Officials take first steps in budget formulation

Of The Pampa News A roughly sketched 1980 Gray County budget, drawn up to compare 7 and 10 percent wage and expense increases, was introduced by Judge Carl Kennedy and County Auditor A.C. Malone this morning in commissioners court

The budget estimates the county's total assets for 1980 from taxes and other receipts at $2,482,349

Total expenditures with a 7 percent wage and expenses hike for all departments are estimated at $1,264,404; expenditures with the 10 percent hike are estimated at $1,280,841-- a difference of $16,437.

Kennedy said the court would likely approve "one or the other" of the proposed budgets. He added there was a possibility that a third proposal would be submitted.

Commissioners had set a rough 7 percent guideline for department heads in the formulation of their 1980 budgets. All county departments except the sheriff's office submitted budgets according to the 7

What's Inside

But commissioners and other department heads have indicated that they may go with 10 percent pay hike requests, following a request from Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan for $100 monthly increases for sheriff's office employees. Those increases would amount to 11 to 15 percent increases in deputy and secretarial

The court is not expected to make a formal approval of the county budget until late October. Today's session involved the first concrete figures presented by the county judge and county auditor. *

In preliminary discussion, however, commissioners indicated that they would seek reports on the work records of the County Health Officer and service reports from the Veterans Service Office before making any decisions on funds appropriated to those offices.

salary is the responsibility of the county. In related business, commissioners grumbled unanimously over proposed salary increases for employees in the Adult Probation Office who are paid by the state.

Kennedy said salary increases for probation office employees had ranged from 11 to 55 percent in the last year. Kennedy said the disproportionate increase in state salaries compared to county salaries presented "some problems.

Approved by the 31st and 223rd District Judges. Grainger McIlhaney and Don Cain. respectively, the salary increases for the probation office went into effect on Sept 1.

The increases set the chief officer's salary at $1.499 monthly; assistant chief, $1.375: probation officers, $1.332; secretary. $979: and secretary and probation trainee, $1,666.

Kennedy said it was a problem when a state paid secretary was making more than a sheriff's deputy. Deputies currently make $925

Frederic crashes into coastline

Frederic crashed into this 300-year-old port with 130 mph winds early today, ripping apart homes, flattening businesses and felling trees and power lines along the Gulf Coast from Florida to Louisiana.

By morning the storm had moved inland over southeast Mississippi, growing weaker but still whipping winds up to 80 mph as far as Meridian, Miss., about 100 miles to the north.

There were two confirmed deaths as the born-again storm hit Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and the Florida Panhandle. churning up 15-foot tides. Forecasters said the greatest threat today was from floods and tornados.

This festival city of 300,000 and neighboring Pascagoula, Miss., a smaller city to the west, bore the brunt of the hurricane which first hit land at Dauphin Island, a resort island 5 miles long that was reported "sliced in half.

"I would say there is not a dwelling. business or any other building in Jackson County that does not have damage ranging from minor to total destruction," said Ken Phillips, director of disaster relief in Pascagoula.

While no incidents of looting had been reported. Alabama Gov. Fob James sent armed National Guardsmen and state troopers into the area and Mayor A.J. Cooper of Prichard, a Mobile suburb, told his officers to fire two warning shots at looters, then "shoot to kill." Nearly half a million people fled their homes as Frederic followed close to the path that Hurricane Camille took 10 years ago in killing more than 250 people.

At 9 a.m. EDT. 15 center of the storm was located near latitude 32.3 north and longitude 88 6 west, very close to Meridian. It was moving north at 15 mph to 20 mph and was expected to turn northeast later in the day

Florida Gov. Bob Graham said he expected the damage in the area from Panama City to Pensacola to exceed the $95 million in wreckage left by Hurricane David 13 days ago. Frederic destroyed 125 houses and mobile homes and blacked out the entire tip of the Florida Panhandle.

In Mobile, streets were nearly impassable and 160,000 customers were without electricity. A power company spokesman said it would take several weeks to fully restore power.

Frederic ripped off the roof and knocked down a wall of the historic City Hall in Mobile, where more than 5 inches of rain fell between 9 p.m. and 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Relief coordinator Gerald Baxley said there were reports of people trapped under collapsed roofs in Mobile's northern suburb of Prichard. Rescue efforts were delayed until daylight.

The storm's wind and waves eight feet high destroyed 120 homes in the Florida Panhandle, said Escambia County administrative spokesman Pat Donnelly. He said a 38-foot sailboat was sitting in a street 100 yards north of Pensacola Bay and three marinas where luxury yachts were docked were destroyed.

The storm's main thrust was between Mobile, a city of 300,000, and Pascagoula, about 30 miles southwest. Maximum winds had diminished to 120 mph as Frederic moved inland early today.

In Pascagoula, two dozen National Guardsmen were forced to take cover in an ammunition vault when the hurricane leveled their armory. Two of the city's 22 emergency shelters were unroofed, forcing rescue crews to move 400 people to other shelters as the storm raged.

Weather

The weather forecast for Pampa is a chance of showers today through Friday. Otherwise, conditions are predicted to become mostly cloudy tonight and Friday, with cooler temperatures Friday. The high today should be in the low 70s,

Larter showing Kennedy pressure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman John C. White, after a day of watching Jimmy Carter meet the voters, thinks the president has become "a little feistier" since Sen. Edward M. Kennedy began inching closer to a run for the White House.

White's assessment that he saw new fire in Carter's approach to the electorate came after "non-political" appearances by the president Wednesday in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, West Virginia

The presidential feistiness apparently was sparked by Kennedy's statement that he has "not foreclosed the possibility of running" for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

After Wednesday's foray, presidential press secretary Jody Powell said Carter would prefer to wait until January to announce his campaign plans, but might be prompted to come forward sooner because of Kennedy's actions.

Speculation about a Kennedy candidacy has been rampant since the Massachusetts Democrat said last week that his family had no objections to his entering the race.

White said a Carter-Kennedy fight for the Democratic nomination would be "one of the classic struggles of our political history." And former President Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday that "if the Massachusetts boys go against the Georgia boys, it will be the battle of the century." Carter's home state is Georgia.

As for Kennedy. White told a group of reporters aboard Air Force One on the flight back to Washington: "It seems to me he has moved from being an unannounced candidate with an option to announce to an announced candidate with an option to withdraw.

The party chairman, who has been aligned politically with Carter as the incumbent president, loyally added that "anyone who thinks the president is going to play dead is mistaken.

Carter himself seemed a bit uncertain how to deal with Kennedy's statement Tuesday that he may seek the nomination.

Asked by a citizen along an airport fence in Hartford, Conn., if he thought he could beat Kennedy. Carter responded. "I feel confident Landing in Pittsburgh before driving through West Virginia's panhandle to a "town hall meeting" in Steubenville, Ohio, Carter was less responsive when a television reporter asked if, indeed, he thought he could beat Kennedy.

"Nice day, isn't it?" Carter replied.

"You don't want to talk about it, sir?" the reporter inquired. "How'd you ever guess that?" the president asked.

Meanwhile, a new ABC News survey of state Democratic chairmen found a sharp erosion of support for the president among the party's leadership. The network said Wednesday its survey found 18 state chairmen planning to back Carter, down from 31 in a previous poll.

Kennedy's support rose from 4 to 19. The survey also showed that two-thirds of the state chairmen think Kennedy will seek the nomination.

"these things will change ... I think we'll get the support we need."

Asked about the poll results on ABC-TV's "Good Morning. America" program today, Carter campaign manager Tim Kraft said

Youth stable after accident

By JOHN PRICE and DEBBIE DUKE Of The Pampa News

A Pampa youth was injured late Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a car behind Pampa High School. Brenton Moore, 15, of 2123 Williston was listed in stable condition this morning at Highland General Hospital, where he underwent surgery Wednesday night Mocre was struck in the 100 block of W. Decatur by a 1971 Oldsmobile Cutlass driven by PHS senior Tommy Laycock, 17, of 2205 N. Wells. The accident occurred at about 3:45 p.m., shortly after school had let out for the day.

According to witnesses, Moore ran from the high school parking lot into the busy street and was hit by Laycock's car. Archie Maness of 431 N. Sumner told police he saw Moore run from the south side of Decatur onto the street before he was struck.

Laycock, who was traveling west on Decatur, reportedly swerved to miss Moore but hit him with the front of the car. Following the impact, witnesses said, Moore was trapped under Moore sustained multiple abrasions and lacerations on his legs and face, and his left foot was badly skinned by the accident. Metropolitan Ambulance attendant Kenny Pearce said Moore had "a tire track running up his left leg.

The youth was taken by ambulance to the hospital, where sources Wednesday said he had skin grafts performed on his foot. "He's doing okay," a hospital employee said this morning.

Witnesses said Laycock was observing Decatur Avenue's 20 mph speed limit when he struck Moore. Laycock's Cutlass left an estimated 71 feet of skid marks at the scene of the accident.

Lt. Charles Morris of the Pampa Police Department said the length of the skid marks was not unusual, considering the dry asphalt surface of Decatur. A vehicle traveling 25 mph on such a surface could leave long skid marks if it came to a sudden stop.

No citations have been issued in connection with the accident. Asked about traffic safety at the high school. Morris said Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) patrol units will begin concentrating their efforts around Pampa schools "effective immediately

The extra enforcement will be short - lived, however, because the state is cutting off funds for Pampa's STEP program. STEP

Modile turned into city of rubble

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) - It calls itself the Azalea City, radiant with pastel floral beauty in the spring. But today this coastal city of oak-canopied streets was reduced to the rubble of a shell-shocked battleground

Hurricane Frederic's rampage early today tore up giant oaks and scattered their limbs across Mobile streets they had shaded for a The downtown section, featuring Federal-style architecture, was 90 mph winds and widespread wreckage of a storm in 1926. The people of Mobile, a city whose history dates back three centuries under six flags, awoke today in dark homes, their stoves and televisions left useless when the electricity failed. For one of the few times this century, the morning Mobile Register did not reach the city's doorsteps.

Streets cluttered with the rubble of shattered buildings, uprooted trees and downed power lines were the legacy of a night of howling winds, a punishing blast of several hours that promised to close most of the city for days and possibly weeks.

The rain hit so hard it stung a man's hand - bullets of water shooting through the open sides of the National Guard jeep. Through Hurricane Frederic's 96 mph gusts, the two Guardsmen drove carefully as they patrolled the dark, deserted streets of Pensacola Wednesday night. Street lights flickered. Traffic signals jitterbugged on their cables. Transformers popped and power lines snapped and sizzled overhead. Through the howl of the wind came an aimless jangle. All over town, burglar alarms were being set off by collapsing windows. The jeep crunched over shattered glass, piles of branches and bits of roofing. Stately oaks slumped to the pavement.

Hunched against the chill, the Guardsmen watched constantly for falling trees and power lines. At one stop, Sgt. Robert Drake and Lt. Frank Harmon climbed out. Their jackets tore open and their helmets blew off. Both men sprinted 50 feet down a street to catch them. "I've never seen anything like this." Drake muttered, cinching his chin strap tight

He braked at nearly every intersection to check for live power lines across his path. More often, floodwaters provided a reason to detour.

At one intersection a police car materialized in the gloom. "How's it going.?" Harmon shouted to the lone officer:

Weather's great," the policeman yelled back. He was soaked The wind wrapped around buildings, peeling off tape applied to protect windows. Tin warehouse doors flapped, then tore off and broke apart. Screen doors snapped loose from houses.

Youth idleness leads to trouble

Woody Haves thinks the use of drugs by youth is America's greatest problem. "It could mean the end of our civilization," the famed football coach told the Ohio Jaycees who gathered at Kings Mills to honor him for "outstanding character bulding."

Hayes laid the blame largely to idleness. "People who are on drugs are invariably people who have nothing to do," he said. "Kids that are busy are least prone to drugs."

We seem to have forgotten the adage. "The devil has mischief for idle hands to do." Smoking pot is said to be a pleasant kind of mischief for idle hands.

Adults, when idle, can spend their time thinking about their past sins, but youngsters have little past to meditate on. When they have time on their hands, they tend to fill it with action, often mischief.

Adults bear much responsibility for this, for they have legislated youth into idleness. First, they enacted child labor laws forbidding those under 16 from holding jobs. Then there are the minimum wage laws establishing floors under wages--floors that are higher than many, youngsters especially, can earn. The result is they are not employed.

The people who passed these laws assumed that youngsters were better off not to be working. They assumed that if not working, the youth would be doing something wholesome such as studying. They failed to reckon with the devil and what he would find for idle young hands to do

Labor Unions, too, have contributed to youth idleness. With the aid of labor relations laws, unions have pushed up wages and priced older and older youth out of jobs and into idlness.

But youth idleness cannot be laid wholly to laws and unions. Today's way of life discourages youth job-holding. With parents earning substantial incomes, the prevailing philosophy is to spend freely on the children rather than make them go to work and earn.

Jobs that traditionally were held by youngsters now go begging to be done. Newspapers, for example, have difficulty recruiting a sufficient number of voungsters to deliver their product. Even sitters are not over-abundant.

Evil as the drugs are, the youth idleress that fosters drug use is worse. It provides a fertile soil for crime as well as marijuana. All too many present-day crimes are committed by youth. The devil has a fertile brain for inventing mischief.

little lambs tagging them about. Sheep breeders look with especial favor on the ewe that has the habit of birthing twins, for two lambs produce twice as many lamb chops as one, and meat is the chief source of sheep profits. Not but what wool also is useful, but its usefulness has been somewhat dimmed by the development of synthetic fibers and also by the fact we now spend most of the winter in warm buildings and go places in heated

Other nations prize the meat of the sheep far more highly than Americans do. The British eat about 22 pounds per person yearly, while the average New Zealander downs 76 pounds.

of the question. Two or three thousand Russians-even representing, as the Pentagon says, the equivalent of a brigade with armored, artillery and infantry elements-do not pose a direct physical threat to the United States or any other of Cuba's neighbors with the possible exception of a Dominican Republic already flattened by Hurricane

There is some speculation, of the hopeful variety, that the troops may be nothing more than a Soviet gesture, a quid pro quo for the Cubans who have been Moscow's point men in Africa

But if so, there is considerably less quid than quo involved. Best estimates put the Cuban expeditionary force at something like 40,000 men. compared to which the few thousand Russians are a very small gesture indeed. Furthermore, when the Cubans have some 140,000 men under arms still on their island who needs Russians to buck up the home front?

If Moscow had set out to disrupt congressional consideration of SALT II and convert doubters into opponents of the arms-limitation agreement, they could not have devised a better low-risk strategy. The troops are not sufficient to trigger a blockade and an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation as did the missile crisis. But they are enough to put SALT on the shelf as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee turns to the Cuban situation.

And there's more. Committee chairman Frank Church will be a key figure in the upcoming ratification floor debate. He also happens to be facing a tough re-election campaign back home in Idaho, where soft lines in foreign policy are not popular with the voters. The senator-candidate has let it be known he may be reconsidering his position on the treaty

Then there is the delay in detecting the Soviet newcomers -- for all the vast U.S. intelligence apparatus knows, or is letting on, they may have been in Cuba unnoticed for a year or more. It is not the sort of demonstration of intelligence effectiveness to reassure those doubting U.S. ability to police the SALT arms restrictions and verify Soviet compliance.

But none of this squares with readings up to now of Moscow's interest in securing ratification of the treaty with no or a bare minimum of congressional tinkering. Which brings us back to the mystery.

The troops may, of course, be a Soviet way of acting tough at little cost, possibly timed to coincide with the conference of nonaligned nations in Havana where host Fidel Castro has pressed for a pro-Soviet

But it should be obvious even in the innermost recesses of the Kremlin that such a show for any reason at such a sensitive point can only compel an American government to act tougher. particularly one in the loosely stuck together condition of the Carter administration with an election looming.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is holding the no-panic line, but even he says that the status quo won't do. In other words, the Soviet troops must go.

It is just possible that Moscow could be interested in putting the United States on the spot in its new relationship with China by forcing Washington into a show irresolution, even briefly. Vice President Walter Mondale is, after all, fresh from talks in Peking visit where he assured his hosts of U.S. determination to stand up to Soviet pressure tactics. The Chinese, under the circumstances, can be counted upon to be the most interested among observers of

But while the Soviets might enjoy Sino-American embarrassment, it would scarcely compensate for what they stand to lose. Why they should want to endanger for such minimal return such immediately vital interests as SALT, access to U.S. technology, expanded trade and asssured supplies of U.S. grain is indeed a riddle.

and turned her over to a sobbing San Antonio couple With that, Keith Roark of Decatur, Ga., ended his nationwide ourney to find the perfect home for the devoted 10-year-old tan-and-black German shepherd that can no longer serve him because of its own failing eyesight.

"I've got three hours on the plane to sit and cry." said Roark. alone for the first time since he got the dog in 1971. "It's going to be very hard on me. She's part of me. When I leave part of me behind, it's hard.

Although Lottie is still suitable as a house pet, Roark said he could not keep her after he gets his new guide dog Oct. 1. He said he would have had to have her destroyed if he couldn't find the proper home for her

His plight received nationwide attention and more than 800 families, including Mike and Denise Pirtle of San Antonio, offered to take the dog. He was still getting calls Wednesday morning, one Dallas woman offering to send her private jet to pick up Roark and his dog.

But Roark's incredibly strict requirements had eliminated all but the Pirtles and a Tucson, Ariz. family. Roark and Lottie visited 10 cities on the search, making their last stop in San

"I'm very happy, but my heart aches for Mr. Roark," Mrs. Pirtle said through tears. "Lottie will be the happiest dog in the world. Lottie will love it here. She'll be a member of the family." In a notarized document, the Pirtles agreed to groom Lottie twice per day, take her to the veterinarian every 90 days, walk her at least 112 miles daily and feed her special vitamins and a certain type of dog food.

The Pirtles, both of whom are 27 and have a 1-year-old daughter, also agreed to never leave Lottie alone for more than an hour. Pirtle works during the day for the state highway department and Mrs. Pirtle works at night as a part-time grocery store employee Roark said he would visit as much as possible.

When Lottie dies, the Pirtles must return her body to Georgia to be buried in a cemetery plot Roark has already selected. Mrs. Pirtle said she will quit college to devote more time to Lottie. She had read of Roark's plight in a San Antonio newspaper and was one of the 800 who contacted Roark about adopting Lottie. Roark, whose journey cost more than $1.500 of his own money, said he selected the Pirtles largely because he found no discrimination in San Antonio against a blind person with a guide dog. Roark, once an Air Force basic trainee in San Antonio, was blinded 10 years ago while in Vietnam.

Wood jury subpoenaes friend of fugitive Chagra

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A federal grand jury investigating the May 29 assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. has subpoenaed a Michigan man whom court testimony shows has close ties to fugitive drug smuggler Jimmy Chagra.

The subpoena does not mean the witness, Peter Lynn Krutschewski, 34, of Lansing, Mich., is a target of the investigation, but means only that federal investigators believe he has information in the case, authorities said. Chagra, a professional gambler, has fled rather than face a possible life prison sentence after being convicted last month in Austin of masterminding an international drug smuggling

Chagra was due to stand trial before Wood. In bitter court fights, his attorneys had unsuccessfully attempted to have Wood removed from the case

Wood, known as "Maximum John" for his stiff sentences in drug cases, was gunned down by a sniper's single shot in front of his San Antonio home. The Chagra trial was shifted to U.S.

District Judge William Sessions of El Paso. Chagra testified in his own trial that he had known Krutschewski, who uses the name Peter Blake, for several years

"Peter Blake is a very good friend of mine. Chagra testified at one point

Krutschewski's attorney, Conway Langson, and Assistant U.S. Attorney Wayne Speck declined to say whether Krutschewski made the scheduled Aug. 30 appearance before the grandjury. Krutschewski could not be reached for Marriage records on file in Las Vegas show that Krutschewski was married in a civil ceremony in the Nevada city on Aug 27, two days before Langson was served with the subpoena in Chagra listed Peter Blake as the owner of an aircraft Chagra used for a flight to Mexico in March 1975, according to U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service records introduced at the

The registration number for the plane was never issued, agency officials said.

Education royalties should not be subject of tax

WASHINGTON (AP)- The royalties that Texas education funds receive from oil and gas production on state land should not be subject to the "windfall profits" tax, a Senate committee

The Texas Railroad Commission had estimated the exemption will amount to about $3.5 million for the state's Permanent School Fund in 1979 and 1980 and about $3.57 million for the Permanent University Fund during the two voice vote Wednesday the amendment sponsored by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, setting out the exemption. It was identical to a provision included in the 'ouse version of the bill.

The amendment then was expanded to exempt all state income from oil and gas production. The railroad commission estimated the expansion would add about $6,000 to state funds in 1979-80. "The costs of higher education have skyrocketed in recent years, imposing a particularly severe burden on middle income

Who is liable for Mexican spill?

WASHINGTON (AP)- Both Texas senators think negotiations are in order to decide who is liable for damages to the state's beaches and businesses as a result of the oil spewing from a runaway offshore Mexican well.

Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo has denounced calls for compensation. saving talks were not in order. The well is owned by Petroleos Mexicanos, the national oil company

"I think there is a liability there by Pemex and we should press very strongly in the negotiations to see that people are compensated." Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said at a news conference Wednesday

The state's Democratic senator canceled a speech he planned to deliver earlier in the day about U.S.-Mexican relations, saying he was told natural gas negotiations had reached a "delicate" stage. The speech reportedly referred to tensions from the on-again, off-again negotiations for U.S. purchase of Mexican natural gas as well as the oil spill liability issue.

Tower said the question of liability is "a matter of negotiation" but it should be undertaken through quiet diplomatic

"I think the fact is that there has been too much public comment to the extent that it has exacerbated our relationship with Mexico." the Republican senator said The man the incumbent senator defeated in a tight race last fall, former Texas congressman Bob Krueger, had provoked blasts from Mexican officials last month by announcing the U.S. would ask for -payments for at least some of the damage. Krueger is working in the State Department, where he awaits Senate confirmation of his nomination to be ambassador-at-large to Mexico and coordinator of Mexican affairs. He is scheduled to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committeee on Monday. Bentsen predicted the Senate will confirm Krueger's nomination. "I think he (Krueger) will get a very good vote." the senator said. "I believe that Bob Krueger can make a contribution to the (gas) negotiations.

Natural gas talks ended Aug. 31 in Mexico City, Jorge Castaneda, Mexican foreign minister, announced failure to agree on price, and said Lopez Portillo and Carter would not discuss natural gas when they meet Sept. 28-29 in Washington.

Heavy casualties feared from quake

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The most powerful earthquake in two years plunged half an Indonesian town into the sea. officials reported. and heavy casualties were feared. The quake Wednesday afternoon measured 8.0 on the Richter scale. Officials said it devastated Ansus, a town of 8,000 on Yapen Island some 2,300 miles east of Jakarta. Yapen, with a total of 40,000 people, is in Cendrawasih Gulf, on the northern coast of Irian Jaya, the western half of New Guinea.

Half the houses in Ansus were swallowed up by the gulf. Interior Department spokesman Faisal Taimin reported. But he said there was no word on casualties yet.

Taimin said the quake also caused major damage in the town of Serui, some 40 miles east of Ansus, where it demolished the district government and legislative buildings, three schools, a church, a police barracks and other buildings.

Interior Minister Amir Machmud and a team from the office of the governor of Irian Jaya flew to the area.

The quake also rocked Biak, an island of 76,000 people about 70 miles north of Ansus. and an American staying in a hotel there said he and his friends felt the ground tremble and saw the peaks of buildings

"The quake scared the hell out of everybody and almost everybody ran out in panic." said Joe Murray of Freeport Indonesia, a subsidiary of Freeport Minerals Co. of New York, which is mining copper in the area.

"We rushed out of our hotel to an open parking lot to avoid any falling beams in case the building caved in.

Murray said the first shock lasted about 45 seconds and there were three or four more, followed by nine milder tremors in

He said he and his friends drove around Biak City and the surrounding countryside but did not spot any casaulties or serious

Officials reported tremors were felt along a 3.000-mile arc stretching westward to northern Sumatra along the Java Trench, a quake-prone area where the massive, shifting portions of the earth's crust known as the Australian and Pacific Plates overlap.

The U.S. Geological Survey in Golden Colo., said it was the most powerful quake since another 8.0 tremor hit the Indonesian island of Sumbawe, some 1,500 miles west of Yapen, on Aug. 19, 1977, killing more than 100 persons. Fourteen months earlier, on June 26.

1976, more than 800 residents of Irian Jaya were killed when an earthquake measuring 7.1 on the Richter scale hit the island. Several entire villages were buried by

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude.

A Richter reading of 7 is considered a major earthquake capable of widespread heavy damage, and an 8 reading is considered a "great" quake capable of tremendous damage.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated to have had a reading of 8.3.

TEXAS

By The Associated Press

A cold front moved southward into Central Texas today, dropping afternoon temperatures into the 60s in the Texas Panhandle.

The front early today was moving southward along a line from Wichita Falls southwestward into the South Plains.

The front triggered a few thunderstorms in extreme northern sections of the Panhandle during the night. There was also shower activity in Southeast Texas, but there were no reports of significant rainfall in Texas during the night.

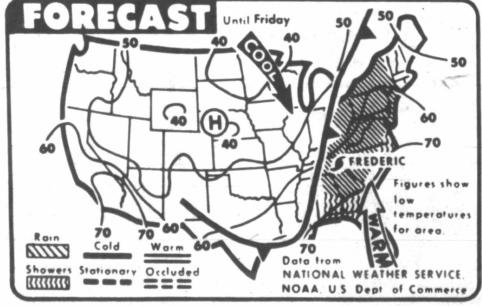

Forecasts called for widely scattered showers and a few thunderstorms in the Panhandle and Southeast Texas. The remainder of the state was to have clear to partly cloudy skies and mostly cooler temperatures.

NATIONAL

Heavy rains were expected to fall over the central Gulf Coast states today as Hurricane Frederic moved inland.

Showers and thunderstorms were also forecast for the southern Mississippi Valley, the southern and central Atlantic Coast states and the upper Great Lakes. Skies were expected to be sunny from the Pacific to the Plains and across New England. Light showers fell early today in the upper Mississippi Valley and cool air spread over the northern Plains. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 42 in Warroad, Minn., to 89 in Phoenix. Ariz.

RAIN and thunderstorms in the wake of Hurricane Frederic are expected Thursday until Friday morning for the east. (AP Laserphoto map)

Born - again teens

By ROBERT WALLACE, ED.D.

"At our age, there's a lot of questioning about the meaning of life," says Missy, a teen-age "born-again"

"Having Jesus in your life is a rock to stand on. It lasts.

Drugs and being cool pass away so quickly. Missy is one of the more than 45 million members of the fastest-growing religious movement - Evangelical Christianity - a movement that was explored by Grace Lichtenstein in Seventeen magazine. This non-denominational faith. the religion of President Carter, Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach and singer Johnny Cash, to name a few, is the source of a new ground swell of religious fervor sweeping

Teen-agers, in particular, are turning to Evangelical Christianity. A Gallup Youth Survey found that one-third of the 13- to 19-year-olds interviewed called themselves bornagain Christians, including nearly half of the Protestants and 25 percent of the Catholics.

Though Evangelicals describe their faith in different ways, what they all have in common is a "personal relationship" with, and personal commitment to, Jesus Christ as Savior. "The first time I came to the Massapequa (N.Y.) Tabernacle, I thought they were all crazy," reflects a 15-year-old Evangelist named Virginia. "I was used to church being quiet, with just an organ playing. Here, they had cymbals and drums and they were dancing 'in the

"I thought I didn't like it," she continues. "But I couldn't stay away. Months later, I decided I wanted to follow Jesus. I went up to the altar and prayed. Just like a wind, He laid hands on me. And then, I felt the spirit!"

For hundreds of thousands of teen-agers like Virginia, being born again has meant a thorough change in outward lifestyle as well as inward religious thinking.

"I'm totally different," she says. "I gave up smoking. And I don't hang around with the same people. I'm through with cheating, stealing and lying."

Once a troublemaker with poor grades, Virginia is now getting 80s and 90s, and has brought two friends into the Evangelical fold with her.

Are the born-again Evangelicals like the "Jesus freaks" of the late 1960s? Leaders with experience in born-again youth groups answer with a qualified no.

Some suggest that the teen-age interest in Evangelical Christianity is a reaction against the social activism of the

Non - prescription drugs can interact

By Joe Graedon

Drug interactions are complicated, confusing and dangerous. When you start mixing medicines the regular rules no longer hold true. 1 - plus - 1 may equal 3 or 0, depending on whether one drug increases the toxicity of another or cancels out its effectiveness.

Fortunately, physicians and patients are more alert to the problems of combining prescribed medications that they used to be. What is often overlooked, however, is that non-prescription drugs may interact as well.

People who regularly use antacids, laxatives, pain relievers. decongestants or diet aids tend to take these over - the - counter (OTC) drugs for granted and may not even bother to mention their use when a doctor prescribes a blood pressure medication or an antidepressant. Such an oversight could lead to disaster because many OTC drugs are incompatible with prescription medicine.

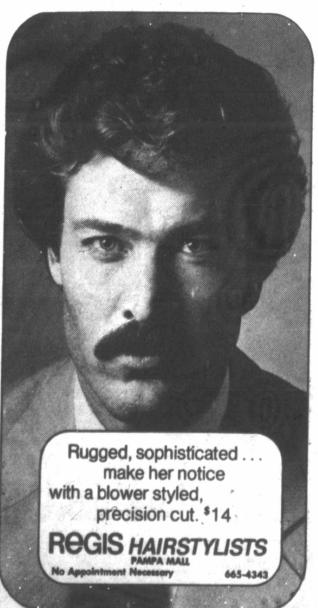

Take antacids, for example. Products like Amphojel, Di - Gel, Gelusil. Maalox or Mylanta that contain aluminum or magnesium can interfere with the absorption of digitalis heart medicine like Lanoxin (digoxin). The result could be reduced therapeutic effectiveness and, for someone who must rely on Lanoxin to maintain a regular heartbeat, this interaction could be very dangerous. If the two drugs have to be used in the same day the doses should be spaced at least six hours apart.

Tetracycline antibiotics (Achromycin V. Sumycin, Terramycin, Tetrex, etc.) can also be affected by antacids. This is a real paradox because these antibiotics can cause indigestion and stomach upset and the temptation to reach for Turns or the Maalox may be hard to resist. But if you do reach, the antibiotic won't be absorbed and may not be effective. The doctor wouldn't understand why the antibiotic

Other drugs that can be incompatible with some antacids include major tranquilizers, iron supplements, tuberculosis drugs and heart medications such as Quinidine or Inderal (propranolol) used for angina. irregular heartbeats and high blood pressure.

Antacids aren't the only over - the - counter drugs to interact with prescription medicine. Decongestants can be a dangerous problem. especially since they are found in hundreds of products including cold remedies, allergy and asthma preparations and even diet aids. (Phenylpropanolamine is a popular decongestant that also has some ability to suppress appetite.)

Decongestants are particularly hazardous in combination with certain antidepressants called MAO inhibitors (Marplan, Nardil, Parnate). This interaction may lead to a hypertensive crisis — blood pressure could go so high that you could end up in the emergency room or the funeral parlor because of a stroke. Diet pills that contain phynolpropanolamine can also produce this reaction when combined of non - prescription durg interaction. Remember that laxatives. cough remedies, pain relievers, allergy products and most other "simple" treatments contain potent ingredients that can interact in

DEAR ABBY

Make son aware of selfish behavior

DEARABBY: How can parents cope with one of three children ho is more of a stranger than a son? He is the eldest, 2 unmarried, self-supporting and selfish.

WherAllen left college seven years ago, he completely disassoated himself from the family-never calling, writing showing any interest or concern regarding family illness, deaths, or any of the occasions that usually elicit a caring esponse from family members. Holidays, graduations, irthdays, anniversaries, etc., are unacknowledged, yet hisister and brother have always been considerate and thoughful to the family as well as to Allen.

Alough he lives only half an hour from us, we are ignore except for Christmas and HIS birthday. Then he hone us with a visit, knowing he will not leave emptyhand-although he ARRIVES empty-handed. He always haslenty of money for his own pleasures - girls, bars and expisive gadgets. We are hurt and disgusted by his belvior and wonder if you or your readers can tell us how to ake this thoughtless son aware of his selfishness? Or word you say he is a lost cause?

DEAR HURT: You can't instill concern, consideration and generosity where none exists. However, no one is ever a "lost cause." If some well-meaning friend or relative isn't able to make All n aware of his selfish behavior, perhaps the power of prayer (yours) will produce a miracle. I hope

DEAR ABBY: When FORTY AND CURIOUS asked when you would call a person middle-aged, you replied, "When he (or she) climbs out of the bathtub and is happy to find that the full-length mirror is all steamed up.

I'm sure a lot of readers got a chuckle out of that, but let's be serious about it: My dictionary defines middle-age as the middle period of one's life. In other words, if a person lives to be 90, then he is middle-aged at 45. So the truth of the matter is, since no one knows how long he is going to live, no one knows when he is middle-aged.

DEAR 66: You don't say which dictionary you use, but my Webster's Seventh New Collegiate defines middle-age as the period of life from about 40 to 60. And that's what I call a nice middle-aged spread.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

Explosions should be short, snappy

Since I wrote about holding your feelings inside instead of upsetting your mate with them, several of you oldsters have told me that you'd explode if you didn't let off steam once in a while. And I have to admit that possibility. Sometimes we build up such enormous frustrations that we have to air them to somebody. And our spouses are closest to us so they get scalded with our steam. If we don't maue our tirades short and snappy, they may join our fury - and the upset will be double

What should we do to prevent that? In my opinion, if we absolutely have to blow our tops about something that happened to us away from home, we should do it fast and furiously - and then stop. We don't need to spoil an evening for both mates by howling all night because some snob snubbed us or we fell into a manhole or we lost a club

I was tempted to let go entirely a few weeks ago, and I almost did. My sister and I drove to a town a hundred miles north of here, where I was scheduled to give the program for the Rotary Club. Since Otis is a Rotarian, he always entreats me to do my best for the old boys, so I gave that speech special preparation and practice. That day as I drove along. I had no warning of any road resurfacing until I made a turn and saw fresh oil less than five yards ahead of me with the sign. MEN WORKING, at the start of the tar. There was no detour road. So I got out and walked in black goo until I waylaid a worker, who told me I'd have to wait a half hour or so, until the road was cleared. I was supposed to be talking to the Rotarians long before that. So I bad mouthed the road man into driving his car ahead of mine, into the ditch (Did you ever drive half a mile slaunchwise?), past the smelly mess and back onto the road. Anna kept absolutely still, bless her. But I sputtered enough for both of us.

I was still sputtering when Otis came home that night. I was picking sand burrs off my new dress and scraping tar off the car and dumping my ruined shoes into the trash. I was still too mad to settle down. I shouted that my speech was poor and my legs were scratched and my disposition was ruined. Otis said calmly, "It could be worse." I screamed, "How?" He said, "You could keep on talking about it until you got us both too upset to eat dinner." I shut up. And I'll never mention it again, except, perhaps, to laugh about - if I ever Since then I've worked out my own little way of dealing with unforseen circumstances that plague me past endurance. I let off steam to myself. I march around my office. swearing vengeance. I write my fury into tirades and then tear up the papers. I get rid of my injuries and insults, real or imagined. without sharing them with Otis. When he gets home. I'm over my mad spell. I don't say I'll never revert to shared frustration again, but I hope I won't. And I hope you won't be like some of my correspondents.

DEAR LOUISE: How can you tell readers to hold their feelings and their tongues when they're so mad they could burst? Isn't it part of older marriage to help each other get over their annoyances? If you come out of a store and find your fender caved in and nobody there to say who did it, aren't you justified in getting mad and wanting your husband to get mad with you? If you don't make a scene, he's apt to think you slammed into a car and dented your fender yourself. That's what happened to me. M.N. DEAR M.N.: Sorry, but I don't agree with your thinking. Maybe I'm lucky to have a husband who believes me whether I'm right or wrong. But I can't see how making a scene can help a dented fender when the villain isn't there to hear you scream. If your husband doesn't believe you, yelling won't convince him. He'll say you "protest too much". And it will only make you hoarse as a horse, mean as a mule and tired as a dog. It would be far better to let your husband settle down, call your casualty agent, put the unhappy experience out of your mind and hold hands with your husband at a ball game or a concert or a TV program.

DEAR LOUISE: You said we shouldn't risk upsetting our mates. But I don't get my angry feelings out of my system unless I talk them out. And who will listen if my wife doesn't? Isn't she supposed to share my bad moods as well as my good ones?

DEAR T.F.: No. Not unless it's absolutely necessary for you to let off steam to her, in which case do it fast.

ABC split the profitable Tuesday night "Happy Days"-"Laverne and Shirley" combination, and moved its most successful new show. Mork and Mindy" from Thursday to Sunday night for a head-to-head battle with CBS' sitcom cleanup hitter, Archie Bunker.

'Mork' will do better than survive on Sunday night. The show was getting better ratings than "All in the Family" anyway, and that was before Jean Stapleton departed, leaving CBS with something called 'Archie's Place.

Tuesday-night won't prompt any fire sales at ABC. The evening still opens with "Happy Days," followed by "Angie," which showed strength last season

And a Mork-less Thursday is no worry for the ratings leader. The evening opens with "Laverne and Shirley" followed by "Benson," a spinoff from the popular "Soap.

"Benson" will make it, and not just because it follows a proven hit (though that will help). The show's star, Robert Guillaume, is a walking hit. His intelligent, likeable manner and restrained comedy style would give the worst half-hour of drivel a fighting chance.

But "Benson" is an above-average show even without Guillaume, ' displaying a sense of the absurd and a welcome respect for the off-the-wall. With Guillaume, it is sure-fire.

Guillaume, in case you're not a "Soap" fan, was the butler on that parody. In his new series, he has gone to work for a widowed governor (James Noble), an innocent guy who is really too nice for politics. Fortunately, he has a new butler to help him run things. To be sure, some familiar sitcom inanities show up:

Governor's aide to Benson: "Where's the coffee?" Benson: "In the pot. Where's the governor?" Aide: "Same place."

But there are more fresh jokes than stale ones, as when the governor explains to Benson that his late wife was killed by horses.

Is the salmon poached?

BARLEY COVER, Ireland (AP) — "Is the salmon poached?" ] asked the busboy at our seaside hotel in wild and wonderful West Cork

"It is not." he replied with shocked indignation. "Sure the governor bought it down at the market this morning.

I should have known from the song and my own heritage that in Ireland they speak a language that the strangers never knew. Full of flights of fancy that language is, and it falls on the ear like the melodious music of heavenly harp strings, which sometimes get entangled with the Cork.

"Are the oysters fresh?" I heard an English tourist ask the waiter at a golfing hotel in County Mayo.

"Indeed they are, sir," he answered in tones of truth varnished only by the twinkle in his dark eyes. "They came down on the bus this afternoon

The hotel's venerable caddy master, they tell me, once had th advice for an American lady who had hooked a half dozen golf balls into Clew Bay and left another dozen scattered about the benches on the first tee:

'Now there's an interesting bit of utter nonsense." said the publican in one of those scatback Irish sentences that can reverse their field and score in any direction.

Your London man, as they say here, tried to nod knowingly, but he couldn't. He was already decapitated. King James II was similarly scalped on the razor's edge of Irish wit after losing his throne at the Battle of the Boyne.

Fleeing from the scene, he managed to get to Dublin and burst in on his friend. Lady Tyconnell, complaining about the conduct of the Irish troops on his side.

'The cowards ran," cried the king. "Indeed, your Majesty," said Lady Tyrconnell with a smile thinner than a rapier. "I see you won the race.

The Progressive Goes to Court A federal judge is scheduled to begin hearing arguments today, to decide whether the U.S. government can stop The Progressive magazine from publishing an article about the hydrogen bomb. The government blocked publication of the story last March, arguing that it contained "classified," or secret, information that could help other countries build their own H-bombs. But Progressive editor Erwin Knoll said that none of the information came from classified sources. Knoll and others believe that government efforts to block the story only prevent people from obtaining the information they need "to make informed judgments about nuclear weapons."

Australians flocking to fields in search of golden treasure

World record prices for gold have sent thousands of Australians flocking to abandoned gold fields in scenes reminiscent of the gold rush days of the last century.

Equipped with the latest in metal detectors that cost about $600 each, the new 'fossickers' as Australians call prospectors — have converged on old workings in western Australia and New South Wales spurred on by a spate of recent discoveries of giant nuggets.

The price of gold hit $340 an ounce this week, and has maintained a generally upward trend in recent months - up $40 in the last month alone - amid concern over inflation and the U.S. dollar.

In New South Wales, near the western town of Hill End where the gold rushes started in 1854, two prospectors using a metal detector last week unearthed a 13.4-pound nugget worth

In western Australia, three nuggets worth more than $28,000 were discovered north of Cue, 434 miles from Perth.

The $113,000 nugget was found by farmers Peter Culverson and Don Peters, and the Geological and Mining Museum in Sydney said the nugget contained about $55,000 worth of gold. But as a specimen it was worth about

"It's a shame a couple of bits were knocked off when we used a pick to dig it up," said Culverson.

But we still have them. It's a beautiful piece of gold, but all we're worried about is the problems it might cause."

To avoid the most obvious problem, theft, the two men locked the nugget in a bank vault after showing it to the press. They have been fossicking for several years, the previous largest find was a nugget worth

Hill End's only policeman, Constable Hank Hersh, said there was still plenty of gold around the town. Prospectors have to obtain a $2 licence before they can begin

Over the weekend, dozens of city residents in four-wheel drive vehicles, set up camps along creeks near the town 124 miles west of Sydney. In western Australia in the town of Payne's Find on the main highway into the old gold fields, the owner of the local pub, Jim Jones, said successful fossickers were dumping nuggets on his bar.

They are so thrilled with their finds they just have to show people, he said.

Former bank official Colin Besant has been fossicking full-time since April and found $11,000 worth of gold. The old field's clay and gravel was full of gold, but few people knew how to work a metal detector or where to look for it there, he said.

This has not deterred fossickers from Perth making the 806-mile round trip to Cue "in anything on four wheels that will do the distance, 'said Constable

> The research, headed by Dr. Robert S. Brown, was published in today's New England Journal of Medicine. Brown said that through amniocentesis, a prenatal test, doctors will be able to determine before birth whether new members of this family will be predisposed to having kidney cancer.

Inheritance of kidney cancer is rare, and Brown said the genetic accident they discovered may affect only one family. However, the possibility exists that doctors may someday be able to use similar techniques to find the seeds of other kinds of cancer in the unborn.

Researchers are not sure what proportion of cancers are caused by heredity and which are touched off by environmental factors, such as smoking

In the family that was studied, kidney cancer developed in five men and five women over three

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., is being invited back to the White House following last week's much-publicized "private luncheon" with President Carter — but he may decline the invitation

could have troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) - This fall's corn harvest, at about 7.27 billion bushels, will set another record but could run into trouble getting to market if port and railroad stoppages continue much longer, says the Agriculture Department.

The department's Crop Reporting Board Said also Wednesday that the soybean harvest, based on Sept. 1 indications, will yield another record at 2.17 billion bushels.

Both the corn and soybean estimates were up from prospects a month ago.

In a related report that could bear heavily on U.S. grain supplies, exports and prices. USDA estimated the Soviet Union's total 1979 grain harvest at 180 million metric tons, down 24 percent from last year's record 237.2 million.

A month ago USDA estimated the Soviet grain crop at 185 million metric tons

By comparison, the U.S. corn harvest alone this year equals 185 million metric tons, according to the new estimate.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said the new Soviet grain harvest estimate was reduced from a month ago because of a decline in wheat prospects of 5 million metric tons.

The Soviets bought large quantities of U.S. corn and wheat in the last two years and have received U.S. permission to buy, a total of 17 million tons by Oct. 1, the largest amount since a five-year trade pact took effect in 1976.

So far, their orders total more than 15 million metric tons, including 11.4 million of corn and 3.9 million of wheat

In addition, the Soviets have ordered about 3.5 million metric tons of corn and 1.9 million of wheat for delivery in the 1979-80 year that will begin Oct. 1.

Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist, said the boost in corn and soybean prospects from a month ago will "not have any appreciable impact" on retail food costs in the near future but that farmers may see "slightly lower prices" because of the bumper harvests.

Hjort and another official, J. Dawson Ahalt, also told a news conference that strikes at Great Lakes port elevators in Duluth, Minn., and Superior. Wis., and the Rock Island rail system will have an increasing slowdown effect on commodity movements if they continue

The Rock Island strike so far has not yet had a big effect on movements of corn and soybeans. Ahalt said. That is because the major harvest push for those crops is still a few weeks away in the area served by the railroad, he said.

Hjort said a mee'ing with Soviet officials is scheduled here Oct. 3-4 on the five-year agreement under which Russia is committed to buy minimum quantities of U.S. wheat and corn annually

Hort was asked whether the current disagreements over Soviet troops being in Cuba and the pending SALT treaty would have a bearing on the grain discussions.

We are an agency of the government ... and matters that the United States are involved in are certainly a factor in any sort of consideration on any matter," he said.

"That does not mean that it's an abnormally large factor in this

Wheat production, the second-largest on record, was pegged at 2.12 billion bushels, up 18 percent from last year's less than 1.8 billion bushels, the smallest since 1974.

That includes about 1.6 billion bushels of winter wheat, up 28 percent from 1.25 billion last year Despite the huge crops, grain prices are up significantly from a year ago, due mostly to heavy export demand and large quantities of corn and wheat farmers stored in the government's three-year grain reserve program. Wheat prices at the farm, for example, averaged $3.71 a bushel in mid-August, up 29 percent from $2.88 a year earlier. Corn, at $2.49 a bushel, was up 24 percent from $2.01 Cotton production was estimated at 14.2 million bales, up 31 percent from the 1978 harvest of less than 10.9 million bales. The forecast in August was 13.7 million bales. Looking at crop production as a whole, the board put its 'all-crop' index at a record 40 percent higher than the 1967 benchmark of 100. 9 points above last year. Record feed grain and oilseed crops, plus cotton's sharp advance, are responsible, the

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland wants to know whether his employees are being too quick about sending unwanted desks and other office equipment to the trash

Bergland ordered an investigation into trash disposal policies after a story in Wednesday's edition of The Washington Post which said the Agriculture Department "each day ships off hundreds of dollars worth of usable office furniture and equipment for burial" in a dump.

Assistant Secretary Joan S. Wallace, who oversees USDA administration, said department policy requires that property "which cannot be used within a particular office be sent to the excess property pool for use by others" in the agency.

The investigation will be handled by USDA's inspector general. Thomas F. McBride, and by his counterpart in the General Services Administration. Kurt Mullenberg, "to determine whether any tightening of procedures or regulations is required.'

Police chief asks panel not to believe testimony

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston's police chief asked the U.S. Civil Rights Commission not to believe the testimony of some earlier witnesses "who have told this commission police officers are cut from the same cloth as pimps, burglars

'This is not true." Harry Caldwell said Wednesday during the second and final day of hearings on charges of abuses by the police of the nation's fifth largest city.

He said the department has handed down many regulations in the past two years designed to eliminate police brutality But officers are only human beings and at times might violate policy. he testified "Ever in the year 2000, there will be violations of regulations because we are dealing with human beings Commission attorneys had several heated exchanges with Caldwell, who replied to what he viewed as attacks on his officers by saying. "Unlike television, real life on the streets is more complicated. Of course, there will be errors of judgment, but few of them are wanton and malicious

"I am making a young man or a young woman go out in this world to make quick judgments day after day after day," he continued. "Why should they be condemned for a violation of a new policy? My officers may have violated some rules because they are only human beings.

Caldwell apparently felt a majority of testimony during the hearings had been weighted against the police.

There are many voices in this community that this commission has not heard, voices that can support our officers." he testified. "Sure, we will make mistakes, but we will never stop trying to correct those mistakes, whether this commission is in Houston or back in Following Caldwell was a parade of witnesses who told the commission of alleged acts of brutality by Houston police officers.

The witnesses, who represented Hispanics, blacks and Anglos, said officers often brutalize persons for no reason.

Loyal Florence said his 14-year-old son had been killed during a high-speed chase with 'My son had done nothing wrong and he suffered for 20 minutes before he died," said Florence, who told the commission that his son was a passenger in a car stolen by another teen-ager. "My son just went riding with an older teen-ager and he would not have been killed had not the police chased the car," he continued. "Police abuse is not a problem for the minorities alone, but for all of us. The Houston police force came into nationwide focus after a handcuffed 23-year-old Mexican-American was pushed into a bayou by officers and drowned in May 1977. Three officers were convicted of civil rights violations but assessed one-year prison sentences.

Dixon jury to decide punishment

COLORADO CITY, Texas (AP) — Jurors that convicted William Clarence Dixon of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of four persons killed in the twisted wreckage of a bus hit by an oil field service truck were to begin considering the punishment today.

Dixon could receive a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Jurors deliberated a little more than four hours Wednesday night before convicting Dixon on a single count of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of Michael Britt Jeffrey, Lolita Perales, Bonnie Pippin and Rita Wilkerson last December.

Suit to hold back law enforcement procedures

HOUSTON (AP) - There will be no enforcement of the state's new obscenity law in the most populous counties of Texas until a federal appeals court resolves a suit questioning the statute's constitutionality, police say.

"The only law we have to govern obscenity is at present tied up," Houston vice Sgt. J.N. Flagg

It was tied up when the 5th Circuit Appeals Court in New Orleans granted a group of Houston pornography dealers an emergency stay of U.S. District Judge Norman Black's order removing a preliminary injunction against the law and denying a permanent injunction.

The stay would remain in effect pending a decision at some later date on a full appeal by a Pasadena drive-in theater and several other retailers of adult materials, the appeals court

Several of the most populous counties in Texas were named in suits filed last month by the pornography dealers.

The action of the appeals court "is like the preliminary injunction" granted on Aug. 31 by Black, said Marian Rosen, attorney for the drive-in theater The injunction had given dealers 10 days of immunity from the state law, which increased penalties and simplified the prosecution of obscenity cases But Black's ruling Monday that the law is constitutional forced many operators of X-rated theaters and adult bookstores to close down rather than face the stiffer law. The stay granted by the appeals court is now forcing law enforcement agencies to regroup,

'We're back at ground zero,' said Harris County District Attorney John Holmes. "But we're going to hang in there."

The 3-AAAA football statistics for the first week of play came n yesterday and, as expected. Pampa is near the top of the list in virtually all the categories.

The preseason district favorites. Amarillo High, are the leaders in total offense (317 yards rushing, 45 yards passing for 362 yards) and total defense (68, 83, 151). The Harvesters are close behind in second in both categories.

They are second in the league in rushing with 212 yards and are in the same spot in the passing stats with 81 yards (behind Palo Duro with 86) for a total offense of 293. Pampa likewise is second in defense as they gave up a ttal of 154 yards to Hereford Of that, 70 was on the ground and 84 was through the

Even in the area of penalties. Pampa trails Amarillo in the area of fewest yards penalized, 65-27. Tascosa is last in this category with 138 yards — exactly double that of fourth place Caprock with 69

Fullback Doug Kennedy is foourth in the league in rushing with 86 yards on 17 carries for a 5.1 yards per carry average. The leader in this category is Mark Mathiasmeier with 171 vards. Ricky Hunt is the only other back over 100 yards as he

Arthur Lee Williams is tied for eighth in the league with 46 vards on eight carries for a 5.7 average.

The only leader for Pampa is quarterback Greg Quarles. He edged out Chuck Smith of Palo Duro in the passing category with his 67 yard performance. Smith is just three yards back with 64 yards. Sam Edwards is fourth in the list with his touchdown pass of 24 yards to Jeff McDougall.

The other half of the McDougall duo. Steve, is currently second in pass receiving with two catches behind Jim Rifenburg of Amarillo with three. However. Steve has 42 yards to Rifenburg's 38.

While on the subject of football, the Pampa Junior Varsity and the two freshman teams are in action today. The jayvees host Borger while the Freshman B team play at Bushland and the Freshman A team is at Perryton.

. The Pampa Youth and Community Center is offering another session of swim lessons for youth beginning Sept. 24. At this time beginners will be taught from 4 - 5 p.m. and advanced beginners from 5 - 6 p.m.

Classes will meet on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday thru Oct. 10. Lessons are free to members and are $6 for non - members. Parents should pre - enroll their children now for there is a limit in each class.

My apologies to the First Baptist Church women's softball team. They won the league championship with a 12-2 record several weeks ago and then won the post season tournament for the undisputed women's championship in the Church Softball league

I intended to recognize this team weeks ago, but through first neglect and then my rather questionable filing techniques. I have not reported on their success until this time.

The Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club is hosting a Silhouette Pistol Match Sunday at the outdoor range six miles west of Price Road on 23rd Street. Anyone interested in pistol shooting. is welcome to participate.

Last weekend several members of the club participated in the Second Chance Rifle and Pistol Club of Dumas silhouette pistol match. Dickie Spence and Larry Smith posted scores of 23 and 21, respectively, to nail down first and second in class A out of a field of 12 shooters. Art Gross and Jim Bilyeu fired scores of 17 and 12, respectively, to claim honors in the unclassified shooters division.

Gary Clark, Jr. was second in the junior class with a score of eight. Among the other Pampa shooters participating. Diane Tidwell and Juanita Nicholas stood out as representative in the

Pin placement worries pros at Buick Open

Hills Country Club course plays tough in today's opening round of the Buick Open, the pros will have Jim Colbert to blame.

The only bad thing is that they'll think this course is easy and put the pins way back in tough positions," Colbert said about his record-shattering 10-under-par 62 in Wednesday's practice round.

"I've always thought this was a great course so this is a thrill for me." Colbert said. He clipped three strokes off the course record shot by Dr. Cary Middlecoff in 1959 and equalled by Don Fairfield in 1965 and Homero Blancas and R.H. Sikes in 1969.

His birdies in the 32-30 round on the comparatively short. 7.001-vard layout came in spurts - four straight on the front side. five in a row on the back. David Graham, who won the PGA championship last month 50

Mennea sets world 200 meter mark

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Italy's Pietro Mennea beat a world record and America's frustrated track and field athletes beat themselves out of an almost-sure gold medal on today's wind-up of the 10th World University Games.

"Medals are hard to come by," said a disappointed James Segrest, the American track and field coach, whose charges have won only two gold medals in 26 events.

And it won't be any easier on today's closing program. The United States' heavily favored 400-meter relay team didn't even qualify for the final. The baton was dropped on an exchange and the Americans finished last in their 4-team qualifying heat.

But the United States men's basketball team had an easy time of it - a surprisingly easy time - in a front-running, 88-70 victory over Yugoslavia in the gold medal game late Wednesday night

The Yugoslavs had beaten the U.S. 79-73 earlier in the Games, but they were no match for the defending champions this time. The Americans, led by Andrew Toney's 20 points, built a 12-point halftime lead and weren't challenged after that.

The difference is that we were mentally tougher." U.S. Coach Ken Anderson said. "The other game, we let down.

The victory completed a basketball sweep for the United States, whose women team won the gold medal the night before.

The U.S. water polo team provided another gold with an 8-6 decision over Russia in the final game of their round-robin tournament. The Americans finished the last round with a 3-0 mark and the Soviets were second at 2-1.

The two victories helped set the American medals count at 19 gold and 49 total, well behind the overall defending champion Russians who have compiled a 32-72 count in the biennial, multiple-sport competition that drew college-age athletes from 95 nations.

Kenon returns to San Antonio Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Free agent All-Star Larry Kenon, who reportedly was almost a Los Angeles Laker this summer, has returned to the San Antonio Spurs with a one-year contract that could put him right back into free agent bargaining next summer

The Lakers reportedly had reached an agreement with the 6-foot-9 forward, but backed off when they could not agree with San Antonio on compensation. It was widely believed in San Antonio that Kenon would not return to the Central Division champions: Spurs President Angelo

Drossos said Wednesday that the contract would allow both sides the time to work out a longer deal without Kenon missing any of the season. Training camp starts Friday and the National Basketball Association regular season begins about a month later. Kenon, the Spurs' second leading scorer and leading rebounder last year in what was their best season, had originally sought a contract paying at least $800,000 per year. He later reportedly lowered that to The Spurs' highest initial offer was reportedly $350,000. Spurs officials. Kenon and his agent Lee Fentress refused Wednesday to divulge the value of the new contract, but Kenon did say the Spurs' final offer had increased. "They came up some. I'm delighted to be back," he said.

Published reports put the value of the contract in the $375,000 range

Kenon said he got offers from other teams, such as Los Angeles. Chicago and the New York Knicks, that were coming "pretty close" to his original Fentress said the compensation question was a factor early in the summer, but added that it dimmed in importance as Friday's opening day of fall training camp approached.

Toward the end of the summer. the Spurs made a fundamental decision they really wanted to keep Larry Kenon," said Fentress.

The Spurs, who came within a game last season reaching the NBA final playoff series, have been riddled by the loss of three other free agents. Forward Allan Bristow, a part-time starter, signed with Utah, reserve forward-center Coby Dietrick went to Chicago and veteran guard Louie Dampier has been freed to sign with another team.

We felt that if we lost K (Kenon), there would have been no way to replace him." said Spurs Coach Doug Moe.

CBS feels the horse race with the cigarette name comes under the FCC's restrictions. NBC feels otherwise, and got its chance Saturday because the New York Racing Authority (NYRA) had moved up the date of the Marlboro Cup. That caused a conflict with CBS' U.S. Open tennis coverage and forced CBS to pass on its option to televise the race.

CBS got into trouble with the FCC in 1978 because of its deception over "Winner-Take-All" tennis matches, which were nothing of the sort. The players in those matches were promised guarantees.

CBS may have once considered changing its policy on the Marlboro Cup, but last September - after the run-in with the FCC - was certainly not the right time.

Former tight end suing Cowboys, two physicians over knee injury

DALLAS (AP) - Former Dallas Cowboys tight end Pettis Norman has filed a suit against the team and two of its physicians claiming that they witheld information from him about a damaged knee when he joined the

In addition to the team. Norman filed suit Wednesday against Dr. Marvin Knight, the team physician, and Dr. John Gunn, who worked with the team until he had to quit in 1966 following a heart attack.

Norman, who played for the Cowboys from 1962 until 1970, claims the Cowboys "concealed" the nature of a damaged knee without telling him of the risks of playing football with the damaged knee.

The suit alleges that Norman was not told that he had 25 per cent disability in both knees. He says this has caused him physical pain and disability in both knees and has caused his ability to earn money to drop since his retirement from the team.

The suit did not specify the amount of damages Norman is seeking. It is a class action suit and seeks an injunction to prevent the Cowboys and the team physicians from continuing the alleged deception of

"He can't run, can't ride a bike, he's not able to do anything since he's retired," said Mrs. Margaret Norman, wife of the former National Football League

"The suit does not surprise me," said Dr. Gunn. He said nothing was witheld from Norman. "He was informed all along. He simply wore out the knees. I spent more time counseling him than probably any other athelte. Nothing was concealed from the man," Dr. Gunn added.

Cowboys President Tex Schramm said he knew little about the suit, but noted that Norman's lawyer had told him about two weeks ago that the suit might be filed. Dr. Knight, recovering from back surgery in a Dallas hospital, was not available for comment.

The tipoff:

Barring horrible slumps down the stretch, you can file these as the favorites for the 1979 Cy Young Awards as the outstanding pitchers in the majors: Mike Flanagan of the Baltimore Orioles beating teammate Dennis Martinez and the Yankees' Tommy John in the American League and Joe Niekro of the Houston Astros, whose only possible National League competition is Mike LaCoss of Cincinnati.

Q. Why is everybody so high on John McEnroe as the next great tennis player? To me, he acts like a spoiled brat. What do you think? — Bill McGee, Alamo, Calif.

I agree with the assessment of 20-year-old McEnroe as a great tennis talent. He has all the tools - speed, strength, allaround game and feisty competitive temperament. The latter has been curbed somewhat in his harangues with officials because the young lefthander has realized it affected his game. He's much better behaved now but still extroverted in showing his emotions. I feel by next year he'll be even with Biorn Borg as the dominant figure in tennis

Q. I have heard rumors of Ara Parseghian buying some land outside of Baton Rouge, La. Do you think he will be LSU's coach after Charlie McLendon leaves? (McLendon is retiring after this year.) — R.Y., Mobile, Ala.

If the former Notre Dame head man ever coaches again, I feel certain it will be among the pros. And time is fleeting. This will be Ara's fifth year away from the coaching ranks. Of course, Bud Wilkinson was away 15 before the St. Louis Cardinals retrieved him. I know McLendon isn't happy about having to step down in 1980. The only connection I can see between Parseghian and LSU is that Ara and the school's athletic director, Paul Dietzel, were teammates at Miami of Ohio in 1946-47. Paul was the center, Parseghian a running back.

Q. What ever happened to Roy Campanella, the great catcher for the Dodgers? — Tom Sokoloski, Virginia, Minn.
Campanella, the Brooklyn Dodgers star who was paralyzed in an auto accident, never played a game in Los Angeles after the club moved west in 1958. He works in community relations for the Dodgers in Southern California. He welcomed the employment because it kept him active and eased a financial

Q. Graig Nettles can play for 20 more years and never approach the achievements of Brooks Robinson as a third baseman. Please provide us some statistics for these two ballplayers — career batting and fielding percentages, number of errors, home runs, Gold Gloves won. Then we'll see how far Nettles must go to achieve parity with "Brooksie." - Bill

Sepe, Mobile, Ala.

It's a debate that was really only fueled by Nettles' brilliant fielding in the World Series. I don't need figures to assert that Robinson was the greatest third baseman of his time (the last two decades) and a more consistent hitter than Nettles, who has a better home run ratio. And none of this derogates the considerable skill of the Yankee third baseman, who is playing out his option this year. (Nettles was so coveted by San Diego that owner Ray Kroc was fined $100,000 for saying so.)

Q. Could you please tell me how many career home runs Fred Lynn, Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski each have?— Randy Shipman, Red Cloud, Neb.

I can't include 1979 totals because they're not complete, although Lynn has been leading the American League most of this season and already far exceeded his previous career high of 22, Rice has been his closest challenger, and Yaz, at the age of 40, will match his career average of 21 homers a season. Going into this campaign, they stood: Yaz, 383; Rice, 133; Lynn, 73. Yaz is completing his 19th season; the other two are rounding out five years in the majors.

Q. Could you give me information on the backs drafted by the Atlanta Falcons in 1979? What do you think are the chances that the Falcons will win their division and possibly go to the Super Bowl? — John Mott, Coden, Ala.

Recognizing their need for improved running, the Falcons took two backs, Billy Andrews of Auburn and John Mayberry of Colorado, in the third round, adding Lynn Cain of Southern California in the fourth round. The Falcons are happy with what they've seen, and so far Andrews looks like the blue chipper. The Falcons are my upset choice over the Rams in the NFC West, but I don't feel they'll make it to the Super Bowl.

Parting shot:

In what must have seemed like an eternity to the Boston Red Sox veteran, Yastrzemski was shut out 12 straight times in search of his 3.000th career hit. Then he finally made contact.

"I know one thing - the last hit was the toughest of all the 3,000," said Yastrzemski after getting his long sought-after hit in Wednesday night's 9-2 victory over the New York Yankees Yastzremski's historic hit was a single · off Yapkee reliever Jim Beattie in the eight inning - in his last time at bat after he walked, flied out and grounded out twice. Before his hard ground ball skipped into right field in Fenway Park past the glove of Yankee second baseman Willie Randolph, Yastzremski had been hitless in 10 official at-bats and walked twice.

His last hit was a single in his final appearance in Sunday's 16-4 loss to Blue Jays 3, Orioles 2, Rick Cerone's two-run single in the sixth inning and Rick Bosetti's solo homer in the eighth carried Toronto-over Baltimore. It was the second victory over Baltimore in as many nights for the Blue Jays, who had dropped their 15 previous meetings with the Orioles dating back to Aug. 8, 1978.

"Maybe we're a little anxious at the plate," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, trying to explain a three-game losing streak. "But when you get into a slump, that can happen.

White Sox 11, Angels 5 Jim Morrison drove in three runs with a single and sacrifice fly and Mike Colbern hit a two-run triple to lead Chicago over California. The loss was the second in a row for the Angels, whose lead in the American League West dropped to three games over

The White Sox scored six runs in the first inning to chase loser Chris Knapp, 3-4, after only two-thirds of an inning. Ken Kravec, 12-13, pitched 51-3 innings and was credited with the victory.

Cecil Cooper and Ben Oglivie hit homers and Mike Caldwell pitched a two-hitter as Milwaukee defeated Oakland. Caldwell, 15-6, set down 17 straight Oakland hitters after giving up a leadoff single to Mitchell Page in the second

The A's did not get another man aboard until Page took a Caldwell fastball on the shoulder in the eighth inning. The second hit off Caldwell came on a single by Rob Picciolo after a double play in the eighth.

Tigers 4, Indians 1 "Milt Wilcox and Aurelio Lopez combined on a four-hitter and Jerry Morales and Lance Parrish hit RBI doubles as Detroit defeated Cleveland. Wilcox didn't allow a hit until Dave Rosello's two-out single in the fifth and gave up a homer to Cleveland's Ron Hassey with two out in the seventh before needing Lopez' relief help.

Expos, Pirates barely separated in race for NL East crown

By the Associated Press

The Montreal Expos are holding onto first place in the National League East one-half game behind the Pittsburgh Pirates

No, you didn't read that wrong. Yes, it's true. The Pirates have won three more games than the Expos while Montreal has lost two less games than Pittsburgh. But the Expos have a .6043 winning percentage while the Pirates are chugging along at a .6041 clip. Figure it out yourself. Pittsburgh is 87-57 and Montreal is 84-55. Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, however, isn't worried

"Fractions of percentage points don't matter to me. All that matters is that we keep winning," Tanner said after Pittsburgh beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-0 behind the six-hit pitching of John Candelaria and reliever Kent Tekulve Wednesday night

The Expos also won, 6-3 over the Chicago Cubs. It was Montreal's 16th victory in its

"I'd have to say it's really discouraging for Montreal to play the way they're playing and they can't catch up." said Tanner, ignoring the mathematical fact that the Expos hold a slight edge. "It's tough when you keep winning and you can't catch the team in front of you. It makes it hard. There's a lot of pressure on them."

Despite their hot streak, the Expos have not been able to gain much ground on the Pirates, who have won 14 of their last 17

"Montreal can't possibly play any better than they have played, and they've only picked up a game and a half." Tekulve said. "You win 16 out of 17 and only pick up a game and a half. That's got to be a little frustrating

Véteran Tony Perez drove in two runs with a double to ignite a three-run eighth-inning rally and carry Montreal to its victory over Chicago.

Dave Kingman, Larry Bittner and Steve Ontiveros stroked run-scoring singles in the first inning to provide the Cubs with a 3-0 lead. But the Expos bounced back with a run in the third on Larry Parrish's 25th homer of the season and third in as many games. Montreal tied the contest with two runs in the seventh. Giants 4, Braves 3

Texas moved another game closer with Wednesday night's win but still is seven games back of California, with only 16 games left.

"I was on a team in 1964 (Philadelphia) that had a six-game lead with 12 to play, and we lost it," Corrales said.

Texas was on top of the division shortly before the All-Star break then went into a disastrous skid in which they lost 30 of their next 40 a row and gave Texas its 10th victory in 13 games. "That got them started." Haves smiled. 'I told them to get the blackboard out of there because the sports writers would make a big deal out of it. But the real thing that worried me was when I start putting my fist through a blackboard in a NON-conference game, you know we're in trouble.

That was only the beginning of Hayes' problems with his fist last season.

Hayes was seen on national television during the Gator Bowl, slugging a Clemson player who had just made a game-saving tackle. He was relieved as head coach after 28 years.

There were several jovial references to Hayes temper flares during introductions.

Former Houston Oiler General Manager John Breen preceded Hayes to the microphone and said "I brought Woody in here through the kitchen and even the cooks
