

Capetown tension high before Kissinger's visit

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger took his diplomatic shuttle to South Africa today in an attempt to end the racial confrontation in southern Africa.

Kissinger flew into Waterkloof air base outside Pretoria from Lusaka following talks with Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda.

Arsonists struck in downtown Johannesburg for the second day and unrest continued in Cape Town in advance of Kissinger's visit. Heavily armed police here and in Cape Town were patrolling black and mixed-race townships.

Arson attempts and stone-throwing incidents were also reported in Soweto, the huge black township outside Johannesburg, and sporadic violence continued in colored and black districts around Cape Town, where at least eight persons have been killed and 41 injured in a day and a night of disturbances.

In the Athlone colored township near Cape Town, a crowd halted a food truck, looted it and set it on fire. Attempts were also made to set shops and cars alight in the Manenberg and Athlone areas.

Bus service to Soweto resumed earlier today for the first time this week, was interrupted again and buses were running only as far as the township's outskirts. Police erected road blocks on all roads leading to Soweto and whites have been banned from entering the township.

In downtown Johannesburg, two fires were started in the offices of the Star newspaper among reels of newsprint and in the staff canteen. The fires were quickly put out and little damage was done.

This could be a protest from the left or a protest from the right, said editor Harvey Tyson. "At this stage we don't know."

A department store was fire-bombed in Johannesburg on Thursday. During the night attempts were made to start fires in two buildings at the University of the Witwatersrand, police said.

"We believe this type of attack may be the first of many planned to coincide with Kissinger's visit," a police spokesman said. "We are worried but we will take all necessary precautions."

Kissinger has scheduled talks with Prime Minister John Vorster on the future of Rhodesia and the South African-controlled territory of South West Africa, where black nationalists have been fighting guerrilla wars against white minority regimes. But he also planned to meet with black and mixed-race South African leaders.

Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith was scheduled to fly to Johannesburg about 40 miles from Pretoria, on Saturday to watch an international rugby match. There have been reports Kissinger and Smith would meet, but they have so far not been confirmed.

The looting and arson in the Cape Town area Thursday night was aggravated by a massive power failure that plunged much of the Cape peninsula into darkness.

Schnabel pleads guilty to misdemeanor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—After a year in the headlines, Senate Secretary Charles Schnabel has pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor in exchange for dismissal of five felony indictments against him.

Schnabel's lawyers, Roy Minton and Charles Burton, worked out a deal with Travis County Dist. Atty. Bob Smith to have Schnabel plead guilty Thursday to facts he never denied—that he sent Senate secretaries to the University of Texas to help with track meets.

Schnabel was fined $2,000 and given a one-year probated sentence at the suggestion of the district attorney. That was part of the agreement.

"The point I tried to make," Schnabel told reporters afterward, "was that I didn't receive a penny."

Minton put Schnabel on the stand, and the 43-year-old, debonair secretary testified he never profited personally from any act he performed in his 20 years in office, including the acts charged in the five felony indictments.

"It was an ordeal, but it's over," Schnabel said. "I'm glad I handled it this way."

Asked how he thought his guilty plea to a misdemeanor would affect his chances for reelection by the senators next January, Schnabel said, "I think that those chances are not severely affected." "I have discussed it with some members of the Senate, and I have received favorable responses," he said.

The district attorney shook his head and declined to comment on the agreement.

Schnabel sent five Senate secretaries to type "heat sheets" at the Texas Relays in 1975 and that he assigned another secretary to the UT sports information office for four months in 1974.

Schnabel says lending one state agency's employees to another agency is unusual but not unprecedented. But the district attorney said that amounted to "an unauthorized exercise of his official powers," a violation of the Penal Code.

By pleading guilty, Schnabel avoided a long felony trial at which he likely would have been convicted of the lesser crime anyway, because he has always admitted sending the secretaries to UT.

The charges to which he admits are among five allegations in a felony indictment charging him with official misconduct. Schnabel's attorneys have attacked the indictment on the ground that it really was five indictments in one. A defendant can be tried only on one indictment at a time.

One of the charges against Schnabel involved placing a parking garage operator on the Senate pay roll as a way of paying for Senate secretaries' temporary parking places during renovation of their Capitol offices. Schnabel says it simply was an oversight that no money had been appropriated for that.

Another charge involved an extra paycheck drawn in the name of a secretary in Schnabel's office in order to pay for a hi-fi set.

Schnabel, who is paid $37,500 a year to handle the Senate's administrative affairs, said his secretaries wanted background music.

A longtime track buff and an official timekeeper for the Texas Relays, Schnabel asked UT sports publicists last year how news coverage of the annual meet—the biggest in this part of the country—could be improved.

He was told sports writers had difficulty learning which athletes had qualified for the finals in their events and what their lane assignments were.

But the UT sports information office did not have typists to get the heat sheets finished quickly.

Schnabel said he would furnish the typists. He then offered to pay Senate secretaries for overtime they had earned—but could not receive in cash—if they would volunteer to type the sheets.

Linda Willis, Shirley Hearn, Beverly Johnson (now Mrs. Beverly Evans), Gail Hibbs and Joslyn Diskin volunteered.

Four of the women worked 6½ hours one night, getting $50 each in extra pay. Miss Hibbs also reportedly worked eight hours the next day and drew $92, but there is some dispute about whether she was ever paid.

Schnabel sent Deborah Denny to work in the UT sports information office for four months on materials for those big meets. She was paid $2,440 for that work.

The investigation of Schnabel's office began after he fired Senate Print Shop supervisor Alex Martinez last September. He filed charges against Martinez and Penni Stoner, saying they stole Senate paper.

Martinez then accused Schnabel of wrongdoing.

In 1974, two other large track meets were held in Austin in addition to the Texas Relays—the U.S.A.-U.S.S.R. Junior Olympics and the NCAA national championship track meet.

Suit trial date vacated after attorney withdraws

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

The trial date for a $240,000 civil suit, filed by the State of Texas against Packerland Packing Co. for violation of the Texas Clean Air Act, was vacated during a pretrial hearing Thursday in Wheeler.

The case was scheduled for a jury trial in the 31st District Court in Wheeler on Sept. 27, but the setting vacated when Packerland's attorney, Ross Buzzard of Pampa, withdrew as counsel.

Originally filed in the 31st District Court in Pampa, the change of venue request was granted in July after Buzzard pointed out that a petition with 800 names on it could influence a jury.

He was referring to the petition which stated in part that the Packerland condition had "turned Pampa from a good town in which to live to a nightmare."

The trial, at that time, was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. on July 26 here.

However, today, no trial date had been scheduled and Packerland is faced with the problem of obtaining new counsel.

Buzzard made it clear that he did not withdraw because of client problems.

"It was an ethics problem," he emphasized.

Buzzard said the state amended its pleadings and asked for a penalty for Packerland's refusal to permit photographs on a particular day—Aug. 6.

"I knew about it, and if it were tried to a jury I would have to testify because I knew all the circumstances—and according to the canons of ethics a lawyer cannot testify in a case where he is also acting as attorney," Buzzard said. "This necessitated my withdrawal and the judge vacated the trial setting."

The Texas Attorney General's office was represented by Paul Gosselink and John B. Tourney, both of Austin.

The state had protested the change of venue request in July, but Judge Grainger McIlhenny said the "court is more persuaded by a petition with 800 names—this is a suggestion of a significant number who may have feelings."

He added that it would be in the best interests of the people to move the trial to Wheeler where residents do not have a personal interest.

Gosselink said Thursday the state was ready for trial on Sept. 27.

He said he would remain in Pampa today and contact as many potential witnesses as possible in regard to the delay.

The original case was filed last November. Attorney General John Hill said in the petition that the state would "show that on intermittent but frequent occasions, numbering no less than 19 different days, Packerland allowed discharge of odiferous air contaminants from the slaughtering house, packing plant and rendering operations near Pampa."

"These discharges were of unbearably foul and nauseous concentration and duration," according to the state.

Packerland filed general denials.

During a hearing where a change of venue was granted and the case moved to Wheeler—42 miles from Pampa, Gosselink insisted that Packerland could get a fair trial in Pampa.

"We have heard of no personal animosity against Packerland," he said. "Some of our witnesses will not be able to go elsewhere. Therefore, it will weaken our case."

Woman, children escape from fire

By ANNA BURCHELL
Pampa News Staff

A 22-year-old Pampa mother awakened about 9 a.m. this morning to find herself choking in a smoke-filled house at 1132 S. Sumner.

Mrs. William Woods said one of her two young sons was in bed with her, and the other was in another room.

"I just woke up choking," she said, with sons, Michael, 4, and Daniel, 3, beside her in a neighbor's home.

"I turned on the air conditioner for air, and it still worked," she added. She picked the children up and put both of them outside through the air conditioner window and then she crawled out behind them.

Mrs. Woods was in the Leland Bassett home at 1138 S. Sumner as she related the story of her escape from asphyxiation this morning.

Owner of the home is Leland Baggett.

Mrs. Baggett said she was sewing when she looked out the window and saw the smoke billowing.

"I ran to see where it was coming from and by the time I got to the door I could see the flames and a man hollered, 'Call the fire department!'"

The Pampa Fire Department received the call at 9:25 a.m. In the meantime, Mrs. Woods held both boys hands and went to the back fence and stood on the lawn of the family home.

"She was in a state of shock," a neighbor said.

"I just don't know how she was aware enough to think about crawling out the air conditioner window," Mrs. Baggett said.

Finace Dyer, fire chief, said he asked Mrs. Woods if he could take the mother and sons to a physician.

"I'm afraid they've inhaled smoke," he said. Both Mrs. Woods and the boys had streaks of black over their faces and clothing.

However, the mother declined. Dyer said the fire started from a bed. The smoke damage to the entire house was extensive, he added.

The Woods had lived at the Sumner address for the past two years. He is employed in the oil fields and had gone to work earlier in morning.

"He is such a hard worker," Mrs. Baggett said.

As firemen fought the blaze which was confined to the one room, neighbors from the area gathered to watch.

"She was lucky to get out of there," said one as firemen threw a burning mattress outside.

Dyer said smoke damage throughout the house was extensive, and one bedroom was gutted. Firemen returned to the station in less than an hour.

Senate move relieves Scott

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott says he found it "most gratifying" that the Senate Ethics Committee dropped its inquiry into his link with alleged illegal Gulf Oil Corp. contributions.

"Thus, barring any new developments, it appears unlikely that the full details of Scott's involvement in the Gulf money controversy will ever be made public."

The 76-year-old Pennsylvania, who decided not to seek reelection this year after 16 years in the House and 17 more in the Senate, said Thursday that the ethics panel had conducted a "thorough and objective" review of the matter.

In a closed-door meeting Wednesday, the panel voted 5 to 1 against pursuing allegations that Scott received up to $10,000 annually from 1960 to 1973 from Gulf's former chief Washington lobbyist, Claude Wild. Although several committee members and staff aides confirmed the vote, the committee made no official announcement of the move and committee leaders declined to discuss it publicly.

Scott, however, issued a statement taking at least some of the credit for the move.

"I initiated the committee's action by voluntarily submitting a written report to the committee," his statement said. "I supplemented this with a personal statement of the facts, as I had offered to do voluntarily when I submitted my written statement."

Neither Scott nor his staff would discuss the matter further nor make copies of that report available to the public.

Scott's link to Gulf funds was revealed last year when a Gulf attorney said in a sworn statement that during his internal investigation of Gulf's political slush fund, he had been told by Wild that Scott received $10,000 a year in company funds for his personal use for about 13 years.

Scott has declined to make a detailed public response to this. Instead, he has said that he never knowingly received any corporate funds from Gulf and that while he did accept some money from Wild, he did not know at the time it came from corporate funds and that he gave the money to other GOP senators.

Wild has refused to confirm or deny his own reported role.

It is a felony for a politician to knowingly accept corporate funds for a political campaign.

Quartet charged in Oliver murder

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

Four suspects remain in City Jail today following the shooting death of Jerry Bowers Oliver, 34, of 1072 Prairie Drive, Wednesday night.

Pampa detectives had arrested two persons by noon Thursday and two others were arrested and arraigned by 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

The four—Duane Chapman, 23, Ruben Garza, 19, Donald Wayne Kuykendall, 22, and Cheryl Ann Fisher, 17—all of Pampa, were charged with murder and were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford who set bond at $50,000 each.

Richard Mills, Pampa police chief, said murder is a first degree felony and carries a penalty of 5-99 years in prison. He said the charges may be changed to capital murder which carries life imprisonment or the death penalty on conviction.

"We filed on all four parties and principals to murder," Mills said, explaining that Texas statutes do not distinguish between the person who actually commits the crime and an accessory.

The shooting was reported to police at 11:40 p.m. Wednesday by Oliver's wife, Mills said there were no witnesses to the actual shooting, but it appeared that Oliver was shot once in the chest with a 12-gauge shotgun when he opened the door.

Detectives are still investigating to determine the motive for the shooting which resulted in Pampa's second homicide of the year.

"We don't have one (a motive). I'm willing to discuss in public," Mills said.

Mills said that Lt. Det. J.J. Ryzman and Det. Michael Hartsock worked 19 straight hours on investigating the crime and on stakeouts which led to the four arrests.

Chapman was the first suspect taken into custody. The arrest was by Ryzman, Hartsock and Lt. P.E. Bailey, and Hartsock arrested Garza less than 12 hours after the shooting.

Kuykendall and Fisher were arrested by Ryzman, Hartsock and Bailey.

Oliver was taken to Highland General Hospital by Metropolitan Ambulance and he received treatment there before being transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo shortly after midnight.

Oliver died in surgery around 3:30 a.m. Thursday.

His death, though the second homicide of the year, is Pampa's first murder of 1976. Mills said.

AF planning to close bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force proposals to shut down bases in Alabama and Texas came under scrutiny here Thursday with Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., saying that a new Air Force study tends to support his view that the proposed closing of Craig Air Force Base at Selma, Ala., would have a severe economic impact on the surrounding community.

The Air Force has said it intends to shut down Craig and Webb Air Force base in Texas to eliminate unneeded pilot training facilities. The move would reduce from seven to five the number of bases for basic pilot training.

In the study, the Air Force concluded that adverse impacts on the Selma and Dallas County area from closing of Craig would include

- An estimated increase in unemployment of about 1,900 persons, pushing the jobless rate for the county up to 19.8 per cent.
- Direct payroll loss of $27.2 million and an estimated reduction in regional economic output of $55 million.
- An estimated 17 per cent loss in county retail sales.
- Estimated loss of $150,000 in state income taxes and $771,000 in sales taxes, with local sales taxes dropping $192,000.

- At least 5,360 persons forced to move elsewhere, reducing the area's population by 9.5 per cent.
- For the closing of Webb Air Force Base, the study projected the following adverse impacts on the Howard County-Big Spring, Tex., region:
  - Loss of about 1,560 jobs, raising unemployment to 12.9 per cent in Howard County.
  - Direct payroll loss of $30.2 million and an estimated cut of about $50 million in regional economic output.
  - Estimated 14 per cent loss in county retail sales.
  - Loss of about $788,000 in state sales taxes, with local sales taxes cut by about $197,000.
  - At least 6,239 persons forced to move elsewhere, amounting to a 15.5 per cent drop in county population.

Flowers contended that "this study tends to substantiate exactly what we've been saying all along — and that is that the closing of Craig would have a very severe economic impact on the entire region and that a base closing means much more to Dallas County than to most communities."

Flowers said that "what we need to do now is to emphasize further these economic impact and develop data to show the efficiency of Craig. It's our belief that Craig will come out second to none in efficiency of pilot training."

'Enterprise' may transport scientists, cargo into space

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — Future space travelers and earthbound taxpayers alike get their first glimpse today of a 122-foot-long Space Shuttle orbiter that may be carrying scientists and cargo on routine round-trip flights into space in less than 10 years.

The orbiter craft, to be named "Enterprise" after the spaceship featured on the television series "Star Trek," is being unveiled at Rockwell International's facility here.

It cost the federal government $206 million to have this first shuttle designed and built, with the entire six-year development program for several additional shuttles tagged at $5.2 billion.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials say the shuttle can be used at least 100 times and will save hundreds of millions of dollars over the present one-time-only space shots.

Though it won't make its first space voyage until the early 1980s, testing begins early next year at nearby Edwards Air Force Base.

2 die; cents scattered

KIT CARSON, Colo. (AP) — A truck carrying $57,500 in freshly minted pennies collided with a cattle truck Thursday, killing two persons and unknown number of livestock and scattering millions of pennies "all over the road," officials said.

The Colorado State Patrol said the accident occurred when a semi-trailer carrying 103 head of cattle ran over the dividing line of U.S. 287 into the lane the other vehicle was in.

The collision killed the driver of the truck carrying the pennies and a woman in a sleeper compartment of the cattle truck.

The dead were identified as Fred J. Brannon, 30, Denver, and Judith A. Wittler, 25, Boise City, Okla. The driver of the cattle truck, Cecil Jenkins, 19, Campo, Colo., received minor bruises, officials said.

Cheyenne County Sheriff Murray Renner said it appeared at least 25 head of cattle were killed in the collision.

Renner said "a good portion" of the coin bags were split open. He said the shiny pennies were "scattered for several hundred feet up and down the highway. They'll never find them all," he said of investigators searching the area near the highway for the money.

"The minor coins go freight lines and the other coins go in an armored car," she said.

Betty Higby, superintendent of the Denver Mint, said the pennies, in 50-pound bags, were being transported to the Federal Reserve Bank in San Antonio, Tex., at the time of the accident, about seven miles west of here.

Mrs. Higby said she didn't know how many of the 1.150 coin bags were split open in the collision, and no estimate was available on how many of the 5.7 million pennies were unrecovered by investigators at the scene.

Delinquents to get help

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Youth Council and Gov. Dolph Briscoe approved Thursday a plan to spend almost $5 million on treatment of juvenile delinquents and pre-delinquents outside of traditional reform schools.

Briscoe had blocked spending of $2 million of the TYC's budget for "alternate care" last year but Atty. Gen. John Hill later ruled he had no such power.

This time Briscoe certified within hours that the council's plan took into account the use of existing facilities—the only power Hill said he had over the expenditure.

The plan would spend $2.1 million on assistance to county programs to combat delinquency. The TYC will pay $4,050 for each of the 417 youngsters the programs will keep out of the state reform schools.

Also included are $1,485,951 for services purchased from private child care facilities; $932,318 for TYC-operated half-way houses in Austin, Corpus Christi, Houston, Dallas and a fifth city that is yet to be determined; $272,284 for administrative support; $132,942 for TYC regional offices; and $50,000 to buy medical, dental, counseling and vocational services for paroled youngsters.

The council also appointed Mart Hoffman, 32, deputy executive director. Hoffman was superintendent of Brownwood State School for about a year before coming to Austin as director of institutional services.

In Oct. 16, 1834, the Houses of Parliament and parts of London were destroyed by fire.

Vietnam may qualify for aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist Vietnam may soon qualify for indirect financial aid from the United States and other developed nations by joining the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

Hanoi already has won membership in the IMF over U.S. opposition, and U.S. officials said Thursday they probably will be unable to keep the Vietnamese out of the World Bank, which takes up the issue next week.

As a member of the two institutions, Vietnam likely will become eligible for assistance from several international aid programs to which the United States contributes heavily.

The amount of such assistance is unknown, but it clearly could be many millions of dollars.

Among programs the Socialist Republic of Vietnam almost certainly would qualify for eventually would be the World Bank's International Development Association (IDA), which makes interest-free development loans to poor nations.

The U.S. Congress has authorized $1.5 billion for the IDA over a four-year period, about one-third of the agency's budget. The rest of the $4.5 billion in the IDA was contributed by other developed nations.

High-ranking U.S. officials are worried over the impact in Congress of Vietnam's membership in the two agencies, especially since Congress has been reluctant in the past to vote funds for programs such as the IDA.

As a member of the IMF, Hanoi already may be eligible for interest-free loans from the IMF's Trust Fund for poor nations, which is financed with profits from the agency's gold auctions. About $174 million has been raised for this fund so far and the total could grow to $2 billion in several years.

The United States originally contributed to the IMF a large portion of the gold now being auctioned.

It is understood that an IMF inspection team has already visited Vietnam, possibly as a prelude to an IMF loan available to any of the agency's 128 members under its regular lending procedures.

Charles Cooper, the U.S. executive director to the World

Bank, said the United States probably will oppose bank membership for Vietnam during debate next week.

"I think we'll take the same position as we did in the fund," he said in an interview Thursday. But he acknowledged he is pessimistic about the chances of keeping Hanoi out because it "didn't work" in the fund where the United States was out-voted by other IMF members.

Until the vote against Hanoi in the IMF on Wednesday, the United States had never before voted against a country applying for membership in the institution.

While the United States has veto power over some major actions by the IMF and the World Bank, U.S. officials stressed that the veto does not extend to membership questions, which are decided by majority vote. Loans also are made by a majority vote and are not subject to a veto.

Monroe, Louisiana can't pay employes

MONROE, La. (AP) — This city of 56,400 persons has failed to meet the payroll for about 40 per cent of its employes, the first default by an American city since 1970.

Mayor W.L. Howard said the city was out of money Thursday, and described the situation as "terrible as far as city employes are concerned."

There are about 1,100 city workers, and the City Hall staff of about 450 didn't get their monthly paychecks Wednesday as they were supposed to. The city said it won't be able to pay the rest of its workers today as scheduled.

The north-central Louisiana city also has bills of about $600,000, some of them already overdue.

Officials say the city's money problems are due in large part to the rising cost of natural gas, which has cut income from a city-owned power plant that was an important source of revenue.

Default by a city means it fails to meet a payment on schedule. This can mean failure to pay interest on a bond or note on time or failure to pay bills or salaries on time.

Hamtramck, Mich., an independent city surrounded by Detroit, was the last city to default. It failed to pay salaries and bills in 1970.

New York City averted default on several occasions last year by finding last-minute sources of revenue to cover interest payments and payrolls. Some have maintained that a 10-year moratorium on paying off short-term debt amounted to a technical default by New York City.

Monroe officials say few city employes have complained.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Episcopal Church, modifying a centuries-old tradition, has voted to sanction women priests. But there are strong indications that many dioceses won't accept them.

Some Roman Catholic leaders said they hoped the decision might help bring about the acceptance of women priests in their church.

The sharp division in the three-million-member denomination about women priests was pointed up by the narrow margin of just over 50 per cent by which the change was accepted in bloc votes both by lay and clergy delegations.

The church moves forward with a divided mind," commented the Rev. George F. Regas of Pasadena, Calif., stressing the need to "heal our wounds." A "divided church," the Rev. Gordon R. Plowe of Mitchell, S.D., called the re-

Delegates gather as TDC begins

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A liberal move to seize party control looms as the major issue confronting delegates assembling here today for the Texas Democratic Convention.

The two-day session kicks off this evening and the battle over the party chairmanship perhaps overshadows even presidential politics and the candidacy of Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter.

"This election is damned important," said one Democrat. "But I'm not sure people realize just how important."

The interparty skirmish involves an effort by Lufkin attorney John Henry Tatum, backed by Billie Carr's liberal "Texas Democrats," to wrest the chair from Calvin Guest of Bryan, Gov. Dolph Briscoe's hand-picked chairman.

"The Democratic Party is in real trouble in Texas. It is trying to find itself," said a Democratic legislator who, because he is seeking reelection, asked anonymity.

"There is great pressure on the conservative wing of the Democratic Party from the national level... and you've got the Connally thing—John Connally trying to make Republicans out of people who traditionally call themselves conservative Democrats.

"If Guest is kicked out, and liberals take over, I think you're going to see wholesale desertion of the Democratic Party conservatives."

Guest who has held the post since 1972, is supported by a medley of conservatives and liberals, including the Texas AFL-CIO and the United Auto Workers.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Carr, Democratic national committeewoman from Houston, said she wants change because "Guest's methods are marked by favoritism, ineptitude and general incompetence."

Although Guest is co-chairman of the Texas campaign for Jimmy Carter, Mrs. Carr insists Guest is in sincere and that Tatum would work harder to carry Texas for the Democratic ticket.

Both Tatum and Guest have campaigned hard for the post, and the 3,400 delegates will determine Saturday which one will lead the conduct of party affairs for the next two years.

"I estimate I'm going to win by 100 votes," Tatum declared. "We have checked very carefully, and we have a sufficient number of votes to win."

Partial ban on funds for abortion an issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, which has twice refused to accept a complete ban on the use of federal funds for abortions, must now decide whether a partial ban is more acceptable.

A House-passed measure that the Senate is considering today would prohibit federal funds from being spent for abortions through Medicaid except when the life of a woman is endangered by a full-term pregnancy.

The House approved the proposal Thursday by a 256-114 vote. It is attached to a $56.6 billion appropriations bill for the departments of labor and health education and welfare and may face a veto because the appropriations bill is $4 billion more than President Ford asked for.

The abortion amendment was agreed to Wednesday by House-Senate conferees trying to come up with a compromise between the original House bill that would have banned all federal funds for abortions and the Senate bill that had no limiting provisions.

The amendment permits federally funded abortions when they are considered medical necessities by physicians. Such abortions are not precluded when a woman's life is endangered by disease.

The amendment prohibits federal payment for abortions "as a method of family planning or for emotional or social convenience."

Explosion rocks NY church

NEW YORK (AP) — An explosion rocked a Croatian church complex Thursday night, authorities said, and forced the evacuation of several nuns, priests and others who lived in the complex.

No one was reported injured.

Bomb squad officers said they were unable to find any evidence of explosives at St. Raphael's church on Manhattan's West Side at 41st Street. But they said that "slight tremors" had been felt and witnesses, including two police officers, saw smoke.

"There was an explosion. There was smoke. That was real, but nobody knows what did it," Fire Chief Edward Jonat said.

County board sets meeting for afternoon

The Gray County School board was scheduled to meet in a called session at 2 p.m. today with approval of three new buses on the agenda.

The first item calls for approval of a 54-passenger school bus for the McLean Independent School District.

The second seeks approval of two new buses for the Pampa Independent School District, including a 72 passenger vehicle and a 16 passenger bus.

Other business includes payment of bills, office and travel expenses.

Price gives energy talk in Amarillo

AMARILLO — Former Congressman Bob Price of Pampa addressed the Texas Panhandle Society of Petroleum Accountants Thursday night in a meeting at the Amarillo Club.

"This nation owes our energy producers a debt of gratitude. While Congress, urban liberals and literally thousands of uninformed Americans censure the oil and gas industry, these conscientious folks continue to assume the risks and expense necessary to provide this country with quality fuel products," Price said.

UW collects $85,000

United Way collections in Pampa reached $85,363 Thursday, with $90,000 as the goal according to Dutch Holland, campaign director.

Goals are now $120,000 by Thursday and $141,000 by Sept. 30.

Hightower happy with tax reform

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Jack Hightower said today he was delighted that the House of Representatives had approved estate tax reform that had been needed for many years.

"The House approved the tax reform act which included the estate tax revision by a virtually unanimous vote of 405-2.

"The bill is far from perfect, but perfection is impossible to achieve on anything as complicated as a nation's tax structure. We made a last ditch effort to improve it. Although that effort failed, Congress passed the compromise bill overwhelmingly because it recognized that this bill provided our last opportunity this year to enact tax reform," Hightower said.

Three procedural votes were scheduled on the measure.

"I voted against acceptance of the conference report on the first vote to protect certain provisions that could adversely affect energy production, particularly the independent producer," Hightower added.

"When our efforts failed 181-229 on a separate vote on the estate tax provision that would have allowed to knock out a section dealing with capital gains taxes, I voted to pass the bill."

Hightower said the principle intent of the estate tax measure to enable family farms and small businesses to remain in the family upon the death of the owner was accomplished by the bill.

"The section of the bill we wanted to eliminate will increase capital gains taxes, but only if heirs sell the inherited property or other assets."

Some tax shelters slashed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new tax bill that Congress approved Thursday makes major changes in the federal gift and estate taxes and in general would reduce those levels. On the other hand, the bill also whacks away at some of the current tax shelters used by wealthy individuals to cut their taxes.

Here is how the new provisions would work:

GIFT AND ESTATE TAXES
Present law taxes separately the gifts made during a person's lifetime and what he leaves behind when he dies. The first $60,000 of an estate is exempt from taxes. Another $30,000 is tax-free if given away during the owner's lifetime. In addition, half an estate is exempt from taxes if willed to the spouse.

The value of the $60,000 exemption has been badly eroded by inflation. And small farmers have especially complained. While land values have soared, income from small farms has failed to keep pace. Thus, many family farms and family owned businesses are being sold each year so survivors can afford to pay inheritance taxes.

The pending bill would replace the basic $60,000 and $30,000 estate and gift exemptions with a gradually increasing credit that would be subtracted directly from tax owed.

The bill also exempts property willed to the spouse up to $250,000 or half the estate, whichever is higher. Combining all the benefits, the first $250,000 of an estate willed to a spouse would be tax-free.

Presently, only the wealthiest 7 per cent of estates or about 17,000 estates a year, are taxable. The bill would cut that figure to 3 per cent, or 50,000 a year.

For the estates of persons who die in 1977, the credit against taxes under the pending bill would be $30,000, the equivalent of a $120,677 exemption (compared with the current $90,000 combined exemption for estate and gift taxes). In 1981 and thereafter, the credit would be $47,000, equal to a $175,625 exemption.

Under the new provisions, the lowest tax rate — for the smallest estates — would be 30 per cent of the value. The top rate would be 70 per cent. Taxes owed would be computed by multiplying the value of the estate by the tax rate and subtracting the tax credit.

Another provision in the bill is of special importance to family owned farms. Current law requires that the value of land be figured on the basis of its highest use, which in the case of farm land generally means how much the property would be worth if developed commercially.

Under the bill, if certain conditions were met, farm land would be valued as farm land, which generally would mean lower taxes.

Most of the changes in estate and gift taxes would mean lower taxes. The most controversial part would raise taxes on heirs who sell inherited property.

Existing law generally requires a person to pay a tax when he sells an asset, such as stock or land, for more than he paid for it. The difference in the buying and selling price is a capital gain. In most circumstances, half the gain is tax-free; the other half is taxed at the person's usual income tax rate.

Assuming a person bought a piece of land for $10,000 and sold it 10 years later for $50,000, half the $40,000 would be taxed, according to the capital gains rule.

If the owner, instead of selling the land when it was worth $50,000, willed it to a relative, the donor would avoid any tax.

If the heir later sold the land for $60,000, he would be taxed under present law only on half the $10,000 increase since he acquired it. The increase in value between the original $10,000 purchase price and the $50,000 at the time the land was given away would escape tax.

This would change under the pending bill, which would tax the increase in value from the time of any original purchase after Dec. 31, 1976, to the final sale.

Other major changes in the estate tax would allow payment of taxes over a 10-year period under certain conditions, but would make it more difficult for wealthy families to avoid taxes by willing property to one generation (a child, for example), and the income from that property to a succeeding generation (a grandchild).

MINIMUM TAX
The minimum tax is imposed on certain individuals and corporations in addition to a regular income tax paid. The purpose is to ensure that a high-income person pays some tax no matter how many deductions he takes.

The minimum tax has not been all that successful, as evidenced by the fact that 224 persons earning $200,000 a year or more paid no income tax at all in 1974.

The minimum tax is really a tax on nine large deductions, known as preferences, chief of which is the tax-free half of capital gains.

Under present law, a taxpayer adds up his preferences, subtracts a $30,000 exemption and whatever regular income tax he paid, and pays a tax of 10 per cent of the remainder.

The bill would raise that tax rate to 15 per cent and allow an exemption of either $10,000 or one-half regular taxes paid, whichever is higher.

The net effect of the changes would be to raise the tax rate on those 40,000 persons already subject to the minimum tax, extend the tax to 230,000 individuals and bring the government about $1.3 billion a year in new revenue.

MAXIMUM TAX
This sets a 50-per-cent ceiling on the amount of tax a wealthy person pays on his earned income, such as salary and fees. The top tax rate of 70 per cent still applies to "unearned income," such as interest and dividends.

Under present law, the amount of earned income to which the tax ceiling applies is reduced by tax preferences (the biggest one is the untaxed half of capital gains) above $30,000.

The bill would help the wealthy by extending the 50-per-cent tax ceiling to pensions. But they would be hit harder by elimination of the $30,000 exemption. Thus, the income protected by the maximum tax would be reduced dollar-for-dollar by total preferences.

By 1981, these changes would cost the wealthy an extra $43 million a year.

TAX SHELTERS
Persons earning more than $50,000 a year often use tax shelters to cut their taxes. Shel-

Mexico, US agree on prisoner treaty

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The governments of the United States and Mexico have agreed to complete negotiations by November on a draft prisoner exchange treaty.

A joint U.S.-Mexican statement Thursday said the purpose of the treaty would be to allow Americans arrested in Mexico and Mexicans arrested in the United States to serve their sentence, upon conviction, in their country of origin.

The U.S. Embassy estimates there are 572 Americans in Mexican jails, the majority accused or convicted of drug offense. Mexican official estimate there are 2,000 Mexicans in U.S. jails.

The statement said representatives of the two governments met Tuesday in Mexico City "to continue discussions of technical aspects between the two countries."

It said representatives of the Mexican Foreign Secretariat and the U.S. embassy agreed on a schedule for negotiating the treaty. The agreement calls for exchanging proposed texts no later than the first week of October and for reconciling the proposals and negotiating a draft treaty for consideration by each government during the second half of October.

National constitutions would have to be taken into account and a treaty would require legislative action by the respective congresses.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 17 and have been going steady with a guy I'll call David for two years. He's 17, too. I'm really in love with him, and his folks know we plan to be married in a couple of years.

The problem is his mother. When I'm at his house, she treats me like an outsider. If I happen to be there during mealtime, she never asks me to join them. She makes me feel unwanted. David's father and grandparents seem to like me, but his mother doesn't.

I've never said anything to David about my hurt feelings because he and his mother are very close, and I don't want to start trouble between them.

I'd like for his mother to make me feel like one of the family, Abby, but I don't know how to go about it. Can you give me your views on this matter, or some good advice?

OUTSIDER

DEAR OUTSIDER: David's mother is communicating to you in non-verbal language that she is not pleased with your relationship with her son. Perhaps she feels you are both too young to be thinking of marriage—even "in a couple of years." You say, "If I happen to be there at mealtime she never asks me to join them." You shouldn't be there at mealtime unless you were invited. My advice is to avoid going where you are made to feel "unwanted."

DEAR ABBY: Here is a suggestion for parents to help safeguard their daughters during their courting days. First, make a rule that your daughter cannot go out with a young man unless he comes to the house so you can meet him first.

When he shows up, the mother should entertain him while the father goes outside and takes down his license number and a good description of his car. Color, model, etc. During the evening, if the daughter has any trouble with him, she could say, "My father took down your license number and will call the police if I am not home at the time they specified." This is foolproof protection for any girl.

THINKING AHEAD

DEAR THINKING: And what happens if a creep with evil intentions shows up in a taxi?

DEAR ABBY: We would like to have your advice on this problem. Our friends and two lawyers say that we are wrong in trying to control the disposition of our estate after we are deceased.

We want to put our money (approximately $100,000) into a trust fund or something similar for each other so that we can't get the principal, only the interest. Thus, we would be protected in our old age if we should become incapable of managing our affairs. When we both die, our two children will be able to get the interest, but not the principal—which they don't need because they have a good income now.

When we die, they will get the interest from it for the rest of their lifetime. Then, when they pass on, the principal will either be divided up among their children (our grandchildren) or left there for the interest, whichever way our children decide is best.

Do you think that we are wrong in wanting to do this? Or, what would your advice be? Thank you.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: It's your money, not your lawyers' or friends'—so I advise you to plan for the disposition of your estate in a manner that will please YOU.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have an embarrassing problem of belching for several hours after eating. Other than an occasional sensation of fullness and the gas I have no other real symptoms. I have no pain or burning, nausea or vomiting. X rays were first read as normal. Later the family doctor said I had duodenitis and the gas in the stomach was not getting into my small intestine to be absorbed or move through and this caused the burping problem.

He gave me some medicine to relax the stomach and it helps some but I still have this embarrassing problem. I am embarrassed to go out to eat because of it. This is beginning to affect my social life. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — In the absence of pain and with the symptom of belching I would say your problem is from swallowing air — regardless of whether or not you have any real evidence of X-ray changes of duodenitis. The air has to come from somewhere to get into your stomach in the first place and the only solution is that you swallow it.

One can form gas in the intestinal tract, usually colon, from fermentation, but this doesn't occur in the stomach. Food does not stay in the stomach long enough to ferment and cause such a problem. The air is not likely to show on an X ray done in the morning. The air swallowing occurs during the day and late afternoon X rays will show its presence.

Because the gas is already in the stomach, when a person eats he suddenly feels full. This is not because the food caused gas but because the food taken into the stomach takes up part of the space in the stomach, already partially filled with gas and the pressure or fullness is then noticeable. With this increased filling, the gas rises to the top of the stomach and

DEAR POLLY — Yesterday I bleached my jeans to fade them, but when I finished there were spots of different colors on them and they look a mess. They were expensive so I hate to not be able to wear them. I wonder if you could give me some suggestions to make them look better. — C.W.

DEAR C.W. — Why not dye your jeans a deep color to hide the spots? Or you might first use a commercial color remover and then dye back to the faded blue you seem to want. — POLLY.

Iranian pilots bring foreign flavor to life in Big Spring

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — The jet fighter banked lazily on one wing, its plexiglass canopy reflecting the dying sun like a diamond.

The young Iranian at the controls peered through his visor at the blowing dust below and perhaps thought of the exotic feast awaiting him.

Ah, yes: sear, serkeh, seeb. Maybe some samarmoo or sanjad.

The perfect ingredients for a New Year's fete. In March, no less, and at the Webb Air Force Base Officer's Club.

If you can't visualize a New Year's bash in March, in Big Spring, Tex., then how about the fall extravaganza commemorating the Shah of Iran's birthday?

Those are among the events at Webb, the temporary home away from home for an elite group of young foreign pilot trainees. And if they want Sabzi and Seeb and so forth, so be it.

At a cost to their respective countries of roughly $235,000 apiece, the select trainees are brought to this West Texas city for high level flight training. There are only a handful of American trainees.

Called the Security Assistance Training Program, Webb is one of several U.S. bases in which American technical skills and knowledge are shared with military trainees from foreign countries.

"The main objective is to assist other nations in establishing their own ability to defend their shores and their land," said Col. Harry Spannaus, wing commander.

"We insure that they get quality training. In turn, they insure us quality people. It has been a benefit for both sides."

The training of allied students at Webb began in late 1973 and involves 170 hours in the Cessna T37, a twin-seat primary trainer nicknamed the "tweet" for its small frame and piercing engine sound.

Upon completion of the nine-month program, students receive their wings and return home, many to help train their fellow countrymen.

In some cases, and depending on the separate countries' own requirements, selected students remain at Webb for advanced training in the supersonic Northrup T38.

Currently there are 154 allied students at Webb, including 138 from Iran, 13 from Kuwait and three from Kenya. Perhaps two dozen countries have sent representatives at different times.

All of which creates an interesting situation for U.S. personnel at Webb and the citizenry of Big Spring, a lively community of 30,000 on Interstate 20 between Abilene and Midland.

"Given an international pilot training school," said Spannaus, "it is interesting how you can take representatives of various countries, join them together and produce pilots regardless of their various religious beliefs, customs and courtesies represented."

Language difficulties pose only a minor problem. The food may be something else.

Since Mexican food restaurants outnumber those of Iran, Kuwait and Kenya roughly 8-0 in Big Spring, Webb caters to the foreign appetites in every way possible.

Military chefs prepare foreign dishes frequently and there are certain nights when special food is available at the officers club.

The townspeople also play host to the students and a base-community council helps arrange social events.

"We like to expose them to American culture and give them a better understanding of who we are and what we are doing in this country," one officer explained.

NAME AND CHARACTER

No one is a Christian just because he wears the name the Lord has given to his people. Neither is one a Christian just because he is what the world calls a "good man." One might be as just, honest and God fearing as the Bible says Cornelius was, and yet not be a Christian.

As Paul wrote to churches composed of Christians, we, in reading these letters find both positive and negative teaching. There are some things that Christians must do and there are some things they must refrain from doing. It takes both positives and negatives to build the character of a Christian. But these things MUST be the commandments of the Lord. What we may think, or how we may feel about a certain thing does not mean that it meets with the approval of God.

They who develop the character that pleases God must wear the name God has given his people to wear. That name is found in the Bible. It seems today that most anyone can think of a name for people to wear religiously, but unless that name is the one God has given, it is not right to wear it. To wear such a name, regardless of how much we may think of that name, is to refuse to recognize and obey the positive commandment of the Lord.

"The disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." (Acts 11:26) The prophets had foretold that God would call his people by a new name. "Christian" is that name. It is all we need to set ourselves right on the name that should be worn religiously. Christian is the name that individuals are to wear. It is not the name of the church or of anything else. It is the name by which individual disciples (followers) of Christ were called in New Testament times. Christian is the name in which we are said to glorify God. (1 Peter 4:16) Are you satisfied to wear just this name religiously?

The Church Building

This is only a building, but it is a special building for it is the worship place for God's people. It is a place where one may go to study and hear God's word preached.

"... faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God."

If there are unanswered questions in your mind... go... seek... and find God in his house

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

PHS defense to face balanced attack

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Perryton, like Pampa, has two quarterbacks — a starter and one who sees much playing time. Perryton, like Pampa, has a capable running attack. And Perryton, like Pampa, has a crunching defense.

If they're so similar, why does Perryton (2-0) rate a seven-point favorite over Pampa (1-1) going into tonight's game in Ranger Stadium, and why are the Rangers considered among the top Class AAA teams in Texas?

"I think Don Beck may have created a monster," says Pampa Coach John Welborn, "the kind where people get upset if you don't win the state championship."

"They have just a really explosive offense. They can beat you running or passing. Plus, they have a good defense. They run so many defenses that it can be confusing."

Tuesday, while practicing their offense against the various Ranger defenses, the Harvesters "had a lot of recognition problems, getting confused on their different defenses," Welborn said.

"I think we finally got it ironed out. What makes it so confusing is they'll line up in certain defenses and the next time you see the defense they used the last time, you'll see some different stunts off it."

Enough of defense and stunts. Perryton's forte is its offense, led by quarterbacks Perry Allred and Tracy Gibson and fullback Brad Beck.

Beck has been spectacular in Perryton's wins over Amarillo River Road (42-0) and Ponca City, Okla. (35-3). He has totaled 419 yards on 30 rushes. Against Ponca City, he scored three touchdowns and booted a 30-yard field goal.

"He's a college prospect," said Perryton Coach Don Beck, his father. "I'd just say he's a good athlete. I try not to play him up any more than anybody else."

"He's quick, he's got great balance and he's a good receiver," Welborn said. "He can block, he kicks off, kicks extra points, kicks field goals and returns punts. He's a good all-around athlete.

"In fact most of their team are pretty good athletes."

Allred and Gibson combined for 16 completions in 22 attempts for 196 yards and two touchdowns against Ponca City. Perryton managed 427 yards of total offense.

Pampa's two quarterbacks are Mike Lancaster and Steve Young, the back-up signal caller. Lancaster is a better option player, while Young is considered a stronger passing threat.

Pampa's backfield includes halfbacks Ricky Moore and Eddy Keller and fullback David Caldwell.

Moore and Caldwell both possess size (195 and 212, respectively), speed and like Beck, breakaway ability.

Pampa's defense, for the first time this season, came alive last week in the second half of the 21-8 win over Dumas. The Harvesters blanked Dumas in the second half after trailing, 8-6 at halftime.

Kickoff is scheduled for 8 p.m. today.

In games Thursday involving 3-AAAA teams, Amarillo Tascosa trimmed Dumas, 14-7 and Amarillo High edged Lubbock High, 28-25.

Tonight, Amarillo Caprock hosts Canyon and Amarillo Palo Duro visits Clovis, N.M.

College roundup

Penn State to host 2nd-ranked Ohio State

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer

Penn State football Coach Joe Paterno figures this is the time for his Nittany Lions to make a major bid for a national championship.

Penn State, rated seventh in the week's Associated Press poll, hosts second-ranked Ohio State and it is not hard to figure what would happen if Paterno's team beats the Buckeyes in the regionally televised game.

Also scheduled to be shown on regional television are ninth-rated Georgia at Clemson, Colorado at Washington and Yale at Brown.

Paterno, the winningest coach in college football over the past decade (94-18-1) says, "It's a great time for us to play Ohio State."

"We're coming off a win (15-12) over a good team (Stanford). Ohio State won its first game. It's on regional television. It's an incentive to our people."

Paterno is not overestimating his team's strength.

"We're a good football team, but certainly not outstanding, not yet. I'm pleased with the defense. The offense is a little slower coming around. We're about at where I figured we'd be. It may take three or four more games to be pretty good," he said.

Paterno has indicated that his team may be the best he has had going into a season since the 1973 team. That club was 12-0 and beat Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl.

Paterno has his team passing more. Its most important play still is the fullback running inside, but the attack forces defenses to be more careful.

Ohio State passed the ball twice last week against Michigan State, completing one. The Buckeyes won 49-21.

This week Stanford tries to be a real giant killer as it tries to upset the nation's No. 1 team, Michigan.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler knows his club will be challenged by quarterback Mike Cordova, who passed for 290 yards when the teams got together for a 19-19 tie last year. He'll be facing a defense that gave up 288 yards in a 40-27 triumph over Wisconsin last week.

Schembechler called Cordova "a passer — a REAL passer ... You and I know they're gonna get 200-300 yards passing Saturday."

Eighth-grade teams win

Both Pampa Junior High eighth-grade teams won games over Canyon Thursday — the red team 26-8 over host Canyon Purple and blue 14-0 over visiting Canyon White.

In ninth-grade action, Canyon White crushed Pampa B-Team, 42-12, at Canyon.

Jackie Bromlow intercepted a pass and returned it 42 yards for one B-team touchdown. Marty Garner scored the other on a 60-yard run.

The Pampa blue team and Canyon White were tied, 0-0, at halftime. Clifford Anderson ran 25 yards in the third quarter for a score, which was followed by a two-point conversion pass from Derrick Young to Carl McQueen.

In the fourth quarter, Young rambled 60 yards for six points.

Defensive standouts for Pampa included Ricky Bennett, Pat Langford, Andy Richardson and Rod Walker.

"Secondary played well," said Coach Floyd Hood. "We stopped them on the ground and in the air. They hurt us outside a few times."

"We hit real well for the first game."

Pampa's red team led Canyon, 20-8, at halftime before winning, 26-6.

Touchdowns were scored by Mark Lamberson, John Shilling and Steve McDougall, who caught two TD passes from Sam Edwards.

Bobby Dorsey scored a two-point conversion for the winners and finished with approximately 100 yards on the ground.

Dent, Stone surprise No. 2 seeds in tourney

WOODLANDS, Tex. (AP) — The best Raul Ramirez and Brian Gottfried could figure, if it was Thursday they must be at the U.S. Professional Doubles Championships at Woodlands Country Club.

While the top-seeded combo flunked their geography test, they played almost flawless tennis in whipping Australians Geoff Masters and Ross Case 6-0, 6-0 Thursday night in a mini-version of the 1976 Wimbledon doubles championship match.

In the night's biggest upset, unranked Phil Dent and Allen Stone surprised second seeded Drew McMillan and Bob Hewitt 6-4, 7-6, including a 7-0 shutout in the tie-breaker.

"We're so used to playing Masters and Case in the finals we just got keyed up and played like we already were in the finals," Gottfried said, trying to explain how they brushed aside Case and Masters, who lost to Ramirez-Gottfried only after a five-set, three-hour marathon for the 1976 Wimbledon title.

The abbreviated Wimbledon replay took only 33 minutes.

"We got up for some teams better than others and especially teams we consider among the best in the world," Ramirez said.

"At Wimbledon, we both had played a lot of matches to get to the finals, and we both were really high because it was Wimbledon. But today, we just played much better."

"I don't think we could have played much better. I don't see how we could play a match and make fewer errors."

Masters could do little but agree. "They could have hit the ball with the end of their rackets and it would have gone over," the frustrated Masters said.

"It was just one of those rare things where they could do no wrong," Case said. "We might go out right now and play them three close sets and win."

The globe-trotting Ramirez and Gottfried now meet Arthur Ashe and Dennis Ralston in today's second round of the $100,000 tournament, sponsored by Grow Chemical Corp.

California football players arrested by Dallas police

DALLAS (AP) — The University of California football was in Norman, Okla., today preparing for Saturday's contest with Oklahoma after three UC players were arrested Thursday in a Dallas lounge where a woman said she was harassed and fondled by several men.

The three players posted cash bond and left later in the day with the team on its bus trip from Dallas to Norman Okla. for Saturday's game with Oklahoma.

The team came to Dallas earlier this week to work out for the game.

Police records identified those arrested as:

—Wade Allan Johnson 22

from San Jose who was booked with disorderly conduct theft and escape posted $200 cash bond and obtained a writ of habeas corpus allowing him to be freed.

—Paul Kent Jones 19 from San Jose who was booked for disorderly conduct and posted $200 bond.

Two others were also arrested in the incident.

Volleyers topple Berger

BORGER — Pampa, despite dropping the second set, outlasted Berger in a non-district girls volleyball match Thursday night.

Pampa won the varsity match, 15-1, 11-15, 15-8, to up its season record to 9-1. "We have a tendency when we get ahead to give up," Pampa Coach Lynn Wolfe said.

"Berger is the kind of team that will take advantage of that."

Pampa won the junior varsity match, 15-6, 15-11, to become 4-0 on the season.

The Harvesters and B-team will host Perryton Monday, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Shockers edge Dumas

DUMAS — A two-point conversion pass from Rick Dougherty to Bobby Burns proved to be the difference in an 8-6 Pampa win over Dumas in junior varsity action Thursday.

Pampa scored on a 12-yard pass from Dougherty to Mike Cole at 5:29 in the first quarter. The conversion gave the Shockers an 8-0 lead.

Dumas scored at 5:19 in the second period on a three-yard run by Todd Hornsby. Quarterback Benny Gilmore was stopped trying for the conversion.

Defensive stars for the Shockers included end Terry Simmons and linebacker Bobby Taylor.

Todd Chumbley carried seven times for 73 yards for the winners. Burns rushed 10 times for 43 yards.

Dougherty completed four of seven passes for 52 yards. He was sacked numerous times and lost 63 yards on 12 rushes.

Leading Dumas rusher was Sammy Gardner with 67 yards on 14 carries.

Perryton edged the host Pampa sophomores, 14-0, Thursday. The Deputies had crushed Dumas, 48-15, the week before.

Texas to rebound Saturday?

Texas will bounce back this week. So will Baylor, as those two Southwest Conference teams try to avenge opening-weekend upsets.

In last weekend's predictions, this column managed to hit on just two correct guesses, and one of those was inadvertently left out. So you'll have to take my word for it that Texas A&M was picked to down Virginia Tech.

Arkansas clubbed Utah State in the second correct pick. The misses were Texas over Boston College, Baylor over Houston, TCU over SMU and Colorado over Texas Tech.

That's two out of six or 33 per cent. But who's counting? On to this week's guesses:

Baylor 16, Auburn 10 — The Bears have a better team than the one that lost 23-5 to Houston.

Alabama 30, SMU 12 — The Bear has a better team than the one that knocked off TCU 34-14 last week.

Texas A&M 28, Kansas State 10 — And that's being conservative. With George Woodard, the Aggies may be better than last year.

Tennessee 24, Texas Christian 10 — The Horned Frogs surely suffered a letdown after dropping their SWC opener. This game doesn't count.

Rice 20, Utah 7 — Rice probably has the poorest SWC team. But Utah has one of the poorest teams anywhere.

Paul Sims

Texas 31, North Texas State 14 — Hayden Fry may wish he was back in the SWC.

Area high school predictions proved to be a more successful venture last weekend, as this column connected on four of five guesses.

The only miss was White Deer over Clarendon. The Bronchos won, 20-15, though White Deer was picked by three points.

Correct guesses were Wheeler over Follett, Groom over Miami, Lefors over Texline and Canadian over Shamrock.

That makes me 7-4 for the season.

Pampa Coach John Welborn, concerning Perryton, tonight's opponent: "Don Beck may have created a monster, the kind where people get upset if you don't win the state championship."

Red Grange, in Sports Illustrated: "I won't mention the name of this particular team we were playing, but at halftime we came in, pulled off our socks and began putting iodine on the teeth marks in our legs."

Coach Bob Zupke said: "I'll tell you one thing: if we ever play this team again, it'll be on a Friday."

T.S. Eliot: "Football has become so complicated, the student will find it a recreation to go to classes."

NFL predictions

Tampa Bay, Chargers to square off Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — Psst. Hey, buddy. Yeah, you. Looking for an upset in the National Football League this week?

Sure, you are. How tough is it to figure Dallas over New Orleans and Miami over New England? All the guys in the office pool will have those.

But how about Tampa Bay over San Diego? Now, there's one that could give you the edge.

How could the pro-picker, that bastion of football reliability, have the nerve to try and tout you onto the Buccaneers?

This is a team that will be playing only its second regular-season NFL game. And this is a team that neglected to score any points in its first one.

So why should it win?

Well, for one thing, despite last week's victory, San Diego is no powerhouse. Remember these are essentially the same Chargers who lost 11 straight games a year ago.

For another, the Bucs will be at Tampa, playing before the home fans in an emotional setting. That could mean some points, too.

And for a third, the pro picker had a 13-1 opening week, missing a clean sweep by 45 seconds when Washington overtook the New York Giants at the end of their game. So he can afford a far-fetched pick like Tampa Bay.

The picks: Tampa Bay 14, San Diego 10. How will the Bucs score 14 points this week when they couldn't score any last week? Have faith. The Chargers aren't as good as they looked against Kansas City.

Minnesota 23, Los Angeles 10 — The Rams are down to third-string quarterback Pat Haden with regular James Harris still nursing a broken thumb and backup Ron Jaworski's shoulder broken. The Vikes have won six of the last seven meetings against LA.

Pittsburgh 38, Cleveland 14 — The Steelers are angry after blowing last week's opener in Oakland. Cleveland wiped out a 10-point deficit and beat the Jets a week ago but the Browns will find the going considerably tougher against the Super Bowl champions.

Baltimore 21, Cincinnati 17 — The home field gives the Colts a little edge in this match between two of the NFL's finest young quarterbacks, Bert Jones of Baltimore and Ken Anderson of Cincinnati.

San Francisco 28, Chicago 14 — The 49ers have beaten the Bears six straight times. The Chicago defense looked good against Detroit but it will have its hands full with Jim Plunkett, who pitched for two TDs against Green Bay.

Oakland 35, Kansas City 10 — The Raiders scored 17 points in less than three minutes against Pittsburgh. Can you imagine what they might do against the Chiefs?

Detroit 16, Atlanta 14 — The Lions never have lost to the Falcons and they've faced better Atlanta clubs than the one which visits Pontiac Stadium this week.

Pittsburgh trims Phils, lead

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Where there's a Willie, there's a way for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We're not giving up," says Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell. "We have the will to continue, no matter what the circumstances."

Stargell sounded Pittsburgh's homestretch battle cry after blasting a home run to help the Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6 Thursday night and cut their National League East lead to four games.

It was 15½ games at one point last month, but the swaggering Pirates have chopped most of it off by winning 17 of their last 22 starts — including five straight against the Phillies.

The teams played through a long rain delay and the Pirates blew leads of 5-0 and 6-4 before pulling it out on Rennie Stennett's dramatic ninth-inning double.

"I've been hitting line drives at people," said Stennett.

"Luckily this one found the gap."

While the Phillies and Pirates were making the National League East more interesting, Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles 4-2 and moved closer to winning the West.

Elsewhere in National League play, Atlanta trimmed Houston 5-3; the New York Mets turned back St. Louis 4-1 and Montreal nipped the Chicago Cubs 4-3.

Stennett doubled home pinch-runner Miguel Dilone in the ninth inning off ace reliever Ron Reed. Losing early by five runs, the Phillies woke up after a one hour and 22-minute rain delay in the bottom of the fifth. Philadelphia finally tied it 6-6 in the seventh on a two-run single by Bob Boone, who came up without a hit in his last 19 at-bats.

Duffy Dyer started the Pirates' ninth when he was hit by a Reed pitch. Dilone went in to run and reached second on a sacrifice bunt by Omar Moreno. Pinch-hitter Ed Kirkpatrick flied out before Stennett doubled into center field for the winning run.

four Cincinnati victories or Los Angeles defeats will give the Reds a second consecutive National League West pennant.

Braves 5, Astros 3 — Dave May keyed a four-run eighth inning with a two-run triple after Jim Wynn had tied the score with a pinch home run, giving Atlanta its victory over Houston. Phil Niekro, 15-11, was the winner.

Mets 4, Cardinals 1 — Jerry Koosman of New York became a 20-game winner for the first time in his career when he stopped St. Louis with a four-hit, 13-strikeout performance.

Expos 4, Cubs 3 — Jose Morales set two major league pinch-hitting records with a three-run double in the seventh inning that gave Montreal its victory over Chicago. Morales' pinch-hit appearance was his 74th of the year, one more than the mark set by Vic Davalillo of St. Louis in 1970. The hit was his 25th as a pinch-hitter, passing the record of 24 set by Dave Philley of Baltimore in 1961 and equaled by Davalillo in 1970.

A's lose another game to KC in 4-0 Twin win

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Oakland A's had a notion about gaining ground on Kansas City in the American League West race, but Ford had a better idea.

Dan Ford, that is.

Ford, a former A's farmhand, hit a pair of two-run homers to back Bill Singer's four-hit pitching and give Minnesota a 4-0 victory over Oakland Thursday night. That loss, coupled with Kansas City's 2-0 triumph over California, dropped the A's 4½ games behind the front-running Royals in the AL West.

said Ford, "but it actually worked out for the best."

Ford won a starting outfield berth with Minnesota in 1975, batting .280 with 15 homers. This year he's hitting .273 with 19 homers and 80 runs batted in.

Singer, 11-9, recorded his fourth shutout of the season and his third since joining the Twins in June in a deal with Texas. He allowed just four singles and two walks.

Red Sox 4, Brewers 3 — Butch Hobson, the rookie who inherited Rico Petrocelli's third-base job, beat Milwaukee with a home run for the second time in two nights, belting a two-run shot in the ninth inning. He also had the game-winning in Wednesday's 2-1 Boston victory.

George Scott and rookie Dan Thomas homered for Milwaukee.

Sundberg tallied twice for Texas. Nelson Briles, 10-9, got the victory, with last-out relief from Joe Hoerner.

Reds 4, Dodgers 2 — Cincinnati left-hander Don Gullett, finding his 1975 form after a month of inactivity, won his second straight start by beating Los Angeles with a seven-hit. The victory reduced Cincinnati's "magic" number to four. Any combination of Elsewhere in the American League, Texas trimmed the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Boston edged Milwaukee 4-3. New York at Cleveland was rained out, while Baltimore and Detroit were not scheduled.

Ford homered off Stan Bahnsen, 8-6, in the fourth inning with Rod Carew on base and rocked Bahnsen again in the sixth, this time with Lyman Bostock aboard. Seven of Ford's 19 homers this year have come against the A's, who traded him to Minnesota after the 1974 season.

"They caught me in a hot streak," said Ford, who also homered in a 4-2 victory over the A's Tuesday. "I guess you could say I play a little harder against Oakland. I signed with them, but never got a chance."

Ford spent four years in the A's farm system before he was obtained by the Twins in a trade for utilityman Pat Bourque.

"It bothered me at the time,"

Robinson and his agent, Ed Keating, met Thursday with Indians President Ted Bonda and General Manager Phil Seghi, but Bonda said "nothing definitive was decided."

Tribe, Robinson decide nothing

CLEVELAND (AP) — Contract negotiations between Cleveland Indians Manager Frank Robinson and the club's front office are under way, but they haven't shed any light on whether Robinson will be back next season.

Prison farm 'brain trust'

Lifer will get degree with honors

NACOGDOCHES, Tex. (AP) — Tom Matthews plans to graduate No. 1 in his class at Stephen F. Austin State University in December. Matthews has never set foot on the campus.

He is serving a life term in prison for murder. Tom and two other prisoners at the Coffield United prison farm make up a "brain trust" that draws on each member of the trio. They attend off-campus courses at the farm. The other two are Anthony Gnagi and Dietrich Schoennagel. Gnagi is on a 75-year term for rape; Schoennagel is under a 40-year sentence for murder. "Convicts seem to have a highly developed capacity to assess an individual's strengths and weaknesses. For this reason you have to know what you are talking about because you can't con a con," said Steve Smith, associate professor of political science. In the "brain trust" one inmate takes extensive classroom notes, one outlines the text and the third composes practice test questions. By the end of a semester they usually have a three-inch stack of notes for every course. They rotate the task for every course and semester. Gnagi graduated last spring with a 3.35 average and received a Bachelor of Applied Arts and Science Degree. Schoennagel has a 3.21 average and also is due to graduate in December. He is a German history buff and has more than fifty books on the Third Reich.

Matthews said. "The 'brain trust' is good because we can cover for one another if one of us misses class for some reason." Matthews once missed classes for two weeks because he was placed in solitary confinement for studying on the job. The prisoners must work 40 hours a week in the prison in addition to attending classes. Matthews is an x-ray technician for the prison. Gnagi is an accountant and Schoennagel a clerk. Gnagi, spokesman for the group, said. "When I was arrested I spent 18 months in the Dallas County jail. "During this time my wife left me. This and the fact that I had plenty of time to think about all of my life's failures caused me to become very depressed. I began to consider my whole a failure. "I had even been a failure as a criminal, because after all I was in jail. "I then read two books that really affected me. They were "Psychocybernetics" and "The Power of Positive Thinking."

Japanese shrine shines with covering of sake

By KATHRYN TOLBERT Associated Press Writer TOKYO (AP) — Thousands of gallons of rice wine are being sprayed on a shrine in central Tokyo, filling the air with a pungent aroma and attracting crowds of spectators. The wine, called sake, is being sprayed on the 75-year-old Yasukuni Shrine's cypress exterior to bring out the grain of the wood and give it a patina after the blackening of years has been scrubbed away. The work began Wednesday at the request of 81-year-old Hajime Goto, chairman of a construction company in Bepu. He donated 10,000 half-gallon bottles of top-quality sake for the cleaning. The shrine, dedicated to Japanese war dead, should be kept sacred for the souls of the dead soldiers," Goto said as he watched the first day of spraying. "They didn't want to die, but they did. The peace in Japan today is based on our dead soldiers. I was angry to see how dirty the buildings had become." Each year, thousands pass under the towering Shinto gate and walk along the wide gravelled approach to the shrine to pay homage to dead Japanese soldiers. Because of its military subject, the shrine has been a frequent target of opponents of Japanese militarism. A bill to maintain the shrine with government funds was shelved after intense opposition and protest demonstrations. Shinto was once the state religion, but the postwar constitution fostered by the United States ended that. The Yasukuni Shrine is located in central Tokyo, an area of heavy air pollution. For a month, a squad of men will spray sake on 35,580 square feet of the shrine's buildings at a cost of $500,000 to Goto. Cases of the wine were stacked in front of the main shrine building. It was fed through hoses from large buckets to men on scaffolding under the upper eaves of the building. Onlookers were especially numerous Wednesday since it was a national holiday of respect for the elderly. They inhaled the mist and some made gestures of dipping their fingers into the buckets for a taste. "Some of the men doing the spraying said they hadn't been sake drinkers before but felt they had acquired a taste for it now," said Kanji Suzuki, an official of the shrine. By WILLIAM R. LONG Associated Press Writer SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — In Chile's legions of jobless, many of the hardest hit are victims of political vendetta. And their future looks bleak. They are the Communists, Socialists or members of other now-outlawed parties that supported overthrown Marxist President Salvador Allende. Others are members of the large Christian Democratic party which, while it opposed Allende, has also been in conflict with the ruling military regime. This past winter has seen the greatest unemployment since the armed forces seized power in September 1973. The government's Institute of Statistics figured that 19.1 per cent — nearly one in five — of all workers in greater Santiago were jobless at the end of June. Along with the first blossoms of spring, there is hope that better times are coming for "los cesantes" — the idle ones. But more available jobs will not necessarily mean better prospects for the unknown percentage who were "selected out" of work because of their political past. The latest statistics, from a special survey made by the University of Chile in July, showed that the jobless rate had dropped to 16.3 per cent in Santiago. The metropolitan area is the home of about one-third of Chile's 10 million people. Unemployment rates in the provinces generally are estimated to be somewhat lower, but many rural workers are underemployed, averaging only a few hours of work a week. In the decade before the 1973 coup, unemployment of 4 per cent was considered normal in Chile. After the coup, the rate began to rise rapidly as the government cut public payrolls and the private sector fell into economic depression. Authorities say the government cutbacks were necessary to reduce deficit spending administration. They say the depression is a result of damage done to the economy by chaos and irresponsibility under Allende. No one doubts that a great majority of the cuts in public and private employment were made for economic reasons. But some analysts contend that political considerations have been most important in deciding who should be sacked. Labor sources say that after the coup, blacklists of employees with political or union records were used in cutting back public and private payrolls. The sources say job candidates still are screened with help from intelligence agencies. Once a worker is dismissed for political reasons, he has little hope of finding another job, the union sources say. Some of the idle ones lost their jobs after being detained by authorities in roundups of suspected leftist resisters. More than 7,000 persons have been detained under the state of siege in effect since the coup.

Abortion compromise would limit funding

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal funds for abortions would be limited to cases of where the mother's life would be "endangered by disease" if she gave birth, according to a new congressional compromise. Statements by lawmakers on each side of the dispute show some disagreement on what is meant by "endangered." At present, the federal government pays the states about $50 million annually to help pay for abortions under the Medicaid program. House-Senate conferees agreed Wednesday on the limitation which was offered by Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., as a compromise. The conferees had been trying to resolve differences between the House-passed bill that would have prohibited any federal funds for abortions and the Senate bill that had rejected such a ban. The report adopted by the conference committee did not define "endangered by disease" but it did give examples "as in the case of multiple sclerosis or renal disease." Most of the House members of the committee indicated they viewed "endangered" to mean physical danger to the life of the mother. However, Sens. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and some House members said that "endangered" could apply if a woman, as a result of pregnancy, exhibited suicidal tendencies that her

'Old Man River' not so mighty anymore

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Old Man River's bones are showing.

Low water up and down the once-mighty Mississippi River is causing headaches for barge companies, truckers, the Army Engineers, Coast Guard and hundreds of businesses and industries which depend on river transportation.

The usually broad stream has been reduced in many places to little more than a large creek running between mud flats and sand bars. Remains of sunken barges and pleasure boats have re-emerged from years of submersion.

"It's all because it didn't rain during the summer.

"If it don't rain, the creek don't rise," said Jerry Clemons, a hydrologist for the National Weather Service at Memphis.

All up and down the Mississippi, near-record low water levels have forced barges aground.

The Corps of Engineers is working several dredges around the clock in a thus-far vain effort to keep a channel open.

The Coast Guard has reduced the in-port time for its boats to provide more assistance to crews of tugboats and barges that have run aground.

Truckers have been forced to detour hundreds of miles because some ferries can't handle loaded trucks when the river is so low.

And shipping companies have cut their barge loads in half to provide more freeboard.

"We've got towboats running aground all over the place," said Lt. (jg) John Calhoun, deputy group commander at the U.S. Coast Guard station in Memphis.

"We've got six to seven groundings a day reported to us and there's at least that many that aren't reported."

The Coast Guard has seven boats assigned to the Mississippi between Cairo, Ill., and Baton Rouge, La. Normally each boat is in port five days and on the river for five days.

"We've cut the in-port time to one to three days. We don't have to pay overtime and we don't have to give the men any time off; but I don't know what it's doing to morale," Calhoun said.

Calhoun said the Coast Guard is running short of buoys to mark the channel in the river. Normally there are about 1,000 buoys anchored in the river. Because of the rapidly changing river, the Coast Guard has put out about 1,800.

Ordinarily the channel is a minimum of nine feet deep and 300 feet wide, Calhoun said.

At Memphis, the Cargill Co., which ships millions of tons of grain on the Mississippi, is loading barges with no more than 800 tons of grain instead of the normal 1,500 tons. If the barges were loaded to capacity they would drag the bottom.

Delta Refining Co. at Memphis has reduced its production of petroleum products by 10 percent because much of the crude oil it processes comes by barge.

Clemons, who keeps track of the river for the Weather Service, doesn't hold much hope for improvement in the near future.

"We've got to have rain up-river for it to get any better," he said.

Church of God hosts farewell luncheon

A farewell luncheon following the Sunday morning worship at the Church of God, 1123 Gwendolyn, will honor the Rev. and Mrs. John Waller.

Rev. Waller has been pastor of the church since April, 1968. He will leave Pampa due to illness.

The church will have an old fashioned gospel sing at 6 p.m. Sunday.

St. Mark C.M.E. planning six day revival

Revival services at St. Mark C.M.E. Church, 406 Elm, will begin Sunday and will run through Friday, according to the Rev. V.L. Brown Jr., minister.

Evangelist for the six-day revival will be the Rev. A.J. Johnson, pastor of the Wesley Chapel C.M.E. Church in Henderson.

Services will be 7:30 p.m. each night and music will be by the St. Mark Choir and other Pampa choirs.

The public is invited.

Carter has i.d. crisis

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter may not have too much of an identity problem with most of the country. But here in Maine, legally, candidate Jimmy Carter is a nobody.

And therein lie the seeds of a court suit.

Maine law requires that along with a candidate's first and last names, his middle name or a middle initial must be listed, if he has one. The state attorney general's office has held that Carter's legal name is James Earl Carter Jr. and that there has been no attempt to legally change that name.

Carter and the 1976 Democratic Presidential Campaign Committee brought suit against Maine's secretary of state last week to attempt to reverse the decision. Maine Secretary of State Markham L. Gortley and Maine Atty. Gen. Joseph E. Brennan are both Democrats.

Carter aides say the case is the only dispute of its kind in the nation over the listing of their candidate on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Kennebec County Superior Court Justice David Nichols said Wednesday that he hopes to rule on the matter by Friday.

At a hearing Wednesday, Nichols asked Deputy State Atty. Gen. Donald Alexander whether Maine law would have barred certain past presidents from appearing on the ballot as they were popularly known. He cited the given names of Thomas Woodrow Wilson and John Calvin Coolidge.

Alexander said he was not familiar with those cases.

Carter wants to clear up vague issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter contends his debate with President Ford on Thursday will "alleviate a lot of the concerns about me" among voters who think him too vague on issues.

Discussing those issues in an interview with The Associated Press, the Democratic presidential nominee said:

—He believes that as president he could spearhead an unprecedented total overhaul of U.S. tax laws through Congress. But he cannot now spell out what would be in his new tax code.

—He will seek to implement such Democratic platform promises as welfare reform and national health insurance only when a revived economy produces the revenues to pay for them without tax increases.

—He already is sizing up the foreign policy experts he meets and consults as possible candidates to become secretary of state in a Carter administration.

—He thinks he can curb unemployment by using federal funds to stimulate private industry jobs without heavy reliance on public employment to put people back to work. He put no price on his plan.

Carter and Ford meet Thursday night in Philadelphia in the first of their three nationally televised campaign debates.

"I think the debates, unless President Ford or I make a serious mistake, will probably solidify support and, naturally, leaning voters — it would make their degree of commitment more solid," he said in the Friday interview with a panel of AP editors and reporters.

"I think it would help to alleviate a lot of the concerns about me," the former Georgia governor said.

Carter said he thinks the debates will demonstrate he is not the radical candidate Republicans claim he is. "I am a substantial person" with some knowledge of defense and foreign affairs.

"And if I can project that image in the debates, it would be a great asset for me," he said.

He bristled at questions about a Louis Harris survey, published Thursday, which reported a drop in his positive rating. It was based on a survey among 2,844 likely voters over the past three weeks.

Harris said the survey found that by 49 per cent to 34 per cent, a plurality of voters believe that Carter "has ducked taking stands on issues to avoid offending anybody, and that is wrong."

Carter said he hadn't seen the Harris poll. "I think that to strike one element out of a poll is a substantial and, I might say, unwarranted distortion," he said.

"I wish everybody had complete trust in me, and I believe that the debates will help to alleviate concern that has been pointed out," Carter said.

He said that in his own campaign polls, he rates higher than Ford on questions of trust and ability to solve major problems.

As he has in campaign speeches, Carter described his tax overhaul plans in broad terms, saying the law would be "drastically reformed and simplified."

He said all income would be taxed the same and said he would seek "to guarantee a truly progressive tax rate so that the higher an income one has, the higher percentage of income one pays."

Carter said tax exemptions and deductions "would be severely curtailed," but he did not say which ones.

Carter said he would try to lower the rate of taxation, keep the same revenues, and substantially increase the taxes on "those who have the higher incomes."

"What are you thinking of as higher?" Carter was asked.

"I don't know," he replied. "I would take the median level of income."

"The median family income today is somewhere around $12,000," said a reporter. "Somebody earning $15,000 a year is not what people commonly think of as rich."

"I understand," Carter said. "I can't answer the question, because I haven't gone into it. I don't know how to write the tax code in specific terms. It is just not possible to do that on the campaign trail."

Carter said he saw no problem for the voter in judging his program because "the principles that I have spelled out to you would in every instance convince the average American family that their taxes are going to be no higher, or perhaps even lower — and that their taxes as levied will be fair."

He also said the $10 billion to $11 billion in tax breaks now provided to homeowners represents about the right level of encouragement for home construction and home ownership.

"That includes tax deductions for mortgage interest — which he once said he would like to eliminate — and for property tax payments."

He said those advantages should not apply to second homes or similar property, but that with such revision "I would guess that it would stay in the tax code."

Carter said he is confident he can spearhead the bill through Congress, where past efforts at tax reform often have foundered.

He said that from the White House "I believe that I could speak clearly enough to the American people to arouse their support," and that Congress would pass the program.

Carter said he favors federal investment in efforts to stimulate private employment as a way to cut the 7.9 per cent unemployment rate to the 5 or 5.5 per cent maximum on which his budget planning is predicated.

By 1981, "with the reasonable expectation of economic growth" and with unemployment curtailed, "we will have, that year, about $60 billion more in incalculable value."

"Within that framework, assuming a balanced budget for fiscal year 1981, the programs that we have advocated will be implemented," Carter said. He said such items as welfare reform and health insurance "will be phased in to accommodate the increased money available to us."

While he disputed Republican claims that programs he and the Democratic platform propose would cost $100 billion a year, when he was asked for the correct figure, Carter replied:

"Well, it is hard to say. We will fulfill all of the promises that are made to the American people."

He then said that his projection of increased federal revenues was based on computer analysis.

Q: "Your response to the $100-billion figure is that it is too high?"

A: "Yes, it is."

Q: "Do you have another figure or not?"

A: "Well, as I said, we will fit the rapidity of implementation of these programs in to accommodate the revenues that I have just described to you."

Q: "Without tax increases?"

A: "That is correct, yes sir." On other points:

—Carter said that while he supports the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, which seeks to reduce adult unemployment to 3 per cent over the next four years, "I am not trying to push the passage of the bill through the House and Senate." He said it is compatible with his goals.

Guest wins over Tatum in TDC battle

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Bryan businessman Calvin Guest overrode a raucous liberal challenge Saturday and retained the state chairmanship of the Texas Democratic Party. Delegate survivors of night long political revelry rejected the spirited bid of East Texas lawyer John Henry Tatum and rewarded Guest with a third two-year term.

The role call vote was 1,948 for Guest and 1,345 for Tatum. The Guest victory was not totally unexpected. But the decisive margin was a surprise. Guest, 53, a savings and loan executive, sought reelection on a campaign based largely on party unity and the unwavering support of Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Briscoe, who hand-picked Guest as state chairman in 1972, spoke out passionately for Guest at a moderate-conservative caucus shortly before the climactic vote.

"If this party turns its back on Dolph Briscoe, it turns its back on itself and its own interest," said Jess Hay of Dallas, one of several to speak out against the minority report calling for Tatum's election.

Gaily decorated delegates, waving Guest and Tatum banners, occasionally shouted down attempts for quiet as convention officials sought to bring the issue to a vote.

One speaker observed wryly that with a close presidential election just several weeks away now is "a heck of a time" to dump Guest, co-chairman of presidential contender Jimmy Carter's Texas campaign.

Tatum, incidentally, was a "charter Carter" and an early coordinator of the former Georgia governor's campaign in Texas.

He had promised "a new day for Texas" if elected and said "we're going to have a party that's open to all Democrats."

Delegates were expected later to give swift approval of Sate Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson of Dallas as party vice chairman. She was the choice of the black caucus.

The state's liberal faction won several new seats on the 62-member State Democratic Executive Committee and, according to some interpretations, seized the balance of power.

One ousted member of the committee, a conservative, broke down the new delegation thusly: 15 conservatives, 10 moderates, the remainder liberals.

But for all practical purposes, the major show Saturday was the Guest-Tatum battle.

Tatum, a Lufkin attorney, accused Guest of excluding certain factions from party affairs and charged repeatedly that he misused and mishandled party funds.

Supported vigorously by influential national committeewoman Billie Carr, a Houston liberal, Tatum challenged Guest's claim of reducing the party's indebtedness and declared, "I don't believe we really were in debt four years ago, but we are now."

Tatum labeled as "bunk" charges from the Guest camp that his election would fracture the party and trigger a mass defection of conservatives and moderates.

The challenger also dismissed as meaningless Gov. Dolph Briscoe's support of Guest, saying:

"The mood of this convention is that the delegates could care less. They've had four years of Calvin Guest and they don't like what they've seen."

Briscoe, who addressed the convention Friday night, did not raise the issue in his brief remarks. Instead, he focused on party heritage and unity.

bitterly attacked the GOP's "financial irresponsibility" and forecast a resounding Texas victory for Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter.

"Texas has been Texas a Democratic state. It is through Democratic leadership that we have the best economy of any state in the nation," Briscoe said.

"And let us voice clearly once again that the Republicans have contributed absolutely nothing. Their contributions have been zero minus to the growth, the progress, the soundness of the Lone Star State."

He added, "The top priority and really the first order of business of this convention must be to mobilize our resources and our manpower behind the Democratic ticket working toward a landslide victory in November."

Kissinger warns Smith

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger reportedly sent a message to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith on Saturday. Rhodesia's white minority must agree to transfer power to the black majority by 1978 or face a possible race war alone.

The secretary also told South African Prime Minister John Vorster that Smith must give an answer this weekend, U.S. officials said, before Kissinger flies on to a second round of talks with leaders of black Africa to report on his efforts to avert racial war in southern Africa.

Vorster reportedly carried the ultimatum to Smith at nearby Johannesburg, where both were to attend an international rugby match, after a second session between Vorster and the secretary.

Kissinger has told Vorster that he will not meet with Smith unless their talk would be "the final element in reaching a satisfactory conclusion" to the Rhodesian dispute.

"I will see him if it helps move matters to a conclusion and only if some clear result is likely," Kissinger said.

But South African officials suggested that there will be at least one session between Kissinger and Smith here Sunday.

The officials said it was possible that session could lead to a final, conclusive second round of talks later this week — a development that would require the secretary to return to Pretoria from scheduled second visits to Zambia and Tanzania. Kissinger is also set to stop in Zaire and Kenya before returning to Washington via London.

While thousands of South African troops watched for trouble at Pretoria, anti-Kissinger demonstrations continued outside Johannesburg. In Cape Town, white civilians shot and killed one colored person — as those of mixed blood are officially called here — and wounded two others.

In Soweto and Alexandria, huge black townships bordering Johannesburg, students and other blacks demonstrated with signs labeling Kissinger a murderer and a Fascist, and warning, "Dr. Kissinger, get out of Anzania (South Africa) — Don't bring your disguised American oppression into Anzania."

Police fired on anti-Kissinger demonstrators in Soweto on Friday, killing six students and wounding 35, according to the Rand Daily Mail.

Many militant blacks are anti-American because they claim the United States supported Vorster's white government in the Angolan civil war and on other occasions.

Kissinger stressed American opposition to South Africa's policy of apartheid or racial separation in meetings with black and antigovernment leaders as well as American Embassy personnel.

In an address to 150 staff members at the U.S. Embassy, 30 of them black, Kissinger warned that "war between the races, if it once started, would have the profoundest implications for international stability on a global scale."

"As far as the United States is concerned, the concept of human dignity must have universal application," he said. "We cannot agree with any concept that's based on the separation of the races."

Moderate South African black leaders urged in a meeting with Kissinger later that he back a multiracial conference in South Africa to resolve the racial crisis.

The blacks said later Kissinger gave no commitment to support them but said he understood their plea.

"White intransigence continues unabated and is the match which will light the future," warned Chief Gatsh.. Buthelezi, leader of South Africa's four million Zulus.

"Blacks in South Africa seek rights and equality, not a more comfortable form of bondage," Buthelezi said.

The black leaders told Kissinger there was still a chance to avoid a race war. "There is, however, so little time left in which to employ nonviolent means to effect a multiracial solution and there is so little to encourage one to continue in nonviolent methods that for all practical purposes time has run out for South Africa," Buthelezi said.

ABE students get new lease on life

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff
For 52 years Wiley Perkins couldn't read.

Then last fall, prodded by two of his daughters, the concrete finisher enrolled in Adult Basic Education classes at Baker Elementary School and began the education that had been denied him when he was young.

"I never had a chance to get an education," Perkins, a native of Carnegie, Okla., said. "I always had to work."

When Perkins enrolled in 1975, classes had already started and he knew his job would prevent him from attending all of the twice-weekly classes.

"I told 'em sometimes I wouldn't be able to make it. They said to come on even if it was just for 15 minutes."

"I couldn't read a bit. I wanted to go (to the classes), but I was embarrassed so bad."

Perkins' desire to learn overcame his embarrassment, however, and he did learn to read.

Tuesday night he was among nearly 50 area residents enrolling in reading, English, arithmetic, science, history and English as a second language.

Adult Basic Education gives persons over age 16 who have not received a high school diploma the opportunity to study and earn a G.E.D. Certificate of Equivalency. Floyd Sackett, Baker principal, said it also gives people like Perkins a new window on the world — education.

Perkins' 13-year-old daughter Willa, an eighth grade student at Pampa Junior High School, helped her father enroll Tuesday. And his wife, Aftena Perkins, was there to find out what Adult Basic Education could do for her.

"I talked to her (Mrs. Perkins) quite a bit," Perkins said. "She's kind of like I was when I first came here. But I told her how nice everyone was. They are nice, everyone of them."

Perkins said that not being able to read was quite a handicap.

"Before, that was hard. Asking questions and driving — that was hard on me. But I couldn't read. I just had to live with it, that's all.

"I'd enjoy it (classes) all year. I enjoy reading a lot."

Ursula Sue Smith, 54, from south of Pampa, also attended classes last year and was back last week to enroll in more.

Her goal is a G.E.D. and she plans to enroll in college once she gets that.

"I wanted to go to school when I was growing up," Mrs. Smiley said. "I decided when my kids got grown I'd get it (a diploma)."

Mrs. Smiley was born and raised in Arkansas and has an eighth grade education. The school she attended in Arkansas was so small all eight grades were in one room.

"I took the eighth grade twice just to go to school," she said, adding "I taught first grade for two years."

The nearest high school was 20 miles away and she would have had to live away from home. Her parents wouldn't let her do that.

She has stressed the importance of education to her three children. Two have attended college and the youngest got married at 16, "but they all finished high school," Mrs. Smiley said.

"The hardest thing was coming back to school," she said. She had taken a correspondence course "about 10 years ago, but I just couldn't dig it out, just couldn't do it."

She expects to receive her G.E.D. in December.

The Rev. Jim Hall of Skellytown, with a sixth grade education, said his first year in Adult Basic Education was "just all right."

Rev. Hall, 54, is a native of the Appalachia region of Kentucky. He works for Kewanee Oil Company and has been minister of an interdenominational church in Skellytown for the past four years.

Once he receives a G.E.D. he will begin study to enter the ministry full time.

Sackett said prospective students are given placement tests when they enroll.

"We try to place them in an area where they're ready."

"Some people enroll in English as a second language only, some people come in who just want to be able to read. Some go only a month or so and others attend several years," Sackett said.

"I try to gear my time to those who need extra time," Rutha Morgan, teacher, said.

Mrs. Morgan is one of the "groundbreakers" of Adult Basic Education in Pampa. She has taught all but one of the semesters the program has been in effect.

"Any of those who really want a G.E.D. will stay with it," she said.

"Most are very serious about it."

"Most want to start lower. They are afraid to death when they come. We try to help develop confidence."

Mrs. Morgan, described by Sackett as one of the best teachers in Pampa, said the length of time required to earn a G.E.D. "depends on how they (the students) work at it."

"The G.E.D. tests are not really difficult. It's just a matter of knowing and remembering what they've learned," she said.

One of the more specialized classes offered is English as a second language — aimed mainly at the Mexican-American population.

Bernadett Rodriguez, secretary of St. Vincent Elementary School, teaches the bi-lingual class. Most of these students, she said, speak nothing but Spanish at home.

Enrollment in that section may be high in the fall, but by December, she said, there will be only five to seven "Who really stick with it."

Usually, those are the first to enroll the next year, Mrs. Rodriguez said.

"Most who are trying to learn are employed," she said. "They want to learn, but they're shy. They're not sure of what they're going to say so they don't say anything."

Sackett said that although classes started Thursday, enrollments will be accepted in the Baker office during school hours through this Saturday.

Classes will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays through Dec. 16.

Cynical tax 'reform'

One of the most potent political slogans this season is "tax reform." And with good reason: taxes, both national and local, have become outrageously onerous, eating up personal incomes and properties. For keen issues the politicians haven't had it so good for awhile; Congress is deliberating over a major "tax reform" package ostensibly designed to curb abuses and plug loopholes.

Last month a joint House-Senate panel approved several provisions of the bill, to be called the Tax Reform Act of 1976. One was to crimp the ability of business executives, doctors and other professionals to travel with tax deductions. Often people take lavish vacations, and if they can find any imaginative way to peg the trips to "business," why, you know the rest.

The dear congresspersons, along with some undiscerning headline writers, deem this kind of activity "abuses." These, of course, are the same officeholders who take several "diplomatic" or "fact-finding" junkets abroad each year; they're the ones who allow themselves a generous number of free round trips home every year, too. All this travel is paid for, of course, by taxpayers, who are being "reformed" right into the paws of the politicians.

Another provision of the tax bill is to limit tightly the deductibility of home offices. You know the gambit: if you use your study for business work you can, often, arrange a deduction from your tax bill. But the congresspersons — in their greatest moments of tenderness for you — consider that kind of deduction an "abuse" as well. Away with the "home office" ploy!

These are the same politicians for whom the taxpayers keep at two offices, in Washington and in the home district, in which to dream of ways to restrict your ability to do what you want with your own money. In short, the Tax Reform Act of 1976 is little more than a declaration of war against the personal freedom of Americans.

What's more, it makes even more rigid the distinction between the privileged — the politicians — and the taxpayers.

Leave our money alone

The United States Treasury, in its ineffable wisdom, is giving serious thought to changing our monetary system.

The department is mulling over the efficacy of eliminating the lowly one-cent piece from our coinage; the possibility of returning the two-cent piece to our pocket change; the abolition of the quarter and the half dollar; the reduction in size of the dollar to about the size of a quarter and doing away with the $1 bill (and maybe the $2, which it just restored) the introduction of a 12½-cent piece (for buying one of two items that are priced two for a quarter).

Now everytime the Treasury Department gets to foding around with our coins and currency there is cause to worry. The most recent brouhaha the Treasury stirred up was over those unmentionable aluminum cents (six of which are still missing and have a current numismatic value of upwards of $100,000 each).

We don't know why our monetary system should be changed. It's enough that we're going to have to try and learn the metric system (after having just barely conquered new math.) First of all, we like pennies and nickels and dimes, quarters, half dollars and dollars, both the coins and the bills. We'd like to have one bushel basket each of all of them, in fact.

The Treasury says people don't spend half dollars and dollar coins. They hoard them. We don't see how anybody in this day and age gets enough of them to spend let alone hoard.

We'd just as lief the folks in the Treasury would do something important — like cutting taxes, or figuring out how to make the one that's in circulation circulate farther — and leave our coinage alone.

Making it easy for Jimmy

By REED LARSON
This year, especially, with Democratic Presidential candidate Jimmy Carter calling for repeal of Right to Work laws, it becomes more important than ever for voters to fully understand what Right to Work is all about.

Right to Work means that an employe cannot be forced to join or pay money to a labor union — or any other private organization — in order to get or hold a job.

So, in those 20 states which have preserved the Right to Work an employe enjoys his freedom to work at his occupation whether he is or is not a labor union member.

Right to Work protects the basic right of individuals to choose either membership or non-membership in a labor organization. It does not interfere in any way with legitimate union activity, nor does it restrict the right of employes to organize and bargain collectively with their employes.

Right to Work relates to only one issue: compulsory unionism.

Whether unions in general are useful or harmful is a question which is not really relevant to Right to Work.

Rather, the only question posed by the Right to Work principle is whether an American citizen may be compelled to join and make financial contributions to any organization — church, labor union, lodge or civic club — in order to get or hold a job.

That Right to Work should be a fundamental individual right seems unassailable. Several years ago the respected Scripps-Howard newspaper chain editorialized: "The principle of Right to Work is not at all anti-union. It is in line with all four basic concepts of freedom — freedom to speak, freedom to vote, freedom to worship, freedom to choose."

To the nearly one million active supporters of the National Right to Work Committee, the fundamental American right of free choice is incontestable. Every person, we feel, should have the right to join a union and participate in union activities. But, he or she should have the same right not to join.

American workers should not be coerced by either the factory boss or the union boss. That's what Right to Work is all about. It's really simple. So simple that even Jimmy Carter should be able to understand.

DON'T BET ON IT Congress reject a pay raise?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 — Don't be fooled by Congress's loudly self-righteous trundown of a pay raise.

It's strictly electioneering grandstanding.

As certain as you are reading this, that grab will surface again next year — and be passed.

That's standard operating procedure on Capitol Hill. It happens every time a pay raise comes up. That was the formula on the last hike — to $44,600.

On the first go-round in 1974, an election year, it was decisively ditched. But the following year, with no election on tap, the increase zoomed through with floor leaders of both parties vigorously championing it.

It's a cinch the same thing will happen this time. In other words, the pay boost wasn't permanently killed, it was just postponed for a more propitious occasion.

This is conclusively proved by the fact that the authorization for this raise is still untouched on the statute books. It's an annual cost-of-living increase for members of Congress, federal judges and high-level officials that was quietly tacked on to the 1975 pay legislation.

It's still law, and you can bet your bottom dollar it will be invoked next year for a congressional pay boost that will be approved — there being no election in 1977.

Billion-Dollar Baby
Actually, the most significant aspect of this year's legislative appropriation bill far transcends the pay issue.

It's the stunning fact that Congress is now a $1 billion operation.

Nowhere in the torrent of rhetoric on this measure that fills many pages of the Congressional Record is there a single mention of the striking milestone that, for the first time in the 188-year history of Congress, its cost to taxpayers will exceed $1 billion.

Total of the legislation as passed by the Senate is $1,008,850,285.

That's $75,801,882 more than the last fiscal budget.

This zooming cost is not surprising. It's been roaring w congressional office buildings running into tens of millions; constant proliferation of committees, subcommittees and sub-subcommittees, all with staffs and mountains of equipment they require; and expansion of members' perquisites, allowances and other benefits, such as:

Senators, from $400,000 to $800,000 for staffs, depending on state population; for House members, $227,000 each; $6,500 yearly for stationery; unlimited franking privilege; 44 round trips home annually; free long-distance telephone and telegraph; 8,000 square feet of office space in their home states and districts; free parking garages; medical clinics, gymnasiums, and recently free computer facilities.

It sure is choice — paying work if you can get it — and with one of the juiciest pension systems extant. The several score Senate and House veterans retiring this year will pocket paychecks ranging from $30,000 to $38,000 annually for the rest of their lives.

Addendum: Unexpectedly, the numerous free benefits enjoyed by members of Congress came under fire during the House's consideration of this measure. Rep. Robert Daniel Jr., R-Va., managing to wangle recognition for one minute, "to revise and extend his remarks," used the time to blast the barring of amendments to the huge appropriation bill.

Declared Daniel: "The controlling faction would not even allow consideration of an amendment to make our own expenditure records more accessible, or an amendment to make our barbershops, restaurants and other hidden privileges pay their own way. Previously, appropriation bills have always been open to amendments, but not this time."

"I sincerely hope Congress will hear a resounding echo about this on Nov. 2."

Spreading Out
There seems to be no end to the Senate's demand for office space.

This chamber of 100 members, which already has two giant office buildings and a third with a price tag of around $100 million under construction, is wrangling over buying a fourth at a cost of $30 million to taxpayers.

Sen. John Culver, Iowa Democrat, is strenuously opposing it. Culver insists acquisition of this office building is unnecessary.

So far unmentioned in the hassle is that Congress and its various agencies now have more than 37,000 employees — an increase of 6,750 (22 per cent) since 1970. And the total is constantly going up.

Graphic illustration is the appropriation for the year-old Joint Budget Committee — $9,319,000, and a staff of 268, a virtual empire of its own.

An inch-deep acre of wet snow can yield more than 5,300 gallons of water while a similar amount of light powdery snow may produce only 1,500 gallons.

WE HAD decided not to panic over that "funny-looking thing" the Pampa woman said came out of her water faucet two or three weeks ago.

An expert on funny-looking things that come out of water faucets finally identified it as a leech.

However, it never was determined the leech was a native of Lake Meredith that found its way through all the filters at the municipal filtration plant.

It could have originated closer to the point of discovery, another investigator stated — and the probe stalled there.

So, we decided not to panic and run for the hills every time a glass of filtered lake water was set before us.

However, another development along the same line came up several days ago when a N. Russell St. woman reported she found a "leech" in her shower stall and decided it had come in as an unwelcome visitor via the shower spray.

Tony Anderson, city water department superintendent, got on the case right away. City Manager Mack Wofford joined the investigation.

They were shown the shower stall creature that had been captured and placed in a jar of water.

They decided it definitely was not a leech. They also agreed it was so big it could not possibly have made its way through the filtration plant filters.

Delving further, Mrs. Rex McAnelly, Pampa High School biology instructor, was called in to see if the "thing" could be identified.

It could, Mrs. McAnelly established in a hurry and beyond doubt that the unwelcome visitor was a large garden pulmonate (air breathing) slug.

It couldn't possibly have come through the water pipes because it in no way could be a native of Lake Meredith. Why? Because an air breathing slug cannot survive in water.

It must have sneaked into the shower stall from some place on dry land. When the water was turned on, the slug met its Waterloo.

At any rate, it didn't come out of Pampa's water supply. The State Department of Health Resources says our water is okay. So don't panic.

***
MAYBE THE main reason not to panic is the recent report received by Mayor R.D. Wilkerson from Floyd Williams, chief of the Division of Water Hygiene of the Texas Department of Health Resources in Austin.

The department recently sent a water tester to Pampa. He took samples from various areas in Lake Meredith and from Pampa's water supply after it had passed through the filtration plant.

The report found everything up to snuff at the filtration plant and the chemical analysis of the water showed that "the water being supplied by the City of Pampa meets the limits established by the National Interim Primary Drinking Water Regulations promulgated by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency."

Pampa's water supply already is in conformity with standards set by the EPA although the new regulations do not become effective until June 24, 1977.

That convinced us a "leech" or a "slug" doesn't have a ghost of a chance of squeezing through the filtration plant into the water lines and through those very minute screens in the water meter that registers how much water was used at your house (and mine) during the past month.

ANOTHER reason we decided not to switch from lake to well water was the recollection that years ago there were reports about strange things found at the bottom of city water wells.

Nobody ever proved the reports to be true, but like today — some water users turned off local well water and went to nearby towns to haul their drinking water back to Pampa.

In those gone and forgotten days there were many who wished we had a lake and a modern filtration plant from which to get our water supply.

How does that old saying go? — you can please some of the people all of the time, all of the people some of the time, but there's no way you can please all of the people all of the time.

So, all that's left to do — if you don't like hauling your water — have faith in the report from the State's Division of Water Hygiene that Pampa's water meets the EPA standards — and drink it up!

***
ONE OF those private report firms that has the inside dope on everything and threatens to sue you if you tell a soul indicates in its last report that Jimmy Carter doesn't have it "in the bag" — as many seem to think.

They base it on the report that two of the nation's leading pollsters can't get voters to say for sure about their choice at the Nov. 2 polls.

We're looking forward to the presidential debates. The schedule we have shows the first debate will be next Thursday night in TV prime time. That program should do almost as well as Monday night football.

A lot of other things scheduled for Thursday night may suffer in the attendance column. But that doesn't mean the debates will be all that earthshaking.

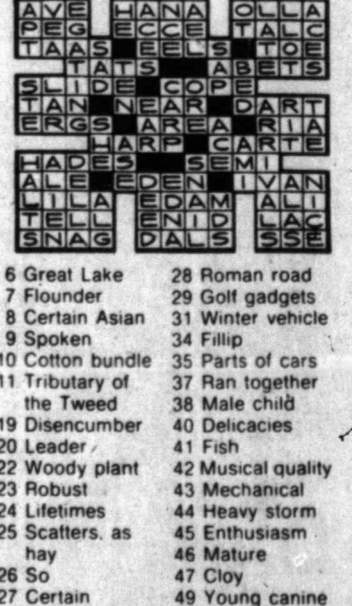

More than likely it will be a re-run of what the candidates had to say in their acceptance speeches at the national conventions.

Ford and Carter both probably could get some good tips by listening to Ronald Reagan's radio talks each morning. They started last Monday over Station KZIP in Amarillo and will start tomorrow morning over KPDM in Pampa.

Debates stir memories of Kennedy-Nixon

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent

In the moments before the first of their "great debates" in 1960, John Kennedy and Richard Nixon met briefly, shook hands and chatted.

Neither man had a natural talent for small talk. But the difference between them was that Kennedy did not feel obliged to try, while Nixon usually felt an irresistible compulsion to fill any lull.

So he talked about the weather, the campaign crowds, the motorcades, the fact that candidates got more tan from the wind than the sun. Kennedy was civil but said little. He just kept looking at his opponent.

Watching them in the Chicago TV studio that night, one was reminded of Joe Louis before the bell. As he and the other fighter listened to the referee's instructions in the center of the ring, it was usually the condemned man who fidgeted, grimaced, smiled or hammed up some show of bravado. Old Joe just stared, not a twitch anywhere, and then went out and flattened the other guy.

Kennedy did not flatten Nixon in the debate of Sept. 26, 1960. But the severe damage done to Nixon's campaign that night he did to himself.

He was the favorite, he was the vice president, he was the man who had "debated" Nikita Khrushchev, he was the star of the "Checkers" show who had mastered the medium of television. But this night he could not master something inside of Richard Nixon.

Whatever it was could not es-

The lessons of 1960 surely are not lost on the protagonists of 1976. Neither Gerald Ford nor Jimmy Carter is a Nixon, or, for that matter, a Kennedy. Both now prepare mightily for combat Thursday night in Philadelphia. Both will remember the first presidential debates.

Nixon's great mistake was that he had come to debate, to make debaters' points. He talked to Kennedy. Kennedy talked over and beyond him to the country. He had divined the medium. He came to project an image and he did — of knowledge, confidence and poise.

Nixon projected knowledge and a debater's skills. But more importantly, he projected a picture of a man who seemed unsure of what he wanted to seem. It was not a new problem with him.

On this night, he appeared determined to convince everyone he was being fair. Several times he told the audience he sincerely believed that Kennedy was sincere. The old gut fighter wanted to make it absolutely clear he was not impugning the other man's motives.

Some days later, Kennedy was talking with a friend about fatigue in the campaign. He said it was a problem but that it was worse for his opponent. Why?

"Because," said Kennedy in what might have been a classic insight, "I know who I am and I don't have to worry about adapting and changing. All I have to do at each stop is to be myself. But Nixon doesn't know who he is, and so each time he makes a speech, he has to decide which Nixon he is and that is very exhausting."

Nixon went on the attack in the next three debates and, seeming more comfortable in that posture, did better. But the damage was done in the first debate. The underdog senator from Massachusetts climbed immediately in the polls and his crowds grew.

Issues? They were almost as difficult to remember the morning after as they are now 16 years later. Something about those offshore islands, Quemoy and Matsu. Something about getting the country moving again, about providing help for the poor and the aged but here would the money come from?

Issues are lost. Vignettes remain.

In the fourth debate, Nixon accused Kennedy of weakening the country with his criticism. Kennedy shot back:

"I really don't need Mr. Nixon to tell me about what my responsibilities are as a citizen. I've served this country for 14 years in the Congress and before that in the service."

What I downgrade, Mr. Nixon, is the leadership the country is getting, not the country."

A member of the TV panel questioning the debaters sought their views on Harry Truman's use of profanity in the campaign.

Kennedy, smiling: "I really don't think there is anything I can say to President Truman that's going to cause him to change his particular manner."

Perhaps Mrs. Truman can but I don't think I can."

Nixon, solemnly: "One thing I have noted as I have traveled around the country are the tremendous number of children who come out to see the presidential candidates ... mothers holding their babies up ... It makes you realize that whoever is president is going to be a man that all the children of America will either look up to or will look down to ... and I only hope that, should I win, Expletives deleted would come later.

As in 1960, the presidential debates this year are likely to be a battle of image more than issues. As in 1960, we can expect that both protagonists will be well briefed. Their answers are likely to come quickly in machine-gun style because each will be filled with facts and figures yearning to be unleashed.

Which is too bad, because it would be refreshing, maybe even reassuring, for Americans to watch a candidate for president in the process of thought, not talk.

Each of the debaters this year has his image needs. Ford needs to be presidential, non-bumbling and as crisp and combative as he was in his nomination acceptance speech. Carter needs to be positive, clear and unequivocal.

United State-Yugoslav relations fall

BELGRADE. Yugoslavia (AP) — Relations between the United States and Yugoslavia have fallen to their lowest point in 30 years, causing concern to both Yugoslavia's and America's allies in Europe. They see the development working to the advantage of the Soviet Union at a possibly crucial period in Yugoslav history.

Belgrade's dissatisfaction with the handling of Croatian nationalists in an American airliner hijacking last weekend is only the latest disruptive issue between the two countries. An earlier diplomatic hassle over a Yugoslav-U.S. citizen accused of spying here and Yugoslav support for Third World causes had already soured previously friendly relations.

The developments follow President Richard M. Nixon's exchange of visits with President Tito and a visit by President Ford last year that seemed to promise a spirit of cooperation between the two countries.

Yugoslav officials said American policies toward Yugoslavia have departed from the lines of the Tito-Nixon and Tito-Ford meetings and have changed the friendly atmosphere to one of tension and distrust.

West European governments attach high importance to American support for Yugoslav independence and sovereignty, especially after the death of the 84-year-old Tito, when the Soviets might try to force Yugoslavia back into the Soviet camp.

Yugoslav leaders, however, decline to buy American support by giving up their policies of nonalignment. They say relations with America should be built on the acknowledgment of Yugoslavia's nonaligned policies, even though they include positions irritating to the United States, such as support for Panama on the canal issue and promotion of Puerto Rican independence.

Last Friday's hijack of a Trans World Airlines 727 jetliner brought complaints from Belgrade that anti-Yugoslav terrorists enjoy the support of "influential and powerful reactionary elements in the United States." The hijackers, all U.S. residents, said they did it to dramatize their desire for Croatia's independence from Yugoslavia, which is made up of Croatia and five other republics.

Yugoslavia has complained that since the end of World War

II the United States has done nothing to prevent anti-Yugoslav activity by extremist emigrants.

Officials noted that the United States refused to extradite Andrija Artukovic, interior minister of wartime Croatia, who was wanted as a war criminal and charged with mass murder of Serbs and Jews.

In connection with the hijack, Yugoslavs complained that the United States, in spite of a policy of not giving in to hijackers and terrorists, yielded to the hijackers' demand that their anti-Yugoslav declaration be given top publicity.

Yugoslav officials were also ranked by American handling of the case of Laszlo Toth, a Yugoslav who became an American citizen without losing his Yugoslav citizenship. He was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in Yugoslavia after a court found him guilty of industrial spying last year.

Yugoslavia eventually pardoned and expelled Toth, but the case was complicated and delayed by the fact that Toth was still a Yugoslav citizen under Yugoslav law.

Nuclear power among issues in Swedish vote

STOCKHOLM. Sweden (AP) — The future of private enterprise and nuclear power are the key issues in the Swedish parliamentary election today that is rated a tossup between Socialist and non-Socialist coalitions. A tiny antiabortion party appeared to hold the balance of power.

A poll by an organization regarded as extremely reliable gave Prime Minister Olof Palme's Social Democrats and their Communist allies 48.9 per cent against the 48.5 per cent for the non-Socialist opposition — the Center, Liberal and Conservative parties.

With the 1973 election decided in favor of the Social Democrats by only 3,798 votes out of nearly six million cast, the polling organization gave itself a margin of error between 1 and 2 per cent and said the result was too close to call.

The non-Socialist parties oppose what they say are Social Democratic plans to turn Sweden into a totally socialistic, centralized state, the possibility of phasing out the private enterprise system which now controls 90 per cent of Sweden's industry, and the government's plans to make Sweden almost totally reliant on nuclear power. Palme's sometimes abrasive personality has also been an issue.

Palme's main themes in trying to keep his party's 44-year-old hold on power have been that while the rest of the industrialized world was suffering through the recession, his government kept unemployment at 1.5 per cent and a charge that a victory by the moderates would threaten the country's remarkable range of welfare benefits.

The outcome seemed likely to pivot on whether the 100,000 voters of the Christian Democratic Coalition party — KDS — whose unifying force has been opposition to Sweden's legalized abortion law, would head calls to vote for the moderates.

In the latest poll, the KDS was given 1.8 per cent of the vote. Under Swedish election regulations, a party cannot be represented in parliament unless it receives 4 per cent of the national vote, and the moderates were arguing that a KDS vote would be meaningless.

The party leader, Alf Svensson, said the opposition was no better than the Social Democrats on the abortion issue or Christian morals, but on Saturday, Bo Noren, the party vice president, broke ranks. He said: "I think the most important thing is that we have a new government. I don't see any other way out than KDS people voting for the opposition parties."

One of the keys to the election is considered to be first-time voters. About 500,000 young people have the ballot under a new law bringing the minimum voting age from 20 to 18.

The result of the voting for the 349 parliamentary seats was likely to be so close that the final result could be held up until Wednesday when the last of the nearly one million mail votes are to be counted.

Moon rally attracts opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of persons converged on the Washington Monument grounds Saturday for what followers of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon said would be the Korean evangelist's last major speech in the United States.

Meanwhile, opponents of Moon planned counterrallies, including one by a fundamentalist Christian group, across the street from the monument grounds simultaneous with the Moon event.

Other opponents of Moon's teachings and methods were expected to be in the crowd at the monument grounds. Some 300 National Park Service police were assigned to keep the Moon followers and opponents apart.

The Moon festival included musical performances and "the world's greatest international fireworks" display. Moon was speaking in Korean with an associate translating into English.

Moon's Unification Church hoped to attract more than 100,000 persons to the "God Bless America Festival."

The church promoted the event heavily, with a door-to-door campaign, numerous full-page and two-page newspaper advertisements and frequent television spots.

Moon followers also plastered local construction sites with thousands of posters advertising the festival. Sound trucks blared invitations to the festival to local citizens and minirallies were held in advance of the main event.

The festival was planned to be the culmination of Moon's ministry in the United States. The church has announced that its leader will be moving to Europe sometime after the Washington festival.

The 56-year-old Korean has become revered by his many youthful followers and criticized by many parents, who allege that the Unification Church brainwashes their children into leaving their families for the ascetic life of Moon disciples.

TWA workers strike

By The Associated Press
Thousands of weekend travelers shifted to alternate airlines as Trans World Airlines was grounded Saturday by a strike by 12,000 mechanics and ground crew members.

Other airlines reported no overcrowding from TWA passengers and the struck airline said it had no reports of any of its passengers being stranded.

A TWA spokesman in Chicago said ticket agents were finding places on other airlines for passengers with TWA reservations. "We haven't had a single call from a passenger complaining," the spokesman said.

He noted, however, that Saturday is a relatively light travel day and the full impact of the strike won't be felt until Monday.

The strike began at one minute past midnight Saturday with the expiration of a government-ordered 30-day cooling-off period. Talks in Washington failed to resolve a pay dispute. A TWA spokesman in Washington said he didn't expect federal mediators to call for new negotiations before Monday at the earliest.

"I don't think we'll be back to work for a while," said Larry Atkins, president of a machinists union local at Columbus, Ohio.

"We are ready to resume negotiations at the call of the National Mediation Board and we certainly hope that that would be shortly," said a TWA spokeswoman in New York.

"We are protecting our passengers for flights today and tomorrow," the spokeswoman said, but beyond that the situation is "uncertain." The only thing we can do is hope these negotiations resume promptly."

The strikers — mechanics, ramp servicemen, dining, commissary, cleaning and teletype personnel — had not had a pay raise since May 1, 1975. Retroactivity if any pay raise was reported to be a major issue. The contract had been extended since last Oct. 31.

Board slates meeting

The Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees will meet at 4 p.m. Monday for a regular session.

The agenda includes a budget report and consideration of recommended policy adoptions, including high school graduation requirements and absence of personnel attending professional meetings. The use of a school facility for the Watchtower Convention of Jehovah's Witnesses will also be considered.

Workman's Compensation insurance for 1976-77 is also on the agenda. A possible executive session is scheduled.

Pampa pair arrested

Two 18-year-old Pampa men were charged with burglary Saturday after they were observed by a Pampa Police Department officer walking east in the 500 block of W. Brown carrying a heavy object.

Harland Simmons and Joe DeLaRosa Jr. were arraigned before Justice of Peace Nat Lunsford, and bond was set at $5,000 each.

The police officer reported that he stopped to question the two, and both ran, dropping the items they were carrying.

The officer found an intake manifold with a carburetor mounted on it and safety belt housing.

LeRoy Slater, officer, said the two were unable to explain their actions. After a check in the area window was found broken at Coastal Plain Inc., 721 1/2 W. Brown.

The owner, Randall G. Ingram, was called and after checking the building advised that the items described were missing.

In another burglary report, officers found the safe inside Tom Rose Motors had been opened.

They first noticed that two inside doors had holes in them. Entry to the building was gained by breaking windows and then kicking in the door.

Suspects, according to the police blotter, then took a set of cutting torches to the safe and "cut around the knob and tumblers." An estimated $250 was missing, according to the report.

Chinese pause to honor Mao Tse-tung

TOKYO (AP) — China's 800 million people paused for three minutes Saturday to pay a final farewell to Mao Tse-tung. In Peking, one million persons gathered in Tien An Men square, where Mao declared the People's Republic nearly 30 years ago, and bowed to a 50-foot-high portrait of the chairman.

Premier Hua Kuo-feng eulogized the chairman and appealed to the workers, peasants and soldiers assembled in neat formations for unity, self-reliance and "a greater contribution to humanity."

Hua's plea for unity again hinted at the power struggle over who will succeed the "Great Helmsman," who died Sept. 9 at the age of 82.

Foreigners in Peking were confined to their residences or hotels from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and no foreign dignitaries were invited to the rally.

At the start of the 30-minute nationally broadcast ceremony, all Chinese were directed to stand at attention for three minutes of silent mourning. Arrangements had been made for workers at communes and factories to listen to the broadcast.

At the end of the service, the assembled party leaders and the crowd bowed three times to the huge portrait of Mao and a band played "The East is Red."

Mao's widow, Politburo member Chiang Ching, was dressed in black but the others massed in the square wore blue tunics, green military uniforms and white workers' garb.

All recreational activities have been banned in China for the past 10 days. In the seven days of official mourning, the official Hsinhua news agency said more than 300,000 persons filed past Mao's body, lying in state in Peking's Great Hall of the People.

There has been no word of plans for burying or cremating the Communist party chairman, but Japanese reports from Peking have said cremation is required for party members.

Most of Hua's 20-minute speech was devoted to a review of Mao's revolutionary career, starting with escape from encirclement by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese troops in the 8,000-mile "Long March," "defeating Japanese

Chamber sets meeting to pick new officers

Officers for fiscal 1976-77 will be elected at a 10 a.m. meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce board of directors Monday in the chamber conference room.

Current officers whose terms will expire at the annual meeting Oct. 28 in M.K. Brown Auditorium are Boyd Taylor, president; J.C. Roberts, vice president; and Arthur Aftergut, finance director.

The new officers will be installed at a dinner meeting of the board Tuesday, Oct. 19. Larry Milner of Amarillo, head of the Industrial Department of the Southwestern Public Service Co., will be the installing officer.

Art Linkletter, Hollywood radio and television personality, will speak at the annual meeting Oct. 28.

Tickets for the affair will go on sale to the public Monday morning. They may be purchased for $5 each at the chamber office or from any member of the board of directors.

Man charged with burglary

Chris Ward Kelley, 26, of Pampa was charged Friday with the Sept. 11 burglary of Four R Industrial Supply Co. of 719 S. Cuyler in which $1,000 in welding equipment and tools were taken.

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan said the missing items were found hidden in a cellar on the Merten lease, five miles southeast of Pampa.

Entry to the building was gained by breaking out a door, the sheriff said.

Bond for Kelley was set at $5,000 by Justice of Peace Nat Lunsford.

Ruth Osborne loses post to Ms. Finney

Fran Finney of Amarillo and Carl King of Dimmitt are the new 31st District Democratic committee woman and committeeman.

Mrs. Finney succeeds Mrs. Ruth Osborne of Pampa, who held the post for the past six years. Mrs. Osborne lost by seven votes.

King succeeds Wayne Dammier of Amarillo.

The two were elected at the Democratic State Convention Friday and Saturday in Fort Worth.

Woman faces break-in charge

A 21-year-old Pampa woman, Shannon Hills, has been charged with burglary of Heard and Jones Rexal Drug on Aug. 24.

She is free under a $5,000 bond set by Justice of Peace Nat Lunsford.

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan said entry to the building was gained by knocking out a glass in the front of the building. He added that apparently the suspect went to the prescription cabinet and obtained a large amount of narcotics.

"We have 70 per cent of it now in our possession," the sheriff said.

The arrest, he added climaxed many hours of investigation by the sheriff's officers.

Fritch man posts bond

BORGER — A Fritch man, Beverly Joe Moore, 39, was free under $5,000 bond Saturday following his arrest earlier last week by Fritch Police Chief Jim Hudson on a theft of services charge.

Hudson said he made the arrest on a warrant from Borger.

Police said the complaint was filed by Ernie Garcia of Borger alleging that Moore, a contract carpenter, failed to pay $761 in wages to Garcia for carpet work.

Judge sets sentencing date

Capture anniversary spent in waiting

By TIM REITERMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — She sits in her cell, crocheting, reading away the hours and, according to her attorney, apprehensively pondering her future at the hands of the court. Soon she will know.

A federal judge in San Francisco ordered Thursday that Patricia Hearst be brought here from her San Diego prison for sentencing a week from today on bank robbery charges. The announcement came two days before the anniversary of her capture on Sept. 18, 1975. Miss Hearst was convicted

March 20 of armed bank robbery and use of a firearm in a felony. The months since the end of her trial have brought changes in her, and in the persons whose lives she touched. "She's apprehensive about her sentencing," attorney Albert Johnson said recently from the federal prison in San Diego. "She is very hopeful, as we are, that the judge will understand the fact that the whole thing was caused by a violent and brutal kidnaping. We will urge credit for time served and probation."

minimum and the maximum of 35 years' imprisonment. Since her conviction, Miss Hearst, 22, has been in San Diego undergoing psychiatric testing that Orrick will use in reaching his decision. Miss Hearst's celebrated eight-week trial disclosed details of her 19 months with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army that kidnaped her 2½ years ago. Now, there are signs that she is looking ahead to a more normal existence. "She'll be able to have a normal, useful life, although there are some individuals who'd like to do her harm," her attorney said, noting that Miss Hearst was listening as he spoke on the phone. "There would be problems with the security situation. But she has indicated she'd like to return to school and finish her education."

During the trial, Miss Hearst's father, San Francisco Examiner President Randolph A. Hearst, spent little time at the newspaper. "Randy is returning to more daily concerns at the newspaper," says Tom Eastham, former Examiner executive editor and currently Hearst correspondent in Washington. "Increasingly, he's at the paper. He's returning to a routine, supervisory corporate role. He has a healthy, constant interest in the paper now."

The day fugitive Patricia Hearst was arrested, her mother was attending a University of California Board of Regents meeting. She has not been to one since. Attorney William Coblenz, a family friend and UC regent, said: "Randy's adjustment is better than Catherine's. When you talk to Catherine, she goes ... well, she's still preoccupied with the case. I don't know what kind of routine she's in, but she ain't in the routine of going to regents meetings."

Two of the petite heiress' former loves — one from the underground and one from her college days — also are rebuilding their lives. Steven Soliah, the house painter who was her lover in her last months underground, is free after acquittal in a trial for a fatal Carmichael, Calif., bank robbery. "He's now trying to get his own life in order, as Patricia Hearst probably is trying to get hers together," says his attorney, Sheldon Otis. "He's painting houses, spending time with his parents, traveling, camping, getting together physically and reviewing the past few years."

Search for Patty Hearst," has sold more than 85,000 hard-bound copies and is continuing to do well. Swanton, now trying his hand at screen writing in Hollywood, said the strain of the kidnaping and book writing were so corrosive to his own marriage that he and his wife, Mimi, separated and planned to divorce. The past year has changed the lives of some trial participants, too.

Tiny bark beetle causes huge damage to forests

HOUSTON (AP) — A bug about the size of a rice grain is causing an estimated $8.5 million damage a month to Texas forests, according to Texas Forest service officials. They're talking about the southern pine bark beetle. Dave Cleaves, a forest service official, estimates the beetle does about $500,000 a month actual damage to the trees in the forest, but projects the number of $8 million in terms of what it costs in lost products and related generated services.

He said the only effective way to control the beetles in forests is to "salvage" trees by cutting down the infected specimens plus a "buffer" of green uninfected ones adjacent to them. He said many landowners have to sell their timber at low prices, having to cut trees prematurely that would be worth a lot to the Texas economy later on.

Taking a look at the other side of the coin is nearly always a good, if not necessarily pleasant, experience. That other side in this case is the opinion of the consumer action groups who are loudly complaining about the consumer representation plan for the Department of Agriculture. First they object that the plan gives them no assurance of consumer participation in policy discussions. They object to what they call ambiguity in the plan because of such terms as "appropriate procedures" (their choice). Finally, they want more clout with divisions administering the Child Nutrition and Food Stamp Program, food quality inspections, price support and parities and beef grading standards. With all this commotion over consumers role in agriculture, many wonder why farmers weren't complaining about not being included in planning for urban renewal. Or the New York City bail out.

Senate rejects move for mandatory deposits

By BILL HOLLYER
Pampa News
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — By a 2 to 1 margin, the Senate last week rejected a measure by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., that called for a mandatory deposit on all bottles and cans sold in the U.S.

Voting 60 to 26, the Senate ended for this year any chance of national legislation restricting the use of throw-away beverage containers.

The Hatfield amendment to the Solid Waste Utilization Bill of 1976 would have authorized a minimum deposit of five cents on 12 ounce beverage containers and a maximum of up to 20 cents for large, family size soft drink bottles.

Senate opponents of the Oregonian's amendment said there was no conclusive evidence proving that conservation of glass and metal due to high deposits would save energy and natural resources in the long run.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., speaking against the amendment, said: "I could find no studies that evaluated the energy question, taking into account the fact that you are going to have twice as many lines to bottle the soft drink or beer, and therefore twice the caustics" (detergents used in cleaning bottles when returned.)

The U.S. Brewers Association, the Glass Containers Manufacturers Institute and the National Soft Drink Association, lobbyists for the bottling industry, also opposed the measure.

Pamela Deuel, a spokesman for Environmental Action, a Washington, D.C. based consumer group, cited industry lobbying as a chief roadblock to the bill's passage. "Their most potent argument is that the bottle bill will destroy jobs," Deuel explained. "According to EPA, however, more jobs will be gained than lost."

According to Deuel, now that mandatory deposit legislation has failed at the national level, environmentalists will carry the fight to the states. This fall, Michigan, Maine, Massachusetts and Colorado will have referendums before their voters authorizing some form of mandatory deposit legislation. At present, only Oregon and Vermont have laws placing a deposit on beverage containers.

The U.S. Department of Transportation last week announced an expansion of its consumer toll-free Auto Safety hotline to all states (except Alaska and Hawaii) beginning July 12, 1976.

The "Hotline" project, a 10 state experiment since October 1975, has been a consumer safety service of the department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

According to a DOT statement, the project's purpose has been to obtain highway safety data from vehicle owners while simultaneously offering assistance to consumers in all safety matters within NHTSA's jurisdiction.

House 'not ready' for weather bill

By GEOFFREY O'GARA
Pampa's Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Legislation calling for a year-long review of weather modification activities by the federal government was reported out of a House subcommittee recently, but subcommittee members stopped short of passing a stronger measure — authored by Rep. Frank Evans, D-Colo. — which would have expanded research and further regulation of both public and private weather modification activities.

"We're not ready to start regulating," said Rep. George Brown, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee on environment and the atmosphere, citing a lack of information and a crowded legislative calendar.

The Evans bill, which was opposed by the Ford Administration and criticized by private cloud seeding organizations in hearings held last June, was destined for stormy debate on the House floor.

The subcommittee avoided that prospect by passing instead tamer legislation extending until 1980 a small appropriation to provide for reporting of weather modification activities to the Secretary of Commerce.

The subcommittee also cleared a second bill, similar to a measure passed by the Senate in May, calling for a one-year study and report on the "state of the art" of weather modification. The Ford Administration opposed the bill — sponsored by Sen. Jams Pearson, R-Kans. — last June, claiming that several studies had already been conducted, and Brown called chances for passage by the House "50-50."

Weather modification was considered promising back in the '50s, according to sources at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), but was relegated to "back-burner" status in the lat

'60s after failing to produce any notable breakthroughs.

Scientists testifying before the subcommittee last June, however, said that progress can be made in the fields of cloud seeding, hail suppression, and storm control with adequate funding. Advance in these fields, they say, could save the country millions in the agricultural sector and save human lives as well.

Federal weather modification programs are presently scattered throughout the government, with the bulk of the research handled by NOAA, the National Science Foundation (NSF), and the Bureau of Reclamation. Smaller programs exist in the Army, Navy, and Department of Transportation.

Backers of more extensive weather modification programs have attacked the lack of coordination between agencies, the low funding, and the absence of a "lead" agency to guide weather modification policy.

Candidates tackle issues alphabetically

By LOUISE COOK, Associated Press Writer
From A for abortion to Z for zero-based budgeting, the Republicans and Democrats are arguing about the issues.

ABORTION: Both men personally oppose abortion. Carter also says, "I do not favor a constitutional amendment which would prohibit all abortions, nor one that would give states local options to ban abortions." Ford opposes a national ban on abortion, but adds: "I have supported — because I think it might be a practical and moral solution — an amendment which would permit each state, or the voters in each state, to make the decision on that state's abortion policy."

BUSING: Both men are against forced busing for integration. Carter says it doesn't work, but adds that he will support the rulings of the federal courts. "I believe this is not the subject to be reopened with a constitutional amendment," he says. Ford, who sent legislation to Congress limiting busing programs, says, "I believe that busing as a remedy ought to be the last resort and that it ought to be limited in scope to correcting the effects of previous constitutional violations."

CONSUMERISM: Carter has endorsed creation of an independent agency for Consumer Advocacy. Ford opposes such an agency, under consideration by Congress, contending it would simply add another layer of bureaucracy. He has ordered federal agencies to step up their consumer protection efforts.

DEFENSE: Carter has said, "Our ultimate goal should be the reduction of nuclear weapons, in all nations to zero."

Exercise class begins Monday at Youth Center

Exercise classes for women have begun at the Pampa Youth Center, with Sally White instructing members via recordings on Monday and Friday mornings. Classes are held from 9:30-10:15 a.m. Interested women must purchase a Youth Center membership to join the classes.

Meanwhile, he wants to maintain rough equivalency with the Soviet Union which he says we now have. He would cut defense spending by "reducing the waste and fat"; would reassess "our strategic deployment of nonnuclear weapons and delivery systems"; and would gradually withdraw some U.S. troops from some areas. Ford proposed a record peacetime defense budget and said the United States "is the single most powerful nation on earth — indeed in all history — and we're going to keep it that way." He criticized Carter's troop withdrawal plan, saying, "We cannot lay down our arms in the simple hope that others will follow our lead."

EDUCATION: Carter has called for increasing the federal share of public education costs and overhauling revenue sharing to reduce the ban on using such funds for education. He also proposed the creation of a separate Department of Education. Ford sent Congress a plan to consolidate federal aid for elementary and secondary education from 24 aid programs into single block grants for the states. The cost would be $3.3 billion in fiscal 1977. As for higher education, Ford said, "No student should be denied access to a postsecondary education because of financial barriers. Those in need should receive grants; others with higher family income should be helped to borrow to meet the costs."

FOREIGN POLICY: Carter says "I would continue the effort to be friendly with Russia ... (but) I would be a much tougher negotiator." He adds: "As we sell the Russians things that they must have ... we ought to get a quid pro quo from the Soviets." Ford has discontinued the use of the word "detente," but continues working for a reduction of tensions with the Soviet Union. He says the government is working toward a new SALT agreement and is "keeping the pressure on in the negotiations with the Soviets."

GRAIN SHIPMENTS: Carter told a crowd in Des Moines, Iowa, "Under my administration, if I'm elected, there will never be another embargo that singles out farm products." He said later he would not rule out embargoes under all conceivable circumstances, but added: "It would have to be an extreme case." Ford, who imposed a temporary grain embargo last year, said in his speech accepting the GOP presidential nomination, "We will never use the bounty of America's farmers as a pawn in international diplomacy. No embargoes!"

HOUSING: Carter says "a direct subsidy of new housing units is essential" and the Democratic platform supports direct subsidies and low-interest loans to encourage construction of low-and middle-income housing. In his discussion of tax reform, he mentioned the possibility of eliminating the deduction for home mortgage interest, but said he wanted to keep an incentive for home ownership in some form. Ford said he will emphasize an "accelerated home ownership program." He vetoed legislation that would have subsidized the mortgage interest rate so that home buyers would not have had to pay more than 6 per cent, but subsequently signed a bill setting the subsidy level at 8 per cent. He offered government loans to help unemployed persons threatened with foreclosure meet mortgage payments.

INFLATION: Carter says he believes inflation — now over 6 per cent — can be cut to 3 or 4 per cent by 1979 or 1980 by comprehensive planning, controlled budgets and businesslike management of government. He says, "I'm against across-the-board permanent wage and price controls, but I do favor standby controls." Ford says, "My first objective is to have sound economic growth without inflation," he says. He opposes wage and price controls, saying they would have "long-range detrimental repercussions," but notes, "We do have a wage-price council that on several occasions has been helpful in trying to get a moderation of a price increase."

JOBS: Carter says, "I think the major priority of the next administration has got to be unemployment." He supports the Humphrey-Hawkins bill which seeks to reduce adult unemployment to 3 per cent by 1980, but says he prefers job creation in the private rather than the public sector. Ford also stresses private employment. "But," he says, "the federal government can create conditions and incentives for private industry to make more and more jobs." He says he expects unemployment to fall below 7 per cent this year and 6 per cent next year. Both men propose incentives to encourage private industry to provide jobs.

KISSINGER: Carter said early in his campaign for the nomination, "I don't intend to retain any Cabinet members. The first one I would fire would be (Agriculture Secretary Earl) Butz and not far behind would be (Secretary of State Henry) Kissinger." Ford, asked if he would request that Kissinger stay on, said, "If you have a ballplayer on your team who has a good batting average, you don't put him on the sidelines."

LATIN AMERICA: The Democratic platform supports a new Panama Canal treaty recognizing U.S. interests. Carter has said: "I would not be in favor of relinquishing actual control of the Panama Canal or its use to any other nation ... I would be glad to yield part of the sovereignty over the Panama Canal Zone to Panama." Ford said, "We are talking about a treaty with an extended duration ... We are going to insist, during the period of that treaty, that we have the right to operate, to maintain and defend it." After the treaty expired, "there would have to be an absolute insistence that there would be the right of free access by all parties to the utilization of the canal."

MIDDLE EAST: Carter says, "We must strive to maintain good relations with the Arab countries as well as Israel." He would not support sending U.S. troops to the Middle East but would let it be known "that our backing for Israel in economic and military aid is absolute." Ford has sought to promote negotiations among all parties in the Middle East, providing military and economic aid to Israel and to moderate and conservative Arab states. "We will try to keep the momentum going in the Middle East," he says.

NUCLEAR POWER: Carter says, "U.S. dependence on nuclear power should be kept to the minimum necessary to meet our needs." He has proposed a five-year U.S.-Soviet treaty banning all nuclear testing. He says, "Atomic power itself should be relegated to the last priority as far as energy sources are concerned." Ford ordered a concerted review of U.S. nuclear policy, particularly the export and reprocessing of nuclear fuel and equipment and the disposal of nuclear wastes. He supports development of nuclear energy and has proposed creation of an "Energy Independence Authority" to provide $100 billion in loan guarantees to encourage private investment in new energy projects and to speed up nuclear power production.

OIL COMPANIES: Carter says that "breaking up the oil companies as a major goal would be counterproductive ... At present — I support restrictions on the right of a single company to own all phases of production and distribution of oil ... I support legal prohibitions against ownership of competing types of energy." Ford also opposes breaking up the oil companies. "I don't think divestiture is the way to solve the problem," he says. "It seems to me that a well-managed energy company, big or small, is the best way to solve our energy problem."

PARKS: Ford proposed spending $1.5 billion to double the 63.2 million acres of federal parks, recreation areas and wildlife refuges and said recreation was one of the key areas on which his campaign would focus. Carter says Ford's plan is a "calculated election-year flip-flop" in the face "of two years of administration opposition to both increased matching funds for state and local park programs and desperately needed operational funds for the Park Service."

QUALITY OF THE ENVIRONMENT: Carter says the Democrats should "hold fast against efforts to lower clean air requirements of the Clean Air Act." He opposed development of the SST and opposed allowing the British-French Concorde to land in the United States. Secretary of Transportation William T. Coleman Jr. okayed landings on a temporary basis in New York and Washington. The Republican platform calls for establishment of a presidential panel, including environmentalists, businessmen and scientists, to consider policy recommendations and develop solutions to problems involving the environment.

REORGANIZATION: Carter says, "The first piece of legislation I will send to Congress will initiate a complete overhaul of our federal bureaucracy and budgeting systems ... I believe the present 1,900 federal departments can be reduced to no more than 200 with a great savings in tax money and a streamlining of services to our people." He has not provided specifics. Ford has consistently condemned the size of government bureaucracy and called for cutbacks in existing federal activities.

SPENDING: Carter has said, "We can attain a balanced budget with full employment by 1979." He also promises, "There will be no new programs implemented under my administration unless we can be sure that the cost is compatible with my goal of having a balanced budget before the end of my term." Ford proposed a $394-billion spending ceiling for fiscal 1977 which would cut the federal spending growth rate to 5.5 per cent. "I have promised — and I will maintain that promise — that we would make substantial headway in reducing the federal budget deficit. We will submit in the fiscal year 1979 a balanced budget," Ford says.

TAXES: Carter has promised a complete analysis of tax system and reform of the tax system, presenting a program to Congress in the first part of 1978. He says he has four basic principles: "Treat all income the same ... tax income only once ... a progressive tax rate ... greatly simplify the whole system. Ford says, "A major objective of (reform) should be to simplify the tax system as well as make it more equitable. My administration's objectives are threefold — greater equity, greater simplification, and lower taxes."

Steel mills announce layoffs

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — About one month ago, U.S. Steel announced it was raising prices on flat-rolled steel and some bar products. It was to be the third increase in a year, but some steelmen said it still wasn't enough.

The increase didn't stick. Before the month had ended, the company canceled the move, explaining that market factors so dictated. Chief of these factors was a weakness of demand.

Confirmation of this weakness followed shortly, with both U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, the two top producers, announcing layoffs at various mills. Business had lost some of its energy. There was lots of idle capacity.

The entire episode of the announced increase the recession of it and the layoffs, all occurring within five weeks, has to be recorded as an economic oddity seemingly at variance with the verities of free enterprise as taught in Economics 1. While it is true that the increase, announced on Friday the 13th, did indeed succumb to an outrageous fate in the marketplace, the puzzling question is why, in spite of demand so weak that workers were laid off, a price increase was attempted at all.

The steel industry has a history dramatized by unusual pricing events, memorable among them being the confrontation with President Kennedy when prices were raised after he felt he had obtained a no-increase commitment.

More recently, the quarterly report of the Council on Wage and Price Stability gives other examples of unusual or unfortunately timed price boosts, such as the one announced right after the council had decided to probe steel pricing. This remarkable timing provoked President Ford into seeking rollbacks, and to some extent the council managed to obtain them.

Another incident occurred in August 1975, when one of the steel producers announced a 9 per cent increase in the price of flat-rolled carbon steel products.

The council stated publicly its disagreement with "the timing of this increase," and it urged other steel companies to exercise restraint. Subsequently, U.S. Steel lowered the boost on some products, and others, of course, fell into line.

Seldom do steel price rises seem to ring sharp, clear and direct, but in fairness to the producers you must admit that their pricing moves attract unique scrutiny, for a number of reasons.

There is the history, a bit distorted though it might be by historians whose antibusiness bias is often obvious. There is the power. There is the pervasive need for the product. There is the price impact on the economy.

Amarillo office collects $344,000

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock said the July enforcement program of his Amarillo district office totaled $344,103 in field collections and revealed through audits $55,061 in additional taxes owed the state.

Bullock said the office conducted 53 audits during July, yielding an average $73 in additional taxes owed per audit hour.

The Comptroller emphasized that collections by the Amarillo office are in addition to state taxes routinely paid from the Amarillo area directly to Austin. "This is money we can't put in the bank until we go out and get it," said Bullock.

Statewide field collections by the comptroller's 36 district offices totaled $4.9 million during July, with the combined audit efforts producing $3.3 million in additional revenue owed the state.

The Amarillo office, headed by Bill Teague, is located in Suite 101, 1309 W. 8th Avenue, telephone 372-8156, and is open for 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. The Amarillo office serves Potter, Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Childress, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Conley, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher and Wheeler Counties.

ABWA to hold Campaign Caper

With focus on America's Presidential election year, the Pampa Chapter of the American Business Women's Association will hold a Campaign Caper at 2:30 p.m. today according to Betty Mounce, chapter president.

The fall Campaign Caper will celebrate women's right to vote, and commemorate the success of the suffragette movement which won political freedom for women in 1920.

ABWA enrollment events are held semi-annually to introduce ABWA and the local chapter to business women in this area. Throughout this period similar events will be held across the country by more than 1,300 other ABWA chapters.

"The goal of ABWA is to help women in business advance through education, increased competence, and through upgrading professional skills and business attitudes," Mounce said. The Association, founded in Kansas City, Mo., in 1949, now has more than 83,000 members. Last year, ABWA chapters throughout the United States and Puerto Rico awarded more than $700,000 in scholarships to women students. In addition, the ABWA national scholarship fund, SBMEF, awarded another $150,000 in scholarships during the same period. Pampa Chapter—Chapter—has awarded local scholarships to several recipients.

Membership is by invitation only. For further information, interested business women may contact Mrs. Bernice Nickols, membership chairman at 665-1078.

Hoover, Texas

The tranquil town shrinks as the rest of the world passes by. And Hoover likes it that way

HOOVER — Although the population of this rural area has dwindled to 13, Joe Massengale, proprietor of the Hoover Mercantile wouldn't live anywhere else in the world.

"Why would you want to?" he asked as the sound of a freight train rumbled in from a distance.

"It is quiet around here ... a train comes through, the coyotes and maybe a rattlesnake — no juvenile delinquency," he emphasized.

Massengale, once the postmaster when there was a Post Office here, remembers when the population exceeded 100 — and the Hoover Mercantile was the gathering place for area residents.

Now he says the biggest thing that happens is a domino game once in a while.

The little mercantile store is located in the edge of the breaks, 10 miles northeast of Pampa.

"This is the prettiest place in the world," he said. "But the old folks died and the young folks went to town — and that's true just about everywhere."

"Highways changed it all. It is a changing generation," Massengale explained.

Massengale well remembers Hoover when it was a thriving rural area when it had a depot and at least six passenger trains a day came through and stopped for boarding.

When the passenger trains stopped, the depot was later sold to Higgins. It blew away in a tornado in the 1950s.

The first postmaster here was Drewy McClain. That was 1913 — and the post office was phased out in 1972. Massengale bought the boxes which are still in the store.

"They are personal property," he said. "We have a granddaughter who may want them. She comes down and plays post office."

She is Cara Faye Tomlinson, 4, of Houston.

Massengale remembers when people drove from Pampa to buy their stamps in Hoover to avoid waiting lines.

"We did a big stamp business," he said. "And during Christmas they came from Pampa so they wouldn't have to stand in line to mail packages."

Looking around the area with the sun shining brightly amid a fall-like atmosphere, Massengale thought about his town.

"Lot of kids grew up here. Never heard of a one of them being in trouble," he said.

Church was held in the little Hoover school house. "Lawyer Joe Gordon of Pampa was the first school teacher," he remembered.

Massengale's wife, the former Miss Juanita Montgomery, taught in the one-teacher school just before it closed.

"We've been married all of our lives," he said. She attended her first year of school at Wayside, now the little red school house.

She still works at the store occasionally, but says she has so many interests at the family home, a few steps from store, that she enjoys working at home more.

"The customers are mostly men now," she said.

Groceries and supplies occupy only a small portion of the store today. One wall is lined with shelves and counters containing clothing, thread and other assorted items.

Along the back wall is the "hardware" section with an assortment of nails and bolts.

Massengale said the best selling items in Hoover today are "cigarettes, gasoline and soda pop."

Massengale has been operating the store since 1941. He had worked for the former owner, the late J.M. Dougherty from 1927 until he purchased the business.

The store was then located in a stone building, near the crossing in Hoover, but Massengale moved it to the present location west of the original building.

One can stand at the front door and see the trains go by — about one every hour. They often stop at the grain elevator a short distance away.

Massengale likes that. He was born in this country.

"I've seen it (Hoover) go from a thriving city to nothing," he added.

A longtime friend of Massengale, Mrs. Jake Osborne, added:

"And Joe hasn't changed at all. He's just a little fatter than he used to be."

Massengale was never elected mayor but in Hoover, that's what they call him.

"They've just always called me mayor," he said.

A clipping from the Pampa News dated Jan. 31, 1952 tells the story of Hoover's "sweating out" Hobart No. 1 gas well test, which had begun in June.

Massengale was quoted as saying the next few days of waiting would be the toughest.

"If she comes in in great style — wonderful," he said almost 25 years ago. "If she's just another well, that's still all right. We'll get along regardless, as we have since this fine community was founded a way back in 1908."

"You think not? Why look at us. Snug in the Red Deer Creek Valley, a step or two north of Pampa, and on the main line of the Santa Fe (Chicago to Los Angeles), we scoop that great metropolis in one respect at least — we ship out of here thousands of head of livestock against only hundreds from Pampa!"

Massengale said the well did come in. "And they produced it five or six years. It is not in production now, but it was never anything really great," he said.

Photos and story by Pampa News Staff member
Anna Burchell

The quietness of Hoover is broken as the trains rumble through — about one an hour — these days. Joe Massengale says Hoover is the "prettiest place in the world." From the door of the Hoover Mercantile, one can see the trains and the old windmill and water tower — symbolic of the days when the population exceeded 100. Massengale is proprietor of Hoover Mercantile. He was the postmaster when the Hoover post office was phased out in 1972. Mrs. Massengale, the former Miss Juanita Montgomery, attended her first year of school at Wayside (or the little red school house) and was the one-teacher facility's last teacher.

Community profile--John English

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

John English never planned to teach school, be a guidance counselor or return to Pampa.

But the 34-year-old Pampa native has done all three and says he has no regrets on the turns his career in education has taken.

English graduated from Pampa High School in 1960 and entered McMurry College in Abilene as an English major. He said he became interested in teaching during his second year of college — an interest sparked by "some of the teachers I had."

His early plans, he said, included earning a doctorate and teaching on the university level. But to earn money for the advanced study, English began teaching in high school and discovered he liked it.

He taught English for four years at Dumas High School and then returned to Pampa as an English teacher. He taught three years at Pampa High School, before starting work on a masters degree in guidance and counseling at Hardin Simmons University in Abilene. He earned that degree in 1972 and is now starting his seventh year as guidance counselor at Pampa High School.

There are, he said, "a lot of things I like about teaching and a lot of things I miss."

"I like the relationship with the kids — its completely different in a classroom. You can see them grow and hopefully make progress ... a chance to work with them more."

"I just love English and I like passing the good word about it."

About his counseling work, English said, "I like counseling. Its another type of relationship — strictly a helping one ... Our position is one of helping, not discipline."

Counseling, English said, is optional for the student and initial contact between counselor and student is over scheduling or changing classes.

"Scheduling provides valuable contact with students," English said.

Other areas include educational and vocational counseling and counseling the problem student.

English is also the chief examiner for

G.E.D. in Pampa and this year he is president of the Pampa Association of Educators, a local affiliate of the Texas State Teachers Association. He is also on the board of directors for the March of Dimes in Gray County.

The counselor said he likes to pass his free time dabbling in photography and reading.

This summer he travelled to Denver, Colo., to pick up Amtrak which he rode to San Francisco, Calif., and then up the West Coast to Seattle, Wash.

"It beat flying," he said, "because you get to see the country."

English admitted he sometimes thinks he would like to return to teaching. When he taught at Pampa, his students were all enrolled in accelerated classes.

"Those sharp kids are going to learn in spite of you," he said, adding that now he might enjoy working with students in basic or remedial classes.

But in a final assessment, teaching has become John English's second vocation.

"I don't regret not going back (to teach in college). I'm very happy with what I'm doing."

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A few years back, you published a letter in which a reader told you off, saying that God alone was the only truly qualified "Family Planner."
I clipped it out to save and now I can't find it. If you recall that letter, will you please run it again? I thought your answer was one of your best.

RUTH C. IN LA JOLLA

DEAR RUTH: I found it. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: Since God alone can create life, and since God alone knows what tomorrow brings, HE alone is truly qualified as a Family Planner.

A LONG-TIME ADMIRER

DEAR ADMIRER: I read the figures on population explosion and saw the pictures of thousands of starving children born of parents who did not want them and could not feed them. I then concluded that a just God could not possibly have given life to innocent children only to doom them to death by starvation in their infancy.

DEAR ABBY: My father has always been a charmer and a chaser. His latest conquest is a wealthy widow who's on in years. She's been giving my father large sums of money.

My mother knows what's going on, but she doesn't care. In fact she encourages it to the point of dialing this woman's number and handing the phone to Dad.

Mother says the woman is stupid and has more money than she knows what to do with. Furthermore, Dad is performing an act of mercy in brightening the poor old woman's life. She's not senile, just lonely.

Her sole heir is a married son. If he finds out how much money my father has taken from his mother, can he make trouble for him? (Legally, that is?)

WORRIED DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Only if the son can prove that his mother is incompetent and/or had been defrauded by your father. As I understand it, the woman GAVE him money. He merely accepted it. A gift is still a gift.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are senior citizens, and our problem is Joey, our 16-year-old grandson. He was picked up for possession of marijuana, and even worse, he is also a pusher. He is on probation now.

Joey's mother (our daughter) is divorced from his father. Joey was living with his father because his mother couldn't handle him. Since this happened, Joey's father refuses to keep him. He told his mother just to turn the kid out in the street and let him live like the bum he is. (At 16!)

Our daughter can't handle him, and his father wants nothing to do with him.

I remember when Joey was just a little shaver, I'd play with him, and he always wanted to be the "good guy" because the good guys always won. What happened to him?

HEARTBROKEN GRANDPA

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: I don't know what happened to him, but I suspect he was brought up in a home without love and guidance. And unless someone succeeds in establishing a truly caring and consistent relationship with this 16-year-old, he's a cinch to be a big problem to himself, his family and society.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell me how I could lose weight from around my hips and stomach? I have so much fat and I eat hardly anything. The rest of my body is thin. I have both hiatal hernia and diverticulosis and I'm afraid to do exercises. I also had a complete hysterectomy. Everything was removed. I'm afraid I'll hurt myself.

DEAR READER — I appreciate your concern but none of the medical problems you mentioned will prevent you from having a good walking program. Start out with 15 minutes a day and gradually built up from there. Walk as often and as long as your schedule will permit. If you can find the time and build up to an hour in the morning and an hour in the evening it will do wonders for you.

A hiatal hernia of part of your stomach through the diaphragm will not interfere with exercises that you do standing up. You can also do abdominal tensing exercises by voluntarily contracting and relaxing your abdominal muscles while sitting or standing. If you are so inclined, bumps and grinds will help tone up your hip and seat muscles. None of these exercises will bother you. If you are a swimmer you can swim for a good all purpose exercise program.

Diverticulosis, those small pockets of the colon, are often related to poor bowel function. A good walking program may help rather than harm that problem. I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-6, Diverticulosis, to help you. Others who want a copy can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York.

Wrap sweater basic to new layered look

By Judy Love

A basic ingredient of today's popular layered look is the wrap sweater. The wrap has a casual elegance and a loose comfortable fit that's perfect as a coverup for fall's fashionable sportswear. Looks can be deceiving, however. Despite its casual appearance, the wrap can have a very hefty price tag. The solution is to knit one. The finished sweater will be a one-of-a-kind fashion that's a great fall wardrobe stretcher.

We've chosen a basic, tie-wrapped sweater with full bell-bottom sleeves in a soft heathery tweed, reminiscent of the Scottish Isles. The yarn is Malina's Fluffy Frosted of Acrylic acrylic and nylon. -Wear-Dated by Monsanto. The pattern interest is especially complementary to a sportswear wardrobe of solid colors.

Green Potatoes Aren't For Eating

Steer away from green potatoes — they may taste bitter and even be poisonous to some people.

Solanin, an alkaloid found in the green portions, is responsible for this.

Greening of potatoes is caused by exposure to natural or artificial light. Sometimes only the skin is affected, but greening may penetrate the flesh.

Home gardeners should discard green potatoes harvested from their gardens. Healthy homegrown and commercially grown potatoes should be stored in a dark place away from sunlight or artificial light to prevent greening.

Proper storage can prevent greening, keeping baking potatoes edible for several months and new potatoes for several weeks. Don't wash potatoes before storing. The dampness increases the likelihood of decay. Use any cracked or bruised potatoes first.

Store potatoes in a cool (45 to 50 degrees F., if possible), dark place with good ventilation. Potatoes stored at 70 to 80 degrees F. should be used within a week or two because this higher temperature often causes sprouting and shriveling.

Consumers should avoid purchasing badly sprouted or shriveled potatoes or potatoes with irregular or knob-shaped growths because they are likely to cause a good bit of waste.

Livestock buyers get more protection

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Jack Hightower Monday witnessed the culmination of more than 14 months effort when President Ford signed into law H.R. 8410, the Packers and Stockyards Act Amendments.

Hightower, co-sponsor of the bill and author of its principal provision, the prompt payment amendment, was invited by President Ford to the White House for the 2 p.m. bill-signing ceremony.

"I am delighted that the President signed the bill and gave it his enthusiastic support," Hightower said. "Livestock producers throughout the nation are now guaranteed protection that has been denied to them for many years."

The President signed the bill some 14 months after hearings in Amarillo by the Livestock and Grains Subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee.

Subsequent hearings were conducted in Omaha, Neb. and Washington, D.C.

The bill was enacted primarily in response to the severe economic losses, in which some 900 producers claimed losses of approximately $20 million, when the American Beef Packing Company declared bankruptcy in January, 1975.

In signing the bill President Ford said it "assures that our livestock producers will receive payment due for livestock sold to meat packers." Referring to the American Beef Packers' bankruptcy, the President said that producers would be protected against this kind of catastrophe in the future.

The President commended the bill as being in the best interests of producers, packers and consumers. He echoed the sentiment expressed repeatedly by Hightower during the bill's formulation by the House Agriculture Committee, that although he was opposed to unnecessary interference by government in private business enterprise, federal action in this instance was "necessary and appropriate."

The bill's principal provisions would: —Authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to require packers who purchase more than

—Require payment by packers, market agencies and livestock dealers by the close of the next business day, unless the buyer and seller expressly agree otherwise.

—Stipulate that for all sales in which the packers pay by check that the livestock, the product inventory of the packer, and the accounts receivable and proceeds therefrom, are held in

Feathered entries get nod in 1976 American Royal

COLLEGE STATION — Texas youths can raise chickens and crow all the way to Kansas City this fall.

The Second Annual National Junior Dressed Broiler Show sponsored by Kentucky Fried Chicken will be in Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 15-20, announced Dr. William O. Cawley, poultry specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The event is a part of the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show and Rodeo.

The broiler show is open to youngsters between the age 9-19 who are members of bonafide youth organizations such as 4-H, Future Farmers of America and Boy Scouts of America.

Nearly $3,000 in prize money will be divided among the top 50 entries, with the grand and reserve champions each receiving $300. In addition, the top 10 entries will be sold at public auction. Last year's grand champion was sold to Col. Harland Sanders for $5,000.

"Each contestant may have two four-bird entries," said Cawley. "Time for starting the chicks is approaching since they must be hatched after Sept. 14. It's essential that contestants start their chicks as soon after that date as possible," the specialist added.

Farmers need suitable replacement for Mirex

By BILL CHOYKE
Pampa's Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Texas agricultural production could be severely affected in the next several years unless a suitable replacement for the controversial pesticide Mirex is developed.

Texas state and federal officials, somewhat miffed by the State of Mississippi's recent announcement that it would discontinue marketing of Mirex, fear that the fire ant — the target of the pesticide — will continue to spread throughout East Texas and into area of West Texas.

In late August, Mississippi, the lone manufacturer of Mirex, told the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) that it would terminate use and sale of the substance by June 20, 1978. Mississippi officials cited "a question as to the long-range effect that Mirex may have on the environment" as the basis for their decision.

A controversial and dangerously potent pesticide, Mirex has been used fairly extensively in East Texas to combat the fire ant. The insect, of South American origin, is known to build dirt mounds of four feet high creating havoc in the environment and uprooting farmers' fields.

The state's most immediately affected area is East Texas, according to David Ivie, director of Agriculture and Environmental Sciences for the state state agriculture department. Ivie said the fire ant is now beginning to affect areas such as Anderson County as it moves westward.

Currently, 65 to 70 mostly East Texas counties have reported the presence of the insect.

"We do have some (Mirex) in hand for use for this fall," Ivie said. "But next year, if we don't get any, I don't know if we'll have a treatment program."

A House Agriculture Committee aide working in the pesticide area reports that the reaction to Mississippi's announcement on Capitol Hill has been minimal.

"For a state as badly infested with fire ants as Mississippi to decide to discontinue any of its distribution, I don't think anybody could say much," said the committee staffer, an aide to a Texas congressman.

What mostly troubles Texas state and congressional observers here is the lack of any alternative to Mirex to combat the fire ants.

Perennial grass pastures should be fertilized now for increased fall production and quality, points out a forage and turfgrass specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Most grasses have plenty of time to grow, and the forage can be utilized for grazing or hay or left standing and grazed after frost.

Texas Tech offers new degree program

LUBBOCK, Tex. — A Master of Agriculture degree program is offered for the first time at Texas Tech University this fall.

The new program will permit students to gain advanced knowledge in any area of their interest, along with general agriculture. Dr. Anson R. Bertrand, dean of Texas Tech's college of agricultural sciences, announced recently. The new degree is a 36-semester-hour program and students will be advised by faculty members on the selection of courses.

At present the college offers the Master of Science degree in 13 major fields and a Master of Education in agricultural education. The college has seven departments and two sections. They include: agricultural economics; agricultural education; agricultural

White Deer FFA member new president

A Future Farmer of America member from White Deer was elected president of the FFA's Topo Texas District.

Bebo Terry took over the group's leadership during a meeting Tuesday in Spearman. Others elected to the slate of officers were Dusty Babitzke of Follett, vice president; Hank Jordan of Pampa, secretary; Clay Flathers of Canadian, reporter; Allen Uptagrove of Spearman, treasurer, and Chris Kirksey of Booker, sentinel.

Members selected Booker High School to host the annual Top o' Texas District FFA banquet Dec. 6. The district's FFA Sweetheart is chosen at the banquet and members compete in a talent contest.

County agent comments

Stocker short course offered

By JOE VANZANDT
County Extension Agent
A Stocker Cattle Short Course will be 7:30 p.m. Sept. 28 and Sept. 30 at the Courthouse Annex-meeting room.

The Sept. 28 program will cover buying and marketing stocker cattle, market outlook and profit possibilities. Speakers will be Dayton Barkley of Gruver, an order buyer for Vann-Roach, and Dr. Ernest Davis, Extension livestock marketing specialist.

The Sept. 30 meeting will cover processing, care and management of stocker cattle and will feature Dr. Gene Cope and Dr. John McNeill, both Extension Service specialists. The Western Livestock Roundup, a USDA monthly publication, reports a record corn crop and large financial losses of cattle feeders are expected to weaken corn and sorghum prices in November and December.

Storage and handling problems will make substantial quantities of grain available at harvest time and are likely to result in moderately lower feed grain prices this fall. Corn and sorghum prices may drop as much as one dollar per hundredweight below August levels.

Costs to livestock feeders in the High Plains during November and December are expected to range $4-4.50 for corn and $3.50-4 for sorghum, and to rise seasonally in the winter and spring of 1977.

I received an update on the cattle outlook from Dr. Ed Uvacek, Extension livestock marketing specialist. His forecasts still point toward continued weakness in the cattle market for the next two or three months. He said pressure on fed beef will come from four main sources: about 18 per cent more fed cattle from feedlots only slightly less than non-fed and cow slaughter than the record highs of last fall, and substantially larger pork and broiler productions.

Continued violent price fluctuations in the fed cattle market appears almost certain. This is a psychological market easily influenced by rumors. Prices for fed cattle are expected to drop to their lowest level in the October period.

Hopefully, by mid-November, slaughter supplies of non-feds and cows will thin out enough to allow some market strength.

Feedlot losses are mounting and should substantially reduce the demand for replacement animals. This, together with larger supplies of feeder animals that are still available and only slightly lower feed grain prices, could cause some real pressure on feeder cattle prices this fall.

Uvacek predicted that choice 1,000 pound steers at Amarillo will bring $37.39 for the July-Sept. quarter.

Prices forecast for the Oct.-Dec. quarter are $37-40. For the January-March, 1977, quarter choice steers will average $43-45.

I sometimes disagree with Dr. Uvacek but his predictions for the balance of this year sound reasonable.

Efficient gardeners or thrifty homeowners can make good use of those piles of autumn leaves, dead branches or other plant debris by converting the waste material into a compost pile.

The compost pit is an effective method of fertilizing a yard or garden with no odor, little trouble and small expense. The pit also prevents added pollution to the air caused by when waste products are burned.

Compost can be produced by forming a pit or pile of waste material of almost any type in an area close to a water source. The pit should be well vented and open to sunshine.

Begin the pile with a six- to eight-inch layer of debris and add a layer of soil or finished compost one- to two inches thick. The final layer should be one- to two inches of manure or one- to two cups of a commercial fertilizer per square yard of surface area. The pile should then be well watered but not saturated.

Layers should be repeated until the pile is four to five feet high. When a pile is completed, it should be turned every two or three months to speed decomposition and equalize overall breakdown.

Compost bins can be inexpensively constructed from brick, wire netting and polyethylene, or wood. Three bins should be used with one bin ready for use, one decomposing and another being filled.

Harvesters bounce highly-rated Rangers

Sports Editor

PERRYTON — Pampa put together its most awesome scoring drive of the year, marching 95 yards in the fourth quarter, to come from behind, then added another touchdown to seal Perryton's doom in a 12-3 Harvester victory, which spoiled the hosts' homecoming before more than 5,000 fans.

Perryton was ranked as high as fourth in the state in Class AAA by major polls. The Rangers had scored a total of 77 points in two prior wins and had given up only three.

As newly crowned Homecoming Queen Kelly Goodwin looked on, Pampa took over on its own five-yard line after noseguard Marvin Oliver tackled Brent Pletcher short of the goal line. Pletcher had caught a short pass from Perry Allred on a fake field goal attempt.

On Pampa's second play after taking over, halfback Ricky

Moore burst through the middle of the line, broke two tackles and rambled for a 57-yard pickup, moving Pampa to the Ranger 38. 10 plays, including a dramatic 14-yard pass from Mike Lancaster to Phil George on fourth down and 10, later, Lancaster scored on a twisting, four-yard run off left tackle with 5:48 left in the game.

Juan Vargas' conversion try was blocked by Pletcher. Pampa kicked off, and Perryton took over on the 33. After a four-yard pass from Allred to Mike Tarvin, the Ranger quarterback was intercepted by Steve Hancock, who ran the ball back to the 33.

Lancaster scored seven plays later on a 10-yard run, the same play that resulted in the previous touchdown. The conversion snap was mishandled by Lancaster at 1:45.

Perryton dominated play in the first half, and led 3-0 at intermission after a 42-yard field goal by Brad Beck with 1:08 left before halftime. The Rangers then held on for four downs, forcing Pampa to punt, and drove from their own 23 to the Harvester five in three plays.

Tarvin caught a 62-yard bomb from Allred to give Perryton possession on the 15. A 10-yard pass to Tracy Gibson and two-yard run by Beck, who was unable to make it out of bounds in an attempt to stop the clock, ran out the time.

Pampa's only scoring threat in the half came in the first quarter, but Vargas missed a 41-yard field goal attempt. Defensive tackles Terry McBride and Terry Chumbley pressured Allred throughout the second half. It was that harassment which resulted in three second-half interceptions by Pampa, four in all.

Moore failed by a yard to become Pampa's first 100-yard rusher in a game, carrying 14 for 99 yards. David Caldwell, whose longest run was a 25-yarder, added 51 yards on 14 carries.

Leading rusher in the game was Beck with 111 yards on 20 tries. Perryton led in rushing yards, 83-37, at halftime, but fell behind, 179-205, at the game's end.

Allred completed nine of 18 passes for 130 yards. "I think Ricky's long run, where he broke through four or five of them, was the key," Pampa Coach John Welborn said. "And it demoralized them when they didn't score (right before halftime). He added to it with the run."

Welborn acknowledged that George's reception was a critical play but added, "I kind of felt like we were going to win the game anyway, even if we hadn't picked up the first down."

Pampa, which two platoons, wore down the Perryton defense, which had six starters going both ways.

"I think the two-platooning had a lot to do with it. We're getting a lot better, too. I think overall, both offensively and defensively, it was our best game," Welborn said.

Pampa, 2-1 in non-conference, hosts Berger at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Perryton visits Amarillo to face Caprock at the same time.

Florida waltzes by Houston, 49-14

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Senior quarterback Jimmy Fisher came out passing and drove the Florida Gators to an easy 49-14 victory over the Houston Cougars in an inter-sectional football game Saturday night.

Fisher conducted 90-yard touchdown marches each of the first three times Florida had the ball and took the Gators 85 yards to open the second half.

He ran for touchdowns of 31 and eight yards and passed to wide receiver Wes Chandler for a 35-yarder. Willie Wilder swept right end 35 yards to score another.

Florida's second string, under the guidance of Junior Bill Kynes, rolled 58 yards for a touchdown that had the Gators well in control, at 28-0, midway in the second quarter.

Earl Carr ran 18 yards for that touchdown and broke loose on a 46-yard scoring run in the third quarter. Third-string quarterback Harry Lecont produced another TD on a one-yard pass to Nap Green late in the game.

Scrambling sophomore Danny Davis got Houston on the scoreboard late in the second quarter with a three-yard run and tossed an 11-yard touchdown pass to Rickey Maddox in the third quarter.

Crimson Tide sinks SMU Mustangs, 56-3

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Quarterback Jack O'Rear, running like a fullback, snapped a stumbling Alabama team to attention with two touchdowns in 49 seconds to lead the Crimson Tide to a 56-3 football victory over Southern Methodist Saturday.

O'Rear's runs of 7 and 19 yards came early in the second period after the Mustangs had taken a 3-0 lead on John Dunlop's 40-yard field goal.

Alabama, ranked 14th in the nation despite an opening 10-7 loss to Mississippi, gave up the ball on its first three possessions on two fumbles and a pass interception.

But O'Rear, starting the second period with Alabama at the SMU 26, tossed to Thad Flanagan to the seven and then ran over four defenders on the next play to score.

SMU's Art Whittington fumbled the kick off. Pete Cavan recovered it at the 25 and three plays later O'Rear again bounced off tackler to take it in.

O'Rear directed Alabama 60 yards for another touchdown on its next possession, and with the half almost over, sophomore Jeff Rutledge threw to Ozzie Newsome who caught the ball at the five between two defenders and scored on a 45-yard play.

—NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Unless the new era can avoid the old errors, the New Orleans Saints are in for another long afternoon Sunday against Roger Staubach and the Dallas Cowboys.

Last week, the Saints reverted to form after a surprising 4-2 preseason, fumbled repeatedly, drew penalties in key situations and totally fell apart in special teams play. The result was a 40-9 drubbing by the Minnesota Vikings and Fran Tarkenton.

It was Hank Stram's regular season debut as head coach of the Saints.

The Cowboys, meanwhile, won their 12th straight season opener by whipping Philadelphia 27-7 the 12th victory for the Cowboys, all coming under the administration of Tom Landry, the only coach the Cowboys have ever had.

Landry and Stram used to share the same stomping grounds. That was when Stram was with the Dallas Texans of the old American Football League.

But Landry and the Cowboys prevailed in the battle for the gates, and Stram moved with his team to Kansas City, where the team became the Chiefs and won the 1970 Super Bowl.

Pitt destroys Georgia Tech

ATLANTA (AP) — All-American Tony Dorsett scored three touchdowns, rambled over the 100-yard mark for the ninth straight game and led third-ranked Pittsburgh to a 42-14 rout of Georgia Tech in college football Saturday night.

Landry and Stram used to share the same stomping grounds. That was when Stram

Volunteers blank Frogs

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Sophomore fullback Bobby Emmons bulldozed for 73 yards and a touchdown to lead Tennessee to a 31-0 victory Saturday night over Texas Christian in an inter-sectional college football game.

The 224-pound reserve danced 11 yards over the middle for the Vols' third touchdown in a 62-yard drive that saw him plough through the line for 13 yards four plays earlier, carrying four Horned Frogs with him.

All-American split end Larry Seivers won the battle of receivers against TCU's highly-touted Mike Renfro. Seivers scored a touchdown in the second period on a 69-yard pass play from quarterback Randy Wallace. The fourth longest pass in Tennessee's history, it quelled suspicions that Wallace was bothered by tendonitis in his shoulder.

Horned Frogs' quarterbacks Jimmy Dan Elzner and Steve Bayuk, who passed 60 per cent of the time, turned their aim to flanker Vernon Wells, the leading receiver of the night with

Tigers blast Tornadoes, 32-6 Tyler destroys Conroe in top AAAA grid tilt

GROOM — Thomas Reed rolled up 129 yards on 15 carries and scored twice to pace Groom to an easy 32-6 homecoming win over Texline in District 1-B football action Saturday afternoon.

Britten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Britten. Britten burst off left guard for a touchdown from the four-yard line with 8:17 left in the first half, then booted the conversion.

Groom scored again in the third quarter — with 6:34 left — on a six-yard run by quarterback Nathan Wieberg. The conversion again was blocked.

John Krizan ran 40 yards for a Groom touchdown at 1:50 left in the game, then substitute quarterback Chris Black three quarters to Jigger Britten on the conversion try.

unnecessary roughness from his linebacker position, gained 93 yards on 19 carries. Krizan added 83 on 10 attempts. "We weren't sharp at all," Groom Coach Russell Roberts said. "I don't feel like Texline played a real good game either. "If they had played a better game, it might have been a different story."

Tyler John Tyler ripped Conroe in a key Class 4A schoolboy football game in Texas Friday night, while top-ranked Sherman registered an easy triumph.

Tyler, ranked fifth, tripped No. 9 Conroe 22-3 in the year's first battle between two ranked 4A teams. Sherman showcased Ronald Jackson, who scored four touchdowns and rushed 173 yards on just 13 carries, as it shelled Greenville 42-13.

Wolverines rout Cardinals

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Fullbacks Rob Lytle and Russell Davis each scored two touchdowns and Michigan's backs ran wild Saturday as the No. 1-ranked Wolverines crushed Stanford 51-0 in college football.

Michigan's top five backs piled up 516 yards rushing in 51 carries for an average of more than 10 yards per carry.

Tailback Harlan Huckleby led the attack with 157 yards in 16 carries, including an eight-yard touchdown run to climax Michigan's first possession.

Less than a minute later, fellow sophomore Rick Leach, Wolverine quarterback, sprinted four yards for another TD, set up when Tom Demco recovered a Stanford fumble at the Cardinals' 17.

It was Michigan's game the rest of the way as the defense thwarted Stanford's touted passing attack and regained the prestige it lost in giving up 27 points in last week's victory over Wisconsin.

Maryland walks by WV

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Tenth-rated Maryland, sparked by quarterback Mark Manges and powerful tailback Steve Atkins, dominated West Virginia both offensively and defensively to rout the Mountaineers 24-3 Saturday in a college football game.

Manges scored Maryland's first touchdown with 2:30 to go in the first quarter on a two-yard run. Then, with 14 seconds to go in the first half, he threw a 22-yard touchdown strike to wide receiver Chuck White to give the Terrapins a 21-3 half-time lead.

Atkins, who sat out the second half, rushed for 133 yards on 23 carries and set up another Terp touchdown with several key first down runs.

Defense stops Roth

Oklahoma downs Bears

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Junior quarterback Dean Blewins ran 10 yards for one touchdown and passed 65 yards for another and Oklahoma's secondary lived up to its reputation as the fourth-ranked Sooners defeated pass-minded California 28-17 in college football Saturday.

Illinois stuns Tigers

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Kurt Steger fired two touchdown passes to Erick Rouse, and tailback James Coleman rushed for 152 yards and two more scores, leading Illinois to a surprisingly easy 31-6 victory over sixth-ranked Missouri Saturday.

The Illini spoiled the Tigers' home opener by completely bottling the Missouri offense and moving at will under the direction of Steger.

California's Joe Roth had success connecting with his re-

'Huskers run wild

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Tailbacks Monte Anthony and Richard Berns combined for 167 yards and scored two touchdowns each Saturday as eighth-ranked Nebraska man-handled injury-riddled and error-plagued Indiana 45-13 in college football.

The Cornhuskers, who fell from the No. 1 ranking after playing a 6-6 tie with Louisiana State last week, struck for two touchdowns within a five-minute stretch in the first quarter and were in control the rest of the way.

Indiana scored late in the third quarter when reserve quarterback Terry Jones hit receiver Keith Calvin on a 3-yard scoring pass. A 48-yard pass from Jones to Don Burrell and a 20-yarder to Calvin set up the touchdown.

Center schedules polywog lessons

The Pampa Youth Center will teach two classes of polywog swim lessons beginning Monday at 6 p.m. and 8:30.

Polywogs include youngsters 4-6 years old. Classes will meet on Monday and Wednesday through Friday from this week until Oct. 5 — a total of 10 lessons.

Augusta Brown is the instructor. The classes are open to both Youth Center members and the general public.

ceivers on short routes, but the Sooner secondary completely cut off the long pass until Roth hit wide receiver Ed Gillies on a 28-yard scoring aerial with 3:34 to play.

Culbreath, a senior, got the Sooners on the scoreboard with a 36-yard jaunt with 5:57 left in the first period, and Uwe von Schamann got the first of his four extra-point kicks.

Oklahoma had three drives stopped by fumbles, coughing up the ball once on the California six after a 61-yard dash by King. Sooner halfback Elvis Peacock had a 30-yard run into the end zone nullified by a penalty.

Coleman 1st in division in PPK action

Cavin Coleman, Julian Ontiveros and Danny Reagan captured the top three places — in order — in the 13-year-old division of Pampa's Punt, Pass and Kick annual competition Saturday in Harvester Stadium.

Coleman qualified for zone competition Saturday in Amarillo. Winners there will compete Oct. 2 in Oklahoma City in district competition.

In the 12-year-old division, Deral Dunn won, qualifying for zone, and was followed by Terry Ferguson and Harold Landers, respectively.

Scott Thompson won the 11-year-old first-place trophy and was followed by Richard Van Luyve, Jr. and David Lueddecke.

Deven Cross was first in the 10-year-old division, edging Scott Macartney and James Fleming, respectively.

First in the nine-year-old division was Tate Eldridge, who beat runner-up Jimmy Wayne Bridges and Wade Howard.

Brent Cryer earned first place in the eight-year-old bracket over Jay Clark and Matt Martindale.

There were 145 youngsters entered in the competition, co-sponsored in Pampa by the National Football League and Harold Barrett Ford.

Warriors trip Higgins

HIGGINS — Touchdowns by Kirk Flowers and Lonnie Gilliland on runs of two and five yards, respectively, carried Miami to a 14-0 district-opening win over Higgins Friday here.

The District 1-B victory gives the Warriors a 1-1 record. Higgins is 0-2 for the season.

Flowers scored in the second period, while Gilliland's touchdown came in the final quarter. Gilliland passed for the conversion following his TD.

Miami will host Texline at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Baylor edges Auburn behind Tiger fumbles

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Mark Jackson threw a 12-yard fourth-quarter touchdown pass to Tommy Davidson and then tossed to Davidson again for a two-point conversion Saturday to give Baylor a 15-14 football victory over an Auburn team which gave up the ball six times on fumbles.

Two of the errors halted Auburn scoring drives inside the five-yard line. The Tigers drove 83 yards early in the first period until quarterback Phil Gargis lost the ball just inside the five. Then in the second period Sedrick McIntyre was jarred loose from the ball on the one and Baylor recovered in the end zone.

The Tigers had no monopoly on fumbles. The visiting Texans dropped the ball five times and Auburn recovered it on four of those plays.

Auburn scored first on a 35-yard pass from Gargis to flanker Chris Vaccarella and again when Gargis hit Dick Hayley from eight yards out in the third quarter, and the Tigers appeared at that point to have things pretty well in hand.

But Baylor came storming back on Jackson's passing and long runs by tailback Cleveland Franklin and, assisted by a 15-yard penalty against Auburn, moved into range for Jackson to hit Davidson with the winning score.

Unwilling to settle for a tie, Jackson went for a two-pointer and hit Davidson in the end zone again.

Williams leads win

Bucks trample Panthers

PANHANDLE — Steve Williams returned the second-half kickoff 97 yards for a touchdown to spark White Deer to a 19-7 win over Panhandle in a non-district football rivalry Friday.

The Bucks, 2-1 for the season, led, 7-0, at halftime, after quarterback Donny Webb capped a 65-yard drive on the sixth play with a three-yard touchdown run. Webb had the big play in the drive, a 48-yard gain on a quarterback sneak.

Bobby Enso's extra-point kick made it 7-0 at 4:46 in the second quarter.

Williams opened the third quarter by returning Panhandle's kickoff 97 yards. Enso's kick failed. The Panthers tallied with 17 seconds left in the third quarter on a five-yard pass from Kerry Scheller to Matt Reynolds. Dale McElroy booted the extra point.

Panhandle's touchdown came after a fumble recovery on the White Deer 10.

The Bucks put the lid on Panhandle's hopes for a comeback when Williams returned an intercepted pass for a touchdown with 6:57 left in the game. The conversion pass failed.

"We were able to move the ball when we needed to," said Buck Coach Mike Purcell. "We played great defense, too."

Linebacker Bobby Tollison was in on 22 tackles, 19 unassisted, for the Bucks. Linebacker Dean Bennett, who had 18 unassisted tackles the week before, finished with 13 unassisted tackles and four assists.

Webb led the Bucks on the ground with 104 yards on 13 carries. Williams added 52 yards on rushes, followed by Bennett with 43 on seven attempts.

White Deer, 2-1, hosts Canadian Friday, while Panhandle, 1-2, entertains Phillips.

Psalm 23
The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures, he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anonist my head with oil; my cup runneth over. ## Pirates crush Tigers in loop encounter, 35-0

LEFORS — McLean lost six fumbles, with two of them resulting in Lefors touchdowns, as the Pirates coasted to a 35-0 District I-B win Friday night.

"They hurt themselves. They drove the ball on us but they'd lose it," Lefors Coach Jim Allen said.

Jesse Smelley, McLean head coach, agreed. "You just can't fumble 10 times and lose six and expect to win. Offensively, we moved the ball real good at times."

Phil White passed 26 yards to Floyd Cotham for the first touchdown with 9:47 left in the first period. White kicked the extra point.

Randy Squieres recovered a McLean fumble on the visitors' 27, and Lefors drove three plays to score again. White rambled 28 yards for the touchdown at 10:57 in the second quarter then booted the extra point.

White dived over from a yard out to score at 5:07 in the third quarter and passed to Mike Watson for the conversion, as Lefors grabbed a 22-0 lead.

Lefors had stopped McLean on the Tiger 45 on the fourth-down play, then scored in seven plays.

Russell Jackson gave Lefors the ball on McLean's 40 in the fourth quarter with a fumble recovery. Three plays later, White ran 25 yards for a TD, then tackled on the conversion.

The Pirates' final touchdown came with 5:15 left in the game when Carl Cady, White's substitute, scored on a five-yard run. Cady missed the extra point.

White led all rushers with 121 yards on 15 carries, topping his three-game total of 507 yards on 67 rushes. Kenny Howard added 48 yards on nine carries, Bob Roy Klein 36 on three and Cady 26 on four.

Waste disposal bill may become law

By BILL HOLLYER
Pampa's Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — A bill authorizing the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to supervise the disposal of industrial waste was passed by a House subcommittee last week and may become law before the end of the year.

Land-based solid waste disposal standards have lagged behind other EPA rules controlling pollution of air and water. This measure has the backing of environmentalists, labor unions, industry and the White House.

Introduced by Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa., the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act would provide grant money to state for the development of plans to control the disposal of hazardous industrial wastes on land. The legislation calls for $40 million in Fiscal Year 1978 and $50 million in FY 1979 to aid states in implementing their programs.

Thirty per cent of the funds would be earmarked for small communities and counties.

A controversial $2.5 billion federal loan program to states was deleted by the House committee on Transportation and Commerce. According to a subcommittee spokesman, the White House opposed a federal grant of that size as inflationary.

EPA's minimum requirements for the states will include provisions for prohibiting new open solid waste dumps, upgrading existing dumps, conserving resources, and disposing of discarded materials like paper and metals in sanitary landfills.

The Rooney bill also requires industries to identify the dangerous components of the solid wastes they generate and, it imposes regulations for safe transport.

System (PBS) is giving Americans with hearing disabilities the chance to share something most people take for granted: the evening news.

The Office of Education (OE) estimates that six and half million people who are wholly or partially deaf are now watching the Captured ABC Evening News, produced at WGBH in Boston, and aired over 130 PBS stations in 36 states.

By special arrangement with ABC News, WGBH, the PBS Boston affiliate, tapes the Monday through Friday 6 p.m. program, removes all its commercials, and electronically prints the dialogue on the screen

The commercial breaks are filled with weather, sports, features and special news of interest to the deaf.

OE began experimenting with captioned techniques in the 1950's with the cooperation of various associations for the deaf. The break-through came in September, 1958 with the signing of Public Law 85-905 providing federal money to fund captioned movies for the deaf.

Dr. Malcom Norwood of the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped engineered a grant to WGBH Education Foundation, providing for a two-year grant for the captioning of the station's cooking show. The success of this program cleared the way for additional money to run the ABC Evening News beginning on Dec. 3, 1973.

Other programming for the deaf on TV has been limited to shows interpreted by hand sign language. But "signing" the news hasn't helped the million of persons who don't understand the language; or those elderly citizens who have grown hard of hearing with age, and never learned the signs.

NO LATEX OVER OIL — If your home has been painted with oilbase paint don't repaint it with latex, says the latest issue of Consumer Reports, because while each paint has good things going for it, they don't mix well together applied one over the other.

Latex dries much faster than oil. It can be applied over a damp surface with a minimum of scraping and sanding. It generally goes on much smoother than oil and cleanup time is negligible because latex washes out with plain running water.
