School funding up for debate again

AUSTIN (AP) — A measure that would change the way Texans pay taxes for public schools won't do enough to satisfy previous court rulings, Republican tem is flawed and does not Craddick says.

Nonetheless, lawmakers on Wednesday met to debate the legislation in the statehouse. And in a courtroom

Border sheriffs meeting to discuss

security issues

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Sheriffs along the Texas-Mexico border say they're exhausted with dealing with the overflow of illegal immigration.

The toll on manpower, fuel and equipment has reached such an alarming level, they say, that the sheriffs from the 16 Texas counties along the border formed an alliance and planned to discuss the problem Wednesday and Thursday in Del Rio, a border town about 150 miles west of San Antonio. Calling themselves the Texas Border Sheriff's Coalition, the group formed in May and is seeking more federal and state funding to pay for the costs of illegal immigration that county budgets can't afford, coalition members

Fine arts association gears up for annual Labor Day event

Pampa Fine Arts Chautauqua committee is looking for exhibits, craft demonstrations and state performers for the Labor Day event in Central Park.

The 24th annual celebration is slated for Monday, Sept. 5, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. It is planned so people of all ages can enjoy a day in the park at a minimum expense to learn, visit and participate in the customs of the first Chautauqaus held throughout the United States beginning in the 1870s.

"We plan to have some new events," said Roy Morriss, chairman.

Volunteers who would like to help with the steering committee may contact the Pampa Fine Arts office.

"We always need volunteers to help plan, set up and assist on Labor Day," said Morriss. Chautauqua features a full slate of activities, arts and crafts, and a variety of food served by non-profit organizations.

The traditional 5K run and Fun Run sponsored by Chautauqua began in 1982. Pampa Fine Arts Association puts the celebration on every Labor Day in Central Park.

born November 24, 1983 at Hill AFB, Utah, and was killed in action by an apparent IED attack in Baghdad, Iraq June 28, 2005. He proudly served with HHC 1-64 Battalion, 2nd Brigade Team, 3rd Infantry Division, Mortar Platoon, as the gunner on an M1114 armored Humvee, and was conducting an area security mission at a critically important road junction. SPC Carrillo was 21 years old.

TJ joined the Army out of Austin, Texas, in August 2002. He attended Basic Training and AIT at Fort Benning, Georgia, where he successfully completed all training Carrillo including earning his "jump wings" at Jump School. He was then assigned to the 3rd Infantry Division at Fort Stewart, Georgia in January 2003. Upon arrival at Fort Stewart, he was immediately deployed to Kuwait and Iraq for Operation Desert Spring and Operation Iraqi Freedom - 1 until August 2003.

After earning his Combat Infantryman's Badge at the age of 19, he redeployed with the rest of the Desert Rogues and went directly into a year-long train-up, which took him to the National Training Center in California, and the Joint Readiness Training Center in Louisiana, in a six-month period.

Captain Sherman Powell, of the 1-64 Armor Battalion, 3rd Infantry Division in Iraq wrote the following in a memorial trib-

Specialist Rafael A. "TJ" Carrillo Jr. was ute: "Specialist Rafael 'TJ' Carrillo was the kind of guy who was always ready for anything. He lived his life in a way that brought humor and joy to the people around him every minute of every day. It was his special gift. No matter how bad the situation might look, he was able to find the right words, the right joke, to lift everyone's spirits and get them through the day. He's going to keep inspiring us, and keep motivating us, to complete the mission for which he, and his family, have paid such a high price, and we will see him again.'

Virginia Sansom Walker departed what she called her beloved Planet Earth on July 3, 2005, at the age of 93. She grew up in Plainview, Texas, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. E.F. Sansom. Virginia began college as an art major at the College of Industrial Arts, now Texas Women's University in Denton, Texas, and later attended the University of Texas at Austin where she joined Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Virginia and Ruel C. Walker married in 1935 and made their home in Cleburne, Texas, where Ruel practiced law in the firm of Walker & Baker with his father, William Ruel Walker, and his cousin, Willard Baker. In 1954, Walker when Ruel was appointed to the Supreme Court of Texas, the family moved to Austin.

Virginia was an active member for many years in University United Methodist Church and later in University Presbyterian Church. She also belonged to the Settlement Home, the State Official Ladies' Club, the Art Club of Austin, and the P.E.O. She participated in Meals on Wheels and served as a docent for the Huntington Art Gallery and onthe boards of directors of community organizations, including the YWCA, the Wesley Foundation, and Laguna Gloria Art

Virginia said it was her goal to live joyfully and in harmony with all God's creations, to the glory of God and the good of her fellow man. In 1928, when she was 16, she began designing her own Christmas cards to send to friends and family. Each year's design and message has reached more and more people, who write to tell her what her cards mean to them and how they look forward to receiving them each year.

Last week she composed the message for this year's card.

Virginia loved nature, and whenever she saw the sky said to whoever was near, "that's the most beautiful sky I've ever seen." Throughout her long life, she inspired people of all ages and saw her death as continuing her journey of expanding in oneness with all

Her surviving family includes her sisters, Mary Earle Williams of Pampa and Lou Fleming of Bryan; her children, Virginia Carmichael of Austin, Dexter and Sara Beth Peacock of Houston, and William Ruel Walker of Oakland, Calif.; her grandchildren, Shannon Stewart of Austin, Joseph and Laurence Sawyer of Shrewsbury, Mass., Philip and Julie Peacock of Houston, and Walker and Stacy Peacock of San Diego, Calif.; her stepgrandchildren, Margot Campbell of Katy, Catherine Stewart Heidrick of Austin, and Wells Stewart of Elkin, N.C.; her great-grandchildren, Sheila and Allison Sawyer and Holden Peacock; eight stepgreat-grandchildren; her nieces and nephews, Sanford and Mary Ellen Coon, Sansom and Janice Williams, Jim and Anne Martin, Don and Nan McLeroy, Walt Fleming, and Elaine Sansom; and 11 grandnieces and grandnephews.

The memorial service will be at 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, July 7, at University Presbyterian Church in Austin at 2203 San Antonio St., followed by a party in the church's Fellowship Hall. The graveside service will take place at the Texas State Cemetery at 7th and Navasota Streets, at 10 a.m. the same day.

If you wish to remember Virginia with a gift, in place of flowers she would like for you to consider a gift to the Ruel Walker Endowed Scholarship at the University of Texas Law School, the University Presbyterian Church, or the charity of your choice in her memory.

Three Pampa youth active in upcoming Civic Amarillo musical stage production

Three student actors from Pampa are involved in Civic Amarillo's summer youth musical, "Beauty and the Beast," to be staged, according to a press release, July 8-10, at Amarillo Civic Center.

Blake Talley, son of O.B. and Kendra Blades, plays "LeFou," the villain Gaston's sidekick, on Saturday, July 9. His younger sister, Chandler, will appear in all three performances as a villager and an enchanted champagne glass in the Beast's castle.

Emily Elliott, daughter of Brad and Judy Elliott, has taken a behind-thescenes role as student artistic director.

The three will be joined in the production by more than 70 actors, singers, dancers and musicians between the ages of 8 and 19 from throughout the Texas Panhandle.

"The summer youth musical is the most taxing and, at the same time, the community, just incase someone wants to have a block party. The first step is to compose a letter to the city manager telling him everything that will go on at the event. This would include the place, the times, and the day of the month. Next, the request will be sent to the Police Department, the Fire Department, and the Street Department for their input on any safety or traffic flow issues. If all of these issues are "good to go" the request will probably be approved. The Street department will come to the event area and place the proper cone and barricades on the affected streets. The process may seem a little drawn out, but remember your safety and the safety of your neighbors comes first with us.

of the snide TV talking heads said?

Well, in the first place, actors are human beings and the same family as cocaine. can know anything anyone else can. Just because a person is an actor doesn't mean that he is dumb. Cruise started with nothing and has forged himself a successful career in a viciously competitive and cutthroat business. Dumb people can't do that.

Furthermore, psychiatry is a pseudo-science, just like so-called social science, as Cruise said. There are several psychiatric theories floating around, some of them contradictory. Sigmund Freud has been thoroughly discredited. Alfred Kinsey turned out to be an entomologist, not a psychologist, who preferred to interview convicted pedophiles, who are hardly an objective source on normal sex habits.

Neurology is a science, but psychiatry is not. Neurology studies the physical structure of the brain, while psychiatry purports to study the intangible products of that physical brain, such as thought, imagination and of-Ritalin.

So Cruise

was quite correct in admonishing NBC's Matt Lauer to read a history of psychiatry and to study the drug Ritalin before he superficially mouths off about their alleged benefits based on nothing more than anecdotal evidence. Journalists don't like to be challenged, but Lauer is the guy who brought the subject up. Cruise called him on it, and Lauer was found lacking any real knowledge of the subject - which, of course, is normal for talk-show hosts.

American public knows that everyone has a right to his or her opinion on any subject. Besides, they don't buy tickets to see Tom Cruise; they buy tickets to see him play a character. And he's very good at that. There should be wider debate on psychiatry and psychiatric drugs. Unfortunately, medicine in America is market-driven, and the big Hemi engine in that truck is the pharmaceutical industry. The pharmaceuticals make drugs and sell doctors on prescribing them at outrageous prices. Most of these drugs do nothing more than alleviate of dollars' worth of slick advertising, we are probably the most pill-popping nation on the face of the Earth. Small wonder we have an illegal-drug problem, since we are bombarded with images of people restored to their smiling, healthy lifestyles by some miraculous drug.

These pharmaceuticals have such a grip on Congress that they succeeded in writing into law a prohibition against importing cheaper drugs from Canada and a prohibition against Medicare bargaining with the pharmaceuticals for lower prices.

That, to me, is a far more important point to discuss than what Tom Cruise thinks about psychiatry. In this case, you have a naked example of Congress putting the profits of the pharmaceuticals ahead of the welfare of the people of the United States. In the other, you have an entertainer offering a personal opinion. Last time I checked, that was not a LONDON (AP) — Jets roared over Big Ben and cheers broke out on the Underground. From Trafalgar Square to far away, Londoners celebrated Wednesday after hearing their city had upset Paris to win the 2012 Olympics.

Woman wants softball rules changed after her son's death

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — The mother of a 21-year-old Beaumont man who died after a freak softball accident wants to see helmets required for players in amateur softball leagues.

"He'd have been the first one to gripe, but they all need to wear helmets," Kerry Ehrensberger said in a story in Wednesday's Beaumont Enterprise. "Maybe if he'd have worn a helmet, he'd still be here."

Adam Wade Ehrensberger was hit in the head by a softball while running for home plate during a game June 29. He collapsed in a coma in his brother's arms after the ball thrown by the shortstop hit him behind his left ear. He died Saturday.

'He'd have been the first one to gripe, but they all need to wear helmets. Maybe if he'd have worn a helmet, he'd still be here.

Kerry Ehrensberger

"The bone chip severed a vein, which resulted in internal bleeding, and the impact of the ball shifted everything in the brain to the right," his sister Kristi Gallander said. "After surgery, when everything shifted back, it had just been too much shifting, too much swelling and blood flow was cut off.'

Friends and family gathered Tuesday night to share stories about the young man.

"He was awesome and outgoing and the best friend you could have," said Adam Lovitt, 21, one of Ehrensberger's closest friends. "We grew up together, graduated together. At first I thought this was all a joke, now we're just waiting for the dream to be over."

Lovitt and six of Ehrenberger's other close friends were dressed in shirts that resembled baseball uniforms with his number on the front and his photo on the back.

Astros send Padres packing

HOUSTON (AP) — Jason Lane went to Ensberg inspired him. his manager for help and the extra batting practice worked.

Lane called the session with manager Phil Garner before Tuesday night's game a significant help as he broke out of a 3-for-23 slump by going 2-for-4 with a three-run homer to help the Houston Astros beat the San Diego Padres 6-2.

"He just showed me some things about getting the bat head into the zone quicker," Lane, who had been 0-for-8, said of the hitting session. "It definitely helped me the first two at-bats (a single and a hard-hit groundout) tónight. Then I felt better about myself and when you get some confidence going, it helps.'

Craig Biggio's home run in the fifth broke a 1-1 tie for Houston and Lance Berkman followed with a double. After Morgan Ensberg was intentionally walked, the Padres lifted starter Dennys Reyes for reliever Brian Falkenborg, Lane-then homered for the four-run lead and the Astros went on to their sixth win in seven games and 12th of 15.

Lane admitted the intentional walk to

"You can understand the strategy because Morgan has been doing so well lately and I haven't," Lane said. "But at the same time, it kind of stings your pride. You want to make them pay.

Garner thinks Lane will continue to make opponents pay.

"I'm glad that happened to Jason," Garner said of the homer. "He has struggled some lately and he has worked hard to get out of it. Hopefully, this will get him

Starter Brandon Backe (7-6) ended a personal three-game losing streak, allowing one run and four hits in 5 2-3 innings, He walked four and struck out two.

Backe (7-6) experienced soreness in his right elbow after going only 3 2-3 innings in his most recent start, a no-decision last Wednesday at Cincinnati. He said he was ready to pitch after an examination by team doctor David Lintner on Monday.

"I felt good," Backe said. "When I was throwing, (the elbow) didn't bother me. Then after I iced it after the game, it started feeling a little tight and sore.

Rangers fall to Red Sox 7-4

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Manny Ramirez took a few steps out of the batter's box and slowed to admire the high-arching shot. The experience wasn't new for the Boston slugger.

As soon as the ball fell beyond the wall in right-center field for his 20th career grand slam, Ramirez stuck his arms in the air and began the slow trot around the bases that gave the Red Sox a six-run lead en route to their 7-4 win over the Texas Rangers on Tuesday night.

"Manny does what Manny does, it's incredible," manager Terry Francona said. "He has a knack for that. He stays on balls in those situations. He's an RBI guy. He smells them, it's unbelievable."

His third grand slam this season was his 22nd homer, tying him with Texas' Mark Teixeira for the AL lead. It pushed his majors-leading RBI total to 7.7.

The 20 grand slams are the second-most in major league history, trailing only Lou Gehrig's 23. Hall of Famer Eddie Murray red for the Red Sox, all in the first three innings for a 7-0 lead. Knuckleballer Tim Wakefield (8-5) provided a huge boost for the pitching staff by going eight innings in his 300th major league start.

David Ortiz and Bill Mueller also home-

With struggling closer Keith Foulke scheduled to return to Boston to have MRI exams on both knees, Mike Timlin worked the ninth. He needed just six pitches for his second save in three chances.

"He kept that drama out of that game," Francona said.

Foulke, 5-5 with a 6.23 ERA, blew his second save in a week Monday night when Texas scored twice in the ninth for a 6-5 win. He has 15 saves and has blown four other chances.

MAJOR LEAGUE ALL-STARS

Lots of good stories, but Rogers isn't one of them

By TIM DAHLBERG Associated Press

There's plenty of good stories just waiting to be told at next week's All-Star game.

Scrappy Brian Roberts of the Orioles and triple crown threat Derrek Lee of the Cubs will start for the first time. Roger Clemens and Pedro Martinez reunite to pitch for the National League, and a new generation of outfielders takes over spots once held by the likes of Barry Bonds and Sammy Sosa. There could be one real bad.

story, too, assuming Kenny Rogers-shows up.

If that happens, baseball and Rogers will owe the real All-Stars an explanation.

Sure, Rogers pitched himself onto the team with a first-half performance that certainly merithe attacked two television cameramen simply because they had scheduled start. the audacity to be near him on

Rogers. Of course, Rogers could always do the right thing and stay home. That would seem out of character, though, for a playground bully who tends to behave like a 4-year-old who just had his favorite toy snatched from him.

Or Bud Selig could show some real backbone, ban Rogers from the game and take his chances with the player's union in court. But that would seem out of character for a commissioner who, until recently, was afraid to even

That could leave the midseason classic with one big shadow hanging over it even before it begins. And that's too bad for guys like Roberts and Lee, who deserve their chance to be celebrated without Rogers getting

The same media Rogers hates so much will be in Detroit because, try as he might, Rogers can't order them not to be there. They have to make a living, too, though there's a good chance none is making $3 million a year.

Unly in the coddled world of major league baseball could something like this that cameras be turned off happen: You attack someone at work, joke about it with your teammates, get a ed his selection. > Only in the coddled world of major cague baseball could something like this happen: You attack someone at work, joke about it with your teammates, get a slap on the wrist, and a few days later take the mound for your regularly scheduled start.

Then, you're rewarded with an invitation to the All-Star game.

Selig puffs out his chest and says a 20-game suspension and a $50,000 fine is stiff punishment. But it's really not, and Rogers' chief apologist on the Rangers, manager Buck Showalter, already said he wants to see the suspension reduced.

It sounds like a lot of games, but in reality it's only a four-game suspension because Rogers is a starting pitcher who only works every fifth day. At the age of 40, that's a good midseason rest for someone who will still get paychecks worth about $400,000 during the time he's away from the team.

The fine? In the real world, that would be equivalent to fining someone making $50,000 a year a grand total of Besides, Rogers could pay that off with the $50,000 bonus he gets for making the All-Star team. Take away the tax deductions, and he actually comes out ahead.

The silly thing is that all this might have been avoided had Showalter or Rangers' management understood the warning signals. Rogers has been sullen all season, apparently angered that his demands for a new two-year contract were written about. A day before he lost control, Rogers issued an absurd order around him in the clubhouse. Next, perhaps, he was going to order all fans in Texas Stadium to stand up and turn around while he pitched.

It would be hard to figure out what was going through this guy's head even if he were talking. Luckily he's not, because there's really not much to learn from a spoiled, self-centered 40-year-old millionaire who has probably never held a real job in his life. Rogers' attack took the spotlight off of fellow Texas pitcher, Frank Francisco, who pleaded no contest last week to misdemeanor assault for tossing a chair at an Oakland Athletics fan last season.

Francisco got a real sentence, 30 days in a work detail and required attendance at weekly anger management classes for six months.

That came from a real judge, though, not a baseball commissioner whose biggest priority seems to be getting cities to cough up huge amounts of money for new stadiums and forcing fans to take bank loans to see a game in them. Selig needs to act as tough as

Rogers thinks he is. Then, there would be no All-Star debate.

Dear Abby.

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend cheated on me -- and I'm only 12! We were going out for nine months, and one day after school, I saw him kissing a girl in back of the school building. He's 14, and she is older than him.

Am I too young to be dealing with this kind of problem? Heck, am I too young to have a boyfriend at all? Please answer this, Abby. I need advice. -- "KITTY" IN ARI-ZONA

DEAR KITTY: I'm sure it was a blow seeing someone you thought you had an exclusive relationship with kissing someone else. The years between 10 and 13 can be a particularly difficult time for girls. You are no longer a little girl, and you are not yet a teenager. (There used to be a saying, "Too old for toys and too young for boys," that describes the situation.)

should be in groups. I'm not saying that you shouldn't be interested in boys -- this won't be the last one you have romantic feelings for -- but for now, a 14-year-old boy is too advanced for you, and you should slow down

DEAR ABBY: I have an elderly neighbor whose wife passed away four months ago. He has told me he's lonely, so I try to visit him once a month (sometimes bringing other outside.

My husband and I have invited him to dinner twice, and both times he has made an excuse not to come ("bad weather," "not feeling well"). However, I'm getting the feeling the real reason may be he doesn't want to come to dinner with two very active -- although not undisciplined -- preschool children. I'm not offended by this; I'm just wondering if I should continue inviting him. -- TRYING TO BE A GOOD NEIGHBOR IN MICHIGAN

DEAR TRYING: Your neighbor could have any number of reasons why he doesn't accept your invitation, including liking the relationship the way it is or being unable to reciprocate your hospitality, Three times is the charm. Ask him once more, and if he refuses your invitation, do not pressure him further about coming

DEAR ABBY: I am grown, married and have two adult brothers -- one married, one single. My husband and I have been househunting in the same town where my mother and brothers live. (They all live sepa-

My problem is, when we were looking at houses, my mom kept mentioning building a mother-in-law unit in back or getting a house big enough for the three of us. She said it jokingly, but it made me uncomfortable. My husband had made it clear that At your age, if you are "going out" at all, it Mom is NOT moving in. She is not old and she still works, but has a job that doesn't pay particularly well.

What should I say when she jokes about living with us? I spoke to my brothers about it, and she never says anything like this to them. -- UNCOMFORTABLE IN IRVING, TEXAS

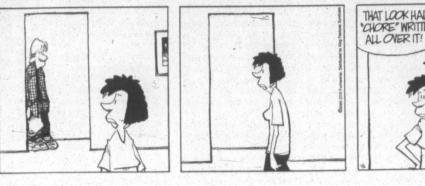

DEAR UNCOMFORTABLE: There are three ways to deal with it. When she "jokingly" suggests moving in with you, you food), and chat with him when we-see each can laugh and say, "Oh, Mom, you're such a joker!" In a more serious vein, you can tell her that it just won't be possible and ask her to please stop bringing the subject up because it makes you uncomfortable. Or simply let the comment drop with no response at all.

> Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.
