City faces issue of water rights from CRMWA

By DAVID BOWSER Staff Writer

Pampa Commission's decision to take no action on joining the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority in a $55 million bond issue to buy more water rights gives commissioners less than two weeks to study the proposal.

The commission asked that it be put on the agenda for their next regular meeting, scheduled for 4 p.m. Feb. 28.

CRMWA has 225,000 acres of water rights in Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill and Gray counties and wants to buy about 70,000 more acres of water rights. Pampa City Manager John Horst said that of the 11member cities, including Pampa, only O'Donnell, Slaton and Tahoka have indicated that they will not participate from the beginning.

Horst said that cities not joining in at the beginning of the project can still buy into it up to their original share of the ground water mix up for to 20 years when the bonds are paid off.

While certainly an alternative, the problem with that strategy, Horst said, is that Pampa would have to issue its own debt to come up with the lump sum to buy in at a later data.

"If we decided in 10 years that we need the additional water," Horst said, "we would have to pay in a lump sum for our 3.6 percent share of principal and interest."

He said that would amount to about $1.5 million.

"We would also have to pick up annually the debt service for the next 10 years at about $143,000 per year," Horst said.

Kent Satterwhite, CRMWA general manager, said the water authority does not plan to develop the additional water rights until after the bonds are paid off.

Horst said that under current Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District rules, the body that oversees ground water pumping in Gray and Roberts counties, water allocation is not distributed geographically on contiguous water rights.

"If you held water rights one mile wide and 10 miles long," Horst said, "you can produce your entire allocation for the 10 sections in one area. A well does not have to be drilled on each section."

Horst said that is a big advantage with regard to

> He warned that in a few years, Pampa may not have the option of buying its own water rights because of the way they are being bought up.

Pampa's allocation of water from Lake Meredith is separate from the ground water allocation from the John C. Williams Wellfield now being pumped in Roberts County.

The water level at Lake Meredith is now only two feet above its record low of 58.1 feet set in 2004.

As the level of the lake drops, so does the amount of water available to Pampa. The salinity of the lake water also increases as the level drops.

"The advantages of buying in now seems to outweigh the advantages of waiting," Horst said.

That's particularly true, he said, if the drought in the Panhandle contin-

"We have more inmates who want to participate than we have space to conduct activities with them," Kiper said. "It's an unusual situation for any min-

"I hear inmates talk and complain that the gym is not a place to worship,"Kiper said. "They need a facility that is conducive to worship."

The structure, which has already been designed and approved by the state, will be 130 by 60 feet (7,800 square feet). Included in the building is a non-denominational chapel, expected to house a 300-seat sanctuary, three

'We have problems in our fundraising because certain foundations cannot or will not fund religious buildings," board member Don Zumstein said.

The organization has also found difficulty in getting funds and support from local residents.

"People see someone who is incarcerated as incapable of public success," Kiper said. "We have to convince the public of the necessity and feasibility of building this chapel."

Despite hurdles faced, the group has managed to raise beyond $100,000 in their efforts. Of course, their hopes go well beyond money and a facility.

"The outcome we are seeking is to help change the lives of more Jordan Unit inmates during their imprisonment in order to return them to society with increased attitude and spiritual skills," their mission statement says.

These skills are expected to reduce the rate of recidivism among Jordan inmates. Recidivism refers to an inmate's likeliness to be re-incarcerated within two or three years of release. ways of believing," Builders board member Jack Reeves said. "We could reduce recidivism by more than 50 percent." Kiper feels the development of religious relationships is vital to all members of society. "These inmates will return as better husbands, fathers and community members," he said. "Everyone is affected, too, because 80 percent of prisoners will be released in the next seven to 10 years."

It is the Builders' determination and hope for the inmates that allows them to stand firm against the idea of failure.

"We are men and women of vision," Zumstein said. "We have been called by God from various areas. We are not going to fail."

In all the discussions of plans, fundraising and recidivism, the real impact the Jordan Chapel Builders hope to have is that which lies directly with the prison and its residents.

"A brand new Christian needs a place of refuge in an intimidating place like prison," board member Ron Easley said. "God needs a home there.

Galveston's Mardi Gras remains its own

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Standing water from Hurricane Rita sopped the ground and sunk the concrete beneath the Krewe de Eusprit Rosaire's stage, rendering the platform unsafe for one of the biggest Mardi Gras parties outside New Orleans.

Otherwise, Mardi Gras organizers on the island have tried planning the annual event as if two major hurricanes never happened.

Organizers insist the lack of focus on Katrina and Rita shouldn't insult 150,000 evacuees still living in the Houston area, a number of whom are expected to catch beads and eat king cake in Galveston this year after being Katrina.

Last year, Galveston attracted 300,000 visitors for its two weekends of parades and Fat Tuesday. Hotels like we were competing with them."

booking at an unusually swift pace since January suggest this year's celebration — which began Friday and ends Feb. 28 — could attract a record turnout, but organizers have shied from making a guess.

Parade groups, businesses and organizers in Galveston want evacuees to feel welcome. But aside for some token marketing selling the island's Mardi Gras as a "Salute to the Gulf Coast," the storms that swamped the region in August and September didn't compel Galveston to adjust plans hatched months earlier.

"We didn't want to take any thing away from what New Orleans was forced from Louisiana by Hurricane doing," said Paula Brown, spokes-Trustees that coordinates Mardi Gras. "We didn't want New Orleans to feel

In New Orleans, Katrina's influence — like everything else there — dominates Mardi Gras. Effigies of Mayor Ray Nagin and Louisiana Gov. School bus drivers join terror watch

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The war on terror has a new front line — the school bus line.

Financed by the Security Homeland Department, school bus drivers are being trained to watch for potential terrorists, people who may be casing their routes or plotting to blow up their buses.

Designers of the School Bus Watch program want to turn 600,000 bus drivers into an army of observers, like a counterterrorism watch on wheels. Already mindful of motorists with road rage and kids with weapons, bus drivers are now being warned of far more grisly scenarios.

Like this one: terrorists monitor a punctual driver for weeks, then hijack a bus and load the friendly yellow vehicle with enough explosives to take down a build-

An alert school bus driver could foil that plan, security expert Jeffrey Beatty recently told a class of 250 of drivers in Norfolk, Va. After all, bus drivers cover millions of miles of roads. They know the towns, the kids, the parents.

"The terrorist is not going to be able to do some of their casing and rehearsal activity without being detected by one of you," said Beatty, an anti-terrorism veteran of the CIA, FBI and the Army's Delta Force. The more people watching, he told the drivers, the safer the community will be. With bus drivers becoming informal intelligence gatherers, the reach of homeland security is growing not exactly what parents think of when their kids head mechanics, janitors or classto the bus stop. The program demands strong oversight, said John Rollins, a former senior Homeland Security intelligence official now with Congressional Research Service.

Otherwise, he said, some bus drivers could think of themselves as undercover agents.

"Today it's bus drivers, tomorrow it could be postal officials, and the next day, it could be, 'Why don't we have this program in place for the people who deliver the newspaper to the door?" Rollins said. "We could quickly get into a society where we're all spying on each other. It may be well intentioned, but there is a concern of going a bit too

Most school bus drivers do the job part-time, often to supplement other income. Many are retirees, mothers with young children, people between jobs, or school employees who also work as room aides, according to government and industry officials.

The drivers are not being trained to be police. Their role is to report suspicious behavior to dispatchers, who alert the police and funnel tips to a national analysis center. The new effort is part of Highway Watch, an industry safety program run by the Trucking American Associations and financed since 2003 with $50 million in homeland security money. Leaders of Highway Watch worked with the school bus industry to tailor training for drivers, who are trusted each day to ferry 25 million children to and from school.

So far, tens of thousands of bus operators have been trained in places large and small, from Dallas and New York City to Kure Beach, N.C., Hopewell, Va., and Mt. Pleasant, Texas.

More manufactured days ahead before year's end

"special day" is behind us, and several more are peering their greedy eyes over the horizon.

The special day that passed us by last week is St. Valentine's Day. The ones looming before us are Mother's Day and Father's Think about it. What makes Valentine's Day so special? The greeting card companies, the florist industry, the candy conglomerates, jewelers and advertisers all got together and said, "Valentine's Day is for lovers.

Why don't we make it a nationally recognizable day by forcing boy friends and husbands into buying flowers, cards, candy and diabeen Day you were a low life fool. that that they are told they must do.

Same with the two pending this summer. Mother's Day and Father's Day are made up days to sell greeting cards and flowers.

Gene Howe, the late publisher of the Amarillo Daily News, even had a national mother-in-law day established in 1934. He did it to appease his own mother-inlaw, Mrs. W.F. Donald, who he had angered in a column. On March 5, 1938,

Eleanor Roosevelt was in Amarillo for the festival, and reviewed parade of 650 mothers-inlaw on what was called the "World's Largest Float." Fortunately, that "special day" did not last long. Why, you may ask, am I writing about this? Because I resent being told when I should buy flowers for my wife, or when I should buy a card for my mother. Besides, mothers and fathers should be treated with respect all year, not just on one day selected by retailers.

I buy fresh flowers for my wife at least every two weeks out of the year. She always has fresh flowers on the dining room table. When they are not there, I miss them. The table looks naked without them. It pleases her and I am not obligated to get flowers just because someone says I should.

And speaking about doing things others tell you to do (how's that for a segue?), I read a report in the Wall Street Journal a few years ago about how companies sell products.

The product mentioned was hair shampoo.

Directions on the bottle or tube go something like this: "Put a generous amount in the palm of your hand.

Massage into scalp thoroughly. Rinse and repeat. For best results, use daily."

What researchers have found, and the article pointed out, is that the average person does not need to shampoo his or her hair twice a day. In fact, once every other day is adequate for most people.

Why did the shampoo maker put those instructions on the product? So he could sell more shampoo, that's why.

Not entirely illegal, but misleading.

That is why the Romans came up with the Latin phrase, caveat emptor, probably after some guy bought a faulty chariot with the odometer rolled back.

Today in History

Today is Sunday, Feb. 19, the 50th day of 2006. There are 315 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

Child should not be punished ...

I am very concerned about the 7-year-old boy at Travis school. Why are you all punishing this child? I know it is wrong to take a gun to school but why was this gun not locked up at home?

Did this boy do this because he wanted some attention, something he wasn't getting at school or at home? Our children are doing things because parents let them watch what they want on television, play these terrible video games (or watch their mom and dad play them) and do things on the computer that mom and dad don't know about.

I know most parents have to work these days, but take some time for your kids.

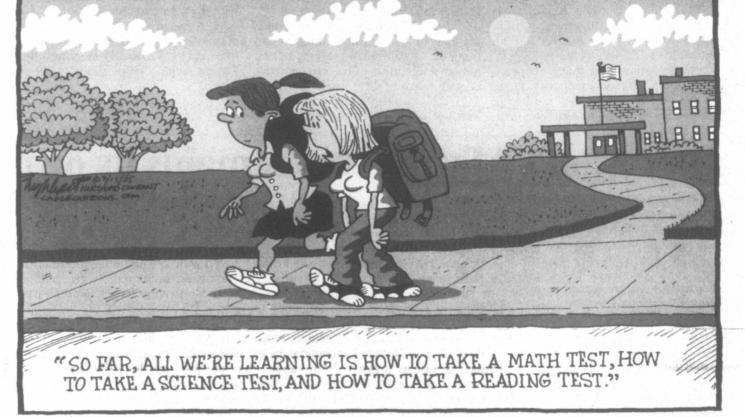

Now for that gun, if adults want guns, why do they not put them in a locked safe or gun safe? Spend the money for one. Putting them on a high shelf won't work.

So, as for punishing this child, yes, he needs the help for what he has done and not to be told how bad he is, because he is only a child. I hope that he will get the discipline and the attention he needs. I hope that the parents of this child will be punished for not having the sense to have this gun locked up.

Parents, please listen to your child. He or she might be trying to tell you something and asking for some help. Don't let them do what they see or hear from others to help with their problems.

I hope parents will love

I feel his pain as I humbly offer some suggestions for future Super Bowls, hopeful to bring out the best in people, not the worst ...

For starters, all players and coaches should be sentenced to a full week at Disney World immediately following the game. Yes, both teams, winners and losers alike. Maybe game officials could be whisked away to an undisclosed tropical at bay ...

Somehow fans can live without "post-game commentary" for a week, or even forever. Instead, let's make a list of what's wrong with sports in general and professional sports in particular. It will be a long list.

Most post-game queries begin with "What did you think about thus and so?" Asking Seattle Coach Mike Holmgren what he thinks about the officiating is akin to asking a locksmith what he thinks about OnStar.

Holmgren, who thought he had "12th man support"

A young man returned to nected with the game for a on his side, now believes the in steel-plated compart-

12th, 14th, 16th, and men. And the Seahawks next suggestion will take a while. Since football is becoming ever faster and officials' speed remains about the same, officiating must be radically changed. Let the ever-improving and all-seeing cameras take over primary flagging chores.

The National Football League could revolutionize the sport with electronicallyofficiated games. Mere mortals could assume emergency roles, closeted away ments. They would take over in the event that fuses blow, lenses fall out or hard drives stall ...

Really, sports officials at all levels are to be pitied. They are ridiculed, and too often pummeled - literally. (When's the last time you heard a coach say, "You know, it was really a wellofficiated game?")

We cut players slack. We cut coaches slack. And as fans, we carve out big slices of slack for ourselves, often trotting out the old "We're only human" line. From officials, though, we expect perfection ...

Officials I have known over the years typically give their best efforts. Officiating is their passion, often an extension of playing and

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas: Feb. 12

The Dallas Morning News on the upcoming legislators preparation for

Lt. Gov. David Dewhurst's list of homework assignments for the Senate's 31 members to complete before the next session is generally on target, including some eyebrow-raisers and thought-provokers:

Matter of timing: Of the 109 interim charges, the one sure to attract the most high-pressure response from lobbyists is the assignment to review Texas' business-tax structure and recommend a broad-based replacement. As with all the assignments, this one's due in December.

A business-tax overhaul is an overdue goal, but one we expected would be achieved in a special session this spring to beat a Supreme Court deadline for revamping finance of schools. We hope the interim assignment on taxes isn't a sign that senators will settle for minimal reforms before their own report is finished.

Hemorrhage: Two committees are asked to find ways to curtail the bleedoff of state dollars to cover Medicaid costs by looking at best practices nationally and exploring greater use of health-savings accounts. Good proprietorship.

Food for thought: Would it make sense to outsource to Mexico confinement of nonviolent state prisoners from Mexico? Good question; lawmakers will answer it. Same goes for an idea to tax international wire transfers of cash from Texas. And why not have a statewide "nutritional and physical activity plan to address obesity and chronic diseases"? Diabetes runs rampant in Texas.

Earth friendly: Senators again will tackle better water management; this time, we hope, a Senate-crafted bill can clear the shoals in the House. We also like the goal of nurturing clean coal, biomass and next-generation nuclear easy-on-the-lungs methods of addressing tomorrow's energy needs.

What's up here? Let's hope that an assignment to study "entities that actively lobby the Legislature" for funds isn't targeting educators who clamor for more state support. (We expressed such concerns last year when similar study was ordered in the Missed opportunity: Mr. Dewhurst, a leading advocate of open government, was key to the Senate's passage last year of a bill requiring a record vote on all measures passed by the Legislature. The bill died in the House. An interim study might have helped overcome resistance in the Capitol, but no such assignment was made. Many Texans nevertheless will look for the Senate to take a leadership role on this right-toknow issue in 2007.

Small child doesn't really understand about firearms ...

This is in regard to the boy who brought the gun to school, the second grader at Travis. I used to live in Pampa, and my children grew up there. In fact, my children went to Travis.

My concern is this child. I listened to all the news reports on television. The blame is put on the child. Where should the blame really lie? I feel it should lie on the parents.

Why is that child being so chastised when someone should be checking that child's back-pack every morning to see if he has his homework, school supplies, lunch money, and or lunch? Some parent's these days are leaving too much responsibility up to the young child. Why was that gun not locked up where that child could not get to it? Seems as though that would fall on the parents.

I feel that a 7- or 8-year-old child doesn't really understand about a gun, or the consequences it can bring. I only can hope that if that child is troubled about anything in his life, whether it be at home, or at school, that he will get the help and counseling that he deserves.

I don't feel that this should follow that child all his life. I hope the proper authorites will get to the bottom of this. Our children are precious commodities, and they deserve the best. One channel said there would be a meeting to see if the child needs more punishment. Isn't getting kicked out of school enough for a child that young? There should be some punishment for the adults in his life who weren't apparently paying enough attention to this child.

coaching days. As a whole, their honesty and integrity are to be admired.

I have witnessed many thousands of games, and only once did I feel "my team" was cheated by officials. Our opponent was given three shots at a two-point conversion to take a 22-21 win with 0:00 left on the clock. I'll always believe officials were ready to throw as many flags as necessary to guarantee a home team win.

Our coach, the gentlest of men, remained calm. He assured me and others that on the morrow, the sun would rise in the east, follow its usual course across the sky and die in the west. And it did ...

The zebras, as they are called, deserve our respect. Sports are becoming improbable to coach and impossible to officiate. And human error always finds ways to seep in.

We should be glad that a few brave souls step forward to don the striped shirts. (At Super Bowl XL, by the way, the seven officials had received highest ratings during the season. They have a total of 58 years of NFL officiating experience and have worked a total of 40 play-off games.)

What we need most right now, I suppose, is a new sports season. Baseball is at hand, and steroid use no doubt will capture many of the headlines. Until then, we'll have to "make do" with hockey's simmering gambling scandal ...

Reviewing the Good Book, game officials learn that Jesus heads the list in matters of rejection. In Luke 9:58, He spoke of "the Son of Man having nowhere to lay his head."

Sometimes I imagine that officials feel the same way.

Poor guys in striped shirts! Wherever they go, whatever they do, their fate often hangs, "upon further review ..."

Exhibit to showcase cowboy pictures

CANYON — In the opinion of some people, the Cowboys of the 19th century gave Texas its character.

In the minds of many, the Texas Cowboy is myth or legend but in the soul of Texans everywhere, the Cowboy is where the character of the state was formed.

In 2004, Frost Bank, in partnership with Texas Monthly, formed the "Character of Texas Expedition" and asked renowned photographer, Robb Kendrick (native of Hereford), to document today's Texas Cowboy in an effort to not only rekindle the Texas heritage but also to remind all Texans that character "honesty, sense of humor, work ethic and determination" is just as important today.

Out of this collaboration came a unique exhibition entitled "Revealing C haracter: Robb Kendrick's Texas Photographs."

Using the wet plate

collodion tintype process to produce the images, Kendrick created an exhibition of 85 photographs depicting today's Texas cowboy. This method of photography, through its very technique, allows the subject of the photographs to "reveal" themselves through exposures that can last up to 18 seconds in length.

Narrative by the cowboys depicted, accompany each image. The exhibition also includes documentation of the project undertaken by Kendrick, both about the photographic process and his travels meeting and selecting his subjects.

The staff of the Old Jail Art Center in Albany, led by director Margaret Blagg, teamed with Robb Kendrick to organize this exhibition, with generous support from Frost Bank. This touring exhibit was launched at the Witte Museum in San Antonio in September 2005.

"Revealing Character" will open at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum on March 3 and continue through May 28. For information about the museum, hours, admission and location, visit www.panhandleplains.or

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who cheated on me for 30 years. First there was a long-distance romance with my high school girlfriend that lasted 28 years. Then he had another affair with a woman from church. It went on for eight years that I know of. He always accused me of being "evil" because I expressed concern about his fidelity. Of course, when I found solid evidence of his affairs, it was, "It's over," and "It'll never happen again," etc. But the affairs continued, and I didn't leave. I don't know why. Perhaps it's because I'm afraid of what's out there. Is there something wrong with me? I know I'm "settling." But I am terrified of starting over. Everywhere I look, I don't see prospects that are any better. Are they ALL dogs? -- DEFLATED IN RALEIGH, N.C.

DEAR DEFLATED: Not all men are dogs, nor are they adulterers like the one you married. There are good men out there, but, like gold nuggets, it takes exploration ried about his daughter. My niece is now to find them. What you don't seem to nearly the age I was when he committed appreciate is that there are worse things than being alone -- and one of them is the pain of having a husband who makes you feel you never measure up. You have paid a price for living with the evil you know rather than risking the unknown. If you do decide to divorce, you will need time to heal and rediscover yourself before you go prospecting for another mate, because the way you feel about yourself will dictate the kind of life partner you'll attract.

DEAR ABBY: I have a son, "Max," who is daughter, he would not be forthcoming 1. At Christmas, we were at my sister-inlaw "Babette's" home for dinner. Babette has a peek-a-poo dog that occasionally growls at her teenage kids. Max kept trying to go over and see the dog. I kept telling him that the dog didn't want to play right now, and to leave him alone.

(My sister, who frequently baby-sits Max, has three very friendly dogs.) Babette's dog growled at my son, so I asked her if we could put the dog elsewhere. She said, "No. He doesn't have a cage or anything." I think she was rude because I don't think I was asking too much for her to put her dog in another room for a short period of time. What do you think? I'd like your opinion. -- PROTECTIVE MOTHER IN OHIO

DEAR PROTECTIVE: When a dog growls, that's the dog's way of saying, "Stay away!" Because your son was too young to understand this, and because your sister-in-law was unwilling to separate her dog from your child, you should have separated your child from her dog by cutting the dinner short and leaving.

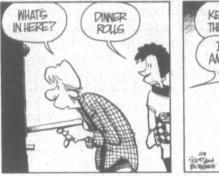

DEAR ABBY: When I was a young teenager, I suffered sexual abuse at the hands of my brother, "Carl." I am now worthis crime against me. Because I want to protect her, I want very badly to ask him if he would ever do that to his daughter. However, every time I start to ask, I stop myself because I don't want to rock the boat. Would it be wrong or rude of me to ask him if he has ever touched his daughter the way he touched me? -- CONCERNED FOR HER SAFETY IN TEXAS

DEAR CONCERNED: It would be a mistake to ask, because if he is molesting his about it. What you should do is discuss what happened to you with Carl's wife, so she can be on the lookout for any signs of sexual abuse in their daughter.

Funding in the amount of $99 million nationwide is available to guarantee loans for the construction, acquisition or rehabilitation of rural multifamily housing.

"The Guaranteed Rural Rental Housing Program not only provides decent and affordable housing, but is an important component of USDA's economic development efforts." said Daniel.

The program is intended to fund construction, acquisition or rehabilitation of rural multifamily housing for low-income occupants. The program guarantees up to 90 percent of the amount of the loan from a private lender to a housing develop-

Residents of the completed housing facility must be low- to moderate-income households, or elderly, disabled persons with income not in excess of 115 percent of the median income of the surrounding area.

Survey indicates new treatment options needed for Type 2 diabetics (NAPSA) — It is no secret that diabetes is reaching epidemic proportions across the nation. According to the newest data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, diabetes is the sixth leading cause of death in the U.S. and can lead to serious complications such as heart disease, kidney failure, blindness and lower limb amputations.

Despite the introduction of new treatments in recent years, many patients still struggle to manage their diabetes. Results from a recent International Diabetes Center (IDC) survey show that more than 50 percent of patients with type 2 diabetes describe their health as "poor" or "fair," and more than 25 percent say their health has worsened over the past year.

This finding emphasizes the importance of people with diabetes and their physicians effectively communicating to identify ways to improve patients' overall health. While the survey shows people with diabetes and their physicians value regular discussions, there still appear to be several communication gaps should be resolved.

Disconnect between Patients and Physicians

The IDC survey data reveal a frequent lack of communication between people with diabetes and their physicians, especially when it comes to integrating diet and exercise into their lives.

While 98 percent of patients surveyed recognized that diet and exercise are critical to managing their diabetes, a full 60 percent of them also said they would rather take a drug than change their lifestyle.

The reality is that physicians are not having the effect they hope for in motivating their patients to make healthy choices, as nine out of 10 of those surveyed said getting their patients with diabetes to commit to a regular diet and exercise plan is the biggest challenge they face in helping them manage their disease.

Finding the right type 2 diabetes therapy can also be difficult. Eighty-eight percent of patients and 92 percent of physicians surveyed felt there is a need for better treatment options.

In addition, patients and physicians expressed frustration with the side effects of hypoglycemia and weight gain that can occur with the use of common type 2 diabetes therapies.

Dr. Richard Bergenstal, executive director at IDC, acknowledged that physicians and health-care providers need to better understand why some people with diabetes are not successful in gaining control over the disease.

According to Dr. Bergenstal, these survey results show the importance of clear communication between patients and their doctors, as part of an overall diabetes management plan.

Mental health help available for hurricane survivors

(NAPSA) — A new campaign may help hurricane survivors deal with the trauma of living through a natural disas-

According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Substance Abuse Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), research on the consequences of major floods and hurricanes suggests that for some, the psychological impact of the recent hurricanes will be pervasive and severe.

In fact, SAMHSA estimates that in those areas that have been significantly impacted by the hurricanes, 25 to 30 percent of the population may experience clinically significant mental health needs and an additional 10 to 20 percent may show sub-clinical mental health services.

To help, SAMHSA Council to create a public advertising service (PSA) campaign meant to encourage those hurricane survivors who are experiencing mental health problems to consider seeking help.

"People who were displaced by the storms have lost their homes, schools, communities, places of worship, daily routines, social support, personal possessions and much more. This was coupled in many cases with losing loved ones and witnessing death, destruction and criminal violence," says HHS secretary Mike Leavitt.

Angelo State to host checkoff program

AUSTIN — Texas cattle producers are invited to attend West Texas Beef 706, a beef checkoff-funded program hosted by Angelo State University, the Texas Cooperative Extension Service and the Texas Beef Council.

This intensive four-part workshop begins March 1 and focuses on best management practices to help Texas beef producers improve their cattle and bottom line.

"The Beef 706 program follows cattle through the production process offering participants a revealing look at how their operation affects the end product," said Dr. Richard Forgason, Chairman of the Texas Beef Council's (TBC) Beef Quality Committee. "As a past participant, it's a great opportunity for cattlemen, and we look forward to partnering with Angelo State University and west Texas to bring this program to area producers."

The four-part program will be held in San Angelo on four separate dates. The program kick-off takes place at the Producer Livestock Auction on March 1 at 5:30 p.m. and will focus on calf management and feeder calf evalua-

The second program is June 15 at 5:30 p.m. and focuses on a review of the calves at feeding mid-point and best beef quality management and selection

The third workshop takes place August 3, 2006 at 5:30 p.m. and includes a review of the calves as finished market steers, as well as a review of performance data and discussion of grading and grid marketing.

The final program will be Aug. 22-

23, 2006 beginning at 8:30 a.m. This program includes hands-on grading, a virtual feedyard and packing plant tour, beef carcass cutting, a tasting session and a program wrap-up.

West Texas Beef 706 is limited to forty attendees and is available on a first-come basis. Participants will receive beef quality assurance credits and veterinarians will receive continuing education hours.

Individual registration is $45 and the deadline is Feb. 20, 2006. The last three sessions take place at Angelo State University and meals are included in the registration.

Who's Affected?

Obesity is a serious health epidemic that affects one in four Americans. It is estimated that more than 93 million Americans are obese, with that number predicted to climb to 120 million in the next five years.

Obesity Health Risks There are more than 30 medical conditions that are associated with obesity. Individuals who are obese are at risk of developing one or more of these serious medical conditions, causing poor health or, in severe cases, early death. In fact, more than 112,000 annual deaths are attributable to obesity.

The most prevalent obesity-related diseases include:

High blood pressure High cholesterol

Diabetes

Heart disease Stroke

Gallbladder disease Osteoarthritis

Sleep apnea and respiratory problems

Some cancers (endometrial, breast, and colon).

Dealing With Obesity

According to the Obesity Action Coalition, it is important for people to talk with their doctors about their weight. Obesity strategies vary from person to person, but can include behavior modification, increasing physical activity, nonclinical weight management, medically-managed weight-loss and/or weight-loss surgery.

For more information, visit www.obesityaction.org or call (800) 717-3117.

Is team play coming to the All-Star game?

HOUSTON (AP) - Sometime during the first quarter of the All-Star game, Flip Saunders is planning to send his four Detroit Pistons in together.

The Western Conference might have five international players waiting for

From sound of things Friday, teamwork might be set to take over what is supposed to be the NBA's showcase of individual talent.

The All-Star game has always been about showmanship and creativity, and much of the focus Sunday night will likely be on the high-scoring stars such as Kobe Bryant, Allen Iverson and LeBron James.

But the Pistons think there's a place for the kind of unselfish basketball they play, which has led them to a 42-9 record at the break. They were rewarded by getting Chauncey Billups, Richard Hamilton, Ben Wallace and Rasheed Wallace voted in as reserves.

"I think people will understand that when we go in together, they will understand what it really is all about," Saunders said. "A few years ago ... there were rule changes that were made to make the game aesthetically better and to make the game more team oriented, not as individually oriented. I think the reward that the coaches gave our players kind of signified a little bit maybe that's the way our league is going.'

Team play has been regarded as a strength of foreign players for years, and a big reason why the United States has fared so poorly in recent international tournaments.

Those players have now made their mark in the NBA. The West could have Yao Ming (China), Pau Gasol (Spain), Dirk Nowitzki (Germany), Steve Nash (Canada) and Tony Parker (France) on the floor at once.

"More than anything, we know that basketball is not only a U.S. sport anymore," Nowitzki said. "It's become global over the years. We have people from China in the league, we have

Africans in the league, we have Europeans in the league. It's been great to watch people come over and not only be part of a team but really have impact on a team and make teams bet-

It's also made All-Star weekend the global event it has become. With more than 300 international media members in Houston, players like Yao and Parker were swarmed with the kind of crowds usually reserved for Bryant or Shaquille O'Neal.

Meanwhile, the Pistons continued to be somewhat anonymous, drawing much smaller crowds during their interview sessions. But they prefer to let their play do the talking for them

"Team basketball is a lost art nowadays, but it's always going to win," Ben Wallace said. "You can win in the regular season, but if you don't play together as a team it's going to be tough to win in the playoffs teams."

Women's combined: Kostelic wins gold in Alpine ski event

By BOB BAUM Associated Press

SAN SICARIO, Italy (AP) - Janica Kostelic of Croatia fought off illness to defend her gold medal in the stormdelayed Alpine women's Olympic combined Saturday, edging Austria's Marlies Schild and leaving rival Anja Paerson of Sweden in third.

Kostelic, who had said she might not be able to race because of sickness, finished a half-second ahead of Schild, a slalom specialist who put together a surprisingly strong downhill.

Kostelic won her fifth medal in two Olympics in her debut event at the Turin Games. Four of her medals have Paerson won her second bronze of these games - she took third in the downhill, which Kostelic didn't enter because she was sick.

As Kostelic crossed the finish line and swung her arms in joy, Paerson looked despondently at the ground.

Sabbatini warms up for four-shot lead in Nissan Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Tiger Woods has heard all sorts of comments from the crowd during his 10 years on the PGA Tour, and he ignores most of them. But this one was a first, and it caused him to turn his head

"Tiger," two men shouted to him as he walked toward the sixth green. 'Take my umbrella.

That alone summed up a bizarre Friday at the Nissan Open, where one of the few regularities was seeing Rory Sabbatini - one of the hottest players on the PGA Tour right now atop the leaderboard after a 6-under 65 gave him a fourshot lead.

Rain - an old friend at Riviera — was actually a

One minute the skies were blue, the sunshine warming what had been a frigid start. Within 30 minutes, gray clouds shifted over Sunset Boulevard and unleashed a cold, raw rain. Woods and several other players were caught without umbrellas or rain gear, and many of them trudged off the course with shirts clinging to their bodies.

"It's been a while since that happened," said Woods, who nearly missed the cut until four players behind him dropped enough shots to secure a weekend tee time for the world's No. 1 player.

There was a hole-in-one by Trevor Immelman, and a double eagle by Brian Gay, whose 5-iron into the par-5 first hole hopped onto the green and into the cup.

By the end of the day, a forgotten figure was the leader, and Sabbatini had some adventures of his

Sabbatini wound up with a commanding lead over Craig Barlow and Thomas Levet, although few fans would have guessed it would turn out that way watching him play his opening hole, the 310-yard

Temperatures were in the 40s when Sabbatini teed off, and he couldn't feel his toes. Imagine how it felt with a wedge in his frozen hands as he tried to chip toward the green.

"I couldn't feel my toes or my hands when I played it," Sabbatini said. "I hit a chip clear over the green. I even hit it clean over the back bunker. It was actually funny, walking on the 14th tee today, I looked at Tommy Armour and said, 'Yes, I can actually feel my toes again.' He had the

Earnhardt, Gordon look to set tone for 2006

By JENNA FRYER Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — The slate is wiped clean for Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Jeff Gordon, two drivers temporarily sprung from the shadows of their mortifying 2005 sea-

They were failures. Busts. A pair of chumps ineligible to race for the biggest prize in NASCAR.

All that was erased the moment they drove through the gates at Daytona International Speedway. This track belongs to Earnhardt and Gordon — they've combined for 20 wins here in various events, including the past two Daytona 500s.

Now they'll both try to kick-start the 2006 season with strong runs in Sunday's season-opening event.

Gordon has no doubt he'll be strong.

"I think anybody that feels like we've slipped on the restrictor-plate tracks hasn't seen restrictor-plate racing for the last couple of years," Gordon said. "I mean, I think that no matter what our seasons are like, what's happening with our team, we always seem to be pretty steady at restrictor-

Gordon won Daytona last year - his third 500 title only to see his season fall apart just a few months later. The four-time series champion with 73 career victories struggled through the summer and found himself shut out of the Chase for the championship.

Gordon wound up 11th in the standings, his lowest points finish since he was 14th during his 1993 rookie season.

His Hendrick Motorsports team didn't waste any time turning its attention to 2006, replacing crew chief Robbie Loomis with newcomer Steve Letarte for the final 10 races of last year. The move put Gordon ahead of schedule when he arrived at Daytona, and he proved it by placing second in the 500 time trials, then running away with a dominating victory in one of the qualifying races.

Earnhardt used a similar strategy, reuniting with former crew chief Tony Eury Jr. late last year after the two spent the season apart in an ill-advised swapping of crews at Dale

The move made Junior an also-ran most of last season, just a shell of his former self at Daytona and Talladega, the two places he was always a guaranteed contender. But with Eury back as his leader, Junior's back among the favorites for the Great American Race. "Working with Tony Jr. is going to be a lot of fun, there's a good, close bond there," Earnhardt said.

It has done wonders for Earnhardt's confidence. He had pretty much written off his title chances at the midpoint of last season, but heads into Sunday's race confident that he'll be there at the end of the event and at the end of the year.

"I think we're going to come into the Chase being top three in the points," he boasted. "We'll have six or seven wins this season, if not more. If we lose the championship, it won't be by much.

Unlike Gordon, Earnhardt has yet to show just how good his Chevrolet is for Sunday's race. He finished second in an exhibition race, second in the qualifying race and will start seventh in the 500.

Although they are the favorites, Earnhardt and Gordon will have a slew of contenders to deal with.

Among them is Tony Stewart, who only needs a Daytona 500 victory to complete his resume of NASCAR milestones. The defending series champion has come so close before, finishing second to Earnhardt in 2004 and dominating last year's race before fading to seventh at the end.

But he comes back this year buoyed by his Daytona dominance last July, when he embarrassed the field by leading all but nine laps en route to his first restrictor-plate victory. Now he'll try to cross the 500 of his list of things to do.

"I've got three goals this year and this is No. 1 of the three," said Stewart, adding that winning at Indianapolis Speedway and capturing a third Cup title are the others.

"This is probably the highest thing on that list this year because it's something we haven't done, and I'm really big on trying to accomplish goals that I've never accomplished before ... I like proving that I can do something that I

Add Elliott Sadler, who won a qualifying event and starts third in the main event, and two of Gordon's own teammates — second-year driver Kyle Busch and Jimmie Johnson — to the list of contenders.

Busch has been aggressive during Speedweeks and not afraid to muscle his way up front, and Johnson is out to prove his team won't crumble following crew chief Chad (naus' suspension for cheating during qualifying.

But the list of true favorites runs thin after that. 'There's always only five or six guys, maybe seven or eight guys that can win,' veteran Kyle Petty said. "There's another 15 or 20 that can slide in and win. When you look at the consistent guys, I'm only going to pick the standard

Jacobellis drew attention to her sport, but wasn't able to bring home gold

BARDONECCHIA, Italy (AP) — Lindsey Jacobellis won over legions of fans and promoters to the new Olympic sport of snowboardcross.

What she didn't do was win the race. She lost it - in astonishing fashion — a jaw-dropping collapse that will go down as one of the most unforgettable moments of the 2006 Winter

The famous, articulate, endorsement-rich 20-year-old American pulled a flamboyant - but unnecessary — "backside method grab" on the second-to-last jump on the course then crashed. Members of the U.S. team at the finish line and American flag-waving fans in the grandstand, who thought a gold medal victory was a certainty, were left to gasp in openmouthed amazement.

Everyone else shouted anxiously as Jacobellis scrambled to get up and save her run, only to be passed by Swiss boarder Tanja Frieden, who had fallen far behind while tangling with another rider higher up on course.

"I was having fun," Jacobellis said. "Snowboarding is fun. I was ahead. I wanted to share my enthusiasm with the crowd. I messed up. Oh well, it happens."

Jacobellis' fall set up an ecstatic embrace between Frieden and her American boyfriend, Seth Wescott, boardcross debut just a day earlier.

"To do it here is wicked cool," she

"We had always been saying, 'Hey, let's have a podium together,' but we never got to do it,' Frieden said.

said, using an expression from her boyfriend's home state of Maine. Jacobellis could only slide to a stop a few feet away from the finish line celebration, putting her hands on her knees, then shrugging briefly. Frieden couldn't help but recall the time she relaxed on the final stretch of a past X-Games race, only to be beaten at the line by Jacobellis. 'We all learned in other races that it's never finished until it's finished," Frieden said. "One day it's me, one days it's her. ... That's the game."

There were thrills and spills earlier in the final race as well.

The fastest qualifier of the day, Canadian Maelle Ricker, got turned around awkwardly coming off a jump, caught her backside edge on the landing and smacked down hard on her lower back, the whiplash bouncing her head off the icy track. She was taken off the course by a toboggan and flown to a hospital, then released to the relief of many who saw the jarring crash.

Bronze winner Dominique Maltais got her board tangled briefly with Frieden's, then tumbled up a banked who had won gold in the men's snow- turn, her flailing body wrenching part of a billowing safety net out of the snow. She wasn't even sure if it was worth getting up, but climbed back into the course out of principle and cruised to the finish, where she learned to her surprise that she was not fourth, as she suspected, but would be taking a medal back to Canada.

"When you crash you need to go back in the course and just keep going," Maltais said. "Then some of my friends told me I was third at the Jacobellis stirred matters even more with her immediate post-race comments. Exuding an uncommonly cool composure, she started putting a defensive spin on her crash.

She initially denied showboating. She talked about being troubled by the wind. She talked about having carried so much speed into the jump and soaring so high because she did not know she had a big lead and believed other riders were right on her tail.

Hours later, after U.S. snowboarding coach Peter Foley concluded from a series of Associated Press photographs that Jacobellis was "styling" unnecessarily, Jacobellis started to come clean, saying she had gotten caught up in the moment as she approached the cheering crowd on the final straight.

Hoops Hall of Fame names 16 finalists

HOUSTON (AP) Charles Barkley always among the NBA's most quotable players. And that didn't change when reporters mobbed him after he was named a finalist for the Basketball Hall of Fame.

Barkley urged the Hall's 24 voters to elect fellow finalist Dominique Wilkins, who was snubbed a year

"Dominique should have got in last year," Barkley said Friday after the Hall named the 16 finalists for the Class of 2006.

While Barkley lobbied for Wilkins, Hall of Famer Oscar Robertson wondered why only seven of the 16 finalists had been nominated as players. There were six coaches and three contributors, including ESPN college basketball analyst Dick Vitale.

"How many basketball players are up for the Hall of Fame?" Robertson said. "What's wrong with this scene? It's supposed to be a Basketball Hall of Fame, isn't it?"

Last year, only one player Hortenica de Fatima Marcai, of Brazil was elected along with three coaches and a contributor.

Barkley and Wilkins are the most notable former players among this year's finalists. Dubbed "The Human Highlight Film" for his breathtaking above-therim game, the Paris-born Wilkins was a nine-time NBA All-Star and a twotime NBA slam dunk contest champion. He is one of three Atlanta Hawks to have his jersey retired.

"People who know basketball, in the basketball world, understand what my place is in basketball history," said Wilkins, the Hawks' vice president of basketball. "And I'm confident things will be fine this go-round. Do I think I was a first-ballot (Hall of Famer)? Of course. Hopefully things will work out this time."

Among the other finalists are Connecticut women's basketball coach Geno Auriemma and Detroit Pistons president of basketball operations Joe Dumars.

That doesn't mean the usual individual highlights will be absent. Bryant said he plans to help the Rockets' Tracy McGrady have a big game in front of his home fans, and he's eagerly awaiting his matchup with Iverson. Bryant leads the 76ers guard by two points per game in the race for the regular-season scoring title.

Bryant has averaged 20.8 points in his six All-Star appearances, two more than

"I look forward to it," Bryant said. "You know he's going to compete no matter if it's the All-Star game, on the playground, or versus the Lakers. He's going to compete hard."

So will James, who also averages more than 30 points and will start for the East for the second straight

"It's great to be back," James said. "This is for the fans. They want to see you here and I'm going to showcase my talent the best I can."

That's usually the goal of every player in the All-Star game, but things might be different this time - at least when the Pistons are in the game. And since their style of play has worked so well thus far, maybe other will be persuaded to mimic it Sunday night.

"This week we're on the same team," Miami's Dwyane Wade said, "so we all have to go out there with one thing in mind, and that's to go in and keep it in the East this year."

NBA ALL-STAR GAME

McGrady's thoughts elsewhere

(AP) Tracy McGrady should be excited about having the All-Star game in his home city. Instead, he doesn't sound like he cares to play any basketball at all right now.

And just like that, Houston rans may have ended up with another reason to lose some of their basketball spirit during their disappointing season.

The Rockets' star had to be talked into attending Friday's session with the media, then said he is dealing with some unspecified personal issues that have taken away his focus going

"At times, I don't even want to be in the arena or a uniform," McGrady said. "It's just been so frustrating. In the past, I've usually done a great job of keeping things to myself and really not letting things affect me.

"I am going through some things and it does affect my professional life. I try not to let it, but I can't really control it.

If he does fight through his problems, McGrady stands to be one of the biggest stars of the NBA's showcase event.

Helping the hometown players shine is almost a tradition of the event. Shaquille O'Neal was the MVP when he was still with the Lakers and the game was in Los Angeles. Karl Malone and John Stockton shared it in Salt Lake City, and Michael Jordan scored 40 points in 1988 when the game was in 1987, In SuperSonics forward Tom Chambers made the All-Star game in Seattle as an injury replacement and scored 34 points to win the

"I think you have to represent your city and your organization," Kobe Bryant said. "Tracy's been a good friend of mine for a long, long time, and I look forward to him putting on a good show."

Bryant acknowledged that the players know they have a responsibility to make sure the hometown players look good,

"You just look for him,"
Bryant said. "You make sure you take care of them."
If McGrady isn't up for that, perhaps Yao Ming will be. He is the Rockets' other

All-Star and part of a growing group of dominant international players. The Western Conference could have Yao (China), Pau Gasol (Spain), Dirk Nowitzki (Germany), Steve Nash (Canada) and Tony

Parker (France) on the floor

"More than anything, we know that basketball is not only a U.S. sport anymore,' Nowitzki said. "It's become global over the years. Shelmerdine living dream

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Most of the drivers in the Daytona 500 spent Friday morning relaxing in their million dollar motorhomes, signing autographs or basking in the adulation of sponsor appearances.

Not Kirk Shelmerdine.

The man who will start next to last Sunday in "The Great American Race" was doing what he does just about every other day: working and sweating over his No. 27 Chevrolet.

The 47-year-old Shelmerdine, best known as the crew chief who helped Dale Earnhardt to four of his seven championships, has a lot of work to do, considering he has only two full-time employees.

He hired a third person to help out at Daytona. All four of them — dressed in nondescript T-shirts and jeans instead of the bright, pressed uniforms with sponsor logos that most Nextel Cup crews wear - were scurrying around the car Friday, preparing for practice.

Shelmerdine, hardly looking like a glamorous race driver, grimaced and bent into the engine compartment of the black and yellow car — reminiscent of the black No. 3s driven by Earnhardt.

"There's a lot to do," Shelmerdine said in a quiet voice.

"It's a big job."

Nobody, not even Shelmerdine, gave him much chance of making the field for NASCAR's biggest race. After last Saturday's time trials, he was 32nd on the speed chart and seventh among the drivers who had to either drive into the race in one of Thursday's 150-mile qualifying races or take one of the final four spots in the field on speed.

His place in the season opener wasn't assured until Bill Elliott, Kevin Lepage and Robby Gordon, all ahead of him on speed, raced their way into the 500 in the 150s.

Even then, Shelmerdine didn't think he had made it. "I had my little list written on my hand in the car and was talking to the guys and kind of watching the field and I had it figured out who was doing what and who needed to finish where," he said. "And I got it wrong."

CANYON — Pampa artist Linda Nowell has been invited to show her work in the upcoming Panhandle-Plains Invitational Western Art Show and Sale.

From March 4 through April 2, Friends of Southwestern Art will sponsor the seventh annual invitational at Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon.

A fixed-price sale will be conducted between 7 and 9 p.m. March 4 in the museum's Foran Galleries. Objects will be for sale through April

The show and sale is open to currently working artists whose focus is the American West. Proceeds fund additions to the museum's art collection. Past invitationals have funded the purchase of works by such artists as W. Herbert Dunton, Victor Higgins, Gina Knee and Walter Panhandle-Plains has a history of exhibiting the work of Southwestern artists, beginning with the Coppini Academy of San Antonio's annual exhibitions in the 1950s through the Amarillo Rotary Club exhibitions in the early 1990s.

Inviting gifted and sought-after artists to exhibit in the invitational complements the museum's outstanding historic Southwestern art collection. Consequently, the invitational is curated like any other museum exhibition - only the highest quality works are shown.

Hunter education course fee to increase

AUSTIN — The Texas Wildlife Parks and Commission adopted a fee increase for attending a hunter education class from $10 to $15. The increase will take effect June 1, 2006.

There are some exceptions for youngsters. Youth younger than 12 can hunt but must be accompanied by a person licensed to hunt in Texas who has completed a hunter education course, or is exempt by age. Youth ages 12-16 can hunt on their own if they have completed hunter education, but adult supervision is recommended.

Currently, there are three ways to take hunter education, traditional classroom instruction, home study and skills trail testing and an online course with skills trail testing. Home study and online course participants must come to a testing site to complete their training.

TPWD is looking at additional innovative alternatives to provide effective and convenient hunter education training, including the potential use of new technology using simulated live fire exercises through computer technology. The department also offers a deferral program that allows hunters to

PUZZLED ABOUT EYECARE?

Wayland planning Centennial festivities

PLAINVIEW — Wayland Baptist University has begun planning for its centennial celebration beginning in 2008, unveiling a theme and logo for the event. Slated to run from August 2008 to August 2009, the celebration will coincide with the 100th anniversary of the university, chartered Aug. 31, 1908, as Wayland Literary and Technical Institute.

A steering committee composed of Wayland faculty, staff and administrators as well as community leaders has developed a theme and a logo to be used for the celebration.

"We're calling the yearlong celebration 'Dreams to Reality' because so much of what Wayland is about is turning dreams into realities for so many people," said Betty Donaldson, vice president for institutional advancement and chair of the steering committee, "In particular, Wayland would not be here if it were not for the dreams of Dr. J.H. Wayland to see students on the high plains of Texas have an option for education in a Christian environment.

"We've been about seeing his dream continued by putting education in the reach of many for nearly a century and know the value of higher education," Donaldson added.

The celebration will encompass many traditional Wayland events held annually, including Koinonia freshman orientation, homecoming, graduation ceremonies fine arts events.

Additional events will be planned for the year as well, each with a centennial focus and celebratory flair.

"It's our goal to plan a slate of activities that reaches everyone with ties to Wayland, from Plainview community neighbors to our alumni and friends, donors, trustees and current students as well," Donaldson said.

Hope English, director of special projects at Wayland, is vice chair of the steering committee and has been excited about being part of the planning process.

"The centennial momentum is already building," she said. "It is easy to get all caught up in the celebration of one man's dream that was driven by his faithfulness to God."

The centennial logo features a scripted "100" and the theme "Dreams to Reality," along with an opaqued version of the Wayland flame used in the university's traditional logo and in marketing pieces. The phrase "Since 1908" falls underneath the name of Wayland Baptist University. The logo was designed by

o the voters of Gray County,

Before Gary Willoughby was elected as Gray County Commissioner our road was in terrible condition. When it rained, driving on our road was like skating on ice. All that was being done to our road was spreading more caliche. Since Gary has been the commissioner, he has kept his promise to repair the roads. Imagine that... a politician that kept his word!!! What some people don't realize is that Gary. inherited a real messy road situation. As a matter of fact, our road is much better than some streets in the city. For instance, take a drive down Buckler, Montagu or Oklahoma Streets. Keep up the good work, Gary.

Service reopens comment period on removing American Bald Eagle from the Endangered Species Act

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has proposed voluntary guidelines and a regulatory definition designed to help landowners and others understand how they can help ensure that bald eagles continue to be protected consistent with existing law. The Service also reopened the public comment period on its original 1999 proposal to remove the bald eagle from the Federal list of threatened and endangered species, in order to solicit current information regarding bald eagle populations and trends and to give the public time to comment on the proposed delisting in light of the draft voluntary guidelines.

"The recovery of the bald eagle, our national symbol, is also a great national success story," said H. Dale Hall, director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "The actions we take today reemphasize the management efforts that have proven so successful in recovering eagle populations. Should the eagle be delisted, we expect that the public will notice little change in how eagles are managed and protected."

Hall noted that when they are delisted from the Endangered Species Act, bald eagles will continue to be protected by the Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act (BGEPA) and the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (MBTA). Both acts protect bald eagles by prohibiting killing, selling or otherwise harming eagles, their nests or eggs.

recovering eagle

— H. Dale Hall Director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service

Management Guidelines are not Federal regulations. They are intended to provide information for people who engage in recreation or land use activities on how to avoid impacts to eagles prohibited by these two Federal laws.

The guidelines are crafted to reflect the current way that Federal and State managers interpret BGEPA and MBTA. For example, the guidelines recommend buffers around nests when conducting activities that are likely to disturb bald eagles. These areas serve to screen nesting eagles from noise and visual distractions caused by human activities.

The Service is also proposing a regulation to clarify the term "disturb" under BGEPA that is consistent with existing Federal and

State interpretation. Under the clarification, "disturb" would be defined as actions that disrupt the feeding or mating practices of an eagle or cause it to abandon its

This is the standard the Service has used informally over the years and how states have interpreted the statute. The proposed regulation defining "disturb" would codify it. This definition will provide clarity to the public while continuing protection for bald eagles, which will help ensure an almost seamless transition from ESA listing to delisting

The bald eagle once ranged throughout every state in the Union except Hawaii. By 1963, only 417 nesting pairs were found in the lower 48. Since the delisting proposal in 1999, recovery of the bald eagle has continued to progress at an impressive rate. In 2000, the last year a national bald eagle census was conducted, there were an estimated 6471 nesting pairs of bald eagles.

Today this number has risen to an estimated 7,066 nesting pairs, due to recovery efforts by the Service, other federal agencies, tribes, state and local govconservation ernments, organizations, universities, corporations and thousands of individual Americans. Five regional recovery plans were created for the bald eagle. The delisting criteria for all five plans were met or exceeded by the year 2000.

If the bald eagle is delisted, the Service will work See EAGLE, Page 14-B the Office of Communications staff at Wayland.

Subcommittees will be forming soon for planning specific centennial events, with steering committee members serving as chairs of the various committees and other community members, employees and students asked to serve.

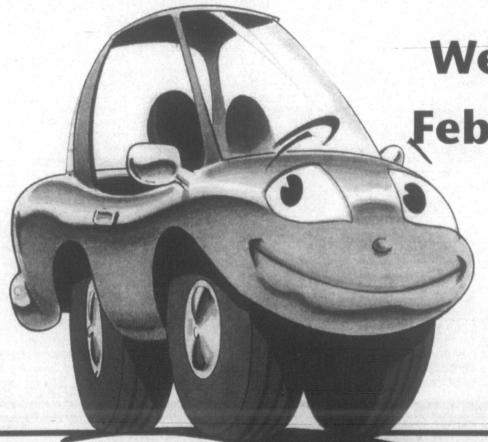

Along with the event planning, a centennial history book is underway, with Dr. Estelle Owens spending her spring and summer terms on sabbatical completing research toward the history. Toward that end, the university is soliciting anecdotes, photos and even video or film from alums and community members to be used in historical pieces and centennial promotions.

"There are so many events and milestones in Wayland's history that make us proud to be part of that heritage, but Wayland has always been about its people, and we want to make sure that many people are included in this celebration," said Teresa Young, who is working on the book with Jonathan Petty and Dr. Owens.
"We'd love to have those stories about your days at Wayland, from academics to athletics and extracurricular activities. We want to know your favorite memories and what the university has meant to you over the years."

Those interested in sending their anecdotes may send them and any photos they may have by mail to Young in care of Wayland, 1900 West 7th Street, Plainview, Texas 79072. All photos will be scanned and returned promptly. For further information on this project, contact Young at (806) 291-2586.

Johanns announces results of probe into prohibited veal shipment to Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veal plant workers and government inspectors misunderstood new trade rules when they shipped prohibited veal to Japan, the Bush administration conceded Friday in a report aimed at lifting a suspension on American beef.

The 475-page report explains why New York-based Atlantic Veal & Lamb sent a shipment of prohibited veal cuts to Japan last month. Japan responded by halting imports of U.S. beef, cutting off a market that had only recently been restored.

"This was not a situation where somebody was trying to hide something," Agriculture Secretary Mike Johanns told reporters on a conference call.

Quite the opposite happened. It very clearly indicates they were just not connecting as to what could be shipped into the Japanese market," he said. In Japan, the government said it was in no hurry to resume shipments of beef.

"The most important thing we should do now is to examine the report. I have no intention to rush to a conclu-Agriculture sion," Shoichi Minister Nakagawa reporters after a briefby Ambassador Thomas Scheiffer.

Japan suspended imports on Jan. 20 because the veal cuts contained backbone, which Asian countries consider at risk for mad cow disease. The cut of veal, hotel rack, is eaten in the United States and allowed under international trade

"The veal posed absolutely no risk to human health; there was no danger there," Johanns said.

The report findings, based on two separate investigations by the U.S., revealed a second violation of export rules. The shipment also contained offal, or inedible trimmings, that was produced by the Golden plant, which not authorized to ship offal. Furthermore, at least some of the offal came from calves that were slaughtered before the plant was eligible to make any shipments to

Millions of dollars in exports hang in the balance while officials struggle to repair the

Of the $3.9 billion in global sales of American beef in 2003, Japan, once the biggest U.S. customer of the meat, accounted for $1.4 billion of beef and meat products.

Japan had only recently lifted a ban on American beef imposed after the United States confirmed its first case of mad cow disease in December 2003. In all, the U.S. has confirmed two cases of mad cow disease, while Japan has found 22 cases of the dis-

Johanns blamed the mistakes on the newness of the export rules. The plant and its supplier, Ohio-based Golden Veal Corp., were certified to ship to Japan on Jan. 6 and were the first two companies allowed to send veal to Japan.

A Japanese customer had ordered specific veal products from Atlantic on Dec. 27, Johanns said.

The Agriculture Department has taken several steps to ensure the rules are followed. For example, plants will no longer get blanket certification to ship to Japan; they will be granted per-officials said.

New wave of bad publicity puts Pentagon back on defensive bloodied prisoners. Reminders of embarrassing acts by American

All of a sudden, the Bush administration finds itself back on the defensive in its long campaign to persuade the Muslim world that the global war on terrorism is not a war on the Muslim faith.

In just a few days, the United States has endured a pair of blows to its image abroad. The publication of previously unseen photos from the infamous Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq, plus a U.N. report calling for the closure of the U.S. prison at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba, have forced the administration to defend its record and try to regain the public relations initia-

With the Australian news media and the Web site Salon.com unveiling pictures and documents about U.S. troops abusing Iraqis at Abu Ghraib in 2003, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld tried to put the matter to rest Thursday. He told a congressional panel that nothing in the photos and videos was new, and had all been investigated.

"I'm told that these photographs that are coming out now are nothing more than the same things that came out before, if not identical, of the same type of behavior," Rumsfeld said. "That battle for hearts and minds is, and behavior's been punished."

Nations report released Thursday on the U.S. military's detention facility for terrorist suspects at Guantanamo Bay, which urged that it be closed. U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan, speaking in support of the report, said the prison should be shuttered as soon as possible.

Some interrogation techniques - particularly the use of dogs, exposure to extreme temperatures, sleep deprivation for several consecutive days and prolonged isolation — caused extreme suffering, the U.N. report

"Such treatment amounts to torture," it said.

That's exactly the kind of accusation the Pentagon repeatedly has denied but cannot seem to escape, more than four years after that the report was merely a

Bryan Whitman, a spokesman for Rumsfeld, told reporters he saw no merit in the U.N. report, whose authors did not visit the prison after being promised only partial access to prisoners.

"It clearly suffers from their unwillingness to take us up on our offer to go down to Guantanamo to observe firsthand the operations at Guantanamo, and so it is certainly a serious shortcoming of any report they have written," Whitman said.

White House spokesman Scott McClellan rejected the report's call to close the prison com-

"These are dangerous terrorists that we're talking about that are there," McClellan said, adding are trained to lie.

One of the central strategies of the administration's war on terrorism is to undercut what it calls ideological support for extremism, in part by improving the image of the United States in Muslim countries. Important gains on that front were made by providing humanitarian aid to thousands of victims of Pakistan's earthquake last fall.

Then came the violent demonstrations in Pakistan and other Muslim countries against publication in European newspapers of cartoons lampooning the Prophet Muhammad. That had no direct link to the United States, but the administration went on the offensive to accuse Syria and Iran of fomenting and profiting from the

"We will pour concrete as close to the water's edge as possible, which will lengthen this ramp about 20 feet," said Chief of Maintenance Jimmy Muncy.

Depending upon weather conditions, the project should begin on Thursday with completion of the extension expected within 14 days after the project is started.

The Fritch Fortress launch ramp was lengthened in October 2004. Subsequent rains brought the lake level Drought conditions since last August have contributed to the lake level falling to the present level of 60.38 feet. Currently the edge of the water is about 20 feet from the end of the extension that was added in 2004.

After the Fritch Fortress launch ramp has been lengthened and reopened, Lake Meredith maintenance personnel will lengthen the Sanford-Yake Marina launch ramp. The exact date this project will begin will be announced through a press release after the Fritch Fortress extension is com-

Troopers find cash stuffed into hopper of stucco machine

GROOM - After making a traffic stop on Interstate 40 lst week, DPS troopers found something other than stucco in a stucco hopper towed by the vehicle. They found $80,380.00 in cash.

Troopers stopped a 2006 Ford F150 pickup for a traffic violation near Groom on I-40. Troopers became suspicious of the driver and received consent to search. Troopers searched a stucco machine towed by the pickup. The cash was found in the hopper of the stucco machine.

Arrested were Alejandro Sandoval 23, of Fontana, Calif., and Jose Saucedo 19, of Paramount, Calif. They were placed in the Carson County Jail on charges of money laundering.

The cash was believed to have originated in Illinois and was destined for California.

Commission has plans to preserve historical sites scattered in state

AUSTIN — It is a little-known fact that Texas has nearly one million archeological sites scattered across the state, from burial grounds to battlefields. More than 95 percent are on privately-owned land, many unknown even to the landowner.

In an effort to preserve, document and learn more about these sites, the Texas Historical Commission has its own "allvolunteer army," better known as the Texas Archeology Stewardship Network, which offers free assistance to landowners wanting to learn more about their sites, or determine if they have a significant site on their property. Unless a landowner wishes otherwise, the sites are left intact.

The purpose of the program is to protect the sites," said historical commission State Archeologist Pat Mercado-Allinger. "No one can enter the landowner's property without permission. Nor is information about a site accessible to the public."

Stewards arm landowners with useful information and suggestions on how to protect a site from looters and other potential destruction. One of the most successful and innovative programs of its kind, the stewardship network has served as a model for similar programs in other states. Stewards are not professional archeologists, but highly trained and motivated avocational archeologists who work on a volunteer basis.

Stewards are available to help find, record and monitor potential archeological sites. They help obtain protective designations and record private artifact collections. Some are available to talk to schools and preservation groups and others assist historical commission archeologists on digs and surveys. Stewards also carry out emergency excavations when an archeological resource is threatened with imminent destruction.

If you have property that you would like examined, or want to learn more about the program, contact the historical commission's Archeology Division at 512/463-6096, e-mail archeology@thc.state.tx.us or visit www.thc.state.tx.us.

The Texas Historical Commission is the state agency for historic preservation. The agency administers a variety of programs to preserve the archeological, historical and cultural resources of Texas.

Eagle

with state wildlife agencies to monitor the status of the species for a minimum of five years, as required by the Endangered Species Act. A draft monitoring plan is expected to be released for public comment should the species be delisted. If at any time it becomes evident that the bald eagle again needs the Act's protection, the Service will propose to relist the species.

The bald eagle first gained federal protection in 1940, when Congress passed the predecessor to the Bald Eagle Protection Act. The Act, which was later amended to include golden eagles, increased public awareness of the bald eagle. Soon after, populations stabilized or increased in most areas of the country. However, declines in its numbers during later decades caused the bald eagle to be protected in 1967 under the Federal law preceding the current Endangered Species Act.

The legal protections given the species, along with a crucial decision by Environmental Protection Agency to ban the use of the pesticide DDT in 1972, provided the springboard for the Service and its partners to accelerate the pace of recovery through captive breeding programs, reintroduction, law enforcement efforts, protection of habitat around nest sites during the breeding season and land purchase and preservation.

The success of these efforts resulted in the recovery of the species to the point that in 1995 its listing status was changed from endangered to threatened in most states in the continental U.S. – with the exception of Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon, Washington, and Wisconsin, where it was always designated as threatened. The species was never listed as threatened or endangered in Alaska.

The Service's re-opening of the public comment period on the proposed delisting, the draft National Bald Eagle Management Guidelines and the proposed definition of term "disturb" will be published in the Federal Register.

- Comments on the proposed delisting must be received 90 days from the Federal Register publication date. Written comments should be sent to Michelle Morgan, Chief, Branch of Recovery and Delisting. Endangered Species Program, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Headquarters Office, 4401 N. Fairfax Drive, Room 420, Arlington, Virginia 22203. Comments on the proposed delisting may also be transmitted electronically
