Tornado levels homes

HOUSTON (AP) — A tornado that aimed its scatter gun fury at an affluent, heavily populated residential area on Houston's west side Tuesday, took a heavy toll in property damage, destroying 10 homes and damaging 40 others but caused only minor injuries and no deaths.

There was this terrific noise and all the windows blew out at one time, said Susan Whitworth, 27. "The front doors blew off their hinges and the brick living room wall was completely blown in."

The twister dipped down in the Country Village subdivision of Houston during late

Tuesday afternoon, wrecked a house on one block, then skipped to another area to continue its destruction.

There was no immediate estimate of damage to the approximately 50 homes in the stricken area off the Katy Freeway. But John Caswell, the Harris County assistant Civil Defense director, said 10 of the houses were destroyed.

He said about 20 families were left homeless by the twister, but found shelter with friends and relatives.

Another tornado touched down Tuesday afternoon in Brazoria County, south of Houston, causing $15,000 damage to a business and slightly damaging several homes, a sheriff's department spokesman said.

A third tornado ripped roofs off of mobile homes, overturned a car and blew out windows and doors in several houses northwest of Houston in Harris County Tuesday afternoon.

There were no reports of injuries in the two tornadoes.

Police closed the area to all but residents Tuesday night in a security measure to prevent looting.

Carson County to get new municipal airport

By DAN LACKEY
Of The Pampa News

PANHANDLE— A 1700 foot Panhandle airstrip described as "very short and very dangerous" will be replaced here by a new municipal airport with a 4400 foot asphalt runway.

The airport will be built on 75 acres of land donated this morning to the City of Panhandle and Carson County officials by the Celanese Corporation.

The new airport, to be located on land just north of the Panhandle city limits, will be owned jointly by the city and county.

The donated land was purchased by Celanese in 1977 as part of the corporation's long range water resource planning. The water and mineral rights for the land will remain with Celanese.

Presentation of the land deed to Carson County Judge Clarence Williams and Panhandle Mayor Charles Smith was made this morning by Celanese Plant Manager Gene Steel in the Carson County Courthouse.

"With this gift we are pleased to contribute to the well-being of our neighbors in Panhandle and Carson County," Steel said. He added that a business and community working together could "achieve maximum profits, with benefits for both."

Judge Williams said, "We are very grateful to Celanese. All of the people of Carson County look forward to the day when we have a real fine airport."

Mayor Smith said he did not think Panhandle had enjoyed "a gift of this magnitude" before.

Construction of the new airport, which is to include a 4400 foot by 60 foot asphalt runway, a parallel taxiway, and several hangers which can hold six aircraft each, will probably begin in the spring, according to Gene Barber of Merriman & Barber Engineers, who will be supervising the building of the new facility.

Barber said, however, that some work could be started this fall.

"Our main problem is devising a drainage system for the area," Barber said.

The site has already been approved by the Federal Aviation Administration, city officials said.

The project will be partially funded by a $70,000 grant approved Wednesday by the Texas Aeronautics Commission, state representative Bob Simpson announced at the deed transfer ceremony.

Simpson said that land donated by Celanese will probably count as the "matching funds" often required by TAC grants. The land is valued at about $25,000.

Carson County Attorney Gene Bryan said it has not been decided whether the jointly owned airport will be managed through contract with a private manager or operated directly by the local governments.

A seven-member airport has been established to deal with such questions, Bryan said. The board consists of three city appointees and three county appointees, plus a seventh at large member, Bryan, elected by the six appointees.

Bryan said the airport would cater to small privately owned and commercial planes, including those used locally for crop dusting. The airport will not have a control tower, Bryan said. The old airstrip is located east of the city.

Buyers flooding market in current gold rush

NEW YORK (AP) — In the current gold rush that has sent prices soaring to more than $375 an ounce, buyers seem to be coming from everywhere — the United States, Europe, the Arabs, Japan and some Martians, one gold dealer says.

Vincent Tese, a partner in James Sinclair & Co. a New York gold advisory service, was exaggerating only a little. Gold's $24.25-an-ounce price increase Tuesday was a record as was a closing price of $376 in New York.

George Perola, manager of the coin and metal division of Deak Perera, a major coin dealer, described business as "very hectic."

Many small investors are entering the market for the first time, he said, trying to get a piece of the gold-boom action.

"We can tell that from the size of the orders and the kinds of the questions they ask," he said.

Gold cost $35 an ounce 12 years ago — when the dollar was tied to its value and before Americans were allowed to buy it. Its price has risen $160 in the last year — $50 in the last two weeks.

It closed in Zurich, Switzerland, Europe's largest bullion market, at $373.50 an ounce on Tuesday — up $20.50 from Monday. In London, Europe's other major market, it closed at $372, up $18.50, after settling back from a record $376.25 during the day.

September gold futures on New York's Commodity Exchange rose $22.90 to $382 an ounce.

One of the beneficiaries of the latest gold rush was the U.S. government. It had coincidentally scheduled an auction of 750,000 ounces of its gold reserves for Tuesday, and was able to sell the gold for an average price of $377.78 an ounce — for a total of $283.3 million.

Journalist says television news lacks detailed information

By JOHN PRICE
Of The Pampa News

"You're not going to get all the information you need from television. Unfortunately, television is the preferred news diet of most Americans."

Sound like the words of a television journalist? "Of course we're not objective," David Garcia, television journalist, told a Canyon audience Tuesday. "There's no such thing as objectivity. To say there is, is silly. All you can try to do is be fair. That's all you can hope to do."

Garcia, a White House correspondent for ABC news, was at West Texas State University for two speaking engagements sponsored by the United Campus Ministry. He found himself on the other side of the camera at a press conference Tuesday afternoon.

Revealing a quick wit, Garcia delivered a wholehearted, although careful and qualified, defense of television newscasting to an audience mostly made up of Amarillo broadcast journalists.

With his gray pin-striped three-piece suit and carefully styled salt-and-pepper hair, the broadcast veteran could easily be confused for a successful businessman.

"First of all, you all are aware I'm not Kenny Rogers," he quipped as he opened the conference.

Because of the time restraints imposed on network newscasts,

Garcia said, television news cannot be thorough. "It's all the news that fits," he said. "At the network level we have to cover the world in 22 minutes. You cannot even attempt to be complete."

"We're not supposed to be — we're a headline media." He predicted network newscasts will eventually be lengthened to one hour. ABC corporate executives want an hour news show, Garcia said, and if one network switches to an hour "all will follow suit."

A Texas native, Garcia was born 35 years ago in Temple. His interest in radio began in high school, when he appeared regularly on a radio program.

"I've always been 99 and nine-tenths percent ham," he noted. At junior college in Baylor, Garcia discovered that a career in business wasn't for him, so he went to work for a Dallas TV station. He was spotted by ABC and hired as a radio announcer in New York, where he stayed for 5½ years. From there he went on to Washington.

Asked if relations between President Carter and the news media sometimes pose a problem, Garcia said "Sure it's a problem. We like to think that we ask some hard-hitting questions that need to be asked."

"I'm not saying we're totally unbiased — no. But we're always covering him. He knows it."

Because Carter is the only president Garcia has covered, the correspondent said he can't compare the current chief executive with those of the past. But the Carter administration's claims of an open White House ring false, Garcia said.

"Veteran correspondents there say that despite the claims of openness, it isn't," he said. "It's a very closed administration. Only a few people really know what's going on."

Unlike Congress, which he also has covered, journalists at the White House "cannot wait around anywhere you like in ambush" for a news source, Garcia said. White House journalists are restricted to a press room in the West Wing, he said.

"If Jody Powell (Carter's press secretary) is not talking, it's difficult to get information," Garcia added.

Garcia said he is being transferred out of the White House, and will probably be going to Florida to cover politics in the South. ABC may send him to Latin America to increase coverage of the recent political uprisings emerging there, he said.

Garcia covered the conference of non-aligned nations in Cuba last week, which he described as "an absolutely incredible trip." But what he saw at the conference was unsettling, he said.

"I was amazed at the number of left-wing nations in the world," Garcia said. "The U.S. has very few friends in the non-aligned nations."

He got his biggest laugh of the afternoon when asked "What was it like covering that meeting, knowing you're about as welcome as the plague?"

"About like covering the White House," Garcia replied. He said recent Supreme Court rulings making the news media more susceptible to libel suits are "a clear invasion."

Commenting on another high court ruling that permits judges to close pre-trial hearings to the press, Garcia said "I think it's a very dangerous thing if you're a supporter of a free press. The people have got to know what's going on."

"I'd rather have too much information" than see decisions made in closed courtrooms, he said.

Asked if ABC journalist Barbara Walters deserves her $1 million salary, Garcia joked "I think I'm worth a million dollars. So why isn't she?"

Turning serious, he said "of course" women belong in broadcast journalism. But he added "I do think there are occasions today when a woman will get a spot on television over a man because of blonde hair and a pretty face."

"As long as there is a world, there will be male chauvinism." Summing up his profession, he said the travel is hard and the divorce rate is tremendous, "but it's exciting."

"I get very tired of getting beaten up all the time by all the different factions," he said. "It's always our fault. But, hey, that's what we get paid for."

"I still get very excited. I guess I'm still a kid."

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

OPINION PAGE

Lone Star lawmakers rated from 0-100

The Texas congressional delegation in Washington, D.C., is more conservative than the delegation from any other state in the nation, but that doesn't mean it is conservative enough.

There are some real heel-draggers in the Texas crowd, and one of them is Sen. Lloyd Bentsen. In the scoring of the nation's lawmakers by the American Conservative Union, Bentsen was credited with a 20 percent in conservatism. A "perfect" ACU score is 100 percent.

The Texas House members received an overall average of 58.67 percent in the interim ratings of Congress released by the ACU. This compares with a national average of 46.89 percent, a shameful figure, indeed.

The Texas senators averaged 60 percent, but it was Sen. John Tower who held the average up to an almost passing grade. He was rated 100 percent. Senators nationwide received an average score of 39.67 percent, which is obviously "failing."

The statistics that may be of much more than passing interest to West Texans, however, are those of area representatives. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock, a Democrat who represents part of Ector County, was rated seventh among the Texans at 84 percent. Rep. Richard White of El Paso, also a Democrat, was rated at 72 percent.

The top 10 in order of their ratings are: James Collins (R-3rd District), 100 percent; Bill Archer (R-7th District), 100 percent; Ron Paul (R-22nd District), 96 percent; Charles Stenholm (D-17th District), 92 percent; E. (Kika) de la Garza (D-15th District), 85 percent; Kent Hance (D-19th District), 84 percent; Marvin Leath (D-11th District), 83 percent; Phil Gramm (D-6th District), 76 percent; and Sam Hall (D-1st District), 75 percent.

To show just how liberal some of the Texas representatives are, here are the ratings for the ones who have not been named so far:

Charles Wilson (D-2nd District), 57 percent; Ray Roberts (D-4th District), 53 percent; Jim Mattox (D-5th District), 33 percent; Bob Eckhardt (D-8th District), 0 — a big fat zero; Jack Brooks (D-9th District), 13 percent; J.J. Pickle (D-10th District), 50 percent, indicating he really has straddled the fence; James Wright (D-12th District), 5 percent; Jack Hightower (D-23rd District), 64 percent; Joe Wyatt (D-14th District), 70 percent; Richard White (D-16th District), 72 percent; George Leland (D-18th District), 8 percent; Henry Gonzalez (D-20th District-San Antonio), 4 percent; Abraham Kazen (R-23rd District), 63 percent; and Martin Frost (D-24th District), 25 percent.

The ACU interim rating of Congress is based on key House and Senate votes taken in the Congress between January and June of this year. The key issues include support for federal budget cuts, tax reduction and a balanced budget, and opposition to gas rationing, the creation of a separate Department of Education, the implementation of the Panama Canal treaties and continuing sanctions against Rhodesia.

The American Conservative Union has been issuing yearly and interim ratings of the U.S. Congress since 1971. The 1979 annual ratings will be released at the end of the year.

One can study the issues upon which the lawmakers were graded and have a sinking feeling in one's stomach at what the statistics reveal about most of the lawmakers. Some, one notes, are "on the other side" and many of them are Texans.

School dropouts serious symptom

Thirteen percent of the students in the senior high schools of Cleveland dropped out last year. This means that nearly 4,000 youngsters in Ohio's largest city quit school at the crucial time when they were nearing completion.

This is a shocking statistic. Each dropout has his own reasons, but that so many — one in eight — quit indicates failure of schools and teachers to inspire the youth to want more knowledge badly enough to complete the secondary school course.

Needless to say, the need for knowledge grows no less in these times. Ominous problems hang over mankind — crime, drugs, racism, the nuclear threat, over-population, under-production — these are just a few of the mind boggling which this generation of adults is willing to the next. Now is no time to quit the search for wisdom and understanding.

Cleveland's dropout rate was the highest of 120 school districts studied by the Citizens Council for Ohio Schools, but the record in other cities of the state was not much better. In Cincinnati, 9.7 percent of senior high schoolers dropped out during the 1977-78 school year; in Columbus 8.4 percent, in Akron 8.3 percent. Lima's dropout rate last year was 6 percent, compared with the statewide report that 5.8 percent of those in senior high school quit. There were also many dropouts at the junior high school level. The figures do not include those who dropped out to transfer or on account of illness or death.

The parents of these high school dropouts bear a heavy responsibility. They have failed to do the educational job that only parents can do: educate their children to want to cultivate each his little corner of creation to the end that it produce a record crop of good things, tangible and intangible.

These parents have failed their children. The latter now will go out into the world handicapped, compared with what they might be.

We cannot but feel that things have got out of hand in these families. It is impossible that loving parents would be oblivious to the tragedy involved.

The schools and teachers, administrators and school boards also bear blame. To complain that the taxpayers have not provided them enough money absolves them not one whit. A failed school levy did not hinder Abraham Lincoln from getting an education.

By OSCAR COOLEY

Why is the metal, gold, selling at such high prices?

When the United States was on a gold standard, the U.S. Treasury bought and sold gold for a fixed price of $35 an ounce. In recent years, gold has risen sharply and now brings nearly 10 times that price.

Like all commodities, gold is priced according to supply and demand. When the supply is low in relation to the demand, the price rises. And vice versa. As the price rises, the demanders become less eager to buy. The rise slows and comes to a stop at an equilibrium level where the force of demand exactly equals that of supply.

"Gold standard" means that gold has a standard price in terms of dollars, that is, a constant equilibrium price which is maintained by supply and demand provided by the government. The aim was to stabilize the value of the dollar in terms of gold.

Today we are, obviously, not on a gold standard. We quit all pretense of it on Aug. 15, 1971. Nor is any other country. Hence, the price of gold is not stabilized by any government. It sells in a free market.

The supply provided by the gold miners (mainly in South Africa) remains fairly constant at about 31.2 million ounces per year. Evidently, its steep rise in value is due to strong demand. Who is demanding it? And why?

Industry, including jewelry makers, uses some 32 million ounces a year. Gold coins also are in brisk demand, not by spenders to use as money but by coin collectors. South Africa's "kruggerand" is very popular, and Canada is about to mint a gold coin, the "maple leaf."

But the major demand for gold is said to be coming from the Middle East. Thirty percent of the gold offered for sale in the world market is bought by Middle Eastern countries, mainly by Saudi Arabia, with their excess oil dollars.

Individuals, too, are buying gold. It is looked upon as an investment. Investors compare it with stocks and bonds, real estate, antiques. It is advertised in the financial pages.

But why buy gold? It is really one of the most useless of commodities. You cannot eat it, wear it or build a house or automobile of it.

It is illegal to mold it into coins and use them as money. Even if it were not, it would be unprofitable, paper or checkbook money being cheaper and easier to come by.

There used to be a fond hope that the Western world, including the United States, would return to gold money, but that hope is dim indeed today. Far from buying gold for monetary use, the U.S. Treasury is selling off what it acquired in earlier days — and doing so at a handsome profit. So is the International Monetary Fund. The IMF's sales of some 750,000 ounces a month are due to end next spring. This drop in supply could be a bullish factor in the gold market.

There are those who think we will never halt the present inflation until the United States returns to gold standard money in some form. We hear no hint from Washington that this is contemplated.

Students of money say it would be virtually impossible. The change from doing the nation's business with tangible money to doing it with bank credit is too great to be undone. Anyone who is buying gold in the belief he will be able later to sell it to the U.S. Treasury at a profit is taking a long chance.

"Halt inflation by returning to the gold standard." It sounds simple, indeed it is an oversimplified solution. There was inflation in gold standard days. Inflation is not due to the kind of stuff we use as money but to the kind of policies followed by our government. Credit money is inflationary only when misused.

Gold's chief merits as a speculation are, first, that it is non-perishable. Neither moth nor rust doth corrupt it. Second, it is relatively soft and malleable and so is easily fashioned into useful objects such as watch cases. Third, it always has been looked upon as the most beautiful metal. There is a kind of mystique about it which makes people desire it more than any other metal.

Finally, and chiefly, gold is scarce and pretty sure to remain so. Even South Africa, where most of today's gold is mined, at the end of the century could be producing at one-half its current level, according to one authority.

As the price rises, gold ores now too poor to pay for mining may become profitable to work. However, there is little chance of more rich deposits being discovered. Hence, overtime production seems sure to decrease, not increase.

Today in history

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Sept. 19, the 262nd day of 1979. There are 103 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1881, President James Garfield died of wounds inflicted by an assassin in Baltimore, Md., on July 2.

On this date:
In 1777, American soldiers in the Revolutionary War won the first Battle of Saratoga in New York.

In 1870, the French surrendered Versailles to the Germans in the Franco-Prussian War.

In 1934, Bruno Hauptmann was arrested in New York and charged with the kidnapping of the baby son of Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh.

In 1955, President Juan Peron of Argentina was ousted from office after a revolt by the army and navy.

In 1964, the U.S. disclosed that at least 40 secret microphones had been found hidden in the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

In 1973, Sweden's new king, Carl Gustaf, was formally installed, succeeding his late grandfather.

Ten years ago, President Richard Nixon announced a sharp reduction in draft calls for the balance of the year.

Five years ago, Former President Nixon was subpoenaed by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski to appear at the Watergate cover-up trial.

One year ago, Egypt's cabinet unanimously approved President Anwar Sadat's Camp David agreement to sign a peace treaty with Israel within three months.

Today's birthdays: Secretary of Defense Harold Brown is 52. U. S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis Powell is 72. British Actress Rosemary Harris is 49.

Thought for today: Men hate those to whom they have to lie — Victor Hugo, French writer, 1802-1885.

Just tourists

by ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—It's hard to believe that the United States was unaware that there were "3,000 Soviet combat troops" in Cuba. The State Department's story is that our intelligence experts were caught by surprise. It was only after they "re-evaluated" their reports of the past five years that they concluded the Russians were there.

I managed to get one of the CIA's folders containing intelligence information from our man in Havana, a certain Miguel X, which explains why the United States was never sure that there were Soviet troops in Castro's Disneyland.

The first memo was dated August 12, 1974.

"Three thousand Soviet tourists disembarked from the passenger-ship 'Lenin' in Havana at 2 a.m. this morning. They were dressed in white wash 'n' wear seersucker suits, wore Panama hats and were carrying East German cameras and Ivanov submachine guns. I inquired of their tour leader, Lt. Gen. Vladimir Sokolov, what they planned to do in Cuba and he replied, 'We are from Kiev-Cuban Friendship Society to see beautiful country, sightsee and do cha cha cha with Cuban girls. We get five-year tour of country for package price of 995 rubles with breakfast included.'

"Do you want me to follow up?—M.X."

The reply to Miguel X was also in the folder and said, "It sounds like just another Intourist junket to us. If you can get anything you can pin down, let us know. Otherwise, due to budget restrictions, prefer you forget whole thing."

The next memo from Miguel X was dated December 3, 1976.

"Sorry to bother you, but was passing by Manzanillo and accidentally ran into Russian tourists. They have set up mobile home with large saucer-shaped electronic equipment on top. Also saw 50 anti-aircraft guns, 200 tanks and heard artillery firing off in the distance. Ran into Gen. Sokolov in a bar in town and asked him how he was getting along. He bought me a vodka and said, 'Tour is going along fantastic. There is so much to see in Cuba we don't ever want to leave.'

"I asked what the saucer-like discs were doing on the mobile homes and he said, 'Is for television. Reception in this part of country is very lousy.' Then I asked him about the artillery firing. 'Is nothing but our people hunting wild boar. Look, we have license signed by Castro himself. Each tourist is entitled to one boar.'

"I can't put my finger on it but I think I was given a snow job. —Miguel X."

The answer from his superiors in Washington read: "Thank you, Miguel, for your report. We wish you wouldn't bother us with your suspicions that you were being lied to. It's obvious the Soviets have moved into mobile homes to save on hotel bills. The TV story makes sense to us. As for the anti-aircraft guns, they were probably left over from the Bay of Pigs. Because of new cut in budget, would prefer you mail your urgent reports via Mexico and not use straight cable."

The last message from Miguel X was dated May 1, 1979.

"The Soviet tourists held their Fourth Annual May Day Parade in the city of Batabano. Gen. Sokolov, who has been promoted to marshal, was in the reviewing stand with Fidel Castro. I managed to talk to him after the parade. He said he was having the best visit and the only thing he missed was black bread and borsch. He was thinking of opening a Russian-type restaurant which would cater to tourists like himself who were getting tired of Cuban food."

"The tourists put on quite a show for us. They divided themselves between the Red and Blue tour groups. The Blue group tried to 'capture the beach and the Red group repulsed them with mortars and machine guns. Of course they were using blanks. I don't know why I still think there is more to all this than meets the eye."

The final reply from Washington said: "Please stop wasting your time lolling around the beach with some bathers who just seem to be having a good time and concentrate on any military activity in the country."

Letters

Dear Sir:
I was in Pampa recently for a visit. I had remembered the very high curbs that are difficult for young children and older people — and just about everyone. The way cars block the sidewalks on abandoned gas station's driveways didn't surprise me either (one example is on Foster St.) But I was surprised to have to walk around a sign (Foster and Summerville - N.W. corner) that completely blocks the sidewalk. Also cars block sidewalk at establishment to which the sign belongs. After walking around the sign one has to be careful to avoid metal stabs that protrude from a cement disk — if I remember correctly. Not many people walk in Pampa. (Am I right?) But a few do. Can you check this out — keep sidewalks open.

Thank you

— A recent visitor to Pampa

P. S. Some rather elderly folks walk and get almost the only recreation and exercise available in that manner.

Dear Sir:
Regarding a letter to you in today's paper, it was not surprising to learn that members of my family are not the only ones who have received rude and insulting treatment at the drivers license bureau.

I agree that they do not seem to understand where their wages originate. If I were in charge, I would transfer the personnel to a small dark room in the rear where the public would never have to come in contact with them! I'd sign my name but would probably have an even worse time getting a license next time!

Bankruptcies

Personal bankruptcies are on the rise as inflation tightens its grip.

Some consumer credit experts estimate the number of persons claiming insolvency in the courts has jumped at least 10 percent in the past several months. "We're seeing a sharp increase nationally in the number of people who haven't any savings and any money beyond that needed for basic necessities," says Gerard Lareau, president of the Consumer Credit Counseling Service in the New York area, a nonprofit group. The costs of food, clothing and shelter are rising at an 18 percent annual rate, he says, faster than the overall inflation rate of 13 percent and faster than average salary gains.

Thus, says Mr. Lareau, a growing number of families are unable to meet current obligations and are turning to bankruptcy court. Jacoby & Meyers, a New York City law firm with 11 "storefront" offices in the area, says its personal-bankruptcy cases have risen "substantially" in the past month or so. The most common cause: "Lack of an adequate financial cushion."

The Administration Office of the U.S. Courts says personal bankruptcies may shoot up even faster after Oct. 1, when a new, more liberal federal bankruptcy codes goes into effect.

Facts you should know

Speir to step down as Public Safety head

DALLAS (AP) — Col. Wilson E. Speir has announced he will resign as head of the Texas Department of Public Safety Dec. 31, after 38 years with the state's police force.

"I had a stomach hemorrhage in August," Speir said at a news conference Tuesday. "After 43 years of public service including 38 with the DPS I felt the time had come to retire."

Speir, 62, called the conference during a convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, of which he is outgoing president.

He said no one had asked him to resign or to retire. He said he would not be involved in the selection of a new director, but added assistant directors have succeeded their bosses in the past.

Speir called his assistant, Leo Gossett, 54, "a very capable man, I wish him well. But I don't know who the Public Safety Commission will choose."

Another candidate for the job is former FBI official James B. Adams, who heads Gov. Bill Clements' criminal justice division. Adams was formerly the No. 2 man in the FBI.

Speir took over as DPS director in 1968 when his boss, Homer B. Garrison Jr., died. He was the fourth DPS director since the agency was created in 1935.

Speir said Tuesday the DPS was in the best shape in its history. He said the No. 1 crime problem remained illegal drugs.

"I feel half of all the burglaries are committed by addicts needing a buck for that next shot," he said.

Speir weathered a few scandals and controversies during his reign, including a Travis County grand jury report last year that accused the DPS narcotics division of a "disturbing lack of moral leadership."

Critics said Speir failed to run the department with the iron hand the charismatic Garrison was known for, but Speir was effective in dealing with legislators and seldom ranked politicians or co-workers.

Speir was a teacher and principal of Harmony High School in Upshur County before he joined the DPS as a highway patrolman in 1941. He ascended through the ranks quickly, becoming assistant director in 1962.

Adams interested in post vacated by Speir

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — James B. Adams, former No. 2 man in the FBI, says he would be interested in taking command of the Texas Department of Public Safety if the conditions are right.

Col. Wilson Speir announced Tuesday he will retire as director of the DPS on Dec. 31, and Adams' name immediately arose as a possible successor in the $47,500-a-year post.

Adams, 52, is executive director of Gov. Bill Clements' Criminal Justice Division, and there was speculation here that Clements would push hard to get him the DPS job.

The director is chosen by the Texas Public Safety Commission, and Clements will appoint one of the three commissioners when chairman Robert Shelton's term expires Dec. 31. Some reports mentioned Dallas electronics millionaire H. Ross Perot as a possibility.

Asked whether anyone in authority had discussed the DPS director's job with him, Adams said in a telephone interview, "I don't think it would be appropriate for me to make any comments in that regard."

"I am aware of the rumors. I am honored that people would think I would make a good replacement (for Speir). Anybody would be proud to work with the men and women of the DPS," Adams said.

As for the director's job, he said, "I would be interested in it. It would be a challenge."

Adams said he misses day-to-day responsibility for law enforcement operations.

"Law enforcement has been my career. The operational end is more challenging than the administrative end. I miss it. That was the hard thing in leaving the FBI, where I was in charge of all investigative operations. I miss contact with cases, with people working the streets," he said.

In his $42,039-a-year post with the criminal justice division, Adams parcels federal law enforcement grants to Texas cities, counties and state agencies.

Adams said he would not apply for the DPS job, adding, "The last job I applied for was FBI agent" in 1951.

Clements wooed him to the Criminal Justice Division, he said, with the argument, "You're a Texan. Texas has been good to you."

"If people think I can serve elsewhere and do the job they want done and do it in the manner I am accustomed to, non-political and down the middle, I would be interested," Adams said of the DPS post.

Ma Bell may get just what she wants

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — For the first time since the state began regulating telephone rates in 1976, Texas Public Utility Commission staffers have recommended giving Southwestern Bell as big a rate increase as Ma Bell wants.

Correction of a computation error caused the staff to change its recommendation in the Bell case from $136.4 million to $145.2 million in higher rates — the same as Bell requested.

The three-member commission usually follows staff recommendations in rate cases.

One result of the changed recommendation could be higher residential telephone bills than the staff previously suggested. A week ago, staff economist Julie Parsons proposed across-the-board increases within a range of 80 cents to $1.10 a month.

"She (Ms. Parsons) is taking a look at everything else before she says the additional money has got to come out of local exchange (basic monthly telephone rates)," said PUC general counsel John Bell.

But if other Bell services can absorb no further increases, the extra money will have to come from basic monthly charges, he said.

"I hope it won't be over $1.10," John Bell said.

The staff said Bell actually was entitled to revenue increases totaling $156.4 million over a 12-month period. But state law says a utility can get no more than it has requested, and Bell's request was for $145.2 million.

Bell, in turn, says it really needs $242.9 million but trimmed its request to stay within President Carter's 7 percent guideline for price increases.

"If this were a normal rate case, they (Bell) would have asked $243 million and we would have come in at $156 million and we would have fought it out," said John Bell.

Davis fingerprints not found at scene

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An arresting officer says FBI lab technicians did not find Cullen Davis' fingerprints on any of the crucial evidence rounded up after the millionaire's arrest last summer.

Justice of the Peace Morris Howeth, who was a district attorney's investigator at the time, testified he took the evidence to Washington after arresting Davis Aug. 20, 1978.

The evidence included a .22-caliber pistol and silencer, a faked photograph of Judge Joe Eidsen's "body" and the jurist's identification cards.

The testimony came Tuesday during Davis' murder-for-hire trial. The 45-year-old millionaire is charged with soliciting the murder of Eidsen, his divorce judge, and others.

Howeth told jurors the silencer-equipped pistol was found wrapped in a towel in the trunk of Davis' Cadillac shortly after the arrest.

Davis and informant David McCrory are seen looking over the gun in a secretly recorded videotape of the meeting that preceded Davis' arrest.

A two-inch-thick stack of 250 $100 bills which McCrory says Davis gave him to pay off a phantom "hit man" also was introduced into evidence.

Davis maintains the money belonged to McCrory. The defendant says he held the money for safekeeping and returned it to McCrory during the meeting.

Howeth also said a crime scene search inspector found no traces of a fluorescent powder in Davis' car. FBI agents treated the staged photograph with the powder, which should rub off and appear under an ultraviolet light.

McCrory has testified that Davis held the photo only by the edges. Davis contends he never saw the picture.

Dalai Lama serving his people

HOUSTON (AP) — The Dalai Lama, exiled spiritual leader of Tibetan Buddhists, believes until the internal problems of his occupied nation are solved he can best "serve my people on the outside."

The god-king of the mountain nation said six million Tibetan people "are without freedom. Our people suffer a lot."

On a stop in Houston, one of 22 in a seven-week tour of the United States, the Dalai Lama insisted once again that his visit was not political and only a effort "to learn from this new experience of meeting new people. "I have found the people very open. We can talk, communicate and that is important."

The 44-year-old Buddhist leader will meet today with several religious and educational leaders from throughout the nation for private discussions.

During the Monday news conference, the Dalai Lama said improved relations between China and the United States will help him return to his home country.

Orr elected as school board president

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Of The Pampa News

The Pampa School Board of Trustees elected Vice President Darville Orr to fill the vacancy left by President Al Smith who resigned last week, in their meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Trusty William Arrington was elected by acclamation by the board to fill the position of vice president.

After approval of the previous meeting's minutes, newly-elected President Orr read a special thank you note from the Cabot Corporation. Included in the note was a voucher for the amount of $171,454.50, as early payment for their taxes. President Orr commended Cabot Corporation "for their graciousness" and said the board was grateful for this advance payment.

Orr commented the check will help keep the board from having to borrow the money to meet their payroll and other obligations. Payment of due bills and invoices was approved after a brief discussion. The trustees also looked at the computer print out of the budget report. Superintendent Bob Phillips said that any errors in the budget will not appear until the next print out.

Board members discussed the revised Title I policy and decided to approve it as read.

The revised version of the policy is sent out by the Texas State Association of School Boards and is in "essence, very similar to the policy we had."

The Title I policy consists of the guidelines which a parent advisory council, parents, teachers or other concerned organizations or individual must follow in order to file a complaint against the School Board of Trustees.

In the revised version of the policy the complainant must file a request for a hearing with the board. After receiving the request, the board shall set a time and place for the hearing not less than 15 or more than 30 days after receiving the request. Interested parties shall have the right to counsel and shall be given the opportunity for argument. Upon request, the board can have the testimony put in writing. The board may announce the decision at the hearing, but must render a written statement to the complainant by registered mail.

Also presented by Orr was a letter of commendation from the Thomas R. Soukup, General Manager of the Dumas Inn.

Soukup wanted to "commend the behavior of the band members" when they had dinner at the Dumas Inn the night of the Pampa-Dumas football game. He said he had never had served a group of young people "so well-mannered, polite and courteous or so well-disciplined" as this group. Soukup went on to say that he "hopes to have the distinct pleasure of serving them again."

Chamber to offer postcards

Pampa merchants are being contacted this week, by members of the Tourist Development Committee: Clotilde Thompson, chairman, regarding orders for picture cards featuring various scenes in Pampa.

There are seven different panorama post cards with a minimum order of 3,000 of each design. In order to reach the minimum order amount, the Retail Trade's Committee is serving as a liaison between the merchants and the company which will provide the cards.

On October 1st, the members of the committee will report with their orders and, if enough orders have been made at that time, current pictures will be taken of different scenic locations in Pampa.

The new cards will be received in Pampa approximately 8 weeks after the factory has received the order. Racks will be provided for display purposes.

TEXAS

By The Associated Press

A small, but strong non-tropical low pressure system off the Texas coast sent winds howling to as high as 51 mph and dumped flood producing rainfall in the Corpus Christi area early today.

Some residents of north and central sections of Corpus Christi had to be evacuated to higher ground. Street flooding was widespread in Corpus Christi and in the Aransas Pass area.

Unofficial rainfall reports showed that 6.7 inches of rain fell during the night at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

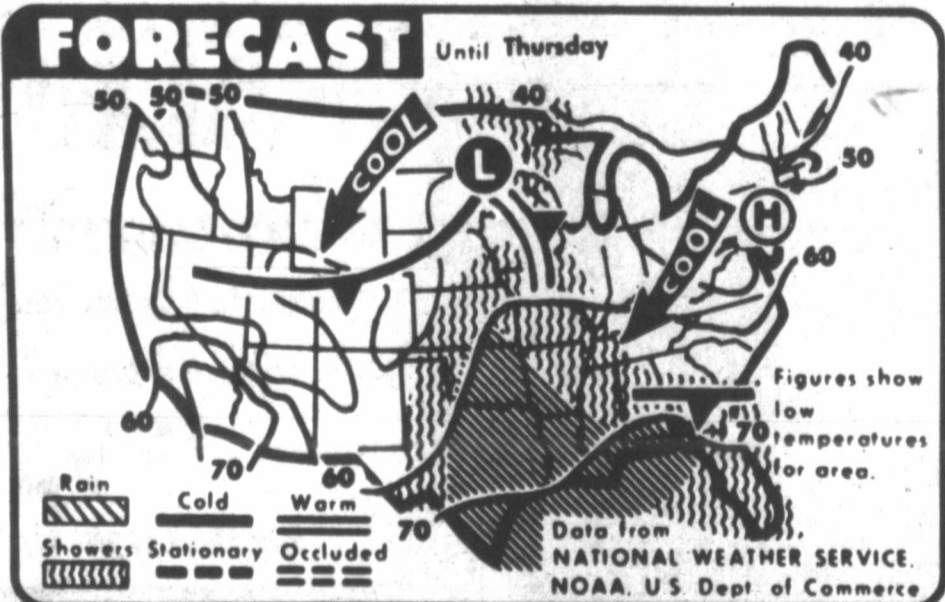

Corpus Christi police used city buses to get around in flooded streets. Motorists were warned of flooded underpasses and low lying areas.

NATIONAL

Showers and thunderstorms rumbled today through southern Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and an area stretching from southern Ohio to West Virginia and the lower Great Lakes.

Frost warnings were issued for Upper Michigan, the northern third of Wisconsin, and the northeastern third of Minnesota.

A tornado swirled through a heavily populated residential area on Houston's west side Tuesday afternoon, destroying 10 homes and damaging 40 others. No deaths were reported but there were some minor injuries, police said.

WIDE-SPREAD RAIN AND SHOWERS are expected in the forecast period, Wednesday until Thursday morning, from Texas to Florida and north to Minnesota. Cooler temperatures are forecast for most of the East and for the northern Plains. Warm weather is forecast in the West.

Patch the Pony warns children

Pampa schoolchildren are being treated to an educational filmstrip featuring Patch the Pony in an effort to combat child molestation.

The brown and white pony speaks out on safety rules this week in Pampa elementary schools, warning children about speaking to strangers and accepting gifts and automobile rides from them.

Children also are taught that their local policemen are their friends and want to protect them from danger.

"Children take to something like this rather than a teacher just saying, 'You must not get in the car with someone you don't know,'" says Frances Walls, elementary library coordinator for Pampa Independent School District.

"The kids are fascinated by it," she says. "We want to make them aware — it's not a scare tactic."

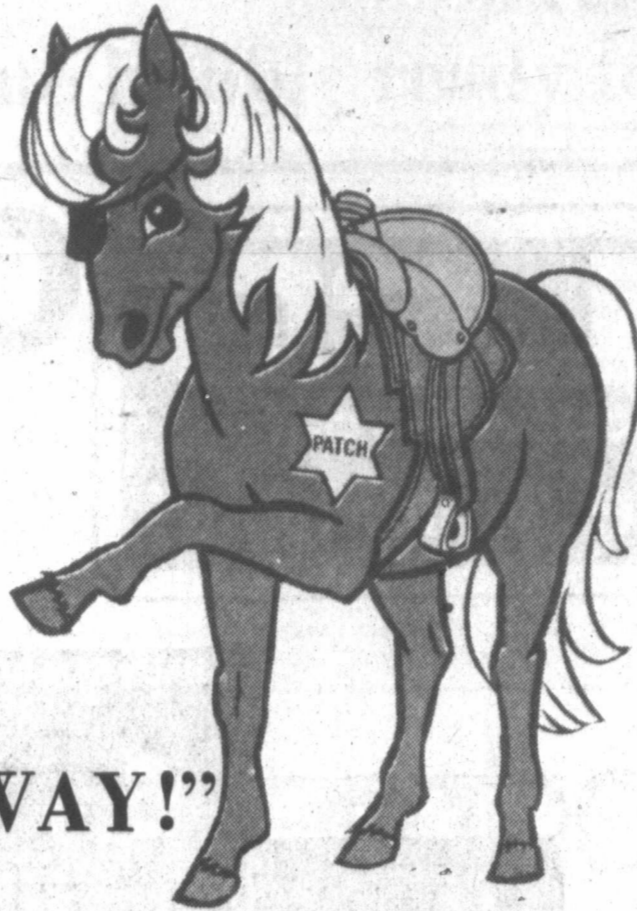

Children from kindergarten through grade three at Travis Elementary are watching the filmstrip this week, according to Walls. Other schools will see the film, purchased by the PISD library service, during the following weeks.

Teachers also are helping the children learn a song which accompanies the film, emphasizing the caution theme of "Patch the Pony."

"The filmstrip has been used for several years and tried in several schools," she explains.

Walls says some of the Pampa Parent-Teacher groups have expressed interest in viewing the film and purchasing an educational packet for each elementary school. "I think the other PTAs will follow suit," she adds.

TWEEN 12 AND 20 Girls bear shame and baby

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am a 17-year-old girl who had been dating an 18-year-old guy for about three weeks. I gave in to him and made love and now I'm pregnant.

When I told him of my condition, he laughed and said it was my problem. He told me not to tell my parents what happened but to tell them that I was raped.

Whenever I call his house I am told that he is not home.

Dr. Wallace, I don't understand how a boy could not care that his child will have a rough time of it.

I also do not think that it is fair that the girl gets a bad reputation while the guy gets off scot-free. — P.G., Milan, Ill.

P.G.: If you haven't shared your condition with your mother, do it now. Many decisions must be made and health care must be given.

A competent attorney can find out the legal responsibilities of this "man."

I've been trying but once in a while I still "blow up" at my mom.

Please help. — Sandra, Dixon, Ill.

Sandra: Knowing that you have a terrible personality is the first step in changing. Instead of "not blowing up," be positive. Every day do one or two things that will please Mother.

If you will do this, you will see a great change in your personality and, of course, you won't be on restriction.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 12 and carry 118 pounds on a 4-foot-9-inch frame. Football practice is here and I'm afraid if I don't lose some weight around my middle, I may not be a running back. I think they would put me down on the line.

Please help. — Tommy, Newton, N.J.

Tommy: It's hard to conceive that anyone weighing 118 pounds can be considered fat, but the solution is simple—proper exercise, three balanced meals and no snacks.

By the way, linemen would say that you would be moved "up" to the line.

Democrats hear district speakers

The Top O' Texas Democratic Club had its first fall meeting last week, with Mrs. Ernie Wilkinson introducing the guest speakers.

Mrs. Sandra Davis, district committeewoman from Levelland, summarized key changes in rules for the selection of national delegates.

She also discussed the state party's plan for selecting 152 delegates and 77 alternates to the 1980 national convention. The state plan, approved by the National Compliance Review Committee, provides for electing and allocating delegates and alternates through the convention system.

Carl King, district committeeman from Dimmitt, spoke to the group on gasohol, a leading alternate fuel. He stated that it has the most potential for helping solve the nation's energy problems.

According to King, it is a cleaner burning fuel with less pollution and more horsepower.

Gasohol can be made from whole grains or bio-masses such as manure or corn, milo and wheat straw.

The Texas Democratic Party is sponsoring workshops and issue conferences throughout the state. The next one will be an agricultural seminar Nov. 3 in Lubbock. Those wishing additional information can contact Davis at 719 Houston, Levelland 79336, or King at 707 W. Grant, Dimmitt 79027.

Former Pampan in John Travolta movie

Charlotte Andrews, formerly of Pampa and now of Houston, will appear in "Urban Cowboy", a John Travolta movie being filmed in Houston.

Andrews will play a Dolly Parton look-alike in the movie, to be directed by Jim Bridges. "Urban Cowboy" will be released next June.

Optimists open new year with banquet

New officers of the Optimist Club and the Opti - Mrs. Club were installed last week at a 25th anniversary banquet honoring charter members and past presidents of the Pampa organization.

Master of ceremonies was John Warner, Clayton Day, Governor of the North Texas District of Optimist International, installed the new officers.

Optimist Club officers are Bill Kidwell, president; Marvin Elam and Gary Epperson, vice presidents; and James Richardson, secretary-treasurer.

Directors are Melvin Davis, Walden Haynes, Randy Hamby, John Warner, Harley Knutson, Gene Cryer and Calvin Lacy.

New officers for the Opti - Mrs. Club are Mrs. Willis Watson, president; Mrs. James Jordan, first vice president in charge of programs; Mrs. Joe Skinner, second vice president in charge of membership; Mrs. Jim Hood, treasurer; Mrs. James Richardson, secretary; and Mrs. Bill Kidwell, outgoing president, as parliamentarian.

Directors are Mrs. Ron Sebastian, Mrs. Robert Dixon, Mrs. Newt Secret and Mrs. Calvin Lacy.

Honored as Opti - Mrs. of the Year was Mrs. Willis Watson. Named Optimist of the Year was Walter Hyatt.

Outgoing president Calvin Lacy presented Kenneth York a life membership. Perfect attendance awards went to Bob Johnson for 16 years and Jesse Watson for 11 years.

Haynes, Larry Andrus, John Maguire and Carroll Jones received appreciation awards for their work with the baseball program. Plaques were also given to Jones, Hyatt, Betty Miser, Mrs. Lacy, Gerald Owens, Kidwell, Epperson, Rex Brittain, Ron Sebastian, Lacy and Jesse Watson.

Gov. Day announced that Lacy would serve as North Texas District Chairman for Community Activities for 1979-80.

Other plaques were given to Lawrence Paranto, Pee Wee Romines, Bob Muncy, Dixon, Kidwell, Eldon Maxwell, Lynn Wilson and Max Louvier.

Four of the 37 charter members and 11 past presidents attended the banquet.

Music teachers' association meets

The Pampa Music Teachers' Association met last week in the home of its president, Ann Thomas, at 518 N. Dwight.

Sarah Hall was appointed treasurer and Myrna Orr was appointed secretary, replacing Brenda Milligan, who resigned.

Mrs. Thomas conducted a discussion of musical ornamentation as it pertains to keyboard music of the baroque period.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Don't back down! You were not wrong when you advised your readers to "consult a lawyer, and pay him for what he knows." He and him become personal pronouns when referring to both sexes.

Please inform Mandy Stellman of Milwaukee and Ms. Perlman of St. Paul, who should not object to being known as Mandy Stell—and Ms. Perl—after removing the "man" from their names, that the old rule still holds.

So don't apologize, Abby. We appreciate the fine lawyers, doctors, clergy and those in other vocations who are of the fairer sex, but let's not bend over backwards to distinguish whether he has acquired a 5 o'clock shadow, or a shiny nose just before dinner. It is HIS vocational performance that counts.

GEORGE WASHINGTON BOWEN

DEAR GEORGE: I cannot tell a lie. I find it a nuisance to write "he/she" and "him/her." And I abhor that new style journalism that refers to women by their last names. I find myself backing up to re-read entire paragraphs in order to find out if the "Fonda" is JANE or HENRY!

DEAR ABBY: I am being married in six weeks, and everything would be perfect if it weren't for the way my mother feels about my fiancé. She keeps telling me it's still not too late to change my mind even though she knows how much I love Ron. (He's 26 and I'm 24.)

He's a wonderful person and I have never loved anyone the way I love him, but Mom thinks I deserve a better-looking man. Can you believe it, Abby? I've gone with some gorgeous men, but they were all so in love with themselves that they couldn't love anyone else.

True, Ron is short and he doesn't have a very good complexion, but he has the most beautiful, honest eyes I've ever seen, and to me he is handsome!

I am no beauty, but my mother thinks I am. I am happy with what I have, but my mother is making me miserable. I can't take much more of her hassling. What should I do?

UNHAPPY BRIDE

DEAR UNHAPPY: Tune mother out when she puts down Ron. She's wrong, of course. Handsome is as handsome does.

DEAR ABBY: Someone who had worked in a government agency for 15 years wrote to say that the average person is an "idiot." To support that statement the writer explained that a woman was given an employment form to fill out. One of the routine questions was "SEX?" In response to that question, she wrote, "I don't care for it much anymore."

Well, I'd like to offer a similar experience. I am a room clerk in a first-class hotel. On our hotel registry is the question, "FIRM?"

After one very attractive young woman had registered, I carefully read the form she had filled out. In the space following "FIRM?" she had written, "VERY!"

IT HAPPENED IN BOULDER, COLO.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B. IN BEACON HILL: Tell your friend that giving birth to a child does not make a woman a "mother" in the truest sense of the word. But taking a motherless child into one's home (and heart) and raising that child with love, patience and understanding spells out the real meaning of motherhood.

DR. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you said that there was an increased tendency to develop atherosclerosis in men who have had a vasectomy. You said the sperm cells are not allowed to escape and remain in the body and are treated as foreign protein leading to the increased risk of hardening of the arteries.

Doesn't this same problem exist in single men like myself who for ethical reasons do not engage in sexual intercourse until marriage? Does it mean that I'm running the risk of developing atherosclerosis because I'm not engaging in sex?

DEAR READER — In my previous column I referred to some research studies that had been done which did show an increased tendency to atherosclerosis or at least to develop higher levels of cholesterol.

The animals that were used for this study were on a very high cholesterol diet and I'm not sure that this information can be directly transferred to man. However, it's significant enough to suggest that men who have had a vasectomy should be particularly careful in terms of their diet and body weight and exercise.

Specifically, such men should be sure to be on a relatively low-fat, low-cholesterol diet and avoid obesity and smoking cigarettes. I don't mind giving that advice because it's good for all men and if everybody did it, we'd have a significant decrease in heart attacks.

To give you a better idea of the factors that do increase your risk of heart attacks, I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-2, How To Measure Your Risk Of Heart Disease. Other readers who want this information can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Refraining from cigarette smoking could also prevent lung cancer, the leading cause of cancer deaths in men. If it were not for the increase in lung cancer, the deaths from cancer would actually be declining for each age group.

No, I don't think you can compare a vasectomy to your personal situation. There is no evidence that not having sex will lead to having heart disease. The simple truth is, as long as the exit for the sperm cells is not blocked, as occurs with a vasectomy, any build-up or accumulation of them will simply result in their migration to the prostate gland.

You may not realize that the sperm cells represent such a small portion of the male orgasm that you'd have trouble seeing their contribution with the naked eye.

Deadly Coincidence

James A. Garfield was elected to the presidency nearly a century ago. But he wasn't president for long. He died on this day in 1881, just six and a half months after taking office. Although Garfield had little time to accomplish anything as president, his death contributed to a strange and deadly coincidence involving the presidency. For the last 140 years, every president elected in a year ending in zero has died in office. The elections of 1840, 1920, and 1940 produced presidents who died of natural causes. The elections of 1860, 1880, 1900, and 1960 produced presidents who, like Mr. Garfield, were assassinated.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the most recent U.S. president to die in office?

Real estate bubble ready to deflate?

NEW YORK (AP) — Among certain securities analysts, a very popular topic these days is the "upcoming deflation of the real estate bubble."

Some are so convinced it will occur that each fortnight in the past two years they have so reminded their clients, betting that while the message might bore some it will give encouragement to others.

Stock market averages, it should be remembered, have gone nowhere in about 15 years, despite the best efforts of promoters. Meanwhile, investors in homes, it is popularly believed, have made a fortune.

Statistics seem to document the claim. The median sale price of existing single-family homes in 1973 was $29,900, according to records of the National Association of Realtors. So far in 1979 it is $57,900.

Home buying, in fact, has to some extent served as a substitute for stock market investing. It is not merely coincidence, they say, that individual participation in stocks fell as interest in housing rose.

And, they continue, as the bloom fades from housing, some of those prodigal investors will return. Some, it is said, might come back laden with housing profits and an inclination toward stocks.

At any rate, say these wizen observers of trends, what goes up comes down. Bubbles burst, whether in housing, stocks or tulips.

There's a big question, however, about what constitutes a bubble. Has a house whose price rose from $29,900 in 1973 to $57,900 bubbled? Or, in terms of buying power, has it merely risen with inflation?

Prices of some houses have indeed soared, even tripled, during the past six or seven years. Those who own them have bragged about their new role as capitalists. Millions more set out to reach that status.

What a marvelous new game. That became a general perception, but not the correct one. The median price of existing single-family houses hasn't risen any faster than prices in general.

Much of the attention seems due to the fact that houses are the biggest purchases made by families. Relative to other items, the price of a house is enormous. And when it grows, it grows more enormous.

Candidates resist political labels

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a presidential campaign, the political center is like a magnet, drawing candidates from the left and from the right toward the middle, where the votes are.

That's why most candidates — at least the successful ones — resist the labels of conservative or liberal, and insist that they look for solutions to fit the problem, not some preconceived ideology.

And that is what Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is doing now. It is not a matter of shifting positions, but of emphasis. Kennedy says he is no big-spending liberal, wedded to the solutions of the 1960s. Nor, he says, is he less concerned than the Carter administration about deficits and inflation.

That doesn't undo his past criticism of a federal budget he said shortchanged social spending. But he is not stressing that theme these days, as he considers a challenge to President Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

"We cannot accept a policy that cuts spending to the bone in areas like jobs and health, but allows billions of dollars in wasteful spending for tax subsidies and adds even greater fat and waste through inflationary spending for defense," he told Democrats at their mid-term convention last Dec. 9.

Kennedy still doesn't agree with the administration's spending priorities. But curiously, as he comes closer to presidential candidacy, he seems more cautious in his criticism of the man from whom he would have to wrest the nomination.

"I'm generally reluctant to get into critical positions on the administration," he said the other day. He didn't seem so reluctant when he was denouncing Carter's budget priorities, or accusing the administration of surrender to the oil lobby, or calling the proposed windfall profits tax "a transparent fig leaf."

He says he wants to cooperate with the Democratic White House. "I would like to work with them, as I indicated to the president, shaping the energy program, also in coming to grips with some of these issues of the economy," he said.

Kennedy said he is doing so now, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and in other areas as well. He said "we have strong workings now" with the administration on a new FBI charter and an overhaul of the criminal code.

"We're still working with HEW on most of the legislation," he said. "I think we're linked up in the energy area, on energy productivity and conservation."

He also mentioned his support of the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty with the Soviet Union.

"I think those lines are continuing and on-going, and I want to keep those efforts moving," he said.

O'Brien awards Portland three players and draft choice for losing Bill Walton

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I have this empty feeling in my stomach," said Bill Walton, rocked by the stiffest compensation award in pro sports history.

"I don't think it was fair," Walton said after San Diego Clipper teammates Kermit Washington, Kevin Kunnert, Randy Smith and a 1980 first-round draft pick were awarded to the Portland Trail Blazers Tuesday.

Ending a two-month tug-of-war, National Basketball Association Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien ruled that Washington, one of the league's prized power forwards, and Kunnert, a 7-foot reserve center, must go to Portland as payment for the loss of Walton.

The 6-foot-11, All-Pro center played out his option with the Trail Blazers and signed with the Clippers May 12, reportedly for the largest sports salary ever — a five-year contract calling for $900,000 per year.

If the year-old Clippers choose to keep Smith, a starting guard who averaged 18 points per game last year, they must pay Portland $350,000 and their 1982 first-round draft choice.

"It's a real setback," said Walton. "We were very close to a championship team. Indirectly, I'm somewhat responsible for that."

Walton's "durability" was the central question, O'Brien said. He said he took into account that Walton's contract "reflects a clear recognition by both San Diego and Walton that his past medical history created legitimate concerns about his ability to fully perform in the future."

After signing as the NBA's top draft choice of 1974, Walton, 26, was sidelined for half of the Trail Blazers' games. He sat out all of the 1977-78 season with a stress fracture in his foot, a year after winning MVP honors for leading Portland to the NBA championship.

"If Walton in his first five years had proven as durable as (Wilt) Chamberlain, (Bill) Russell and (Kareem) Abdul-Jabbar, it would be virtually impossible to calculate his value or to compensate Portland for his loss," said O'Brien, after reviewing written submissions and testimony from the two clubs. O'Brien noted that Walton's contract with the Clippers included "unique terms for salary reductions in the event he is unable to play a specified number of games."

"Therefore," ruled O'Brien, "I do not agree with Portland's arguments that San Diego's contractual agreement to Walton demonstrates that his 'durability' is no longer a risk and that his value must be judged solely on the basis of his skills."

Washington is 28, Kunnert 27 and Smith 30. Washington, in his sixth pro season, nearly surpassed his career high last year when he averaged 11.3 points per game. He led the club in rebounding with a 9.8 average.

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay said the addition of Washington and Kunnert "really solidifies our club."

The Clippers have until 5 p.m. EDT Thursday to decide whether they will keep Smith or send Portland the $350,000.

Writer studies compensation package

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Larry O'Brien had to answer two tough questions in determining compensation in the Bill Walton case:

First, how much is Walton worth? Second, and more difficult, how healthy is he?

It was that second question that made this case so intriguing, and opened the door to a double dose of second-guessing in the months, and years, to come.

If Walton is in top condition and plays for San Diego the way he did for Portland before breaking his foot in 1977, the commissioner's compensation package will look very skimpy, indeed. But if he is unable to return to prime condition, or suffers another in the series of severe knee, ankle, foot and wrist injuries that have marred his career, then it will be Portland that comes out way on top.

O'Brien announced Tuesday he was awarding Portland power forward Kermit Washington, center Kevin Kunnert, guard Randy Smith and a 1980 first-round draft choice. In order to give San Diego the chance to avoid losing three front-line players, O'Brien gave the Clippers the option of retaining Smith and sending Portland a 1982 first-round pick and $350,000 in his place.

As usual, the owners of both teams issued initial expressions of disappointment upon hearing of O'Brien's decision. Larry Fleisher, head of the Players Association, said he was going to study the full text before commenting.

But it was O'Brien who had to make the decision, and his ruling was totally in line with those made in previous compensation cases. Walton — even with his track record of injuries — is easily the best free agent to change teams, a far better player than Marvin Webster, who moved from Seattle to New York a year ago. And this award was by far the biggest the commissioner ever issued.

Yet O'Brien, without the benefit of 20-20 hindsight, managed to steer a middle course between rather extreme proposals made by the two teams involved, coming up with a compromise that appears eminently reasonable.

In Walton's five seasons in the National Basketball Association, he has appeared in 209 games, missing 49 percent of his team's regular season games — including all of the 1978-79 campaign. That factor weighed heavily in O'Brien's thinking as he determined this most complex compensation award in the four years the present free agent system has been in effect.

Walton had signed with San Diego on May 22, his five-year contract reportedly calling for more than $1 million a year in salary and fringe benefits — if he stays in good health, as he appears to be from early training camp reports. As expected, the teams never came close to agreeing on compensation on their own, so the case went to O'Brien.

Only time will tell the precise value of the compensation package, just as only time will tell how well Walton will play for San Diego. As O'Brien once said in describing the entire process, it's "at best an inexact science."

Miller ready for title

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller was heading for a good paycheck one year ago in Napa's pro golf tournament when he disqualified himself by turning in an incorrect scorecard.

It was that kind of a year for Miller, whose play and mental lapses left him with a mere $17,440 in tournament winnings. In 1974, at age 27, he topped the Professional Golfers Association money winners with $353,021.

The Napa tournament, an 11-year-old event which is offering a $300,000 purse this year, opens Thursday and no one is feeling sorry for Johnny Miller anymore.

He is, in fact, considered among the favorites in the event, the Anheuser-Busch Classic.

Tom Watson won the title last year but, because his wife had a baby last week, he is not on hand to try for a repeat victory. He'll be back on the tour at next week's World Series of Golf.

"No question about it. Johnny Miller is back," Watson said after beating Miller in a playoff three weeks ago to claim the title and first-place money in the Hall of Fame Classic at Pinehurst, N.C.

By tying for first after 72 holes, Miller made his best showing since winning the 1976 British Open.

TENNIS

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Top-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden defeated Antonio Munoz of Spain 6-4, 6-0 on the second day of the $75,000 International tennis championships.

In other matches, Buster Mottram of Britain defeated John Yull of South Africa 6-2, 6-0; local favorite Corrado Barazzutti beat countryman Graziano Risi, 6-4, 6-2 and America's Terry Moor beat Sweden's Stefan Simonson 6-2, 6-4.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fifth-seeded Brian Gottfried, ninth-seeded Pat DuPre and 12th-seeded Ilie Nastase were all upset victims in the $175,000 Jack Kramer Tennis Open at Pauley Pavilion.

Raul Ramirez of Mexico eliminated Gottfried 7-5, 6-4 in a second-round match. In first-round action, Vince Van Patten topped DuPre 6-2, 6-4 and Trey Waltke downed Nastase 6-4, 6-2.

Earlier, 13th-seeded Sandy Mayer was upset by Hank Pfister 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 in a second-round match while eighth-seeded Peter Fleming topped Tim Wilkison 6-4, 6-4.

Also in the first-round, fourth-seeded Jose-Luis Clerc of Argentina whipped Gene Malin 6-3, 6-2.

Houston's Hodge named SWC's top defensive player

HOUSTON (AP) — When the Florida Gators started gobbling up yardage against the Houston Cougar defense last Saturday, they usually ended up choking on UH linebacker David Hodge.

In the first quarter, Hodge decked running back Lonell Brown on a third down and one situation at the UH 18 yard line, where the Gators missed a field goal. In the third quarter he planted Brown for a four yard loss on third down at the UH 48.

In the air-tight closing moments when Houston was protecting a 14-7 lead, Hodge tackled a runner for a three yard gain on second down and on third down jumped on Gator quarterback Tim Groves causing an incomplete pass and forcing Florida to settle for a field goal.

Florida never got the ball again as Houston won in the second half for the second week and Hodge, who finished the game with 10 unassisted tackles and five assists, won The Associated Press Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week honor.

Despite his drive-killing performance, Hodge, a first team All-SWC performer last season, didn't look back on the game with total satisfaction.

"I'm really surprised because I don't feel like I played that good," said Hodge, ever the perfectionist. "We played well enough to win but I missed a lot of keys and I didn't tackle as well as I did against UCLA. And I didn't get (Groves) the quarterback on that touchdown."

Groves scored Florida's only touchdown in the first quarter on a four yard run, careening off of Hodge at the goal line.

"But we are playing more together now," Hodge observed. "We may sit back awhile, but then we will rise to the occasion when we have to do it."

When it comes to rising to the occasion, UH players usually find themselves casting quick glances in Hodge's direction. And Hodge seldom disappoints them.

"I don't feel any extra pressure to make the big plays but sometimes it's up to Steve (Bradham, the other UH linebacker) or me to make the good tackle," Hodge said.

Hodge prefers to lead by action, but he's starting to talk more.

"I try to let everybody see that I am trying my hardest and then if I say 'come on, give me a hand,' that gives them the incentive to do something more," Hodge said.

Darryl Ray McGallion, a former UH linebacker and currently a UH defensive aide, says he couldn't ask for a better pupil than Hodge.

Moore's birds take top spots

Margie Moore had the top three finishers in the Top O' Texas Racing Pigeon Club's Saturday event.

Eighty-four birds from eight lofts were released for the 150-mile race, which started under partly cloudy and calm weather conditions.

Moore's top pigeons finished with speeds of 936.357, 921.765 and 904.500. Jim Cantrell's birds, with times of 902.280 and 901.343, finished fourth and fifth, while another Moore entry was sixth in 900.793.

Darrell Bolin's pigeon was seventh in 898.852, while Marion Waldrop was eighth in 898.146.

Pampa at or near top of statistical categories

After two weeks of the 1979 football campaign, Pampa boasts the top passer, receiver and scorer among District 3-AAAA teams.

Harvester quarterback Greg Quarles has amassed 164 yards through the air by completing eight of 20 attempts. His yardage total is more than twice that of his nearest competitor, Chuck Smith of Palo Duro. Smith has 74 yards on five completions.

Junior Steve McDougall, meanwhile, is defending his district receiving title in grand style. With six catches for 105 yards, he is 50 yards ahead of Jimmie Rifenberg of Amarillo High, who has five catches. McDougall's 17.5-yard per catch average is also tops in the loop.

Another Harvester junior, Bobby Dorsey, has scored three touchdowns, including his 83-yard kickoff return against Dumas last week, to lead district scorers with 18 points. Arthur L. Williams of Pampa has 12 points, putting him in a tie for second place with Mark Mathiasmeier of AHS and Palo Duro's Robert Jenkins.

Harvester Billy Grimes is the only kicker on the scoring leaders list. He has one field goal and five extra point boots to his credit.

Pampa is far in front of the district pack in total offense. The Harvesters are averaging 329 yards per game, almost 100 yards better than second-place Amarillo High's 237.5 mark.

The Sandies rule in total defense, however. They're allowing their opponents just 154.5 yards per game, while the Harvesters are the only other district team under the 200-yard mark. Coach Danny Palmer's defense is surrendering 170.5 yards per contest.

The Harvesters also hold the dubious title of being the most penalized team in the district. Pampa has been assessed 200 yards through 18 penalties. The Sandies of AHS have just 27 yards in the negative column, having been penalized only four times in two games.

Mathiasmeier holds a slim lead in the individual rushing race over Pampa fullback Doug Kennedy. AHS's Mathiasmeier has carried 43 times for 239 yards, compared to Kennedy's 210 yards on 40 attempts.

Here is a complete list of the statistics in District 3-AAAA:

Total offense
 Pampa — 480 rushing, 178 passing, 658 total, 32<sup>2</sup>/<sub>7</sub> average.

Jackson on trade list

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson's days as a New York Yankee may be numbered...if the Yankees can find a team that will take the slugger out of the park.

New York Manager Billy Martin reportedly has twice urged General Manager Cedric Tallis to make a trade for the hard-hitting right fielder.

"We have to get rid of him," Martin was quoted as saying. "He is a disruptive force."

Martin said in Cleveland Tuesday night that Jackson's name has come up "like any other player's" in trade talks "because we're always discussing possible trades."

However, Jackson has a trade-approval clause in the five-year $2.7 million contract he signed as a free agent in November 1976.

'Jewish Bomber' blames referee

Rossmann stopped by journeyman fighter

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Mike Rossman chose to blame the referee rather than himself for his stunning defeat at the hands of Ramon Ranquello, a defeat which puts a serious damper on any designs the former light-heavyweight champion had of regaining the title.

Rossmann was stopped with 10 seconds remaining in the sixth round Tuesday night by Ranquello, a journeyman fighter at best. Ranquello decked Rossman with smashing right hands twice in the sixth round — the first time with 39 seconds to go and then again with 34 seconds remaining.

Ranquello, who had been floored twice in the third round, then charged back at the 23-year-old Rossman, but referee Paul Venti interceded and stopped the scheduled 12-round bout at Giants Stadium.

Rossmann was furious. He verbally assaulted Venti in the ring and again in the lockerroom. Rossman indeed looked hurt and glassy-eyed. But there was only 10 seconds remaining in the round and it seemed he could have held on and regrouped between rounds.

"When a fighter's welfare is at stake, there is no time for clocks," Venti said.

Rossmann wasn't buying that.

"How can you stop the fight? One guy gets knocked down twice and the fight continues. The other gets knocked down twice and it's over," he said angrily.

It was an extremely costly defeat for the Turnersville, N.J., native. Victor Galindez was recently stripped of his World Boxing Association title and Rossman and Marvin Johnson were the likely candidates to fight for the vacant crown.

That's now down the drain, along with a lucrative payday.

Rossmann was an easy target for the lumbering Ranquello, 26, who improved his record to 14-5-1. Rossman didn't seem to be bothered by the right hand he broke in the Galindez fight but was defenseless against Ranquello's thunderous rights.

Broyles says playoff for grid title 'inevitable'

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

A major college postseason football playoff seems to be a dead issue...for now.

But Frank Broyles, Arkansas' athletic director and former football coach, still says such a playoff is "inevitable."

Broyles was one of an outspoken minority whose playoff proposal was beaten down by the bowls.

"We didn't foresee this much organized opposition. We didn't foresee the bowls taking such a strong stand, banding together and rallying support," he says. "It was their asserted opinion that the bowls would be ruined if we had even a four-team playoff."

The NCAA's Extra Events Committee, of which Broyles is a member and former chairman, had recommended that such a playoff proposal be brought before next January's NCAA convention. But the Division I Steering Committee recommended to the all-powerful NCAA Council that the issue not even come up for a vote. The Council went along with that suggestion.

"It's somewhat of a dead issue at this particular time," says Dave Strack, athletic director at the University of Arizona and current chairman of the Extra Events Committee.

"Who can tell what the future might hold, but we've decided it would be beating a dead horse to pursue it as a committee at this time."

"The bowls feel they have served college football very well and they feel they're the best thing for college football," says Broyles. "They've convinced many coaches that the structure we have now is better than a playoff. They cite the financial aspects, the good times, no pressure...things like that."

"Maybe our feeling supporting a playoff is ahead of its time, like solar energy. But it's inevitable that we need a playoff, not for the 20 or 25 schools who will succeed with soccer or anything else. But what about the other schools who are in financial straits? The economic factor will be felt down the line."

"For a playoff to happen now we need something dramatic, but I don't know what. The public wants it. The public is probably for it 98 percent and I think their influence will be felt down the line."

Mackovic a 'Little Bo'?

Because Michigan's Bo Schembechler once coached under Woody Hayes and adopted many of Hayes' peculiar attitudes toward the media, he became known as "Little Woody." Now we have Wake Forest's John Mackovic, who once coached under Schembechler as a graduate assistant at Miami of Ohio, hails from Schembechler's hometown of Barberton, Ohio, and may become known as "Little Bo."

Ordinarily one of the most cordial and pleasant members of the coaching fraternity, Mackovic blew his cork at the Georgia media following Wake Forest's stunning 22-21 upset of the University of Georgia.

"Some magazine picked us as one of the 20 worst teams in the country and we were in that Los Angeles guy's Bottom Ten," Mackovic said. "And the first thing when we got to Athens, some guy wanted to know if I could explain why Georgia was so worried about us."

"When you come in as a three- or four-touchdown underdog people make up cute things to say. I don't mind that. But it was too much when somebody wrote that Dooley's Bulldogs would make mincemeat out of Mackovic's Meatballs. No 18-year-old deserves to be called a meatball. I've never read more disgusting stuff in my life."

Dooley's Bulldogs turned out to be the cream puffs. Wake Forest erupted for 287 yards on the ground and 283 through the air in pulling off one of the season's major upsets.

And when it was over, Mackovic said he would talk to the North Carolina media "but the Georgia press could leave our lockerroom, as far as I was concerned." Some did, some didn't, but it appears that the Demon Deacons may be more demoralized than deacon, for a change.

Restic visits pros

Joe Restic coached in the Canadian Football League before coming to Harvard but he hadn't been associated with the NFL since playing with the Philadelphia Eagles in the early 1950s. Until this summer, that is.

Restic, whose wild and crazy Multiflex offense has sent opposing coaches into shock, spent five weeks working with the Los Angeles Rams' quarterbacks.

"They were talking about doing some things with motion and shifting," says Restic, who has been known to put his quarterback in motion, on occasion.

Cowboys not thrilled about Monday night in Cleveland

DALLAS (AP) — Monday night games are bad enough for the Dallas Cowboys.

But Monday night in Cleveland? Tom Landry had rather not.

"I really don't know why we don't have a better Monday night record," said Landry, whose team is 7-6 on that day of the week. "I really haven't thought about it much."

But Landry does have memories of playing in Municipal Stadium.

"I have memories of mud up to my ankles," said Landry. "It seems like it rains everytime we play there."

Dallas is 2-8 against the Browns in Cleveland.

"We've only won two games up there," Landry asked. "That's all?"

Dallas' biggest victory in Cleveland was 6-2 in 1970 played in the mud. It put Dallas in the playoffs and on the road to its first Super Bowl appearance.

Cleveland is just one of five NFL clubs that hold an edge in the all-time series with the Cowboys (14-7). But Dallas won the last meeting 41-17 at Texas Stadium.

Landry began preparations for the game this week by setting up a fumbling drill for star tailback Tony Dorsett, who was booed last week for his three lost fumbles to the Chicago Bears.

"The fans are entitled to do what they want to do and Tony has to learn to handle it (the boos)," said Landry. "We all have been booed from time to time."

Dorsett, playing only his second game since he broke a toe by dropping a mirror on it in July, gained 108 yards Sunday in Dallas' 24-20 National Football League victory over Chicago.

Because of the fumbles, he was booed at Texas Stadium for the first time.

"Let 'em boo," Dorsett said after the game. "I don't have to work for those people everyday. I just want my teammates to believe in me. Fans are fickle and they expect the Cowboys to be almost perfect."

Landry ordered "the gauntlet" for this week's drills.

"We usually don't have the gauntlet until we have a (fumbling) problem," said Landry. "A back just runs through a line of players with everyone grabbing at the ball. We also do it in dummy scrimmages. The drill just makes backs more conscious of holding onto the ball."

Landry only blamed Dorsett for one fumble.

"The first one was an exchange problem and the second one could have happened to anyone...somebody's headgear hit the ball," said Landry. "The third one was his (Dorsett's) fault."

Oliver leads Ranger victory

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Al Oliver drove in three runs with four hits as the Texas Rangers beat the Oakland A's 9-5 Tuesday night.

Oliver, who raised his batting average to .330, had a two-run double in the third, giving the Rangers a 3-2 lead. Oliver drove in another run with a single in the fifth and finished his night with singles in the seventh and ninth.

The game was played before only 750 spectators, the second smallest crowd of the year for the A's.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

September 20, 1979

Although you'll move cautiously this coming year, your mind will be extremely receptive to new and revolutionary ideas. What you absorb will contribute to your future success.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's seldom that you are ever anything but a responsible individual and today is no exception, but you could let your imagination lure you into thinking you're a sacrificial lamb. How to get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're not careful, the early morning "grumpies" could put you in a bad mood for the whole day. Don't allow negative thinking to gain the upper hand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) When it comes to finances, you might fluctuate between extreme wastefulness and being tight-fisted today. Balance your reasoning.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Feelings of insecurity could have you trying too hard and oversteering the vehicle you've chosen to accomplish your purpose. Keep loose and you'll stay on the road.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Isolation is not the answer to solving a difficult problem today. Get out and mix with as many people as possible. Someone out there will offer a quick solution.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) One of your dreams may lack realistic possibilities. Before applying all your energies toward this goal, first check on its feasibility.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do only what is proper at all times today and guard your reputation. Even cute, harmless ploys could be misunderstood.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency to mistake wishful thinking for a brainstorm today. Stick to the proven practical route and you'll avoid trouble.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An opportunity to do something different with pals could arise today. Just make certain that your common sense guides you at all times.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's good that you are loyal to your family, but don't blindly accept a concept a kinfolk has that you know is wrong. Point out his error.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have a good head for getting difficult chores or mental work out of the way today. Don't let early morning doldrums delay your starting time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Before plunking your hard-earned money down on a glamorous item, let experience guide you as to how often you might use it. Think instead of fantasizing.

Prosecutor will watch disbarment procedures

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — The man responsible for prosecuting Oscar McNinn on federal perjury charges later this year will be watching as testimony begins today in the Hidalgo County district attorney's disbarment trial.

"My proceeding is 100 percent separate from this lawsuit," U.S. Attorney Tony Canales of Houston said Tuesday afternoon. "There are FBI agents and some of my assistants subpoenaed as witness here. I'm down here to see what my boys are up to."

Canales conferred briefly Tuesday with lawyers for the State Bar of Texas, which filed a civil suit to strip McNinn of his law license due to allegations of professional misconduct.

After more than eight hours of questioning Tuesday, five women and seven men were selected as jurors.

A federal grand jury in Brownsville indicted McNinn and Patricia Parada for lying about the alleged scheme to lure to lure her former spouse to Mexico where he would be killed. The intended victim in the purported plot, Noe Villanueva, was not killed.

Canales' office presented evidence to the grand jury that indicted McNinn and Miss Parada. The federal prosecutor said no date has been set yet on the perjury charges.

In the bar's suit, the jury will be asked to decide if McNinn violated standards of his profession as alleged by the bar. If the jurors agree with the bar's formal complaint, State District Judge Joe B. Evins will decide whether to reprimand McNinn, temporarily suspend his law license or permanently ban his future practice of law.

Both federal and state grand juries also had charged McNinn and Miss Parada with conspiracy to commit murder but those charges later were either dismissed or thrown out.

In his 12 years as district attorney, McNinn became known as a tough, efficient prosecutor who emerged the victor in two murder trials defended by lawyer Percy Foreman of Houston.

His reputation and general popularity have heightened publicity and local interest in his current legal troubles.

Of the 50 prospective jurors questioned, several said they already had an opinion about the case. None of the opinionated jury prospects were chosen for the panel.

"It reel like, I have always felt like that Oscar is being framed," said Jack Hanshaw, a prospective juror who said his wife bought at least six $5 tickets to a recent barbecue dinner honoring McNinn.

The district attorney claims Hidalgo County Sheriff Brig Marmolejo and other officials conspired to replace him in office with Jon Wood, an attorney and friend of the sheriff.

Pending a separate suit to remove him from office, McNinn is suspended from official duties but continues drawing his $36,000 annual paycheck.

The disbarment trial could last between two to four weeks. Evins has told lawyers on both sides not to discuss the case with reporters and has stationed two Texas Rangers from Uvalde and San Antonio in the courtroom apparently for security reasons.

U.S., Canada engaging in chicken diplomacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Canada are engaging in chicken diplomacy in an effort to smooth ruffled feathers caused by a surge in broiler traffic across the border.

American broiler producers have found Canada a growing market, but Canadian chicken growers want the shipments curtailed to help improve their domestic prices.

Private meetings were scheduled here today and in Ottawa on Oct. 1 to examine the issues. The Agriculture Department says no decisions are expected in the opening round of sessions.

A spokesman for the Canadian embassy here told a reporter the issue involves an attempt since 1974 by producers to put into effect a national chicken marketing program similar to those for turkeys and eggs.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said Tuesday a system of production controls and penalties for over-production have been instituted in Canada's provinces in recent months.

"That gives us a right under GATT (the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) to impose certain kinds of quantitative restrictions on imports," the spokesman said.

Canada's overall chicken plan is scheduled to begin Oct. 1, but "how they would deal with imports, in that respect, I'm not sure," he said.

Officials in the Agriculture Department say they are not fully informed of Canada's chicken plan and that the meeting will clear up some of the questions.

Thomas R. Saylor, associate administrator of USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service, said Canada has had centralized marketing in most of its agricultural sectors, including a national wheat marketing program, since 1935.

"The intent (of the chicken program) is to control the domestic supply and support producer prices by having some regulation of supply, both from the standpoint of imports and domestic production," he said.

"We feel we have certain rights under GATT's international rules," Saylor told a reporter.

"We want to make sure, first of all, that the program is within the international rules. They can only undertake import restraints if they are effectively limiting production."

"Secondly, we think we have had a growing market up there and we'd like to preserve that market," Saylor said. "Therefore, we will be arguing — if they do impose quotas — for levels that maintain the flow that we've seen in recent years."

U.S. broiler production is riding a record peak, triggered by a reduction in beef supplies. Both poultry and pork output have risen to help fill the gap.

Lately, however, broiler prices have sagged and producers say they need all the markets they can get, including Canada.

According to USDA figures, total exports of dressed whole and cut-up broilers to all countries rose 15.2 percent to 150,203 metric tons in 1978 from 130,368 in 1976.

Shipments to Canada, meanwhile, rose 12.6 percent to 8,208 metric tons last year from 7,290 in 1976.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds. But exports of live chickens to Canada rose much more sharply to about 7.14 million birds last year, up by more than 40 percent from about 5.1 million in 1976, according to Canadian import reports compiled by USDA.

WASHINGTON (AP) — By mid-month, the nation's corn crop was generally "rated good and in some localities, excellent," says the Agriculture Department.

Last week, based on surveys Sept. 1, the department estimated the harvest at a record 7.27 billion bushels, up from 7.08 billion last year, the previous high.

The report, a weekly "weather and crop" summary, said that by Sept. 16 corn was "1 to 2 weeks late in South Dakota and the Great Lakes states" and that development throughout most of the Corn Belt was behind normal for this time of year.

For example, it said, "only 5 percent of the Minnesota crop reached maturity" by mid-month, which was "far behind the average of 49 percent."

Made-for-television movies exhibit tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's a sort of "made-for-TV-movie" exhibit tonight, displaying the form both in its usual state of mediocrity and as the mature entertainment it sometimes is.

First, the definitive TV movie, "Sex and the Single Parent," on CBS. This is two hours of divorced adults worrying about, talking about, laughing about sex while trying to cope with their kids. Same old surface conflicts and emotions that are the chief ingredients of the common made-for-TV-movie.

This may be a first run, but you've seen this TV movie before. And you'll see it again. Different titles, different networks and different actors, but it'll show up again. It's like junk mail, cluttering the airwaves instead of your mailbox.

Susan St. James and Mike Farrell are the names and faces in this one, divorced and good-looking both, and each a parent. In the first part of the movie, they spend time proving that the singles scene in Los Angeles is less fun than dysentery.

Anyway, these two homebodies-at-heart meet, fall in love and battle with their kids. Farrell and St. James are likeable enough to make the whole thing tolerable, but not worthwhile.

At the other end of the exhibit is "Mrs. R's Daughter" on NBC, a sober-minded, highly potent account of a mother's efforts to bring her daughter's rapist to justice. Cloris Leachman's performance as the mother and Dan Curtis's skillful direction — each artfully restrained — carry this true story beyond the ranks of the standard hell-bent-for-vengeance yarns.

The storyline itself is not new — the justice system as accomplice in rape. The sluggish bureaucracy, with its delays and loopholes and overworked prosecutors and plea bargains, is the antagonist.

The skill is in presenting the individual prosecutors and cops involved in the case as sympathetic people who stand against our heroine only in that they are part of an immovable indifference.

No sooner has one prosecutor learned the case and won the confidence of the victim (Season Hubley), than he is taken off the case. Countless prosecutors and judges trample through before a trial ever takes place.

But Leachman is a woman possessed, her quest for justice fired by each frustration, every new dead-end. When she realizes that police don't consider her daughter's case top-priority, she finds the criminal herself.
