Community Christian under new direction

New administrator veteran educator

By Julie Ann Thompson The Pampa News

A new administrator has been appointed to Community Christian located at School Briarwood Church. A former assistant principal at Pampa Junior High, Marsha Richardson accepted the administrator's job after retiring from public schools after 30 years of service.

"I decided to retire and then this job came open," Richardson said. "I couldn't think of a better place to work than in a Christian environment. I called immediately."

Richardson graduated from Pampa High School and then from West Texas

State University with a master's degree kids back to their parents." in education and a minor in English. She then went back to school to get her midmanagement certification.

She has taught everything from kindergarten through eighth grade except for second and third. Fourteen of those years was as a K1 teacher. "I feel like one of my strengths is curriculum," Richardson said. "The curriculum here is wonderful. It's a very strong curriculum. We've got small classes and a very caring staff and faculty." As the new administrator, Richardson said she does a little bit of everything including supervision and discipline of the students. "I feel like I've died and gone to heaven," Richardson said with a laugh. "I'm just looking forward to going to work every day.'

Richardson said that at Community

Christian, students can be held to the same high standards as others but without the pressure. "There's so much test pressure on students today," Richardson said. "Here, you'll have a wellrounded kid as far as spirituality and academics."

Community Christian is a non-denominational school, and Richardson said, with approximately 40 students from various local denominations.

"We teach Bible principals, but there's not a lot of interpretation," Richardson said. "If it does come up, then the teachers will refer the Tuition for the school is $175 a month for pre-K, $280 a month for grades K-5, and $300 a month for grades 6-8. Richardson said scholarships are available and pay up to 50 percent of the cost.

While the school doesn't compete in sports, it does participate in math olympics, spelling bees, science fairs, one-act play and other events. The school stays on the same schedule as Pampa Independent School District to make it easier on parents who have kids in other

Group to address tagging at next meeting

By Marilyn Powers The Pampa News

Tagging, the practice of painting graffiti on buildings, will be the topic of a Tuesday meeting of the Community Plan group's subcommittee on juvenile crime. The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. at The Brown Alliance, 315 N. Ballard.

Tagging was first discussed at an earlier meeting of the subcommittee, held on Feb. 29.

"Earlier this year, the Community Plan group identified juvenile crime as a major problem in Gray County, particularly the increasing amount of tagging," County Juvenile Probation Officer Ed Copeland, who heads the subcommittee on juvenile crime. "The purpose of Tuesday's meeting is to address the problem with findings and suggestions from the subcommittee members."

The Community Plan group was formed in 2005 to address various criminal justice problems in the community, said Dee Dee Laramore, executive director of Tralee Crisis

"It is a group of community representatives from different areas, espe-

said Gray services," Laramore said of the Community Plan

> The group currently has about 30 members, and also includes representatives of local churches and schools. The juvenile. crime subcommittee was formed at a Feb. 12 meeting and includes representatives of juvenile and adult probation and Pampa schools.

The possibility of seeking help from service organizations, student groups and other groups to help with graffiti cleanup as a community service project was discussed at the Feb. 29 cially justice and social meeting. Other aspects of tagging which were discussed at the meeting included obtaining donated items for cleanup and creating an educational program for use in schools.

"With a new school year beginning soon, now is the time to implement subcommittee's ideas," Copeland said.

"The meetings are open to the public," Laramore said. "We'd like community members to be involved."

New Mexico officials hold off on lesser prairie chicken hunt

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The heads of Act for more than a decade and has been the state Game and Fish Department and the Game Commission have decided to hold off on issuing hunting permits for the lesser prairie chicken, a longtime candidate for possible protection under the Endangered Species Act.

Game and Fish director Bruce Thompson and Game Commission chairman Tom Arvas said they will not issue permits while a decision to list the bird as a protected species is pending before the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"Given the strong public interest in protecting this species, it's prudent for us to take more time to work with our partners to assure that we continue to take the best approach for conserving this species and its habitat," Arvas said in a statement Thursday.

The Game Commission on July 21 approved a structure for lesser prairie chicken hunting in New Mexico that could have started as early as this fall.

The plan included a strict permitting process, but conservationists, sportsmen's groups and others argued that such an activity could derail long-term efforts to conserve the bird's population.

Nicole Rosmarino, wildlife program director for WildEarth Guardians, noted the lesser prairie chicken has been a candidate for protection under the Endangered Species reduced to just a fraction of its once booming population in New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas.

Rosmarino said the bird can't afford "any backslides in protection."

"This incident shows just how important it is to take management of this species out of state hands by listing it under the federal Endangered Species Act," Rosmarino said Friday.

Rosmarino has said the bird's future is bleak unless Fish and Wildlife decides to list

The Fish and Wildlife Service does not have funding this fiscal year for the studies necessary for proposing a listing, but staff biologists, landowners and other agencies are closely monitoring the bird.

Various projects are under way, including putting markers on fence lines to prevent the chickens from colliding with barbed wire fences. Fish and Wildlife also works with the Bureau of Land Management and Game and Fish to promote cooperative agreements with landowners to ensure prairie chicken habitat is conserved.

The Game Commission said it has numerous properties that are specifically managed for lesser prairie chickens and that it's in the process of establishing more areas.

A sample of editorial opinion around Texas: ■ Aug. 4

The Dallas Morning News on Texas' Democratic primary: The confusion that reigned during the March 4 Democratic primary continues to reverberate across Texas. A conference at Southern Methodist University July 26 designed to discuss what went wrong and how to fix it provoked emotional discussions, some tears and general agreement that the party's primary system doesn't work. The SMU meeting was one of several around the state this summer to decide the fate of what's known as the "Texas two-step." Most participants at the SMU meeting felt that it's beyond salvaging.

We agree.

The primary got its nickname from the cumbersome, two-step voting process Texas Democrats endure in choosing presidential candidates. First they vote in the state primary, then they're asked to vote again a few hours later at a precinct convention. Selected delegates go to a district-level convention. Complicated formulas are applied to determine the apportionment of delegates to the state Democratic convention. Further adjustments occur before Texas delegates go to the national convention.

All of this tweaking leads to distortions: Even though Sen. Hillary Clinton won the popular vote in the primary, most Texas delegate votes at the national convention will go for Sen. Barack

It left many Clinton supporters feeling the democratic process had failed them. The chaotic scenes at many precinct conventions on March 4; including one in Dallas where a caucus organizer was chased to a police station, were an embarrassment to American democracy.

"There's no question that people ...

Personnel management conference slated in area

By Kay Ledbetter Extension News

AMARILLO — A personnel management conference will be hosted Sept. 9-10 by the Texas AgriLife Extension Service at the Fifth Season Inn & Suites in Amarillo.

The fee for Effective Employee Management for Agribusinesses is $125 for the first participant from a business and $100 for each additional person if registered by Aug. 25, said Dr. Steve Amosson, AgriLife Extension economist in Amarillo. After Aug. 25, the fee will be $150 for the first participant and $125 for each additional person from a company.

The conference will begin at 8 a.m. both days and adjourn at 5 p.m. on Sept. 9 and 3 p.m. on Sept. 10. Cosponsors for the event are Purina Mills LLC, Select Milk Producers, Texas Cattle Feeders Association, Texas Pork Producers Association and Southern Region Risk Education Management Center.

The two-day conference speakers, sessions and curriculum - is designed with agricultural managers in mind as they deal with the challenges of human resources, Amosson said. Experts from around the country will speak.

"This is the third time we've been able to offer this top-flight personnel management conference for agribusinesses," he said. "In a sixmonth post survey, 90 percent of the previous attendees indicated they had altered one or more of their practices based on what they learned from the conference."

Some of the general session and breakout session topics include the following: - Ag Enterprise Managers:

Can You Manage Your Employees Like Other Industry Managers Do?;

UTI can lead to serious problems in elderly persons

By Kay Ledbetter Extension News

AMARILLO — While a urinary tract infection in the bladder can be painful and annoying, serious consequences can occur if it spreads to the kidneys, a Texas AgriLife Extension Service specialist said.

Older adults are among those at the greatest risk of kidney damage due to urinary tract infections because their symptoms are often overlooked or mistaken for other conditions, said Andrew Crocker, AgriLife Extension gerontology health

The infection typically occurs when bacteria enter the urinary tract through the urethra and begin to multiply in the bladder, Crocker explained. The most common of these occur in women and affect the bladder and urethra

Half of all women will develop a urinary tract infection at some point during their lives, and many will experience more than one, he said.

While not all urinary tract infections exhibit the same symptoms, some of them include a frequent urge to urinate urethra during urination.

'It is not unusual to feel bad all over and to feel pain even when not urinating," Crocker said. "It is common for a person with a urinary tract infection to complain that, despite the urge to urinate, only a small amount of urine is passed. The urine itself may look milky or cloudy, even reddish if Fever does not normally occur if the infection is in the bladder or urethra, he said. But a fever may mean that the infection has reached the kidneys. Other symptoms of a kidney infection include pain in the back or side below the ribs, nausea or vomiting.

Urinary tract infections are among the most common infections in patients with dementia, partially because of

and a painful, burning feeling in the area of the bladder or their reduced immune response, incontinence in women and urinary retention in men, Crocker said.

The patient's dementia symptoms may be exacerbated by the infection, he said. The infection may itself cause problems with cognitive function, most commonly acute confusion. Treatment may often immediately remedy the situation. Other risk factors for developing urinary tract infections may include, but are not limited to the following: - Being female. Women have a shorter urethra, which cuts down on the distance bacteria must travel to reach the blad-

- Being sexually active. Sexual intercourse can irritate the urethra, allowing germs to more easily travel through the

NEW YORK (AP) — of experts who guide nation-New advice that men over al health care, issued its 75 should not be screened for prostate cancer won't quell the long-standing controversy over the usefulness of the blood test for the disease, cancer experts said recently. "It stokes the debate, I recent report based on a review of past research. The task force found that screening can detect some cases of prostate cancer, but the benefits of treatment in men over 75 "are small to none."

Treatment often causes "moderate-to-substantial harms," including impotence and bladder control and bowel problems, the task force said, without evidence it saves the lives of these elderly men.

The panel did not recommend for or against prostate troversial because the PSA screening of men under 75 but suggested that doctors reasons. A positive result discuss the potential benefits and harms of the test with their patients.

Prostate cancer is the most common cancer in American men — about 186,000 cases will be diagnosed this year, according to the American Cancer Society. It is the second leading cause of cancer deaths in men. But most tumors grow so slowly they never threaten lives.

Prostate cancer screening is done with two tests: a blood test that measures prostate specific antigen, or PSA, and a digital rectal exam. The blood test is conlevel can be high for many from the test must be confirmed by a biopsy. And there's no agreement on the best way to treat it: "watchful waiting," surgery, hormone therapy, radiation or some combination of those.

Screening is "an area of very intense controversy," prostate cancer specialist for American Cancer Society. "There are many doctors who believe staunchly that PSA testing should be done in all men and there are probably an equal number of doctors who believe very much that testing is of limited value."

Antimicrobials target produce pathogens

A novel food safety treatment tested by Agricultural Research Service (ARS) scientists could become an asset to the fast-growing fresh-cut produce industry.

The antimicrobial treatment involves the use of submicroscopic agents that are unable to reproduce or grow outside bacterial host cells. The purified viral agents are called bacteriophages, which means "bacteria eater," and they can wreak havoc on deadly bacteria, such as E. coli O157:H7, that sicken consumers.

bacteriophage research is being conducted by microbiologist Manan Sharma, with the ARS Food Laboratory, in Safety Beltsville, Md., in collaboration with researchers at Intralytix, Inc., based in Baltimore, Md.

Interest in bacteriophages is ramping up with the emergence of antibiotic-resistant organisms. These "phages" are present in the environment and only attack bacteria; they do not have an adverse effect on humans and animals.

Sharma tested a group of phages (ECP-100) on refrigerated samples of fresh-cut cantaloupe. The treatments reduced pathogens on the samples of fresh-cut cantaloupe by 100-fold in comparison to untreated samples.

Sharma also tested the phages on refrigerated freshcut lettuce. The results indicate that bacteriophage treatments can kill E. coli O157:H7 on the surface of leafy green commodities with the same level of efficiency seen in the fresh-cut cantaloupe.

Phages reproduce by latching onto bacteria. The viral DNA is injected into the bacterial hosts' cells, where it directs the production of progeny phages. These phages kill bacterial host cells on exit, and then move on to infect more bacterial cells.

The trials indicated that the phage treatments could be effective in killing E. coli O157:H7 in produce.

Read more about the research in Agricultural Research magazine.

ARS is a scientific research agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dear Abby.

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I work for a major lending company and have cleaned out foreclosed homes. Too many times, I find animals who have died from exposure or literally starved to death. My message to homeown- (or social engagement) on time or shortly ers is: PLEASE make arrangements for your pets if you can't take them with you. Once a loan company notifies you of foreclosure, it can be many weeks before someone enters that home. Give your pet a fighting chance! -- DISCOURAGED IN ILLINOIS pass along your important message. If living arrangements change, your family pet should not be abandoned or dumped to fend for itself. Contact a rescue group so food establishment, the eashier informed the animal can be placed for adoption with another pet lover or a shelter.

DEAR ABBY: I have often read complaints about people who are chronically late, but I have the opposite problem with my friend, "Adele," who is annoyingly early. If I am hosting a get-together, Adele invariably arrives 45 to 60 minutes before the start time. I am usually making lastminute preparations then and have sometimes not even gotten into the shower yet. If we are going to an event together, Adele will also arrive long before the appointed time, and I feel rushed and rude for ignoring her while I get ready. If I am driving, when I pick her up she's always waiting on her front step as though I am late. Abby, I am a prompt person, I always try to get to an appointment five to 10 minutes early, or arrive at a party 10 to 15 minutes after the appointed time, which I have been told is good manners. Other than this one issue, Adele and I are close, and I enjoy her companionship very much. I don't want to jeopardize our friendship. Am I rude for making her wait, or is she rude for imposing herself on me? -- ON TIME IN GER-MANTOWN, WIS.

DEAR ON TIME: It is as rude to arrive very early as it is to show up very late. According to Emily Post's "Etiquette," a person should show up for an appointment after the time it is scheduled. Adele may be lonely and hungry for company or have a lot of time on her hands, but you should be good enough friends that you can explain that when she shows up as early as she does, it puts undue pressure on you. And the fact she chooses to wait on her front step to be picked up should not make DEAR DISCOURAGED: I'm pleased to you feel guilty. It is her preference, and not a reflection on you.

> DEAR ABBY: After I ordered at a fastme of the amount of the bill. I had the correct change and placed the money on the counter. She looked at me and told me it was rude to place the money on the counter instead of into her hands. She asked me if I had a problem with handing her the money. I was offended. Since I have never worked in the fast-food industry, does placing payment on the counter send a negative message? What are your thoughts, Abby? -- BURGER BOY IN MISSISSIPPI

> DEAR BURGER BOY: I think the cashier may have been having a bad day and was looking for a reason to dump on someone. Whether you placed the cash on the counter or into her hands, your bill was paid, and this is all that matters as long as you were polite to her.

a crisis facing every American. He agreed with me and went to the leadership and they agreed, and the resulting GOP response is getting the media's begrudging attention.

It's not enough, however. This needs to be a party-wide strategy. The entire Republican House membership and all their Senate Republican colleagues need to be on the Hill now, making the case for Congress to reconvene now as loud as they can. And the president needs to call the Congress back into session and demand that the Democrats act to put an end to the crisis now.

This is a golden opportunity, and if the GOP fails to take full advantage of it they will deserve it if the voters go with Democrats in November. The American people are with the Republicans on the most important issue of our time.

The question is, are the Republicans on their side and willing to lead them in the fight to use all the oil resources the Lord has given us in such great abundance and which now are untapped beneath our feet because the Democrats won't allow us to drill down to get it?

Republicans can unite to fight and win, or they can do what they seem to do best these days, cringe and surren-

Along the way, they've accumulated several rental properties.

He's one of the city's most popular landlords, always smiling, extending due dates and unfailingly forgiving. And to widows in his church, his handiwork in home repairs is legendary. They call him Mr. Fix-It. ...

Quick-witted and ever eager to find humor in unlikely situations, Hal is "so far, so good" with his disease.

"My memory slips now and then, like it always has," he grinned. "But Joyce'll know that it's plumb gone if I try to give away my other kidney.'

Doctors and others are nothing short of amazed at the goings-on. ...

It's all happened fast. Hal's offer was made May 5. The medical transplant committee was "thumbs up" on June 17, and the next available date for surgery was July 10.

"My prayer all along has markedly

God would shut the door at some point," Joyce said. 'There was never even a window closed; it was a 'go' from the beginning. Throughout the procedure, God gave me a perfect peace about everything. "To see Hal's determination and joy - and how strongly he felt about donating the kidney makes us very proud of him."...

As Hal and Randy were wheeled into surgery, some of the doctors and nurses blinked back tears as they completed God's miracle. The four-hour surgeries began at 7:30 a.m. (Randy's creatin level was at 10, well into the dialysis range, since normal is 0.5 to 1.5. Hours later, it was down to 3.0. When he was dismissed three days later, it was 1.0.) The kidney began func-

Hal's a case, isn't he? I've known that since we were in college together at Howard Payne. He was a decent football player and a good student - a man whose life merits modeling. felt disenfranchised," says Boyd Ritchie, the state party chairman. "Do I think that the system needs to be changed? Yes, I do. But do I think it needs to be thrown out altogether in favor of a (one-person, one-vote) primary system? I don't think so."

American citizens rank among the lowest in the developed world for electoral participation. In the Texas primaries this year, barely 28 percent of registered voters participated up from a paltry 15.4 percent in 2004.

Complicating the process only discourages participation even more, and it's hard to imagine a process more complicated than the Texas two-step. Trashing it would do Texas Democrats and American democracy a world of good.

Farm Scene: Oregon issues first report on state chemical use

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — More than 40 million pounds of pesticides and herbicides were used in Oregon's farms, forests and fields last year, with potato fields getting the biggest dose, according to the state's first tabulation of chemical use.

The state Department of Agriculture report showed that a soil fumigant used on potato fields, known as metam-sodium, was by far the most-applied product by weight. It accounted for 42 percent of the chemicals applied last year.

The report was authorized by the 1999 Legislature to provide more detailed information about the use of toxic chemicals in agriculture, to gauge how they affect soil and water quality. It was released last week after being delayed by years of political struggle.

The Northwest Coalition for Alternatives to Pesticides of Eugene pushed for the annu-

"Eight years after starting work on this I'm very excited to see the first data," said NCAP's Aimee Code. "I think it will help all of us to better protect our health and clean up our waters."

Terry Witt, executive director of Oregonians for Food and Shelter, said the pesticides are spread over a huge number of acres — about 17 million farm acres alone. Farmers and foresters have been far more sparing with pesticide applications in recent years, he said, in part to save money as prices go up.

"These tools are tested, and I think our people for the most part use them extremely judiciously," said Witt, whose group's mission includes protecting responsible pesticide applicators from over-regulation. "I don't think (the report) should be too alarm-

During the political fight to establish the reporting system, the agriculture industry opposed detailed public disclosure of chemical use in smaller geographic areas, saying that information could be misused.

Katy Coba, director of Oregon's agriculture department, said the report doesn't contain many surprises.

"Oregon pesticide use shows similarities with what neighboring California has been finding through their reporting system," she said in a statement. "One year's data is interesting, but we hope the reports collected this year and in the future will help provide a more clear picture of trends in Oregon's pesticide use.'

Rounding out the top five statewide after metam-sodium were the herbicide glyphosate at 9 percent of the total weight, the wood preservative copper naphthenate at 7 percent, the soil fumigant 1,3-dichloropropene at 5 percent and the insecticide aliphatic petroleum hydrocarbons at 4 per-

Agriculture accounted for nearly all of the chemical use, with almost 85 percent of the total. That was followed by other at 9 percent and forestry at 3 percent.

According to the report, the state received almost 285,000 reports of herbicide and pesticide use. A total of 551 different chemicals were cited. .

urinary tract infections:

- Urinate shortly after sex. This can flush away bacteria that might have entered the urethra during sex.

- After using the toilet, always wipe from front to back, especially after a bowel movement.

- Wear cotton underwear and loose-fitting clothes so air can keep the area dry. Avoid tight-fitting jeans and nylon underwear which trap moisture and may help bacteria grow.

"If your health provider suspects you have a urinary tract infection, he or she may ask you for a urine sample to determine if pus, red blood cells or bacteria are present in your urine," Crocker said. "Analysis of the urine,

- Urinate frequently and sometimes followed by a urine culture, may reveal whether you have an infection."

> Generally antibiotics are the first line of treatment, he said. Which drugs are prescribed and for how long depends on the patient's condition and the type of bacteria found in the urine.

When treated promptly and properly, these infections rarely lead to complications, Crocker said. But left untreated, a urinary tract infection can become something more serious than merely a set of uncomfortable symptoms. Untreated urinary tract infections can lead to acute or chronic kidney infections, which could permanently damage your kidneys.

In addition to following the health provider's instructions and completing the full course of antibiotics, the following tips might provide some relief:

- Drink plenty of water to dilute the urine and help flush out bacteria.

- Avoid coffee, alcohol and caffeinated soft drinks. These may irritate the bladder and contribute to a frequent need to urinate.

- Use a heating pad on the abdomen to minimize discomfort.

While some have health problems and aren't likely to live long, others are "very active, very vigorous and have minimal health issues, and many of those men are going to live into their late 80s or 90s," Brooks said.

Ryan, in San Francisco, said age shouldn't be the sole measure.

"It would be a disservice to patients to have their chronological age be the only factor making important health decisions," he said. "There are some very young 75-year-olds out there."

But rather than feel slighted by the recommendation, Dr. William Hahn of the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston said those over 75 should "feel liberated from having to have the test. It's one less thing for people over 75 to worry about."

Kramer said the task force made it clear that doctors shouldn't do routine screening on those under 75 without discussing it first with the patient. The 60-year-old Kramer said he told his doctor he didn't want the PSA test, but the lab did it any-

The Cancer Society's Brooks noted that there are four major studies under way on prostate cancer screening and treatment.

"Hopefully, within the next three or four years, we will have some outcomes from those studies and be able to give a little more definitive guidance to men and physicians," said Brooks.

Retiree Paul Bockenstedt, of Dayton, Ohio, said he doesn't agree with the task force recommendation and plans to continue to get screened. He's 84, in good health, and men in his family have lived past 100, he said. If he were diagnosed with prostate cancer, Bockenstedt said he'd consider getting treatment, depending on his health at the time.

"I'd rather know in my case," he said.

2008 PROPERTY TAX RATES IN GRAY COUNTY GENERAL

This notice concerns 2008 property tax rates for Gray County General. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before tax payers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Networks becoming more specialized

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Cici confesses on her Web page that she likes to greet everyone by licking their feet. Dolce admits to being a mamma's boy. And Jake and Tycho posted a video that chronicles their adventures of rolling around on their backs.

It's not on Facebook or MySpace, but the canine equivalent — Doggyspace.com.

A crossbreed between MySpace and YouTube, Doggyspace allows dog owners from all over the world to come together, create profiles, and share photos and videos of their pups.

The Virginia-based site is part of a growing trend of niche, or content-focused, social networking sites that target interest groups looking to connect with like-minded people.

"It's not so much social networking, it's having a social experience around things that we care about, so pets are just such a great example of that," said Fred Stutzman, an Internet researcher at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Stutzman said many people are using more general social networking sites but also signing up for sites like Doggyspace that offer a more focused experience that can provide help and support on specific issues and go beyond traditional message boards.

"Social networks like Facebook and MySpace are sort of about you and your friends and these very direct connections, but there's all sorts of other types of connections," Stutzman said.

Since launching in mid-July, Doggyspace has logged more than 700 registered, active user profiles — 73 percent of them created by females, said Levi Thornton, founder of the site and president of web development firm Mad Frog Productions in Fredericksburg, Va. He projects that Doggyspace will have more than two million accounts by the end of the year.

"There's a lot of people out there with their dogs and we're busy and we're all working in the office all day long and this is a way for us to bring our pets with us," said Thornton, who has a Yorkie named Nokie and a pit bull named Ein.

Standard accounts for the site are free, but later this year Doggyspace plans to offer premium accounts for a small fee that will give users extra features. A portion of that fee will go to an animal charity of the members' choice.

Thornton, 30, said the site is a place for pet owners to share stories or learn about a specific breed. It can also help people form friendships based on a love of dogs, or connect people interested in finding a play date for their dog.

Connie Mandrozos found the site while searching for information for her 12-yearold golden retriever, Boomer, who has cancer. She received an outpouring of support from other dog owners with similar experiences and some told her they "have their paws crossed" for Boomer.

Mandrozos, 36, ended up spending more time on the site, creating profiles for Boomer as well as his "sisters" — a pit bull mix named Darla and another mixed breed named Violet.

"It's been a goofy thing to do at the end of the day when you get home from work and you just want to talk to somebody in your dog's voice and say, 'hey, how was your day? Woof," said Mandrozos, who lives in Bridgeport, Conn. and sometimes uses her dogs in her job as a behaviorist.

Most of the Doggyspace profiles include messages from other doggy "friends."

One profile is for a chocolate Labrador retriever named Guinness, who said her mom "couldn't resist naming me after her favorite beverage" and said she is shy around other dogs and scared of small, furry creatures because she lives with a "VERY MEAN CAT."

Postings on Guinness' profile include a message from Chico, a Chihuahua mix who offered to help with the shyness problem.

Dominique Cecchetti, a 20-year-old student from Pittsburgh, created a profile to share photos of her 12year-old Maltese named Darren, who has more than 125 friends on the site.

For Cecchetti and other users, the site is very much a dog and owner effort: "My dog sits near the computer while I do the work for him," Cecchetti said in an e-mail.

Award

Continued from Page 11 and tools, together with an increasingly strong preservation ethic. THC's community heritage development programs work with the community and surrounding region to revitalize historic sites, stimulate tourism and encourage development through the use of preservation strategies.

For example, the award-winning Texas Heritage Trails Program helps communities in a given region of the state to partner and promote historic and cultural resources. Matching grants from the THC to towns wishing to restore historic courthouses is a win-win situation for the community, the region and the entire state, as Texas is recognized for having the largest collection of historic county courthouses in the nation.

"Joining forces with the First Lady of Texas brings a new element of excitement and prestige to our award-wining preservation programs," said THC Chairman John L. Nau, III. "Communities that are participating in one or more of these economic development programs should be recognized for their vision in doing all they can to preserve and promote what is special about them. This award achieves that goal."

Each year, up to five Texas communities will be presented with an award based on nominations received. The program recognizes historic preservation initiatives and projects that combine several resources offered by the THC and other preservation organizations or state agencies.

Award decisions will be made by an interagency panel created by the THC and the Office of the Governor, Economic Development & Tourism. Nominations must be received no later than 5 p.m. on Oct. 1. For more information, contact April Garner at (512) 463-2630. Applications are available online at www.thc.state.tx.us.

Snacks can help maintain youth, good health

(NAPSA) — If you feel like you're constantly having a snack attack, you're not alone. Sixty percent of working women say they reach for snacks in between meals. And most of the snacks they grab are unhealthy.

The bad news: this is the fastest way to pack on a few extra pounds. The good news: if you make smart and sexy choices, you can look fabulous all year long. The secret is selecting snacks that work harder for you and keeping them handy to munch on when the mood strikes.

◆ The Smart Guide to Sexy Snacking

Figure out what snacks will keep you looking swimsuitready - and what you should be careful of:

· Yogurt may seem healthy, but choose wisely since many brands are made of fake fruit, weird dyes and tons of sodium. Pick either Greek or organic yogurts to snack healthy.

· Choose snacks that work in overtime, like Mott's Plus Sauce, which only has 50 calories per four-ounce tub and is fortified with nutrients especially for women.

· Spinach is not just Popeye's secret weapon anymore. It is low in calories and contains loads of nutrients. Try to eat about a pound of spinach a day and substitute this leafy green for iceberg lettuce in your salads. You can also microwave frozen spinach with some salt, butter substitute and Parmesan cheese for only 30 calories per cup.

· Enjoy plenty of frozen yogurt. You can satisfy your sweet tooth for very few calories.

· Nuts, like peanuts and almonds, are good sources of protein and good fats-but be aware that moderation is key.

◆ The Nutrients You Need

Choose foods that contain the nutrients your body needs. Fruit is the pinnacle of sexy snacking – it has the highest number of nutrients per calorie of any other food on the planet. And Mott's Plus Apple Sauce is equivalent to one whole serving of fruit - with the added benefits of fiber, antioxidants and calcium. They come in three great flavors, each fortified with a woman's needs in mind:

· CranRaspberry with fiber that helps keep you feeling sat-

Harvest Apple with calcium for strong bones

· Pomegranate with antioxidants that help protect cells and keep women looking and feeling their best

Jodi Lipper and Cerina Vincent, have some additional tips:

Sexy Snacking Tips from the Experts The authors of the book "How to Eat Like a Hot Chick,"

 Every time you snack, drink at least an eight-ounce glass of water. Not only does it help you feel satisfied, but it also works to cleanse your body.

 To keep from getting over- hungry, snack all day. Keep healthy snack options handy by storing them in your purse, car, desk at work and even in your gym locker. Mott's Plus Sauce is great for any woman on the go since it doesn't need refrigeration.

· Work out! Hot Chicks work out without questioning or making up excuses.

· Don't reward yourself with bad snacks. If you burn 500 calories at the gym, don't reach for a candy bar-grab a healthy snack instead.

Warm up with hearty, wholesome pork dinner

(NAPSA) — For a quick yet satisfying weeknight dinner that can be cooked stovetop, try the Pork Tenderloin with Balsamic Olive Oil Sauce. A simple rub of olive oil, salt and pepper infuses the meat with flavor while the olive oil also seals in the natural juices to ensure tender results. Topped with a savory sauce, it's a great way to quickly turn any weeknight dinner into a gourmet feast.

Pork tenderloin is too little to be treated like a roast and too large to be treated like a steak. Butterflying the tenderloin lengthwise, however, makes it possible to quickly cook this cut stovetop. If the tenderloin is too long for the pan, simply cut off the thin tail end and cook it in the per skillet alongside the main piece.

Pork Tenderloin With Balsamic Olive Oil Sauce Prep Time: 5 minutes

Cook Time: 22 to 27 min-

Ingredients: 2 small pork tenderloins (about 12 oz. each), patted

Tasty tenderloins of pork are fast and easy to pre-dry and sliced lengthwise almost all the way through, then opened up

3 tablespoons olive oil Salt and ground black pep-

1/4 cup balsamic vinegar 1/4 cup chicken broth

1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil.

Directions: Pour olive oil into a shallow pan. Dip each side of each tenderloin in the oil to completely coat, then sprinkle each side with salt and pepper.

Heat a 12-inch, heavy-bottomed, nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Add tenderloins. Cook until pork develops a thick, goldenbrown crust, about 5 minutes. Turn pork and cook until remaining side develops the same crust, about 5 minutes longer. Remove pork from heat and let stand

Add vinegar and chicken broth to the skillet; boil until reduced to 1/4 cup, about 1 to 2 minutes. Whisk in extra while making sauce.

Herbs and spices like oregano, thyme, cinnamon and clove do more than add pleasing flavors and aromas to familiar foods. The oils from these plants, or compounds extracted from those oils, pack a powerful, antimicrobial punch strong enough to help quell such foodborne pathogens Escherichia coli O157:H7.

That's according to Agricultural Research Service (ARS) chemist Mendel Friedman, who several years ago evaluated the bacteriabashing power of these and dozens of other plant compounds.

Now, some of the compounds that Friedman and co-investigators determined were the strongest combatants of E. coli, Salmonella enterica, Campylobacter jejuni, or Listeria monocytogenes in the 2002 study are being tapped for new research focused on food safety.

For example, Friedman, research leader Tara H. McHugh, and other whether adding small squares of scientists at the ARS Western Regional Research Center in Albany, Calif., are evaluating the highest-ranking botanical bactericides as potential ingredients in what are known as edible films.

A thin, pliable, edible film for the future might be made of puréed spinach spiked with carvacrol, the compound responsible for oregano's ranking as a top fighter of carvacrol-enhanced spinach purée film to bags of chilled, ready-to-eat spinach leaves would help protect this salad green against E. coli.

E. coli in the Friedman study. The scientists want to find out lished. Also notable was the com-

Friedman is also exploring other new uses of the top-rated botanicals from the earlier study. That investigation, which he conducted with technician Philip R. Henika and research leader Robert E. Mandrell at Albany, was the most extensive of its kind at the time it was pubmon basis of comparison, which the team established by inventing new methods to prepare and test all of the samples. For even more consistency, the scientists used the same bacterial strains - from the same suppliers - throughout the investigation.

Read more about the research in the Agricultural Research maga-

You want to know and understand nearly everything this year. You will not accept a half measure. Faced with a debacle or a problem, you will find the best path out. Trust in your creativity and ability to think outside the box. You perhaps will consider a lot about your security, but do not allow this emphasis to evolve into an obsession. Avoid risk-taking as much as you can, being somewhat of a "wild" thing. If you are single, romance is always a high priority and will be a far more rewarding one after fall. If attached, and in the right age bracket, a new addition is possible. Your mind frequently escapes into the realm of imagination. As long as you can sort through reality and fiction, you are OK. Listen to trusted friends if they think you are out of whack. Their perceptions can prevent you from landing in quicksand. If single, when you meet someone who steals your heart, you are likely to become somewhat unpredictable. Look to the period following New Year's for having a case of the butterflies! If attached, the two of you need to make it OK to have very different opinions. Accept the differences rather than make them a big deal. SAGITTARIUS can party and enjoy life with enthusiasm similar to yours. The two of you could be dangerous.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) **** You are playful, even though many people around you are not. Remember how it feels when others are upbeat and you are down. Being slightly more diplomatic could be very important right now - that is, if you want a positive reaction! Tonight: Just be yourself. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

** You might not realize how you might be acting out your frustration, perhaps causing yourself more of a problem than you are aware of. A family situation or domestic matter weighs heavily on your heart. Tonight: A must appearance. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

**** Sometimes, for many different reasons, we hesitate to ask for what we really need or want to know. Do not put yourself in that position. Loosen up and relax. Be more of yourself. Others like the intrinsic you. Tonight: Hang out with a friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ** Making money might be important, but be careful, as a friend or associate could feel cornered. Use your instincts and creativity to find answers. There are answers out there for sure, but they are not coming in the normal way! Tonight: Don't be pushed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) *** Pressure emanates from the home front. You might be in the mood to cause a mini revolution, but you will not. Your caring comes through if you pull back. Try not to react, a lot of what you perceive might not be exactly as it seems. Tonight: A discussion proves to be enlightening
