

Who won debate? Depends who you ask

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Both President Ford and Jimmy Carter are claiming victory in the first of the 1976 debates. But a nationwide Associated Press poll showed today that neither candidate was the clear winner, although Ford attracted slightly more new supporters.

The restrained yet contentious confrontation was laden with economic statistics and political rhetoric but barren of any new proposals.

"I thought I did well," the Democratic nominee told reporters as he left the Walnut Street Theater site of the debate. Carter said he had wanted to stress what he considers Ford's lack of leadership, and I think I did that very adequately.

"I enjoyed it very much," Ford said on leaving the theater. Asked who won, the President replied, "The American people."

Later, Ford told supporters, "We have a turning point in this campaign. The momentum is on our side."

The AP poll was conducted among 1,065 scientifically chosen viewers who were questioned both before and immediately after the debate. It showed that 34.4 per cent of those who watched on television thought Ford had won and 31.8 per cent thought Carter had won. The rest, 33.8 per cent, didn't or couldn't pick a winner.

Statistically, the margin between Ford and Carter was too small for a clear winner to be declared. Experts say that a sample of this size could err by 2.9 per cent from what the result would be if all viewers were polled.

Voters were asked their preference for president. Carter supporters numbered 45.3 per cent before the debate and 46.9 per cent afterward. Ford was preferred by 41 per cent of the voters before the debate and 44.9 per cent afterward.

The undecided vote dropped from 11.9 per cent before to 7.1 after.

The poll was taken for The AP by Chilton Research Services of Radnor, Pa. The firm specializes in high-speed telephone polling.

The debate, scheduled to run 90 minutes but interrupted for 27 minutes by an electronic failure that cut off the sound to the millions watching it on television, covered economic issues and domestic policy.

The candidates fielded 12 questions from a panel of three reporters. The topics ranged from unemployment, inflation and taxes to amnesty, government reorganization and domestic spying by government agencies.

Carter described Ford as insensitive to the plight of the unemployed and said that the President's 56 vetoes since he took office represented a "government of stalemate."

At the outset of the debate, Ford accused Carter of failing to be specific in his proposals. The President said his Democratic opponent was advocating programs calling for "more spending, bigger deficits, more inflation and more taxes."

The second debate is scheduled for Oct. 6 in San Francisco and will cover foreign policy and national security. A third, with no limitation on the subject matter, will be held Oct. 22. The vice presidential candidates, Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Bob Dole, R-Kan., will debate sometime the week of Oct. 11.

But the candidates and their advisers felt the first debate would be the one likely to have the most lasting impression on the voters and the one to set a pattern for the others.

Members of Carter's staff had said they felt the former Georgia governor should avoid strongly worded, direct attacks on Ford which voters might resent as showing disrespect for the presidency.

Nonetheless, the Democratic candidate took Ford to task for what he said was a lack of leadership and blamed the Republican administration for what he said was a variety of economic ills.

The moderator for the debate, sponsored by the League of Women Voters, was Edwin Newman of NBC. The questioners were Frank Reynolds of ABC television, Elizabeth Drew of the New Yorker and James P. Gannon of the Wall Street Journal.

The two candidates stood behind chest-high lecterns. During the opening minutes of the confrontation, their voices sounded strained.

Hamilton Jordan, Carter's campaign manager, said later, "I thought Jimmy was a little nervous at first and started a little slow." Jordan added that he thought that later Carter "took command of the debate."

Reynolds asked the opening question, and it was directed to Carter.

"You have said you are committed to a drastic reduction in unemployment. Can you say now, governor, in specific terms, what your first step would be next January, if you are elected, to achieve that?"

"Yes," Carter began. "First of all is to recognize the tremendous economic strength of this country, and putting back to work of our people as a top priority. This is an effort that ought to be done primarily by strong leadership in the White House."

Texas Volunteer Week salutes Pampa workers

A large number of Pampans of all ages believe in lending a helping hand to their neighbors. They're volunteers working at the hospital, at Satellite School, at Genesis House and many other places. At left, W.A. Pershall hangs a mirror donated by Johnson's Furniture in Genesis House for Boys which opened last year. At Satellite School Katherine Reeve volunteers to help Betty Marshall with a project. Picture taking is another volunteer job, this time at Highland General Hospital where Susan Dunnigan captures Misty Brook Scribner's first day of life. They give not only of their time and talents, but they give our state services a special, unique quality — the quality of persons to persons caring and attention," Gov. Briscoe said in proclaiming this Texas Volunteer Week.

Grain compromise okays Amarillo exchange

By BILL CHOYKE
Pampa News
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — House Senate grain inspection compromise, reached Wednesday, could close Texas' two major export points, while allowing other inland terminals — such as the Amarillo Grain Exchange — to remain open as long as they behave themselves.

With Texas Congressmen playing a key role in the final package, the conferees agreed after being stalemated for months to let private and state agencies continue inspecting grain at all inland grain elevators, while turning over the inspection job at export areas to state or federal agencies.

Since all grain inspection in Texas is conducted through private systems, export terminals in Houston and Corpus Christi would have to close if Congress gives the agreement its final blessing and President Ford signs the bill.

Texans, such as Rep. Jack Hightower, who closely followed the bill, are pleased with the conference committee's final results. Although not a member of the House Conference team, Hightower is credited with playing a major role in assuring that House conferees did not accept Senate provisions which would have forced inland terminals at Amarillo and Fort Worth — and possibly Lubbock and Plainview — to turn over their inspection systems to federal officials.

The final package would permit the privately operated Texas inland terminals to continue for at least three years. However, at the same time it initiates federal supervision over the private system.

Under the bill, the administrator of the newly created Federal Grain Inspection service will review the private systems to determine if they are free of the corruption that has already led to more than 70 indictments nationally.

If the administrator finds instances of short weighing or misgrading, for example, he can move to have the private inland agencies closed.

Texas interests, primarily the inland ports at Amarillo and Fort Worth, hired the Washington law firm of former Texas Congressman Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls to lobby against federal inspection.

A member of the firm, Michael Andrews, told The Pampa News that his inland clients "can live with" the conference committee agreements.

In an interview before the compromise was reached, Hightower said he had joined House conferees on two occasions and had numerous meetings with House negotiators regarding the grain legislation.

He said that Panhandle grain interests, serviced mostly by the Amarillo Grain Exchange, were vehemently against federal inspection at inland terminals.

"We feel if we were government dominated the inspection fees would skyrocket and our services would become poor," said Sam Attebury, president of an Amarillo grain company and a director of the Exchange.

The Amarillo businessman also praised Hightower for being "very helpful" in arguing against federalization of the inland ports.

Rep. Eligio de la Garza, who along with Rep. W.R. Poage was one of two Texans on the conference committee, permitted the Texas State Legislature to establish a state inspection system for the export terminals.

The current bill allows only those state systems in operation by July 1 to continue operations. De la Garza, whose district boundaries lie close to Corpus Christi, had hoped to prevent federalization of the ports until 60 days after the next state legislature meets, thus allowing the Texas body to set up a program next year.

However, conferees rejected the suggestion.

The compromise also — Strengthens federal monitoring of grain weighing. — Adds a tough new ban on conflict of interests — but also gives the administrator the power to waive the provisions. — Orders the new agency, the USDA's Office of Investigation and the General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog agency, to investigate inspections at interior points for two years and to report to Congress their findings.

Steelman tells Pampanos Game sparks vandalism his plans for Senate

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

Alan Steelman, a Republican US Congressman from Dallas who wants to unseat Democrat Senator Lloyd Bentsen, brought his campaign to Pampa shortly before 11 a.m. today — about an hour behind schedule.

"It's hard to cover a state this size and stay on time," he told an audience at Republican Headquarters, 206 E. Kingsmill.

In an opening statement, the 34-year-old Congressman called for an even better estate tax law, closing a loophole in the Meat Import Act, cooperating between the state and federal governments in researching cattle disease, and the prevention of total federalization of grain inspection.

"I intend to make estate tax law revisions and improvements a primary goal in the Senate next year," he said, "so that heirs will not be forced to sell off the family farm just to pay estate taxes."

He said the new estate tax law could be improved by the deletion of "carry-over provisions" which will allow the government to tax some of the capital gains realized by previous owners.

Steelman discussed a letter he has written to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in which the Congressman demanded that a major loophole in the Meat Import Act of 1964 be closed.

The present law allows exporting nations, particularly Australia and New Zealand, to ship beef to Puerto Rico where it is diced and cubed and then sent to the U.S. in processed form. Steelman said, "If the Secretary does not resolve this within the current restraints, I will seek to make it part of the Statute next year."

Asked about Thursday evening debate between the Presidential candidates, Steelman said he watched, but "I'm not going to make any comment. I'm running for the United States Senate."

He said that he has tried to promote a Steelman-Bentsen debate and pointed out that in previous campaigns he has made it a policy to make joint appearances with opposing candidates.

Bentsen's response thus far has been, Steelman said, that it is impossible to schedule such joint appearances because of the pressure of other duties.

The Congressman was asked about Bentsen taking shots at Steelman's recent attendance record in the House.

Steelman admitted he has been spending much time campaigning during the past year, but he pointed out that "My attendance average for the first three years was in excess of 90 per cent and in no year has Mr. Bentsen's record been as good as mine."

He emphasized his point by saying that Bentsen's Senate attendance record is rated 88th — only 11 other senators with worse records.

Asked about his campaign financing, Steelman said "We don't have enough."

He said there currently is about $550,000 in the kitty and he estimated a need of "something like $800,000."

"I think there are ways to compensate for not having money," he added, then talked of his "sweat and shoe leather" style of campaigning.

He said that an "11-76" committee has been formed with the purpose of "trying to find 10,000 Texans who will give between $11 and $76 to the Lloyd Bentsen Retirement Fund."

It wasn't Steelman's first stop in Pampa on this campaign. He was here in April and then as this morning, he touted his "Sunset Bill."

Three Borger High School students were in the office of Tex Hanna, assistant principal, this morning after they confessed to stealing the Pampa High bell and depositing it in a bar ditch near Spearman.

The theft was part of a series of vandalistic acts Thursday night or early this morning which preceded the Borger-Pampa football game, one of the area's oldest interscholastic rivalries, tonight in Harvester Stadium.

The three Borger students — basketball players, according to Hanna — have been the only persons to confess. Vandalism included painting words on both schools' buildings, lettering the Pampa football field with salt and paint, and stealing the Borger mascot — a giant paper mache bulldog.

"It takes four good, strong boys to carry the bulldog," Hanna said, "and a pickup. It's huge."

The Bulldog was found Friday morning — atop the ticket booth at Harvester Stadium. Unlike the bell, it was unharmed.

"The police called me at 3 o'clock in the morning and they said the bell would either have to be replaced or repaired," said Ed Lehnick, Pampa athletic director, while mowing paint off the field in Harvester Stadium.

"I don't know how bad it is. I haven't seen it yet."

Lehnick seemed more peeved about the condition of the field. Another time this season, Pampa students salted the field while it was wet, causing the salt to soak to the ground, and the grass had taken weeks to grow back.

Luckily, the field had not been heavily watered recently.

"I've been through this once this year. It's the same old thing," Lehnick said. "My true comments right now wouldn't be quotable."

"It may not be too visible in daylight but you turn the lights on at night, and it might be a little different."

Lehnick and Melvin Beum, a maintenance man at the high school, mowed the painted grass today. A goal post had to be repainted, and red enamel lettering was scraped from the wall along the east side of the stadium.

Pampa High choir students on their way to class this morning noticed a wall on their building had received red paint (red and white are Borger's school colors). In turn, a Borger High School sidewalk was painted green and gold.

Gerald Rasco got a call about the time Lehnick did concerning the bell, which weighs 2,000 pounds and stays in a trailer. The trailer was taken from Rasco's house at 1619 Christine.

"Most of the time I keep it up at the school. I had it at my house last night," Rasco said. "There wasn't any particular reason it was there. I just had it there."

Rasco lives a block from the high school. "I don't know if they saw it from the field or somebody here told them."

Rasco said the bell's condition might not be too serious. "The police told me the bell was off of its trailer and the tongue was torn off. I hope that's all it is."

The bell was to be returned to Pampa some time today. The bulldog was taken back to Borger.

The Borger students turned themselves in prior to the start of the school today.

"I came to work at 7:30," Hanna said, "and those three boys at 7:45 said they had a problem. They told me they had the bell."

Paul Payne, Pampa High principal, hopes the vandalism will not carry over into tonight's game.

"It's very disgusting. You never know where these things lead to. Somebody's going to get hurt," Payne said. He added, "Things like this can lead to intervention by the University Interscholastic League and football teams can get on probation."

"You get tempers flared up then somebody hits an official. It can get out of hand."

Hanna said, "It's a bunch of melarchy. I played Pampa 25 years myself as a coach and we didn't have anything like this. We have more problems with kids now than we used to."

Hanna had to cut short the telephone conversation with this writer.

"Right now I've got some kids from Pampa in the parking lot painting cars."

NRA walking into trap

When pro-gun ownership groups — the National Rifle Association, for example — warn that the drive to further regulate and restrict the ownership of firearms could easily end in total confiscation, we agree and applaud their efforts to put the populace on guard. For firearms, we point out to our readers, are a form of property and a government which can deny you the right to own property in guns can deny you the right to own property in any form. Attacks on firearms, and the right to own them, thus translate into an attack on the concept of private property, itself.

We thought that the NRA and affiliated gun clubs were well aware of this. However, a recent news story leaves us wondering. Apparently beguiled by the lure of that "free money" from Washington and oblivious of the hidden hooks of regulations embedded therein, firearms enthusiasts around the country, the NRA included, are vigorously pushing for legislation which would, among other things, permit the use of federal funds to help private gun clubs build rifle ranges and other facilities. The bill, according to Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., its sponsor, and a member of the board of directors of the NRA, is designed to "teach kids how to use guns safely."

Now gun safety, for kids and adults, too, is undoubtedly a good thing and the NRA, which has been active in the field for years, is to be highly commended for its constructive efforts in that direction. But, if the NRA, or anyone else, for that matter, thinks that they can begin accepting millions of dollars in federal funds without being saddled with the federal controls that inevitably accompany such "gifts" of federal largess, they are indulging in the worst kind of wishful thinking.

Privately owned and operated gun clubs and federal funding are, in short, a contradiction in terms. The Dingell bill, itself, provides a pretty strong hint of more stringent controls to follow if the private clubs fall for the lure of federal money. As presently written and offered by Dingell, the bill specifies that "any ranges built and operated with the federal funds must be open to public use." Gun clubs which "must be open to public use" are no longer private, one hardly needs add.

Moreover, the U.S. Supreme Court has made it clear that whatever the federal government subsidizes it will control. In the case of Wickard vs. Filburn (317 U.S. 111, p. 131, October, 1942), the high tribunal ruled: "It is hardly lack of due process for the government to regulate that which it subsidizes."

As misguided individuals learned who thought that local control of schools could be maintained while accepting federal money for their operation, the high court meant what it said. Witness the widespread forced busing of school children in compliance with federal edicts.

The NRA, along with affiliated clubs, would do well to re-examine the Dingell package, and then cease lending it their support.

Federal funds mean federal controls. It is as simple as that.

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE

Reagan has powerful new role

By WILLIAM RUSHER

Ronald Reagan's millions of admirers all over America will undoubtedly be overjoyed to learn that their hero has no intention whatever of just "fading away." On the contrary, the course he has set for himself will very probably make him the undisputed chief spokesman of American conservatism in the years directly ahead.

It is a role Reagan is looking forward to with keen anticipation. At 65 he is realistic enough to know that the presidency is now beyond his reach. But he is in excellent health and high spirits, and his long career in motion pictures left him an independently wealthy man. Most important, Reagan's recent years in active politics have only deepened his lifelong interest in public affairs, and he profoundly believes in the conservatism he has preached so well. He intends to keep right on preaching it.

This week Reagan resumed the daily radio broadcasts that occupied his attention in the year between his step-down as governor of California and his declaration of active candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination. During 1975, his five-minute talks on conservative topics were broadcast Monday-

Friday on nearly 300 radio stations all over America, and their political impact was the subject of awed comments in the cloakrooms of Congress — and probably in the White House as well.

Reagan had to turn the broadcasts over to surrogates — notably Barry Goldwater — during his ten months on the campaign trail. But he has wasted no time resuming them now that Kansas City is behind him, and they are selling like hotcakes. It is estimated that, in view of all the publicity occasioned by his campaign, the number of stations buying his program may rise even higher now, perhaps as high as 500. If so, Reagan is going to be a political force to be reckoned with.

In addition to resuming his broadcasts (which of course cannot, under FCC rules, be used merely to tout a given candidate or political party), Reagan expects to do a certain amount of campaigning for the GOP between now and Election Day. But it may be questioned just how earnest the Republican campaign managers are about wanting the help that Reagan and his supporters stand ready to offer. (On New York's Long Island, for example — a traditional Reagan stronghold where three Republican congressional seats are in peril this fall — no serious effort has been made to enlist Reagan backers in the party's campaign.)

So it is probably after November 2, rather than before, that Reagan's major impact will be felt. If Carter wins, the pressures that Reagan can generate on public questions will almost certainly become one of the major factors in our national dialogue. After all, we are not exactly oversupplied with national conservative spokesmen at the moment, and Reagan is superbly equipped for the part — more so than ever, now that he can no longer be suspected of serving merely personal ends.

Much the same will be true even if Ford is elected. The Panama Canal issue, to take just one example, will be up for decision early in 1977 — and Ronald Reagan has neither changed his mind nor lost his voice.

Perhaps most important of all, Reagan's resumed career as a radio commentator will provide him with the perfect means whereby to guide, in the years ahead, the conservative movement whose hero and leader he has been. If the GOP loses the White House this November, the pressures for some major change in the political representation of the American conservative movement are going to become enormous. It is immensely reassuring to know that Ronald Reagan will still be around, deeply interested and both ready and able to help point the way.

OSCAR W. COOLEY After Thirty Years, Labor War Rages On

Pressured by labor union advocates and sundry liberals, Congress has enacted laws highly favorable to unions and highly restrictive to employers. Chief was the Taft Hartley, or revised Labor Management Relations Act, passed in 1947.

In order to get this law through, its promoters promised, and indeed wrote into the act, that it would "minimize industrial strife," stimulate "free flow of commerce" and check "recurrent business depressions." Strikes, it seems, were "burdening or obstructing commerce." The law promised to calm the troubled waters.

Thirty years have passed. Has it? On the contrary, the labor strike, once a last-ditch tactic by desperate workers, has become a standard weapon of labor, financed by funds taxed from members, deliberately planned by union strategists and held like a sword of Damocles over the head of the employer, ready to use every time the labor contract comes up for renewal.

Many industry-wide strikes have "burdened and obstructed" commerce over the years. Taft Hartley proving no preventive.

Neither the rubber nor the auto strike had the slightest economic justification. Both rubber and auto workers are among the highest paid factory workers in the nation. To raise their wages still higher will cause the already lofty cost of living to rise more. By pricing still more workers out of the market, it will also aggravate unemployment, now 7.9 percent of the labor force. It is a time when wages, as well as other prices, should be reduced, not raised.

The United Auto Workers wants 12 extra days off with pay. They already enjoy 32 1/2 days of vacation and holiday yearly. That members are not eager for more time off so much as they want more money in the pay envelope is shown by the fact that in 1973-74 General Motors workers took only 44 percent of their vacation allotments in time off. They worked during 56 percent of their supposed vacation in order to earn extra wage dollars.

On the 12 extra days off now demanded by the union, the UAW insists that the worker shall not be allowed to work and earn extra pay. The union aims to force the employer to hire more people, that is, to spread the available work.

Both the rubber and the auto companies offered raises, but these are apparently not enough. They never are. Union leaders habitually approach the bargaining table with a chip on their shoulder, intent upon throwing their weight around.

The working membership is not so belligerent. They want to work and earn, not sit on their hands and draw strike pay. But their wishes count for little. They must today to the Woodcocks and the Bluestones. And they cannot withdraw from the union without losing their jobs; the Taft Hartley law has seen to that.

Most recent strikes have ended with the employer agreeing to raise wages substantially. He then raises the price of his product in order to get the dollars needed to pay the increased wages. The buyers, responding to the simple law of demand, buy less of the now more costly product, and the maker, requiring less labor to make the reduced output, lays off some workers, or puts all on part time. Results: Fewer workers are employed, each at higher wages, or the same number work less time for the same money. And the consumers — who include everybody — have less product but at the same cost.

Another result should be noted: Enmity between employer and employees has been engendered. Every strike is a trial of strength, just as is every war, and the aftermath of hatred between the contenders is bitter. Immediately, both start getting ready for the next trial.

A particularly unlovely feature of the current auto clash was the UAW's announcement, before any serious bargaining had begun, that if a strike were necessary — and the union spokesman implied it very likely would be necessary — they would strike one firm only. Since in theory they are being grievously exploited by all the firms alike, why not strike them all at once?

The obvious reason is that the struck firm will suffer unbearably if the other firms are allowed to continue in operation, selling cars and taking over their ill-fated competitor's share of the market. Further, the public will be aroused less if the strike

There is great gain in godliness with contentment; for we brought nothing into the world, and we cannot take anything out of the world; but if we have food and clothing, with these we shall be content. — I Timothy 6:6, 7, 8.

Fords raise fair Arabians (Tri-State Fair, that is)

Four years ago the Kenneth Fords of Perryton didn't have a show horse on the place. Now their stable of registered Arabians has grown to 10 animals and the family participates in promoting the breed in the heart of Quarter Horse country. Tina Ford, 13, wanted to begin showing horses three years ago, her mother said as she stood in front of their green - draped tackroom in the horse barn at the Tri - State Fair in Amarillo

Tuesday. Her parents purchased AM Desert Draft, a registered Arabian mare, and she began competing in western pleasure classes. Tina rode the seven - year - old gray mare in western pleasure and competed in English pleasure aboard Ramigan during the Tri - State Fair. "We always come here (Amarillo)," Mrs. Ford said, "because this is our home show." Besides the Tri-State Fair, the Fords compete with their horses at the North Texas Amateur Arabian Association show in Waco and an amateur show in Oklahoma each year. "We hope to increase the popularity of the breed so other people might enjoy this pleasure animal," Mrs. Ford said. The Fords also own a young stallion which is in training with a professional trainer and is shown by the trainer. The problem of competing with professional trainers is one reason Mrs. Ford gives for not participating in any more shows each year. "You just can't expect a young person to be able to compete against professionals," Mrs. Ford said. Tina Ford used to be active in the 4-H program with her horse, but Mrs. Ford said she has dropped out. "They have Quarter Horse judges and they don't know how to judge Arabs," Mrs. Ford said. There is "a lot more formality" in showing Arabians, she added. The Fords Arabian operation is growing slowly. Mrs. Ford said Tina shows only in western and English pleasure right now and she will begin competing in more classes as she becomes more experienced. Another daughter, a college student, is not interested in horses. Ford Arabians does not have its own stallion for breeding purposes yet, Mrs. Ford said. They take their mares to outside stallions. "Whatever fault your mare has you try to compensate for with the stallion," Mrs. Ford said. "You're trying to build a perfect horse. Of course, you're not ever going to do that..."

Hicks connected to drug ring

McCarthy fights for ballot slot

FORT WORTH Tex. (AP) — Independent presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy will most likely go to the Supreme Court today in an effort to get his name on the ballot in Texas, one of his lawyers says.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans ruled Thursday that McCarthy won the right to have his name on the ballot in Texas but that he did it too late for the November general election.

That is what a three-judge federal panel in Austin ruled Sept. 2 although it struck down portions of Texas' election code. The federal panel in Austin struck down those parts of the election code that prevented independent candidates for the offices of president, vice-president and presidential electors getting on the ballot.

Don Gladden of Fort Worth, who helped argue McCarthy's case before the three judges in Austin, said following Thursday's decision that he contemplated filing an appeal with Supreme Court Justice Lewis Powell.

"We went to Powell earlier,"

Gladden said, "but he turned us down on grounds of jurisdiction. So we went to the 5th Circuit. Now that we've satisfied the jurisdictional question, we hope that Powell will be in a position of looking at it (the appeal) on its merits."

Gladden said the basis for the appeal to Powell will be that "almost under identical circumstances, federal district courts in Delaware and Florida have ordered him on the ballot without the necessity of showing local community support."

The New Orleans court said the limited time remaining before the Nov. 2 election will not permit McCarthy to prove he has enough community support to merit his being on the ballot. McCarthy filed suit asking the 5th Circuit to force Texas to put his name on the ballot.

"We are...regretfully constrained to agree with the district court because the complaint was so lately filed, there is insufficient time for a court to devise a petition requirement for ascertaining whether McCarthy has substantial community support in Texas without disrupting the entire election process in that state," the 5th Circuit said in a brief, unsigned opinion.

There was no reference in the decision on the Texas case to a related suit filed by the state of Florida.

In that case, Florida is asking the 5th Circuit to overturn a lower court order that McCarthy's name be placed on the ballot in that state.

McCarthy says he will be on the ballots in 11 states. Legal action on the Texas struggle began July 30, when McCarthy, Paul Spragens and Ronald C.

Engle filed suit against Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Secretary of State Mark W. White Jr.

The suit asked that McCarthy be on the ballot as a presidential candidate and that Spragens and Engle be listed as candidates for posts as electors pledged to McCarthy.

McCarthy then asked the U.S. Supreme Court to force the lower court to order his name put on the ballot, but that request was denied nine days ago. He then asked the 5th Circuit for help, and that was denied Thursday.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in the process of having some root canal work done, which is no picnic, but that's not my problem. It's my dentist. While he works, he whistles through his teeth.

I wouldn't mind a little Herb Alpert or Burt Bacharach, but no, my dentist keeps whistling "Easter Parade" over and over again until I am ready to scream?

Not only that, but he calls me "Mrs. Grassfield," and my name is Mrs. Greenfield.

Should I deduct 20 per cent from my bill for aggravation?

MRS. GREENFIELD

DEAR MRS. GREENFIELD: You could try. Maybe he's already added 20 per cent for entertainment.

DEAR ABBY: I recently moved to this city to be near my married son and his family. Although my son and his wife have many fine traits, they use foul language that I find very offensive.

I frequently babysit with their children (ages 5 and 9), and I am horrified to hear these children use the same vulgar four-letter words their parents use.

I have told my son and his wife it offends me, and I've asked them not to allow their children to talk that way, but they say I'm old-fashioned and prudish, and everybody talks that way today. (Do they?)

I was also told I'm not to discipline their children because that's the parents' job.

Have our values become so depraved that clean speech, modesty and respect for others no longer exist? What am I to do?

HEARTBROKEN IN HARTFORD

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: You can decline to babysit with your grandchildren. Clean speech, modesty and respect for others still exist in some homes, but unfortunately not in your son's.

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen a problem like mine in your column.

I have two fathers who are equally dear to me. My "real" (biological) father and my adoptive father.

When I was four, my parents were divorced, but my father always kept in close touch and let me know that he loved me all the years I was growing up.

My mother remarried when I was six, and I can truthfully say that my adoptive father could not have been more wonderful to me.

I am being married at a church wedding. My problem is which father I should choose to give me away. I don't want to hurt the feelings of either father by choosing the other. It was suggested that the ideal solution would be to have an uncle give me away. Please help me.

TORN

DEAR TORN: Why not ask both fathers to share the honor? And when the clergyman asks, "Who gives this bride away?" both fathers can respond in unison, "We do." Check this out with your clergyman. You are twice blessed.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A few years ago I had a hysterectomy and have been taking a pill called Premarin ever since. I was told I would have to take them for as long as I live. I'm now 35 years old. I would like to know why I should keep taking this pill and if I stop taking it what effect it would have on me?

Recently a doctor's nurse told me she had the same operation and has not taken any medicine since. It appears some doctors believe it should be taken and others believe the opposite. One doctor told me it would keep me younger looking. Is this so? I know many women would like an answer about this pill. No one seems to know much about it yet millions are taking it.

DEAR READER — Premarin is a mixture of various fractions of the female hormone, estrogen. It is normally used to replace estrogens if a woman is low in female hormones.

During a hysterectomy a doctor may remove the ovaries, depending upon the case. If he does so in a young woman she will have an early menopause. Estrogens are given to replace her normal hormone production. Even if the ovaries are not removed, the blood supply to them may be damaged, during surgery and they may not continue to function as well as before.

Now there are variations in the need for the hormones. If a woman's adrenal cortex — the little gland over both kidneys — produces enough female hormones a woman may not have too much difficulty. Some women don't have this source of hormones to fall back on and don't produce enough.

The same situation applies to a woman when she goes through the menopause, or better stated, when her ovaries normally degenerate and stop functioning. If she produces enough hormones from other sources she may not have many changes but if she is not so fortunate then she will undergo changes associated with the menopause.

The estrogen hormones will help a woman who needs them for replacement in a number of respects. They help prevent changes in the cells of the vagina. They help prevent cellular changes in part of the bladder that often lead to recurrent bladder infections. The hormones prevent hot flashes. The rest of the benefits of female hormones is a subject for debate. Some claim they help prevent heart disease and perhaps degeneration of the bones.

The dangers are associated with an increased risk of cancer of the lining of the uterus that I have spoken of before. If you have had a hysterectomy as you have that is not a consideration.

Estrogen hormones are not advisable in patients who have epilepsy, migraines, asthma, cardiac or kidney diseases or other disease associated with an accumulation of fluid. The hormones cause the body to retain sodium just as the natural ones do.

In young women such as you, if there is no major reason against taking the medicine it is usually better to take it after a hysterectomy if the ovaries are removed or damaged.

Those interested in more information about female hormones can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 5-12, Menopause. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is that I cannot find men's socks in size nine and a half. The stretch socks seem to be for sizes from ten to thirteen. There are many men who need size eight and a half to nine. I am sure they would appreciate finding them in the stores. — MRS. S.K.

DEAR POLLY — When my hand towels start to get thin and are neither efficient nor pretty, I either sew two or three of them together or sew two partially worn washcloths together and then sew those to a hand towel. They fit together well. Sometimes I sew four worn washcloths together to make wonderful cloths for washing and drying the car or for all washing, etc. They are a good size for many jobs and are the first cloths my family look for when they are going to wash the car, floors and so on. Such cloths would also be great for drying pets. They are so soft and absorbent and last for ages longer. Many have copied my idea. By zigzagging them together on the sewing machine, they are strong and a bit fancy, too. — MRS. G.C.

Parents believe commune children more self-sufficient, realistic

DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

They are children who sometimes know several adults as their parents. They are children who at an early age perform household and community chores. They are children who take part in decisions long before others their age.

Commune kids: Youngsters who live with their parents, brothers and sisters and other adults and children under one roof much in the tradition of an extended family. Some are the sons and daughters of the counterculture generation of the past decade. Others are offspring of very straight middle-class parents.

But they all share one thing in common: they are being raised in an unconventional way because their parents no longer think the traditional, two-parent household works.

And though communal living may seem fraught with pitfalls, especially to those raised in the classic nuclear family, some social scientists say the commune youngsters are developing well. They believe these children often are more self-sufficient, realistic and better-behaved than children raised in traditional ways.

Commune parents couldn't agree more.

"The commune has been really good for her," said Tilda, the mother of 2½-year-old Shana. "She gets a lot of different things from different people — things George and I couldn't give her. She already has a broad background, not because she's a genius child, but because of the diverse people in her life."

Shana and her parents live with four other adults in a 20-room house in a New York suburb. The house members, like many commune dwellers, shun publicity and did not want their entire names used.

Matthew Harris is the 6½-year-old son of a social worker and a university chaplain. They live on a 100-year-old farm overlooking orchards and fields in northern Maryland. Three other adults and a boy Matthew's age also live in the 10-room, Victorian farmhouse.

Matthew is puzzled when he visits his grandparents, because they don't share chores around the house as his group does.

"He's had a chance to experience very broadly and test skills with a variety of people," said Kathryn Harris, his mother. "He's self-confident and knows it and can explore new situations with a confidence I never had."

"Matthew's a very self-sufficient child. He usually has something to say about decisions regarding him, and his opinion is taken with varying degrees of credibility."

Part of the reason it may be surprising that commune children seem to be thriving, is the free-love and drug image the word "commune" evokes from the general public. Certainly it's a unconventional way of life and the number of youngsters being raised this way is small.

But the "drug freak" image of communes is a hangover from the 1960s. It no longer applies to most.

Some have developed into homes for everyone from banking executives and ordained ministers to schoolteachers and dress designers.

In fact, the Special Approaches in Juvenile Assistance program in Washington, D.C., places runaways in many urban communes.

"Most communes set limits," said Dr. Kenneth Keniston, chairman of the Carnegie Council on Children. "They may not be traditional ones, but they set limits."

At The Farm, an agrarian commune of 800 or so in the rolling foothills of southwestern Tennessee, children are raised in a rather old-fashioned way: respect your parents and walk the straight and narrow.

"We tell our kids where it's at," says Stephen Gaskin, the bearded San Francisco dropout who founded the 1,800-acre community over six years ago. "I think the idea of letting kids go crazy until they're 6 years old and then putting them in public school where they have to snap to right now is a funny way to treat a kid."

Children on The Farm, when not in the commune's state-accredited school, are free to play most of the day if they're tiny tots. They work with the group's many crews if they are older.

Mail is delivered daily by 16-year-old Barbara MacQueen on horseback.

"It takes me a couple of hours to deliver all the mail," she said. "There usually are stacks and stacks of pieces."

She lives in a large compound with others her age. Two married couples live there to help guide the young adults.

"A lot of teens come there from the outside who don't have parents, so we really need the presence of a family," she said.

Over at the stables Katherine Moore, 13, gently coaxed a mare from a stall so her day-old foal could be fed.

"We lived in Berkeley, Calif., before we moved here," said Katherine, who has warm, brown eyes and ready smile. "I never even touched a horse there."

That was three years ago. Now she can shoe a horse and helps give riding lessons to other farm members.

This is not to say that there aren't problems for commune children. Some commune observers report children living in such isolation they barely know what plumbing or electricity are, have never watched television or heard a radio and don't know how to shop with money because they've never been to a store.

Tarantulas are 'in' pets

ELK GROVE VILLAGE, Ill. (AP) — The "in" thing in pets is tarantulas, but scorpions are coming, says a dealer in pets.

"Very few people walk into the shop to buy tarantulas, but when they see them they are intrigued," said Tom Krause, co-owner of Noah's Ark pet shop, a major outlet in the Chicago area for the furry fellows.

"It's impulse buying. They think they are getting something the Joneses don't have," he said. "We don't sell to kids under 18 unless they are accompanied by their parents. We buy them from suppliers five dozen at a crack and they are shipped in containers."

He said he's sold 800 tarantulas so far this year — up 25 per cent over a year ago — and thousands of live crickets to feed them.

"Now we are getting requests for scorpions from some exotic pet fanciers who have gone through lizards, snakes and tarantulas and are looking for something new to amaze their friends."

Krause said he has only two "poor man's scorpions" in stock for $10 each. They are called Vinegaroons, he said, and don't even belong to the scorpion family, although they look like them. They aren't poisonous, either.

About 90 per cent of tarantula species are harmless, said Krause, who retails them from $10 to $40 for one with a leg spread of six inches. They eat a couple of crickets a day that sell for 50 cents a dozen.

One of the country's tarantula specialists, Esther Lewis, 59, of suburban Lisle, said she "doesn't approve of tarantulas being sold, but if they are it should be under controlled conditions for educational purposes."

"Kids are so hard up for excitement these days they buy them to scare people with," said Mrs. Lewis, who has had them ever since she plucked one from a banana stalk in a Mount Ayr, Iowa, grocery store when she was a young girl.

And there are even a few celebrated horror stories. John Rothchild and Susan Wolf, authors of "The Children of the Counterculture," tell of children who experience sex before age 12, either with an adult or each other, take drugs and become bored and listless from too much time and too much freedom with none of the limits Dr. Keniston and other psychologists say children must have.

But, adds author Wolf: "In the many communes we visited, we saw no skirt-clutchers or thumb-suckers, no leg-biters or couch-hiders, no victims of stage fright, no children for whom parents gave the apology. 'It takes them time to warm up to strangers.'"

There are few limits for the children of Yea God, a spiritual commune of 40 in the lush hills of New York's southern tier. Yea God children may wander around the 70 acres of mostly undeveloped land, swim in the large fresh water pond or sit in the sandpile near the great communal dome. They do not read books, listen to music or watch television.

"I like it here," said 6-year-old Sunshine, who lives in a teepee with her mother. "I can stay outside as long as I want. But I like the pond best."

Sunshine, a name given to her when she joined the commune, does not use her real name. She said she sometimes pulls weeds from the large vegetable garden near the front gate or goes exploring in the woods with other children her age.

She wore a long, cotton floral dress that almost reached her bare feet. Large, red marks from insect bites dotted exposed parts of her body.

"It's fun here. The people are fun," she said.

There also are few limits for Alpha, an 8-year-old who lives with two other children and seven adults in a house not far from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He shares a bedroom and a toy area near the kitchen with the other boy and girl.

His parents share a bedroom with another woman. When asked about this, Alpha shrugged his shoulders, and returned to a junk heap not far from his house where he spends most of his time alone, idling.

But there are limits for 5-year-old Murray Richards and 6-year-old Corly Stein who live with their parents and another family in a middle-class commune in northern New Jersey. These children participate in all household chores. Their parents, as a group, designate mealtimes and bedtime. The children are allowed to create their own playtime once chores are finished. Both children can cook complete meals and shop with ease in any store.

Many commune youngsters do not stand in awe of naked bodies because their shower and bath sessions are communal, either all men, all women or both. Many others, particularly those living in rural areas, know about birth and death because they very often see farm animals dying or giving birth to their young. In some communes, they are also permitted to be present during a human birth.

"A lot of parents in the commune situation say that children are primarily people — perhaps less sophisticated and less competent," said Bennett Berger, a sociologist at the University of California. "And, if they want to smoke dope and if there's no demonstrable harm, that's okay. If they want to have sex and there's no demonstrable harm that's okay. If they fight, then they must settle their own disputes because that's what life is all about."

Peet to lead CF campaign

R. Peet, 2230 Duncan, is leading the fight locally against crippling lung diseases in children. He is organizing the Cystic Fibrosis "Kiss A Baby Campaign" now.

The outlook for this first generation of C-F adults is brighter than ever before, for research is leading to a better understanding of this complex genetic disease and more hope for a control or cure.

But there is still a long way to go to really beat the odds against lung-damaged youngsters. There is still the cure or control for cystic fibrosis to be found. And, for the children living with C-F today, the need for a cure is right now.

The choir is open to any youth aged 5-13 who loves to sing and who does not attend another church.

Rev. Williams said the choir is working on "The Prodigal Son" and will soon begin "The Story-tellin' Man," a children's musical.

Persons interested should call 669-3144.

Gospel sing will be Oct. 2

"Remembrance," a gospel group from San Jacinto Baptist Church in Amarillo will sing at the Pampa Chapel of the Apostolic Faith, 711 E. Harvester, at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 2. The public is invited to the gospel music program.

Sowing and Reaping

Paul used a striking figure of speech in Gal. 6: 7, when he said, "Be not deceived, God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." If you mixturnip seed with mustard seed you probably would not be able to tell the difference between them. But if you plant them, the turnip seed will produce turnips and the mustard seed will produce mustard. There has never been a mustard seed that made a turnip or a turnip seed that made mustard.

This is God's unchangeable law in the natural world. A man may honestly sow the wrong kind of seed to get the crop he desires, but his honesty will not change God's law. He will reap what he sows. God's purpose in this law of sowing and reaping is for man's own good. However, men sometimes use this law to their own disadvantage. Morally and spiritually men often sow the wrong kind of seed in their field (life). But the wages of sin is death and there is no way to escape it.

We are fortunate in the material realm, in that this law of God does not vary. If we know what we want, we know what seed to plant. If we want corn or wheat we plant the proper seed. The result is a harvest according to the seed planted. If it were not for this unchanging law, we could not survive on the earth.

Those who sow "wild oats" are deceived. Learning the truth about this deception will be a terrible thing. There is no way to escape the consequences of evil thoughts, words, or deeds as long as one continues in them. When such a one faces his record in the judgment, he will see it as he has never seen it before.

There are just two ways to sow. "He that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption, but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting" (Gal. 6: 8). In one way or the other, we are all sowing. We can no more stop sowing than we can stop time from passing. And we shall reap as we sow. How are YOU sowing?

Make a Wish

FOR HIS FUTURE

A birthday party really thrills the children, and probably the climax comes when they blow out the candles, and make a wish. His wish would probably be for a bright shiny new toy, but you as a parent would wish for him the things that really count, such as good health, happiness, friends and along with these deeper and more serious things should be a prayer for him to have the right interest and relationship to God. You can help these things by taking him to church

Teams enter game coming off big wins

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Pampa and Borger, both coming off impressive victories, meet in a situation neither is accustomed to at 7:30 p.m. today in Harvester Stadium.

The teams will be non-conference opponents for one of the few times in history. Borger was reclassified from District 3-AAAA to 1-AAA prior to the school year due to a drop in enrollment.

"It will probably lose a little as far as fan interest but it's such an old, traditional rivalry," Pampa Coach John Welborn said. "We'll be playing for bragging rights. I'm sure Borger will come into it pretty high emotionally."

Borger surprised Hereford, 28-21, last week, while Pampa stunned Perryton, the state's fourth-ranked Class AAA team according to United Press International, 12-3.

Borger previously had dropped two 14-6 decisions to Lubbock and Snyder. Pampa lost to Hereford, 20-12, in the opener, then whipped Dumas, 21-8.

Borger has tremendously improved over last year and over the start of this year. I think the win over Hereford really helped them," Welborn said.

Mike Ennis, a 140-pound sophomore tailback, scored three touchdowns, including one on a 75-yard kickoff return, to spark Borger to the win over Hereford, the favorite in District 4-AAAA.

Ennis will alternate with Miles Parker. Borger's leading rusher with 245 yards on 56 carries for a 4.4 average. Other Bulldog backs are 215-pound fullback Kurt Smith (37 rushes for 141 yards) and wingback Danny Hinds (eight for 53. 6.6 average).

The Bulldogs probably will run outside often against the Harvesters, whose defense has shown considerable improvement since the start of the year (one touchdown in two games). Borger's ends — Dennis Rion and Bobby Scott — are considered strong blockers, each weighing 200 pounds.

"They have two real fine blocking and receiving tight ends," Welborn said. "I think they've probably got their bigger people on offense and they're going with the little bit smaller, quicker, more aggressive people on defense.

"They're not bad, defensively. They got way ahead of Hereford then probably relaxed a little bit." Borger led Hereford 28-7 at one point in the third quarter.

Borger's defense will have the task of stopping halfback Ricky Moore and fullback David Caldwell, the main cogs in Pampa's vaunted running game.

Defensively, the Harvesters may be without linebacker Frank Stowers, who has missed school this week because of an illness. Taking his place probably will be Randy Ford.

Linebacker Pat Bailey, who seemingly has fully recovered from a back injury, noseguard Marvin Oliver and tackles Terry McBride and Charles Copeland lead Pampa defensively.

Pampa's secondary intercepted four passes against Perryton.

The Harvesters trailed 3-0 at halftime, then won on a pair of touchdown runs by quarterback Mike Lancaster. The Harvesters, in their biggest scoring drive of the season, marched 95 yards for the first touchdown.

Big plays in that drive were a 57-yard run by Moore and a 14-yard pass to Phil George on a fourth down and 10 play.

Liberal rips Pampa JV

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Someone once said, "Practice makes perfect." After watching Liberal, Kan., crush Pampa, 20-0, in a junior varsity football game Thursday in Harvester Stadium, one might think that the originator of that line didn't play football.

"I'm shocked," Liberal Coach Mike McClure said. "Yesterday (Wednesday) was the first practice we've had as a team. I'm excited. We were scared to death coming down here.

"Our future looks good." That is obvious. Liberal piled up 222 yards on the ground and bruisingly held Pampa to 122 rushing yards. The Shockers' biggest play in the first quarter went for one yard.

"We felt like we controlled the line of scrimmage on defense real well. Offensively, we fired off the ball and executed. Martin surprised the coaching staff."

Martin is Jeff Martin, who scored all three touchdowns, one on a 79-yard punt return in the third quarter. He circled left end for 15 yards and a TD in the second quarter and dived over from a yard out in the final period.

Fullback Mark Duensing ran over the conversion after Liberal's first touchdown.

Both Martin and Duensing finished the game with 79 yards rushing. Pampa's leading ground gainer was Todd Chumbley with 56 yards on 11 totes.

The Shockers' deepest penetration of the night was to the Liberal 29. Five lost fumbles in the game and three 15-yard penalties in the second half kept the Shockers from sustaining a drive. The punting of Pampa's Rick Dougherty (six kicks for a 36.5 average) and 14 Liberal penalties for 100 yards kept the game from being a runaway.

"We just make too many mistakes. We had too many busted assignments offensively," Pampa Coach Scott Dunnham said.

"They (Liberal) have a good ball club."

Leading Liberal's defense were end Dale Weber and linebacker Tracy Sanders.

Pampa, 2-2 for the season, managed 11 first downs, compared to Liberal's 15.

Dougherty completed three of six passes for 29 yards. Jimmy Grimes of Liberal hit on two of seven tosses for 15 yards. Grimes also rushed for 60 yards on 11 attempts.

The Shockers host Borger Oct. 7. Liberal visits Lamar, Colo., Monday.

Phillies regain seasonal form

By ALEX SACHARE

The Philadelphia Phillies are talking, and more importantly playing, like winners once again.

"Only a monumental collapse can beat us now, and we're not capable of that," said veteran catcher Tim McCarver, whose two-run homer helped Philadelphia beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-3 Thursday night behind the pitching of Steve Carlton, who posted his 19th victory.

"That's the way we played the first part of the year," observed Carlton. "We're starting to play again like we know how."

The victory kept the Phils six full games ahead of second-place Pittsburgh in the National League East, offsetting the Pirates' 5-4, 10-inning triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

In the only other National League game, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the San Francisco Giants 4-1. New York at Montreal was postponed by rain and cold weather.

The Phils' magic number is now five — any combination of five Philadelphia wins or Pittsburgh losses will give the Phils the division title.

Carlton, 19-6, gave up seven hits and struck out nine over the first eight innings before tiring. Ron Reed pitched a scoreless ninth.

The Phils broke the game open with three runs in the fourth inning, two of them on McCarver's third home run of the season.

Three players were hit by pitches in the late innings. In the bottom of the eighth, Cards reliever Al Hrabosky — raked in the eighth inning Wednesday night when the Phillies scored eight runs — hit Bobby Tolan and Greg Luzinski with pitches.

The Phillies claimed it was deliberate, that Hrabosky was angry and frustrated by his earlier performance. In the ninth, a pitch from Reed hit the Cards' leadoff hitter, Hector Cruz.

PJH freshmen top Hereford

Doug Smith scored in the first quarter and ran over the conversion, then Pampa added another touchdown in the second period to clip Hereford LaPlata in freshman varsity action Thursday at Pampa Junior High.

Quarterback Joe Jeffers scored the second TD on a keeper, then passed to Keenan Henderson for the conversion in the second period. Pampa finished with 240 yards total offense; 180 in the first.

"Defense played a great game," Coach Mike Brent said. "Defensive standouts were Scotty Andrew, Keith Stone and Duane Avery."

Pampa is now 2-0 for the season.

The Pampa High sophomores blanked the ninth-grade

B-team, 30-0, in an unscheduled contest. The freshmen were scheduled to meet Hereford LaPlata, which forfeited because of the lack of players.

Julian Clark, Richard Wuest and Kerry Adair scored touchdowns rushing for the sophomores, while Roger Paulson scored on a 60-yard pass.

The Pampa eighth-grade red team fell behind, 16-6, after the first quarter and lost 16-12 to Perryton in a game played at Shocker Field.

Bobby Dorsey passed 45 yards to Steve McDougal for the first Pampa score, and Mike Lamberson scored in the final quarter on a three-yard plunge.

Tam Bailey and John Shilling were defensive standouts for Pampa, according to Coach Joe Holland.

The red team fell to 1-1.

The Pampa Blue team also evened its record at 1-1, falling to host Borger, 16-0. Pampa was stopped once on the two-yard line and later dropped a pass in the end zone.

"Defensively, we looked great. We hit as well as I have ever seen a junior high team hit," Pampa Coach Mark McMinn said.

Andy Richardson recovered two fumbles for the blue team. Lenny Diaz ran back a punt 50 yards and, according to McMinn, played well on defense.

Oakland keeps slim hopes alive

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Royals had the opportunity to slam the door in Oakland's face, but the A's still have their feet inside.

"We're very confident," said Oakland's Sal Bando.

The New York Yankees had the chance to seal the door on Baltimore, but the Orioles still see a crack.

"It's possible they'll continue to lose more games," said Baltimore's Rick Dempsey. "The Philadelphia Phillies blew it in 1964 somehow."

The runnersup in the two American League divisional races remained on the critical list, but both still had a wisps of hope after "must" victories over the leaders Thursday night.

The A's refused to die with an 8-1 rout of Kansas City that moved them within five games of the West leaders. The Orioles shocked the Yankees 2-1 to sweep their four-game series and climb within 7½ games of the East front-runners.

"We might have instilled some doubt in them," said Bando after the A's second straight rout of the Royals.

Acknowledging a possible pennant race in the West, Oakland pitcher Mike Torrez said: "We know we have to win every game. Hopefully, Texas will give us a little help. And we're going to have to sweep in Chicago."

The Orioles face more of an impossible mission, since the Yankees' "magic number" for clinching their division is merely three. However, Dempsey, the Baltimore catcher, is hoping for a miracle.

"I don't really think there's any way they can blow it," said Dempsey. "But they really have to break their necks now. If we win all our games I think they'll really have to go hard to win three."

In other American League action, the Boston Red Sox routed the Milwaukee Brewers 10-3; the Minnesota Twins blanked the Chicago White Sox 3-0 and the Texas Rangers nipped the California Angels 6-5.

Torrez hurled a five-hitter to lead Oakland's victory. Torrez, 15-11, was in control all the way, allowing a lone run in the sixth on singles by Tom Pquette, Amos Otis and John Mayberry.

Taking the loss was Kansas City starter Dennis Leonard, 17-9, who gave up five runs in the first two innings. The A's pounded seven hits, but were aided by nine walks, three wild pitches and one hit batter.

Red Sox 10, Brewers 3
Jim Rice, Bob Montgomery, Dwight Evans and Jack Baker featured a 12-hit attack with home runs, powering Boston over Milwaukee. Veteran Boston left-hander Bill Lee, 5-7, posted his first complete-game victory since Aug. 24, 1975, scattering nine hits.

Twins 3, White Sox 0
Larry Hise tripled leading off the eighth inning to break up Ken Brett's no-hitter and scored on Craig Kusick's sacrifice fly as Minnesota beat Chicago.

Unyielding defense

Liberal, Kan.'s David Pennington tackles Todd Chumbley of the Pampa Shockers behind the line of scrimmage in Thursday night's junior varsity action in Harvester Stadium. Liberal won, 20-0, after allowing only 151 total yards. Chumbley was Pampa's leading rusher with 56 yards on 11 carries. (Pampa News photo by Michal Thompson)

Dallas, Houston host Colts, Raiders Sunday

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

There's an old adage in pro football: You don't want to play a team used to winning after it's lost and you don't want to play a team used to losing after it's won. — The Wit and Wisdom of Lou Holtz

Sounds logical. A perennial winner which has just suffered an unexpected setback is likely to come out roaring in order to rectify the situation. A loser which has just pulled off an upset may well become a believer in itself, play over its head and pull off another one.

Holtz' New York Jets face the first half of the quandary in Sunday's National Football League action. They visit the Miami Dolphins, who got shocked last weekend. The Pittsburgh Steelers face the second half, hosting the New England Patriots, who did the shocking.

In Sunday's other action it's Buffalo at Tampa Bay, Green Bay at Cincinnati, Atlanta at Chicago, Minnesota at Detroit, New Orleans at Kansas City, Oakland at Houston, Baltimore at Dallas, Cleveland at Denver, the New York Giants at Los Angeles, St. Louis at San Diego and San Francisco at Seattle. On Monday night it's Washington at Philadelphia.

"This is a time not to panic, to believe in what you're doing, to learn from your mistakes... and to try to put everything back together," said Coach Don Shula, whose Dolphins were belted 30-14 by the upstart Pats.

"After a beating like we took, the whole attitude becomes more somber," he added. "I think everybody gets a little more serious after a loss."

If that's the case, then the Jets are downright grim. They've suffered through two losses, the latter a 46-3 humiliation in Denver. Neither Joe Namath nor top rookie Richard Todd could move the team with any success and the club had to play a futile game of catch-up after giving up 23 second-period points.

"The Jets are somewhat of a mystery so far," Shula observed. "But if you analyze the things you know about them, they still have great offensive ability, starting with Joe and his receivers."

The Patriots scored their stunner on the arm and legs of second-year quarterback Steve Grogan, who threw three touchdown passes and scored a fourth on a 13-yard run. "He has a feeling for the running game," said Coach Chuck Fairbanks. "I don't want him to run a whole lot. But it's not a bad idea to take advantage of his strength."

One of the Steelers' strengths gets stronger Sunday with the return of Lynn Swann, knocked out of commission with a concussion in the season-opening loss at Oakland. The Pittsburgh running game is already as sound as can be with two backs, Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier, among the top 10 in the American Conference.

Miller leads Kaiser, gets ace during round

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller picked the ball out of the cup and gave a jaunty little wave to his mother and father, standing a couple of hundred yards away on the lawn of Miller's home.

He'd just scored a hole in one, mentioned he figured his mother "probably thought that was real neat," and then, stopping to chat with neighbors, watching his kids playing in the gallery, strolled — casual as could be — to a course-record 63 and a two-stroke lead in the first round of the $175,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

He was so relaxed and easy-going, so obviously enjoying himself, one tour regular observed he may be "so relaxed he could fall down and break a leg."

"I work at being relaxed," Miller said after his phenomenal round. Then he offered that shy little smile that has helped put him in such demand as a male model.

Pampa hosts tourney, opens with Perryton

Pampa hosts Berger and Perryton in an invitational round-robin girls' volleyball tournament Saturday in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Harvesters, 10-1 for the season, face Perryton at 9 a.m., Hereford at 1 p.m. and Berger at 5:30.

Hereford and Berger meet at 10:30 a.m., Perryton and Berger at 2:30 p.m. and Hereford and Perryton at 4 o'clock.

The champion will be the team with the most wins. Pampa won the Berger tournament title by one match. Berger was second.

The Harvesters, in their last action, whipped Perryton, 15-7, 15-7, Monday in the Rangers' gymnasium.

No. 1 Wolverines meet Navy

By The Associated Press
Michigan, now comfortably established as the nation's No. 1 college football team, is expected to make things very uncomfortable for Navy's sinkable Middies Saturday.

The Wolverines, who led The Associated Press poll by only one point over Ohio State after struggling to a 40-27 victory over Wisconsin in their opening game, widened the gap over the Buckeyes to 158 points after mauling Stanford 51-0 last week.

Michigan has a powerful offense keyed around a devoting running game that produced 516 yards against Stanford and led Navy Coach George Welsh to proclaim that the Wolverines have "the best all-around backfield I have ever seen in college football."

"I hope our team understands there's always a chance," Welsh said, not sounding confident of an upset.

While Michigan figures to down the Middies, second-ranked Ohio State will meet giant-killer Missouri.

Both Michigan and Ohio State will be at home, as will the next five teams in the rankings.

No. 3 Pitt entertains Temple, fourth-ranked Oklahoma plays Florida State, fifth-rated UCLA faces the Air Force at night, No. 6 Nebraska opposes Texas Christian and seventh-ranked Georgia meets South Carolina.

Meanwhile, eighth-rated Maryland plays at Syracuse and No. 9 Texas A&M battles Houston in the Astrodome at night. Tenth-ranked Kansas is idle.

Among the Second Ten, it will be Iowa at No. 11 Penn State, Tulsa at 12th-ranked Arkansas, Vanderbilt at 13th-rated Alabama, Baylor at No. 14 Illinois in a regionally televised game, Rice at 15th-ranked Louisiana State at night, 16th-rated North Carolina at Army, No. 17 Mississippi at Southern Mississippi at night, 18th-ranked Boston College at Tulane at night, No. 19 Southern California at Purdue, and 20th-ranked Texas Tech at New Mexico at night.

Other regionally televised games include San Jose State at Stanford, Massachusetts at Harvard, Tennessee against Auburn at Birmingham, Ala.; Madison, Va., at Hampden-Sydney and Jackson, Miss., at Mississippi Valley.

Unpredictable Missouri upset Southern Cal in its opener, then in turn was upset by Illinois, causing a perplexing problem for this week's opponent, Ohio State.

"We'll assume the real Missouri team is the one that played Southern California," said Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes. "Missouri is explosive but evidently it had a little let-down after its great game at Southern Cal. You can bet they'll be on the way back... and you can bet we'll be waiting for them."

Missouri, however, will not be as explosive as Hayes thinks because injured first-string quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz will not play.

Pitt also has lost its quarterback — Bob Haygood — for Saturday's game against Temple, and for the season. He was injured last week, putting the pressure on junior Matt Cavanaugh, the Panthers' only quarterback with experience.

Oklahoma, unbeaten in 26 straight intersectional games, including post-season contests, and 34-1-1 under Coach Barry Switzer, should not have much trouble with Florida State, a 47-0 loser against Miami, Fla., last week. Nevertheless, Switzer is concerned.

"I'm always concerned with our mental attitude when people expect us to run over someone," he said.

Coach Bob Bowden, in his first year at Florida State after several years at West Virginia, also is concerned... concerned that his team can make a commendable comeback.

"I never had a football team that got trounced that failed to come back and show something the next week," he said. "It's all down to the personal pride of our players."

Sandies, Rebels down Plainview, Coronado

Amarillo High drilled Plainview, 35-0, and Lubbock Coronado edged Amarillo Tascosa, 13-7, in area AAAA football action Thursday.

The Sandies rolled up 263 yards rushing en route to their second win of the season against two losses. Plainview gained only 54 total yards, 40 on the ground in falling to 1-3. Coronado, 2-2, battled back from a 7-0 deficit to clip Tascosa, now 1-3.

In games involving 3-AAAA teams tonight, Amarillo Palo Duro, 2-0-1, hosts El Paso Coronado, Amarillo Caprock, 2-1, visits Perryton, and Pampa, 2-1, entertains Berger.

Whites to give blacks power

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press Writer
SALISBURY (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith will announce tonight that his white minority government is bowing to pressure from the United States and South Africa and is agreeing to hand over power to Rhodesia's black majority within two years, informed sources reported today.

The government refused to comment on the report. "Everything that has to be said will be said when the prime minister speaks to the nation later," a government spokesman said.

Smith scheduled a radio and television speech at 8 p.m. (2 p.m. EDT) to announce the response of his government and his ruling Rhodesian Front party to the British-American plan urged on him last weekend by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and South African Prime Minister John Vorster.

Smith told reporters Thursday after a caucus of the 50 Rhodesian Front members of parliament that he would make a "clear and positive and unequivocal statement. There will be no doubt in anybody's mind."

The sources said the government would insist, however, on an end to the guerrilla war that Rhodesian black nationalists have been waging from bases in Mozambique and Zambia.

Kissinger, on his way home, told reporters in London Thursday night he would be surprised if the Rhodesians rejected his proposals. But British officials in London were skeptical.

Kissinger again declined to disclose the details of the plan. Other sources have said it includes black power by the end of 1978, admission of blacks to the Rhodesian parliament and government in the interim and a $2-billion fund supplied by the United States, Britain and other countries to compensate Rhodesian whites who leave the country and to continue development of the country under black rule.

Reporters traveling with the secretary were told that Kissinger was urging the British, as the technically sovereign power in Rhodesia, to insist on a speedup in the schedule so as to get the blacks into power by next spring. British officials were reported opposed to such an acceleration.

U.S. officials in Kissinger's party said the secretary of state wants quick action to head off Soviet efforts to persuade black African leaders that the United States is trying to maintain white supremacy in southern Africa in a new form.

Fighting in the four-year-old guerrilla war in Rhodesia continued Thursday. Government officials announced that security forces killed 18 more black insurgents.

Kissinger has won support for his peace initiative from three black leaders in southern Africa — Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, Julius K. Nyerere of Tanzania and Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire. But his proposals were rejected by the Marxist regime in Mozambique, where most of the Rhodesian guerrillas are based.

Debate coaches gave Ford edge

Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia agrees to hand the nation's rule over to the black majority within two years. He agreed under pressure from the US at the hands of Henry Kissinger.

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Four members of a five-member panel of college debate coaches gave a slight edge to President Ford in his debate with Jimmy Carter. The fifth gave Carter a narrow edge.

The Ford four said they leaned toward him principally because he did a better job of rebutting some of the Democratic nominee's arguments.

The five coaches from around the country scored the nationally televised event for The Associated Press using a point system similar to that used in collegiate debate competition.

Evaluating the candidates for their analysis, reasoning, evidence, organization, refutation and presentation, the coaches voted this way:

Dr. Barbara O'Connor, California State University at Sacramento, 22-19 for Ford.

Dr. Donn Parson, University of Kansas, 24-23 for Ford.

Prof. William Southworth, University of Redlands (Calif.), 27-24 for Ford.

Prof. James K. Unger, Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., 15-13 for Ford.

Prof. Melissa Maxcy Wade, Emory University, Atlanta, 22-20 for Carter.

In the first 1960 presidential debate, John F. Kennedy was generally perceived as the winner over Richard M. Nixon because of appearance and image. However, none of the five judges Thursday night gave Carter or Ford a point advantage in the presentation category, the ability to create an image of competence and leadership.

The four panelists who thought Ford won particularly gave him an edge on handling the tax and bureaucracy questions.

"Ford pushed it to him on the tax cuts and bureaucracy cuts," said Dr. O'Connor. "Carter has answers on those things but he never gave them."

Southworth particularly gave Ford credit for his remark at the end of the tax discussion that the tax structure objected to by Carter was enacted by a primarily Democratic Congress.

Unger, the most critical of the panelists, said the refutations in general "seemed to be primarily directed to what the candidates hoped their opponents would say, rather than what their opponents did say. Certainly, though, President Ford seemed to be superior at this level of argument."

Parson thought Ford particularly scored with his argument that Carter can't complain both about Ford's vetoes of spending bills and about the budget deficit.

Wade gave Carter the edge on the basis that he was more responsive than the President in more areas, scored well on the inflation-jobs topic, and because Ford often responded on the basis of proposals rather than his record.

The judges all found the candidates somewhat nervous at the outset. Southworth thought Carter "really lacked the enthusiasm and zing he normally has in his delivery. In an area where I thought Carter would dominate, he really didn't."

Skaggs barrow takes third

Gray County contestants competed in the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo Thursday, but only one local entrant placed.

Randy Skaggs, a Gray County 4-H'er, exhibited the third place barrow in the heavyweight class. Judge was Larry Tackitt, a swine breeder from Happy.

In the Tri-State Fair Angus show, Judge Ben Houston of Plattville, Colo., gave a first, second and third to animals from Groom.

Winston Big Lad 5 HA won the summer senior yearling bull class. The animal was exhibited by Ray Adams and Welcome U Farms of Groom.

Welcome U Farms also exhibited the second place animal in the junior bull calves class. Welcome U Megaton 58.

Third place in the junior heifer calves was Welcome U Erica 80, shown by Tracy Brown of Groom.

Next debate to be Oct. 6 in California

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Ford and Democratic challenger Jimmy Carter, who held their first nationally broadcast debate here Thursday night, will have their second confrontation in San Francisco Oct. 6, an official of the sponsoring League of Women Voters said.

League executive secretary Peggy Lamp confirmed reports from earlier this week that the second debate, to concentrate on foreign policy and defense issues, will take place in the California city.

The site and exact date of the third and final Ford-Carter debate have not been set, the league official said.

Debate no risk game

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — They stuck to their game plans, with no surprise plays, no new maneuvers. It was a night for well-practiced themes, and anyone who had been listening to President Ford and Jimmy Carter had heard it all before.

When the stakes are highest, candidates, like football coaches, tend to be cautious. Super Bowls can be dull — neither side wants to risk the intercepted pass that could turn the game.

For much the same reason, the Great Debate in Philadelphia was a litany of campaign positions and statements that Carter and Ford had been using all along.

Neither man wanted to risk a blunder. When it was over, neither man appeared to have made one. In the later debates, on Oct. 6 or the Oct. 22 finale, either Carter or Ford may decide to gamble with a new offense or a dramatic new proposal, if things are not going his way.

An AP news analysis

But if Thursday night's performance by the candidates was predictable, that of modern technology was not. Going into the windup, the audio setup failed somehow. It was 27 minutes before it was restored.

The confrontation marked a key point in a campaign season that now has less than six weeks to run.

In the last presidential campaign debates, 16 years ago, opening-night impressions counted most, boosting John F. Kennedy for the balance of the campaign.

Carter had said he intended to play the role of Kennedy this time, but Ford claimed the momentum had turned his way.

Deputies protest, resign

OSONA, Tex. (AP) — All four deputies in the Crockett County Sheriff's department resigned late this week, charging that Sheriff Billy Mills is partial in enforcement of the law.

Mills would not comment Thursday night on the allegations against him.

Chief Deputy James Goss, who announced his resignation Wednesday, said he was leaving the department to run against Mills in November as a write-in candidate. The three other deputies, one of them Goss' brother, have said they will support Goss.

"We couldn't do our jobs as long as our present sheriff was in office," Goss said. "There were so many legal arrests that were made involving friends of the sheriff that were thrown out by him."

"We would arrest them one day and the next when we went to work, they would be turned loose," Goss said.

Former deputy T.J. Hill said Mills plays favorites.

"For myself I'm not mad at the sheriff and I don't have anything against the man," Hill said.

Medical bills deplete Beatrice Lillie estate

NEW YORK (AP) — Beatrice Lillie, the British comedienne whose trans-Atlantic career on stage, film and television spanned more than a half century, is under round-the-clock nursing in her Manhattan apartment and running out of money.

The 78-year-old Miss Lillie, who in private life is Lady Peel, widow of Sir Robert Peel, suffered a stroke recently. Her physician, Dr. Robert Beekman, said she also is suffering from cataracts.

Her sad straits were described Wednesday in Manhattan Supreme Court as her long-time manager and producer, John Phillip Huck, of Lyme, Conn., petitioned the court to appoint a conservator for her estate.

Huck said the move was necessary to permit the sale of Miss Lillie's $75,000 cooperative apartment overlooking the East River, her jewels and other assets to pay her medical bills.

Huck said her only source of income is a trust fund that provides $47,000 a year, and her expenses, including nursing and other medical costs, run about $82,000 a year.

He said he hopes to arrange for Lady Peel's return to England before the end of the year because her medical expenses would be far less there.

Huck said the apartment contains a 40-year accumulation of memorabilia associated with a theatrical career in which Miss Lillie captivated audiences with her elegantly absurd routines.

Miss Lillie, who was good friends with the late playwright Noel Coward and stage star Gertrude Lawrence, has no relatives, Huck said. Sir Robert died in 1934, and their son, Robert, was reported missing in the Pacific during World War II.

He said her "inability to care for herself began several years ago and worsened a year ago."

Justice Hyman Korn appointed a retired judge, Sydney Fine, as her temporary guardian until a decision is made on appointment of a conservator. He set a hearing on Sept. 27.

Railroad refuses federal inspection

DALLAS (AP) — The Missouri Pacific Railroad, on whose tracks an Amtrak derailment occurred Monday, has refused to allow Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) vehicles to inspect its tracks in the past year.

A Missouri Pacific spokesman in St. Louis said the derailment "bears no relation whatsoever to the refusal to let their inspection cars on our tracks."

He said, "It is well known that Missouri Pacific has among the best maintained tracks in the United States. The argument with the FRA is over whether they will pay for the operation of their cars, so we can protect them against liability, or whether they will pay for liability insurance."

Rosalynn worried about elderly

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Jimmy Carter's wife says she is distressed for the elderly and those suffering mental health problems in America.

Mrs. Carter campaigned at five different functions in five hours Wednesday, continued her schedule in Corpus Christi and flew to Austin Wednesday night.

The former first lady of Georgia said after traveling in 35 states before the primaries and 15 since then that she has become familiar with the American people.

She said there's a lot of talent going to waste with elderly and that they are getting small returns on taxes they payed all their life.

She and her husband worked to revamp the mental health program in Georgia when he was governor, she noted.

Mrs. Carter said at an airport press conference here that she is convinced her husband's statements in the Playboy magazine interview were distorted and taken out of context.

"The article is about what Christianity means to him and his own strict moral code. I think when people read the article, they'll see what he's talking about," she said.

Mrs. Carter was being questioned about the Playboy interview to be published in November in which Carter said, "I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognized I will do — and I have done it — and God forgives me for it."

Mrs. Carter said she was convinced of the distortion after she talked to her husband Tuesday night about the interview.

Lady Bird Johnson and Gov. and Mrs. Dolph Briscoe met Mrs. Carter at the airport here. Mrs. Johnson made no public statements and neither woman referred to Carter's statements about Lyndon Johnson in the interview, for which he personally apologized to Mrs. Johnson.

The Briscoes then accompanied her on campaign speeches and took her on a tour of the city.

Briscoe told reporters he thought the Playboy interview was "regrettable."
