Cancer suspected

Shah undergoes surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi underwent exploratory surgery today, New York Hospital officials said, and there was speculation the operation involved cancer for which the shah reportedly has been under treatment for years.

The shah was taken to the recovery room, shortly before noon, hospital spokesman Eamon Brennan said, quoting the shah's personal spokesman.

It was not announced how long the shah had been in surgery.

Dr. Benjamin Kean, physician of the deposed Iranian ruler, went into the operating room with a team of surgical specialists some time this morning, said Kean's office manager, Mary Wilson.

Miss Wilson described the surgery as exploratory because she said the doctors did not know what they would find. Various news accounts said the surgery was for removal of the shah's gall bladder.

Meanwhile, Empress Farah, wife of the ailing ruler, arrived at the hospital around 7 a.m., under the eyes of a heavy security force the shah brought with him when he flew here from Mexico on Monday night.

A spokesman, Robert Armao, described the shah as in good spirits, saying he was "happy to be in the United States." Armao said reports of the shah's condition had been exaggerated.

"He is far from breathing his last breath, but obviously he is an ill man," the American spokesman said. Armao said the shah had received "thousands of telegrams from Iranians" wishing him well.

A hospital administrator said reports on the shah's condition would be updated today, but declined to say what information, if any, had been obtained through various tests already completed.

A State Department source, who asked not to be identified, said the shah had a blocked bile duct and was suffering from cancer. He did not specify the type of cancer.

The New York Daily News today quoted unidentified sources as saying the shah had lymphoma, cancer of the lymph system, and had been receiving chemotherapy treatment for years.

It said the chemotherapy recently had become less effective and the shah had developed a high fever and lost weight.

CBS and the Daily News, meanwhile, reported the shah would undergo gallbladder surgery today. Blockage of the ducts through which bile leaves the liver can be caused by tumors, inflammation and gallstones.

The newspaper said Dr. Benjamin Kean, the shah's personal physician, would oversee a team of surgeons including Dr. Burton Lee, a noted lymphoma specialist, in the operation.

The shah, who will be 60 on Friday, received visits Tuesday from his wife, the Empress Farah, and other relatives in the $300-a-day room at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center where his own bodyguards were joined by private agents.

The luxurious Beekman Place townhouse owned by his sister, where the Empress Farah is staying, also is under heavy guard. City police were not assigned to protect the shah but they reportedly beefed up their patrols around the hospital.

The new government of Iran, led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, has put a $135,000 price on the shah's head and promised asylum to the person who assassinates him. A Tehran newspaper has offered a free trip to Mecca, the burial place of the prophet Mohammad and Islam's holiest shrine, for anyone who kills the ruler deposed in a January revolution.

The shah arrived in New York by private jet from Mexico on Monday, traveling on a special visa for medical treatment only.

Although he had been active and in apparent good health during his exile in Mexico, observers were quoted as saying he had taken a turn for the worse in recent weeks, lost weight and was jaundiced.

Local attorney unanimously approved

Fields fills vacant spot on School Board

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Of The Pampa News

The Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees approved the appointment of Pampa attorney Kenneth W. Fields to the board in its regular meeting Tuesday.

Fields was unanimously approved by the board to replace former member and president Albert J. Smith, who recently moved to Brazil.

Fields was administered the oath of office by Darville Orr, school board president. He then took his place at the board for the remainder of the meeting.

The approval of due bills was considered by the board. Paul Simmons questioned whether athletic insurance for the high school was to be annually reviewed. Superintendent Bob Phillips said as far as he knew, it was to be continued until the board was dissatisfied with the coverage. Simmons asked the administration to check on the matter.

After more discussion, the due bills and invoices were approved.

Asked about the school system's cash flow, Phillips said early payment of taxes by Celanese and Cabot Corp. have helped.

"So far, we're in real good shape," he said. He added the school district will receive reimbursement from the state for the tax exemptions as provided by House Bill 1060. Phillips said the reimbursements would be received in six payments beginning in February. The exact amount of the reimbursement is not known at this time.

The board received a report on the testing program for the Pampa ISD from Marjorie Gaut, assistant to the Superintendent for Educational Services. She explained the testing as an important part of the guidance program, helping the teachers identify the strengths and weaknesses of the students.

Gaut identified two types of tests used in the program as norm referenced and criterion referenced. The norm referenced tests compare students with a randomly selected population of students and score the students in percentiles. The criterion referenced tests are designed to inventory the student's knowledge and are not as pressuring as the norm referenced tests.

Essie Mae Walters, counselor for the Pampa Middle School stressed to the board that standardized tests should not be over-emphasized. She said she was glad the board had not over-emphasized the tests in the past.

Good teaching, discipline, stability, socio-economic conditions and mobility of the population were listed by Walters as important factors in testing results.

Reports were given by Betty Thom Graham, mathematics coordinator, and Arlene Gibson, reading coordinator for the district.

During questioning by the board, it was brought out the tests are not used to show what a child knows, but shows the weaknesses and strengths of a child in certain areas.

In other action, the board decided to authorize the school district's attorney, J.E. Thompson, to intervene in the Grandview-Hopkins ISD vs. County Clerk Wanda Carter declaratory judgment case. (See related story elsewhere on this page.)

After meeting in executive session, the board accepted the resignation of Donna Doggett, a special education teacher at Baker Elementary, effective Dec. 22. Two new teachers were hired by the board: Jeanie Koch to be the fourth grade teacher at Woodrow Wilson Elementary, and Kay Emerson as speech therapist for Baker Elementary.

Taxing entities enter suit

Two Pampa taxing entities decided in separate meetings Tuesday to authorize their respective attorneys to intervene in the Grandview-Hopkins vs. Wanda Carter declaratory judgment suit.

The suit was termed the Grandview-Hopkins ISD attorney as a "Declaratory judgment to construe Senate Bill 621," which provides for the formation of a district tax appraisal board.

Pampa city commissioners took the step after considering advice from City Attorney Don Lane at Tuesday's meeting.

According to City Manager Mack Wofford, the commissioners took action to ask leave of the 223rd District court to intervene in the Grandview-Hopkins vs. the Gray County Clerk suit. The purpose of the intervention, Wofford said, is to specifically represent the city of Pampa's interest in the case.

Lane explained that in order for the city to intervene, permission must be granted by the court enabling the city to present its arguments as related to the formation of the Gray County tax appraisal board. He said an instrument must be filed with the court, seeking permission and giving good cause for the intervention.

Intervention in the declaratory judgment suit was also considered by the Pampa Independent School District's Board of Trustees in its meeting Tuesday.

New board member Kenneth Fields, a Pampa attorney, told the board the intervention "puts you in the suit and makes you bound by what the court declares."

Fields said he favored the move and added if the Pampa ISD decided to join in the intervention, his firm partner, David Holt, who is handling the suit for Grandview-Hopkins ISD, may have to resign as the plaintiff's attorney, due to conflicts of interest within the law firm.

The school board resolved to authorize their attorney, J.E. Thompson, to apply to the 223rd District Court for intervention in the suit

JIM CAMPBELL

For John Connally

Campbell running campaign

By MELANIE MILLER
Of The Pampa News

Seventeen years after he first got involved in political campaigning, Pampa rancher Jim Campbell has finally hit the big time — he's just been named the Texas campaign coordinator for Republican presidential candidate John Connally.

In 1962, he played a similar role for gubernatorial candidate Jack Cox and two years later he worked on Barry Goldwater's presidential campaign.

Campbell is responsible for organizing Connally's campaign in Texas. He also supervises 24 district chairmen plus campaign chairmen in larger metropolitan areas such as Dallas and Houston.

Wales Madden of Amarillo is state chairman of the campaign. Campbell has two deputy campaign coordinators, Ken Towery of Austin and Scott Caben of Houston.

"I've been doing this (for Connally's campaign) since March but we only announced it about two weeks ago," Campbell said. "The campaign has been going well."

He sees two major goals for the campaign. The first is the Texas primary, scheduled May 3.

"One of our biggest challenges is to convince the Connally supporter that he has to vote in the Republican primary," Campbell said. He added that they've got a "coalition" of Republicans and Democrats working in the campaign.

Connally, former Texas governor, changed parties, joining the Republican side in June of 1972. Campbell doesn't think that move will hurt his candidate.

"Most Republicans have voted Democratic before," he said. "Besides, we've seen more and more Democrats become Republican as that party went more and more to the left."

He adds that Connally's support comes "from all across the board," not just from big business or any other single group.

Campbell denies rumors of Connally being a "Johnny-come-lately," saying, "He didn't switch parties until after Watergate became a real scandal — it certainly wasn't opportunistic for him then."

He added that any link his candidate may have had with Watergate is pure "implication" because Connally left the White House two weeks before the actual break-in.

"He was never on the tapes or anything — he was never in the room where the tape machine was," he said. "Once he left the White House, he never went back."

Campbell also says the so-called "milk scandal" was an "attempt to assassinate Connally politically" and that he was framed. He adds that his candidate was acquitted by a Washington, D.C., jury after evidence was presented that Connally never accepted bribe money from a milk group as his indictment said.

If Connally wins the Republican nomination next July 14 in Detroit, Campbell believes he'll carry Texas 2 to 1 over the Democratic nominee. Right now, he thinks the Democrats will nominate Teddy Kennedy, a man he claims Texans have never liked. He doubts President Carter will be renominated.

"For one thing, no incumbent President whose popularity rating fell below 25 percent during his tenure has ever been re-elected," Campbell said. "Jimmy Carter's has dipped as low as 19 percent."

Campbell believes the public blames Carter for "failing to lead in anything and his indecision and contradictions bother the public the most."

"Connally plans to outline his positions on major issues more than Carter ever did," he said. Connally's recent stand on the Middle East caused a furor, but Campbell said Connally "thinks peace is vital to the Middle East and his stand calls for the Palestinians to discipline themselves."

"He's planning on taking tough stands on tough issues and standing by them," Campbell said.

Crash of State Fair ride continues

DALLAS (AP) — Witnesses said the accident started when one gondola on the "Swiss Skyride" jammed on a suspension tower while the other cars on the ride continued to move.

One by one, three other gondolas piled up behind the jammed car, until the cable slipped off the suspension tower and sagged up and down like a rubber band, the witnesses said.

At that point, "that should have shut down the ride. It did not," said state fair manager Wayne Gallagher.

Two of the gondolas fell off the cable and plunged to the top of two crowded midway games on the ground, 65 feet under the cable car ride.

One man playing at a booth was struck by the arm of a gondola and killed as the car ripped through the booth's canopy top. Sixteen others, including his wife and three daughters, were injured.

The other gondola fell on an adjacent canopy, but did not break through.

Gallagher said the emergency stop switch on the $500,000 ride did not function.

but he said he did not know why the gondolas dropped to the ground.

"If the cable comes off the tower, the system should shut down. How or why it didn't — we just don't know," Gallagher said.

He said the ride got a "clean bill of health" after an inspection Oct. 5 and one last December by an engineer sent by the ride manufacturer. He acknowledged there have been no state or federal inspections of the ride.

Gallagher said he had not ruled out 23-mile-an-hour winds gusting to 35 mph as a factor in causing the first car to jam, but said the exact cause had not been determined.

"We cannot presume the wind did it. The ride was designed for a 36 mile-an-hour wind factor, but the direction is as critical if not more than the speed of the wind," Gallagher said.

He said the winds were from the south and thus parallel to the north-south cable car. A similar ride at the Six Flags Over Texas amusement park between Dallas and Fort Worth was closed Sunday because of high winds, but Gallagher said that ride runs east to west, placing it perpendicular to the winds.

On Monday, the ride manager, Bill Hawkins, said a wind monitor to stop the tram automatically if winds are too strong did not function, but Gallagher said the state fair ride had no such wind monitor.

"There is no automatic shut-off activated by high winds," he said. "It is a judgment decision. Ride operators watch it. They ride it, they check it."

But he said he was not ruling out the winds. "We're not ruling out anything until we know everything," Gallagher said.

Economist says sacrifices necessary to cure inflation

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Herbert Stein, a former economic advisor to the White House, says the great illness of inflation "can't be cured by some magic potion" and any solution will take some sacrifices on the part of Americans.

Stein, now a professor at the University of Virginia, told a seminar in Houston Tuesday the tight money policy of the Federal Reserve Board will eventually help cure the disease of inflation and a conservative, free market approach would be another antibiotic.

But, he warned, there may be higher unemployment and no reduction in income taxes until the air has been let out of the inflation balloon.

Stein, once chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, said now is the time that the nation's chief executive told the people he would stop inflation "whether or not it costs your jobs or mine. If you insist on continuing recent rates of wage increases, businesses and consumers will be unable to hire you and you will lose jobs. Do not expect the government to bail you out by pumping up the economy."

The economist also said the decline in the share "of national output going to defense shouldn't continue. It should be reversed. There is no economic reason why we can't have much more secure defense. We could reach a situation of relative weakness."

The nation's security, he said, is being threatened by foreign oil producing nations and "for the first time in American history our economy is exposed to the risk of serious damage by a decision of foreign and possible hostile powers to withhold essential supplies."

Stein spoke at a special meeting for business and academic leaders sponsored by The Center for International Business.

Later, Howard Kauffmann, president of Exxon Corp., said no policy now existed to encourage energy production.

"We've bred a crazy-quilt system of regulations administered by cumbersome bureaucratic apparatus. Crucial decisions that affect this country's, and indeed the world's, economic future are being made in conformance with political, diplomatic and other factors that often have little to do with energy supply."

The president of the world's largest oil company said "because we have failed to get our priorities in order, domestic oil production is below what it could be."

Kauffmann said there may be a sufficient energy supply in 1985, but that it will cost.

"The day may have passed when simple market forces alone can achieve an equilibrium between oil demand and supply," he said.

The oil company executive added, "environmental constraints have slowed and in some cases prevented access to some of the most promising areas. Major energy development projects, involving billions of dollars, such as pipelines and offshore production facilities, have been delayed or even aborted."

"Controls on the price of crude oil and refined products have encouraged wasteful and inefficient use of supplies. By holding prices at artificially low levels we've also discouraged discovery and development of oil and gas as well as alternative energy resources," Kauffmann said.

Cook to speak at API meeting

Ron Cook, engineer for Haliburton Services, will be the speaker at Thursday's meeting of the American Petroleum Institute. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Jim's Steakhouse.

Cook will speak on "Primary Cementing, the Mud Displacement Process." It will concern ways people who drill for oil can get a better cementing job.

Howell waltzes to promote record

A young songwriter and musician from Levelland recently waltzed 1,500 miles across the western half of Texas promoting his single, "Cotton-Eyed Joe Across Texas". Lannie Joe Howell set out on his do-it-yourself promotion campaign after Don Caldwell, owner of a recording studio in Lubbock, suggested he make an attempt to get the record on juke boxes — a "good market" for the dance-type single.

Howell was determined to sell his record, which features a country waltz — "There's a Little bit of Cowboy in Us All" — on the flip side. The young man talked to disc jockeys, nightclub owners and representatives from vending companies, which own many juke box enterprises.

"Ninety percent of the people I'd go to were really receptive about the project," said Howell, who visited more than 50 radio stations and vending company owners. "The disc jockeys would often take time to listen to the record, sometimes invite me into the control room for an interview and a tape of the record."

"I'd get a real good plug that way," he explained, and added that he learned about some aspects of the music business operation and how to relate to different people.

After waltzing the distance between towns, Howell usually headed for a phone booth to check the Yellow Pages and to the local chamber of commerce for a city map.

When he was in Pampa, he contacted a girl he knew. She helped him locate the owner of a juke box business and Howell played him a tape of his recording.

During the trip, more than 30 radio stations played "Cotton-Eyed Joe Across Texas" — called by many area disc jockeys "a good solid tune." In Morton, located northwest of Lubbock and Levelland, the song rose to the top 30 country hits on KRAN.

The singer, who danced with several different partners during the journey, usually received a friendly response from those he contacted. Several radio stations kept up with his progress throughout his trip, which included stops in Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Amarillo, Sweetwater, Abilene and Snyder.

Howell, a graduate of Texas Tech University, was a math teacher until a few years ago, when he enrolled at South Plains College in Levelland. The college offers a degree program in both country and bluegrass.

Altrusa initiates 3

Three new members were initiated into Altrusa Club of Pampa during a dinner meeting Monday night.

Peggy Palmitier, Vanessa Buzzard and Renee Brown received Altrusa pins during the initiation ritual.

President Mary McDaniel conducted the business meeting and reported on last weekend's District Nine Altrusa meeting in Austin. The Pampa club received the first place award for the highest number — 21 — of club members with perfect attendance.

The Pampa group also took second runner-up honors for the club's monthly newsletter.

Leona Willis led the group in a participation game on orientation and the history of Altrusa.

Gertrude Barber, the only charter member still active in Altrusa Club of Pampa, was recognized.

Council has lunch

Delegates to the Texas Extension Homemakers Association meeting reported on their recent trip Monday during a Gray County Extension Homemakers Council luncheon.

Pauline Beard, council chairman, introduced guests, including State Representative Foster Whaley, Gray County Judge Carl Kennedy and District 223 Judge Don Cain, the Gray County commissioners, and the county extension agents.

Also recognized was Mrs. Charles Warminski, president of the Texas Extension Homemakers Association, of White Deer.

DEAR ABBY

Mama can't understand gay spouses

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After reading your column on gay spouses, I just had to write.

It is a shock and a heartache when a wife finds out that her husband has had an affair with another woman, but I cannot comprehend how any woman could accept a MAN as her competition. She would have to be "meshugga" (crazy) — and with children in the house yet!

How can any normal woman let a man who has been with another man touch her? To me, it is unthinkable.

A YIDDISHE MAMA IN EL TORO, CALIF.

DEAR MAMA: To you it is "unthinkable." But to those who have studied bisexuality and realize that one's sexual preference is rarely a matter of choice, it is understandable. This is not an endorsement of infidelity of any kind, but rather an attempt to shed some light on one of the most misunderstood of all sexual behaviors.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently joined a tennis club. On our first day at the club, I was terribly embarrassed when my husband, who was wearing dark-colored street clothes instead of the usual white shorts or pants and white shirt, was refused admittance on the courts!

A big argument ensued, with my husband loudly proclaiming his right to wear whatever he chose. My husband finally won and was allowed to play tennis in his street clothes.

Abby, can you (or anyone else) explain the reason for wearing white on tennis courts? And was my husband wrong to insist on playing in his street clothes?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: On joining a club, members should be familiar with the club rules. If regulation tennis attire is required, then your husband was out of line. I have no idea why white is traditionally worn for tennis, but it certainly looks better. And it's cooler.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear younger sister who frequently infuriates me by revealing my age! She does this subtly by telling HER age, then adding that I am nine years older than she is.

I have asked her not to do this, but either she forgets or just doesn't respect my right to privacy.

She says she is "proud" of her age and I shouldn't care who knows mine. What can I do about it?

KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: Nothing, so don't get your tailfeathers up.

DEAR ABBY: I have attended dinner parties and noticed that some people turn their wine glasses upside down to indicate that they do not wish to be served any wine.

Is this considered proper etiquette?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: No. A word to the waiter is sufficient.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

How would you end this story?

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 14 with a 19-year-old boyfriend. Before you blow your mind, please listen to my story.

Last April, my parents surprised me with a boat cruise and I really was excited. Anyway, I met this guy on the cruise because he was our "husboy" at all of our meals.

The second night, he asked me to meet him on the promenade deck at 10:00 p.m. My mother came with me but soon left with my father to go dancing.

Well, I could hardly understand him because he spoke Italian and very little English (we were on an Italian liner). But after a few days we could understand each other pretty good. From then on, I was with him every second he wasn't working. We were together every morning and afternoon and went to the beaches at every port.

I thought that he was the most terrific person that I had ever met until the last when he laughed at me because I was a virgin. He said he was sorry but later that night, he asked me to make love with him. When I told him "No, thank you," he grabbed my arm and kissed me and told me that was exactly what he wanted to hear from me.

He said that where he lives in Italy, there are no decent girls and that I was the girl that he had been searching for. When he said, "Mindy, I love you," I couldn't believe it because that was exactly what I wanted him to say.

We have been writing to each other for the last five months and he still says that he loves me, but now he says that he wants to marry me and make our home in Italy.

I love him very much and told him that I must finish school first but to tell you the truth, I have thought about running away so many times. I cry at least twice a day and feel terrible except when I receive a letter from him.

The last letter I got said he would be sending me a beautiful ring.

Dr. Wallace, I really need your opinion. My parents both know exactly what's going on. — Mindy, San Antonio, Texas

Mindy: You have probably had the romance that most girls dream about. Everything seemed perfect.

Please allow me to present four endings to your story. Only you will be able to choose the right one for you:

1. You wait four years faithfully and he returns and you both are still in love, so you get married and live happily in Italy.

2. You wait faithfully for quite some time but his letters stop coming or he writes and tells you the girls in his home town weren't so bad after all.

3. You continue writing to him but you do not sit at home and cry over him. Instead, you meet other teen boys in San Antonio and have an enjoyable teen life. When you are 18, you invite him (if he is still available) to visit you.

4. You continue to write to him, but you realize that he was a wonderful, lovable Romeo and probably has said the same thing to many girls.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Bergland puts rumors to rest about leaving post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland has put to rest, at least temporarily, rumors that he or some of his senior aides might be leaving their jobs for greener pastures. Rumors periodically circulate that Bergland is on his way out, that he is dissatisfied with the job he has held for almost three years or that President Carter is ready to dump him. Earlier this year, reports also circulated that Assistant Secretary Alex Mercure was leaving to return to his home state of New Mexico, and that Assistant Secretary M. Rupert Cutler would leave for a university job in Michigan.

Bergland, a farmer and three-term member of Congress from Minnesota before he joined Carter's Cabinet in January 1977, was asked again Monday about the job situation in the Agricultural Department. "I have no intention of resigning," he told a news conference. "I intend to stay out this term. And the sub-cabinet ladies and gentlemen who are with me, as far as I know, will all remain throughout the president's term. "I plan to remove none. They are all honorable ladies and gentlemen doing a creditable service."

Later in the news conference, Bergland was asked again if "when Carter's term is up... would you, if asked, want to serve again, or would you do like Earl Butz and take a look at the corporate directorships" for employment? Bergland replied: "I intend to serve out my term as I agreed I would when I took the job 33 months ago, and I like what I'm doing. I am in a rather unique and enjoyable position. I don't need this job, and this job doesn't need me. So we get along fine." Bergland, after laughter subsided, added, "When the president is re-elected — and I have no doubt about that — I would like to talk about the post in the Carter second term. But I intend to submit my resignation in compliance with a long-standing tradition. And I reserve all judgments on what I will do after the latter days of January of '81. "But I can tell you this: I have a good farm, which provides me with a living, and in one of the most beautiful places in North America. When I am through with this job, I can go home, and that's exactly what I plan to do." The questioners persisted, asking Bergland again about the possibility of joining the boards of directors of a corporation or two after leaving his job.

AMA might have fostered price fixing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is deciding whether the American Medical Association may prevent its member physicians from advertising. At issue is whether the AMA has fostered a price-fixing conspiracy that has inflated doctors' bills. In advance of today's Federal Trade Commission decision, the AMA said it would appeal a 3-2 unfavorable ruling on the question of whether it must rescind rules keeping physicians from soliciting patients, especially through advertising. In a preliminary ruling almost a year ago, FTC Administrative Law Judge Ernest G. Barnes said the AMA's prohibition against its members soliciting patients has developed into a device for insuring physicians' profits. Barnes said the AMA's rules for its 200,000 members prevent customers from being told what health services are available. The costs to the public in terms of less expensive or even, perhaps, more improved forms of medical services, are great," he said. State and local medical societies can take disciplinary steps against violators that can make it very difficult to practice medicine. The AMA, which represents about 60 percent of the nation's physicians, is the parent for many of the state and local medical associations that enforce the AMA codes. Association lawyer Newton Minow, in urging the commissioners to overrule the law judge, said doctors' advertising has led to instances of patients being lured to doctors who cause them physical harm. "Patients (who testified at hearings) were begging to be protected from quacks who butchered and mutilated them after luring them to come through advertisements," he said. "Memories of the ones we've loved Still cast their gentle glow To grace our days and light our paths Wherever we may go." We shall always treasure the memories of our husband, father and grandfather, Gene Wray, and we shall forever be grateful to our many friends who have helped light our path since his death. Our appreciation is heartfelt. Nellie Ruth Wray Billy Wray and family

United Nations Day

Today is United Nations Day, marking the day in October, 1945, when the UN charter took effect. The organization had about 50 members when it was formed. Today, more than 150 countries belong to the United Nations. In its 34 years, the United Nations has sent troops into some areas to enforce ceasefire agreements and to help keep peace. In 1964, a UN force was created to keep peace between Greeks and Turks living on Cyprus. The next year, UN observers were called in to enforce a ceasefire between India and Pakistan in the disputed region of Kashmir. More recently, UN troops moved into southern Lebanon, after Israel invaded that area in March, 1978.

DO YOU KNOW — Who is the secretary-general of the United Nations? TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Pakistan borders Afghanistan on the south and east.

Rationing plan may be years away

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite predictions from congressmen that gasoline rationing could be needed at any time, an Energy Department analyst says it could take a couple of years to whip a workable plan into shape.

Under a compromise given final congressional approval Tuesday, the president can order rationing any time there is a shortage of 20 percent in gasoline or diesel fuel supplies in the United States.

The House and Senate will get a crack at rejecting whatever detailed rationing plan the Carter administration concocts before the standby plan goes "on the shelf" for possible future use.

Moreover, either house would have the option of blocking actual implementation of rationing at the time the president tried to put it into effect.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., a principal author of the compromise bill approved 20-112 by the House Tuesday, said conditions requiring gasoline rationing "could occur at any time."

And Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said the fragile U.S. oil supply line from the Middle East could be cut off at any time. "Without contingency planning, the country would be brought to its knees," Jackson said.

It is that contingency planning which Energy Department analyst Andy Fang says will take time.

There is no standby plan at the moment because the Energy Department could not prepare one until Congress spelled out what it would insist on having in it. And Fang said it could be two years or more before a rationing plan is ready for practical operation.

Fang, a program analyst in the Office of Regulations and Energy Planning, said it may take several weeks to draft a plan, which then would be opened up for public comment.

That process could mean it will be months before a final plan is sent to Congress for what could be a time-consuming review.

Fang said planners believe that, practically speaking, it would take 18 to 24 months from the time a plan gets the congressional go-ahead to have it ready to work.

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.

If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on. The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

Call between 11 pm and 8 am.

Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it. You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings. If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end.

Call out of state anytime before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. In-state calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., a principal author of the compromise bill approved 20-112 by the House Tuesday, said conditions requiring gasoline rationing "could occur at any time."

And Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said the fragile U.S. oil supply line from the Middle East could be cut off at any time. "Without contingency planning, the country would be brought to its knees," Jackson said.

make a ten-minute call to Atlanta for only $1.55. That's almost worth making a new friend in Atlanta for.

Even on weeknights, save up to 35%.

Sometimes you can't wait for the weekend. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

On weekdays it's still a bargain.

Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%.

Now this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save. For instance, dial One-Plus and you can Reach out and touch someone.

by bernice bede osol

October 25, 1979

This coming year you may become a more dominant influence among your peers because of the natural leadership abilities you express. You might even introduce several new activities into the group.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An inner motivation to project your thoughts and desires brings out the best in you today, so you should share your ideas and options with others. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's more to you than meets the eye today, and the resourceful way you handle things will show the kind of stuff you're made of.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Larger issues will attract your attention today. You won't hesitate to step forward and render whatever assistance you're capable of offering.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 10) Although you may not even be aware of it, you have a great influence over others today - perhaps because of the modest, unassuming way you deal with them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Getting out and exploring new horizons is what you need to do today, so try to schedule a little time for learning, adventure or philosophizing with friends.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An instinctual awareness of the resources available to you can make this a successful day if you'll trust your ability to put this awareness to work.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's important today to exchange ideas with others, because you need a sounding board off which to bounce your thoughts in order to draw a good conclusion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Being of service today will aid you in your own search for how you fit into the scheme of things. It'll make you feel good to be able to help.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The congenial way you treat people today makes you popular. That smile on your face is the medicine everybody needs.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may put extra effort in what you do today because you'll be doing things for those you love. The task at hand won't seem hard at all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Because you'll enjoy mingling with just about everybody today, you'll turn all your activities into fun happenings. You'll even whistle while you work!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A determination to establish a solid base is responsible for firming up your material affairs today. You may put extras into savings.

Straightline: sports

by L.D. Strate
of the Pampa News

Although football is stealing most of the headlines on the sports pages these days, another familiar sport will be working itself into print.

Basketball will soon be grabbing some attention. Practice started here a week ago with new Pampa High cage coach Garland Nichols sending potential Harvesters through once-a-day drills.

Nichols has scheduled a scrimmage with Dumas Nov. 15, followed by a four-team scrimmage at Lawton Nov. 16-17. The season officially opens Nov. 20 with Pampa visiting Perryton.

Nichols, a Rush Springs, Okla. native and a brother of Lonnie Nichols, head basketball coach at Cameron University in Lawton, Okla., feels right at home in Pampa.

"It's a fine place to live," Nichols remarked. "The people here are very friendly."

Speaking of basketball, fans can see some college teams in action when Cameron, Northwestern State of Alva, Okla., and Frank Phillips University of Borger scrimmage at 1 p.m. Saturday in Harvester Fieldhouse.

Devon Cross just keeps right on advancing in the punt, pass, and kick competition.

The 13-year-old Pampa youngster won first place in the Regionals in Oklahoma City over the weekend. He moves on to the quarterfinals Dec. 2 at Texas Stadium. Devon will perform during halftime of the Dallas Cowboys-New York Giants game. Next comes the semi-finals Dec. 16 and then the finals Jan. 20 during the Super Bowl.

Pampa's Steve McDougall continues to lead District 3-AAAA in pass receiving with 19 catches for 306 yards and one touchdown. The 160-pound junior snared 4 passes for 72 yards in Pampa's 34-13 win over Amarillo Caprock last week.

Head coach Danny Palmer is putting Pampa's lopsided win behind him now and is pressing on toward another crucial district clash Friday night against Tascosa at Harvester Field.

"I want to urge all the fans to come out and really support their kids," Palmer said.

Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m.

Flashback: October, 1951. The Pampa Harvesters won their fourth straight game by shutting out Plainview, 28-0. Darrell Wilson scored two touchdowns while Billy Davis and John Young had one apiece. Defensive standouts were Charles Ely and Bill McPherson.

Spikers win title

by D'Anna Conway

Lots of hugs, lots of tears, and a dozen yellow roses for the coach ended a Pampa title-winning game over arch-foe Amarillo High Tuesday night. Pampa took the match in straight sets, 15-6, 14-9, capturing the first half of the 3-AAAA volleyball crown.

Despite the highly partisan and vocal Amarillo crowd, Pampa played the only game it knows how to play, which is a winning one. The Harvesters backcourt picked up nearly every spike thrown at it, and the front line picked the Sandies clean with spikes, dinks, and blocks.

Pampa played its game, but Amarillo High, in the words of coach Aln Dunavin, "choked." and the Harvesters sat back and enjoyed the stuttering Sandie machine, watching spike after spike sail into the stands or into the net.

Taking early leads in both sets, the Harvesters settled down and got their offense moving, but that's not to say the defense did not perform as well, for Jeanna Porter (seven saves), Alecia Fleming (four), and Mamie Laycock (three) played exemplary hustle volleyball, turning fine Sandie offensive plays into Pampa crowd-pleasing returns. In the last set, Amarillo High started getting its offense revved up, and it was only the cat-quick defense that stalled an AHS comeback.

For Pampa fans, the after-game chatter was as enjoyable as the game, as the Lady Harvesters reviewed, discussed, and downright mocked the preseason prognosticators that had picked the Sandies to win it all. Laycock, who had 10 spikes on the night, mimicked an Amarillo news article. "They said we weren't going to be any good this year, and they said we couldn't double block or pick up dinks," after which she and her teammates doubled over in vindicated laughter.

King, who turned in 15 spikes, three blocks and several backcourt saves, praised the play of AHS, but "figured they'd have more points."

"You live and sleep Amarillo High for a week before you play the game. We nervous and uptight when it started, but going ahead in both sets helped us settle down a lot," she said.

Mary Skoog added that the Harvies play better under pressure, and that "we're ready for them over in Pampa."

Royals name new manager

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jim Frey, a 16-year veteran of the Baltimore Orioles' organization, was named manager of the Kansas City Royals today.

The Royals announced the hiring of the 48-year-old Frey at a news conference at Royals Stadium. Frey replaces Whitey Herzog, whose contract was not renewed after 4½ seasons at the head of the American League club.

Frey has been hitting instructor for the Orioles since 1970, working with such Baltimore batting stars as Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson, Ken Singleton, Lee May and Gary Roenicke.

In 1975, he took on the added duties of first base coach for Manager Earl Weaver's club, one of the most successful franchises in the American League the past decade.

Frey joined Baltimore in 1963 after a 14-year minor league career as an outfielder. He managed the Orioles' rookie team in Bluefield, W.Va., for two years and worked as a Baltimore scout until 1970.

Although he compiled a lifetime batting average of .302 as an outfielder, Frey never made it to the big leagues, instead knocking around with 12 different minor league clubs. He won batting titles with Tulsa of the Texas League in 1957 and Rochester of the International League in 1960.

He is the third coach to leave the Orioles in the past three years for managerial positions.

Billy Hunter joined the Texas Rangers in 1977 after many seasons as Baltimore's third base coach, while George Bamberger resigned as Orioles' pitching coach to take over the Milwaukee Brewers in 1978.

Frey is taking charge of a club that won successive American League West titles in 1976, 1977 and 1978 but lost each year to the New York Yankees in the American League playoffs.

DEAN CHENOWETH, driver of the unlimited hydroplane Miss Budweiser, was ejected from the craft Tuesday while trying to set a new water speed record on Seattle's Lake Washington. The 41-year-old Tallahassee, Fla. man was hospitalized in stable condition with six fractured ribs. A spokesman for the Budweiser crew said the suspected cause of the accident was a propeller that broke or flew off. The boat was moving at an estimated 215 mph at the time of the accident. (AP Laserphoto)

Pigeon results

Margie Moore had the winning pigeon in weekend races from Odessa to Pampa.

Moore's bird was timed at 1,590.162 yards per minute across the 300-mile route. Other placings went to Jim Cantrell, second, 1,470.162; third, 1,461.389; V.C. Moore, fourth, 1,424.34; R.W. McPhillips, fifth, 1,418.690; Cantrell, sixth, 1,355.200; and V.C. Moore, seventh, 1,323.962.

Seventy birds were entered in the race. They started off in 5 to 10 miles per hour, but before they reached home gusts reached up to 42 mph.

Trucking

Tyrone Malone, daredevil diesel driver and owner of one of the classiest collections of trucks ever to roll on this nation's highways, broke the world speed record in the quarter-mile drag for trucks recently at Bonneville Salt Flats outside of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Driving the Bandag Bandit, which boasts 1,300 horsepower, Malone came in at a record time and speed of 105 mph-13.22 sec. He held the previous world record in this category.

Spartans to upset Buckeyes

By Major Ames B. Hoople
Sage of the Sidelines

Egad, friends, here we are nigh onto Halloween. A look at the Hoople appraisal of this Saturday's games indicates the hobboblins, who frolic at this time of the year, have some sinister pranks in store for some high-rated teams.

Yes, dear friends, you can expect to see the mischievous goblins splashing the upset bucket willy-nilly over the beautiful autumnal landscape. Um-kumph!

The most amazing result forecast by our computers will — kaff-kaff — come at Columbus, Ohio, where the home-field Ohio State Buckeyes will fall before the determined onslaught of the invading Michigan State Spartans.

Darryl Rogers' Spartans view this game as a chance to live up to their pre-season promise and to move up in the Big 10 standings as well as in the national rankings. In a very interesting afternoon of football, your sage of the sidelines predicts a Michigan State victory, 24-21. Har-rumph!

Playing under the lights in the friendly confines of Razorback Stadium, Lou Holtz's well-balanced club will edge the Cougars, 23-18 — hak-kaff!

To further confound the experts and to complicate matters in the powerful Southwestern loop, look for the Arkansas Razorbacks to stun the high-riding Houston Cougars.

Another contest in which the winner figures to move up the national ladder pits the undefeated Florida State Seminoles (6-0) against the Louisiana State Tigers.
