

Joe B. Bowers, Gray County's Wealthiest Resident. Dies

AMARILLO "RING" BARED

PNEUMONIA IS FATAL TO HIM THIS MORNING

Funeral Probably Is to Be Here Thursday—Wife's Relatives Notified of His Passing Today.

WAS CATTLEMAN

His 3,200-Acre Ranch Gushed Oil in 1927—Came to Gray County in 1928.

Death this morning claimed Joe B. Bowers, 60 years old, a man whose proudest title was that of ranchman but whose lands gushed oil sufficient to give him Gray county's largest fortune.

Mr. Bowers succumbed at St. Anthony's hospital at 4:30 a. m. to the cause of death being pneumonia. Often rallying in the 25 days he spent at the hospital before being brought home lifeless in a Malone funeral home car, he lapsed into unconsciousness for the last time last night.

At 3 o'clock this morning nurses and physicians saw that the end was near, and they summoned Dr. V. E. von Brunow, local physician, and Judge S. D. Stennis, who had been with him often during his severe illness. Others at his bedside were his sons, Aubrey, John, and Jodie, his brother, J. L. Bowers, and Miss Onal Pool, all of Pampa.

Wife Died Last Year
A younger son, Elza, preceded him in death 12 years ago at the age of 11. His wife, the former Miss Lizzie Martin of Miami, whom he married at that city 32 years ago, died Aug. 21, 1929. Near relatives include another brother, J. T. Bowers of Pampa, and two sisters, Mrs. I. M. Lewis of Loveland and Mrs. Mary Warren of Troy.

Funeral arrangements have been delayed to await information from relatives of Mrs. Bowers who possibly can attend the services. The funeral probably will be held Friday afternoon at the home on East Kingsmill. The Rev. F. W. O'Malley and the Rev. C. E. Lancaster, ministers of the Christian church and the Baptist church, respectively, will be in charge. Mr. Bowers, who joined the Christian church earlier in life, asked that the songs be the same as used at his wife's funeral.

Mr. Bowers was born in Falls county, Texas, Dec. 6, 1871. He came to the Panhandle in 1897 trailing a herd to the Jackson ranch near Miami. Later, he was for a time tax assessor for Roberts county when what is now Gray and Hutchinson and adjacent lands was attached to Roberts. He lost an arm while working on a windmill for N. W. McQuiston many years ago.

Pool Named for Him
Twenty years ago the family moved to their Gray county ranch home 9 miles south of Pampa. They lived there until 1928, when the house burned. Oil discovered on the ranch in 1927, gushed forth in huge quantities and the area proved to be one of the most dependable in the county. It is still recognized as a pool of high potential production. The Bowers ranch comprises 3,200 acres.

Although he owned fine cars, and more recently (January) purchased the residence of former Sheriff E. S. Graves on East Kingsmill avenue, Mr. Bowers considered himself not an oil man but a cattleman, a ranchman of the old school. Three months ago, he and his sons bought the well-watered Hest ranch in Hemphill county.

Unostentatious, he administered his charities in his own way and thus, and close friends said, that many who misunderstood him would be surprised to know how many poor people looked to him for help. He was liberal to those he liked, and unmindful of requests which did not appeal to him. He had had intermittent ill health for several years.

SHORTAGE IN ACCOUNT IS ADMITTED BY BANK TELLER

Rugeley Claims That Trio Got Only $4,200—Third Man Is Still at Large.

STINNETT, Sept. 30. (AP)—Rowland Rugeley, bank teller, admitted to Elmer Bart Bryan today he had been $3,200 short in his accounts before entering into a scheme to rob the Berger State bank Sunday night.

He claimed only $4,200 was taken from the bank the night of the robbery. Officials claimed that $8,100 was missing.

Rugeley explained the $3,200 shortage and the $4,200 taken, plus a few checks, accounted for the total.

In a signed statement he implicated Lewis Grim, a rooming house proprietor, and a third man whom police are trying to apprehend. Grim was arrested at Amarillo. Charges of theft over $50 were filed against the three men.

Sheriff Bryan said Rugeley refused to reveal how he had kept the shortage from being discovered by bank officials.

After the robbery Rugeley told police of having been captured by two men and forced to go to the bank and open the safe. He said another man and two women, with whom he had been riding, were tied hand and foot and held prisoners while the robbery was taking place. Officers have been unable to recover any of the money taken.

BERGER, Sept. 30. (AP)—Rowland Rugeley, young bank teller, and Lewis Grim, rooming house proprietor, were charged with theft over $50 last night in connection with the $8,100 robbery of the Berger State bank. The bank was robbed Sunday night.

Several pieces of property south and east of Pampa have been condemned and suits are pending in county court. Hearing dates have not been set.

Money for purchase of right-of-way is being received very slowly.

RECORDS OF BOOZE SALES MADE KNOWN

Descriptions of Alleged Dealings Is Made by Witnesses Who Is Immune Because of His Testimony.

BALANCES KEPT

Troy Blake Claims He Sold Liquor for Some of Defendants—Telegraphic Order Is Found.

AMARILLO, Sept. 30. (AP)—United States prosecutors today continued their efforts, through a string of witnesses in federal court, to bare the alleged operations of a "liquor ring" in Amarillo during 1928 and 1929.

Entries in a "little black book," seized in a raid on the home of Walter Wilbering, one of the 13 defendants, in April, 1929, and the testimony of Troy Blake, who was granted immunity to testify for the government, were presented by the prosecutors as links in their chain of testimony.

Norman J. Morrison, a assistant United States attorney general, described the book as a "recapitulation of daily business." He read several pages into the evidence, charging that the figures represented daily receipts and expenses.

Receipts as recorded in the book ranged from $200 to $3,000 a day. Expenses included the repairs, telephone bills, house rent, salaries and supplies. Purchases of liquor were listed.

One of the debit entries was for a telegraphic charge to St. Augustine, Fla., of $1,000.

Blake testified that he had sold liquor for some of the defendants, and described the manner of their alleged operations.

Quinn Defense Seeking Mistrial

NEWKIRK, Okla., Sept. 30. (AP)—A motion that a mistrial be declared because of the purported conduct of the jury opened the effort of Earl Quinn's attorneys to free him in the murders of Jessie and Zeph Griffith, pretty school teacher, today but the court, following arguments, declined to entertain the motion.

In saying he could not consider the motion "at this time," Judge John S. Burger, however, made it clear he was not passing on the question raised. James L. Mathers, defense attorney, also contended the jurors perused newspapers containing "inflammatory articles" prejudicial to Quinn and that they had separated.

Judge Burger also refused requests that jurors be placed on the witness stand and bring with them any prejudicial newspaper articles they possess and overruled a defense demurrer to the evidence and a motion for an instructed verdict of not guilty.

Clyde Garner, employment representative of the Welfare Board, says he will have a list of needy men handy during the week and whenever a call is received some one will be sent immediately. MELANCHOLY DAYS?

It is a little bit odd that spring is generally supposed to be more of a hopeful, restless and unsettling sort of season than autumn.

Nobody expects much of fall. It is a collection of melancholy days, it abounds with chilly rains and raw winds, and it has a funeral overtone that sets joets and other sensitive people beating their breasts. Spring, on the other hand—then the young men see visions and the old men dream dreams, and each man wants to leave the place where he is and go places where he has not been.

That, at any rate, is the tradition. But it doesn't jibe with the facts. Autumn has been frightfully maligned. It is time justice was done. In most parts of the country, autumn provides the nicest weather of the whole year. Furthermore—since our moods depend so greatly on what the sun and wind and sky do to us—it is a time for visions of dreams, for the birth of new hopes and the revival of old ones; a season, in fact, which does most of the things spring is supposed to do much better than spring actually does them.

To be sure, autumn brings death and decay. But it works with greater artistry than spring, for it clothes all the beauty of flaming woodland and misty field that is breath-taking; it reconciles us to them, it tempests us and persuades us—as supremely great artists do—that death and decay are only preliminaries to a rebirth.

Its hazy air, too, carries a breath of vagabondage. A morning in May can incite one to truancy; but an October afternoon, when the corn-shocks stand in uneven rows like the tepees of an Indian encampment on a rolling field, is the time when the Red Gods are really astir. For then one perceives that the road to the end of the earth starts wherever one's feet happen to be, and there is apt to be just enough of a nip in the wind to delude a man into thinking he can walk as far as the spirit moves him.

And suppose that we are too mundane to be stirred by such fanciful things? Well, in the mere matter of material comfort fall offers more than spring. Spring gets you ready for warm weather and then sprinkles snow on you. The "spring cold" is proverbial, and the bright days have an icy sting underneath the sunshine. Autumn's more honest. You expect the worst—and, very often, you get the best.

The old tradition needs revising. Autumn, once you get to understand it, is the best time of all the year.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (NEA)—Opinion may differ as to the likely usefulness of the president's organization on unemployment relief, but when you take a look at it you find about 80 persons, all of them busy, in a proportionate number of offices.

Just about enough furniture and supplies have been gathered from various government departments and barely enough money has been made available from the department of commerce to pay clerks and others who aren't privately paid or on a voluntary basis. Most of the layout is in the Walker-Johnson building, first built for the marines and now occupied by other branches of government. The unemployment organization has a publicity man and a separate press room in which it will one day place typewriters for the use of newspapermen.

Instead of directing the work from New York where he is president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, Director Walter C. Gifford has moved into an office here with a personal secretarial staff and handles his A. T. & T. job from Washington. He uses a direct telephone wire and a couple of teletype machines to keep in touch with his New York office.

Gifford's job is to stimulate community and state activities in this winter's fight against distress. He sits with his coat off, conferring by telephone or in person with one or another of his advisory committee of 100, with other visitors important enough to warrant his attention or with members of his four "active committees"—Owen Young's on mobilization of relief resources, Fred C. Croxton's on administration of relief funds, Harry A. Wheeler's on plans and suggestions and Eliot Wadsworth's on mobilizing national groups and organizations. Quite a few of the advisory members have been in to ask what they are supposed to do or to make suggestions of their own. And many a businessman to argue that national salvation depends on some scheme that will revive his own industry first of all. Gifford has brought his personal assistant, W. J. O'Connor, to work with him, and a secretary and a couple of stenographers.

Young has his committee headquarters in New York, but a member of his personal staff, John P. Gregg, represents him at the offices here. Wadsworth, after his appointment, came right down and opened up in Washington. Merle Thorpe, editor of a national business magazine, volunteered his services and appears nearly every day. He will be a liaison man between the central headquarters and the organization's state representatives.

Thousands of persons are sending in proposed relief plans, some of them good and most of them cockeyed, which are all turned over to Wheeler.

Although the organization's work is generally confined to assistance in the form of advice and information, a good slant on the type of work it is doing and expects to do can be found in the office occupied by Miss Olga A. Jones and Mrs. Bernice C. Davis, who got started with the recently absorbed Woods committee. Mrs. Davis, a home economics expert and teacher for 20 years who headed the canning work in post-war European relief, supervises the present national government for "canning the surplus" of fruits and vegetables. Miss Jones, an educator and former newspaperwoman, has been organizing the "Back to School" movement, sometimes known as the "Stick to School" government.

The canning movement is under way in at least 50 cities, reports show. Mrs. Davis says the double objects is to make it possible for the unemployed to can their own winter food and to get others to contribute extra jars of stuff. She sent out about 5000 preliminary appeals to state and local committees and social agencies and is now receiving active co-operation from the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Junior Red Cross—which promises a million cans, federal home demonstration agents and the home economics section of the board of vocational education.

confided his ambition to his acquaintances at the Salvation Army hotel where he lived. The other night the opportunity came. He slipped past the desk sergeant of the Desplaines police station and made his way to the court room on the second floor. There he seated himself comfortably in the judge's chair. FEMININE FANCIES

By Hollyce Sellers Hinkle

WEMININE FANCIES The best way for the Harvesters to prove they can beat Amarillo is to beat the Wichita Redskins Saturday.

Can Do It! According to some of the "uptown coaches," declared Coach Odus Mitchell in a pep meeting of high school this morning, we can't do it. Yet he declared there was a good possibility that the Redskins would be overcome by the hard fight our boys were going to make.

A fighting spirit, the coach believes, will make up for the difference in weight which is in favor of the Oklahoma boys. He said the Oklahoma team line outweighed our line on a one-pound average, and that our backfield was outweighed 10 pounds per man unless Paul Hill is used, in which case the difference is only six pounds.

The local team is in splendid condition. Each man was introduced to the student body this morning by Capt. Ray Chastain.

Students Do Their Part The student body almost went wild this morning as it joined in yells and songs to encourage the local team. Malcolm Carr told of the significance of the school colors and Dorothy Doucette made a short talk on the school song, the words of which were written by Supt. Fisher. Charles Frost spoke on Sportsmanship and the Ideals of the school.

A simple "country supper" served on heavy china placed on bare tables and with large mugs for coffee cups will feature the "lucky ball" to be attended by those ranking highest in social life at Washington. The young women of Washington are priding themselves on the economy of their social functions this year, and declare that no new clothes are necessary for the "lucky ball."

Already society columns have enumerated more than 60 young women to make debuts this winter, according to an A. P. report. Even these entertainments will be staggered on a more economical basis than last year.

Even though social events may be less expensive, they are no less in number—which is just as it should be. We must not forget to play, even if it must be done at very small expenditures.

NEW MEMBERS WELCOMED BY BUSINESS WOMEN More Than Hundred Attend Workers Conference in White Deer

PROGRAM GIVEN AT GATHERING HERE TUESDAY

Mrs. Sam Fenberg, Mrs. Joe Lazarus, Mrs. M. W. Clayman, and Miss Lucile Saunders were welcomed as new members of the Pampa Business and Professional Women's club at a social meeting of the organization Tuesday evening at the city commissioners' room of the city hall.

Miss Wilma Singletary introduced the new members and Mrs. W. O. Christian made the address of welcome. The club collect was read by the entire membership, and Miss Aurelia Miller led in the singing of lively club songs.

Miss Mildred Overall made two short talks during the evening. She discussed first, Our Membership Aim, and later, Our Emblem Signification. Mrs. Helen Turner, impersonating a business girl who had decided to propose to her sweetheart, entertained with a clever reading. The proposal, which was rehearsed carefully with a dummy, was made unnecessary with the arrival of a proposal by special delivery letter from the man in the case.

The four new members, one visitor, Miss Clarice Bennett, and the following old members attended: Mesdames Lee Hill, John Beverly, Audrey Fowler, Ruby McConnell, Glen Pool, Frank C. Allison, Forrest P. McKimming, E. E. McNutt, F. L. Lard, Finis Jordan, Mable Gee, Jack Dunn, Olin E. Hinkle, Helen Turner, W. O. Christian, Misses Myrtle Miller, Mildred Overall, Madeline Tarpley, Wilma Singletary, and Clara Lee Shewmaker.

Understanding Is Stressed in Talk By Borger Rotarian

Declaring that understanding was the final goal of Rotary activity, John Bonner of Borger, in a talk before the Pampa Rotary club today, explained that fellowship and service were direct outcomes of understanding among members.

Fellowship and understanding become the fertile soil from which all the accomplishments of peoples of all nations spring. Mr. Bonner explained that with the spread of the Rotary movement international understanding becomes easier, which in the future may prevent some of the world's greatest calamities.

Rotary is an American institution, expressing the ideals of American business men, but it is of such a nature that it is easily accepted by peoples of all nations.

The program today was arranged by members of the Borger Rotary club in an inter-city meeting. E. E. Schneider was in charge. The program opened with two vocal solos by Fleet McClellan of Borger.

Borger Rotarians attending the meeting today were: Frank Parde, W. H. Davis, J. S. Dugan, W. A. Crissom, E. J. Lewis, Sol Morgentstern, David Reese-Jones, E. E. Schneider, Dr. W. G. Stephens, Fred Wewerka, G. S. Whitley, J. C. Phillips, and T. E. Wilkinson.

Other Rotarians were Gaines Whitest and Art Osgood, Amarillo; C. H. McClellan, Wichita Falls. Other visitors were John Sturgeon, Tom Blair, Borger, and C. B. Akers.

Preacher Kidnaped; Two Men Arrested

SAN AUGUSTINE, Sept. 30. (AP)—Two men were in jail here today under charges of assault and robbery in connection with the kidnaping and robbery of the Rev. Noah Carroll, primitive Baptist minister.

Rev. Carroll told officers he was given a ride in an automobile by four men yesterday as he walked along the San Augustine-Zavalla highway. He said after traveling about a mile he was robbed of a small amount of money and forced to accompany the men into a vacant house at the roadside where threats were made against his life.

Rev. Carroll escaped from the premises as the men were observing an approaching automobile. The two men were apprehended at Zavalla where residents said their confederates boarded a train traveling toward Beaumont.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Ferguson are to leave Monday to make their home in Sayre, Okla. Mr. Ferguson was manager of the Diamond "C" Dry Goods store here, and was chairman of the board of stewards of the Methodist church. J. O. Gillham has been selected to take his place on the board. Mrs. Ferguson, a W. M. S. worker, and Mrs. Frank Elliott recently were given a farewell shower by women of the church.

She Traded Gay Mayfair for This

Miss Madeline Slade, daughter of an English admiral, wouldn't trade this way of life a dozen years ago. But she, Mahatma Gandhi's disciple now, and here she is, busy with her cotton winder, on the deck of a steamer that brought Gandhi to London.

ONCE SHE WAS LONDON SOCIETY LIGHT; NOW GANDHI'S SHADOW

LONDON, Sept. 30. (AP)—Six feet of stalwart womanhood—that is Shrimati Mira Bhen, who shadows Mohandas K. Gandhi, the Mahatma of India's millions.

The "Bhen" suffix to her Hindu name means "sister." It typifies the change in her life since she forsook her name—Madeline Slade—and the gaiety of Mayfair's sophisticated social whirl for the nunlike existence in Gandhi's Ashram, or college, at Ahmedabad.

She had to serve a year's probation before the Mahatma would accept her as a full-fledged member. Now she is a sort of combination nurse, housekeeper and super-secretary to the gomish wisp of a man who is trying to create an independent nation out of the big British dependency.

She's Gandhi's Guardian She prepares his simple diet, washes the few garments that suffice him, takes dictation for documents and letters and accompanies him on his travels through the slums of that London where until half a dozen years ago she went from drawing room to drawing room.

When none of these affairs occupies her, she sits and gazes at Gandhi or curls up at his feet for a nap.

He sometimes has to dismiss her when callers demand his exclusive attention or when his own meditations call for solitude.

She is six feet tall. Freckles bridge her prominent nose. A Hindu shawl shields her head, close cropped in token of her vow of celibacy. White draperies hang to ample feet, shod in broad sandals.

Until her conversion to Gandhism her life was that of any other daughter of a prominent British personage. Her father was the late Admiral Sir John Warren Slade, who, after retiring in 1917, became an official of one of the world's largest oil companies.

Madeline divided her time among London, Paris, and Berne, taking part in the social functions of her set. Then she changed suddenly.

She says that she was converted in Paris overnight, writing the next morning to offer her services to Gandhi. His acceptance on probationary terms began the struggle against objections of her family—but to India she went.

Years of living in a bare room, sleeping on a rough floor, cooking her food and spinning the cloth from which to fashion her clothes fortified her in her new life.

When Gandhi marched to the sea in his civil disobedience campaign, he left the Ashram in her charge. She administered it through an outbreak of smallpox.

Her selection as one of his entourage when the Mahatma's "inner voice" decided him to go to London for the round-table conference followed naturally.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elliott are to leave tomorrow to make their home in Amarillo. Both are members of the First Methodist church, where Mrs. Elliott has been organist ever since the organ was installed.

CAMPAIGN FOR ENLISTMENT IS TO BE STARTED

Baptist workers of the Palo Duro association voted to cooperate with other Texas Baptists in an attempt to enlist all members in the support of local and denominational work when a Palo Duro association conference was held at White Deer yesterday.

There were more than 100 persons present, in addition to the White Deer church members. Pampa, Groom, Goodnight, Claude, Panhandle, Amarillo, Adrian, Borger, and Memphis were represented.

The enlistment campaign, planned at a statewide meeting in Dallas recently, is to raise $6,350,000 from the 506,328 members of the 2,888 Baptist churches during the week of Nov. 29 to Dec. 6.

The first goal of Texas Baptists has been reached. It was a complete district and associational organization to be set up by Sept. 22. It was announced by Secretary J. Howard Williams at the Dallas meeting that all the organizations in the state had been completed.

The goals for the districts and associations have also been adopted. Secretary Williams exclaimed, $75,000,000, the state goal for the cooperative program, was first divided into 17 parts or among the 17 districts, then it was divided into 109 parts or among the 109 associations. The next step will be to set up the organization in each church and to divide the $750,000 for the cooperative program into 2,888 parts or as many parts as there are Baptist churches in Texas.

The churches, associations and districts will make up their local church expense goals immediately. This will amount to more than $5,000,000. It will be used for local church expenses, Christian education, associational missions and benevolence. The combined goal is expected to be subscribed by the time of the annual executive board meeting in Dallas, Dec. 15.

E. T. Miller of Memphis, organizer of district 10, made an inspirational address at the meeting in White Deer. Other messages were brought by J. C. Sisemore of Amarillo, C. E. Lancaster of Pampa, Douglas Carver of White Deer, G. L. Fryer of Amarillo and R. A. Poyser of Vega. A song service was led by U. S. Soff, and special music was furnished by W. L. Day of Amarillo. A. W. M. U. program was given in the afternoon.

Among those attending the gathering from Pampa were the Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Lancaster, Ernest Fletcher, and Mesdames A. C. Shaw, C. F. Bray, W. B. Murphy, E. L. Anderson, W. D. Benton, Clyde H. Garner, F. E. Hoffman, W. R. Bell, T. B. Solomon, L. Scobey, Pearl Erwin, and Mary Binford.

S. G. Surratt will speak on fire prevention. A business session will follow, and plans for a school cafeteria will be discussed.

C. A. Stuckey has returned from Wichita Falls. His daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Stuckey at Wichita Falls, Sept. 23 has been named Janet Irene.

Connip Mack Sits Calmly With Family, Avoiding Talk of Baseball.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
ABOARD SPECIAL TRAIN of the world champion Athletics, bound for St. Louis Sept. 30, (AP) Champions of the baseball universe—and well aware of it—the Philadelphia Athletics rolled westward today seeking something no other club in the history of the game has ever attained—three straight world series conquests.

As calmly as a big university eleven faces the first shivering opponent of a football season, Connie Mack's champions for the past two years eyed toward St. Louis and the first game with the Cardinals, flag-bearers of the National League. If ever a team was confident—insolently so—it is the Athletics.

For instance, there's big Al Simmons, greatest hitter of the day, sitting on top of a pullman seat, his eyes closed, his head thrown back, a raucous voice leading a half dozen of his mates in song. At the other end of the car Lefty Grove, the Lonaconing lancer, strives desperately to fill an inside straight, the big black "seegar" that is his favorite companion, sticking up at an angle that threatens to burn a hole in the brim of his soft hat.

Boley Nurses Leg
There's Jimmy Foxx, the power house that roams around first base, bidding three diamonds, wailing as a fitness goes wrong. Off in a corner Joe Boley, shortest of the world champion machines, ousted now by a youngster, Dibs Williams, silently nurses an injured leg.

Waltie Hoyt, the fashion plate, hurling her world series when the New York Yankees were riding the high waves, tries on all the good looking hats in the trunk, sets into an argument with "Big Jarge" Barnshaw, the right handed ace, and he musses the pitcher's carefully oiled hair.

Sleek, blonde Max Bishop, his shoulder entirely healed, browses through a magazine. Jimmie Dykes and Bing Miller play solitaire and argue. Rube Walberg chuckles over a cross-word puzzle.

Mickey Leads Cheers
Roars of laughter roll up from a group clustered around the club fester, and Mickey Cochrane, perhaps the greatest of modern statesmen, is leading the cheers. "Pogey," Mahaffey, "Rabbit" McNair, Roger Cramer, youngsters and first line substitutes, are in the group. Mule Haas, enviable possessor of the loudest "razzberry" in the American league, makes the most noise.

Off in a compartment with his family, the 62-year-old Connie Mack, heading hopefully toward his eighth world series and the final crown of his baseball life—three straight world champions—avoids all talk of baseball. He will not predict, he will not discuss.

Rochester Faces St. Paul Outfit

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 30. (AP)—St. Paul of the American association and Rochester of the International league were ready today for the opening clash of a series to determine the baseball champion of the minor leagues before appearing in the 62-year-old Connie Mack, heading hopefully toward his eighth world series and the final crown of his baseball life—three straight world champions—avoids all talk of baseball. He will not predict, he will not discuss.

Leonard Is Told To Build Up 'Rep'

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. (AP)—In effect, it seems the New York State Athletic commission has told Benny Leonard, one of the greatest fighters in boxing history, to go out and get himself a reputation. The commission declined to sanction a bout between the retired undefeated lightweight champion and Paulie Walker, hard-hitting young middleweight from Trenton, N. J., and informed Leonard he would have to prove his ability in the smaller fight clubs before appearing again in Madison Square Garden. The Garden had booked the Leonard-Walker battle for Oct. 16 with every indication of a sell-out. The lead in barring Leonard from the Walker bout was taken by 37-year-old William Maldon, former "soldier man" who maintained Leonard's seven-year absence from the ring justified the commission's action.

Not only does Leonard wish to recoup some of the financial losses he suffered in stock market operations but the former lightweight ruler believes he can outsmart and outbox the large majority of present-day fighters, close friends say.

MOVING MUCH GOLD
LE BOURGET, France, Sept. 30. (AP)—Approximately 200,000,000 francs (about $8,000,000) in gold were due today by airplane from Amsterdam for shipment to Paris banks. About $1,920,000 was received in that manner yesterday.

Ensis, Neb., got its name by transposition of the word "alone," which a resident of the community used when asking the treasury department to establish a postoffice there.

When New Queen of Golf Gained Her Crown

Crippled Cards May Use High At Adam's Post

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30. (AP)—Facing the possibility of a crippled lineup, the Cardinals breezed through their final batting and fielding drill today preparatory to opening world series warfare tomorrow against their 1930 conquerors, the champion Athletics.

That was the situation as the Athletics sped westward from Philadelphia to defend their title and Gabby Street, manager of the Cardinals, champions of the National League, was giving consideration to a last minute change in his lineup with a view of replacing Earl "Sparky" Adams at third base. Adams, one of the sparkling cogs of the Cardinal machine, injured his left ankle 10 days ago.

If Adams is unable to start in the opening game tomorrow, Manager Street intends to inject Andy High into the third base position with the batting order remaining the same.

Coming on top of the shoulder injury that threw Jess Haines, one of the Cardinals' pitching aces, out of the series, the injury to Adams was a crushing blow to the hopes of the Cardinals, although High is regarded as a capable substitute.

In addition, the Cardinals suffered a third major casualty in the injury of John "Pepper" Martin, nursing a damaged knee. Martin, however, undoubtedly will get into the game despite his injury, but Manager Street has several other combinations available if Martin is unable for duty in center field.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30. (AP)—The probable pitchers for the opening game of the world series tomorrow—Robert Moses Grove, ace of the Athletics staff, 31 years old, 6 feet 2 1/2 inches tall, weight 175 pounds, born in Lonaconing, Md. Grove participated in 41 games of the season, pitched 210 1/3 innings, with a record of 17-10. He possesses blinding speed, with a sharp breaking curve, plus seven years of experience with the Athletics, including two world series.
Paul Derringer, playing his first year with the Cardinals, 25 years old, born in Springfield, Ky. Derringer is a right hander, with a long sweeping delivery, good change of pace, with an excellent curve and the good speed. He is a ringer younger, 6 feet 3 1/2 inches tall and weighing 215 pounds.

Des Moines Wins Western Title by Defeating Wichita
DES MOINES, Sept. 30. (AP)—Des Moines today held the Western league baseball championship for 1931, having defeated the Wichita Aviators in four of six games in the playoff series here.

The Demons clinched the title with a 6 to 4 victory over the Aviators last night. Bill Terry, Aviator hurler, allowed five runs in the opening three innings before yielding the mound to Clay Mahaffey, who held the Des Moines club to one run for the rest of the game.

James A. Hungeate of Spokane, Wash. member of Washington's original constitutional convention, signed the original state's constitution 42 years after its adoption.

Cardinals Realize Only Hope Is to Whip A's From Start

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30. (AP)—It is an old baseball axiom that no strategy is quite so effective as a wallop out of the park.

The theory and practice of the home run is still good strategy. It is relied upon by the world champion Athletics just as much as they depend upon the sagacity of their 62-year-old pilot, Connie Mack, and his able lieutenants, Eddie Collins and William (Kid) Gleason, in the struggle that starts tomorrow with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"The best strategy we can employ," Gabby Street says, "is to go out there and fight the A's off their feet from the drop of the hat. I don't know whether we can out-smart 'em but I feel confident we can outplay 'em this time."

The spirit of the National league champions is one of their strong points, in Street's opinion, but he knows this will not suffice without the proper strategy in handling his pitchers, or without reverberations from the big bats of Jim Bottomley and Chick Hafey.

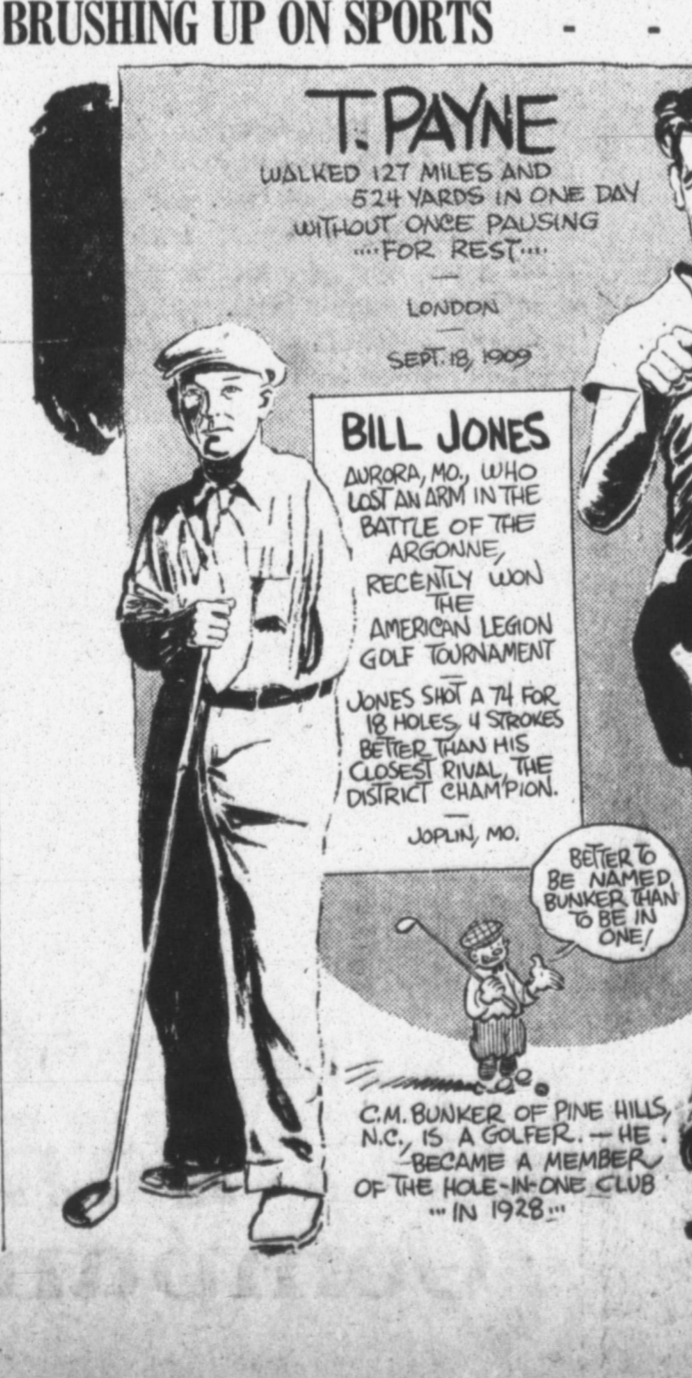

In the 1930 battle of wits and baseballs, the Athletics had much the better of it. They upset the Cards and Burleigh Grimes in the very first game when Joe Boley pulled the "squeeze play" with the speedy Haas on third base. They accomplished Burleigh's second downfall with a potent wallop from Jimmy Foxx's bat into the bleachers.

Pitching strategy was at least 60 per cent of the 1930 battle. Here, too, the A's have an advantage with Grove and Earnshaw apparently in the best of health, whereas Jesse Haines, veteran Cardinal mainstay, is out of the picture with a lame shoulder.

If the Cardinals should gamble with their powerful youngster, Paul Derringer, and whip Lefty Grove in the opening game, the rebound to their spirits might prove decisive.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Organ have received a cable announcing the arrival Saturday of a little grand daughter, Barbara Joan Organ, in Shillong, India. The baby's father, Ben Organ, is a driller for the Assam Oil company. He and Mrs. Organ visited his parents here last year.

MINNESOTA IS NOT SURE OF GRID SUCCESS

Gophers Sadly in Need of Good Ends, Tackles, and Clever Backs.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 30. (AP)—Minnesota may have a "pretty fair club" this year, in the opinion of Fritz Crisler, head football coach and athletic director, and then again, it may not.

"If we get 100 per cent from the men we'll have a pretty fair club. If that I don't mean we'll win every game," he said, "but we'll look good. On the other hand, if we don't get 100 per cent, we may look poor."

The Gophers' greatest need is good ends and tackles and so far, few have stood out from the best. Crisler too, is having trouble in making a good backfield combination strong in every respect.

Crisler is schooling his charges for the Stanford game at Palo Alto, Calif., Oct. 10 and in preparation for that tilt he had his offensive organized last spring. He is in a better condition now than he was last year, his first at Minnesota, for he knows the men and their possibilities better.

Jack Manders, big fullback, and Quentin Brudick, a half, will supply the power in the backfield. With Brad Robinson developing into an aerial attack.

The schedule:
Oct. 3—Aklahoma A. and M. at Minneapolis.
Oct. 10—Stanford at Palo Alto, Calif.
Oct. 17—Open.
Oct. 24—Iowa at Minneapolis.
Oct. 31—Wisconsin at Minneapolis.

Nov. 7—Northwestern at Evanston.
Nov. 14—Cornell (Iowa) at Minneapolis.
Nov. 21—Michigan at Ann Arbor.

American Women Dominate Tournery
TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 30. (AP)—There still was a distinct United States flavor about the Canadian Women's golf championship today.

Of the 16 players still in the running, nine were from below the border, five from Canada, and two from Great Britain. All the outstanding favorites survived the first round, including the defending champion, Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., Martin Hollins of Santa Cruz, Calif., former American champion; Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, Virginia Van Wye of Chicago, Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, Mrs. Alex Stirling Fraser of Ottawa, Enid Wilson, British champion, and Marjorie Kerr, another English woman.

Two all-American struggles in the second round pitted Miss Orcutt against Mrs. Harvey Higbie of Detroit, and Mrs. Hill against Mrs. John Arends of Detroit.

CUBS STILL FAVORITES
CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Chicago's annual "baseball war" between the Northern Cubs and the Southern White Sox was on today with the Cubs again the heavy favorite. Manager Rogers Hornsby planned to send Charlie Root to the mound while the cellar occupants of the American league relied on the curves and experience of the veteran "Red" Faber.

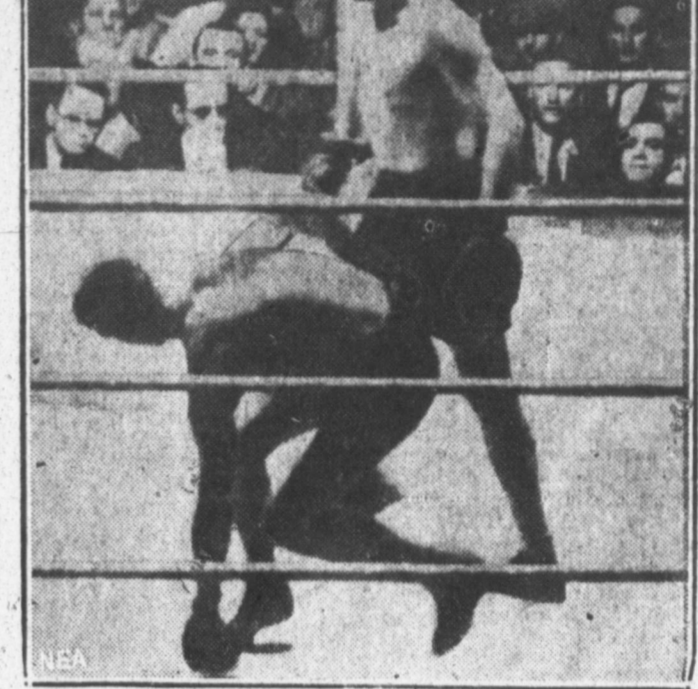

George Lott Is Favored in West
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30. (AP)—In defense of the Pacific coast tennis singles crown he won a few years ago at Berkeley, George Lott of Philadelphia entered the third round here today matched against George Levy of San Francisco.

The Philadelphian, favored by many to retain his singles honors, completed his second round engagement yesterday after being forced to three sets by Lloyd Budge, Taft, Calif., 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Other featured matches in men's singles today were those between Lester Stoenen, Los Angeles, who eliminated Everett Martes, San Francisco, 6-1, 8-6, and Sidney B. Wood Jr., New York, George Mangin, Newark, N. J., and Gordon Jason, and Fred Perry, British Davis cup star, and Lauriston Driscoll.

I. Baum, Grover Fryer, P. C. Faust, and Jesse Mayes motored to St. Louis to see the world series baseball games.

Missed-by a Mile!

It was a mighty swing, but Joe Sekyra missed this shot at Tommy Loughran's whiskers so emphatically that he almost fell to the floor himself. Which was a lucky break for Loughran, as Joe had him going just before this picture was made in the sixth round. Loughran got the decision, more on personality than on punches, most of the boxing writers agreed.

GUILTY LIPS

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Pretty Norma Kent, 20-year-old secretary, marries Mark Travers, son of F. M. Travers, millionaire real estate dealer, in spite of the father's opposition and threats to disinherit Mark.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle western metropolis. Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon, and he and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs. There Norma meets Hol's Stone, and it is evident from the girl's manner that she has known Stone before.

Their money is soon gone, partly due to Mark's gambling. With $500 borrowed from Stone the couple return to Marlboro. Mark sets out on a round of pleasure instead of hunting a job. Their funds dwindle again, Mark and Norma move to a cheap apartment. Mark gets one job and loses it. Then he becomes a floorwalker in Blossomdale's department store. Norma practices rigid economies at home and in spite of poverty the young couple are happy. Then Mark's father sends for him, offers to take him back into his own company if Mark will prove he can make good.

His first task involves a business trip to France. Norma is to remain at home. Mark, with no suspicion of trickery, is eager to go.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX
Norma gave a sharp tug at her slipper heel, then stood up. She looked across the room. "I'm frightened, Mark," she said. "I wish I didn't feel this way but I can't help it."

"But honey, you know that's foolish. There's not a reason in the world for you to be afraid—"

"I know! Maybe that's why I'm so worried. Everything looks all right. It sounds all right when you tell me about it. But five whole weeks—how do you know?—it might be six. Anything can happen in six weeks, Mark! Oh—I don't want you to go!"

She was wearing the peach-colored frock that had come from Fanny's. The slippers, also peach-colored, had frivolous heels of gold. Norma's hair had been brushed to a metallic luster. Her arms and shoulders were like warm ivory. Every detail of her appearance was meticulously correct, but instead of the charming picture she should have presented the girl's face was pale and her eyes were uneasy. She crossed the room to where Mark stood before the mirror, engaged with his tie. Norma put a hand on each of his arms.

"I don't want you to go!" she repeated feverishly.

"Now, see here, Norma, we've been over all this before! I've told you what it means to me. The chance—the one chance I've been waiting for! We can't throw Dad down when he's been so decent about everything. Besides, there's no time to argue. If we're going to be there by 7:30 we've got to hurry!"

"I'll do it for you," Norma offered, raising her hands to assist with the bow knot, but Mark shrugged her aside. He tossed away the tie and foraged in a drawer for another. His coat, freshly pressed, hung on the back of a chair. Mark had not worn dinner clothes for more than a month.

"I've told you everything's going to be all right!" he insisted, attacking the second tie and making a better job of it. "You're just looking on the black side of things. Instead of five weeks it may be four."

Norma leaned against the arm of theavenport, watching him. Her brightly reddened lips quivered slightly. "I wouldn't mind," she said slowly, "if I were going with you. I wouldn't be afraid then."

"But you know it's against company rules. And Dad isn't willing to make the slightest exception for me. That's all right, I don't want him to. I'm going into this thing, Norma, to show him I'm not the dud he thought I was. I tell you it's a great chance! Why, look, he's going to begin paying me $75 a week right away! Where could I ever hope to get at the kind of thing I've been doing? Blossomdale's! Why, you'd be living in a dump like this the rest of your life!"

His sweeping gesture expressed disgust at everything about them. The apartment was in a rather miserable state. The living room, suddenly transformed into dressing quarters, was littered with Mark's discarded clothing, stray towels and toilet articles. Drawers of the commode, that during daytime hours was masked by a dignified covering, were pulled out and garments overflowed from one of them. Norma's little black mules occupied the center of a chair. A closet door had been left open, revealing clothing over hangers and the bathroom, also visible, was in disorder. This was what always happened when Mark dressed for a state occasion. The limited space in the apartment made it worse.

"I don't want anything but to be sure you'll come back to me, Mark! We've been—happy here!"
Suddenly the young man caught her up beside him. "Of course I'll come back, darling! Nothing in the world could keep me away from you. Of course I'll come back!"
"Oh, if I could only be sure—"

"But I will! As if anything could keep me away! Why, Norma, there's a tear—we can't have anything like that. We—good Lord, who's that?"
The bell from the entrance of the building rang a second time, louder than the first.
"I'll see," Norma said quickly and went to answer. A moment later she returned. "It's your father's chauffeur," she said. "He's downstairs waiting for us."
"Oh—Harvey. Might have known Mother'd send him. Well, that's 10 minutes saved. Harvey'll get us there quicker than any taxi."
Neither spoke for the next few moments. Norma helped Mark locate his hat and gloves, transfer his keys to the right pocket and at the last minute grab a handkerchief. She slipped the short velvet wrap about her shoulders.
"Ready?" she asked.
"Yes, I'm ready. Come on—let's go!"
When they were settled in the luxurious motor car Norma found Mark's hand. "I'll feel better about things," she whispered, "after tonight."
"You mean—talking it over with Mother and Dad?"
The girl nodded.
"Sure you will!" Mark agreed. "You're going to like them, Norma. They're—well, Dad's a lot different than you think he is. And you know Mother likes you."
"I hope so!"
"Of course she does! And so will Dad. Now just get it into your head that everything's going to be all right. Tonight's a celebration! Frugal son, faded suit, all that! You've got to be happy about this, Mrs. Travers."
Mark was elated, in his gayest and most winning mood. The girl smiled.
"I'll try, Mr. Travers."
"Idiot!" The word was an endearment. Mark's arm, which was about her, tightened.

The camouflage of false gaiety hood Norma in good stead when three-quarters of an hour later she looked across the heavy lace, the crystal goblets and candlelight of the Travers' dining table. The room was very large, with dark wood-paneled walls. Broadened curtains of rich colors hung almost from the high ceiling to the floor. There was spaciousness and dignity about the Travers home unlike anything Norma had ever seen. An expert and highly-paid decorator had collected the authentic Jacobean furnishings.
Mrs. Travers, in stately black, at the head of the table, seemed an en-

MUSTANGS IN LOSS TO "B" GRID OUTFIT

By the Associated Press
Showing marked improvement in blocking but still unable to reveal a strong running and plunging attack, the Southern Methodist regulars were handed a 14 to 7 beating yesterday by the B team.

It was the hardest scrimmage of the year for Southern Methodist. The B team, with Travis, Oliver, Sprague, and Bass in the backfield out-played the regulars with Walwer, Gilbert, Mason, and Jourdan in the backfield.

Due to play their first game of the season Saturday at Tulsa, Edward's, the Baylor Bears whipped through a stiff scrimmage yesterday. With Pat Parker, counted as a regular backfield ace, ineligible, the Bears are bearing down harder than ever to make up for the loss. Coach Jennings is uncertain about his starting lineup against St. Edwards.

Facing their second consecutive inter-sectional game, Texas Christian Progs spent yesterday building an offense to use against Tulsa university Saturday. The Progs' offense was not impressive last week, barely netting them a 3 to 0 victory over Louisiana State.

Realizing they will be out-weighted, Texas A. and M. Aggies hope to balance the books against Tulane at New Orleans with drive and fight. All Aggie regulars are expected to start against Tulane.

Learning new formations to use against Hendrix college featured the University of Arkansas workout yesterday. Coach Thomsen gave his regulars new plays. Nations and Johnson, winners, saw a lot of passing catching action, indicating that Arkansas will go through the air in an effort to beat Hendrix.

Preparing for their invasion of Norman Saturday where they will battle the University of Oklahoma, Rice swept through a lively scrimmage yesterday. Rice's running attack, reputed to be one of the most powerful in the conference, was working to perfection yesterday.

At Austin, the University of Texas team drilled on signals and running plays for the game Saturday against Marquette. This was the first of nine consecutive major games for Texas.

Boy Ball Player Ready to Rush to Aid of Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30. (AP)—For the next five and a half days George Calhoun will be about the earliest fellow in Philadelphia to find.

After seeing the Athletics' special off for St. Louis last night, Calhoun, a 20-year-old baseball player, hurried to Shibe park where he has taken up "Al" position in the bleacher line.

Calhoun said he is determined to be the first $1 customer to get into the park when the gates open Monday for the third game of the world series. He is dressed for the occasion too, for, under an overcoat, he is wearing his baseball uniform.

COTTON IS QUIET
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30. (AP)—Cotton had a quiet but steady opening today with Liverpool cables a shade better than due. First trades showed no change to one point decline. Prices eased off slightly right after the start, December dropping to 6.93 and November to 6.45, or 2 1/2 points below yesterday's close although there was fair trade buying on the scale down.

Later in the first hour the market rallied and became somewhat more active owing to a sharp advance in stocks at the opening. Considerable buying developed due to shorts covering. December advanced to 6.11 and January to 6.20, up 7 to 8 points from the early lows and 4 to 6 points above yesterday's close.

Near the end of the first hour, the market was steady, at the highs, and showed more activity.

NEGRO IS SAFEGUARDED
SAN BENITO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Harold Whitaker, alias Jimmie Miller, Oklahoma City negro, held in connection with the slaying of Jesse D. Thompson, San Benito dairyman, was removed from the Brownsville jail and taken to Corpus Christi yesterday for safe keeping.

Whittaker admitted yesterday his age was 17 years instead of 15, making him eligible for trial as an adult.

Thompson was shot to death as he milked a cow.

A shipment of 4,370 tons of sunflower seed oil from Odessa, Ukraine, has been received at New Orleans. It will be used in making food products and soap.

Allowable for Crane and Upton Is Recommended

AUSTIN, Sept. 30. (P)—Recommendation that oil production in the Crane and Upton field be restricted to 18,000 barrels daily was made to the Texas railroad commission today at its hearing on all fields with the exception of the Panhandle and East Texas.

The recommendation was signed by 89 per cent of the operators in the field.

The commission postponed its hearing on the Van field until Oct. 13 and set Oct. 8 as the date for further hearing on the recommendations for placing the common purchaser law into effect as it affected natural gas.

Proposed that the commission set an allowable of 76,000 barrels daily for the Yates pool in West Texas was made by John R. Suman of the Humble Oil and Refining Company.

Commissioner Pat M. Neff questioned Suman closely as to the items considered in recommending this allowable, asking if it was not set at 76,000 barrels because a market was available for this amount and that had a market existed for more than this figure the recommendations would have been higher.

Suman said the figure was partially based on the market but also on conservation of the oil and gas.

The present allowable of the field is 70,000 barrels daily.

Suman also was questioned at length by Neff concerning the wastage of gas in the Yates pool. Suman stated approximately 25,000,000 cubic feet daily was being produced and that none of this was being utilized for industrial or domestic purposes. The casing head gasoline plant, that extracted gasoline from 20,000,000 cubic feet, was closed down last month because of the low price of casing head gasoline and the expensive process used to extract the gasoline from the gas, Suman said.

New Brown Race Found in America

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP)—Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, says in a book, just published, that a new race of brown skinned people has been found in the United States.

The group, of whom there are 12,000,000 members was formed of the fusion of blacks, whites, and yellow-browns, and is new in biological makeup, the writer says in his "Brown American, the Story of a New Race." The family tree of the new race, he writes, has deeper roots than that of the Mayflower descendants, and has evolved in a century, as with the Aztecs required to develop the Egyptians, Greeks, Jews, or Chinese.

DEMOCRATS—

Fayette. Democratic leaders of the state and nation today hailed Johnson's decisive victory as an indication of the trend of six other special elections to fill house vacancies, all of which will have been held by the night of Nov. 3, and in the general elections in 1932.

Missouri democratic leaders said they regarded the decisiveness of Palmer's victory as partly due to Palmer's defeat as partly due to administration, the Federal Farm Board, and the tariff. With present economic conditions also playing a major part. Throughout the campaign, Johnson assailed the farm board and the tariff.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (AP)—Six special elections in five states held the key to control of the next house, although death again may intervene.

Each Has 214 Members. Selection of Robert Johnson, democrat, by voters of the seventh Missouri district, again threw the house membership into a deadlock, barely 60 days before congress convenes.

Each party now has 214 members as compared with 218 republicans and 216 democrats after the November elections last year.

Seats at stake in the special elections, all of which will have been held by the night of Nov. 3, are: Republican Succeeding District lrely different person than when Norma had seen her before, weeping in her son's arms. Her husband's manner was formal. Only Mark, directly opposite from Norma, appeared to be natural. Mark times he tried rather unsuccessfully to draw Norma into the conversation. There was about the dinner an air of persistent frigidity.

It was a relief when they arose to have coffee in the living room. A fire burned in the grate here. That at least suggested warmth. Norma settled in a deep chair gazing at the flames.

Mrs. Travers, beside her, said, "We're going to be so happy to have you here, my dear!"

Norma roused herself. "I'm sorry, I'm afraid I wasn't listening!"

"I said we're going to be so glad to have you with us while Mark's away. It's going to be a splendid thing for him, you know. I can tell you now what a terrible thing this — er, misunderstanding has been. No one but a mother could realize what I've been through! But it's to be all right now. It's wonderful to have Mark getting into the business seriously. Mr. Travers needs him. There's no limit to what he won't do for him if this works out well."

The girl felt her head swimming. They were all rushing ahead. Planning Mark's future. Talking about "great opportunities," about "big things," about money and business success as though they were the only things in life. What about Norma? She felt she was being lost in the swift tide.

"I'm glad," Norma said slowly, "for Mark's sake. I hope it all comes out as you say."

"Oh, it will! When Mr. Travers makes up his mind on a matter there's never the slightest doubt."

Mark, a little distance away, was lighting a cigarette.

"That's right, Mother," he said. "Tell Norma I'm not going to fall into the ocean or be eaten up by the Atlantic is about like flying to the moon."

"Mark will be all right," the elder Travers put in. "He's a good sailor."

"Yes, of course!" Mrs. Travers was speaking to Norma again. "And while he's gone you'll be busy, you know. I'm sure you'll want to find a little place to live—in this part of the city, I mean. Of course the rooms you have are nice but it would be so much more convenient if you and Mark could be near—"

Planning, planning! The rest of the evening was devoted to it. Everyone was planning for future except Norma. Everyone had a great deal to say but somehow the girl's own wishes were ignored. She was to do this, she was to do that—but no one consulted her. It was all to be very wonderful though in exactly what way no one explained.

There was talk of men and women of whom Norma had never heard. Travers, his wife and son chattered easily. They seemed to forget the girl's presence.

She sat back very still and white, listening to the others. "They hate me," Norma told herself. "No matter what they say or how much they smile I know they hate me! They don't want me here!"

"They" referred to Mark's parents. There was nothing tangible to which she could trace this presentiment. There were no slights to his wife evident to Mark.

Yet when the two were in their own apartment later that night Norma dropped her wrap. "Mark!" she begged, clinging to his shoulders, "don't go away! Please don't!"

State Hospital Inmates Claimed to Have Bad Care

DALLAS, Sept. 30. (P)—Dr. H. E. Mills of Dallas told The TIMES HERALD today he would seek a governmental investigation of treatment of inmates of the state hospital for feeble minded at Terrell. After investigating conditions at the hospital during the past year, Dr. Mills made a resume of his findings to Gov. Ross S. Sterling Sept. 17.

TERRELL, Sept. 30. (P)—When told of a report sent Gov. Ross S. Sterling regarding treatment of inmates of the state hospital here, Dr. George F. Powell, for 20 years superintendent of the institution, said "it was news to him." He said he had no knowledge of any abuse of patients in his charge and had received no complaint from Austin or elsewhere.

Redistributing Is Pending Subject

AUSTIN, Sept. 30. (P)—Reports that Gov. Ross S. Sterling would submit congressional redistricting to the legislature persisted today as the second called session worked toward conclusion of its program.

Sen. W. R. Poage of Waco, who has a redistricting bill, said he expected the governor to open the subject and Representative Penrose of San Angelo, who also has a bill, said he hoped the report was untrue. Anticipating submission, Senator Poage introduced his bill this morning.

"I feel it would be a mistake to submit a controversial subject like that late in the session," Metcalfe said.

COTTON BILL INTRODUCED
JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 30. (AP)—A bill to prohibit planting of cotton in Mississippi in 1932, similar to the law recently enacted by Louisiana, was introduced into the lower house of the assembly this afternoon by Representative L. T. Kennedy, who indicated he would seek immediate consideration.

"Something will happen!" she repeated a dozen times. "Something that will be terrible!" It all resulted in a strained, miserable state of affairs, lasting until 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Mark's train was to leave at 4:10. They were gathered in a little group in the station waiting room—his father, mother, and Norma.

Mark, brisk, smiling a little nervously, put his arms around the girl. "You're going to write often, dear? You're going to try to be happy?"

"I'll try, Mark!" A red cap appeared to take the bags. They went to the car with him. There were kisses, farewell messages. Noise and confusion. A quick, tremulous embrace between Mark and Norma.

Suddenly all the girl knew was that the train was pulling away from them. She cried out. Tears filled her eyes.

On the rear of the last platform she could still see Mark, waving. (To Be Continued)

Part of Truck Bill Is Voided

HOUSTON, Sept. 30. (P)—A three judge federal court here today held constitutional, except one section, House bill number 336 which was calculated to regulate trucks on the highways.

The interlocutory injunction, sought by Ed Sproules of Fort Worth in one suit, and J. H. McLeish and company, in another, to enjoin officials of the state from enforcing the law, was denied, except in regard to the section of the bill held discriminatory and unconstitutional.

The injunction relative to that section is effective only to Jan. 1, when the section of the bill, restricting all loads on trucks to 7,000 pounds, becomes law. The bill, pertaining to all other sections was effective Aug. 22.

The section held discriminatory was section 3 (F) which limited the size of boxes, bundles, containers, etc., to 30 cubic feet and weighing not more than 500-pounds and also limiting the wheel load to not more than 14 such containers or bundles or to a total weight of the load to 7,000 pounds.

Embargo Fight Is To Be Continued
TULSA, Okla., Sept. 30. (P)—Two moves centering here were the subject of oil men today as the tension over laggard price increases for crude remained.

Possibility of the reopening within a few days of the Oklahoma areas now shut in under martial law came as four prominent Tulsans announced they planned a return visit to Gov. W. H. Murray for completion of his Iowa speaking tour.

Last night about 350 oil men, mostly independents, heard Wirt Franklin appeal for a continued fight for an embargo on oil imports as a means of bettering the domestic condition.

Resolutions passed advocated a world wide proration program paralleling the plan in effect in the United States.

Whether it is light, heat, power or COLD, electricity will furnish any....or all. One is as convenient....as clean.... as the other. And the cost of electricity is so reasonable that you may enjoy all of its many services economically. So cheap is electricity that nearly any service it performs costs but a penny or two....many cost less. In fact, if you paid for electricity as you use it, pennies would pay your electric bill. And no service brings more comfort and convenience.
