100 Canadian Trippers Tell Of Big Rodeo

Pampans received an invitation to the oldest rodeo in the Panhandle—the 18th annual Anvil Park rodeo at Canadian—when more than 100 Canadian boosters invaded Pampa yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The trippers were met west of the city by police and chamber of commerce officials and escorted to the 100 block on North Cuyler street where they were welcomed by Judge Newton F. Willis, Carl Studer, tripper chairman, then invited everyone to the big rodeo the night of July 3 and the afternoon and night of July 4. The program was broadcast over station KFDN. Music on the trip was furnished by the Canadian high school band. The band played several numbers during the 30-minute set and Tom Ellzey, Jr., sang cowboy songs. The oldest rodeo in the Panhandle—the first Anvil Park competition—was held in 1888—this year event promises to be the largest ever held. Plans are being made to accommodate thousands of spectators and more than $2,000 in cash prizes is expected to attract fully 100 of the Southwest's top-notch rodeo performers. Bettler Brothers, owners of the largest group of animals for rodeo in the Southwest, have promised to have their steadiest and toughest stock in Canadian for the Anvil Park rodeo. In addition to the three performances of the rodeo, there will be three dances and a pioneer parade.

President Signs

Huge Defense Bill

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed into law today a $4,702,300,000 tax bill to pay for the huge national defense appropriations of the recent congressional session. Dipping into the pockets of an estimated 2,000,000 additional income tax payers for the first time, and boosting existing taxes on nearly everything but chewing tobacco, the measure was designed to raise the $4,702,500,000 over 5 years—$175,300,000 in the fiscal year beginning July 1, and $994,300,000 in each of the following four years. These were officially calculated totals, somewhat lower than the billion-dollar plus figure used in Capitol Hill debate. The measure also increased the federal debt limit from $45,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000, authorizing the treasury to sell $4,000,000,000 in special "national defense notes" to pay for armaments until the taxes come in. Existing taxes, not counting social security levies which are now outside the budget, were expected by the treasury to produce $5,852,300,000 in the next fiscal year. The new taxes will bring this sum to $6,337,600,000—a total surpassed in American history only in 1920. It compares with an estimated $5,384,300,000 in the fiscal year just ending.

Off Light Service

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 25 (AP)—A terrific explosion sounded back of city hall. Electric service in the building went off. City employees piled out yesterday to determine the cause of the blast. They found a 13,200-volt power line down. Nearby lay a dead sparrow. The bird had thrown the city hall electrical service out of gear by alighting on a transformer. Damage was estimated at $100.

Tom Hong Lucky Fellow

BALTIMORE, June 25 (AP)—Tom Hong, Chinese laundryman, agreed with police today that he was a "lucky fellow." Hong was exchanging $4.50 with Mrs. Marie Rose, rent collector, for a receipt when two negro bandits entered, grabbed the money and fled. Hong quietly pocketed the receipt and went back to his ironing.

LONDON, June 25.—German bombing planes attacked a wide-spreading area of England before dawn today in the most extensive raids of the war, sending thousands from their beds to shelters and giving London its first alarm since the first weeks of the conflict. Despite the great sweep of the raiders, however, the government said that only three civilians were killed and 13 injured. It said that no deaths or casualties were reported from the London area. It was feared, however, that the death toll might reach five as police and air raid precautions officials searched in ruins of bombed houses in a southwestern English town for two persons reported missing. With all Britain primed for a possible large scale Nazi offensive, the raids came hard upon the cessation of fighting in France.

A military bulletin said that an oil depot was attacked in the Ruhr, Germany's great industrial area, while in Holland a series of airdromes occupied by the Germans were plastered by high explosives. All the British planes returned.

The German bombers used machine guns on at least one village in eastern England. Most of the damage, however, was in one district of southwest England, where the three were killed by a bomb which fell in a garden. The windows of virtually every every house were shattered.

Incendiary bombs, resembling streaks of lightning in the dark, caused several fires that were quickly extinguished. The British Broadcasting corporation said that "large numbers" of bombers took part in the raids. "Much of the island awakened to the sound of anti-aircraft fire, the roar of fighter planes and the glare of anti-aircraft searchlights. One of these lights picked out an unidentified plane over London. Earlier the capital heard the roar of airplane motors. A false alarm was sounded Oct. 10.

Many Entries Received For Water Meet

Entries are being received in every mail for the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation swimming and diving meet to be held at the Pampa Municipal pool on July 4. Manager Oscar Hinger reported today. Competition will be open to swimmers and divers in the north 26 Panhandle counties and winners will be eligible to attend the state meet in San Antonio. Thirty Pampa swimmers and divers have entered the meet and Jimmy Pearson returned from Amarillo today with entries from members of both the Gem and Thompson pools.

The meet will open at 2:30 o'clock and continue until all competitors have completed their events. Following the swimming and diving a bathing beauty revue will be held. Eligible to enter will be a representative from every pool in the 26 counties. Anyone interested in entering the meet is urged to contact Mr. Hinger or Mr. Pearson.

After the meet a Pampa swimming and diving team will be selected to participate in dual and invitation meets. There is still a need for more senior women swimmers and divers, Mr. Hinger said today.

The War Today

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Last night's widespread German air raids over England are a reminder that Herr Hitler is almost set for his major blow—the direct assault on Britain toward which all his operations have led since his invasion of Norway and Denmark.

And simultaneous raids in which the British carried the war into German territory gave further indication that John Bull is facing this last grim phase of the blitzkrieg with determination. So overpowering is the drama of this life and death struggle between empires—for this is a fight to a finish—that most of us probably think of it in terms of a conflict between two titans alone, with doll-garden England and its old world atmosphere as the setting. It certainly is difficult to visualize anything beyond this picture.

There will be much more than that to it, however, for the hero-forgo largely silent partner in the firm of Hitler and Co. has a vital part to play. Britain not only will have to meet the onslaught from Nazism on English soil, but at the same time try to keep Mussolini in hand and maintain control in the Mediterranean.

So important is this control that to my mind Britain cannot hope to defeat Germany if it is lost.

That would mean England's sea power—upon which she is depending so largely to pull her through—had been rendered ineffective. The blockade would be a thing of the past. British possessions in the Mediterranean area would be unprotected.

So while we watch the development of the conflict over England, we mustn't lose sight of Mussolini's operations.

I have a notion that indirectly Spain is fated to have a hand in this struggle. I say "indirectly" because there is small doubt that Spanish leader Franco wishes to remain neutral if possible. His country is still suffering, as severely as the civil war that it hasn't the strength for further military efforts. General Franco has indicated, however, that he feels deep gratitude for the help rendered him by both Mussolini and Hitler during his revolution. How far he would go in reciprocating is, of course, his own secret, but the whole world knows that he has naval and military bases which are invaluable to Mussolini in waging war against the great British fleet in the Mediterranean.

There was a time when it did announce he had no designs on any Spanish bases. But that was before the war, and he likely might feel that the present situation entirely alters things. I am not suggesting that he wishes to annex any.

Plans For American Legion Building To Be Discussed

Plans for the new American Legion building are to be discussed at an important meeting of Kerley-Crossman post 324 to be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the hut. For the past year, the local post has been contemplating a new home and it is expected that the plans will soon become a reality. Other business to be transacted will include the making of final arrangements for the annual fireworks exhibition to be held on the night of July 4 at Lake McClellan, and the receiving of additional nominations for officers of the local post. Nominations were made at the last meeting, but there is still time for other candidates, before the list is closed.

Amarillo Man Given School Plumbing Job

A contract for heating and plumbing in the new high school building was let to W. B. Lum, plumbing and heating contractor of Amarillo, at a meeting of the board yesterday afternoon. Low bid submitted by Mr. Lum was for $29,850.

Other bids submitted were Plains Plumbing of Amarillo, $40,178 and Ragsdale Plumbing and Heating company of Pampa, $41,000. Steam heat will be used in the new building. Two large boilers will be placed in the basement on the north side of the building. Coil radiators, in attractive cabinets, will be placed in each room in the building and in the auditorium and gymnasium. An incinerator will be erected outside of the boiler room. Roy Thompson and Warren Shreve, factory representatives of the General Electric company, Cleveland, Ohio, appeared before the board and explained lighting. They

AS GOP CONVENTION OPENED

Candidate Combats 'Stop Willkie' Move

FDR Leading To One-Man Rule, Says Joe Martin

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts charged the Roosevelt administration today with a seven-year "march toward one-man government."

Accepting the post of permanent chairman of the Republican national convention, he declared: "Every ideal of Americanism has been imperiled by those who would make our government and our nation tools to be manipulated by one man at the head of a great and unselected political bureaucracy. "The time has come to end all this if we are to continue to live as a free people."

Martin asserted that "a steady drift toward governmental absolutism both at home and abroad" must be checked this year, and declared the purpose of his party's convention to be "to rally all patriots in a crusade for Americanism."

"For seven anxious years," he said, "we have seen this march toward one-man government."

The record is a sordid story of failure and rot and broken promises. And there is much reason to believe we may yet wake up to find we have been pushed into war. That is the record of the New Deal. That record will never be approved by the American people.

"We have had managed economy with neither management nor economy. Vast sums of money—sums too vast to be comprehended by the human mind—have been scattered about with reckless abandon. Under the cloak of emergency and distress the American people have been ruthlessly exploited. Today the administration is bewildered by the effects of its own irresponsible conduct."

The convention chairman declared that the nation has reached "an hour of crisis and decision," but that its problems—both foreign and domestic—could be solved without "a ruinous war or ruinous debt."

Police Signal Light Will Be Put On Tower

Efficiency of the police department will be increased materially with installation of a police signal light on top of the water tower at the rear of the fire station, City Manager Steve Matthews declared today. Wire for the light was strung today and it will be in operation within the next two or three days.

The light to be placed on top of the water tower will be visible from nearly every point in the city. No matter where the police car is cruising, officers will be able to see the light when it is flashed on by a switch in the police station. They will be instructed to go to the nearest telephone and call the station for instructions.

The city is unable to afford a short wave radio station at the present time and the light system is believed to be the nearest solution to improved efficiency. Day or night the light will be visible, the city manager said. "In the past when a call was received at the police station the desk sergeant had to report that he was alone but that he would send an officer as soon as one returned to the police station or reported by telephone," Matthews said. "Now we can cut the time to within a few minutes."

Second U. S. Ship Sent To Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, June 25 (AP)—The 10,000-ton U. S. cruiser Quincy stayed overtime in Montevideo harbor today and anxious Uruguayans investigated possibility of a Nazi-planned revolt, cheered the news that a second U. S. warship is on the way.

Orders from Washington to keep the Quincy here and word that the seventh squadron flagship Wichita will arrive Saturday from Rio de Janeiro came within a few hours after the chamber of deputies acted in secret session last night to stamp out subversive activities.

Three other units of the U. S. war fleet, the battleships Arkansas, Texas and New York, arrived last night at La Guaira, the port for Caracas, Venezuela. They were reported to be on a training cruise, with a large party of midshipmen aboard.

Observers in Montevideo interpreted the presence of the Quincy and expected arrival of the Wichita as signs that the United States would back up the government in whatever safeguards are adopted. There has been concern that Germany might take reprisals if stern measures were adopted on a special commission's report that Uruguay Nazis, influenced from abroad, planned to set up a little Nazi state in this vulnerable section of South America.

Nazi Peace With France Hinges On Battle Of England

BERLIN, June 25 (AP)—Actual peace negotiations between France and Germany as distinguished from the armistice cannot begin until Germany has disposed of Britain, the usually well informed news agency Dienst Aus Deutschland said today.

The armistice terms were still being withheld at 6:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m., C. S. T.). The news agency's views that final peace negotiations are still some distance in the future was in contrast with recent opinions expressed in Berlin and at Compiègne forest that the armistice might be followed quickly by a continental peace conference.

The armistice commission, said Dienst Aus Deutschland, "is not concerned in any way with the questions of future German peace." It added: "The actual peace negotiations are to be sharply attached from all negotiations conducted in the course of the armistice and, moreover, are likely to be ushered in only when the still open German-English conflict is included. The battle of England was awaited. Let us make those smooth tires safe. Recapp at Dixie Tire Co.—Adv.

British Bombers Attack Germany's Industrial Plants

LONDON, June 25 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told commons today the French had broken their promises not to let their fleet fall into enemy hands, but in the House of Lords, Viscount Caldecote, dominions secretary, said Churchill would not relax his efforts to retain French naval help.

Fleet Still Remains At British Base

German and British bombing planes struck with renewed fury today as peace stilled the battlefields of vanquished France and a total of some 5,000,000 French, German and Italian soldiers quickly obeyed the "cease firing" order. First definite indication that the powerful French fleet, second strongest in Europe, does not intend to surrender—as stipulated in the Franco-German armistice—came from Alexandria, Egypt.

Part of the French fleet still remained at the Egyptian port, Britain's main naval base in the Mediterranean. The cessation of hostilities on the western front and in the maritime Alps came while the rest of Europe slept.

Coincidentally, Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons in London that France's Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain violated the "most solemn assurances" to Britain that the French fleet would never fall into German hands. A dispatch from Alexandria, Egypt, said units of the French fleet, stationed at that British naval base, flew their flags at half mast today in compliance with a French government order for a day of mourning.

The dispatch indicated that thus far these French ships have not obeyed the reported stipulation of the French-German armistice that See FRENCH FLEET, Page 3

Bribe Paid To Wigham, Claims Oil Official

MIDLAND, June 25 (AP)—R. J. Kelly, vice-president of the Shasta Oil company, testified in district court here today that Gordon Bigham, former railroad commission member, told him the Shasta allowable would be cut "unless you make it right."

Kelly was the first witness called by the state in the trial of Bigham on charges of agreeing to accept and accepting a $5,000 bribe. Kelly described how, at the instance of a "contact man" he telephoned Bigham and met him on Sunday evening, March 10, in Bigham's office as deputy supervisor of the railroad commission in Midland.

Kelly testified Bigham referred to Shasta's 27 wells in Howard county, saying the allowable would be cut. Kelly said Bigham gave him until "tomorrow at 1:30" to pay a stipulated sum of $5,000 cash, to be followed by monthly payments of $200. This money, he said he was told, had to be split six ways, and later was told it had to be cut eight ways.

Bigham told him a man "very close to the commission" was giving him a limited time in which to make the collection, the witness testified. On cross-examination, Kelly testified that in paying the $5,000 to Bigham, he did so with full knowledge of the district attorney, state Rangers and representatives of the attorney general's office. Payment, he said, was made on March 12. On further cross-examination by C. C. McDonald, defense attorney, See BRIBE, Page 3

Flags Of French Fleet At Half Mast Today

ALEXANDRIA, June 25 (AP)—Units of the French fleet in this part of the Mediterranean flew their flags at half mast today in accordance with the Bordeaux government's order for a general day of mourning.

Earlier reports were that a considerable portion of France's Mediterranean fleet was with the British fleet at Alexandria. This dispatch is proof that up to now these French ships have not obeyed the reported stipulation of the Franco-German armistice, that all French naval vessels return to home ports for disarming or internment.

Secretary-Guard Of Trotsky Found Dead

MEXICO CITY, June 25 (AP)—Police announced today that the body of Sheldon Harte, secretary-guard to Leon Trotsky, had been found in an abandoned house near Mexico City. Harte, formerly of New York City, had been shot dead.

Identification was made by his associates in the Trotsky household. Harte disappeared May 24 when a machine-gun attack was made on the home of Trotsky, exiled former Soviet Russian war commissar.

Harte was kidnapped by Trotsky's assassins during the attack, in which 20 men disguised as police and armed with rifles, machine guns and incendiary bombs raided the heavily-guarded Russian exile's residence. Trotsky escaped serious harm.

The slain youth's father, Jesse Harte, New York businessman, flew to Mexico City when his son was reported missing and offered a 10,000-peso ($1,685) reward for his return.

"Thief On Cross" Subject Of Sermon Monday Evening

One of the largest audiences of the entire meeting heard Evangelist G. A. Dunn, speak Monday evening on the subject, "The Thief on the Cross."

It is frequently asserted that the thief was saved without being baptized and therefore people today can refuse to obey Mark 16:16 and be saved.

When Jesus gave the great commission, he said, "Preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be condemned."

All of the guests rode bicycles to the home of the guest of honor after which they went to the city park where games were played and bicycle races were held.

After gifts were presented, refreshments of cup cakes topped with the names of the guests, sandwiches and soda pop were served.

Committee Adopts Official Ballot For Gray County

Official ballot for the first Democratic primary election to be held July 7, was prepared at a meeting of a sub-committee of the county organization held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the county court room.

No other business remains to be done by the county committee, except for a meeting to be called two or three weeks in advance of the election, to check on preparations for handling the vote at the county's 17 precincts.

First campaign expense reports are due in the period starting Thursday and ending July 1.

At the meeting yesterday, selection of judges and clerks for 11 of the 17 precincts was made.

TRAINING TO STRENGTHEN THE BALD EAGLE'S WINGS

All eyes focus on the instructor, bare-headed, as he gives pointers from model planes to helmeted and goggled students at Randolph Field, Texas. Seven thousand pilots will be trained annually, many of them at this "West Point of the Air," under recent Air Corps expansion plan designed to bolster Uncle Sam's defense.

FRENCH FLEET

all French vessels return to home port for disarming or internment.

There were few outbursts of joy—none of the whooping shouts of fraternization that marked the end of hostilities in the World War on Nov. 11, 1918.

Italian infantrymen merely stacked their rifles and sat down on the mountainsides to drink hot coffee and wine. Artillerymen left their still-smoking cannon to join their comrades.

Some Italians called across the Alpine snow to French Poilus but there was no answer.

The combined Nazi-Fascist onslaught against France halted at 1:35 a. m. today (5:35 p. m. C. S. T. yesterday), with the terms of the axed-dictated armistice still officially undisclosed.

Berlin reported that the conqueror's demands comprised 24 paragraphs and that they were "hard, but not humiliating" for France.

According to best available figures, France originally had 2,780,000 soldiers engaged in the conflict. Germany sent some 2,000,000 men into France and Italy about 750,000. Casualty figures were still unavailable, but were expected to be high.

The German high command announced that in the last day of fighting, Hitler's armies advanced to Royan and Angouleme, 50 miles north of Bordeaux on France's west coast, and captured St. Etienne, 50 miles south of Lyon, in eastern France.

While Nazi warplanes bombed England—the German high command said the attack was aimed against British airports. British bombers attacked the Ruhr. Germany's rich industrial region, and plastered high explosives on a series of German-held airbases in Holland.

Waves of German bombers, in the widest forays of the war, thundered over Britain from London to the northeast and penetrated to the west coast over Wales and northwest England, dropping explosives at many points while British fighters and anti-aircraft gunners struggled to bring the raiders down.

The "cease firing" orders that came, as scheduled, six hours after France yielded to Italy, created dramas of differing sorts among the conquerors and the conquered. The end was at 1:35 a. m. German and Italian time. (5:35 p. m. Monday, C. S. T.)

It was announced in Bordeaux that actual terms of the two armistices would be published 48 hours after the fighting stopped.

Britain already has reported that the German terms include occupation of more than half of France, dissolution of the army and internment of the navy.

Far from the scene of French catastrophe, other nations flexed their muscles.

Foreign military and diplomatic quarters in Hungary heard that Rumanian and Russian troops had clashed at several points on the Danubian river frontier. Rumanian officials refused to discuss the reports.

Japan sent warships from her China fleet to the harbor of Hainan, French Indo-China, as "observers" in connection with suspected arms traffic through Indo-China fleet to the harbor of Hainan-Kai-Shek's Chungking government.

The move was made amidst reports that the Japanese government might declare a "protectorate" over French and Netherlands possessions in the Far East, but the admiralty spokesman said the ships would remain off the French port only until Japanese inspectors arrive under the terms of a recent agreement between the Japanese and French governments.

KPDN SPEAKER

Deskins Wells, above, spoke over radio station KPDN yesterday afternoon. He stressed the need for adequate preparedness. He is a candidate for congress. Saturday, Mr. Wells, spoke in Estelline, Silvertown, Dimmitt, and Arroyo. Mr. Wells is publisher of the Wellington Leader. "Right now real patriotism," said Mr. Wells, in his radio address, "lies in doing our given work better than we have ever done it in our lives."

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Stocks sold lower today in a fog of pessimism induced by Prime Minister Churchill's assertion that the French elevation to supreme authority was a disaster to Germany.

Many leaders, particularly steel and aircraft makers, were disappointed in the British chief's statement. They remained close to their doors toward the end of the trading session, 70,000 shares.

All sections of the share market yielded to the downward pressure. Even railroads, which were firm yesterday and early in early dealings today, gave way to the general trend.

FRANCE LAYS DOWN ARMS

(By The Associated Press)

BORDEAUX, June 25 — France bowed her head in a day of mourning today after officially laying down her arms before the might of Adolf Hitler's conquering German and Italian forces of his partner-in-arms, Benito Mussolini.

Full terms of the armistice under which the French ended formal resistance to their foes will be announced approximately 48 hours from now, they declared yesterday. The armistice came at 12:35 a. m. today French time (5:35 p. m. C. S. T. Monday).

Six final hours of slugs hit and deadly fighting followed French signing of Italy's terms—an act which validated the armistice previously reached with Germany.

They expected a measure of peace after nearly 10 months of war, although more than half her soil was occupied by the invaders, and her erstwhile ally, Great Britain, was left to carry on the war with the declared aggressor.

Many last Sept. 3 and which Italy entered two weeks ago.

(In London, General Charles de Gaulle has formed a French national committee to continue the fight against the government's surrender; he broadcast a prediction that some day the Allied forces would "restore liberty to the world and greatness to our country.")

The government expected to remain here until four words censored when it will start for an unoccupied capital in one of the departments to be left free of German troops.

Interior Minister Charles Pomaret, proclaiming this "armistice day" a day of mourning, ordered a minute of silence in honor of the war dead of 1914-1918 and 1939-1940 at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. C. S. T.) and said that late in the day Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain would address the nation by radio.

"Today France must be silent," Pomaret said. "Her heart will bleed, but she will forge a new hope."

French troops, exhausted by the last three weeks of relentless blitzkrieg, were confined to barracks. Flags of public buildings flew at half-staff. Cafes, theaters, and all stores except those supplying food were closed.

Special religious services were arranged.

(The Exchange (British) telegraph agency reported from Bordeaux that U. S. Ambassador William C. Bullitt had arrived from Paris, where he had remained to witness the German occupation.)

MACKENZIE

Spanish territory—for France would fight that—but a loan of bases would serve the purpose.

The Italian chieftain would give his stout right arm to wrest control of the public buildings and the Suez canal from England. Spain certainly could be helpful if she would.

One of the powerful strategic positions involves the western gateway to the Mediterranean. As you know, this is guarded on the North by England's famous Rock of Gibraltar—supposedly so nearly impregnable that its name has become a worldwide household word for strength.

Then just across the way in Spanish Morocco is Ceuta, an admirable base for submarines. So narrow is this gateway that you could almost flip a bar across it.

Mussolini wants control of Gibraltar—and who doesn't? If he had this and a naval base at Ceuta, he perhaps could dominate the western entrance to the Mediterranean, always provided his operations in other parts of the sea had kept pace.

It is my understanding that the Berlin-Rome axis partners already have tried to get General Franco to attack Gibraltar, which is embedded in Spanish soil. The general, by no means an official informant, goes—refused to undertake any such hazardous operation.

Mussolini now having come into the war, however, it wouldn't be surprising if he tried to persuade Franco to permit Italian operations in Spanish territory and the gateway. The idea would be that if Mussolini secured Gibraltar he would turn it over to Spain—though one can be very certain that the shrewd Italian chief would keep a finger on this great rock.

CHURCHILL

made by M. Reynaud to the United States, and if the reply was not sufficient to enable M. Reynaud to go on fighting—and he, after all, was the real fighting spirit—then we should meet again and take a decision in the light of the new facts.

We hope that the French empire, stretching all over the world, will continue the struggle on the side of its allies," he declared.

Decrying "hard words and reproaches," Churchill said Britain finds it difficult to believe "that the interests and spirit of France would find no other expression than in the melancholy decisions of the government at Bordeaux."

"We shall aid any movement of Frenchmen for the defeat of German barbarism and the freedom and restoration of France," Churchill said.

"What our relations will be with the Bordeaux government I cannot say, they have delivered themselves over to the enemy."

Churchill called the situation at present "uncertain and obscure" and said that he could say nothing of the future. He will make a further statement next week.

When Churchill laid France's plight to the "might and fury of the enemy" and "other causes," a member shouted "and her politicians."

The war department recently let contracts to three light plane manufacturers totaling $2,500,000. The contracts were for short-range observation planes, two-place, single-engine monoplanes with full radio equipment.

Mussolini wants control of Gibraltar—and who doesn't? If he had this and a naval base at Ceuta, he perhaps could dominate the western entrance to the Mediterranean, always provided his operations in other parts of the sea had kept pace.

It is my understanding that the Berlin-Rome axis partners already have tried to get General Franco to attack Gibraltar, which is embedded in Spanish soil. The general, by no means an official informant, goes—refused to undertake any such hazardous operation.

Mussolini now having come into the war, however, it wouldn't be surprising if he tried to persuade Franco to permit Italian operations in Spanish territory and the gateway. The idea would be that if Mussolini secured Gibraltar he would turn it over to Spain—though one can be very certain that the shrewd Italian chief would keep a finger on this great rock.

FRANCE LAYS DOWN ARMS

(By The Associated Press)

BORDEAUX, June 25 — France bowed her head in a day of mourning today after officially laying down her arms before the might of Adolf Hitler's conquering German and Italian forces of his partner-in-arms, Benito Mussolini.

Full terms of the armistice under which the French ended formal resistance to their foes will be announced approximately 48 hours from now, they declared yesterday. The armistice came at 12:35 a. m. today French time (5:35 p. m. C. S. T. Monday).

Six final hours of slugs hit and deadly fighting followed French signing of Italy's terms—an act which validated the armistice previously reached with Germany.

They expected a measure of peace after nearly 10 months of war, although more than half her soil was occupied by the invaders, and her erstwhile ally, Great Britain, was left to carry on the war with the declared aggressor.

Many last Sept. 3 and which Italy entered two weeks ago.

(In London, General Charles de Gaulle has formed a French national committee to continue the fight against the government's surrender; he broadcast a prediction that some day the Allied forces would "restore liberty to the world and greatness to our country.")

The government expected to remain here until four words censored when it will start for an unoccupied capital in one of the departments to be left free of German troops.

Interior Minister Charles Pomaret, proclaiming this "armistice day" a day of mourning, ordered a minute of silence in honor of the war dead of 1914-1918 and 1939-1940 at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. C. S. T.) and said that late in the day Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain would address the nation by radio.

Issues Now In Focus

Nominating time is here. Within both major parties, dozens of eager aspirants are giving supreme effort to attempts to convince the convention delegates that they are the logical candidates for the highest office in the land.

Despite this, if reason and statesmanship, as against minor political considerations, are in the ascendant, the delegates will have a comparatively easy time of it, for there are two presidential candidates whose records, prestige and philosophies of life and government bring into focus absolutely clean-cut issues for consideration.

On the Democratic side, the logical candidate is President Roosevelt. The New Deal has been a one-man administration. The President is solely responsible for its achievements and failures. The President alone can speak adequately on behalf of New Deal policies which favor the sweeping extension of government control over our national life.

On the Republican side, the logical candidate is Wendell Willkie. Of all Republican candidates, Mr. Willkie alone has gone straight to the heart of the great issues that confront us today—and has done it strongly and simply and clearly. His rise in public esteem has amazed politicians. He has dramatized superbly the case for individualism as against collectivism—the case of man against the State. He is a successful business man, a proven executive, and has had wide experience in the affairs of government.

The American people are entitled to an opportunity to choose between candidates of the stature of the President and Mr. Willkie, who represent opposed philosophies of government.

UNDECLARED WAR (Chicago Tribune)

Twenty United States naval vessels—10 submarine chasers and 10 motor torpedo boats—were sold to the British government. The transfer was arranged secretly, and was disclosed only through the vigilance of the senators of the naval affairs committee. This transaction follows closely the sale of the army 75s, the navy's dive bombers, and a considerable quantity of other government property.

These are acts of war and to regard them as anything else is to hide from reality. Beyond all question the Germans, the Italians and, indeed every other nation in the world, will so regard them. Under Mr. Roosevelt's direction we have abandoned the last appearance of neutrality. Our government is in this war and is inviting retaliations. It is doing so at a time when our own defenses are wholly inadequate.

The people of this country have been shocked by the undeclared wars of other powers. We now find our government engaging in an undeclared war. Our people were shocked by the behavior of so-called neutrals in the Spanish war. We now find our government playing the same devious game. Like M. Blum in France, Mr. Roosevelt is sending military equipment abroad that will be needed, and badly needed, at home if we are attacked as France was. Germany, which was already far ahead in the armament race, could afford to send planes and guns to Spain; France could not afford the sacrifice, as events have shown. Neither can the United States if one may judge from the size of the naval building programs which congress has already authorized at this session and the immense additions to the fleet just recommended by Admiral Stark, the chief of naval operations.

One step leads to another. Mr. Roosevelt advocated quarantining aggressor nations. He went on to repeal the arms embargo which he had favored as a certain means of keeping America out of war. Soon he was declaring that our frontier lies in Europe. Next came the revelation out of the wreckage of an airplane accident, that he was aiding secretly in the procurement of advanced American equipment for belligerents. He had assigned a cabinet member to speed the negotiations. Now he is selling away the guns and ships of the American army and navy. The next step, if this process is continued, will be the sending of American naval crews and flyers.

Behind The News

WASHINGTON, June 25—The recent White House announcement of a plan for an economic union of North and South America symbolizes this government's conviction that the United States is entering a new and perplexing world order profoundly unlike anything it ever dreamed of before.

This plan for an international cartel to handle all new world export surpluses is based on a theory expressed roughly as follows:

Hitler is going to dominate Europe. The immediate menace to America will be economic rather than military, although the two are tied together. To meet this menace, this nation must do a number of very expensive and complicated things wholly aside from building up its army and navy.

This theory may be wrong—various people in Congress believe it is. If it is right, the answer now proposed may be wrong—even some New Deal planners think it is. Nevertheless, it represents dominant administration thinking.

PLAN OUTLINES ARE NOT NEW Although FDR sprang the idea before the plan had been perfected, the broad outlines of the program are not new. Two years ago the Agriculture and State De-

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES This column contends there can be no satisfactory program until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

A GREATER DANGER THAN BRIDGES

It would be amusing, if it were not so serious, to think that the Congress of the United States is so supine and witless as to believe that a law deporting Harry Bridges would solve our labor problems.

It would only detract attention from the real causes of our trouble. We have plenty of other men just as mean and contemptible and untruthful and unreliable in the country as Harry Bridges and if he were deported they would soon take his place.

What we need to do is repeal the laws that make it possible for men like Harry Bridges to do us so much damage. And the laws that we need to repeal are the laws that interfere with the greatest of all laws—the law of equal freedom. The worst laws that violate this, from the direct labor standpoint, is the law that prevents an employer and an employe from having the right to enter into a contract that the employe will not join a labor union that advocates non-competitive, coercive un-American schemes.

Another law that should be repealed is the Wagner Law that practically coerces a working man to join the Harry Bridges type of organizations. Another law that should be repealed is the minimum wage and maximum hour law that makes it so the inexperienced and small producing employe cannot market his services at the same rate per unit of production as the skilled worker can.

These are some of the direct laws that permit men like Harry Bridges to do billions upon billions of dollars worth of damage to the honest, hard working people of the country.

We had better devote our attention to repealing these laws than to try to pick out one man and remove him and think by so doing we will improve our condition.

RIGHT OF CONTRACT

The framers of the Constitution of this country intended that every man should have the right to contract.

But of recent years, we have made a great many laws that interfere with this right to contract. We now have a law on the statute books that prevents a man from having the right to contract for one day's labor unless he contracts for it on the basis that suits some other individual, usually the government employe, who will not even give him as much for his services as he is able to voluntarily contract to receive.

The violation of the principle of the right to contract is probably the greatest step any people can make toward beginning of a dictatorship-form of government. When the majority has the right to take away from an individual his inalienable, God-given rights to the use of his faculties, there can be no claim that we have a free country and that we are a free people.

A man should still have the right to sell himself in slavery and give his life to another and be a serf forever, if he voluntarily wants to do it. The government, however, should not enforce this kind of a contract, if the man selling himself into slavery decides to change his mind.

But when the government so interferes with private enterprise that a man has not the right to sell his services for one day or one hour at the best price he can get, then to talk about having a free country is simply to use words that have no meaning.

And the whole cause of this socialistic, tyrannical law is the absurd belief that one man working and adding to the wealth of the world is harmful to other workers. If there ever were people who were "babes in the woods", as far as understanding some fundamental, simple principles, it is the people in the United States.

One wonders whether it is a coincidence or result of the people of the United States having spent more money on majority rule education than any other people in all the world. It seems that the people of the country become confused to the degree that they have majority rule education. Look at France! And look at our own laws! Of course, education by majority rule can be no higher than the intelligence of the average.

partments began intensive studies of the chances for a closer economic tie-up between North and South America, with an eye to the increasing economic penetration by the totalitarian states.

Following their studies, a broad interdepartmental committee representing nearly all of the major governmental departments and bureaus took over the job. Further studies were made by still another group composed of representatives of the U. S. and various Latin American governments and of private business.

Upshot of all of this was a conviction that there was a great deal that the U. S. could do, but that it would be pretty expensive.

The United States now buys about $400,000,000 worth of South American agricultural products each year. If money were available for internal development on the southern continent, this total could be increased substantially—and U. S. exports would go up accordingly. We could, for instance, get most of our rubber, cichona, kapok, tea, cocoa, camphor and tropical hardwoods there if we could finance expanded production of those goods.

HITLER WOULD SPEND PLENTY But that, according to theory prevailing in Washington, only scratches the surface. For if this country buys 400 millions in South American goods each year, Europe has been buying from South America more than three times that much. If Hitler is going to run Europe, that was of purchases will be in his hands.

In the first place, it is argued a one-man-controlled barter trade on such a scale would mean economic penetration of Latin America with a vengeance—followed or accompanied by political penetration. In the second place, it is held that much of the normal U. S. export trade to Europe could be frozen out—which would make it all the more necessary for this country to find new markets.

Out of all of this grew the plan for a gigantic cartel, or economic union—based on the belief that only in that way could the various new world nations carry on their necessary trade with a Hitler-dominated Europe on anything approaching equal terms.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, June 25—Most of the customers who laughed at the rum-stealing Negro bartender in "Little Old New York" and who'll soon be seeing him again in "Maryland," never could guess that acting is just a sideline with Ben Carter. In fact, he's beginning to find demands for his dramatic services a little embarrassing.

You see, Carter is an agent—"The Ace Purveyor of Colored Talent to the Motion Picture Industry." He feels that whenever he takes a part in a picture he is keeping one of his clients out of a job. Besides, acting is a lot more profitable.

Carter is a big man on Central Avenue, as anyone could guess by the size of his automobile and the liveliness of his chauffeur. In addition to representing most of the performers in his line, he is a composer, arranger, choral leader, actor, author and specialty producer. "Mr. Carter is the Orson Welles of our colored community," said a cafeteria mummy on the set.

STUMBLING INTO SUCCESS Dapper, dark and usually wearing a dazzling dental grin, Carter shares credit for his success with Lady Luck. As a student of music back in Aurora, Ill. he got a job as activities secretary in a Negro Y. M. C. A., where he wrote songs and organized choral groups. But when he chucked that and headed west five years ago, he didn't have anything in mind.

The movie studios looked forbidding, so he wandered into a Hollywood broadcasting station. The receptionist surprised him by saying, "Welcome, Mr. Carter. You're right in; he's expecting you." So Carter went right in, and a man behind a desk asked, "How'd you like to be on a new program I'm starting? Play piano and sing a few songs."

The bewildered stranger said he'd like that fine. He performed on the air for more than two years, and declares to this day he doesn't know who he was supposed to have been. Evidently the boss thought that "Ben Carter" was an assumed name.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

PRICE OF "FEAR OF POLITICAL CONSEQUENCES" By HARLEY L. LUTZ Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University A recent publication entitled American White Paper, by Joseph Alsop and Robert Kintner, outlines in intimate fashion some of the events behind the scene of foreign affairs during the past two or three years. It is apparently a very accurate and reliable report for none of the principals who are quoted so freely and frankly have publicly repudiated the document.

The lag between American public opinion and the actual development of the foreign situation is to be expected, but it is so acute and complete current information. Many times in the past three years the President has told the country that he knew things which were not known to the people or even to the press. No doubt some matters must be guarded as diplomatic or state secrets, but it is possible that there may be too much secrecy and hush-hush. American White Paper makes it clear that the information received at the State Department through the latter part of 1938 pointed inevitably to just such a war as is now in progress. To be sure, the Germans had assured every one as publicly and emphatically as they could regarding their plans, so the outcome was in no sense a state secret. The above document makes it clear also, that the policy makers in the Administration had no illusions about the significance of such a war for this country. They saw that our interest in preventing war if possible, and if war came, in doing our utmost to assure victory for the democracies.

Furthermore, the policy makers saw that while this country was definitely opposed to sending an army to Europe, a commitment to aid the democracies, if attacked, with every possible resource, would have been about as effective, for their lack was in materials rather than in men. Legislation to this end would have been no more useful than the course actually taken by Congress. While such a commitment might not have prevented the war, there was a bare possibility of such an effect; and in any event, it would have been a definitely assured victory to the right side. But Alsop and Kintner say that the President did not then dare to say anything of the kind. He happened if, prior to the fall of Prague, the President had dared to put all of the facts in his possession before the people. . . . American White Paper does not report the conclusion of the authors' speculation as to what would have happened if the President had not been afraid of the political consequences, in view of the record it is such grave, or what is from such political consequences which was important enough to induce such fear. This was the third time. In 1938 the manipulation of the news was engineering this movement had not yet proceeded far enough to make even the nomination a certainty. A president who was completing a second term and who had no thought of trying for a third term could not have been so seriously disturbed by any political consequences as to be prevented from telling the people all of the facts regarding a situation of such gravity, or what is from suggesting to subordinate every other interest to a policy of secrecy and pussyfooting in order not to expose the political situation and such back could have been deterred from being frank and direct with the people. No one can say now what the popular reaction to such a proposal would have been in 1938, had it been adequately supported by a plain statement of the facts. Whether or not the people would have supported the President then is not the question. The fundamental fact is that they were not plainly and bluntly told what the national interest required in the light of all the facts. History would have been made if such a policy, even if the isolationists had been able, for a time, to defeat it. . . . This third term issue may be viewed as having had a part in promoting the present world disaster. This is a frightful price for the nation, and for the people of the United States, to pay. Democracy may yet be lost because of the "fear of political consequences."

'Mosquito' Boat Transfer Cancelled

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)-The projected transfer of 20 "mosquito" torpedo boats to Great Britain—a transaction which drew outspoken criticism in congress—has been cancelled by President Roosevelt.

The President's action destroyed British hopes of acquiring the 111 destroyers the navy has left over from World War days, for he based his decision on a law prohibiting the delivery of American built war vessels to a belligerent.

Mr. Roosevelt ordered negotiations for the "mosquito" boat transfer halted yesterday, after studying an informal opinion from Attorney General Jackson.

The "mosquito" boat transaction first became public a week ago. Assistant Navy Secretary Compton said that on his own responsibility he had authorized waiving of delivery on the craft, Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, subsequently said that the decision had White House approval. Compton contended that the navy would benefit by acquiring later type vessels.

The modern flying fortress with for 1000-horsepower engines is reported to have amazing performance unparalleled by any other bomber in the world regardless of size.

Dollar Drops To 4.88 In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, June 25 (AP)-Foreign exchange operators asserted today that persistent reports in financial quarters that the United States shortly would make heavy loans to Mexico for rearming were responsible for the drop of the dollar yesterday to 4.88, the lowest quotation since last winter.

They said any influx of American capital at this time would substantially strengthen the peso because of the improvement it would mean in the general economic condition of the republic.

In recent weeks the dollar, under pressure of the international situation and the fears of United States officials that the European war, has broken from six to one.

Observers predicted the peso would not remain at such a high quotation unless the Bank of Mexico decided to enter the market and peg the peso at five to one. The bank is now studying the advisability of doing this.

Otherwise, these observers said, the economic situation of Mexico, without military loans, did not justify the peso's current high level.

CHAPTER VIII
BREATHELESSLY Francie dashed into the hotel.

John Weston frowned. "Gusty's becoming a problem. I'm sorry the boy showed such poor judgment. But perhaps this will be a lesson to him."

"You mean you won't help him?" Francie gasped. "I'm not sure I ought to, dear," Mr. Weston said.

"Oh, Pops," Francie moaned, "he didn't mean to lose his temper." John Weston said, "Don't worry, Francie, Gusty will work out his own salvation."

In the coffee shop Francie tried to force down some supper, but each bite choked her. Her conception of prison life had been derived mainly from sensational movies.

She simply had to do something. And then it came to her in a flash. If she told Pops about taking the ticket he might help Gusty.

"But, Pops," Francie moaned, "he didn't mean to lose his temper." John Weston said, "Don't worry, Francie, Gusty will work out his own salvation."

Francie moved restlessly about the room. Her father had been gone only a few minutes, but it seemed like hours.

John Weston returned much later. "Well, Francie, I caught the justice of the peace at his home. I finally talked him into letting me pay Gusty's fine in advance."

Francie threw her arms around his neck, kissed him. "Oh, Pops, that was swell of you."

Francie straightened. "Pops, now that you've paid his fine, Gusty will have enough money to get to Hollywood. I can keep the ticket and give Gusty the money they pay me for broadcasting."

Her brown eyes clouded. "If he wants to be stubborn..." "Time will smooth off his rough edges, and when that day comes, Elspeth City may look pretty good to you."

John Weston hesitated, deep in thought. "Francie, I could, and perhaps should, forbid you to take any part in all this. But I won't. That would be making your decision too easy."

Francie went to her own room. She stood by the window watching the theater sign, now dark. Jerry Finney was like that—something that flashed brightly in her mind, then went out. Gusty Gair was an obtainable reality.

When John Weston emerged from the coffee shop the clerk gave him a letter. He read it, handed it to Francie. "From Gusty," he explained.

John Weston frowned. "Gusty's becoming a problem. I'm sorry the boy showed such poor judgment. But perhaps this will be a lesson to him."

Nine Acquitted In 11-Week Trial

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Nine acquittals and five mistrials were the results today of an 11-week trial of 14 men accused of conspiracy to overthrow the government and steal federal property.

U. S. Attorney Harold M. Kennedy said he was undecided whether the five on whom the jury could not reach verdicts would be tried again.

The eight acquitted on both counts were: John F. Cassidy, 30, leader of the Brooklyn Christian Front organization; John A. Graf, 23, clerk; John F. Cook, 19, Marine Corps reserve corporal; LaRoy Keegan, 39, baker;

Michael Vill, 35, German-born bus driver now a naturalized citizen; Michael J. Belne, 32, lineman and guard corporal; Andrew Zuckley, 34, guard sergeant; and Francis J. Malone, 25, department store employee.

In the case of William Gerald Bishop, 29, described by the government as a Nazi propagandist and leader of the alleged conspiracy, the jury disagreed on both counts.

John T. Trout, Jr., 29-year-old former guard captain, was acquitted on the overthrow count, while the jury disagreed on the second. The jury acquitted William H. D. Bushnell, 24, assistant, of conspiracy to plant munitions and disagreed on the other charge.

Plan Aims At Protection Of Phone Service

"That events across the sea have pledged utmost co-operation in carrying out the national defense program, the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company announced today that it was taking steps to protect telephone service interruptions and to maintain the privacy of telephone conversations. The announcement came today in a letter to L. H. Hudson, local manager of the Southwestern Bell, from A. C. Stannard, president of the company in St. Louis.

"It is quite apparent to all of us," Stannard told telephone people, forced upon the United States a situation which gravely concerns the Government at Washington and which is real and personal to each of us. This has convinced us that immediately we all must take steps which will organize the defenses of this nation. It is our intention to cooperate to the utmost in carrying out that National Defense Program.

"As telephone men and women," Stannard continued, "we realize perhaps more fully than others the vital importance to the nation of adequate, fast, continuous telephone service. And as speed in national preparedness increases, the necessity of maintaining telephone service unimpeded becomes even more imperative.

"Bell System men and women have met the emergencies of fire and flood and storm with unexampled devotion to duty. And we are certain that in time that calls for the patriotism of every American, these men and women will meet all demands upon their resourcefulness and skill with the same matchless spirit.

To assure protection of the more vital parts of telephone plant against interruption of service or invasion of privacy, certain steps are being taken. To restrict admission to some of our buildings and to guard them more effectively are among the first things to be done.

"The swift accomplishment of these and other necessary measures will be in the hands of a committee of general department heads, with General Plant Manager J. L. Crump as chairman and co-ordinator under the direct supervision of First Vice President W. L. Holley.

"Some of these measures may cause minor personal inconvenience to telephone people. But all of us will recognize that they are the things we as individuals want done to protect the communications system we operate."

South America For U. S. Says Writer Now At Houston

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
HOUSTON, June 25 (AP)—On the word of a former South American newspaper, talk of South American affection for the European totalitarian governments is largely imaginative.

Gaston Andrade, who has moved to Houston but still corresponds as a free lancer with 19 newspapers scattered over South America, said that of nearly 1,000 daily newspapers published in the southern republics, "easily 90 per cent favor the cause of the Allies strongly."

He added that if the United States should go to war, "it would be enthusiastically backed by at least 17 countries of Spanish origin."

Andrade said President Roosevelt "has won us over completely. But it should be understood that we are not ideologically as closely attached to the United States as it would appear. We have only two essential democracies in Central and South America, Colombia and Costa Rica.

"The others are oligarchies and most of them smell of totalitarianism. This fact does not, however, lead us to favor the German cause."

"There still exists some anti-American feeling among the lower classes, Andrade reported, 'for the marine occupations cannot be easily forgotten and because American sailors are a bit too boisterous when they disembark in a foreign port."

"The middle and the upper classes feel great admiration and friendship for the United States."

It is estimated that the German air force uses 200 tons of gasoline daily on war duties.

Canadian Man's Book Will Be Issued In Fall

Special To The NEWS
CANADIAN, June 25—Manuscript of a book written by J. A. Chambers, resident of Canadian since 1887, is now in the hands of Fortuny's, New York publishers, and the volume titled "The Bashful Cowboy," is to be issued this autumn.

Chambers, born in Hood county in 1860, worked as a cowhand when a boy, coming up the trail with a herd in 1882. He returned the next year and worked on the old Springer ranch until 1887, when he and Los Hays opened a store in Canadian. For the past six years Chambers has been writing reminiscences of his life as a cowboy, early years in Canadian, and this section of the Panhandle.

Walls of a den in the Chambers home are covered with photographs. His collection of early Plains history is one of the largest in the Panhandle. During his six years as county treasurer he kept the photographs in his office at the court house.

OLD SHIRT BOOSTER
HOUSTON, (AP)—Tom Baylor, assistant zoo keeper at Hermann Park, has an old shirt to thank for his life. A cow buffalo, believing he intended to harm her new-born calf, charged Baylor as he entered her pen. Her horn caught in his old shirt, but Baylor broke away and got behind a tree. Had he been wearing a strong new shirt, Baylor thinks, the incident might have ended differently.

Grasshoppers Hatching Out; Poison Ready

Grasshoppers are numerous now in Gray county, with lots of small 'hoppers hatching out in the past three weeks. The insects are thickest on the plains section of the county than in the cotton and truck garden area in the southeast. County Farm Agent Ralph R. Thomas said today. To combat the infestation, the grasshopper poison mixing station is again in operation this year at the county warehouse in Southwest Pampa. The station is open daily from 8 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p. m.

There is no cost for the mixture. The only requirement is that persons calling at the station bring their own containers.

To the Oklahoma Panhandle, Kansas, the northern part of Dallam county, and Baca county, Colo., airplanes have been added to the bait-spreading forces, but none will be used here, said Mr. Thomas.

The fight against 'hoppers extends from Canada to Northwest Texas.

Hottest spot was the northern Montana sector, where 134 federal machines in addition to private equipment were spreading poison bait. Damage in adjacent Saskatchewan was reported heavy but in Montana the baiting, it was said, would hold crop losses to between 1 and 5 per cent.

Bait-spreading was getting under way in North Dakota. Infestations along roadsides and fence lines were heavy in some South Dakota counties south of Huron although the hatch was hardly half completed. Baiting activities were being stepped up rapidly.

Hopper populations were light in eastern Wyoming and northwestern Colorado.

Meanwhile the fight on chinch bugs had started in Oklahoma, where the season was further advanced than in other states facing this threat. The federal government had furnished 18,000 gallons of creosote for use in trench barriers in Oklahoma and was ready to provide more when needed.

Rev. Snell Elected Counsellor Of Young People's League

The Rev. Robert J. Snell returned recently from the district youth conference of the Episcopal church held at Buffalo Gap, near Abilene, at the Presbyterian camping grounds. While there Rev. Snell taught a course on "The Program of the Church." The local church was represented by Joyce Taylor, Imogene Sperry, and Delbert Hughes.

This conference is an annual affair for young people from 14 to 24 years of age. The Rev. John A. Winslow of Lubbock was the director of the camp and the Rev. Philip Kemp of San Angelo, the chaplain with Mrs. E. C. Seaman acting as camp mother.

At the annual meeting of the Young People's Service league held during the camp, Miss Imogene Sperry was elected first vice-president and Rev. Snell, as a counsellor.
