STATE RAILROAD BODY REFUSES HEARING CONTINUANCE

5-DAY PARLEY ON PRORATION COMES TO END

CENTRAL COMMITTEE ENDS ITS CASE FOR CURB WILL DECIDE TUESDAY

MAY CARRY CAUSE OF EAST TEXAS TO STATE COURT

AUSTIN, Mar. 28. (AP)—The railroad commission's oil production hearing was concluded late today after a request for a continuance by East Texas opposing prorators had been denied.

The hearing was on placing an initial curb on the production of the new East Texas pools as well as on setting an allowable production figure for the entire state. Today was the fifth day.

Wanted Continuance Those who opposed the prorators' case, headed by Paul Moody, former governor, did not put on a single witness. Moody, in asking for a continuance until April 8, stated there was some testimony he wanted to add but that it was at present unavailable.

The central prorators committee, which had recommended a daily allowable for the state for the next six months of from $98,000 to $99,000 barrels and for the new East Texas area of from $6,000 to 70,000 barrels, voted its case without argument of counsel.

Moody's lawyers who spoke for the anti-prorators were W. Dewey Lawrence, former assistant attorney general, Tom Beaman, M. P. Bessie, R. H. Henderman, brother of present attorney general, and Charles F. Harty of Oklahoma.

Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, an operator in the North Texas district, also made an argument to the commission. He urged that prorators be put on a sound economic basis in every section of the state or we go away with this so-called proration.

Hunter stated that prorators should be either abandoned or made to apply equally to all districts. He said the Texas pool, one of the largest in Texas, had not been prorated below its maximum without physical wastage. He appealed to the commission to exempt the small wells from prorations. He suggested the commission be given more funds to carry on its work.

PRINCE IN OIL

By NEA Service HOUSTON, March 28. (AP)—Smearing and grimy with oil, a new driller mingled with the rough-and-ready crews of Raccoon Bend in the oil fields near here. Fellow-workmen knew him as Don Kadjar, and they liked him, for he was an agreeable, hard-working young chap eager to learn the oil drilling game.

Imagine their surprise recently when they learned by accident—when a companion found his lost identification card—that the young stranger is really Prince Kadjar, descendant of a long line of shahs and the heir-apparent to the Persian throne. His own grandfather, Shah Kadjar, ruled many years.

Then the young man's strange story began to come out. When he was in school in Paris, his family's government was overthrown, and, realizing that the oil business is to be increasingly important in Persia, he resolved to learn it. So he came to America.

Young Kadjar might set himself up as claimant to his country's throne if he chose, but he prefers to learn the oil business. He says he can be of more service to Persia as an experienced oil man than as shah. "There is need for a Mohammedan in Persia to work the fields near Mount Ararat," he says. "I expect to return there and be of service to my people."

Kadjar is a Mohammedan, a descendant of the Agha Mohammed who conquered Persia in 1794. His family reigned until a young army captain overthrew it in a revolution, making exiles of its members.

FIVE CHILDREN DIE IN TRAGEDY

PLANES CARRY CHILD VICTIMS TO HOSPITALS

LITTLE ONES FROZEN TO DEATH AS BUS IS STALLED

DRIVER LEAVES FOR AID

RANCHER DISCOVERS CAR WITH SCHOOL CHILDREN

TOWNER, Colo., March 28. (AP)—Racing against time, darkness and death, two cabin monoplane were on a frantic mission of mercy late today as they carried pneumonia-stricken child survivors of Towner's bus tragedy in relay flights to a hospital at Lamar, Colo.

Five children died from freezing and exposure and others who survived the 36-hour ordeal in the howling blizzard of Thursday and Friday that hit southeastern Colorado are suffering with pneumonia and severe frost bite.

Continue Flights Five of those afflicted with pneumonia had been taken to the Lamar hospital today but little hope was held for their recovery. The ships were to continue the flights until all were in the hospital.

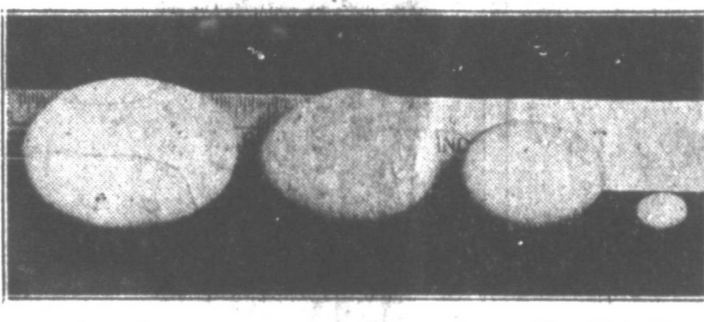

The driver of the bus, Carl Miller, was the object of an airplane search in the southeastern Colorado farming district. Miss Maude Moser, the school teacher, who attempted to walk from the school to her home in last Thursday's blizzard, was found today at a farm home where she had taken refuge.

Five Are Victims Mary Miller, the bus driver's daughter; Orlo Untiedt, Louise Stopebaker, Robert Brown and Kenneth Johnson, ranging in age from 8 to 14 years, were the victims of the sub zero weather.

Miller left the Towner school at 10:30 o'clock last Thursday morning when the school was closed because of the storm. Less than three miles away the driver was unable to see ahead in the snow and attempted to turn back. His bus struck a fence post and stalled. Until early yesterday morning Miller remained with the children, then started out afoot to summon help.

Snow covered up his tracks and he never reached a telephone. Three Die in Bus During the day three children died of exposure. Others became hysterical and one by accidently knocked out a window of the bus. In an effort to keep warm the children burned up the seats in the bus. They had lost most of their food when the bus stalled against the fence, and when exhaustion overtook them they huddled together and fell asleep.

PANHANDLE WILL BE HOST TO THIRD ANNUAL GUERNSEY SHOW

GRAY COUNTY AGENT IS IN CHARGE OF JUDGING

PANHANDLE, Mar. 28. (Special)—Why Carson county calls itself "The Guernsey Center of the Southwest" will be a sight for the Panhandle of Texas to see here next Wednesday when the Third Annual Guernsey show opens for a three-day run.

Moreover, why Carson county citizens have printed on their stationery, sign boards and what-not, "Guernseys—our greatest claim to distinction," will be sufficiently explained in the hundred head of the aristocratic farm and white cattle which will be exhibited at the show. Incidentally, the Guernsey exhibit will be the largest ever shown in the Southwest. Last year, the Carson county show included 59 Guernseys.

Ralph Thomas, county agent of Gray county, will be in charge of the judging. He will be assisted by R. R. Walker, dairy specialist of Amarillo, and Frank Ford, assistant county agent of Potter county. A feature of the show will be the judging contests, open to vocational agricultural students of the Panhandle and South Plains. The following teams have already entered: Tulsa, Tulsa, Pampa, Wellington, Hereford, Panhandle, Miami, Okmude and Stinnett, according to Dr. Geo. P. Grout, famous breeder.

The county herd which will be selected at this show will be shipped to Plainview to compete in the Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy show to be held at Plainview the week beginning April 6. The Panhandle Chamber of Commerce will charter one car for transportation of the winners to the show.

Three silver cups, 21 gold medals, and ribbons will be given to winners, as follows: silver cups, grade Guernsey over six months shown by schoolboy; Guernsey judging team, Panhandle boys excluded; get of sire (four animals, either sex, get of one registered bull). Gold medals, Advanced Registry bull, vocational grade heifer, six months; grade Guernsey, three years old and under four; grade Guernsey, four years old and over; second best get of sire; grade Guernsey dairy herd, consisting of pure-bred sire and four grade females; Guernsey bull, three years old and over; bull, two years old and under three; bull, eighteen months old and under two years; bull, one year old and under eighteen months; bull, under six months; bull, dropped.

ELEVEN DEAD AS BLIZZARD STAGES EXIT

MANY ARE SUFFERING FROM EFFECTS OF COLD SPELL

FRUIT CROP IS RUINED

MID-SOUTH IS MENACED AS STORM CONTINUES ON ITS WAY

(By the Associated Press) The blizzard in Rocky Mountain and plains states began today to permit its story of death, suffering and damage to be told. Eleven were dead including five children found frozen to death in a stalled school bus near Towner, Colo. Five were missing and believed to have perished. Scores were in a serious condition from frost-bite and exposure.

The dead included besides the children, Levi Doty, 56, sheepherder near Riverton, Wyo.; Fred Snyder, 44, who died in a tourist cabin at Kit Carson, Colo.; Miss Fern Terrill, 72, frozen in a one room shack near Cheyenne, Wyo., Colo.; and unidentified man whose body was found abandoned home at Roggen, Colo.; a man, 35, believed to be Charles Cicic of Quincy, Ill. found frozen to death north of Hannibal, Mo.; S. E. S. Huso, of Mankato, Minn., who perished after his car was wrecked in blizzard storm.

Driver Missing Among the missing was Carl Miller, driver of the bus in which the five Towner, Colo., children died and from which 18 others were taken in a critical condition. He had tried to find aid, near Max, Neb., a hundred searchers were trying to find Boy Edwards, 7, caught by the storm on his way home from school. Charles Beach, 50, a sheepherder, has been missing since Wednesday in the vicinity of South Casper, Wyo.

A husband of children, missing with John Doll, driver, since Thursday morning, near Sheridan Lake, Colo., was found safe at a farm home today. Twenty children and their teacher were rescued from a schoolhouse at Horace, Kan., which they had spent two days and a night. Charles Fitzgerald, substitute mail carrier, was found alive but suffering keenly in his stalled automobile 16 miles from Lexington, Neb.

As the real story of human death and suffering began to be told and physicians and charity agencies were mobilized for relief in a wide area including Wyoming, Colorado, South Dakota, Nebraska, and the western parts of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, stockmen began to learn the fate of their herds on the ranges. Cattle were found by hundreds standing in snowdrifts, frozen to death. It was impossible to estimate the thousands of head lost in the storm area.

In the southern part of the storm area where fruit trees were most advanced, it was reported that the peach, apricot and other stone-fruit crops were ruined and that the crop of early apples would be slim. The storm moved farwise to northeast, east and southeast today. It was moving and freezing in Oklahoma and Texas. The mid-south states of Arkansas, Tennessee and Louisiana reported rain, snow flurries and near-freezing cold.

Fire Department Gets False Alarm

A false alarm drew firemen out of their beds at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning to the east edge of the city where the fire truck they were riding was stopped by a snowbank. About a mile away to the east they could see the reflection of a blaze which later turned out to be a burning gas torch. The only regret the firemen had was that the ground was covered with snow. The fire truck was pulled out of the drift by a wrecker that had followed them.

Big Proposition Given Majority In Gray County

Pampa Has Landslide for Proposal; LeFors Sets Record With 231 For and Only One Against Paying

Gray county voters went to the polls Saturday and decisively approved a $2,250,000 road paving bond issue designed to end for all time the "mud era" well illustrated following the snowstorm. The vote was 1,482 for the bonds and 454 against them.

The unofficial vote by precincts:		For	Against
1. LEFORS		231	1
2. PAMPA (South Pampa)		222	73
3. KNORPP		20	73
4. ALANREED		31	32
5. M'LEAN		159	65
6. LAKETON		14	54
7. FARRINGTON		2	12
8. HOPKINS		3	26
9. PAMPA (1st Natl. Bank)		244	29
10. PAMPA (Courthouse)		507	76
11. KINGSMILL		49	13
TOTALS		1482	454

Enthusiastic citizens filled the office of THE NEWS-POST last night and waxed jubilant as the quickly assembled returns showed that the bonds had passed. An "extra" placed on the streets within a few minutes after the polls closed was eagerly received. The NEWS-POST telephone rang incessantly until after midnight. Citizens of all parts of the county and of other counties were among those who asked for news of the election. Telegrams from metropolitan newspapers showed how keen was the statewide interest in the big issue.

Gray county never before was so united in a bond proposal. It was the sixth bond election in the last six years and the fourth in the last twelve months. The original countywide issue failed in 1926, but was followed by the $250,000 precinct 4 issue and the $400,000 issue in the Pampa precinct. Last year two precinct 2 issues and one huge countywide proposition lost. The successful election Saturday entailed the combined judgment of citizens of all parts of the county, assembled through the activity of the highway committee of the Board of City Development.

All day long, despite the mud and snow, interested citizens, oil company superintendents and others helped to get out the vote. As a result of the affirmative voting, Gray county will spend in the next 2 years an estimated total of $2,250,000 for good roads. The state highway department had promised immediate work on plans and specifications of that actual construction may start as soon as the bonds are sold and the money made available. Gray county will receive nearly a million dollars in state and federal aid. The unemployment problem is expected to disappear when nearly $3,000,000 is released to common laborers.

The bond total was divided in the election call as follows: $627,000 to retire bonds in precincts 2 and 4; $800,000 for the purpose of paving the following county roads: completion of Berger road west to county line, completion of Miami road north from Pampa to county line, and building of road from McLean and Alanreed through LeFors to Pampa.

The Highway 33 from Pampa to the Carson county line will be paved at once under a state contract let to Stuckey Construction company.

MEMPHIS WILL BE HOSTESS AT APRIL MEETING

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH IS SELECTED FOR HEADQUARTERS

With the advent of spring there is evidence of a newness of life and activity among the club women of the Seventh district Texas Federation of Women's clubs. All interests are now centered on the coming convention to be held in Memphis, April 13 to 15. The First Baptist church will be convention headquarters. The sessions of the convention will be held in the auditorium of that church while the luncheons and the dinner will be served in the church basement.

A program dealing with many of the outstanding phases of club life is nearing completion. Assignment of technical subjects has been given to speakers specialized in such lines. The life and progress of the district will be reflected in the reports brought by the chairmen of the 15 specific assignments during the day by the reports of the individual clubs composing the Seventh district.

Mrs. J. T. Whitmore is serving the second year of her term of office as president. The Seventh district was the winner of two prizes at the state meeting in Houston last November. A prize to Mrs. W. P. Axtell, chairman of junior membership, for the best work done in that realm, and another prize to Mrs. Tillman Jones, first vice-president, for bringing next to the greatest number of clubs into the federation. Honorable mention was also made by a member of the state chairman of the highly satisfactory work done by Seventh district chairmen.

Mrs. W. F. Lindsey, state president, will be an honored guest of the convention. She will deliver an address on the subject of "The Permanent Character of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Texas." Other distinguished guests will be: Mrs. W. R. Foster, past state president, new state chairman of committee on State Loan scholarships; Mrs. R. G. Lee of Cisco and Mrs. J. W. Fincher of Houston, both of whom are seeking election to the office of state president.

"Citizenship at the Cross Roads" will be the theme of the principal address given by Mrs. Whitmore at the Memphis meeting. Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, will bring a message of cordial welcome. "America's Original Ideals Be Destroyed" Mrs. L. A. Wells of Amarillo will speak on "The History of the State Federation." "Safe Milk Supplies of Texas" will be the theme of Herbert Hays, representative of the state department of health.

Miss Edith Smith of the Texas State library and historical commission, will speak on "Library Progress." "America for Americans" will be the theme of an address by Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner. Miss Edna K. Dwyer of the department of education in Texas Technological college will address the convention on "What Constitutes Public Opinion."

The fine arts program will be given on Tuesday evening, beginning at 8:30. Mrs. R. B. Masterson Jr. has charge. A score card has been sent to every club in the district and Mrs. Whitmore's committee is endeavoring to make the highest record according to this score card. Miss Edna Bryan of Memphis, chairman of the division of Americanization and citizenship training, will give an award of $5 to the club sending the best report in her division.

Whitmore's committee offers a prize of $10 to the senior club doing the most effective work with junior clubs. She will also give a handsome picture for the best report by a junior club. The annual singing contest directed by Mrs. C. F. Smith of Amarillo enlists a wide-spread interest. This will be a feature of Tuesday afternoon's session. The reward for the winning group will be the title to the living cup for a period of six months.

The board luncheon will be given at 12 o'clock on Monday in the home of Mrs. Charles Shawler. This will be for the first time since the inception of the board luncheon. The board luncheon will be followed by the board meeting at 1:30. The formal opening of the convention will be at 2 o'clock and the afternoon will be utilized principally in reports of officers and committees. At 5 o'clock the guests of the convention will have opportunity to meet the women of Memphis and enjoy their delightful hospitality in a tea to be given in the home of Mrs. Greene. This event will be followed by the president's evening program at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Tillman Jones of Post presiding.

On Tuesday at high noon luncheon will be served by the department of the American home, with Mrs. Roy Guthrie as hostess, and Mrs. J. A. Hill presiding. Instead of the annual dinner honoring the district president, there will be an all club president dinner Tuesday at 5 p. m. with Mrs. R. A. Bryant acting as hostess, and Mrs. W. P. Axtell, presiding. A well planned program will be given. The decorative effect will suggest an old-fashioned garden.

The report of the nominating committee and the invitation to the 1932 meeting, will be two events of major importance on Wednesday morning. At 12 o'clock luncheon will be served by the department of American citizenship, with Mrs. J. B. Chittwood, hostess, and Mrs. J. S. Gessinger presiding.

LITTLE THEATER TO PRESENT PLAYS

MYSTERY FARCE AND COMEDY-DRAMA SELECTED

Not many groups offer better opportunities for character study than the cast of a Little theater play, according to Thos. Elmore Luce, directing the current productions of Pampa Little theater. The two one-act plays to be presented at an early date are highly diverting, and are new to Pampa. "The Open Gate," the Madison Chambers play, is an old-time romantic comedy drama, described as "a beautiful story of long ago," and "Wearin' of the Green," by Mrs. S. W. 'tis, is a rollicking farce-comedy in a plot having a touch of mystery and a surprising climax.

Beautiful diction characterizes "The Open Gate." The fact that there are no star-parts assures balance and proportion, and all parts of the players are trained historians. Mrs. Curtis Douglas, a teacher of expression and play director, has a beautiful, resonant, grand voice, as has also Mrs. E. M. Conley, and both of the women have beautiful personalities. They play respectively "Jessie" and "Aunt Hettie," while the roles of "Uncle John" and "Garth" are carried by Willard Victoria, one of the select players of "submerged," the high school tournament play, and Alex Rainouard, a handsome juvenile, who has had successful experience in local dramatics.

The setting will be attractive, a double scene, the stage being divided and the action taking place both on the interior of a cottage and in the garden exterior. A beautiful story is told in action as the characters enter and exit from the stage.

"Wearin' of the Green" is the story of a fancy costume ball at a fashionable home in New York, and offers a colorful, fantastic and whimsical contrast to the other play. There are 16 speaking characters, and although most of them are mere "bits," each is distinctive type, and the rehearsals have been successful.

POSTERS TO BE EXHIBITED IN PERRYTON

LOCAL FOLK TO HAVE CHARGE OF HEALTH BOOTH

An interesting feature of the P-T-A conference to be held in Perryton April 1, 2, and 3 will be the health posters made by children of the local ward schools as well as other schools in Gray county. Two poster contests, one for local pupils and one for other pupils of the county was begun in November with Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar and Miss Bess Killough in charge.

To stimulate interest in health habits by making attractive and pleasing posters was announced as the purpose of the contests. Contest judges, appointed by Mrs. George Wallace, president of the Pampa A.H. League, consisted of Mrs. O. H. Bond, chairman; Mrs. A. B. Goldston, and Mrs. Jack Masch.

The health booth, directed by Mrs. Hunkapillar and Miss Killough, is to contain the best poster from each school room in the county. In addition to overseeing the booth, Mrs. Hunkapillar is on the program to speak on the summer round-up and Miss Killough is to assist with health demonstration.

A health luncheon is to be given on the third day of the conference in honor of the district health chairman.

Health work in the schools is being stressed by the Gray county P-T-A council. The council is encouraging summer round-up and is attempting to create a well-coming leading up to a full-time health nurse.

LILLIAN MAYDEN WINS AMONG PAMPA PUPILS IN POSTER CONTEST

Lillian Mayden, low sixth grade pupil of Mrs. M. K. Griffith, Horace Mann school, has been announced as winner in the health poster contest recently closed in the Pampa public schools. Encouragement in the contest was given by the Horace Mann P-T-A, and it was sponsored by all P-T-A's of the city.

The winning poster, in free hand coloring, represents a farm scene. In the distance white clouds are seen above green trees, chickens are feeding in the barnyard, a cow is looking out through the window of the barn. In the foreground two boys, dressed in overalls, are filling a milk bottle.

Lillian was born in Denton, Feb. 18, 1917. She is the second daughter in a family of two boys and four girls. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Mayden. She entered school at Denton, September, 1924. In 1927 the family moved to Shamrock where they remained until October, 1930, when they moved to Pampa, where Lillian entered the high fifth grade of Horace Mann school.

In every phase of school work she shows a spirit of willingness and industry. As a member of the council, in student government, she is outstanding. She is a leader in playground work among smaller children.

GIRL FROM LEFORS IS WINNER IN COUNTY HEALTH POSTER EVENT

Peggy Madelle Strong, fifth grade pupil in the Lefors public school, has been announced as the winner of the Gray county health poster contest, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association. The contest was under the management of Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar and Miss Bess Killough of Pampa. Peggy, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Strong of LePore, has shown unusual talent along the art line all through school, and she is also alert in her other school work. Peggy has the ability, unusual in one so young, of being able to picture almost exact likenesses of persons and things about her. The winning poster was a picture of a kitten drinking cream, and above it was the slogan, "Kitty Knows Best." Peggy has been in the LePore school for three years, and has always had much of her work sent into the exhibit. Her art teachers this year were Mrs. Charlotte Calvert and Miss Ruth Darnall.

Holstein Record Is Set in Randall

CANYON, March 28. (AP)—A two-year-old Holstein, Mi. Riga of the H. B. Hales herd in Randall county, is said by County Agent W. H. Upchurch to have set a new state record for Holstein cows of class B. During a 365-day period, Mi. Riga produced 16,984.8 pounds of milk and 643.6 pounds of butter fat. The old record, Upchurch said, was 16,625 pounds of milk and 516.4 pounds of butter fat. The cow has produced as high as 60 pounds of milk a day. Her record is being checked by the National Holstein association.

Mi. Riga was purchased from an Oklahoma herd for a calf club project. She has won first place in her class at the Panhandle-Plains Dairy show, Ft. Worth, and the Tri-State fair, Amarillo. She has been on the honor roll of the Randall County Herd Improvement association 12 consecutive months.

SCHOOL HEADS

MEMPHIS WILL BE HOSTESS AT APRIL MEETING

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH IS SELECTED FOR HEADQUARTERS

With the advent of spring there is evidence of a newness of life and activity among the club women of the Seventh district Texas Federation of Women's clubs. All interests are now centered on the coming convention to be held in Memphis, April 13 to 15. The First Baptist church will be convention headquarters. The sessions of the convention will be held in the auditorium of that church while the luncheons and the dinner will be served in the church basement.

A program dealing with many of the outstanding phases of club life is nearing completion. Assignment of technical subjects has been given to speakers specialized in such lines. The life and progress of the district will be reflected in the reports brought by the chairmen of the 75 specific assignments of duty and by the reports of the individual clubs composing the Seventh district. Mrs. J. T. Whitmore is serving the second year of her term of office as president.

The Seventh district was the winner of two prizes at the state meeting in Houston last November, a prize to Mrs. W. F. Averitt, chairman of junior membership for the best work done in that realm, and another prize to Mrs. Tillman Jones, first vice-president, for bringing next to the greatest number of clubs into the federation. Honorable mention was also made by a member of the state chairman of the highly satisfactory work done by Seventh district chairmen. Mrs. W. F. Lindsey, state president, will be an honored guest of the convention. She will deliver an address on the subject of "The Permanent Headquarters of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs at Austin." Other distinguished guests will be Mrs. W. E. Foster, past state president, new state chairman of committee on State Loan scholarships; Mrs. R. G. Lee of Chicago and Mrs. J. W. Fincher of Houston, both of whom are seeking election to the office of state president.

"Citizenship at the Cross Roads" will be the theme of the principal address given by Mrs. Whitmore at the Memphis meeting. Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, will bring a message on the subject, "If America's Original Ideals Be Destroyed." Mrs. L. A. Wells of Amarillo will speak on "The History of the State Federation." "Safe Milk Supplies of Texas" will be the theme of Herbert Haggis, representative of the state department of health. Miss Edna Sue Gore of the Texas State library and historical commission, will speak on "Library Progress." "America for Americans" will be the theme of an address by Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner. Miss Bonchard, representative of the Texas education in Texas Technological college will address the convention on "What Constitutes Public Opinion."

The fine arts program will be given on Tuesday evening, beginning at 8:30. Mrs. R. B. Masterson Jr. has charge. The Open Gate, a play, has been sent to the club by the district and Mrs. Whitmore offers a prize of $5 to the club making the highest report according to this score card. Miss Edna Bryan of Memphis, chairman of the division of Americanization and citizenship training, will give an award of $5 to the club sending the best report in her division of work. Miss Edna also offers a prize of $10 to the senior club doing the most effective work with junior clubs. She will also give a handsome picture for the best report by a junior club. The annual singing contest directed by Mrs. C. F. Smith of Amarillo entails a widespread interest. This will be a feature of Tuesday afternoon's session. The reward for the winning group will be the title to the loving cup for a period of six months.

The board luncheon will be given at 12 o'clock on Monday in the home of Mrs. Charles E. Shaw. This luncheon will be the last of the year and will be followed by the board meeting at 1:30. The formal opening of the convention will be at 2 o'clock and the afternoon will be utilized principally in reports of officers and committees. At 5 o'clock the guests of the convention will have opportunity to meet the women of Memphis and enjoy their delightful hospitality in a tea to be given in the home of Mrs. Greene. This event will be followed by the president's evening program at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Tillman Jones of Post presiding. On Tuesday at high noon luncheon will be served by the department of the American home, with Mrs. Roy Guthrie as hostess, and Mrs. J. A. Hill presiding. In stead of the annual dinner honoring the district president, there will be an all club president dinner Tuesday at 6 p. m. with Mrs. A. W. Bryan acting as hostess, and Mrs. W. F. Averitt, presiding. A well planned program will be given. The decorative gifts will suggest an old-fashioned garden.

By Fred's Studio.

Two outstanding educators of Gray county are shown above. Miss Josephine Thomas is principal of Horace Mann school, Pampa, and E. G. Sanders is the LeFors school superintendent. These schools have been particularly active in P. T. A. work, and children from P. T. A. won in the two poster contests recently sponsored by the Parent-Teacher associations of Gray county.

LITTLE THEATER TO PRESENT PLAYS

MYSTERY FARCE AND COMEDY-DRAMA SELECTED

Not many groups offer better opportunities for character study than the cast of a Little Theater play, according to Thos. Elmore Lucy, directing the current productions of Pampa Little theater. The two one-act plays to be presented at an early date are highly diverting, and are new to Pampa. "The Open Gate," the Hudson Chambers play, is an old-time romantic comedy-drama, described as "a beautiful idyll of long ago," and "Wearin' of the Green," by Mary S. Watts, is a rollicking farce-comedy with a plot having a touch of mystery and a surprise climax.

Beautiful diction characterizes "The Open Gate." The fact that there are no star parts assures balance and proportion, and all parts of the players are trained historically. Mrs. Curtis Douglas, a teacher of expression and play director, has a beautiful resonant orotund voice, as has also Mrs. E. M. Conley, and both of the women have beautiful personalities. They play respectively "Jessie" and "Aunt Hetty," while the roles of "Uncle John" and "Garth" are carried by Willard Victoria, one of the select players of "submerged," the high school tournament play, and Alex E. Rainouard, a handsome juvenile, who has had successful experience in local dramatics.

The setting will be attractive, a double scene, the stage being divided and the action taking place both on the interior of a cottage and in the garden exterior. A beautiful story is told in action as the characters enter and exit from the cottage. "Wearin' of the Green" is the story of a fancy costume ball at a fashionable home in New York, and offers a colorful, fantastic and whimsical contrast to the other play. There are 16 speaking characters, and although most of them are mere "bits," each is a distinctive type, and the rehearsal has been successful.

WASHINGTON INDORSES SHORTER SLEEVES FOR WARM WEATHER

By SUE McNAMARA
WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP) — Short sleeves are being prominently featured in spring style shows here. Mindful of last summer's heat, wives of cabinet members and other officials who will be late getting away to the mountains and seashore are wearing waiflike blouses with an eye to comfort. Realizing that the style show stressed the short sleeve.

It is revealed even in the omnipresent jacket suit. The one-piece dress or blouse worn beneath the jacket invariably has a short sleeve ending midway between the shoulder and elbow. The suits are made of such materials as marcella, spongy crepe, unpressed tweed and imported crepe veil. Colors range from porcelain blue to coral. Checks are in high favor and red hats and matching bags to accompany almost any shade of dress are a smart spring fashion note.

ARE WINNERS

Above are shown Lillian Mayden and Peggy Strong, winners of the two health poster contests which have just closed in Gray county. Lillian, above, a pupil at Horace Mann school, won in the Pampa contest, while Peggy Strong of LeFors, below, won among all other schools of the county. The contests were sponsored by Parent-Teacher associations.

A. L. PATRICK ACTS AS TOASTMASTER FOR OCCASION

Although speech is their specialty, members of the Pampa Little Theater and their guests were silent for 15 minutes Saturday evening. Thus the unique opening of the Little Theater banquet, held at the Masters cafe, was solely pantomime. Appropriate decorations gave added interest to the table, where places were laid for 50. A. L. Patrick, president of the organization, was master of ceremonies.

A classic pot was given the occasion through the willing scene from Shakespeare's Richard III presented by Mrs. Helen Turner and Thomas Elmore Lucy. Mr. Lucy's costumes was imported. This was followed with a vocal solo by Joe Binford, a song and dance by Joyce Turner, and a violin solo by Prof. Otto Schick.

Florence Sue Dodson entertained the group with a Dix Hopkins selection.

Of particular interest [was the marriage of Miss Pampa Texas and General Prosperity. Characters included General Prosperity, played by Supt. John B. Hessay; the bride, W. B. Weathered; lawyer for General Depression, Emmett Smith; lawyer for General Prosperity, Therman Harris; officiating minister, the Rev. James Todd.

OUTSTANDING WORK IS DONE BY HORACE MANN P-TA IN SCHOOL YEAR

The Horace Mann Parent-Teacher association, under the leadership of Mrs. W. E. Ferguson, president, and Mrs. W. H. Widgen, chairman of the finance committee, has raised a total of $274.50 this year. The money has been used for various things needed in the school. The most recent acquisition was a large victrola.

The health committee, with Mrs. E. G. Anderson as chairman, is active in securing food for families who have smallpox. Appetizing plate lunches are being served at the school by the health posters made by children of the local ward schools as well as other schools in Gray county. Two poster contests, one for local pupils and one for other pupils of the county, were held in November.

Lillian Mayden, low sixth grade pupil of Mrs. M. K. Griffith, Horace Mann school, has been announced as winner in the health poster contest recently closed in the Pampa public schools. Encouragement in the contest was given by the Horace Mann P. T. A. and it was sponsored by all P. T. A.'s of the city.

The winning poster, in free hand cutting, depicts a farm scene. In the distance white clouds are seen above green trees, children are feeding in the barnyard, a cow is looking out through the window of the barn, in the foreground two boys, dressed in denim, are filling a milk bucket.

Lillian was born in Ontario, Feb. 18, 1917. She is the second daughter in a family of two boys and four girls. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. I. Z. Mayden. She entered school at Denton, September, 1924. In 1927 the family moved to Shamrock where they remained until October, 1930, when they moved to Pampa, where Lillian entered the high fifth grade of Horace Mann school.

POSTERS TO BE EXHIBITED IN PERRYTON

LOCAL FOLK TO HAVE CHARGE OF HEALTH BOOTH

An interesting feature of the P. T. A. conference to be held in Perryton April 1, 2, and 3 will be the health posters made by children of the local ward schools as well as other schools in Gray county. Two poster contests, one for local pupils and one for other pupils of the county, were held in November.

To stimulate interest in health habits by making attractive and pleasing posters was announced as the purpose of the contests.

Contest judges, appointed by Mrs. George Wallace, president of the Pampa Art League, consisted of Mrs. O. H. Booth, chairman; Mrs. A. B. Goldston, and Mrs. Jack Mason.

The health booth, directed by Mrs. Hunkapillar and Miss Kilgough, is to contain the best poster from each school room in the county. In addition to overseeing the booth, Mrs. Hunkapillar is on the program to speak on the summer round-up and Miss Kilgough is to assist with health demonstration.

A health luncheon is to be given on the third day of the conference in honor of the district health chairman.

Health work in the schools is being stressed by the Gray county P. T. A. council. The council is encouraging summer round-ups and is attempting to create a sentiment leading up to a full-time health nurse.

HEALTH WORK

CHILDREN INSPECTED EACH DAY BY TEACHERS

Health work in the schools has been the cause of fewer epidemics this year among school children. This is due to the splendid cooperation of the teachers in sending any child home who shows signs of illness. Daily morning inspection of all the grade school children makes it possible for these illnesses to be detected the first thing in the morning.

Credit for the school health work is attributed in a large part to local Parent-Teacher associations. Advancing the need for such work was one of the major projects of the associations last year.

Defects Observed
The various things observed during the inspection are sores, cuts, or a rash on arms, face, or chest, to note evidence of eye strain, sties, pink eyes, tonsillitis, swollen glands, cold cough, round shoulders, stooping curvatures, neatness of clothing and cleanliness of teeth.

In order that no child be allowed to return to school after an infectious disease, no child who has been out three days or more may return to school without a certificate from his physician saying it is all right for him to attend school. The physicians have cooperated with the schools by not charging for this service, therefore making it possible to require this certificate.

Health has been taught as a part of every subject that is intrinsically related to health education. However, no matter how adequately the elements of other subjects and activities contributing to health education are brought out and used, there has been a check list of course of study of health instruction materials for each grade. No time allowances or claims of other subjects have been allowed to crowd out sufficient time for appropriate health instruction.

The three most important health habits which have been stressed this year are those concerning eating, sleeping, and elimination. These habits are properly established at an early age, many of the behavior patterns which lead to poor mental and physical health will be avoided.

When a child becomes ill at school his parents are notified to come after him if they can be located, and if not a car from the school bus barn is called to take the child home. While waiting to be carried home the child is taken from his classroom so that if he is developing an infectious disease the others will not be exposed.

Each month every child in the grades is weighed and measured. This is done to measure the interest of the child and the child's parents. It offers a means by which the child may be brought to understand the cause and effect relationships between healthful living and normal growth. It gives the child a goal toward which he may strive.

GIRL FROM LEFORS IS WINNER IN COUNTY HEALTH POSTER EVENT

Peggy Modelle Strong, fifth grade pupil in the LeFors public school, has been announced as the winner of the Gray county health poster contest sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association. The contest was under the management of Mrs. G. T. Hunkapillar and Miss Bess Kilgough of Pampa. Peggy, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Strong of LeFors, has shown unusual talent along the art line all through school, and she is also active in her other school work. Peggy has the ability, unusual in one so young, of being able to picture almost exact likenesses of persons and things about her. The winning poster was a picture of a kitten drinking cream, and above it was the slogan, "Kitty Knows Best." Peggy has been in the LeFors school for three years, and has always had much of her work sent into the county. Her art teachers this year were Mrs. Charlotte Calvert and Miss Ruth Darnall.

Holstein Record Is Set in Randall

CANYON, March 28. (AP) — A two-year-old Holstein, Mt. Riga, of the H. B. Hales herd in Randall county, is said by County Agent W. H. Upchurch to have set a new state record for Holstein cows of class B.

During a 365-day period, Mt. Riga produced 10,984.6 pounds of milk and 643.6 pounds of butter fat. The old record, Upchurch said, was 76,625 pounds of milk and 512.9 pounds of butter fat. The cow has produced as high as 89 pounds of milk a day. Her record is being checked by the National Holstein association.

MYSTERIOUS WAY

SYNOPSIS: John Wye tells Dr. Charters that he will stay in the latter's nursing home until the hanging of the man whose name Wye has given to a confession placed beside the murdered "Spitzy" Schlitz. His cloak of respectability menaced by the intruder's knowledge of his criminal record, Charters has been compelled to admit him to his safe hide-away. Here Wye gives to the evil Dr. MacAdoo a hint that Charters is to receive 10,000 pounds in the Lauderdale case. After Charters learns through the licensed MacAdoo of Wye's revelation, he tells MacAdoo that the deal is off and that Marjorie Lauderdale, whose illness had been growing worse, is now recovering. Informed by MacAdoo, Mr. Jarr, Charters' associate, demands that the doctor explain why he apparently had been "playing his own game" in the Lauderdale case.

a promise that you'd shut his mouth with a wad of $5,000, eh?" "You've said it," smiled the Doctor. "So? And where does all this lovely trust and fair-play come in, then?"

"Jimmy, you make me tired. Once again, who's running this outfit, you or I? If Manoel's foot is enough to butt-in on my game... aren't I free to put him off how I like? What's biting you? You don't want to start scolding when I'm at my wit's end over this infernal Wye. That man'll succeed in breaking this firm up, if we aren't careful—especially with you helping him by playing his game of sowing suspicion among..."

"Playing his game!" exclaimed Mr. James indignantly. "What about you playing his game by letting him come here, threaten us, fool us, rob us, and get away with it..." "But you don't pull wool over my eyes like that... Say, now, suppose all that bunk—about meaning to pool that 10,000—is the goods, why must you cut it right out because Wye put Manoel wise?..." "Can't you see that that's the most disturbing and frightening thing in the whole world for us?"

The Doctor, with outstretched finger, pointed at the face of his young colleague. "Get this, James. And then try to realize what it means. Wye never in his life set eyes on Manoel. Not a living human being except him and me had the glimpse of an idea of this Lauderdale scheme. He only existed in her brain and mine... And what follows? Mr. Mysterious Wye drops in on Manoel, and not only tells him the plot, but mentions the exact sum that I'm to get!"

The Doctor threw himself back in his chair. "God bless my sinful soul," he concluded explosively. "I begin to think the man's from Scotland Yard—or else the Archangel Gabriel." "Bump him off, I say," growled Mr. James. "It would do us a lot of good, wouldn't it, if a detective from Scotland Yard disappeared here. Better for us if it was the Archangel. I'm likely to be missed." "Put me wise on the whole story anyway," continued Mr. James. "What's the Maude female got, that she can slip for $50,000?" "Well—Maude ropes a steer called Lauderdale. Not much to him except that he's going to be Sir Something Lauderdale when the old guy dies. Maude's sick of the racket and wants to retire in the odor of sanctity among the London Four Hundred. "But there's not more money than will keep up the old Tudor place. Then what does Maude find? Lauderdale's brother has died and left Lauderdale this girl Marjorie for keeps, and a 100,000 pounds. Marjorie can't touch this until she comes of age. If she dies before she's 21, Brother Lauderdale scoops it." "And if she marries?" "Nix till she's of age," replied the Doctor. "What a wicked will," observed Mr. James indignantly. "Didn't the guy want the poor girl to live to be 21?"

Dr. Charters smiled. "Well, you see, he trusted Brother Lauderdale—and rightly. There isn't enough money in the world to make him hurt a hair of the girl's head." "Soon Maude comes to see me. She's worried about her husband's niece, who lives with them. Such a lovely girl... so rich, if she lives to be 21. Quite sad to see her death falling like this. And mind you, Maude might have said it to Sir Bernard Matthieson like she said it to me. Well, as Maude describes the symptoms, the illness sounds like recurring attacks of arsenic. And so they are." "Maude and Lauderdale bring her and I put her in Manoel's care for special treatment. She's to be the one case we lose, after devoted care. That's all Manoel knows—that she's to get a quite complete and final cure for all her aches and pains."

Pampa Sunday News-Post

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—Full Leased Wire. Published by the NINN-WARREN PUBLISHING COMPANY, publishers also of the Pampa Daily News and the Pampa Morning Post, 322 West Foster Avenue, Pampa, Texas.

Sometimes, somehow, the Pampa drifts into select company. Friday morning this writer got into his car and drove to the office through the storm.

Before Potter and Carson could have been highway 29, the Pampa at frequent intervals got stuck in the mud.

This writer is glad to see other newspapers following our plan of calling these plans the pampas. No other plan we know of is more likely to give new residents — and many old ones — an understanding of what the word pampa means.

It has long seemed to us that too much striving for state unity and special affiliation tends to prevent schools from adjusting their courses to local needs.

School curriculums have become so filled with courses leading to credits that faddists have dictated practices. If high schools would give more thorough instruction, rather than extensive, the result would be more gratifying to college instructors whose duty it is to start building where preparatory schools left off.

Pampa high school, like most others at this time, cannot spend more money for new courses. Next year it will likely be necessary to reduce the teaching force somewhat, even with increased enrollments.

School boards are constantly demanding better teachers, but little has been done in most counties to improve the remuneration logically expected for better teachers.

Much that is taught is imperfectly learned and quickly forgotten. This is man's weakness. The great leaders of the country can quote very slightly from literature and the average business executive knows little mathematics.

Colleges have a somewhat different function. They are reservoirs of fact from which the student may draw if he has the application and the ambition. It is not their duty merely to impart facts.

Parents should understand that the colleges do little to a student but that they enable him to do much for himself if he chooses. If he does not choose, he should be taken out of college until he changes his mind and his habits.

Colleges do not make capitalists of industry, but they do give us materials from which capitalists develop with right attitudes, lack of prejudices, and inquiring minds which are so essential.

About New York

(By Richard Massock) NEW YORK—"Musical papa, I'm pluggin' for you," might well be Katherine Handy's slogan.

Katherine, whose dad is W. C. Handy, "Father of the Blues," is a radio entertainer. She sings her father's agitating ditties, including his undying "St. Louis Blues."

She has been singing them since she was 12, particularly around Atlanta, Ga., with Handy's band, and before that in Memphis.

The blues are in her blood. As a little girl she stood near the piano while her father composed the tunes that made him famous—"Memphis Blues," "Beale Street Blues," and others.

After Handy's first success as a blues composer and publisher, he says, there were 14 other negro publishers on Broadway.

Recently, there was a movement among friends in Memphis, his old home town, to name for him a new public square on Beale street, which his jazz opus publicized.

Only rarely now does he bring out his old cornet, and then it's to play a solo at some Harlem school or church entertainment.

One of the most pathetic sights of Broadway are the old actors. As heart-touching are they as leading women of former times, no longer beautiful, who have become character women and can't even get a bit in that role.

They wander, these old men, from casting agency to casting agency. They bow with ingrained courtesy to snippy office boys who say, "Naw, Mr. Gertz ain't seen' nobody this week."

They know that if they do get into the producer's presence they will hear the usual, "You're not the type." One old fellow was prepared for that on his quest the other day. He must have been 60 years old. He was ancient-looking and seedy.

His professional smile, in which hope showed but faintly, faltered a moment only. Then he quavered: "Maybe you need a chorus man. I really have a good voice, you know."

A tough old Broadway cynic, telling about it, admitted that the pathos in the actor's voice dimmed the eavesdropper's eyes.

OF NEW BOOKS

(By Richard Massock) NEW YORK—Genius, artistic genius, is often a half-mad manifestation.

It can almost be taken for granted, causing one to wonder why biographers must stress the point in their book titles as in "Savage Messiah" and "Paul Gauguin, the Calm Madman."

It is Ed's story of the strange agonizing alliance between Henri Gaudier and Sophie Bruckes, fortunately, is in a more subdued tone than his title, "Savage Messiah."

Through his letters to her one may read of his nervous, impoverished life. The story loses nothing by our unfamiliarity with the genius who had to sketch English tavern customers for a penny apiece in order to subsist.

Gauguin's life, of course, is of better acquaintance. Skeptical as I am of copious dialog written into a biography, I found Becker's work surprising, as a novel is.

He is frankly sympathetic toward his subject (I almost wrote character), making him pathetically misunderstood.

Gauguin was one of those tortured souls who find business poisonous. He quit his position as liquidator in a Paris bank at the age of 35 to devote himself to painting.

An impressionist, he was regarded by art dealers as an imitator of Picasso. A rebel, he was always deliberately offending people.

He then traveled on to Martinique and went native. Returning to France, he was a friend of Vincent Van Gogh for a while, but Van Gogh was madder than Gauguin.

TO OPEN HOTEL MAY 15—LONGVIEW, March 28. (P)—Longview's new $200,000 hotel, being constructed by the Southern National Hotel corporation of Galveston, will be ready for formal opening by May 15, according to Bruce Wallace, manager.

FRUIT NOT KILLED—NACOGDOCHES, March 28. (P)—In spite of recent severe cold snaps there will be a good crop of peaches and peaches in this county. There will also be a good crop of dewberries, blackberries and raspberries.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS THINK

OUR NATIONAL ANTHEM

One of the last acts of the 71st congress was to make the "Star Spangled Banner" our national anthem. There has been general regret that the "Star Spangled Banner" is difficult to sing on account of a few extremely high notes.

Repeated efforts have been made to produce a national air and song that would be more to the liking of the populace. Peculiarly national songs are not to be fashioned to order. They cannot be cut out like a suit of clothes or fabricated.

"Like it or not," comments the Literary Digest, "and many seem to like it, if they can't sing it, the 'Star Spangled Banner' is now our national anthem. President Hoover has signed the bill giving it that status, and help is in some quarters promised in modifying the high notes that only wind instruments seem entirely successful in negotiating."

"Aspiring composers who have sought to produce an American air—our anthem being of English origin—will now have to turn their efforts elsewhere."

"The Boston Transcript makes some comments on the hybrid nature of national hymns in general, especially those older than the 'Marseillaise' and 'Glovetta.' 'President Hoover has signed the bill making 'The Star Spangled Banner' officially the national anthem. The song had already been declared by the army and navy to be the nation's representative air, and the country had followed the military usage."

"This action definitely establishes the usage in all cases where a national song, air, or 'tune' is called for. 'All hope, therefore, of a new national anthem, original with American musical talent, is over. 'America the Beautiful' and all other attempts toward the substitution of an American tune for this rollicking and sky-piercing English air go into the discard. To the qualification 'rollicking' we may no doubt with historical accuracy add the term 'spirit-stirring,' for the song was originally a drinking song of the London ale-houses, where it was known as 'When Bibo went down to the regions below.'"

"It is a very good tune for the band, but is difficult to sing owing to the extremely high note which comes with the last word of the passage 'land of the free.' 'There is no reason for the rejection of the air on account of its bacchanalian origin. The principle asserted by Wesley, when he took over several airs of naughty origin as hymns—the principle, that is, that 'the devil should not be allowed to run away with all the good tunes'—holds good in this case."

"The establishment of the 'Star Spangled Banner' on an official basis coincides broadly with the general public preference. 'The people undoubtedly rejoice in the air, though they do not sing it. The sound of it stirs their blood. 'No other tune seems to have this effect. In this respect it is like 'God Save the Queen' in England, the 'Marseillaise' in France, and 'Die Wacht am Rhein' in Germany."

While our dissatisfactions are thus settled, England seems to be indulging in controversy over the words of "God Save the King," upon which The Transcript comments: "Many people have objected strenuously to the stanza in this song which contains the words, referring to foreign nations: 'Confound their politics, Frustrate their knavish tricks.'"

"Something more pacific than this is advised by many good people. But the general reaction to the criticism shows clearly enough that these are the most popular lines in the hymn. 'The song, 'God Save the King,' to be sure, goes back no further than the year 1748, and the words have been considerably modified since then. The fourth stanza of the authentic original song, which is as follows, has been dropped altogether: 'Lord grant that Marshall Wade May by Thy mighty aid Victory bring! May he sedition hush, And like a torrent rush! Rebellious Scots to crush! God save the king!'"

"The 'rebellious Scots' are supposed to join now heartily in 'God Save the King.' The current discussion of the anthem in England takes no account of the origin of the tune. 'It is traceable in a somewhat varying version as far back as the middle of the seventeenth century, but the Germans, who have it exactly as the air of the Prussian national anthem, 'Gott segen Preussenland,' bring much plausible evidence to bear to support their claim that it is of German origin."

"For that matter, it is now sufficiently international. We employ it freely as the air of Rev. Samuel Smith's noble anthem, 'America.' And Grove's dictionary, a leading authority in the history of music, says of it: 'The tune has been adopted by 19 or 20 nations besides our own country.'—Plainview News."

From the scanty evening gowns we have seen, we would say the designers are very aboriginal. Slaves to fashion, shop dealers notice, give orders instead of taking them. A gin party is sometimes like a prizefight, the office sage observes. Two rounds and you're out.

(By Rodney Dutcher, NEA Service Writer) WASHINGTON—"What do you think of this guy Schofield?" Major General Smedley Butler was asked as he and your correspondent passed each other on the run.

"I think he's a hell of a good fella," replied Butler, who had at least as many troubles with politicians as Lemuel Schofield is having when the general himself tried to enforce the law as public safety director of Philadelphia.

"You think he will get away with it?" "Yeah," Butler hollered back, "I think he will." That wasn't much of an interview, but this story happens to be about the important connection that exists between national politics and politics in big, bad cities.

Schofield has created terrific commotion in Philadelphia by trying to enforce prohibition on everybody, a much broader application of the law than the federal enforcement organization has ever used.

He has made Philadelphia a far dryer town than either Chicago or New York. And, by getting the big politicians there to fighting over his policies and tactics, he has called attention to the fact that our other largest cities are going through periods of great political excitement whose reverberations are more than audible in Washington.

You see, one thing about politics is that President Hoover and other high republican officials find among the important party politicians such gents as Big Bill Thompson and Bill Vare, while Governor Franklin Roosevelt and other respectable democrats have to admit the importance of Tammany whenever they want to carry New York state.

The New York situation is most engaging for politicians at the moment. Tammany is fighting the investigations which have exposed graft and corruption in the city's judiciary and its police department.

Governor Roosevelt is the outstanding candidate for the next democratic presidential nomination. His future attitude toward Tammany may be the cause of his political ruin or it may be sufficiently bold and effective to rouse the country to the point where his nomination will be almost certain.

Roosevelt has by no means ignored the New York City situation. Already he has incensed Tammany leaders by naming Judge Samuel Seabury to investigate the Tammany district attorney, who was accused of inaction in the face of all the revelations.

The governor ordered the Crain investigation in response to public demands, but he scorned the chance to cater to Tammany by putting it in the hands of a man more satisfactory to its leaders.

The worst, however, may be yet to come as a result of further demands upon him for action leading to the ousting of Mayor Jimmy Walker.

If Jimmy becomes an insistent issue Roosevelt will be at the crisis of his political career to date; action against a Tammany mayor would turn that powerful machine against him with the definite determination to crush him.

Firm action, however, would tend to set Roosevelt up as something of a national hero, make Tammany an asset rather than a liability to him outside New York and wipe out the serious handicap which he would labor under if he obviously trucked to the organization.

In Philadelphia, Mr. Schofield has the support of our old friend William S. Vare, long the undisputed republican boss of the town. Charlie Hall, one of the old Vare leaders, and now apparently head of the opposition to him, is trying to drive Schofield from office. There is plenty of interest here in the question of who will control the Pennsylvania delegation to the next republican convention.

Vare did a lot for Hoover at Kansas City in 1928 when he suddenly threw his delegates to him the night before the balloting. He was subsequently barred from his seat in the senate. His friends have quoted him as bitterly blaming Hoover for not coming to his aid in the senate and as praying that he might live until 1932 so that he might knife the president when he came up for renomination.

Then there was the young bride who grew suddenly jealous when her husband revealed he was in love with his work. Broadway stars are working their way across the country to Hollywood. By easy stages, as it were. "Best in the long run" may be an admirable slogan, but it would never do for hosiery manufacturers.

mind it she pulled two crumpled pieces of leather.

"Thank," he said. "Must have knocked them down there last night." His good humor was restored. They went down the stairway laughing. On the first floor Mrs. O'Hare was disappearing through the door of her private quarters.

"Where'll we go?"

"Anywhere. Have they still got the Battery?" "The girl nodded." "And the Bronx zoo?" "Another nod."

"Then let's walk up Fifth avenue."

It was nonsense but to Gypsy it sounded like the world's most scintillant wit. "I'd love to," she said instantly. "Wait, I'll be ready in a minute."

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF CLINTON - OKLAHOMA - WESTERN RAILROAD COMPANY OF TEXAS:

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of Clinton - Oklahoma - Western Railroad Company of Texas has been called by the Directors of said corporation to be held at the principal office of the corporation in the City of Pampa, Texas, on the 21st day of May, 1931, at 3 o'clock p. m.

There was no one in sight but the door of Crosby's room was open.

Through the opening Gypsy caught a glimpse of the young man struggling to get one arm into his overcoat. He heard her, turned and came into the hall.

"Oh, I probably lost them," Crosby complained.

"No use wasting time hunting any longer." Gypsy stood in the doorway, surveying the room. Suddenly, as though inspired, she darted inside. "Here they are," she said, kneeling beside the steamer trunk. From be-fields of daisies against an azure sky could not have seemed so beautiful as the grimy city street that morning.

They walked east toward Fifth avenue. There was a Sunday quiet about the streets. Men, women and children walked leisurely, enjoying the sunshine. Even the motor traffic seemed subdued. Crosby kept up a running fire of conversation. He asked questions and before the girl could answer was launched on some anecdote of the transatlantic voyage of Paris.

"Which way?" he asked when they reached Fifth avenue.

Gypsy glanced down at her feet. The new pumps were not walking shoes. She had worn them once before and found them comfortable but it had been a spendthrift occasion when she had patronized tailors. The left heel was beginning to burn. No one would have guessed this, however, from the girl's smile. She nodded toward the north.

Evidently Crosby remembered, too.

"Like old times, kid?" he said as they turned north, swinging into the entrance of Central park and then a favorite haunt on Sunday mornings two years ago.

BIG PROPOSITION—

State and federal aid comprised $290,000 of the construction project outlined in the election call. The amount planned to be spent by the county, state and federal governments was about $2,587,500, of which nearly two millions, it was estimated, was for labor.

The state highway department signified its readiness to expedite work in every way. Unemployed men were particularly anxious for the issue to pass.

The election was called following a countywide meeting at which wishes of all precincts were taken into consideration. By using the countywide plan, the people of all parts of the county will get benefits of the oil valuation, present and future. State highway department officials cooperated throughout in furnishing estimates and suggestions. They approved for the lighter roads an asphalt paving with crushed rock base. Estimates of costs on all roads were prepared by P. S. Bailey, district engineer.

caught the sunlight and burned like white fire. They were the newest and highest additions to the city's skyline and they set Crosby off into paeans of admiration. Everything seemed to please the young man that morning. Gypsy reflected his mood. If only she hadn't worn the new pumps! Now the right as well as the left heel throbbed.

used to make me think of you—" Crosby told about an outdoor restaurant where there was music and delicious food and all the patrons were friendly. He told her about gay evenings there with other students.

"You'd have liked them, Gypsy. There was a girl who used to come there who made me think of you. Only she wasn't so pretty. She had dark hair and eyes but her eyes were too far apart and her hair didn't wave the way your does. It was the way she laughed, I guess, that made me think of you. You look awfully cute when you laugh, Gypsy."

"What was the anguish of a bittered heart?" "Alan, do you really think so?" "Of course I do. Now don't tell me you don't know it. Say, what's the matter with your foot? You're limping."

Where the ravick used to be so good. Shall we?" "I'd love to. Haven't been there for months, Alan." "Altogether Sunday was a festive day. And the thought of the evening ahead made Monday at the office pass in a rosy haze. At 8:30 Gypsy McBride slipped her key into the door of her fourth floor room. She turned the knob and the door opened. On the floor was a folded sheet of paper.

"Sorry, Bambino, that the party's off," she read. "I'm tied up for the evening with some of the boys from the office. Hope you'll understand this break in our plans was unavoidable. See you later—Alan."

Gypsy turned her head and saw beside her, standing near the curb, the woman who had waved at Alan Crosby on the pier. She was wearing white fur and her tian hair shone brilliantly. Beside her, in formal evening clothes, stood Alan Crosby.

land yard might have listened to. She took out her little book and wrote the sum in figures. She passed it to me, and, with a glance and a nod, Maud and I had made a solid contract, because our word to each other is ten times as good as our bond."

"But I thought you're giving the whole thing up?" expostulated at. "I am. It's far too dangerous while Wayne is here. No, I'm not going to lose out now—how that I've made good. Not for 10,000 pounds—nor for a million. I'm never going back to the crook life, Jimmy—now I'm out of it and safe."
