Shah worries officials

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Worried city officials, unexpectedly thrust into the middle of the Iranian crisis with the shah's transfer here Sunday, are weighing the sticky question of whether to allow Iranian students to stage protest marches.

The San Antonio College students requested parade permits Monday to stage anti-shah demonstrations Friday downtown and outside Lackland Air Force Base, where Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi spent Monday secluded in comfortable, heavily guarded VIP quarters.

Mayor Lila Cockrell, City Manager Tom Huebner and attorney Louis Linden, who represents the students, said Monday they feared a violent backlash from San Antonians upset with the Iranian takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Huebner, who is huddling with federal, city and law enforcement authorities on the issue, said he will answer the students Wednesday. The applications say 400 demonstrators are expected.

Mrs. Cockrell, who was not given advance notice of the shah's transfer, called for San Antonians to be "cool and supportive" during the shah's stay. But she acknowledged that violent counter-demonstrations could result if the students march.

She said of local citizens, "They are angry and upset about the situation involving the hostages, and under the circumstances, inclined to feel very strongly about these issues."

"I don't look for trouble, but on the other hand I recognize the mood of our citizens is they are very upset and concerned," she said, adding "I feel as angry and upset as anyone."

Linden agreed. "Given the nature of the situation, there very well may be a counter-rally. We are not planning one, but it is unrealistic to discount the possibility."

If faced with a bitter anti-Iran crowd, the students will use "Ghandian passive resistance," said Linden.

Huebner said city officials must remember that constitutional rights and ensuring public safety must be "equally" weighed in deciding whether to allow the demonstrations.

Councilman Bernardo Eureste, upset by the sudden, unannounced transfer, said he fears violence will erupt if the Iranian students protest.

A top federal source said Monday that the homeless shah and his entourage were tucked away "deep inside" the 6,828-acre base about eight miles southwest of downtown San Antonio. "There are several perimeters of defense," said the source.

The shah was transferred here for an indefinite period of convalescence after five weeks of treatment in New York for cancer and gallstones. The United States government, at the shah's request, is attempting to find him a permanent place to live.

The shah was initially housed at in a private ward at Wilford Hall Hospital before being moved late Sunday night to VIP quarters elsewhere on the base.

U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, met with the shah Sunday said and the exiled monarch "looked fine," but obviously needed follow-up treatment.

Iranian students plan protest

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Iranian college students were surprised like everyone else here when the exiled shah arrived early Sunday at Lackland Air Force Base. Some still do not believe he is here.

And the ones convinced he is at the nearby base will not know until Wednesday whether wary city officials will let them stage a rally against the man they say "urged" them to leave home for an education.

The San Antonio College students gathered Monday at a cafeteria table — their usual meeting place — as the shah recuperated behind a vast security system at the military base some 10 miles from the campus.

"He's not here," said one student, who, like many of the Iranians, asked not to be identified. "Why didn't they show him? They say they bring him someplace, but they take him someplace else."

There are 212 Iranians among the 21,000 students at the junior college. Some say they have been harassed on the phone and in person after being quoted in local newspapers. The campus just north of downtown was the scene last summer of several low-key demonstrations against the shah.

No demonstrators have appeared at the campus or outside the base since the shah's arrival.

Immigration officials determined last week that 21 Iranians here are "out-of-status" — meaning their student visas are no longer valid.

Most are hesitant to give their names, but all are unquestioning in their support of the Ayatollah Khomeini — the man they call "Imam."

"If the order comes, we will fight the United States," said Mohsen Kashani, a 22-year-old medical technology student.

The student want it known they would fight the United States government, not the American people. To them, the difference is clear.

Third World nations back U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Arab and African members of the United Nations, in an unusual show of support for the United States, are calling for the release of the American hostages in Iran.

Frequently in the past they have been part of Third World groups that opposed the positions taken by the United States. But the seven African and two Arab delegates who spoke in the first three days of the Security Council debate on the U.S.-Iranian crisis all censured Iran's violation of the principle of diplomatic immunity.

Said Ambassador Leon N'Dong of Gabon: "Despite our sympathy for the cause defended by the Iranians, we are bound to regret the fact that the diplomatic personnel of a mission, as well as its premises, should be the object of aggression and violation."

"I can understand the grievances of the Iranian people," said Ambassador Blessing Akoporde Clark of Nigeria, "but to understand that is not to approve the methods the Iranians have selected to redress their deeply felt grievances."

"We earnestly implore the government and the people of Iran to release the American hostages without further delay and unconditionally."

Winston A. Tubman of Liberia said the Iranian seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and those inside it might do irreparable damage to "the very process by which peaceful intercourse among nations is made possible."

"If the world is allowed to become an unsafe place for diplomats to pursue their noble calling, mankind would quickly become engulfed in a dark barbaric world too dangerous to contemplate," he warned.

Ambassador Kamanda wa Kamanda of Zaire said the nations of the Third World were most endangered by the Iranians' flouting "internationally recognized and established principles."

"Small and medium-size states, which are the most numerous and most vulnerable on earth, would ultimately be the major victims of any disregard of the objective rules and principles of the United Nations Charter and of international conventions which guarantee order and justice in international relations," said Kamanda.

One of the two Arab speakers, Abdalla Yaccoub Bishara of Kuwait, in opening the debate pointed out that "passions that have been suppressed for three decades and have recently found an outlet."

Family needs help

Almost a year ago, the promising future for a young Pampa family was brought to the dust as a result of the severe injuries the father received in an automobile accident.

Large medical bills stemming from the mishap loom over the parents of two small children. The father is disabled and incapable of working. The mother has her hands full caring for the father and her children.

Both parents are in their early 20s and already life has laid this almost hopeless situation on them. Government assistance and disability benefits have been applied for, but so far, they have received nothing.

Help the Salvation Army keep this family and other like them from facing a dismal Christmas. Contact them at P.O. Box 1458 or telephone, 669-9921.

"PRETTY AS A PICTURE" This doll, dressed by Polly Sutton for the Salvation Army, would be a pleasure for any little girl to play with. Thanks to the Army's Dress the Dolls program, many less-fortunate children will have a bright new Christmas toy. An appreciation tea was given Monday night for the women who helped with the doll-dressing activities. Three best-dressed dolls were judged by Mrs. Rick Oncken, Mrs. H. R. Thompson and Mrs. Mack Wofford. Winners were Florence Radcliff, Juance Ferguson and Brenda Bruton.

Police, FBI hunt for terrorists

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The FBI and Puerto Rican police hunted the nationalist terrorists who killed two U.S. Navy sailors and wounded 10 others as three independence groups claimed responsibility for the ambush.

Marines with M-16 rifles patrolled the entrance to the base where the victims were quartered, and Rear Adm. Arthur K. Knoizen, the Navy's Caribbean commander, said security was being stepped up at all other bases in Puerto Rico.

Responsibility for the attack Monday was claimed by the Armed Forces of Popular Resistance, the Puerto Rican Popular Army and the Organization of Volunteers for the Puerto Rican Revolution.

They said the attack was made to avenge the deaths of two youths in a shootout with police a year ago near a communications tower and the death of an anti-Navy activist in a federal prison in Florida in October.

It was the first fatal attack in nine years and the costliest ever made on U.S. military forces in Puerto Rico.

The terrorists in a van intercepted a Navy bus carrying 18 technicians to work at a transmission antenna site about a mile from the Navy's Sabana Seca Base at Toa Baja, about 10 miles west of San Juan. The attackers forced the bus driver to stop and then opened fire.

The bus windows and windshield were riddled by 41 bullet holes, apparently from shotguns and pistols.

A survivor said the driver was shot in the head and killed instantly. A passenger grabbed the wheel and took the injured back to the base.

The Navy said the dead driver was John R. Ball, 29.

of Madison, Wis., a communicator technician 1st class, and the other man killed was Emil E. White, 20, a radioman 3rd class from St. Thomas, in the nearby U.S. Virgin Islands. White was a part-time disc jockey.

The injured, including three Navy women, were not identified pending notification of next of kin.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said President Carter deplored the attack as "a despicable act of murder" inconsistent with the political attitudes of most Puerto Ricans.

The majority of Puerto Ricans, in referendums and public opinion polls, have repeatedly and overwhelmingly rejected independence for the island of 3.5 million. In recent years the main political conflict has been between those favoring statehood and those who want to continue the commonwealth status.

Dollar rallies, gold keeps rising

LONDON (AP) — The dollar rallied against most major world currencies today after opening the week with sharp losses, and gold prices kept rising to near-record levels.

Silver also was on the rise amid speculative concern over the Iranian crisis, fear of Middle East tensions and the prospect of sharp oil price increases.

The morning fixing by London's major gold houses was $435 an ounce, up from $431 late Monday. In Zurich, the midday price was $434 dollars, up from $429.

Only once before has gold, a traditional hedge for worried investors, been so high. On Oct. 2 it reached $444 in Zurich in a crisis of confidence over U.S. inflation-fighting policies, before dropping to close at $438 in Zurich and $424 in London.

A Zurich currency dealer said Monday's loss of 1 to 2 cents against several currencies — a reaction to anti-American disorders in the Middle East — was too quick.

He said the dollar had recovered part of its losses without help from European central banks, but that support could be expected if necessary.

In Tokyo, the dollar retreated to 247.70 yen, from 248.85 Monday, without substantial selling pressure from Japan's central bank.

In London, the British pound eased to $2.20, against $2.2157 Monday.

Morning dollar rates elsewhere, compared with Monday's late rates:

Frankfurt — 1.7115 West German marks, up from 1.7068.

Zurich — 1.5897 Swiss francs, up from 1.5630.

Paris — 4.0200 French francs, up from 4.0165.

Amsterdam — 1.8985 Dutch guilders, down from 1.8990.

Rome — 810.50 Italian lire, up from 807.05.

Silver, which has gained nearly $4 during the past week, closed at a record $20.06 an ounce in London, a gain of 99 cents. It was the first time silver ever sold for more than $20 in London.

Silver closed at a record $20.05 an ounce, up $1.23, in New York.

On two things most experts agree: The rush to buy gold — and now silver — is a product of U.S. troubles in Iran, and until the situation is defused prices probably will keep climbing.

Another ingredient is the upcoming meeting of Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries ministers later this month in Venezuela. Prices are expected to go up.

"Chaos in Iran, with the danger of repercussions elsewhere in the Middle East, a sharp oil price rise later in the month, persistent currency instability, particularly in the dollar, are believed to demonstrate gold's attractiveness as a hedge," said the Times of London.

"I think $500 (for gold) is a real possibility by the end of the year," said Richard Kapsch, an analyst for E.F. Hutton Co. in Chicago. "Some people have been talking $600."

In London, analysts said oil-rich states and speculators were switching from dollars to European currencies and precious metals, especially since President Carter's decision to freeze Iranian assets while American hostages are held in Tehran.

"Each day the crisis continues, nations that think they might run afoul of the U.S. watch the value of their dollar reserves fall on the foreign exchanges and wonder if these funds are really safe from seizure," said a Frankfurt trader.

Weather

The forecast calls for fair conditions through Wednesday with continued warm. Tuesday's and Wednesday's high will be in the mid 60s; Tuesday's low will be in the mid 30s. Winds will be variable.

Up with taxes, down with property

Most economists are aware of a point of diminishing returns when it comes to taxation. This means less revenue is received by increasing taxes. There is little doubt the United States is past this point — not as a result of Congress increasing taxes, but as a product of inflation which is pushing people into ever higher tax brackets.

There are two explanations for the phenomenon of diminished tax revenue. Arthur Laffer, a University of Southern California economist best known for his blessing upon Proposition 13, claims that higher tax rates reduce the supply of labor and capital, which reduces national output and, eventually, tax collections. The famous Laffer Curve, a diagram demonstrating the diminishing tax returns, was the basis for the Kemp-Roth Bill, to slash tax rates.

A second explanation for diminished tax returns is offered by New York economist Peter Gutmann. Gutmann believes the higher the level of taxation, as currently structured, the more people will find it profitable to operate in the "subterranean economy." According to the Baruch College professor, the subterranean economy is that part of American business, legal and illegal, which is undeclared and untaxed. He thinks that this parallel economy accounts for $220 billion, slightly above 10 percent of the official Gross National Product, and is growing at a higher rate than the regular economy. When taxes or regulation gets too high, people walk away from the legal system and begin earning their living, or much of it, in the subterranean economy. He estimates 3½ million are doing this now.

Small business is a prime beneficiary of the untaxed segment of our economy. Gutmann points out that skimming to avoid taxes is now an accepted practice by most small entrepreneurs. Small businesses also pay many employees cash for their services. The employee gets social security and saves income tax; the business saves social security tax, unemployment insurance tax, bookkeeping and reporting expenses, and other costs such as payroll taxes, medical insurance and pension costs. Gutmann says. By showing fewer employees, the business appears smaller than it is — which permits more cash skimming without risk of detection. The acceptance of undeclared employees and the skimming of income is, according to Gutmann, something that has helped small companies compete with bigger, and more closely watched businesses.

High taxes aren't the only factor that leads to people joining the subterranean economy. The more government regulations concerning employee-employer relations, the more people will simply do business blithely unconcerned by the government. Thus one result of increased regulation is an unseen loss of tax revenue. The same effect is true of things like building codes.

Incontestably, taxes are increasingly burdensome. Laffer and Gutmann provide arguments against maximizing tax revenues. Maximizing the freedom of American citizens to own their property should be the more important concern, but that will be served by any decrease in taxes, whatever the motive.

Relax and be jolly

This is the season to be jolly, right? Ho! Ho! Ho! and all that good stuff. Ok, let's practice what we preach.

You will be going shopping, no doubt, in the days ahead. And there will be a tendency to snatch and grab what's on the counter before somebody else snatches and grabs it. And if you aren't careful, you are going to upset yourself and the clerks and all those people who are out there shopping with you.

Relax. Don't get uptight. Take it easy.

Christmas wasn't built in a day. It takes weeks. Months. And if you are a wise old soul, you will be doing your shopping early and avoiding the crowds.

You will be shopping during those hours when few others are shopping.

And you'll be saving on wear and tear of yourself, your neighbor and all those potentials who might get in your way.

Don't be hasty. Don't mumble and fume and mutter under your breath.

Look at the nice decorations. Breathe deeply the scented Christmas air. Feel the mountains of goodness that are piled everywhere. Taste the delight of the once-a-year season.

Listen to the music...

Well, on second thought, perhaps you'd better scratch that. It's that music that sometimes gets you.

On buying a horse for the little Princess

By D.R. Segal

We are fast approaching Christmas and there will come the day when your Little Princess will say, "Daddy, can't I have a horse for Christmas, huh, please, huh, Daddy, Daddy, please, huh?" Well, Old Dad, you have reached a moment of truth. There is only one sensible answer, as follows:

"Listen, kid, your Daddy thinks you are the cat's pajamas and real keen, but I am going to find some gypsy tribe and sell you to the chief and we will both be better off than if I buy you a horse."

Horses are an affliction that strikes little girls about the time they consider training bras to be the height of sophistication, and it continues until they find out about boys and drivers' licenses. That is a stretch of eight, 10 years.

Horses are a hobby you can get into cheap with a nice old $250 plug for the Little Princess to clop along on. A $250 horse has seen, heard, tried, and discarded it all. You can't surprise, stimulate, hurry or fluster him. When the world becomes impossible, he simply plants his feet and ceases all locomotion, often sighing and looking back at the young rider with a curious mixture of distaste and patience.

Soon it is apparent that a $1,000 horse is required, along with a tasty selection of riding britches, jackets, rat-catchers, boots, jodphurs, shad bellies, caps, spurs, whips, bats; not to mention a few thousand dollars' worth of steel and leather for the horse. This $1,000 animal will be neither pretty nor a good mover and very soon the Princess and her riding instructor will explain that only the most miserly and miserable poppa would permit a young lady of such obvious talent to monkey around with a doggy horse when she could be in Madison Square winning at the National.

Well, one thing leads to another and presently there is a $10,000 horse which is not quite good enough, and a trailer, and five sets of riding habit and enough tack to fit into the three very expensive trunks you've bought. You have made a veterinarian independently wealthy and kept several raunchy riding instructors in booze and broads while they taught the Princess how to win horse shows and greatly contributed to her fund of expletives, obscenities and biological references — often at table.

The $250 horse will, very likely, cost you $50,000 by the time the cars 'n boys stage of development overtakes your heart's own darling. All you can do, Old Dad, is resist that first step along the road to perdition. Once you've taken it, you're cooked.

They say the horse is the dumbest thing God ever created. I say he's Number Two. The guy who buys one for his kid is the unchallenged champion.

D.R. Segal is the president of Freedom Newspapers, Inc.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 4, the 338th day of 1979. There are 27 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1945, Congress approved American participation in the United Nations.

On this date:

In 1783 George Washington, quitting as commander in chief, had a farewell dinner with his officers in New York.

In 1851, a workers' rebellion broke out in Paris and was suppressed by Louis Napoleon. The event is known in French history as the "December Fourth Massacre."

In 1942, American bombers struck the Italian mainland for the first time in World War II.

In 1975, President Gerald Ford ended his meeting with Chinese leaders in Peking without achieving any significant breakthroughs.

In 1977, Iraq walked out of the Arab summit in Tripoli, breaking the united front against Egypt's peace moves with Israel.

Ten years ago, President Richard Nixon said Clement Haynesworth would remain chief judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals even though the Senate rejected him as a Supreme Court justice.

Five years ago, a Dutch chartered plane crashed in Sri Lanka, killing all 191 persons aboard.

One year ago, Iran's oil production was reported down one-third as anti-shah protests escalated.

More oil costs more wherever

by Paul Harvey

Interesting how Americans whimper and take it when Arab nations blackmail us with usurious prices for oil.

Yet we squeal and squawk and shake our fists in the faces of American oilmen who are asking a similar price for American petroleum.

American oil money stays in America; it drills more holes; produces more oil, creates more jobs—in America.

Yet, instead of encouraging more home-front production, the President and Congress are seeking ways and means of punishing home-front producers.

Bankers, like lawyers, have a language of their own which is sometimes difficult for the rest of us to translate but too much is at stake for us not to try.

Headlines about "High Oil Company Profits" have misled many Americans and enough members of Congress so that we're about to legislate a self-defeating mistake.

Bankers Trust Co. has projected what it is going to cost us to drill deeper, where remaining oil reserves are, and to seek secondary recovery from marginal old oil fields.

Just to maintain 88 percent of our present domestic oil and gas production (while we develop synthetic fuels) over the next 10 years will require a capital investment of $20 billion this year escalating to $42 billion by 1990.

That is bad news.

Even if our nation maintains a 3 percent annual growth rate, even if inflation is held under 10 percent, industry—or somebody—is going to have to invest a lot of money we don't have and don't expect to have.

The capital costs of stabilizing production will increase by a factor of seven while the money available for the purpose will increase by only a factor of three.

Now, the old law of supply and demand would take care of this problem. We would pay more for gas and oil, the oil companies could reinvest that higher price in deeper holes, and we would gradually replace cheap old energy with more costly new energy.

But if politicians make whipping boys of the oil producers, if politicians slap a "windfall profits tax" on oil producers, there is no way to replenish our domestic supply.

Politicians who say they want our country to be "energy independent" and then say they also want a tax which will curtail domestic drilling are either naive or deceitful.

When whatever politician gets to your town these next months soliciting your vote, ask him some of the definitive questions.

If he can't be any more constructive than to recommend "more government," "more taxes," "more regulation" forget him.

Let's elect lawmakers who will encourage in all ways the development of more energy of all kinds.

Then competition among the options will take care of the price.

Winning by losing

The Treasury dipped into its gold hoard the other day, selling 1,250,000 ounces to the highest bidders.

The sale brought an average of $372.30 an ounce, improving the nation's cash balance by almost half a billion dollars.

Good deal? Not when you consider that the price per ounce was down more than $5 and the total take some $6 million from the last such public sale, in September.

Bad deal? Not from the Treasury point of view. A drop in the price of gold is precisely the purpose of the new strategy, inaugurated with this sale, of keeping the quantity of gold to be sold and the date secret almost to the day of the action.

It is an attempt to take some of the heat out of the gold market by keeping dealers and particularly speculators uncertain as to the monthly supply.

The price drop this time out suggests the Treasury is playing its cards right in this latest maneuver to support the dollar by making gold a less attractive alternative. But then, that's what was being said less than a year ago when a package including massive borrowing abroad and Treasury loans floated in strong-currency countries eased speculative pressures and boosted the dollar's value on the exchange markets for a time.

But that lasted only until the next round of increases in oil prices. And that, of course, is the tip-off as to what kind of a game this currency stabilization effort really is.

Oil, not gold, is trump. And unfortunately, the exporting cartel still holds all the high cards.

A word to the wise

The Carter White House recently distributed a handy little packet of "fact sheets" on women in government that included a none-too-subtle reminder that 21 percent of President Carter's appointments have gone to women compared with just 12 percent of President Ford's.

The dig was directed not just at the GOP but also no doubt at Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who has never been noted for hiring women for top-level policy jobs.

Woman arrested for murder soliciation

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A woman arrested in Chicago Monday on murder soliciation charges says she intends to fight extradition to Lubbock, where her husband is being held.

Vaso V. Mraovic, 41, and his wife Ann, 69, are accused of offering $150,000 to kill Mrs. Mraovic's son-in-law, Arthur Boldt, who owns a McDonald's restaurant franchise in Lubbock.

Mraovic was arraigned on a capital murder soliciation charge Monday before Justice of the Peace Charles Smith, who set his bond at $250,000. Smith recommended a similar bond for Mrs. Mraovic.

Mohammad Y. Owaynat, a 35-year-old Jordanian who also lives in Chicago, was released on his own recognition on a $25,000 material witness bond Monday. He is accused of being the hired gunman who reportedly was offered $150,000 to kill Boldt. But the gunman apparently received only $8,500 before Mraovic's arrest.

Officials from the criminal district attorney's office and Texas Rangers said they arrested Mraovic shortly before 9 a.m. Saturday after watching him pay the Owaynat $3,500, allegedly to buy a gun and silencer.

Authorities said the gunman was paid $5,000 in Chicago and was to have collected the rest of the money when the contract was completed. Officials said they also seized $27,000 from Mraovic when he was arrested.

Although investigators refused official comment, the gunman reportedly contacted Boldt and told him of the contract. Boldt then contacted the FBI and the criminal district attorney.

Boldt and Mraovic have been involved in court battles over the 1965 will of Lillian Boldt, Boldt's wife and Mrs. Mraovic's daughter. In her will, Mrs. Boldt named her mother as the sole beneficiary and her husband as executor.

The will was probated in July 1978, but civil lawsuits concerning the property's value and how it should be distributed began in August of this year.

Last week, a state district judge in Lubbock ordered a February hearing on one of the disputed matters.

Rare rule used in deportations

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — American immigration officials are using a rarely-enforced rule to deport Iranian students in a current crackdown, says one Iranian summoned for deportation hearings.

Byjan Rashidi, one of 36 Texas A&I university students up for review of their student visas, said Monday the government has allowed a foreign student to transfer schools pending approval from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"That's the way they've been doing it for so many years," said Rashidi, who said the government now charges him with failing to get permission to switch schools. "I applied in January for transfer from North Texas State to Texas A&I and I just got the notice."

Rashidi received postponement of his case until he can find a local lawyer.

One Iranian enrolled in the Kingsville campus was ordered deported Monday by Administrative Judge Alonzo Minjares. The judge said Ahmadi violated conditions of his student visa by transferring from Bee County College to Texas A&I without permission.

Ahmadi said he would contest the order within a 10-day appeal period.

The deportation hearings resulted from President Carter's order to check visas of all Iranian students following the takeover more than a month ago of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

PRESIDENTIAL candidate John Connally, right, talks with U.S. Congressman Gene Taylor before giving a speech to members of the Missouri Farm Bureau. In his speech, Connally said of the Iranian situation, "for the first time in two decades, we are a unified nation." Referring to the crowd he was addressing, he said, "there's no greater risk taker in this world than the American farmer." (AP laserphoto)

Meetings scheduled on gasohol plant

Five meetings in North Plains cities are planned during December to complete efforts paving the way for construction of a fuel-alcohol plant in the area.

The drive, which began in late October, is over 60 percent completed. When finished, area farmers will have raised $325,000 cash and committed 3 1/2 million bushels of grain—corn, wheat and grain sorghum—toward the project.

Directors of the Northwest Texas Grain Products Cooperative say they hope to complete the drive "before Christmas."

Sites and dates of the five December meetings are known but times and places will be announced at a later date.

The five area meetings begin on Dec. 10 in Pampa, followed by Stratford, Dec. 11; Dalhart, Dec. 12; Panhandle, Dec. 13; and a final meeting in Groom on Dec. 14.

To date, grain growers over the North Plains have pledged over 2 million bushels of grain—corn, wheat and grain sorghum—and committed over $100,000 in "front money" for preliminary financing of a fuel-alcohol plant. More is "coming in daily."

Farmers over the area are asked to commit five cents a bushel, or $500 per contract, toward the base financing of the proposed plant.

Directors of the NWTGP Cooperative say that reception of their plan has been met with "enthusiasm" over the North Plains and supporters in Moore, Dallam, Hartley, Sherman, Hansford, Gray and Ochiltree counties voiced approval at earlier meetings held to explain the proposed facility.

The proposed cooperative will be a closed membership corporation and directors say now that they "anticipate closing the membership rolls before Christmas."

A 20-million gallon a year plant is presently planned for the area. This would require seven million bushels of grain annually for year-round protection.

The cooperative can legally function when contracts guaranteeing 51 percent of this requirement are met. The remainder could be purchased on the open market.

Officer tells of 'hit squad'

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A safe supposedly containing $60,000 was used to lure three intended murder victims — including a confessed slayer — to an aborted rendezvous with death, a former Gregg County law enforcement officer testified.

Don B. Hale, a former captain in the Gregg County sheriff's office testifying under protective immunity, said Monday he was in charge of a "hit squad" which was ordered to kill three men in 1974.

The targets of the alleged plot were not harmed.

Gregg County Sheriff Tom Welch, Gregg County Commissioner Bill Satterwhite and former deputy Jim Cochran are charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

They are also accused, along with ex-deputy

Bill Roach and Justice of the Peace Charles Cashell, on various other charges of racketeering and facilitating illegal gambling in Gregg County.

But Monday's testimony focused on the alleged murder plot in May 1974.

Hale, who now is a farmer in Big Sandy, said he asked the sheriff why the three men were to be killed and testified the sheriff told him "because it will make me look like a hero."

"There was no doubt (in our minds) as to what we were going to do," Hale said.

The targets of the alleged plot included one man later convicted of murder and two ex-convicts. They were lured to a county equipment barn where Hale said Satterwhite had placed a safe supposedly containing $60,000 in campaign funds.

Assault charges filed against trio

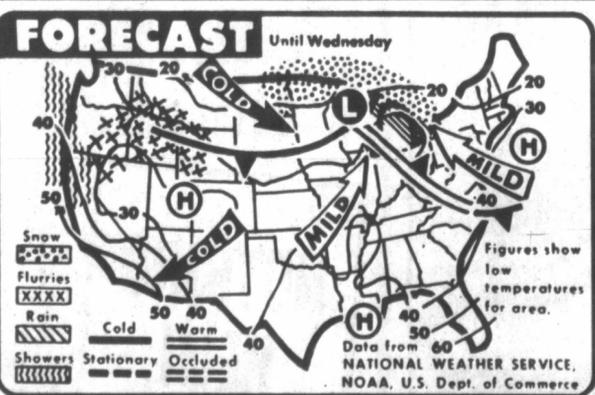

Simple assault charges have been filed against three men who allegedly kidnapped him and threatened his life at knife-point Saturday night.
 Tony Bailey, 22, of 420 N. Wells filed the charges Monday against 22-year-old Franklin Andrew Haney, Mark Anthony McGeahey, 25, and Rick D. Moore, 30, all of Amarillo. Police Chief J. J. Ryzman said today. The men are presently free on $5000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford for each of them.
 According to police reports, the Amarilloans took Bailey to an open field where he was reportedly beaten, a knife held to his neck and his life threatened. They then purchased notebook paper and forced to write a confession. The actions supposedly were the result of a dispute over a pickup.
 Members of Bailey's family called police, giving a description of the three men. They were identified by Officer John Blakemore in the parking lot of a local restaurant. With the help of three other officers, the trio was arrested and taken to city jail.
 A complete investigation of the incident will be made, Ryzman said, and presented to the district attorney.
 Bailey received minor injuries, but did not require hospitalization.

Chaloupka blasts Bergland plan

By TINA McCLOY
 Of The Pampa News

It's ridiculous for the Department of Agriculture to speak for American farmers, said Texas Farm Bureau President Carol Chaloupka at the organization's 46th annual convention in McAllen.
 Chaloupka said in Monday's opening session that hearings scheduled by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland are an effort to bypass existing farm organizations for input.
 "Bergland's plan includes a series of field hearings — one of them Thursday in Wichita Falls — and the eventual publication of nearly 40 position papers that will supposedly outline what is good and what is bad about this country's farming system," he explained.

"These ideas are meant as input for laws to move farming in the direction thought politically best in terms of 'social benefit,'" said Chaloupka.

"We reject the idea that farming is everybody's business. We will resist any attempt to make us into a public utility."

Chaloupka said he could imagine what the AFL-CIO, Teamsters and other labor organizations would say if similar hearings were conducted to set their course in the direction thought best for the social benefit of all America.

Farmers must speak for themselves, he said, and not allow labor, environmental, social action or consumer groups to make the land-use, management and pricing decisions which affect farmers and ranchers.

Stop light installed

Watch out at the intersection of Perryton Parkway and 23rd Streets!
 If you haven't noticed, a new traffic control light was placed there Monday and is now in full force.

According to Mack Wofford, city manager, the city contracted a local electric company to install the system using surplus material the city had and whatever new parts which were necessary.

The light is temporary, he added, saying it was not the traffic-actuated light with pedestrian heads, called for in the recent traffic survey. The present signal is a more simple fix-timed device, Wofford commented.

Director of Public Works, R. B. "Jiggs" Cooke commented at the scene. "Several (cars) have run right through it." Indicating Perryton Parkway, he said. "A lot of them coming this way don't even see it."

Four More Years?
 Secretary of the Future Farmers of America chapter at Plains, Georgia was his first elective job. Today, Jimmy Carter is expected to announce his candidacy in another election, launching his campaign for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination and another four years in the White House. At least two other Democrats and 10 Republicans are also seeking the job Carter now holds. But Carter hopes to upset them all, despite the low ratings he has received in recent public opinion polls. He likes to point out that his favorite president, Harry Truman, scored a similar election victory in 1948.

Farm prices up from last year but show wide variation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prices farmers receive for their products are generally higher than they were a year ago, but the latest government figures show a wide variation among specific items.

According to the Agriculture Department's overall index of prices farmers receive, the average in November was up 10 percent from the same month a year ago.

Broken into categories, prices of meat animals were up 10 percent from November 1978; vegetables were up 12 percent; dairy products, up 10 percent; and feed grains and hay, up 16 percent.

But prices of poultry and eggs were down 1 percent from a year ago, and oil-bearing crops, such as soybeans, cottonseed, flaxseed and peanuts, declined 2 percent.

Further, within the groups of commodities, variations exist that make it difficult to generalize about prices.

For example, in the meat animal group — which had a 10 percent price gain over November 1978 — beef cattle prices were up 24 percent to an average $64.20 per 100 pounds last month from $51.90 a year ago.

But hog prices, which are included in the average for all meat animals, declined by more than 27 percent to $34.40 per 100 pounds from $47.30 a year earlier.

The report, issued by USDA on Nov. 30, provided another method of looking at farmers' prices and how those stack up from year-to-year as well as among the individual commodities.

In that comparison, the USDA translates its latest price figures into a parity equivalent, the old formula that roughly illustrates what prices would have to be to give farmers the same buying power they had in a base period, 1910-14.

For example, corn prices on American farms last month, according to the preliminary figures, averaged $2.31 a bushel. But if corn had been at 100 percent of parity, the price would have been $4.26 a bushel. Thus, the November corn price was only 54 percent of parity.

A year ago, corn brought farmers $2.02 a bushel or 53 percent of the parity price then of $5.40 a bushel, price has risen.

Only 11 of the 31 commodities priced by USDA last month showed an increase on the parity scale from a year ago. Nineteen declined in terms of parity equivalent and one was the same.

The gainers and their prices expressed as a percentage of parity in November, compared with a year earlier, included:

Wheat, 64 percent in November and 56 percent a year ago; rice, 60 percent and 49 percent; corn, 54 percent and 53 percent; barley, 59 percent and 58 percent; dry edible beans, 61 percent and 55 percent; oats, 60 percent and 59 percent; sorghum grain, 56 percent and 55 percent; grapefruit, 80 percent and 49 percent; lemons, 73 percent and 34 percent; beef cattle, 87 percent and 81 percent; and calves, 100 percent and 91 percent.

The commodities listed as declining from a year earlier in terms of parity equivalent included:

Upland cotton, 60 percent and 66 percent; peanuts, 56 percent and 65 percent; flue-cured tobacco, 59 percent and 70 percent; burley tobacco, 69 percent and 71 percent; soybeans, 61 percent and 72 percent; milk, 73 percent and 76 percent; wool, 53 percent and 54 percent; and cottonseed, 69 percent and 78 percent.

Others were: flaxseed, 48 percent and 56 percent; sweet potatoes, 42 percent and 61 percent; apples, 66 percent and 76 percent; limes, 79 percent and 106 percent; oranges, 98 percent and 126 percent; tangerines, 59 percent and 99 percent; hogs, 47 percent and 76 percent; lambs, 76 percent and 86 percent; sheep, 105 percent and 125 percent; eggs, 55 percent and 56 percent; and turkeys, 72 percent and 86 percent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's "all-risk" crop insurance will be available in 150 additional counties in time for next spring's planting season.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said Monday the addition of 150 counties is the maximum permitted under current law. Legislation pending in Congress would allow expansion of the insurance program at a faster rate.

The selection of the counties by the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. was "based on the need to provide additional" protection in those counties, he said.

Cholera outbreak threatens whooping cranes

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — An outbreak of avian cholera, an often-fatal disease, is threatening the 75 rare whooping cranes at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, a spokesman said Monday.

But so far, the cranes' shy nature has kept them away from infected birds, refuge manager Frank Johnson said.

"It is highly contagious, but there's hardly any feasible way to catch and inoculate them," Johnson said. "At zoos they can, but not at a wildlife refuge."

Until Monday, the disease appeared confined to 5,000 snow geese at the refuge. One of 60 snow goose deaths has been traced to the disease, also called fowl cholera. And one sand hill crane found Monday suspected of dying from the disease.

Dr. Christopher Brand of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife laboratory in Madison, Wis., came to the coastal refuge Friday to perform autopsies on the birds.

Johnson said the outbreak was first discovered at a refuge near Hudson Bay, where about 10,000 snow geese were afflicted. He said those birds are suspected of carrying the disease to South Texas when they began arriving in mid-October.

Avian cholera is a bacterial disease spread through waste and immediate contact among birds. Johnson said, adding it is no threat to humans as long as the meat is cooked. The disease affects the birds' internal organs, and they die about three days later.

"I would stress that this is fowl cholera and it has nothing to do with human cholera. We've been handling these cases for the last couple of days and as far as we know, it can't be transmitted," Johnson said.

He said refuge workers haven't seen any of the 75 cranes closer than a half mile from the area where the snow geese have died. But when they spot cranes near a snow goose, they shoot guns or make other loud noises to scare away the birds, Johnson said.

He said the marshland is inspected twice a day, and foot patrols have been increased.

The disease "is not known to occur in whooping cranes, but there is no reason to believe they are not susceptible to it," Johnson said.

Trio to faces charges in beating death

ABILENE, Texas — Three men were on their way back to Abilene from Hobbs, N.M., early today to face murder charges in the beating death of air traffic controller Hubert O. Tobey.

Abilene Justice of the Peace Silas Clark set bond at $1,000 each for William Bate, 19, of Abilene, Clifton Charles Russell, 18, of Abilene, and Michael Mark Wicker, 21, of either Lovington, N.M., or Plains, Texas.

Hobbs police said the trio was arrested when a check of the 1974 Lincoln Continental they were driving revealed it was registered to Tobey.

Abilene Police Lt. Jack Dieken and Sgt. K. Z. Bradshaw left Monday night to bring the three men back from Hobbs.

Tobey, 41, apparently was beaten to death with a foot-long rock early Monday, police said. His partially nude body was found behind a house in an undeveloped part of Abilene about 1 a.m. Monday.

A preliminary autopsy report showed Tobey died from blows to the head, a police spokesman said.

Police said the case was similar to the June 8, 1978, death of William Favors, who apparently was beaten with a tire tool in West Abilene.

Favors, 49, of the Dallas suburb of Richardson, was found in a field with his pants around his ankles. Police said Tobey's shirt was pulled up over his head and his shorts were around his ankles.

Tobey's wife had reported him missing when he failed to return to his home in Potosi, just south of Abilene, from his job at Abilene Municipal Airport.

An Abilene policeman said that about midnight, he saw Tobey with another man at a convenience store near the site where his body was found.

Death row inmates wait for injection

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — At the Oklahoma State Penitentiary in McAlester, some inmates refer to it sardonically as "the ultimate high."

Actually, medical experts say, a prisoner will feel no sensation, other than a little drowsiness, when he is put to death by lethal drug injection — the country's newest form of capital punishment.

Eighty-two murderers, rapists and kidnapers have died in the penitentiary's electric chair since 1915. One man was hanged.

In contrast to electrocution, death by injection will be almost instantaneous. The convict will simply fall asleep.

The law prescribes that death will occur through a continuous intravenous injection of "an ultrashort-acting barbiturate in combination with a chemical paralytic agent."

The official cause of death will be coronary arrest.

Oklahoma and Texas enacted death-by-drug legislation in 1977. Similar laws have been passed since in Idaho and New Mexico and are being considered in several other states.

In the last 30 months, juries in Oklahoma have decreed that 27 persons should die through drug injection; 125 persons face that fate in Texas, along with one each in Idaho and New Mexico.

Among those lodged on Death Row at McAlester is Roger Dale Stafford, convicted of killing six Oklahoma City steakhouse employees in a meat locker during a robbery attempt in 1978. Stafford also is charged in the murder of three members of a Texas family near Purcell, Okla.

The first drug-injection execution is probably years away because of expected legal appeals.

In Oklahoma, the scene at the prison called "Big Mac" will be strikingly different from executions of the past.

Instead of a "last-mile" walk from Death Row through the basement to the electric chair — over which still hangs a metal sign saying, "Crime Does Not Pay," fashioned in the prison license tag factory — the condemned prisoner will be taken to the third floor of the administration building. About 30 people will witness the execution.

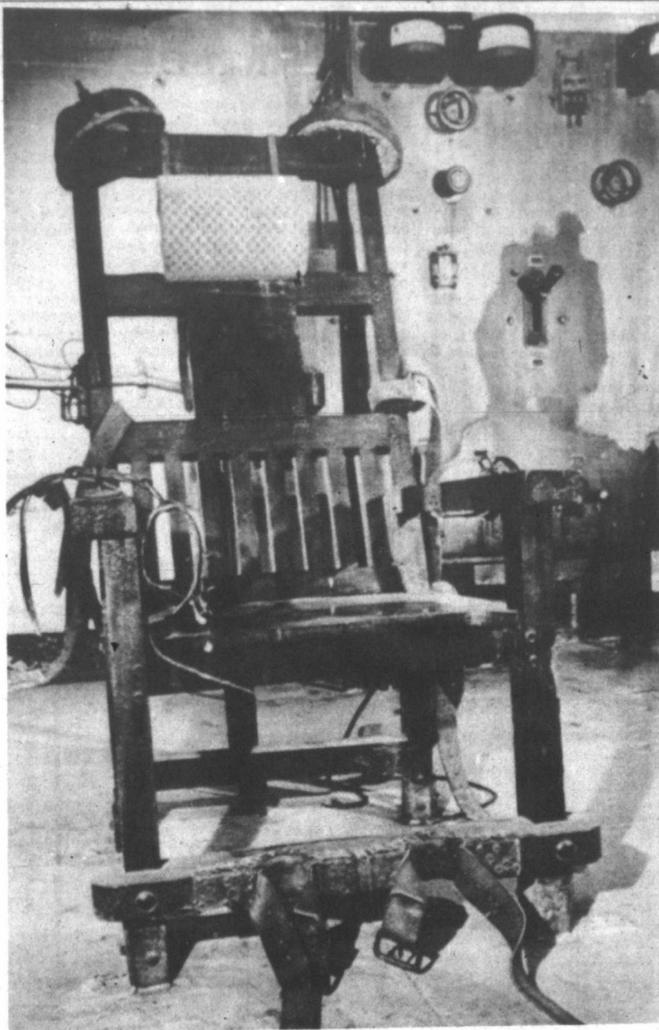

The doomed convict will be carried to the third floor strapped to a stretcher, his head propped up so witnesses, including six journalists and five persons chosen by the prisoner, can watch him throughout the procedure.

The executioner will be one of three volunteer medical technicians, dressed in white rather than in black hoods. None will be identified.

They will stand silently behind a partition, through which a tube will be passed and connected to the condemned man's arm or leg. All three will inject dark fluid into the tube. None will know which of them is injecting the lethal substance.

"Sort of a firing squad approach," Corrections Department spokeswoman Nancy Nunnally said of the use of anonymous technicians.

The procedure will contrast with previous incidents when Oklahoma executioners were well known, especially Rich Owens, who built Big Mac's electric chair in 1915 and pulled the fatal switch 65 times.

THE CHAIR, which was instrument in the killing of 82 condemned Oklahoma criminals has been out of service since Oklahoma enacted death-by-drug legislation in 1977.

Dairy counter hikes help raise family bills

A new round of price increases at the dairy counter helped boost family supermarket bills again last month, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

There were several special sales on pork chops, but the decreases were not great enough to offset the increases in the price of eggs and milk.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 food and non-food items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. Chocolate chip cookies were dropped from the list when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

Here are some of the findings in the latest AP survey:

—The marketbasket bill increased at the checklist store in eight cities, up an average of 2.4 percent, and decreased at the checklist store in five cities, down an average of 1.8 percent. On the average, the marketbasket bill at the checklist store went up eight-tenths of a percent during November. That compared with a decrease of two-tenths of a percent in October.

—Since the first of the year, the marketbasket bill has increased at the checklist store in every city, with rises ranging from 3 percent in Salt Lake City to just over 12 percent in New York. On the average, the marketbasket bill was 7 percent higher at the start of December than it was 11 months earlier.

—Higher prices for eggs — in demand as a substitute for expensive cuts of meat — and for milk boosted marketbasket bills last month as they did during October. Eggs increased in price at the checklist store in 10 cities during November after rising in six cities in October. Milk prices which were up in six cities in October, went up at the checklist store in five cities during November, reflecting a seasonal decline in production. Coffee prices also were higher — up in six cities last month.

—The price of center-cut pork chops dropped during November at the checklist store in eight cities. Hog farmers have increased production to take advantage of the high beef prices caused by small cattle supplies and almost 20 percent more pork was produced this November than was produced in the same month last year.

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents. The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease.

Canadian girl serious after accident

Louisa Godoy, six year old daughter of Mrs. Octavia Godoy, 108 Red Deer, Canadian, was listed in serious but stable condition in the Intensive Care Unit of St. Anthony's Hospital, Amarillo.

Two other victims were sent to the Hemphill County Hospital. Mrs. Godoy, a 25 year old, expectant mother was admitted for observation while the driver of the pickup, 16 year old Shane Hutcherson of 63 Hobart St. Canadian was treated and released.

Six year old Lisa was a passenger in the front seat and reportedly sustained a skull fracture, two other Godoy children in the car at the time were not hurt.

Carter is not losing votes over Iranian crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Iranian crisis may be restricting President Carter's campaign travels, but don't assume it is losing him votes.

It is a basic rule of thumb in national politics that, up to a point, a crisis is always good for a president.

This is especially true when the crisis involves a foreign power attacking U.S. interests, as the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and his fanatic followers have been doing for a month.

Such crises stir patriotic emotions. Citizens tend to put aside other considerations — their heating bills, for example — and unite against the common enemy.

And they turn for leadership to the only person in a position to exercise it in such a time: the president, whoever he is. Thus Carter, who is scheduled to officially announce his re-election campaign Tuesday, stands to benefit greatly from the Iran crisis.

First, it allows him to appear "presidential," above the grubby business of politics.

Second, it allows him to hog-tie his opponents, both Republicans and Democrats. Carter can paint any criticism of his leadership as an irresponsible threat to the well-being of the hostages.

Here's the way the president played it at his nationally broadcast news conference last week:

"I will have to continue to restrict my own political activities and call on those who might be opposing me in the future for president to support my position as president and to provide unity for our country and for our nation in the eyes of those who might be looking for some sign of weakness or division in order to perpetuate their abuse of the hostages."

Translation: I'm not being political. Don't criticize me or you may hurt the hostages.

And it was no accident that Carter held that news conference during prime evening time, and in the stately East Room of the White House rather than in the workaday auditorium he usually uses. He aimed for the biggest possible audience, and the most "presidential" setting.

Memoirs of an Irish invasion

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Paul, my Irish nephew, writes that he has lost the baseball he brought home with him just as his playmates in South Armagh were getting the hang of the game.

I wonder what became of that baseball. It must have been a strange sight on an Irish road or sticking out of a trout steam like a rock with red seams.

Perhaps the British army threw a collision mat over it and blew it up in one of those controlled explosions that break windows for miles around. They might have mistaken it for a grenade. Things get pretty tense in his section of Ulster. They call it "The Murder Triangle," because in the past decade Catholics and Protestants have been murdering, maiming and burning each other out and more than 60 British soldiers have died in the vicinity.

Still, Paul rarely spoke of "The Troubles." He had just turned 14 when he came to spend the summer with us, his first trip away from the violence-saturated green countryside around Crossmaglen, except for a school trip to Liverpool.

He loved America from the start, although not unreservedly.

He loved hamburgers, vanilla ice cream, steak barbecued on the charcoal grill, Pepsi-Cola, fig Newtons and French fries, which of course he called "chips," and jokes. He loved the New York Yankees. He couldn't abide pizza, hot dogs, baked macaroni and, thank God, lobster. He had mixed feelings about American football and, watching a pro game on TV, couldn't understand why the Dallas

Cowboys wore "steel helmets."

Paul worshipped weekly at the shrine of Mork and Mindy and loved almost everything else on TV from game shows to commercials. With a dozen channels to choose from, instead of only three at home, he could sit for hours, motionless and pop-eyed as one of those stone figures on a medieval Celtic cross.

But after supper he sometimes abandoned the tube to take a walk along the road, something no one ever does after dark in his part of Ireland.

We hope the box of baseballs gets there by Christmas, and the new joke book, Ireland could use a few laughs. And fewer broken windows.

Furs, diamonds and sparkly dresses glittered Friday night at M.K. Brown Auditorium during an "Opening Night Fashions" style show held to raise funds for the Top O' Texas Scholarship pageant.

About 180 people attended the gala affair which was sponsored by Behrman's Fashion Center, Belcher's Jewelry Store and Barber's Gifts.

Twenty models from Amarillo, Perryton, Canadian and Pampa displayed Behrman's fashions, designed by Halston, Givenchy, Ernst Strauss, Christian Dior and Les Wilk. Barber's Lancome representative, Tino Vielma of San Antonio, made up the models.

Jewelry from Belcher's, including precious stones, solid gold and diamonds, completed the fashion look of the models.

DEAR ABBY

Sweet neighbor is a real cuss

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a childless neighbor who loves kids and is a wonderful friend. On a moment's notice Shirley will gladly look after my brood. (I have three, ages 2, 4 and 5.) So what's my problem? Shirley's language is unreal. She can't utter two sentences without including half dozen dirty words. I'm sure she doesn't realize how often she uses those words; it's just automatic with her.

After being around Shirley for a while yesterday, my 4-year-old came up with a real mind-blower. When I told him that was a "bad" word and he shouldn't use it again, he said, "Well, Aunt Shirley uses it all the time, so why can't I?"

Now, Abby, I wouldn't hurt Shirley's feelings for the world because she is really a wonderful friend and has a heart of gold, but her language is something else. Is there a solution? Don't suggest I keep my kids away from her. I can't.

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: I doubt if you would "hurt" Shirley if you asked her to try to watch her language in front of the kids. (I also doubt if it would do much good, but it's worth a try.) Just tell your kids it's not nice to use "bad" words. And let them know that there are some "good" people who use "bad" words, and Aunt Shirley is one of them.

DEAR ABBY: Our beautiful, 20-year-old daughter is about to marry a fine, high-principled man who recently moved to this rather small town. The young man has a strict religious background and is as strait-laced as anyone we've ever known. I'm sure if he knew about our daughter's past, and that she has already lied to him about her virginity, he would have been long gone.

My husband and I love our daughter and want her to be happy, but we feel she should be honest with her fiancé—and admit that she has made some mistakes. We feel that this is not only the honorable thing to do, but it could save her and her husband some serious problems in the future.

Many of the people in this town know that our daughter had a very bad reputation in her teens, and since she plans to live here after her marriage, her chances of being able to hide her past are nil.

Abby, she reads your column every day and says you advocate withholding the truth in a situation such as this. If you do, forget this letter; if you agree with us, please answer this in your column soon.

TROUBLED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I agree that your daughter should confess that he is not the first man in her life. To lie about this would be a serious mistake. How many others, and the details, however, need not be part of the confession. If it is going to make a difference in the way the young man feels about her, she's wise to tell him now.

DEAR ABBY: Charlie and I have been married for nine years. We have eight kids. (No twins.) He just told me that he is trying to think up some minor crime to commit so they'll lock him up.

Charlie isn't a violent man, but he's threatening to hit a policeman or throw a brick through somebody's window, so they'll arrest him and take him to jail. He says the noise around this house is driving him crazy.

Abby, I can't gag the kids. Besides I didn't have them alone, and if I can stand them, so can he.

Charlie says he's fed up with me and the kids and married life, and the only place for him is in a nice quiet jail where nobody can bother him. Help me.

CHARLIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I've heard of men trying to break OUT of jail, but never INTO one. If Charlie is joking—laugh. If he's serious, you'd better get him to a doctor to have his head examined.

MENDING MATURE MARRIAGE

By Louise Pierce

Wife's friends usually are husband's too, and vice versa

When we were young couples, there were probably a few of our spouses' friends that we didn't enjoy or even like. And the chums of our youth may not have delighted our mates. If we grew up in different backgrounds or areas, our preferences for people necessarily varied a little if not a lot.

But when a couple has been married 25 to 60 years, it's reasonably safe to assume that his friends are her friends and vice versa.

While it is entirely possible for a couple to be a world unto themselves, most married mates need friends too. If companionship of friends and neighbors provides nothing more than relief from the shadows of boredom that sometimes stalk older marriages, it is well worth seeking and keeping. But our friends give us much more than that. We can visit, laugh, sing, eat, dance and share many other pleasurable activities with them.

I'm assuming that most of you agree with me that friends are important in an older marriage. The next question is: How do we hold them?

First of all, we can do it by courteous kindness. Have you ever run out on your own party, either by forgetfulness or by unfriendly intention? Unbelievable as it may seem, there are those who do.

We were once invited to the home of friends, arrived exactly on time, got no response to our repeated knocking and noted that our host's car was gone. With other invited guests we waited an hour and then drove home. I was upset because of the wasted time. But Otis, forever the Pollyanna type, only commented, "Now don't get ulcers over it. They may have found better friends. And so will we."

When the chagrined hostess called, she said, "My husband didn't know I'd asked you all over, and he's real mad at me for forgetting it. Is there any way I can make myself remember things?"

I told her, "Indeed there is. Write down every plan you make. Have a large-sized calendar beside your phone, on which you record the month, week, day, hour and place where you're supposed to be. But don't rely on it completely. Make extensive lists too."

I don't forget much, but I have a small notebook in addition to my big desk calendar. When I'm at home, the notebook is beside me. When I'm away from home, it's in my purse. Every week the pages are marked, "Monday, Tuesday," etc. And on each page is listed every least detail of my well-planned day. I have countless friends who use this method and never miss an appointment.

If you haven't read Dr. Alex Comfort's book, "A Good Age", you would do well to check it out of your library and enjoy his assurances of alert elderliness.

And Dr. Leslie Libow, of Long Island Jewish Hospital's Institute for Geriatric Care, said recently, "Only about 10 percent of the population over 65 show mental deterioration, such as partial memory loss."

Haven't you been proud of the 90-year-olds who often out-talk and out-perform younger people on the Johnny Carson show and other TV programs? In most cases, therefore, we can assume that absent-mindedness is due to undisciplined thinking or failure to write down your plans and purposes. You can lose friends fast and furiously if you forget your promises to them. And if you embarrass your spouse as well as yourself, your roommate may leave your room for a day or a week or longer. And none of us maturely-married couples crave "apartness."

Another way to lose the friendships that add so much to happiness in older age is to be a sponge. A letter told me this.

DEAR LOUISE: Quite a few of us retired couples eat our noon meals at the Senior Center every day. The food is good and only costs us $2 a plate. They say we can even eat free if we can't afford to pay. Well, all of our group can easily buy their meals, but two couples don't. They eat two or three plates full every time and then walk out the door without paying a nickel. One of the women is an old friend of mine and I'd like to keep seeing her.

But my husband gets so mad at their cheapness that he fumes about it all the time. Usually he gets indigestion besides. Shall I drop my old friend? LOVE THEM BOTH

DEAR L.T.B.: It seems to me you have no alternative. Important as friendship is, it must not cause friction between a husband and wife. We need other couples — but they should be couples we can approve and enjoy, not the kind who threaten to break up our longtime marriages.

Tell your cheapskate friends that none of you needs charity and you think they ought to chip in their $2 per. If they get mad, let them go. If they try to stay with you and eat free anyway, the rest of you might go early and get a table small enough to exclude them.

When you have to choose between a friend and a husband, remember your vow to "forsake all others" and hold fast to your marriage.

Write problems to DEAR LOUISE, Box 616, Pampa, Texas 79065.

TWEEN 12 AND 20

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: My mother just became a Realtor and she needs the phone for business. I enjoy talking to my friends on the phone but my dad intends to restrict my phone calls to before 6 p.m. when all my friends are too busy to talk.

They won't get another phone for the rest of the family and when I ask them for a solution, they tell me not to talk on the phone. Do you think this is fair? I'm 16. — Toni, Fullerton, Calif.

Toni: It's important that Mom gets her calls but no calls after 6 p.m. is a little severe.

I think all incoming calls for you should be allowed and should last no more than five minutes. You should also be allowed one 10-minute call per evening. After all, 20 or so minutes an evening shouldn't be too damaging to Mom's business.

Dr. Wallace: After going with a boy for two weeks, I have decided to break up with him. I like him but I just want to be friends — nothing serious.

Well, I told a couple of my girlfriends what I planned to do and, of course, they blabbed it all over school.

Kids are coming up to me and saying things like, "Don't break up with X. He likes you so much." or, "X will be so sad when you dump him."

I'm the type of person who hates to hurt people's feelings so now I'm confused and don't know what to do. I'm going to stay with him until I see what you have to say. Please help as I'm taking this very seriously. — Kriste, Alliance, Ohio

Kriste: Break up with this boy. It's the only fair thing to do. Relationships held together by sympathy and pity are very weak and seldom last too long.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20 in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DR. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 65 years old and just retired from the insurance business.

Recently I've been getting a dull choking pain above the breastbone, seemingly across both lungs. Could this be a lack of oxygen getting to the lungs? My heart charts show perfect function. Each day I exercise in my basement, skipping, etc., and never experience any pain or shortness of breath. However, as soon as I go outside and begin a normal walk of say 100 yards, the pain starts and varies according to the speed of walking. Occasionally, I feel some pins and needles in my toes and fingers which I understand is due to poor circulation.

DEAR READER — Anybody who has choking, dull pain in the chest should see his physician and have a good medical evaluation. It may or may not be associated with heart disease.

The fact that you have a normal electrocardiogram does not mean that you can't have heart pain. Many people who have intermittent heart pain have perfectly normal electrocardiograms while they are at rest. That's why doctors sometimes have to do more sophisticated tests to find out what's causing the chest discomfort. This might include electrocardiograms taken with exercise or, in certain cases, special X-rays of the coronary arteries, to the heart muscle.

Heart pain is not consistent. That's why it's so hard to tell from the story alone in many instances what a person has.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris, so you can have a better idea of the symptoms these problems cause. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Consumer Watch: Is there a doctor in the house?

Your family doctor is one of the most important people in your life, but it's often hard to find out where to get the best care. "There is an enormous variation in the quality of medical care in this country and that variation can mean the difference between life and death," writes John Pekkanen in the introduction to his recently published book, "The Best Doctors in the U.S. — A Guide to the Finest Specialists, Hospitals & Health Centers." George D. LeMaitre, a physician and the author of "How to Choose A Good Doctor," has a similar view. "A bad doctor can be a disaster in your life," he says. Most Americans still trust their doctors. A survey conducted by Yankelovich, Skelly and White Inc. for General Mills Inc. showed that 75 percent of the 1,254 families surveyed said they had a lot of confidence in doctors and the medical profession. At the same time, the public is concerned about some aspects of medicine. Four people out of five told Yankelovich, Skelly and White that they agreed, either strongly or partially, with the statement: "Many doctors are too quick to give medication these days." Finding a good doctor can be a complicated process. Do not wait until you are sick. Plan ahead.

A growing number of consumer groups publish guides to area doctors, including information on things like specialties, qualifications, fees and office hours. The guides provide a place to start, but you should follow up the general listings with individual investigations. You can begin with the Yellow Pages for a listing of internists and general practitioners. Ask the local medical society for names, but don't automatically exclude doctors who aren't on the list. Find out whether each doctor is board certified, meaning that he or she has passed a basic examination in a specific field. If you are hesitant about asking, check the local library for a copy of the "Directory of Medical Specialists." Pekkanen and LeMaitre agree that board certification is a minimum standard only; it is not a guarantee of quality. Find out where a doctor did his or her residency training after medical school. The best hospitals, says Pekkanen, are university-affiliated because the people who staff these hospitals are specifically in the business of teaching and training doctors. Check a doctor's reputation. Try to find out how he or she is regarded by colleagues, by local business and civic leaders.

Call the office of each doctor you are considering. If the receptionist is unfriendly or reluctant to take time to answer your questions, be careful. The doctor may have the same kind of attitude. Make preliminary visits to several doctors before you select one. How easy is the doctor to talk to? The best doctor in the world is useless if you are uncomfortable and unwilling to confide your problems. Ask about fees. How much is the charge for an office visit? Which tests and services cost extra?

Commissioners whiz through meeting
 The Gray County commissioner's court, with only five items on the agenda, adjourned after 45 minutes Friday morning in what was, possibly one of the shortest meetings on record. Commissioners unanimously approved the re-appointment of Dr. Will Beck as the county health officer for another two-year term. County Judge Carl Kennedy explained that although Beck was approved by the court, certain forms must still be filled out before state approval is granted.

Investors must change habits
 NEW YORK (AP) — Barring some unspeakable cataclysm, the stock market is likely to recover, but in order for it to happen just about all important investor categories must change their habits. Those habits have taken them far afield and into other investments during the past decade, leaving the popular stock market averages no higher than they were at the beginning of the decade. During that time the country's gross national product, or output of goods and services, doubled in size, at least when counted in current (inflated) dollars, the same dollars which measure stock prices. The money went elsewhere: into debt securities, money market mutual funds, pension fund reserves, real estate, gold and silver and various collectibles, including art. A good deal of it was simply spent. The percentage of household financial assets invested in equities fell from 38.8 percent in 1972 to just 23.9 percent this year. Individuals became disillusioned, lost their faith in the future, avoided risk. Something of the sort might have happened with private pension funds, too. In 1972 they had nearly 74 percent of their financial assets in equities; this year the percentage dropped to just over 54. Figures compiled by Merrill Lynch show the same pattern with state and local retirement funds. In 1972 they were 27.5 percent invested in stocks, compared with 22.2 percent this year. Life insurance companies showed the same pattern, falling from an 11.6 percent investment position in 1972 to 9.7 percent this year.

Pampa freshmen win at Borger

Pampa Gold opened the Borger Ninth-Grade Tournament last Friday night by defeating Canyon Purple, 52-46.

Pampa's Mike Nelson burned the nets for 40 points, hitting 16 field goals and 8 of 9 from the foul line. He also had a dozen rebounds.

The second game played Saturday was between Pampa and Borger Red with Pampa winning, 50-47. Nelson again led all scorers with 23 points. Randy Skaggs and Paul Prentice followed with 12 points apiece. Terry Ferguson, Phil Jeffery, Brad Knutson, and Dan Guerra also had good games, both offensively and defensively.

Pampa Gold edged Borger White in Saturday's finals, when Prentice scored with 11 seconds to go off an excellent pass from Nelson that caught the opposition off-guard.

Nelson, who shot a deadly 65 percent from the floor in the three tournament games, was high scorer with 24 points. He also collared 8 rebounds. Prentice had 11 points and 5 rebounds. Terry Ferguson, 4 points and 5 rebounds.

Pampa also got solid bench support from Todd Richardson, Cliff Baker, Kevin Ebenkamp, Glen Eggleston, Darin Rice, and Cecil Dowdy.

"The fans really turned out to support us," Pampa Coach Charlie Tindall said. "We had more people in the stands than Borger did."

Ivory converts Myraid into rodeo showplace

For the past 20 years, Buster Ivory of Pampa has been in charge of transforming rodeo arenas into a showplace for the National Finals Rodeo.

Ivory, who could be described as an "arena architect," has journeyed to Oklahoma City for the past 14 years to prepare the state fairgrounds for the NFR. Ivory returned to the same town to perform the transformation again this year, but this time it's at a different location.

The Myraid Convention Center in Oklahoma City is the new site for the NFR. The $23 million structure is named the Myraid because of the many different events staged there.

It took Ivory and his work crew less than two weeks to convert the building into the world's largest barn, but the planning started almost a year ago.

One of the first problems Ivory encountered was to find accommodations for the livestock. There were no barns nearby, only office buildings and parking lots. After making a thorough study of a detailed blueprint of the Myraid, Ivory decided that the giant Exhibition Hall just west of the main arena would house the bucking horses, bulls, steers, and calves. All of the horses used by the barrel racers, the calf and team ropers and steer wrestlers would be quartered in a similar hall on the east end of the arena.

Another headache for Ivory was deciding how to arrange the livestock pens. Unlike most rodeos which use only one contractor to supply the stock, the competition animals for the NFR are handpicked from various contractors.

Ivory decided to have all the pens constructed away from the walls to prevent them from being coated with dirt and manure. As an added precaution, the walls were covered with plastic. Eighty-five portable pens were constructed for the competition stock in the Exhibition Hall with each one having about 10 square feet of space for each animal.

Ivory, who was honored as "Man of the Year" by International Rodeo Fans in 1978, said the NFR was moved to the Myraid mainly because it provided more seating. Regardless of the reason, Ivory says, the Myraid makes the finest indoor rodeo facility in the United States.

Ivory should know. He's spent the past 40 years in the rodeo business, first as a contestant, then as a promoter, stock contractor, and producer.

It's nice to feel so good about a meal.

Petty rallies to win Winston Cup

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.—In one of the most dramatic comebacks in motorsports history, Richard Petty edged Darrell Waltrip for the 1979 NASCAR Winston Cup championship and piled up nearly $50,000 in bonuses from R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. along the way.

Petty's seventh Winston Cup title was worth a $25,000 bonus from Winston. The popular North Carolinian also wrapped up the second and third leg titles of the prestigious series, each worth $10,000, and he finished third in the first leg chase for another $4,000 in bonus money.

Going into the season-ending L.A. Times 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway three weekends ago, Petty trailed Waltrip by a mere two points in the overall title chase, but he led veteran Bobby Allison by 38 points in the battle for the third leg title.

When the dust cleared in California, Petty owned fifth place in the 500-mile event to seal the championship and the third leg although Allison finished second.

Petty's $35,000 in season-ending bonuses is tops, followed by Allison's $14,000.

Wheeler girls place third

Wheeler girls edged past McLean 40-38, Saturday to take third place in the Wheeler Basketball Tournament.

Missy Wiggins led Wheeler in scoring with 14 points. Teammates Beth Brown and Mona Jennings added 8 points each.

Jill Trew paced McLean with 16 points while Judy Trew had 8.

In the boys bracket, McLean defeated Briscoe, 57-46, to win the consolation championship. B. Melton was top scorer for McLean with 14 points while Randy Suggs followed with 12.

K. Meek topped the losers with 18.

Pampa travels to Plainview

Pampa Harvesters will attempt to rise above the .500 level tonight against Plainview.

Tipoff time is 7:45 p.m. at Plainview. The Harvesters evened their record at 3-3 with a narrow 48-46 win over Amarillo High Saturday night to claim third place in the Hereford Tournament.

At the same time tonight, Pampa's Lady Harvesters will try to snap back after a 78-39 loss to Amarillo High in the consolation title game at the Hereford Tournament.

Pampa's Kellye Richardson, who tallied 20 points against Amarillo, was named to the tournament's All-Star squad.

The Lady Harvesters enter the Clovis, New Mexico Cage Classic Thursday, meeting Clovis in first-round action at 8:30 p.m. A win would lift Pampa into the semi-finals against the Melrose-Mazano winner at 8:30 p.m. Friday, while a loss would send the Lady Harvesters against the loser at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

"The tournament will give the girls a chance to gain some new experience against new talent and new teams," Harvester Coach Mary Thomas said. "It will help us when we get ready for district."

Pampa and Hereford are the only Texas teams entered in the tournament.

UNIVERSITY OF Southern California running back Charles White gestures to the Heisman Trophy Monday during a news conference in Los Angeles after it was announced that White was selected as the 1979 recipient of the award as football's premier player. The last USC player to receive the Heisman was tailback Mike Garrett in 1964. White will receive his trophy later in New York.

White wins Heisman

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His coach describes 1979 Heisman Trophy winner Charles White as "a player who gives 100 percent even when he isn't carrying the football."

And there were doubts when the 185-pound tailback was injured in the season opener that he would even be in the running for the honor as the nation's outstanding collegiate football player. He missed the next game with a shoulder injury but came back to lead the nation's rushers with 1,803 yards.

"In his case, the main factor in winning the Heisman was his competitiveness," said Coach John Robinson, whose Trojans won the Pacific-10 title and rate second in the nation in The Associated Press poll.

"Check the final quarters of our games or when a game was in doubt, and you see the true value of Charles White."

White, a 21-year-old senior from nearby San Fernando, said he was so nervous about the Heisman poll "that I didn't sleep" on Sunday night.

"That's why I'm so jumpy today," the 6-foot tailback added, but his worries were needless.

He won 1,695 points to 773 for Oklahoma's Billy Sims, the Oklahoma runner seeking to repeat the Heisman honor he captured in 1978. Quarterback Marc Wilson of BYU was third with 589, but White had majority points in each of the six districts of voting.

"I came to Southern California wanting to make good and make a good impression of myself in growth," said White, who wants to beat Ohio State in the Rose Bowl, graduate in June with a degree in speech communications, and play professional football.

"I have come a long way in four years learning and learning about myself. I know now. I set my goals too high. The whole University of Southern California setup helped me."

White became the third Heisman Trophy winner from his school, joining Mike Garrett, who won in 1965, and O. J. Simpson, 1968.

In his four years, White gained 5,998 yards rushing and scored 48 touchdowns. He caught 57 passes for 534 yards. A year ago he finished fourth to Sims in the Heisman voting.

Sims was gracious in defeat. "My vote went in for Charles White before the season was over with," said Sims. "He worked his tail off this season."

This year, Ohio State quarterback Art Schlichter, the only non-senior among the top six finishers, was in fourth with 251 votes, followed by Notre Dame running back Vagas Ferguson, 162; Southern California quarterback Paul McDonald, 92; South Carolina running back George Rogers, 81; Purdue quarterback Mark Herrmann, 54; Florida State nose guard Ron Simmons, 41, and Alabama quarterback Steadman Shealy, 32.

Pampa JVs reach finals

Pampa's junior varsity fell to Borger JVs, 69-61, in overtime last weekend in the finals of the Borger Junior Varsity Tournament.

The Harvester JVs trailed by 13 points after three quarters, but used an aggressive defense to close the gap. Kirt Couch's last second tied the score at the end of regulation play.

Charles Nelson was Pampa's top scorer with 15 points while Arthur Williams added 12.

In the tournament opener, Pampa clobbered Hereford, 73-49, by utilizing a tight man to man defense that caused numerous turnovers.

Nelson led Pampa with 16 points followed by Jimmy Barker with 10.

In the semi-finals, Pampa JVs used a balanced scoring attack to rout the Borger Sophomores, 81-56.

Tony Faggins paced Pampa with 16 points while Ed Guerra and Nelson had 12 points each.

"It was a successful tournament for us because of an entire team effort," Pampa Coach Gary Haynes said.

Pampa Sophomores were also entered in the tournament.

They fell to Canyon JVs, 49-41, in the opener after leading by 7, 24-17, at halftime. Pampa had trouble handling Canyon's press the second half.

Romenyl Dowdy was high scorer for Pampa with 16, followed by Roy Britt with 10, and Troy Britt, 7.

Pampas sophomores used teamwork to defeat Canyon sophomores, 53-44 in the consolation bracket.

They were edged by Dumas, 40-37, for the consolation title despite a good team effort on both ends of the floor.

Texas plays who?

BOSTON (AP) — Fast-talking Abe Lemons and his University of Texas basketball team are far from home tonight.

"Remember," he reminds Harvard Coach McLaughlin, "we're playing to see who's best, not who's smartest."

The odd-couple basketball matchup at Boston Garden is the main attraction of a double-header. Boston College plays Fairfield in the 6:30 p.m. opener.

Lemons says he hasn't been in Boston since his Navy days in 1943 — when he prowled Scollay Square, then the burlesque district. Since then, in 25 years of college coaching, the 57-year-old humorist has won more than 400 games — two of every three he's coached.

His Longhorns tied for the Southwest Conference title last season, Lemons' third at Texas.

Nevertheless, the coach knows how to encourage an opponent, insisting at a media luncheon Monday that this year's Texas squad "looks like it can play, but can't."

Everyone laughed, but no one believed Lemons.

It's the first meeting — at least in a major sport — between Texas and Harvard. Its part of McLaughlin's campaign to build the Crimson program by scheduling high-quality opponents.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

December 5, 1979
 Before the year following your birthday ends, things will have turned out for you in a most fortunate way. Look for the unusual to happen at the most unexpected times.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 Just when you think nobody appreciates you, something important will come along today to reward you in a most generous fashion. You'll deserve it. Getting along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your Astro-Graph Letter, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 In dealing with another today you might have preconceived negative notions as to how this person will react. However, he or she will treat you more fairly than you surmised.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 That little extra effort you may be asked to put out today workwise is going to pay a larger dividend than you realize. Do your best.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 The chip on the other guy's shoulder isn't very big. With the least amount of effort on your part, you'll have this person purring in no time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Something in which you're involved will take a positive turn and work out nicer than you anticipated. Your fears are groundless.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 In a matter on which others are not so well informed as you, try not to be too influenced by their opinions. Your views are much more accurate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Although it may come as a surprise, your checkbook won't be as heavily dented as you assumed. Funds will stretch farther because of some unusual circumstances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Good things will be happening today to brighten your outlook and give you a much more optimistic perspective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Keep your hopes up. Conditions having an influence on your feelings of well-being and security are stirrily. They tell something good.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 You'll have much more luck today if you get others to go along with your ideas rather than going along with theirs. It won't be as difficult as you think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 A break comes today from an area you'd least expect, so be patient if at first things look dark. You could be celebrating by evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 An irritable situation could spur you to action you wouldn't ordinarily take. It will turn out to be an extremely wise and fortunate course to pursue.

Russia in command

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The United States was wondering today what happened to the home gymnasium advantage. Americans Bart Conner and Kurt Thomas, buoyed by a pro-American pep rally atmosphere in Tarrant County Convention Center, celebrated the first appearance of the World Gymnastics Championships outside of Europe Monday with a memorable display of precision in the compulsory events.

Following the afternoon session, Conner and Thomas were running 1-2 in the all-around and the Americans were just a notch behind defending champion Japan in the team title race.

Then, here came the Russians in the night session. Soviet superstar Nikolai Andrianov, the defending champion in the all-around, almost fell off the horizontal bar and suffered an embarrassing 9.1 mark in the event.

The Americans sensed an upset.

Then, here came 22-year-old Alexandre Ditiatin, picking up where the 27-year-old Andrianov, the "old man" of the Soviet team, left off.

Ditiatin was simply dazzling, particularly in the clutch. The potential heir to Andrianov's throne scored 9.9s in the final two events, the physically demanding rings and then the vault.

Andrianov saved face with the best mark of the day in the vault, a 9.95 that brought applause from the pro-USA crowd.

Ditiatin, the Soviet Union's No. 2 man in the 1978 World Championships in Strasbourg, France, finished with 58.900 points in the six compulsory events.

9th grade nips Dumas

James Cook sank two foul shots in the closing seconds to give the Pampa ninth graders a 31-29 win over Dumas Monday night in the PJHS gymnasium.

to go, but then Cook was fouled with 10 seconds left.

Steve Flaherty was Pampa's top scorer with 10 points while Jerry Godfrey added 9.

Pampa's next game is at Canyon White on Monday. Gametime is 4:30 p.m. Their next home again is against Borger Red Dec. 17.

That, apparently, is what Carnesecca has created at the New York City school. And the Redmen's basketball coach will have an even tougher time keeping the Redmen under wraps today, considering the heights that St. John's has

Shave and a haircut man

89-year-old Art Okuley has spent most of his life barbering in the small town of Continental, Ohio. In his seven decades of trimming hair, he has built up a large following. "I'm acquainted in four or five counties around here," he quips.

A seasoned but gentle touch with his scissors, Okuley trims an eyebrow of Aaron Miller, far right, one of his long-time customers.

Alex Ruhe, right, a farmer from the outskirts of town reads a copy of the Toledo Blade while waiting his turn in the barber's chair. The chairs in Okuley's shop have been there since Okuley bought the shop 65 years ago.

In today's world of high-fashion hair stylists for men, Okuley is an anachronism. But that doesn't stop him from giving good old-fashioned haircuts for "an old-fashioned buck."

Scene of concert deaths.

Eleven persons trampled to death

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I couldn't believe it. They could see the people all piled up and they still tried to climb over them just to get in," said one man who watched in horror as 11 persons died in a crushing human wave surging into Riverfront Coliseum for a rock concert by "The Who."

Police Lt. Col. Joseph Staff said seven young men and four young women were trampled and killed when the mob pushed into the hall on the Ohio River in a crush of bodies that continued for 30 minutes. Eight other persons were seriously injured, police said. Twenty more were treated at four hospitals and released.

The Monday night concert, which drew an audience of more than 18,000 people, went on as scheduled and "The Who" made no mention of the tragedy during their performance.

"We decided to let the concert go on. If we stopped it, we would have had a worse panic," said Lt. Dale Menkause who led 25 police officers in a crowd-control detail.

Menkause estimated that more than 6,000 people, some who had waited more than three hours, were crowded on the coliseum's plaza level waiting for the doors to open. Many had been drinking and smoking marijuana.

As at some past rock concerts, some seats were reserved, but about half were available on a first-come, first-served. Authorities said pushing incidents in the past had led to arrests.

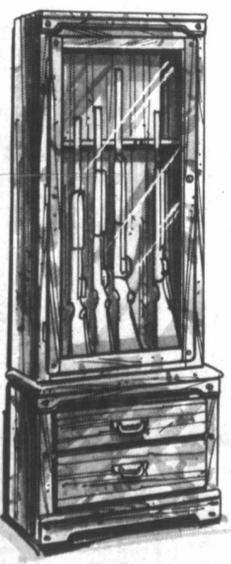

"The group likes to do a little sound test," Menkause said. When the crowd heard the music, it surged forward.

"They opened only two doors. They have about 50. I suggested they open more, but was told there wasn't enough personnel to open more," Menkause said.

Drill bits stolen

CANADIAN - Officers of the Amarillo Police Department arrested two suspects from Amarillo in connection with a stolen diamond drill bit, valued at $2,500.00. The bit was taken from a Hemphill County location last week.

Charged with a theft of over $10,000 were Gary Davis and Steve McPherson. Bond was set at $10,000 each.

Amarillo Police Department said the arrests were made in Amarillo last Saturday evening and the drill bit was recovered. The pair had apparently eluded all roadblocks from Canadian last Friday night.
