PAMPA TO WAIT AND SEE

West Texas Gathers Forces For Gas War

By TEX DEWESE
News Staff Writer

Pampa will remain on the sidelines and await developments before participating directly with the two dozen or more West Texas cities and towns protesting the Pioneer Natural Gas Company's proposed "gate rate" increase in the price of gas.

The increase from 23 cents to 34 cents per 1,000 cubic feet would affect 66 communities in the Panhandle and West Texas.

More than 24 cities, with Lubbock taking the lead, have formed a steering committee made up of 12 representatives from the various area communities to contest the proposed gate rate hike.

A hearing on Pioneer's request is scheduled before the Texas Railroad Commission at Austin on Nov. 24.

City Attorney Bob Gordon said Saturday Pampa's position right now is in the category of taking every precaution to protect the city in the rate case.

"We are prepared," Gordon said, "to join with the other cities if it becomes necessary to protect our interests."

The city attorney said the other cities know where Pampa stands and stated local officials are keeping in touch with the steering committee and its protest preparations for the Nov. 24 hearing in Austin.

Gordon said he expects the matter may get some unofficial discussion when city officials meet during the three-day conference of the Texas

Municipal League which opens Monday in San Antonio. A 6-man Pampa delegation was to leave today for the TML meeting.

The city attorney also stated he and the city manager will report on the current status of the gate rate case when the Pampa city council meets Nov. 18, just six days before the Austin hearing.

Pampa decided at its last council meeting to have Gordon and City Manager Charles Hill (See WEST TEXAS, Page 2)

Peaceful Antiwar Marchers Plan To Leave Helmets Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Planners of the Nov. 13-15 antiwar march in Washington stressed the words "peaceful" and "legal" Saturday and said even the most militant faction of Students for a Democratic Society "is leaving its helmets at home."

Leaders of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam ("New Mobe") said at a news conference they expect hundreds of thousands of marchers and have definite commitments from groups representing perhaps 100,000. They said the Nixon administration is crying "violence" to intimidate planners, and that transportation companies are holding back vehicles needed for visits to Washington.

Coretta King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., told the news conference: "We are against the war because we are against violence. If anyone does attempt disruption and violence, by that very act, they are not part of the meeting."

She spoke of "90 per cent" of the expected demonstrators being peaceful, then thought better of that and corrected it later to "99 per cent."

Dr. Benjamin Spock, the baby-doctor-turned-pacifist, said the march is to be "a legal and orderly demonstration. The surest way to insure it is peaceful is having the very fundamentally peaceful Americans here to make it so."

Spock said planners from "New Mobe" had consulted with the Weathermen, a militant faction of the SDS, and "They said they would participate on a peaceful basis. As a sign of this, the group is leaving its helmets at home."

One spokesman, Ron Young, said New Mobe hopes to train 3,000 to 5,000 marshals to keep the demonstration peaceful.

Sponsors of the antiwar rally said earlier that if the turnout proves to be the biggest in the history of the nation's capital, as some predict, it will be the doing of President Nixon. Sidney Lens, a Chicago co-chairman of the New Mobe stated that the President's Vietnam speech Monday "will increase our attendance by 40 to 100 per cent."

The President's speech to the nation was condemned by the New Mobe as an incomprehensible disappointment. "Ted Johnson, a New Mobe leader, said that as a result, 'unprecedented numbers of Americans will come to Washington to legally and nonviolently make known their desires in the only way now left to them.'"

Dallas Magnate Believes In Saying It With Advertising

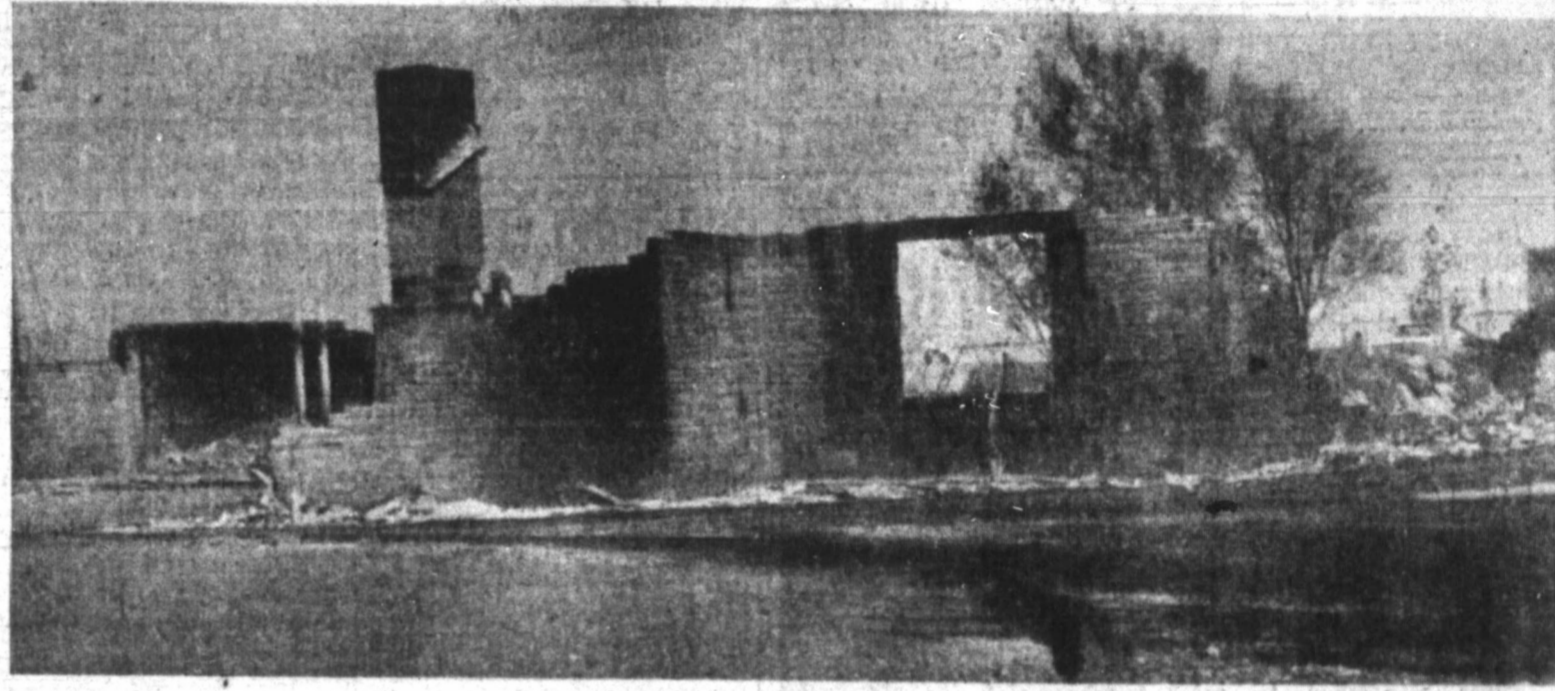

DALLAS (UPI) — Having run one fullpage advertisement in 100 of the nation's largest newspapers urging support of President Nixon's Vietnam policy, Texas computer magnate H. Ross Perot is running another today, soliciting prayer for war prisoners.

Perot also was reported trying to buy television time in the top 60 markets of the nation for a 30-minute show Nov. 16 featuring appearances by the wife of an American prisoner-of-war, a Vietnam War veteran who is an amputee and a former prisoner of war.

Power Failure Plunges Quebec Into Darkness

Cause Of Blackout Unknown

MONTREAL (UPI)—A power failure blacked out much of the Canadian province of Quebec for two hours Saturday, forcing hospitals and broadcast stations to switch to emergency power, causing traffic tieups and accidents in Montreal, Canada's largest city, and trapping people in elevators.

The blackout, which officials of Hydro Quebec, the power company, said was believed caused by "transmission failure," began at 11:43 a.m. EST and lasted in most of Montreal and Quebec City until 1:58 p.m. Some areas near those cities and outlying areas were still without power at mid-afternoon, however.

The blackout affected about 4 million persons in Quebec, about one fifth of Canada's total population. It came just one day short of the fourth anniversary of the great northeastern United States blackout of 1965.

Hydro Quebec officials said they were not immediately able to determine the full extent of the failure nor exactly what caused it. It was known to have extended from Montreal in the west of Quebec to the Gaspé Peninsula in the east and as far as 150 miles north of Montreal.

Many hospitals, radio and television stations and airports were forced to switch to emergency power systems when the lights flickered out. The Metro subway system in Montreal made use of an emergency system which moved trains into the nearest stations. Officials then unloaded the trains and closed the subways for the duration of the blackout.

Two subway stations were still flooded by runoff from the rain which fire department was called in to pump out the stations.

Most large stores locked their doors and cleared the customers from the premises. They began to reopen as power was restored.

Gold Star Moms To Be Honored On 'Vets' Day

Gold Star Mothers will be special guests of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post and Auxiliary of Pampa when the annual Parade of Flags is held Tuesday. The 11 a.m. ceremony will be in Memory Gardens.

Rev. T. O. Upshaw will speak. He is a veteran of World War II, flying missions as a gunner over China and Burma.

Pampa High School Band members will present music.

Casket flags and identification flags will be raised over graves of veterans who died defending the country according to a spokesman for Post 1657.

The public is invited to attend.

Fighting in World War I ended at 11 a.m. on Nov. 11, 1918. Two years later France and England chose this date, then internationally known as Armistice Day, as the time for placing an unknown soldier of that war in each nation's highest place of honor. France chose the Arch de Triumphant, England selected Westminster Abbey and the following year an American soldier whose name was "known only to God" was buried at Arlington National Cemetery. In 1938 Congress declared Nov. 11 as a national holiday.

By changing one word in a 28-year-old resolution, the United States Congress in 1954 renamed the day this nation had traditionally set aside for honoring its war dead.

On June 1, 1954, Congress changed Armistice Day to "Veterans Day."

Veterans Day ceremonies at Arlington and elsewhere in the nation are coordinated by the Veterans Day National Committee. Chaired by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs, the group has an executive committee which includes representatives of 10 national veterans organizations.

"WHAT GOES UP..." Apollo 12 Astros In Rehearsal For Return-To-Earth Procedure

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—While their launch crew took this day off, Apollo 12's astronauts practiced earth-return procedures Saturday for their 10-day moon mission that begins next Friday.

Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon and Alan L. Bean will get their last major medical examination Sunday, then start slowing their pace of training for the nation's second lunar landing expedition.

"I think we're well enough trained, adequately enough trained to do the job," Gordon said. "We've been ready to go for a long time."

The three Navy commanders boarded a training duplicate of the command ship, Yankee Clipper, after breakfast Saturday and spend much of the day practicing their earth atmosphere reentry maneuvers.

Mission Control Center at Houston was electronically tied into the exercise and controllers monitored it as if the pilots were actually making their blazing, 25,000-mile an hour return to a Pacific Ocean splashdown.

Apollo 12 is set to take off at 11:22 a.m. EST Friday and its primary objective is to explore the lunar surface. But as Gordon put it in a recent interview, "That splashdown is pretty darn thrilling."

The astronauts are scheduled to land 385 miles east of American Samoa at 6:38 p.m. Nov. 24. The aircraft carrier Hornet will retrieve them and the ship has already started practicing recovery operations.

The week-long countdown went into a planned 31-hour rest period at 2 a.m. Saturday and was set to resume at 9 a.m. Sunday. Technicians then start loading hydrogen and oxygen into the command ship.

Officials said the first portion of the countdown went off without a hitch. It was devoted primarily to the installation of explosive devices in the command module and in the first stage of the Saturn 5 rocket.

The pace of activity in communities surrounding the moonport seemed to be picking up Saturday. Nearly all the area motels were booked solidly for launch eve but the crowds were not expected to match the half-million-plus people attracted here for the launch of Apollo 11 in July.

HAIRSTYLIST OR HEAD SHRINKER?

Shampoo Bowl And Psychiatrist Couch Seemingly Have Something In Common

By ALETHA DAVIS
News Staff Writer

Do women pour out their innermost secrets to their hairdressers? This seems a provocative question. So we went to the source, hair dressers, for answers.

The question brought a deluge of answers, opinions, and some very off-beat, unusual, improbable and just plain baffling answers.

It seems that madame rushes into a beauty shop for a number of reasons: "I need the time to myself and for myself" is heard most often.

Maybe so. Operators differ in opinion. One mused, "There is a parallel between the shampoo bowl and a psychiatrist's couch."

Doubt this observation? Well, would you believe that milady can really "let down" while suspended over a shampoo bowl, swathed in a great plastic cape, devoid of makeup, and often shoeless? One lady insists, "I just have to take off my girdle or I can't enjoy all this."

Here is the picture of a nice lady at the mercy of the world, unattractive, robbed of her image of poise and grace and nothing to do but talk. So why not pour out all the things that have happened to her all week. Since the operator has scheduled that lady and she is a hairdresser, she can't run.

So Miss Stylist listens. And listens. And listens.

It takes 1500 hours of study extended over at least a 9-month period to receive a license to style hair in Texas. The curriculum embraces a wide field of subjects. A few of which seem unrelated to hairdressing but, they're required.

An overwhelming majority of stylists suggest a cram course in psychology would help. Now anatomy study is pertinent, too. So is the study of skin disease, bones and nerves of the face and head, proethics. Chemical hair relaxing, the theory of massage, facial treatment and make-up, hair coloring, physiology, electricity and light therapy, chemicals and electrodes.

But what can you say when asked "Why do YOU think my husband thinks Betty down the street is cuter than I am?" Most beauty operators would like some answers besides "ask Mary, she seems to know a lot about your husband."

It seems an operator who is good at her profession, has little to do with her real success in the eyes of her patrons. She must always have handy recipes for that special kind of bread, addresses of Poodle Salons, Pediatric advice, suggestions on marital and juvenile problems.

Then too it helps, according to stylists interviewed, if you can look at a picture of a new acquaintance of the patron and know just what hair style HE will find most appealing. After all if a gal knows her business, she SHOULD be able to do that!

Then too, there are patrons that know a lot. They have solutions for world problems, domestic disturbances and exactly how everyone is failing in his own affairs. The hair dresser should agree with her theory... that is, if she's really good.

It helps, stylists agree, to be able to advise patrons on how to measure and construct such things as bedspreads, slip covers and drapes. Then as added bonus one should be able to alter and measure garments from the custom-made category. A memory catalogue of best brands of enamel paint, the most honest mechanics, and the "inside scoop" is also desired.

HER SHOES are off and she has literally 'let her hair down', so the beauty shop patron feels in the mood to relieve frustrations and tensions by talking. The stylist has learned to be the sympathetic ear, so she listens. (Staff Photo)

State Of Texas Pays One Million For 'Free Land'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The 1,950 acres of beach land which the State of Texas just purchased for $1 million was willed to the state free by the late Maco Stewart Jr., after the death of his surviving wife and two sons, United Press International learned today.

The property is the Maco Stewart Ranch, located 12 miles southwest of downtown Galveston on Galveston Island and has about 1.5 miles of gulf beach-front.

Officials of the Parks and Wildlife Department, which bought the "life estate" rights of the three surviving heirs, defended the purchase. They said the land the state would get free someday now will be available to the public within a few months—for the $1 million price tag.

Condemns Land

And the state had to condemn the land to get it for that price. "Actually, the heirs could expect to live 35 to 40 years and it would have been that long before the state could obtain title to the property," said Pearce Johnson of Austin, chairman of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Gov. Preston Smith announced Monday that the state had received that day a check from the federal government for $500,000 in matching funds to buy the land. The other $500,000 will come from the $75 million state park bond fund.

Last month, in an unrelated incident, the state paid $955,000 for a 7,775-acre ranch in Central Texas, which had been turned down as a gift in 1962.

Donate Ranch

That was the famed C. A. Wheatley Ranch 50 miles south of Austin. The Wheatleys donated their ranch to Texas in 1962.

San Juan Capistrano, a small mission 60 miles south of Los Angeles, is world-famous for the punctual departure and return of its flocks of swallows, according to The World Almanac. Legend has it that the swallows, summer residents at the mission since Spanish colonial times, depart promptly each Oct. 23 and return each March 19. The birds are reported to have been late only once, when they were delayed four hours by a storm at sea.

provided the state would spend $250,000 to improve it for park purposes. The legislature refused to appropriate any money for that purpose in 1963, and the Wheatleys took back their ranch.

The $1 million for the "surface estate" to the 1,950-acre Stewart Ranch will be paid to Mrs. Virgiana B. Ball, the late Maco Stewart's wife who has since remarried, and Maco Stewart III and Wells Stewart, his son.

The will of the elder Stewart specified the three estate be entitled to the surface estate of the Stewart Ranch during their lifetime. Upon the death of the last surviving of the three, he stipulated the land "shall rest in the State of Texas to be used and maintained as a fish, game and oyster preserve and for any other public purpose the legislature of the State of Texas, or other competent state official may deem proper for use of same."

Heirs Prohibited

Stewart's will said it was his desire that the state "shall call the property the Maco Stewart Public Park."

The will prohibited the heirs from selling, mortgaging, encumbering "or in any manner disposing of the surface estate" of the ranch property.

George Adams, an attorney for the Parks and Wildlife Department, said the three heirs were willing to sell their "life estate" rights to the state, but were prevented from doing so by the will.

As a result, the state on Oct. 23 went into county court in Galveston and condemned the land. The $1 million apparently had been agreed upon by the state and the heirs since no opposition was present at the condemnation proceedings.

Cites Agreement

Johnson, when asked if he thought it unusual for the state to pay $1 million for land which would ultimately come to them free of charge, pointed out the agreement to purchase the land was made before he was appointed to the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Records Reveal

Records at the Galveston County Courthouse show that some land in the same area sold for $2,000 an acre in recent years.

Johnson pointed out that the state does not have a major state park on the coast anywhere in the upper coastal region. He said two million persons live within a radius of less than 100 miles from the proposed new park.

Over-Populous World Must Be De-Populated For Survival

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A committee of the National Research Council said today the "best hope" for man's long survival as a species lies in reduction of the world's population.

Other voices have warned mankind will be doomed to extinction, the fate of most earthly species, if population growth is not checked soon.

But the research council committee said the population—3.5 billion—already is too great to preserve man comfortably on a planet worth inhabiting.

By 2070—in the absence of various "controlling factors," there will be 30 billion people in the world.

From the standpoint of food alone, this would represent the earth's "ultimate carrying capacity"—a level the committee said, of "chronic near-starvation for the great majority."

At the rate man's population and needs are rising, the committee said, irreplaceable

Natural resources simply are not sufficient to meet future demand.

Indeed, many substances vital for industrial society are running out. These include mercury, tin, tungsten, and helium. Known reserves of such materials "will be nearly exhausted by the end of this century or early in the next."

Oil and gas reserves, laid down over hundreds of millions of years in the earth's geologic past, are running out, and nuclear power at the moment offers no permanent answer to impending power shortages.

Moreover, said the committee, "The popular belief that the oceans contain inexhaustible mineral wealth and that aquatic food products will provide a long-range solution to the nutrition problem is also open to serious question."

The resources committee was headed by Prof. Preson E. Joud Jr., of the University of California, Santa Barbara.

The Little Red Caboose, contributed by the Santa Fe Railroad will be dedicated to the Square House Museum in a special 4 p.m. program of music which will be presented by local school children.

Mrs. Jim Williams will read a collection of poems by Charles Deahl, "Voices of the Square House," following the musical program which is planned around the song, "The Little Red Caboose."

George Rohan, chairman of the food committee will be in charge of a barbecue which will be served from 5 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. in the Agricultural Building.

Lady Bird To Award Cash For Beauty

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson Saturday established an award to salute the Texas Highway Department maintenance foreman who does the most outstanding job in highway beautification.

The award will be called the "Lady Bird Johnson Award" and will include a $1,500 cash prize and a plaque.

The award will go to the foreman who is judged to have contributed most in the preservation and establishment of wild flowers; the preservation, planting and maintenance of highway landscaping and the construction and maintenance of roadside parks and rest areas.

In 1921, President Warren Harding dedicated the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery. In 1965 a United Air Lines jetliner crashed and burned while landing at Salt Lake City killing 42 of the 90 persons aboard.

Russians Have Their Own Type Of U.S. Supermarket

MOSCOW (UPI)—Transplant it to the United States and it would be almost typical of that chunk of Americana, the supermarket.

Here in the Soviet capital, it's called a gastronome and it's the newest mode of shopping offered women who for years have queued patiently at counters of little shops.

But Moscow's showcase gastronome, the Novorabatsky, aims to put almost every household shopping need under one roof and offer self-service.

Court Lifts Topless Ban Fall and Winter

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Los Angeles County ban on topless dancing was declared "invalid and unconstitutional" Friday, three days before the new ordinance was to go into effect.

Several hours after Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer's decision, two new suits were filed challenging the constitutionality of the ordinance.

Schauer issued a preliminary injunction prohibiting authorities from enforcing the topless section of the ordinance, citing a Nov. 14, 1968, decision by the California Supreme Court which held topless dancing per se was a form of expression protected by the First Amendment.

nience which the Soviet women just never have had but which the Americans take for granted.

"The future belongs to self-service," said Mrs. Svoboda Volodina, manager of the whole self-service floor of the spaciouly modern two-level building housing the gastronome on Kalinin Street.

"Almost all the new food stores are putting in self-service sections," she said as we toured the gastronome. But there's a "go slow" on total conversion. The state, which of course owns the Kalinin gastronome, the largest in the U.S.S.R., wants to determine just how profitable self-service is compared to the old.

So, only the second floor of the gastronome is Mrs. Volodina's domain. On the first floor (both escalators and stairs connect the two), the picture again is the traditional one of individual counters where the consumer queues to select fish, poultry, cheeses, other dairy products, fruits and vegetables.

And here the woman goes through the complicated method of paying—select product, get slip showing how much owed, pay a cashier, get back in line with receipt to pick up the purchase.

Many a U.S. supermarket chain would like to have the spaces still to be filled that you find at the Novorabatsky—the shopping complex has about 3500 square yards.

Checkout counters are much like those of U.S. supermarkets in the self-service department, in that a cashier totes up all the items in the "maybe" bag (the women still use them over the new carts). The "maybe" got its name, I was told.

Texas Doctors Hopeful Of Starting Chain Reaction

WESLACO, Tex. (UPI)—Dr. Jack Ellis is hoping to start a chain reaction that will produce some noise from the "silent majority."

The idea began when Ellis watched President Nixon address the nation Tuesday on Vietnam. After the telecast, Ellis invited eight friends over to his home and convinced them to begin the chain.

Ellis and the eight called five friends each and asked each of these 45 persons to call five friends and so on. Each person called is asked to write a letter or a telegram to Nixon saying they support the President's policies in Vietnam.

Ellis said Thursday he was tired of letting "unbathed, unshaven, unshorn morons dictate the policy and say what has to be done in this country."

Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Moore were Pampa visitors Thursday.

Lose 10 lbs. in 10 days on Grapefruit Diet

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. (Special) This is the revolutionary grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories, plants and offices throughout the U.S.

Because this diet really works. We have testimonials reporting on its success. If you follow it exactly you should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. No weight loss in the first four days but you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1 1/2 pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all, there will be no hunger pangs. Revised and enlarged, this diet lets you stuff yourself with formerly "forbidden" foods, such as steak trimmed with fat, roast or fried chicken, gravies, mayonnaise, lobster swimming in butter, bacon fats, sausages and scrambled eggs and still lose weight. The secret behind this "quick weight loss" diet is simple. Fat does not form -fat. And the grapefruit juice in this diet acts as a catalyst (the trigger), to start the fat burning process. You stuff yourself on the permitted foods listed in the diet plan, and—lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. A copy of this startling successful diet can be obtained by sending $2 to...

Blue Laws Cause Big Controversy

(Editor's Note: Sunday closing laws have caused controversy in Texas for more than a century. What started as an essential religious issue in 1863 touches modern technology today. A team of UPI correspondents talked with churchmen, consumers, businessmen and legislators about the Texas Supreme Court decision Wednesday making the "blue law" constitutional.)

By DONALD P. MYERS
United Press International
Nine days before Christmas in 1863, the whiskered men of the Texas Legislature passed a law that has touched everything from poker to prayer in the 109 years since.

They bound the statute in blue paper. The law made it illegal "to hunt for game of any kind whatsoever on Sunday within one half mile of any church, school house or private residence."

If a Texan in the 19th Century broke it he had to fork over a $10 to $50 fine.

It was the state's first "blue law."

The consequence and controversy of that law swaddled in blue surged through the halls of churches, street-corner cinemas, livery stables and bath houses.

And it has come all the way into the gawdy aisles of today's emporium—the modern discount department store.

At issue is whether stores shall be allowed to stay open and sell their wares on Sunday. A "blue law" passed by the 1961 Texas Legislature made it illegal to sell certain goods on consecutive Saturdays and Sunday.

But the day in question is Sunday, the day of rest.

The state Supreme Court last Wednesday declared the law legal and constitutional. But before it is over the issue may have to be decided by the U. S. Supreme Court, although it has been there before from other states.

In the majority opinion of the 6-3 decision, the state court said the legislature which passed the law did so to close mercantile stores on either Saturday or Sunday. The court said the law was "validly related to the health, recreation and welfare of the people."

Law's Wisdom Unquestioned

"It is not the function of the courts to judge the wisdom of a legislative enactment," the man of the Supreme Court said.

Some lawmakers already are talking about an immediate crackdown on discount stores that stay open Sunday.

"Any violators will be prosecuted by my office with the help of police agencies throughout the county," said Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade.

The man in the Texas Legislature who most hates "blue laws," Sen. A. R. (Babe) Schwartz, D-Galveston, claims most Texans are on his side.

"In my opinion, something in excess of 90 per cent of this state want to do some of their shopping on Sunday," he said from his Galveston law office.

"If a man wants to buy a wrench on Sunday he ought to have a legal right to do it," Blames Lobbyists Schwartz, who gabbled for 12 hours once in a filibuster against a "blue law" said the Texas Sunday closing law is not a church issue. He said lobbyists for large "downtown merchants" helped pass it.

"If this was a church law, you couldn't sell beer on Sundays," he said. "This law keeps you from selling matches, beds and wrenches on Sunday."

Most church leaders hailed the law of the land as the law of God.

The Baptist General Convention of Texas, meeting in San Antonio, followed the Supreme Court by a day in passing a resolution urging all Baptists to do business only with merchants who close one day a week.

BLOW YOUR MIND
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Officials of an International Conference on Mental Health say they were victims of an international hoax that they blamed on right wing groups.

The hoax consisted of letters and wires sent to delegates and the conference site, saying the joint meeting of the World Federation for Mental Health and the co-sponsoring U.S. National Association for Mental Health Nov. 17 to 21 had been cancelled or would be held in Havana, Cuba.

Dr. Paul Lankau, conference chairman and Johns Hopkins University chairman, said the two groups have been attacked by right wing groups.

Hand-Me-Down Child Dies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Inoff his hobbyhorse and hit his the beginning they didn't knowhead. First she said she was his the little boy's name, only that he was a hand-me-down child and he was dead.

Mrs. Edith Reese, 34, brought The woman admitted she the 18-month-old boy to Episco-didn't know the child's name-pal Hospital here when he fellHe had been given to her. An investigation determined five women cared for the child since he was given away three months after birth. From one to the other, he was handed down.

First Child

Mrs. Reese and her husband, Joseph, had him for the last three weeks. He was their first child.

"We were planning a big Christmas," Mrs. Reese said. They hoped to adopt him. They wanted a child. He needed parents. "I love children and I sure loved that child," Mrs. Reese said.

Perhaps another woman loved him. Police said the boy's mother showed up late Thursday night to claim his body.

"She gives a story that because the child had a skin disease, she found herself not able to care for the child properly," Lt. Walter Pietrowicz said. "She told me she took this child for a skin infection of some sort to Philadelphia General Hospital for treatment."

Had Six Kids

Elba Lopez, 26, is the mother. She called him Eric. An unemployed mill worker, she has five other children, the eldest 12, who live with her in Camden N.J. Her first husband died and the second left.

Mrs. Lopez, who was five when she came to this country from Puerto Rico, worked at a knitting mill in Berlin, N.J. until early last summer. She supports the other children with money received from Social Security since the death of her first husband in 1964.

"She had innocent intentions as far as I can gather. She did nothing here that she thought was wrong," Pietrowicz said. "You got six kids. What do you do when you get one that needs care, special care?"

Marijuana Shipment

BEAUMONT (UPI)—Curtis Neal Crawford, 21, was under charges today of receiving a three-pound shipment of marijuana by mail from Korea. U. S. customs agents seized Crawford at his home in Groves Thursday.

Sheriff's Lt. Norman Boone said the marijuana was worth at least $3,000.

Backstairs At The Whitehouse

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House swimming pool, a fixture at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue since the early days of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, is being boarded over to make room for additional office space, largely for use of the press.

Short On Space

The swimming pool conversion illustrates how shockingly short on space are the offices of an American President and his staff. This has been true for many years and gone largely uncorrected.

As a result, some of the highest policy-making officials of the current, or relatively recent, administration work in cramped quarters which a small-town bank vice president would find unacceptable.

The pool renovation will make it possible to move some of the ranking staff members out of the basement or out of offices which they now must share with other assistants and secretaries. This will be done by taking over the White House press room of many years and switching it to the pool area.

Brings Up Points

Using the pool area brings up several historical points or, in any case, interesting points of comparison:

—Both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson on occasion swam in the pool sans trunks and further more, talked business while skinny-dipping with associates (male) who were either in the pool or perched beside it.

A vision of President Nixon, the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower or, for that matter, former President Harry S. Truman, swimming naked and discussing business at the same time simply is impossible.

(Both JFK and LBJ received callers in the White House bathroom, situated in the second-floor family quarters. While he was alive, Kennedy was not criticized for this because the fact did not come out until after his death. With Johnson, however, it was another matter. At least one Cabinet officer took high offense at being summoned into the President's bathroom. Others similarly summoned came

American fashions take on heathier look

NEW YORK — American girls can now dress just like Irish colleens.

A collection of straight-from-Ireland dresses, skirts, pants, sweaters, shirts, coats and accessories, puts the accent on piped-up stripes, print-played tweeds, and heathery or natural handmade knits.

Handwoven tweed in salmon and rust stripes is shaped into a bias-cut and gored skirt, a long-sleeved dress skimming to a pleated finish, and matching tams. More tweed is strewn with blooms for a dirndl skirt and long-stemmed pants, and unprinted tweed makes a lilly kill. These turn into outfits with ribbed wool turtle-neck tops, long finger-carves and peaked caps.

Handknit natural Irish wools speak perfect Gaelic in lacy sweater tops to wear with dirndl or pleated skirts or flare pants. Bone-toned skinny ribs, sliced with salmon and peat brown, range from a little stink top and wide-stripe skirt to a funnel-necked shirt.

Soft-stroke heather knits shift into long-sleeved dresses with pocket detailing. To cover the whole scene, a red-lined riding coat of rubberized canvas sports buckled leg bands and a skim of fleece inside.

Natural gas storehouse

All year 'round, we move natural gas from production fields to market areas. During summer months, demand for gas is light, so we store extra quantities in natural underground reservoirs. NGPL Storage Foremen, and their crews, help develop underground formations suitable for gas storage. They measure and maintain the supply of stored gas. And they move it along to market during the winter when additional supplies are needed. We now operate six underground gas storage facilities; two more are being developed. And we rely on our Storage Foremen to make sure pure natural gas is available on demand. They are pipeline people—vital links in a giant private industry serving the public interest.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS
 The Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, south of the Canadian River in Texas, was voted into existence on Jan. 23, 1956.

The Texas Board of Water Engineers, operating under legislation granted to it by the Legislature of Texas, on the petition of land and property owners of this area, called for an election by the people of the designated area.

Section B of the ACT, permitting the creating of underground water conservation districts states, "Districts may hereafter be created for the conservation, preservation, protection, and recharging and the prevention of waste of the underground water of an underground water reservoir or subdivision."

The Legislature further spelled out the purposes of underground water conservation districts. Item No. 1, of the above Section B, further states that such districts shall be empowered "to formulate, promulgate and enforce rules and regulations for the purposes of conserving, preserving, protecting and recharging the underground water reservoir."

EDUCATION A MUST
 Last week this column discussed the efforts, now in operation in a number of arid countries, to solve the water deficiency. The culture and backwardness of the masses of the people in most of these countries along with political instability makes the solution more difficult. Solving the problem ultimately involves the critical factor of education in these countries.

In our own country we have all the ingredients to irrigate successfully. These necessary factors are: political stability, education, money and natural wealth, with the needed water within reach.

In many arid lands the nation is so poor that only a small percent of the children are receiving even a primary education. Efforts to carry on irrigation projects in Afghanistan have pin-pointed the fact that available engineering development is far ahead of education and government.

The people in the Old Testament had a water problem. They did not solve the problem and their civilization went down the "dry drain." The prophet Isaiah predicted that where desert jackals then lived would one day see the growing of reeds and rushes. He also predicted that God would "plant trees — cedars, myrtle, olive trees, the cypress, fir and pines on barren land."

FEEDLOTS PROBLEMS BEING SOLED

We have all suddenly become aware that feedlots have also brought some waste problems. Any economic profitably business will bring some. Oil and gas had its slat-water pollution problem but it has been solved. The feedlot waste problem will also be solved. Last week Texas Tech University researchers were granted $39,364.00 by the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration to study water quality below feedlots. The feedlot people themselves are carrying on a study and have already put some remedial operations to work. We can quit worrying about this problem because the pollution problem is in good hands. It is being taken care of.

Water Quality Board officials have moved very fast in the preventive direction. We commend them highly. On 17, the Board in conjunction with representatives of the State Health Department and the Edwards Underground Water District, conducted a hearing that covered discharge practices, sewerage facilities, septic tanks, livestock feedlots and sanitary landfills in Bexar, Harp, Comal, Medina, Uvalde and Kinney Counties. Feedlots were not the source of the complaints for this hearing. The complaints were brought as a result of plans to build a 300 — plus mobile trailer park subdivision in Bexar County, that planned to use septic tanks instead of a central sewage disposal plant.

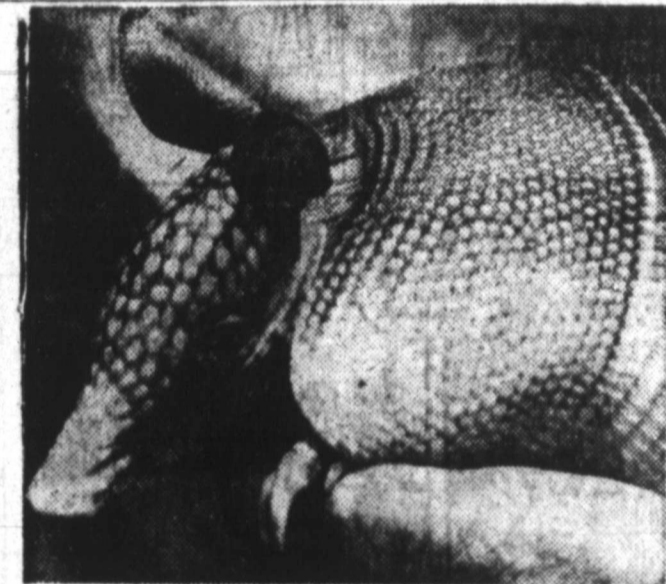

A woman whose parked car rolled into another was asked by a policeman:

Officer Webb — Why didn't you set your emergency brake?
 Mrs. Wells — Emergency?

Aherne Known To Over-30 Set

If you're under 30, you may not know the name Brian Aherne. Pity. He was one of the best, in the days when elegance, suaveness and savoir were marketable commodities.

He's still elegant, suave and savior faire-to-middling. He's still the tall, handsome and debonaire actor, though he hasn't acted much lately. He's turned writer, and his autobiography — "A Proper Job" — is available. He'd like to act, although parts for him are scarce.

"People of my age," he says, "don't look convincing punching people or taking our clothes off. SO I'm doing what most of my contemporaries are doing. We call it resting."

He has a chance to see a lot of movies. He doesn't particularly like what he sees.

"Movies today," he says, "are depraved. I saw a thing awhile ago, a thing called 'Midnight Cowboy.' I don't know how or why such a film could have been made. Just dreadful!"

He keeps busy. He has what

Governor Schedules Farmers Union Week

Governor Preston Smith has designated the Week of Nov. 10-15 as Texas Farmers Union Week. A series of special events has been planned to highlight the week.

Forty-one Nebraska and Kansas "Flying Organizers" will arrive on the Farmers Union Convair at the Municipal Airport in Amarillo at 1 p.m. tomorrow. These visiting organizers will go to the Holiday Inn West where they will be briefed by Rocky Mountain Farmers Union President Charles Hanovan on plans for the Texas and New Mexico membership campaign. Twenty-five of the organizers will work in several north plains counties and the other sixteen will be assigned to membership work in New Mexico.

An area membership luncheon and rally will be held at the Holiday Inn in Plainview at noon on Tuesday, Nov. 11.

A membership campaign victory barbecue will be held at the Junior Livestock Barn in Canyon, sponsored by Randall County Farmers Union, beginning at 7 p.m. on Wednesday.

Junior Service League Provisionals Qualify As Members After Research

The seven-year old Junior Service League is just what its name implies... an organization of young Pampa women who volunteer service to their community. To maintain membership standards, those accepted to serve must first study and understand how their community functions.

League Provisionals are new members who may not yet vote in meetings, nor hold a league office. Before they can become active members, they serve a year's apprenticeship in community study.

During this month, they visit the city's news medias, courts, hospitals, schools and attend lectures on community health, retarded children and their needs, development and growth of Pampa, its Youth and Community Center and Fine Arts Association.

This year, the league has 14 Provisionals who, like the 30 active members, work four hours each week in volunteer service, either at hospitals or in the league's consignment store, the Golden Eagle.

Pampa Junior Service League was originally composed of members and former members of the Parent Education Study Club. By-Laws were adopted from the Junior League of America, and in September, 1962, a charter was obtained. In October that year, the first Provisional Course was conducted. A 40-hour nurses' aide course was taught in March, 1963. In May, 1963, the league began its first volunteer service at Highland General Hospital.

Members sponsored their first Charity Ball in October, 1962, one month after they obtained their charter of organization. The money-making project has become an annual dance and this year will be held at the Pampa Country Club Nov. 15.

Proceeds from the first three Charity Balls were used to help exceptional children and purchase room dividers for Highland General Hospital. Proceeds from the last three Charity Balls were used to finance the Speech and Hearing Clinic held each Spring for preschool children and to aid exceptional children.

Buddy Stephens and personnel of the Amarillo Speech-Hearing Center direct the Spring clinic. Mrs. Ben Sturgeon, league member, said.

Since 1964, the league has operated its Golden Eagle, a consignment store operated by members' volunteer help. Proceeds from the store are used to finance several league projects.

"We have provided a scholarship for a Pampa child attending the Amarillo Center and have paid for his room and board in a foster home for four years," Mrs. Sturgeon said. "Other projects were helping a Pampa boy attend college, aiding exceptional children's programs with financial help and volunteer service, supporting Fine Arts Association, Community Day Nursery, and the Pampa High School Welfare Fund."

The league has "trouped" three puppet shows to all Pampa elementary schools with puppets and stages constructed by members.

Officers are Mrs. James Evans, president; Mrs. Robert Lyle, vice president; Mrs. Robert Cory, treasurer; Mrs. Jim Alexander, recording secretary and Mrs. Delmar Watcorresponding secretary.

Officers work with 19 Committee chairmen among the league's membership of 19 sustaining, 30 active and 14 Provisionals.

Robert Cotter and Mrs. Charles White. The new wing to house central supply, pharmacy, X-ray department, physical therapy, and business office, will be completed by November, 1970. This is the hospital's first new construction since the north wing was added in 1957.

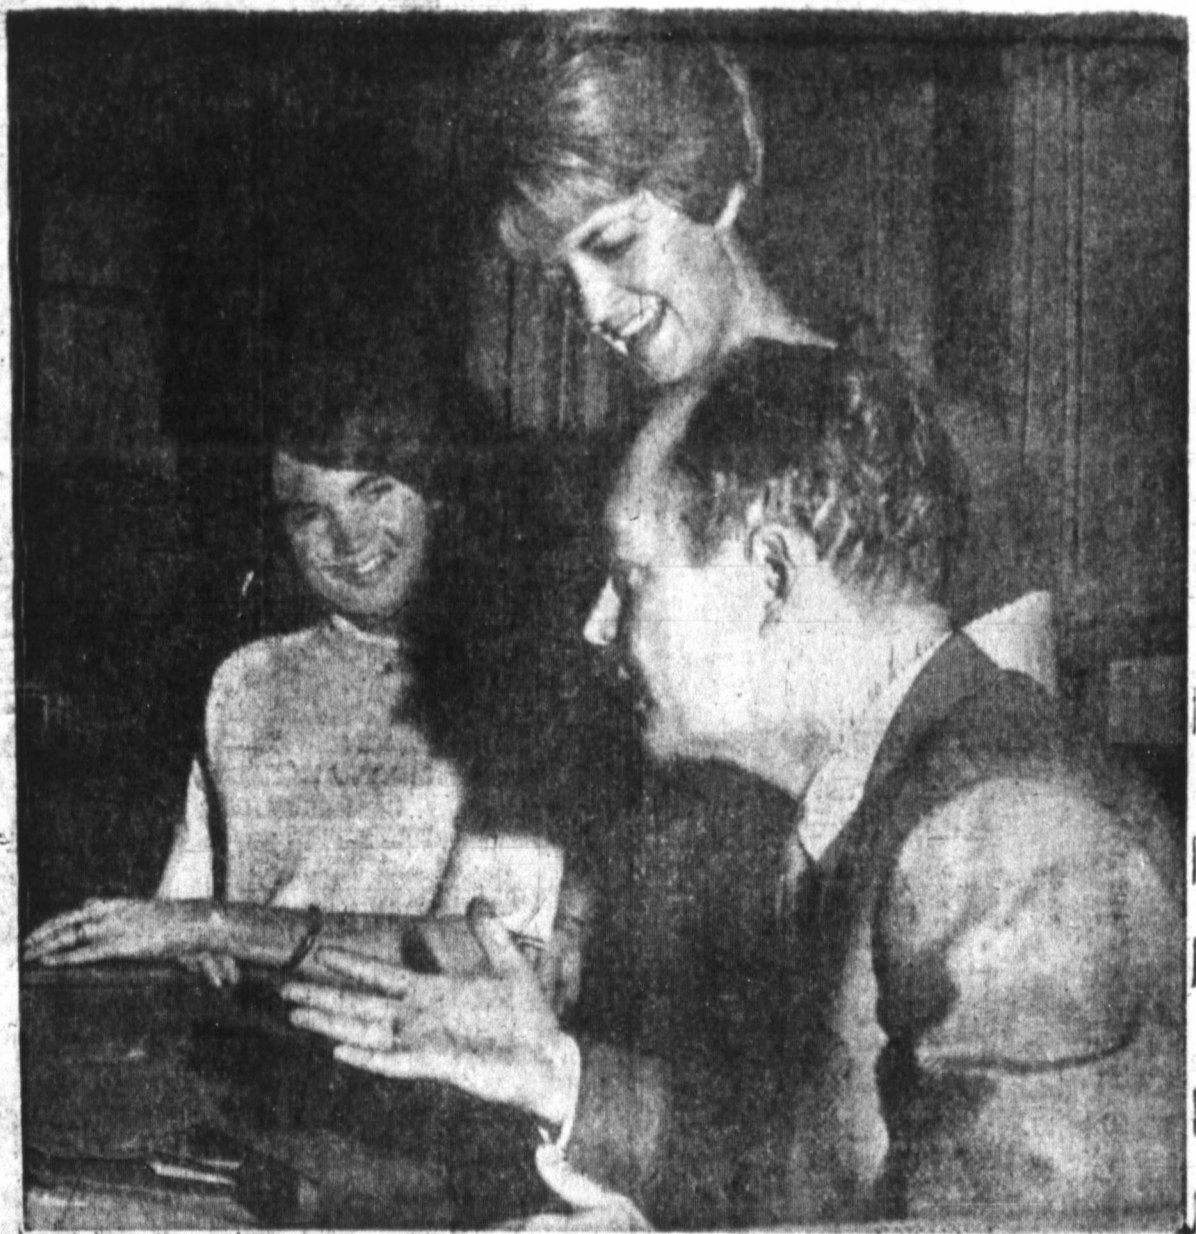

CONCRETE PROGRESS FOR NURSERY — Three League Provisionals, Mrs. Leonard R. Hudson, left, Mrs. Bill Cornman and Mrs. Bob Crippen, visit with four Community Day Nursery children while trying out the nursery's new concrete walk, steps and porch. Children visiting with league members are three-year-olds Cleve Deason and Robert Simpson, and Dell Gray and Tammy Morgan, both age five. Since the nursery is one of the league's service projects, members finance the recent concrete porch and sidewalk construction.

SURROUNDED BY ART COLLECTIONS — Mrs. R. A. Johnson, left, discusses art gallery paintings and antiques and explains aims of the Fine Arts Association to three provisionals, Mrs. Jerry Epps, Mrs. Bill Dunn and Mrs. L. N. Anthony. Mrs. Johnson will give the art association lecture during the league's lecture series Nov. 13 in the Chamber of Commerce conference room. Other topics included for study are community health, Pampa Growth and Development, the Youth and Community Center, and education for retarded children.

FROM THE JUDGE'S DESK — Don Lane, corporation court judge, explains procedures of paying fines in traffic violations and discusses driving regulations with two league provisionals, Mrs. Jean Martindale and Mrs. Charles J. Cook, right. A visit to Pampa's Corporation Court in the basement of City Hall is part of the provisionals' field trip agenda this month.

ENROUTE TO THE PRESS—Part of Junior Service League Provisionals' study of Pampa is a field trip through the city's newspaper, The Pampa Daily News. Morris Morgan, the News' mechanical superintendent, operates a teletype, one of several composing room machines used to prepare a news story for publication. Two provisionals, Mrs. Carlton Downing and Mrs. Bob Rogers, left, watch the type setting process.

Jane Anne Leverich, Frank Alan Osborne Pledge Marriage Vows

Jane Anne Leverich was united in marriage with Frank Alan Osborne in an evening wedding ceremony in First United Methodist Church, Saturday. The Rev. H. DeWitt Seago, pastor, officiated for the double-ring service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Leverich, 1824 Christine. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Joan C. Osborne, 817 N. Nelson, and Jack H. Osborne, 1218 Charles.

BRIDE
Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of silk faced satin in candlelight. Pearl embroidered Alencon lace edged the square neckline of the bodice. Appliques of lace and pearls covered the long tapered sleeves. Her skirt fell in an A-line to carpet length and had a wateau train sweeping to chapel length from a bow at the high waist in back. Appliques of Alencon lace and pearls trimmed the skirt and train.

She wore a short mantilla of candlelight illusion with matching Alencon lace and pearls. For her bridal bouquet she carried a colonial nosegay of white roses, gardenias and Stephanotis.

ATTENDANTS
Cathy Gay Puckett, Fort Worth, was maid of honor. Other bridal attendants were Sheryl Ann Olin, Houston; Ann Gray Lewelling, Tyler; Mary Katherine Kleuser, Fort Worth and Mrs. Larry Bros, Norman, Okla.

Her attendants were identically attired in gowns of ruby velvet with molded bodices designed with a high neck and long puff sleeves. The skirt fell in controlled fullness to carpet length. Gold mesh boleros trimmed in gold braid accented their gowns. Their headpieces were ruby red velvet Camelot bands. The bridesmaids bouquets were fashioned of red roses in nosegays encircled with gold mesh.

Mrs. Karl Stephenson, Amarillo, was organist for the 7:30 p.m. wedding ceremony. Candlelighters and junior groomsmen were Rick Leverich and Jim Fatheree.

Michael James Osborne assisted his brother as best man. Groomsmen were James Fred Thompson, Lubbock; Robert Green, Temple; Thomas Spines, Lawrence, Kans.; and John S. Chambers, Canadian.

Kenneth McWilliams, Austin; John Triplehorn, Fayetteville, Ark.; and William R. McKinney, Waco, seated wedding guests.

The ceremony was performed amid a myriad of gold candles and greenery. Tiered arrangements of candles, with cascading garlands of greenery decorated the choir and communion rails. Tall spiral candelabras entwined with salal foliage, flanked the background. Cross and tree candelabras and greenery filled the background. An altar arrangement of red roses completed the setting. Pews of honor were noted with tall aisle candelabra enhanced with garlands of smilax.

The bride's mother chose a carpet-length dress of ice blue Alaskine trimmed in crystal bugle beads and pearls. For her flowers, she carried a white orchid. The bridegroom's mother selected a floor-length gown of pink crepe with empire bodice fashioned with gold and blue braid. For her flowers she chose a pink orchid.

RECEPTION
For the reception in the Pampa Country Club, the Pat Carter Trio played music as guests were registered by Susan Fatheree. Mrs. Billy Davis, Mrs. Joe Franklin, Mrs. Ben Fallon, Mrs. Bill Matejowsky and Mrs. James Evans assisted with serving cake and punch.

The table was decorated with a five-tiered white cake, a silver punchbowl and candelabra entwined with smilax.

For the honeymoon to New Orleans, La., the bride traveled in a grey and white costume suit of wool and carried a single white rose.

The bride attended the University of Oklahoma and graduated from Texas Christian University where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. The bridegroom attended the University of Arizona and graduated from the University of Texas. He was a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS
Pre-nuptial events included a tea shower by Mrs. Billy B. Davis; a luncheon sponsored by Mrs. Buss Baldrige and Mrs. R. Malcolm Erown, a coffee by Mrs. Frank Culberson and Mrs. George Scott.

Other events were a coffee shower by Mrs. Joe Franklin, Mrs. Bill Matejowsky, and Mrs. Ben Fallon; a rice-bag party; Mrs. James Evans and Mrs. Barney McMullen, and a luncheon by Mrs. William E. Ellis.

Those sponsoring the wedding breakfast were Mr. and Mrs. David Fatheree, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fatheree, Mr. and Mrs. E.M. Keller Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Watkins and Mrs. Jean White. Hosts for the rehearsal dinner were the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Joan Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fatheree, and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Chambers.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Clara Mae Cooper, Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. John Corrigan, Houston; Joe Corrigan, Denver, Colo.; H. Joe McCrary, Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Puckett, and Jonna, Fort Worth, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wood, Earle, Ark.

Twentieth Century Culture Club Reviews Results Of Moon Trip

Twentieth Century Culture Club met in the home of Mrs. Doyle Osborne, with Mrs. G. L. Craddock as co-hostess.

Mrs. Jack Hood presided as Mrs. Paul Mitchell gave secretary's report and Mrs. Rufe Jordan, the treasurer's report. Mrs. Dan Cameron outlined the new yearbook and the study subject, "The World in Which We Live." Mrs. Hood announced a book of poetry by a member, Elizabeth Carter, was being published and would be available for Christmas.

Mrs. Dan Cameron introduced Mrs. Rufe Jordan who spoke on "Man and the Moon."

"This whole world stood still one hot day in July, 1969, to watch or listen to the culmination of centuries of dreams. Man had been given the wisdom, faith, courage and ingenuity to land men on the moon—and return them safely to earth," Mrs. Jordan said.

"Two reasons sent them there—scientific and idealistic curiosity, and necessary military security."

"President John Kennedy announced in 1961 the United States intended to send men to moon to study the past of the universe and to gain insight into its future," she said.

"Satellites report movements of unfriendly nations anywhere in the world. The moon, planets and space of our Solar System or all the universe, may contain unknown elements, which, should they fall into the hand of the enemy first, could end civilization."

"It did seem that Armstrong's 'tiny step' did result in bringing back unimpressive looking things. Like children on a beach, he and Aldrin collected rocks and dust. But lunar rocks, placed in the vacuum containers and kept airtight, were returned to earth where in nine counties scientists are studying them, looking for evidence of past or present plant or animal life, and determining the actual age of the moon," Mrs. Jordan said.

"A moon quake detector was left there, which sends back radio signals indicating volcanic movement; signals have been received revealing moonquakes."

"A mirror was permanently placed to receive and transmit laser beams from earth. From this we can precisely measure distances on the moon and also detect continental drift of earth. Someday sound, pictures and color will be sent on laser beams."

"While on the moon a sheet of aluminum was hung vertically to measure Solar winds—the breath of the sun, and this window-shade-like instrument was brought back with the ship," she said.

Opposition increases to the expenditure of $24 billion on space research while problems of poverty, polluted air and water, crime and war are left unsolved. The best argument for space exploration is that everything will indeed be polluted if we are destroyed by our enemy as the result of his success in space, Mrs. Jordan said.

One guest and 18 members attended. The next meeting will be a luncheon, Nov. 11, in the home of Mrs. Dan Cameron.

Also attending were: Mmes. Jim Chase, Joe Donaldson,

Homeowners Use Snapshot To Save Money After Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — Snapshots can be used to save time, money and energy in case of robbery, accident or tax loss.

One couple, for example, faced with proving claims resulting from a fire which gutted one wing of their home produced pictures of the interior and exterior before and after the blaze.

The insurance company accepted the snapshots as evidence and promptly sent them a check.

Authorities suggest these steps to be prepared for a catastrophe:

— Take a complete color photographic inventory of your home.

— Photograph each room from four different angles to include furnishings. Take close-up shots of especially valuable items, such as antiques.

— Picture the exterior of your home from all four sides including landscaping, trees, driveway, fences.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a former drug user, or rather abuser. In hopes that some will view the dangers of "pot" a little more realistically, I shall recite my own experience:

I am a well-groomed, upper-middle class college student, not the typical hippie-type. Most of my friends are "clean cut" drug users. You can't recognize a drug user by his physical appearance. The girl who looks like a perfect lady may be as much of a "pot-head" as the long-haired hippie.

Drug abuse is an evil that has swept our campuses. Even the small town campuses are overrun. I would say that at least half the students have smoked pot. It doesn't matter what kind of homes they come from. The kids from the "best" families are users as well as the kids from lower class homes. In fact, I think more kids who have led sheltered lives are the biggest users.

I entered college wearing rose-colored glasses. I saw very little of the seamy side of life, therefore when problems arose, I "copped out." From pot I proceeded to amphetamines. For a year I smoked pot to get "high" and I popped pills, too. I wasn't a constant user, but rather a sporadic user. A problem arose and rather than face it, I entered my "happy world" of pills.

But I was lucky. My brilliant, vibrant, beautiful friend was less fortunate. She died of an overdose of drugs. Ironically enough, her death saved my life.

I told myself to grow up and face reality with all its problems. My case is not an isolated one. Colleges are swamped with students like me. Remember, the first social party can easily turn the unstable personality on to other drugs. I stress, emphatically to those entering college, stay away from pot... and drugs. It is so easy to get hooked, and so hard to kick the habit.

Please heed my advice. Learn from my experience, and remember, I was lucky. I'm here to write this letter. My friend is not.

PEACE

DEAR ABBY: Recently I attended a wedding where the guests paid a dollar or more to dance with the bride. (Some lady guests paid the same to dance with the bridegroom.)

We all seemed to have fun and I saw nothing wrong with it, but later on I heard several remarks from some of the guests who said they thought it was "bad taste."

I've since heard that this type of wedding dance is common in northern Maine and Canada. Have you ever heard of it? Maybe some of your readers up there have. I'd really like to know.

LIVE AND LET LIVE, BUT WONDERING

DEAR LIVE: Yes, I have heard of it, and the practice is not restricted to northern Maine and Canada. What is considered "bad taste" to some is accepted as "tradition" to others, but if you're asking what I think of the idea, I'd have to say, "Not much."

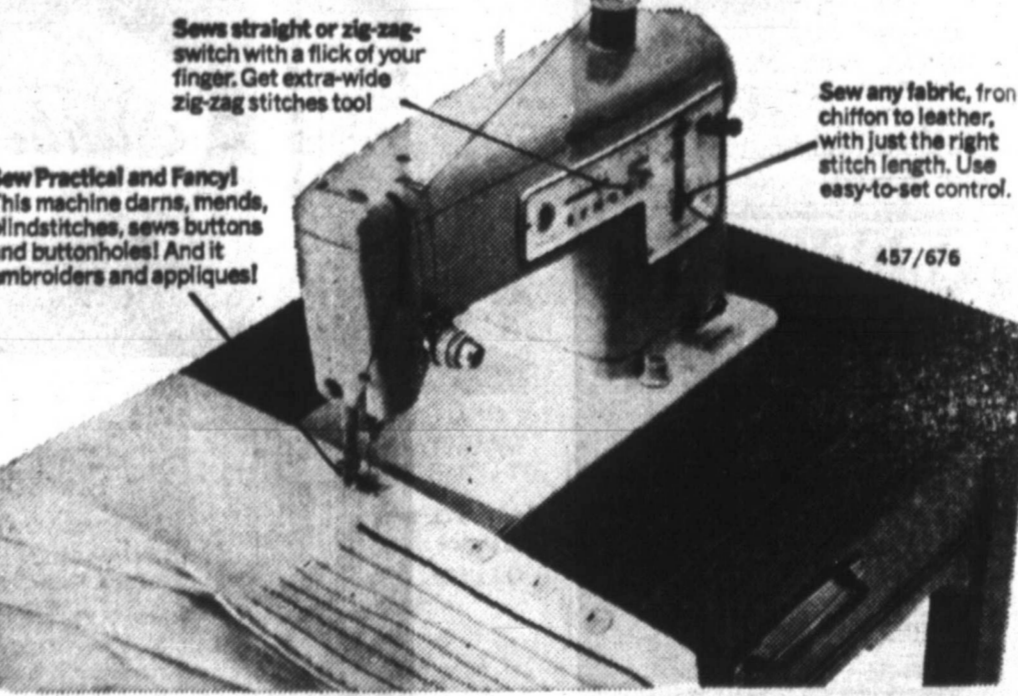

CONFIDENTIAL TO: P. in Pendleton, Ore.: If you haven't charity in your heart, you have the worst kind of heart trouble. Give a little.

Everybody has a problem. What is yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lynn Symonds, Robert Greenlee Say Double-Ring Marriage Vows

Lynn Dianne Symonds exchanged wedding vows with Robert Harlan Greenlee Saturday in late afternoon vows in St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church. The Rev. Francis J. Hynes officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Symonds, 1939 Evergreen. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Greenlee, Lovington, N.M.

Mrs. Jack Edwards, organist, played the traditional wedding march and classical selections from the operas. Double arrangements of giant chrysanthemums atop Grecian pedestals adorned the altar where vows were exchanged. Votive candles and arrangements of pink carnations marked the family honor pews.

BRIDE
The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. For her wedding, she chose a floor-length gown of Italian design of silver-white lutescent. The dress was fashioned with long, full sleeves, a deep Edwardian stand-away collar, and empire bodice atop a bell-shaped skirt. A pale pink Christian Dior bow held the floor-length veil of crystal white silk illusion. The bride wore pink stephanotis blossoms in her hair and carried a bouquet designed with three shades of miniature pink roses and carnations with pink floor-length streamers.

ATTENDANTS
Marcia Symonds attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Teresa Wilus, Las Cruces, N.M. Both attendants were identically attired in floor-length gowns of peau de soie of the same design as the bride's. Petal pink long sleeves and empire bodices topped chocolate brown bell skirts. Each girl carried a single pink chrysanthemum with floor-length petal pink streamers.

James Greenlee, Broken Arrow, Okla., served his brother as best man. Groomsman was Timothy Reamer, Las Cruces, N. M. Ushers, Robert Walkiowiak, also of Las Cruces, and Gale Loftes, Portales, N.M., seated guests.

The bride's mother selected a cocktail suit of Ceylon green with frosted green sequin trim and bisque colored accessories. She wore a pale green cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of soft green crepe with brown accessories and wore a deep pink cymbidium orchid corsage.

RECEPTION
After the ceremony, Mrs.

Earl Farley registered guests for the reception in the Coronado Inn Cibola Room. Two identical wrought iron Spanish lanterns comprising the centerpiece, held a bright pink candle and arrangements of pale pink carnations. Lemon leaves surrounded the chocolate wedding cake which was iced in pink and topped with miniature pink roses.

For the honeymoon, the bride wore an ensemble of her own design, a nutmeg brown dress under amauvy - pink sueded wrap-around coat. She carried a small group of miniature roses from her bouquet.

The bride, a 1966 Pampa High School graduate, attended the University of Texas and recently graduated from Patricia Stevens College in Oklahoma City, specializing in fashion merchandising.

The bridegroom is employed with a computer firm in Austin and will return to New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, N.M., in January. He plans to complete his mechanical engineering degree by June, 1970. The couple will make their home in Austin after the honeymoon.

Pre-nuptial courtesies included a rehearsal dinner hosted by the bridegroom's parents Friday night. The wedding party and members of both families attended.

Ex-Student Group Selects Officers

GROOM (Spl) — The Groom Ex-Students Association banquet was held recently in the school cafeteria. A meal prepared and served by Ethel Neal, Velma Hickox and Truman Goodlett, was attended by 150 persons.

Rev. Kenneth Wyatt and Rev. Frank Pollard, both of Tulsa, were guest speakers.

During the business meeting officers for next year were elected as follows: President, Dr. Richard Hall; Vice President, Johnny Homer; Secretary and Treasurer, Juanita Brown and Reporter, Joy Snyder.

Buck Whatley was the oldest graduate present, from the class of 1923.

Pfc. Billy Bob Ruthardt, stationed at Fort Hood, Tex., attended.

Ex-students attending the banquet were from Amarillo, Canyon, Plainview, Tulsa, White Deer, Lubbock, Perryton, Pampa, Fort Hood, Groom and El Reno and Cheyenne, Okla.

Sub-District Has WSCS Program

GROOM (Spl) — The Irene Nix-Elder Sub-District of the Women's Society of Christian Service met in the Groom United Methodist Church recently with seven churches of the Amarillo District represented.

Sixty-two members registered from the following churches: Claude, Panhandle, White Deer, Forest Hill, San Jacinto, Kingswood of Amarillo, and Groom. Several district officers were presented.

New officers were elected and installed and a special musical selection by Eugene Carter, accompanied by Mrs. Carter, was presented.

A salad luncheon was served at the noon hour.

A new simulated diamond costs $50 per carat compared to a price of more than $1000 per carat for a natural diamond of similar color and quality. At a luncheon during which the stone was introduced by Litton Ind. and Saks Fifth Ave., Cordon Franklin, head of Saks, said, "Never before have we seen a simulated gem which compares so closely to the natural diamond in fiery, blue white brilliance."

Exercises and calorie-cutting ought to be on deck for all who have a little flab around the middle. That is, if one is to look well in — or even be able to wear — the tight bodiced dresses being ordered up by many of America's trend-setting designers for spring.

Members attending were Mmes. Kay Fancher, Ron Lawrence, Juan de Leon, Edward Maglaughlin, John McCausland, Curt Beck, George McCarroll, T.H. Patton, G.E. Lunsford and Kenneth Giggy.

Twentieth Century Allegro Club Studies Morocco, Bahama Islands

Twentieth Century Allegro Club members, meeting in Mrs. George McCarroll's home at 2119 Christine, recently heard Mrs. G.E. Lunsford's program on "The Bahama Islands" and Mrs. Edward Maglaughlin's presentation on "Morocco". Both were related to the "Foreign Panorama" theme.

"The Bahamas are made up of about 700 islands, 30 of them being inhabited," she said. "The tourist center, Nassau, is located on the Island of New Providence."

Mrs. Lunsford traced the history of the islands, which were discovered by Columbus in 1492, through Spanish and finally English rule. She reminded the group "Columbus, believing he had reached India, called the aborigines inhabitants Indians. The islands, visited by Columbus on his three voyages, are still known as the West Indies."

"Shortly after the discovery of the New World, the entire aboriginal population was transported by the Spanish to mines and mills of Haiti and Cuba where this gentle race perished under unaccustomed conditions of forced labor. Today, no trace of the original inhabitants remains. After the American Revolution the population of the colony of New Providence was increased by the immigration of Loyalists and their slaves.

"In 1776 an American squadron, engaged in the War for Independence, invaded New Providence to obtain ammunition and other supplies. The flag of the budding American Republic flew over Fort Montagu for one day," Mrs. Lunsford related.

"Morocco," Mrs. Maglaughlin said, "is a land of contrast between modern and traditional ways of life. It is inhabited by Arabs, Berbers, and Jews and Europeans, Moslems, which are Arabs and Berbers, account for 97 percent of the population."

She discussed the five leading cities of Morocco, which are Casablanca, Rabat, Fez, Tangier and Marrakesh.

"Moroccan women play a largely passive role in their society," Mrs. Maglaughlin stated. "Only the birth of a male child causes a Moroccan to celebrate. Marriages are arranged by parents. Upon her engagement, the young girl takes the face veil and no man outside her immediate family, including her husband-to-be, may look on her features."

"The engagement may last for months. During this time the bride is fed olives and sweets, for in Morocco plumpness is a desirable attribute. On the wedding day the bride is carried to the house of the bridegroom in an Almiriyah and awaits his arrival.

"The bride's mother brings her daughter into the room and turning her around three times before the bridegroom chants a list of the bride's best qualities. When she has finished, he grasps the bride by the wrists. This is a sign he has accepted her in marriage. There is no preist performing ceremony. It is a simple agreement made between two people."

"Since Moroccans have fierce pride, when traveling in the country it is good to remember critical remarks about local conditions and customs can hurt the sensitive Moroccan."

Members attending were Mmes. Kay Fancher, Ron Lawrence, Juan de Leon, Edward Maglaughlin, John McCausland, Curt Beck, George McCarroll, T.H. Patton, G.E. Lunsford and Kenneth Giggy.

Hospital Operates Organized Disorder

NEW YORK (UPI)—In one pediatric ward, a girl has a little sand box in bed. Real sand. Much worse than bread crumbs.

The bed next to her is vacant one, it looks that way. The toddler to whom it is assigned can be seen resting on her blanket on the floor.

"It's more comfortable down here," she says.

When the nurse comes in, there's no scolding. Most of the children are dressed in street clothes instead of pajamas or hospital gowns. Ward helpers don't wear uniforms. On occasion, they even sit on beds and play guitars.

There's a guinea pig scampering about a cage in the ward, too.

It's enough to make veteran hospital people called the ding-a-ling wagon for the people who run this chaotic place for sick children.

Such action would make Dr. Hugh Jolly chuckle. He is in charge of the Pediatric Department of the Charing Cross Hospital, London.

The chaos is planned. Call it organized disorder.

Dr. Jolly, states a report in "Hospitals," journal of the American Hospital Association, recognizes that being ill is never any fun, especially for children.

So he introduced play to take the sting out of injections, pills, probing fingers and generally frightening aspects of most medical procedures.

Three young ladies who have been trained under a program sponsored by Britain's Save the Children fund assist in the organized chaos.

Through a seemingly unstructured milieu of play, they help prepare patients for gastric washings, injections, anesthesia, or surgery by involving them in make-believe dry runs.

By the way, play for a child is work for an adult. Nurses notice that the play-staff goes home exhausted at the end of the day. They also notice that crying on the ward is a thing of the past.

Unrestricted visiting in the ward means parents can show up at any time, day or night, and be welcomed.

The guinea pig is called Peter.

Your Horoscope
JEANE DIXON

SUNDAY, NOV. 9
Your birthday today: The story of the upcoming year is one of hasty moves in unplanned directions. The best path is to concern yourself mainly with your own welfare. Doing more for others than you can afford, especially where it has not been asked, helps only temporarily while your own possibilities are being wasted. This is your year of pioneering. Today's natives are noted for their personal energy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You will be noticed whatever you do this Sunday morning, so make full use of the circumstance. Confer briefly with people important to you. Figures, accounts, correspondence, detailed long-range ideas are all highly favored.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Let others do the planning; make the most of the holiday by going along for the ride. It is easier now to make amends where you have upset friends or relatives.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This Sunday promises to be quite normal in all respects. You get back about the same sort of experience-division as you offer the world.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Children, hobbies, perhaps a new friend take up much of your time today. Be open for learning and intuitive guidance. Pursue your activities as long as your interest requires—it's all right to prolong the evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): This Sunday is a stay-at-home prosperity day. Everything comes to you if you will only abide at your own base in serenity. News, details of information carry much interest for your future activities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Make the rounds to catch up with people nearby whom you've been neglecting lately. Better information on the problems of relatives can be had with some discreet questions; hopefully, the problems become more amenable to solution.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It should be a pleasure to express your most gracious self in order to build relationships that count for all concerned. Sharing of material concerns, forming better business liaisons become more important and feasible now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may have to turn the page on an old story. Relax your grip on dwindling ties; clear the way for new and meaningful experience.

AGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your hobbies, sports, recreation should be taken lightly, casually, rather than pushed to tensions and fatigue. You can do a great deal to cheer up people who need encouragement.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): This Sunday turns out to be so naturally well-patterned that you needn't organize anything. Go along with your family, your community and enjoy what comes to pass.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): This may be the only day in which certain people essential to your plans can be reached. If you have no improvement program going which would benefit by a little outside help, give thought as to why you don't.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may find this day a very unemotional phase of purely mental expression.

MONDAY, NOV. 10
Your birthday Monday: It is time now to develop your spiritual nature more than your materialistic skills. Your year ahead will give you much opportunity to learn, whatever your level of development. Anything fresh in your life is likely to be subtle, subjective, perhaps visible only to you. The path is not smooth but well worth the travel. Monday's natives enjoy working with light and color.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You and your associates all have quick reactions today. Words are more harshly spoken than need be. Don't express resentment until well after it is provoked.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your steadiness on the job will be greatly appreciated no matter how little is said of it now. Monday evening or Tuesday will be time enough to unravel today's errors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your discretion Monday may save you and several of your associates from the turmoil of a general argument over misunderstood intentions.

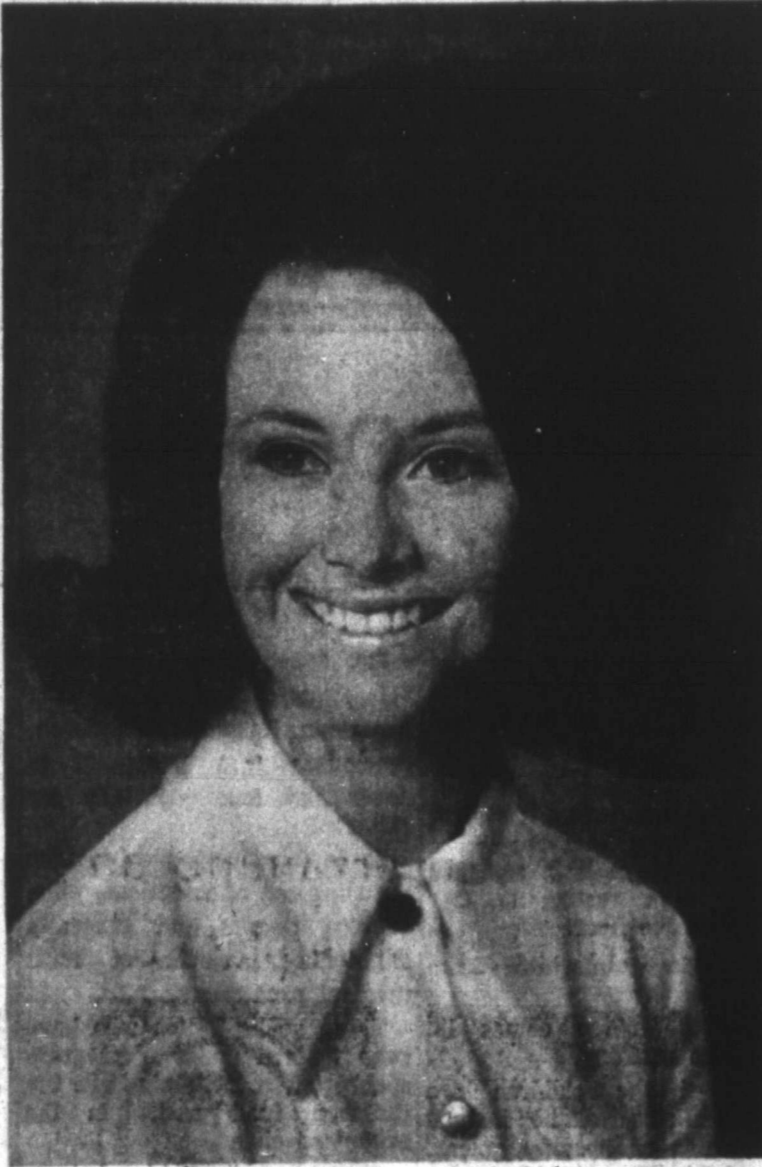

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your friends are apt to be expensive to themselves and anybody who gets involved in their projects. Where you hold or spend group money, keep an accurate record; bring spending to a minimum.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Personal and family concerns tend to conflict with career Monday. Accept disruption of schedules as normal; avoid recriminations or complaints.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may be surprised to find how self-centered many people can be. Older people pose difficult questions. Reflect before responding.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If you can stay out of the middle and honestly say by the end of the day that you have not unthinkingly set others at odds among themselves, then you are evolving exceptionally well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Monday's incidents reshape and, in some instances, terminate relations—according to (See HOROSCOPE, Page 18)

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hollingworth, 1228 Garland, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia, to Mark Bryan Presser, son of Mrs. Doris Kregar, Spearman, and Paul Presser, Amarillo. Wedding vows will be exchanged Dec. 27 in First Methodist Chapel. Miss Hollingworth is a 1969 graduate of Pampa High School and is a freshman business administration major at West Texas State University. Her fiancé is a 1968 PHS graduate and is a member of the Naval Reserve, aboard the U.S.S. Commorad.

Woods To Discuss Drug Abuse For PTA

Pampa Policeman Jim Woods, the second speaker in a series of five programs in a Parent Teacher Association's Study Course On Drug Abuse, will speak at 10 a.m. Nov. 11 at Carver Educational Service Center.

Woods plans to give statistics on the problem of drug abuse and discuss problems he encounters as a policeman.

Woods' address is the second in a series of five programs stressing education to prevent drug abuse. The first speaker Chester Fant, Quanah, a safety education service officer, spoke on marijuana and its dangers.

Woods, a native of Borger, has lived most of his life in the Panhandle, and has been a Pampa policeman since January, 1968. He worked with the Amarillo Police Department six years. During a two-year service with the Navy, he was a submarine sonar operator, and was discharged in 1966.

Other programs are scheduled at 10 a.m. Nov. 18, and Nov. 5 and 7:30 p.m. Dec. 2. All programs are held in Carver Educational Services Center and are open to the public, especially teenagers and parents of teenagers, according to Mrs. Steve Odom, chairman.

At the next meeting, handbooks for parents, titled "Youth and Drugs," will be distributed for 35 cents each.

An LSD film, distributed by the U.S. Navy, will be shown by Chief Joe David, U.S. Navy recruiter who has lived here six months.

House plants appreciate good grooming, just as people do! About once a week, take each of your small plants to the kitchen sink and spray gently with tepid water. It's a beauty treatment that not only improves appearances, but also prolongs their lives.

Georganna Jackson, Ronald Glenn Briggs Repeat Nuptial Pledge At WTSU Chapel

Georganna Jackson became the bride of Ronald Glenn Briggs in a service solemnized in Joseph Hill Chapel of the West Texas State University campus in Canyon.

The Rev. Strass Atkinson, minister of First Baptist Church Canyon, officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with an arrangement of white roses and carnations in Grecian urns flanked by spiral candelabra. Aisles were marked with three-tiered candelabras with smilax.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Burrell Jackson, Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thurman Briggs, Canadian.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride presented her mother with a white rose during the processional, and presented the bridegroom's mother with a white rose during the recessional.

The bride was dressed in a short gown of imported white lace with empire waistline. The high neckline and leg of mutton sleeves were scalloped. Her silk illusion veil was adorned with matching lace. The bouquet was fashioned of gardenias and stephanotis and long white satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Maxena Steele, Spur, a sorority sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mary Ann Stockstill, Pampa and Francis Neil, Tulla.

Attendants were dressed in short blue empire tulle crepe sleeveless dresses with matching long sleeved coat of silk organza and lace. Their headpieces were fashioned from blue velvet ribbon and illusion. They carried blue nosegays of blue carnations.

Best man was Dan Briggs, Pampa, the bridegroom's brother. Groomsman were John Wyeth Osborne, cousin of the bride, and Frank Briggs, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were R. Mart Tomlinson, Amarillo, and Jim Keagy, Pampa.

The organist, Mrs. M.L. Steele, Spur, accompanied Crista Evans, Friona, who sang, "I Love You Truly," and "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride's mother was dressed in a taupe and white dress with matching coat and matching accessories. Her corsage was pink rose buds and carnations.

The bridegroom's mother wore a brown and bone dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink rose buds and carnations.

Guest registrar was Janet Keagy, Pampa. For the reception in the Villa Inn in Amarillo, the table was covered with a white satin cloth centered with a silver and crystal epergne with an arrangement of white roses and carnations.

The three-tiered white cake was decorated with blue roses and topped with blue wedding bells. Mrs. R. Mart Tomlinson served the cake as Deborah Collins, Petersburg, served punch from a crystal bowl on a silver base.

Other members of the house party were Mrs. Joe Massengale, Mrs. R.L. Pugh, and Mrs. Doyle Osborne, the bride's aunt, and Mrs. Chester Maudlin, Mrs. R.A. Keagy, and Mrs. Gerry Grayson, all of Pampa.

The bride is a West Texas State University student. The bridegroom is a student of Amarillo Junior College. They will live in Astoria Park apartments in Amarillo.

Methodist Women Sponsor Service For Prayer Call

GROOM (Spl) — The Call to Prayer and Self Denial Service was called to order recently in the Groom United Methodist Church with Mrs. Lynwood Harrison as leader.

After lunch, a short business meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service was held with Mrs. Bill McKee, president, presiding after which the prayer service was continued.

Those attending were the Rev. Lynward Harrison and his mother, Mrs. W.A. Harrison of Merkel, and members: Mmes. Bill McKee, Glynn D. Harrell, B.H. Cooper, Frank Grantham, J.W. Angel, O.P. Blackwell, J.B. Shockley, E.R. Hess, Curtis Schaffer, Phil Farley, Lynward Harrison, Van Earl Steed and Roy Ritter.

As Musical Instruments, Pianos Need Careful Treatment

LINCOLNWOOD, Ill. (UPI)—A piano is a piece of furniture, yes. It's also a musical instrument and as such needs special care.

One manufacturer offers these tips: Place the piano in a sheltered spot, away from direct sunlight, open windows or heating outlets. Excessive heat and changes of temperature cause alternate shrinking and swelling of the wood, drying and cracking of joints, and changes of string tensions.

Try to keep the humidity in the room as even as possible, suggest specialists in console pianos. Humidity is the big enemy of most pianos and is most apt to ruin the sounding board.

Keep liquids away from the piano. Spills by convivial guests can ruin the piano action and mean expensive repairs.

Use a good brand of furniture polish on the exposed wood parts, but avoid cleaning the inside. Leave the interior to the piano technician.

Don't put moth balls or insect repellents inside the instrument. A good piano will have its wool felt parts properly mothproofed. Clean back and white keys with a damp, not a wet, cloth. If need be, remove stubborn stains with a little gentle soap on a cloth. Never use polishes, solvents or other materials on the keys. Never oil the piano — this is the job for the tuner.

And play the piano regularly. Idle pianos deteriorate more rapidly than pianos that are used.

Prepare for Bug Battle
Before insects begin their annual invasion, prepare your spray programs, ready your spraying equipment and check the list of chemicals available and what is recommended in your locality.

Diana Gist, Ellis Knight Pledge Nuptial Vows In Church Ceremony

MRS. ELLIS KNIGHT
... nee Diana Kay Gist

Diana Kay Gist and Ellis Knight were united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony recently in Hobart Baptist Church. The Rev. Wayne Leatherman, Brownwood, performed the evening wedding service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gist, 1152 Huff Rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Knight, 1000 E. Foster.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, with the "Her mother and I, in the name of the Lord," avowal, the bride was gowned in a white peau de soie long, A-line dress designed with empire waist and accented with lace motifs. Long petal point sleeves were adorned with lace.

A rounded neckline extended into a cathedral train from the shoulders of illusion and was edged in white lace. She wore a strand of pearls, and pearl earrings, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried out the traditional something old, new, borrowed and blue, with a penny in her shoe.

Marriage Planned

GROOM (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Leroy Lewis, Panhandle, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Anne, to Don Lee Friemel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore L. Friemel, Groom.

Miss Lewis is a senior student at Texas Tech, Lubbock, where she is majoring in Home Economics Education. Her fiancé is an employe of Bell Helicopter Co., in Amarillo. The wedding will take place Dec. 20, in Panhandle.

Designer Chester Weinberg describes clothes in his spring 1970 collection as "very gay, very feminine, fragile, airy, unconstructed." They are also trim, slim and agile — willowy long jackets over pullover shorts, narrowed, brainbound tunics over pleated slips, dagger-thin cardigan and caftan coats over pants and an open necked shirt.

Pablo did makeup for the Oscar de la Renta show. He's on the Elizabeth Arden staff in New York. Blue or blue-green shadow was swept across the total eye area, including the bridge of the nose, ending squared off at the temple.

Her waist-length veil of illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls and crystal drops. She carried a bouquet of roses and French carnations atop a white satin-covered Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Phil Gist, Arlington, assisted her sister as matron of honor. Other bridal attendants were Mrs. Wayne Leatherman, Brownwood, the bride's sister, and Debbie Puryear, Pampa. All were dressed in royal blue chrom-spun street-length dresses with sleeves fitted to the elbow and extending to bell-shape. Their flowers were white pom poms.

Kenneth Steward, the bride's brother-in-law, and Glenn Knight were candlelighters. Jeffery David Steward was ring bearer with Pam Knight as flower girl.

Leland Knight attended his brother as best man. Grooms-men were Anthony Smith and Ronnie Cade, Phil Gist, Kenneth Steward and Glenn Knight were ushers.

Organist, Brenda Schaub, accompanied vocalist, Mrs. Kenneth Steward who sang "Whither Thou Goest," and the "Lord's Prayer."

For the couple to exchange vows and rings, the archway was covered with greenery with bells hanging from the center. The couple knelt on a kneeling bench beneath the arch. Candelabras backed by palm leaves were placed on either side of the church. The parents' bells were marked with white bells and blue flowers.

RECEPTION

Mrs. Leland Knight registered guests for the reception in the church's Fellowship Hall. The serving table was decorated with white satin tablecloth and appointed with a crystal bowl filled with nosegays. The four-tiered white cake was decorated with swans and bells and centered with a miniature bride and bridegroom on top.

Lana Barrett served cake as Mrs. Leland Knight assisted with punch serving. Others assisting with the reception were Mrs. Joe Keel, Mrs. Lawrence Rochelle, Mrs. Bill Steudabaker and Mrs. Leon Smart.

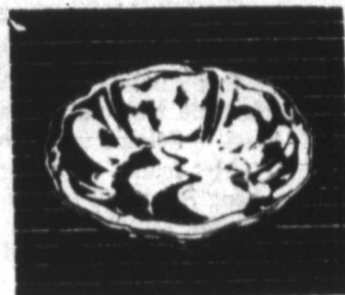

For the honeymoon trip to Carlsbad, N.M., the bride traveled in a three-piece beige and gold plaid suit with brown accessories and roses from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will live at 618 N. Gray. The bride is a Pampa High School student. The bridegroom attended White Deer High School and is employed with a gas company south of the city.

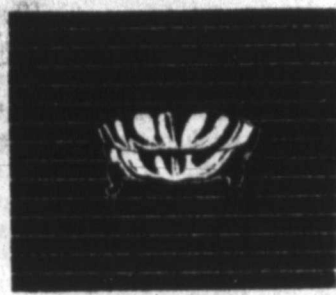

Pre-nuptial events included wedding shower at Hobart Baptist Church. Hostesses were Mrs. Keel, Mrs. Smart, Mrs. Rochelle, Mrs. Warren Copenhaver, Mrs. Maggie Boddy, Mrs. Harold Steudabaker, Mrs. Bill Steudabaker, Mrs. Lonney Schaub, and Mrs. Roger Hedrick.

Homemakers Club Meets in Groom

GROOM (Spl) — The Young Homemakers Club met recently for their regular monthly meeting. Guest speaker was Mrs. Bud Hermesmeyer, Clarendon. Mrs. Hermesmeyer gave a demonstration on cake decorating. Next meeting of the club will be Nov. 17 to discuss ceramics.

El Progreso Members Discuss Development Of Hobbies, Crafts

El Progreso Club discussed members' hobbies during a recent meeting at Pampa Country Club, with Mrs. V.J. Brew as hostess. Mrs. Glen Dawkins and Mrs. R.A. Keagy directed a program on "Hobbies and Crafts, A Current Fad," which carried out the club's course of study, "Fads-Facts-Fancies for 1969-70."

Each member brought an example of her special hobby and discussed its background and the source of her interest in it. Mrs. Dawkins introduced the hobby and craft topic and discussed her current hobby of snowmobiling at snowmobile courses in northern New Mexico.

Mrs. Darrell Cameron discussed her training and hobby in photography in which she does her own developing, enlarging, chemical tinting, and photographic arrangement of subject materials.

Several members displayed works of oil painting in medias of landscape, still life and portrait. Displaying such works were Mmes. V.J. Drew, Kermit Lawson, and George Newberry.

Needlepoint was displayed by Mmes. Tom Perkins and V.J. Brew. Knitting projects were modeled and displayed by Mmes. Glenna Radcliff and Quentin Williams. Modeling and sewing skills were Mmes. A.D. Pickett, H.B. Hamilton and Kermit Lawson. Mrs. Pickett also discussed her hobby of tropical fish. Mrs. Newberry displayed a paper mache angel. Family heirloom antiques were displayed from a collection by Mrs. R.I. Eray. Mrs. J.F. Malone showed a portion of her cookbook collection stating cooking was one of her many hobbies.

Mrs. O.K. Gaylor contributed samples of her divinity candy and explained her love for candy making and sharing with friends. A family oriented hobby evolving into numerous crafts, sports, and interests filled Mrs. Charles Langhart's time.

Mrs. D.V. Burton said her most recent hobby was piecing quilts.

Mrs. George Walstad said her hobbies and crafts had run the gamut of all those covered by other members during her lifetime. She was the only charter member and was still active after 46 years of membership. Mrs. Carlton Nance discussed an interest in antiques and community service while her spare time was filled with looking for the perfect bridge hand. An interest in knitting, bridge, and the home was of equal importance in the life of Mrs. Veri Hagaman. After discussing her display of raffia and yarn flowers and baskets of antique laquered fruits, Mrs. R.A. Keagy concluded the program with a discussion of art work purchased at the recent Pampa Arts and Crafts Show, framed needlepoint pictures, and the value of everyone having a hobby.

During the business session the club voted to cooperate with the General Federation of Women's Clubs in projects stressing work with senior citizens in each local community and a Crusade for Morality in Mass Media. Club members will complete survey reports on TV programs and movies to be submitted to the Federal Communications Commission and Motion Picture Committees on movies.

The next club meeting will be hosted by Mrs. Kermit Lawson, 2223 Beech, with Mrs. Nance and Mrs. Drew presenting the program "Astrology, a Fad? and Astronomy, a Fact."

Garden Club Sets Zone Meeting Date

Pampa Garden Club members, meeting recently at the Court House Annex, discussed the November zone meeting which is planned at the First United Methodist Church Patio Room.

Mrs. H. H. Boynton, president, presided as members set the zone meeting for Nov. 12 and reported about 100 out of town garden club members are expected. Reservations are to be in by Monday. Mrs. Boynton was named as the Pampa Garden Club's official representative. The zone program will be "Creating Interest in Modern and Abstract Flower Arranging."

Mrs. W.R. Campbell, litter bug chairman, reminded members the club has been asked to help the city in its clean-up campaign. She also discussed the Spring guest day tea in which members will make and model hats made from litter.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Myron Dorman demonstrated corsage making. Mrs. Mary Weaver was hostess. The next meeting will be Nov. 17.

Miss Martin Weds John D. Hungerford

Baskets of long-stemmed white gladiolas formed the setting as Teresa Fay Martin became the bride of John Douglas Hungerford recently in a double-ring ceremony in St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, The Rev. Francis J. Hynes officiated for the evening nuptial service.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Chester Bruce Martin, 519 E. Kingsmill and the late Chester Bruce Martin. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hungerford, 840 Beryl.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Bobby LaRue, the bride was dressed in a formal floor-length wedding gown of angel skin peau de soie designed with a high neckline, empire waist, long sleeves, and controlled skirt. Rows of alencon lace, designed in a ruffle fashion, made up the bodice and sleeves of the gown. The skirt of her gown formed a chapel train. Her veil of imported illusion with a border of chantilly lace fell from a peau de soie bow designed with sequins and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids.

Becky Buckingham, Pampa, attended as maid of honor and was dressed in an avocado green floor-length gown. Her flowers were Pom Pom chrysanthemums and orange carnations.

Mark Hungerford was ringbearer. Irvin Hungerford, the bridegroom's brother, assisted as best man. Eddie Slavens and Rodney Marson seated wedding guests. Delorace Edwards was organist for the wedding ceremony.

For the reception at the home of the bride's mother, 519 E. Kingsmill, the table was covered with a floor-length white tablecloth and appointed with silver candelabra and white candles.

Marsha Tibbs served punch as Katy Ledrick served the threetered white cake. Sue Shelton, Borger, registered guests. Phillis Hunter served champagne.

For the honeymoon trip to Amarillo, the bride traveled in a black dress trimmed with red and wore red accessories.

The bride is a 1969 Pampa High School graduate. The bridegroom attended Houston school, completed high school education while serving in the Marine Corps, and is employed at Pam Tex.

Mrs. Howard Buckingham and Becky Buckingham sponsored a miscellaneous shower.

Out-of-town guests were Roy Hungerford, Houston, the bridegroom's brother; Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Dodson, and Mrs. Winnie Stringler both of Amarillo, and Mr. and Mrs. E.N. Chauvan, Arlington.

Hostesses Sponsor Wedding Shower

A bridal shower was given recently for Mrs. Kirk Douglas, nee Sharon Cookrell in the home of Mrs. Darrel Hogsett at 2356 Aspen Drive.

Other hostesses were Mmes. L. J. Barker, Alfred Smith, Roy Cahill, Jim Hughes, Gene Leigh and W. A. York.

The honoree and her mother-in-law Mrs. James Dougless were presented with corsages made from kitchen gadgets.

The table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a bride doll dressed in a hand crocheted wedding dress flanked by white tapers in antique glass holders and apricot colored flowers.

Jeannie Cox ladled punch from the rubigold carnival glass punch bowl. Jelaine Leigh served coffee from a silver service. About 70 guests attended or sent gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Dougless are at home at 1801 N. Hamilton.

Phi Epsilon Beta Awards Costume Prizes At Party

Phi Epsilon Beta members of Beta Sigma Phi attended a costumed Halloween party in Mr. and Mrs. Don Hufstedi's home and awarded costume prizes to Mrs. Dennis Wyatt and Cleo Meaker.

Halloween decorations were witches, pumpkins and balloons, with the serving table decorated with a carved out pumpkin and orange and black witches.

Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dorman, Bob Lorance, Linda Simpson, Scott Rhoades and Cleo Meaker.

Members present were Messrs. and Mmes. Mike Clark, Eddie Edwards, Gary Epperson, Larry Flippo, Charles Hoskins, Don Hufstedi, Carroll Russell, Grady Savage, Harold Taylor, Dennis Wyatt, and Mmes. Al Cross, Robert Danford, Jackie Narrell, Danny Strawn and Miss Audrey Mollet.

Penny Powers Exchanges Vows With Felipe Zavala

Penny Marguerite Powers repeated nuptial vows with Felipe Zavala in a double-ring ceremony recently in the Church Iglesia de la Concepcion, San Miguel de Allende. The Rev. Pedro don Benjamin Perez del Valle, S.J., of Mexico City, officiated for the morning wedding service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield C. Powers, White Deer. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Zavala, San Miguel de Allende, Guanajuato, Mexico.

Tall white candles and white gladiolas decorated the church as the couple repeated their marriage vows.

The bride wore a long white bridal satin gown with a veil forming a train. Her cuffed sleeves were of long Venice lace. The standup neckline was framed with Venice lace. Her A-line skirt fell from a natural waistline and was belted in a fold over a bias band and finished in the back with a self bow. A coronet held a full-length chapel train which was covered in satin and Venice lace.

She carried a bouquet of lace and orange blossoms centered with two white camillas. The bouquet, made by the bridegroom's mother, was presented to Eugenia Zavala, sister of the bridegroom, after the ceremony.

Bridal attendants were Matron of Honor, Mrs. Max Osborn, Midland, the bride's sister; Bridal Matron, Mrs. Manuel Zavala, the bridegroom's sister; Flower Girl, Susanna Zavala, niece of the bridegroom, and Page, Sebastian Zavala, the bridegroom's nephew.

After a reception in the home of the bridegroom's parents, and a wedding trip to Guadalajara and Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, the couple will live in San Miguel de Allende.

The bride received her B.A. Degree from Texas Technological University in Lubbock where she was a member of Sigma Tau Delta and Sigma Delta Pi.

The bridegroom attended college in Mexico City, to study architecture and is associated with his father in the hotel business in San Miguel de Allende.

Three Million Deer To Face Hunters' Guns

AUSTIN (UPI) — The deer population is up along the Edwards Plateau and biologist claim hunters could have an easy time in Southeast Texas when the deer season opened Saturday.

Biologists from the Parks and Wildlife Department said Thursday Texas has 3 million deer and they urged hunters to make their kills early to get their prey while they are in prime body condition.

They gave the following area reports on hunting conditions: Central Texas — Deer populations are up in the Edwards Plateau and Possum Kingdom regions despite dry weather and extensive bulldozing in some areas. However, thick vegetation may make deer hard to kill since they do not have to travel to find food.

East Texas — Food conditions were critical during summer, but late summer and early fall rains did much to improve deer conditions. Deer numbers were steady.

South Texas — Range was in top condition, and recent rains helped most areas. Overall deer population was down slightly, but deer were in good body condition with exceptional antler development.

Southeast Texas — This area was still recovering from a summer drought and deer were hungry and moving about which indicated easier hunting.

West Texas — The outlook was good for the area including the Permian Basin and the Panhandle. Deer population was down slightly, but deer seemed to be in good shape with good antler development.

They are France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, members of the European Common Market that came into being on March 25, 1957.

In the beginning, the market itself was seen only as an interim step on a path which would end not only in economic unity but political unity as well, a United States of Europe with a population of 300 million.

The dream of political unity faded quickly and today is held by a comparative few.

But as an economic union it had fantastic success and its members entered upon an era of prosperity greater than any they had known before.

A 12-year transitional period was to provide total agreement on subjects ranging from abolition of tariffs to free movement of labor and from atomic energy to money and agriculture.

On Dec. 31 the transition

Foreign News Commentary

On Nov. 17-18 leaders of six West European nations will meet at the Hague to draw up a balance sheet on a grave new world they entered 12 years ago and to decide where they go from here.

The market has been split on issues of nationalism as exemplified by Charles de Gaulle. There has been no agreement on agriculture. When France and West Germany respectively devalued and revalued their currencies, neither followed the rules of advance notice and consultation.

The market has stalled on dead center and even now could disintegrate. Britain, barred twice from the Common Market, is losing its interest in achieving membership.

The British, enjoying a favorable trade balance for the first time in many years, are gaining new confidence that they can go it alone.

The European Free Trade Association (EFTA) which Britain sponsored has enjoyed economic success almost equal to the Common Market.

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL
Executive Secretary ARC

The Red Cross board will meet Tuesday at 7 a.m. in Coronado Inn John S. Skelly will have the program on Red Cross goal and financial assistance from chapters. This will be a most informative meeting and we invite anyone interested in Red Cross goals to attend. D. Biggers, chapter chairman, invites all board members to be present.

Mrs. Libby Shotwell, executive secretary and her husband drove to McLean and Mobetta to visit the schools and encourage them to have a Red Cross Youth drive. Materials were left at the schools and as each school enrolls in the chapter will order "RC News" for the elementary schools, and "RC Journal" for the secondary schools. These up-to-date magazines are very fine to help in teaching community services. Be sure your child is enrolled in this interesting work in our schools.

St. Matthews Day School with Mrs. Sally E. Holcomb, teacher-sponsor and St. Incent's School with Sister Alice Holden, principal have made tray favors for the VA Hospital in Amarillo for Veterans Day.

The patients there enjoy these favors very much. Thanks to the teachers and children who work so very hard to bring pleasure to the patients.

The second lesson on the updating class will be held at 7 p.m. at the Pampa Youth Center for Water Safety Instructors. Mrs. Marilyn Williams will be teaching the class, and persons who missed the first lesson should come on to the next session and plans to make up the first class will be made.

Lap Robes and bibs for the VA Hospital were made by the Delta Kappa Gamma, Theta Chapter members and will be sent to the VA for the patients there. Thanks girls, also thanks to Mrs. Molly Butts for the six lap robes she made to be used by the veterans in the hospital.

Remember Veterans' Day November 11th and attend one of the services at Fairview or at the Memory Garden's cemetery in memory of our veterans. The Red Cross works closely with our veteran and their families in trying to make life a little easier for those who have done so much for our country.

Charles Hatcher, an ambulance driver for Carmichael Whatley Funeral Home took his up Standard First Aid review last week taught by Frank Converse FAI. It is very important that persons who drive our ambulances keep their Standard FA current. If you need your card updated, call our Red Cross office and we will have someone teach the 6 hour course.

We were so very sorry to lose T.J. Hill and Stanley Belt from our FAI list. Both policemen were authorized FAI and we enjoyed working with them. As they do to other communities to work, we know that they will continue their Red Cross teaching and training.

The following persons completed their Standard First Aid course at Highland General Hospital with Laura Converse teaching the course: Norma Jean Jacobs, Colleen Dunn, Ruth Snapp, Lotta Mac Lance, N. Kathryn Montgomery, Sibyl M. Williams, Jesse Hardy Jr., Irene Williams, Barbara Hopkins, Rebecca Kay Morgan, Cora A. Brantley, Gertrude Culberson, JoAnn Ormand, and Charles Tanner. This group is working on their LVN Badge for the Hospital.

We are happy to welcome Mrs. Robert (Louise) Martin into the Red Cross Hospital volunteers. Louise has taken her Red Cross training in the office and will work with Mrs. Chester Thompson on the fourth Thursday of each month.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—A stock market decline "as bad as, or worse than, that of the past summer," may be in the cards according to Indicator Digest.

The firm said the lifetime of the current inflationary boom is more likely to be measured in months than in years. It already is old "and has developed classical signs of excesses—speculation, megalomaniac expansion, overborrowing, high interest rates." A nasty recession can be expected, not just a mild cooling off, it believes.

It seems premature to describe the overall pattern of the market as bullish, even though many non-components of the Dow averages point substantially higher, Hayden, Stone said. The firm said most blue chips seem to be trying to rebuild bases for higher prices later but does not find it possible to pinpoint any really broad or meaningful upmove as yet. Nevertheless, it feels, prices currently prevailing for many stocks could seem very reasonable six months from now.

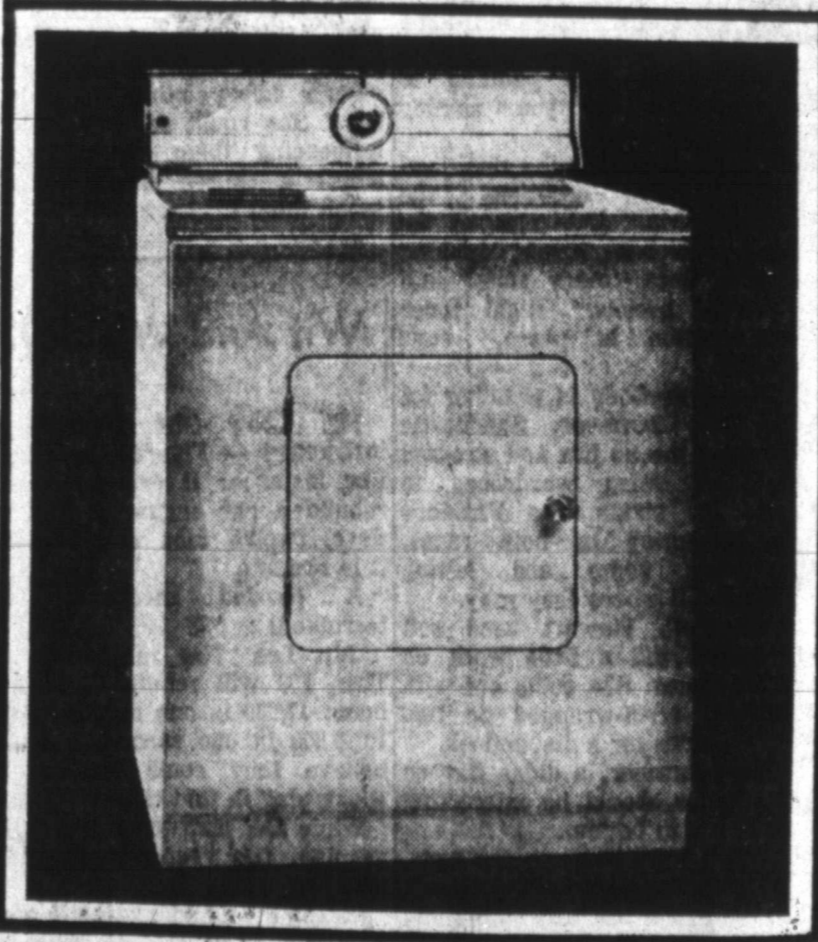

Argus Research Corp. feels the economic situation will require an easing of monetary policy within the next month or so. It recommends that investors meanwhile avoid being either overly optimistic or overly pessimistic and continue to take advantage of selected buying opportunities as they arise.

The market has passed the bottom of its first-half-year decline, says Spear & Staff, Inc. Some wide movements should be expected "in this early stage of recovery" until the market settles into a steady uptrend.

Lush Redhead Does Popcorn On Busy Hollywood Freeway

NEW YORK (NEA) — It was not your normal, ordinary, everyday strange sight. It was a lush redhead wearing a plunging back, bell-bottomed jumpsuit with sequins, dancing The Popcorn on the Hollywood Freeway.

Margret said, "that Roger and puckering," he tells me. wrote, but he was too shy to tell Dean he did. In it, I make such fun of myself. It supposedly shows what life is like at home with Ann-Margret. Wilson Checks Out Big Three Night Talk Shows this time, which was fine, because the affection they felt for Johnny they were showering on me also. Only I hadn't met him yet. I would do my spot, walk off and leave.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Filip Wilson is in a good position to compare the styles of Johnny Carson, the Impish boy next door; Merv Griffin, the nice guy next door; and Joey Bishop, the sensitive comic next door.

Joey to be extremely sensitive about material. He would never tell me I couldn't do a piece, but he would tell me that he personally did not care for something. I would make the changes, based on the respect that I feel should be shown to a host. I know in one piece I said I had always wanted to be a singer until I went to night clubs and noticed that they always spit as they sing and they sprayed the front tables.

NEW YORK (NEA) — I'll say what I have to say about those I know least to start. If you're not confused, I'm referring to the men who run the late-night talk shows—the Big Three.

Now I think I should bring Joey Bishop into the picture. I suppose from my exposure on Tonight I was invited to be on Joey's show. Joey sent for me before the show. We had drinks. We did the show. Then he asked me to his house for dinner, and we watched the show on the air. He was also the first one to invite me to be guest host. I also have to say that I found

By being on these shows so much, I feel I learned to host a show naturally. A host should make his guests feel welcome. Every guest wants to be part of a good show. I feel I have to kick off the show with humor, but after that I do not have to be funny.

If I recall correctly, I was on Merv Griffin's old show twice. I was not familiar with Merv then as a TV personality, so there wasn't any real rapport between him and me. Since I was young in TV exposure at the time, a "trying" comic on for the first time. I didn't get too much attention. The host pays attention to his No. 1 guest. You do your thing and understand. I did my spot—I wasn't a panel guest—and I had complete freedom of choice in my material, which I consider a mark of respect.

I can't say that I saw Merv paying any attention to any particular person, but the host of a T show always depends on one or two guests to carry the interest. That's why they are there.

That's how well I know Merv. I don't know Merv Griffin as well as I know Johnny Carson or Joey Bishop, whom I don't know much better than I know Merv.

A couple of years ago, I was asked to do a pilot with Dick Cavett. I had not known of him before this time. Then I heard comments about how bright and witty he is. I was excited about meeting him. He made absolutely no notes before we went on the air, which is the way I like a conversation. We immediately jelled. It was a very exciting experience and I enjoyed Dick Cavett.

Next, do I talk about Johnny or Joey? I'll talk about them in that order. That solves the problem. My relationship with the Tonight show has always been a very personal thing. When I first went there for an audition, the talent coordinator was Bruce Cooper. His attitude, his interests and his sense of humor, I feel, were things that made him understand what I was trying to do and what I was trying to do, I know, was different.

I must say, I hold the record for having been bumped from the show's guest list and I'm also the highest-paid guest ever. I was bumped five nights in a row. When I finally got on, they paid me for all the non-appearances as well as the appearance. I got $1,700 for my performance.

After my first appearance on Tonight on Aug. 18, 1965, and then about six more appearances, I was recognized by the public. They sensed a very deep relationship between Johnny and me. They figured we were practically sleeping together by

Aga Khan's Bride Has More Jack Than Jackie

PARIS (NEA)—Jackie Onassis, unofficial queen of America and points east, may have to start trying harder. If Karim Aga Khan is as rich as most people think he is then his recent bride, the former Lady James Crichton-Stuart, is probably the richest and most powerful woman in the world. In addition, the 29-year-old former London cover girl and divorcee has become the wife of the spiritual leader of 20 million Ismaili Moslems and a genuine princess, even though her engagement ring was a mere 20-carat bauble. Many of Karim's friends thought the 32-year-old 47th descendant of Mohammed was well on the way to becoming a hard-core bachelor, but then he met Sarah Stuart, as Lady Crichton-Stuart was known professionally in London. Born in India, the daughter of an army colonel, the new princess began attracting attention in London as a teenager. She was elected Deb of the Year at 19. But her marriage to a wealthy Scottish peer lasted only four years. A career in modeling followed, with Karim's future bride becoming the highest-paid model in London and being rated one of the 12 most beautiful women in the world. Pretty heady stuff, but nothing compared to her present status as mistress of glittering residences in London, Paris, Sardinia, Normandy and Cannes and wife of a living god to the millions of Ismailis living in communities scattered through 32 nations. So far, being the richest woman in the world doesn't seem to have changed the former model very much. But beautiful women in the world sari encrusted with 1,500 diamonds to wear around the

The Begum Khan

Beethoven Great Hit

BONN, W. Germany — (NEA)—Beethoven madness has seized this city, birthplace of the famous composer, as it prepares to celebrate the 200th anniversary of Beethoven's birth starting early next year. Although the International Beethoven Festival to mark the occasion is still months off, the composer's grim, square-jawed features glower at one from posters plastered everywhere in Bonn. You can buy a replica of Beethoven's death mask in bronze, or perhaps you prefer something less durable, such as a bust of Ludwig von B. made of chocolate or marzipan. These latter are on sale in souvenir shops, as are Beethoven mugs, tea towels and T-shirts. Meanwhile, the foundation of the house in which Beethoven was born have been reinforced in anticipation of the thousands of sightseers who will be tramping through its rooms all during the next year. There is much to see there, from the clavichord on which Beethoven composed to the giant ear trumpet he used when deafness had overtaken him. Next to government (Bonn is the capital of the German Federal Republic), Beethoven is, in fact, this city's main industry. The first Beethoven festival was held here in 1845 in a hall that was thrown together in 11 days and torn down again soon afterwards as a major fire hazard. The Franco-Prussian war of 1870 meant that the centenary of Beethoven's birth had to be celebrated a year late, but the festival marking the 100th anniversary of his death went off right on time in 1927. During World War II, Bee oven Hall was destroyed by bombing, but it has been replaced by a splendid new building seating 1,400 and completed in 1959 at a cost of $3 million. Bonn, however, does not enjoy a monopoly of the Beethoven business. There is, for example, Vienna, where the composer spent the greater part of his life, and here he died. This year, with an audacity worthy of P. T. Barnum, Bonn has stolen a march on its Austrian rival by engaging the Vienna Philharmonic orchestra to come here and to conduct Beethoven's Pastorale symphony. The Viennese are playing it cool as to what plans, if any, they have for revenge. There will be three different cycles of Beethoven concerts held here in May, September and December of 1970, featuring such worldfamous orchestras as the Berlin Philharmonic, the Concertgebouw orchestra of Amsterdam and the New Philharmonia of London, in addition to the Vienna Philharmonic. Artists engaged for the festival read like a who's who of music, and include conductors Herbert von Karajan, Otto Klemperer, and Karl Bohm; pianists Wilhelm Kempf, Claudio Arrau and Geza Anda; violinist Wolfgang Schneiderhan, and lieder singer Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau. In addition, Beethoven's opera "Fidelio" will be performed here with an all-star cast. Meanwhile, the $2,500 Beethoven prize offered biennially by the city of Bonn for the best original composition has attracted a record number of entrants this year. No fewer than 108 composers have submitted 180 compositions, ranging from string quartets to operas, ballets and symphonies. The competition is open to all nationalities, and this year's entrants include Americans, as well as four Japanese composers. In 1963 the Beethoven prize was won by a Yugoslav, in 1967 by a Hungarian whose composition made such impossible demands on orchestra and soloists that it could not be performed here. The Beethoven bicentenary is being observed in a big way elsewhere in West Germany. In what is almost certainly the biggest project in recording history, Deutsche Grammophon is bringing out a complete edition of Beethoven's works in 75 long-playing discs packaged in 12 albums. These will contain every significant note Beethoven ever wrote, including such rarities as "Wellington's Victory" and a number of military marches. All in all, 1970 promises to be a bumper Beethoven year, if the festival organizers don't suffer nervous breakdowns beforehand.

Book May Confuse Organized Crime

WASHINGTON — The Chamber of Commerce of the United States recently released a 72-page book telling businessmen how to detect organized crime in their own companies. Entitled, "Desk Book on Organized Crime," it is a compact detailed report that tells a businessman what to do if he suspects organized crime is trying to exploit his firm. The purpose of the book is to point out the symptoms of organized crime techniques to businessmen. It suggests what businessmen can do to combat these techniques, and it tells them where they can get help. It is written in such a manner that company supervisors can learn how to cope with organized crime techniques. "Practically every type of business and industry in the United States is currently being exploited or penetrated..." by a conglomerate of crime," the book warns. It leads off with a description of the severity of the challenge that the organized underworld presents to the business community. It follows with a tabulated section that spells out the major organized crime threats that must be anticipated by business. The final section offers businessmen a blueprint for a counterattack against organized crime. In releasing the book, Arch N. Booth, executive vice president of the National Chamber, said experts in the field of crime prevention, plus knowledgeable business leaders in a special study identified that of all crime, organized crime most directly and most seriously affects all business. He said the book will be helpful in protecting a legitimate business enterprise from organized crime and that it will also be helpful in protecting a businessman and his family from personal threats from organized crime racketeers. "By and large, business has been a sitting duck for underworld sharpshooters," the book reports. How much organized crime reaps from its entry into legitimate business and industry is an open question, it continues. But it said one example is a single midwestern city where racketeers controlled or had large interests in 89 businesses with total assets of over $300 million. The book contains a list of 87 business and industries in which organized crime has been known to be active. The list ranges from accounting, advertising, air freight, and auto agencies to vending machines, waterfront services, window washing and wire services. The book warns that the list is only partial. The book alerts businessmen to the ways in which organized crime moves into legitimate business and industry. For example, one technique the book explains is the organized crime of planned bankruptcy fraud. The book reports the number of ways in which bankruptcy fraud is carried out. It explains that one form of bankruptcy fraud is to set up a new company with an almost identical name and a similar address to that of a well known and highly creditworthy corporation. Capitalizing on the favorable credit rating of the well known firm, racketeers proceed to order goods from misled suppliers. The fraudulent company then goes bankrupt without paying its bills. The book warns businessmen to make sure credit and sales personnel are aware of such scam operations. It urges them to review dollar cut-off points for credit and to closely check credit accounts. But beyond these good business practices, the book warns that frequently victims of bankruptcy frauds are tempted to write off the account as a tax loss and be done with it.

Study Group Reveals Idea

NEW YORK (UPI)—When talk of sex education hoists blood pressures at PTA, church coffee hours or on the gossip circuit, here's a bit of information that might cool things: "The responsibility for children's sex education lies primarily in the home," he says so? Authorities at the Child Study Association of America (CSAA), a voluntary agency dedicated for nearly a century to improving the quality of family and community living for parents and children. For nearly a quarter of a century its "When Children Ask About Sex" book has been making that "home" point about bird and bee talk. Just out is a revision of this booklet—the first in 16 years. The basic premise of the old and new pamphlet remain the same, according to James S. Ottenberg, executive director. It is: That a child's sexual development is part of total growth and not a separate compartment of his life, that his questions about sex ought to be answered honestly and in terms appropriate to his age and needs. Ottenberg, father of three and a graduate of Harvard Law School, says in the preface of the revised booklet: "... The best preparation that parents can give children for adult sexual relationships is to foster their capacity for love along with responsibility and respect for others." The revised edition takes into account what Ottenberg described as profound changes in contemporary culture. These include: —The frank presentation of sex by mass media. —Improved contraceptive and their availability. The adoption of sex education in many schoolrooms nationwide "makes it more necessary than ever that parents themselves keep well informed," Ottenberg said. The booklet, available from the association (9 East 89th St., New York, N.Y.) for 50 cents contains suggestions for dealing with sex questions. "Moral judgments are beyond the scope of this booklet," Ottenberg said. "Each parent must make his own judgment... about what moral values he wishes to communicate to his children." Now her that—all you had it made after baby was parents, who as I, thought we
