AFL Wins At Ballot Box In Detroit

(By The Associated Press) AFL Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach operators won at the ballot box today in the jurisdictional dispute which tied up Detroit's city transit system by strike last week. At the same time, the threat of a national telephone tie-up was averted.

A complete but unofficial tabulation of the Detroit vote named the AFL union as exclusive bargaining agent for the city transit system. The AFL union received 3,075 votes to 1,924 for the CIO state, county and municipal workers of America, which has opposed the election. Of 5,700 employees eligible to vote, 5,016 cast ballots before the polls closed at 7 a. m.

The election was part of an agreement, ratified Sunday, which ended the strike and the inconvenience it has caused the city's working population of 400,000.

The telephone dispute ended with an understanding between union installation men and the Western Electric company, a unit of the Bell Telephone system.

Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the U. S. Conciliation Service, won an understanding between the disputants after 61 hours of nearly constant negotiations.

Chief terms of the settlement were: A blanket wage increase of 6 cents an hour for about 9,000 employees; national recognition of the union as bargaining agent; a new seniority provision; an arbitration agreement, and the right on the part of the union to reopen the wage discussion March 1, 1942, if it sees fit to do so.

The Western Electric employees work in all sections of the country and were represented by the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, an independent union.

A new strike threat arose meanwhile at the DuPont Chemical plant at Belle, West Virginia. A committee of CIO employees there voted to strike September 4 unless the company agrees to a collective bargaining election. The CIO claims 3,000 of the plant's 4,300 employees.

Members of the CIO United Cloak Workers' union continued on strike at the New Haven Cloak company, New Haven, Conn., despite their victory in an NLRB bargaining election yesterday. Preparing to submit a proposed contract to the company, Caesar Guazzo, union organizer, said the workers would not return to their jobs until a contract was signed. A company official said the company would probably submit the contract demands for at least two days after they were submitted.

Colorful 'Parade' To Invite Neighbors To Picnic

LENINGRAD IN LAST-DITCH FIGHT

Entertainers To Accompany Thirty Cars

Motorcade Will Make Home Stand At LaNora Theater

A colorful motorcade that will virtually amount to a full-fledged parade will leave Pampa tomorrow morning and return tomorrow night for a parade and program here.

Other entertainment attractions will be Lord Binkinsop who will do his bit in inviting crowds at a dozen towns in the Top O' Texas to attend the Victory picnic to be held in Pampa the afternoon of Labor Day, beginning at 3 o'clock; the Stark family band which will furnish music, the queens of the Fiesta parade, and the Dogpatchers.

Finis Stilwell, parade chairman, announced that 30 cars would represent as many states in the motorcade.

The motorcade will make its final parade and last stop in Pampa tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock, so be down at the LaNora theater at that hour to hear music, comedy, and receive an invitation to bring your lunch basket to the All States picnic at Central park Monday afternoon. The motorcade will parade up and down the main streets before going to the theater where the veterans band will furnish music.

The motorcade will deliver invitations to Top O' Texas at Stelly's town, Borger, Panhandle, Amarillo, Claude City, Groom, McLean, Shamrock, Wheeler, Canadian and Miami. The group will be at Amarillo at noon tomorrow.

"We guarantee the most colorful motorcade that ever toured the Panhandle," said W. R. Prazee, general chairman of the picnic committee. "Each car door will be decorated with huge placards stating, for instance, 'Kansans Invite You to Attend the All States Victory Picnic, Pampa, Central Park, Labor Day.' The first name will be changed in the case of each car, Mr. Stilwell said.

Hostesses for the picnic date to be held at the Southern club Monday night were announced by Mrs. Bell Wells as follows: Anna Bell, Marie Terrell, Betty Fletcher, Marla Downs, June Marie Amick, Gertrude Hazard. Hat checkers will be Anna Lois Deezley and Mary Bell. Completed plans indicated that the picnic will be as colorful and as exciting as the motorcade. On the program is Tex DeWesse as master of ceremonies, Rep. Dick Craig of Miami who as Uncle Sam will welcome all his nieces and nephews and urge unity and solidarity, Cecil (Stuttering Sam) Hunter who will call the roll of states, the Harvester and Veterans bands which will furnish music for the picnic.

A dramatic moment full of feeling will be when the assembly is called upon by a member of the American Legion to lead the crowd in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

The entire picnic will be dedicated to unity, neighborliness and patriotic loyalty to the nation. If anyone has to do to attend the picnic is to bring a picnic lunch and spread it either on the long table or on the grass. Free lemonade will be available for all, but nickel pop.

Laval Shot By Nazi Foe

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Aug. 27 (AP)—Pierre Laval, former Vichy premier and once heir to Marshal Petain, has been shot by a foe of the Germans at Versailles, it was disclosed tonight. His wounds are not believed serious.

Laval, long a leader of the faction favoring more complete collaboration with Germany, was shot while accepting registrations by anti-Communists to join the fight against the Russians.

Laval was shot both in the arm and the body. Marcel Deat, former air minister and Rightist leader, was shot at the same time, receiving a single wound in the arm.

Pampans Asked To Help Check Typhoid Fever

A warning went out today to Pampans from Dr. Malcolm Brown, city health officer, to take every precaution to check an outbreak of typhoid fever.

Dr. Brown said there are four cases of typhoid in Pampa, all among adults who contracted the disease while on vacation and brought it back with them.

"There is need for great caution," the health officer said, "because there is a possibility that our milk and water supply may become contaminated."

He also urged that persons who have not been inoculated against typhoid fever within the past three or four years to see their family physician.

Dr. Brown urged everyone to use caution in drinking milk and water.

"Be sure your milk is pasteurized," he said.

The health officer also charged that there was danger from the milk supply because reports had come to his office that there is a shortage in the city and some milk is being "bootlegged" from the outside.

Military Mission To Be Sent To China

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt has decided to send a military mission to China.

Dr. Hu Shih, the Chinese ambassador, disclosed the decision after a call on the chief executive today.

Reports that both Russian and American ships are transporting not only gasoline but other supplies through Vladivostok was said to be "greatly irritating Japanese sentiment."

Pampa Youth Member Of FDR's Guard On Ship At Sea Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, 434 Hill street, are pretty proud of their son, Corporal Jim Bob Johnson, 23, of the crew of the U. S. S. Augusta.

That's because Jim Bob, who was graduated from Pampa high school in 1935, and who enlisted in the U. S. marines on Jan. 3, 1940, was a personal guard aboard the Augusta when the President went to sea to meet Prime Minister Winston Churchill, of Great Britain.

While he could divulge no important details of the historic meeting between FDR and WC, young Johnson did write an interesting follow-up letter after he had been reproached by his mother for not telling more about it in a previous letter in which the fact was merely mentioned that Johnson was on the ship that carried President Roosevelt to sea for the conference.

Johnson sent along a copy of a detachment put aboard ship. That explained why he couldn't go into detail about the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting. The first paragraph of the memorandum reads:

"A general court-martial was awarded this date (Aug. 11) to a member of this (the Augusta) ship's company for direct violation of reference (a) relative to dissemination of information. All hands are cautioned to be particularly discreet and careful in writing any information HOME that would be of any military value to a belligerent nation. Be on the safe side."

The U. S. Augusta, originally the flagship of the Pacific fleet and now the flagship of the Atlantic fleet, has been in the Atlantic since last April.

The Pampa boy, stationed for some time in the Philippines, was transferred to the Augusta from the U. S. S. Houston last Thanksgiving day and has been aboard ever since it was put in shape for the trip through the Atlantic.

But here's Jim Bob's letter, which speaks for itself:

"Dear Folks: I received your letter today, in which you bawled me out for not telling you about the Presidential cruise. There is nothing I'd rather do than tell you all about it, for it was one of the most interesting things that ever happened to me. I can tell you that I was right in the middle of everything—a member of the President's personal guard—and he was seldom out of my sight for four hours a day. On my night watches, the President's mess attendants would let me in the pantry and I would drink coffee out of the President's own cups, with the President's seal on them. I played with the President's dog, Fala. In fact, one marine had nothing else to do. See PAMPA YOUTH, Page 3

Japs Protest Shipments Of Gas To Reds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Secretary of State Hull made plain today that the United States stood on a freedom-of-the-seas policy in connection with shipments of gas to Russia through the Pacific.

He was asked at his press conference whether the United States would insist on freedom of the seas in carrying out the shipments despite Japanese objections.

Not One Bomb Has Hit City Yet, Reds Say

40,000 Russians Killed In Battle, Claim Germans

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 (AP)—A tremendous aerial battle for mastery of the skies over Leningrad was reported today to have developed as the big city's army and militia defense stiffened for a last-ditch fight against Finnish and German drives from the north, west and south.

An early morning communique said 101 of the 156 German planes listed as destroyed during the past two days were shot down in fierce dog-fights along the approaches to the old capital of the Czars, or smashed in raids on nearby airdromes from which the Nazi attacks were sprung.

Defenders of the city declared that despite repeated German raids, not a bomb had fallen within the city limits.

The Russians reported withering machine-gun fire from camouflaged defense works manned by the Red and people's armies holding the attacking waves in check while Leningrad's civilian reinforcements drilled under arms in sandbagged, barricaded streets.

An early morning communique declared specifically that Finnish forces fighting along the Karelian Isthmus had not advanced beyond Kakisalini, 75 miles north of Leningrad.

A Soviet submarine commanded by Captain Lieutenant Stokhanovich was officially credited with sinking a 2,000-ton Axis transport at the entrance to the Gulf of "B" and making a "successful attack" by torpedoing another transport in an Axis port, identified only as "one of the most important enemy harbors."

In the case of the harbor attack it was not specified whether the transport was sunk or merely damaged.

BERLIN, Aug. 27 (AP)—The German high command announced today that it had annihilated the 22nd Russian army in a pincer encirclement far behind the most advanced lines, killing more than 40,000 Russians and capturing another 30,000 in an unusually bloody battle lasting for days.

The battle occurred, the Germans said, on the north central front between Smolensk and Lake Ilnen, and resulted in the capture of the town of Velikie Luki, which lies a

Persian Shah Offers To Expel Germans

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 26 (Tuesday)—(Delayed)—The British and Soviet ministers, after an audience with the shah, have transmitted to their governments an Iranian plea that the war cease and a guarantee that virtually all Germans would be expelled from the country within a week, it was reported reliably today.

A few Germans in "indispensable technical posts" would be kept for a while until substitutes could be trained to take their places, under the reported offer.

Premier All Mansur in a 10-minute address before parliament charged that the Russians were bombing "open, undefended towns" in Azerbaijan province along the Russian frontier. He told the legislators that the Soviet army was driving toward Tabriz, Iran's second largest city 60 miles south of the border, "with a great number of troops." (The Russians say they have taken Tabriz.)

Jack Davis To Succeed Anderson

The Pampa school board will meet in special session tonight at 8 o'clock in the city commission room to adopt the 1941-42 budget. The budget hearing is open to the public and tax payers are invited to be present.

Representatives of several oil companies stayed in Pampa after the county board of equalization hearing Monday and will attend the meeting tonight. Operating budget will be approximately the same as last year, President C. P. Buckler predicted today, but a larger budget than normally will be needed to complete paying for the new high school building.

The board in a brief session this morning, when the budget was studied, named Jack Davis as high school business manager to succeed Bill Anderson, who resigned yesterday, and named Miss Margaret Tignor, secretary to Supt. L. L. Stone, succeeding Mrs. R. G. Feiler who resigned to move to Odessa.

Mr. Davis will return to Pampa next week to assist in the final football practice which begins Monday with a practice at 10 a. m.

Mr. Davis was scheduled to coach the Gorillas this fall but another coach will have to be selected.

Tinsley Recovers $5,000 As Result Of Gas Explosion

Compromise settlements in two cases were approved in judgments filed yesterday in 31st district court.

One of the cases was styled Roy Tinsley et al vs. P. K. Gas Distributing company. Tinsley recovers $5,000 from the defendant. Action was based on fatal injuries suffered by Mrs. Edna Tinsley, wife of the plaintiff, on April 18, 1940, from which she died two days later.

The injuries occurred as the result of a gas explosion at the Tinsley residence, four miles east of Pampa.

In the other case, Anna Mae Wilkinson vs. United Employers Casualty company, an agreement to pay $1,000 to Mrs. Wilkinson, widow of Boyd Wilkinson, approved.

Wilkinson, Champlin Service station employee, was fatally shot on August 7, 1940, while on duty at the station, by Willie Parks.

Congratulations

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rogers, 1326 Christine street, are the parents of a son, weighing nine pounds, three ounces, born Monday at the local hospital. He has been named J. A. Rogers, Jr.

Carl Benefield and numerous other persons who declared that the typical Texas "gettin' on" of the plane in Washington in the March of Time's "Thumbs Up, Texas" picture, was Congressman Gene Worley, Congressman Worley today in a letter admitted that that was correct. "They called me," Mr. Worley wrote, "and wanted to see the plane. It had been anywhere," Gene assured. "The plane just taxied around and out we stepped. As secretary of the Texas delegation I had to make all arrangements for those other shots but forget to get in 'em myself." Congressman Worley stated that he hopes to be home by "Labor Day at the latest." He was held in Washington during the recess by a defense committee from the Panhandle. "I intend to exhaust every resource at my command in an effort to secure a defense program project for the Panhandle. I don't know how much time this will consequently I do not know when I will get home," he wrote.

Rose's Condition Not 'Quite So Favorable'

Condition of Sheriff Cal Rose, injured when struck by an automobile on Brown street Monday night, remained critical in the local hospital today. In a brief statement, attending physicians said his condition could be called "not quite so favorable."

Following development of x-ray pictures and further examination, physicians today reported that Sheriff Rose had suffered a minor fracture on the lower part of the skull, punctured ear drum, badly bruised shoulder and side, facial lacerations and bruises, and two cracked ribs. A spinal puncture made last night revealed blood in the spine.

Sheriff Rose continued to be conscious at intervals today, physicians said.

"The car which struck the sheriff was driven by 29-year-old Kelsey Graham of Miami. The sheriff and Mrs. Rose and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pollard had parked on the south side of Brown street and were crossing the street to the ball park when the accident happened. The sheriff, according to witnesses, was struck by the edge of the car bumper and hurled against the hood of the car and then to the pavement.

A number of eye-witnesses made reports to city and county officers following the accident. Officers said that a majority of the witnesses declared a car was being operated between 20 and 25 miles an hour. Mr. Pollard said the car was traveling at a higher rate of speed than moderate and that the sheriff was hurled 15 feet into the air.

Cars were parked double on both sides of the street according to witnesses, and the pedestrians had walked between parked cars and were crossing the street from where the Rose party had left their car. All agreed that the car driven by Graham swerved to the left side of the road after passing the double-parked cars and the accident occurred as the car apparently tried to go behind Sheriff Rose and Mr. Pollard, who were walking behind Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Pollard.

SERIAL STORY

WANT-AD ROMANCE

BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Pretty, green-eyed Kay Donovan, who has come to the city to seek her inventor-father, makes four friends and two startling discoveries. The friends are Ted Andrews, Johnnie Williams, who she meets on a park bench, and MacLeod, Goldberg and Flynn, lawyers who advise her in the most ad columns for information as to her whereabouts. From them she learns that her father has passed away, leaving her $25,000, a factory, and a million cases of Wondrosoap, the product in which he had invented everything. The kindly lawyers suggest that she liquidate her holdings, but Kay is determined to carry on the work in which her father, along with his friend, Hans Stadt, had somewhere in Texas, had faith, even though she knows nothing about it. She asks the lawyers to find Ted Andrews for her, planning to make him Wondrosoap sales manager.

CHAPTER III

SALESMAN—Must be business-getter with original ideas, courage to use them, to sell entirely new product. Salary and commissions. Only the best need apply. Box 296.

KAY DONOVAN waved the folded newspaper under Attorney Flynn's nose. "There, if that doesn't bring him in, nothing will. Unless he's stopped reading the help-wanted ads. He thinks he's tops in selling; that 'original ideas and courage to use them' will catch his eye."

"You seem sure that this young man can sell Wondrosoap," Flynn smiled patronizingly. "If he does I'll admit he's a marvel."

"Ted Andrews can sell anything," she said.

"He's sold you on Ted Andrews," the big Irishman laughed and ducked as Kay hurled the paper at him. But there was laughter, not anger, in the green eyes.

In the three days he had known Kay Donovan, Mike Flynn had learned to love the girl. She was much like her father—determined, self-confident, and once she made up her mind there was no changing her decisions. He had found that out when, with MacLeod and Goldberg, he had vetoed the idea of her living at the factory.

"And where would be a better place for me?" Kay demanded.

AND that was the way it turned out. Right now, Mike was enjoying his cigar after testing Kay's culinary skill. He had to admit she could cook. Not even Tim Donovan made a better Irish stew. He said as much.

But Kay wasn't listening to him. She rushed to the door.

"Mike—Mr. Flynn—there's a car stepping outside. Do you think...?"

"Do I think it's that young lunatic that climbs up card tables?"

Open the door and let's see. Or would you rather be greeting him in the moonlight?"

Kay blushed. An instant later someone knocked. Then—

"I've found him. This Andrews fellow!" Goldberg shouted.

TED walked into the room behind the attorney.

"You! Again!" Ted gasped.

"Why, yes?" Kay was laughing at his surprise. "I inherited a business. I'm an heiress, just as you said. I need the best salesman in the country, a man with ideas and—she winked at Mike Flynn—"courage to climb out on top of 10 card tables."

"All right, Miss Donovan, have your fun," Ted tried to make his voice sound stern and business-like. "What's this high-powered sales job you wanted to see me about?"

Kay explained, told him about her father, his successful patent and his dreams for an all-purpose cleaner. If Tim Donovan was sure Wondrosoap was good, it would sell, provided it was backed with a good sales campaign. She wanted to know if he was willing to give it a trial.

"And what do I get out of this?" Ted demanded. Kay glanced at Flynn and Goldberg.

"You can have 25 a week and 5 cents commission on every can of Wondrosoap you sell"—Flynn and Goldberg smiled—"or you can have a quarter interest in the business and take the same risks I do. I'll put up the cash. I've got $4000."

The smile underwent quick transformation, became a frown.

"Katie," Flynn broke in, "you can't be giving away your business like this—"

"You heard my offer," Kay waited.

"I'll take it—the 25 per cent of the business, no salary," Ted stuck out his hand. "Have your lawyers draw up a contract, we'll sign it tomorrow."

KAY was waiting for Ted the following morning when he came down the dusty road to the factory.

She led him through the plant. At the mixing vat, somehow his hand brushed hers. She flushed.

"There are raw materials in the storehouse to make another million cans of Wondrosoap," Kay said quickly. "At least so Mr. Goldberg says. I don't know the formula, or the methods of mixing it, but Hans Stadt will know. He was Dad's chemist. He'll be back from Texas soon and we can start production again. However, we won't need to right away."

There's plenty in the warehouse," she led the way.

"What does this stuff look like?" Ted lifted a box from the stacked rows, pulled off a board, extracted a can. He twisted off the lid. He dug some of the stuff out with his fingers, rubbed it into the palm of his hand.

"Looks like a grease but it doesn't feel like it." He wiped his hands with a handkerchief. "Look! It doesn't leave a stain. You'd never believe there was anything on that handkerchief."

"It will clean metal, too," Kay reminded him. "Try some on this doorknob." The knob was dusty, blackened by grimy hands. Ted applied the cleaner, wiped it off again. The metal gleamed like new brass.

"You've got something here, Kay!" He grinned broadly.

BACK in the office, Ted enthusiastically outlined his sales campaign.

"If you have a product that you want to put on the market with a bang, how would you do it, Miss Donovan?"

"Why, I'd advertise it, of course."

"Suppose you want to create interest in it—create a demand?" Ted was thinking aloud. "You'd use teaser ads. That's it, daily teasers. We can start with 'W. Next day we'll use 'Wow, then 'Wow' until we've finally spelled out 'Wondrosoap.' Then we'll tell the customers what it is and what it can do. Boy, will we blast them off their feet! We'll have them standing in line to buy Wondrosoap, and dealers howling for more. It's a cinch."

Kay wasn't so enthusiastic.

"That's a wonderful idea," she admitted, "but we can't afford a big advertising campaign. That would cost more than we can spend. I've only $400 and I have to live on that."

Both of them stared at the floor. Ted lighted a cigar. The drone of the electric fan was the only sound. Then Ted's grin returned as he caught sight of the newspaper Kay had thrown at Flynn the night before, still lying in the corner.

"Honey, where do people go when they want to get newspaper advertising for the least money?" Kay ignored the "Honey" and answered, "I haven't the slightest idea."

"Where do you want when you want to find me. Where Flynn and MacLeod and Goldberg went to trace you. Where we both went to find jobs. In the classified section. It's a cinch."

Kay laughed. Wondrosoap was on its way.

Lindbergh Denied Auditorium In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 27 (AP)—The city council has refused Charles A. Lindbergh use of Municipal auditorium for a speech Friday night under auspices of the America First Committee.

By unanimous vote, the council ordered cancellation of an advance booking and authorized T. T. Johnson, auditorium manager, to refund the rental price.

The council's action followed protests by American Legion Post No. 35; Harmony Chapter No. 3 of American War Mothers; the Women's Ambulance and Transport Corps of Oklahoma; Knights of Pythias and American Legion Post No. 13 of Capitol Hill.

"Lindbergh has repeatedly expressed himself as adverse to the principles of Americanism," the Knights of Pythias representative protest said.

"He advocates peace toward ruthless nations, and his utterances promote disunity in this country at a time when our preservation depends upon unity," said American Legion speakers.

"He's running down the morale of our country, and doing it under the guise of free speech," was the complaint of the Capitol Hill Legion group.

On the motion of A. P. Van Meter, Ward One councilman, who said that "we are not denying the right of free speech by refusing to rent a public building," the council voted to cancel the reservation.

"Let him go somewhere else to speak, and when he gets tired talking, he can go home," Van Meter shouted.
