

Gene Worley Blasts Jones In Challenge; Miller, Zimmerman Also In Race

The announcement yesterday by Congressman Marvin Jones that he would seek reelection instead of accepting an appointment as judge of the federal court of claims hadn't frightened any of the 14 candidates, who announced for congressman, out of the race today.

Gene Worley of Shamrock, E. T. "Dusty" Miller of Amarillo, and Dennis Zimmerman of Tulla have informed the News they will stay in the race.

Other candidates have not expressed themselves but none has said he will withdraw.

Statements were released today by Worley and Miller, both disapproving the late decision of Congressman Jones to seek reelection.

"Frankly, I do not favor eleventh hour political blitzkriegs and no matter who else is in the race I still believe all the people have the right to say who shall be their congressman," Mr. Worley declared in his statement. "I feel that my statement will terminate a friendship of long standing but I can say for myself that at no time have I ever betrayed you," Mr. Miller stated in a statement.

For a discussion of Mr. Jones' decision to enter the race on the last filing day, turn to the editorial page and read 'Tex's Topic.'

Mr. Worley telegraphed the following statement to the Pampa News today:

With all due respect to Hon. Marvin Jones personally and as a congressional leader and to those individuals who have urged him to stand for reelection, I hereby respectfully state that I am still a candidate for the Democratic nomination to congress from the 18th congressional district. I have acted in good faith in making my announcement, spending what money I had and borrowing additional amounts, abandoning whatever prospects for promotion I might have had in the Texas Legislature, and campaigning diligently for the past six weeks.

"I have the highest respect for Mr. Jones and believe he has done a splendid job during his tenure of office and in my opinion richly deserves the promotion which has been tendered and is still open to him.

"In 1916 President Woodrow Wilson and congress were faced with virtually the same crisis which President Roosevelt and congress face today, but the people elected Mr. Jones to replace a veteran congressman who had served the district for 18 years.

"At that time Mr. Jones believed a young man should be given a chance. I heartily share that view with him today. I hereby freely relinquish all of the pledges of support which I had already received if my supporters are so inclined. On the other hand, however, if they believe that I will do the best I can for all the people alike; if they believe that all of the people rather than a select few should have the right to elect their officials, then I will be deeply grateful for their support and will continue to do my utmost to justify the confidence placed in me.

"Frankly I do not favor eleventh hour political blitzkriegs and no matter who else is in the race I still believe all the people of this district have the right to say who shall be their congressman. I'm still in the race and if a hard, clean campaign is rough I'm in it to win."

EUGENE WORLEY.

Mr. Miller's telegram to Congressman Jones follows:

"To my sorrow I have learned that at the very minute I was talking to you yesterday afternoon, a

At the show the beard contestants will line up on the stage and five of Pampa's prettiest girls will select the winners.

Radio Salute To Top O' Texas Towns Planned By KPDN

A radio salute to Top O' Texas towns will be presented in a series of 15-minute programs over Pampa station KPDN starting tomorrow, according to Johnnie Wells, chairman of the radio committee of the Coronado Top O' Texas Fiesta to be held here June 13, 14 and 15.

The programs will consist of brief histories of the towns and their salient characteristics.

Definite time of the programs has not been set, but will probably be between 8 and 9 o'clock in the mornings.

Towns to be noted in the programs will be Groom, Claude, LeFors, Panhandle, White Deer, Skellytown, Borger, Miami, McLean, Perryton, Canadian, Phillips, Shamrock and Wellington.

These programs will follow the station breaks and dramatic shows that have been put on the air during the past week advertising the Fiesta.

Boys Loitering At Baseball Park To Be Taken To Jail

Boys and men loitering around the baseball park will be picked up and taken to the city jail, Police Chief J. I. Downs announced today. His decision was reached after being notified that several car radio articles had been twisted from their bases last night.

"The Kiwanis club has given every in Pampa 17 and under a chance to join the Knit Hole Gang and those older should know that they can't get away with destroying property," Chief Downs declared.

An officer is going to be at the park every night and anyone, man or boy loitering around outside of the park, other than those hired to shag balls, will be picked up, the chief said.

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The outcome of the war likely hinges on this second phase of Hitler's blitzkrieg which was launched at dawn against the Allies left wing in northern France.

If the Allies can stand up against this new onslaught—not to talk of throwing it back—until its fury is spent, they will have advanced their cause immeasurably, even though they have to give much ground.

But if Hitler is able to achieve his announced purpose of crushing the French armies, which are the Allied land bulwark just as the British navy is the bulwark of the seas, then to all intents he will have established his position in continental Europe.

It is difficult to see how Britain single-handed could oust him once he has conquered France.

The Allies have made it clear they are expecting to see more dark days before they see better. That doesn't mean they are whipped, for they are not, but they are in for some tough seasons.

Certainly the world will be forced to witness another blood-bath.

When the Nazi chieftain set his great war machine rolling again this morning he headed for quick victory or defeat, for he hasn't resources for a protracted struggle. It won't be long now before we can see the end of the road.

The full scope of the Nazi drive wasn't apparent at the outset. The initial assault was against the Allied positions on the Somme and Aisne rivers along a front of 125 miles between the English channel and the vicinity of Laon. All this area west of Amiens on the Somme saw some of the fiercest fighting in the world war.

It looked very much as though the Germans were headed for Paris by way of the well-trodden valley of the Oise.

From the front in this sector has been newly consolidated and strengthened under command of Generalissimo Weyand. Over a considerable stretch of the line under attack this morning the Allies had the Somme river between them and the enemy, and at numerous strategic points the Allies also

Cut Your Weeds, Urges Worrell

Weeds are "taking" many vacant lots in the city, according to Dr. T. J. Worrell, city sanitation officer, who urges owners to see that the weeds are cut. Weeds are a breeding place for mosquitoes and other germ bearing insects, as well as a menace to persons suffering from hay fever, Dr. Worrell pointed out.

There is a city ordinance which requires property owners to keep their lots free from weeds and refuse, Dr. Worrell said. He doesn't want to have to make use of the ordinance, he said, and that is why he is urging cooperation of every property owner in the city to have weeds cut immediately.

Owners of property where stagnant water stands are urged to place oil on the water to kill mosquitoes and other insects.

Entrada Tickets On Sale In All Towns Of Section

Tickets to the Entrada to be staged here during the Coronado Top O' Texas, June 13-14-15, are now available in six towns outside Pampa as a result of the good will trip made by Pampans yesterday.

Drug stores in LeFors, McLean, Shamrock, Wheeler, Canadian, Perryton, and Spearman, now have a supply of tickets. Miami is to be mailed a supply today, and another batch sent to Borger, Panhandle, and White Deer tomorrow, L. H. Johnson, chairman of the ticket committee said today.

In Pampa tickets are available at the chamber of commerce in the city hall.

It is planned soon to issue tickets to drug stores and have cards printed, to be attached to cash registers, calling customers' attention to the Entrada tickets.

McLean Lions Will Sponsor Derby Cars

McLean Lions will join the Pampa Lions and the Pampa News in the Soap Box Derby to be held here July 18-19.

At the McLean Lions regular weekly luncheon at noon yesterday, the club voted unanimously to sponsor and publicize the event in McLean.

Several members volunteered to sponsor individual entrants in the derby and plans are being made to give a prize to the fastest McLean model automobile.

The offer of participation from McLean followed a talk made by County Judge Sherman White of Pampa, general chairman of the derby.

Other guests at the luncheon were Clifford Braly, Charlie Thut, and D. M. Dickey, all of Pampa; Jesse J. Cobb, Dallas, the Rev. T. A. Sumrall and the Rev. John Myrore, both of McLean.

Vandals Damage City Park Trees

Does Pampa have meaner boys than other cities? That is the question puzzling City Manager Steve Matthews who learned this morning that boys had stripped the bark from several trees in city park.

Mr. Matthews continued, "The park broke off other trees, and destroyed shrubs.

"Just because a few boys have no respect for property or no civic pride the city is going to have to spend several hundred dollars hiring a night watchman to guard the park," Mr. Matthews said today.

"I hope that parents will question their boys closely regarding their actions while playing in the park," Mr. Matthews continued. "The park belongs to the citizens of Pampa and everyone should take pride in his park. Citizens seeing boys destroying park property should hold them and call the police. It is their duty."

One large tree which was badly damaged will probably die, Mr. Matthews said.

The destruction of property by boys is becoming a problem that is going to have to be dealt with in a severe manner, Police Chief J. I. Downs said. Boys have been pilfering cars and doing damage to cars at ball games. Boys have been sticking ice picks in car tires. Boys have been entering vacant houses and buildings and destroying property, the chief said.

"If parents cannot teach their boys the rules of good citizenship we're going to have to," Chief Downs declared.

Head On Collision Damages Two Cars

City police officers today were investigating a strange accident—a head-on collision of two cars in the center of a 60-foot street with no cars parked at the curbs. The accident happened at 9:30 o'clock last night in the 100 block on East Brown street when cars driven by Mrs. Joe H. Lewis, living eight miles east of Pampa, and J. B. Oliver, Pampa Negro, collided.

Oliver was taken to Pampa-Jarratt hospital in an ambulance but after receiving emergency treatment for cuts and bruises was able to be taken to his home.

Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Mittie Tignor, in the car with her, received only minor bruises, police said.

Mrs. Lewis was driving east and Oliver west when the cars met. Both cars were badly damaged, police reported.

Congratulations— Boy And Dog Make Cops' Faces Red

DURHAM, N. C., June 5 (AP)—There were many red faces at police headquarters today, all because of Roger Upchurch, 13, and his dog, Zip.

A burglar, sought by the officers on several house-breaking charges, was seen entering a home. The neighbors started screaming, frightened the burglar and he jumped from a window and escaped.

Roger got his 22 rifle, hustled to Zip and they started out. In a few minutes they came back, marching the burglar before them.

Court Rules In Johnson's Favor

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 5—The third court of civil appeals today upheld a Travis county district court ruling that the state board of control was without authority to discharge Dr. W. J. Johnson as superintendent of the San Antonio State hospital.

A temporary injunction granted by the district court, restraining the board from removing Dr. Johnson, interfering in any way with performance of his duties or discharging any other employes of the institution except on Johnson's recommendation, was sustained.

Several months ago the married, 56-year-old hospital superintendent was accused of making improper advances to a number of employes of the institution, and the board conducted a lengthy hearing.

Meanwhile, Johnson obtained the injunction, declaring a conspiracy to oust him existed and that the board had no right to remove him before August 31, 1941, when the term for which he was appointed expires.

He contended the only legal way the head of a state eleemosynary institution could be removed was by legislative impeachment.

Attorneys for the board argued that Dr. Johnson was not a state officer and could be removed for good cause after a hearing.

The court held that to remove Dr. Johnson the board must act in conformity with the mode prescribed by the constitution, namely, a trial in a court of competent jurisdiction and a determination of whether good cause exists for removal.

It added that in no sense can the board of control be deemed a judicial body or a quasi judicial body.

Watch On Mexican Coasts Redoubled

MEXICO CITY, June 5 (AP)—The navy department announced today that it had redoubled its watch along the Mexican coasts to enforce "Mexico's neutrality and prevent contrabands."

According to the navy department all gunboats and coastguard cutters are now on patrol duty in the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific ocean.

There was no immediate explanation whether the redoubling of the watch was motivated by any special circumstances or was due to the general international situation.

German Bombers And Tanks Open New Blitzkrieg

BERLIN, June 5 (AP)—Authorized German sources said tonight the German army's right wing was advancing on "the broadest front" southward and westward along the English channel coast toward Le Havre and Rouen.

Authorities said the operations were "progressing as scheduled."

The strategic purpose of the drive along the coast was said to be "to separate completely Britain and France and to set up new additional bases of operations against England."

War Flashes

PARIS, June 5 (AP)—Authorized sources said tonight the French were holding everywhere against the German offensive on the Somme and Aisne front with the exception of a few points where "they may fall back to more favorable positions."

This operation "will be nothing to worry about," the same sources stated. The French infantry, as late as 2 p. m. (7 a. m. CST) was stated to be holding solidly in the great battle of the Somme north of Paris.

Nearly two million men were engaged in this new battle of the Somme, with the German divisions pressing massively on the lower Seine and Paris.

German Bombers And Tanks Open New Blitzkrieg

Without so much as a breathing spell from their conquest of the north, the Germans struck at dawn. Dive bombers and heavy artillery smashed into the massed French infantry along 125 miles of the new Somme-Aisne line, and, especially in the rectangle formed by the French cities of La Ferre, Laon, Amiens, Le Chateau and Chauny.

The French stand virtually alone on the line, although there are some British divisions there.

Allied sources say that effective help cannot be forthcoming from Britain until British industry can replace the vast stores of supplies and war equipment lost in the Flanders disaster.

Soon after the thunder of the dive bombers and the German artillery had reached a crescendo, the German infantry swarmed into the attack, charging in great, grey, waves.

Armored "Panzer" columns waited for openings in the French lines to start their characteristic lightning dashes deep behind the French front.

Toward midnight the battle was raging with increasing violence in the stifling heat, smoke and dust

Red Cross Chapters In Texas Raise Total Of $214,250

ST. LOUIS, June 5 (AP)—The 238 Red Cross chapters in Texas have raised $214,250 toward the new goal of $20,000,000 for the Red Cross war relief fund to meet Europe's present relief situation, William M. Baxter, Jr., manager of the Red Cross mid-western area, announced today.

Chapter production units composed of hundreds of women volunteered to meet Europe's increased demand for refugee garments of all types, as well as surgical dressings and hospital garments, for shipment abroad to supplement purchased supplies.

Following the "unprecedented and unforeseen" conditions in Europe this last two weeks, chapters in Texas unanimously accepted new war fund quotas which now total $175,640 throughout the state, Baxter said.

A total of 45 chapters already have met original quotas and are forging ahead to meet new minimum relief needs overseas.

A Spot Underscored on Nazi Flyers' Maps

Heavily underscored on the maps of any German flyers attacking London are the city's miles of docks, some of which are seen, above, as they would appear to enemy planes. Destruction of these docks would seriously ravel Britain's thin, indispensable, import lifeline.

British Left Food, French Tanks, Guns

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
WITH THE GERMAN ARMY (By telephone to Berlin), June 5 (AP)—Stores of supplies left behind by the British Expeditionary force in its withdrawal from Flanders, a German officer told me today, could equip 40 German divisions—forces equal to all those of Czechoslovakia before its dismemberment.

These supplies indicated the British had kept excellent lookout for the bodily wants of their soldiers. Traveling some 200 miles along Germany's front in France and then toward the channel ports and finally into the great Flanders trap gave me a vast picture of the retreat of the B. E. F., France's army of the north and Belgium's defenders.

In following the French retreat along Germany's southern front, I was impressed by the fact that the French had abandoned cannons and munitions, as compared with the British leaving of provisions.

As a car hurried me along highway after highway in northern France, I saw cannon after cannon left by the wayside. The German advance seemingly had been so rapid that Nazi labor battalions and highway constructors could not follow quickly enough to clear up as they had done in Holland and eastern Belgium and bring abandoned booty to collection centers.

We had hardly crossed into France last Saturday, on a trip which kept us incommunicado until yesterday, when at Beaumont we saw evidence of the fury of Germany's Stukas—the dive bombers.

Heaviest Tanks Stopped
Some of France's heaviest tanks of the 30-ton type had come down a street running east and west. Several bombs were dropped on buildings at an intersection, blowing them to smithereens.

Messerschmitt pursuit planes apparently followed the Stukas and machine-gunned officers and men as they crawled out of the tanks.

Whoever remained in tanks and was ready to continue on the way was surprised by the quickly approaching German tanks before he could gather his wits.

These tanks finished what the Stukas and Messerschmitts—dive bombers and fighting planes—left undone. It was a ghastly sight but nothing compared with what we encountered Sunday on a road near Enelos outside Lille.

Here probably the greatest tank battle of the war—and all times—had taken place.

English Bibles, French prayer-books, rosaries, detective models, bloody helmets and grimy uniforms were scattered in grotesque confusion.

We stepped cautiously among hand grenades which nobody had had time to remove.

Letters Strewn About
We saw letters from wives and sweethearts strewn around, some written in French, some in English, but all ending with the wish that the recipient might return home safely.

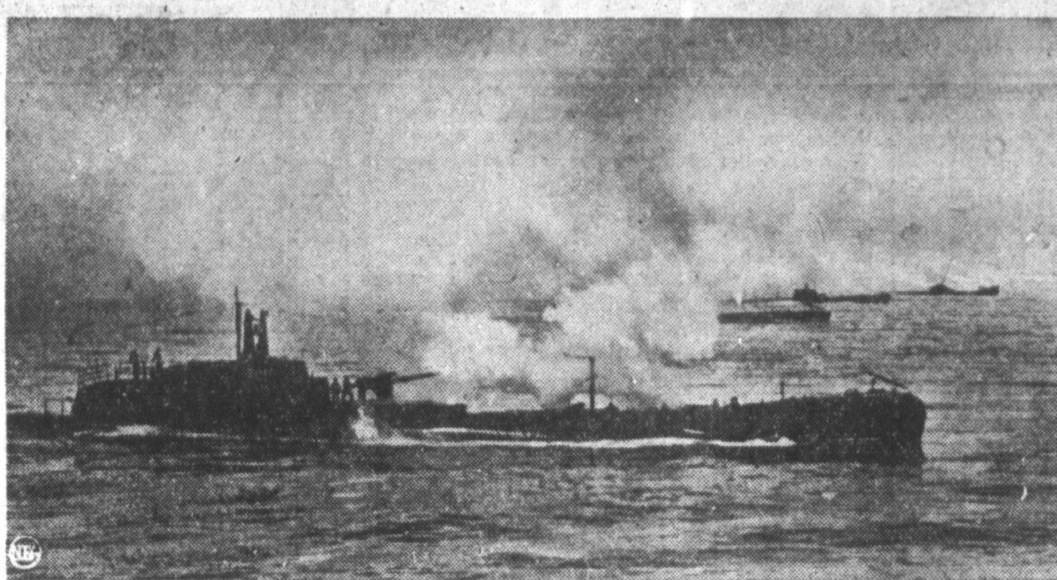

Instead, his mangled corpse lay a short distance away. We passed through French places of World War memory such as Cambrai, Arras, Bethune, St. Omer, Lille, St. Pol and Armentieres. Everywhere the picture was the same.

The blitzkrieg had moved like a windstorm, striking this or that locality, as an American tornado does, while the next place is untouched.

Streets actually involved in the fighting were marked by two things—abandoned tanks and furiously bombed individual buildings.

In Flanders, the difference between 1940 and the 1914-18 period was even more marked. In the last war, according to all accounts, most cities and villages in combat areas were virtually razed.

Now, however, even Ypres, although shelled, emerged with the Mennon gate only partly damaged and with the famed cemetery unscathed.

Although a big battle raged for days around Ghent and the civilized world feared that its art treasures might be demolished, the city itself was damaged but little.

Bruges, where King Leopold III of Belgium held forth until his surrender, escaped disaster by capitulation.

In Ostend, the harbor and wharves were shelled, but the residential section was spared in the main.

Nazi Towns Bombed By Allied Warplanes

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 5 (AP)—Allied warplanes early today bombed Friedrichshagen and other objectives on the German side of Lake Constance and dropped six bombs on the Swiss side of the border.

Houses and a road were damaged between the Swiss towns of Kreuzlingen and Tagerwilen but there were no casualties.

On the German side of the frontier sirens were heard in cities on the shores of the lake, including Konstanz, Germany's only city on the left bank of the Rhine.

Anti-aircraft fire sputtered from German batteries and bombs exploded at several points on the German side. The nationality of the raiders could not be determined.

Friedrichshafen is best known as the home of Germany's famous Zeppelins. Airplane engines are manufactured there and its factories early in the war attracted Allied raiders.

Garment Workers To Rejoin A. F. Of L.

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—By a vote of 640 to 12, delegates to the 40th convention of the International Ladies Garment Workers union voted today to reaffiliate with the American Federation of Labor.

The union, claiming 250,000 members in the United States and Canada, left the AFL to become one of the most powerful units of the CIO. Then, a year ago, it withdrew from the CIO in protest against the CIO's setting up a permanent rival organization to the AFL and has been functioning as an independent.

The only opposition came from the Communist bloc. This drew the denunciation of the president, David Dubinsky, who declared:

Supreme Court Ruling Victory For Commission

AUSTIN, June 5 (AP)—The Giant East Texas oil field today once more drew the attention of oil men.

A United States supreme court ruling upholding a Texas railroad commission order prorating oil on the Rowan and Nichols lease was interpreted here as strengthening the state's regulatory powers. Elimination of the long-imposed 14-day-a-month shutdowns in the huge pool, coupled with an offsetting 50,000-barrel-a-day slash in 10 Gulf coast fields, has been suggested by Jerry Sadler, member of the commission, who asserted demand for the low-octane yielding gasoline from Gulf coast crude had declined.

Chairman Lon A. Smith of the commission, declaring the federal ruling was of far-reaching importance, expressed the opinion it strongly upheld the commission's regulatory authority.

The 6-3 ruling sustained an old commission order allowing each well 20 barrels daily production with prorating of the remainder on percentage of potential as the order applied to the small Rowan and Nichols lease.

Smith proposed reinstatement of the order. The East Texas pool currently has a net daily average allowable of 368,000 barrels with the 14 days of shutdowns and Sadler said his proposed allowable formula would include a "per well minimum."

Assistant Attorney General James Hart is studying a supreme court order correcting a previous ruling which, in effect, permitted the Humble Oil and Refining company to produce its East Texas wells without regard to commission allowables.

Under the corrected order, the court continued a stay of an injunction granted by a lower court to the company and restraining the commission from enforcing its production schedules covering the company's wells.

There was much interest in Justice Frankfurter's statement, in the Rowan & Nichols decision, that "it is not for the federal courts to supplant the commission's judgment even in the face of convincing proof that a different result would have been better."

Sect Denied Use Of San Antonio Hall

SAN ANTONIO, June 5 (AP)—A religious sect that has been encountering trouble over Texas because of its attitude toward the United States flag will be unable to hold a convention in the San Antonio municipal auditorium, Mayor Maury Maverick said today.

Maverick has cancelled a permit for the sect to use the auditorium, declaring he saw political motives behind such a meeting.

The convention had been scheduled for July 24-28 which includes primary election day in Texas.

From March 4, 1861, until the death of John Tyler, Jan. 18, 1862, there were five living ex-presidents of the United States.

Time For Drill

Many firms throughout the country have granted time off with full pay to National Guard members called to take part in training activities.

This is a problem which is going to arise with increasing frequency as military preparations advance and maneuvers take place in various sections.

Unless or until some kind of universal service is adopted, the National Guard remains the principal source of mass training. The man who volunteers for this service offers his person, his time, and his energies to the work. He feels he should not be penalized for that in relation to his regular civilian job. The employer will co-operate as far as possible in sharing this burden.

No single arrangement could well be applied to every plant or establishment. But this burden is obviously one to be shared in as far a way as can be devised between the volunteer and the employer.

Communists In Mexico

Worry over Communists using Mexico as a base to operate against the United States has been consuming Representative Dies. And he has plenty of cause for worry.

In the meantime, one of the most vocal Communist agitators now in Mexico is an export product from the United States. He is James Ford, repeated running-mate of Earl Browder on the Communist presidential ticket in the United States. Ford has spent the past six months in Mexico, violently agitating against his own country and co-operating with the Nazis in trying to stir up anti-American feeling in the neighborly republic. Mexico is reported as about ready to send him "back where he came from." Ford hails from Alabama.

The Nation's Press

PREPARE FOR DEFENSE, BUT KEEP COOL, PLEASE!

We find we are not alone in detecting in Washington outgivings on the defense problem, hectic overtones of excitement not seemingly warranted by the circumstances.

We hope this is not a symptom of war fever or, if it is, that the virus will not prove communicable.

As we see it, this is eminently a time for calm and coolness, not the reverse, particularly on the part of the nation's leaders. We are aware there is a war in Europe, in which the Allies, much to our distress, now look to be in perilous state. And we are far from ignoring that this war has disclosed deficiencies in American defense, which, on the testimony of expert opinion, require prompt and costly remedies.

But, if the idea is defense and the purpose to avoid war, we think the remedies can be expedited and, in fact, best expedited without excitement. Swift efficiency is one thing, but an air in Washington of taut expectancy of an invasion that in truth exists at present only in the mind's eye is something else again.

The news has been pointing out for many years now that preparedness for war is not without its own dangers. Prudent preparedness is a national duty and an insurance against war. But, if carried out in a spirit of excitement, or belligerence, or braggadocio, it can gather a dangerously warlike momentum. It can sweep a country into war as well as otherwise.

So we appeal to Washington to be calm, cool, and collected. And we appeal to the rest of the country to do the same. The country does not have to be whipped up into a warlike fervor in order to sanction the proposed expenditures, lavish as they are. The needed defense measures will be planned all the better, for defense, if strategists are not led to believe their job may be another armed adventure in Europe.

There is already, in truth, a drift of opinion in that direction, though so far only very slight and tentative. The nation's leaders, if alive to their responsibility, will not allow their own demeanor to encourage it.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, June 5—Government experts on the labor supply doubt that any of the shortages in skilled labor are going to prove very serious.

They don't deny shortages may now exist in certain fields, such as aircraft manufacturing and machine tool industries. They believe, though, that it won't take much time or effort to meet those shortages from the ranks of the unemployed.

Listed as jobless in the U. S. Employment Service tables are approximately 1,700,000 men who are classed as "production workers." These men are mostly machinists. Their skills may have grown a bit rusty from idleness, or they may never have worked at one of the particular lines in which there is now a shortage; the argument is, though, that only three or four weeks of training would be needed to make a great many of them fully competent at the job.

Of course, the employer who has to pay for that training can probably be excused if he complains of a shortage.

RUMORS ABOUT LEAHY

Good sample of the way rumors start in Washington is furnished by the sudden rash of stories predicting former Admiral William D. Leahy, governor of Puerto Rico, was slated for a high-up defense job—secretary of the navy, co-ordinator of industrial production, or what-not.

Leahy came back to Washington solely on routine business, the insular legislative session having ended. People noticed him around and began to figure FDR must have called him back to give him a job. Stories to that effect got into print before Leahy had any contact at all with the White House.

No may, of course get such a job. But that wasn't

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

PRINTERS UNION IDEA OF APPRENTICES

The union printers make a great claim as to the service they render in training apprentices. They contend that their rules are for the purpose of benefitting the apprentice.

But these printers give no evidence of the wisdom of their action. They violate all the principles of all the economists and all business men down through the ages. They violate the fundamental principle of the division of labor.

Five Years Drudgery
The printers require that every printer work for years setting type by hand or doing floor work before he dare have the right to operate a linotype that does practically all the type setting in a print shop. After a man gets on a linotype, many of them never again go back to hand composition. Any bright boy or girl could become efficient in six months or a year in running a straight matter linotype machine. It is just as reasonable to say that a linotype operator would have to carry papers for five years or be a reporter for five years or scrub floors five years, as it is to contend that they have to work five years on the floor before they dare even start to operate a linotype.

So it results down into the interpretation of the printers' love and guardianship of the apprentices. It means that the apprentice must be the serf of the union printers and absolutely give up his freedom and his rights to make mistakes and learn by making mistakes. So guidance claimed to be for the benefit of the apprentice means to the union printers control or tyranny over the life of the apprentice.

And instead of it really being love and service to their fellowman, it is a shortsighted method of the union printers making jobs at fictitious wages to linotype operators. It prevents thousands of people from becoming linotype operators who desire to work a few years but do not care to spend five years in servitude in order to be of service to humanity in operating a machine. It thus greatly interferes with the free and natural division of labor without which there can be no high standard of civilization. This is because of the shortsighted view of the union printers that they are wise enough to run the lives of apprentices for five years.

It is little wonder that there are 15 million jobs short when the public permits unions to interfere with people learning to be efficient servants of humanity in this manner. It is little wonder that newspapers and printed matter cost as much as they do when this apprenticeship has stamped itself on to the public. The public always pays the bill and the consumers, 99 times out of a hundred, are other workers instead of rich people as defenders of collective bargaining would have the public believe.

The only difference between the printers' idea of controlling apprentices and Hitler or Stalin, is a matter of degree.

The columns of this paper are open for refutation if there has been any misstatement.

WORK OR STARVE

Most advocates of collective bargaining think they have clinched their argument that collective bargaining is necessary, when they say that a worker has to accept what the employer will arbitrarily pay, or starve.

The fact of the matter is that the employer has to accept what the public will pay, or starve. Every human being has to work, past or present, or starve, or have someone else work and voluntarily transfer the fruits of his labor to him. But it all simmers down so that everybody must work or starve.

Then, again, these apologists for collective bargaining would leave the impression that the worker has to work for one individual person or starve. This is the farthest from the truth. Under free enterprise without collective bargaining, he has the right to sell his services to the world's highest bidder. If any man with capital has confidence in his ability to create, he can borrow capital and employ others. This, of course, would have worked just the same, only a different form.

New Law of Nature
So, these apologists for the collective bargaining would write a new law of nature—that man need not work in order not to starve.

Down through the ages, it has been found that when this is attempted the social group that undertakes it, sooner or later, collapses.

No, we cannot write new laws of nature that seem so pleasant and agreeable as the theory that man can live without work. Everyone must work, past or present, or so act that some one voluntarily transfers the product of his work to him, or starve.

This is the law of equality of freedom. It is the law of nature. It is the law of God. And the men who attempt to abridge it, will eventually pay the penalty.

what brought him back to Washington—and it was his coming back that started all the stories.

EX-OGPU AGENT

SECRET—BUT WHY?
There are excellent grounds for suspecting that Nicholas Dozenburg, the ex-OGPU agent who is now serving time for a passport fraud, put on a nice little act for the Dies committee.

Dozenburg was going to "tell all" about his secret-agent work in the capital. He sailed through the preliminary questioning on an even keel; but when they got him down to cases, he dramatically demanded that reporters and spectators be chased out, saying he would testify only in a secret session because he feared for his life. Secret session accordingly was held.

The hope is, however, that Dozenburg wasn't terribly communicative. Dies had a good deal on him, and on those points Dozenburg talked. But he didn't give much away, and in the end the committee was little wiser than it was before, and, if so . . . why was he so scared to testify in the open?

NAVY IS TIRED

OF FALSE STORY
The Navy Department would like to know who started the story that the U. S. squadron in European waters is being increased in size.

In Europe since the war began has been squadron 40-T—the light cruiser Trenton and the old destroyers Dickerson and Herbert. The boats stick strictly to neutral waters; mission is to keep an eye on U. S. interests and handle any rush job of evacuating American citizens that may have been or are being sent over, and the navy is getting rather tired of denying the rumors.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 5 — The spinning of Carole Landis of the Ping Pong title is a reminder that the schemes of movie press agents these days are becoming as devious and complicated as Russian diplomacy.

Dorothy Lamour has been encouraged by Paramount to grumble aloud about her inescapable status as the Sarong Girl. Ann Sheridan never has been shushed by Warners while protesting that she is tired of being the Comph Girl instead of the Hal Roach factory now are engaged in exploiting the somewhat racy aspects rather than the doubtful dramatic values of a picture called "Turnabout." And here's what happened:

CORRESPONDENTS INVITED TO PING CELEBRATION
In their morning mail, many of the Hollywood correspondents received an invitation to a cocktail guzzling at Ciro's in honor of Miss Landis. "America's selection for the title of the Ping Girl—because she makes you purr."

The correspondents got a sardonic chuckle from the sleek coiffeness of the stunt, but they did not immediately dash for typewriters and telegraph offices to apprise a war-torn world about Carole. Besides, they were a little annoyed by the inference that they, of all the people in America, had not been consulted about the choice of a Ping Girl. Quite a lot of them would have voted for Rita Hayworth.

So there were a lot of approving nods next morning when a large, paid announcement signed by Miss Landis appeared in both local papers. It was phrased as an apology to the press and said she would not be present at her own reception. It declared that she had never been consulted about the scheme and that she disapproved of the title. Carole Landis had been conferred. This attitude was confirmed by subsequent telephone calls from embarrassed-sounding publicists who told everybody that the soiree at Ciro's had been cancelled.

It was also made clear that Miss Landis had flounced into seclusion and was dictating letters to almost all the newspapers on the continent explaining that she was a "fugitive from a leg-art career." She asked them not to print anything about the Ping Girl business, and pretty please, to destroy all bathing-suit photos of herself.

STUNT IS TYPICAL OF MORE MONKEY BUSINESS
Well—that made a story. I aim no criticism at those publications which have dragged out and printed leg-and-or-other physical-charm pictures. Carole Landis, together with stories about her struggle to maintain her dramatic integrity. Outsiders would have no reason to guess that press agents now are willing to pose as a bunch of chumps in order to gain their ends, and that they are able to persuade players to participate in their hoaxeries. I just thought you'd like to know more about the behind-the-scenes monkey business that's always going on in Movieland.

Jimmy Dodge, co-chairman of the Coronado Top O' Texas Fiesta, today invited all candidates for public office to take roles in the Entrada, or send two fellows in their place.

Mr. Dodge said he had appealed to everybody but candidates to be in the Entrada. Several candidates already have roles in the Entrada, but not as many as you might expect, considering the fact that the casting committee is getting desperate for more Indians and soldiers. At least 75 more are still needed. Candidates who have roles in the Entrada are Sheriff Cliff Rose, District Attorney Cal Braly, County Attorney Joe Gordon. If all the candidates would enter the cast they would be a great help.

The candidates couldn't spend their time better. We know of a candidate who would make an ideal El Turco. That role became vacant last night when Director Mark Hamilton switched Arvis Talley to the voice department. All right, you candidates come out tonight and help us out. Besides you'll get a chance to meet 700 people.

Johnnie Phillips of Phillips camp has been planning for months to ride his shetland pony in the Coronado Fiesta parade, but that cherished dream blew up in the other way when his pony disappeared. The pony, named Pepper, is black with 3 white feet, and a white spot on the shoulder. Johnnie is five years old, and he recently bought his outfit to ride Pepper in the parade. So if you see the Phillips family know, or call the Phillips operator at 9025, or this corner.

The King's New Clothes

By W. J. CAMERON
(Sunday Ford Hour)

PROBABLY no heavier bombshell has been dropped into Panhandle politics in recent years than the announcement that Rep. Marvin Jones has had his mind changed by President Roosevelt and will be a candidate for reelection. Not everybody, we find, is taking the announcement at its face value.

There is a belief in circles where the boys know the inner workings that there is a possibility and a very good probability that in this sudden change of mind on the part of Congressman Jones there is to be found some fancy political maneuvering on the part of certain politicians to the west who did not particularly relish the prospect of losing some of the best in the coming congressional election.

AT LEAST, first-day reaction to the announcement has left quite a number of congressional candidates high and dry wondering if Mr. Jones is an innocent party to some political sleight-of-hand that on the 18th district race flopping about like a fish out of water. . . . It does not sound too reasonable, they say, that Mr. Roosevelt would ask Mr. Jones to run again unless a lot of pressure had been put on the President to have him make such a request.

Congressman Jones, it is learned from an unimpeachable source, has stated that he did not choose to run again for the office and that his appointment to a judgeship is being held open for him in the event the present war emergency blows over in shorter time than now is expected. . . . In that event, the candidates in the race now are supposed to hold themselves available for a special election in the fall.

Rep. Jones has stated also that if he is elected representative again, he would resign as soon as the "emergency" has passed. . . . He would even take the federal appointment to his new term in congress would open, in the event, of course, that Mr. Roosevelt no longer "needs him for emergency purposes." . . . In other words, no matter if he is elected, Mr. Jones will not take the congressional post again if the "emergency" passes, and he would resign, if he did take office, just as soon as he felt the President no longer "needed" him.

We always have admired Mr. Jones, and this area of the Panhandle has appreciated the many things he has done for it, but the proposition tossed into the 18th district congressional race at the very last minute doesn't make sense and does not appear to be assumed that somebody else wants him to have it. . . . We are not too wise in the ways of politicians, but this move has a queer gleam in its eye when you stand back and take a good, long gander at it.

OUR informant, whose reputation for veracity is beyond question, tells us that Mr. Jones has said he does not desire to be a candidate, but that the President has insisted that he run again. . . . If he does not want the post, then it is proper to assume that somebody else wants him to have it. . . . And if he does get it, he will not keep it, and even may not take office if world events so shape themselves that there is no "emergency."

That appears to be a queer set of circumstances on which to run for an office. . . . Certainly there is among the long list of candidates for the office a man who could go from the Panhandle to Washington, breathe in the event the war emergency continues. . . . We do not say that Marvin Jones wouldn't be a good man to help handle the situation, but neither do we say that some of the others couldn't handle it. . . . We are not too wise in the ways of politicians, but this move has a queer gleam in its eye when you stand back and take a good, long gander at it.

IN VIEW of the sudden turn of the tables, it doesn't even seem to us that it is obligatory on the part of any candidate to withdraw from the race. . . . If anybody should withdraw, it is our opinion at this stage of the game that it should be Mr. Jones. . . . He has another job awaiting him in Washington—which he says he wishes to take—and he doesn't choose of his own accord, he says, to go back to Washington as a congressman. . . . On top of that, if elected, he will not keep the congressional post after a "national emergency" ceases to exist.

Said The Amarillo Times last night: "Another view that the eighty-hour filing is not cricket is going to affect the voters. All these beliefs and expressions, combined with voter-discovery that the filing was engineered by members of the Underwood lodge, will mean that a vigorous campaign by Mr. Jones will be necessary to prove that he wholeheartedly wants the two-year congressional job instead of a lifetime place on the federal bench. Those who must be satisfied not only are the 12 other candidates; they also include friends and relatives of those other candidates and even many of Mr. Jones' unselfish friends. Regardless of who will be the next congressman, district politics is going to crowd the war for interest until a clearer understanding can be had of what the last-minute developments mean."

There was a king, once upon a time, who was very fond of clothes. He had a robe for every hour of the day. The people of his kingdom were always seeking new silks and new styles and new clothes for him, until one day two strange men came to the palace and said they could weave the finest fabric anyone could imagine. But theirs would not be ordinary cloth, they said; theirs would be a magic cloth. If a stupid man looked at it he would not be able to see it at all, it would be invisible to him. If a king's courtier was unfit for his office, and would have his cloth, it would become invisible to him. "Ah," said the king, "that is just what I want; make me robes of that magic cloth and then I shall see which of my officials are unfit and I shall know a dunce when I see one."

So the king gave the weavers more money than he had the finest silk and the finest of spun gold and they set up two looms for their weaving. They appeared to work hard every day and far into the night; but if you had been there you would have said the looms were empty, you could have seen no cloth at all.

One morning the king, wanting to know how the work progressed, decided to send an officer of the palace to see. "But," he said to himself, "the man is stupid he will not be able to see the cloth; he will not be able to see it; how, then, could he tell me what the magic cloth is like?"

So the king sent his honest, wise old Minister of State. The good man entered the room where the weaving was, and suddenly stopped—startled! He saw the two looms, but not a thread of material on them! The weavers—who were rogues—pretended to point out the fine patterns of the stuff; they pretended to hold up great widths of fabric for his inspection, and the poor man could see only their empty hands waving in the air. But he didn't say so, for that would show that he was stupid and unfit for his office. So he only said, "Charming—very charming indeed. I shall tell the king you are going on very well."

From time to time the king sent others to report, and they could see nothing, but not one of them dared to say so. All this time the two rogues demanded more rich materials and more gold, which they did not use, but kept for themselves. And all the people in the city were talking excitedly of the wonderful new robes that were being made for the king and the wonderful magical qualities of those robes, and all were eagerly waiting to see the king wearing them in public.

At last the day came when the two rogues announced the weaving was finished, and the king with his court went to see it. And the king could see nothing. "This is terrible," he said to himself. "Am I stupid? Am I unfit to be king? But his officials, who couldn't see anything either, exclaimed how magnificent it all was, what beautiful color, what charming design; and so the king said, "It is beautiful indeed. Splendid! Excellent! I approve it highly." And they returned to the palace, wondering, for tomorrow the king was to wear the new robes in public procession.

Morning came and the king went forth for his riding, and the two rogues pretended to be handling very precious fabric, holding up this garment to be admired and then that garment, with all the courtiers vowing how regal they were, how worthy of the royal mantle, and how they, of them, nor the king either, could see so much as a patch of cloth. Divesting the king of his outer clothes, they pretended to dress him in his new ones. And the king stood before the mirror, turning himself this way and that, and to admire his new finery—but all he could see was himself only partly dressed.

"Well, I am ready," he said, and bravely went out to the procession. His chamberlains stooped down pretending to lift the train of the royal mantle, and all the people stood on the sidewalks uttering "Ohs" and "Ahs" and saying how beautiful were the king's new clothes, how brilliant, how becoming, until a little child cried out, "Why he has nothing on but his shirt!" And then all the people said, "He has nothing on but his shirt!" And the king said to himself, "The child is right, there is no magic cloth at all!" But he went on with the parade just the same and the chamberlains carried the imaginary train with great dignity, just as if it were a real one.

Of course, you could tell that story the other way around. You could say of a king who promised to clothe all his people in magical robes, and then on a certain day declared that he had clothed all his people in magical robes, and all the people stood around not daring to contradict because everyone thought that everyone else thought that the thing was actually true, until one plain person piped up, "Why, he has not clothed us at all," and then somebody said, "Why, he has deceived us all!"

One simple word of truth—and another bubble was burst. For both these things, dear children, have happened in this world.

Open Letter To Careless Driver-- You Know Him!

(By The Associated Press)

(Note to readers: A Texas man recently drove from Dallas to Temple with his family. En route, he had one of those narrow escapes from disaster common on the highways. He wrote the following letter to the person in whose name the offending automobile was registered.)

Dear owner of automobile bearing Texas license No. _____:

Last Sunday afternoon I was en route from Dallas, Tex., to Temple with my family in our five-passenger sedan.

A few miles south of Forrester, as you may recall, the highway crosses two bridges over Chambers creek, then rises sharply over a long, steep hill. Fifty yards or more ahead of me on this hill going south, was an old car, incapable of making it in high. The driver was operating slowly, in second, and the result was half a dozen vehicles were piled up along the road back toward the bridge.

My car was last in line. I like the drivers in front of me, was impatient at the delay, but all of us had realized the danger of attempting to pass the slow-poke at this point. To further complicate the situation, a light rain was falling. Visibility was not too good, and the road was somewhat slippery with a light coat of clay.

You came upon me very suddenly from the rear, blew your horn twice and acted for a second as if you planned to slow down. Then you continued alongside me and ahead on the left side of the road.

By this time, the line of cars was beginning to dip over the crest of the hill. If you had been alert you would have noticed quickly that still no one ahead had attempted to pull around the car. There was good reason for it.

All this was happening—as things do on the highway—in seconds. Just as you moved ahead of me another automobile moving at a fast clip, yet entirely within the law both from the aspects of speed and right of way, loomed suddenly over the crest of the hill.

You swerved sharply in front of me, but I was ready for you. I had been in fact, from the moment I noticed you were attempting to violate one of the first and most sensible rules of the road.

I had cut my speed to about 15 miles an hour. When you ducked into the space ahead of me, I was able to come to a dead stop in a few feet. It was a good thing I did, for you skidded over on the shoulder, and the front end of your car swung just beyond the center of the road. The driver coming down the hill swung wide, hit the shoulder and also went into a skid in a very dangerous spot.

He managed to come out of it, by nice handling of the wheel. You also straightened and gunned on up the hill. I got my car to rolling, perspiration popping out on my forehead, but not until I had memorized your license number.

At that time, I fully intended to stop at the next sheriff's office and swear out a warrant against you, for your heedless act had endangered by life, my wife's life and the lives of our children.

I had time to notice your automobile also carried passengers. There was a young woman in the front seat with you, an elderly woman in the back seat, and two children probably a few years older than ours. Perhaps they were your wife, your mother, and your two boys.

There was only one person in the car that sent you scurrying into the hole in front of me, a man. Perhaps a salesman hurrying home after a long week on the road, to his family in Dallas or Oklahoma City.

That makes a total of ten lives you placed on the brink of eternity. Your own life, of course was included. I take no credit for having brought my car to a safe stop; thank the eternal powers I was able to do so, for had I smashed into you, I might have shoved you the inch or two beyond the center of the road, that separated you from the skidding northbound car. It was like all accidents or narrow escapes—a matter of inches.

As I said, my intention was to swear out a warrant for your arrest. I may still do so.

I hope, however, that will not be necessary. I have decided instead to write you this letter, I had been expecting to have from you soon, a reply. If you assure me you will never again, so long as you live and drive an automobile, repeat that fool stunt, I will consider the matter closed.

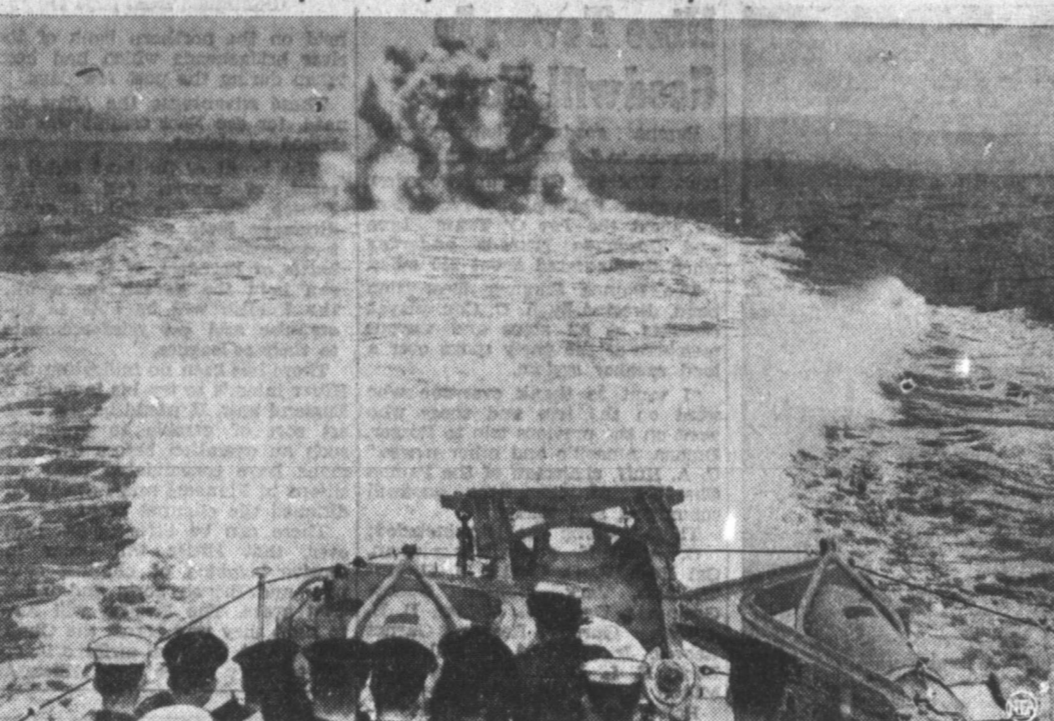

Perhaps you have never fully realized your responsibility to yourself and others in the operation of an automobile in a crowded, high speed highway. In this letter I have striven to confine myself strictly to the facts, just as though I had taken an oath in a court of law. Although the safety of my family has been placed in grave jeopardy, I have attempted to be objective. Had I filed charges Sunday, it would have been in anger. I have written calmly today and with none of the personal animosity I must confess I felt.

Neither have I attempted to explain to you the good reasons for the principles of safety involved in this series of events. I am confident you are aware of them; you are merely human, and need only to be reminded sometimes of what you already know to be common sense.

I shall expect a reply in the same spirit.

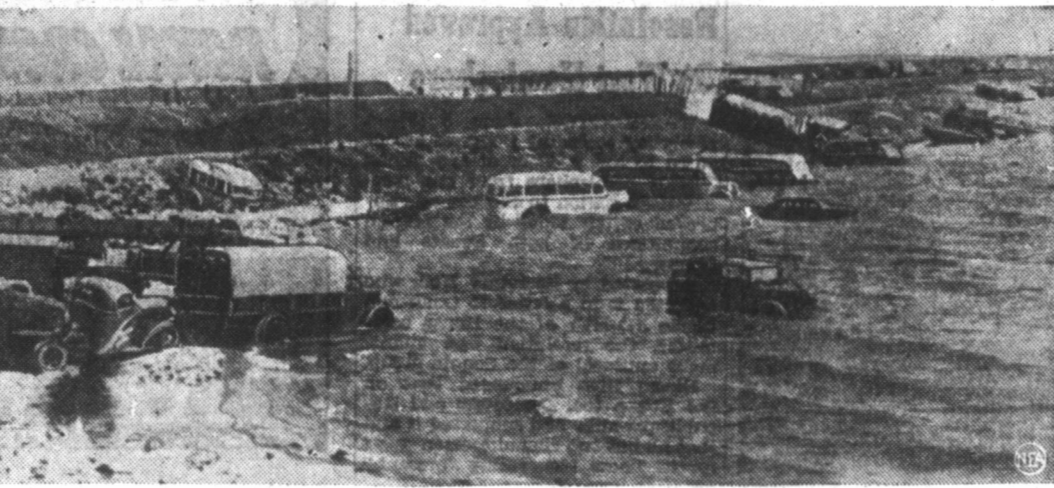

(The reply was received. The matter is closed.)

Special To The NEWS

McLEAN, June 5 (P)—Members of the McLean Chamber of Commerce voted at their regular monthly meeting Monday night to hold another annual free barbecue and rodeo at McLean July 4.

Arrangements are being made to serve 4,000 people, an increase of 1,000 over those served last year. Sufficient donations have been pledged to assure its being a financial success.

Starting June 17, after the end of the Pampa celebration, McLean citizens will dress up in cowboy attire to help publicize the event. A "cowboyst" will be erected on the streets to house those caught without the required attire. In addition, a fine of 25 cents will be imposed on recalcitrant males breaking the rules. This applies, however, only to members of the Chamber of Commerce.

It was also voted to purchase stickers helping to publicize Highway 66. Thirty-five members attended the meeting.

Romans Break Up Anti-Allied Demonstrations

ROME, June 5 (P)—Fascist students attempted to organize new anti-allied demonstrations today as Italy marked time on the edge of the war but were disbanded by police in the vicinity of the British consulate.

Armed troops were stationed at doorways near the consulate, and the guards at the French and British embassies were reinforced.

The soldiers were withdrawn later.

About 20 British, mostly members of the embassy's commercial staff, and their families left today for home. Fellow countrymen who bade them farewell shouted "Hurrah for England!"

The government issued instructions for blackouts in case of air raids.

An Athens dispatch to Il Messaggero today reported that Turkey, despite her denials, had sought permission to disembark troops on the Greek islands in the Aegean Sea. The Fascist press continued to publish reports of alleged Allied persecution of Italians.

Rank and file Italians, admitting privately that the on-and-off state of Italy's war preparations was getting on their nerves, took the view today that "if we're going to fight, let's get it over with."

FCC Prohibits Foreign Amateur Communications

WASHINGTON, June 5 (P)—The federal communications commission today prohibited amateur radio communication by stations in this country with foreign stations.

A formal announcement did not say why it was taken but a spokesman declared that "unoubtedly" it was due to the European war.

There are approximately 55,000 amateurs licensed by the commission.

The prohibition does not apply to amateur communication between licensed amateur stations in the continental United States and its territories and possessions.

Likewise it does not bar United States citizens, authorized to operate amateur stations in the Philippine Islands or the Canal Zone, from communicating with amateurs in the United States.

Canadian Park Fund Gains By Sale Of Food

Special To The NEWS

CANADIAN, June 5—The fund for a city park project, sponsored by the Twentieth Century club, was increased last Saturday by several dollars, receipts from a cooked food sale held at the Toggery.

Three years ago, a score of young women, most of them young matrons, organized themselves as a fine arts club for the purpose of studying literature, music, and art. They affiliated in November, 1937, with the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. They hold 18 program meetings each year and have a membership of 25.

Mrs. Harry Wilbur, Jr., was president the first two years; Miss Christine Stone the past year and Miss Georgia Engle holds that office for the coming 12 months.

Members were desirous of making some worthwhile project an objective and, about a year ago, decided upon sponsoring a city park. Their vision includes a shady area with wading pool, numerous flower beds, graveled walks, playground equipment—everything necessary to make this a delightful place in which to spend an hour or an evening.

Club Starts Fund

When the club voted to undertake the city park project, members started the fund by donating all the pennies in their purses at that time. A rummage sale and a number of benefits have been given and the fund has grown to more than $100. They expect to sell tickets for a movie some time soon, have other cooked food sales in prospect, and a bridge tournament for fall.

The desired site has already been selected and negotiations are in progress to secure legal title.

Mrs. John Isaacs was hostess last week to the As You Like It club in a forty-two party with a silver offering to be given to the Twentieth Century club. Other local clubs have pledged their assistance. Order Eastern Star made cash contribution of ten dollars.

The city officials have expressed themselves as being in accord with the club's park plan and members of the club hope that, when they have acquired a site and have several hundred dollars in their fund, it may become a WPA project for its completion.

The present membership includes the following: Misses Georgia Engle, Christine Stone, Mary Lou Beckham, Juanita Campbell, Elmira Tesson, Myra Millard, and Virginia Lane; Meses, Harry Wilbur, Jr., Calvin Isaacs, Delbert Gibson, Clyde Pinson, Russell Carver, Leslie Webb, Tom Abraham, Elvis Ward, Malouf Abraham, Morris Bennett, Rogers Orr, Dale Nix, Logan Owens, Vernon Close, Johnnie Ferguson, Ivan Conklin, Lester Owens, and Jack Ellis.

What To Do When Planes Try To Machine-Gun You

WITH THE FRENCH AIR FORCE ON THE NORTHERN FRONT, June 5 (P)—A French pilot who has been fighting Germans in the air for the past three weeks has some advice to offer persons caught on a road being bombed and machine-gunned.

First of all, you should drive slowly. That will give you time to stop your car and take to the side of the road between the time you see the enemy plane and the start of their attack. If you are driving fast the planes will be on you before you can halt your car and jump out.

Secondly, you should run as far away from the road as possible. For real safety you should put at least 50 yards between you and the road, seeking security in a clump of trees or against the wall of a farm building.

In no circumstances, advises the pilot, should you drop into a ditch alongside the road. Planes usually follow the line of telegraph poles or trees on one side of the road rather than the highway itself. If you have to duck into a ditch pick the side opposite the telephone poles.

Point No. 3 in the advice is this: Lie flat on your back—not your stomach. Then you can see what the sudden zigzag and starts machine-gunning the fields on either side of the road you will still have a slight chance of running farther away.

BATTLE

of the fields some 70 miles north of the French capital.

Simultaneous with the assault, German bombers raided an area in central France, not identified by name. French fighters and a pilot-attacker struck back.

In Paris, before the army committee of the chamber of deputies, Premier Paul Reynaud voiced his confidence that France "can hope for a favorable issue" of the new struggle.

"We will fight to the end with our British ally for the liberty of the world," he said.

The new battle began at 4:05 a. m. (9:05 p. m. CST, Tuesday) with a violent artillery bombardment of the French lines.

Masses of infantry moved forward to the attack as the Nazi air force roared overhead, bombing and strafing.

The heaviest attacks were launched in the region of Amiens and along the Ailette canal below the World War battle ground of Chemin Des Dames.

There were no immediate reports on the progress of the fighting. Semi-official French sources said merely:

"The battle is continuing. Actually there are no details."

The attack came in blitzkrieg fashion less than 24 hours after the fall of Dunkerque, which signaled the end of the great battle of Flanders and left the Germans in complete control of Holland, Belgium and some 10,000 square miles of northern France.

First reports indicated the offensive, apparently aimed directly at Paris, was confined entirely to the Somme-Aisne front, which the French have been hastening to fortify.

East of Laon, on the eastern flank of the new battle line, and along the Maginot line no unusual activity was reported.

The Amiens sector is on the middle reaches of the Somme, where the Germans have held a bridgehead on the southern side of the river despite French efforts to push them back.

Scope of the fighting left no doubts in the minds of military spokesmen that a great German offensive was underway.

The Germans were said to be throwing mechanized units into the battle in some sectors.

Units of the northern Allied armies evacuated through Dunkerque early in the retreat from Flanders were in position along the Somme-Aisne front before the new push started.

Some British units which did not go into Belgium also were reported in the front line.

Fighting on the Somme-Aisne front, military advisers said, was (besides the action on the Amiens region) centered in the rectangle formed by the cities of La Fere, Laon, Anizy - Le - Chateau, and Chauny.

In the region both east and west of these towns, the advisers said, German aerial forces have been temporarily restrained from "heavy bombardments" on rear lines similar to those which the Nazi pilots loosed on Poland, Norway and the western front when the low countries were invaded.

Heavy French forces have been moved into consolidated positions along the entire front from Abbeville to the Aisne and Oise junction while the Ailette river canal connects the two rivers.

Running from Abbeville along the Somme where at least one French bridgehead has been established on the northern bank, the French line follows the river which itself constitutes an obstacle to military operations.

The river valley is not only narrow but also swampy. The Somme is paralleled clear to Abbeville by a deep canal along the widening mouth.

Along the lower Somme, the southern slope of the valley forms a rampart by its steep incline, with small woods adaptable to anti-tank defenses.

South of the Somme from the cities of Eu to Amalme, the Bresle river valley parallels the French line. There the forests are more dense, leading French military experts to pronounce them "impenetrable" to tanks and aerial reconnoissances.

Although the Germans hold one bridgehead on the southern bank of the Somme, the French control the important railway station of Longueau, southeast of the city, and the highway and railroad bridge leading into Amiens.

Along the upper Somme French troops have labored unceasingly to consolidate bridgeheads and positions. These new outposts extend all the way to Ham, where the Somme veers north.

The German drive was renewed after a bomb-for-bomb war of aerial reprisals between Germany and France, the most serious being the German bombing of Paris Monday in which, according to new casualty figures announced last night, 254 persons were killed and 652 wounded.

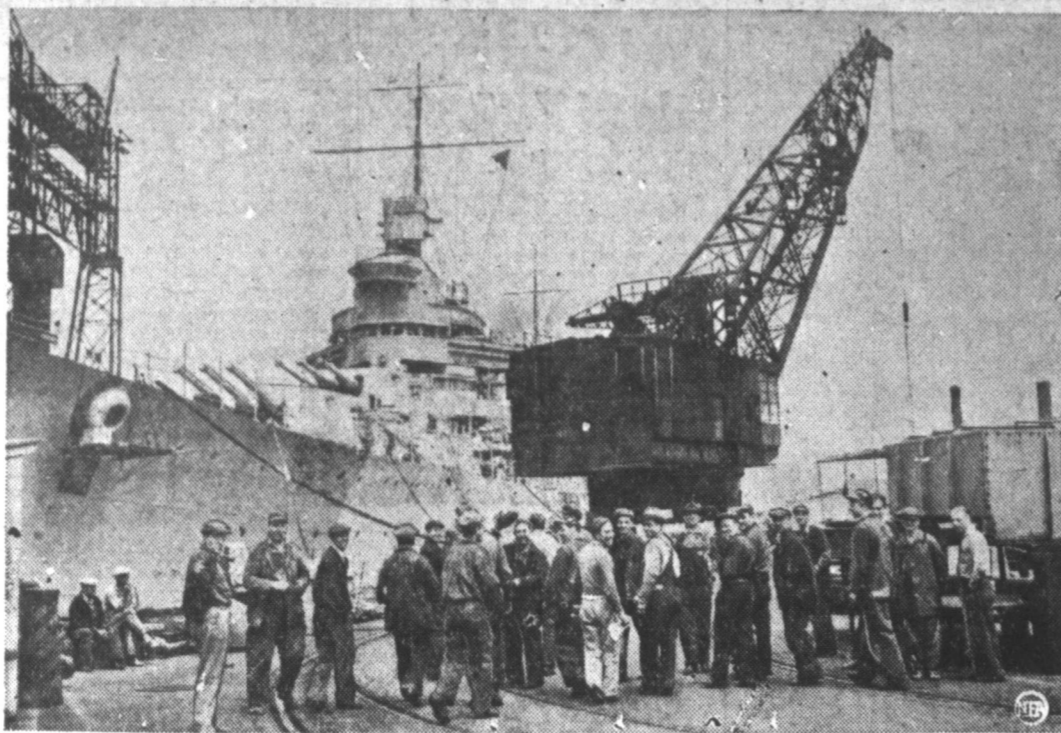

The air ministry announced Allied bombers had struck back in retaliation for the raid on the Paris area and for new Nazi forays over the Rhone valley and the port of Le Havre.

Striking deep into Germany, French planes were reported to have bombed "with great success" military objectives in the vicinity of Munich and Frankfurt, 230 and 140 miles respectively from the frontier.

Airdromes, railway lines and munitions factories were showered with bombs in the raids, according to the air ministry. Among the important objectives said to have been hit was a large airplane motor factory. All the French planes were said to have returned.

At the same time the British air force was reported to be bombing the Ruhr valley, where German war industries are concentrated heavily. Allied losses in the Flanders campaign were acknowledged to have been heavy, but a war ministry

Plaintiff In Damage Case Cross-Examined

Cross examination of the plaintiff, Bert M. Denmore, was to be resumed this afternoon in 31st district court in the case in which Denmore is seeking $51,700 damages from the Panhandle & Santa Fe railroad. The action is based on a train-automobile accident of April 20, 1939, at the South Frost street crossing in Pampa, in which Mrs. Vera Main was fatally injured and minor injuries were suffered by her two sons and Denmore. The plaintiff was on the stand a large part of yesterday afternoon and this morning. Questions asked by John P. Sturgeon, defense attorney, dealt with such topics as weather and road conditions, visibility, comparative speeds of automobile and train, and position of buildings along the right-of-way near the scene of the accident.

Resolution Approved On West Hemisphere

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—A resolution recording Congress as opposed to the transfer of any region in this hemisphere from one non-American nation to another was approved swiftly today by the foreign committees of both Senate and House. Supported by Secretary Hull, who endorsed it in a letter to Chairman Bloom (D-NY) of the House committee, the resolution won unanimous approval of the Senate group. Bloom then announced that on the House, too, Democrats and Republicans alike had supported it and that all but two committeemen voted for it. Those two, voting "present," he said, were Representatives Corbett (R-Pa.) and Chipfield (R-Ill.). India has 66,000 miles of canals.

These advantages the Allies will need, for the Nazi assault was described as violent.

The brunt of the land fighting must, of course, fall on the French, since the British expeditionary force as a whole was temporarily out of action in the battle of Flanders. If the French can hold the onrush for a bit, the English will be able to reorganize and get reinforcements to their colleagues.

There has been no indication that Hitler intends to try his invasion of England now. It would be the wildest sort of gamble to undertake such an operation before the Germans have consolidated their positions in Flanders and have reconditioned the channel ports.

There can be little doubt, however, that Hitler will order intensive bombing of channel shipping and British ports and industrial areas. The English will have to fight their way across the Channel against the Nazi airforce in order to carry aid to their Allies. As hammering British industrial zones, the Germans thus far haven't had much success in getting by the anti-aircraft defenses and British fighting planes.

However, destruction of British industries, ports and shipping is essential if Hitler ultimately is to achieve his ambition of crushing England and putting his troops ashore. So one would expect some heavy assaults against Britain by air in conjunction with the offensive against the French.

The statement in London today by Soviet circles that Russia views her interests in the east as parallel to those of the Allies strikes me as a break of highest importance for the Anglo-French Allies, provided it represents the official position of Moscow.

This statement was emphasized by the hint that there is possibility of at least diplomatic cooperation between the Allies and Russia in the vital strategic area of the Black Sea and the eastern Mediterranean.

If Russia takes this stand it means that she is signaling Mussolini not to trespass. "That in effect would be a warning to him to keep out of the war, since his entrance most certainly would involve action in the Near Eastern zone. One can envision possible Soviet-

Allied military cooperation should Russia's Near Eastern interests be jeopardized.

The Allies recently have been holding the door wide open to rapprochement with Russia. An indication of this lies in the British appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps, left-wing laborite, as ambassador to Moscow, and the French move to name Erik Labonne, former French ambassador to republican Spain, as ambassador to the Kremlin.

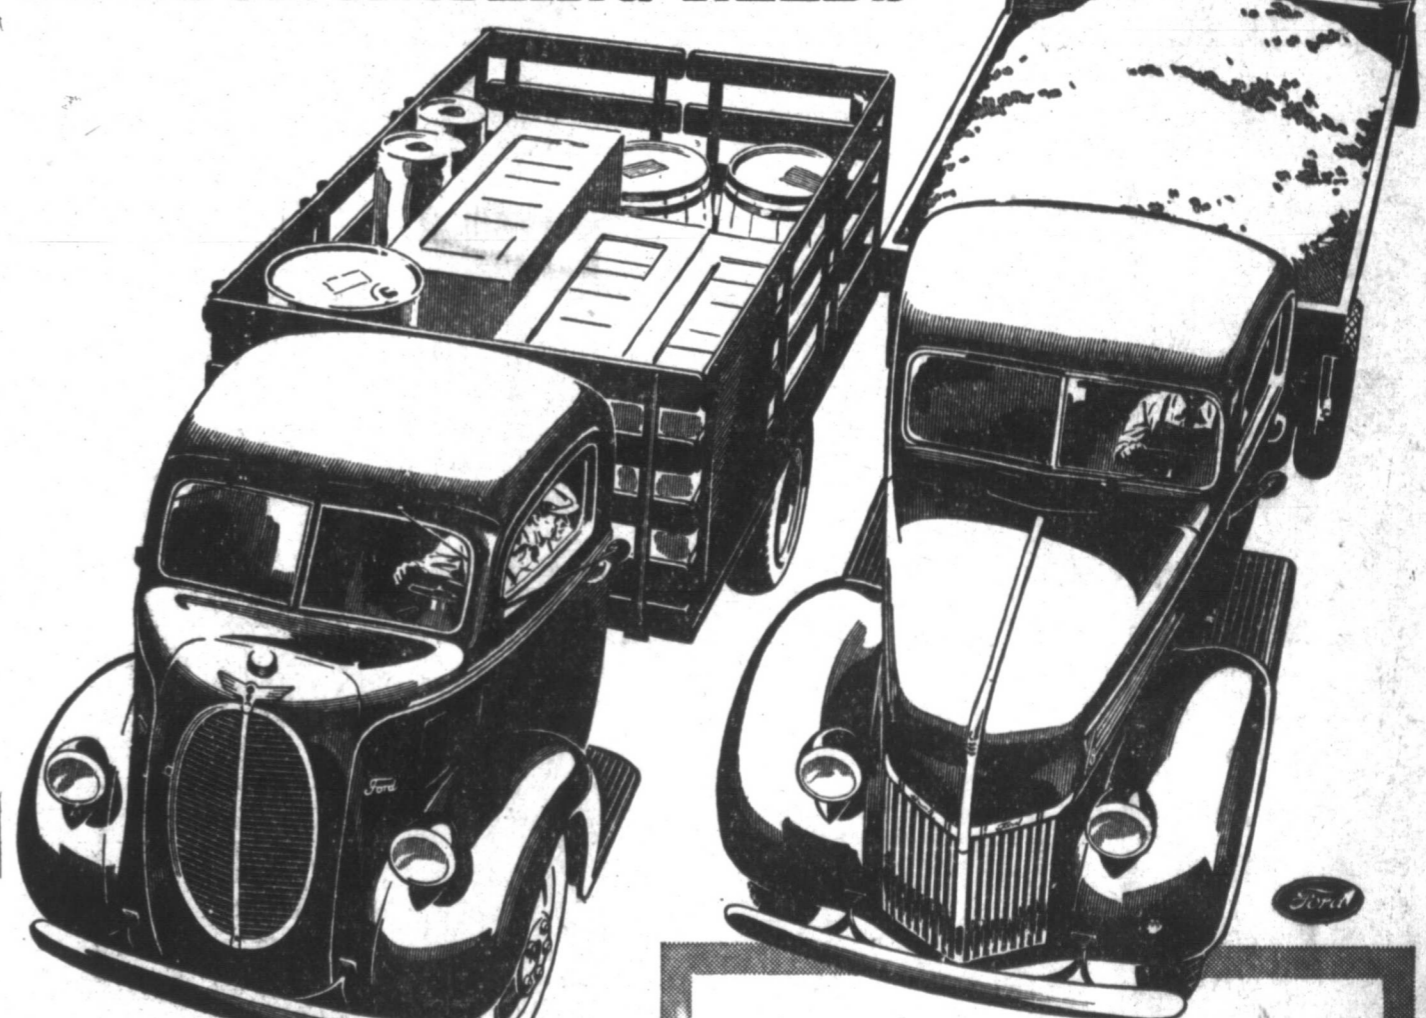

Great Britain and Ireland have four telephones to every 100 persons, or a total of 1,996,897 instruments.

Dilbeck Wins Fight of Season For Oilers

Lubbock Will Be Opponents Here Tonight

Phil Potter and Jared Jordan combined to push across enough runs to give the Pampa Oilers a 5 to 3 win over the Lamesa Lobos here last night. Lefty Rex Dilbeck pitched nice ball to win his fifth game of the season. Tonight, tomorrow night and Friday night the now fast-stepping Lubbock Hubbers will be here for games, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

The teams did a perfect job of defense from the exhibition of the previous night when everything but a triple play happened. Only one error marred the game as both teams played spectacular defensive ball. Hits were few and far between, excepting in a couple of innings.

Lamesa scored in the opening inning, after play had been delayed a half hour waiting for old Juey Pluvius to decide whether he would let it go or not. Spangler got to first on interference. Brown fanned. Hood filed out to Seitz. Then Stevens and Guyens singled in succession and Spangler scored. Riordan struck out.

The game was delayed for more than a half hour while rain fell gently. But it stopped and umpires called the players into session again. Potter-Jordan Come Through. Neither team was able to get a hit until the last of the fourth when the Oilers iced the game. Seitz walked the inning by drawing a walk. Praher filed out. Summers walked. Seitz stole second. Then Clutter walked. Jordan laid down a bunt advancing both men but Dilbeck and Daniel were out.

Spangler hit a home run in the seventh to put Lamesa back in the game. In the eighth Riordan beat out an infield hit and Beeler got to Jordan who slipped as he took the ball and all hands were free. Berndt was an out but Byington slashed one to Malvica like a bullet and Riordan scored. With his lead threatened, Dilbeck settled down and fanned Spangler and Brown.

Either Halliburton or Gray, now college pitcher, are scheduled to get the call against the Hubbers who have been showing great improvement the past few weeks.

Williams Would Rather Be A Fireman Than Baseball Star

Mickey Harris, left, laughs, but Ted Williams, baseball's brightest young star, insists he'd like to quit and be a fireman.

By HARRY CRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 5.—Ted Williams, Francis Williams' outstanding major league recruit of 1939 and currently batting .365 for the Boston Red Sox, says he would like to quit baseball and be a fireman.

Although generally considered the most powerful left-handed hitter since Babe Ruth, Ted Williams insists he would rather answer a four-alarm than be one by swatting the ball for four bases.

The season has barely started, yet the 21-year-old Williams insists he is fed up with it all... wishes it were finished.

"I'd quit tomorrow if I knew where I could get another job," declares Williams, who as baseball's brightest young star is paid something like $12,000 for six months of what would be play to the average boy of his age.

Williams tells his teammates he'd take the examination as a fire fighter at once if assured he wouldn't have to wait too long for an opening.

Williams' talk is ridiculous, of course, but officials of the Boston club are alarmed at their prize's present attitude.

Owner Tom Yawkey and others have talked to the youngster without results.

Williams is said to be developing into the anti-social, moody and introverted type which might conceivably run off and join some fire department and be perfectly happy. He has become something of a loner.

While Jimmy Fox is the world of the thin young man who bats ahead of him, Williams is said to be envious of the Sudlersville slugger who was an outstanding performer when the San Diego lead was in knee breeches.

Red Sox say Williams was lower than he has been at any time since he joined the club when in Detroit Fox smacked his second home run with the bases full in two days.

Indians Split Doubleheader With Senators

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
As long as everyone is certain the Yankees are going straight to their fifth consecutive American league championship it may seem time wasted to consider Cleveland's improved Indians.

But a team with the old sterling qualities of the tribe deserves a word.

The Indians were the only one of the American league leaders to improve their position yesterday, splitting a doubleheader with the Washington Senators, 2-7 and 3-2.

This brought them within half a game of the pace-making Boston Red Sox and perhaps served as a hint of a rising tide among the pitchers.

The tipoff on the tribe's position lies in the record of their pitchers. Lefty Al Smith got credit for the victory in the nightcap to bring his chart to five victories and no defeats.

The Red Sox were stopped 5-3 as the St. Louis Browns ended a seven-game losing streak yesterday, splitting a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics after getting four runs in the first frame.

The Cincinnati Reds skidded to a 5-4 defeat at the hands of the New York Giants and lost a game after their lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers. It was the fifth consecutive triumph for Carl Hubbell.

The Dodgers trounced the St. Louis Cardinals 10-1 in a night game scoring five runs in the first frame. Pete Coscarart hit a home run with two on.

The Pittsburgh Pirates roused out of their lethargy under the lights to crush the Boston Bees 14-2.

The Chicago Cubs amassed 15 hits in thumping the Phillies 12-6.

Dizzy To Hurl For Tulsa Sunday Against Fort Worth

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
DALLAS, June 5 (AP)—Dizzy Dean's light grew fainter today—sadly, down here in Texas where his glare was blinding just a decade ago.

The plodding farm boy who quit the rear ranks of infantry unit at Fort Sam Houston (San Antonio) 11 years ago to lend professional baseball his brilliance and eccentricities, still fans the flicker remaining from a stunning career.

Diz Dean is back in the Texas league, optioned to Tulsa by the Chicago Cubs. The comeback tie "talked" three months ago has died in the muscles of a tired pitching arm.

Diz doesn't have to take the humiliating return to the minors. The great right-hander and Mrs. Dean have been careful with their money. It isn't the money—it's the glory by one's heart and pride that will be pitching for Tulsa.

Sunday, when the crowd is large, Diz will throw against Fort Worth at Tulsa.

Not a man in 10 years has touched his mark of 303 strikeouts in 1931—the memorable year that saw him win 26 games, lose 10; post an earned run average of only 1.53; pitch 304 innings; work the full nine innings in 26 of his 41 games; finally go up to the St. Louis Cards and glory.

Only one man, an old timer named Harry Ables who struck out 325 batters years before Dean, has more whiffs to his credit.

Remember when Diz, in '31, wanted to marry Patricia Nash, the present Mrs. Dean, on second base in Houston one night? Well, President Fred Ankenman wouldn't let him.

Remember when Ankenman advertised widely that Dean would hurl on a ladies night, almost had a stroke when a "doctor" called at noon and said Diz would be out 30 days with a sore arm? Well, Diz bounced into the park 30 minutes before game time, and said the "doctor" was a practical joking friend.

Still chuckling, the great one went out before the biggest crowd of the season and shut out Shreveport.

That's the Dean Fred Ankenman nursed to fame. Says Fred: "Glad he's back, but I'm glad someone else has the headache. He's got too much of a sense of humor for me."

Thirty-six Pampa golfers have paid their entrance fee for the City Golf tournament which will start Sunday morning over the Pampa Country club course. More than half of the number have qualified.

Deadline to enter the tournament and qualify is Friday night. On Saturday the tournament committee will match the players. A Dutch lunch will be given entrants at 8 o'clock Saturday night. At 8:30 o'clock a Calcutta pool will be held in the championship flight.

The tournament committee expects at least 75 golfers to enter the tournament. The course is in excellent condition and more players are on the course this year than ever before.

Entry fee is $1 and includes qualifying play until eliminated and the Dutch lunch.

Williams Would Rather Be A Fireman Than Baseball Star

Williams tells his teammates he'd take the examination as a fire fighter at once if assured he wouldn't have to wait too long for an opening.

Williams' talk is ridiculous, of course, but officials of the Boston club are alarmed at their prize's present attitude.

Owner Tom Yawkey and others have talked to the youngster without results.

Williams is said to be developing into the anti-social, moody and introverted type which might conceivably run off and join some fire department and be perfectly happy. He has become something of a loner.

While Jimmy Fox is the world of the thin young man who bats ahead of him, Williams is said to be envious of the Sudlersville slugger who was an outstanding performer when the San Diego lead was in knee breeches.

Nelson Finds His Chances Pretty Fair

By JOE MORTON
CLEVELAND, June 5 (AP)—Impressed but not awed by the practice performances of fellow journeymen of golf, defending champion Byron Nelson today sized up his chances of repeating in the national open championship starting tomorrow and found them "pretty fair."

The pleasant Texan's 71 yesterday failed to draw the gallery attention of Ben Hogan's third consecutive sub-par round, but he expressed himself as well-satisfied.

"I had some good shots and a few bad ones," he explained, "but I'm finding myself in pretty good shape. Another day of practice here and I'll be set to go. Yes, I think my chances of winning again are pretty fair."

Nelson's modest optimism was shared by many of his fellow professionals although a sizeable number appeared set on Ralph Guldahl, winner in 1937 and 1938, as the "man to beat." Others were ready to put their chips on Sam Snead and the easy favorite among the spectators was Hogan, intense and determined, with consecutive practice scores of 68, 71 and 70.

Hogan, of Cliffside Park, N. J. They fought over the 15-round route at Olympia indoor stadium and co-promoters Mike Jacobs and John Nelson talk of a turnout of 10,000 customers and gate receipts of $25,000.

The charm of coin is not Conn's only reason for quitting as the 15th light-heavyweight champion in history. In recent months the six-foot-one-inch brawler has filled out physically and appears destined to grow into a full-fledged heavyweight.

The ballyhoo for tonight's fight has been concerned not with the engagement at hand but with the possibility of a bout between either Conn or Lesnich and heavyweight champion Joe Louis in Detroit in September.

Wallace Says Americas May Be Next Objective Of Dictators

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—A secret statement from the army high command on "fifth column" activities in several Latin American countries kept hemisphere defense problems to the fore today in the crush of preparedness considerations.

Farmland is measured in hills of some parts of the western hemisphere were outlined yesterday in a closed meeting of the House military committee by General George C. Marshall, chief of staff.

General Marshall, some members said later, named five countries in Latin America where he declared "fifth column" activities were cause for apprehension. An intensification of efforts might be expected, Marshall was quoted, if Great Britain and France appeared certain to be defeated.

The discussion hinged on preparation of a bill that would empower President Roosevelt to mobilize the National Guard in case of necessity without congressional approval. The President's request for this authority has drawn some congressman's fire.

Marshall said the legislation was needed because there were "danger" that might be serious, specifically publicans issued a statement protesting that sufficient information was lacking as to how the money would be spent. They demanded a reduction in government expenses.

Hope for such a reduction was expressed by the President as he announced at a press conference the expectation of saving from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 through impounding a percentage of revenues not directly involved in the preparedness program.

Told that Congress appeared determined to raise $1,000,000,000 a year in new taxes, the chief executive said that as a general proposition the more we can raise to pay-as-we-go the better it is.

SERIAL STORY AN EYE FOR A GAL BY HARRY HARRISON KROLL

YESTERDAY: Warned by Coach Hurd to be careful of what he says about the Tollivars, Rossy moves in, finds his new home is comfortable. Judy is delighted, and happily answers by the hill boy, Rossy awakes one day to hear a shrill voice down stairs. It is his sweetheart, Hannah Shrider, come from the hills to go to school.

CHAPTER III

ROSSY McAfee, listening to his sweetheart from the vantage of the dark head of the stairs, wanted to laugh and swear at the same time. He was shocked at sight of Hannah Shrider; he had never before thought of her as uncouth. Dr. Tollivar and Judy listened politely.

"Well, of course," Dr. Tollivar was saying, in his quiet way, "you no doubt can do as well as Rossy. But—"

"I know, father!" Judy cried. "Mrs. Patterson said, just this afternoon, that the Kingsley girl who waited table in the dining hall had not come yet, and she heard indirectly she was married and wouldn't come back to school." Judy turned to Hannah. "You could wait table, couldn't you? You could then have the other girl's room and place. Otherwise I'm afraid we're fixed."

"Can't I see Rossy McAfee?" "I don't think he's come in yet. I'll tell him you're here and send him over to see you when he comes."

ROSSY, still shocked, and ashamed because he felt this way, slipped back along the hall. Instead of going into his room, he crept down the back stairs and out into the yard. He saw Dr. Tollivar and Hannah, two dark figures, going through the dusk of the campus. Then, as if coming in from the gym, he entered the front door. Judy, reading under the lamp, smiled at him.

"You had a caller?" "Who?" "You'd never guess. Some one very dear to you."

"Maw?" "Guess again." "Cousin Steve Hogg?" "Cold, cold as ice." Rossy shook his head. "Couldn't guess then. Tell me, Hannah Shrider, and she's pretty, too; and I'll bet she's smart as anything. She's coming to college. Dad's just taken her to the girls' cottage. Right after supper you're to go there and see her. "Land sakes!" Rossy said, feigning surprise the best he could. "What do you know about that?"

DR. TOLLIVAR, returning in a quarter of an hour, said Hannah was fixed up, and then sat down to supper. As soon after toward as possible, Rossy walked through the dark to the cottage which housed the maids and waitresses. Hannah was waiting anxiously in the little parlor, and when Rossy entered she flung her arms around his neck and almost choked him with kisses.

"Rossy! I just had to come! I had to. I sold my craves and shoes and heifers and aken my carning club prize money, and here I am. If you can come to college, I can come too. All right—say something nasty, and I'll smack your ears back!"

"My heavens, Hannah!" Rossy said helplessly, and dropped on the couch. He examined Hannah. She had got out of her baggy coat and into a nice dress, and she looked comely enough. Her hair was honey, like taffy made with honey and thick maple syrup. She had the gaunt fashion of all hill folk—the spare body, the tempered muscles, of those who work. "You ought not to come here, Hannah. I mean, without first looking after a room and board and things—why, they might not even let you in college after you got here!"

Illustrated by Carol Johnson.

Hannah threw her arms around his neck, almost choked him with kisses. "I had to come to college, Rossy! If you can get educated, I can too!"

"Who's to keep me out, Rossy McAfee?" "Well, there's rules and regulations—" "If they didn't keep you out, they wouldn't me. I know what's ailing you. You don't want me here. You're ashamed of me already."

"Now, Hannah—" "Yah," she sneered, "I done heard about you! I got it straight. You came on ahead of time. Put up at the big gun's place. With that Tollivar. Yes, I heard all about it. They set you up among the high-and-mighties. They said that girl was good-looking, and she is. They said you'd be took in by their mealy-mouthed ways, and here it's less than a week and they were right—"

Already warm with anger, Rossy demanded, "Who's they? How come all this here palaver is already being toted back up to Hell'n-Dammation?" He was mystified, wondering how news of this sort could travel so far and so quickly.

"Yah!" his sweetheart sneered. "Wouldn't you like to know!" "I think you've been in here snooping and telling lies to yourself. All right, you're here. You're a graduate of the same high school as me, and they'll take you in. But you've got to study here. I've found that out, talking with the seniors. You've got to fix yourself up, to, if you aim to stay—"

"How come I ain't fixed up all right? I'm fixed up as good as you. You ain't much else than a pop-up foul ball, at that—" "Ah, is that so?" "Steve Hogg told me you was uppity and bigoted, and he was right to—"

"So it was Steve Hogg that told you all this. How come Steve knows so much?" "He's been here, if you've got to know!"

"Steve Hogg been here? And didn't see me? How come? What's the idea? Is—is that hillbilly trying to spy on me? Coming down here and looking things over and going right back and stuffing your ear full! The low-down—" "You can call your blood kin low-down if you want, but you shore ain't paying a high compliment to your own self, Rossy McAfee!"

tion's worsted and wool industries that he would ask for bids shortly on the following: Five million yards of serge or elastic; 4,000,000 yards of Melton overcoating; 1,500,000 yards of shirting, and 500,000 woolen blankets.

Officials said the army had found it better to have a reserve of cloth than of made-up uniforms and that the material to be ordered would probably be made into uniforms at whatever rate was necessary to meet current consumption.

Aid Asked For Six Surviving Rangers

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Representative Thomason (D-Tex.) urged the House invalid pensions committee yesterday to approve a bill (HR 7899) to grant aid to six surviving Texas Rangers who did Mexican border revolution between December 1, 1891, and May 31, 1893.

The bill would extend provisions of pension laws relating to Indian wars to members of companies E and F, frontier battalion, Texas Rangers.

At the suggestion of Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator who was present at the hearing, Thomason said he would redraft the bill and seek pensions for the veterans under the regular war department classifications rather than through that for Indian war soldiers.

Army Seeks Bids On 1,523,000 Uniforms

Teach Allies 'Historic Lesson,' Hitler Orders

(By The Associated Press)
BERLIN, June 5—Adolf Hitler at dawn today sent his armies of the west plunging into France on the Somme-Aisne line to teach a

"historic lesson" to the Allies, as the fuhrer said, and speed "the bloom of a new and better world."

"In the early morning hours today," said Hitler's high command, "new attack operations began from the present defense front in France."

This second phase of Germany's "total war" in the west—following closely upon the Allied disaster in Flanders—transformed a nearly 200-mile section of northern France, from the channel coast to the shattered junction of the Maginot line with its northern extension, into one great field of raging combat.

The high command said Allied attacks at either extreme of the Somme-Aisne line, near Abbeville on the coast and south of Longwy, near the junction of the French, Belgian and Luxembourg frontiers, had been repulsed. Apparently these attacks were staged yesterday in anticipation of the big push.

The communique said German airmen "successfully attacked enemy concentrations south of Abbeville" and mentioned yesterday's aerial assault on the French port city of Le Havre, now perhaps the most vital contact between Great Britain and France.

Occupation of the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Belgium and about 10,000 square miles of northern France since the "total war" was launched May 10 had freed Nazi legions for what Germans hope may be the final phase of the war.

Flays 'Plutocratic Rulers'

Hitler today proclaimed his "boundless" confidence in German armed forces and asserted German victory would answer "the plutocratic rulers of England and France" who, the fuhrer said, have pledged each other to avoid with all means the bloom of a new and better world. x x x

"Our victory will be their historic lesson," Hitler declared.

Authorized spokesmen were reserved about the new offensive. They intimated it might be several days before details are forthcoming.

That heavy fighting was underway was taken for granted by Germans who saw the Reich's flags waving and heard bells tolling in celebration of the Flanders victory. Authorized quarters acknowledged there had been air attacks at various places in Germany today, but no details were given. A spokesman said there had not been much damage.

Referring to a British estimate that Germany's Flanders casualties numbered 600,000, one authorized source said:

"I believe we will be able to tell something about those 600,000 dead when the dead begin to march again."

On the other hand, this source said, British losses were so great that "even Churchill" was unable to keep them secret.

The British prime minister acknowledged yesterday that 30,000 British soldiers were killed, captured or missing in Flanders.

Germans were confident a southward drive toward Paris across the Somme, Aisne and Oise rivers would be no problem for the Reich army.

Some quarters said the new move might be made "in both directions."

Examining propaganda in England and deeper into France at the same time.

Paris 'Exposed'

As for Paris, it was pointed out, there are no fortification lines to overcome in this direction, and that Paris is lying "practically exposed."

First word of the new attack came direct from the fuhrer's headquarters on the western front in two announcements, one on the day to the German armed forces and the second a message to the German people.

In triumphant phrases Hitler told of conclusion of the battle of Flanders and stated: "This morning German divisions and air squadrons began anew the march for continuation of the fight for the liberty and future of our people."

He ordered an eight-day celebration of the Flanders victory in which flags are to be displayed from homes and in which bells are to toll for three days.

"Their sound," he added ominously, "may unite with prayers with which the German people from now on will again accompany their sons."

Hitler said "many new divisions" were assisting in the new onslaught.

The new drive came without a pause after final cleaning up of the Flanders battlefield, and became the next step in what the army high command said in a long statement late last night would ultimately be the "complete destruction" of the Allies.

'Greatest Catastrophe'

Removal of Allied troops from the German trap in Flanders, said the communique, "was not a heroic retreat of the English army as the English propaganda seeks to present it, but one of the greatest catastrophes in history. x x x"

"Even though thousands (of the Allies) saved their bare lives, their material and equipment, incapable of being estimated, lie in the streets of Flanders and northern France."

The high command presented these figures on the battle: French, English, Belgian and Dutch prisoners—1,200,000. Enemy "fallen, drowned and dead"—"cannot now be estimated."

Weapons and equipment of Allies "for about 75 to 80 divisions" were "destroyed or seized."

Allied airplanes shot down—1,841. Allied airplanes "destroyed on the ground"—1,600 to 1,700.

Allied ships sunk by bomb attack—five cruisers, seven destroyers, three submarines, nine other war vessels and 66 commercial ships and transports.

Allied vessels "damaged and partly destroyed" by bombs—ten cruisers, 24 destroyers, three torpedo boats, 22 other war vessels and 117 commercial ships and transports.

Allied ships sunk by the German "light sea forces"—six destroyers, two submarines, one transport, one auxiliary cruiser and "one other warship."

Germans killed from May 10 to June 10—10,252 officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers.

Germans missing—8,643.

Germans wounded—42,523 officers and men.

German airplanes lost—432.

Rio Grande Floods Area

MEXICO CITY, June 5 (AP)—The Mexican railways of Mexico reported today that flood waters from the Rio Grande inundated a vast area near Matamoros, Tamaulipas, across from Brownsville, Texas, and damaged tracks.

The report said that although traffic is normal, railroad crews were cautioned to run slowly to prevent accidents in the flooded zone.

Soviet Shows Inclination To Aid Allies

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 5—Soviet Russian circles in London declared today that the Allies' interests in the Black Sea and the eastern Mediterranean parallel Russia's, but they emphasized Russian determination to remain neutral in the European war.

A British source intimated a hope Russian interest in the Near East and improvement of British-Russian relations might have a deterrent effect on any Italian plan to enter the war.

Nevertheless, the British still regarded Italian entry as a matter of time.

A Soviet source said that Russia "has no intention of being thrust onto one side or the other" in the war.

He indicated that Russia's policy would continue to emphasize internal affairs but that the U. S. S. R. is keeping alert against any encroachment on any of its interests by one power or another.

R. A. Butler, British undersecretary for foreign affairs, told the House of Commons today it appeared from an official Russian communique that the appointment of Sir Stafford Cripps as new British ambassador to Moscow had been accepted by the Kremlin although formal notice had not yet been received.

Informed quarters doubted that Russia's acceptance of Cripps signified any intention to drop her partnership with Germany.

Russian circles hinted that there is at least a good possibility of diplomatic cooperation between the Kremlin and the Allies in the Near East.

A Russian source said, however, that Britain "must show by deeds as well as words an honest desire for friendship with Russia."

Senator Boed And Hissed In Louisiana

(By The Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, La., June 5 (AP)—Louisiana Democrats refused to approve third term support for President Roosevelt and drove U. S. Senator Allen J. Ellender from the platform with boos and hisses at their first state convention in 16 years.

The convention voted to send delegates to the Democratic national convention at Chicago uninstructed and directed them to cast the state's 20 votes as a unit.

This action came last night after the convention had nixed down Ellender's attempt to have the delegates instructed to support President Roosevelt for renomination.

A resolution, later adopted, said that "the unfavorable reception given Ellender was not to be construed as any reflection on President Roosevelt."

Ellender formerly was aligned with the forces of the late Huey P. Long which recently were defeated by Governor Sam Jones.
