'Collision' With Japan 'Inevitable' Says Knox; Russia 'Tottering Again'

50 More Frenchmen Executed By Germans

(By The Associated Press) VICHY, Unoccupied France, Oct. 24.—Fifty French hostages died before the firing squad wall today in a 50-lives-for-one forfeit for the assassination of a German officer at Bordeaux—the second such measure of retaliation within three days.

At the same time 50 additional hostages at Bordeaux and 50 still alive at Nantes out of 100 selected for execution in reprisal for the killing of the German commander there won brief reprieves while the Germans gave additional time for the capture or surrender of the actual assassins.

The news today from Bordeaux meant that a total of 100 hostages already had been put to death, evenly divided, for the assassinations of the Nantes and Bordeaux officers. Fifty were executed in the Nantes case on Wednesday.

The German commander at Nantes, Lieut.-Col. Paul Friedrich Hotz was waylaid and shot last Monday and on the following day a high-ranking officer named Reimers, counselor of the German military administration at the occupied port of Bordeaux, met a similar fate.

If the full measure of threatened reprisal is carried out it will make a ratio of 100 lives for one.

The Bordeaux executions brought to 184 the total of French hostages killed for the assassination of five Germans during the occupation.

The Bordeaux-Nantes reprieves were granted by German authorities at the personal requests of Chief of State Petain and Vice Premier Darlan.

Resulting from appeals by Petain and Darlan as well as pressing demarches made to German authorities, a communique said "these latter willingly consented to a delay of grace for complementary groups of hostages whose executions were designated following the two assassinations at Nantes and Bordeaux."

Consequently, the deadline which expired for Nantes Oct. 23 and that which was to have expired for Bordeaux Oct. 26 at midnight, conforming to the order of the commanding (German) military gendarmes in France, have been prolonged respectively until Oct. 27 and Oct. 29 at midnight.

The 50 shot at Bordeaux were executed in reprisal for the fatal shooting of a German officer there, and those whose slated death at Nantes was stayed were to have been shot because the German officer who killed another German officer had not been given over to Nazi occupation authorities.

Danciger Refinery 100 Per Cent In Bond, Stamp Sales

The 95 employees of the Danciger Refinery Inc., east of this city, believe in the defense bond and stamp sales program in a big way. In fact they are so sold on the plan that every one of them signed the salary allotment plan blank and have already saved enough money to purchase 20 bonds.

The salary allotment plan, started here at a meeting of the Gray county sales committee last week, calls for employees in every line of business to have a certain amount saved out of each salary check for the purchase of defense stamps and when $17.75 is saved to have a defense bond purchased in their name.

F. E. Shryock, superintendent of the Danciger Refinery, Inc., here announced yesterday that all employees had signed to purchase stamps.

Bob Posey, Magnolia Petroleum company production superintendent, called Postmaster C. H. Walker, chairman of the Gray county committee, informing him that at least 150 Magnolia employees would be on the dotted line within the next week.

Second "Over-Age" Gray Selectee Ends Service In Army

Name of a second Gray county selectee, discharged from military service because of the law relieving selectees over the designated age limit, was announced today by Col. W. L. Roberts, commanding the 36th Infantry regiment.

He is Private John W. Willis, of the service company of that regiment, which is a part of the 3rd armored division, commanded by Major General Alvan C. Gillem, Jr.

The announcement of Willis' discharge, after four months service in the army, was made by the public relations office of the third armored division headquarters, Camp Polk, La.

Workers End Steel Strike At Detroit

(By The Associated Press) An eight-day interruption of operations at the Great Lakes Steel Corporation in a Detroit suburb ended today when strikers accepted settlement terms and began returning to their jobs.

Other strikes, however, gripped coal mines in Alabama, held up welding operations at some shipyards in the northwest.

Several automobiles were overturned near Bendix, N. J., after a group of non-striking employees eluded CIO pickets in order to work in the plant of Air Associates, Inc., manufacturer of airplane parts.

CIO workers at the Great Lakes Steel Corporation voted last night to go back to work as soon as the firm could call them, and men began reporting for the midnight shift.

The non-striking employees at the Air Associates plant at Bendix had to outflank a CIO picket line twice yesterday, going to and coming from work in a caravan of 150 automobiles.

The workers, who called September 30 by 100 workers who charged the company with unfair labor practices and failure to sign a contract. In hearings before the defense mediation board, the union insisted that 250 members be returned to work immediately.

The company, which maintained the plant in operation despite the walkout, refused to agree to the union's demand.

More than 20,000 Alabama coal miners remained idle while their representatives and the joint conference of Alabama coal operators negotiated for a settlement of their differences.

The CIO miners seek an increase of 40 cents a day above the current basic level of $5.50, also paid variations and additional compensation for washer loss.

The mediation board has recommended a wage increase of 25 cents a day, an additional four cents a day for washer loss, and $20 in two installments as vacation pay.

Operators of coal mines in a separate union representing about two-thirds of the diggers, announced acceptance of the mediation board's recommendations. However, the problem of captive mines remained.

The Alabama captive workings, owned by steel companies, are included in the National captive mine strike called for Saturday midnight.

Employers of the captive mines are demanding a union shop.

At Seattle and Tacoma 1,800 welders stayed away from their jobs in shipyards, seeking recognition of a separate union for welders and reinstatement of 177 welders at the Lake Washington Shipyards.

The 177 had been removed from their jobs by the Seattle Metal Trades Council, which has a closed shop agreement with the shipyards.

80 Persons Stranded On Rio Grande Island

RIO RICO, Mexico, Oct. 24 (AP)—Motorboats bucked the raging current of the Rio Grande today to begin the dangerous task of rescuing 80 persons marooned on a slowly-crumbling island in the middle of the treacherous stream.

The flooded Rio Grande, striving violently to change its course, gobbled at the Mexican approach to the $66,000 International bridge, leaving only 80 yards of the earth fill undevoured.

The 500 inhabitants of this Mexican border town opposite Mercedes, fled from their homes when the river overflowed through the main street. Banks gave way under 25 houses, which toppled into the stream.

Rescue workers were balked last night in their efforts to take the marooned persons from their fast-fading haven in the center of the stream. Cross-currents and pounding driftwood were feared, but the first boatloads were carried to safety as soon as daylight permitted.

Belief was expressed all would be removed before the island crumbled. Huddled on the bridge were 75 persons with goats, cows, chickens, and other household belongings. They may go to the U. S. side of the river if danger of collapse becomes imminent.

Heavy rains on the San Juan river watershed in Mexico caused the sudden upsurge in the Rio Grande.

Merchants, forewarned, rescued most of their stocks. The Mexican customs house was moved to the U. S. side. Some Rio Ricans fled to Matamoros and Reynosa, both in Mexico; others went to the U. S. side. Boats plied the swirling waters to take over more goods and evacuees.

Four trucks were dispatched by the Mexican government from Matamoros, opposite Brownsville, to help the evacuation.

The current was deflected into the Mexican bank above the bridge by an island formed on the U. S. side during recent floods. Weakened levees led flood waters into the streets and soon a roaring current formed.

After a hurried meeting, Mercedes Chamber of Commerce officials wired pleas for aid to L. M. Lawson of El Paso, American commissioner of the International Boundary Commission, and to Rep. Milton H. West (D-Tex.), asking quick action by both the United States and Mexican governments.

Sheriff Rose will spend tonight at Buchanan Dam visiting in the home of his brother-in-law, Harry Amick, who has a fishing resort near Austin. He will look up several Pampa students while in Austin. If he has time he will "look in on" the Texas-Rice game tomorrow afternoon for a little while, he said.

Baby Snooks Brats Need Good Spanking, Says Psychologist

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24 (AP)—University students are studying radle's problem child as a step in higher education.

Dr. Neil Warren, head of the psychology department at University of Southern California, took his students to a broadcast of NBC's "Baby Snooks" (Fannie Brice) to study child psychology.

"Baby Snooks," Dr. Warren told his class, "is a typical example of a disciplinary child problem who will some day face as parents. Like so many American children, Baby Snooks is spoiled, selfish, and utterly pampered. There is only one remedy—an old-fashioned spanking."

But the class, almost unanimously, agreed there is another out: "Don't marry."

New Danger Faces Soviet In South

(By The Associated Press) Secretary of the Navy Knox declared flatly today that a "collision" in the Far East was virtually inevitable, while in Tokyo, a Japanese spokesman took the opposite view that the situation between the United States and Japan had eased.

"The situation in the Far East is extremely strained," Knox said, addressing a group of naval munitions manufacturers.

"We are satisfied in our own minds that the Japanese have no intention of giving up their plans for expansion. If they pursue that course a collision is inevitable."

By contrast, the Japanese cabinet spokesman, Koh Jishi, declared that the long-smouldering crisis in relations between the two countries had been modified by an indicated American decision to ship war aid to Russia via the Arctic port of Archangel instead of through the Sea of Japan to Vladivostok.

Knox's electric pronouncement came less than 48 hours after the Japan Times and Advertiser, controlled by the Tokyo foreign office, offered the anti-Axis powers a "last chance" to use Japan's services as a mediator in the European war.

The newspaper warned, however, that Japan was ready to fight the United States to protect her interests in the Orient, and other Japanese newspapers bitterly assailed the United States, charging that this country was attempting to gain bases in Soviet Siberia for use against Japan.

Otherwise, news from the Far East in recent days had given little indication that the situation was near the breaking point suddenly ordered to cancel cruises to the Orient and return to "friendly" ports.

Meanwhile, Russia faced a new emergency. Soviet front-line dispatches acknowledged that the situation was "alarming in all sectors" on the Ukraine front today, with heavy fighting raging on the approaches to the Don river, while claims from both sides listed a staggering total of more than 10,000,000 men killed and wounded in the four-months old campaign.

Although the Red armies clearly appeared to be holding firmly before Moscow, the grave new danger to Russia's vital war frontiers on the southern front was emphasized in reports to the army newspaper, Red Star.

The newspaper reported "bloody hand-to-hand fighting... immense losses" in battles around Stalin, 100 miles northwest of Rostov, and at nearby Makeevka, with the Germans hurling great masses of tanks and troops against a brave but steadily eroding Donets river front.

"The situation on all the principal sectors of the southern front remains critical," Red Star's correspondent telegraphed. Pravda sounded the same note.

In Berlin, the authorized commentary, the German press declared, even went so far as to say that "the liberation of the Donets basin is imminent." If true, this would strike a hard blow at Russia's war supplies, since the Donets basin is the source of great iron, coal and manganese deposits, and Rostov, near the mouth of the Don river, is the key to the Caucasus oil fields.

German conquest of the Donets basin would in all likelihood precipitate the long-awaited hour of British troops entering the conflict on Russia's side.

British Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander-in-chief for India, has nearly 1,000,000 men in the Middle East awaiting the signal to march north through Iran (Persia) into the Caucasus to bolster the battered Red armies in the Ukraine.

Perhaps in a move to seal the Middle East's "back door" for just such an operation, British and Free French troops were reported striking into French Somaliland today, driving 30 miles into the little French colony on the Gulf of Aden. One reason for the attack, which was not confirmed in London, might well be to protect United States war supplies which sail through the Aden gulf and the Red Sea to the Suez Canal for delivery to the British Middle East armies.

On the eastern front, the Russians declared officially that several hundred thousand Germans already had been killed in the 23-day-old drive on Moscow and that Nazi losses in four months equaled the total casualties suffered by Kaiser Wilhelm's imperial armies in the four years of the World War.

According to U. S. State Department figures, the Germans lost 1,772,700 killed and 4,216,058 wounded.

Meanwhile, Panhandle cowboys had changed their favorite range song to "Give me a boat and a paddle," said the Commodore.

Tank Production Will Be Doubled, FDR Announces

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Withholding all figures, President Roosevelt announced today that the American program for producing tanks for United States armed forces would be approximately doubled at once.

The chief executive told a press conference that the projected expansion was part of an over-all revision of the defense picture. But the rest of it, he said, will not be ready until later in the fall or perhaps when congress meets for a new session in January.

Mr. Roosevelt would not say what the present tank program called for nor what the increase would provide. That, he asserted, was information which the Axis would like to have.

It does call for many thousands more tanks, he asserted, along with certain items of ordnance relating to them.

The principal reason for the decision to make a tremendous increase in tank output, the President disclosed, grew from the experience in the use of tanks in north Africa last year.

Some new plants probably will have to be built to turn out the enlarged volume of tanks, Mr. Roosevelt declared, while factories now making them will have to step up their operations.

Reminded that William S. Knudsen, director of the office of production management, had mentioned a goal of 2,000 medium tanks monthly, Mr. Roosevelt said the new program went beyond it.

Family Budgets Topic Of Hopkins H. D. Club Program

"Budgets are the means that enable a family to purchase so wisely that its income will cover its most longed for necessities and even luxuries. A budget prevents that slow steady trickling away that undermines financial stability," Mrs. Helen Partridge said at the meeting of Hopkins Home Demonstration club in the home of Mrs. Herbert Cisco.

Continuing, she said that every family, if possible, should save a portion of their income for obvious reasons such as education, a well provided old age and to meet emergencies such as illness, loss of employment, or reduced earning power.

"Family Life" was discussed by the entire club and appreciation and cooperation by all of the family was found to bring peace and contentment.

During the business period with Mrs. G. O. Blalock, president, presiding, officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. Blalock re-elected as president with Mrs. J. E. Morrison, vice-president; Mrs. Herbert Cisco, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Hueylyn Laycock, reporter; Mrs. L. J. Pratt, finance; Mrs. Vern Savage, Council reporter; Mrs. W. E. Melton, alternate; Mrs. George Reeve, exhibitor; Mrs. R. W. Orr, recreation; Mrs. F. M. Baker, home industries; Mrs. Herbert, associate assistant reporter; and Mrs. J. E. Morrison, education and expansion.

Mrs. R. W. Orr gave the Council report and asked that all members use the Texas Food Standard for Living Every Day.

Red Cross work was discussed and it was voted that this work would be carried on in the community as long as necessary. The club met Thursday in the home of Mrs. Partridge for an all-day session to sew on 10 toddler snow suits which have been checked out by Mrs. Hueylyn Laycock, chairman of this committee.

All members with the exception of one were present at the earlier meeting as well as two new members, Mrs. W. E. Melton and Mrs. J. E. Morrison, who were welcomed into the club.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, October 28, at 2 o'clock with Mrs. C. F. Jones as hostess.

CAMPUS LIGHT
A nice gift for the girl who is soon leaving for college would be one of the new mail polish packs containing two shades of polish—one for daytime wear and one for evening. The case itself is of cowhide and just the right size to use for a cigarette case after you have finished the polish. One polish is a new shade of pink that will go especially well with brown, or slate and electric blue; the other is a more vivid shade that will do things for black, gray or Kelly green. Too, you can match either of these shades with slip-on and cardigan sweaters.

55 Senators Favor Neutrality Repeal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—An informal administration poll showed today that at least 55 senators—six more than a majority—would vote to amend the pending armed ship bill so as to permit American merchant vessels to sail anywhere on the seven seas.

The poll, conducted by senators interested in broadening the house-approved legislation lifting the ban against the arming of merchant ships, indicated that a maximum of 60 members would support the suggested amendment to knock out the neutrality act provisions forbidding merchant ships to enter belligerent ports or designated combat zones.

All indications pointed to an administration effort to expand the pending bill after the senate foreign relations committee concludes hearings this afternoon.

Mildred McCrate Wins Fire Prevention Essay Contest

Mildred McCrate, a sophomore in Pampa High school, won first place in the fire prevention essay contest conducted during National Fire Prevention week. She received $5 in defense stamps.

The essay contest was sponsored by local fire insurance agencies who gave prizes totaling $40 to essay contest winners in high school and junior high and for poster contests in the ward schools.

The winning essay by Miss McCrate follows:

Fellow citizens of this vast, unexcelled nation of ours, stop to consider a moment. Are we each doing our best in defending this nation against all the forces which intrude upon this perfect refuge for all who seek freedom and protection and a right to be heard?

It is true, we all do our part by purchasing defense stamps and bonds, donating to worthy causes, and joining the army if eligible, but is that all we can do? Can we not do our part to retain the wealth our nation now possesses so we will be able to produce defense weapons?

We not only aid our country's financial problems by donating money to a cause, but we can also be thrifty and do our part in conserving the wealth of this, the wealthiest of nations, by doing our part in fire prevention and thus conserving its natural wealth.

If each of us would do his part in practicing and preaching fire prevention, we could have influence upon others, and they in turn upon others, until finally this influence would reach those responsible for many of the fires in factories. The factory today is the axis of defense. From the factory comes airplanes, army tanks, ammunition, and every other defense weapon. When one of these factories is destroyed by a force much stronger than man, fire, much money and material is lost and the defense program is delayed.

We all fear the powers of Hitler and his seemingly unconquerable army, but is he not a mere man and have we not been taught that all men are born equal? Hitler's powers when compared with those of that unconquerable demon, fire, are very minor. He possesses only power of leadership and a large group of followers, while fire possesses the power to move with the wind and leave in its path only a vast desert of destruction, charred wood and ashes. Without the aid of fire and fire-making weapons, Hitler and other war leaders are nearly helpless; yet we fear them more than we do fire itself which, when out of control, can destroy more than Hitler and all his armies.

We, who will do our best to aid defense against the forces of Hitler and like war mongers, should do even more to aid defense against an even stronger force, fire. Germany has been conquered many times; fire never. It still sweeps on, leaving in its wake mothers with empty arms, children bound for orphanages, invalids whose mutilated bodies never move again, once beautiful homes only ashes and smouldering timbers, a few stumps where once stood a great forest in all its glory, remains of cities soon to be forgotten except for the cause of their destruction, and lost souls who were deprived of a local church. Only men of certain ages are eligible for the army against other men's armies, while each and every one of us is eligible for the army against the unconquerable force, fire!

NEW DANGER

In the 1914-18 conflict—a total of 5,989,758.

DNB, the official German news agency, quickly followed this claim with the reported destruction of more than 260 Soviet divisions—approximately 3,900,000 to 4,680,000 men—in the bloody campaign up to Sept. 1.

The Soviet newspaper Pravda reported that a new German thrust south of Leningrad had been thrown back with at least 2,500 killed, wounded, or captured, and that Red army troops had retaken the villages of Velya and Kholmly.

Russian front-line dispatches said the Germans had also been repulsed in assaults west and south of Moscow, but acknowledged a new German penetration in the Donets river battle zone in the Ukraine.

"They have not taken and will not take Moscow," said S. A. Lozovsky, official Soviet spokesman.

Nevertheless, Premier Joseph Stalin delegated two of his key marshals to form new Red armies and Soviet dispatches acknowledged that Moscow's position was grave. The British radio quoted Pravda reports as saying: "Today Moscow is in danger. We shall never surrender. We must be prepared to see the streets of Moscow become the scene of violent fighting.

Lozovsky asserted the Germans were still more than 60 miles from the U. S. R. capital, counting official German claims yesterday that Nazi spearheads had advanced to within 35 miles of the city.

Russian dispatches said fierce hand-to-hand fighting was raging in the streets of three cities around the beleaguered capital—Khaluga, 90 miles southwest; Moshaisk, 57 miles west; and Kalinin, 85 miles northwest.

A Red army bulletin reported "especially stubborn fighting in Moshaisk and Maloryaroslavets directions." The latter is 65 miles southwest of Moscow.

The Russians acknowledged they had fallen back under the assault of German mortar and automatic rifle squads at some points in Moshaisk battle zone, but declared that Red army motorcyclists in the same area had recaptured two villages and thrown the Nazis back across a river.

On the southern (Ukraine) front, Soviet reports said the Germans had renewed violent attempts to smash into the Crimea Peninsula, site of the Black Sea naval base of Sevastopol, but asserted that the invaders had been repulsed with more than 2,000 Nazis killed or wounded.

The Russians said German forces defending the important city of Rostov-on-Don, gateway to the Caucasus, were engaging Axis troops under Field Marshal Ewald Von Killest in a violent battle near Tanagerog, 30 miles west of Rostov, and that the Germans had been repelled at all points except on yesterday.

Soviet forces withdrew to a new defense line after inflicting heavy losses on the Nazis and their Italian, Hungarian, and Rumanian allies, Moscow dispatches said.

Serving notice that Russia would never quit, Lozovsky told foreign newsmen that Marshal Semeon Budenny and Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, withdrawn from the battlefront, had already begun organizing new armies from the vast reservoir of Soviet manpower.

"Hitler promised to end the war before winter, then throw enormous forces against England. He has failed in both," Lozovsky said.

"We fully realize the gravity of the situation . . . but the Soviet government and people will fight to the end."

Premier Stalin and the Soviet defense council, he said, are remaining at their posts in Moscow, directing the fight for Russia's life.

CLASS A RIVALS WILL FIGHT IT OUT AT LEFORS TONIGHT

Lubbock Will Play Sandies At Amarillo

With the Pampa Harvesters playing in Childress tonight, fans who cannot make the trip with their team will scatter to see Class A games in this section. Probably the big game of the night will be at Lefors where the Lefors Pirates and the McLean Tigers meet.

Other games in this section to-night include: Perryton at White Deer. Shamrock at Lakeview. Wheeler at Memphis. Clarendon at Wellington.

In the Class AA bracket, the Plainview Bulldogs invade Borger tonight while tomorrow afternoon the Lubbock Westerners will be in Amarillo.

A couple of undefeated teams will meet tonight when Lefors and McLean tangle. Game time will be 8 o'clock at Shaw field which will be fairly dry despite heavy rains. The field is sand and well turred.

The damp playing field may slow down "Scat" Earhart of the Pirates and John Kelly Lee of the Tigers will not enough to make much difference. Should the pair be stopped "Ox" Oldham, Pirate's plunging full-back, and Joe Cook, Tiger power-house, are scheduled to take over so no matter what happens there's sure to be plenty of fireworks at Shaw field where bleacher seats have been placed at very available spot around the field.

Lefors, McLean and Shamrock are the big three in the conference and Shamrock has yet to meet McLean and Lefors so there'll be more fire works to come.

Shamrock will go to Lakeview to try and keep their undefeated record intact while Clarendon will invade Wellington where a win for Wellington would keep the Skyrockets in the running for the title. Wheeler and Memphis will meet to decide which will become sole occupant of the cellar. Neither has a conference win chalked up yet.

White Deer and Perryton will battle in a conference game at White Deer.

Houston Organizes To Fight Canalization Of Trinity River

HOUSTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—A mass meeting sponsored by the Railroad Workers' Brotherhood laid plans last night to oppose canalization of the Trinity river.

Four hundred persons at the meeting, attended by representatives of both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions heard the project denounced as a pork barrel scheme fostered by real estate promoters which would give Dallas and Fort Worth lower freight rates to the detriment of Houston.

Barker Picks Minnesota, Alabama, Fordham, Texas

By HERB BARKER
NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Taking the customary wild swing at the week's football state: Michigan-Minnesota: The game of the week, maybe of the season. Both undefeated, both untied, both top-ranking outfits. The habit of victory is strong at Minnesota and so is the football guesser's habit of picking the Gophers to win accordingly, Minnesota, but those Gopher clichés had better be in shape.

Alabama-Georgia: A tough guess. The coin spins Alabama. Fordham-Texas Christian: The loss of Kyle Gillespie was a terrific blow to Christian. Taking Fordham. Washington-Stanford: Counting on cooperation from the weather man, Stanford.

Texas-Rice: Doubt if anyone's going to stop the Texas Juggernaut. Texas. Ohio State-Northwestern: Maybe this is where Ohio State gets off. Not too confidently. Northwestern-Tulane-Mississippi: Two good Southeastern conference teams, and one of them, Tulane, may be great. Subject to revision, Tulane.

Harvard-Navy: Another real test for the tars in view of Harvard's great play against Dartmouth. Superior man-power should turn the tide toward Navy just as it did in the Cornell game. Navy. Army-Columbia: Purely a guess, Columbia.

Vanderbilt-Princeton: The Tigers are big and slow and seem to match for unbeaten Vanderbilt, which rates a decided nod. Notre Dame-Illinois: Looks like the Irish will trip somewhere along the line and this might be the spot. But this corner strings along with Notre Dame.

Texas A. and M.-Baylor: Picking the Aggies. Missouri-Nebraska: Plenty of scoring power in that Missouri lineup. The nod, extremely hesitant, goes to Missouri.

Wisconsin-Indiana: Taking Indiana. Purdue-Iowa: Purdue. California-Southern California: Guess away... California. U.C.L.A.-Oregon: Looks safe for Oregon.

Washington State-Oregon State: Like Oregon State. Pitt-Duke: More woe for the Panthers. Duke. Penn-Maryland: Shouldn't be too much trouble for Penn.

Yale-Dartmouth: Out of the hat, Dartmouth. Cornell-Colgate: Picking Colgate. Louisiana State-Florida: Those Tigers really are roaring. L.S.U. Kentucky-West Virginia: Kentucky.

Game To Be Broadcast From Field At Childress

Brumley And Mates Ready To Upset Mighty Longhorns

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Texas Longhorns swing down the thorny trail tomorrow the trail Orange followers believe will lead to their greatest gridiron glory.

The first of six mighty opponents bear the way to a Southwest conference championship and a bowl invitation.

At the bend in the road are Rice's embattled Owls, a team that already has gone to the heights and wallowed in the mire in the short period of two weeks.

But the real business is ahead—Rice, Southern Methodist, Baylor, Texas Christian, Texas A. and M. and Oregon.

It's the pace that kills unless the runner is rugged and confident. Texas is all that—but so are some of those opponents.

A crowd expected to go on the sunny side of 42,000 will roll into Memorial Stadium to watch Texas battle for revenge from a typical Rice upset—that 13-0 thing that pitched the Longhorns out of the conference race last season.

Bob Brumley and the injured mates, who had to sit by and watch Louisiana State beat the Owls, are ready. And by no great stretch of the imagination you could see a beaten Texas team Saturday night—a team whose Rose Bowl hopes were rolled in the sod by the most surprising team of them all.

Down at College Station, the Texas Aggies will be driving for the great climax now being freely predicted along the gridiron. Texas vs. Texas A. and M. for the Southwest conference title on Thanksgiving day.

The Aggies' competition will be Baylor's lusty Bears, who will be shooting both barrels—and both barrels in this instance are Jack Wilson.

Shamrock To Play Tonight At Lakeview

SHAMROCK, Oct. 24 (Special)—The Shamrock Irish football team will try to maintain its undefeated status in district 3A of the Texas interscholastic football league in a game with the Lakeview Eagles on the Lakeview gridiron Friday night.

The undefeated Irish team will be playing without the services of two starting backs, Billy Sims, probably the fastest boy on the squad, who has not recovered from a cracked collarbone injury received early in the season, and Harold "Bull" Martin, plunging fullback, who suffered a sprained ankle in the Perryton game two weeks ago and which injury has not responded to treatment enough for any participation this week.

The Shamrock lads, perennial champions of this district, will be favored to outscore the Lakeview boys but the injury jinx and the fact that this will be the first time the Irish have played on the Eagle's home ground may prove more than the Irish can overcome and an upset would not be very surprising.

The Lakeview lads, usually the dormat of the district, have risen to new heights this season and with a well balanced defense and two fast running backs have already defeated Memphis and Wheeler, losing only to the powerful McLean Tigers.

Grenade Thrown At American Editor

SHANGHAI, Oct. 24 (AP)—J. B. Powell, American editor of the China Weekly Review and consistent critic of Japan's program in China, narrowly escaped injury or death tonight. A hand grenade thrown by an unidentified assailant hit him on the shoulder but failed to explode.

Powell was walking from his office to the American club in the international settlement, followed by his Chinese bodyguard when the attempt was made.

Portrait Of Late Senator Completed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—A portrait of the late Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, painted by Bernhard Godwin, will be placed on exhibit Saturday in the office of Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.). It is to be hung later in the office of the senate military affairs committee, over which Sheppard presided at the time of his death last spring.

Only the weather man knows what the weather will be like in Childress tonight when the Pampa Harvesters meet the Childress Bobcats. Childress reported a heavy fog this morning with no telling whether it would go up or down.

But sunshine or rain today won't make much difference to the field which is plenty soggy following a five-inch rain Tuesday and Wednesday. The playing field won't be particularly muddy but it also won't be nearly dry. All of which means that a muddy bunch of youngsters will play football tonight.

Coaches Buck Prejan and Mac Best and their Harvesters left at noon for Childress. Game time will be 8 o'clock and for the benefit of those unable to make the trip, the game will be broadcast over Station KFDN with Bill Browne at the microphone.

Childress has lost two games this season, a 12 to 6 decision to Amarillo and a 19 to 0 game with Wichita Falls. The Bobcats showed superiority in the air at all times but were held on the ground, thus losing the games. With the field anything but dry tonight, the Childress aerial game should be slowed down considerably but wet or dry it's just about impossible to stop Reeves and Brown. Bobcat sharpshooters who fire to tall, heavy ends.

Coaches Prejan and Best had not named a starting lineup when they left today. They said the beginning eleven would depend largely on the condition of the field.

Next Saturday the Harvesters go to Lubbock for their first conference game of the season.

Only About 120,000,000 Know That Texas Would Like To Play In Bowl

AUSTIN, Oct. 24 (AP)—They have a half million dollar secret at the University of Texas.

No one knows about it except the 120,000,000 or so persons living in the narrow confines of the United States.

In order to keep folks from imagining Texas might have Rose Bowl aspirations they're telling the press services the football team at the university isn't even thinking—or must not think—about any kind of bowl. "We're taking them as they come," say the Longhorns.

And they're coming. All this shush-shush about the Rose Bowl turned out for the 100,054 persons through the turnstiles for the four games Texas has played this season.

If they can keep it hushed up the next six weeks more than a quarter of a million fans will have paid to see the football team at the Rose Bowl. 18,000 turned out for the Louisiana State game, 44,054 for the Oklahoma clash, and 23,000 for the tilt was Arkansas.

The following week when Texas meets Southern Methodist at Dallas, 23,000—that's all they can take care of at Owenby stadium, Dallas—will turn out.

Then, an expected capacity crowd of 18,000 is announced for Texas' game with Baylor at Waco. They're not certain how many will witness the Texas-Texas Christian game the following week but there ought to be 20,000 or more.

A sell-out is already reported for Texas A. & M.-Texas at College Station, and that means about 40,000.

Then Texas plays Oregon in Austin. That should be worth 40,000 more and maybe capacity of 46,000 if Oregon is still a Rose Bowl contender by that time.

But don't tell anybody Texas would like to play in the Rose Bowl. It might hurt the attendance. As things stand curiosity and a desire to pick up some gossip are keeping the box office booming.

The first operation was performed at Kansas City to relieve a circulatory ailment. Mrs. Brinkley said complete healing did not take place.

Dr. Brinkley, now at a private home, was brought here several days ago for treatment. The last of the heart attacks was the most intense and left him greatly fatigued, Mrs. Brinkley said.

Representatives of companies operating in the Panhandle filed a statewide meeting of the state commission last week and almost got down on their knees asking for more allowable for the Panhandle. But what did it get them? Nothing more than a drop in the bucket 2,000 barrels which is barely enough to take care of new production.

The Panhandle needs at least 5,000 barrels more daily output and 10,000 barrels wouldn't be too much. But how is the Panhandle going to get the oil it needs?

Maybe delegations from every city and community in the Panhandle should organize and go to Austin demanding that the Panhandle be recognized.

Attitude of the commission seems to be that the Panhandle isn't a part of Texas. Requests are brushed aside and the Panhandle gets nothing.

Recently the commission adopted a new allowable method in the Panhandle but very few operators are receiving any benefit from the plan. At the last meeting A. E. Herrmann asked the commission to reconsider the order, claiming it is discriminatory because of the acreage factor. But he also "got nowhere."

The Panhandle is a part of Texas and it's time the railroad commission and other groups in Austin realize it.

The Enemy Within

How many Americans could answer this question with any degree of accuracy—"How adequate are our local fire defenses?"

The chances are that not one person in a hundred could give anything resembling an informed answer. Yet that question is one which directly affects all our lives, all our property—and which, at this time, has a very direct bearing on the national defense program.

Is the fire department up to snuff? Is there an abundance of water for fighting fire in all sections where it is needed? Is there a strictly enforced modern building code and fire prevention ordinance? Are periodic inspections made of local property to ferret out and correct fire hazards? Do schools and other public buildings have sufficient and properly designed emergency exits?

You are entitled to the answers to such questions as these, and it is your duty to ask them. Today fire loss is running ahead of last year. It is taking more lives. It is wasting more labor and energy. It is destroying sources of taxation, and thus increasing the burden that must be born by all other taxpayers. It is breeding delay and waste of time.

Even in very small communities, good fire protection is perfectly possible. The people can be educated. And many little towns have joined with others to create fire fighting organizations whose cost, when divided among the cooperating communities, is small. In short, wherever you live, whoever you are, there is no valid excuse for failure to do your part in preventing fire now.

FIGHTING FOR FOOL (Daily News, New York)

The Food Problem

Some high-minded people believe that the end of this cruel war, if the Allies win, is going to usher in a long and happy era of peace for the world. The high-minded part of the human race will triumph, and it is felt that a prolonged and high-minded peace will ensue automatically.

We believe it can be proved mathematically that this is an error. We can see no end to wars any time soon; expect, indeed, that bigger and bloodier wars will follow this one—and for a simple, elemental reason.

That simple reason is that the earth's population is rapidly increasing despite wars, meaning the food problem is becoming more acute for more people all the time. People will fight for food about as fiercely as they will fight for anything, because a fight for food is a fight for life itself. You can get on quite a while without sex, but you can't get on quite a while without food.

Ukrainian Breadbasket

The present war is a hotbed for a fight for food. The war on the Eastern Front, we mean, between Germany and Russia.

Over and over again in "Mein Kampf," Hitler said that Germany had to have the Russia-Ukraine to organize it into a big food production plant so that Germany might be self-sustaining as regards food. Hitler in the same book said he wanted nothing from England except food. The basic reason for that was that even if he should conquer England he would have either to feed it or let a lot of its people starve. England has to import some two-thirds of its food.

In the Spring of 1933, Hitler began asking us to be invaded, to start with the fact that the Ukrainian

REPEAL OF WAGNER LAW MORE IMPORTANT THAN RESULT OF EUROPEAN WAR

Few people realize how vague, and because of vagueness, how tyrannical, the Wagner law really is to the workers of America. Few people realize that if it is not repealed, it will make little difference to America whether Hitler or Stalin wins, and then defeats and conquers the United States. If the Wagner law is not repealed, we will be as subservient and as much oppressed by such people as Harry Bridges, "Ma" Perkins, Dave Beck and Willie Bioff and this gang, as we would be if Stalin or Hitler took possession of this country. None of them have any eternal standard of rightness. Their only standard is their personal changeable interest to promote themselves.

The Wagner Law does not define a labor union. Anything called a labor union that the employer does not influence can do almost anything it wants to and not be subject to laws that govern other groups.

The law prevents an employer from discriminating against a union member, no matter what that union stands for.

Certainly an employer should not discriminate against a union employee if the union to which the employee belonged did not attempt to discriminate against other workers. But every modern union is a violation of the principles of Christianity and the principles on which this country was founded; namely, that all people have certain Divine rights to pursue happiness, and no one has a right to interfere with these rights.

The purpose of our government was to establish this principle. And now this very government is making laws to permit labor union groups to combine to sabotage their fellowmen from having an equal right to pursue happiness.

Some Unions Worthy of Government Protection

Probably because all men should have the right to associate with other men to learn to be of mutual assistance without doing harm to another, is the reason that most people believe in labor unions. A labor union of this kind is a labor union worthy of protection by the government.

The average person without experience, however, does not know that labor unions are not now following the above principle. The whole stock in trade of labor unions that are getting protection from the government is monopoly—the right to fine and punish a fellowman, who does not agree with the majority as to what he should buy, read, how long he should work and how much he should receive for his services.

We, as a people, recognize that employers are immoral by combining and fining a fellow employee who undersells them. But we make a law that compels working men to do exactly the opposite from what we regard as moral for employers.

Certainly God was no respecter of persons. It is not right for the working man to do the things that are not right for the employer to do and no amount of sob-mongers' or sob-sisters' talk can make it right.

Unless the Wagner Law is repealed or the rights of a labor union are restricted by the same laws that bind an employer, this country will become as embroiled in a government of force and intimidation and blackmail as the governments of Russia and Germany.

There has never been a law passed that showed so much unquestioning subservience to the labor mongers and racketeers as the Wagner Law does, when it fails to specify what labor unions dare do legally and still be regarded as a labor union. It shows great fear and subservience on the part of our leaders, or gross ignorance, to have passed such a law as the Wagner Law. The biggest thing the American people can do to return prosperity and return to more nearly a free people, is to repeal the Wagner Law.

food. The Munich settlement was engineered in September, 1938, by Chamberlain and the British peace party. But the British war party kept shouting that Hitler must be stopped; and in September, 1939, when Hitler started east through Poland, the war party had its way, and Britain and France declared war on Germany.

The Other War Was Different

Hitler is still fighting for food. His war with England is chiefly political—a world power politics affair—plus an effort, thus far successful, to keep the British off his back while he tears into the Russians.

In this respect, the present war differs from World War No. 1. Before that war, the Kaiser was a damn fool, was not content with having a prosperous country and a superb army, but had to chuck it all into the fire by building a big navy to challenge British sea power. When the British offered him a naval holiday, he refused. In order to eat, Britain has to maintain control of the sea. This is what Mr. Roosevelt means by freedom of the seas. So Britain had to fight for its food against the Kaiser. Eventually, the Allies won—and proceeded to grind into German hearts the lesson that food is well-nigh as important as breathing when the war was over.

America's "Germany"

Japan is another nation which cannot feed itself, but has either to import large amounts of food or go out and grab food-producing lands. An our government acts toward Japan much as the British war party acts toward Germany.

We tell Japan that it must not expand any where, but must keep its prolific, energetic and hungry people forever cooped up on the rock, little Japanese islands.

Our State Department worries if Japan marches Mother Russia in Manchuria, Mother China farther south, Mother Vichy France in Indo China. It professes to believe that if Japan gets the Dutch East Indies from Mother Holland—er, exile, a lot of our rubber and tin supplies will be cut off—as if Japan didn't want to get that rubber and tin so as to sell it to the United States, the biggest market for those materials in the world. In order to get more food for Japan.

If the United States is going to object every time some hungry nation sets forth to grab it self some food, it will precipitate endless war. It will probably cause a world gang-up on its own well-stocked food warehouses and produce fields.

Right now, we think the world is nuts. For illustration, who would have supposed that 80-year-old Senator George W. Norris (Ind.-Neb.), last living Senator who voted against our entry into World War No. 1, would now say that he was "not so sure that war with Japan would be a bad thing for us?"

When a republic degenerates to the point where there is so little liberty left that the people do not feel it worth while to sacrifice to maintain it, they are ready for a dictator and a totalitarian government. Liberty, a magazine of Religious Freedom.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24—Behind the screen: The Sutch-in-Time comedy. Applications for the positions of Sarong Inspector and Evening Gown Averager will be forwarded by me to the proper authorities.

A dull movie now in production is identified around the studio as "Hold Back the Yawn." Inflation note: The seven leading motion picture organizations will show a net profit of something like $30,000,000 for the fiscal year just closed or closing. Jimmy Durante is working in a blond wig, false eyelashes, sweater and spats skirt in an effort to fool a sergeant who finds him AWOL in "You're in the Army Now." But he forgets to wear an awning over his nose. Incidentally, Durante tells about being tapped by a panhandler who said proudly, "Mind you, I'm no depression bum. I was a bum when the boom was on." And talking about a certain Hollywoodsman, the comic said, "I couldn't warm up to that guy if we were cremated together!"

Pauline Goddard has a bulky chaumite makeup stand on the set of "The Lady Has Plans." Push a button on one side, and a panel recedes and a radio pops out. Another button-operated panel on the other side allows a small bar to appear. It's really an amazing contrivance, except that the bar is empty and the radio set doesn't work.

Ornithological item: There aren't any real red-breasted robins out here, so when one was required for a scene in "The Great Man's Lady," a "Momet" was used for side part with water colors. And the song of a genuine robin will be dubbed in.

This column does not intend to acquire the pernicious and presumptuous habit of book-reviewing which has become one of the most popular forms of frustration and boredom, but we would like to call your attention to a book that he guarantees will encourage you to be a better person.

This book is "Keys of the Kingdom," by Cronin, and it gets its title from the New Testament verse which quotes Jesus Christ as saying to Peter, "and I will give unto you the keys of the kingdom of Heaven." The chief character in the book is a Catholic priest who believes that there are many keys to the kingdom of Heaven and that it was just as possible for a Buddhist to have one as it was for a Catholic or a Baptist. I believe the priest in the story is the most unforgettable character I ever met in a book.

Harold Haslam embarked on his great adventure the other day, and he could not have been more excited if he were going to get married. He left Wednesday for Dallas to join the naval air corps, and as far as is known he is the first boy in this community to get into that branch of service. Harold himself is not robust, but neither is he frail.

Harold went three years to Texas Tech and was studying a pre-med course. Then he knew that he didn't want to be a doctor. His number was coming up and he knew that he could get out of going if he continued the pre-med course, but he didn't. He preferred the air corps. Three months after he made application to join the naval air arm he went to Dallas. He will be stationed at the new field at Grand Prairie.

WELFARE AND HAPPINESS REQUIRE MORE INTERNATIONAL TEMPERANCE

Text: Deuteronomy 5:32, 33; 11:28-29; Isaiah 28:1-6; Habakkuk 2:12.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

This lesson is for International Temperance Sunday. The fact that so large a part of the world is at war, and that even in countries where alcoholism has been a serious problem, the chief problem of millions is now that of getting food and drink for normal sustenance, does not minimize the need of stressing international temperance.

"The Long Week-End," which is a social history of Great Britain from 1918-1939, presents among other things, a picture of night club life and all its accompaniments which might well be a picture of what has been happening in our own country.

In fact, it is a somewhat sad reflection upon us that much of this moral debacle in Great Britain has been called the "Americanization of England."

The three passages from various portions of the Bible, which constitute our lesson, indicate how valuable a text book the Bible is for the inculcation of temperance. Strong drink made its ravages in the ancient world as it makes its ravages today. The story of the effect of intemperance upon the individual and upon society has been practically the same in every age and among every people. The word that the prophet Isaiah pronounced to the drunkards of Ephraim is the same word that falls upon the drunkards of America and other lands today.

Not is the cause of temperance one that stands alone. The three great enemies of human welfare and happiness have been slavery, war, and strong drink. Today war is the upmost of these enemies, with slavery threatening vast portions of mankind, if the totalitarian powers, who have declared that might makes right and who have plunged the world in war, have their way.

It is this situation that gives both point and large application to the single verse in our lesson from the prophecy of Habakkuk: "Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood, and establisheth a city by iniquity. For much in the day every people today is still established by iniquity and built on blood.

Our own nation will be strong to save the world from its aggressors and the powers that threaten to stifle all democracy and liberty only in proportion as we make our personal lives and our social life clean and strong, building upon a sure foundation of brotherhood and a co-operation in the things that to a large extent have been built up in vice, and all manner of unrighteousness and injustice.

Liberty Motors, Too Late to Aid U. S. in 1918, Now Drive Russian Tanks Against the Germans

By WILLIS THORNTON

DETROIT, Oct. 24—Twenty-three years is a long time to wait for a dividend, but it's sweet when the dividend comes at last.

The United States is now collecting some unexpected dividends on a huge investment in 1917-1918 in the Liberty motor—the motor that came to dominate the aviation field just too late to be the deciding factor in World War I that it was expected to be.

Certainly those Liberty Motors, built in 1918, are now driving Russian tanks against the Germans. The Allison, outstanding liquid-cooled motor of the present air defense drive, is a direct descendent of the Liberty.

How Liberty motors designed to propel allied planes against the Germans in 1918 remained to propel Russian tanks against Germans 23 years later is an absorbing story now being recalled by Detroit motor engineers.

FIRST ON THE FOURTH

The Liberty motor was to be America's answer to the German threat in the last war. The highest hopes were held up when the first pilot model was presented July 4, 1917. This 400-horsepower, 800-pound motor seemed good enough to give definite air superiority to any plane it propelled, so more than 22,000 were ordered from several plants.

The first production model came out at Thanksgiving time, but minor bugs developed, and mass production was set back. By spring of 1918, production was still lagging disappointingly. Real mass production of this really superior motor was just getting well under way when the Armistice came.

Well, there was the government with thousands of excellent Liberty motors on hand and no war to use them in. They were sold by thousands at "remainder" prices.

One of the buyers was the Allison Experimental Co. started in 1915 by James Allison, a founder of the Indianapolis Speedway. He had built many of them in the first place, and was well qualified to rebuild them for various uses. Some parts were strengthened, and superior bronze-arranged bearings designed.

The old Liberties went all over the world and some of them are still in use in planes. One of the largest sales was to Soviet Russia during the 'twenties. A large quantity of the rebuilt Liberties were bought for tank propulsion. Engineers believe it is these which are undoubtedly still in use on the Russian front today.

In the meantime Allison was going along in a modest way, building occasional racing cars, experimental motors and tank propulsion units, which gradually began to be standard in most aviation motors. In 1929, in order to acquire these bearings and other patents, as well as the skilled personnel Allison had gathered about him, General Motors bought the Allison plant after the founder's death.

By 1935 the plant began to expand in its old Indianapolis location, developing a liquid-cooled motor or whose foundation was in an experimental model built for the navy's dirigible program in 1930. There were traces of the old Liberty in it yet, certain tricks learned in connecting rods and crankshafts learned in 1918.

FIGHTS ON ALL FRONTS

This new Allison passed army tests in 1937 but few were built until 1940. Then the government, and the present magnificent Indianapolis plant, perhaps the largest engine factory in the world, began turning out the machine which is driving hundreds of Airacobras and other pursuit ships in the United States and on the fighting fronts of Europe.

The design is constantly being improved. For instance, a year ago the motor developed 1,040 horsepower; today it develops 1,325 with an actual decrease in weight, which is now less than one pound per horsepower. The old Liberty weighed two pounds for each horsepower developed.

Genealogy doesn't mean much in mechanics, but it's more than possible that grandfather Liberty might look up from a tank on some Russian battlefield today and recognize grandson Allison purring overhead in a fast pursuit ship, both of them paying a dividend 23 years deferred.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The flood of war-propaganda which is being let loose daily by foreign government sources, coupled with suppression of news, is vastly increasing the difficulty of general public everywhere in gauging the world crisis which is to affect our lives for generations to come.

Censorship in military matters there must be, but there is downright danger to the people in the withholding of legitimate news and in the dissemination of lies, and half-truths amounting to lies, as practiced by many governments which feed the public what is good for it. Naturally this acts not only as a blindfold for the home publics of these countries, but we in America are handicapped in arriving at the truth.

Striking recognition of the essentially freedom of the press was registered in the British house of commons when Minister of Information Bracken rejected a proposal to nationalize Reuters, for almost a century ago it was the largest and most influential news agencies.

"If the news agency is regarded throughout the world as the property of the British government," explained Bracken, "its news value is likely to be very small."

The minister speaks with the knowledge of a former newspaper editor. He is one of Britain's most brilliant personalities and is noted for his bold tongue. The fact that he holds a ministerial position at the age of forty bespeaks his capabilities. He is a close friend of Prime Minister Churchill and last year served as parliamentary secretary to the premier.

Bracken told the house that the government exercises no control over Reuters, excepting as one of the agency's chief customers. This reference probably had to do with the fact that Reuters supplies news to the government-owned British Broadcasting Corporation. The minister's most significant statement, however, was this:

"If the members think Reuters' position as a world news agency is equal to that of the Associated Press they should not be surprised to find my mind have lost ground."

Now Bracken didn't explain what he had in mind by this blunt remark, and far be it from me to try to interpret it. However, I do know what the Associated Press has such a high reputation for.

The A. P. is not a proprietary organization. It is a wholly cooperative union of persons representing more than 1,400 newspapers. It has no stock capital; makes no profits and declares no dividends.

The membership includes people of almost every conceivable political, economic and religious belief. The A. P. is impartial. It gives all sides of every situation with meticulous care. No government anywhere has any strings on the A. P.

In this independence lies the strength of the A. P.

News concerns which are controlled by governments are essentially propaganda agencies. Such an agency serves its government in exactly the same sense that a press agent serves a business house.

That's what the reader is up against today in trying to evaluate dispatches which reach the public through government-controlled agencies. This propaganda may not be evil in itself, but in general it constitutes a great evil because it represents only the viewpoint of the government and suppresses everything which the government wishes to withhold.

In such a situation the reader may turn with confidence to the impartial report of the A. P., which is collected throughout the world by its own reporters. Many foreign government statements naturally have a news value and must be handled, but here the A. P. steps in and, by digging up the circumstances surrounding these statements, places them in their true light.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER IN PARADISE

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: The tragedy of two murders at Paradise Lake has removed the romance between school teacher Mary O'Connor, vacationing there with her mother, Maudie, and a guest of Maudie's, Flynn, sent down from the city to cover the story. But that doesn't make things easier for Jennie Morris, whose stern, strict aunt, Miss Miller, has been sent to death for the murder of Herbert Cord, local editor who is in love with Jennie; for Liza Holmes, Miss Miller's maid; for Chris Gordon, elderly mailman, whose business has been hurt by the murder of sophisticated Herbert Cord. Cord carried on a summer flirtation with Jennie for two years, and this year embarrassed her by bringing Margie Dixon to Paradise Lake as his fiancée. Police suspect gangster Stan Veretti of the crime. Maudie discovered both bodies, seems to know more about the cases than she is revealing. When a mysterious stranger came back into the town, Maudie and Mary occupy, Maudie returns hastily from the city.

WHAT I HEARD

CHAPTER XVII

THE time certainly didn't drag that day, probably because Denny had to leave late that afternoon. He'd checked with the state police and returned with the news that they were still getting nowhere as far as the Morris slaying was concerned.

We didn't have much time together, but I could see that his visit had lifted Maudie's spirits. She had that knowing look in her eyes and when it was time for him to leave she kissed him on the cheek and then pushed the two of us to the back door.

"It's a relief to see you two making call-eyes at each other again. I hope, Denny Flynn, that you'll use some of that Irish charm this time and save Mary from a life as an old maid school teacher."

Romance was definitely in the air that day. In fact, it carried over into the evening. I went out for a walk after dinner and ended up on the pier to watch the moon rise over the lake. I could see a boat down near the Morris dock and I hoped Jennie was able to get a little portion of pleasure out of the night, too. The boat drifted slowly down my way and I could see a man and a girl sitting in it. They couldn't have noticed how close they were coming to shore or how their lowered voices carried in the stillness, but I could tell they were Jennie and Tod Palmer.

THERE was only the lapping of the water on the pier, the baa of a sheep in Anderson's pasture, and the flop of a jumping fish.

"I can't be reconciled, though." Her voice was strained and seemed higher than usual. "At the reading of the will yesterday everyone sat around and looked at me. Relatives, I mean. People I've only seen a few times in my life; second and third cousins. Aunt Millie never was one to visit relatives, you know."

"It was only natural that she should leave most to me, Liza and I were the only ones she really cared for, but all the time the lawyer was reading the will I had the feeling those people were staring at me and wondering."

"Jennie, you mustn't feel that way. It's just your nerves. You imagine a lot of this. People don't feel that you had anything to do with her death. Why should they?"

"Oh, I don't know. Except that everyone knows we had quarreled over Herbert Cord. People knew she didn't want me to see him, or go places with him, and that I'd just ignored her. They saw how she looked when all those things came out at the inquest about his being a gambler. They could see she was simply disgusted that I should have permitted our name to be dragged into such an affair."

"But we hadn't had any fights over him, Tod. She said what she thought—in that bitter, ironical way of hers—and I did as I pleased. The night he—he was killed and we had had the scene in the inn—the night you said I was with you, Tod—I saw her walking home through Echo Grove. It was while I was sitting there in the woods trying to stop crying after Herbert left me."

"I was so surprised because I've never known her to be out walking at that time of night. But I didn't dare stop her. She would have wanted to know why I was there, and so I just waited until she had time to reach home and then I followed along."

"But I think we understood one another pretty well. And we loved one another, too. But people do stare at me. I know that they're wondering if I—"

"Don't say it, Jennie darling."

THEY were so close to shore now that it didn't seem possible they couldn't see me there sitting on the dock, but they were too-engrossed to even see the moon.

"I don't suppose people mean to be unkind. They're just curious," she said. "Like Mrs. O'Connor."

"I nearly fell in the water at that one. What had Maudie done now, I wondered. Tod wondered, too, for he asked Jennie and she explained."

"Oh, she came over to the house this morning. I happened to go out in the garden and she and Liza Holmes were deep in conversation. When they saw me they hushed up. I mean they changed the subject; you can always tell when people do that. And then Mrs. O'Connor was so charming. But I know she and Liza were talking about something they didn't want me to hear."

"What do you care about Mrs. O'Connor?" Tod demanded. "She's harmless enough, and she can be good company. I don't think she meant any harm."

"Well, maybe I am upset more because Liza was talking to her. Liza's the only one I have left, Tod. I'd be completely alone without her, and somehow I never thought I'd have to question her loyalty. I never thought she'd be talking to a stranger about me."

"YOU don't know that she was, Jennie. Liza is loyal. She'd be cut in little pieces for you. And don't feel she's the only one you have left. She isn't—because I'm here, dearest. I know it's been a long time since I used to play croquet on Sunday afternoon with you, and we haven't seen each other often these past few years, but I'm back home now, Jennie, and when you want me—"

Well, I left then, moving in the shadow of the trees as quietly as I could so that I wouldn't disturb them. I wanted to see Maudie and find out why she'd been talking so secretly to Liza Holmes. (To Be Continued)

Noted Authority On Horticulture Dies

HOUSTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Sam Houston Dixon, 86-year-old writer of Texas history and an authority on horticulture, died here today.

He wrote many books, including "Heroes and Martyrs of Texas," "History of San Jacinto," and "Romance and Tragedies of Texas History."

He pioneered the Elberta peach industry in East Texas and aided in development of the citrus fruit industry in the lower Rio Grande valley.

When the French discovered a blight on their grape vines, they sent for Dixon, who diagnosed the disease and effected a cure. He also was called on for aid by Florida citrus fruit growers.

Dixon served in the Texas legislature; was editor of Farm and Home on the Houston Post, and was state inspector of penitentiaries under Gov. James Hogg.

He was a past president of the Texas Press association and was commissioner of Texas to the St. Louis world's fair and the San Francisco exposition.

Dixon was named for Gen. Sam Houston, a close friend of his father.

He was survived by two daughters, Mrs. H. A. Bybee and Mrs. J. E. Steber of Houston, and three sons, S. H. Jr., of Houston, Randolph of Galveston and W. E. Dixon of Muskegan, Mich.

Women Exonerate Houston Reporter

HOUSTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Criticism of newspaper coverage of the Women's Christian Temperance Union convention here today brought an offer by a reporter to leave the convention sessions, and a vote by the delegates to invite her to remain.

The criticism was voiced by Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, president, who said she had received complaints from the organization's officers about newspaper reports of yesterday's floor fight, which revolved about a charge of the union was "reeking with politics."

Mrs. Watts said she hoped the newspapers in the future would report the convention "properly."

A Houston Chronicle reporter, Mrs. Carmelita Mitchell, said the coverage had presented the facts and offered to leave the convention if the union desired.

Mrs. Lloyd Merriman of Galveston moved to invite the reporter to remain, and the motion carried.

Mrs. Will E. May of Sherman said "before we criticize the press, let's look into our own hearts. As long as we can't conduct our convention properly, we can't blame the press for giving the facts."

British air experts are of the opinion that Nazi raiders drop fire bombs, not only for incendiary purposes, but also to give sufficient light for night explosive bombing.

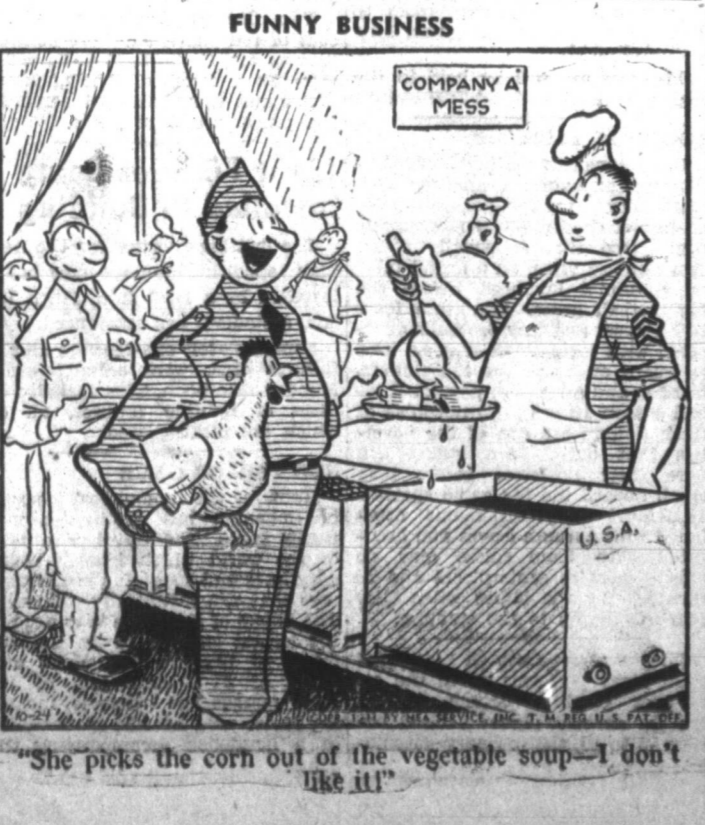

Amarilloan Hired As CC Secretary Of Sooner Town

CHOTEAU, Okla., Oct. 24 (AP)—This little farming community, booming because of the nearby location of a $60,000,000 smokeless powder plant, hired a chamber of commerce secretary-manager today. A contract was signed with Waldron R. Brower, 34, Amarillo, Tex., at $2,400 yearly. Brower went to work immediately.

FUNNY BUSINESS

Rules Of Etiquette Set Down By Staff Authority

"Powder in public but make it snappy." "A compact in the hand is better than a shine on the nose." This is a sample of etiquette brought up to date.

Manners should be a part of every day living. A "hangover from the horse and buggy days," is the mistaken idea that the boy should seat the girl in the car then go around to the other side and get in. Don't make a chauffeur out of your date. To appear helpless in this modern age is absurd. Open the door yourself. He can close it.

When you are with your boy friend it is all right to caution him against reckless handling of his car—even when you are a guest in the car. Certainly! To caution him in a gracious manner may prevent an accident. There's no use to be in constant fear of one, either.

You may often wonder whether to refuse a dance with a man. Yes, but you shouldn't dance immediately with somebody else.

When a girl finds herself in the presence of people "on a party," which she feels is a shade daring, it is necessary that she endure the situation, or may she tactfully leave? She may, leave of course.

There are a number of "don'ts" to be observed at a football game. One is, don't shout in your neighbor's ear. Yell through the cup of your hands. That's better.

Gleanings

Mr. Steele: There was a man in one state elected to senate who wasn't old enough to hold a seat, so he had to wait several months before he could take a seat in the senate.

Tom Keyser: Oh, he had to stand up.

Mrs. Holloway's Favorite: Then there's the one about the Scotchman who wrote his letters in shorthand to save paper.

"It better to have the world at thy feet prodding thy corns, than to have it on your shoulders, inspecting thy dandruff."

Mr. Nuckles: Now if I subtract 25 from 37 what's the difference? Mildred McC.: Yeah! That's what I say! Who cares?

Mrs. Sanford: To make this I will have to get a griller. I suppose you know what a griller is, don't you? Dorothy Abbott: Yes, ma'am, I saw one in the circus and if you get one of them I'm leaving.

Two colored men were discussing things in general. One was telling how he'd just got a job as a Pullman porter and that his conductor had told him that he must treat the passengers with tact.

"What am I dis tact stuff?" he wanted to know.

"Let me enlighten your intellect, brothah," said the other and wiser darke. "Once Ah was workin' up at de Waldorf Hotel. One day, Ah was cleanin' up and happen to open a bathroom door and dere was a lady sittin' in de tub."

"Ah shuts de door quick and Ah says, 'Beg you' pardon, suh!'" "Well, dat 'beg you' pardon' was jes' politeness, but de 'suh' dat was tact."

The officer of the day stopped a mess orderly as he was carrying a soup tureen out of the kitchen. "Here, you!" he snapped, "give me a taste of that!" Obediently he was handed a ladle and he tasted it. "Great Scott! Do you call that stuff soup?" he roared.

"No, sir," meekly responded the orderly, "that's dishwater."

They say that cloth is being made out of bananas. Now that should be a nice little thing to slip in when you're in a hurry.

The junior girl, in her Big sedan, Made love to the Senior man.

Moral: Ain't they all alike? Warm breath on my cheek; Soft touch on my shoulder, Little face pressed close to mine, Eeeeeeeek! Who let the cat in?

He: Pardon me lady, but your stockings are wrinkled. She: You brute, I have no stockings on.

Elephant: Why aren't you big and strong like me? Mouse: I've been sick.

Intramural Sports

The first stage of the boy's intramural sports program has passed with the winding up of the football tournament this week. This tournament has been especially valuable in the fact that it has provided many of the boys with experience in not only the game itself but in teaching them the value of good sportsmanship.

Room 217 is now leading in the junior-senior division and the players of this team are almost certain to receive the gold football which are awarded to the winning team. Although 217 has won nine games while losing none, the other teams haven't given up yet because they know that the more points they get will count in the long run. At the end of the year an award will be made to each player of the home room having the most points, provided this player has participated in at least four sports during the year.

Intramural basketball will start next week. Home rooms who want to enter a team should get behind their coach and help him organize a team. The gymnasium will be available for practice during the noon hour and after school for coaches who make proper arrangements. The winning team will not only receive points toward their year's total but each player will receive a watch charm.

The award for the "dumbest" quarter back in the football tournament goes to the home room that chose to punt on the last play of the game from behind their own goal line and had it blocked by the opposing team which was one point behind. What would you have called on the play?

In closing it might be said that "the poorest sport is not one who complains when things go wrong, but one who complains because he does nothing and gripes because he has nothing to complain about."

The girls of home room 102 defeated room 216 in a game of kick-pen baseball tournament will be played Monday afternoon.

The croquet tournament will begin Thursday afternoon with a series of singles.

Practice games in speed ball will start soon.

Girls in home rooms that do not have enough for teams will be put on a team if they will see Miss Maxine Richardson.

Coaches' meetings have been changed to Tuesday so as not to interfere with other activities.

Telephone To Be Installed In Hall For Student Use

Council Will Pay For Instrument

"May I use the telephone please?" is one phrase that will not be ringing in Mrs. Roberts ear much longer. The student council voted 100 per cent to put a business phone in the hall for the use of the students. This will be an extra feature for the school, but will be one that will help the students. The phone will be a private one and not an extension from the office. It has not been decided where the phone will be placed, but it will be placed where it will cause the least disturbance. Phillip Silcott, council president, stated that the phone would be put in as soon as possible. The cost for the phone will be around $5 a month but the student council has taken the responsibility of paying for it.

This and Student Council powers were discussed last Tuesday. Mr. Steele, co-sponsor of the council, stated that the Student Council must have the backing of the entire student body and must know they have the backing. He read parts of the Student Council Constitution stressing certain articles and amendments.

Mr. Steele asked each home room president to get suggestions from their home room students on how they think the school may be improved.

Science Laboratory Receives Shipment Of New Materials

Most of the laboratory equipment and reagents have arrived, stated Mrs. G. H. Alexander, head of the science department.

Biology and physics equipment has also arrived.

Gas bottles, flasks, graduated cylinders, test tubes, burners, retorts, distillation apparatus, covers and watch glasses, funnels, thistle tubes, platinum wire, litmus paper and one Fisher burner.

To every two students will be supplied a sufficient amount of equipment for experiments.

Aside from the separate laboratory storage rooms in each department, biology, chemistry, and physics, a separate stock room cares for all the excess apparatus and materials for the entire science department.

Soap sponges have been installed in both physics and chemistry rooms—these are highly resistant to acids.

The Westerners have won four games and tied one. They battled Vernon a team which Amarillo best, to a scoreless tie. They defeated Lamesa, San Angelo, Borger, and North Side, Fort Worth.

Arnold Johnson, senior, was awarded $3 in defense stamps for placing second with his theme "Fire Prevention Is Life Saving."

The themes were judged by the Junior High English Department, headed by Mrs. Jack Stroup, D. P. Osborne, principal, stated.

The "eyes of Texas" are turned this week upon the Panhandle in general and District 1AA in particular, where the Lubbock Westerners and the Amarillo Sandies will clash in the feature conference game of the state.

The Sandies, undefeated in five games, possess a strong defense, but last year, they won a championship team. They boast victories over Childress, Vernon, Breckenridge of San Antonio, Austin of El Paso, and Norman, Okla.

The Westerners have won four games and tied one. They battled Vernon a team which Amarillo best, to a scoreless tie. They defeated Lamesa, San Angelo, Borger, and North Side, Fort Worth.

The junior pictures will be smaller than the senior pictures and they will take a larger section. Annuals from other schools were looked over for ideas on how to arrange the book and to note the benefit of colors to the annual.

Snapshots are to be turned in to John Knox, photography editor. The staff hopes that the snapshot section can be a better one than last year. Students are asked to contribute good snapshots concerning the school year or school activities.

Four backs are still out on account of injuries. Charlie Boyles, 120-pound fullback, is out, along with R. L. Edmondson, quarterback; Leonard Hollis, half; and George Neef, half.

The Harvesters team has won from Burkburnett and Oney, and lost to Amarillo and Wichita Falls. The Harvesters, winners of four contests and losers of one will undoubtedly have the "edge" in tonight's game. They also have defeated Burkburnett.

The object of the game is to acquire the largest gold hoard by strategic moves of treasure dice. Brief histories of El Dorado and of many other famous lost treasures, including pirate gold hoards, are supplied in a handbook accompanying the game.

Hallow'en Ghosts, Spooks Get Glamour Through Age

Do you like to bob for apples, dress like witches, pin on cat's tails, go to previews, soap windows, turn over trash barrels, and ring door bells. These are age old customs still observed. Some of these date back as far as 500 A. D. one which is no longer observed is that of burning nuts. A young woman could tell if their lovers were faithful by putting a nut on a hot grate. If the nut burned and smoked, the beloved had regard for her, if it cracked he did not love her.

Many people do not know the origin of Halloween, but they observe it. Centuries and centuries before the Christian era all nationalities had some superstition or activity on the last day of October. It was called All Hallow's Eve and All Saints Day. It lasted from sundown to midnight. During this period supernatural influences were to prevail, things visible and invisible were believed to walk. Imaginations wandered through realms of space causing numbers to commit suicide.

The first people to engage in these weird doings were the Celts a short while before the Christian era. They built bonfires on hill tops, to ward off evil spirits.

Druid priests had always offered horses as a sacrifice to their gods in order that they might live the coming year. They still practiced this four hundred years after the birth of Christ.

In northern Ireland All Hallow's Eve was a festive affair, but it was called Nutcrack Night. From sundown to midnight the people ate nuts and fruit that had been saved for months for the occasion. They were also supposed to be merry.

Almost a thousand years later people would set three bowls on a table, one of which was to be empty, the others containing foil water and pure water. A young man was blindfolded and the bowls were shifted around, if he stuck his fingers in pure water he would marry a pretty maid, if they were stuck in foil water he would marry a widow, and if in an empty bowl, a doomed bachelor he would be.

Simmons In Charge Of Lost And Found

The lost and found department has been started again this year with Fern Simmons, senior, in charge. At the present time the lost and found is in the registrar's office, but plans are being discussed to allow more space to this department. A new feature which the lost and found hopes to promote is the sale of supplies, such as notebook paper and pencils. A committee was appointed by Phillip Silcott, student council president, to see that they would not meet with the approval of the administration and the student body. The fund derived from such sales will go to the school or to the library.

Carnival Will Be Postponed Until Late In Spring

The carnival planned for November 7 has been postponed until later in the spring. This was decided in a special meeting of the council Wednesday. It was postponed because junior high has planned an amateur night for that date.

"As junior high has cooperated with the high school in the past it is only fair that we postpone the carnival in order not to cause a conflict with them," Mr. A. L. Steele, sponsor, said.

An all-school party and dance will be given Hallow'en night, however. Gret'n Ann Bruton, chairman of the social committee, is in charge of the plans and any one with games should contact her. The games will be played in the cafeteria and the dance will be in the gymnasium. The price of admission will be 10 cents and the party and dance will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Home-Ec Kitchen Is One Of Most Modern In Texas

The home economics department has everything from built-in ironing boards to rolling pins and flour sifters. It is divided into three departments—the kitchen, living and dining room and the sewing room.

The kitchen has six new gas stoves, each fitted in a small complete kitchenette. Besides having the rolling pins the kitchen equipment includes fruit juice extractors, measuring cups and individual flour cans, graters, dish towel racks, muffin pans, coffee pots, panning knives, mixing bowls, food choppers and rotary egg beaters and cream whippers are only a few of the things the students are using. A recent coat of paint was given to the walls and fixtures of the kitchen. Six new tables have been ordered and when they arrive the girls are going to paint them. And last, but not least, there is going to be a refrigerator in which they will keep perishable foods.

The sewing room has a large display case, two ironing boards and ample room for supplies. The pride of this department is nine sewing machines, four of which are electric.

Armistice Day Is First School Holiday

Many students are beginning to wonder about the holidays. There are 17½ holidays during the school year.

Thanksgiving vacation will begin November 27, the following Friday will also be a holiday. School will close December 19 for the Christmas holidays and will reopen on January 5.

The Northwest Texas Teachers conference will be held on March 20. The Easter vacation will be from April 3 to 6. School will close for the summer vacation May 29.
