SHANGHAI, July 9. (AP)—A violent tirade against United States marines was spread today across the front page of the newspaper Taihoku Shimpō, generally regarded as a mouthpiece of the Japanese army in China, as the aftermath of an international settlement incident. Japanese authorities demanded an apology for "mistreatment" of Japanese plainclothes gendarmes arrested by marines in the settlement July 7. The Taihoku Shimpō declared the marines were "gentlemen with human faces, but with the skins of animals." Indignant patriots, it added, had posted handbills with such slogans as "Down with America" and "Remove the American hindrance to development of East Asia." Meanwhile Major General Saburo Miura, commander of Japanese gendarmes here, demanding an apology for the July 7 affair, warned that "a speedy settlement of the incident is necessary or the matter is likely to take a grave turn."

Anti-British feeling also increased. Posters appeared demanding withdrawal of British troops from Shanghai. Miura previously had apologized for presence of the gendarmes in the international settlement in violation of an agreement not to enter without American military authorities' consent.

Col. Dewitt Peck, marine commander, replied yesterday "It's a lie." Miura said that despite his previous agreement to consider the incident closed, "discovery of new facts revealing that the Americans insulted the entire Japanese army" made necessary further consideration of the case. A Japanese spokesman said gendarmes entered the area to safeguard Lieutenant General Toshiro Niho, commander-in-chief of Japanese forces in China. Col. Peck, who indicated informally that no apology would be forthcoming, said today he had asked the Japanese to explain additional violations of the agreement. He declared Japanese attempted to drive two tanks into the zone

Sunday but were stopped by a marine patrol and that Japanese drove 125 motor trucks into the area yesterday. Col. Peck said he also had pointed out to Miura the "discourtesy" of the Japanese in failing to inform the Americans Niho's entrance into the American sector Sunday. Yesterday the marine commander said the Japanese gendarmes "were given exactly the same consideration and treatment as any man we arrest, including a medical examination." Col. Peck was scheduled to entertain a group of Japanese army officers at lunch today but as a result of the incident all but two of the Japanese guests declined the invitation.

BRITISH GET FRENCH FLEET AT ALEXANDRIA; BATTLESHIP RICHELIEU DARINGLY BLASTED

First Derby Race Only 9 Days Away

Work of preparing the course on the old Miami road north of Pampa for the second derby, has been started.

The driveway is being repaired, holes filled up, and asphalt is being put down between seams in the road. Reflector lights for the course will be tested Saturday.

Sherman White, general chairman, warned boys entering the derby, not to go out for trial spins on the course now, unless accompanied by parents or sponsor. This warning, he said, was on account of wheat hauling in progress over the road at the present time.

Whether he wins the finals or not, the winner of the Pampa News-Lions Club Soap Box Derby here on July 18-19 will have the time of his life at Akron, Ohio, where the finals are held on August 11.

The local derby will be held on the old Miami road three miles north of Pampa on the nights of July 18-19. Each night the races will start at 7:30 o'clock. There are 124 boys entered in the derby this year, the second annual Soap Box Derby in Pampa.

During his two days at the Derby capital as a guest of Chevrolet Motor Division, the home-town champion will do many things—all of them real sport. First, of course, he must arrive, and if he does so by train or plane, he'll know he's in Derby City the moment his conveyance stops. For at station or airport there will be an official Soap Box Derby bus to meet him. These Chevrolet buses, the travel-

Naval Fight At Caribbean Island Likely

(By The Associated Press)

The French fleet blockaded at the Caribbean island of Martinique includes France's only aircraft carrier, the 22,146-ton Bearn, and is expected to be attacked by the British "at any moment." It was stated in a dispatch to the newspaper Le Petit Dauphinois today.

This fleet, which lies within the Pan-American neutrality zone, "is expecting a British ultimatum and intervention at any moment," said the dispatch, which came from Vichy, seat of the French government.

The fleet was said to be cut off from outside communication by the British blockade. French navy ministry sources were quoted as saying the French ships included the Bearn, the 6,496-ton training cruiser Jeanne D'Arc, several submarines and several smaller craft.

Martinique is a French-owned island in the Caribbean sea, 200 miles northeast of the Venezuela coast. It is about 1,200 miles southeast of Miami, Fla.

French navy ministry sources said the beleaguered craft included aircraft carrier, the 22,146-ton Bearn; the 6,496-ton training cruiser Jeanne D'Arc, several submarines and smaller fighting ships.

A group of U. S. navy destroyers was previously reported en route to the Martinique area to act as observers of any sea clash which might violate the neutrality zone.

Presumably, under orders of the Petain government which last week directed all French warships to "fight their way home," if necessary, the French ships at Martinique will give battle against any British attack.

Nazis in Berlin said a new campaign—by air and sea—had been launched against British shipping. Dienst Aus Deutschland said 330,000 tons of merchant shipping under the British flag or bound for Britain had been destroyed in the last six months.

Ewing Overrules Meador Motion To Avoid New Trial

After an afternoon devoted to hearing the defendant's special plea in bar and the examining of 20 jurors, none of whom were selected, the case of State of Texas vs. P. M. Meador was due to be resumed this afternoon when 50 extra talesmen were to report in 31st district court.

District Judge W. R. Ewing overruled the defense motion, which was based on the idea that Meador's rights would be put in jeopardy by the new trial, inasmuch as he had already been tried on another charge growing out of the same transaction.

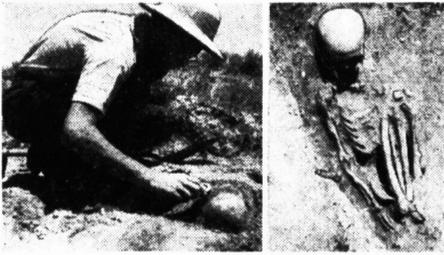

Meador is charged with failure to stop and render aid. He paid a $750 fine on June 21 on a jury verdict of being guilty of negligent homicide in the second degree. Both charges were based on the automobile-motorcycle crash east of Pampa last September in which W. D. (Bill) Kelley, Pampa youth, was fatally injured.

Pampa Boy Discovers Indian Burying Ground Near LeFors

The Indians were buried in a crouched or trussed up position, Tooley said, because the Indians didn't have to dig such a big hole. Then, too, he said, burying them in this manner conserved space.

Tooley who lives with his parents at 606 North Gray, played the role of an Indian interpreter in the Entada, and his brother, Dick played the role of the Indian Sopot. Marvin led the Indian war dance.

Marvin is 17 years old and Dick is 15. Their father is R. P. Tooley, superintendent of the Texas Company pipeline. The family moved here a month ago from Wichita Falls.

Marvin began collecting Indian artifacts and digging for skeletons three years ago. He plans to make an inventory of his life work. At Wichita Falls, he dug up a basket-maker Indian which had been in the earth at least 1,000 years. Marvin has a collection of arrow heads, stone grinding tools which were used by the Wichita Indians.

Marvin figured that there was an Indian burying ground near LeFors when a man reported that he saw an Indian skull sticking up. One Sunday Marvin and Dick and their father found the grave. The man had seen. The boys went back later and put down several dozen test holes in the loose rock.

In the first grave they found a knife with the skeleton. In the second another knife and a skeleton. In the third buffalo bone-digging tools, and two knives and one digging tool in the fourth. Two of the skeletons were laying side by side. The others were about ten yards from the first two. One skull was crushed. The burying ground is located east of LeFors.

Marvin plans to write a paper soon on his various findings. He is surprisingly well-read on all tribes of modern and ancient types of American Indians, and is familiar with their customs, habits, and modes of living.

Marvin was graduated from Wichita Falls high school last spring. He plans to enter college next fall.

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The big news of the day—so big that we cannot yet assay its undoubtedly far-reaching effect on world history—is word that the Republic of France is preparing to establish a totalitarian dictatorship.

The passing of any great institution of long standing is a shock. But it comes as a particularly hard blow to the average American to learn that he is about to lose that grand old motto—Liberty, Equality, Fraternity (Liberty, Equality, Fraternity)—which was born of the French Revolution in 1792 as a declaration of the rights of man.

That was at almost the same date as our own republic came into being. For a hundred and fifty years France and America have marched along side by side since that time—fought under the same command to "make the world safe for Democracy." Now La Belle France takes a different path.

This momentous development, and the rupture of Anglo-French friendship after many years of alliance, represent two of the major political changes which have grown out of the European upheaval.

Here's the way the situation looks to me, from the evidence thus far at hand:

The change in government—The easiest explanation of this about-face is to attribute it to German compulsion, but while an element of Nazi duress likely is there, I doubt if this is the basic cause of the shift.

We must go back a bit and note that the French government in recent years has been in dis-

Recruiting Force Of 60 Men To Be Here July 22, 23

An army recruiting officer and detail of 60 men will visit Pampa on July 22 and 23. They will camp at Harvester field and will use the showers at the high school gymnasium. Permission for use of the football field and the gymnasium was given by the board yesterday.

The recruiting officer contacted Business Manager Roy McMullen of the school district for permission to use the field and showers but Mr. McMullen didn't learn any details about the purpose of the visit or the program to be conducted by the visiting detachment.

Martin Will Direct Willkie Campaign

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, house minority leader, today was named chairman of the Republican national committee and director of the Willkie presidential campaign.

John D. M. Hamilton, present committee chairman, was selected as executive director. He will work under Martin.

Wendell L. Willkie, the republican presidential nominee, announced the appointments to a press conference after he had met with a subcommittee which the national committee authorized to make the selections.

Willkie also announced that Governor Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, who was keynote speaker and Willkie's floor manager at the republican convention, would head a large campaign advisory committee.

Other appointments included formal selection of Russell Davenport of New York, former managing editor of Fortune magazine, to serve as Willkie's personal representative who will work with Martin, and the assignment of Oren Root, Jr., young New York lawyer, to organization work among independent Willkie clubs.

Both Davenport and Root were associated with Willkie in those capacities during his campaign for the republican nomination.

Besides a breakfast meeting with 12 members of the republican national committee, Willkie hoped to visit the capitol to talk with a group of senators interested in making a "keep out of war" campaign. The group included Senators Johnson (R-Calif.), Nye (R-N.D.), and Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

The presidential nominee met his running mate, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, for the first time yesterday, and afterward reported that they were in "full accord" on campaign plans.

McNary said he was "impressed" by Willkie's campaign.

War Flashes

CAIRO, July 9. (AP)—British bombing planes have raided the Ethiopian railway town of Dire Dawa and scored direct hits on railway workshops, the Royal Air Force announced today.

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—A new wave of German bombers was sighted off the southeast coast late today after at least two persons had been reported killed and a number injured in scattered Nazi aerial forays over England, Scotland and Wales.

Observers said they saw one German plane fall into the sea in flames. It was believed to be the second air invader bagged by British defenses during the day.

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—Reuters, British news agency, quoted Japanese reports from Singapore today that the British had seized the 4,450-ton French liner Ile de France.

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—The air ministry reported "very satisfactory progress" today in the training of thousands of Polish airmen as bombing crews in England.

Some of the best trained pilots, many of whom fought in France, probably will fly fighter planes.

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—The dominions and colonial office announced tonight that the Duke of Windsor had been appointed governor and commander in chief of the Bahamas islands.

BERLIN, July 9. (AP)—by Radio—The German wireless, quoting French sources, reported from Vichy today that a new British attack was made on the French naval base near Oran yesterday and that warships already wrecked there were further damaged by bombs and air torpedoes.

In addition, this report said, several smaller vessels in the port were sunk by British fliers.

Britain Now Due To Chase Down Mussolini's Navy

ALEXANDRIA, July 9. (AP)—French naval authorities here agreed today to turn over the entire French fleet at Alexandria to the British.

The French are arranging transportation to France of the crews of all the warships.

The French decision removed the possibility of another British-French naval battle here such as occurred at Oran, Algeria, July 3, and left the British fleet free to move more of its power against the Italians in the Mediterranean.

French warships are expected to play a powerful role in the outcome of the Mediterranean situation by bolstering the British fleet.

The French liner Athos, which has been in port several weeks, is expected to transport troops in event of major hostilities. The 12,000-ton French liner Providence arrived here last Thursday.

No definite time has been set for the departure of the Athos and the Providence, but it is considered certain that these vessels will have a British convoy in the Mediterranean as far as is necessary to insure their arrival at a French port.

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—The battleship Richelieu, one of France's newest and mightiest dreadnaughts, has been blasted by British depth charges at Dakar. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty informed the house of commons today.

The 35,000-ton Richelieu is down by the stern and listing to port, Alexander announced.

Attack by depth charges yesterday was made after the French had failed to reply to British conditions, Alexander said.

He disclosed that the British navy had engaged in two further operations since its attack July 3 on French units at Oran to insure that France's fleet be kept from German and Italian hands.

Seven French capital ships now have been accounted for, he declared.

The depth charges which crippled the Richelieu were dropped from a motorboat close under the stern to damage propellers and steering gear, Alexander said, while aircraft dropped torpedoes.

The motorboat, Alexander told commons was a ship's boat under Lieutenant Commander R. H. Bristow which was sent into the harbor and carried out its mission "with great daring."

These four alternatives were offered the French commander, Alexander said:

1. That the Richelieu sail with a reduced crew under escort to a British port;

2. That she sail with a reduced crew to a French port in the West Indies where she could be demilitarized;

3. That she be demilitarized in Dakar within 12 hours;

4. That she would be sunk within a time limit.

No satisfactory reply was received within the time limit, he declared.

The other naval action since the attack at Oran mentioned by Alexander was the raid by British aircraft July 6 on the battleship Dunkerque.

It already had been disclosed that British fliers scored six hits on the damaged, grounded, 26,500-ton French capital ship July 6 and Alexander said the heavy attack would incapacitate her for a long time.

Telling of the raid on the Richelieu, Alexander said:

"On July 7, the flag officer en commandant of the port and I sent one of my captains ahead in a sloop in order to present the terms in person.

"On arrival, this ship was informed by French authorities that they would be fired on if she approached close to the port and it was only after an interval that the French consented to receive this communication by signal."

Aerial reconnaissance after the attack established that the Richelieu was listing to port, down by the stern.

While the motorboat still was in the harbor, Alexander related, her engines broke down and she lay helpless for a time but the crew succeeded in getting one engine running just as they were discovered.

The boat was pursued but managed to escape by crossing harbor defense nets which fouled the propeller of its pursuer, he said.

Commons roared with laughter. "Paying tribute to the bravery of the motorboat crew, the admiralty chief said it was obvious that all aboard ran the risk of blowing themselves up.

The main attack was entrusted to the fleet air arm later, he said, and a number of aerial torpedoes hit the Richelieu.

He said the crew of the motorboat, still in the harbor, witnessed the attack and reported seeing smoke pour from the great battleship after five explosions were heard.

Despite heavy anti-aircraft fire, he reported, all the British planes returned safely.

The Jean Bart, sistership of the Richelieu, remains, but she will not be completely mended, he was commissioned for action for some months to come, Alexander said.

ROME, July 9. (AP)—An Italian-German agreement for a three-fold attack on Britain was reported today by Virginia Gayda, usually authoritative Fascist editor.

The axis partners, Gayda said, are determined:

1. To blockade the British Isles.

2. To break Britain's empire contacts.

3. To defeat her "at home, in imperial territories" and at sea.

Each axis power has definitely assigned tasks for its goals, Gayda, editor of Il Giornale d'Italia, said.

Italy's job, he declared, is to strike at the British at four places on land and harass British shipping in the Atlantic, Mediterranean, Red Sea and Indian ocean and, above all, immobilize a large part of Britain's seapower in the Mediterranean.

On land, Gayda said, Italy is assigned to strike at Egypt from Cyrenaica, in Libya, at the British-

U. S. Attorney Would Indict German Agent

LOS ANGELES, July 9 (AP)—Acting U. S. Attorney William Palmer says he has "plenty of new material" to place before the federal grand jury tomorrow in seeking the indictment of Dr. Herbert Hoehne, 29, held on a charge of failing to register as a German agent.

Palmer indicated he is asking the advice of his superiors in Washington on whether to take action against German Consul General Fritz Wiedemann and Chancellor Herman Loeper of the San Francisco German consulate.

In holding Hoehne for grand jury investigation yesterday, U. S. Commissioner David Head said that "upon the evidence as offered before me" he would issue warrants charging the consular officials with conspiracy, if Palmer filed a complaint against them.

The government submitted a letter of introduction for Hoehne, signed by Loeper, saying that he "is traveling from San Francisco to Buenos Aires, Argentina, by airplane, taking along three small trunks containing consular papers."

Federal sources said later that Hoehne's presence in the Americas paralleled the arrival and arrest of Emil Wolff three days ago at Balboa, C. Z. They said Wolff was arrested after leaving the ship's side a 50-pound trunk which was recovered and found to contain documents "in German giving detailed plans for action in Venezuela, Panama and other Latin American countries."

Wiedemann, in San Francisco, at first denied knowing Dr. Hoehne but later said the latter paid him a courtesy visit after arriving from Germany June 16 via Yokohama.

"This consulate had several letters and three small packages destined for German consulates in Latin America, which we asked Hoehne to deliver for us," said Wiedemann.

"We have been following this procedure for several months x x. "It was not my knowledge when Hoehne was here, nor is it now, that a person taking mail for a consulate constitutes a foreign agent, and therefore should be registered.

Wiedemann is Adolf Hitler's personal adjutant, becoming consul-general in San Francisco in March of last year, and was a member of the Nazi supreme council entrusted with several delicate missions.

Japs Threaten Military Action Against Britain

TOKYO, July 9 (AP)—Informed sources asserted today Japan is prepared to take military action against the British crown colony of Hongkong if Great Britain continues refusal to close the Burma route of aid to China.

These sources said Japanese plans are complete and merely await London's reply to a request for reconsideration of the refusal. They pointed to the removal of women and children from Hongkong as an indication of the seriousness with which Britain views the situation.

Neutral diplomatic quarters, expressing belief that Japan was "bluffing," looked upon the Burma road affair as a test for Japan's entire program to assume and consolidate control over European-owned territories in Eastern Asia.

The Japanese war navy and foreign ministries called emergency conferences to discuss British refusal to cut off aid to China. The Japanese national forces and the outside world be cut off—as a means of ending the three-year-old Chinese-Japanese war.

Foreign Minister Hachiro Arizato told British Ambassador Sir Robert Craigie the British reply was unsatisfactory and urged him to advise London to reconsider.

France readily agreed to permit Japanese inspectors to supervise rail shipments through Indo-China into China. The Japanese press was unanimous in declaring that "an understanding with the United States and Soviet Russia preceded the British reply and newspapers repeated previous charges that the United States fleet was acting as Britain's "watchdog in the Pacific."

The press at the same time reported Japan's roving diplomat, Naotaka Sato, in conferences with German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop had received indications Germany would back Japan in any action against Britain in the far east.

When the "champ" arrives at the huge hotel that is taken over from basement to roof to serve as Derby headquarters, he registers as a matter of course. At that time he receives his official street garb, a complete race driver's outfit—white Derby jersey and red, white, and blue Derby cap, which bears on it the number of the squad to which the champ is assigned. If he is named a squad leader—captain of a band of Derbyists from many different cities—his cap bears a rosette with squad number.

Next the youngster registers in the hotel, where the clerk and bell-boy alike greet him with "Welcome to Champ!" He is then shown to his room, where he will share with a rival racer during the two exciting days.

Friday preceding the race, the champ is allowed to make his own program to some extent, and Derby officials cooperate in outlining plans and programs. Friday evening, however, sees all the champions meeting together for the first time, to learn about their schedules for the next two days. An entertainment designed especially for boys is scheduled at that time. "Lights out" at ten o'clock.

Next morning comes another group meeting with the champions given instruction concerning Derby Downs, and tips on the best way to handle their race in the race. After luncheon, buses take the boys to the track itself, where each boy drives his own car down in a safety run, to acquaint him with the course.

The Saturday evening program varies from year to year but includes the boys go to a Scout camp and an evening frolic. Other years they have attended ball games, seen movies, or been honor guests at other events.

Special Race Car Race morning after breakfast, champs are encouraged to attend church or Sunday school, with buses waiting at their disposal. After luncheon, the boys don their silk racing jackets and repair to the track. At an official drivers' meeting, the youthful contenders receive final instructions and are issued the safety helmets and goggles which they wear during the race itself.

Prior to the race itself, the boys are the highlight of a big parade, when they march the length of the Derby Downs between grandstands and bleachers. Each boy carries a silk flag bearing the official Derby emblem and the name of the town he represents. Once these colorful preliminaries are over, comes the big event, and the thrills of the afternoon are just about enough for any boy.

When the race is run and the winner has been acclaimed, all the drivers return to their hotels, where they change to their Derby street dress. Then buses whisk them to Akron's vast Army for the Champions' Banquet, where prizes and awards are distributed.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Stocks edged forward selectively in today's market without the benefit of a great deal of bullish inspiration. Auto and Motor got an early start on recovery, but failed to hold their gains. Gains, running to a point or so, were restricted to a few stocks.

Debt securities had a mixed start in the first hour. The ticker tape then resumed its normal. Transfers approximated 280,000 shares.

No 'Squawks' Heard On New Defense Taxes

With the same nonchalance with which the French said "cest la guerre" in World War I, Pampans are vying the increased prices on cigars, baseball game tickets, theater tickets, and other "luxury taxes" designed to fill Uncle Sam's defense coffers.

There has been no fevered protests on the new taxes heard by Pampa retailers so far. Drug stores have hiked the "special" of 15 cents a package of popular brand brands up to 18 cents, two for 35. Some brands are selling for 20 cents a pack.

Those who "roll their own" are thankful that Texas has no state tax on the tax comes from the sops of tobacco come within the scope of the new taxes. In the Volunteer state, this has meant an increase of one cent on the five and ten-cent sticks, making the new prices six and 11 cents.

Beer is still obtainable at 10 cents a stein or 15 cents a bottle, although keger is costing the wholesaler $1 more on 31-gallon lots. Increased cost of theater tickets, hiked three and four cents by new taxes where admission prices are more than 20 cents, hasn't checked the lines at the box office.

At Road Runner park, most of the complaints on the tax comes from the "ticket-takers, who are annoyed by the necessity of dealing in pennies occasioned by the four-cent tax.

BRITISH

Egyptian Sudan from East Africa, at Kenya and at British Somaliland. Italian action against Sollum; capture of Kassala, British fort in Moyale, and bombardment of Aden and Perim were indications of Italian initiative along these lines.

The decision of French naval authorities to turn over the French fleet at Alexandria leaves the British fleet free to seek out the Italian navy in the Mediterranean for the "future engagement" promised by Prime Minister Winston Churchill last week.

It came at a time, too, when reported German movements hinted at a Nazi attempt to wrest Britain's stronghold of Gibraltar.

ALEXANDRIA, July 9 (AP)—The following official statement was issued by British authorities on the surrender of the French ships at Alexandria.

"In the Mediterranean fleet, the closest comradeship and goodwill have existed between the Allied forces conducting the war from Alexandria.

As soon as it was realized that France must surrender, consultations were held between the (British) commander-in-chief and the (French) Admiral Godfrey at that time. In the hopes that it might be possible to continue the fight side by side.

French Attempt To Scuttle Ship Fails

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Quick action by British authorities was reported today to have thwarted efforts of the crew of the 30,000-ton French liner Pasteur to scuttle the vessel at anchor in Bedford basin near Halifax, N. S.

Reliable sources said the French crew sought to sink the vessel last Thursday night—the day following the naval engagement off Mers El-Kebir, Algeria, in which British warships put out of action several units of the French fleet to prevent their surrender to the Germans.

An armed party of Britishers was said to have forced their way on board the Pasteur just in time to close sea cocks through which water already was pouring into the holds. There was scuffling, but no gunfire.

favor with the general public. A fair mark of its standing was the fact that the members of parliament were a constant source of jokes for the music-halls, because the representatives were inactive.

Then came the Hitlerian earthquake. The people, and many of their political leaders, are totally crushed and heart-broken. They lay their plight to the inefficiency of the government in preparing to meet the Germans.

Now the people are ready to try a Fascist dictatorship to see if it won't prove more efficient and pull things together.

I will predict, however, that no dictatorship will live long in France. "Liberte" is bred in the bones of the Frenchman.

The Anglo-French break in friendship: There are of course two French views of the British attack on the French warships, the destruction of numerous vessels and the killing of many sons of France.

We can do no better than note the comment made yesterday by General Charles de Gaulle, head of the French national committee in London. He characterized the British action as a "particularly cruel episode," but added that "it is better that the ships were destroyed to prevent their falling into German hands."

If de Gaulle, who is wholeheartedly with the British in making war against the Nazis, regards this as a "particularly cruel episode," it's easy to see how the French people as a whole look on it.

Again, fifty-two percent of the French population are farmers. Their ancestors were farmers, perhaps on the same land. They would understand if their government had fled to the colonies, to England or to the colonies, and tried to conduct the war from there as some suggest.

This feeling goes far toward explaining why the Petain government felt it best to surrender, rather than try to carry on from some other country.

NAVAL FIGHT

eight days—a record bettering figure for any month since the war started.

German air raiders stabbed at Britain all day Monday and on into this morning. The British said eight Nazi and three British planes were destroyed in the fighting.

German radio stations at Berlin, Stuttgart, Cologne, Bremen, Hamburg and Frankfurt shut down early today, indicating British air raiders were in the vicinity.

The Germans said nine civilians who failed to go to shelters were killed yesterday by a British raid on Siedricht, the Netherlands.

More Light Tanks Will Be Purchased

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP)—A projected purchase of 629 light tanks, which would give the army a total of nearly 1,700 light and medium tanks for its new armored corps and other mechanized units, was disclosed today at the war department.

Orleans Seeks Restoration Of French Throne

BERN, Switzerland, July 9—France's forgotten family—the House of Orleans—hopes for restoration of the throne in the virtual totalitarian dictatorship which Premier Marschal Lami Philippe Petain is reported forming in the new French state.

Reports reaching Switzerland today said the bearded Duke of Guise, claimant of the French throne, and his young heir, the Count of Paris, have renewed their bid for recognition, working under protection of the Spanish Nationalist government at their headquarters near Larache, Spanish Morocco.

Dispatches from Vichy, new seat of the German-vanquished French government, have said the 84-year-old Premier Petain would become "Chief of State" under a new constitution described as "Corporate"—the term Italian Fascists apply to a triumvirate government.

These dispatches added that Petain would assume "only the title of executive power"—presumably as a figurehead—and that the government would be dominated by a triumvirate composed of General Maxime Weygand, former allied commander-in-chief; former Premier Pierre Laval and former Premier Minister Adrien Marquet.

Resignation of President Albert Lebrun was forecast. Recently it was reported a strong group of Royalists had installed themselves high in the councils of the Petain government.

The king pin of their bloc was said to be General Weygand, long regarded in army and political quarters as having Royalist sympathies.

Italian Navy Wants 'Glory,' Aves British

LONDON, July 9 (AP)—British sources asserted today that a desire of the Italian navy to achieve "glory" comparable to that gained by Italy's army and air force in Ethiopia and Spain was a factor in Italian entrance into war.

They said the navy had shown a definitely "pro-war" attitude for some time.

These sources said they believed Italy would be unable "at present" to replace submarines at the rate the British are sinking them.

They estimated 90 per cent of all Italian naval personnel had been conscripted.

These sources said the new 35,000-ton battleships Vittorio Veneto and Littorio "probably" had completed their trials, but suggested that Italy might "prefer" to keep them out of action in the immediate future.

The same sources estimated Italy's battleship strength at five ships, including the Vittorio Veneto, the Littorio and three 27,000-ton vessels which have been reconstructed.

Fence Will Be Built Around School Campus

Construction of a high chain type fence along the east and south sides of the Central high school campus was authorized at a meeting of the school board yesterday afternoon in the city hall. Several bids were received but no contract was let at the time, the board authorizing Roy McMillen, business manager, George Hancock, caretaker at Harvester field, and Joe Shelton, supervisor of bus drivers, to tabulate the bids and let a contract to the low bidder.

The board also voted to place copper pipe in the new high school building wherever pipe was to be placed underground. Copper pipe, it is believed, will last longer underground.

The county Democratic committee was given permission to establish voting boxes at Baker, Woodrow Wilson, and Horace Mann schools for holding the Democratic primary July 27.

A representative of the Johnson Heat Control company was present and demonstrated a heat control system recommended for school buildings. Price was $5,280, installer. The board took no action but asked that full particulars regarding the system be submitted in writing.

A contract with Hopkins school whereby that school would pay $7 a month tuition for all resident students attending Pampa high school was signed. The contract also stated that Hopkins school system would furnish a bus with the Pampa school appointing the bus driver.

Would Melt Lomposts LONDON, July 9 (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard suggested today converting Britain's lomposts into guns to ease "a shortage of steel in arms factories."

The stirring of a new drink with the feather from a rooster's tail during the American Revolution, gave the "cocktail" its name.

Jail Breaker Caught By Wheeler Sheriff

Tom Green, one of two men who escaped from the Amarillo jail Sunday afternoon, was captured in Wheeler last night Sheriff Raymond Waters said today while in consultation by telephone with city officers.

Arnold Hicks, still at large, and Green were trustees. They broke into the elevator, "dropped it in the second floor, broke into an office and escaped through a window," officers said.

Green was serving time for robbery with fire arms while Hicks was in jail on a shoplifting charge, officers said.

The Homeless Ones

There have been wars before. There has been devastation, and slaughter, and burning. There is nothing new in that, especially to Europe, which has treated itself to one of these self-made holocausts every few years for centuries.

But never before has Europe seen the wholesale expulsion from their humble homes of literally millions of people. Never before has a whole continent swarmed with a homeless, hopeless throng of millions who have not only been driven from what homes they had, but who have literally no place to go.

Many of these, of course, will soon be able to return to what were once their homes. To the shattered house, the scarred acres, the broken orchard, they can return again, and blindly take up the task of rebuilding.

But others are not so fortunate, if anything of good fortune can be seen in such a picture. Literally scores of thousands of the refugees in France are men and women driven from Germany to seek refuge in Austria, Czechoslovakia, Belgium, the Netherlands, and France. Many are Jews, and many more are simply people who fell afoul of the secret police.

Driven from one country to another, always only a single breathless step ahead of the onrushing Nazis, these people are now without passports or credentials. They can do little now but to await in terror the arrival of secret police agents who will ferret them out among the refugees and exact some summary penalty for "offenses" committed perhaps years before in another country.

From the Urals to the Atlantic, Europe presents a picture of organized horror that one would have to go back to the Thirty Years' War or to the invasions of Genghis Khan to match.

Whatever can yet be done by the United States and by other countries yet free to relieve the distress and offer new hope should be done. We can send money and food. We can cut the red tape binding present immigration quotas and procedure, and perhaps raise those quotas temporarily. We can offer asylum to innocent children threatened with death from the sky.

Surely we must have a better answer to these things than Cain's curshin, and evasive "Am I my brother's keeper?"

In France alone, there are estimated to be 4,000,000 homeless ones. They fled across the frontiers from the Netherlands and Belgium and the broken lines of Sedan and the Somme.

Rumania now adds her quota to the increasing hordes of fugitives. How many fugitives from Franco's Spain, given sanctuary in France, will now be shipped back to face firing-squads?

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, July 9—America's one great military secret—the famous airplane bomb sight—edged its way into the row over confirmation of Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox as secretaries of war and navy.

One reason for the bitter-end determination of some senators to prevent Stimson's confirmation has been belief that Secretary Woodring's removal from the War Department was precipitated by a show-down scrap over the proposition that the bomb sight be turned over to England.

Woodring himself has taken no part in the fight, and the understanding is that his letter of resignation—which those who sought to block confirmation are trying to get into the record—makes no mention of the bomb sight. Nevertheless, the charge is privately being made that the administration did attempt to give the bomb sight to the British and that it was Woodring's refusal to yield which brought the request for his resignation.

The Military Affairs Committee, which handled the Stimson appointment, is on the whole a pro-Roosevelt committee, and the Naval Affairs Committee, which considered Knox's case, is pretty largely anti-Roosevelt.

MICHIGAN POLITICAL EXPOSE DUE

Keep an eye on Michigan as the likely spot for a new crooked-politics scandal to explode. A federal grand jury is investigating things there, and is likely to be at it until the end of the summer, and the general understanding here is that a mess fully as bad as the one dug up last year in Louisiana is due to be uncovered.

Several angles are involved, but it is believed that the liquor racket will provide the biggest headlines. One distillery is alleged to have paid out close to half a million dollars in "commissions" last year. So far, no income tax cases have popped up, all hands having been tolerably careful about listing their gains for Uncle Sam's tax collectors.

Before the federal investigation got started, a state investigation in Detroit indicted 151 persons, including ex-Mayor Richard W. Reading, on charges of a graft conspiracy in connection with policy games.

BRAIN TRUST OUT OF DEFENSE PICTURE

Up to this writing, the star members of the New Deal's brain trust have not drawn cards in the administration's defense program—except for the part Harry Hopkins is playing as secretary of commerce.

Tommy Corcoran, most famous of all brain trusters, is very much out in the cold. Furthermore, the National Resources Planning Board—headed by Frederick Delano, and including such persons as Gardner Means and Charles W. Eliot—has not been given anything to do. So far, at least, the "inner circle" New Dealers have been pretty much out of the picture.

About a month ago, this column told of a Cuban scientist who was then in Washington warning the administration that unless the U. S. pushes a broad program of new world defense and economic collaboration, Nazi-Fascist fifth-columnists will presently

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLES

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

OUR GREATEST MORAL LAW

The greatest moral law ever comprehended by the mind of man is the law of equal freedom. Unless people comprehend this law, there can be no democracy, little justice and no growing civilization. It seems to me to be the first and governing law of all human relations. It is meaningless to talk about loving one's neighbor as one's self, unless one first recognizes that each and every person should have equal freedom.

When Jesus was asked which is the first commandment of all, He answered: "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment."

It seems to me that a rational interpretation of the meaning of "Lord" or "God" in this commandment, or law, as Jesus used these terms, if we are to interpret them in a moral sense as distinguished from God being synonymous with nature, should lead us to conclude that the law of equal freedom is in substance what Jesus meant.

"Love" in this case means the right attitude of mind. That is an attitude of respect and consideration for every other human being.

If we do not recognize this to be what Jesus meant in his command to "love God," as being complimentary and a part of the Golden Rule or "Love thy neighbor as thyself," then we have a very incomplete guide or law of human relations. When only the Golden Rule is used as a guide, without the first commandment, there are as many ideas of right and wrong as there are individuals.

Do Not Love Self Enough to Be Guide And if man does not love himself sufficiently to develop his personality and character by discipline and work and by refraining from over-eating, or over-drinking, or over-indulgence of any kind, and is not even sincere and honest with himself, he, thus, cannot love himself very much and so cannot love his neighbor very much.

But, when these two laws are taken together and are complimentary to each other, then we have a guide, a common ground, a united purpose, an eternal principle, that certainly was what Jesus intended to mean when he gave these two commandments, or laws, or principles.

Often we hear people using the second commandment of "Love thy neighbor," as a complete guide, but it needs in addition to this the commandment "love God" i. e., respect the law of equal freedom in order to have a complete rule or infallible law of life that will result in making possible the greatest aggregate amount of happiness.

A TAX OR A FINE ON LEADERSHIP

The President proposes what he calls an excess profit tax. There isn't such a thing as an excess profit. What he calls an excess profit tax, is a tax on leadership and management.

Capital can be had for 3 or 4 per cent. Any profit that is made above that is due to management. Ownership, in the final analysis, is nothing but management. Thus, for the government to take away the management of the efficient by what it foolishly calls an excess profit tax, is, in reality, to take whatever they take by taxation out of the hands of good management and put it into the hands of the inefficient, scheming politicians.

There is just as much sense in retarding the growth and development of efficient leadership in industry as there would be in selecting the best milch cows and killing them for beef. In the long run, the community suffers.

There is no such thing as an excess profit when a man follows the competitive system and makes his profit without misrepresentation.

The trouble is the public does not realize that this kind of a tax reacts against the worker because it stops the accumulation of capital—tools—in the hands of the most efficient who can pay the most wages. Thus, any tax that retards the growth of efficient management compels workers to receive lower wages or pay higher prices for their product, which is the same thing, than they would be obliged to if they did not discriminate by taking the tools out of the hands of the most efficient managers. No nation ever lasted long that followed this policy. It is an oligarchic form of government. It does not recognize the universal law of inequality laid down by the great Italian philosopher, Pareto.

It is simply another way of making us so poor and inefficient that some Hitler who does not do this to such an extent can lick us if we ever get into a fight.

RADICALS AND THE WAR (St. Paul Dispatch)

Minnesota Farmer-Laborites who met Monday evening to honor the memory of Floyd B. Olson heard speeches the central theme of which was that the bankers of Wall Street are backing the giving of aid to the allies with the purpose of getting America into the war.

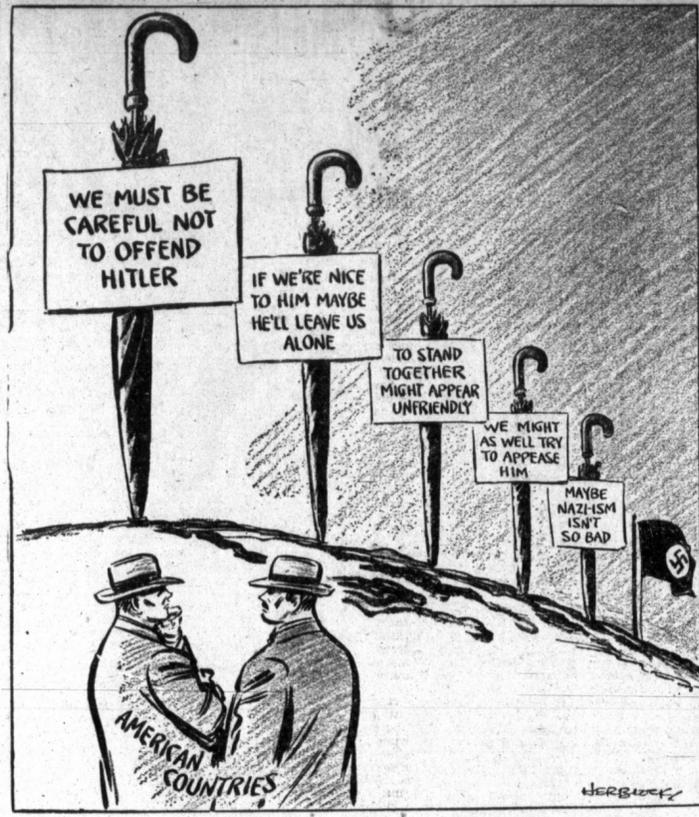

This is typical radical speechifying, but it overlooks the fact that the one person who more than any other in this country is responsible for the policy of giving aid to the allies is President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the acclaimed champion and hero of the Farmer-Labor party, and its partner in the seven year war against the bankers of Wall Street and elsewhere.

Modern war makes every one poor. This is the least of its horrors, but it does reduce to rubbish such superficial political shouting as some of the Farmer-Laborites allowed themselves Monday. If they wish to make a contribution to American peace they should go deeper into realities. Are they attempting to argue that President Roosevelt is trying to enrich big business and big bankers?

As a matter of fact, with France on the verge of surrender, the danger of our seeing American doughboys on the battlefields of Europe is reduced to practically nothing. The land phase of this war is about to end, unless Russia takes it up in eastern Europe, in which case some of our radicals would become the loudest demagogues for our going in. When France has surrendered the war will become one of sea and air fighting against Great Britain; and what England will need to come through will be airplanes and ships. President Roosevelt is committed to giving them such aid to the full extent of our ability. Farmer-Laborites have a right to oppose it, but they should register their complaint at the right window.

A VETERAN'S REWARD For sheer stupidity and ingratitude toward able players, I know of nothing to equal Hollywood's treatment of Hobart Bosworth. About five weeks short of his 73d birthday, a few of his friends recently helped celebrate Bosworth's 55th anniversary as an actor. On June 30, 1885, he played a walk-on bit at the California Theater in San Francisco. Two years later he played with Maude Adams, who was an ingenue then. He played in an Augustin Daly company in which John Drew was the star. After that, Bosworth became leading man for Julia Marlowe and for Mrs. Fiske.

His health broke, and he went to the desert to die. But he recovered completely and in May, 1909, appeared in the first motion picture made in California. It was "The Power of the Sultan," produced by Colonel Selig, and the studio was the drying yard of a Chinese laundry in downtown Los Angeles. He became a star as well as a director and writer, and in the early years of movies did much to stabilize and win respectability for a wildcat industry.

After that—but this needn't be an account of what Bosworth has done a great deal, but that Hollywood won't hire him. Bosworth himself told me that casting directors seem to think of him as just an old has-been, likely to prove expensive to a studio if his health fails in the middle of a picture. Actually this actor has an astonishing physique and an amazing memory. "Since I came west," he said, "I have not missed one day of work through illness. I box with my son every day when he's in town. I'll bet I can outrun and outswim any man in pictures within 20 years of my age. "It's a good thing I saved some of my money when I was making 10-dime-a-day."

Congratulations and best wishes to Mrs. Mickey Conley today which is the eighth birthday of her baby. When all is said and done Mrs. Conley who is one of Pampa's most unique personalities, runs her cafe for the glory of God and her church which is the Catholic. For Mrs. Conley gives the greatest part of what she makes to her church. Mrs. Conley stays around people all day, but she likes to be alone in a small house a few blocks from her cafe. Last winter Mrs. Conley was troubled with swollen, aching feet and she had to use a cane. Now that they are better Mrs. Conley gives God the credit. It is well-known that Mrs. Conley has not missed mass in 10 years; she has walked through several blizzards to go to church. Health and happiness and cheer to Mickey Conley, and may she never lose her optimism and sense of humor and her sweet old Irish ways.

O'Daniel Will Deliver Series Of Addresses

(By The Associated Press)

In more ways than one the current Texas political campaign is quite different from any waged in the past. Here it is less than three weeks before the first primary and only three of the gubernatorial candidates are following a regular itinerary designed to cover the state. Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel last night announced a series of six campaign addresses, but scheduled them for next week. Former Governor James E. Ferguson, campaigning for his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, is not following a schedule of speeches daily. In fact, this week he makes only two, the first Friday at Corsicana. Cyclone Davis, Jr., of Dallas, has confined himself principally to informal talks but Harry Hines, Jerry Sadler and Col. Ernest O. Thompson have been merely shelling the woods. Hines, a member of the state highway commission, scheduled a formal talk at Longview today. A highway underpass is being dedicated. Sadler was in East Texas for speeches at Pittsburg, Mount Pleasant, Daingerfield, Linden, Atlanta and Texarkana. Col. Thompson was at Amarillo today to attend funeral services for a friend and will resume his speaking tour tomorrow. O'Daniel, in making his announcement of the six addresses, said he was meeting a public demand for "true information on government conditions."

Action On Military Training Deferred

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—The senate military committee decided today to defer hearings on the Burke-Wadsworth military training bill until final senate action on the nomination of Henry L. Stimson and navy departments.

Reliable sources said, however, that when the army's representatives did appear, they would approve the principle of compulsory military training, disagreeing only with details set out in the bill under consideration. Leaders of various organizations which advocate "civilian" training were on the witness list of a house committee considering the measure. One point on which army officials were said to disagree with the Burke-Wadsworth bill was the $5-a-month pay rate it fixes for men selected for training. The high command was reported favoring instead the present $21 basic pay of army privates. Representatives of 22 colleges and universities voted unanimously at New York yesterday to support this bill, and also asked extension of reserve training units to colleges which do not have them. There were indications, that President Roosevelt was about ready to send congress his new defense recommendations, said to involve $5,000,000,000. A delay in final army estimates may postpone the special message until tomorrow.

TEX'S TOPIX

BY TEX DEWEES

The enslavement of nations, as the world has seen lately only too well, comes not merely from aggression and the will of conquest. It seems to come almost as much from a curious tendency to slavish submission and co-operation among the invaded nations themselves. This is the case even in nations renowned for independence and national pride. We have seen it in Norway, Denmark, in Holland, in Belgium, in France. We may see it even in England. We might see it in America.

Such a tendency to treason, or whatever you may call it, is Hitler's best ally, and he is a master hand at using it. He might yet use it on this side of the ocean. The psychology of such traitors is strange to normal, patriotic minds. What is their motive? What have they to gain by their treason? Here you probe into some of the least admirable traits of human character.

THERE is a type of man, found almost everywhere, who feels thwarted and resents the failure of society to recognize his worth. Such people may seek power from any source. They may welcome an invader, and smooth his way for him, not only for gain and power, but by way of avenging themselves on their unappreciative fellow-countrymen. They are, potentially, petty fiends. And their slimy trail is found in every country that has gone down before the thrust of these modern dictators. We may have some of them in America.

Often, too, there may be a racial prejudice or preference involved, or a lack of complete Americanization. . . . No intelligent citizen can afford to be without a watch in this country, but it is necessary to be on guard against such alien thought and action.

An Iowan builds a dog-house 8 by 10 feet, with brick walls, concrete floor and insulation, which is the envy of every married man in the block. . . . It's a simple pattern in Europe. Those who have built with this pattern, however, you have. . . . Engineers who met on a single track before the advent of railroad signals had to argue it out, a vestige of which old civilization may still be recognized in any two cab drivers.

It is said the Nazis have no ambassador of good will because the original premise is wrong to begin with. The Duke of Dukes would like to find a nice quiet spot somewhere in England. Who wouldn't?

Portugal makes plans to celebrate eight centuries of independence. Better hurry, boys, if you want to make that even 800. . . . A pro grid star wasn't getting rich playing football, so he joined the army. Is it possible he never heard the song? "New York man, take with you a crumpled car with periscope view, air-cooling, and other features which are said to include hot and cold running chambermaids. . . ."

MOVE TOWARD COMMUNISM

By HAROLD L. LUTZ

Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University

The movement to destroy cherished American liberties by substituting a highly centralized, rigidly controlled collectivist system is not confined to the United States. It is a world-wide movement. The enemies of democracy nor to the under cover agents of foreign totalitarian states who are now so active, and so un-molested, in our midst. This movement has been proceeding openly for years, under governmental auspices. It has a dangerous example of such legislation in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to create other corporations, supply them with capital, and lend money to them for operations. Such corporations may be set up to acquire strategic materials, to build plants and operate them, using these strategic or other raw materials. To any reasonable reader, this scheme contains enough dynamite to blow the system of private enterprise into small bits, while the series of subsidiary corporations can be established, each authorized to engage in some line of business deemed important for the national defense, and to draw upon the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the necessary funds.

If this measure is enacted, there will be a vast number of citizens who have been quite unaware of the final objective. The deficit policy, the immense increase of the public debt, and the open competition of government with business are all evidences of the progress of our own Fifth Column. Further evidence is the legislation which has prevented the flow of capital into enterprise, and which has imposed severe burdens of taxation and regulation upon business. With the progressive disintegration of the forces of private enterprise has gone the argument that government must act because individuals will not. A recent expression of the policy that has done so much to usher in the collectivist state is the following passage from the President's "fire-side chat" on defense, May 26, 1940:

"I know that private business cannot be expected to make all the capital investment required for expansions of plants and factories and personnel which this program calls for at once. It would be unfair to expect industrial corporations to do this, when there is a chance that a change in international affairs may stop future orders. "Therefore, the Government of the United States stands ready to advance the necessary money to help provide for the enlargement of factories, the establishment of new plants, the employment of thousands of necessary workers, the development of new sources of supply for the hundreds of materials required, the development of quick transportation of supplies."

STORIES IN STAMPS

Nation Honors Lincoln In Washington Memorial

SIMPLE, dignified and grand is America's memorial to Abraham Lincoln, pictured on the U. S. $1 stamp above of the 1922-23 postage issue. The building is one of the noblest expressions of architecture in the country.

The memorial is located in Potomac Park on the great axis of the city as originally designed by the architect Washington selected to beautify the capital. The Washington monument stands beyond a lagoon a quarter of a mile long.

The memorial was designed and its construction supervised by Henry Bacon, New York architect. It has 36 Doric columns, 44 feet high, in a colonnade 188 feet long, 188 feet wide. The memorial hall is 156 feet long, 84 feet wide. Floors and walls are of colored marble.

Inside is a colossal, 175-ton marble statue of Lincoln, executed by Daniel Chester French. On the walls are inscribed the Gettysburg Address and the Second Inaugural. Mural decorations, by Jules Guerin, typify in allegory the ideals of Lincoln's life.

The total cost of the memorial approximates $3,000,000.

A recent expression of the policy that has done so much to usher in the collectivist state is the following passage from the President's "fire-side chat" on defense, May 26, 1940:

"I know that private business cannot be expected to make all the capital investment required for expansions of plants and factories and personnel which this program calls for at once. It would be unfair to expect industrial corporations to do this, when there is a chance that a change in international affairs may stop future orders. "Therefore, the Government of the United States stands ready to advance the necessary money to help provide for the enlargement of factories, the establishment of new plants, the employment of thousands of necessary workers, the development of new sources of supply for the hundreds of materials required, the development of quick transportation of supplies."

SERIAL STORY

PEACE---SHE'S WONDERFUL

BY ISABEL WAITT

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: The conductor and the policeman believe Rhoda and Carole when they explain why Denny is taking Peace west. Mrs. King interrupts her kidnaper hunt to become interested in Mr. Ogden, a Texas oil man. When the train reaches Kansas City, Peace has disappeared again.

CHAPTER VIII

DENNY hurried through the fast-filling aisles of the three cars between his reservations and the observation car. The train had stopped and people were making for the exits, eager for the few minutes' breathers. Peace should have found her seat and be coming back, but she wasn't.

"Seen the youngster?" he asked Carole, who was on her way out. She shook her head. "Seems to me she skipped through a minute ago. Maybe she's in the ladies' room. I'll get the stewardess."

Denny sent a porter to search up ahead, and meanwhile he questioned everybody he met. Caleb Ogden was with Mrs. King, he knew, on the rear platform, unless they had got off. Anyway, Peace wasn't with her. Peace would have been obliged to pass him.

"She's not in there," Carole finally told Denny, escaping a voluble stewardess, who agreed to join the search. "More than likely she's off the train. After all, she can't be fat."

"Oh, can't she?" Denny said grimly. "And all the little girls will be wearing—that did she have on today?"

"Blue," Carole said, as they got off. "She's no doubt asking for ant eggs at the soda fountain." They hurried upstairs to the station. She's not in sight here.

"You go right and I'll go left," Denny took it for granted she would help him. Just then they both spied Rhoda near the bookshop, and called to her.

"She isn't in the waiting room," Rhoda said. "That child can be the biggest nuisance. Denny, why did you let her out of your sight? Now if she's lost, we are in for—"

He wanted to hear no more, but tore off to the street door nearest him. A vast relief flooded him that she hadn't had time to get very far. Peace had utterly vanished. Nothing chicory blue was in sight, in any direction. He had no wish to repeat his Boston error, and was thankful he had asked about Peace's dress. He ran back into the station, hurried through crowds to the train gate.

Denny bumped into Mrs. King, who'd heard the news and was doing her bit with Carole. "He's disposed of her! I was right, I tell you!" he heard her hiss. "Wait till I tell Mr. Ogden!"

Helter-skelter, flying around in circles. Some passengers were already going back to the train.

Denny raced down to the platform. He'd do what he should have done in the first place—find the conductor and put it up to him to hold the train. But first he'd take another look. There was just a chance she'd fallen asleep in one of the seats and been overlooked.

He was passing by the compartments when he heard a shrill childish laugh. "Peace! Honey, where are you?" He pounded on the nearest closed door, stuck his head in the open ones. "Peace!" He tried the door of a drawing room. Locked! He shook it and pounded again. "Peace!"

"I am, Uncle Denny!" The door was unlocked, and Denny thought he'd never seen a gullible looking pair. He snatched the child, feeling his temper rise.

"Gosh, I didn't know that door was locked," Ogden said. "She must have turned the key. Come," he gestured towards the wash-room, "and I'll give you a bath."

"Mr. Hogden's gonna buy me a goldfish to teach my turtles how to swim better," Peace beamed.

Denny didn't know whether to knock the man down or believe it. He seemed so inoffensive and apologetic about the whole thing—well, Peace wouldn't get away again.

"Gosh, I'm awful sorry about this—you must have been anxious. I meant to get off at Kansas City myself, but when I came back to my stateroom and found the kid, well, I got fascinated with the turtle's aquarium, I guess. Suppose there's time to mail some letters before the train—"

Denny heard the conductor's cry. Heavens, Rhoda and Carole would be frantic! He yanked Peace down the steps and waved to Carole, still on the platform. "Okay! Here she is. Where's Rhoda?"

Rhoda was in her seat, quietly weeping, when they bustled up. "I can't stand much more of this. If you don't spank her, I will!"

Denny explained how she'd just been playing with her turtles. "She spanked me and didn't get off the train." Later he whispered to Peace to ask if she really locked the door.

"What door?" the child wanted to know, and Denny boiled. He noticed the turtles had been transferred to a small box, punctured with air holes and tied with a string. "Doesn't hurt their toes," Peace explained. "I like Mr. Hogden. He's gonna buy me a goldfish and a big glass bowl, when we get to Lost Angels." She must never, never go into that drawing room again, unless he or Aunt Rhoda or Carole went too, he told her.

CALEB OGDEN approached their seat. "Join Mrs. King and me in bridge? We can have a nice quiet game in my compartment, and you can keep an eye on this young lady while she gives Darb and Joany another swim."

Denny hoped Rhoda would refuse, but she jumped at it. "A bit of sunshine on a dull day. Come on, Denny." To play cards with a man whom he'd like to throttle (but maybe he was wrong, and anyway Rhoda didn't know) and a woman who'd insulted all the way from Boston, wasn't his idea of bliss. But if Rhoda would get over her gloom it would be worth it. Perhaps he'd get a line on Ogden.

Mrs. King apparently did—hook, line, and sinker. She devoured Caleb's pep talk about his rich oil wells, and broke up the game to look at his pictures. Oh, well, this was her funeral. Denny was thankful to escape.

SIXTEEN hours of comparative peace, through beautiful country, and the train sped on to Albuquerque. Ogden and Mrs. King had been constantly in each other's company. Carole Love had kept to herself. Denny scarcely had a word with her, none alone.

He kept trying not to think of the odd mishap which had made him propose to Rhoda. On the way home from the Currys' party last winter, his car had broken down in a snowstorm. Never would he forget Aunt Tilly's resentment when he and Rhoda finally reached her house at 4 in the morning: "My aunt is old-fashioned about such things," Rhoda had said. The engagement followed, and now, having met a girl like Carole, Denny closed his mind to wondering.

The picturesque station came into view. Gaily blanketed Indians were waiting to show their pottery and baskets.

"This time, I'll hang on to her," Rhoda announced, squeezing Peace's hand. "No more scenes. You'll do as I say, Peace Warren."

But as the train stopped, a messenger paged Miss Rhoda Lowell, handing her a telegram.

"Bad news?" Denny asked, remembering Aunt Tilly's weak heart.

"From Bertrand." Rhoda smiled, and stuck it into her purse, without another word.

Rumania Suggests

Population Exchange

BUCHAREST, July 9.—(AP)—Rumanian government quarters insist today that "Rumania does not recognize any justification for eventual Hungarian territorial demands and is resolved not to accept them."

The statement was made as Hungarian Premier Count Pal Teleky and Foreign Minister Count Istvan Cskay entrained from Budapest for Germany to discuss Hungary's claims for return to her of the Rumanian province of Transylvania with the German and Italian foreign ministers. Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Count Galazzo Ciano, and possibly with Adolf Hitler.

Official quarters here said Rumania would consider only an exchange of populations as a means of settling Hungary's 20-year claim on Transylvania, which was a Magyar province before the World War.

The only grounds on which Rumania will be disposed to accept discussions with Hungary in a large and benevolent spirit might be that of a reciprocal exchange of populations, these quarters said.

"Such an exchange, to the exclusion of territorial cession, might have a satisfactory result for the two nations, with good economic consequences and the establishment of good neighbor relations."

"These would give excellent results to the two countries and to all of the countries of this part of Europe."

Firemen Chase Two

Burning Box Cars

SEATTLE, July 9.—(AP)—Here's a new version of the story about the man who brought the fire to the firemen:

Called to Hanford street last night by a report three box cars were ablaze firemen began laying hose. An engineer, not seeing them and thinking they were headed for Lander street, two blocks away, hooked on to the burning cars and pulled them to Lander.

So the firemen roared to Lander. The "train" arrived first, found no firemen and rolled back to Hanford. The firemen followed.

The engineer, not seeing any signs for fire apparatus on Hanford, jerked his whistle cord frantically and headed one more for Lander. This time the firemen and "train" arrived at the same time and the blaze was extinguished with less estimated at 100.

Senseless Bombings

Cause Dutch To Move

LONDON, July 9.—(AP)—The German-controlled Dutch wireless announced today that a large part of the population of the Hook of Holland, Netherlands North Sea port, was being moved voluntarily because of "senseless British bombings."

Gulzon Borglum's head of Lincoln in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington is a head in scale to a standing figure 28 feet high. Tent caterpillars reverse the process of building a house and stocking it with food. They build their house around the food supply. The wishbone is the "merry thought" of a bird.

British AAUW Members Ask U. S. Women To Care For Their Children

A cable from the British Federation of University Women asking the American Association of University Women to take care of their children for them for the duration of the war has resulted in a nationwide project for the placement of several hundred British children according to Mrs. Perry Gaut, Pampa AAUW press director.

The children will be between the ages of 5 and 16. They will be brought in as speedily as possible under the British quota, with affidavits of support and complete compliance with all immigration regulations. Naturally, information will not be given out in advance as to ships and times of sailing, but the children will come as rapidly as space is available.

Mrs. Gaut said that the Pampa chapter of the AAUW would probably take action on the British plea in the near future.

"This is a new experiment in foster home care," said Kathryn McHale, general director. "The AAUW's own educational and social services will be at work in the assignment of children to homes and longer term adjustments. Since we have 68,000 university-trained women in 882 branches, organized in every state of the union, we have unique resources in the field of child care with which to meet this emergency situation."

Dr. McHale said she was much pleased with the reaction of members to the British Federation's request.

"Within two and a half days after the first query went to branch presidents, we had placements for three dozen children," she said.

"The Detroit branch telegraphed an offer of homes to 22 children. The Tulsa, Okla., branch formed a committee of 25 women to canvass placement possibilities. A little branch of only 12 members in Iowa arranged to take an English child, which would live with the president of the branch, and receive support from the entire group.

"The Norwalk, Conn., branch not only found homes for 16 children, but also began planning with doctors and dentists for medical care for them. Often medical and dental care is the chief obstacle to a home being opened, both in matter of expense and responsibility. A woman's chief worry is about what would happen if the child got really ill. It is therefore wise to lift this worry by planning ahead for health safeguards and medical advice.

"Another obstacle on which some branches have started working is the requirement of school tuition for visiting children in some places. "Psychological factors in the changing of environment of children is another big problem which will have careful consideration, even though the emergency situation requires speedy action."

Dr. McHale also pointed out that it was logical that the British federation should turn to AAUW. The two organizations have been in constant contact ever since they cooperated in organizing the International Federation of University Women at the close of the last world war. The British women are not sending their children to strangers, but to friends of long standing and of kindred philosophies.

The volunteers were reminded that "for the duration" might mean a long time, and that affidavits of support mean ability to care for a child until it reaches maturity. The appeal sent out to branch presidents by Esther Calkin Brunauer, Associate in International Education, stated in case for the British Federation.

Hungarians Will Talk With Italian And Nazi Ministers

BUDAPEST, July 9 (AP)—Hungary's government leaders were called to Berlin today to discuss settlement of their country's claims on Rumania with the German and Italian foreign ministers. Joachim von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Hungarian Premier Count Pal Teleky and Foreign Minister Count Istvan Csaky were expected also to confer with Adolf Hitler during their stay in the Berlin capital. Informed sources said they would leave for Berlin this afternoon.

It was learned that a Hungarian note was sent to Germany several days ago setting forth Hungary's minimum demands for return from Rumania of Transylvania.

Von Ribbentrop and Ciano, who conferred with Hitler in Berlin Sunday and are scheduled to see him again this week, were said to have been studying the note and the Hungarian ministers were expected to discuss the whole question with them.

Hungary, it is understood here, is willing to settle peacefully with Rumania for less than the original borders of Transylvania, lost to Rumania in the World war settlement.

The Hungarian army is on a complete war footing and apparently the Hungarian attitude is that the nation must remain on this basis until her claims on Transylvania are satisfied in one way or another.

To what extent the axis powers might go to soothe Hungary in the interests of keeping peace in southeastern Europe remained a question.

Migratory Workers Accused of Being 'Vested Interests'

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9 (AP)—Migratory workers have created for themselves "small-scale vested interests" in their squatter-like settlements in California and now must be dealt with as "property owners," Carey McWilliams, chief of the state immigration and housing division, asserted today before the national conference on planning.

In many cases, he said, migrants have formed permanent settlements which cling to established communities like "unwanted appendages" regardless of local employment opportunities or the unproductivity of the soil under their feet.

"The owners of these shack interests," he reported, "now must be dealt with, if you please, as property owners. We have permitted them to create a myriad of small-scale vested interests."

McWilliams, who directs the state's efforts to find housing or farms for the newcomers, suggested the migrants might be best assimilated by putting them on large-scale, cooperative farms. He did not offer details.

Two kinds of trees, Sitka spruce and Alpine hemlock, make up 70 per cent of the timber growth of Alaska.
