OUR MOM SAID WE COULD PLAY OUTSIDE! Everyone knows that intermittent rain and snow means messy weather. So everyone has to stay inside and play, and hopefully at someone else's house. These pre-schoolers at the Browning Day Care Center looked out and decided to stay there. Whew - That was close!

Soviets warn Polish of military intervention

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish army newspaper warned today against strikes and "social unrest" and hinted the Polish military might be forced to intervene to restore order in the country. State-controlled media of the Soviet Union and other Warsaw Pact nations stepped up accusations that counterrevolution was threatening Poland's communist regime.

The new Soviet bloc warnings came a day after the White House in Washington said preparations for a possible Soviet intervention in Poland "appear to have been completed."

At the Vatican, Pope John Paul II asked the Virgin Mary to protect "Poland, my country" in marking the Feast of the Immaculate Conception. The pope also asked the Virgin Mary's protection for Rome, Italy and the world.

The Polish army paper, Zolnierz Wolnosci, issuing a warning, said the Polish army would always "vigorously stand on guard in this state built and won under the leadership of our (Communist) Party."

"The soldiers of the Polish Peoples Army share anxiety and concern" expressed in letters, speeches and at party meetings about the "prolongation of social unrest in our country," the paper said.

It emphasized the army was "an important chain in people's rule and will view the fate of our state with a feeling of utmost responsibility."

The army paper also launched a fresh attack against several dissident groups, including the Committee for Social Self-Defense, or KOR.

KOR leader Jacek Kuron is an adviser to the president of the independent trade union Solidarity and has recently called for moderation in making new demands.

"The army, its representatives, are today also the target of more or less veiled attacks," Zolnierz Wolnosci said. "Our answer should be a dignified, restrained but decisive stand."

The Soviet news agency Tass said in a dispatch from Warsaw, meanwhile, that "counter-revolutionary groups" in the independent unions are "leading the situation in the country toward further destabilization, toward the aggravation of the political struggle."

Czechoslovakia's Communist Party daily warned that events in Poland posed a danger for peace "in Europe and the entire world." The East German news agency ADN reported industrial unrest in Poland and said "counter-revolutionary groups" in the Solidarity independent trade union were seeking "open confrontation with local communist organizations" and trying to install union officials "who openly oppose the government."

Groups of Polish Communist Party officials held sessions in factories and meeting halls over the weekend, calling for action to restore order and "strengthen the leading role of the Communist Party," Warsaw Radio reported.

Similar meetings were scheduled throughout the week in an apparent attempt to show the leadership was capable of defusing Poland's economic and political problems without Soviet interference.

Walesa, meanwhile, made repeated calls for moderation at a union meeting in Warsaw Saturday. Walesa heads Solidarity, the big union independent of party control that was formed after six weeks of crippling strikes last summer.

Since the end of the nationwide strikes Aug. 1, however, Solidarity locals have been staging walkouts to press demands for higher pay and political reforms that has put them on a collision course with the regime.

Hardline members of the Soviet bloc, notably East Germany, have been criticizing the Polish hierarchy, claiming it was too lenient with "anti-socialist forces" working to undermine Communist Party rule.

Polish party leader Stanislaw Kania assured Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and leaders of the other five Soviet bloc states at a summit in Moscow on Friday that Poland "was, is and will be socialist."

The summit expressed confidence Poland could work out its problems and continue "along the socialist path," and Poland's Communist Party said Saturday it welcomed the "solidarity and support" shown by the communiques.

A senior White House official said Sunday that "preparations for possible Soviet intervention in Poland appear to have been completed."

December dawned bright, now dreary

December dawned on the Panhandle as if it were spring. Today's weather, however, foretold the true icy December story.

Pampa received 62 of an inch of moisture as of Monday and Sunday's 6 a.m. rain caused travelers' advisories to be issued for Monday morning. The advisories were extended through Monday as low temperatures caused ice to form on the drenched highways.

Rain mixed with snow is predicted across the Panhandle for today.

The city of Claude did report this morning that one to two inches of the snow was remaining on the ground, the National Weather Service reported.

Amarillo weather officials reported that the expected snow had started falling there at approximately 9:45 a.m. today.

The snow began falling in Pampa at approximately 10:45 and the intermittent snow and rain was causing drivers to heed the warnings.

Temperatures are expected to remain in the low 20s with winds 15-20 mph today, decreasing tonight. The forecast for Tuesday has high temperatures only in the mid 30s.

The cold front which passed through Pampa Sunday afternoon has now reached El Paso causing temperatures to drop along its path.

The damp cold currently in the Panhandle will last through Wednesday. National Weather Service officials predict but occasional glimpses of the sun may be forecast for Wednesday.

School finance in state budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Legislative Budget Board's $26.3 billion budget recommendation includes, for the first time, detailed provisions on school finance and teacher pay raises, a political hot potato.

The recommended budget for the two years beginning Sept. 1, 1981, is $6.1 billion higher than the present $20.2 billion budget.

The package, completed Sunday night, also includes state employee pay raises of 14.3 percent for the first year and 8.7 for the second.

Although the recommendation is $280 million beneath the spending ceiling imposed by a voter-approved constitutional amendment, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said it is unlikely there will be money left for tax relief.

He said the Legislature probably will make emergency appropriations and could add more spending after it convenes on Jan. 13.

Gov. Bill Clements will issue his own budget proposal before the Legislature meets and has said he thinks Texans should get $1 billion in tax reductions.

Hobby, however, said there just was not room for the kind of budget cuts that would make tax relief possible.

"We recommended just under $1 billion for medical education, I don't see any room to cut there," Hobby said. "Certainly not in higher education. I think we took a very conservative position on public school education, and I see no room for cuts there."

The board's budget includes a $1.4 billion increase in state aid to public schools, including a 23 percent teacher pay raise.

Under the board proposal, the minimum beginning salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree would increase from $9,430 now to $10,070 in 1981-82, and $10,750 in the 1982-83 school year.

The state guaranteed salary for a bachelor's degree teacher with 10 years' experience would rise from $14,150 now to $15,110 next year and $16,130 in 1982-83.

Official says Soviets ready to move

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior White House official says Soviet troops are ready for a possible move on Poland and he is refusing to repeat his earlier assertion that no Russian intervention is imminent.

Four days after President Carter expressed concern about an "unprecedented" buildup of Soviet forces on the Polish border, the White House announced Sunday that "preparations for possible Soviet intervention in Poland appear to have been completed."

The announcement came after Carter met for nearly two hours with the National Security Council and conferred with the Special Coordinating Committee, key advisers focusing specifically on the Polish crisis.

"As of now, we're not in a position to say whether it is imminent or not," a senior White House official, who spoke to reporters with the understanding he would not be named, said of a Russian intervention. On Wednesday, he had said such a move was not imminent.

"We are in a position to note that it could take place because preparations for it are completed," he said Sunday, noting that U.S. monitoring operations had verified that the Soviets have since Wednesday completed the "logistical and deployment activities" a major power would undertake before moving into another nation.

"They are ready to move," he said, although adding he was not in a position to judge what action the Soviets would take.

"It is our hope that no such intervention will take place," the White House said in a written statement given to reporters.

Several Democratic and Republican congressional leaders — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass.; Rep. John Rhodes, R-Ariz.; Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; and Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska — were called to the White House for a briefing Sunday afternoon.

The White House statement raised questions about whether the situation in Eastern Europe had changed since Friday, when Adm. Daniel Murphy, deputy assistant secretary of defense for policy review, said Soviet forces "are ready to move" into Poland.

White House officials refused to elaborate, but deputy press secretary Ray Jenkins said of Sunday's declaration: "This has a great deal more weight, coming from the White House."

The determination about Soviet forces, stemming from U.S. monitoring activities, has not prompted any change "as of now" in the status of U.S. forces, said the White House official who briefed reporters.

There was no immediate comment from the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow. But previous reports from Washington of military buildups and alerts on the Polish border have been denied by Soviet officials.

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev left Moscow Sunday for a visit to India.

Truck jackknives, driver injured

A semi-tractor trailer rig jackknifed on State Highway 60 four miles east of Pampa, made icy by driving sleet and snow. The driver was seriously injured as the truck plowed through a fence into a field at 11 a.m. today.

The injured man was identified as Wayne Goss by Department of Public Safety trooper Jim Johnson. Goss' age and address were not available at press time today.

Goss was taken by Metropolitan Ambulance to Highland General Hospital Emergency Room where he was undergoing treatment for possible head and internal injuries early today. Goss' condition was not available at press time.

According to Johnson, the vehicle driven by Goss was traveling east on Highway 60 when it slid on the long curve. The driver apparently lost control of the truck as it struck the shoulder of the road causing it to jackknife.

The truck — pulling an empty low-boy trailer — smashed through a fence and finally came to a rest in a plowed field, buried in dirt up to the door of the cab.

The truck was reportedly owned by Gallo Machinery in Wilcox, Ariz. Officials were not able to confirm the truck's owner at press time. It was speculated that the rig could have been rented.

Johnson said he came up on the accident at about 11 a.m. today as he was driving to Pampa to deliver reports. He said he had already worked six other traffic accidents today.

Rare tornadoes cause $100,000 damage

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) — A pair of rare December tornadoes touched down in West Central Texas Sunday and early today, damaging a shopping center and downing power lines, but causing no injuries.

Police Sgt. Garry Page said what apparently was a tornado struck shortly after 1 a.m. today at a Brownwood shopping center, lifting the roof from a restaurant and a beauty salon.

Page estimated damage to five stores in the center at more than $100,000. He said the storm narrowly missed a senior citizens housing development near the shopping mall.

The storm also knocked down 52 of 53 flags being flown on 25-foot poles in honor of the American hostages in Iran. Page said, and trees were uprooted and power lines downed in another section of town.

In Spur, City Secretary Betty Ashley said what apparently was a tornado touched down about 6 p.m. Sunday in a sparsely-populated area. She said several cotton trailers were overturned and power lines were knocked down, but there were no reports of injuries.

She said a damage estimate had not been made.

National Weather Service officials said the storms were triggered by a fast-moving cold front that brought heavy rain and much colder temperatures to West and Central Texas Sunday night and today.

Youth who took hostages killed

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A 19-year-old Baylor University freshman was shot to death Sunday after holding two Wichita police officers and a security guard hostage for about 40 minutes at a west Wichita elementary school, police said.

Hiram E. Spode, who was trying to escape by using Lt. David Pate as a shield, was killed instantly by shotgun blasts when Pate dived out of the line of fire about 1:45 a.m. Police said the shooting took place outside OK Elementary School.

Capt. Mike Hill said Officer Ray Hamlen and school security guard Lee Baumann also were held at gunpoint by Spode. Hamlen and Pate had gone to the school to investigate a burglary alarm.

Officials were unable to determine why Spode was in Wichita or what he was doing in the school building. Baylor is located in Waco, Texas. Spode's driver's license gave Valley Mills, Texas, as a home address.

In describing events that led to the shooting, Hill said Pate and Hamlen arrived at the school within minutes of the alarm, but waited for school guard Baumann before entering. Baumann was unarmed and the officers' sidearms were holstered while they searched the building, Hill said.

Spode appeared in the audio visual storage room holding a .38-caliber pistol. Hill said Spode disarmed the officers and ordered Pate to handcuff his companions together.

Pate spent 20 to 30 minutes trying to convince Spode to surrender. But, Spode told Pate, "I am not going to go to prison," according to Hill.

A number of other patrol officers were parked outside the school while the two officers and the security guard searched the building.

Hill said Spode left the building about 1:45 a.m., pushing Pate ahead of him into a parking lot. Hamlen and Baumann also accompanied the gunman, police said.

As Spode told one officer to drop his gun, Officer Peter Dubovich rose from behind a patrol car and motioned for Pate to get out of the way.

Former agent says FBI hid the truth about Oswald's past

DALLAS (AP) — Hours after President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, the FBI removed documents from the file of Lee Harvey Oswald that referred to his meeting in Mexico City two months earlier with a Soviet agent, a former FBI agent says.

Without that information, he and other investigators were unable to properly consider the possibility Oswald acted as part of a conspiracy in the assassination, says James P. Hosty Jr., the agent who monitored Oswald's activities in Dallas.

The charge, contained in a copyright story in today's Dallas Morning News, bolsters reports FBI director J. Edgar Hoover became committed very early to defending the idea Oswald was a lone nut who shot the president.

Hosty, 56, retired from the FBI last year. He was the most severely reprimanded of 17 FBI men who were censured for the way they handled the Oswald case in the days before the assassination.

Hosty, who was suspended for 30 days and transferred from Dallas to Kansas City, decided to tell his side of the disciplinary action, he said, because "one of these days they are going to have to face up and tell the public the truth" about the concealed information.

FBI intelligence never told him of Oswald's contacts in Mexico City — less than two months before the assassination — with the man he terms a key to Soviet espionage in the western hemisphere, Hosty said.

When he learned of agent Valery V. Kostikov's role as a KGB agent responsible for assassination and sabotage, it was three years too late, Hosty said.

When some Mexico City material did arrive in Dallas — most of it the day before or the day of the assassination — it disappeared from Hosty's workbook after he was instructed to attend Oswald's interrogation by Dallas police the afternoon of the assassination, Hosty said.

The Warren Commission concluded Oswald traveled to Mexico City and visited the Cuban and Soviet embassies in an attempt to get a visa to Russia.

Hosty said at least one of four documents removed from the Dallas file on the afternoon of the assassination was checked out by his supervisor, Kenneth C. Howe.

Howe, retired and living in San Diego, Calif., said he has "no recollection of anything like that."

Howe said anything taken from the file "certainly would be in connection with business and not surreptitiously."

Hosty testified before the Senate Intelligence Committee in 1975 about the material that had been taken from the file, but the testimony remains classified, he said.

Hosty refused to criticize Hoover or others. He viewed himself as a victim of an intelligence system that passes down information to agents only on a "need to know" basis, he said.

"The big thing was they didn't tell me anything. They held back that information about our friend (Kostikov) down in Mexico City who Oswald was talking to. You can very well see how the whole thing could take on a different complexion if I knew who he was talking to," Hosty said.

Young family helped by Salvation Army

They are a young family. The father and mother are in their early thirties. They have two pre-school children. Five months ago, the father suffered a severe injury on the job. He has not been able to work since the accident.

The family's only income is a small Workman's Compensation payment and food stamps. Total, their income is $500 per month — most goes to rent and utilities.

This is not an imaginary story for Christmas time. This family exists, living right here in Pampa. Because of the embarrassment it could cause to have their circumstances known, the Salvation Army has chosen to withhold the family's name. The organization is not withholding its help, however.

Throughout the coming two and a half weeks before Christmas, the News will publish similar stories of less-fortunate persons in Pampa. They are all factual. In this group are workers who have been laid off, families that can barely make ends meet, the sick and disabled, persons without family or friends.

With your donations, the Salvation Army will help these persons have a happier Christmas through gifts of food, clothing and toys for the little ones.

If you would like to help this young family and others like it, send your contribution to The Salvation Army, Box 1458, in Pampa.

To switch or not to switch is oil-gas heating question

WASHINGTON (AP) - To switch or not to switch - that is the question.
 Whether 'tis nobler to bear the slings and arrows of outrageous oil prices.
 Or get a natural gas furnace.
 For millions of homeowners - faced with fuel oil prices that have more than doubled since 1977 - it really is the winter of their discontent. And the experts are giving conflicting advice.
 A new government study says as many as 6 million homeowners should consider switching from oil heat to natural gas to save themselves money and the country up to 725,000 barrels of oil a day.
 But that study, by the Environmental Protection Agency, contradicts an October report by an energy-oriented consumer group.
 The Consumer Energy Council of America concluded, "Converting heating systems from oil to natural gas is one of the least effective ways for consumers to reduce their energy bills."
 The council - made up of consumer, labor and senior citizen groups - estimated that as many as 95 percent of homeowners who have changed their heating systems in the last two years may have made a mistake.
 The EPA, however, concludes: "Whenever an existing oil furnace or boiler wears out, any homeowner who ... has ready access to a gas main should install gas heating equipment. The best gas heating equipment is equal to or better than the best oil heating equipment from an efficiency and cost standpoint."
 How could two groups reach such seemingly different conclusions?

 One reason is no one knows what will happen to natural gas prices.
 Heating oil now costs about twice what natural gas does in most parts of the country. All sides agree that difference will eventually disappear, but no one can say when.
 Under the 1978 Natural Gas Policy Act, more than half the gas produced domestically will be freed of government price controls on Jan. 1, 1985, with the rest being decontrolled over the next several years as old contracts expire.
 But many of President-elect Ronald Reagan's top energy advisers support a speed-up in decontrol. If that occurs and the price difference between the two fuels shrinks more quickly, homeowners may find they won't recoup conversion costs.
 The American Gas Association, however, predicts natural gas will be 20 percent to 50 percent cheaper than fuel oil for most regions over the next 10 years. In that time, the homeowner who converts can save up to $9,500 in energy costs, the association says.
 But the energy council says both the association and the EPA are putting too much emphasis on the costly option of remodeling an existing heating system when cheaper conservation measures would bear greater returns.

According to the council's figures, a consumer who installs $600 worth of insulation will save $8,786 in fuel costs over 20 years but only $2,135 in fuel costs by replacing his oil furnace with a gas unit. It put the cost of the furnace switch-over at $1,300.

Three skeletons found in desert

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Authorities say they have no idea what killed three people whose skeletons have been found in the desert east of here in the past two weeks.
 El Paso County sheriff's deputies said Sunday they haven't identified the remains, but do not think the deaths were linked.
 "We have no idea at this time what caused their deaths or even who they were," said Chief Deputy Jesus Reyes.

The first skeleton was found Nov. 23 by two teen-agers hunting quail five miles east of Horizon City, a suburb on El Paso's east side. But the skull and hand bones essential for identification were missing.
 About a week later deputies spotted a woman's skeleton about 200 yards from where the first bones were found.

Reyes said investigators had a reasonable chance of identifying the woman's remains.
 "We have a pretty complete skeleton to work with. We have some good dental plates on her, and we're hoping whoever did the dental work will be able to identify her." He said there was no way to estimate her age.
 The third skeleton was found Saturday in the same general area, officials said. Authorities did not say whether those remains were of a man or woman, but Reyes estimated they had been in the desert for about 18 months.
 So far the sheriff's department has searched the area on weekends only, using reserves and volunteers along with the deputies. About 100 people, some on horses, participated in Saturday's search, and Reyes said another search will be conducted next weekend.

Hostage issue favors Iran

By FAROUK NASSAR
 Associated Press Writer
 BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The 13-month-old U.S. hostage crisis has moved closer to a solution as a result of the latest American response to Iranian demands for release of the 52 captives, the speaker of the Iranian Parliament said in Tehran today.
 Hashemi Rafsanjani told reporters that the U.S. clarification delivered Thursday by Algerian diplomats "has come closer to solving the problem" and that the issue would not be re-examined by Parliament, or Majlis.
 "In the past the U.S. has accepted our demands in principle," Rafsanjani told a news conference. "But this time it has taken more clear steps in executing them."
 His comments come on the heels of statements Sunday by Behzad Nabavi, head of the government commission studying the issue, that the U.S. response is more favorable to Iran.
 The developments came as the Algerian diplomats remained in Tehran awaiting instructions from the Iranians for relay to the United States.

On Sunday, Nabavi said "Totally, I can tell you that there are some changes, favorable changes for us."
 Iran has demanded the U.S. government return the wealth of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his closest relatives, drop lawsuits against Iran, release $8 billion in Iranian assets frozen in U.S. banks and pledge not to interfere in Iran's affairs in exchange for the hostages.
 Informed sources said the latest U.S. clarifications contained no objection to the non-interference pledge and unfreezing the assets, and offered assistance in fighting the legal claims against Iran and help in locating the whereabouts of at least some of the shah's fortune.
 Nabavi's comments, in an interview Sunday with Greek television in Tehran, represented the first real indication of government reaction to the U.S. clarifications that were requested by Iran last month.
 The response has been under study since Thursday when it was explained by Algerian envoys who are acting as intermediaries at Iran's request.

Black suspects acquitted in murder.

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe (AP) - Two non-white legal consultants overruled a white judge and got a black Zimbabwe cabinet minister and seven bodyguards acquitted today of charges they murdered a white farmer.
 Blacks in the courtroom hugged the minister, Edgar Tekere, and his backers outside the court danced, sang and howled in jubilation.
 The ruling was expected to have far-reaching implications for Zimbabwe's eight-month-old black majority government, headed by Prime Minister Robert Mugabe, a former guerrilla leader. Many blacks wanted Tekere freed, while whites viewed the case as a test of justice under the new regime.

Tekere, minister of manpower training and development, and seven of his bodyguards were charged with the Aug. 4 shooting death of Gerald Adams, 68, and the attempted murder of five black soldiers on a farm near Salisbury.
 All eight defendants pleaded innocent and were acquitted of all charges.
 The judge, John Pittman, had been considering his ruling since the hearing ended about three weeks ago.
 Pittman told the spectators in the crowded courtroom that he had "regrettably" disagreed with the two assessors, or legal consultants, who sat with him through the trial. The judge ruled that the men were not acting in good faith to suppress terrorism.

Cracker Jack prizes gain popularity

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
 Associated Press Writer
 CHICAGO (AP) - In 1912, the kid who dug to the bottom of a box of Cracker Jack was likely to get a metal whistle, a puzzle or a yo-yo. These days it's a miniature pinball game, a super-hero decal or even a chance to win a car.
 In all, 16 billion prizes of more than 1 million varieties have been inserted in Cracker Jack boxes over the years, and they are rapidly becoming collector's items worth up to several hundred dollars rather than trinkets worth only a few cents.
 "There is a lot of nostalgia connected with Cracker Jack," says Harriet Joyce, an avid collector who says she has about 400 prizes.
 She carries her most cherished prizes with her when she travels. "I'm not taking a chance someone will steal them if I leave them behind," she said.
 Mrs. Joyce, 41, a registered nurse, said her most valuable piece is a tiny metal model of a horse-drawn meat wagon. She says that prize is worth $300 and puts the value of her entire collection at $10,000.
 The Cracker Jack company has its own collection of 10,000 prizes, which it considers so valuable that it keeps them in a vault. The company recently brought Mrs. Joyce and other collectors in for a visit to the vault.
 "It makes my collection of 400 prizes look puny," Mrs. Joyce said.

But the company's collection looks puny itself when you consider that more than 1 million different prizes have been inserted by hand in boxes of the popcorn-and-peanut confection since 1912.
 It started with metal whistles, puzzles and yo-yos.
 In the 1930s, munchers discovered intricately designed, hand-painted metal, wooden and porcelain toys in the boxes. A complete train set could be collected.
 In the 1940s came models of World War II pilots and artillery equipment.
 In the '50s, little TVs and space toys joined the production line. The '60s produced little storybooks and tiny tattoos.
 And in the 1970s there were pinball machines, super-hero decals and plastic prizes.
 Cracker Jack's latest prizes are cars - five Mazda compacts, each filled with toys.
 Five coupons redeemable for the "$10,000 Super Toy Surprise" have been placed in Cracker Jack boxes since Jan. 1. A company spokesman said the chances of finding one of the coupons is about one in 34 million.
 None of the coupons has been turned in yet, but any cars remaining after February will be given away in a drawing. Betty Garrett, a Cracker Jack spokesman, said that offering cars as prizes was an attempt to encourage more adults to eat Cracker Jack.

Pearl Harbor anniversary low-key

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) - The 39th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was marked with a low-key ceremony in which flowers were dropped into the waters of the harbor.
 Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt and Hawaii Gov. George Ariyoshi were among those participating in a simple ceremony on Sunday. Single flowers were drawn from more than 30 wreaths and dropped into the water.
 The ceremony was held on the stark white marble memorial that stands across the remains of the U.S. battleship Arizona, sunk by Japanese dive-bombers.

At 7:55 a.m., the exact time the Japanese attack began on Dec. 7, 1941, a moment of silence was observed throughout the sprawling naval base here.
 Then, a Navy and Marine honor guard raised the flag next to the Arizona, still the watery tomb of more than 1,100 men.
 Attendance at the ceremony was light, while the popular Honolulu marathon being run at the same time in a different part of town drew a huge crowd of spectators.
 The attack on U.S. warships at Pearl Harbor prompted U.S. entry into World War II.

Researcher finds new brain cancer treatment

DALLAS (AP) — Medical researchers say they have developed two new experimental treatments for brain cancer they say have shown "promising results" in a limited number of patients.

But research scientists at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School caution that the methods have been used on only a few patients and it is too early to tell if the treatments will have a long-lasting effect.

The methods have been used on less than two-dozen patients with brain tumors previously diagnosed as untreatable.

"The only positive thing we can tell them (the patients) is that we believe the treatments are fairly safe and at least offer hope," said Dr. Edward Neuwalt, assistant professor of neurosurgery and biochemistry at Southwestern.

"Brain cancer is one of the most devastating malignancies because the brain is enclosed in a bony cavity and small increases in size result in marked neurological deficits such as paralysis, soon followed by death," he said during a recent interview.

One procedure involves breaking down the natural protective blood brain barrier of the brain to allow greater quantities of drugs to be injected into the tumor.

Nine patients have been treated with the first procedure, Neuwalt said. So far, no side effects have been reported, although patients are warned of possible bleeding, infection and damage to the eye nearest the tumor.

"We've only been doing this a very short time. Some of the patients have gotten better clinically and one has had positive changes evidenced on brain scan," Neuwalt said. "But it's really too early. We're not in the position to make a comment on how much good we are doing."

"If tumors are close to the surface of the brain, the researcher's inject the patient's own white blood cells directly into the tumor bed or into the spinal cord in an attempt to destroy the malignant cells, he said.

That procedure — called immunotherapy — has been used on 12 patients, the first in 1978.

While immunotherapy is considered "entirely experimental," Neuwalt said, there is "some evidence of improvement in some patients."

Conventional chemotherapy results have been disappointing because doctors have not been able to find a way to get large doses of drugs to the tumor, Neuwalt added.

"Elsewhere in the body things can get between the cells making up the walls of capillaries," he said. "But in the brain, those junctions are sealed, forming the blood brain barrier."

"A lot of tumors are extremely sensitive to drugs," Neuwalt said. "You can give these people chemotherapy and the size of the tumors in their body will decrease, but the same tumors which have spread to their head will continue to grow."

Ironically, the barrier that prevents drugs from shrinking harmful tumors is the same barrier that protects the brain from other harmful elements.

"The barrier keeps a very protective, stable environment for the brain... at the present time there are very few drugs available that can cross the barrier in sufficient quantities to kill tumor cells," Neuwalt said.

The Southwestern researchers found that high concentrations of Manitol — a type of sugar — can release the "glue-like" bond of the blood brain barrier and allow higher concentrations of drugs to reach the brain tumor, Neuwalt said.

A catheter is inserted into an artery at the top of the leg, then threaded up the carotid artery in the neck to the side of the brain where the tumor rests, he said.

Doctors inject Manitol into the catheter and the blood brain barrier opens for about 30 minutes.

"We are able to... give doses 50 to 90 times the amount given when the blood barrier remains closed," Neuwalt said.

That procedure is used for tumors that have spread to the brain from another part of the body, or deep-rooted tumors originating in the brain.

Immunotherapy is used on tumors located close to the brain's surface, he said.

White blood cells, which fight infections and destroy abnormal cells in other parts of the body, are injected directly into the tumor bed through a hole drilled in the skull since the blood brain barrier also blocks the lymphocytes, he said. Doctors also can inject white blood cells into the spinal canal, where they will migrate to the brain, he said.

The key is whether the body's own defense mechanism might kill cancer cells in the brain as it does in the rest of the body, he said.

"Primary brain tumors don't spread to other parts of the body. Brain tumor cells escape into the rest of the body, but the body's own immune system kills them," Neuwalt said. "But the lymphocytes can't get back into the brain. The brain doesn't contain a lymph system like the rest of the body."

"Several of the patients appear to be solid proof that this is helpful," Neuwalt said.

The outlook for many patients with conventional treatment is gloomy, he said. Statistics show the average survival rate for people with malignant brain tumors is only about nine months.

"The best results with brain tumors have been obtained with a combination of surgery and radiation. But this has only resulted in modest and relatively short-lived benefits," he said. "We are extremely careful to be pessimistic with our patients... but (the treatments) at least offer hope."

NAMES IN THE NEWS

NEW YORK (AP) — Although in exile, the son of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is convinced he will one day sit on Iran's Peacock Throne.

"All over the world, officers, students and soldiers condemned to exile have formed groups and committees and are working to bring peace and prosperity back to Iran," said Reza Pahlavi, who now calls himself Shah Reza II.

Pahlavi, 20, who has been given a home in Egypt by President Anwar Sadat, said he would like to head a parliamentary democracy.

"Monarchy must change," said Pahlavi in an interview with People magazine. "The government must change when opinions change. The king ensures continuity."

Meanwhile, his father's prime minister, Shapur Bakhtiar, who has formed a government-in-exile in Paris, has warned against those with a "personal nostalgia for the Shah."

But Pahlavi, a student at American University in Cairo who announced his assumption of his father's title six weeks ago, says he cannot "shirk" his responsibilities.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lois Lane is finally going to get her Superman.

So says Christopher Reeve, who played the muscular superhero in the movie "Superman."

Reeve, who drew the biggest crowd of the year recently as a guest lecturer at Columbia University, said that Ms. Lane, the lovelorn reporter who chases Superman but won't even glance at his alter ego, Clark Kent, will win Super in a forthcoming sequel.

However, Reeve, who is currently playing a crippled, homosexual Vietnam veteran in the Broadway play "Fifth of July," would not reveal what he said was a surprise ending to "Superman 2."

Also during the lecture, Reeve called Katharine Hepburn, his co-star in the play "A Matter of Gravity," a "very nosy acting partner."

Reeve said Miss Hepburn, who started winning Oscars nearly 50 years ago, "tries to run everybody's life, telling them what to do about everything."

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — For those who missed Sen. Strom Thurmond's 78th birthday gala, relax. He's planning on having plenty more.

"I hope to live to 120," the Republican senator quipped when some 3,000 people turned out Sunday to honor him in festivities at the state fairgrounds.

The event, billed as a non-partisan affair, was complete with cake, punch and cookies, music, presents, words of appreciation and political quips.

Former Gov. Robert McNair read a resolution citing Thurmond for his 50 years of service to the people of South Carolina. And when Thurmond blew out the single candle on his birthday cake, McNair joked: "There was no doubt in anyone's mind he would have the wind to blow out the candle."

Convicted killer says KKK operates secret camps

HOUSTON (AP) — A convicted hit man who says he taught jungle warfare at a Ku Klux Klan camp in Texas claims there are two other secret training facilities and an ammunition factory located near here, according to published reports.

John Allen Mosier currently is serving a life sentence at the state prison near Lexington, Okla. The former Marine pleaded guilty last month to killing his father-in-law for $80.

He told the Houston Chronicle he was a guerilla warfare instructor at Camp Puller, a Chambers County facility located about 40 miles east of Houston.

One of the camp owners — who asked that his name not be used — confirmed that Mosier was an instructor at Camp Puller, the newspaper said in its Sunday editions.

Mosier said he knew of two other secret training camps near Houston — one near Mauriceville and the other near Cleveland, the newspaper said.

Mauriceville is about 10 miles north of Vidor in Orange County and Cleveland is about 30 miles north of Houston in Liberty County, on the edge of the San Jacinto National Forest.

"A lot of times these bases are underground," he said. "They know how to tunnel. They keep it secure."

He also said the KKK operates an ammunition factory near Vidor, located near the Texas-Louisiana border about 85 miles from here, the Chronicle said.

The Klan is "more combat-ready than our regular military forces," Mosier told the newspaper.

Four individuals bought the 50-acre Camp Puller for $75,000 in 1977, the newspaper reported.

Camp owners drew heavy criticism last month after the newspaper reported that Explorer Scouts and Civil Air Patrol cadets had learned commando-style killing and were taught to fire weapons by members of the Klan while at the camp.

One camp owner, John Sisente, denies he is a member of the KKK and has said he will shut down his portion of the camp, possibly to reopen once the "adverse publicity" subsides.

Mosier told the newspaper he first learned about training at Camp Puller from Louis Beam, Grand Dragon of the Texas Klan.

"Louis Beam told me that he wanted everyone in the Klan to go through this kind of training," Mosier said. Beam was not available for comment.

Mosier, a plumber from Orange, Texas, told the Chronicle he joined the Klan in the mid 1970s after serving 1½ years in federal prison for possession of explosives stolen from the Texas National Guard.

He said he later was kicked out of the KKK in a dispute over missing funds.

"Mosier is a knowledgeable person in the art of killing and terrorism," said an Orange County law officer who claims to have known Mosier for years.

"He is a self-styled revolutionary who gets into being a commando... George Patton is his idol."

Caller claims poison stashed

Stores clear shelves after threat

WACO, Texas (AP) — Hundreds of H-E-B Food Store employees worked into the morning today, trying to clear the shelves at six stores threatened by a telephone caller who said he poisoned items in three of the outlets.

"The target is to get all the merchandise out of the stores," H-E-B Co. vice president Bill Ault said late Sunday night. "Then we will have them (the stores) inspected and certified and at that point, when everything is off the premises, we will have to start restocking."

"We have trucks on hold now from our distribution center in San Antonio."

He estimated employees had cleared "80 to 90 percent" of the shelves by 9 p.m. CST Sunday.

Everything from "meats to baby rattles" was pulled off the shelves, he said.

A "random sampling" of items were taken to the Southwest Toxicology lab in Dallas Sunday, he said, but by Sunday night the lab said it had found no poison.

"We estimate about 50 percent of every item in every (Waco) store has to be removed," Ault said. "Normally, it takes a week or two to restock a single store. We are aiming at mid-week, at least."

"We are just mostly concerned with the gigantic task at hand, moving all the stuff out, restocking and opening for business."

Ault would not reveal the cost of the enormous restocking, other than to say "it is a very, very large sum."

Lt. Marvin Horton said the first telephone threat came in Thursday, when an anonymous caller demanded $60,000 to reveal the location of the poison.

Horton said police and store officials immediately arranged a 7 p.m. "drop" in a city park near the Brazos River, but the caller did not give specific instructions on where and how the money was to be delivered.

Officers waited until midnight Thursday but the man never showed up, said Horton.

There was another call Friday, and this time the demand was more specific, the lieutenant said. The caller ordered store officials to leave the money on a street in Gholson, a small Central Texas town about 15 miles north of Waco. Police and FBI agents delivered a locked metal suitcase to the drop point, Horton said, and the case appeared to have been moved but it was not taken.

Officers did not say whether the money was inside the case. By late Saturday, Horton said, there had been a total of five telephone calls, all placed to the same store.

After the second failure to pick up the money, store officials decided to take matters into their own hands. In a Saturday press release, H-E-B officials said they were convinced the threat was a "hoax" but the company "is determined to take no risks involving the safety of the customers and employees."

"We take everything out and then we have a food analysis expert who makes a complete inspection of the store to make sure there's no possible chance of any container not being perfectly sealed — canned goods, for example," Ault said.

"We also check things like lipstick, anything that might be put next to a person's mouth. Then the restocking process starts," Ault said.

He said "hundreds" of employees were working through the night to complete the operation.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

News group founder advocate of freedom

R.C. Hoiles, the founder of Freedom Newspapers, Inc., a nationwide publishing group that includes The Pampa News, was born 102 years ago. The Alliance, Ohio, native died Oct. 30, 1970, in Santa Ana, California, where he published a daily newspaper since 1935.

During his career, R.C. Hoiles developed an organization that included 20 daily newspapers at the time of his death. Today, under the continued leadership of the Hoiles family, Freedom Newspapers has grown to 31 daily newspapers and seven weeklies operating in 13 states. Combined daily circulation is 791,000.

Raymond Cyrus Hoiles devoted his energies not only to building a successful business, but also to encouraging people to think for themselves and to resist the socialistic practices of government. He became almost a legendary advocate of the concept that humankind can enjoy happier, more prosperous lives in a voluntary society.

His basic belief was that no human being should use force or the threat of force against anyone else, and that such coercion is immoral whether it is initiated by an individual, a group or even a majority acting through the ballot or government.

He dedicated himself to counteracting influences he considered detrimental to human welfare. Although his critics often claimed he was "out of touch" with modern thought, he operated successfully in the field of mass communication for more than 65 years, often in direct competition with publishers who took a more conventional view toward this country's march into socialism.

"Our readers may not always agree with us, but they always know where we stand, and they are always free to buy or not to buy," R.C. used to say.

He consistently stood against the rising tide of higher taxation and more regulation by paternalistic government — against the erosion of individual liberty as America moved steadily toward a politically controlled society.

He subscribed to the idea that life is a matter of making decisions. "A man should be free to make his own decisions," he would say, "and to learn from his mistakes and to profit when his choice is wise and correct."

And R.C. Hoiles advocated strong, responsible newspapers as important in maintaining personal freedom.

"What this country needs as much as anything else are newspapers that believe in moral principles and have enough courage to express these principles and point out practices and beliefs that violate moral principles," he wrote. "There is no instrument that could do as much to get the American people to reverse their trend away from the ideologies set forth in the Declaration of Independence and the Commandments, and return to these ideologies, as American newspapers."

Let's lower the rhetoric level

It seems to be the case that one extremist remark engenders another. We're not sure why this is the case, and we're not sure what we can do but deplore it.

Dr. Bailey Smith, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, got in trouble a few weeks ago with his comment that "God almighty does not hear the prayer of a Jew." While familiar with the contention that God can be approached only through recognition of Jesus as Messiah, we wondered what kind of purpose other than division and mischief could be served by such a remark. We're not sure God was amused by others who jumped in to speak for Him by asserting that He does so.

Then Smith got in trouble again with a remark that he called "teasing" to the effect that "Jews got funny-looking noses." That seemed to lend credence to the suspicion that Smith's taste was non-existent, and that he might have some sort of fixation on Jews, though we wouldn't presume to judge him.

But the verbal war was escalated recently by Dr. David Hyatt, president of the national Conference of Christians and Jews, who commented that Smith's remark "Was theologically primitive and this is a throwback to the cruel and vicious way of thinking that spawned the Ku Klux Klan and the Nazi movement."

Come on Dr. Hyatt, it is really necessary to escalate to the highest (or lowest) levels of verbal shrillness immediately? Can't we condemn or deplore the remarks of others and be civil at the same time?

Careless words fail to convey meaning

By Oscar Cooley

"It can help you get younger, too." Is that what he means — that his beautifying cosmetic can help you get younger as well as various other things, maybe richer, smarter, healthier? No, he means it can help you, too, get younger.

The location of that adverb, "too," is crucial to the meaning of the sentence. Out-of-place adverbs are a very common kind of mistake, made not only by the writers of commercials but also by commentators, political orators — and columnists — who should know their English language better.

"Too" is a much-abused word. It means excessive, but people today often use it to mean merely "very." So we find ourselves saying "too good," when we mean very good. How could anything, from talent to turkey, be "too good"?

One might also ask, isn't "too bad" meaningless? Surely all bad things are too bad, that is, worse than we want them to be. Yet, "too bad" is a commonly used phrase.

But it is idiomatic. Usually it does not mean excessively bad but is used simply as a colloquial expression of sympathy. It is not confusing, as "too good" surely is.

One of my pet dislikes is "all that good," used to mean very good. "Very" is a short, well-known word; nothing is gained by substituting "all that" for it.

The phrase "all that" apparently grew out of "that," as used in the observation, "they say he is a millionaire. I know he is rich, but is he that rich?" Here the word that serves to specify a degree of richness. But "all that rich" does not serve this purpose.

"He ran like a deer." In this statement "like" is correctly used as a preposition. My American Collegiate Dictionary says "like" can also be a conjunction, and it gives as an example "He acted like he was afraid." But "he acted as if (or though) he were afraid" seems to me better.

"Like" means resembling, characteristic of, or similar to. "He ran like a deer" means he ran similar to the way a deer runs. He is not a deer but he runs like one. He and deer are compared.

But in "he acted like he was afraid," no comparison is made. Rather, that he actually was afraid is suggested, which is not what the speaker means.

So, though strictly not incorrect, "like" as a conjunction seems to me sloppy English — even if Shakespeare did use it so.

The best writers use the least possible language to say what they want to say. But interviewees and others who are conscious of having time to kill often pad their talk. A frequent way of doing this is to say "at this point in time," when they mean simply "now." Here are five words when one would do.

Or they leave off the last two words and say "at this point." But alas — are they now referring to time or place?

The at - this - pointers are trying to be specific; "now" would not pinpoint a moment in time. But if "now" is too general, "at this hour (minute, day, year)" would be better than "at this point," which does not even specify that time rather than places in the speaker's mind.

Occasionally we encounter the word,

"reportedly," meaning "according to Colport." It is not in my American Collegiate or in Webster's Unabridged but is a thrifty word and I sometimes am guilty of it. Even though not in the dictionary, it is easily interpreted.

Language evolves. We do not speak the same English that Shakespeare did, and I defy you to speak the English they used in the Canterbury Tales.

New words and a wealth of new idioms have been added to our language. If a new word or phrase does not prove to be a help in communicating, it usually falls by the wayside. The dictionary contains many antiques.

Everyone should take care to speak and write correctly, for this is our means of communication with one another, and nothing furthers cooperation as clear communication does.

We learn language not only out of books but by hearing others speak. For this reason, it is important to speak well, because as an adult one is imitated by children. Every adult teaches communication by example. Every teacher, no matter what his specialty, is a teacher of English.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Dec. 8, the 343rd day of 1980. There are 23 days left in the 'y'-days highlight in history:

On Dec. 8, 1941, the United States and Britain declared war on Japan.

On this date:

In 1886, the American Federation of Labor was founded at a convention of union leaders in Columbus, Ohio.

In 1923, the United States signed a treaty of friendship with Germany.

In 1949, the Chinese nationalist government moved to Formosa as Communists pressed their attacks on the mainland.

In 1966, the United States and the Soviet Union agreed on a treaty to prohibit nuclear weapons in outer space.

Ten years ago: The United Nations Security Council voted to condemn Portugal for military moves in Guinea.

One year ago: Republican Dave Treen shattered the Democrats' century-long hold on the Louisiana governorship by beating Louis Lambert in the most expensive campaign in the state's history.

Today's birthdays: Sammy Davis Jr. is 55. Actor Maximilian Schell is 50. Rock star Greg Allman is 33.

Thought for today: Every man's memory is his private literature. — Aldous Huxley, British novelist (1894-1963).

The sky is not falling down

by Paul Jarvey

Do you remember when in late July a longtime Michigan autoworker held several people hostage at gunpoint for several hours? Did you hear what the psychiatrists finally concluded?

William Waterman felt that the people he worked with "were against him"; indeed that "all society was against him."

Now, we know there is a very fine line of distinction between rational and irrational fear.

And some of the overwrought ecologists who are chewing their fingernails up past the second knuckle worrying about "the sky falling down" are themselves borderline nuts.

A lot of Americans have been infected with a germ of truth that's "festering."

The burning of fossil fuels does generate carbon dioxide. Generating synthetic fuels releases into the atmosphere even more carbon dioxide.

Since pre-industrial times, the amount of carbon dioxide in the air has increased measurably by as much as 17 percent. It is still less than 1 percent of atmospheric gases.

Yet, among some, anxiety over carbon dioxide is escalating past the point of reason.

Theoretically, more carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere will create a "greenhouse effect," ultimately trapping the sun's heat and raising temperatures on earth.

The effect of temperature change by a few degrees could snuff farming and fishing and, scariest of all, the predictions are that it might melt polar ice and drown us all!

David Slade of the U.S. Energy Department compares this prospect to "nuclear war."

MIT Professor David Rose calls it "an international problem of enormous dimensions."

Sagebrush in Washington

By Don Graff

One-third of the total land area of the United States is directly under the control of the federal government.

The vast federal domain — 760 million acres of it — is not parcelled out evenly among the 50 states, however. It is concentrated overwhelmingly in the West, some 90 percent of it being located west of the Rocky Mountains. In a couple of cases, Washington comes close to owning, in the name of all the people of the United States, whole states — 96 percent of Alaska is federal land and close to 90 percent of Nevada.

The lands were reserved by the federal government for various purposes — conservation, wildlife preservation, public recreation — as territories achieved statehood. The last to be admitted to the Union, the sparsely populated Western states, were in no position to protest the arrangements at the time, had they been inclined to do so.

They have since become powerfully so inclined, so much so that in recent years protest has reached the point of what more outspoken Westerners are calling a "sagebrush rebellion." The rebels want the federal government to divest itself of millions upon millions of those acres, transferring control to the states in which the lands lie. And they think they now have, as a consequence of the 1980 election, an excellent chance of bringing that about.

The basic complaint against the present federal lands system is that Washington is in a position either to bar completely or to restrict exploitation, denying the Western states that control over their economic development enjoyed without similar outside interference by the older states. The result, from the West's point of view, is that the region remains in a semi-colonial status, the sovereignty of its states within their own borders limited by a distant bureaucracy which they tend to see as insensitive to their interests and often arrogant.

For years ranchers, seeking freer access to grazing lands, and timbermen were the economic interests primarily affected by federal control. The rapidly developing need for new energy sources during the last decade has changed that, adding urgency to the rebellion and clout to the rebels. The deposits of coal, natural gas and oil in the West that are seen as the economy's hope of the future are for the most part either on federal lands or otherwise subject to federal regulation.

And now the political balance in the enemy stronghold itself, Washington, has shifted. Wasting no time in pressing their post-election advantage, a late-November Salt Lake City conference of some 500 rebel congressmen, state legislators and others laid plans for a campaign in Congress, capitalizing on its new conservatism and the West's strengthening representation.

But that's not all. The rebels can also count on the assistance of the most powerful of possible allies — President-elect Reagan, who has reassured them that he is one of their own.

Although no easy victories are expected, prospects of an eventual change in the federal land system are looking up, way up. True, there is always the possibility that, once settled in at the White House, the new president may temper his regional enthusiasm in favor of a more national view. It has happened before.

And the environmental establishment should not be overlooked. It may be down as a political force as a result of the election, but is far from out of the struggle against what it tends to see as a land grab by economic interests. Its capacity for bureaucratic delay, if nothing else, remains immense.

But all that considered, growing conditions for sagebrush are better now than they have ever been in Washington.

Most other countries think America's environmentalists have gone bananas.

Wearied by the constant stream of alarms they hear from every scientist who wants to see his grant renewed or his name in print, most foreign observers are more amused than anxious.

Farmers, the world over, welcome any increased carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. Crops and trees love to breathe carbon dioxide and would thrive on more of it.

Agriculture is accustomed to adapting to climatic changes and is not going to be panicked by speculative uncertainty.

If the world wants to counteract any increase in carbon dioxide it has only to plant more trees, more crops; vegetation as well as oceans are natural reservoirs for containing carbon dioxide, for locking it away from the atmosphere.

Perhaps that would be a good idea for aesthetic reasons as well. Developed nations have indeed cleared more trees than they've replanted. If anxiety about balancing carbon dioxide in the atmosphere should motivate us to reverse this willful erosion, good!

But the more ominous imbalance is not biological, it is psychological. We must all make a conscious effort to maintain emotional balance so that unreasonable anxieties will not motivate us to do — or to undo — unwisely.

The sky will fall down only on the unstable.

Widow's home keeping Maine winters at bay with insulation

CHESTERVILLE, Maine (AP)—Long, harsh winters are the norm in the foothills of western Maine, but Elsa Currier doesn't dread them so much now that her home is buttoned up against the cold.

"This house is a good deal warmer than it's ever been," said Mrs. Currier, describing how her century-old farmhouse was insulated from attic to basement under the federal government's weatherproofing program.

An elderly widow on fixed income, Mrs. Currier is one of a growing number of low-income householders benefitting from home weatherproofing, a program started in reaction to the big fuel price increases that followed the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

"If the guidelines remain the same, we should have every eligible home winterized in the next 2½ years," said Harvey Rosenfeld, who heads the energy program in the state Community Services Division, which funnels money from the U.S. Department of Energy to community action programs throughout the state.

The Franklin County program, regarded by state officials as one of the most productive, has 14 workers weatherproofing houses and an average 60-day backlog of applications.

Its director, Bob Franchetti, recalls how the program has improved since the early days when lack of money forced "a Band-Aid approach" to insulation needs.

Franchetti's workers first visited Mrs. Currier in late 1976. They found a big, old house with virtually no weatherstripping or insulation. They poured several bags of insulation into the ceiling, installed foil-backed insulation where possible and hung six rolls of plastic sheeting over windows to keep out drafts.

Crews returned early this year to complete the job, installing combination windows and louvers, rebuilding walls and blowing in cellulose insulation, adding fiberglass to the ceilings, and caulking, glazing and weatherstripping.

Now the house is weathertight, and two wood-burning stoves keep Mrs. Currier warm in the coldest weather. Rising fuel costs prompted her to switch from propane gas to wood, and she expects to get through the winter with eight cords—about half the amount she might have required in her uninsulated house.

Franchetti has a file filled with letters from homeowners telling how their use of fuel oil, kerosene or wood was cut in half through home weatherproofing.

Rosenfeld says long-term energy savings from weatherproofing makes the program far more effective than simply helping poor people pay inflated fuel costs.

"Maine is getting $24 million in fuel assistance this year, and we're going to get only $4 million for weatherization. That $24 million goes up the chimney, literally and figuratively."

"What we hope to do is turn those figures around, maybe get $12 million for weatherization and $18 million for fuel assistance," said Rosenfeld.

While the state's tentative allocation of weatherproofing money for 1981 comes to only $2.8 million, Rosenfeld said the Department of Energy has given Maine "a verbal commitment" to weatherproof as many homes as possible.

Welfare officials say the program is likely to win support from the Reagan administration because of its "payback" in future energy savings and the money it pours into building suppliers and other local businesses.

To make eligible households aware of the program, the Franklin County CAP has advertised, put inserts in monthly fuel bills and sent outreach workers fanning through the area.

"There's still a lot of pride, particularly among the elderly. People don't want to come in to seek government assistance. They don't want any handouts," said David Markochick, executive director of the CAP.

Polish lifestyle depends on connections

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—"Sorry, no more meat," the clerk in a Warsaw shop told the customers. They all moved away except one. A moment later, the clerk reached under the counter and handed the waiting shopper a bag of sausage.

In Poland today it pays to have connections. They fill in the blanks created by the nearly bankrupt economy, the inefficient bureaucracy and the indifference among clerks and service personnel bred by a system offering few incentives.

Having friends in the right places can mean getting a new apartment quickly, buying meat or butter or getting the car serviced at the lowest cost.

Favors are often repaid by favors: perpetuating the system.

Life in Poland or any other communist country hones a different set of traits and instincts than living in the more prosperous West.

Patience is one such trait. Going to the neighborhood grocery for meat, bread, sugar and potatoes—a simple task in the United States—can be an all-morning chore in Poland.

and there is no guarantee that those who stand in line will get what they are waiting for.

Obtaining an apartment in Warsaw, a city that was devastated during World War II and still suffers from an acute shortage of adequate housing, can be a burdensome task of filling out forms and waiting for months or years.

Another necessary trait is resourcefulness.

With the average monthly wage between $167 to $200, many Poles must find additional sources of income to live anything like well.

A moderately priced dinner for two at a good restaurant would cost a man earning the average monthly wage two days' pay.

City dweller escapes to river

GAUSE, Texas (AP)—It was time to get away from the stink of the city, away from the roar of the trucks and the curses of driver, from the grit in the eyes and carbon dioxide in the nose.

The escape route led to the banks of the Brazos River in Central Texas, a spot selected by a friend where there were no other persons within miles and the only companions would be the wildlife that flew, prowled, or slithered in the area.

With a fancy new tent, a cook store and a lantern there would be five days with only my dog, who listens but doesn't talk back.

The Brazos would provide the fish. A few cans of beans, stew and fruit would fill out the daily menu.

On the first full day at my isolated spot, there was a backlash on the fishing reel and four days later the there was still a backlash.

On the second day the line broke on the second piece of fishing gear.

That large package of cornmeal, brought along to fry the big catfish, was never opened. The bottle of cooking oil was untouched. The cans of stew, beans and fruit vanished.

At dusk one day, two coyotes soft-footed it down for a drink of water. It was a touch of true nature, unless you were frightened of coyotes.

I am frightened of coyotes.

The fancy new tent offered protection from the elements and animals. There was a canvas floor and a zipper to insure nothing could enter.

THE 1980 British Christmas stamps feature traditional decorations of tree and greenery, streamers and bells.

Stamps illustrate traditions

LONDON — Christmas is a time when men come together in peace, if only for the brief celebration of a festival that marks the birth of a savior and-or hope. It is a festival with its own traditional decorations of tree and greenery, streamers and bells — all of which are shown on the British Christmas stamps.

A Christmas tree, shown on the 10p stamp, is perhaps the most obvious symbol of Christmas but in fact it is a comparatively new comer. It was popularized in England by Prince Albert, Queen Victoria's consort, who introduced it to the Royal Family in the 1840s. The use of holly, ivy and mistletoe to decorate house and church goes back into the mists of time. They have pre-Christian associations and were used in pagan festivals as a promise of continuing life.

Candles, ribbons and ivy are shown on the 62p stamp, while the design of the 13½p stamp is based on the traditional kissing bough. This was an elaborate hanging sphere of hoops decorated with evergreens, candles and ribbon. Apples and oranges were suspended from it and mistletoe tied underneath. Nowadays the bunch of mistletoe is often all that is left of this traditional decoration.

The 15p stamp shows a selection of paper chains and streamers. These were introduced by the Victorians and became popular in the latter half of the 19th century. They replaced the evergreen garlands made by binding small pieces of foliage to a stout cord.

The 17½ stamp shows a holly wreath, traditional in the United States and becoming popular in England. The luxuriance and variety of greenery in Christmas decorations gradually diminished during the Victorian era but the holly remains a great favorite. The fragile Christmas ornaments also shown on this stamp have evolved over centuries from gilded fruits and nuts used to decorate trees in Germany.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN — Now that cold weather months are with us in Texas most of us are thinking about ways to minimize our heating bills.

The first thing that comes to mind for many of us is the cozy and inviting blaze of a fireplace, although how much warmth and comfort a fireplace can provide on a chilly evening may be questionable. Unless a fireplace is installed correctly and the proper materials are used, consumers will find that resulting problems could cause more discomfort than comfort.

For those of us considering a new fireplace, the first step is to decide on the type and size of the fireplace. The best known fireplace is the traditional version with firebrick interior and brick on stone chimney. Another type is the pre-assembled built-in unit with metal firebox and flue. This type can be installed to look like the traditional version, including enclosing the metal flue within a chimney. The third type is the free standing pre-fabricated unit that can be placed anywhere in the room. Each of these types should be safe and satisfactory if installed correctly and made of proper materials.

Several sizes of fireplaces are available. The size you choose determines the size of the logs you can burn. You should also decide what options you want, such as a gas or butane starter or an outside door or special drawer for ash removal. Also consider some of the heat-circulating devices that are designed to improve the ability of the fireplace to heat an entire room. Some of these could prove to be worthwhile investments for those of us who want our fireplaces to provide a major source of heat.

Before you decide upon a contractor it is always wise to get several bids and to discuss exactly what you want before any of the actual work begins. Reputable companies and individuals are generally happy to show you examples of their work. After you have reached an agreement, be sure a contract is completed which specifies what work is to be done, and the price and the timetable for completion of the job. While many contractors have drawn up their own standard contracts you should still be sure to review such a contract carefully to see that it states the precise agreement you have reached.

One final tip from our Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division is to be wary of paying too much money before the work is completed to your satisfaction. A good rule of thumb is to hold back a substantial portion of the purchase price until the job is completed.

Our Consumer Protection Division has received a number of reports of fireplace construction problems over the last several years. If you have any questions about specific contractors or wish to lodge a formal complaint contact your local Better Business Bureau and the Attorney General's Regional Office in your area.

DEAR ABBY Just hope you look as good at 69

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Now that Ronald Reagan has made it to the White House, do you think he will quit dyeing his hair? Or will he "dye" lying?

CURIOUS IN GEORGIA

DEAR CURIOUS: Mr. Reagan has never dyed his hair. This comes straight from Drucker, the barber who has cut Ronald Reagan's hair for the last 40 years. And if he gets a few gray hairs in the next four years, let's not have any "I told ya' so's." That job is enough to turn anyone gray overnight.

DEAR ABBY: I know this is childish, but I am going out of my mind. After being married for eight years, we finally found a house we could afford that is perfect for us. It's in a wonderful neighborhood, and everything about it is ideal except for one couple who are neighbors.

This couple comes over every Friday night to play cards with us. It doesn't matter what we are doing, they come over without calling. It started two years ago when we first bought this house, and now it has become a habit. They have a nice home of their own, but they're never home because they have a place to go every night in the week — and on Fridays, it's our house!

My husband doesn't want me to say anything, but, Abby, this is making me crazy. I love my home and I don't want to have to start going out every Friday night just to get away from this couple.

What do you do with people like that?

GOING MAD IN MAINE

DEAR GOING: If your neighbors read "Dear Abby," you may not have to "do" anything. If they don't, you have two choices: 1) Tell them the Friday night card game is off unless you call to confirm it; 2) suffer in silence and continue to be stuck with them every Friday night.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the physician who complained about having $35,000 on the books because of slow-paying patients. Let me assure you that lawyers have the same problem. I never cease to be amazed at the people who brazenly telephone wanting free advice, or "just a minute of your time," totally ignoring the fact that all a lawyer has to sell is his time.

We have had clients phone for legal advice that requires hours of research, and when they are billed for "services rendered," they call up and say, "You're kidding about this bill, aren't you?" What then, Dear Abby?

TENNESSEE ATTORNEY

DEAR ATTORNEY: Reply, "No, we're not kidding about the bill." And if they don't pay it, sue 'em for services rendered.

'Suedes' easy to sew

By Florence De Santis

NEW YORK (NEA) — Can the home sewer work with a man-made suede fabric of the kind that top designers use? Don Sayres, who often creates styles for Vogue Patterns' American Designer Collection, says the answer is yes. And, he's recently been using a new suede-like fabric to demonstrate how easy it is.

As a separates designer, Don Sayres likes Amara for his easy way with silhouettes. Typical is his wide-shouldered cropped jacket gathered on shoulder yoking to wear open or buttoned. He suggests welt-ing the edges for good tailoring, and pairs the jacket with equally soft pants, pleated at the waistband. He likes the jacket in a deep color, such as garnet Amara, the pants lighter, in camel.

The outfit is a Don Sayres Vogue Pattern duo, numbers 2613 and 1963, wherever patterns and fabrics are sold. When seeking the man-made suede for his styles, ask for "Amara."

Olive is one of man's most ancient foods

By TOM HOGE

AP Wine and Food Writer

For years I regarded the olive as little more than an adornment for a martini. Then I visited Italy.

I still remember the big, tangy, green olives sold in Naples and the pungent, black ones popular on the Island of Sicily.

The Italians did all sorts of wonderful things with olives that I had never heard of. They made an olive stuffing for chicken, used them in meat loaf and casseroles, and served a delicious soup in which black olives were the prime ingredient.

The versatile fruit was also made into a condite or salad and chopped with soft cheese to form a spread.

Probably no fruit has had as far-reaching an effect on the development of man as the olive. At least 3,000 years before Christ, the peoples of the Near East and the Mediterranean used olive oil for cooking and anointing themselves.

The Bible refers to the olive many times, and the dove that announced the ebbing of the flood waters to Noah carried an olive branch in its beak. And, of course, the olive branch has long been considered the symbol of peace.

The olive journeyed to the New World in the 16th century, when Spanish explorers introduced it into Peru. A Century later, Jesuit missionaries brought olive trees to Mexico, and by the 18th century the legendary fruit had reached California.

The process used to make the olive edible is interesting and necessary since the fresh fruit is quite bitter.

Green fermented olives, the well-known Spanish style, are soaked briefly in lye, washed and kept in barrels of salt solution for six to 12 months.

The ripe black olives must also be soaked in lye and then kept in brine. Actually, black is not the natural hue but is developed during the lye treatments. Exposed to the air between soaking sessions, the olives slowly turn black.

Here's a recipe for olive soup that I like:

4 ounces black olives, minced
1 small garlic clove
1½ cups chicken broth
1 egg, beaten
4 ounces light cream
Salt and pepper to taste

Simmer olives with garlic in chicken broth. After 15 minutes, remove garlic and add egg which has been mixed with the cream. Heat, stirring constantly for 7 minutes, without letting it reach a boil. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot or chilled. Serves 3-4 persons.

Good with a chilled, dry white wine.

Sugar makes salt worse for high blood pressure. Sugar raises insulin levels in the blood, which in turn "augments sodium retention," say researchers from Louisiana State University Medical School. The researchers fed spider monkeys diets high in sugar and salt in an experiment which showed that the two in combination elevated blood pressures in the monkeys more than salt alone.

Keep this in mind if you are in the habit of snacking on highly processed foods which contain large amounts of each. Excess weight is also a primary factor in high blood pressure. Diet Center's nutritionally balanced diet from natural food sources is low in salt and contains no sugar. You can lose weight quickly and safely.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

December 9, 1980

From time to time over the coming months you are likely to experience strong urges for material acquisition. When this occurs, give them top priority. They'll represent periods of profitable potential.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Profit from experience if you have loaned someone either money or an object and this person neither returned nor repaid you. Don't repeat old mistakes today. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a fine line today between being assertive and offensive. Be careful that you don't inadvertently step over it in pursuing your self-interests.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Persons who are usually helpful could let you down today, so rely more upon yourself and less upon them. Operate independently for success.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Complications could arise today if you become too involved in a pal's confidential affairs or if he or she butts into yours. It's best for both of you to mind your own business.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Guard against being too self-serving today. Although you may accomplish what you set out to do, you could also alienate associates.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Persons who perform work or services for you today may not meet your standards or requirements. If you deal with them tactlessly, it could even make matters worse.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll have enough to do to take care of your own affairs today without trying to manage things for another. Beware of butting in where you're not invited.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Both you and your mate are apt to have very definite ways of how you want certain things done today. Unfortunately, your views could be poles apart.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's very important today to have the right attitude regarding your work or responsibility. A negative outlook will make all you attempt twice as hard.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Impulsive whims could arise today which might cause you to be extravagant or wasteful. If you yield for momentary gratification, you may later regret it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) If anyone is able to see the other fellow's point of view, it's you. Today, however, you may be so anxious to have your own way that you'll ignore his interests in order to achieve your own.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Harboring grudges today for something that was done to you could prove very unproductive. Let bygones be bygones and begin anew.

Injuries may be factor in tonight's Patriots-Dolphins game

MIAMI (AP) — The scene must be all too familiar to the New England Patriots. A late-season loss to a non-playoff contender, an 8-5 record after a fast start and ... a Monday night National Football League appointment with the Miami Dolphins in the Orange Bowl, where New England hasn't won since 1966.

A year ago, the Patriots got off to a 6-2 start but had fallen to 8-5 by the time the team rolled into Miami for a crucial American Conference East matchup on national tv. By that time, the critics had started the talk about the Pats annual nose dive and a 39-24 loss to the Dolphins dealt a serious blow to their fortunes.

The scores and some of the opponents are different in 1980. But the Patriots got off to an identical 6-2 start and stand 8-5 and in desperate need of a victory heading into tonight's nationally televised game with the 6-7 Dolphins. Game time is 9 p.m. EST.

The critics started clearing their throats last week after the Patriots dropped a 21-17 decision at San Francisco and a loss to the Dolphins will again hinder their stretch run for the playoffs.

"We've got to win this game. It seems like we haven't had much success down here, but this has been a different team from teams in the past," said New England safety Tim Fox.

"We've always had certain things over our heads: We can't win certain games, we can't win on grass, we can't win on national TV," he added. "We've overcome a lot of those things."

The Patriots need a victory to remain one game behind AFC East leader Buffalo in the race for the division crown and an automatic playoff berth. New England hosts the Bills next Sunday before closing the season at New Orleans on Dec. 21.

Miami is out of the playoff picture, but the 34-0 whipping the Patriots administered to the Dolphins in Foxboro, Mass., on Oct. 12 gives the team plenty of incentive for tonight.

"I think we all feel we're a much better football team now than we were in that ballgame," said Miami Coach Don Shula.

Injuries may be an important factor in the game. Patriot quarterbacks Steve Grogan and Matt Cavanaugh both have bruised left knees and Coach Ron Erhardt has indicated he will start the healthier of the two.

Miami rookie cornerback Don McNeal will miss the game because of a broken left wrist and stretched tendon in his right hand, while safety Doug Beaudoin is questionable with a hamstring pull.

Davis cup goes to Czechoslovakia after triumph over Italy Sunday

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The Davis Cup, for the first time in its 80-year history, was in the hands of an Eastern European and communist nation after Czechoslovakia's 4-1 triumph over Italy in the final of the year-long multi-nation competition.

The stormy three-day competition which ended Sunday is expected to result in further changes in the Cup rules aimed at reducing disputes on line calls that marred the play here, sources in the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) said.

The most likely and immediate innovation was expected to be the naming of international chair umpires to run the matches, eliminating the match referee, said ILTF President Philippe Chatrier of France.

Many ILTF officials feel that is not enough. They say the linesmen too, and not just the chair umpire, should be from countries other than the two finalists. Under present rules, the ILTF names the referee, but umpires and linesmen come from the country organizing the final.

The Davis Cup had already undergone two major changes to keep alive interest in the tournament. The first was the elimination of the old style challenge round, forcing winners to go through the qualification rounds the following year.

The second change, which becomes effective next year, will eliminate the traditional division of qualification groups by zones. This system pitted the same teams against one another year after year.

The new format calls for 16 seeded teams to battle for the title, with first round losers facing the winners of four qualification rounds to fill the 16 spots for 1982.

Starting next year, the Cup also will have a sponsor, a Japanese company that has put $1 million in the competition, $200,000 going to the winner.

Ironically, Czechoslovakia will not be one of the top four 1981 seeds, and is likely to be pitted against the United States in the second round. Next year's draw was made last June on the basis of past performances, and the Americans, Argentina, Australia and Italy were awarded the top honors.

Astros expected to release Joe Morgan

DALLAS (AP) — The Houston Astros were expected today to announce the release of veteran second baseman Joe Morgan who signed a one-year, $225,000 free agent contract a year ago.

The Astros scheduled a morning news conference during the annual baseball meeting but General Manager Al Rosen would not discuss the reports on Morgan or a reported potential trade involving third baseman Enos Cabell.

"I can't confirm anything," Rosen said. "It wouldn't be fair."

The Astros were reported close to a trade that would send Cabell and another Houston player to the San Francisco Giants for left-handed pitcher Bob Knepper and outfielder Chris Bourjos.

While Rosen refused comment, Tom Reich, Morgan's manager, was quoted by the Houston Post as saying, "You might say we agreed to disagree."

Morgan is in Hawaii on vacation but he was quoted as saying last week he wanted to return in 1981 to Houston where he began his career and where he was an inspirational leader last season as the team moved to the National League West title.

"But I just don't think they want me," he said. "That hurts deep. Because I sure want them."

UT-Arlington remains unbeaten in basketball

By The Associated Press

Texas-Arlington is the only unbeaten Southland Conference basketball team after the first full week of non-conference competition.

Louisiana Tech and Lamar aren't far behind. While Texas-Arlington boasts a 3-0 record, Louisiana Tech and Lamar are 3-1. Arkansas State, at 2-1, also has but one loss.

Lamar, which advanced to the final 16 teams in last year's NCAA tournament, lost to 17th-rated Missouri 92-70 Saturday in the championship game of the Show-Me Classic.

Lamar had whipped Pittsburgh 67-65 behind Mike Olliver's 30-point performance in the first round.

McNeese State, the league's other tournament participant, didn't fare as well, losing of its outings in the McDonald's Classic at Wichita State, falling to the host in the opening round 91-56 and then losing to Oklahoma City 75-68 Saturday.

But the big surprises have been the Indians and the Movin' Mavs.

Arkansas State was nudged 59-55 by Arkansas-Little Rock 69-68 before tromping Mercer 67-52.

UTA routed Westmont 90-74.

Cowboys have rough ride ahead on way to Superbowl

OAKLAND (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are riding into the National Football League playoffs for the 14th time in the last 15 years and it promises to be a rough ride.

"If we go to the Super Bowl, our last six games will be against championship caliber teams. We're finishing against the tough ones, but that's going to be good for us," said quarterback Danny White after Sunday's 19-13 victory over the Oakland Raiders.

An endzone interception by cornerback Aaron Mitchell with 1:44 left in the game killed Oakland's last serious scoring threat. Two Dallas scores came after fumble recoveries.

"We didn't make enough big plays to beat a team like Dallas," said Raiders Coach Tom Flores.

"We prevented them from making big plays," said Mitchell.

The Cowboys' fourth straight victory made their record 11-3 and left them tied for the NFC East lead with the Philadelphia Eagles, losers to the Atlanta Falcons Sunday. The Raiders, 9-5, remained tied with San Diego for first in the AFC West.

"There's a lot of pressure on Philadelphia right now, more than there is on us," said Tony Dorsett, whose 97-yard rushing day against Oakland gave him a season total of 1,034 yards. "They've lost two in a row and we're on a winning streak."

"If we beat Los Angeles next Monday night, then the climax of the season will be when we play the Eagles at Texas Stadium. It will be the grand finale, and it's going to be great."

The Eagles are home against St. Louis next Sunday before heading into the Dec. 21 matchup with the Cowboys.

Dallas ran into another "Big D" Sunday — the Oakland defensive unit which has held opponents under 300 yards in three straight games. But the Raiders' offense was held to one touchdown a third straight time.

"They're unbelievably tough against the run," said White, who also showed great respect for the Oakland pass rush by throwing most of his 14 completions to running backs and tight ends.

After an even first quarter, with Oakland scoring on Jim Plunkett's 6-yard pass to Raymond Chester and Dorsett bursting 20 yards for a touchdown, Rafael Septien sent the Cowboys ahead to stay with the longest field goal of his career, from 52 yards.

Less than two minutes later, Dallas had a 16-7 lead. The Raiders' Keith Moody, on only his third kickoff return of the year, raced past midfield but fumbled when tackled and the Cowboys' Doug Cosbie recovered. A 40-yard completion to tight end Billy Joe DuFree set up a 2-yard touchdown run by Ron Springs.

From that point on, said Coach Tom Landry, "Our defense did the job."

Chris Bahr kicked two Oakland field goals, the first coming after Chester dropped a pass in the end zone late in the second period. Septien kicked his second field goal of the day after Harvey Martin sacked Plunkett, forcing a fumble at the Oakland 20 in the third quarter.

"Was it Harvey Martin? I never knew who hit me, but it was a good tackle," said Plunkett, who was looking right when defensive end Martin roared in from the passer's left.

The Raiders' other troubles in the second half included a penalty which nullified a kickoff return to the Dallas 40 and a penalty which allowed the Cowboys to kill extra time in the final minutes.

"It would have been a big win," said Flores. "But we still have the chance to do it, win our division. No one's going to do it for us, we're going to have to do it."

Many of the Raiders fans, worried about the team's proposed move to Los Angeles next season, waved their "Save Our Raiders" signs again Sunday at what could have been the last Oakland home game ever.

The Raiders may have to win their last two games, on the road against Denver and the New York Giants, to reach the playoffs. San Diego, upset Sunday by Washington, finishes against Seattle and Pittsburgh.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS
Danger Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

Here are nine critical symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations which are usually the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these usually spells back trouble.

(1) Paresthesias (see above) (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals indicate that your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these danger signals ... call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Cowboys, Chargers tied for firsts

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Dallas' Tony Dorsett fulfilled his half of an agreement he made six weeks ago, so the San Diego Chargers and the Cowboys are tied for first place in their respective divisions two weeks before the end of the National Football League season.

When Dallas played San Diego on Oct. 26, "Dorsett asked me to beat Philadelphia, and we did," John Jefferson, Chargers wide receiver, said Sunday after his team was upset 40-17 by Washington. "And now he is supposed to return the favor by beating Oakland for us."

After the Chargers lost to the Redskins, Dorsett ran for 97 yards, including a 20-yard touchdown, as the Cowboys defeated the Raiders 19-13, allowing San Diego to stay even with Oakland for the AFC West lead, both with 9-5 records.

The Dallas victory, combined with Philadelphia's 20-17 loss to NFC West leader Atlanta, moved the Cowboys into a tie with the Eagles in the NFC East, both with 11-3 marks.

It was the Eagles' second loss in a row, the other coming at the hands of San Diego, which fulfilled the first half of the Dorsett-Jefferson pact.

The victories by Atlanta and Dallas clinched playoff berths for both teams, a feat Philadelphia had already accomplished.

"If we win our last two games, we'll have the most victories in Cowboys history," said Dorsett. "That should tell you something."

"I never thought we'd be tied with Philadelphia at this point," admitted Coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys, who trailed the Eagles by two games two weeks ago. "It's a good feeling to know if we win our last two games, we'll win the East again."

The Cowboys earned their 14th playoff berth in 15 years as Rafael Septien kicked a 52-yard field goal and Ron Springs scored a 2-yard touchdown in a two-minute span of the second period. Dorsett, who became the first NFL runner to go over 1,000 yards in each of his first four seasons, scored his TD in the first quarter.

In other NFL games, AFC East leader Buffalo beat Los Angeles 10-7 in overtime. Minnesota took over the lead in the NFC Central with a 21-10 victory over Tampa Bay. Cleveland stayed on top in the AFC Central with a 17-14 triumph over the New York Jets. St. Louis knocked Detroit out of a first-place tie in the NFC Central with a 24-23 decision. Cincinnati outlasted Baltimore 34-33. Chicago trampled Green Bay 61-7. Kansas City swamped Denver 31-14. San Francisco came back to beat winless New Orleans 38-35 in overtime and the New York Giants defeated Seattle 27-21.

New England meets Miami in tonight's game. Falcons 20, Eagles 17.

Tim Mazzetti's 37-yard field goal with seven seconds left gave Atlanta its victory over Philadelphia. The Falcons, 11-3 and two games ahead of Los Angeles in the NFC West, recovered from a 14-3 deficit on Steve Bartkowski's two touchdown passes.

"We're no fluke. We can let our record speak for itself," said Coach Leeman Bennett, whose Falcons finished 6-10 last season.

Redskins 40, Chargers 17

Washington intercepted five passes, three by Joe Lavender, and Mark Moseley kicked four field goals in the shocking upset of San Diego.

Lavender returned one of his three interceptions off Dan Fouts, who surpassed the 4,000-yard mark in passing despite the four interceptions he threw, for a 51-yard touchdown. Joe Theismann had two touchdowns passes and completed 26 of 37 tosses for 269 yards.

Bills 10, Rams 7

Joe Ferguson hit wide receiver Frank Lewis on a 30-yard pass play to set up Nick Mike-Mayer's game-winning 30-yard field goal that beat Los Angeles in the fifth minute of overtime. The Bills are 10-4 and 1 1/2 games ahead of New England in the AFC East pending the Patriots' game tonight, while the Rams are 9-5 and are faced with losing the NFC West title for the first time in eight years.

Vikings 21, Buccaneers 10

Minnesota quarterback Tommy Kramer had only 63 yards passing before halftime but he had 201 in the last two quarters and engineered two long scoring drives.

Minnesota, only 8-6 but still ahead in the NFC Central by a game, trailed 10-0 before intermission.

Cardinals 24, Lions 23

Detroit fell out of a tie with the Vikings when Roy Green returned a punt 57 yards for a touchdown with 3:40 left.

The Lions had led 23-14 late in the third quarter on Gary Danielson's 37-yard touchdown pass to Leonard Thompson.

Browns 17, Jets 14

Quarterback Brian Sipe hit a club-record 30 passes in 41 attempts for 340 yards and a touchdown, a 3-yarder to Greg Pruitt that wiped out a 14-10 New York lead in the fourth quarter, to give Cleveland its victory.

The Browns, 10-4, are one game ahead of Houston in the AFC Central.

Bears 61, Packers 7

Vince Evans completed 18 of 22 passes for 316 yards and three touchdowns and Walter Payton scored three TDs to lead Chicago over Green Bay. The Bears equalled their club record for points in one game set in 1965.

Chiefs 31, Broncos 14

Quarterback Bill Kenney, making his regular-season debut after nearly two seasons in the NFL, threw touchdown passes of 33 and 8 yards to lead Kansas City over Denver.

Kenney, filling in for injured starter Steve Fuller, completed 12 of 18 passes for 142 yards.

Giants 27, Seahawks 21

Billy Taylor scored on a 30-yard run with 1:57 to go, with the Seattle defense drawn tight on fourth-and-one, to give New York its victory over Seattle, still winless at home this season.

OSU shot brings down eighth ranked Louisville

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Eddie Hannon tossed up one of those "wing and a prayer" shots. "I don't think you expect to make those," said the Oklahoma State guard. "You just throw it up—and hope it goes in."

Thrown from halfcourt, the ball ricocheted off the backboard and fell through the basket as the buzzer sounded a third straight defeat for eighth-ranked Louisville Saturday night, 72-71.

The defending national champions had the feeling their pockets had been picked, though. Many of them believed that the shot did not beat the clock.

"Flash Gordon couldn't do that," said an angry Louisville guard, Jerry Eaves.

The Cowboys had run the clock down to 16 seconds and Roger Burkman stole a pass from Hannon intended for Lorenzo Andrews with six seconds left. Andrews had to foul Burkman with four seconds left and the Cardinals, themselves, called a timeout before sending Burkman to the line.

But Burkman's first attempt banged off the iron, bounced off to Hannon in the deep corner and Hannon began dribbling madly up the floor. Just before the 6-foot junior college transfer reached halfcourt, he jumped into the air and fired in the winner.

Louisville Coach Denny Crum was as upset as Eaves about what he considered a "slow clock" in the game at Stillwater.

"When the ball hits the rim, that clock has to start," said Crum, who had never lost the first three games of the season in his 10 years in Louisville. "That guy (Mel Wright, an Oklahoma State physical education instructor) did not start the clock until the ball got in the corner. If I was running their athletic department and the films proved me right, which they will, I'd want to take care of that."

The upset of Louisville was one of several Saturday, as Wake Forest beat No. 10 North Carolina 82-71 in the finals of the Big Four Tournament; Michigan stopped No. 11 Arkansas 78-65; Arizona State trimmed No. 12 Iowa 96-88 in the finals of the Fiesta Classic and Princeton edged No. 16 St. John's 47-46.

Elsewhere, top-ranked DePaul whipped Santa Clara 88-71; No. 2 Kentucky nipped No. 5 Indiana 68-66; No. 3 UCLA blasted St. Mary's (Calif.) 113-70.

Georgia in the Sugar Bowl, the opportunity of a lifetime will be in our hands," said Stockstill.

But it's not that simple. To stay in the running, Florida State would have to beat fifth-ranked Oklahoma, 9-2, in the Orange Bowl New Year's Night. And even that would not necessarily make the Seminoles No. 1.

Georgia, after all, would finish with an 11-1 record — the same as Florida State — even if it loses to Notre Dame. And while Notre Dame's record would only be 10-1-1, the Irish's big bowl win over the team that had been No. 1 would be fresh in the voters' minds.

Three other clubs can also finish with 11-1 marks: No. 4 Pitt, which plays No. 18 South Carolina in the Gator Bowl; No. 7 Baylor, which takes on No. 8 Alabama in the Cotton Bowl, and No. 12 North Carolina, which meets unranked Texas in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Notre Dame had been in the best position to take the top spot away from Georgia before it was derailed by Southern Cal, which is barred from bowl participation by conference sanction.

In other games, Dayton romped to a 63-0 victory over Ithaca in the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl and won the NCAA Division III championship.

Eastern Illinois outscored North Alabama 56-31 and Cal Poly-SLO beat Santa Clara 38-14 in the NCAA Division II semifinals.

Celtics defense resembles bullfighting

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Boston Coach Bill Fitch has had enough of matador defense. "We looked like a bunch of bullfighters out there," Fitch said after his Celtics were beaten by the Washington Bullets 113-103 Sunday night. "We were just waving the red in."

The Bullets, especially speedy guards Kevin Porter and Wes Matthews, repeatedly drove the lane for easy baskets. Those two combined for 32 points and 15 assists, and Fitch was angry that Boston's big men did nothing to impede their way to the basket.

"I didn't see once where either Porter or Matthews hit the deck," Fitch fumed. "Sometimes, you got to tear the guard's ear off so he'll think the next time before he penetrates."

In other National Basketball Association games, the San Diego Clippers trimmed the New Jersey Nets 98-95, the Portland Trail Blazers edged the San Antonio Spurs 116-115, the Phoenix Suns defeated the Golden State Warriors 106-88 and the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Utah Jazz 113-100.

Elvin Hayes scored 27 points and Greg Ballard 24 for Washington, which outscored Boston 25-16 in the final period.

"Our idea was to stay close," said Bullets Coach Gene Shue. "You have to play that way against tough teams and hope for that one spurt."

Washington got the spurt it needed with five minutes left to play when Ballard hit three straight jumpers to turn a four-point lead into a 107-97 advantage with 3 1/2 minutes to go.

Clippers 98, Nets 95

Center Swen Nater scored a season-high 30 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead the Clippers to their sixth victory in the last eight starts.

Rookie Mike O'Koren, who had 25 points and 12 rebounds for the Nets, scored a basket with 13 seconds left to pull his team within two points at 97-95. San Diego rookie Michael Brooks sank one free throw, then the Nets' Mike Newlin missed a three-point shot at the buzzer.

Blazers 116, Spurs 115

Billy Ray Bates scored 10 of his team-high 21 points in the fourth quarter, but it was a 16-footer jumper by rookie Kelvin Ransey with 36 seconds left that clinched Portland's victory.

Three-time scoring champion George Gervin, who had 41 points, failed in a bid to win the game for the Spurs when he missed an 18-footer at the buzzer.

Suns 106, Warriors 88

Phoenix raised its record to 24-8 behind Len Robinson's 28 points. The Suns led 59-44 at the half and reserve guards Johnny High and Kyle Macy turned back a third-quarter Golden State surge.

Lakers 113, Jazz 100

Los Angeles raced to a 16-6 lead at the start and was never headed in breaking a three-game losing streak. Center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 24 points and grabbed 17 rebounds for the Lakers, while Adrian Dantley topped Utah with 32 points.

Southern Cal upset rocks Florida State

Southern Cal's upset of second-ranked Notre Dame took place in Los Angeles, but the impact was felt 2,500 miles away.

"This place exploded," said Florida State quarterback Rick Stockstill, who watched the telecast of Southern Cal's 20-3 victory Saturday in the Tallahassee, Fla. apartment building that houses the Seminoles. "We knew we had to have some help to become a serious challenger for No. 1, and Southern Cal gave us a big push."

Florida State, ranked third last week, stayed in the chase for the national championship by rallying to beat Florida 17-13 on a pair of second-half touchdown passes from Stockstill to Hardis Johnson. The Seminoles, 10-1, figure to move up a notch to No. 2 in this week's rankings.

No. 1, of course, is Georgia, the only unbeaten and untied major college team in the nation. And the Bulldogs can wrap up the national championship by beating Notre Dame, 9-1-1, in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day.

But if the Irish can bounce back and knock off Georgia, then things would get interesting — and you can be sure that the Seminoles, who routed hard against Notre Dame on Saturday, will be solidly behind the Irish next time.

If Notre Dame will just cooperate with a victory over

Georgia in the Sugar Bowl, the opportunity of a lifetime will be in our hands," said Stockstill.

But it's not that simple. To stay in the running, Florida State would have to beat fifth-ranked Oklahoma, 9-2, in the Orange Bowl New Year's Night. And even that would not necessarily make the Seminoles No. 1.

Georgia, after all, would finish with an 11-1 record — the same as Florida State — even if it loses to Notre Dame. And while Notre Dame's record would only be 10-1-1, the Irish's big bowl win over the team that had been No. 1 would be fresh in the voters' minds.

Three other clubs can also finish with 11-1 marks: No. 4 Pitt, which plays No. 18 South Carolina in the Gator Bowl; No. 7 Baylor, which takes on No. 8 Alabama in the Cotton Bowl, and No. 12 North Carolina, which meets unranked Texas in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Notre Dame had been in the best position to take the top spot away from Georgia before it was derailed by Southern Cal, which is barred from bowl participation by conference sanction.

In other games, Dayton romped to a 63-0 victory over Ithaca in the Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl and won the NCAA Division III championship.

Eastern Illinois outscored North Alabama 56-31 and Cal Poly-SLO beat Santa Clara 38-14 in the NCAA Division II semifinals.
