NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—One airplane completed the last leg of its transatlantic flight yesterday, three were poised today for the weatherman's signal, and seven are trying their wings, preparing to answer the annual early summer challenge of distant skies.

Sixteen fliers, three of them women, will pit their skill and courage shortly against fatigue, uncharted spaces and possible storms. Three expeditions will be world flights.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh at Curtiss field, to fly to the orient, probably about June 22.

Ruth Nichols, awaiting favorable weather at Roosevelt field for Paris flight.

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, awaiting favorable weather at Roosevelt field for start of world flight.

Fixing Plans

At Roosevelt field, Clarence Chamberlain, transatlantic flier, was putting finishing touches on the plane which carried Miss Nichols to a women's transatlantic record and in which the woman flier will hop for Paris alone.

Favorable weather will give Miss Nichols pointing her white craft toward Paris.

At Curtiss airport Colonel Lindbergh supervised the placing of pontoons on the low winged monoplane in which he and his wife will sail away shortly on a "vacation flight" over the Northern Pacific to Japan and China or possibly over the North Atlantic circle via Greenland and Spitzbergen.

Laura Ingalls, diminutive New York flier, is at Roosevelt field testing her new plane and getting "the feel" of the controls.

Mr. Fraser was operated on about two weeks ago by Dr. G. H. Moore, who performed a similar operation on Earl Muselman recently with notable success.

The bandages were momentarily removed from Mr. Fraser's eyes today and he exclaimed he could see light. The operation was performed on one eye. The other will have to be removed later, it was said.

Brabham Plans To Reestablish Girl's College

Encouraging prospects for the future of Texas Woman's college of Fort Worth, which he heads, were outlined today by President Tom W. Brabham, local Methodist pastor who will leave soon to take up his new duties.

By applying business methods and operating the girls' school on a strict budget, President Brabham expects to restore its financial stability and add to its prestige.

"Students, faculty and Fort Worth people are rallying to the program in a wonderful way," he said yesterday. "Many students are making reservations and we are prepared to house 350 young women. The fall term will begin September 16."

School is Revamped

Complete re-organization of the institution, including the faculty, has been started. The budget has been arranged and reduced where unnecessary expense was found.

President Brabham said that his finance committee, delving into the $284,000 indebtedness yesterday, found that the debt was largely in loans of 5 to 10 years in duration.

Of the total sum, only $150,000 is bonded indebtedness. There is a special endowment of $172,000. The first installment on the debts fall due October 1. A campaign has been launched to raise $26,000 for immediate use, and most of this sum has been pledged by trustees representing the five Methodist conferences which govern the institution.

Hires Field Secretary

Strengthening of the faculty already is in progress. Extensive repairs to the plant were planned. A woman will soon take up a tour as field secretary.

President Brabham also will spend much of his time traveling.

The loyalty of the student body was illustrated when many students, who planned to matriculate elsewhere next fall following publication of the report that T. W. C. would close, have canceled those plans and made reservations at the Fort Worth institution.

President Brabham expects many girls from the Panhandle to enter the school next fall.

Fort Worth business men are said to be enthusiastic about the new regime and to be offering liberal support.

DESCRIBE POPE AS FOREIGNER

FASCISTS BROADCAST DECLARATION ON VATICAN

ROME, June 6. (AP)—The Catholic Action society described tonight in a radio broadcast purporting to give the Italian side of the government's controversy with Pope Pius VI, as "a strong organization taking orders from a foreign power."

The declaration was broadcast during the regular evening program of the Roman radio station. It did not purport to be official, but it was pointed out it would undoubtedly not be broadcast unless it expressed an official view.

Catholic priests were accused in the broadcast of "black ingratitude" to Fascism, which is said, "guaranteed religious liberty."

This unofficial reply to the Vatican and to the speeches of Pope Pius XI was made on the eve of the second anniversary of the ratification of the Vatican treaty and the concordat, the two documents which ended the pope's 59 years as "prisoners in the Vatican."

It came also at the end of a day when the pope had declared: "We are fighting a battle for liberty of conscience." The pope's declaration was made during an address to a group of Catholic members of the Fascist organization.

M. and Mrs. W. B. Townsend and their daughter, Patricia Ann, of Vernon, and Mrs. Fount Furlong of Memphis, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Ward and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gilbert, here this week-end.

Paul Woods of Canadian was the house guest of Alice Barnett at the week-end.

AMARILLO GAS FIGHT AT END

COMPANY AGREES WITH CITY TO CUT RATES, BUY PIPELINE

AMARILLO, June 6. (AP)—Amarillo's gas fight came to a sudden and unexpected end Saturday afternoon when the Amarillo Gas company, under terms of its settlement, the city is to withdraw its condemnation suit to acquire the local plant, the gas company agreed to a 27-cent maximum rate and to a 21-cent minimum rate and to a match the new rate schedule a part of its franchise and to relieve the city of contracts which had been made for a gas supply and for the sale of bonds to finance a city-owned plant.

The compromise followed a week of negotiations favorably with the city.

The gas company had refused to incorporate the new rates in its franchise until Saturday, Mayor Ernest Thompson declared, when a large industrial user was connected up with the city's line which had been extended into the business district recently.

Mayor Thompson considered the settlement as an outstanding victory for the city.

The gas company purchased the Huber Petroleum company's pipeline through the city and was secured by a private settlement with brokerage houses which had contracted to buy $1,800,000 of industrial bonds from the city.

The new rate schedule gives Amarillo gas from 27 cents to 2 cents, and compares favorably with the city's proposed schedule ranging from 22-1/2 cents to 7 cents.

Mayor Thompson declared, considering the loss in taxes that would accrue by reason of municipal ownership.

All cancellation contracts and new ordinances covering the agreement were disposed of before a special meeting of the city commission late today.

RAIL BODY TO HAVE CONTROL OF CONVEYORS

LEAST CONTROVERSIAL MEASURE BECOMES NEW STATUTE

ALL COMMON CARRIERS EXCEPTIONS ARE MADE IN SOME CLASSES OF TRUCKS

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP)—Governor Sterling today signed the least controversial of the two truck bills, the proposal giving the railroad commission additional regulatory power over trucks.

No action was taken on house bill 336, which would limit the pay load and size of trucks.

With the signing of house bill 335, Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, construed opinions of two former attorneys general to hold the law became effective immediately.

However, the present attorney general's department was expected to be asked for an opinion by the railroad commission before enforcement of the law was started.

The law placed all common and contract carriers under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission.

A contract carrier was defined as any truck operating for hire between two or more incorporated towns.

The commission was directed to force contract carriers to maintain as high rates as common carrier railroads and trucks.

Exceptions were authorized in cases of trucks conveying livestock, mohair, wool, milk, stock feed, household goods, oil field equipment, native timber, farm machinery and grades.

Existing class A trucks may continue to operate under their present certificates. Class B trucks must get permits under the new law within 30 days after its effective date.

The legislature spent several weeks considering the truck bills. Opponents claimed they were fostered by the railroads with the intent of driving the trucks out of business with proposed increasing the suggested laws were necessary to safeguard the highways.

One of the provisions of the bill signed today which caused opposition was that directing the railroad commission to take into consideration existing rail facilities in determining the necessity of a new truck line.

The fatal explosion occurred when Mr. and Mrs. Ayer returned from an interrupted trip to New Mexico. Mr. Ayer is said to have gone into the kitchen where he lighted a match. The explosion followed.

Mr. Ayer is survived by his wife and five children, Oran, Emma, Jean, Winifred, and Lois. Mrs. Ayer is also survived by her parents, Mrs. Nora Brady, Port Arthur, and Mrs. Della Waincoat, Chicago.

Erwin of the First Presbyterian church will do the preaching and conduct the singing, and the Methodist congregation will cooperate in the services, which will continue for three weeks.

"The pastors will conduct the meeting without outside help, Rev. Erwin said. "This is done for two reasons—one financial, and the other because there seem to be a demand for the service of home preachers."

Trouble Brews for Al Capone

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP)—Double trouble was brewed for Al Capone today.

District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson announced he had detailed income tax prosecutors on his staff to see if Capone does not go free of tax evasion charges.

And he revealed that hoodlums and gangsters who testified falsely when they were called before the grand jury, which indicted Capone to tell what they knew of his underworld operations are to be prosecuted for perjury.

"I'd like to get this case out of the way this summer," Johnson said.

PANHANDLE PLAINS INC. WILL PRINT PICTURE PAPER

A rotogravure pamphlet of between 30 and 40 pages of the Texas Panhandle was authorized at a meeting of the publicity committee of the Panhandle of Texas, Inc., held yesterday at Amarillo.

About 50,000 copies of the illustrated booklet of the Panhandle are to be published, George W. Briggs, secretary of the Pampa, Board of City Development, who attended the meeting, said.

It is hoped by the committee, Mr. Briggs said, that each of the 32 Panhandle counties will take a page in the rotogravure to be used in depicting the industries and scenes of that county. Gray county is to have a page, he said.

About 10,000 copies of the pamphlet are to be sent to the different counties for distribution. It is expected that Gray county's quota will be sent out in conjunction with "Pictorial Pampa," the rotogravure illustrating Pampa and its vicinity.

The remainder of the Panhandle rotogravures will be sent to the different mid-western fairs where exhibits of the Panhandle-Plains are shown.

3 MORE WELLS REPORTED FOR COUNTY FIELD

OPTIMIST ASSERT OIL BUSINESS IN GRAY IS PICKING UP

PANHANDLE YIELD DOWN

TWO COMPLETIONS ARE MADE DURING PAST WEEK IN COUNTY

There must be something to the claim of local optimists that business is "picking up" in the Gray county oil fields, and for the reason that three locations were reported made during the last week and several in the previous week.

Added to that cheerful report were two completions that didn't amount to much in oil but afforded proof of some activity. About the only cheerful hope that the Panhandle operator has nowadays is that the East Texas field will soon begin producing salt water, and that possibility seems remote.

There is nothing about the price of oil or the proration situation to be optimistic about as long as East Texas crude undersells all other crudes.

Petroleum Drops

Gray county's 761 wells last week had a daily production of 44,618 barrels, a decrease of 944 barrels. Production of the Panhandle, daily, was 59,977 barrels, a loss of 1,855 barrels.

The locations in Gray were as follows: Barton-Holt's (Shell) No. 1 Morse, section 6, block 26, Southeast corner of the northeast quarter, digging cellar.

Sam Tarver's No. 1 Saunders, section 3, block 1, northwest corner of the north half of the northwest quarter.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 Houston, northeast corner of the north half of the northeast quarter of section 164, block 3.

There was one location in Carson county: Interstate Production company (See 3 MORE WELLS, Page 8)

Teamster Dies When Shack Is Blown On Him

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—The sabbath discussion that takes place in many homes where the head of the house would rather play golf than go to church has been obliterated in one congregation at least.

The Rev. Arthur Stanley, pastor of the White Plains Congregational church, has inaugurated a special 8 o'clock service for golfers at which sports garb, including knickers, blazers, hobnailed shoes and caps will be accepted thing.

Not only has this mandate pleased the members of his congregation, the women included, but it has received the approbation of ministers, priests and rabbis from Fifth avenue to Long Island urban communities.

RAIL MEN WILL DISCUSS ROUTE

TWO UNDERPASSES MAY BE CONSTRUCTED IN COUNTY

A. P. Briggs, construction engineer for the new Fort Worth and Denver railway, will meet here tomorrow with A. H. Doucette, county engineer, to discuss the possibilities of two underpasses for the highway between Pampa and McLean.

The two engineers will probably travel over the proposed route of the new railway.

In preparation for the hard-surfaced road that is to be laid between here and McLean, Gray county has three surveying crews working on the highway. One of these crews is working between LeFors and McLean; the other two are between LeFors and here.

The highway in the near future and is to cost the county between $15,000 and $25,000 a mile.

According to Mr. Doucette, the underpass now considered by the Denver engineer are two in number; one between here and LeFors and one between LeFors and McLean.

As the construction of the underpasses may demand that the route of the highway be changed, no definite agreement can be reached until the railroad officials consult the Gray county commissioners court, Mr. Doucette said.

The proposed hard-surfaced highway, upon which will be spent part of the $300,000 of the road bonds recently advertised for sale, will follow the present road. In as many instances as possible, sharp corners will be eliminated. The grade is not to exceed 5 per cent. This means that the road grade will not rise more than 5 feet in 100 feet of road-bed, the county engineer explained.

The accident occurred a few hundred yards off the Pampa-LeFors road. Dale lived about 3 miles from the scene of the accident. It is believed that Dale was leaning up against the house to shelter himself from the rain when the wind toppled the building off the wagon.

Rescue Body

Mr. Long said that he stopped passing motorists, who rescued the victim. The body was brought in an ambulance to the G. C. Malone funeral home. The body was sent to Roswell, N. M., this morning.

Dale had lived in the oil fields southeast of Pampa four years. His mother, Mrs. Clara Belle Dale lives at Roswell, N. M. He is also survived by his father and several brothers and sisters.

The accident occurred a few hundred yards off the Pampa-LeFors road. Dale lived about 3 miles from the scene of the accident. It is believed that Dale was leaning up against the house to shelter himself from the rain when the wind toppled the building off the wagon.

GUS MORELAND IS NEW CHAMP OF DALLAS

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
BROOK HOLLOW COUNTRY CLUB, DALLAS, June 6. (AP)—Gus Moreland, 18-year old Cedar Crest, (Dallas) Country club golfer, holds several major invitation golf championships, but he caught the eyes of them all in Texas gold when he defeated Reynolds Smith, Dallas Lakewood Country club, 7 and 6 here today to win the 1931 Texas Golf association tournament, and Moreland is one of the youngest players ever to hold Texas' major golf title. Not only did Moreland defeat Smith, but the Cedar Crest ace conquered the difficult par 70 Brook Hollow Country club course this morning with a 35-33-68 which let him finish the initial 18 holes against Smith, four up.

Moreland now holds the state championship, the Houston Country club invitation, the Ranger Country club invitation, Mineral Wells Country club invitation and the River Crest Country club invitation titles.

Today made his third major tournament match against Reynolds Smith, and in each match, Moreland has won by an overwhelming score. Unlike most, final championship matches, the final uncovered some of the finest golf shots of the entire five days of the tournament. Although he lost by a top-heavy score, Smith shot beautiful golf that would have won most any championship set, but not against the pattering Moreland here today.

Other champions for this tournament were:

First flight consolation, L. Franks, Dallas, beat O'Hara Watts, Dallas, one up, 37 holes. David Goldman, Dallas, beat Glen Crisman, Orange, 3 and 2 for the second flight title. Willie Maguire, Houston, beat Guy Smith, Dallas, one up, 19 holes for the third flight title.

ANCIENT RIVALRY WILL MEET IN TOURNAMENT

FORT WORTH, June 6. (AP)—Ancient and recent rivalries between some of the leading golfers of this section will be renewed here Wednesday when the thirteenth annual tournament of the River Crest Country club gets under way.

Probably the most interesting duel that will be resumed will be between Gus Moreland and Reynolds Smith, Dallas, who Saturday battled in the finals of the annual Texas Golf association tournament in Dallas.

Moreland will have another rival in the River Crest tournament who has played two finals matches with him this year, Jimmy Phillips, 17, of Ranger, when the Cedar Crest star defeated in both the finals of the Mineral Wells and the Ranger tournaments this year.

From West Texas will come Charlie Qualls, winner of the seventh annual West Texas golf title this year and L. T. "Bobby" Burns, the runner-up.

The vanguard of the army of entries for the tournament is expected to arrive here Sunday morning.

RALLY IN 9TH TO POUND OUT CLOSE VICTORY

CINCINNATI REDS WIN FOUR STRAIGHT IN NATIONAL LOOP

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 6. (AP)—The eighth place Reds ran their winning streak to four games for the first time this season when they put on a three run ninth inning rally today to defeat Boston 6-5.

In the ninth Heathcote, first up, pinch hit for Kolp and doubled. Crabtree tripped, scoring him and knocked Socks Seibold from the box. Roettger doubled off Cantwell, scoring Crabtree. Roettger took third on a wild pitch and Stripp walked. Frankhouse relieving Cantwell. Hendrick was purposely passed, filling the bases. Roettger was out at the plate on Roush's roller to Maguire. Gueniglio singled, driving in Stripp with the winning run.

PICKED HORSES TO BATTLE COWBOYS IN CANADIAN RODEO

CANADIAN, June 6. (Special)—The 9th annual Anvil Park rodeo will be held at Canadian on July 4. Preparations are well in hand to make this the outstanding show of the Panhandle. It requires months of labor and time to get the stock assembled and fitted for this event. It will be the only show in the north Panhandle of Texas for the summer, and will be the only opportunity for the public to see a real contest show similar to Cheyenne, Pendleton, Fort Worth, and other outstanding shows. It will be a contest show where all events are judged by competent judges, or timed.

The clocks will be turned back 50 years. It is fitting that such an event be held at Canadian because this portion is the beginning of the cattle range of the southwest, and it was here that the early pioneer made his sacrifice to bring civilization to the front and make it safe. In the early days, contests were held among the cowpunchers to determine who was most skilled in bronc riding, calf roping, and other events, and this was the beginning of rodeo. It is the only sport known to be the outgrowth of an industry.

The management has made every effort to put this show on the same plane as the larger shows, and to do this has assembled a high class bunch of bucking horses that are owned, fitted, and trained for this one event. They will probably be used only once this year and represent a cost of thousands of dollars to the association. A first class bucking horse is not found in a day.

Thousands of dollars will be paid in prizes and premiums, and this should bring a top bunch of contestants. This means the transportation of horses for roping, horse to be used in the trick and fancy riding, and hands that are proud of their records in the past.

The events will consist of bronc riding, calf roping, bulldogging, steer roping, trick and fancy riding, and roping.

THREE HOME RUNS FEATURE CONTACT

ST. LOUIS, June 6. (AP)—The Cardinals edged out the Brooklyn Robins 6-5 today in a game featuring three home runs. The victory in the series opener increased the Cardinals' margin of leadership in the National league race to 4-1-2 games, the biggest lead they have held all season.

Fred Derringer, recruit right hander, was credited with his fifth victory.

PIRATES TAKE FIRST OF SERIES

PITTSBURGH, June 6. (AP)—Pittsburgh came from behind in the ninth to defeat Philadelphia 3 to 2 in the first clash of a three game series today. "Big Jim" Elliott appeared master of the Pirates up to the last inning, when with one out, he failed to field Paul Waner's bouncer. It was a scratch hit and Traynor followed with a three bagger, scoring Waner with the tying run. Traynor netted the winning rally on Comorosky's long fly to Brickell.

RAIN BOTHERS FIRST ROUND TOURNEY PLAY

FORT MARNOCK, Ireland, June 6. (AP)—Rain stymied most of the competitors in the first qualifying round of the British women's open golf championship today, driving a number to shelter and generally playing havoc with scores, but at could not mar the brilliance of Euid Wilson, former ulthead.

Miss Wilson shot a spectacular 75 with Weda Morgan trailing in second place with 80 and Matzen O'Creath, another threat to the title, third with 82. Miss Wilson shot her great round in the rain.

Miss Diana Fishwick, defending champion, was tied with four others for eight place with 87, but there seemed little chance tonight that she would interfere with her qualifying. Another 18 holes will complete the qualifying round Monday and the low 64 enter match play.

Wait Till Mr. Tire Maker Sees This!... It'll shoot his "Tricky" Comparison Chart Full of holes!

A recent photograph of Mr. Pinson, his trusty car, and his faithful Riversides.

Meet T. J. E. "Uncle Happy" Pinson of Platte Center, Nebraska—known in the frontier days as "Devil's Arrow." Mr. Pinson is one of the colorful figures of the old west. He rode the plains with Buffalo Bill, and knew Jesse James and his brother Frank. You see him in the photograph standing beside his 1912 Ford with two Riversides tires, just removed, after giving ten years of service and covering more than 40,000 miles. The hat he is wearing is punctured by bullets from the guns of Sioux Indians. Mr. Pinson paid $18.65 each for his Riversides in 1920. Since then, Riversides have been improved tremendously, and the prices have dropped amazingly. You can buy Riversides today, in the Ford size for only $4.55, and they are guaranteed WITHOUT LIMIT. Mr. Pinson's endorsement of Riversides came to us unsolicited and was not bought at a price. It is a voluntary testimonial of the satisfaction that Riversides have given him.

MR. PINSON'S RIVERSIDES LASTED 10 YEARS...

and covered 41,428 miles over rough territory

What chance have "comparison charts" you see in the papers and magazines against evidence like this! Who cares about charts showing "Rubber volume, weight, and the like," anyhow! We could build a tire bigger, heavier and wider than any tire on the market (bigger even than Riversides) — but that alone wouldn't give you satisfaction. It's mileage you want in a tire and these "paper comparisons" don't tell how far a tire will run.

We'll match Riversides . . . ON THE ROAD . . . against ANY tire made. And we'll beat it in price. Ask Mr. Pinson!

Riverside Tires are one of the best known in America. They have been sold for 19 years. They are made by one of the largest tire companies in the world. They are built to the most rigid specifications known. They are the finest quality it is possible to produce. They are backed by the most daring tire guarantee ever written. And they sell for less than any first-quality nationally advertised tire on the market! These sound like sensational claims. But they're facts.

And Montgomery Ward & Co. stands back of every word. Note this—the nationally advertised tires offered to you at the same prices as Riversides are not the first-quality tires of the manufacturers who make them—but their second-quality tires—put on the market to meet Riverside competition. So always compare qualities as well as prices. The table at the right lists some of the best known first-quality tires that do compare with Riversides in quality — you compare the prices!

(BY RICHARD MASSOCK) NEW YORK—Coney Island's cops are too obliging. That's the playground's answer to aspersions cast on some of the Manhattan force.

It seems the Coney police are coping with a mother racket. Mamma has learned that the captain in charge of the Coney Island station is an affable custodian for lost kids. He always finds them and takes good care of them until the parents call.

So mothers resting their tired flesh on the sands have taken to losing their children on purpose. It relieves them of the monotonous cries of, "Sammy, come back here," "Ikey, don't go near the water," "Mamma, buy me a hot dog," "Mamma, Benito's splashing me!"

At sundown they go around to the police station to pick up the youngsters, who have been amused by the cops.

By that time, however, the station is overflowing with over-energetic urchins. The cops, who can play hobby horse only so long without gasping, admit their genial nature is developing ragged edges.

Waning Racket Odd quirk about this reform thing that's agitating the town's courts. The fixers who hung out in the corridors of the magistrates' courts actually have disappeared—all this on the heels of the investigation into these lower courts.

The next higher court is special sessions. A visitor to the Bronx magistrate's court found the corridors clear of hangers-on. But going across the street to the court of special sessions, he found the old gang openly plying their trade, button-holing all comers with their, "Say, pal, are you in trouble? I kin get yer out!"

One of the points is that most of the professed fixers have no influence and merely are gyps who traffic on the gullibility of the ignorant.

Yankee at George's Court Al Trahan, the comedian who made King George laugh, is back in town looking for a job. With him is his partner, Yukona Cameron, who hails from Alaska; hence her name.

The command performance at which they appeared in London was the Big Moment in their respective careers.

WASHINGTON—Among the host of retired army and navy officers—that element which contributes glamor to Washington—there is perhaps none more picturesque than that grizzled old seadog, Admiral Charles Hughes.

Admiral Hughes quit the navy last year, a month before age would have forced him out. Because a navy building program to fit the terms of the recent London treaty had to be prepared, Hughes resigned voluntarily ahead of time.

He hauled down his flag as chief of naval operations—the highest office offered by the navy—and with the praise of both the president and secretary of the navy ringing in his ears, retired to the peace and quiet of his home in Chevy Chase.

His address is still "Care of Naval Operations," but it merely means that his mail goes there.

True Seadog It has been a long time since the navy had a four star admiral bossing its affairs who looked and acted the old seadog more consistently than did Admiral Hughes.

Desk life in Washington failed to bend his quarterdeck complex. Political expediency somehow seemed never quite able to brush away completely his salty outlook.

And even now those steely eyes of deep sea blue, his cheeks long ago enameled to a permanent ruddy hue, the mustache of Viking-like proportions all mark him for what he is—a sea going sailor.

As chief of naval operations, orders were orders to Hughes, and when he issued them they were meant to be obeyed.

The story of how on one occasion his orders were disregarded is familiar in congressional and naval circles. A member of congress from the west, who held a seat on the naval affairs committee of the house, got a hurry call from home. He used his committee membership as a lever to procure a navy plane for transportation.

Quarterdeck Autocrat

And the manna ceased on the morning after they had eaten of the old corn of the land. Josh. 5:12. . . So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom. Psa. 90:12. . . The man that wandereth out of the way of understanding shall remain in the congregation of the dead. . . Wee unto them that are at ease in Zion. Amos 6:1. . . Cast not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and read you, Matt. 7:6.

No Surprise Many have asked the Pampans, in some surprise, why William Randolph Hearst has strongly come out for putting an end to prohibition. No one who knows much about Mr. Hearst was surprised. He has always been more or less unbridled in his thinking and conduct. Moreover, his newspapers are located in the larger cities where the wets are strongest. That he did not come out so boldly before was because the time was not ripe for his selfish purposes.

One of the strangest processes of reasoning is that by which some people believe that opening of the liquor traffic would create more money. It would create scores of millionaires in the brewing business and would re-distribute money now used for food and clothing and give it to the brewing interests. Some classes would be poorer, as usual, than others, but the ones who are suffering least now, the poor would get poorer and the rich richer.

Plenty of Crime The writer is not unaware, however, of the deplorable conditions which bootlegging has brought about. Honestly in public and private business needs a revival. But bootlegging, were it blotted out tomorrow, would not solve the problem of crime and corruption. Gambling, vice, and racketeering provide ample avenues for illicit traffic. Furthermore, a revision downward of the nation's standard of living has resulted in warped thinking, as exemplified by Nevada. It will all come out in the wash, but some strong soap and a dash or two of prosperity will be necessary to make the national clothes-line presentable.

Selfishness is a guiding factor in much of our human conduct. Selfishness has demoralized the oil industry. In times of depression, each interest works for itself without respect for other sections and other industries. Right now the cause of independent oil men is menaced by the jealousy of adjoining states. The major interests are solidified in their aims, and their moves are devastating. It is unfortunate that some other groups would foster or at least condone communistic schemes like the proposed Howley bill suggests. The sooner the true colors of the various groups are revealed the sooner will the show-down arrive.

Danger for Eagle Despite the depression, science appears to be booming with exploring schemes—into space above and under the oceans beneath. Lindbergh, of the picture for some time, comes back with a hazardous Pacific flight plan which includes the wife as co-pilot. Will the Lone Eagle go one step too far one of these days? At any rate, newspaper editors will keep their morgue open, for possible use in Lindbergh mishaps. Not even the Flying Colours is immune to the whims of the weather. Anxiety will be aroused by the danger to which the frail machine of the human eagle will be exposed.

Courage is a peculiar thing. In some people, it appears strongest in time of danger. In others it flourishes most when there is no need for it. Pampa needs only a good dose of ordinary garden variety of courage to weather the oil market situation. There is one thing certain: When the market bottom is struck there is bound to be a big rebound upward. Those who keep faith, and plan to go forward will reap their rewards.

Don't Sell Short Over-liquidity has put the stock market in a bad light. Many stocks are below their true worth and wise investors will get rich from the inevitable hikes pending. It is a crime to sell America short, as many people are doing. AND DON'T SELL PAMPA SHORT! This city is going forward because there is a distinct place for it in this location.

The French are peculiar. They ban Texas Guinan on the seeming assumption that her idea of fun does not meet with the French taste. She could not be worse than gay Paree's reputation. America's junketing mayors know that. Said the mayor of Syracuse at Paris: "Paris is really as sinful as its reputation. I can't understand how the street women are tolerated. They stopped me twelve times between the Folies Bergere and my hotel." . . . Perhaps the French do not wish to part with any of the American dollars they have collected off the Yank tourists.

This world is a great little producer. Brazil has a surplus of twenty million bags of coffee. If that were all sold the tea merchants would go broke. Those who have no money should be given work, and others who are piling up unnecessary wealth should spend it wisely in projects which involve payrolls.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS THINK

ANOTHER STATE ADVERTISES At least one more state plans to exploit its recreational facilities through advertising this year in the hope of attracting a share of the vacationists' money. A recent mail brought a booklet issued by the Virginia chamber of commerce which sets forth the attractions to be found in that state in a way should excite desire within many who plan to go awandering this summer.

Pictures, accompanied by glowing descriptions, present a wide variety of scenes. They range from busy industrial plants to quiet pasture scenes. In between are shown calm lakes bathed in moonlight that filters down between broken clouds, golf courses with picturesque fairways, panoramas of hills and valleys, the first lighthouse built by the United States government marking the spot where the first permanent colonists landed, rugged, windswept sand dunes, bathing beaches, and many other recreational historical, and nature scenes.

The booklet is interesting. It should accomplish its calculated purpose, that of attracting vacationists to the Old Dominion. Undoubtedly anyone could spend a very enjoyable vacation visiting many of the places pictured.

But it is easy for the Texan to recall that practically everything pictured in the booklet can be duplicated in this state. Quiet lakes, beautiful moons, gay bathing beaches, placid rural scenes, breath-taking panoramas of nature's wonders, places of great historical significance, rugged expanses of prairies, varied climate, golf courses to meet any specification; in fact almost anything that the vacationists could desire is to be found within the boundaries of the great state of Texas.

We haven't advertised it yet. Probably we never shall, although California, Colorado, and Florida have found that it pays, and now the Old Dominion is throwing aside its dignity to adopt modern business methods. —Vernon Record.

TIME TO STAND TOGETHER

If there ever was a time for the North Panhandle of Texas to stand together it is now. This section has been fighting for comprehensive highway improvement for a long time and now that it seems in reach it behooves every community to get in with all other communities and be prepared to meet the state with a proposal of what can and will be done.

In his address before the West Texas chamber of commerce convention at Lubbock recently, W. R. Ely, chairman of the state highway commission, is quoted as saying that during the next two years the bulk of highway work will be done in the Amarillo district when shifting southward to the Lubbock area.

From this it appears that the opportunity of the North Panhandle is here.

One of the big projects near to the heart of a lot of towns and cities in this section and on into Colorado and New Mexico is the Tascosa Trail which would leave Highway 5 at Channing, thence to Tascosa and across the Canadian and into Amarillo. It would shorten the distance from Amarillo to Dalhart and tap a rich fruit and truck gardening country along the Canadian river bottoms.

A bridge across the Canadian at Tascosa is one of the prime prerequisites of the highway. To get aid of the state on the project has been the aim for months. It is pointed out that the highway is important to the state and state officials acknowledge that it is. They acknowledge that they are intensely interested and that the state is interested in seeing the bridge built and the highway become a reality. But the state wants to know what counties in the North Panhandle are prepared to do in the way of comprehensive highway improvement if the state builds the bridge.

That is the question that the North Panhandle should decide on now. Mr. Ely has said that he will be in Dalhart "shortly" and said he hoped that it might be in the next fifteen or twenty days. But when he comes we should be able to tell him what we are prepared to do and then ask the state to do the part that will make a real highway program possible.

It will be to our own interests to thresh out all these details now—before Mr. Ely arrives.—Dalhart Texan.

PARK OFF THE PAVEMENT

Judge L. S. Kinder, former district judge at Plainview, was instantly killed Tuesday night when the automobile in which he was riding struck a truck and trailer parked by the roadside near Melrose, N. M.

Full details of the accident are lacking, but first reports had it that two men were sleeping in the truck. The car in which Judge Kinder was riding was making an effort to pass another car when it plunged into the parked truck and trailer.

Thus is emphasized anew the danger of parking cars and trucks on the edge of the road. Texas has a law against it, but it is not generally observed. You even see cars parked on curves, either wholly or partly on the pavement. Nothing under the sun can prevent a collision when two cars come together at a place in the road so occupied. There is not room for three cars to pass on an 18-foot pavement, without grave risk of collision or a plunge into the ditch.

There should be no mitigating circumstances for the driver who habitually parks his car on the pavement. It is a dangerous practice, even for thirty seconds or a minute. Good drivers make it a rule to get all four wheels off the pavement when they stop their cars.

It is usually the innocent who suffer in such accidents.—Abilene News.

Amount of Oil Is Debated

MANY SOURCES ARE AVAILABLE

But Petroleum "Migrates" Until It Is Caught in Trap or Dome Formation.

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of weekly articles on the history of petroleum, taken from the American Petroleum Institute's book, "Oil.")

Chapter II Man has long wished to ascertain how much oil there is, especially since petroleum products became everyday necessities. Man's curiosity in this respect has never been satisfied, because nature holds well guarded from him secrets concerning the origin, the generation, the migration, and the accumulation of oil.

Geologists have been able to write the history of coal with almost as much accuracy as if they had witnessed its formation, for coal, being a solid, has stayed fast in its beds. They are able to estimate the reserves of coal under ground. But oil has moved! It has migrated. Man theorizes on the origin and generation of petroleum, to come face to face upon a mystery as difficult to solve—the problem of the early migration of petroleum.

Found in Porous Rock or Sand Shales and limestone containing the "source material" are relatively compact and impervious rocks. Oil in some way has left them and gone out into more porous sands and rocks. Thus it is found that while the shales and limestone contribute most of the source material for petroleum, the sandstones afford the most common reservoirs. Sandstones constitute sands or rocks that are porous and capable of holding a considerable percentage of fluids.

How has petroleum migrated through the rocks to its present reservoirs, and why has it accumulated in certain places and not in others? Here we come to the problems that make the discovery of petroleum the fascinating and hazardous game it is, the exacting and perplexing science it is.

Squeezed Out of Source Rocks If the oil was buried with the sediments in the form of free oil, or if it was formed by bio-chemical agencies soon after the sediments were laid down, it seems probable that, as the rocks were compacted under the weight of other sediments laid down on top of them, the petroleum was squeezed out of these shales and limestone along with the large quantities of water that they contain. On being squeezed out, the oil is supposed to have found its way into beds of sandstone or other porous rocks in which further migration is relatively easy.

How is it possible for the petroleum geologist to find this fugitive fluid—the places buried deep under the surface of the earth where oil has finally accumulated?

The Geologist Finds Oil The geologist has determined that after oil entered the more porous rocks it traveled either alone or with water through pores of sandstones, or through larger openings such as systems of fissures, or through cavernous beds of limestone. Its impetus and course were influenced by pressure of rock, by water and gas, as well as by the force of gravity.

Oil floats on water. In its early migration with water it sought the highest possible points along its course. Whenever opportunity offered, the oil worked its way upward from one bed to another and tended to gather along the roof of its porous carrier bed. Then at last it found it could go no farther. It was stopped wherever this porous bed had an impervious cap and wherever the bed was arched or domed in such a way as to form a closed trap.

Often the geologist can locate, by what he knows of the rocks, the anticline, or dome, which should be favorable for oil accumulation. He determines that possibility not only by the attitude or inclination of the rocks, but by the physical properties of the rocks themselves. But only the drill can determine that oil has, or has not, lodged there. If the drill finds oil in commercial quantity, the reservoir is commonly termed an oil pool.

Petroleum on Every Continent Petroleum has been found on every continent. Geologists say no stratified rock is so young nor scarcely so old as to preclude its existence. However, rock formations occupying perhaps half the earth's surface are ruled out as being unfavorable for oil accumulation.

PAMPA BEAUTIES ARE COMPETING AT WICHITA FALLS LAKE EVENT

GALVESTON PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED BY COMMITTEE

Pampa's contests in the Wichita Falls division of preliminaries for the international beauty pageant at Galveston left by yesterday to participate in the event at Lake Wichita today. They will return Monday.

The contestants are Miss Leona Leedom, "Miss Greater Pampa," and Miss Drusilla Morgan, who was chosen "Miss Pampa" in the recent selections here.

GALVESTON, May 6. (AP) — The official program of events for the twelfth annual international pageant of beauty, which was laid out six months ago, has been completely adopted and will remain intact throughout the pageant, beauty officials have announced. The program for the four-day event will be as follows:

Meet at Houston On Friday, June 12, all of the intercity beauties coming from America will meet at Houston. From there the next day, Saturday, June 13, they will leave for Galveston, arriving about noon. They will meet the foreign entrants, who will come to the city on the French liner Havre, and proceed to the city hall, where they will be officially welcomed by Mayor Jack Pearce.

At 3:30 o'clock the same day, Saturday, they will prepare for the first street parade. The contestants will wear sport costumes of cotton, or afternoon cotton dresses. They will mount their individual motor-drawn floats and to the tune of local and visiting bands will proceed down the line of march.

Saturday evening they will be given a dinner at the Hotel Buccaneer.

Sunday afternoon, June 14, the main street parade will be held. The girls will proceed as in the parade of the day before, except they will be attired in bathing suits. Both street parades will be free to the public. In the evening they will be honored with a second dinner.

To Wear Evening Gowns Monday evening, June 15, the first of eliminations will be held. All determines that possibility not only by the attitude or inclination of the rocks, but by the physical properties of the rocks themselves. But only the drill can determine that oil has, or has not, lodged there. If the drill finds oil in commercial quantity, the reservoir is commonly termed an oil pool.

Petroleum on Every Continent Petroleum has been found on every continent. Geologists say no stratified rock is so young nor scarcely so old as to preclude its existence. However, rock formations occupying perhaps half the earth's surface are ruled out as being unfavorable for oil accumulation.

BEBE DANIELS IS AT LA NORA

Bebe Daniels dons a dangerous platinum blonde wig for her role in "The Maltese Falcon," her latest Warner Brothers picture, which comes to the La Nora theater today.
Miss Daniels believed, and studio officials agreed with her, that the blonde coloring was more in keeping with the role she plays in "The Maltese Falcon," an adventurous young woman who is not afraid to risk life or reputation in the pursuit of her baffling ambition.
The blonde coiffure sets off Miss Daniels' striking beauty in remarkable fashion but takes away from the softness of her face—an effect deliberately sought by the star and the studio's makeup department in their efforts to add uncertainty to the character she plays.
Blonde women are always interesting, in the public's imagination at least, and they are less easily catalogued as good or bad than their darker sisters. So Miss Daniels' blondeness adds to the intrigue of the role and increases the mystery of the story.

Richard Cortez, Thelma Todd, Dudley Digges, Robert Elliott, Una Merkel, Otto Matiesen, are others included in the cast of "The Maltese Falcon." Roy Del Ruth directed.

FLOWER DESIGNS ON WHITE PROCKS

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—White sports suits and dresses seen at country clubs around the capital are blossoming out in gay flower designs. Some of the flowers are painted and some embroidered. They form deep borders on the pleated or plain white skirts, ornament the blouse fronts and sleeves. The white polo coat, popular several summers ago, has been revived.

PARIS, June 6. (AP)—The knitted ties which their brothers wore in prep school days are added as a finishing touch to debonaire's summer sport togs. Most of them are made of heavy knitted silk and are worn tied in a four-in-hand. Gold, crimson and white is a favorite color combination.

SUMMER FURS RETURN TO VOGUE IN PARIS

PARIS, June 6. (AP)—Summer furs have returned to vogue stronger than ever as a result of the collarless coat vogue. The new summer furs are larger than in former seasons, double silver fox scarves hanging to the knees being the favorites. Astrakhan, gulyah and ermine scarves are also much worn.

PARIS, June 6. (AP)—Folding hats, which can be tucked into a pocket, handbag or traveling bag are Paris' latest headgear innovation. The hats, both small and wide-brimmed, are made of pliable transparent straw which does not crumple when folded. Many of them have different colored transferable ribbon bands so that they may be worn with several frocks.

SYNOPSIS: The childhood affection of Harriet Noel and Antonio Latour ripens into love. But staid Orchard Hill villagers, viewing her marked talent for the stage as something sinful, frown on the prospect of a marriage which would interpose with Tony's entering the ministry. When Harriet, sensing this conflict in their life patterns, rejects Tony's marriage proposal, in desperation he flees with the proceeds of the benefit play in which they had appeared. After he gains a foothold on the New York stage, Tony meets Harriet, whose father's death has left her free to study dramatics there. Restrained by her devotion to the stage from pleading his love, Tony later is jubilant on learning that they are to appear together under Roy Donovan's management.

TONY LOSES A STAR
Again he, Antonio Latour, and Harriet Noel were to play opposite each other as they had played in their school days in the Orchard Hill Dramatic club.
Antonio, considering his Cincinnati engagement, thought of the rehearsals, the intricacies necessary to the plays and the inevitable intimacies outside their roles. He thought of the memories which their professional relationship would arouse—of their theater at the foot of the hill—of their experiences in the Orchard Hill Dramatic club productions—of a thousand incidents in their young lives which they had experienced together.
At last in the Cincinnati Playhouse, Antonio and Bob Marshall, another member of the company, were chatting before the first rehearsal.
"You have met Miss Noel, our leading lady, I suppose?" said Bob casually.
"Oh, yes," Antonio tried to make his reply as casual as Bob's inquiry, but something in his voice caused his fellow-actor to glance at him curiously.
"Hurn—do you know this fellow Donovan?"
"I knew Roy Donovan several years ago," Antonio returned quietly.
But again Antonio's companion looked at him curiously and seemed to be searching his memory for something half-forgotten. He spoke you and Miss Noel grew up together."

"We did," returned Tony.
"Hurn—do you know this fellow Donovan?"
"I suppose you have heard the rumor about our manager and our leading lady?"
"Poor Tony did not answer. He felt smothered under a terrible weight which had suddenly fallen upon him. He wanted to cry out, but something kept him silent. Then he heard a voice which sounded faint and muffled. It was Bob Marshall saying: "I have it straight that Miss Noel and Donovan are engaged to be married, so I suppose we will have a pair of newlyweds along with our other troubles this summer."
Better than any one else in all the world Antonio Latour knew the (Continued on Page 7)

put your Telephone on Half-pay during Vacation

You'll save money... and spare yourself inconvenience when you return.

The Rumseys are going vacationing. The milk's been stopped, the ice man has been called off, and the Man Who Delivers the Newspaper has been instructed to bring no more until further notice.

But the telephone will be left at home, drawing full pay in an empty house! Something should be done about this!

Vacation rates for idle residence telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away.

It's a convenient way to save money. And this to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return.

- That's because:
1. You pay just half the regular rate.

Some FEMININE Fancies

A letter has just been received from Stella Reinhardt of the American Embassy, Constantinople, who was born in Texas and is a former newspaper woman in Oklahoma.

Miss Reinhardt said in part: "You have doubtless considered how action is the chief reason for existence in the southwest. The minute a man retires, and goes to live in town or with any of his children, that minute he wears of life and death generally comes speedily.

Miss Reinhardt continued: "Here nothing is new—a artist to speak of—no music—a few third rate movies. I sense a little mental stagnation in spite of my efforts at poetry. I hardly dare quote any lest I should repeat myself. Only Happiness comes as quietly As the flush of rose In the sky at evening And as quietly goes.

There is no trumpet blast It is as gentle, quiet, As the soft colors blending With the night.

"But of what good would be the recital of my efforts? My heart is a shallow pond with firm dams against onrushing streams. It will never be profound and its waters will never be too troubled. Its waters clear—you can see the pebbles at the bottom."

It is a pleasure to read such a thought-provoking letter, which by its style as well as by its philosophy, is known to be the work of a real artist.

We cannot all write such letters as Miss Reinhardt, but just as she reveals her personality, we can reveal our personalities.

Says Lillian Eichler: "Correspondence is talk upon paper, and like talk it reveals personality. You letter carries with it not only the message you want to convey, but another very definite message about yourself. The maximaker was who you said. Put not on paper what you would not have the whole world read."

"Letter-writing is first of all a gift. But it is also an art to be cultivated and developed. You may not be able to write literary letters suitable for publication, letters in the manner of a Chesterton or a Pope. But there is no reason why you cannot write letters that are faultlessly correct, and that give pleasure through their charm of content and their expression of personality.

"Those who lament the 'lost art of letter-writing' do not realize that the art has not been 'lost'—it has simply changed in form."

GREAT PAINTINGS ARE TO BE STUDIED BY ART GROUP HERE

AIM OF LEAGUE WILL BE TO INTEREST COMMUNITY TO BE BRIDE

"Though we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us, or we find it not."

The quotation from Emerson has been impressed at meetings of the Arno Art league here throughout the last year. It is the opening lines of the beautifully bound volume on Italian art from "Arno Art Studies," a course which is being studied by the local art league.

The course is a study of art from the standpoint of art appreciation and culture. It includes authoritative critical opinion arranged in logical sequence. The art of the countries which have contributed to European and American painting is presented chronologically with the important artists emphasized.

Reproductions of the important masterpieces in European galleries are included in this book, which is arranged in loose-leaf style in order that each picture may be framed and presented at the club meetings in which discussions center about the picture.

The study during the last year began with a discussion of the various factors in the interpretation of painting, and was followed with a comprehensible study of Italian art.

Year books which are being prepared for the coming year show the beginning of the next year's work to be the Renaissance, and a study of the later Italian artists.

After this study will follow a consideration of the Flemish, Dutch, German, and English painting.

Criticism Given "Early Flemish painting," says Waagen. "In its freedom from all foreign influences exhibits the contrast between the natural feeling of the Latin and the German races."

Regarding the paintings from Holland, Wilenski says: "Dutch art at the beginning of the 17th century was produced and sponsored by the new Dutch middle-classes."

In speaking of the German school of painting, Dickinson says, "The keynote of the Germanic character is emotion, and the ideal of German art is not beauty but expression."

Finally will come a study of the English school painting, of which de la Sizeranne says: "Whether we pass from anecdotal painting to landscape, from allegory to portraiture, it is England, always England that we see in each canvas."

To bring about an appreciation of art in the entire community will be stressed by the league during the coming year. Among outstanding events will be a tea and an art exhibit.

SUN TAN BIDS FOR POPULARITY

Two modish beach costumes are worn by Frances Dee, motion picture player. The ensemble on the left is elaborate, the suit and cape in shades of red. Wooden beads are something new in shade decorations. The suit at the right combines a bodice of white jersey, striped with blue, and trunks of blue.

HUES MAY BE BRILLIANT OR DULL IN SCANT BEACH SUIT

PAJAMAS ARE FAVORED FOR LOUNGING COSTUMES

By DIANA MERWIN Associated Fashion Editor. PARIS, June 6. (AP)—Skin revealing bathing suits are the beach style rule this year.

Suits which are backless, suits with tops made of broad burred net reminiscent of fishnet, and suits which consist only of trunks and brassiere are the new versions of bathing costumes.

Cut, color and fabric of the suits in which fashionable women will parade fashionable beaches are designed for exposure to the sun's rays, presaging at least a partial return of the sun tan vogue.

One piece bathing suits are designed with backs cut to the waist. Two piece suits with abbreviated jersey trunks have low cut tops of different colored jersey or ivory fishnet, while the newest design consists of bright hued brassieres and short black trunks.

Colors may be dark or brilliant. Multi-colored suits, combining two and often three colors, are legion, with watermelon and navy, pansy blue and black, and emerald green and brown the favorite combinations. Polka dotted bathing suits are another innovation.

The newest wrinkle to wear over suits on the beach is a short sleeved plaid dress made of crash, generally in a printed design reflecting the colors of the suit.

It fits well in front and presents a dressed appearance which permits the wearer to step into the beach casino for tea.

Pajamas, however, remain the favorite beach lounging costume, with the smartest fabric.

Many of the pajamas combine many colors such as a brick red coat worn with dark blue trousers or bands of white, teal, orange and red applied on a light blue suit.

Coats are loose hip length designs, while trousers are very full and long.

Beryl Borden, secretly in love with Tommy Wilson, succeeds in delaying his elopement with her half-sister, Irene Everett, but fails to convince him that it is his duty to his family and his college.

Later Irene postpones the marriage date believing she is to become a radio singer. Securing an audition, she permits Beryl to go to the studio with her. While waiting in an anti-room, Beryl sits down at a piano and composes melodies. One of the directors hears her and gives her a private test. He promises an interview with Mr. Gaylord. Irene fails and is furious when she hears her sister has been given a test. Beryl's hopes of a radio career slip as an word comes from the studio.

At last a letter arrives and she slips away for her interview. Nervous during the ordeal, Beryl is elated when presented with a contract. Her victory is bitter-sweet for her family and Tommy believe that she has lost her chance. However, her "gang" console her and celebrate by putting on a show. Beryl proves a success, and the envious Irene quarrels with Tommy when he praises her. A crowd gathers at the house to greet Beryl after her broadcast.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVI Irene and Tommy, their walk ending in a quarrel, returned to her home a few minutes after the party that had gone to the station to meet Beryl.

"Beryl was about to give herself over to anxiety when Irene took her aside and declared that it was no more than they could expect. Look how Beryl had treated them all along—not saying a word springing the whole thing on them as they were outsiders. That was just what they were to her anyway. She didn't consider herself one of them. If she hadn't felt that way she wouldn't have kept her father's name; she'd have called herself Beryl Everett."

"Just the same," Mrs. Everett protested, "it's not like Beryl to say one thing and do another. And she said she'd be home on the 11:57. She could just make it from the studio, she said, if she hurried."

"Irene laughed. 'If she hurried,' she repeated insistently. 'Maybe that's the answer. Maybe she didn't hurry.' 'Oh, Irene, what do you mean?' her mother wailed, but Irene made no answer for in the front of the house there was a sudden commotion.

"She's here!" someone exclaimed. "There's a car stopping before the house."

Mrs. Everett ran to see who it was and just as she reached the door between the dining room and the living room Beryl came tumbling into the hall. Came tumbling like a ball of fire, she had cartwheeled through the front door on a rug that slipped. When her mother reached her she was sitting in a heap of flowers, stifling a laugh in the sudden embarrassment of finding herself unexpectedly facing a room full of people. She got up, let her hair be congratulated and praised, and then apologized.

"I didn't expect there'd be anyone here but the folks," she explained, "and I couldn't hold in any longer."

"No one would expect you to be dignified by Irene followed, fired by her animation and high spirits. Even Tommy went along. Everyone gasped and cried out in admiration of the "bowkay" her gang had sent to Beryl. It was indeed an exceptional offering—a radio made entirely of flowers, paid for with the proceeds of the "benefit" show that had ostensibly been given for Snooks.

As her friends were carrying it up to the front porch Beryl was besieged by the gang in person. The boys came out of the dark from every direction and swarmed all over her, each striving to be the first of their number to congratulate her. Beryl welcomed them with open arms. When she got to the light again she was much disheveled and out of breath but happier than she'd been ever before in her life.

"Did you come out alone, with just the chauffeur?" Irene asked when Beryl entered the house. "I thought successful people always had a coterie." She stumbled a little on the pronunciation of "coterie" but got it out in the belief that Beryl wouldn't know the difference anyway.

"Whatever that is," Beryl replied good-naturedly. "Well, you might have let mother know," Irene declared. "She was worried half to death because you weren't on the 11:57."

"I'm sorry," Beryl said to her mother. "I expected to beat the train here but I was a little late in getting started."

Irene also addressed her mother. "Didn't I tell you?" she said. Beryl sensed the undercurrent of accusation in the words and resisted it. "Several people wanted to come with me," she said coldly, "but I..." She stopped. After all it was not necessary to tell the neighbors that she had been so skeptical of the reception that awaited her at home to risk bringing strangers into it. "I decided I'd rather come than," she added laughingly, "I took a little time to convince them that I was used to going about unescorted."

Irene turned away, biting her tongue to keep from further display of her temper.

A little later a member of the party, feeling sleepy, remarked that Beryl must be tired. Someone else, thinking it an occasion for an all-night celebration, wanted her to sing for them but from that Beryl asked to be excused.

Her refusal seemed to be a cue for the gathering to break up and presently she was alone in her room, where she had wanted to be—to stand face to face with this bewildering event in her life, to ask "Old Faithful" what he thought about it, and to suffer with an intensity that shaped her over Tommy's attitude. It had been bitterly disappointing. He had not been more interested than anyone else and she had wanted some special demonstration from him. Of course she was a fool.

She stood by her window staring down at the gate where Tommy was saying good-night to Irene and a sense of the irony of fate swept over her.

Here she was, going to bed with the ring of plaudits still in her ears—found that she knew would be useless to Irene. And there she had been, sitting on her knees, night to Tommy—something that she, Beryl, would give all the world's applause to be doing if she and Tommy were sweethearts.

She turned quickly from the window as the lovers kissed. She didn't mean to be spying. And there she heard Tommy go whistling down the street. Irene must have made him very happy.

Poor Beryl. The very thing that had had secretly hoped would impress Tommy, make him realize that there was something else on earth besides Irene, had driven him farther away.

Irene was ready to claim everything to which she had the slightest right. And it was inflated by Beryl's rise to greater popularity, to the fact that Tommy was showing that she had only yielded a little to have him begging for possession of her.

When Tommy left her at the gate he had at least a half promise that she would marry him soon. It was his word, his solemnity on her part which had begun soon after Beryl arrived that caused his indifference to Beryl's success to continue through her hour of triumph.

HEAVY SELLING. Associated Press Market Editor CHICAGO, June 6. (AP)—Wheat reacted today from a 4-cent advance that had taken place in the last week. Much wheat bought on account of drought conditions in Canada was sold out to realize profits and there was also heavy speculative selling. An eagerly awaited comprehensive summary of the Canadian crop situation proved to be bullish but not so sensational as some forecasts had indicated, being qualified by a statement that one good cooling rain within a week would materially alter the outlook. Wheat closed unsettled, 1/4-1/2 cents lower, corn 1/4-1/2 down, oats 1/4-1/2 off, and provisions unchanged to 1/2 cent decline.

Corn and oats declined with wheat and as a result of moisture conditions extremely favorable for a good start of the new 1931 corn crop. Provisions averaged lower with lard values and with grain. Closing quotations: Wheat, July 59 1/2, 60 1/2; Sept. 59 1/2, 60 1/2; Dec. 61 1/2-62, 64 1/2.

COTTON DECLINES. NEW ORLEANS, June 6. (AP)—The cotton market was active for a short Saturday session today. Prices developed a sharp decline and almost duplicated the season's lows at the end after a decline for the day of a little over a dollar a bale.

The depressing influences included, lower Liverpool cables weakness in stocks and a long distance forecast for favorable weather during the coming week. Sentiment appeared to be bullish which led to considerable liquidation and selling by ring traders.

Liverpool came in 4-6 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that local traders and continent liquidated longs. There was a peso fit ake. Manchester cabled that the cloth and yarn market was unsettled with buyers cautious.

The close was barely steady with July at 52 1/2, October at 6 5/8, and December at 27 1/2 to 22 points net lower for the day on those active months.

purety and nobility of Harriet Noel's character. That such a woman should give herself to a creature such as he knew Roy Donovan to be was a thing too monstrous to be believed.

But even as he was torn by that emotional turmoil the revelation had raised, Antonio understood how it had happened. He remembered how Donovan used to say that all a man needed to make a fortune in the theatrical business was a star and an angel and that if he could find the star she would eventually find the angel.

In Harriet Noel the manager had found his star; by craftily appealing to those very elements of her nature which should have been her protection. The nobility of her own mind and her almost fanatical devotion to her art and career had betrayed her.

With ostentatious affection for his motherless stepson, Bruce, the man had quieted the instinctive fears and won the confidence of the woman, while with praise of her art and promises to give her that place on the stage which was her only goal in life the manager had won the actress.

When we consider Antonio La-tour's ardent nature and his unflinching devotion to Harriet Noel, despite the fact that she was a woman whose nature was so different from his own, we realize that his whole life-course had been determined by his love for this girl and the hope of making her his wife and that his belief in her love for him had never before been shaken.

It is not difficult to appreciate that by the shock he was carried to the pitiless verge of insanity.

As to the details of what happened next, Tony remembers nothing. What was said between him, Harriet and Donovan is lost in the fury of the emotional storm which had so suddenly burst upon him.

The old actor remembers, as in a dream, that he forced his way into Harriet's dressing room and confronted her with what he had heard; that she confirmed the report that she and Donovan were to be married; that there was a terrible scene upon which Donovan entered and that he attempted to kill the manager, but was prevented by stage hands who came to the rescue in answer to Harriet's screams.

Old Tony recalls nothing of the following days until one morning when he found himself back in the little retreat, with its flowers and grass, which he and Harriet had called their theater. He must have arrived in Orchard Hill during the night and made his way there with the instinct of a wounded animal.

ROSES IN WYNNE YARD ARE IN FULL BLOOM, GRASS BEAUTIFUL

FLOWERS AT WYNNE RESIDENCE IN HEIGHT OF FROSTINESS; DELAYED MONTH BY EARLY LOWEST IN SPRING; ROSES ALL COLORS

By NEWS-POST Staff Writer The annual recurrence of roses in the yard of Mrs. J. S. Wynne on North Frost street provides almost enough beauty to last any flower-lover for a season. Just now the blooms are at the climax of their loveliness.

Mrs. Wynne's yard is usually the first sign of spring. Except that this year there wasn't any spring. There were violets but the tulips and peonies were few and short-lived. The roses in the Wynne yard are blooming a month later than last year.

Until the rose hedge that separates the LeFors yard from the Wynne yard becomes pink with roses, one is not quite certain that summer has come. This hedge yesterday flaunted and waved hundreds of roses.

Despite the freeze and frost in April that forced monthly roses to postpone their blooming a month, the rose garden of Mrs. Wynne seems more varied and opulent than ever. The most pleasing characteristic about this year's roses is their apparent willingness to adjust its blooming period to the caprices of Panhandle weather. This year the blooms seem lovelier and larger than ever. Their names do not especially matter; it is enough that there are roses of pale yellow and bright yellow, tea roses, pink ones with white tips, subarbut and a half-dozen shades of red and scarlet.

The hedge roses first are red and later pink. But there is something in the yard besides roses—a smooth velvety lawn of grass. During the last year there was never a time when the yard was entirely without a blossom of some kind. Indications are that it will not be different this year.
