I SAW

Pat Flanagan, high school basketball star, being added to the Dogcatchers as Lil' Abner. The Dogcatchers who made such a hit in the McLean parade will go to the Canadian Saturday, their number increased by several prominent citizens of Dogpatch. Clad in a straw hat, one-gallows overalls and a tattered shirt, Pat, who is six feet and four inches tall, looks more like Lil' Abner than anyone we've seen today.

Miss Mingham And John McParland Wed This Morning

Miss Phyllis Jean Mingham of Berkeley, California, became the bride of John McParland in an impressive ceremony solemnized in the sanctuary of Holy Souls Catholic church this morning at 7 o'clock with the Rev. William Stack officiating.

Decorating the altar were arrangements of daisies and lighted tapers in tall candelabra.

Nuptial music was played by William Haley at the organ.

Attending the couple were Miss Louisa Willis and Herbert Vaeth. Altar boys were Thomas Chisholm and Dan Roche.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served in the rectory.

Mr. McParland, star pitcher for the Pampa Oilers baseball team in the West Texas-New Mexico league, has a record of 10 wins and four losses this year. He came to the team last year.

Among the guests at the wedding were members of the Oiler baseball team.

'Oh, Don't Be A Jerk,' Said Demure Little Girl Who Is Stage Youngster

It's vacation time for kids the country over. But not on Broadway, where "the show must go on." Outstanding among the young actors and actresses who will continue to work on Broadway while ordinary youngsters roam and play on vacation are the three children in the Broadway hit play, "Watch on the Rhine." That they don't differ much in other respects from ordinary kids is demonstrated in the report of an "eavesdropper," below.

By TOM WOLF

NEW YORK—The three children sat in a prim row on a hard, horsehair sofa in the Victorian living room. The boys seemed models of the well-behaved young gentleman, immaculate in blue serge shorts and knickers. The girl, whose long, dark curls fell sweetly over her trimly white frock, sat demurely a little distance from the boys.

"Oh, don't be a jerk," she snapped, edging even further away as the younger boy yanked at a handful of curls.

It was a free-for-all from there on as Anne, Blyth (Babbette), Eric Roberts (Bodo), and Peter Fernandez (Joshua), the roundly-applauded children in Lillian Hellman's hit play, "Watch on the Rhine," talked—on stage and in costume—of themselves and each other.

THEIR 'CAREERS' AND HOBBIES

Fourteen-year-old Peter, the eldest, reported that his ambition was to act, write, direct, and produce plays—something in the manner of Orson Welles.

"Oh, that's good," cut in Anne.

"Peter has braces," announced Anne slyly.

"Show off your braces, Peter," taunted Eric.

This bit of byplay was interrupted as Anne greeted a property man who crossed the stage: "Hello, Joe."

"Hello, Joe," chimed in Eric. "What do you know. Did you just get back from a vaudeville show?"

Anne temporarily silenced Eric by launching forth on a discussion of her past. (Anne is 12.) "I started my acting career on the radio when I was three." There were two loud guffaws from her left—which she politely silenced with "Why don't you shut up?" She continued, unprovoked: "I was with the San Carlos Opera company in 'La Boheme,' 'Carmen,' and 'Pagliacci,' but this is my first play on Broadway. I love it. It's better than radio theater. I hope I can stay in the theater."

"Outside of that, I like swimming. But I don't like," she leered to her left, "collecting fish—like some people I know."

Eric erupted to announce that "there's something fishy in Denmark."

Anne's jibe was aimed at Peter, who's something of a fisherman. Fishing has been his hobby for a long time, and even his two years in "Whitecoats" and a part in "Love's Old Sweet Song" couldn't keep him from fishing. He now owns his own rowboat and outboard motor to further his hobby. "But now," he added, "I'm saving my allowances for a movie camera. Talking movies is going to be my hobby. And I also like to write."

"Me," said Eric, his turn at last arrived, "I like to swim and to make airplanes. I've never been up in a real plane, but I wanted to be a pilot for a long time. But I love my work on the stage." This, during his 11 years to date, has included such plays as "The American

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it customary to serve cream when coffee is served in demitasse cups?
  2. If a hostess serves coffee in the living room, should she ask each guest how many lumps of sugar he takes in his coffee?
  3. Should a girl who is engaged to a young man call him "dearest" and "darling" in front of other people?
  4. Should you refer to your employer as either "the boss" or by some more disrespectful nickname?
  5. If a person living in another city does a favor for you, should you write him a note of thanks immediately?
- What would you do if—
- (a)—Write her as good a recommendation as you can in all honesty?
  - (b)—Feel that since you are discharging her, she has no right to expect a recommendation?

Answers

1. No.
  2. Yes, unless she remembers.
  3. No.
  4. No. As long as you work for him, be respectful even when out of his hearing.
  5. Yes. The longer you put it off the less it will mean to the one receiving it.
- Best "What Would You Do?" solution: (a).
- Way. "Love's Old Sweet Song," "My Sister Elleen," and others.
- "First I wanted to be a pilot," he continued, "but then I decided to stick to my career."
- "Oh, that changes every day," announced Peter.
- "I play football, baseball, and basketball," continued the roly-poly young Eric, oblivious to the interruption.
- THEY GO TO SAME SCHOOL, BUT—
- Eric was asked whether he thought he had been type-cast in the role of the incorrigible young Malaprop in "Watch on the Rhine." Before he could say: "Oh, no," Peter leaped in with: "Well, when he plays the part he isn't acting."
- To avoid mayhem on the spot, the subject of conversation was swung quickly to Anne with a question as to whether Peter ever took her dancing.
- Eric answered for her: "Me and Anne do the conga."
- "Peter? I don't care to dance."
- Anne: "Oh, you wouldn't, you mollycoddle!"
- Eric: "Yes, you Molly Pitcher!"
- It all ended as suddenly as it had started, with the question: "Do you all go to school together?"
- With one voice the three chorused: "We all go to the same school, but not together, thank heavens!"

No Time to Change

Modern war has two distinct phases. One is military. The other is economic. And the deciding weapon in either will be the belligerent powers' natural resources. It takes coal to keep the factory furnaces glowing. It takes oil to provide motive power for planes and armored equipment and fighting ships. It takes metal of all kinds in an incredible quantity to build the weapons and the machines which produce the weapons. It takes abundant electric power to keep industries producing on a wartime basis.

The United States is singularly blessed by nature with the principal natural resources—metals, petroleum, coal, water power. Second, and equally important, under the private enterprise system we have developed these natural resources to an extent unrivaled anywhere else on earth. The American tradition of private initiative has borne magnificent fruits for all the people. And it is this tradition which will be maintained if this country is to achieve its full strength both as an arsenal of democracy, and as a free nation where every man may succeed and prosper and serve to the very limit of his abilities, ambitions and energies.

There are those who would now use "national defense" as an excuse to have the government develop our natural resources—who would, in a word, socialize them. We have examples to indicate what would follow if that happened. Russia is rich in natural resources. Yet the Russian standard of living, after more than 20 years of socialism, remains at rock-bottom, and Russian production is notoriously low, wasteful and inefficient. Is this the kind of political philosophy the American people wish to follow?

The industries which turn our natural resources to productive use will cooperate to the limit with government now and in the future. They will show the world that a free America, working under a free enterprise system, is stronger than dictatorship, and that free men will out-produce slaves. This is no time to change a system which has met and conquered every menace of the past, and which today is gathering all of its vast resources to meet the menace of the present.

Behind The News

The Pampa News Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON, June 30—Every professional writer in congress could very well take a lesson in economy and how to find out what's wrong with the country and the defense effort from Congressman Albert J. Engel of Muskogee, Mich., the one-man gang who has done more to expose waste and extravagance in the army's camp construction program than all the high-priced, formal and somewhat futile investigating committees put together.

This Engle is quite a character. He looks about as much like a statesman as Fiorella H. La Guardia. He is short and he runs to the roly poly. His thick, gray hair stands straight on end as though it were drawn up by static electricity.

His eyes snap and he talks through his teeth, punctuating sentences with a clipped expletive: "See! I was a captain in the war, myself. See! I was 23 months in France and Germany and I know what the army is up against when they've got to get things done in a hurry. But this thing didn't look right and I wanted to get out and find out what was wrong myself. See! Without anybody knowing what I was doing. See!"

Engel has already given six reports to the house on what he found wrong at eight eastern army camps.

A TALE OF TERMITES Exposure of the muck site below lake level at Camp Blanding, Fla.; the expensive termite proofing at Indianola Gap, Pa., where there hadn't been a termite since the coal age; the extravagant planning at Fort Meade, Md., where the best land was not used, to save a golf course; and the woeful waste of all cost-plus-fee contracts. Those are just a few of his charges.

It's the way Engel gets his figures that makes the most interesting part of his story. He is, to begin with, a member of the War department sub-committee of the house committee on appropriations. When he found out last January that the army had underestimated the costs of its first $466,000,000 camp construction program by 338,000,000, he decided to find out what was wrong. He made two trips, one south, one north.

On the northern trip, he left Washington at 3 a. m. Driving over key roads he reached Waterbury, N. Y., at 1 a. m. He was up at 6:30 and drove out to Camp Pine. He drove around all morning, "counting knot-holes" in the green lumber, taking pictures, talking to watchmen and carpenters, seeing what was wrong. NO PUBLICITY, PLEASE

At 10:30 he went to the camp commander's headquarters, identified himself, and asked for three things: first, call the camp public relations officer and tell him that Congressman Engel wasn't there. Second, call the construction quartermaster and arrange for a conference with the contractor and the engineer. Third, send him a bottle of milk and two sandwiches at noon.

For four or five hours he poured over construction records, estimates and costs. He went into the problems of land acquisition, who picked the site and why. Materials, why the cost of lumber had gone up $5 a thousand feet. Equipment, how much the contractors had charged each other for truck and bulldozer hire. Labor, why the general contractor had sublet parts of the job so as to charge in as costs the overtime above the prevailing wage rate set by the government. Utilities, why it cost $3 a foot to string wires.

Engel was driven around the camp, and the difficulties of its construction were explained. Then he drove on to the next camp, so as to be there in time to go in with the workmen next morning. He slept in tourist homes to avoid hotels where a congressman's name might be noted by local newspapers. He spent his evenings in pool rooms where the camp workmen gossiped about what was wrong. At Fort Bragg, N. C., he sat up most of one night to watch a check on equipment.

Common Ground

This column contains, there can be no satisfactory progress until we possess the shares of each man by the common parlance of the God-fearing equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

EFFECTS OF GERMAN-RUSSIAN WAR

Everyone is speculating as to the effects of the German-Russian war. Those people who have been advocating our participating in the war now find themselves in the embarrassing position of whether or not they want to be an ally of Russia. It seems rather strange to be attempting to establish the four freedoms throughout the world and be on the same side as the nation that has done as much as any nation in all the world to destroy the four freedoms.

About the only thing that the new developments make clear is the trouble American people will lead themselves into by entering foreign wars. In short, it seems more absurd now than ever to be bleeding the resources of America to help preserve communism.

And so long as England has some of the $7,000,000,000 we have appropriated, they will keep on letting us supply them with this wealth and not even consider any peace settlement, no matter how rational it may be.

Of course, we all know that countries like Germany and Russia will pay no attention to their agreements. They have no principles and the result is always one conflict after another.

It is just more and more evidence of the need of the American people concentrating on their own problems rather than attempting to solve the problems of these double-crossers.

The only excuse there is for the politicians entering the war is to divert attention from the sad plight our politicians have led us into in this country. Foreign wars detract attention from the absurdities and the suffering and misery and poverty we are facing in this country. It is the only alibi the administration can have for its mistakes and for acting for more and more power. It is a subtle method of colorforming people into a totalitarian state in this country.

ROOSEVELT'S LACK OF CONFIDENCE

Everyone who knows anything about the progress of our preparedness knows that it is not progressing as rapidly as it should. One of the primary reasons is that Roosevelt will not delegate authority to anyone.

Of course, the reason Roosevelt will not delegate authority to anyone is that he does not know from day to day, or from hour to hour, what should be done. He does not know what should be done because he is a man who is not controlled by any eternal principles, or universal rules. He makes his own rules from time to time and any man who is not governed by natural, immutable, universal rules, of course, can trust no one but himself.

Roosevelt is exactly like Hitler and Stalin in this lack of confidence. They are laws unto themselves. It is only natural that he cannot delegate authority.

The framers of the Constitution set down the rules that all men had certain inherent rights; that every man was equal before natural law. But when people decide that there are no natural, eternal principles, that man can make any arbitrary law he wants to and they elect a President who has the same beliefs, then, of course, they are headed for trouble.

All men who believe in eternal, everlasting truths can have confidence in other people who believe in universal truths. They can delegate authority. They know there is truth and natural laws outside of their own opinion.

LOSING ONE'S SOUL

What is a soul, but respect for the equal rights of all other people and the immutable laws of nature? When one fails to have respect for the equal rights of other people, not only those with whom they happen to be associated but all people everywhere, he has lost his soul.

The Nation's Press

ONE OF THE FREEDOMS

On June 6 the President received from Daniel J. Tobin, president of the teamsters' union, a long and eloquent letter in which Mr. Tobin pledged the union's support on defense and foreign policy and said that the union was absolutely in accord with the President on the four freedoms—freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear.

A few days before this letter was received at the White House Representative Donoro of Michigan read into the Congressional Record a letter from George R. Simmons, a Michigan farmer, who for many years has sold his apples in the Union Produce Terminal in Detroit. In his letter Mr. Simmons charged that representatives of the teamsters' union had informed farmers selling at the market that they must join the union, paying $25 for initiation and a month dues, to haul their own produce to market.

IT'S LIKE A DIZZINESS

And now comes a learned doctor presenting case histories to prove his theory that the pangs of love increase the blood pressure and cause strange and incurable pains! Where has this fellow been: all his life? The news account says he is a clinical assistant in a psychoanalysis institute. He must be. He probably never gets out of his institute if he needs case histories on that point. Incidentally, we prefer our case histories from Shakespeare or the Victorian novelists. This chap hasn't a shred of romance. He talks about stomach-pains, ulcers, and asthma as the result of "emotional disturbances." They may very well be, but why not leave it that the seat of the trouble is the heart, where poets and peasants have had it safely located these many eons?

culdies of its construction were explained. Then he drove on to the next camp, so as to be there in time to go in with the workmen next morning. He slept in tourist homes to avoid hotels where a congressman's name might be noted by local newspapers. He spent his evenings in pool rooms where the camp workmen gossiped about what was wrong. At Fort Bragg, N. C., he sat up most of one night to watch a check on equipment.

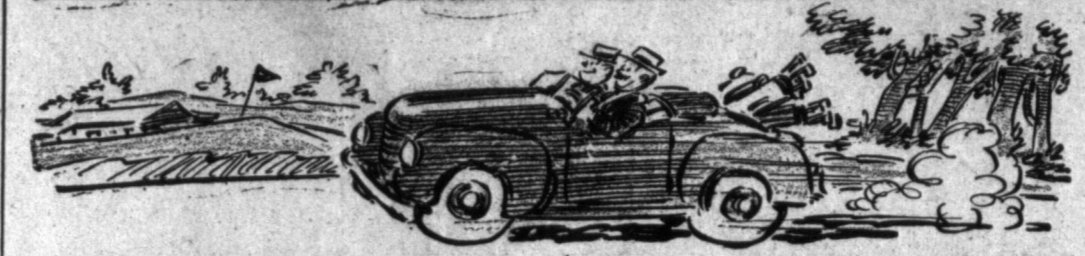

When Congressman Engel got back to Washington, he had driven some 4,500 miles. He turned in his expense account and it added up to $248.87. For that sum, he had shown up waste running into the tens of millions of dollars.

It shows what a congressman could do if, instead of voting these millions of dollars and then sitting back and looking wise, he got out to find where the money went and how it was spent.

Around Hollywood

BY PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, June 30—There was Deanna Durbin, looking so doggedly beautiful that anybody would have stared. And there was Bob Cummings, staring.

The trouble was that Mr. Cummings was not gazing at her with admiration. He was looking intently into her left eye. This served the double purpose of straining Miss Durbin's composure and of allowing him to turn his face a few more degrees toward the camera. "It was one of the few scenes in 'Almost an Angel' that had to be done seriously. Somewhere upstairs, of the great hall in which they were standing, old Uncle Charles Laughton was supposed to be dying. A couple of cadaverous-looking gents in black were sitting around waiting impatiently for an opportunity to make a death mask of the great man.

Margaret Tallichet, fiancée of Nephew Cummings, had gone off somewhere shopping for mourning clothes and that was just the time that Deanna had decided he wanted to see her. Let the first and last line. In the emergency, Cummings had persuaded Miss Durbin, a hat-check girl with vocal ambitions and a kind heart, to ease the uncle's last moments by posing as the absent fiancée.

SEE GETS THE EYE This she had done. And now, on her way out, Deanna was receiving the low and earnest thanks of Cummings, but the way he peered into her left eye made her nervous. It broke up a couple of shots and made director Henry Koster impatient. "I can't stand the way he looks at me," she snickered. "It makes me feel sort of one-sided."

THE actor, greatly pleased but feigning innocence, promised to gaze straight into the Durbin eyes. The Bob and Vivien Cummings. As he spoke his murmured, emotional line of the Durbin face looked at him with wistful tenderness. The right half, unseen by the camera, gradually contorted into a disconcerting grimace, went into a twitching and began to tremble with a smirk when Cummings gave up and giggled. Miss Durbin was revenged.

TOO SORE TO SING They did the scene perfectly as soon as they sensed that Koster was beginning to be really upset. He's pretty patient with the pair, knowing that the clowning and mock dramatics keep 'em relaxed and fun's fun, and movie work has to be fun's fun, and movie work has to be somewhere short of hysterics. Deanna and her new groom, Vaughn Paul, spent a recent weekend at the Bob and Vivien Cummings' house, and when Miss Durbin came to the studio Monday she actually was so sore that she couldn't sing that day.

"I know she's figuring something especially fiendish to do to me," said Cummings. "Miss Durbin, you are an utterly false and treacherous female put upon this earth, in a suffering and disillusionment to—"

"Miss Durbin! Mr. Cummings!" howled the assistant director. "We'll do that once more."

So they played the scene again, and at the end of it the actor walked up and up the broom, and momentarily out of sight. When he came down again he was flanked by the two grim death-mask makers, one bearing a sign denouncing Koster and Miss Durbin as unfair. (The gag was something about turkey sandwiches she had promised and failed to give them.) They marched across the set and out the door and kept on going.

People You Know

By Archer Fullingim

John Kefler, his teeth set, submitted this infuriating letter, published in Time: "Sirs: Extract from a broadcast by Adolf Hitler from South America, Christmas, 1943:

"My beloved sheep. It is with the greatest pleasure that I address you today from our newly-organized countries. As you know, the U. S. A. is so obstinate as to remain unfriendly to us, but our bloodless victory will soon be complete there, also. You remember how my great heart was troubled in 1940-41 by their obstinacy which might have been a menace to our world peace aims. Happily all danger is now over. They have defeated themselves by strikes, by criticism of their President, and above all, by their glorious hatred of what once was known as Great Britain. To celebrate the end of their childish resistance I now decree that the Fourth of July, known to them as Independence Day, shall be known henceforth as 'Laugh At America Day.' Let 24 hours of continuous laughter at their stupidity ring through our New World on that date. I myself shall be on the air in New York to lead you in that great laugh chorus. I also decree that, from now on, the 25th of December, shall be celebrated as my birthday, Hitler Day; or if you insist on the affectionate diminutive, Dolcheifer Day. This will remove the Jewish taint, once and for all, from that holiday." Kathleen Howard, Hollywood Calif.

Miss Howard's aim in writing that letter may have been patriotic but to me the letter is so revolting that I brand her as an unwitting propagandist for Hitler, and as dangerous to the cause of democracy. Such a tripe is food for the Nazi cause. She belittles America, for is there one among you who believes that the offensive Germans can and will ever best America? She insinuates a superiority of the Nazi slaves over free Americans. She hints that Hitler is unconquerable which is what he wants us to believe, but we in America know that freedom will ever win over tyranny, and that Hitlerism will in time perish from this earth. All such silly letters as Miss Howard's is an unjustified tribute to Hitler, and is an argument for dictatorship. I hate the thought of what she writes, and I don't believe that it is remotely possible.

THE end of school was coming and Lena had already asked all her teachers to write in her memory book. Some of them wrote very beautiful things about her character and ability and made wonderful predictions for her future. She tried to screw her courage up to ask Mr. Haines to write. At the end of every class she thought she'd get a nib from him. But her knees always refused and now the last class was over. Everybody had written in her book except the person she wanted most of all. And if she didn't ask him she'd regret it all her life.

She remembered how she had to screw her courage up to jump off the diving board and that was the way she had to do it at last. She rushed into the room where he was collecting his papers and pushed her memory book on his desk, asking him if he'd write.

He was very kind as always. When he handed it back to her she dashed out of the room and didn't open the book until she was in study hall. Mr. Haines had drawn a little pup and said it lapping milk out of a bowl and it said on the bowl "be friendly." Then Mr. Haines thought she wasn't friendly. Oh, if he only knew how far beyond friendship were Lena's feelings for him. She couldn't be friendly. She could only blindly worship the earth he trod.

Mr. Haines was supposed to come to the class party. Lena was going to be friendly with everybody. And since she was no longer a pupil maybe she could be friendly with Mr. Haines too. She had a pretty net dress and her hair was curled. Mr. Haines didn't come to the party. He had gone east and told someone he was going to be married as soon as he got there. Lena forgot about being friendly. She didn't enjoy the party at all.

THE LOOKING GLASS

BE FRIENDLY By Stella Heit

Physics was Lena's great joy and greatest sorrow and it was all mixed together. She was hopelessly in love with Mr. Haines and try as she would she could not understand physics. It was only Mr. Haines had taught English or history or even Spanish. He was always patient with her. He even offered to help her during study periods. The other girls got help but not Lena. She was afraid her heart might stop or something if she ever got that close to the idol of her affections.

Lena always sat in physics in dreadful apprehension that Mr. Haines was going to ask her a question she couldn't answer. The trouble was Lena was so charmed with the music of his voice and the movements of his hand at the blackboard that she forgot to follow the problems. She prayed over physics, she cried over it but she could not understand it. Mr. Haines always gave several optional questions in the examinations so that by picking around everybody could pass. He didn't want to fail anyone, not Mr. Haines.

The end of school was coming and Lena had already asked all her teachers to write in her memory book. Some of them wrote very beautiful things about her character and ability and made wonderful predictions for her future. She tried to screw her courage up to ask Mr. Haines to write. Culberson Elected At Convention Of Texas Car Dealers

A Pampa man was elected as one of the 10 directors of the Texas Automobile Dealers association, at that organization's annual convention at the Texas hotel in Fort Worth last Thursday and Friday. Attendance at the convention was 450, a new high for the TADA. He is Frank Culberson, owner of Culberson Chevrolet company, as one of the directors. Mr. Culberson will represent Panhandle dealers in the association, and will serve in that office for four years. V. Poe of El Paso was elected president of the association and will serve as its head for the ensuing year. Attending the convention from Pampa were Mr. and Mrs. Culberson, Hugh Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rose.

The War Today

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT

One of the most interesting points in the battle of communications which began in full force over the week-end on the Russo-German conflict is Nazi acknowledgement of a type of offensive-defense on an extremely powerful scale, something the new German army has not before faced. But the most ominous note for the Red army, now that the Germans have made their claims in a sudden stream of delayed communiques, is the alleged German encirclement of two Soviet armies, of perhaps 400,000 men, near Bialystok.

Astronomical figures for airplanes destroyed, given by both sides, must not be taken too seriously. If this war has proved anything at all, it is the consistent unreliability of estimates of one opponent's aerial losses by the other, especially when they are based on reports of pilots engaged in a large-scale battle.

It can now be seen that on last Wednesday the Red army, having absorbed the initial shock of the German assault, was able to attempt a major counter-attack on the Polish front. This, the Germans confess, was an encircling movement involving "countless armored cars" and was designed to cut off the advance Nazi Panzer spearheads from the mass of following infantry.

The German communique acknowledges that a considerable effort by both fighter planes and anti-aircraft guns was required to combat this tactic, thus showing that the Red army's counter-attack was well supported from the air. But, in a communique dealing with the action two days before, the Germans claimed they already had destroyed 2,852 planes, which would certainly have been a considerable part of the Red air force's first-line strength.

German figures for armored vehicles destroyed—a total of 2,233 up to Sunday—betray the fury of the Soviet counter-blow, which must have carried the Red army tank units well behind the advanced German lines. These figures are much more likely to be accurate than those on airplanes.

The success of the Soviet counter-attacks is yet problematical. Moscow insists that the Panzer divisions which have knifed into the Minsk area, on the Napoleonic road to Moscow, are left without support and in a desperate position. On the other hand, the German claim of entrapment of the two Soviet armies, southwest of Minsk, receives some support in London.

JOHN AUSTIN WINS CITY GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP 6 AND 5

Richesin Even With Champ At 18 Holes

Firing six birdies on the first 13 holes of the afternoon round, young John Austin defeated the veteran Jim Richesin, 6 and 5, yesterday afternoon to win the championship flight of the City Golf tournament, played over the Pampa Country club course.

The two were even up at the end of the first 18 holes of play but in the afternoon Austin got hot and burned the course with scorching drives, accurate approaches and deadly putts. Austin played the 31 holes in four strokes under par. Richesin also shot top golf, being only two strokes over par for the 31 holes.

Austin and Richesin played in the city championship finals in 1938, with Austin also the winner.

Grover Austin, Jr., won the championship flight consolation by defeating Joe Parkinson, 3 and 2.

First flight title went to Frank Hawthorne who defeated Frank Shotwell, 6 and 5.

Consolation round in the first flight went to Gene Donovan with a 2 and 1 victory over Eddie Sain.

A couple of veterans battled in the second flight finals with Grover Austin, Sr., defeating Jim White, 3 and 2. White holed out from 150 yards off the green on the second hole but Austin came back, missing by four inches a 200-yard approach shot on number five.

Gene Frathree and Mickey Frigmore will meet in the consolation finals.

Frank Perry took the third flight when he beat Siler Faulkner, 3 and 2.

Bill Croshaw beat Kimble Neel 4 and 3 in consolation play.

Jeff Beardon won the fourth flight by defeating Dr. Frank Kelley in the fourth flight. Consolation round hasn't been played.

Gold Sox Win Two Games From Oilers, 12-7, 9-5

Bagging a total of 26 hits, including five home runs, the Amarillo Gold Sox took two games from the Pampa Oilers Sunday before good crowds. The Sox won the afternoon contest 12 to 7 and then took the nightcap affair 9 to 5.

Oiler pitching, which in the past month had been outstanding, cracked yesterday and Manager Dutch Prather had to use four chumpers in the two games. Ernie Myers started the afternoon tussle but had nothing on the ball. Frank Grabek relieved and pitched good ball excepting for one inning. Frank Grabek tried to hold the slugger Sox last night, but passed out of the picture in the fifth when six runs crossed the plate. Harley LaFavers took over, pitching four-hit ball the rest of the way.

A group of Pampa baseball fans honored Sam Malvica during the afternoon game, presenting him with a purse containing $92 and players gave him a traveling bag.

Sam Malvica Honored

Players of both teams were called before the stand and John Sturgeon spoke briefly. He praised Malvica for his sensational play and his outstanding sportsmanship. He told the fans that Malvica would leave July 11 to serve a year with the armed forces of his country and that Pampans are proud of him. Presentation was made by Bob Posey.

In reply Malvica thanked the fans for their kindness and support. He said, "I've choked up at the plate and on a play but never like this, I thank you."

Malvica probably could have been deferred because of a difference in opinion of medical examiners on his legs but he refused to ask. He had his place of residence changed from Chicago to Pampa and will go from here.

Big Bus Dorman, the former Twitty boy, pitched and batted the Gold Sox to victory in the opening game. He scattered nine hits and helped his own cause with a home run, double and single. Jim Buchanan, former Texas A. M. football star, assisted Dorman with a home run and two singles. Harvorge also hit for the circuit.

Kelly Haralson and Frank Scott were the hitting stars for the Oilers. Haralson bagged a home run, a double and Scott coming through with a triple and two singles.

The Sox scored four runs on four hits, walk and error in the first inning and followed with five runs on four hits, including a home run by Harvorge and Buchanan, the latter off Grabek on the second pitched ball after he took over.

Oilers To Clove

Haralson opened the game with a double and Scott triple but an error gave the Oilers three in the sixth and three hits and a walk netted two in the eighth.

Frank Harvorge, Amarillo first baseman, broke up the night game in the fifth when he hit one of Grabek's pet heaves over the left field fence with the bases loaded. Bias Tenorio bagged three singles.

Sam Malvica laced Kid Cridler's hurling in the nightcap getting three singles. Homer Matney powered one over the fence and added a single. The Oilers staged a late inning rally when, with two away, Scott and Malvica singled and Prather walked. Fryerson then flew out to third to end the game.

The Oilers left today for Okfus where they play three games. They return home the night of July 3 for one game and play two on July 4, with Grover Selts and his Civic Pioneers. The next home stand will be for the two days only.

DiMaggio Hits In 42nd Game To Shatter Record

To bad! Yes, it's too bad for the contestant's rating, but this sit-down strike is just a typical spill of the kind featured at Anvil Park rodeo, and it's one of the things the crowds will see on July 4-6.

(By The Associated Press)
From today on it is Joe DiMaggio who must sit and watch as another slugger youngsters after another comes up to challenge his modern big-league record for hitting in consecutive games.

The long watch ended yesterday for George Sisler, the once peerless first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, as he saw his record of hitting in 41 straight contests shattered after 19 years by the New York Yankee star in an exhibition that thrilled 31,000 fans in the nation's capital.

Jolting Joe, the new king, slammed a double in the first contest against the Senators to tie Sisler's record and then came through with a wildly-applauded single in the seventh inning of the nightcap to stamp his name in the record book.

Since May 15 DiMaggio has not been blanked, and in that period he has blazed away at a .377 clip to help drive the Yankees into leadership of the American league.

Perhaps inspired by DiMaggio's clouting, the Yankees are in the midst of one of the greatest streaks of sustained hitting ever recorded. In scoring yesterday's twin killing of the Senators 9 to 4 and 7 to 5, they ran the number of consecutive contests in which they had hit at least one home run to 25. Today they held a game and a half lead over the Cleveland Indians, who were throttled by veteran Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox 9 to 3.

The Boston Red Sox divided a double bill with the Athletics. Manager Joe Cronin hit a home run with the bags filled to spark a 13 to 1 victory in the opener, but Jack Knott stopped them in the nightcap, 3 to 2, on seven hits.

Detroit broke a four-game losing streak when young Hal Newhouse set the St. Louis Browns down on four hits, 3 to 1.

The two National league battlers, St. Louis and Brooklyn, fought to a draw as each divided a doubleheader, the Cardinals retaining their one-game lead.

Bucky Walters of Cincinnati out-pitched Lou Warneke and two other St. Louis flingers to win yesterday's first encounter 6 to 2, but the Cards came roaring back to slug out a 14 to 4 victory over the five assorted Red throwers in the second.

Brooklyn gained a split with the Boston Braves, winning 5 to 2 and then losing 6 to 2 in the nightcap.

Frankie Frisch's Pittsburgh Pirates thumped the Chicago Cubs twice, 8 to 2, and 3 to 2.

Fight Ballyhoo Features Reform Of Bummy Davis

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—So much tub-thumping has been going on to prove to the breathless public that Bummy Davis really is a little gentleman now, you'd think the Brooklyn Fauntleroy was going to be in the Polo Grounds ring all by himself tomorrow night.

Well, don't believe it. In Fritz Zivic, he not only tangles with the welterweight champion of the world and a fair country kind of clouter at that, but a fellow who was turned up with the best bags-to-riches story of the ring since Jim Braddock came off the docks to play Cinderella to Max Baer's Prince Charming.

Fritz had been kicking around the ham and egg circuit for the better part of 10 years. He'd hitch-hiked to some matches, even driven a peanut-peddling truck to keep one date. The most he'd ever made at any time was $2,500.

Then, late last August, he got a shot at Sammy Angott, the swartzy Louisville lawyer recognized by the National Boxing association as world lightweight champion. With Braddock, the stepping stone was Tuffy Griffith. Sammy was good enough to punch out Angott in two rounds.

Yesterday's win gave the Pampa team a two to one advantage in the current series.

Next Sunday a doubleheader will be played here with the Pampa team meeting Plainview and Lubbock playing Dalhart. Play will begin at 1:30 o'clock at Recreation park. Weeds have been cut and the field leveled.

Red Horton, Ray McPhearson and Billy Stockstill are other members of the Pampa team.

Pampa Poloists Defeat Dalhart

Bud Mooney led the Pampa polo team to a 7 to 5 victory over the Dalhart team yesterday afternoon in Dalhart. Mooney scored five goals in the eight chukker match. Hub Burrow and Mose Wington each scored once.

Price-Fixing Torn To Pieces By Committee

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The administration, it was disclosed today, has presented compulsory pricing legislation to congress, only to have it "literally torn to pieces" and rejected by legislative leaders.

The legislation, congressional authorities reported, would have authorized a limit of price and rent control, restricted to defense areas.

Informed sources said the proposal was submitted to Speaker Rayburn and other congressional leaders by Leon Henderson, price control administrator and his aides.

"It was literally torn to pieces in the conference," one legislator said, and the upshot was that Henderson was advised to revamp the bill drastically in conjunction with the legislative drafting service before resubmitting it.

"There was no indication when the revised measure would be ready but influential house members expressed belief it would not be long delayed.

Exporters Split

The seventh-placed Beaumont Exporters thrilled their home-town fans last night by defeating the Texas league-leading Buffs from Houston, 5 to 4, in the first game of a doubleheader and introducing a new pitcher who held the Buffs to four hits in the nightcap, only to lose 1 to 1.

The porters scored four runs in the ninth inning to tie the first game and put over the winning tally on the 12th on two singles and an infield out.

Lemuel (Lefty) Bumpers, former Texas A. and M. hurling ace making his first start in the Texas league, pitched fine ball and had the Buffs access up to the fifth inning of the second game. But Bill Norman's home run with a mate aboard was enough for a Buff victory.

In other doubleheaders yesterday, Dallas took the first from Oklahoma City 6 to 4, but lost the second, 6 to 5. Tulsa's Oilers dropped both to the Fort Worth Cats, 7 to 3 and 3 to 1; and Shreveport's Sports defeated the San Antonio Missions twice, 4 to 3 with a 2-run rally in the ninth, and 11 to 7.

Swimming Pool Crowded For Exciting Contests

A large crowd filled every available seat at the municipal swimming pool and crowded every inch of the standing space for the first swimming races and diving contests of the season yesterday afternoon. Although there was a scarcity of entries, the quality of the diving and swimming was outstanding.

Skeet Wise and Howard Buckingham battled all the way in the diving contest with judges unable to select a winner at the end of the required optional dives.

In the 40-yard free-style race for women, Nevin Johnson touched the finish line about an inch ahead of Howard Buckingham who nosed out Pascal Massey.

Pascal Massey won the 80-yard breast style race by defeating Howard Buckingham.

Doyle Lane and R. L. Edmonson clowned the meet.

Oscar Hinger, pool manager, has issued a call for every man and woman swimmer to report to the pool and get in condition for another meet. He plans also a junior meet.

Smith Flays Agricultural Price-Fixing

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Farm-minded senators proposed today to limit price-fixing activities of Leon Henderson, price administrator, after accusing him of causing a sharp break in the cotton and wheat markets at a time when Congress was trying to raise prices of these commodities.

Chairman Smith (D-SC) of the senate agriculture committee, said a group of house members and senators from farm states would meet Monday "to decide definitely what limitation, if any, will be placed on the markets of different farm products, and we hereby notify Mr. Leon Henderson to desist from any further attempts at price-fixing until Congress may act on the subject."

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) introduced legislation providing for removal of office of any official who fixed prices below "parity" levels. Parity is the price agricultural product must bring to give the producer a return, in terms of purchasing power, equal to that of 1909-14 period.

Senator Thomas, in introducing his bill, said that Henderson had issued public warnings against price increases in cottonseed, grain, soybeans and other farm products. "Congress has been laboring and appropriating money for 10 years to get farmers parity," he continued. "The treasury has been drained of billions of dollars for this purpose and just when we get a chance to get billions of dollars for this purpose and just when we get a chance to get prices up we find an agency of the government, alleged or otherwise, driving them down."

50,000 Selectees Be Called Per Month This Year

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The War Relocation Authority probably will call about 50,000 selective service trainees a month during the last half of this year, and a big percentage of them will come from the ranks of the 750,000 men of 21 who must register tomorrow. Selective service headquarters, it was learned today, has worked out a system of interspersing the newest registrants in the list of those who enrolled last October.

The effect will be to make many of tomorrow's young registrants quickly available for military service—a welcome result to the army high command which regards men just turned 21 as ideal soldiering material.

As final arrangements were completed for the second selective service registration, selectees already in training received a good official indication that their tour of service would not be extended beyond the year fixed by law.

The temporary White House at Hyde Park, N. Y. released an executive order by President Roosevelt yesterday, which fixed 90,000 as the number of trainees to be inducted into the land forces in the fiscal year which starts tomorrow. The number is the statutory maximum.

William D. Hassett, the President's secretary, said that the army would have power for new trainees as those now in service finished their year's duty. Asked whether this was "absolute evidence" that men now serving would be released when they finish their year, Hassett replied with an unqualified "yes."

Florida is rated second to Texas as a cattle producing state.

Registrars who will help the Gray County Selective Service board in the July 1 registration, from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m., will be Doris Hills, Elaine Tipdon, Dee Day, Iva Wilson, Anna Lee Johnson, Clara Gregory, and R. L. Stallings. Registration will be held on the first floor of the court house.

Mr. and Mrs. Finis Stilwell left yesterday for Cleburne where they will visit Mr. Stilwell's father and other relatives on a vacation trip. Glenn Dawkins returned this morning from Wheeler where he visited his grandmother for several days.

Pampa Invited To Anvil Park Rodeo

Pampans received an invitation to attend the 19th annual Anvil Park Rodeo at Canadian on July 4, 5 and 6 when a delegation of Canadian trippers visited here at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Carl Studer, master of ceremonies on the trip which was to include visits to White Deer, Panhandle, Amarillo, Borger, Blinnett, Spearman and Perryton after leaving Pampa, gave Pampans an all out invitation to attend the rodeo which will be bigger and better than ever.

The visitors were accompanied by the Canadian High school band which presented a concert. Frank Culberson, president of the Board of City Development, welcomed the trippers to Pampa and assured them that a large group of Pampans would attend the rodeo.

Trial Of Negro Woman Postponed

Lack of witnesses reporting caused a postponement today of the case of State of Texas vs. Bertha Childress, negro woman, indicted here on June 5 for murder without malice in alleged connection with the fatal stabbing of Eddie Childress at a negro dance here on April 21.

The case has been re-set for July 14. Clifford Braly has been appointed to represent the defense, while Bud Martin, district attorney, represents the state.

Regular petit jurors of the week reported in 31st district court this morning, but as no cases were called, the men were dismissed for the term.

VICHY, Unoccupied France, June 30 (AP)—France severed relations with Soviet Russia today and it was learned that at least 500 persons, accredited to Russian diplomatic and consular services have been held for questioning. Russian men and women who were held were concentrated in the stadium outside Vichy where only yesterday Chief of State Marshal Petain gave a flag to the French youth labor camps.

MOSCOW, June 30 (AP)—All able-bodied citizens of Leningrad and surrounding towns were conscripted tonight for work on the city's defenses.

AUSTIN, June 30 (AP)—The legislature today agreed to end its long general session July 3.

BERLIN, June 30 (AP)—Germans said tonight that on the northern part of the Russian front the Nazis were in pursuit of the retreating Russians and that the deterioration of the defense had gone so far that there no longer was a proper front.

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Members said the house ways and means committee agreed tentatively today to recommend a 7 per cent tax on the sale price of new automobiles, which would produce about $79,900,000 of new revenue, instead of the 15 per cent levy proposed by the treasury.

NAZIS CLAIM

The Russians conceded that German columns had penetrated into Lithuania a third of the way to Leningrad and across Poland almost a third of the way to Moscow.

On the Vilpuri front, the Russians said, 300 Nazis were killed in a single assault and the entire German landing party put ashore near Vilpuri was wiped out. France broke off diplomatic relations with Russia this morning with the official explanation that "Soviet diplomatic and consular agents in France were carrying out activities against the public order and security of the state."

It was the first time France had reached an open break against any of Germany's enemies.

Lieut. Wilkins comes to Camp Wolters from Bowie High school, El Paso, where for five years he was an instructor with the R.O.T.C. and coached the high school's athletic program. At Texas A. and M. Lieut. Wilkins won three letters in football, three in basketball and two in track. Here at this infantry replacement training center, he will be in charge of the now almost completed service club for colored soldiers, and he will handle athletic affairs.

Johnson Carries, Laketon Box

Lyndon Johnson, Roosevelt's apparent choice for senator from Texas, was also the choice of voters in precinct 6, Laketon, where Johnson carried the box with 17 votes in Saturday's election. This was the only box in the county which Johnson carried.

Laketon gave O'Daniel 13 votes to 10 for Mann and one for Dies. Returns from Laketon were obtained this forenoon. The Laketon box was the only one in the county unreported early yesterday morning.

Complete returns from all Gray county boxes show these results: O'Daniel, 512; Mann, 409; Johnson, 227; Dies, 149; Fisher, Harding, and Morris, two each.

S. D. Bradford Dies At Home

Sidney Denis Bradford, 38, son of Mrs. Melissa Bradford, pioneer resident of Gray county, died early this morning at the family home nine miles south of Pampa. He had been ill for several months with a heart ailment.

He was a graduate of Pampa High school and was a mechanic by trade. He was a member of the First Methodist church.

Survivors are his mother, seven sisters, Mrs. Dora Rouse, Mrs. E. R. Stone, Mrs. Ellis Thornburg and Mrs. Daisy O'Reilly, all of Pampa, Mrs. M. E. Bance and Mrs. George Ledbetter, both of El Paso, and Mrs. J. B. Dean, Grants, N. M., and one brother, W. C. Bradford, El Paso.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon but the time and place have not been set. The body lies at rest at the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral home.

A 'Bryte' Story

SHEENANDAOH, Ia., June 30 (AP)—The bellhop at a local hotel carried up the bags of a stranger who immediately started to scan the telephone directory.

"Do you know the Bryte family," he asked. "Yes," answered the bellhop, "My name is Jack Bryte."

The man identified himself as Lester Bryte of Los Angeles, a cousin of Jack's father. P. S.—Jack drove back to California to take a job in the department store which Lester manages.

Mr. Rider has been a Pampa resident for 13 years, and in the automobile business for six. In Pampa today conferring with Mr. Rider was T. S. Dysart of Amarillo, Packard sales manager. Sales and service for Packards will be offered by the Rider Motor company. Featured in the Packard line is the Packard Clipper, which is marked by such features as excess width doors, recessed back of front seat to increase leg room in the rear seat, a foot wider, from side to side, than it is high, from roof to road.

Senate Drives To Clean Up All Bills

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Driving to clean up last-minute appropriations before the fiscal year ends at midnight, the senate finally approved and sent to the White House today the $1,195,935,780 supply bill for the labor department and the Federal Security Agency.

The measure, representing a compromise between the senate and house, was $26,957,242 under budget estimates but $40,008,558 higher than last year's appropriation.

Although leaders expressed confidence that all appropriations measures could be sent to the White House by midnight, a pair of billion-dollar measures still were tied up because of a dispute between the house and senate over $35,000,000.

The bills involved were the $935,005,000 relief bill and the $1,240,000,000 agriculture appropriation.

The argument revolved about whether congress should add $35,000,000 to the relief bill for the disposal of surplus commodities, or whether the sum should be included in the farm bill.

Defense Bond Quiz

Q. Has the sale of Defense Bonds and Stamps been a success? A. A tremendous success. Even in the first month, May, 1941, the sales went far ahead of most predictions by experts.

Q. How many Defense Bonds were bought last May? A. More than four hundred and thirty-eight million dollars worth were bought by American men and women during the month of May. This amount greatly exceeded the estimates made in advance by treasury officials.

Q. What about Defense Stamps? A. Stamp total in May 1941 was $3,552,000.

Roosevelt Library Dedicated Today

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 30 (AP)—Before a gathering of President Roosevelt's "home folks," the Franklin D. Roosevelt library will be dedicated today as an enormous filing cabinet for documents relating to the story of America during an era of world crisis.

A short ceremony, topped by an address by the chief executive, was arranged for mid-afternoon. Informal invitations were extended to the President's friends and neighbors.

But there was no formal list of "big name" official guests for the dedication of a library which is unique because it was built to safeguard in one place the priceless personal and official records of a president.

Six million documents are being stored in the stone Dutch colonial structure. They recount the things Mr. Roosevelt has done for 30 years since his election to the New York state senate.

CHAPTER I

At the Parisian Night Club there was the sound of laughter and excited voices. Ice tinkled in glasses. Waiters hovered about. The fragrance of perfume filled the air as the familiar crowd moved about, dancing, laughing, dining.

Everybody who had any money was there. Everybody who counted was there. The Parisian stood at the top of the list of popular night clubs.

Jim Coon, suave orchestra leader, stood before a microphone, smiling a little as he watched the crowd, saying the words which he knew almost everybody had come to hear.

"For our next number we take great pleasure in presenting Lita Danson and Jerry Lane—the world's most famous dance team."

Lita, just out of sight of the crowd, looked across at Jerry. Once she had thrilled to the lights, the swing of the music, the applause, but not any more. She was tired of it all, and yet she had to go on, go on with Jerry, who like everything else was fast ceasing to mean anything.

Her cue. She fixed a bright smile to her scarlet lips and lifted her golden head high. She was outside the curtain now. Before her was the after-theater crowd, the lights, the waiters, the things she had once dreamed about. Behind her was the best orchestra in the country. Beside her was Jerry, tall and straight, with an enchanting smile which had once done things to her heart.

Once she had adored his sleek black hair and shining brown eyes, the way he laughed and teased her, and most of all, because he had loved her when she had need of love. He loved her still, she guessed, but five years of marriage had taken the glamor away.

Now there wasn't anything. He didn't thrill her any more, and they quarreled over nothing. She knew it was high-strung nerves, but all the same it was wearing.

She stood bowing, laughing, her teeth gleaming. Beyond in mirrors she could catch a glimpse of herself through the return of the orchestra.

Gold of her frock which hung to her slim figure and hung in a hundred folds about her ankles, as gold as her shining hair.

Her green eyes laughed beneath long curling lashes. She had to laugh. She was expected to. She must be happy because everybody thought she was—the beautiful young dancer with the handsome husband.

"Applause rolled like a wave. The orchestra swung into a dance tune. She and Jerry were dancing, a wild Latin dance which had put their names in electric lights. More madly her dancing feet kept time. Jerry swung her about, but she was sure of his strength, and as they danced he smiled at her.

"I'm sorry I made you angry, Jerry. Forgive me," he whispered, as his lips swept close to hers.

The audience liked for them to smile at each other. The people watching thought they were in love. They didn't know that love was dying. Or was it dead? Sometimes she wondered.

They stopped at last, bowing, hand in hand. Wave on wave of applause rolled through the room. They danced again, an encore that was even faster and more mad than their first dance had been.

As they smiled and bowed, she tossed laughing words to Jerry. "Let's hurry. Ruth will be waiting, and you know how impatient she is."

Ruth Eustace and Jerry. She had been thinking about that for a long time, only Jerry didn't know it, nor Ruth. She wondered if Jerry was really in love with Ruth. She knew that Ruth was in love with him.

As they made their way through the crowd, she thought about herself and Jerry. It didn't seem to matter if they quarreled. He was soon over his anger. He couldn't seem to see that things were over between them, too, or he didn't want to.

She didn't want the things that she could give herself, that Jerry could give her. She was tired of dancing, tired of the superficiality of the life they lived, tired of the masked faces about them, of the people who were pretending to be enjoying life, when she knew so many of them weren't.

They bowed here and there, nodding, always laughing, as they went toward the table in the corner where a group waited for them.

"Ruth," Lita came up to the dark-haired girl who stood up as they approached. "At last, we're here." Her voice was gay. She must keep on pretending, the happy young dancer; Jerry beside her, the idol of every debutante.

"Hello, Ruth. We danced as fast as we could," Jerry caught Ruth's hands in his. "But the music only goes so fast, you know."

"You were grand," Ruth's voice answered them. She turned to the crowd about the table. "I think you and Jerry know everybody except Ken Richards, the dark, tall man from the south, at my right. He has lost his head completely. Lita, you have his heart in your hand. I didn't know it happened like that."

"I didn't either," Lita answered

lightly. "I don't know what I would do with an extra heart." "Maybe I can tell you."

LITA had a blurred vision of a broad-shouldered man in perfectly fitting evening clothes. Strong hands were holding hers, gray eyes were boring down into hers.

"May I tell you that I've never seen anything like the dance which you and your husband just gave us? I've never seen anyone so graceful, or so beautiful. You're like a dream, unreal."

"Oh, I'm real enough." She could feel the color creeping into her face, her heart was pounding. Who was this handsome stranger with the low southern voice, who dropped his R's at the most unexpected places, and whose gray eyes seemed to say there was no one else in the world?

"Ken, can you wait until we get out to my house?" Ruth broke in. "You can talk the rest of the evening, now that you've seen her dance. I told you, you know, that she was quite irresistible. Even her husband will tell you that."

"I'm sure of it," Ken Richards held her arm possessively. The rest of the crowd was standing, gathering up their wraps.

"Jerry, will you get my coat?"

LITA laughed up at Ken. The smile wasn't forced now. The mask was gone. She felt gay suddenly, and curiously happy.

"We'll wait at the entrance," "Yes," Ken Richards echoed her words, and as they went through the crowded club, everyone turned to watch them.

In the foyer he stood looking at her, his eyes searching her face as if to find an answer to his unasked question.

"Do you know I've been looking for you all my life?" he asked. "And now I've found you, I can't quite believe it. I thought you were just a dream in my heart."

"Interesting, isn't it? You find me after searching the world over, of course. That's always the way these ardent men say it, and when you find me, I'm another man's wife."

Beutler Stock Delivered For Canadian Rodeo

Special To The NEWS CANADIAN, June 30—Lynn Beutler, rodeo impresario of Elk City, rodeo impresario will appear at the Canadian annual rodeo, arrived Monday with a prediction that some of the top-ranking cowboys of the nation will be here to compete July 4, 5 and 6.

Beutler has brought 25 bucking horses, 15 Brahma bulls, 20 dogging steers, 20 Mexican steers for single roping, 25 Brahma calves, and a string of saddle horses for the grand entry, parade, and general rodeo work. This stock will remain in pastures adjacent to the park until rodeo time next Friday afternoon.

In addition to the above, there will be more than 75 head of calf roping, roping, and dogging horses.

We have a bunch of good bucking horses," Beutler said, "including amos, who has been bucked consistently throughout the spring months, and been ridden but few times.

"We also have several Brahma bulls which still remain to be ridden. While in the south this winter, we imported our herd with a number of new Brahma bulls who are to make it quite interesting for the contestants, as well as the fans."

de Burk will be one of the fore-cowboys here, Beutler said, who hails from Camanche, was the 1938 and 1939 Rodeo champion of America calf roping.

Beutler was the champion of the Southwest Rodeo Association during the last year.
