en route to Albuquerque, N. M. They indicated Fresno would be the concentration point of the search.

United Air Lines cancelled all San Francisco-Los Angeles trips this morning, reportedly to keep the lanes clear for the search. The company would not confirm this.

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (AP)—Lost in a storm on the northern fringe of the rugged Tehachapi mountains, an airplane carrying nine persons either crashed or made a forced landing before its fuel supply was exhausted at 3 a. m. (CST) today.

The plane, flight eight of Transcontinental and Western Air, was bound from San Francisco for Albuquerque, N. M., by way of Los Angeles and was last reported at 11:16 o'clock last night.

Pilot John D. Graves, turning back from a Teahachapi crossing at 10,000 feet altitude because of ice conditions, radioed he was north of Bakersfield and acknowledged instructions to land at that city.

It was the last word from the storm-buffed plane. Besides Pilot Graves, the crew was composed of First Officer C. W. Wallace and Stewardess M. M. Wilson.

TWA said the six passengers and their destinations were: E. M. Salisbury, TWA first officer, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Walts, Chicago; Mr. V. Krause, Kansas City; Mr. Tracy Dirian, Columbus, O.; Miss Mary Lou Dirian, Columbus, O.

Federal Funds Needed

Hopes that funds of the Federal Housing administration might finance the structure were dimmed by the report given Mr. Malsel by Ferris C. Oden, who had been named two weeks ago to make an inquiry on the matter.

No one in this section is handling FHA loans, Mr. Malsel has been informed, and to secure a loan from the federal agency would require the sponsorship of the project by the city or by one organization.

A telegram from Charles E. Reid of the National Recreation association, whose advice had been sought by members of the group, was read at the meeting last night. Mr. Reid said he was prevented from coming to Pampa by a conference he was attending.

Attending the meeting last night were C. J. Malsel, chairman, Hol Wagner, secretary, Frank Culbertson, W. V. Jarratt, Paul D. Hill, Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, Mrs. J. W. Garman, Jr., Miss Josephine Thomas, Mrs. L. L. McCoin, H. P. Lusby, Mrs. Corinne Fowler, Harold Miller.

MCGRAW MAKES AN APPOINTMENT FOR GOVERNOR

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP)—Attorney General William McCraw dramatically chose his appearance today before the Senate general investigating committee to announce formally his candidacy for governor.

"I'm not going to wait on the blooming of the dogwoods," McCraw said. "The press may note that I expect to be a candidate for governor and you may be sure that my candidacy won't be based on the shortcomings of some one else."

McCraw, who came to the committee session at his own request, earlier had told the committee that "you have my complete permission to minutely inspect any act of mine, public or private."

He spoke only briefly to the committee and approximately 200 persons who had been attracted by the prospect of his appearance and that of his wife.

Voice Grows Husky

The atmosphere was highly charged as McCraw faced Holbrook and Sen. Joe L. Hill, committeemen whom he had accused of attempting to ruin his chances in the governor's race. The attorney general's talk drew warm applause.

His voice became husky as he said: "I brought my wife here this morning. It's an embarrassing thing. But if you have any questions to ask her she's here."

"Never in my life have I made war on any woman. I trust that this committee or none other ever again will make war on the overdrawn bank account of a housewife."

Regarding the claimed insinuations against him in connection with Clark's earnings, McCraw replied: "I have no more control over the practice of my former law partner than I have over Senator Hill" (Hill is McCraw's most persistent critic among the committeemen.)

LEAD WALL ST

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—A speculative deadlock tightened in the stock market today and slowed almost to a standstill in the bond and commodity markets.

Leading industrial shares retreated fractionally to about 2 points before small openings. These were absorbed, prices rallied a bit, leaving the first still close to the line it has followed in recent sessions.

Transfers were only about 400,000 shares, one of the quietest days in Wall street in recent months. In bonds and commodities, the urge to wait for development was manifest in gentle price swings.

Conflict and fears of conflict held together today the picture of Britain swiftly rearming, Russia and Germany trying disinters, France and Austria struggling for domestic harmony, Britain and Italy negotiating friendship, and war in two hemispheres.

Nations' security depends on arms, alliances, economics and the solidarity of their people. These, today, were the foreground of the picture:

Great Britain disclosed she would spend more than $500,000,000 on her air force in the year beginning April 1. With her peace jeopardized both in Europe and the Orient, the vast increase in air rearmament was expected to be supplemented by similar strengthening of her land and sea power.

The figures for air defenses represent an increase of $100,000,000 over last year's record expense of $412,500,000. Already, since 1935, the strength of the home air force has been raised from 52 to 123 squadrons.

Italy Hedges On Spain

Italy has hedged on accepting the British formula for getting foreign troops out of the Spanish civil war, one of the prerequisites for forthcoming friendship talks between Rome and London.

Russia, the only major stand out, had just come into line with Italy's new stumbling block. France opposes the formula.

Britain had recommended a starting withdrawal of 20,000 troops after commissions decided the total number of foreign soldiers in the opposition.

Alliances

In Berlin, the Rev. Martin Niemöller, Leaders On Trial, a zealous leader of Protestant church opposition to German government regulation, was sentenced to seven months imprisonment. The pastor was convicted of speaking against leaders of the Reich and violating structures on use of the pulpit.

DEATH TAKES ITALIAN POET

GARDONE RIVIERA, Italy, March 2 (AP)—The body of Gabriele D'Annunzio, Italy's great warrior-poet, lay in state today in his Villa Vittoriale, which he had named for the Italian World War triumph over Austria.

The 76-year-old poet, who was president of the National Academy of Italy and a symbol of the nationalistic dreams of Fascism, was clothed in the uniform of a general of aviation, as he had wished.

His decorations were on his breast and at his feet lay the flag he raised when he defied his government to capture and hold Fiume after World War.

Cerebral hemorrhage caused the death of the Italian hero late yesterday. Despite the many points of conflict between him and the Vatican, the Archbishop of Gardone imparted absolution after his death. Mussolini will attend the funeral.

Veterans of D'Annunzio's Fiume campaign and early Fascist black-shirtists stood guard in the death chamber.

Burial will be in the marble tomb prepared at the top of the "sacred hill" of the Villa park, in his cemetery where lie the heroes of his march on Fiume.

A state funeral will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. (6 a. m. C. S. T.)

Reading of the poet's spiritual testament to which all Italy looks with the expectation it will contain an interesting political pronouncement, probably will take place soon after. The testament is in Mussolini's possession, D'Annunzio having sent it to him several years ago.

FBI MAY ASK INVESTIGATION OF MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—White House conferences on revising the anti-trust laws strengthened the belief of many legislators today that President Roosevelt would ask congress to undertake a thorough investigation of monopolies.

The President said yesterday he would submit an anti-trust message soon, but gave no approximate date. The general opinion on Capitol Hill was that he would not advocate any new legislation until the inquiry was completed.

Consideration of specific bills thus would be deferred until next year, because congressional leaders hope for an early adjournment.

Such a course would be in line with the contention of many observers that the administration is avoiding any steps which might discourage an upturn in business.

Secretary Roper had informed Mr. Roosevelt said, that "self help" was well lacking in suggestions from small business men for combating the recession. The commerce department still is analyzing their proposals.

The President said he had not immediate changes in mind for the national labor relations act, but added it was an evolutionary law and he hoped it would be improved from time to time. He placed the social security and crop control acts in the same category.

Letters from about 15 manufacturers and employes, Mr. Roosevelt said, complained that new cases did not give enough publicity to cases settled by the labor relations board. He read from the board's January report showing that of 116 strike cases, 103 cases covering 8,939 workers had been settled under the act.
