Carter to fire Kennedy flirts?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's campaign manager says he hopes the administration will fire any political appointee found to be flirting with the campaign of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

After watching two Carter administration officials defect to the Kennedy camp, Tim Kraft said he thinks loyalty should count in politics.

A White House official who asked not to be named said it would be no surprise if some others now on the administration roster switched to the camp of the president's challenger. But he said, "We have had and will have our share of support and endorsements."

Asked whether he thinks the administration should dismiss likely defectors before they publicly break with the president in favor of Kennedy, Kraft replied:

"As campaign manager, I'm not an official member of the administration. But as a political person who respects loyalty, I hope to hell they do."

Kraft commented in an interview Tuesday after former Iowa Sen. Dick Clark said he is leaving the Carter administration to work for Kennedy and J. William Heckman Jr., resigned as deputy assistant attorney for legislation to join the Kennedy committee.

In related developments Tuesday, the 70,000-member National Treasury Employees Union announced its support of Kennedy and Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne made a formal announcement reaffirming her weekend endorsement of Kennedy.

There was a particular sting to the defections by Clark, who was given a $57,500-a-year job as U.S. coordinator for refugee affairs after being defeated for re-election last year, and by Heckman, a personal friend of Carter campaign lawyer Tim Smith.

In accepting Clark's resignation, Carter noted that he had understood Clark would remain neutral in the 1980 campaign and devote his attention to refugee problems.

However, Clark said in an interview the refugee programs have been overhauled and "it seems as appropriate as any time to make the change."

A Clark spokesman, Bob Miller, said Clark had pledged to remain politically neutral while in the administration, but that he had not promised to remain out of the race indefinitely.

Clark's bolt to Kennedy came one day after formation of a Kennedy campaign committee and announcement that Kennedy would formally announce his candidacy Nov. 7 in Boston.

Mayor Byrne's stand ran counter to a long string of endorsements Carter has been garnering from state and local officials, but the White House and the campaign committee insist it is an isolated case and not a turning tide.

Kraft pointed out that Carter picked up backing from strong majorities of the Democratic mayors and governors at their conventions last summer and that many of them were at a Carter dinner-rally here last week.

Other than clamping down on defectors, Kraft sees no major adjustments to the Kennedy threat.

After a strenuous chase over much of the eastern portion of Pampa, city animal control officers captured a pig which had run rampant through city streets since early Monday morning.

According to Lt. Charles Morris of the Pampa Police Department, several calls were received reporting a pig running loose through the streets of Pampa Monday and Tuesday.

A woman approached the vehicle of Patrolman John Bennett, he said, while he was stopped at the intersection of Frederic and Barnes. She said a truckload of pigs had passed the intersection earlier, and she noticed a small, white pig standing in the roadway shortly after the truck left.

After spotting the pig heading east on Frederic, Bennett tried to catch it with the help of several citizens. But despite the combined effort, they succeeded only in chasing the porker out of town.

Tuesday morning, Animal Control Officers Marshall Johnson and Kenneth Dean spotted the pig running between houses in the 500 block of Warren Street.

Johnson attempted to trap the animal in the area between the residences, but was thwarted when the frightened pig escaped between his legs. Dean stooped to capture the animal but lost him as he ran by.

The runaway porker was finally caught by two girls who were helping the officers.

ANIMAL CONTROL Officer Kenneth Dean holds the pugnacious pig that led Pampa police personnel on a merry chase through the eastern portion of the city Monday and Tuesday.

55 killed in plane crash

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Western Airlines DC-10 jetliner bound from Los Angeles with 88 persons reported aboard crashed while landing in fog and smog at the Mexico City airport today, plowing into two buildings, and Red Cross officials at the scene said they had recovered 55 bodies from the wreckage.

Nineteen persons were reported to have survived. The fate of the others was not immediately known.

A Mexican aviation official said the plane touched down on a runway that was closed for repairs and that it struck a parked truck and killed its driver.

A witness said the crash sounded like a clap of thunder and "there was a big flash of light." The plane was demolished.

Pedro Jose, a surviving passenger, said: "It was a normal flight all the way from Los Angeles up to Mexico City airport. Around three or four minutes before we were landing there was a lot of fog around the place and the airplane sort of rattled up a bit and about a half a minute later it just went flat, just crashed. The plane popped right open and I was around two or three behind the wing so I could get out. Inside the plane there was a lot of fire and a lot of dead people. Right after the accident the seats were right on top of one another and the plane was cracked open."

In New York, experts said it was too soon to tell whether the crash of the DC-10 would cause additional problems for the manufacturer of the aircraft, McDonnell Douglas Corp. The company has been in the process of recovering from a 37-day grounding of its DC-10s after an American Airlines plane crashed last May 25th at Chicago's O'Hare Airport, killing 273 persons, the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history.

Some of the dead appeared to be children, witnesses said. In Los Angeles, the airline said the plane had 88 persons aboard, 77 passengers, 11 crew. It said earlier reports of a couple of more aboard total stemmed from the fact two flight attendants were listed both ways.

An immigration official who declined to give his name said the plane was on fire before it landed, that it hit the runway out of control and slammed into a cement block building about a quarter of a mile from the terminal. Other witnesses said the plane then crashed against a building under construction and its roof fell in.

A spokesman for the Mexican Civil Aeronautics Administration, who asked anonymously, said the plane first touched down on a runway that had been closed to traffic for repairs.

One airport rescue worker said there were three children among the dead, but this could not be further verified.

An airport control tower employee said he understood there were at least 10 survivors.

Police arrest two for car thefts

Pampa police arrested two men this morning in connection with two vehicle thefts and an attempted vehicle theft occurring late Tuesday night.

Jimmy Upchurch, 17, and Lynn Don Brown, 19, both listing a Pampa Motel address, were taken into custody this morning after a brief chase through city streets.

Upchurch and Brown were arrested after being observed by Patrolman Lynn A. Brown in a stolen 1976 GMC camper.

Brown said he first saw the men at the intersection of Lefors and Kingsmill streets. They attempted to flee in the vehicle, but Brown apprehended them at the intersection of Francis and Lowry.

The two were taken to city jail, where they are presently waiting for arraignment in county court and for bond to be set.

The GMC camper was reported stolen Tuesday evening by Rex Britton of 1229 Darby.

Brown also recovered a missing 1971 Ford in the 1200 block of Darby. The vehicle was reported stolen by Jimmy Odell of 1309 Terrace shortly before midnight Tuesday.

Police officers collected evidence possibly connecting the suspects with the report of a theft of a 1968 Ford this morning. The vehicle, reported missing by Leo Simpson, was found abandoned in the 400 block of East Foster Wednesday morning.

In another Tuesday night incident, Oliver Rodgers of 1209 Darby, reportedly saw someone attempt to steal his vehicle. He turned on his porch light and frightened the would-be thieves away.

Troops defend American Embassy in San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Salvadoran troops backed by armored cars used tear gas to repel a mob of 300 leftists attacking the American Embassy in the second day of street violence in the capital of El Salvador.

There were reports that the embassy's Marine guard joined in the tear-gas barrages Tuesday. But embassy spokesman Vitas Dambrava denied this, saying, "Our Marines did not respond to the attack." However, reporters counted 200 helmeted men, apparently Marines, on the roof of the three-story building.

The State Department said two Marines were slightly wounded. There was no report of casualties among the mob or the troops. At least 24 persons were killed and about 100 were wounded the day before in gun battles between leftists demonstrating against the new military-civilian junta and security forces.

The embassy and its grounds occupy an entire block surrounded by a high wall and metal fences. The leftists chanted "We will take the embassy!" and distributed leaflets saying "Down with imperialism" and "We want to live in peace" as they marched on the compound. The troops and armored cars responded immediately.

Witnesses said they heard four shots fired during the 15-minute confrontation, and Dambrava said there was some gunshot damage to the embassy. Some of the leftists tried to climb the wall but were driven off, and a gasoline bomb was thrown into an embassy garden but caused no damage, officials said.

Afterward, the troops and armored cars surrounded the compound to guard against other leftists staging an anti-government march on a street nearby.

In Washington, U.S. officials said the Carter Administration was prepared to offer "significant" assistance including tear gas and other non-lethal weapons to the two-week-old junta to help it overcome extremist violence. The officials said the aid was being offered even though the junta had not asked for it.

The two colonels who head the junta ousted El Salvador's military president, Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero, in a bloodless coup on Oct. 15. Moderate political groups gave them their support after they added three civilians to the junta and promised democratic reforms, but leftists are demanding an end to all military rule and a Marxist government.

About 1,000 members of one leftist movement, the Popular Revolutionary Bloc, have been occupying two government buildings for a week, demanding price cuts on staple foods, an increase in the minimum wage, the release of political prisoners and information on others they claim disappeared while Romero was president.

Foreign diplomats said the moderate political parties that support the junta joined in the demand for a report on the whereabouts of as many as 550 people who disappeared or were jailed during Romero's two-year presidency.

Winds damage Pampa Mall

High winds were blamed for several thousand dollars in damage done to the newly constructed Pampa Mall last night.

Mall manager Sheryl Every said only one store in the complex had merchandise damaged when part of the roof of the structure was peeled away in the high winds.

"K-Mart received some water damage," Every said. "Some merchandise was damaged where water dripped down from the roof."

A construction supervisor for the mall complex, which is still under construction, said the monetary loss will be "a few thousand dollars."

What happened is that the high winds we have had for the past few days sucked part of the roof away from the northwest corner of the building," the supervisor said. "We can't get a roofer or an insurance adjuster up there because of the wind so we don't know how much damage has actually been done."

Every said no other stores received damage from the storm that ripped through the Texas Panhandle and Pampa last night.

Amendment affects notaries public

Editor's Note: Texas voters will cast ballots Tuesday on three constitutional amendments approved by the 66th term of the Texas Legislature. This is the first installment of a three-part series on the amendments.

By MELANIE MILLER
Of The Pampa News

Proposition 1 is an amendment that has seen little, if any, public criticism and concerns notaries public, their terms of office and their appointments by the secretary of state.

If passed, it will authorize the legislature to provide terms of office for notaries public of at least four years. The secretary of state would be empowered to appoint notaries public instead of the county clerks.

State Rep. Foster Whaley, D-Pampa, favors the amendment, saying it will cut the workload of the secretary of state by half.

"Instead of having to renew notary public terms every two years, the secretary of state will only have to do it every four years," Whaley said. "All the application papers ultimately go to the secretary of state anyway, so this will cut down on the work of the county clerks."

As it is now, the county clerks forward applications for appointment as a notary public to the secretary of state for processing and appointment.

Whaley sees the amendment as a "tremendous improvement" over the current system. He said it has statewide approval, including a favorable response by the state county clerks association.

Notaries public will be approved for the state and not simply for the county. If passed, the amendment would remove the requirement that a notary public be a resident or maintain a place of business or employment in a specific county. The notary public would, however, have to be a U.S. citizen and a Texas resident.

Present statutory law provides that a notary public's jurisdiction is "coextensive" with the boundaries of the state, irrespective of the county for which he or she was approved. But, if that person does not maintain a residence, business of employment in the county to which he was appointed, the office is considered vacated.

Prior to a 1977 amendment of that statutory law, a notary public's jurisdiction was limited to the county to which he was appointed.

In the Texas Constitution, justices of the peace are also considered ex officio notaries public. Proposition 1 would relate only to notaries public appointed by the secretary of state and would not affect the provisions set aside for justices of the peace.

Proponents of the proposition say application to a centralized office will be more efficient and less time-consuming with the middleman — the county clerk office — removed. Opponents, however, believe the amendment will merely add to state bureaucracy and to state control over the local level.

A notary public administers oaths, takes acknowledgments to documents and certifies the validity of instruments by affixing the person's signature and a notary seal to the instrument.

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coving Commandment.

Next generation must come up with answers

Leadership around the world is in the process of evolving from one generation to another. For thirty years American foreign and military policies, two issues with an important relationship, have been decided by men for whom the second world war is a vivid memory. Today, for the most part, those determining these important issues are people who look at the second world war as history. It is time for us all to take a look at the dangers and opportunities that changes in our foreign and military posture will bring America.

Although foreign policy has been an object of debate, especially during the Vietnam war, in general American has enjoyed a remarkable consensus about our role as guardian of world freedom.

That has meant we would oppose the expansion of communism, which has been viewed by Americans as the primary threat to freedom in the world. Most Americans feel that without their country filling this role the rest of the world would fall under communist domination. This pessimistic view is what keeps our defense spending high, and keeps the defense spending of our allies low.

In the aftermath of the second world war providing defense for our allies may have been justified, today the situation has changed.

In a recent newspaper interview Gen. John Singlaub, himself a combat hero of World War II, said that American military strength in the Far East is inadequate. He suggested that our country should be increasing rather than decreasing military strength in that area. And if we don't, the general feels it could lead to something as drastic as the rearming of Japan.

There is no doubt that the expansion of the Soviet navy poses a threat to the freedom, to the degree that it is enjoyed, of the people of Asia and the Pacific. However, it does not follow that American taxpayers are obligated to pick up the bill for the defense of that area. This is true in Europe, faced with increased Soviet conventional capabilities, as well.

The general is a brave and honest man. These are the qualities that led to his dismissal by President Carter. He is a man who developed his patterns of analysis during the second world war. His opinions about our military forces and military threats to the United States should be thoroughly examined. He can see the dangers. The trouble is he is not a man who can see the strength of other options not involving the American military.

What is so bad about Japan rearming for its own defense? Is America to be expected to protect Japanese trade routes for three more decades, while the Japanese pour their own capital into building new businesses to compete with American business?

The general spoke of Korea. American troops have been there for 25 years. Gen. Singlaub says it may take as long as 10 more years before the South Koreans can defend themselves, and then he takes it for granted that the United States is the nation that must take up the slack. Is the defense of Korea not also in the interest of Japan?

Tim's have changed. Japanese and German enemies are now outpacing our own, yet the general calls on the American taxpayers to bear the burden of a 6 percent increase in military spending necessary to secure the defense of these nations and their national interest. Playing the role of world defender has resulted in other nations allowing us to spend money for their defense which they, wishing to remain free from Soviet domination, would have spent themselves.

This extra burden has resulted in a loss of domestic freedom. For twenty years we have been heavily taxed and our young men taken for two years of involuntary servitude. General Singlaub, who volunteered to defend his country, finds it difficult to see that those who don't volunteer, but are forced into the military are suffering a loss of freedom. It is not hard to see that they are having their freedom taken away for two years. It is as simple as that.

Singlaub was right when he outlined for us the dangers of the Soviet military. Hitler never had such power, and in our view the Soviet Union has no less a totalitarian regime than did Germany under Hitler. What is certain is that the new generation of Americans has to come up with new answers. These answers may include taking the chance that our allies will spend more for their own defense, if the United States refuses to keep doing it for them. There are dangers and opportunities. We should be aware of both.

Son of Proposition 13

Taxflation is only part of the story, however. Still with us is the tax revolt which has gone national since California's precedent-setting Proposition 13 last year.

And as it so happens, Californians are resuming the battle with a measure on this November's ballot that might be termed son of 13.

Proposition 4 would follow up 13's rollback of tax rates by tying future increases in state and local budgets to the inflation rate and population fluctuations.

It is one of two tax-limiting measures being voted on this year — the other is in Washington State and would link tax increases to rises in personal income.

Eight other states — Florida, Massachusetts, Montana, Nebraska, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Utah — have already adopted similar policies this year via the legislative route.

Curbing spending authority by statute or referendum gives indications, in fact, of becoming the preferred means of trimming the tax load. According to the National Tax Limitation Committee, a private group claiming a quarter-million members, the legislatures of about half the remaining states are considering measures.

Well, it's certainly worth a try. But history is not encouraging in the long run. Tax revolts may come and go, but the taxman goes on forever.

GOP small-pint problem?

Republican presidential aspirants hoping to gain momentum from early 1980 tests in Iowa and New Hampshire could face a "small print" problem if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy goes forward with his challenge of President Carter.

This is a dilemma best illustrated by a classic anecdote from the 1968 primary campaign, when a plane carrying the late Robert F. Kennedy and dozens of reporters nearly ran off a runway following a teeth-rattling aborted takeoff.

The candidate, in typical Kennedy fashion, was the first to recover his wits — and his voice. "With all due immodesty," he told his shaken fellow passengers, "if we don't make it this time, you fellows are going to be in the small print!"

No matter who wins, a contest between Ted Kennedy and Jimmy Carter would unquestionably receive the top media billing in both the Jan. 21 Iowa precinct caucuses and the Feb. 26 New Hampshire primary.

The Republicans, who had expected to dominate the newspaper headlines and network TV reports, would wind up second best if not exactly in small print.

And that is a discouraging prospect to some of those seeking to defeat, or at least seriously threaten, front-runner Ronald Reagan in those early contests.

George Bush, in particular, has been banking heavily on the boost in name recognition and credibility he would receive from a strong showing in Iowa, where he has put together an impressive organizational effort. But if press attention is riveted on Kennedy-Carter, even an outright win in Iowa may not be worth a great deal to Bush or other Republican contestants.

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Behind the facade of unity being presented to the public by the President's Commission on the Accident at Three Mile Island lies a panel deeply divided about the future role of commercial nuclear power.

Still-secret transcripts of the commission's closed meetings offer a vivid portrait of 12 men and women searching for and often finding common grounds — but also frequently unable to resolve their differences on fundamental issues.

The divisions within the commission generally reflect the equally sharp disparities in public opinion about an often-emotional issue that undoubtedly will be the subject of national debate for many years to come.

The pioneer who didn't

The transcripts and interviews with those present during the commission's executive sessions indicate that there were at least four clearly identifiable factions on the panel named by President Carter to investigate the accident last March at the nuclear power plant in central Pennsylvania.

Carolyn Lewis, an associate professor at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism, was the most outspoken of the three commission members highly critical of the nuclear power industry and dubious about its ability to operate safely in the future.

Frequently allied with Lewis in commission votes were Russell Peterson, a former governor of Delaware who now is president of the National Audubon Society, and Theodore B. Taylor, a Princeton University professor of aerospace and mechanical science who has an extensive background in nuclear research.

Thomas Pigford, chairman of the department of nuclear engineering at the University of California at Berkeley, was the most vocal of the three commission members who were staunch promoters of the industry and its prospects for the future.

Voting regularly with him were Patrick E. Haggerty, the retired president and board chairman of Texas Instruments, Inc., and Lloyd McBride, president of the United Steelworkers of America.

Between those two factions were four men torn between a belief that nuclear power is necessary to meet the country's needs during the coming decades and a profound concern about the health and safety problems posed by the potentially lethal technology.

Those "swing votes" were cast by John G. Kemeny, the commission chairman and president of Dartmouth College; Arizona Gov. Bruce E. Babbitt; Paul A. Marks, vice president for health science at Columbia University; and Washington attorney Harry C. McPherson Jr.

Finally, there were two members of the commission whose conduct left the others on the panel — including the industry's critics and its defenders — disappointed if not embittered.

They are Cora B. Marrett, an associate professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, and Anne Trunk, a Middletown, Pa., housewife who was selected as a representative of those who live near the accident site.

The two women participated only infrequently in the commission's debate and repeatedly declined to vote of virtually all of the difficult issues that closely divided other members of the panel.

Because the commission's rules required that all findings and recommendations in its final report be approved by a majority of 7 of the 12 members, those habitual abstentions left the frustrated commission without any position on many crucial questions it sought to answer.

The commission's final days of deliberation produced a pattern of ballots in which there were six affirmative votes — one short of the needed majority — and two abstentions.

Trunk's lack of participation was especially unfortunate because her appointment to the commission as a citizen representative was a noble experiment on Carter's part.

Trunk had a rare opportunity to pioneer in demonstrating that governance could successfully be shifted away from the professionals and back to the citizenry. But she abdicated that responsibility.

by ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — The campaign manager and one of the presidential candidates were having a meeting.

"The one thing I have no intention of bringing up if Teddy runs is Chappaquiddick," the candidate said.

"You're absolutely right, sir," his manager said. "I think it would be a big mistake."

"I believe we should put out a press release saying that I will not talk about Chappaquiddick because I consider it a personal matter that has no place in American politics."

"A media release could get lost," the manager said. "I think you should hold a press conference and make a strong statement spelling out your reasons for not making Chappaquiddick an issue."

"What about a TV commercial that we could play during the campaign? I could do it on Martha's Vineyard. I would talk about inflation, energy and SALT and then say at the end, the one thing I will not talk about is what happened here," the candidate suggested.

"It's a good idea. By the way, I've been in touch with the other campaign managers and we're trying to see if we could arrange a TV panel with all the presidential candidates. Each of them could give their reasons why they will not discuss Chappaquiddick. We could get John Chancellor, Walter Cronkite and Barbara Walters to host it."

"I like it," said the candidate. "I'm running into trouble putting it together. Connolly's man said he won't agree to it unless we all announce we won't bring up his milk fund trial. Reagan's manager says he'll only agree if we promise not to talk about Reagan dyeing his hair. And the Carter people say if any candidate brings up jogging all bets are off."

"Anyone hear from Jerry Ford?"

"His man says that Ford's pardon of Nixon has to be off limits. Frankly, sir, we may have to go it alone."

"Could we rent the Goodyear blimp during the Superbowl and announce it that way?"

"I'll check it out. The other candidates might demand equal space and the blimp can't just handle so many announcements."

"This is a problem," the candidate said. "I'd like to be the first one to say that Chappaquiddick is not the issue, but if one of the candidates announces it before I do, it will look as though the idea did not originate with me."

"Agreed. At the same time if Teddy, at the last moment, decides not to run we'll have used up a lot of money for no good reason."

"There is also the possibility that Carter could beat Kennedy for the nomination. We don't want to speak on refusing to discuss Chappaquiddick too early."

"We're covering all bases," the manager said. "Our advertising agency has reserved billboards in New Hampshire, Florida, Iowa, Pennsylvania and New York. It will have your picture on it and say, 'Vote for the man who kept Chappaquiddick out of his campaign.'"

"I wish I could do it more subtly. Maybe we could rent that big sign over Times Square, put my name up in lights and flash on and off: INFLATION SI-CHAPPAQUIDDICK NO."

"I'll check it out. Now let's talk about your speech tonight to Radar Trappers Union. We put in the paragraph you used last week in Detroit about not panicking in a crisis. The Kennedy people raised hell about it. Do you want to leave it in?"

"Sure, but add a line that when I'm speaking about panic I am certainly not referring to Chappaquiddick as that would be dirty pool."

Dissent from the bench

By Don Graff
It may have come to your attention in editorial columns here and there that the press has been working itself into a lather the last few years over what it regards as a serious threat — a series of judicial decisions construed as restricting constitutional guarantees of freedom of information.

Unnecessarily and damagingly so, in the opinion of one authority.

He is Associate Justice William J. Brennan Jr. of the Supreme Court who has taken the press severely to task for overreacting to decisions not favorable to its own as apart from the public's interests. The negative response, he asserts, has gone beyond objective criticism to take on "a new and disturbing note of acrimony, almost bitterness."

He suggests one reason may be a misunderstanding on the part of the press as to precisely what a court decided in a particular case, a misunderstanding that may be the result — and here's where it really hurts — of inaccurate reporting.

In essence, he charges the press with overkill, of reacting with a "firestorm" of criticism that may well damage its own credibility as an observer and interpreter of the government process. It diminishes what he believes should be a "shared enterprise," a partnership between the public functions of court and press.

This appraisal is not to be dismissed lightly. Justice Brennan is one critic of the press to whom the press should be only too willing to listen. He has been perhaps the most consistent dissenter, in whole or in part, in many of the Supreme Court decisions with which the press has taken outspoken issue and he has come to be regarded as the foremost defender of First Amendment guarantees.

Consequently, his remarks have been noted and taken under serious consideration in editorial offices. What effect they may have, only time will tell.

Maybe not too much time. The Supreme Court is having second thoughts this session on one of its most controversial press-related decisions that permits barring of press and public from pretrial hearings in criminal cases — and, according to some interpretations, even trials.

The press has seen the ruling as an exceptionally blatant curtailment of constitutional guarantees and there has been considerable publicly vented confusion on the Supreme Court itself as to the extent of its application.

This second time could offer both court and press an unusually appropriate opportunity to demonstrate a basic point about partnerships — that it takes two to make one.

Start the presses

A press development of more than passing significance has taken place on the other side of the Atlantic with the reprieve of the Times of London.

Management and print unions have reached a settlement of a dispute that for almost a year had shut down the newspaper that, at 194, is among the world's oldest and may well be its most prestigious. There appeared to be a real prospect that the bitter standoff would close the Times for good.

While the dispute involved the usual bread-and-butter questions such as pay increases and staff reductions, the basic issue was one that has previously confronted many newspapers in the United States — technology.

Editorial and production operations will not be fully computerized immediately. But the principle has been established that the venerable Times will follow its more notable American counterparts into the electronic age.

That it is finally doing so provides an ironic comment on that age. The press has been instrumental in familiarizing the world with technology's advances. But it has been an especially long and costly effort to apply them to itself.

Two men die, 11 injured as storm whips through Panhandle

By The Associated Press
Two persons died and eleven more were injured as a massive cold front whipped through Texas bringing thick snow to the Panhandle, high winds and tornadoes to much of the state and flooding to the Gulf Coast.

The dead were identified as Julian Joe Griego, 29, of Amarillo and Danny Mata, 17, of Tulia. Police said they were struck and killed by a car after they had stopped to help a vehicle that stalled in a snow-filled ditch along U.S. Highway 87.

Two persons injured in the collision were treated and released at a Tulia hospital.

High winds accompanied the snow and Department of Public Safety troopers said several power poles had snapped and fallen across roads in the Dalhart area.

Southwest Public Service officials said eight Panhandle cities were without electric power Tuesday night, including Dalhart, Dumas, Wildorado, Bushland, Vega, Gruver and parts of Borger.

Residents in some of those cities said they gathered at community shelters to keep warm, expecting overnight temperatures below 30 degrees.

DPS patrolmen added there were more than 400 automobiles and trucks abandoned along Interstate 40, between Amarillo and Tucumcari, N.M., because of heavy snow which left part of the highway impassable.

The cold front also stirred up strong winds in North and West Texas as it passed through those areas.

Police said five persons were injured in Graham when the winds turned over a mobile home. Authorities reported another injury in a Graham motel, two injuries when a Sherman mobile home was tipped over and another injury in a windstorm north of Mineral Wells.

None of the injuries was serious, but Graham city officials said the pattern of damage in their town, northwest of Fort Worth, resembled the destruction usually associated with a tornado.

Weather observers also reported wind damage in or near Mineral Wells, Bangs, Sanger, Amarillo and Grapevine.

Several helicopters were damaged at Amarillo's airport, and high winds destroyed three airplanes and damaged several buildings at the Stephens County Airport in Breckenridge. Damage there was estimated at $500,000.

As the front reached the Gulf Coast, hitting Houston at the height of the rush hour, heavy rains caused street flooding in Galveston, Beaumont and Houston.

Civil Defense authorities in Galveston said as many as 200 people fled their homes because of the flooding, and reported some houses with as much as four feet of water in them.

The Beaumont rains caused widespread street flooding and knocked out power to some sections of the city.

SALVAGE WORK BEGINS at the Eddie Kyle home in Lone Grove, Okla., which was damaged by a tornado that ripped through the area Tuesday. No one was in the house when the tornado hit, but two other persons in the area were killed and three more injured.

Viet crabber fired after being beaten

SEGUIN, Texas (AP) — Prosecution witnesses have said a young Vietnamese refugee deliberately gunned down a Seadrift, Texas, crabber. But they acknowledged under questioning that the murder defendant fired just after being beaten by the much-larger American.

Nguyen Van Sau, a 21-year-old former South Vietnamese Marine, and his 20-year-old brother, Nguyen Van Chinh, face a maximum 99-year prison sentence if convicted of murder in the Aug. 3 shooting death of crab fisherman Billy Joe Aplin, 35.

The shooting sparked a "crab war" between the American crab fishermen and the newly-transplanted Vietnamese refugees in the tiny fishing town of 1,200 about 90 miles up the coast from Corpus Christi.

Four Vietnamese fishing boats and a refugee residence were firebombed shortly after the shooting, which stemmed from an argument over territorial crab fishing rights in the lush San Antonio Bay.

The trial was moved the 90 miles inland to Seguin because of the still-simmering tensions in Seadrift. The case is being heard by a jury of 12 whites, two of whom are retired Air Force officers who served in Vietnam.

"Billy Joe went up there and started slapping around Sau. He hit him more than once. He was swinging wildly," testified Clifford Masarik, 16, one of three Seadrift youths who witnessed the shooting.

"Somehow Sau slipped or got knocked away from the car. Sau reached and got a gun, pointed it at Billy Joe and started shooting," added Masarik, who demonstrated how Sau deliberately aimed the pistol with both hands.

Masarik, Leslie "Bubba" Mikolas and Damon Williams testified that they drove up to the docks while Aplin was yelling at Sau. They said Aplin displayed a knife, hit Sau and chased him around a car. The two refugee brothers, they testified, drove away and returned less than 10 minutes later.

Baptist gospel effort 'woefully weak'

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — An apathetic generation of churchmen has been "woefully weak" in bringing the gospel to a growing population in Texas, says the president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

About 6,000 persons are attending the 94th annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention. Delegates here from 4,400 churches and missions plan to study ways to work toward the Southern Baptist goal of reaching every person on earth with the gospel by the year 2000.

However, Dr. Milton Cunningham chastised the Baptists for not keeping church growth in line with vast increases in the general population.

"Our penetration with the gospel has been woefully weak," he said in opening remarks Tuesday.

The Houston minister said American Christians have sent missionaries abroad and contributed to such missions. But he said there now are unique opportunities to administer to the needs of those from other nations coming to the United States.

The delegates, who will vote today to select a successor to Cunningham, also will consider a proposed $34 million Cooperative Program budget for Texas Baptists' share of the worldwide mission efforts of 13 million Southern Baptists.

The executive director of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, during his opening remarks Tuesday, criticized those he terms "moderate churchmen."

Dr. James H. Landes of Dallas said a moderate churchman is one "who is not against the church, he is for it in every way that will not inconvenience him or cost him very much."

Dr. Marvin Watson, the president of Dallas Baptist College, announced that the college is bankrupt, but that vigorous fund raising plans are in the works to save the institution.

Watson's comments, which were made before the meeting of Baptist Men Monday, was distributed to the news media Tuesday.

UF drive near 100 percent mark

United Fund volunteers are bending every effort to reach 100 percent of their $182,537 goal by Thursday afternoon at 5 as the formal reporting for this year's campaign concludes.

The last report showed a 68 percent accomplishment of $124,156 with some substantial employee accounts and special division donations still out.

R.W. "Dick" Stowers, General Campaign Chairman for this year's drive, said he was optimistic of reaching the goal if every account outstanding has worked and reported.

Rick Oncken, President of the Pampa United Fund urged volunteers to finish on the November 1 date and keep on the "one month" solicitation period established for this year's campaign.

Doughnuts and coffee will be available for those who attend Thursday afternoon's meeting.

McCurdy wins a safety award

Burk McCurdy of Higgins received a Rolex watch at a Moran Brothers, Inc. awards dinner Tuesday for one year of continuous drilling operations without a lost time accident on a land rig.

The dinner was held at Dyer's Bar-b-que in Pampa. Electricity went out midway through the fete and McCurdy was presented the watch — via candlelight — by Roger Swisher, manager of the company's land drilling operations in Wichita Falls.

McCurdy was rig manager of Rig No. 4, located in Hemphill, Roberts and Wheeler counties, during his accident-free year. He has since been transferred to Rig No. 38 in Roger Mills, Okla.

Moran Brothers sponsors an ongoing monthly and quarterly safety award program for its drillers and rig crew members.

The company is a diversified energy company headquartered in Houston with daily onshore drilling services offices located in Wichita Falls.

deaths and funerals

ETHEL CLARE BIGGERSTAFF
CHILDRESS — Graveside services for Miss Ethel Clare Biggerstaff will be at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Childress Cemetery with the Rev. R. H. Knight, retired Methodist minister, officiating. A memorial service will follow in the Central Christian Church. Services are under the direction of Newberry Funeral Home. Miss Biggerstaff died Monday.
She was a native of Estelina and a graduate of Texas Christian University. She had been a teacher in the Childress school system for 40 years.
Miss Biggerstaff was a lifetime native of the Central Christian Church, the Childrens Chapter of American Association of University Women and the Belle Letters Book Club.
Survivors include one sister, Miss Kate Biggerstaff; and one brother, E.L. of Pampa.

police report

Pampa High School Athletic Director Ed Lehnick reported 10 pads stolen from the blocking sheds located on the practice field. The theft was believed to have occurred sometime during the weekend. The pads are valued at $400.
A juvenile was arrested for possession of a controlled substance when he was observed smoking a marijuana cigarette behind the Pampa High School gymnasium.
Robby Dale Burton, 18, of 825 S. Banks was arrested for no driver's license and two city warrants that were outstanding after a routine traffic stop.
Raymond Miller, 51, of 1000 E. Kingsmill was arrested for public intoxication when he was observed in the alley behind the 300 block of 300 South Cuyler. Lamavee Dorgan, 40, of 1219 Farley was also arrested in the alley of 300 South Cuyler for driving while intoxicated and for a traffic violation after he reportedly backed into a police unit.
Wade Archibald, 25, of 324 Perry Street, and Allen Ray Jenkins, 29, of 333 Perry Street were arrested for public intoxication, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest after becoming involved in a fight with the owner of Red's Lounge, 419 W. Foster. Three police officers were called to the scene. The two men were placed in city jail.
Ramon Rodriguez, 23, was arrested for burglary of a residence after he reportedly broke into a house at 1005 E. Gordon. The suspect was held by Louis Estrada Villa until police arrived. Rodriguez was taken to city jail.
Florence Montgomery, 54, of 1136 Crane Road was arrested for theft after she reportedly took $40 from a purse belonging to Sandra Hutchinson of 852 S. Faulkner. She was placed in city jail.
Alfred Ray Ballard, 37, of 500 N. Doyle was arrested for aggravated assault when police responded to a disturbance call at 852 S. Faulkner. Reportedly, Ballard assaulted Sandra Hutchinson when he struck her on the foot with a beer bottle. Ballard was placed in city jail.

minor accidents

An three-car accident occurred at the intersection of North Hobart and West Harvester streets Tuesday. Scott Allen Coates, 18, of 1109 Juniper was stopped at a stop sign in the 900 block of Harvester when a northbound vehicle driven by Steven Jorgenson, 24, of 313 N. Wells, tried to make a left turn. A vehicle driven by Susan Lynn Payton, 24, of 1300 W. Kentucky, was southbound on Hobart and collided with the Jorgenson vehicle, knocking it around and causing it to strike the Coates car. Jorgenson was cited for failure to yield right of way.
The 1400 block of North Hobart at Furr's Family Center was the scene of a collision when a vehicle driven by Beverly Brown, 22, of Box 43, White Deer, backed into a properly parked vehicle owned by John Morris, 2312 Comanche. Ms. Brown was cited for unsafe backing.

Three Mile Island panel must sell recommendations to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president's commission on Three Mile Island, following up on its broad indictment of the nuclear industry and its regulators, now faces the task of selling its recommendations to Congress and the White House.
Commission chairman John G. Kemeny and several other panel members were to testify today before two congressional committees that will decide what action to take on the group's findings.
One commission source said, Kemeny, president of Dartmouth College, is expected to visit Washington over the coming weeks to drum up support for the commission's report.
The 12-member panel, appointed by President Carter last April to conduct an investigation of the March 28 nuclear accident near Harrisburg, Pa., spent six months on the project.

Its inquiry produced a litany of shortcomings in the way the Three Mile Island plant was operated and in the way the industry has been regulated.
President Carter, who accepted the report Tuesday, said he did not expect any quick action.
"Our own assessment and our decisions on what to do cannot be made immediately, and we'll have to be very careful and very methodical on our recommendations to the public," Carter said.
Several commissioners told reporters Tuesday that they feared another serious accident might occur before their findings are used.
"I have this terrible feeling that somewhere out there is another accident waiting to happen," declared Carolyn Lewis, one of the panel's strongest industry critics.
The report concludes: "To prevent nuclear accidents as serious as Three Mile Island, fundamental changes will be necessary in the organization, procedures, and practices — and above all — in the attitude of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) and...of the nuclear industry."

The commissioners said even if their recommendations are implemented, "We do not claim...to assure the safety of nuclear power."
For one thing, the panel recommended that the NRC be abolished and replaced by an executive agency headed by a single administrator.
"The NRC is a headless agency," declared Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt in summing up the panel's criticism. "A debating society is no way to run the ship."
The commission also said future atomic power plants should be located in remote areas.

AFTER A six-month investigation into last March's accident, the presidential commission on Three Mile Island called Tuesday for "fundamental changes" in the way nuclear plants are built, operated and regulated. The changes will not guarantee the safety of nuclear power, however. (AP Laserphoto)

Prison site sold to foreign corporations

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — The once-proposed site of a controversial South Texas State prison has been sold to two foreign corporations for over $12 million.
The 14,800-acre Monte Cristo ranch was purchased from Big Five Farms by World Investment Co., a Panamanian corporation which sold 7,800 acres to another outfit, the Mercure Co. of the Netherlands Antilles.
Big Five Farms purchased the ranch two years ago for approximately $13 million from Wallace Groves, a British citizen living in the Bahamas.
Groves has a partial interest in the World Investment Co., said David Sweeten, former ranch manager when Groves was sole owner.

Commissioners to study eight items

Eight items head the agenda for Thursday's regular 9:30 a.m. meeting of the Gray County Commissioner's Court in the county courthouse.
Included is further discussion of the 1980 budget, which the court is "shooting for" a Nov. 16 approval date, according to County Judge Carl Kennedy.
Commissioners will consider a request from the Senior Citizens Center to raise their budgeted county allotment to $10,000, up from $5,000.
"They were given $10,000 in 1977 but the next year it was reduced to $5,000 because of the hospital," Kennedy said. He added that the money is used to keep up the operation of the facility on Francis Street and funds "normally" come out of the county's revenue sharing funds.
Also on the agenda is approval of grant applications of $55,000 and $20,000 from the Texas Aeronautics Board to Perry-Lefors and McLean Airports. Kennedy said the funds will be used to maintain facilities at the airports, not for major improvements.
The court will study approval for bid advertisement for oil and gas leases in Gaines County and will consider a request to share in the costs of a four county repeater radio crystal for the state license trooper.

A blustery, snow-laden storm sent an icy prelude to winter through portions of the central and southern Plains, killing eight persons, stranding motorists, knocking out power and sending some Texas residents to shelters to keep warm.
Blizzard warnings were in effect early today and travelers advisories were posted for the Texas Panhandle, northeastern New Mexico and the mountains and foothills of Colorado, the National Weather Service said.
Two persons were killed Tuesday when a freak tornado spawned by the storm smashed a mobile home in a rural community near Ardmore, Okla.
Six other people died in traffic accidents, including a man and woman struck by a car when they stopped to help a vehicle stalled in a snow-filled ditch in the Texas Panhandle.

Agriculture Department unloads casino, belly dancers

WASHINGTON (AP) — After years of trying to find a buyer, the Agriculture Department today expects to unload its interest in an investment company that includes among its holdings a Middle East casino where gambling and belly dancers are popular. Officials said Tuesday that USDA's 7 percent share of Intra Investment Co. has been sold to the government of Lebanon, a deal that has been in the works off and on for more than five years. The investment company also controls other properties, including Middle East Air Lines and a shipyard in France in addition to the Casino du Liban near Beirut, Lebanon. Lester W. LeCompte, controller of USDA's Commodity Credit Corp., told a reporter the deal was scheduled to be closed today in New York City for $7 million. The CCC, a wholly-owned corporation in the department, became a minority stockholder in the casino and other property 12 years ago after the collapse of the investment company's predecessor, Intra Bank. Under terms of a credit arrangement handled by the defunct bank, CCC had financed the sale of commodities to a number of Middle East countries. Lebanon, Kuwait and Qatar, as major creditors, set up the investment company to clean up the situation. Originally, CCC was owed about $21.8 million as a result of the collapse but was able to recover most of it when the bank's assets were liquidated. The CCC board of directors, headed by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, approved the sale of the shares to Lebanon 18 months ago, but it has taken since then to work out the details. Meanwhile, LeCompte said, CCC earlier this year received a dividend of about $350,000 on its share of Intra Investment Co. stocks, which now has reduced the debt further to $7,980,270.56. Thus, he said, sale of the CCC's stock in the casino and other properties will mean a net loss of less than $1 million. The USDA corporation announced in 1974 that it intended to sell the 730,468 shares it owned in Intra Investment Co., and Lebanon emerged as the prospective buyer. But the deal was tabled during hostilities in Lebanon, and it was not until two years ago that Lebanon renewed its offer to buy the 7 percent shares held by CCC.

WITH THE ASSISTANCE OF Southwestern Bell, State Comptroller Bob Bullock has expanded the department's toll-free number (1-800-252-5555) so that deaf citizens may dial and ask questions via teletype.

Teletype calls for deaf Texans

Hearing impaired Texans seeking state sales tax information can now "let their fingers do the talking" when calling the state comptroller's office in Austin.

With the assistance of Southwestern Bell, State Comptroller Bob Bullock has expanded the department's toll-free number (1-800-252-5555), so that deaf citizens may dial and ask questions via teletype.

"People who own or have access to home teletype or porta-printer may communicate directly with the comptroller's office, daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday," said Jim Phillips, director of sales tax at the state comptroller's office in Austin. "When our switchboard operators receive an incoming call that generates a high pitch tone, they immediately route it to one of the office teletypes."

Phillips said Southwestern Bell was instrumental in converting the office's current communications equipment to handle the teletype calls.

"We called their representatives, told them what we needed, and they went to work," said Phillips. "It's a good system and it opens a much needed link with our hearing impaired citizens."

As more and more teletype equipment becomes available, many banking institutions, utilities, governmental and state agencies will begin similar programs.

Quality bathroom retains looks, efficiency

In these days of soaring inflation, some folks are lowering their sights when it comes to buying quality products. They're buying less than the best available to save money.

When it comes to bathroom fixtures — don't! This advice comes from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. It points out that a bathroom probably gets more wear and tear than any room in the house.

Furthermore, the bathroom has taken its place right up there with the living room as a place to be carefully planned according to a specific decor. In addition, you don't expect to replace a new bathroom for many years.

In short, the Bureau notes, bathroom fixtures must be of good quality if they are to remain good-looking and work efficiently over a long period.

If you're planning to have a bathroom or powder room installed or remodel an existing one, you'll find these tips from the Bureau useful:

1. The siphon jet toilet has the best mechanical action, is the quietest and is the easiest to keep clean.

2. Bathtubs come in various sizes. You can get tubs that are deeper or wider to make bathing more enjoyable. Many have slip-resistant bottoms, shelves for grooming aids and even seats for those who like to shower sitting down. Choose finishes that are chip-resistant.

3. Lavatories come in various sizes and shapes. One with a generous-size bowl doesn't take up much more space than the economy sizes and is a big help when it comes to doing hand laundry or shampooing hair. If you have your bowl fitted into a vanity cabinet with a countertop and storage space beneath, both beauty and utility are greatly enhanced.

4. Choose your faucets with care. Types available include the conventional, push-pull and those with lever handles. Some of the newest ones are washerless and are virtually leakproof. They come in a large variety of shapes and finishes and can help enhance the overall decor of the bathroom.

5. Among the most important introductions into the bathroom are bath and shower controls that enable you to preset the temperature of the water. The water then remains at a stable temperature regardless of pressure changes. No more sudden scalding or icy douses.

6. Other major introductions into the bathroom are the watersaving features of shower controls and water closets. The better-quality ones save water without detracting from the efficiency of the equipment.

A final word of advice: Be sure that your bathroom equipment is installed by a qualified, professional contractor or his trained journeyman. No matter how excellent the equipment you choose, if it isn't installed right, it may not function efficiently.

Improperly installed plumbing sometimes may cause cross-connection between the potable (drinking) water and the sewage supply lines that can endanger your family's health.

In short, dealing with a qualified, professional contractor is a good investment from the health, safety and efficiency standpoints.

Fiberglass shower is crucial element for handicapped

If you are contemplating adding or redecorating a bathroom for a person who uses a wheelchair, the shower stall is a crucial element.

It must be large enough to accommodate a wheelchair, the fittings must be within the handicapped person's reach, and the stall must be designed for extra safety. It must be especially skid- and tumble-proof. Moreover, the shower's surface must allow for easy maintenance and sanitation.

Because of these maintenance requirements, many institutions have begun installing specially-designed, one-piece fiberglass showers for their patients in wheelchairs. The handicapped are putting these units into their homes, too.

One-piece fiberglass wheelchair showers, like the Liberte model manufactured by Universal - Rundle Corporation, initially are somewhat more expensive than the traditional tile showers. However, in the long run the fiberglass units turn out to be money-savers.

Why? Because, the company reports, the units are virtually maintenance-free. There are no tiles to crack. There's no grout to fall out.

The fiberglass units also cut down on cleaning time, because the smooth fiberglass surface is much easier to scrub and sanitize than a tile-and-grout surface.

Universal - Rundle's Liberte shower offers convenience for the handicapped person. Its five-foot diameter permits full wheelchair mobility inside the shower, and a lipped door ledge keeps the wheelchair from rolling out.

The interior has a fold-down wooden seat which, at an 18-inch height, permits easy movement from wheelchair to seat.

The temperature and water controls are located at a convenient height; the showerhead features an adjustable height and is removable for "personal" showering.

Molded right into the fiberglass are grab bars, soap dishes and shampoo ledges. There's also a removable, non-skid, fiberglass ramp.

The unit's one-piece, seamless, heavy-duty construction makes it ideal for both institutional and home use. And because it's one piece, it installs quickly.

According to the manufacturer, the Liberte — and other fiberglass wheelchair showers — give those confined to wheelchairs a new personal bathing freedom, a freedom that most of the world takes for granted.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

Guest writers advise Ginger to drop her 'ex'

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.

Ginger, 16, from Elgin, Ill., is having boyfriend problems and wants the teen writers to give her guidance. Ramona Riley, 17, who lives in Hagerstown, Md., and Willie Wilson, 16, from Elyria, Ohio, will do the honors. Welcome!

Dr. Wallace: I went steady with a guy for over a year and he got me pregnant. I had an abortion because he wanted me to. Presently, he has another girlfriend but I'd really like to have him back. No matter what I do, I can't get him out of my mind. I've dated other guys, but when they try to kiss me, I turn my head because I think of my "ex" too much.

I still see this guy about once a month and he tells me he still loves me and that he doesn't want me to date other guys.

I'd like to hear what your teen writers have to say about my situation. Oh, yes, I'd also like your advice. — Ginger, Elgin, Ill.

Ginger: It must be obvious that if your ex has another girlfriend that you stand somewhere between second and tenth place. It will take time to get over this guy but you will.

The guy is a louse and you will be better off without him. It seems the only person he loves is himself. — Dr. Wallace

Hi Ginger: I hate to tell you this, but this "ex" of yours is only using you. If he loved you, he would be with you, not another girl. You are a fool if you keep seeing him once a month. You got burned once. Isn't that enough?

I hope you come to your senses and tell this guy goodbye. — Ramona, Hagerstown, Md.

Hello Ginger: You probably won't like what I have to say, but you are just wasting your time thinking about your ex. This boy doesn't appear to love you and he doesn't want you to date other boys because if and when he wants you, you will be available. Find yourself another boyfriend and, if you plan to be intimate, use a birth control method. — Willie, Elyria, Ohio

If you would like to be a guest writer, please write to me, in care of this newspaper, stating your sex and age.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Angela Day in
OU's 'Pippin' production

A Pampa student at the University of Oklahoma is appearing in the school's production of "Pippin", a Tony award-winning musical.

Angela Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Day, 1115 Mary Ellen, is a member of the cast of the musical comedy, which opened last weekend and will run through Saturday.

"Pippin" is being presented through the combined efforts of the OU School of Drama, the Department of Dance and the School of Music.

The musical, by Roger Hirson with music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz, involves the attempts of an emperor's son, Pippin, to find himself through doing extraordinary things. He finally finds fulfillment with a wife and child.

Tickets are $3.50 each and are available through Fine Arts College Ticket Sales, located in the Fine Arts Center, 563 Elm Ave., Norman 73019, or by calling (405) 325-4101.

Fall coats offer style, warmth

A new coat is always a wardrobe investment, so "sightsee" a bit before you buy, advises the Fiber Information Center, which points out that guidelines should be warmth, versatility and personal pleasure.

With luxurious quilts that look more at home on city streets than on the mountain trail and man-made fiber "furs" that look and feel like the real thing, the range of current coats is large, fashion experts at the center report.

As you start your pre-winter hunting trip for the right coat, look for some of the newest body-warming and eye-warming trends, they suggest.

The "new-generation" quilt coats are weather-resistant and offer warmth without weight. The Puff Coat, the latest designer answer to the problem of keeping warm, looks like a sleeping bag walking, and is actually called "a walking environment". Like many other kinds of quilted looks, it's made with a nylon shell and polyester fiberfill quilting.

The great variety in quilted styles this season makes it easy to find one to suit your shape, the stylists at the center note. If you're concerned about looking like a walking cocoon, try one of the slimmer styles.

The newest look is a full-length, side-toggled and fitted quilt coat, inspired by the fencer's jacket. There are quilts that serve as rugged, daytime storm coats and then reverse to a sparkling iridescence for evening.

Along with quilts, the fun-fakes offer man-made "furs" that are more drapeable and durable than previously because the "fur" side is often backed with woven or knit polyester. They maintain their shape and offer light-weight, easy-care comfort, stylists at the center say.

This season there are "species" such as simulated fox, lynx, raccoon and mink in luxuriously soft, long-wearing modacrylic and acrylic. Styles include such imaginative looks as a trapper's vest, complete with fuzzy tails, a completely reversible storm coat with a "furry" overshell of "lynx" and numerous toggled jackets, as well as evening styles with an elegant Persian-lamb look and touches like jeweled collars and buttons.

Most such coats should be cleaned at least once or twice during the wearing season, the Fiber Information Center advises. Always check the fabric-care label, doubly important because of various lining materials.

A good care tip for all coats: let them dry thoroughly before storing in a closet. Never place them near a direct heat source such as a radiator or fireplace.

Hair styles & hats

Enchanting new evening hats, with the added attraction of exciting hair styles, make winter holidays glamorous occasions.

A softly flowing upsweep hairdo by Ogilvie stylists, left, is balanced by Frank Olive's feathered evening hat, set at a rakish angle. A youthful, cascading ponytail, below, has a night life of its own with Olive's forward thrust cuff cap of satin and jewels.

A gentle after-dark mood is mirrored in a hairdo swept up into large side rolls, right, while the back is fashioned into a high twist. Olive's gold brimmed tear-drop cap is gently nestled between the high rolls.

DEAR ABBY

Baby-faced hubby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am four and a half years older than my husband. He's small in stature and has a baby face that makes him look years younger than he is. I, on the other hand, look my age, even though I work very hard at keeping my figure, selecting becoming, non-matronly clothes, and doing everything I can to look youthful.

In spite of all this, my husband hasn't aged a bit since we've been married (22 years), and many people have mistaken me for his mother. Recently, I was asked if our college-age son and my husband were both my sons!

So far, my husband hasn't overheard any of these remarks. We have good communication in other matters, but I haven't been able to bring myself to discuss this with him, or let him know how much it bothers me.

Believe me, I'm doing all I can to look youthful. Now all I need is a sharp, snappy answer ready for people who hurt me in this way. Can you help me? I've noticed that you can really turn a neat phrase, Abby. I need to be prepared the next time something like this happens.

NO SIG, PLEASE

DEAR NO SIG: I don't recommend a "sharp, snappy answer" for those who inadvertently hurt you by speaking their minds. Prepare yourself by adopting a more realistic attitude. Face it, you are married to a baby-faced man who doesn't look his age, and could conceivably be mistaken for your son. Look at it this way: You must have had something very special to have captured a "younger man," so count your blessings and develop a tougher hide. (P.S. DO discuss it with him. When sensitive matters are brought out in the open, they lose their sting.)

DEAR ABBY: My father is over 85 but still sharp as a tack mentally, still works every day and is very active. The problem is that Papa drives a car. He shouldn't. He has a license to drive, but he is a danger on the streets.

His vision isn't very good (particularly at night) and I am worried sick that he might kill himself or some innocent person. I've tried to tell him he shouldn't drive, but he is a very proud man, and stubborn, too.

Any ideas on what to do about my problem?

LOVES PAPA

DEAR LOVES: If you love Papa as you say you do, you will quietly report him to the motor vehicle department. They act on such reports to re-test any licensed driver who could be a hazard.

DR. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — At 53 years of age I run three miles a day, play tennis and am in good spirits. I'm considered optimistic, enthusiastic and I'm rarely ill. I have a physical every year. I'm 5 foot 9 at 153 pounds and really enjoy life.

I hold an executive position of responsibility but for the past 15 years I've been on 25 milligrams of Librium every day. Strange, vague symptoms brought this original prescription on. I've gone without it for a week and the symptoms are accentuated. I have regularly missed taking Librium on two nights a week without any problem. No one can tell outwardly whether I'm taking it or not.

I feel guilty that it's necessary for me to take Librium at all. Each year I ask my doctor and he belittles my concern and claims it's necessary for me with my daily problems. I'm beginning to believe him but I don't want to.

I do not drink or smoke and take care of my body with as much good judgment as I can. Obviously, I'm not taking care of my mind in some way and I would love to be relieved of the apparent necessity to take this Librium. Would you, at this point in time, suggest the involvement of a psychologist? My doctor has never suggested this.

DEAR READER — Why not ask your doctor to refer you to a psychiatrist? People see a heart specialist just to make sure their heart functions as well as possible. We have golf pros to teach us to improve our golf game, lawyers to help us with our legal and business problems so why not see a specialist in mental and emotional functions to get the most out of life? A consultation with a psychiatrist certainly isn't going to hurt you and with a few visits, he could tell rather clearly whether you really have any problems that warrant any further professional counseling.

A person who has been taking Librium for a long time usually will feel some symptoms when he withdraws from it. The severity of the symptoms will depend a lot on how much a person has been taking. It is good medicine for people who need it. There are proper places for uses of most of these medicines but I must say that I prefer that these not be used on a long-term basis. It's much better to resolve the problem that requires a tranquilizer rather than try to mask its effect with tranquilizers or other such medicines.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 12-2, Sedatives, Hypnotics And Tranquilizers: The Pill Problem.

Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I'm glad that you're not using alcohol. Most of the tranquilizers and alcohol have an additive effect. The combination can be very dangerous. The other question I'd have about you is how much coffee, tea, colas or such beverages do you use. Many people who have anxiety-type symptoms get them because they use too much coffee. Caffeine is a brain stimulant and has the opposite effect of such tranquilizers as Librium.

Important Notice Regarding Montgomery Ward Advertising.

We regret that the items listed below and which are advertised in our circular in Tuesday's Pampa News are not available as advertised. Montgomery Ward intends to have every item we advertise available during the full period of our sale. If an advertised item (other than a stated limited in-stock quantity, "Clearance," or "Special Buy" item) is not available, we will at our option offer you a substitute item of equal or greater value at the advertised price or place a "raincheck" order for the item at the advertised sale price.

The tire advertisement on page 12 is in error. The steel belted winter radial tires are not carried in the Pampa store. The correct ad featuring Aramid Belted Radial Tires and Glass Belted White Walls Tires appears in The Pampa News today.

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.

If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on.

The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

make a ten-minute call to Atlanta for only $1.55. That's almost worth making a new friend in Atlanta for.

Call between 11pm and 8am.

Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it.

You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings. If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end.

Call out of state anytime before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. In-state calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

Even on weeknights, save up to 35%.

Sometimes you can't wait for the weekend. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

On weekdays it's still a bargain.

Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%.

Now this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save. For instance, dial One-Plus and you can Reach out and touch someone.

Orange Bowl bands

A berth in the 1980 Orange Bowl Parade in Miami, Fla., awaits the overall winner of Music Bowl I - Texas, a high school marching band contest to be held Nov. 10 at North Texas State University in Denton.

Underwritten by Beatrice Foods Co. and its Fort Worth-based Dannon Yogurt division, Music Bowl I - Texas will feature the most proficient high school bands from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Proceeds from ticket sales will benefit the United Way of Denton County and the participating bands.

The Music Bowl I - Texas winner will join winning bands from four other Music Bowl events sponsored by Beatrice Foods - in Missouri, Ohio, Alabama and California.

Thirty bands are expected to compete in Music Bowl I - Texas, according to Dr. Robert Winslow, NTSU director of bands and Music Bowl I - Texas program coordinator.

Preliminaries will be held during the day, with the top 10 bands returning in the evening, when nationally-ranked judges will determine the overall championships.

Tickets are priced at $4 for adults and $2 for students. Children six and under will be admitted free. Tickets are available through the United Way of Denton County, the NTSU Music Department and participating marching bands, and from the NTSU stadium box office on the day of the event.

Nielson Company entering market for pay television

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The A.C. Nielsen Co., whose famous numbers figure so largely in the tube-watching options of a nation, has entered the pay-TV market. I wondered why.

The purpose of Nielsen ratings, as I had understood it, was to determine how many people watched a certain show on commercial television, the numbers being used to set advertising rates.

Pay television, as I had understood it, featured uncensored and uncensored programs without commercials (with that latter aspect being pay-TV's brightest feature). Since ratings are used to set advertising rates, and since there is no advertising on the major pay-TV services, then what is the need for ratings on pay-TV?

Dave Harkness, Nielsen's marketing manager, has many reasons. I figured he might. Advertising agencies, pay-TV companies, ABC, NBC and CBS, he says, all bought Nielsen's first report on pay-TV.

Harkness says that pay-TV networks, such as Home Box Office, want the report to determine which of their programs were best-liked, and for scheduling purposes.

Advertising agencies, he said, wanted the Nielsen report to see how extensively pay-TV has diminished the clout of the biggest national advertising medium, commercial TV. The networks, he said, were interested for the same reasons.

The "potential threat" factor, he called it.

But Home Box Office, Showtime and other pay-TV services insist they are not even thinking about selling advertisements.

The Nielsen pay-TV report, compiled last February and released in the late-summer, showed that pay-TV was competing strongly with the commercial networks. Pay-TV was as close in the ratings to NBC as NBC was to the leader, ABC. The ratings also showed that television sets were used more in homes with pay-TV.

This suggests commercials, Ron Kaatz, of the J. Walter Thompson advertising firm, agrees. His agency was among the firms that bought the Nielsen pay-TV report, because pay-TV is "definitely seen as a potential advertising medium."

But what of the promises that there will never be ads on pay-TV?

"They say that now because that's how they got started (featuring programs without commercial interruption)," Kaatz responds. "But I'll bet you that you'll see commercials on pay-TV."

If so, uncensored, uncensored programming will be the only major feature separating pay-TV from commercial TV, and how long can that last if advertisers get into the game?

And if advertising becomes central to pay-TV programming, that other Nielsen by-product — cancellation — might come into play.

Well, there's still video cassette. "Oh, we're looking at that, too," says Kaatz. "Cable, satellite, video-disc and cassette... it's fun, all the exciting opportunities."

ANGELO BUONO leaves a Los Angeles court building Tuesday after pleading innocent to charges stemming from the deaths of 10 young women in the Hillside Strangler murders. Buono's 26-year-old cousin, Kenneth Bianchi, has confessed to five of the "Strangler" murders and implicated Buono in the 10 slayings.

Rural Americans aware of crime problems

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer

MONTMORENCI, Ind. (AP) — Two years ago, the Vorst family moved about 10 miles — from Lafayette, Ind., population 43,000, to this corn-growing hamlet of 200 — searching for a place where they could leave their doors unlocked.

They felt they had replaced urban fear with country security. But last October when JoAnne Vorst walked up to her elegant, $100,000 home, the frantic barking of her dog told her something was wrong.

The house was a shambles. Tire-tread scars on the lawn still show where vandals pulled their van up to the back door. Walls and doors were smashed. A bureau was in pieces. Jewelry and guns were missing. Eggs had been tossed against the walls. The odor of wine hung in the air.

"Were we bad, Mommy? Is God punishing us?" her young son asked as Mrs. Vorst surveyed $10,000 in damage.

Mrs. Vorst called a neighbor, Jacky Kerker, and together they decided it was time Montmorenci did something about the burglars and vandals who had preyed on their town for more than five years.

Somehow, the system that was supposed to prevent crime and punish wrongdoers simply wasn't working in Tippecanoe County, Ind.

The Kerker home had been broken into six times. Down the road a bit, Bob and Paula Kerkhove had lost a portable TV, several high-powered rifles and a valued collection of old silver dollars to thieves. It seemed that almost everyone in town had similar stories.

But it took the case of Jim and JoAnne Vorst to stir Montmorenci. Their ordeal had a profound impact on the town.

Some of the houses now have the hefty deadbolt locks favored by city dwellers.

After the break-in, the Vorsts installed a $2,000 alarm system with a siren that can be heard a mile away. If the alarm is tripped, phone calls automatically go out to the state police, the sheriff and a nearby neighbor.

A month ago, the Kerkers bought a menacing Doberman named Zeke, so fierce it allows no one but the family near the house.

Townpeople are now religiously jotting down license plate numbers of any cars or trucks they don't recognize.

The change hasn't been easy for people who never used to give crime a second thought.

Kerkhove says he finds locking and unlocking his front door "mighty unhandy" and he still refuses to put a lock on his gas pump, although neighbors have had gasoline stolen.

The community turned to a strategy to fight crime much like that being used by many urban neighborhoods — organize to defend itself.

The first step was a meeting of about 40 people in Mrs. Vorst's living room. She calls that first gathering the "vigilante meeting" because some of her more incensed neighbors urged people to buy guns and take matters into their own hands.

More meetings were held. At one gathering last June, more than 100 people from neighboring towns attended, as well as Tippecanoe County Prosecutor John Meyers and state police Detective Jim Kesterson.

Meyers now admits, "I wasn't aware that they were that concerned."

The meetings revealed that people thought the state police cared too little about their crime problems and dealt with them too slowly. Townpeople complained to the county prosecutor that, as Mrs. Kerkhove puts it, "laws protect the criminal more than the victim."

In turn, Kesterson told the people of Montmorenci what they could do to prevent crime: buy locks, note strange persons or vehicles, buy dogs, list all possessions and stop mail deliveries when on vacation.

One major accomplishment of those meetings was that neighbors got to know newcomers to Montmorenci, drawn by jobs in nearby light industry or, like the Vorsts, moving out of cities looking for a more peaceful life.

It dawned on Mrs. Kerker that "we don't know all our neighbors," and that knowing one another had always been rural America's first line of defense against crime.

Some of Montmorenci's problems are more difficult. Kesterson says the kids he arrests for vandalism or break-ins are often drunk or high on drugs. He says the problems that trouble city kids are just as common among country kids now, with the big consolidated county schools serving as breeding grounds for mischief, crime and drugs.

It's too soon to tell if Montmorenci's community crime prevention program will actually lower the crime rate, says Meyers. But there are some results already.

Other towns in the county, like Tecumseh and Hanna Park, are considering forming similar community anti-crime groups.

DPS directors job two-man race

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The competition for the director's post at the Texas Department of Public Safety — a two-man race with heavy political overtones — resumed today with an interview of a former top FBI official.

James B. Adams, the man Gov. Bill Clements brought back from Washington to head his criminal justice division, was to talk with Public Safety Commission members, according to PSC member Charles Nash of Austin.

Adams and DPS Lt. Col. Leo Gossett are the top candidates to succeed Col. Wilson Speir. The 62-year-old Speir is retiring at the end of the year, and he has endorsed Gossett for the post.

Nash said Gossett and Adams will be the only two applicants who will be interviewed. Gossett was interviewed at the last PSC meeting, Nash said.

Adams came back to Texas in May to head the governor's criminal justice division. He had served as the No. 2 man for the FBI.

The dying and starving

SA KAEW, Thailand (AP) — "We've done things we never expected to do. We've seen things we never expected to see. I don't care how many pictures you see on TV, how many stories you read, you cannot believe this exists."

The speaker was an American interior designer who had come to Thailand for a vacation. Wearing a wide-brimmed straw hat and a lobster-red sunburn, he was standing amid the ragged, emaciated patients in the makeshift hospital at the Sa Kaew refugee camp, where 30,000 Cambodians have found a precarious refuge 50 miles from the border they crossed to escape war and starvation.

Hundreds of volunteers from the foreign community in Bangkok, Thailand's capital 125 miles away, have been slogging through the mud of the hastily opened camp, digging ditches, putting up tents, cooking, giving injections, trying to help save lives.

Said one young U.S. Embassy wife: "At 10 o'clock last night I was baking banana bread at home and I got a phone call. In the morning I was here... I feel that I've had the chance to do something really important."

The volunteers include housewives, members of embassy staffs, businessmen and students who found they could not stand aside from the desperate need. Caught up in a spirit of selflessness, most of them asked that their names not be used.

The need for volunteers, in the camp and along the border where refugees sit in the open and wait for help, emphasizes the gap between the extent of the refugee problem and the amount of aid that has been supplied so far by international agencies.

Thrown together in a hurry, the Sa Kaew camp is without adequate housing, medical supplies, doctors or sanitation, and about half the foreign aid workers are non-professional volunteers.

Each day the U.N. High Commission for Refugees, which coordinates aid work here, brings them by bus from Bangkok. Some go home in the evening; others stay the night in Sa Kaew.

Austin man has cure for snoring

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Retiree Robert Crossley's mailbox is occasionally filled with letters from folks looking for a cure to a problem they've slept through all their lives.

A Pittsburgh man writes: "If this doesn't help I am going to try decapitation."

From Northridge, Calif., comes the tale of woe of a man who has "been ordered to leave hotel rooms in the middle of the night."

And the broken homes were summed up in the letter from

Wynnewood, Pa., that said: "Papa snores so loud that I mistake the sound for a brontosaurus with hiccups."

"It's humorous, unless you're a victim," says Crossley, a 68-year-old retired engineer who sells a electric collar guaranteed to shock snoring out of you. "It's resulted in murder, broken marriages and everything else."

This coming year your career could take a giant step forward as a result of the practical, intelligent way you take care of your responsibilities. Large personal rewards could be forthcoming.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Before involving yourself in mundane activities, take care of situations that help produce a fatter bankbook. You have the necessary smarts today. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Information you could receive today through one you know socially will prove to be very valuable and fit into your present plans nicely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone who feels he or she can trust you may be confiding in you today. Keep what you are told in the strictest confidence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Much can be learned today by getting out and going to the places that have the information you seek. People who can help will be very cooperative.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) To achieve your purposes, you are going to have to speak up for what you want. Don't be afraid. You'll find the necessary words.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is an excellent day to sit down and work out in your mind any problems confronting you. Your reasoning is keen. Trust it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Sherlock Holmes has nothing over you today. Your probing mind can get past the obvious and spot the facts beneath the surface.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In anything you do today involving another, discussion should precede action. Follow to the letter the final decisions that were arrived at.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You stand a marvelous chance of fulfilling your goals today because of the excellent methods you choose. Your procedures are intelligent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Taking the time to find out more about those you come in contact with today gives you a better understanding of their needs, which in turn draws you closer in friendship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Family issues can be worked out advantageously today if you take the time to look into them a little deeper rather than putting them off.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't hold back if a pal needs some advice. You'll have many constructive things to say that will be extremely helpful to this person.

Nichols optimistic about Harvester cage season

With only one returning starter back from last year's 13-15 club, the Pampa Harvesters may be hard-pressed to improve their record, but new head basketball coach Garland Nichols is optimistic about the 1979-80 season.

"I'm pretty well satisfied with the team has been looking, but we've got a long way to go yet," Nichols said.

The Harvesters started workouts two weeks ago in preparation for the season opener Nov. 20 at Perryton. Scrimmages are set for Nov. 15 here with Dumas and Nov. 16-17 at Lawton.

"We still haven't got our fullcourt presses down yet, but we're looking good on our man to man offense," he added.

Ronnie Faggins, the only returning starter, is a good one. The 6-4 junior averaged 12 points a game last season and was named District 3-AAAA sophomore of the year.

"We're going to be short, except for Ronnie, but our quickness should offset that," Nichols said. "Our attitude has also been good in practice. That's another plus sign."

Competition has been fierce for starting jobs, particularly in the backcourt. Steve Glover, 5-10 senior, and Joe Jeffers, 5-11 senior, are presently holding down the guard spots, but they're both being pushed hard by Vic Wallace and Toby Hinson.

Charles Nelson at the other forward spot opposite Faggins has a slight edge over Kyle Bradford. At the post position is Cedric Parker, backed up by Jim Agan. Playing behind Faggins is Jay Hinson.

Nichols will field practically an all-senior ballclub with only two underclassmen listed on the 10-man roster. That factor should turn the Harvesters into an experienced team before the halfway mark of the season.

Flanagan wins Cy Young award

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Flanagan picked up an effective changeup delivery, learned how to deal with the news media and wound up as the American League's Cy Young Award winner for the 1979 season.

The 27-year-old left-hander, who posted a 23-9 record for Baltimore's league champions, was a runaway winner in the balloting conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Flanagan received 26 of 28 first-place votes, with New York Yankees pitcher Tommy John and Ron Guidry, the 1978 winner, sharing the other two.

"I'll always look at the award as a team thing," said Flanagan, the fifth Orioles' pitcher in 11 years to win or share the prestigious award.

"Maybe I was the best pitcher," Flanagan said while noting the Orioles won 108 games in regular and postseason play, "but I was also on the best team."

Flanagan, a native of Manchester, N.H., who was Baltimore's seventh choice in the June, 1973 draft, credited teammate Scott McGregor with turning his season around by teaching him a changeup.

"It came natural from the first time he showed me how to throw it," Flanagan said. "In the first half of the season, if I didn't have a good curveball, I got beat. But after I learned the changeup and threw my slider more, I became a four-pitch pitcher. The change set up my whole game plan and put me over the hump."

From July 9 on, Flanagan won 13 of his last 16 regular season decisions, turning in a 2.23 earned run average over 18 starts. He finished fourth in the AL with a 3.08 ERA.

In addition to leading the major leagues in victories, he shared the league lead with five shutouts, was second with 38 starts, and third with 190 strikeouts and 2652.3 innings pitched.

As the season neared an end and Flanagan was deluged with questions about the Cy Young Award, he sought advice from teammate Jim Palmer, a Cy Tascosa coach Jocko Harris may be at a loss for words now. Jocko was in the stands two weeks ago scouting the Pampa-Amarillo Coronado game. After witnessing Pampa's 34-13 romp, he described the Harvesters as "awesome."

"I knew they could run out of that wishbone, but I didn't know they could throw that well," he went on to say.

Last week Jocko got a closeup view of Pampa's "awesome" attack when his Rebels were victimized, 32-7.

Carmela Caldwell and Teresa Stafford of Pampa are both freshmen on the Texas Tech volleyball team this season. They are trying to make the squad as walk-ons.

Although the fall golf program is over at Pampa High, coach Deck Woldt is going to keep his charges fit for the summer session.

Practice rounds are scheduled with Berger and Amarillo High when the weather permits, and when it doesn't the Harvesters will be going through special conditioning drills in the old Middle School gym.

"I've got some golf drills lined up, Woldt said. "We're going to try and help ourselves as much as possible during bad weather days."

John and Tom Parker of Pampa recently attended an area meeting of major marine dealers in Dallas. Johnson Outboards of Waukegan, Illinois presented its 1980 outboard line and new marketing programs.

It's not too late to enter the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority benefit bowling tournament going on at Harvester Lanes. Entries close at 5 p.m. Sunday and interested individuals may contact either Jean Sells at 665-2658 or Van Vandbrook at 665-3422 to sign up.

Proceeds go to St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital to aid in fighting childhood diseases.

Flashback: Oct. 1947. Johnny Haynes scored three touchdowns as McLean defeated Clarendon, 46-6. On the Tiger line, co-captain Arvin Smith broke up a majority of the enemy's offensive plays.

Big 10 investigates possible violation

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke says his office is making a study of the possibility that a rule violation occurred during last Saturday's Indiana-Michigan game.

The rule in question states that "a runner may hand or pass the ball backward at any time except to throw the ball intentionally out of bounds to conserve time."

The game was tied with six seconds to play when Michigan's Lawrence Reid took a swing pass from John Wangler and then hurried it out of bounds, stopping the clock.

On the next play, Wangler threw a 45-yard touchdown pass to Anthony Carter, giving Michigan a 27-21 victory.

Duke said Tuesday the Big Ten had received no formal protest from Indiana Coach Lee Corso.

"The conference office is following the normal procedure involved with any official's decision in question," said Duke. "The crew chief has been contacted for the specifics of the play. The observer's report is in the mail."

Films of the game are being sent to the office for review.

Holmes following Jones

HOUSTON (AP) — Ernie Holmes has always had a talent for getting attention. The mammoth 6-3 former Pittsburgh defensive tackle once had his hair cut in the shape of an arrowhead because he didn't think he was getting his share of attention. In March, 1973, Holmes was recognized firing at traffic along the Pennsylvania Turnpike. He was arrested and pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon. Holmes said at the time that the incident stemmed from financial and emotional stresses surrounding his divorce case. Now Holmes wants to be noticed as the next heavyweight boxing champion of the world. He still has the arrowhead hair style and the same aggressive attitude that made him one of the most feared defensive tackles in pro football before his retirement last year. "They tell me I have the punch of two mules and one diesel truck in my right hand," Holmes said. "They haven't told me yet what's in my other hand." Holmes is following the lead of another former pro football player, Ed "Too Tall" Jones, in embarking on a boxing career. Holmes said he had tried to get a fight with Jones last June but was unsuccessful. "I called his people and asked if I could get a fight with him," Holmes said. "They wanted to know who I was and I told them Ernie Holmes." They said "no way." Holmes said he had always wanted to try a boxing career.

Shooters place at Amarillo

Four members of the Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club brought home gold medals from the Amarillo Silhouette Pistol Shoot last weekend.

Juanita Nicholas, national ladies champion, took first in Double AA division with a 24, knocking down five chickens in a row to clinch the win.

Nick Nicholas placed first in Double A men's division with a 21. Gary Clark Sr. came in third in Class A with a 17, and Gary Clark Jr. took second in the junior division with a 12.

National champion Don Kimbal of Amarillo brought down 29 targets to capture the Triple AAA men's title. Bill Ball and Terry Todd, both of Amarillo, tied for second at 26.

Also participating from Pampa were Randy Enterline, Diane Enterline, Marsha Stovall, and Mike Griffith.

High school rodeo

Jolinda Lowery of Pampa placed third in barrel racing at the Childress High School rodeo last weekend. Also placing for Pampa were Robbie Burrell, fourth, calf roping, and Lina Stewart, fifth, goat tying.

Pampa club members will participate in a rodeo at Slaton Saturday and Sunday.

Amarillo run set

Amarillo National Bank is sponsoring a 10,000 meter run through the city streets Nov. 10. The event, known as the "10K Classic," will start and finish at the bank's new drive-up Plaza at 11th and Taylor.

Dickey receives Big 8 honors

Darrell Dickey, Kansas State's hotshot freshman quarterback, has lived with the Wildcats' head coach for almost 20 years — he'll be 20 on Dec. 6 — but there's no recruiting violation involved.

Darrell's father, Jim Dickey, is Kansas State's head coach and last weekend he gave his son his first starting assignment. Darrell responded by throwing two touchdown passes as the Wildcats upset Missouri 19-3 before 70,000 people at Columbia, Mo.

He completed 15 of 25 passes for 187 yards to earn Big Eight Offensive Player of the Week honors from The Associated Press. Six of his completions came on third-down plays with more than 6 yards to go and he completed seven of eight passes in the Wildcats' three scoring drives.

Darrell was redshirted in 1978 after throwing for 2,800 yards and 24 touchdowns in two years at Chapel Hill, N.C. High School — Jim Dickey was an assistant at the University of North Carolina before getting the head job at K-State — and was voted conference Player of the Year in 1977. That created the problem of which college to attend.

"I figured out the people who were telling me about all the problems I would have (playing for his father) were just trying to recruit me for other schools," Darrell says. "And I remembered that everything my dad ever told me was true, that he had never lied to me. So I decided to come to Kansas State and everything has worked out exactly like he said."

While Darrell was growing up, Jim was serving as an assistant coach at Houston, Oklahoma State, Oklahoma, Kansas and North Carolina.

"Every day after school he'd make a bee-line to the practice field," says Jim. "He was in awe of all the great players he saw and got to know. But when he was about a sophomore in high school he started to mature and started to work to make himself an athlete and a player."

"I guess he probably made a nuisance of himself, but there's no doubt being around football all his life has helped him to understand the game."

And, says Jim Dickey, he had an advantage over other recruiters "because I'm close to the kid's mother."

Oklahoma State's 30-17 triumph over Kansas was accomplished with 12 nonscholarship players on the Cowboys' 55-man traveling squad. In addition, eight others were awarded scholarships since arriving at OSU — five of them this season — and 13 members of the first two units were freshmen.

Quarterback Jay Venuto set four records in leading amazing Wake Forest to a come-from-behind 42-38 victory over Auburn. In completing 23 of 40 passes, Venuto broke Norm Snead's single-season mark of 270 attempts and Mike McGlamrey's record of 153 completions.

ONE WAS KILLED and 16 are missing after an explosive fire onboard Soviet expedition vessel Olenek which Wednesday morning collided with another Soviet ship near Denmark. (AP Laserphoto)

Soviet ships collide, 16 missing

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Two Soviet ships strengthened for icebreaking collided in a Danish strait today, one caught fire, and 16 sailors were reported missing. The Danish naval command said the 9,243-ton Antarctic expedition ship Olenek and the 22,632-ton tanker General Shkodunovich collided in rough seas in the Great Belt, between Zealand and Fyn, Denmark's two biggest islands. The strait connects the Baltic and North Seas. The Olenek, which was bound for the Antarctic, caught fire, and the captain reported 16 of his crew of 99 were missing. The condition of the ship was not known yet, and first reports did not say if all the crew abandoned ship.

The naval command said a Danish dredger picked up 46 of the Olenek's crewmen from the water and that one was seriously burned. Three other Soviet sailors were reported hospitalized in the port of Korsøer.

The Swedish ferry Stena Olympic also helped in the rescue and one Swedish sailor was reported to have suffered burns.

RICHARD ARRINGTON mops his brow as late Tuesday night returns show him elected as the first black mayor of Birmingham, Ala. Tuesday night. (AP Laserphoto)

Birmingham has new mayor

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — In the most racially plagued election in its recent history, Birmingham voters turned out in record numbers to elect the first black mayor of this Southern industrial city.

"All the eyes of the nation were on the city of Birmingham," President Carter told Dr. Richard Arrington, educator and son of a sharecropper, in a telephone call moments before unofficial tallies showed Arrington had defeated attorney Frank Parsons by a vote of 44,798 to 42,814.

By pulling an unofficial 51 percent of the vote Tuesday, Arrington became the third black mayor of a major Southern city, joining Ernest Morial of New Orleans and Maynard Jackson of Atlanta.

"This is a historic occasion for our city because the majority of the voters of this city have chosen who they want for mayor," said Arrington, who told supporters of his telephone call from the president.

"I believe that the decision of the voters in this city says more about how far Birmingham has come. I think the votes will show that we were able to get support from both blacks and whites and I'm very proud of that fact," he said. "I'm proud of the voters because they put aside racial fears. They looked at the campaign based on issues."

More than 87,000 of the city's 118,660 registered voters turned out to vote in the election. In the primary Oct. 9, voters divided along racial lines because of former Mayor David Vann's handling of a shooting incident this summer, and blacks turned out by busloads at the polls Tuesday.

Jack-O'-Lantern

Ghosts, black cats, and witches on broomsticks are some of the familiar symbols of Halloween. But perhaps the best known Halloween tradition is the jack-o'-lantern, a hollowed out pumpkin with eyes, a nose and a mouth, glowing in the night. The tradition of jack-o'-lanterns can be traced to an Irish legend and a man named Jack. In the legend, Jack was too stingy with his money to get into heaven when he died. Because he had played jokes on the devil, he couldn't get into hell, either. Instead, he was doomed to wander the earth, carrying a lantern, until Judgment Day.

Chrysler posts huge losses

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says it lost $460 million in the third quarter, the worst financial performance in U.S. history, and one analyst says the loss may help the struggling automaker obtain federal help.

The deficit is bigger than any reported by any U.S. corporation in an entire year. It means that the No. 3 automaker has lost $721.5 million so far this year — $53.8 million for the first quarter and $207.1 million for the second.

The huge deficit was expected and industry observers said Tuesday it may help boost the company's attempts to secure financial help from the federal government.

"Chrysler definitely is in need of a life jacket and they shouldn't be quarrelous about what size," said car industry analyst Arvid Jouppe. "It's a devastating loss. There's no way to gold that lily."

Jouppe predicted the figures released by the automaker "will put adrenalin" in Congress.

The company has requested $750 million in loan guarantees from the federal government.
