Standoff continues

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — About 20 foreigners, most of them Americans, surprised Iranians today by parading through the streets of Tehran to demand the extradition of the shah, "because, having lived here through the revolution, we know him to be a murderer."

The marchers, accompanied by about 20 revolutionary guards, were cheered by scores of Iranians shouting "Long Live Americans" as they walked from Ferdowsi Square to Tehran University and back. One American said the group was divided over the taking of American hostages at the U.S. Embassy but that they were unanimous about the shah.

Foreign Minister Abolhassan Bani Sadr announced Iran will not pay its foreign debts, which he put at $15 billion. CBS News reported CBS quoted the minister as saying Iran was planning to totally change its banking system.

Iranian strongman Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini fired a new salvo at the United States, calling on all Moslems and American blacks to rise and "join us in this struggle between the infidel and Islam."

Meanwhile, a secret document obtained by The Associated Press suggested that the United States planned to grant permanent residence to deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, now receiving cancer treatment in New York, as early as last summer, while admitting Iranian officials "may not like" the idea.

The commander of Iran's navy ordered put his forces on full alert to counter the approach of American warships, dispatched to the Indian Ocean, south of Iran, by President Carter.

Carter summoned his top foreign policy advisers to Camp David today to plan new tactics for gaining the release of 49 Americans held hostage since Nov. 4 when Iranian students seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Khomeini, in a statement from his headquarters in Qom broadcast over state radio, warned that the students would blow up the embassy and kill the hostages if the United States attempts to rescue them by force.

The Carter administration said earlier this week that it hoped to end the standoff peacefully but had "other remedies" available.

Khomeini also welcomed the wave of anti-Americanism in Pakistan and urged the Pakistani army to "rise against the oppression inflicted on their brothers" in Iran.

A Moslem mob sacked the U.S. Embassy in the Pakistani capital of Islamabad on Wednesday. The attack was fueled by rumor that the United States was behind the seizure of Islam's holiest shrine, the Grand Mosque of Mecca in Saudi Arabia.

"I call on all Moslem nations, all Moslems, all Moslem armies, all Islamic security forces and all Moslem countries' presidents to co-operate with our nation," Khomeini said. "This is not a struggle between us and America. It is between Islam and the infidel."

"They must not be afraid," Khomeini added, "thinking that America is a big power that it is a satanic power which can destroy everything in a single day. This is propaganda. America cannot use its power against Moslems."

Khomeini added that "American blacks who have been subject to U.S. oppression are now in accord with us. Even they might rise. At such a sensitive time, when we are standing up against America and its satanic plots, they must agree with us and cooperate with us."

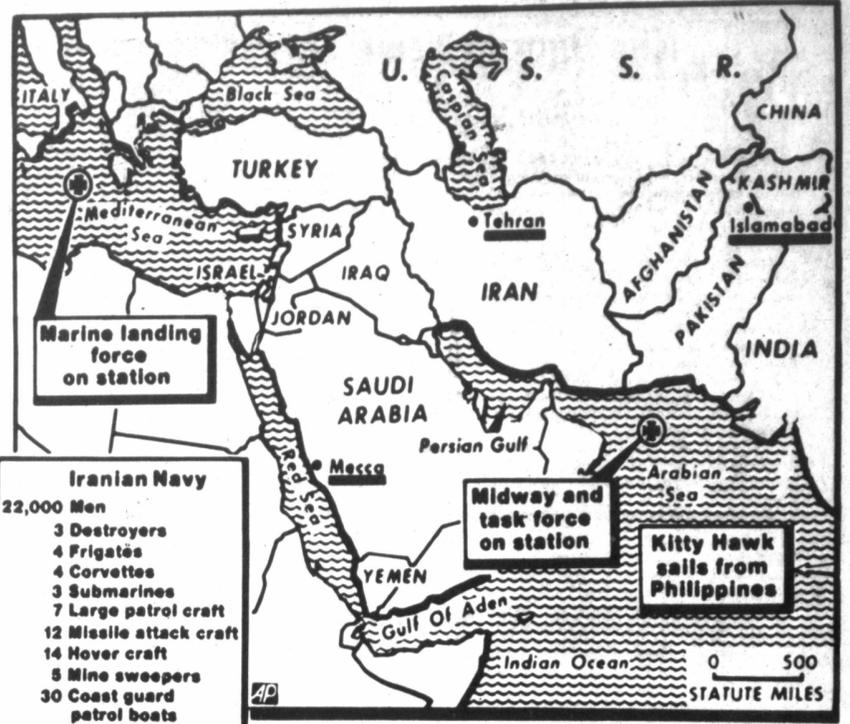

Admiral Ahmed Madani, the Iranian naval commander, said he had placed his forces on full alert after President Carter ordered the carrier Kitty Hawk and five escort ships to sail from the Philippines into the Indian Ocean to join the carrier Midway, now cruising 600 miles south of Iran.

A Pentagon spokesman said the Iranian navy consists of 22,000 personnel and a surface force of three destroyers and eight frigates.

Militants at the embassy released five non-American hostages Thursday, and issued a statement reiterating they would not free the remaining Americans unless exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was returned to Iran for trial. Thirteen Americans, blacks and women, were released previously and deported.

The students' statement was in reply to a claim by a Palestine Liberation Organization spokesman that it had assurances the hostages would be freed if the shah was merely sent out of the United States, where he is recovering from cancer surgery, to another country.

Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, here on a one-man peace mission, said Iranian officials denied the PLO claim. He also said later in an interview with the Idaho Statesman that he had been told Iranian officials would talk about releasing the hostages if Congress investigates the regime of the former shah. He said he would request such an investigation when he returns to Washington.

Shah plans to leave U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, the deposed shah of Iran, says he has completed radiation treatments for cancer and hopes to leave here for Mexico within two weeks, according to ABC News.

In an interview Thursday with the network's Barbara Walters, the former Iranian leader said he was "very anxious to leave" the United States and, in fact, never wanted to make the trip in the first place.

Miss Walters quoted the shah as saying he needs "semi-surgery" to remove another gallstone, a procedure which will involve insertion of a small basket-like device into a bladder tube to trap the stone and pull it out.

"The shah doesn't know exactly when the surgery will begin," Miss Walters said. "It depends how he reacts to the radiation. But he's very anxious to go, and hopes it will be within two weeks."

The shah's surgeon, Dr. Bjorn Thorbjarnarson, reached at his home Thursday night, said he could not comment on the report.

Other doctors attending the shah have said privately they would not oppose his leaving once the radiation treatments were finished and the gallstone was out.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., meanwhile, said he had information from a "good source" that Pahlavi would undergo surgery today for the gallstone.

"Up to this time the shah has needed treatment that could be done only in this country, but after tomorrow that will no longer be the case," Schweiker said Thursday.

The shah came to New York from his exile in Mexico on Oct. 22, and gallbladder surgery confirmed the presence of cancer in his lymph system. Miss Walters said he told her that his wife, Empress Farah, his doctors and other advisors insisted that he come.

Miss Walters quoted the shah as saying, "I did not want to come here" and as saying he had to come for a sophisticated diagnosing instrument called the body scanner.

Americans leave Pakistan with tears, teddy bears

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — More than 300 Americans left this Pakistani capital today in an airlift ordered by the State Department after a Moslem mob sacked the U.S. Embassy here in a riot that killed six persons, including two American soldiers.

The bodies of Marine Cpl. Steven Crowley, of Long Island, N.Y., and Army Chief Warrant Officer Bryan Ellis, of Spring Lake, N.C., were put aboard the chartered Pan Am jumbo jet before the 310 evacuees boarded.

Children hugged teddy bears and parents carried infants and pet cages. Some cried, others questioned the necessity of the evacuation.

The departure from Islamabad airport was conducted under tight security and one reporter interviewing evacuees was ejected from the area. Forty other American dependents and non-essential U.S. personnel boarded the plane when it stopped at Karachi, Pakistan's largest city. From there the plane heads for Washington after a refueling stop in Europe.

Those leaving from Islamabad included families from U.S. missions in Lahore and Peshawar and about 40 American civilians, most of them families of schoolteachers, who are not employed by the government.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur W. Hummel Jr. warned evacuees against making press statements in Washington critical of the Pakistani army's handling of rioters during Wednesday's disturbances. He said critical remarks might affect the safety of the 49 American hostages held by militant Moslem students at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and the 65 embassy staffers who remained in Islamabad.

Asked what could be criticized, one of the evacuees told The Associated Press: "The five-hour wait for the Pakistan army."

Witnesses have said troops did not move against the mob until five hours after the embassy siege began. Besides the two Americans killed, the riot claimed the lives of two Pakistani employees of the embassy and two of the rioters. Official sources today revised an earlier report that a third employee's body had been found in the burned embassy.

Officials vow harsh punishment for extremists

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Saudi officials vowed harsh punishment for the Moslem extremists who seized Islam's holiest shrine, the Grand Mosque of Mecca.

Saudi Arabia "will not tolerate any seditious act, and will not be lenient with any group provoking such acts, whatever its color or the color of those hiding behind it," Saudi Information Minister Mohammad Abdo Yamani said Thursday after the government announced it had regained "complete control" of the giant mosque.

The 200 gunmen who stormed the mosque Tuesday, when it was filled with pilgrims celebrating the eve of the 15th Islamic century, "will face Islamic justice, which is against corruption on earth," said Foreign Minister Prince Saud Al-Faisal. Saudi Arabia takes the Islamic holy book, the Koran, as law.

Saudi officials said security forces were still trying to capture the few remaining gunmen who had not been arrested by Thursday. It was not clear if the holdouts were still in the mosque.

Authorities said two civilians died and eight others were wounded in the Tuesday attack, but there was no overall official casualty count.

In what appeared to be an exaggerated report, a Kuwaiti newspaper said 600 persons were killed in fighting between the gunmen and Saudi troops. Several Egyptian pilgrims reported there were "scores of dead and wounded."

One Filipino Moslem who returned to the Philippines after being held hostage during the siege said "many" of the mosque's unarmed security guards were killed. The pilgrim, Haji Ahmad Buat, said, "The gunmen told us that their act was an account of the return of the Mahdi," the Islamic messiah prophesied in the Koran.

Saudi authorities, in a statement issued after the takeover, identified the attackers as Mahdists, an extremist Moslem sect that believes a new Islamic messiah will appear shortly. They are aligned with the Shiite branch of Islam, which is practiced by most Moslems in Iran and several other non-Arab Islamic nations. Moslems of most Arab countries, including Saudi Arabia, are members of the Sunni sect, Islam's dominant group.

"The problem is not a political one, it is one of religious fanaticism," Prince Saud said in a state radio broadcast Thursday. He dismissed suggestions that the Saudi royal family, traditional guardians of Islam's holy places, were unable to defend them.

The attackers belonged to "different nationalities, including Saudis," he said.

Iranian training halted

DEL RIO, Texas (AP) — The training of Iranian student pilots has been halted, at least temporarily, at Laughlin Air Force Base here, said 1st Lt. Karen Foster, chief of public affairs office confirmed today.

"We have been directed by Air Training Command Headquarters that as of now, today or perhaps Monday, Iranian students have been grounded," she said.

Lt. Foster said she did not know if the move by the ATC headquarters in San Antonio was temporary or permanent.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

BILLINGS, Mont. (NEA) - Every red-blooded American cherishes the dream of "energy independence" — but a consortium of major corporations based here is abusing that concept to promote construction of an unnecessary new oil pipeline.

ETTA FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM
HULME N.E.A. 79

Empty pipe dream?

"The All-American Pipeline," proclaims the Northern Tier Pipeline Co., advertising its project as "a major link in the energy security of the United States" that will provide "a safeguard for the national defense."

The owners of the pipeline company include the U.S. Steel Corp., Westinghouse Electric Co., Burlington Northern Railroad and Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad.

If the necessary state and federal permits are granted, the "embargo-proof" pipeline will have the capacity to carry 700,000 barrels of crude oil daily from a harbor northwest of Seattle to a small Minnesota community where the oil would be distributed to Midwest refineries.

Behind that bold rhetoric, however, there lies a very serious drawback: The prospects for securing the petroleum needed to fill the proposed pipeline are exceedingly dim.

The leading candidate among four contenders competing for federal approval of a new West-to-East pipeline system, Northern Tier is relying heavily upon the assumption that massive amounts of crude oil will continue to flow from the Prudhoe Bay field on Alaska's North Slope.

That field has been producing about 1.2 million barrels of oil per day. Of that total, approximately 300,000 barrels of oil are shipped to Gulf Coast refineries by way of the Panama Canal and Cape Horn at the southern tip of South America.

The remaining 900,000 barrels have been landed on the West Coast, where Northern Tier claims there is an "oil glut" and "a burgeoning surplus of crude oil from Alaska."

But a study of the Prudhoe Bay reserves commissioned by Alaska's state government shows that North Slope production probably will peak at 1.5 million barrels daily during the 1980-to-1985 period, when the pipeline is expected to begin operating, then begin a precipitous decline. Unless there are major new discoveries, Alaskan production will be down to 1.1 million barrels daily in 1990 and will sink to 200,000 barrels per day in 1995, according to the study.

In addition, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, has just completed a survey indicating that even now there is no "West Coast oil glut."

The Western states' demand for Alaskan oil will exceed 930,000 barrels daily by next month and will grow to more than 950,000 barrels per day by the middle of next year, according to Jackson.

Northern Tier officials also claim their pipeline can be used to transport crude oil imported from Indonesia, but much of that nation's petroleum has a high paraffin content that requires shipment through specially heated pipelines.

Northern Tier promoters also note that it is cheaper to transport Middle East crude oil to the Pacific Northwest than to the Gulf Coast, where much of the nation's refinery capacity is located.

What they don't mention is that pipeline shipping charges from the Northwest to refineries in either the Southeast or Midwest add so much to the cost that the scheme is economically infeasible.

The demand for Northern Tier's oil is as questionable as the supply. With the exception of relatively small shortages of crude oil projected for Montana and eastern Washington, there are few shortfalls predicted for the region the pipeline will serve.

In that case, most of the crude oil will be delivered to refineries in Illinois, Michigan and Indiana, claim the pipeline backers. But those facilities have only a limited capacity to process that high-sulfur "sour crude" from Alaska.

If President Carter succumbs to the "All-American" propaganda and approves the project, the country could be stuck with an expensive but empty pipeline.

Creeping government

Usually when we think of government, it's in terms of taxes, Social Security, Post Office, OSHA, and various other three and four letter words that stand for some unimpressive agency.

We think of these misguided Robin Hood's because of their exploits and follies covered almost daily by the various news media — and no, if we didn't report about them, they wouldn't go away. Nice thought, though!

What we fail to think about is just how much the government has invaded our day to day lives. Let's take an average day and follow along...

You awaken to your clock radio which is subject to many government imposed sales and manufacturing regulations. The radio station you listen to is subject to the whims and wishes of the FCC which may revoke its license if it doesn't practice "good programming."

You brush your teeth, shower and make your coffee with government-controlled water. Your soap, toothpaste and even your towel have been approved by the government as will almost everything you plan to wear for the day.

The Food and Drug Administration will take care of your breakfast and as you have that after breakfast smoke be sure and read the message the Surgeon General has for you.

The streets you travel are government-owned — Note we said owned, not maintained — and all of the products your car will use as well as your car have passed several regulations, each of which add to the cost but not the worth of the product.

We're sure you can add to this growing list, just use your imagination. George Orwell predicted 1984 and people laughed. In 1980 people will stop laughing and the familiar "it can't happen here, can it?" will be heard.

The answer is yes, it can happen here, and is already happening, and will continue to happen as long as we look to the government to solve all of our problems.

Remember, a government strong enough to grant favors is strong enough to deny freedom.

Plea bargaining

by ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—Hello, is this the federal prosecutor's office? This is Roy Bone. I'm representing the two owners of Studio 53 who are up on tax fraud charges. I'd like to make a plea bargaining deal with you.

"We have an airtight case against your two boys. We're not interested in making a deal."

"Wait until you hear me out. I can deliver the mother of one of the highest officials in the United States government."

"What did she do?"

"She committed monomania."

"Are you sure?"

"She did it in the basement of the disco. We have witnesses to prove it."

"What kind of witnesses?"

"One of them said he didn't think her son had a chance of beating Teddy Kennedy and she flew into a rage and said he was a pseudologist."

"How good is your witness?"

"He's done time for perjury, arson, fraud and embezzlement and is now out on bail for a Brink's robbery. I can personally vouch for him."

"I don't think you have a good enough deal."

"If you don't play ball I'll give it to the New York Times. Then they'll start asking what you people are trying to cover up."

"Don't blackmail us, Bone. You wouldn't be making this call if we didn't have you by the short pants. We're going to court with all the counts."

"All right, I'll tell you what I'll do. My clients are willing to give you solid evidence that one of Carter's closest relatives deals in gasohol."

"You have to be more specific."

"If you don't want it, I'll give it to the New York Times."

"Look, Roy, I'm very busy preparing my case. We're always willing to plea-bargain if it will lead us somewhere. But you're offering us garbage."

"Did you know that all the illegal Mexicans coming into the United States are smuggled through Camp David?"

"Where did you dig up that one?"

"A client of mine doing time at Atlanta heard it from his cellmate. It would be a big feather in your cap if you could close down Camp David."

"Sorry, Roy, we're not interested."

"Okay, you want something really heavy? The mob is now jogging in Las Vegas."

"So?"

"Who do you know in the White House that jogs?"

"You're desperate, Bone. Why don't you just go to trial and let your people take what's coming to them?"

"Listen, my boys run a nice clean disco. People come there to relax and have a good time. If they're not having a good time they snort cocaine through a straw, and that relaxes them. My guys made a slight mistake and forgot to pay their income taxes. People do it every day. But the difference between my clients and others is that we're willing to sell out anybody to get off the hook. Tell me who you want to get and we'll blow the whistle on him."

"Roy, we're always happy to do business with you. But we need more evidence if you're going to destroy somebody else's reputation."

"Knock the indictment down to two counts, and we'll give the names of the guys who supply No-Doz to Howard Cosell."

Democracy loses one

For a while there, it appeared too good to be true.

After more than a decade of typically Latin American military rule, Bolivia elected a civilian president early this year and the army actually allowed him to take power.

As it is turning out, it was too good to remain truth for long.

The military coup that has now precipitated bloody street fighting and raised the prospect of civil war in Bolivia is bad news not only for that Andean nation itself but for several of its neighbors.

Ecuador and Peru have also been taking shaky steps toward popular self-government. The former has its first popularly elected president after 15 years of authoritarian rule, and the army has been gradually easing its grip on the latter in preparation for elections next year.

The three Andean nations have thus encouraged hopes that democracy may have a more promising future than it has had a past in the Latin world. Together with Colombia and Venezuela, they comprised and had begun to act like a community, a democratic counterweight to the military regimes so prevalent elsewhere in the region. Concerning their influence, they played a constructive role in this year's Nicaraguan crisis, urging a moderate course upon the ousted Somoza regime's revolutionary successors.

But less than a year out of power was more than some of Bolivia's militarists could take. Thus, another coup in a country that has averaged more than one per year in the 175 years of its independent existence.

And it may not be alone for long. Ecuador's civilian leaders are slipping into the sort of paralyzing political feuding that has invited military intervention in the past. Under the circumstances, the Peruvian generals could well be open to second thoughts.

There would appear still to be some hope in Bolivia. Political and labor leaders have continued to talk back to coup leader Col. Alberto Natusch Busch. And, what is even more encouraging, there appears to be doubts about him within the armed forces.

To call it what is happening in Bolivia, as it has happened so often in Latin America, a revolution is a misnomer of the first order. A military takeover is not a radical change in the political order but a return to repression as usual.

It's just possible that the colonels and generals may yet let democracy get on with it in one or all of the threatened countries. Now that would really be revolutionary.

Shower singing

"Powerful are those who choose

The items that make up the news.

An yet in spite of all that power,

It's much like singing in the shower.

For it is clear from card and letter

That you all think you'd do it better."

—Charles Osgood

That simple rhyme from CBS radio news correspondent Charles Osgood sums up the work-a-day journalist's experience whether he or she be obituaries taker or executive editor.

Osgood, in Nothing Could Be Finer Than a Crisis That is Minor in the Morning, newly published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, gives journalists a good look at themselves that we'd like to share with you. His title sums up the newperson's day — one of crises set in motion by others of the world, complicated by those inevitably in the business of trying to tell a community what happened at home as well as across the planet.

You know what the global crises are — they're in print. What you don't know is that in the short hours between editions, newsmakers change their stories requiring rewrites or cancellations, computers break down requiring technicians a thousand miles away, influenza strikes a key writer on deadline requiring fervent prayer, ad infinitum. Osgood lets you in on the personal side of news-gathering.

Plus he provides the journalist's perspective kept out of the news columns — the difficulty a writer has in reporting on the metric system because he has to learn in a couple of hours what students will be given a semester to absorb...the wish for an instant mind-deboggler to translate what the bureaucrat espoused in an interview for the reader who has no time to wade through brilliantly articulated nonsense...the always unrequited desire to shake a readership awake by saying, 'Hey, look. Pay attention. Do something about this...'

This is not a book review, but a recommendation that you find out, while being entertained, that the newsmen or newswoman, all the way up the ladder to publisher, holds no power other than the mental and mechanical equipment with which to tell what's happening. We reserve a little space on a page such as this to let you know what we think about the current events, but have no influence over them. In short, we sing in the shower, as Osgood so poetically puts it, and get blamed for writing a bad song.

So be it. We really don't mind. And when a book such as Osgood's collection of the ordinary and bizarre in the news comes along, we tend to sing a little louder and ask our readers to join in.

A cosmic error

As if there weren't enough confusion in the world, it now turns out that the Hubble Constant may be wrong. Three astronomers claim the constant, a ratio of speed to distance used to calculate how rapidly the universe has been expanding, is about twice as big as was previously thought. That means the "Big Bang" which these scientists accept as the origin of the universe occurred only 9 billion years ago, rather than 15 billion to 18 billion, and the universe is only half as big as everyone thought. If the three astronomers are right we challenge anyone to uncover a grander mistake.

Letters

To the Editor

Several years ago, I wrote you about Costa Rica and our planned retirement there (my husband is retired Navy). You asked that I write again, when settled, but I have been so busy living I haven't had the time!

However, today, listening to the news...gloom, wars, energy crises, the shrinking dollar and poor Jimmy Carter...it occurred to me your readers might enjoy the second episode in the "Saga of the Birds."

We moved, bag, baggage, grandmother, teenagers and all, to Costa Rica three years ago and have been happily settled in Rancho Maricosta. Our experiences deserve a book. They have not only been exciting but, at times, hilarious. The only flaw was our inability to find easily-accessible, registered beach property. Probably a blessing in disguise. It made us look to Colombia (another democratic republic, where, it turned out, it cost even less to live than Costa Rica.)

There we found Palmas de Oro, a lovely, old coconut plantation on the Caribbean. And, to complete its unique setting, when we looked away from the sea we saw, towering over everything, 19,000 feet high and snow-capped, majestic Mount Columbus of the Sierra Nevada.

It may be hard to believe...hundreds of green palms, blue sky and ocean, pounding surf and golden sand, snow-capped mountains...but it is all there in Palmas de Oro; on the Pan American Highway near Santa Maria, oldest and most fascinating city in all of the Americas.

So, now we have two loves: our ranch in Costa Rica and beach in Colombia. We feel we have discovered a new, exciting American frontier and are eager to share our find with others. (If you think you are too old for adventure, we are 59 and 63 and both of us have battled and, so far, conquered cancer!) Write us at P.O. Box 157, Liberia, Guanacaste, Costa Rica and send your letters by international air mail (25 cents per half-ounce). We promise to answer.

Now, from Latin America, we wish you salud (health), dinero (wealth), and amor (love)!

Free Drug Abuse Information

PAMPA JAYCEE OFFICERS, Charles McKinney and Bill Turner recently presented the Pampa Police Department with two drug abuse information centers. The centers display informative pamphlets on different forms of drugs and will be used in the school liaison officer program. "We appreciate your help," Police Chief J. J. Ryzman, center, said as he thanked the Jaycee members. (Staff Photo)

Priscilla shoots self accidentally

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Priscilla Davis' Thanksgiving trip to San Antonio ended at a Fort Worth hospital after the blonde millionairess accidentally shot herself in the hand.

A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Davis, 39, suffered only a flesh wound. Police said the shooting was accidental.

Assistant District Attorney Jack Strickland and Strickland's girl friend, Barbara Burke, were in the back seat of Mrs. Davis' Lincoln Continental limousine with her at the time of the incident, which occurred between 9:30 and 10 a.m.

Strickland said Mrs. Davis was accompanying them to visit Strickland's parents in San Antonio for Thanksgiving.

While lying on a stretcher in John Peter Smith Hospital, where Mrs. Davis was first taken, she said:

"I was unloading my gun, and it went off accidentally."

Mrs. Davis, the ex-wife of millionaire trial figure Cullen Davis, was known to carry a .357 magnum in her purse since a 1976 shooting spree at the $6 million Davis mansion in Fort Worth. Her daughter and lover were killed, and she and one other person were wounded.

Davis, 46, from whom she was estranged at the time, was tried and acquitted of one of the killings. The related charges were dismissed two weeks ago after Davis was acquitted in Fort Worth on a murder solicitation charge.

Strickland was the chief prosecutor in the most recent case. Neither Strickland nor Ms. Burke was injured.

Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, Cullen Davis' defense attorney, said by telephone from Houston. "When I heard about it, my first reaction was to be thankful that the injury was not any more severe — and to be thankful that Cullen was out of the state when it happened."

Winds keep oil at sea, off of crude-soaked beaches

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Northerly winds kept oil spilled from the bowels of a battered tanker at sea and away from where 70 workmen spent Thanksgiving cleaning the crude-soaked beaches on this tourist island.

Coast Guard spokesman Larry Clark said Thursday that the tanker Burmah Agate was still aflame and leaking oil, but the northerly winds prevented any more crude oil from washing ashore on Galveston Island.

"It's fairly breezy. We've got north winds of 30 knots, gusting to 40 knots, which should disperse the oil," said Clark.

However, the gusty winds halted skimming operations and grounded helicopters used to track the drift of the spill.

"Without an overflight, we can't tell which way the slick is moving," said Clark.

The Burmah Agate, laden with 390,000 barrels of crude oil, and the freighter Mimosa, also of Liberian registry, collided Nov. 1 near the mouth of the Galveston Ship Channel.

The bodies of 17 crewmen have been recovered and 15 remain missing.

The volatile cargo has fueled a fire that has raged for 21 days on the tanker and triggered numerous explosions.

Discussion leads to capital murder charges

KOUNTZE, Texas (AP) — A discussion overheard at Baggs, Wyo., has resulted in capital murder charges filed against two men and a woman in connection with the execution-style slayings of two civil engineers in Southeast Texas earlier this month.

Three Texas officers flew to Wyoming on Thursday to take Virginia Keefe, 19, into custody. She and two men — Glen Burton Ake, 24, and Steven Keith Hatch, 25 — are charged in the slayings of the engineers.

Hardin County Sheriff Billy Paine said Ms. Keefe gave a statement after being arrested Tuesday night in Baggs, Wyo. A man called authorities and said he overheard the woman discussing a double slaying with two men. The men drove away and eluded the town marshal.

The men earlier waived extradition to Oklahoma, where they face first-degree murder charges in another slaying — the Oct. 15 shooting deaths of an Oklahoma City minister and his wife. The couple's two teen-aged children were bound and shot, but survived.

Ms. Keefe was not charged in the Oklahoma slayings.

Ake and Hatch were arrested Wednesday morning in Craig, Colo., about 35 miles south of Baggs, after a rancher freed himself and called police to report two men who had tied him up and shot his dog.

The bodies of Dale Kokenes, 35, and Yerby Land III, 27, were found Nov. 4 in the small white frame house Land rented in Lumberton, a community in extreme south Hardin County, about 10 miles north of Beaumont. They were killed two days earlier, authorities believe.

Police know murder suspect

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Police said they knew who shot one woman to death and wounded another Thursday in a shooting spree at a Brownsville restaurant but were unable to arrest the man they believed responsible at once.

It was theorized that the assailant fled to Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from this southernmost Texas city.

The dead woman was identified as Manuela de la Garza Castillo, 55. The wounded woman is Hortencia Rodriguez, 34, police said. She was reported in serious condition at Brownsville Medical Center.

Lt. Pat Tamayo of the Brownsville Police Department said 11 empty casings, either .32 caliber or 9-millimeter, were found at the Overpass Cafe, scene of the shooting.

Car theft major problem now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Car theft, once the province of teen-agers looking for joy rides, has become a major area for organized crime, a 15-month investigation by a Senate panel reveals.

The Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations will open five days of hearings on the subject beginning Tuesday. Witnesses will include convicted criminals, subcommittee investigators and law enforcement officials, including FBI Director William H. Webster.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who will conduct the hearings, called car theft "the fastest growing crime in America. It is a $4 billion-a-year industry, if you can call it that. In the first half of 1979, motor vehicle theft increased 13 percent over the same period last year."

Car theft rings often work with a "chop shop," a secret garage that breaks expensive late-model cars into major parts within hours of when they are stolen. These parts then are sold to repair shops, subcommittee investigators have found.

Replacement parts are expensive when bought from legitimate sources, costing as much as 400 percent above their assembly line value. But criminals can sell stolen parts for less and still make huge profits.

"In large part, it is a steal-to-order racket," Percy said. "If a repair shop is looking for front-end parts for a white 1979 Cadillac Seville, then that kind of car will be stolen."

"Once the target car is located, a thief with the proper tools can be driving it away in a very few minutes. It probably will be at the 'chop shop' before the owner even knows it is missing." Subcommittee investigator Howard Marks said the scheme attracts organized crime in Boston, New York, Chicago and some other areas because "it has the two things that organized crime wants: high profits and low risk. It's the ideal crime and we are all paying for it in higher insurance costs."

Marks said one of the favorite spots for theft is in large parking lots where the criminals can "shop" for the kind of car they want.

"Outside of a movie theater is a good place for them to operate," he said. "They know when the movie ends so they know how long they have to work. The same goes in a parking lot outside a sports stadium. They know when the game will end and they can work undisturbed until then."

Percy has introduced a bill to increase the number of car parts carrying identification numbers. "Law enforcement officials tell us the single greatest deterrent to car theft is those numbers. The thieves want nothing to do with parts that can be traced," he said.

Engines and transmissions, which now must be numbered, are disposed of first by the "chop shops," to avoid this risk, the subcommittee investigators found.

Percy also is proposing strict criminal sanctions for removing a vehicle identifying number.

Anticipating a possible objection to the bill, Percy said, "The extra cost of more numbers on parts may be $5. But that will be made up many times over by reduced insurance rates if we can scale down car theft."

Travelers stranded by blizzard

Dozens of stranded travelers had their Thanksgiving dinner in a Nebraska National Guard armory as a blizzard that paralyzed much of the Midwest moved east, dumping up to a foot of snow in southwestern Minnesota.

The storm, which killed 10 persons earlier in the week as it roared out of the Rockies, also dropped 4 inches of snow in northern Iowa and sent temperatures plummeting to the teens in parts of Minnesota.

Dozens of motorists were forced to abandon their cars as Interstate 90 in Minnesota was nearly closed. Travelers advisories were posted Thursday night for southern Minnesota and southeastern South Dakota.

About 60 travelers at the National Guard armory in Sidney, Neb., feasted on a turkey dinner with trimmings Thursday with the help of members of Christ Episcopal Church.

"The people that worked on that project really put themselves out," said Marvin Gunderson, administrative supply technician for the armory.

"We've had a lovely Thanksgiving dinner," said Mary Young of Fairbury, who with her daughter, son-in-law and two grandchildren were forced to stay at the armory when snow made Interstate 80 impassable. "I think everybody got along beautifully."

She said the family did "a little of everything — meeting some very nice people, KP duty, helping cook, doing the dishes, playing cards. It's been warm and the hospitality has been absolutely fabulous."

Meanwhile, residents of Colorado and Wyoming were digging out from snows that dumped 17 inches on Denver and 26 inches on Cheyenne.

The storm, one of the most powerful ever to hit Colorado in November, moved into the state on Monday with wind gusts up to 70 mph that built drifts up to 8 feet high.

Two busloads of travelers stranded in Sterling, Colo., resumed their journey Thursday after highway crews cleared Interstate 76 to southeast Nebraska.

About 80 persons en route from Denver to Omaha spent Wednesday night sleeping on cots in a municipal auditorium after other hapless travelers jammed the town's hotels and motels.

In Wyoming, six men and two women stranded about 20 miles north of Cheyenne were rescued by helicopter Thursday after spending Wednesday night at a partially constructed house, said Laramie County Civil Defense Agency official David Guille.

Police maintain vigil

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police maintained a vigil today outside an apartment in a north Philadelphia housing project where an armed woman was holding two of her six children at gunpoint.

Sandra Spicer, 35, had taken the children hostage shortly after 3:30 p.m. Thursday during a dispute with her father, police said. The hostages were identified as Renette Johnson, 19, and Donald Johnson, 12, children by a previous marriage.

Police, who were negotiating with the woman by telephone, said she was armed with a .32-caliber revolver and was demanding to see President Carter or Mayor Frank Rizzo.

AFTER A TWO night run, the piano used during the Pampa High School musical, "Oklahoma," is covered and prepared for moving back to the choir building by crew members. The musical was staged Monday and Tuesday nights at the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

TEXAS

Light rain continues to sift through cloudy skies in the eastern regions today. Trace amounts of rain were reported in Longview, Lufkin, Palacios, Corpus Christi, Victoria and light sleet clogged traffic in the Houston area.

The rest of the state was clear and cold with early morning temperatures ranging from near 10 at Marfa in the western mountains to the lower 20s in the Panhandle. Mercury dipped to the mid 30s in Northeast Texas and the upper 40s in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

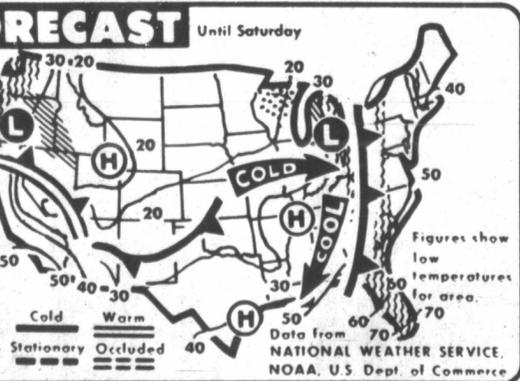

Today's forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies with a chance of showers in the southeastern coastal sections. Weathermen call for partly cloudy skies in South Central Texas and showers and light sleet in East Texas.

The rest of the Lone Star state should be cool and clear with afternoon highs in the 50s except in the Big Bend and lower Rio Grande Valley where thermometers should reach the mid 60s.

EXTENDED

North Texas — Clear to partly cloudy with a gradual warming trend. Highs in the 60s. Lows in the 30s.

South Texas — Partly cloudy and mild through Tuesday. Highs will range from the middle 60s in the north to the middle 70s in the SHOWERS are forecast by the National Weather Service through Saturday morning for parts of the U.S.

NATIONAL

Travel advisories were posted for parts of the Northwest. Wyoming, California and Nevada early today, and snow was expected to push east into the Great Lakes region. Rain was expected to dampen the nation from the lower Mississippi Valley through the Ohio Valley into New England. Rain also was forecast today for the Pacific Northwest, with snow likely in the higher elevations of the Cascades and the Rockies. Skies were to be sunny over the Plains, the southern Rockies, the Southwest and Florida.

Rain and light snow spread over northern Nevada early today, and snow flurries continued in Minnesota. Showers and occasional thundershowers spread rain over the western Gulf Coast.

Temperatures across the nation early today ranged from 4 below zero in Bozeman, Mont., to 77 in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

3-piece sports combination

By Judy Love

When the temperature drops, outdoor enthusiasts will be cozy and warm in this three-piece sports set. For skaters or skiers from Vermont to Vail, the fashionable sweater and matching hat and leg warmers are winter's greatest value. Any budding Olympic contender is sure to be a winner.

You'll suddenly love freezing temperatures in this toasty, colorful ensemble. The scarlet sweater and leg warmers, trimmed with navy ribbing, have zig-zag stripes of navy, yellow, green and scarlet to match the hat. You can get a lot of mileage out of the separates by mixing and matching them with other pieces in your wardrobe.

The instructions call for Malina's Acrilan acrylic "Action" yarn, a bulky yarn for active sportswear. For sizes small through large, you need only three skeins of scarlet, two skeins of navy and one each of green and yellow for the entire set. The set works up quickly in a single and double crochet. Start now and you'll be warmly prepared for the snow season.

To order instructions, send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, P.O. Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Ask for leaflet S539 and don't forget to include your name, address and zip code.

SKIERS AND SKATERS will love this three-piece crocheted ensemble for colder weather ahead.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Don't be embarrassed for anyone else

Dr. Wallace: My mom really acts strange around my friends and they all make fun of her to me. Why can't I have a "normal" mother like everyone else? I know this sounds cruel but I don't love my mother at all. I'm 13 and embarrassed for her. — Margey, Torrance, Calif.

Margey: I know it's great to have a mother who is popular with your friends but I think you are allowing your peer pressure to cloud your thinking. Is there something you and your friends can do to help mother feel more comfortable around younger people? Can dad be of assistance? Will a smile and a hug do more to help than a frown and a cold shoulder? Being a parent is not easy. You will find out soon enough.

Margey, don't be embarrassed for someone else. You'll have many occasions to experience embarrassment for things you will do.

Dr. Wallace: I'm an 18-year-old girl who lives with my father and a 12-year-old brother.

I do more than my share of work around the house (cooking, cleaning, washing, etc.) plus I have a part-time job.

The problem is that my brother doesn't do his chores (taking out garbage, cleaning his room, etc.).

Scolding by my father doesn't work. He will do his chores for a week, then he stops.

Can you offer any suggestions? — Laura, Tacoma, Wash.

Laura: First try the reward system. He does his chores — he is rewarded in some way.

If that doesn't work, try the reward-or-punishment system. He does his chores, he is rewarded, but if he doesn't, he is punished in some reasonable way.

If that doesn't work, use the punishment system. If he doesn't do his chores, he is firmly punished.

If that fails — you are on your own.

Dr. Wallace: We are not writing, but to give you some information. We are two girls, 13 and 14 years of age, and are going with the most considerate, sweet, handsome guys who respect us and treat us like queens.

The 14-year-old girl is going with a 19-year-old guy while the girl, 13, has a 20-year-old boyfriend.

In many columns you said such relationships wouldn't work and that the guys who date young girls are "sick." We are proof you are wrong.

After reading this letter, I hope you will change your attitude! — Twins, Columbus, Ohio

Twins: Of course, there are always exceptions to everything but I still oppose older guys dating younger girls, I still feel 20-year-old guys who date 13-year-old girls have problems, I still would forbid my 13-year-old daughter from dating an older guy and I still won't change this attitude.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY

Unfatherly in-law

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a great husband. Not perfect, but close enough. My problem is his father.

About four years ago he told me he wanted to go to bed with me, and had felt that way for a long time. I was insulted and sickened by the suggestion, and told him so. He has a lovely wife, he's not senile, and I did nothing to provoke it.

At first I hated him, then my hate turned to feeling absolutely nothing toward him.

I bitterly resent the love and respect this vile man receives from his family. I am constantly hearing what a "wonderful" person he is, and it galls me to keep silent. But I must, of course. I also resent the adoration my husband has for his father when, in fact, his father has betrayed him in the worst of all betrayals.

A few months ago my father-in-law underwent emergency surgery, and the family was informed that he has six months at the most to live. When I heard the news, I am ashamed to admit that I secretly rejoiced. His death will be the end of my play-acting, and I look forward to it with no reservations.

Abby, do you think I am going to be in big trouble with God for feeling this way? I have come to terms with the insult to myself, but the betrayal of a good son by his father is something I cannot forgive.

Will God punish me for my feelings? Or might He find this sinful man as repugnant as I, and understand my feelings? NO CITY OR STATE, PLEASE

DEAR NO CITY: Since you are obviously a God-fearing woman who feels guilt and fear of punishment for your thoughts, ask God's forgiveness through prayer.

I can't tell you how God will judge you but, in the future, leave the business of judging your fellowman to the Lord. That's HIS work.

DEAR ABBY: How long should a hostess wait for a late dinner guest? My husband and I were invited to a dinner party for 7 p.m. We arrived promptly at 7, and by 7:15 all the other guests were there except one couple. The cocktail hour continued until the tardy couple came steaming in, full of apologies, at 8:45!

By that time I had a hunger headache and my husband had exceeded his quota of cocktails. Need I tell you what kind of an evening we had?

What is the limit on holding up a dinner for latecomers? Thanks for printing this.

HAD IT IN HOUGHTON, MICH.

DEAR HAD IT: Fifteen minutes is long enough to hold up a scheduled meal for tardy guests.

George Washington is said to have set an intelligent precedent. He instructed his cook to inquire not, "Have the GUESTS arrived?" But, "Has the HOUR arrived?"

DEAR ABBY: With every sorrow or setback there is a bit of humor. Such was the case when I was recently hospitalized.

One of my nurses was a little Chinese doll who couldn't have weighed more than 80 pounds. She was 22, married and had two children.

After she had given me my bath and massage with her usual care and kindness, I winked at her to show my appreciation. I then asked her, "Can you wink with one eye?"

She answered, "No can wink with one eye. Can wink with TWO eyes." Then I asked her if she knew what a wink meant. She bent down and whispered into my ear, "Yes. That means, 'nobody home; c'mon in.'"

She knew, of course, that I was 81.

ABE PUCHKOFF: BROOKLYN

DEAR ABE: Thanks for a dandy day-brightener.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Hemingway's letters to be published.

NEW YORK (AP) — Plans to publish "The Letters of Ernest Hemingway" in the fall of 1980 have been announced by Charles Scribner's Sons.

The firm says the volume will contain about 800 letters, selected and edited by Carlos Baker, Hemingway's biographer, covering all periods of Hemingway's life. Included are letters to his family, friends, enemies, editors, translators and almost all of the prominent writers of his day.

DR. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My wife can't grow fingernails. She has tried everything. She eats only salads and occasionally meat. Can you help her with her fingernail problem?

DEAR READER — If your description of your wife's diet is really accurate, the first place to start is to provide proper nutrition for her. Salads with occasional meat isn't a balanced diet. Fingernails are specialized skin and consist of a large amount of protein. Proper fingernail growth depends upon the state of good health plus a good balanced diet that includes an adequate amount of protein, calcium and iron.

Your wife should be getting at least 50 grams of good quality protein a day. She would need about a half a pound of raw edible weight of the flesh only of meat, fish or chicken to provide this amount of protein. Or she could get part of this protein by using a quart of fortified skim milk a day. I would suggest that she use the milk plus some meat which could be either fish or chicken if she doesn't like red meat.

The milk will provide the calcium which she absolutely must have. A calcium deficient diet will also contribute to softening of the bones at an early age. Neither meat nor salads are satisfactory sources of calcium.

I'm sending you The Health

Letter number 4-6, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA). It will provide you a brief review of the requirements for a balanced diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a handicapped person and have to sit all the time. My stomach and hips are expanding. Is there any help for me so that I can lose this girth? I weigh 147 pounds and am 5 feet 5.

DEAR READER — If you have to sit all the time and can't walk and do exercises, it certainly does increase your problem. Part of the reason that people develop heavy hips and a large middle is the accumulation of fat. Fat deposits mean that you're taking in more calories than you use. If your exercise is limited, that's understandable.

I do not know the extent of your handicap and it's possible that there are forms of physical exercise that you can use that will help you use calories and help control your weight. If so, you should try it.

Other than those exercises and a diet to put you in the proper calorie balance, you might need to tighten up your muscles.

Kennedy picks up on confidence crisis in campaign

An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) — When politicians pick their issues, not many choose to contend that their constituents are beset by a crisis of confidence.

That is customarily the ammunition of a challenger, not the argument of an incumbent.

But President Carter turned that around, and now Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is making the most of it, arguing that the crisis is not in the people but in their leadership.

That fits nicely with a Kennedy campaign strategy that so far has concentrated on broad statements about leadership instead of specific programs and proposals.

Before the last election, we were told that Americans were honest, loving, good, decent and compassionate," Kennedy said in declaring his candidacy against Carter. "Now, the people are blamed for every national ill, and scolded as greedy, wasteful and misled in malaise."

Is it because our present leadership does not understand that we are willing, even anxious, to be on the march again?" Kennedy said. "The only thing that paralyzes us today is the myth that we cannot move."

The rhetoric is ringing, but so far, Kennedy has not spelled out in any detail his plans to dispel the myth, and the directions in which he would move.

Still, Carter raised the subject himself with his midsummer warning of a crisis of confidence that "is threatening to destroy the social and political fabric of America."

Now the president's pollster has produced another appraisal of what he calls the nation's pessimism and gloom, saying that the crisis of which Carter spoke is real and dangerous.

Patrik H. Caddell says that the people are losing faith in the ability of the nation's institutions and leaders to be responsive or to solve their problems.

"So long as people do not have enough faith to support solutions, it is difficult to imagine that problems of energy, inflation or others can be effectively solved," Caddell said in an analysis published by Public Opinion, a journal of the American Enterprise Institute.

"One simple — and too often simple-minded — explanation is to blame the entire problem on Jimmy Carter," he says. While he concedes mistakes and misjudgments at the White House may have contributed to the problem, Caddell traces it to a decade of shocks: war, Watergate, economic woes and energy.

"Each successive event drives the system lower," he said. "Unrealistic expectations feed frustration, which can only be answered by more ambitious promises, which in turn only leads to failure and more frustration."

Caddell suggests that recognition of the problem is a starting point for the re-establishment of common ground and credibility between leaders and followers.

KKK's 'fact finders' plan trip to Seadrift

PASADENA, Texas (AP) — Ku Klux Klan leaders say they don't intend to escalate a local crab war when they ignore the wishes of Seadrift, Texas, officials and send a "fact finding team" to the coastal fishing village Saturday.

The Klan's grand dragon of Texas said in Pasadena Thursday that 10 or 15 Klansmen would conduct a "small fact finding mission" into the Aug. 3 shooting death of a Seadrift fisherman by a Vietnamese refugee.

"They are going to interview and talk to people involved in this. There will be no parade. We do plan to go to City Hall and make ourselves known," said Louis Bean, the Klan official.

Klansmen will return in force next month, the grand dragon warned, if they find evidence of an official coverup in the death of Billy Joe Aplin.

"We have received calls at our state office that there were irregularities in the investigation, that weapons used in the killing were lost or misplaced and that testimony that should have been given at the trial was not."

"We are going to try to ascertain if this is true. If it is, and authorities are not willing to act on it, we may have to go down there in force," said Bean.

"We're going to come back next month, with 200 to 300 klansmen, and march through Seadrift and hold a demonstration if necessary," said Bean.

Seadrift City Councilmen, afraid a Klan rally could bring simmering tensions back to the boiling point, unanimously passed a resolution Tuesday night urging Klansmen to "stay away."

More than half of the community's 1,000 population packed the auditorium and cheered when the council promised prosecution "to the full extent of the law" to any group attempting "to incite a riot, provoke violence or create any unlawful assembly."

Holy Spirit conference week at Lamar

A holy spirit conference week will be held at Lamar Full Gospel Assembly, 1200 S. Sumner, November 25 - Dec. 2 (excluding Saturday).

Morning sessions on are scheduled at 10 and 11 Monday through Wednesday with night services at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Sunday morning services are set for 10:45 and evening at 7 with guest speakers such as Rev. David Miller from Borger, Rev. Emeritus H.C. Noah from Dallas, Rev. John Wilkerson from Fort Worth, and Rev. Bo Daniels from Irving. They will bring gospel truths and exciting facts concerning the holy spirit.

Pastor Gene Allen cordially invites the public to attend. A nursery will be provided.

Dark Horse

Franklin Pierce, who was born 175 years ago today, was considered a "dark horse" when the Democratic Party nominated him for president in 1852. A dark horse is a candidate who is not expected to win, but who picks up unexpected support. When the 1852 Democratic convention began, the strongest presidential candidates were Illinois Senator Stephen Douglas and three former Cabinet officials. But none of them could get enough votes to win the nomination. Pierce, a former U.S. senator and army officer, started getting votes on the 35th ballot. On the 49th ballot, the delegates nominated Pierce almost unanimously. Pierce went on to win the election, becoming the country's 14th president.

DO YOU KNOW — Which member of Pierce's Cabinet later became president of the Confederacy?

★ THANKSGIVING FOR ...

- PROSPEROUS NATION
- FOOD
- A STRONG NATION
- FREEDOM OF WORSHIP

Pages could be filled with ways that God has blessed us, and we should be continually thankful for God's goodness. At this time, however, we should pause from our daily workday habits and in unison, give special thanks to God, that we still have freedom of worship.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

New Jersey vigilante in state assembly

ANTHONY IMPERIALE, (left) chats with supporters and appears confident casting his ballot in Newark, N.J., on Election Day 1979. Imperiale won a seat on the state Assembly. (AP Laserphoto)

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Gun-toting vigilante Anthony Imperiale glibly says his personal heroes include actors John Wayne, Humphrey Bogart and James Cagney. But no famous names spring to his lips when asked who should play Anthony Imperiale in a film being planned by Columbia Pictures.

After a long pause, he answered. "That's a tough one — I really don't know. I don't think I'll be in it...but I do want it to tell the whole story."

The whole story will have to wrap up Imperiale the vigilante, the private detective, the 300-pound martial arts expert, the politician. Especially the politician.

Imperiale, a former Independent state assemblyman and state senator who critics had dismissed as washed up in politics, is headed back to the New Jersey statehouse after his Nov. 6 victory.

"I surprised the hell out of them by getting elected. I know that," he said. "But the people who voted for me are those everyday people getting victimized out there by violence and political corruption."

The 30th District Imperiale will represent is a racially mixed enclave of urban slums and blue collar communities.

Imperiale feuded with state Republicans during his campaign, charging they had failed to support his candidacy. But that is behind him, and Imperiale promises to bring a touch of flamboyance to the GOP.

"My intention is to get right into being part of that Republican machine," Imperiale said. "But I will still be Tony Imperiale and that means my vote always goes for justice."

Being Tony Imperiale also means being featured as a law and order community leader on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes"; and becoming a consultant for Columbia on the movie about his vigilante adventures.

Standing 5-foot-7 and weighing just under 300 pounds, the 48-year-old Imperiale first gained attention as leader of a white vigilante squad that "protected" Newark's North Ward from racial unrest during the 1960s.

His previous statehouse stint was marked by impassioned calls for law and order, restoration of capital punishment and a crackdown on liberal professors in the state colleges and universities.

In a recent interview conducted while driving through the North Ward, Imperiale said he's the same man as before. Before leaving the office of his private detective agency, he stuffed a .357 Python magnum into his suit pants.

"To my followers, I'm still a leader and not a politician," he said while driving a van owned by North Ward Citizens Committee.

The committee and others from the North Ward Citizens

First Aid Squad still make nightly patrols through Newark streets "watching out" for trouble, he said.

Imperiale readily agreed that his "60 Minutes" appearance boosted his national image, brought him a movie contract and generated 5,000 pieces of mail. "They know me in Holland, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Italy..." he said.

At the bar of his wife Kathleen's Italian restaurant, Imperiale said he has never shot anybody, but has had some close calls. He recalled the time in a delicatessen back in 1968 when he was unarmed and found himself looking into a gun barrel.

As Imperiale retold it, the trigger clicked but the gun jammed, and he downed the holdup man with a martial arts kick.

Imperiale said his night patrols are still needed because the police aren't doing their job. "If there was trouble, I could get 25 people here in 10 minutes," he said.

The police, of course, rankle at Imperiale's criticism and regard him as a particularly bothersome thorn in their side, but there is no action they can take against his vigilante activities.

After several scotches and water, Imperiale left the bar and headed for home, a compact, two-story brick fortress surrounded by wire fence. The Imperiales have four sons and a daughter.

In a parking area behind the house are parked three of five police cars he bought at a recent auction.

"The other two are out on patrols," he said.

In his den, Imperiale displayed part of his 300-piece gun collection, which includes 150 rifles lined against the wall.

He spoke with pride of his home's security system, which he devised after reading a book on how German officers protected themselves during World War II.

"Nobody could get in here," he said. "If they do get in, they'd never get out."

If some unsuspecting soul decided to break into the den through a window, tear gas canisters would explode automatically, he said.

The system is for the security of his family, he said.

Immigration authorities to hit workplaces

WASHINGTON (AP) — Immigration authorities are expected to be ordered soon to concentrate on workplaces in tracking down people in this country illegally, Justice Department sources say.

A Justice Department official, asking not to be named, said Thursday that Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti is close to issuing an order telling immigration officials to focus their attention on workplaces rather than private residences in seeking illegal aliens. The order would allow agents to go after illegal aliens in their homes only under special circumstances and with the approval of a Justice Department lawyer.

Can 'Sheriff Lobo' save 'Today' show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Can 'Sheriff Lobo' save the 'Today' show? When we last checked in on the morning war between ABC and NBC, the 'Today' show (NBC) was about to be routed by 'Good Morning America' (ABC).

Employing a soft style and a folksy actor, 'Good Morning America' made a strong run at 'Today' during the spring, and figured to overtake NBC's prototype morning show by summer. 'Good Morning America' had the force of trend behind it.

But as of last week, 'Today,' the show with the actor-host, in the morning Nielsen ratings, this cheers 'Today's' newsman-host, Tom Brokaw.

'I've been reading for two years now that ABC and 'Good Morning America' are on the move, but, damn it, we're still winning. Maybe they will get us at some point. But we're still winning.'

Yes, But ABC has made a dramatic encroachment on what has traditionally been NBC territory, improving its morning ratings in October by 26 percent over last year, while 'Today' has gone down by 11 percent.

'Good Morning America' epitomizes the trend in communications of the last five years toward softer, personality news; and to some extent, host David Hartman, the actor, personifies the soft-news newsman. While 'Today' has made changes in that direction in the last year, the NBC show still exudes a more sophisticated, harder-edged air.

NBC, for example, has changed Brokaw's title from 'host' to 'correspondent' and has had him reading the news himself for several weeks ('I've always hated 'hosts,' Brokaw says. 'I felt like I was either presiding over a lunch or a game show.')

'It's very frustrating, because then they (NBC executives) come to us about the ratings. But we're still winning.'

Yes, which suggests the interesting prospect that promotion spots on 'Sheriff Lobo' may save 'Today.'

HOUSTON OILER wide receiver Ken Burroughs (100) grabs the winning touchdown pass from quarterback Dan Pastorini in the fourth quarter of the National Football League game

Thursday in Texas Stadium. Dallas Cowboy defensive back Benny Barnes (31) desperately tries to break up the play, but failed and the Oilers won, 30-24.

Houston wins as Cowboys pull boner

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The famed Dallas Cowboys computer blew a fuse Thursday when it couldn't count to 11.

The monumental mistake, courtesy of Dallas' specialty teams, gave the Houston Oilers a second chance, and they cashed the boner for the game-winning touchdown and a wild, 30-24 National Football League victory.

It all happened like this: On fourth-and-four from the Dallas 37, Cliff Parsley punted. However, Dallas, thinking Houston was going to try a field goal, was confused.

The referees counted 12 Cowboys on the field and David Stalls was the odd man out.

The 5-yard penalty moved the ball to the Cowboys 32, and on the next down, quarterback Dan Pastorini rifled a touchdown pass to Ken Burroughs.

While Pastorini was applying the coup de gras with 7:54 to play, Cowboys specialty team coach Mike Ditka was spiking his clipboard on the sidelines and shouting at Stalls.

Then he shouted at Coach Tom Landry in an exchange along the troubled Cowboy bench.

"It was a critical error," Landry said later. "You'll have to ask Mike Ditka just what happened." However, Ditka was a no-show in the Cowboys dressing room after the game and couldn't be questioned about the matter.

"It would have been a tough go without that," said Houston Coach Bum Phillips. "It was the critical play of the game."

The victory put Houston a half-game ahead of Pittsburgh in the American Conference Central Division with a 10-3 record, while the Cowboys dropped a half-game behind Philadelphia and Washington, with an 8-5 ledger.

"They (the Cowboys) may be America's team, but we're Texas' team," said

Phillips. "I wouldn't have it any other way. This was probably the most emotional game I've ever been involved in."

It was a game of Roger Staubach versus Earl Campbell.

Campbell dashed for touchdowns on runs of 61 and 27 yards and finished the day with 195 yards on 33 carries.

Staubach completed touchdown passes of 56 yards to Drew Pearson and 21 yards to Robert Newhouse and had statistics of 21 of 30 for 287 yards.

Dallas built a 21-17 halftime lead before young Mike Renfro, who was a Cowboy waterboy when his father served as an assistant coach in the 1960s, snagged a 47-yard touchdown pass from Pastorini.

Rafael Septien's 44-yard field goal set the stage for the fourth quarter faux pas by the Cowboys and the game-winning touchdown pass by Pastorini.

It was the first time Houston had beaten Dallas in the regular season in three tries, and gave them five victories in a row for the first time since 1962.

Campbell said, "To me, this game is like Oklahoma and Texas. But I'll never forget this stadium because it is where I made my debut as a rookie."

Defensive end Elvin Bethea said, "The biggest thing that happened was them having 12 men on the field. Our defense sputtered some the last three quarters, but we proved again, though I hate to keep saying it, we're a pressure team."

The loss meant the Cowboys must win their last three games to claim the NFC East title.

"If we play this good the rest of the way, we'll do all right," said Landry. "We played very well offensively, and we had a chance to win at the last."

Pastorini said of the Oiler effort, "I won't jump for joy because we beat Dallas. It's just another win on the way to the Super Bowl."

DETROIT LIONS linebacker James Harrell dumped Chicago Bears quarterback Mike Phipps for a passing loss of 11 yards as teammate Dave Purefory (75) scooped up the fumble and returned the ball 37 yards to set up a field goal in the first quarter of an NFL Thanksgiving Day game in Pontiac. The Lions took a 20-0 victory to boost their record to 2-11.

Lions send Bears into hibernation

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Memo to CBS-TV: If you're looking for a prime-time show about a struggling young professional football team with a patient, understanding coach, Monte Clark and the Detroit Lions would like to volunteer.

It would be a real grabber. The team would lose its quarterback to injuries and start the season with a raw rookie calling signals. The club would be 1-11, taking an eight-game losing streak into a nationally televised Thanksgiving Day game against the rough, tough Chicago Bears, who would be riding a four-game winning string and talking about the playoffs.

The rest is elementary. In the Big Game, with the whole nation glued to its television sets, the quarterback—a blond matinee idol—and the fun-loving defensive end—who wears an earring in one ear off the field—lead the team to a 20-0 victory and everyone agrees it's the best Thanksgiving ever.

And listen. The Lions could go into production immediately because they rehearsed the whole show Thursday and pulled it off with a letter-perfect dress rehearsal. They played it before a house of 66,219 National Football League fans in the Silverdome and drew rave reviews. Even the Chicago critics said it was a good show.

"We talked about the fact that the whole country was watching today," Clark said after the game. "This was our chance to show the nation what we're made of."

Clark said game balls were given to quarterback Jeff Krome and defensive end Al "Bubba" Baker.

Ratelle paces Bruin win

BOSTON (AP) — At the age of 39, center Jean Ratelle of the Boston Bruins is playing it "one year at a time" with no intention of trying to catch 51-year-old Gordie Howe of the Hartford Whalers.

"There's only one Gordie Howe. Me, I'm just going on one year at a time," Ratelle said Thursday night after scoring three goals in rallying the Bruins to their ninth straight National Hockey League victory in a 7-4 decision over the Quebec Nordiques.

"I'm playing this year and then, if I play well and help the team, I'll play again next year," Ratelle said. "After all, when you retire, you retire forever."

Ratelle, who began his NHL career in 1960 with the New York Rangers, put Boston in front with a short backhanded shot early in the first period. Then, after Quebec had gone in front 2-1, he scored twice more, also on backhanders, in a decisive second period.

"Ratty is like good wine," Boston Coach Fred Creighton said. "Most guys think about what they're going to do with the puck after they get it. He's thinking all the time. He's a half stride ahead of some of the other guys with his knowledge of the game."

In the only other NHL game played Thursday night, the Montreal Canadiens routed the Winnipeg Jets 7-0.

With an 11-game unbeaten streak, the Bruins boosted their record to 14-2-3 in whipping the Nordiques for the second time in a 48-hour home-and-home series.

Bad blood spilled over from the Quebec game in which Boston's Bobby Schmautz suffered a 20-stitch cut and three chipped teeth when hit by a stick wielded by the Nordiques' Robbie Florek, a former Greater Boston schoolboy star who packed the Boston Garden in 1970.

For the record: Referee Dave Newell called 81 minutes in penalties — 46 against Quebec and 35 against Boston.

Pampa plays Hereford

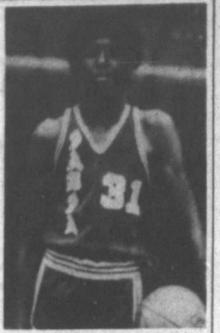

Pampa Harvesters go after their second win of the young basketball season against Hereford there at 7:30 p.m. Saturday night.

The Harvesters opened the season Tuesday night with a 53-41 victory over Perryton.

"I thought our defense played well," Pampa coach Garland Nichols said. "We just need to work out some rough spots in our offense. Overall, I was really tickled with the way we looked our first game."

The Harvesters broke open a tight game in the final quarter with an 18-point outburst, sparked by 6-5 junior Ronnie Faggins. Faggins, who led all scorers with 18 points, tossed in three baskets and a pair of free throws in the last period.

The Lady Harvesters will be searching for their first win after dropping a 76-54 decision to Perryton Tuesday night. They host Hereford at 7:30 p.m. Saturday night. The junior varsity girls play at 6 p.m.

Buccaneers need one more win to claim first division title

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Detroit Lions' 20-0 Thanksgiving Day upset of the Chicago Bears has set the stage for a festive Sunday in Tampa.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers can wrap up a playoff appearance and their first NFC Central Division title by defeating the Minnesota Vikings here Sunday.

The 9-3 Bucs are now 2½ games ahead of second-place Chicago, which dropped to 7-6 with the Detroit loss. The Bears' loss to a fellow Central Division team immediately reduced from three games to one the Bucs'

"magic number" for clinching the title, because of the importance of intradivisional records in the National Football League's tie-breaking formula.

The first tie-breaker is head-to-head competition. The Bucs beat the Bears earlier, so all the Bears can do is tie the series 1-1 with a win Dec. 2 at Tampa.

The second tie-breaker is records within the division.

Right now, the Bucs are 6-0 in the Central Division, with two division games left: against Minnesota and Chicago. So the worst they could finish in the division is 6-2.

The Bears are 3-3 in the division and the best they could do is 5-3. So the Bucs would win a tie between the two teams.

By beating Minnesota in Tampa Sunday the Bucs would clinch the title, because a victory would mean the worst they can finish is 10-6, which is the best Chicago can finish.

The Bears' divisional loss Thursday made their hopes only academic. They can only win the division if they finish with a better overall record than the Bucs.

HOUSTON OILERS head coach Bum Phillips tips his hat to the Thanksgiving day crowd after his team defeated the Dallas Cowboys, 30-24, Thursday at Texas Stadium. It was a very special Thanksgiving as this victory was the first ever for the Oilers over the Cowboys in regular season play.

Those leftover Turkey blues

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

On the day after Thanksgiving, a few things not to be thankful for:

Football announcers who yell into the microphone on every play as if the world is about to explode.

Cold turkey.

Baseball writers who criticize other baseball writers for their votes on the Most Valuable Player award. Every man has a right to an opinion, otherwise why a ballot? It should be secret anyhow.

Warmed-over stuffing.

Pseudo purists who berate players who spike the ball after scoring a touchdown, calling it "bush." Baloney. Despite all the money involved, football is still a little boy's game. Let them be little boys.

While we think of it, baloney.

The starchy baseball rule, if it actually exists, denying first ball honors at World Series games to "politicians and show personalities." (This cost Baltimore's Jerold Hoffberger $2,500 for inviting Maryland's governor to perform the ritual without first consulting Bowie Kuhn). We seem to recall that Frank Sinatra has done the bit in Los Angeles, and what about all the Presidents, starting with pillowy Howard Taft?

Empty Alka-Seltzer bottles.

TV announcers who repeatedly offend the ears with the grammatical horror, "Between you and I." The same goes for us print guys if guilty, but a sharp editor usually catches it.

Ayatollah Khomeini.

Drop-in guests who insist on watching soap operas and sit-coms in prime football time on the house's only color TV set.

Creamed turkey on toast.

A jangling telephone when the Steelers have the ball on the 1-yard line.

Pumpkin pie that tastes like sweet potato pie.

Those TV commercials which depict a guy's stomach blowing up like a balloon and yelling, "In-di-ges-chun."

Cold turkey legs.

Fallen football superstars who refuse to talk to you while they're in their glory but, once retired, bore you to tears with their huckstering of antiperspirants, popcorn poppers and other items on the big tube.

That expensive bubbly French water. Our spring water is better.

Reams of publicity poop from university SID's seeking to get their campus football hero, or heroes, on the All-America team of consideration for the Heisman Trophy.

Choreographed political debates.

Alarmists who warn that free agency and million-dollar contracts will be the economic ruination of baseball. Okay, fireballer Nolan Ryan signs for $1 million a year. The Astros will more than get it back at the gate.

Super slurper may benefit agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Super slurper, a blend of manmade materials and starch that can absorb up to 5,300 times its own weight in distilled water, continues to hold promise as one of the more practical inventions for agriculture in decades.

The compound, developed at the Agriculture Department's research laboratory at Peoria, Ill., between 1973 and 1977, already has been used widely to make a variety of products more absorbent, including babies' diapers, surgical bandages and kitty litter.

But evidence is being compiled rapidly that indicates super slurper's greatest benefits may show up in the production of food and other agricultural products.

Super slurpers are combinations of synthetic compounds that are combined with cereal grain starch. The material, when mingled with water, turns it into a dense gelatin.

A new report by USDA says the slurpers are now being developed and marketed by private industry for consumer use. Government and private scientists also are seeking new uses of slurpers in agriculture.

Here are some of the latest highlights about slurpers as reported by USDA.

—In field tests in Arkansas, seeds coated with slurper to hold water increased corn yields by 10 percent and grain sorghum by 17 percent to 49 percent.

—Fifty cents worth of slurper used on cotton seed returned $50 worth of increased yields in a Texas field test.

—At a Pennsylvania nursery, tree roots are being coated with slurper to help the trees retain moisture while being shipped and to help improve their survival chances when planted in hot, dry weather.

—In Florida, a company is studying slurper to help grow vegetables, trees, sod and foliage plants, and to help prepare seed trays.

One of the big potential uses for super slurper is for treatment of soil on a large scale. There are signs that this may be possible.

For example, a palm tree grower said slurper is expected to help reduce his irrigation water bill significantly from the usual $100 an acre after it is spread over soil to help it retain water.

One USDA soils scientist said the use of slurper in sand increased the available water retained by the sand to nearly the same levels as had retained by a loam and a silt loam.

The report quoted an Iowa State University agronomy professor as noting, "A sandy soil treated with super slurper has about the same water-holding capacity as the best of the Corn Belt soils."

However, he added that while "there are situations in which slight or localized increases in available soil water would be highly beneficial" a complete modification of sandy soil by using slurper would be "prohibitively expensive" at this time.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers have built more than 1.4 billion bushels of storage the past two years under a government loan program intended to help them keep wheat, corn and other crops on their farms until they get ready to sell.

According to the latest Agriculture Department figures, 67,590 loans were made in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30. Those totaled $678.9 million and enabled farmers to build about 684.6 million bushels of new storage.

In the previous year, the program involved 75,881 loans for $646.4 million and a storage capacity of 753.7 million bushels, according to a report provided at the request of The Associated Press.

The Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 liberalized the loan program, allowing farmers to borrow enough to build storage for two years of production. Previously, the loans were limited to a one-year harvest.

More than 4.1 billion bushels of grain storage has been built by farmers since the loan program began some years ago. According to the new figures, more than one-third of it was built in the past two years.

Additionally, the loans have enabled farmers to build storage facilities for forage and silage amounting to capacities of more than 2.9 million tons last year and 2.3 million tons in 1977-78, officials said.

The huge storage project has enabled many farmers to keep part or all of their harvests on their farms instead of having to haul it to elevators, where the storage situation is usually tight in peak seasons.

Loans are made at a maximum of 85 percent of the cost of the structures and equipment, with the remainder of the cost paid in cash by the farmer. A loan cannot exceed $50,000 nor can the outstanding balance owed by a farmer be more than that amount.

The loans can run for as long as eight years. Currently, the interest charged is 10.5 percent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hens produced 5.79 billion eggs in October, up 1 percent from a year earlier, says the Agriculture Department.

As of Nov. 1, U.S. egg flocks included an estimated 288 million hens, virtually the same as a year ago, the department says in its latest egg report.

However, the hens this year are shelling out more eggs, an average of 65.1 per 100 birds, compared to 64.8 a year ago, the report said.

INCHED ON
BRIGHTON, England (AP) — One post being used by Laura Evans to repair a boundary fence was an inch thicker than the others, so an 80-year-old widow took her to court, charging property encroachment.

The widow, Phyllis Clegg, also accused Mrs. Evans' son-in-law of hitting her over the head with the post in the ensuing row.

Both charges were dismissed.

CHICAGO (AP) — Prosecutors may have a hard time proving Linda Anderson tried to cash a bogus $5,925 check. Police said she ate it.

Investigators say Miss Anderson, 27, was held at the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. after officials called police Wednesday because the bank couldn't verify a check's authenticity.

Bank guard Sherri Peters put the check in her purse. Miss Anderson asked to use the washroom. When she returned, police said she asked for

Louvin reflects on stardom

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Charlie Louvin says he and his brother Ira would be country music superstars today if Ira were still alive.

Ira Louvin was killed in a traffic accident in 1965. Before splitting up two years before, the Louvins formed what many consider the greatest country music duo of all time.

"We would have eventually gotten back together," Charlie Louvin, 32, said in an interview. "If we were together today, we could be the hottest group. That's where the music is — the Louvin Brothers sound. Everybody is trying the Louvin sound."

He said the Eagles have the Louvin sound and Emmylou Harris and Linda Ronstadt have harmonized their records much like the Louvin Brothers used to.

And lots of bluegrass groups imitate it," he said in an interview in the one-room country music museum he runs in the Nashville suburb of Hendersonville.

The Louvins are best known for their record "When I Stop Dreaming," which more than 100 singers have recorded. Charlie Louvin also has had hits like "If I Could Only Win Your Love," which was recorded recently by Miss Harris, and "See the Big Man Cry."

In the mid 1950s, the Louvins were the No. 1 duo in country music, headlining concerts that included Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash and Porter Wagoner as lesser acts.

The Louvins split up in 1963, Charlie said, because of Ira's drinking. But he recalled that things were looking up just before Ira was killed.

"In the last six or eight months of his life, he had sorted out his priorities and he had changed a lot," Louvin said.

The key to their sound, he said, was that they switched parts when they sang.

"As kids, we learned to switch parts when we sang. If it was obvious the lead would become too high for me, we'd switch. Sometimes we would switch for only two words in the middle of the line. The smart people who wrote the lead sheets for our music got very confused."

He and Miss Harris have released one duet record, "Love Don't Care," and have three others waiting to be distributed.

In October, Charlie Louvin was inducted into the Songwriters Hall of Fame.

"It was a big surprise and a very nice thing," he said. "Songwriting is a true art — something you're born with. I don't believe there is a key to it. It's a gift. I've not yet got a hold of the handle."

CHARLIE LOUVIN

NAMES IN THE NEWS

NEW YORK (AP) — He's a cab driver, a doorman, jeweler, hot dog vendor — even Santa Claus. He's also Fred Astaire and, at 80, a hard act to follow.

The ageless hooper is in the Big Apple making "The Man in the Santa Claus Suit," to be aired on NBC Dec. 23. A spokesman says "It's another way of telling the 'Miracle on 34th St.' but it is quite different."

Astaire plays a costume shop owner who uses his wares to affect the people he meets.

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — Church and sailing were in the forefront as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy faced the 16th anniversary of his brother John's assassination.

The third Kennedy to seek the White House spent Thanksgiving at his Cape Cod home, joined by his wife and children and several friends.

On Nov. 22, 1963, President Kennedy was slain in Dallas. Kennedy paid formal tribute, taking part in a private family Mass at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church.

Later, Kennedy joined his children in a soccer game followed by some sailing. Kennedy will stay in Hyannis through at least Saturday night, according to his staff.

CINCINNATI (AP) — A New York lawyer for Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt says a decision barring out-of-state lawyers from representing Flynt should be challenged in court.

Paul Cambria of Buffalo, N.Y., said he and his partner, Harold Fahringer, may seek a trial in U.S. District Court here on whether their removal as Flynt's defense was discriminatory.

A ruling earlier this year by the U.S. Supreme Court said Flynt has no constitutional right to be represented by out-of-state lawyers.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge William Morrissey decided in 1977 to bar Fahringer and Cambria from representing Flynt on charges of disseminating material harmful to juveniles.

"We think the issue ought to be tried so Morrissey can be called as a witness to explain why he excluded us," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The ideal parent, says Dustin Hoffman, would be a lot like the ideal director.

"That is, someone who guides you without you even knowing it, without imposing himself," said the actor in an interview in the December issue of Parents magazine. Hoffman and his estranged wife, Anne, have two daughters.

"You kid yourself if you think being separated does not have a traumatic effect on them," said Hoffman, who starred in "All the President's Men" and "The Graduate."

"When I went to school, history was pretty dull stuff. Today, many teachers bring it to life by using the newspaper as a textbook. This daily newspaper is tomorrow's history, today. The newspaper helps kids improve their reading skills and learn facts and the color of the events that shape our world. I'm Ed Asner—and I wish teachers had used the newspaper as a textbook when I was a kid. I might even have grown up to be a newspaperman."
