Hull Urges Repeal Of Neutrality Act

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull said today he believed that a neutrality act provision which bans American merchant vessels from specified combat zones should be "repealed or modified."

He tossed this recommendation into a request that congress repeal now the section of the act which prohibits arming of the ships.

Hull's statement, given to the senate foreign relations committee behind closed doors, was supplied also by the state department.

Hull specifically urged the repeal of section six of the act, which prohibits the arming of merchant vessels, and of section two (which prohibits their entry into specified combat zones) declared:

"Inasmuch as section two is not under consideration I will offer no comment except to say that in my judgment section two should be repealed or modified."

"When American ships are being wantonly and unlawfully attacked with complete disregard of life and property," the secretary said, "it is absurd to forego any legitimate measures that may be helpful to our own defense. It is especially absurd to continue to tie our hands by a provision of law which prohibits arming our merchant vessels for their own defense."

It would be "little short of criminal negligence," for the United States to cling to the hope of somehow escaping the fate of other countries, he testified.

Before Hull's statement was issued, Senate Democratic Leader Barkley told reporters at the White House that administration forces "will go ahead as planned" with hearings on neutrality legislation limited to lifting the present ban against the arming of American merchant ships.

Barkley left a conference with President Roosevelt in conference with Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee and Secretary Hull.

Barkley said "there has been no change in policy" regarding senate procedure on the house-approved armed ship legislation. "Everything is status quo," Connally added.

McDermott Asks For More Oil For Panhandle

Requests for more oil for the Panhandle was made by A. E. Herrmann, president of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners association, and Paul McDermott, representing the Sinclair-Prarie Oil company, at a statewide hearing in Austin yesterday afternoon.

Herrmann also protested the present commission order on production, saying it was discriminatory because of the acreage factor.

Asked his viewpoint, Commissioner Culberson replied that he wanted to "stay with the yardstick," present plan of allocating production in Texas.

H. P. Nichols of Tyler, executive of the East Texas Oil association, commended the commission for holding production in the past within estimates made by the bureau of mines, and asked that if shutdown days were lifted for the rest of the state they also be removed in East Texas.

He asserted, however, that he did not think the clause should be eliminated for all the state.

At another point, Sadler interjected that "if Louisiana doesn't want to conserve her resources, and somebody wants to go over there and buy oil, there is no lock on the gate." He added the same thing applying to Venezuela.

Culberson announced that six violations of postal laws were known to have occurred in connection with operators filling out commission forms on the status of oil wells. He expressed the opinion the violators would be prosecuted by the U. S. government.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The bureau of mines today forecast the November demand for domestic crude oil at 122,000,000 barrels, or 40,700,000 barrels daily.

This was 57,100 barrels higher than the estimated daily demand for October and 13 per cent above the actual demand for November, 1940.

Rail Unions Reject Offer To Arbitrate

(By The Associated Press) Fourteen non-operating railroad brotherhoods with 900,000 members today joined five operating brotherhoods with 350,000 members in rejecting an offer by President Roosevelt's emergency board to arbitrate the wage dispute between railroads and their organized employees.

The five operating brotherhoods rejected the offer yesterday after carrier management had agreed to it. Both union groups rejected arbitration last summer when the dispute was before the National Railroad Mediation board.

In other field steel production was hampered in the Birmingham area by strikes which started in Alabama coal mines and spread to steel plants and conferences started at Buffalo, N. Y., to avert a threatened walkout at two airplane plants of Bell Aircraft corporation.

The defense mediation board ordered a hearing in Washington October 26 on the controversy over the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company at Birmingham.

At the same time the U. S. Conciliation service arranged a conference at Buffalo, N. Y., in an effort to avert a threatened walkout at Bell Aircraft corporation's two warplane plants, and an emergency fact-finding board appointed by President Roosevelt awaited the answer of the railroad unions to a wage arbitration offer.

About 4,000 men were thrown out of work when the CIO United Mine workers called a strike which closed six large Alabama coal mines, and non-resident miners began the UMW chemical division struck last night, closing four blast furnaces of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company at Birmingham.

A union leader ascribed the mine walkouts to "the longest delay in negotiations for a new contract," and William H. Tvey, Alabama state labor commissioner, said the strike at Sloss-Sheffield hinged on the union's demand for a closed shop contract.

The CIO miners, whose basic pay was raised last May $1. to $5.50 a day, now are asking 40 cents more daily, vacation pay and a change in the method of computing weight loss through washing operations.

Thomas M. Finn, U. S. conciliator, arranged a conference today between representatives of the CIO United Automobile workers and the management of the Bell Aircraft corporation, which operates warplane factories at Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

The union, which claims as members 90 per cent of the firm's 10,500 workers, has authorized a strike, but has agreed to withhold action pending efforts to arbitrate.

Axis Claims Capture Of Industrial City

(By The Associated Press) German and Italian troops smashing into Russia's vital Donets river industrial basin were reported today to have captured Stalino, 100 miles northwest of Rostov-on-Don, while on the central front, the Russians appeared to be stemming the Nazi drive on Moscow amid a series of huge-scale tank and infantry battles.

Stalino, a city of 455,000 population, lies on one of the two main rail lines between Moscow and the great Caucasian oil fields.

Soviet dispatches acknowledged that Marshal Semeon Budenny's Ukrainian armies, desperately pressed by intensified Nazi assault, had withdrawn to new lines near Taganrog, only 30 miles west of Rostov. The Germans, claimed Taganrog's fall yesterday.

Official Russian accounts of the 20-day-old battle for Moscow said the capital's defenders, strengthened hourly by a civilian army, were holding fast under a terrific hammering.

At several points, the Russians declared, Soviet counter-attacks have turned back the Nazi offensive over battlefields covered with snow.

To the north, the German high command reported the capture of Dago Island, powerful Soviet naval base, after 10 days of fighting in which 3,000 Russians were taken prisoner.

"Throughout all Baltic islands are in German hands and the entire Baltic area cleaned of the enemy," the high command said.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters, describing Stalino as one of the most important industrial centers in the Donets basin, said Axis forces took the surrounding region yesterday and that "Stalino itself was taken by Alpini."

The Reich's war flag is flying from the gateway to the Donets basin, said Axis forces took the surrounding region yesterday and that "Stalino itself was taken by Alpini."

Nazi military commentators reported that the southern Axis armies were led by picked units of Hitler's elite guard. They indicated that the gateway to the Caucasus soon would probably become the pivot for a gigantic new encirclement to take the Donets basin.

College Dean To Speak In Pampa Friday

Dean J. Thomas Davis of John Tarleton college of Stephenville, and president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will be the speaker at a membership luncheon meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Friday noon, in the Schneider hotel basement.

F. M. Culberson, president, has announced.

Dean Davis will outline the West Texas Chamber of Commerce program and its relation to Pampa and the Top of Texas territory. He will likewise outline plans for the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention which is being held in the fall for the first time, at Midland, Nov. 3 and 4.

West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors from several nearby towns will be invited to the meeting.

Due to the limited space in the Schneider hotel basement, members of the chamber of commerce are asked to make reservations by Thursday afternoon, Culberson announced.

"Throughout all Baltic islands are in German hands and the entire Baltic area cleaned of the enemy," the high command said.

On the bloody central front between Moscow, the German high command said Gen. Petrov, identified as commander in chief of the Russian 50th army and a member of the Supreme Soviet Council, had been found dead on the battlefield east of Bryansk, 200 miles south of Moscow.

Rose Disputes Testimony Of Plaintiffs

Sect Claims Right To Distribute, Sell Pamphlets District Judge W. R. Ewing took under advisement at 10:30 o'clock this forenoon the case of Mrs. Ruth Garrett et al vs. Cal Rose, after four witnesses had taken the stand and testimony concluded in the two-day injunction hearing.

A ruling is expected to be handed down sometime tomorrow, according to one of the defense attorneys.

The suit is one in which the plaintiffs, who are of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect, seek to secure a temporary writ of injunction restraining Sheriff Cal Rose from confiscating religious literature.

Sheriff Rose was the first witness on the stand today. He was on the stand longer than any of the others and was subjected to a thorough cross-examination by Newton P. Willis, attorney for the plaintiffs.

Sought To Keep Peace In the course of his testimony, the sheriff claimed he had no intent to interfere with members of the sect so long as they obeyed the law and did not create a disturbance.

He testified that he had received numerous telephone calls complaining of the activities of the sect in soliciting on the street, specifically one call from P. O. Sanders.

The sheriff stated that persistence of one of the plaintiffs, Jimmie Wooten, had been noted by him. Asked to explain this persistence by Judge Ewing, the sheriff stated he had seen Wooten follow persons on the street trying to get them to take the literature.

Questioned further on the first incident, that of the night of June 21, he testified he had asked Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Champagnes of Plainview, if they would return there "and quit causing a disturbance on the streets."

Penalty On Excess Wheat Removed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The senate agriculture committee approved today legislation that would remove the penalty of about 49 cents a bushel on so-called excess wheat for farmers with short crops.

The measure already has been passed by the house. A similar bill was vetoed by President Roosevelt several weeks ago when congress attacked riders seeking to freeze government loan stocks of wheat and cotton.

As a separate bill, the wheat penalty modification won a recommendation from the secretary of agriculture and unanimous approval of the senate committee.

California Labor Migration Case Before Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Constitutionality of California's statute prohibiting anyone from helping non-resident migrants enter the state came before the supreme court today for reargument.

Final determination of the case may have widespread national significance insofar as migration of labor is concerned since 27 other states have similar legislation on the statute books.

The case was first argued last term but on May 5 the court ordered a reargument and instructed the California attorney general to emphasize the judicial or administrative interpretation of the statute when the case was heard again.

Cole Urges One Federal Agency Control Oil

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 21 (AP)—Rep. Cole said today he favored establishment of one governmental organization after the present emergency to handle all matters pertaining to the petroleum industry.

"I do not know if such a setup should be by the bureau of mines or some other existing governmental agency," Cole said. "But it would merely group in one organization the work of numerous bureaus now functioning and would permit control to keep its finger on the pulse of this important business."

Cole, speaking before the annual meeting of the Independent Petroleum association of America, declared this would "result in the federal government having available upon the most casual notice much of the information on which the legislative and administrative branches of your government in dealing with your problems, which has not been the case heretofore."

"At the same time, it will safeguard those rights which in normal times should be vested exclusively in the states."

Cole said his congressional committee which investigated the oil industry had encouraged states to adopt conservation measures.

President Roosevelt, Cole said, supported the interstate oil compact idea. Cole quoted the President as saying on July 31:

"When we started the compact method, you will remember that I said, 'It's all right. I will try anything once. If it works — fine.' Well, it has worked, and I am delighted that it has worked."

Trophy To Be Awarded By Club At Flower Show

Pampa Garden club is asking exhibitors in their chrysanthemum show Friday in the city club rooms to select specimens and put them in deep water before the show. This will freshen and preserve the blossoms.

Types of chrysanthemums to be exhibited as specimens are large or exhibition, decorative, pompon, button, and daisy.

The Gertrude Fisher silver trophy will be awarded for the most perfect specimen entered in the show with the prize winner, to be selected from any of the various types exhibited as specimens.

The large or exhibition type is to be a single bloom, and the pompon or daisy type to be a cluster on one stem.

Chrysanthemum growers in Pampa or the immediate vicinity are asked to participate in the show. The club is anxious to have as many entries as possible, so that flower growers in this section may become familiar with the varieties that grow best here.

All entrants are to be governed by the rules and schedules as published in the local newspapers.

Flower growers are asked to check weather reports, and if a freeze or heavy frost is reported on its way, to cut their flowers. Chrysanthemums keep well after cutting, and if kept in a cool place, they will remain in good condition for a week.

The Garden club will not have the regular meeting this month. For this reason, all members are asked to register at the show for their attendance record.

Mrs. Coffee Gives Review At Meeting Of Three Groups

Special To THE NEWS: WHITE OCEAN, Oct. 21—With Mrs. Joe F. Coffee of Amarillo reviewing Emyln Williams' play, "The Corn Is Green," the Modern American club entertained the Centennial and Venado Blanco clubs and other guests at a coffee Saturday morning at the high school cafeteria.

By way of introduction, Mrs. Coffee discussed briefly several plays which she saw in New York during the past summer and among which she chose "The Corn Is Green" as one of the most appealing.

The story is of a strong intellectual woman who starts a school in a Welsh mining town and finds among her pupils a boy of distinctive ability to whom she gives most of her time and effort. Such a woman was once the teacher of Emyln Williams himself in a Welsh mining town. To her the play is dedicated and to her was given a splendid ovation when she was presented at the opening of the play in London.

Mrs. Biggs Horn, president of the Modern Americans, welcomed the guests. Mrs. Holt Barber introduced the speaker, and Mrs. Charles Churchill and Mrs. Chester Strickland presided at the coffee table.

Others present were Mesdames Mae Coffee, Vera Crumpacker, C. B. Chunn of Amarillo, Elton Beene, Harold Drummond of Skellytown, T. C. Jackson, L. O. Spear, W. C. Powers, Everett Williams, B. E. McCollum, B. R. Weeks, Halle Martin, Ray Vineyard, Bill Watson, Richard Falkenstein, E. F. Tubby, W. W. Simmons, Harry Edenborough, J. C. Freeman, E. C. Shuman, W. T. Simmons, Glenn F. Davis, Wesley Davis, E. H. Grimes, R. A. Thompson, Donald Davidson, Orman Bentley, A. H. Schultz of Beaumont, W. E. Davis of Topeka, Kansas, and Misses Gladys Holey, Odessie Howell, Claudia Everly, Vivian Hammack, Virginia Martin, and Dorothy Witt-Vir.

THERE GOES A TIRE!

Any car can have a blowout in a tire. But you wouldn't junk the car. You'd just fix the tire—or replace it.

That's very much like a situation that exists in the retailing of beer. Beer retailing has its "flat tires," too—retailers who disobey the law or who permit unsavory conditions.

To protect your right to drink good beer, we of the beer industry want to eliminate the few "flat tire" retailers. Here's another reason: Right here in Texas, beer has provided employment for 31,165 persons, supports an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and paid $2,273,968.64 in state taxes last year.

The state, too, has an important stake in the beer industry's purchases—for material, equipment and services—from more than 100 other industries.

Those benefits are worth preserving. You can help us preserve them by patronizing only the reputable and legal places where beer is sold and by reporting any law violations you may observe to the duly constituted authorities.

American Naval Aid 'Invaluable,' Briton Declares

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP)—An authoritative British naval source said today that "the support given to us by the American navy is invaluable," and that although the ebb and flow of the battle of the Atlantic continues ceaselessly, "we do have reason for confidence."

He discussed the possibility of war in the Pacific, and rated the Japanese navy as "very powerful, efficient and well-manned and very strong against attack," but "extremely susceptible to economic blockade."
 The United States naval bases at Guam and Manila were described as "not modern," with Guam important as an intermediate refueling base between Hawaii and the Philippines in event of war between the United States and Japan.

You Can Still Build A House Under The FHA

Despite recent developments affecting home building, assurance was given here today that the Federal Housing Administration will continue its long range program of home mortgage insuring operations and will continue to welcome applications from builders and individuals throughout the state, submitted through approved mortgagees.

E. T. Stearns, district director for the FHA, moved to correct any impression that the current emergency had altered the basic FHA program by assuring prospective home buyers that the FHA plans no curtailment of its activities nor temporary suspension of its insuring operations.

"Some misunderstanding of the FHA's position has developed lately," Mr. Stearns said, "because of recent trends in the government's attitude toward housing. It is possible that this misunderstanding may have caused some families to postpone home ownership. I should like to assure those families that the Federal Housing Administration will be glad to accept their applications for mortgage insurance and to assure them that FHA facilities are still available to families who wish to buy or build homes."

"It is true that the Federal Housing Administration, under a special arrangement with the Office of Production Management, also is accepting applications for priorities so that builders of homes in officially designated 'defense areas' may encounter as little difficulty as possible in obtaining home building materials that are scarce. In effect this is a job which the FHA is performing simply for the OPM. Its own program will go forward independently.

"Our position, then is as it was before the emergency. We are accepting applications covering both homes to be built and existing homes. There are a great many communities in which no current shortages of building materials exists. If at some time in the future building material stocks are exhausted, it is possible that home building in certain communities would be curtailed. In those communities described officially as 'defense areas' builders and contractors would have to obtain priority to be assured of those materials which are likely to be scarce. In non-defense areas these probably would not be available.

"But for all practical purposes home building may proceed without any interference for the present. So long as applications for mortgage insurance involve well built, well designed, livable homes in good neighborhoods to be purchased or built by families of steady income and good credit, no difficulties appear to be present. FHA will continue to accept, and will welcome, such applications."

Steps To Aid Small Business Announced

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—New steps to aid small business by speeding defense orders as widely as possible were announced today by the army quartermaster corps.

To carry out the program, the war department said, prices will no longer be the dominating factor in making awards.

Awards to a single bidder will be limited. Awards will be made to as many regions, and to as many suppliers in each region, as is possible.

"In the matter of prices," the department announced, "the quartermaster general recognizes that a wide distribution of defense orders will entail increased costs, since small plants may be unfamiliar with and inadequately equipped to produce quartermaster items."

"Within reasonable limits, depending on circumstances surrounding individual procurement orders, bid prices will not always govern the award of contracts. Direct negotiations will be made with bidders in a particular region where it is desired to make awards, when the bid prices are considered too high. Every reasonable effort will be made to induce such bidders to accept a stated quantity at what is considered a fair price to them."

Quartermaster procurement district headquarters to be used as the basis for regional distribution of awards are located in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Jeffersonville, Ind., Chicago, St. Louis, San Antonio and San Francisco.

Whenever possible, contracts will be let FOB point of origin with final inspection at that place to facilitate payment for the order, particularly to small contractors who may have difficulty in obtaining adequate financial backing.

Borgan Will Return To Louisiana Prison

BORGER, Oct. 21 (AP)—A man known here as T. H. Cole straightened his business affairs today so he could return to Louisiana State prison from which Borger Police Chief Dale Lane said he escaped 25 years ago.

Lane said Cole, then known as H. Johnson, served two years and eight months after being sentenced for 14 years as an accomplice in the robbery of a Logansport, La., bank in 1914.

Cole, who Lane said was identified by a man who had known him years ago, said:

"I am ready to go back and make retribution and then try to pick up the threads of my life as best I may. I never had been in trouble before the Louisiana episode, and I haven't been in trouble since."

He said he tried several times to obtain a parole before walking out of prison one night while acting as a trusty.

He said he worked in the oil fields of Texas and Oklahoma after leaving Louisiana and that for four months in the 20's he was on the Tulsa police force.

He operated a liquor store here. His wife, whom he married 20 years ago, did not know about his past in Louisiana.

Gov. Coke Stevenson granted extradition papers and Cole is to return with R. W. Michelre, prison guard captain.

Statement Of Wages Must Be Given Employees

Complaints recently received from workers indicate that some employers are not familiar with the requirement that a statement of wages paid must be given to each employee, according to Dewey Reed, manager of the Amarillo office of the Social Security board.

"The Social Security Act provides that every employer shall furnish a written statement to each of his employees, in a form suitable for retention by the employee, showing the amount of wages paid."

Reed concluded, "Employers should take care to keep all wage statements. Monthly retirement insurance statements should show the period of time covered. When a wage earner's services are terminated for any reason, a final statement, covering all wages paid since the preceding statement must be given by the employer at the time of the final wage payment. Willful failure of an employer to comply with these requirements makes him subject to a penalty of not more than $500 in each case."

Williams Opposes Payroll Taxes For All Workers

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Oct. 21—If the Federal Social Security board takes over unemployment compensation in Texas, payroll taxes will be quadrupled in the opinion of Claude Williams, director of the Texas Unemployment compensation commission. Williams expressed the opinion in view of repeated reports President Roosevelt soon would ask congress to authorize complete federation of state jobless insurance systems.

An advocate of state secession from what he terms domination by the federal board, the director said he had learned the agency, if empowered to administer unemployment compensation taxes, would increase the payroll levy from its 1 1/2 per cent average in Texas to a universal 6 per cent.

"The tax," he continued, "brings in about $12,000,000 a year as compared to the $48,000,000 the board wants from this state. Benefits paid the jobs amount to about $7,000,000 annually and under the board's plan this figure probably would remain the same."

"The board wants to expand the coverage from the current eight employees per employer to all workers. The cost of administering such a plan would be enormous and might amount to as much as the benefits themselves."

Williams added: "That federalization probably would mean that Texas would lose a $60,000,000 surplus in taxes collected, now in the federal treasury."

JEHOVA'S

The contents of the literature of Jehovah's Witnesses at the time of the two incidents. He said that in the meantime he had looked at some of it, "as much as I had time for."

Plaintiffs attorney Willis and the sheriff then engaged in a debate on the technical meaning of "arrests," the sheriff claiming that bringing the plaintiffs to the courthouse did not constitute an arrest.

Willis pressed strongly on this point, asking him if Wooten was put in jail. The sheriff replied he had not seen Wooten in jail.

In answer to questions by Counselor Douglass, the sheriff said that persons had been brought before him for investigation in order to determine facts in a case, that no jail record was entered, the persons questioned were not fingerprinted, and were released without any charges having been filed.

He constantly stated that he intended "to stop any disturbance on the streets."

The question of the property of the plaintiffs being held was brought up. Sheriff Rose said he had offered the property back to B. S. Via, who with Willis, represented the plaintiffs. The sheriff denied that Wooten had come up with him personally and asked for a return of the literature and other supplies allegedly confiscated.

Six Charges Denied The sheriff denied making any of these statements: That he said he would not give the property back; "bring the supreme court to Pampa;" that the public was "100 per cent" against Jehovah's Witnesses; that he would "beat them down if they came on the streets again"; that other plaintiffs, besides Wooten, had asked for a return of their property.

He further denied making any such statement that the U. S. Supreme court or the courts of New Jersey were "a bunch of Nazi bunds."

Willis pressed strongly for the sheriff's statement on "what happened to the $2 in the purse" of one of the plaintiffs, which was in one of the confiscated magazine sacks.

Douglass intervened to raise the question that the court was not concerned with this matter in the injunction suit, and said he would not surrender the property until the court had ruled on the case.

This led to a lengthy argument between counsel and the sheriff on his knowledge of what was in the property confiscated and if he would examine one of the sacks to see if $2 was contained in one of them.

Ask For Purse In the meantime the magazine sacks had been brought into court. Mona Gillam was called to the stand by the plaintiffs attorney. She testified she had seen Bud Martin, district attorney, Deputy James Barrett, and Deputy Otto Mimis examining the sacks, and she pursued and heard the jingle of coins.

District Attorney Martin was called to the stand and testified that the purse contained $1.04. Deputy Roy Pearce was the only other witness. He was on the stand only a short time, testified briefly as to the June 21 incident.

That distribution of religious literature on the streets and securing donations for religious pamphlets of their sect was an "act of worship" was one of the arguments advanced in the testimony of the witnesses for the plaintiffs in the case yesterday.

Supreme Court Cited Other parts of their testimony revolved around numerous references to books of the Bible, the Constitutional rights of freedom of the press, freedom of speech, and a U. S. Supreme court ruling on a New Jersey case in which the Witnesses were upheld.

At one point in the case yesterday, members of the sect applauded loudly when Judge Ewing, in countering a statement by Douglass, said "if you talk like that you're talking in face of a supreme court decision." The judge handed his verdict and said, "We can't have any more of this."

Reference To Hitlerism Charges were made by the Witnesses that they had been told by the sheriff that "Hitler was behind" their organization "to the limit."

They also alleged that "threats" had been made to force them to desist in their activity of offering religious literature to Pampans on the streets.

Nearly every seat on the first floor of the court room was filled as court convened at 1:30 o'clock. The first witness, however, did not come to the stand until after 2 o'clock, as attorneys argued the matter of an injunction bond.

In the forenoon, Judge Ewing had studied a plea in abatement submitted by the defense.

Basis of Suit Basis of the whole case is two arrests, one June 21, 1941, the other on October 11, 1941. Arrested in the first instance were Jimmie Wooten and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Champagne; in the second, E. W. Patrick, Mrs. Ruth Garrett, Mrs. Zola Moore, and Garland White, a minor.

The time of the first arrest was between 5 and 6 p. m. of the second, between 8 and 9 p. m. All of the plaintiffs are of Pampa, except Mr. and Mrs. Champagne, whose home is in Plainview. Both of the arrests were on Cuyler street, and the arresting officers were Sheriff Call Rose and Deputies Roy Pearce and James Barrett, according to testimony heard yesterday.

Plaintiffs allege that certain property, including pamphlets, phonograph and records, ordination cards, a $2 watch, purse containing $2 in cash, and an oil lamp pipeline key were confiscated, and has not been restored.

Yesterday's hearing of the case was concluded at 5 o'clock with Mrs. Zola Moore, 436 S. Faulkner, as the last of the plaintiffs' witnesses on the stand.

She testified as to her arrest on the night of October 11, and subsequent appearance at the sheriff's office along with others arrested at the same time.

Mrs. Moore claimed that she was first spoken to by a man whom she later identified as Deputy Sheriff Roy Pearce and she asked for his authority to make the arrest. About 15 minutes later she said a deputy, later identified as Deputy James Barrett, came along, showed his badge and took her to the sheriff's office.

At the office, she said the periodicals she had in her possession were held three refused, and then the sheriff took possession of the printed material, instructing his men to "put it in the locker with the rest of that stuff."

She testified that the sheriff, as he took possession of magazine bags, asked each of them if they could identify these bags, and that they replied they could, whereupon, the sheriff had the names written on each.

Phonograph Removed In further connection with the names given, she said she had told the sheriff "you know my name." Mrs. Moore testified that the sheriff had been at the Moore residence, that she had seen the sheriff go to the automobile of J. R. Champagne, of Plainview, which was parked at the Moore home.

Mrs. Moore testified that after the sheriff had taken some printed matter from the car, he motioned to her to come to the front door, where she asked him to enter. She said he declined and asked to see her husband.

"My husband wasn't feeling well and was on the porch. I went back and called him," Mrs. Moore said.

Questioned On Meetings Conversation between the three was relative to meetings held at the Moore home. She said she told the sheriff she didn't know what he meant unless he referred to Bible meetings held at the house.

Sheriff Rose told her, she said, that the meetings must stop, that complaints had been made, but that he would not tell her the names of those complaining.

Asked if he intended to prohibit Bible study meetings, Mrs. Moore said the sheriff had replied that the meetings were held "under the guise of Bible meetings."

Further conversation, Mrs. Moore said, included her statement that the sheriff "had a big job on his hands" if he tried to stop the meetings, and that the sheriff had said "it was big enough to do it."

Mrs. Moore testified that she had informed the sheriff that the meetings were open to his investigation.

Supreme Court Argued Mrs. Ruth Garrett testified that she carried an ordination card. She said she "gladly gave anyone a copy (of the various publications of the sect) if they did not have a nickel."

Further testimony of hers related that what had already been said concerning the arrests, as to who was arrested, where, by whom, what was said, who was at the sheriff's office first.

"How many times must I tell you to stay off the streets?" was a question she said the sheriff had asked her.

At this point, she brought up the supreme court decision arguing and that she had been told to "bring the supreme court to Pampa."

She testified she had not distributed any literature since October 11, but that "we have worked in another county, and in the rural sections of Gray last week."

Worship Not Denied She said the Local Witnesses held services on Sunday night and prayer meetings on Wednesday and Friday nights.

Obtaining a direct answer to a question by Attorney Douglass as to whether Sheriff Rose had said he would not permit them to worship God as they chose, required four attempts on the part of the defense counsel before the witness admitted that the sheriff had made no such assertion.

Told of Complaints E. W. Patrick was placed on the stand at 3:54. He testified as to his arrest by Deputy Pearce. Asked if he would continue the activities cited in the plaintiffs' petition, Judge Ewing ruled against an injunction, he hesitated, then said he would, pending an appeal.

Sheriff Rose told him, he said, that he received "a lot of complaint about you people on the streets," that there had been numerous telephone calls to the sheriff.

He admitted that literature of the sect had been distributed in counties other than Gray since October 11.

Patrick testified he was exclusively a minister, and named a man, whose name he gave as J. R. White, as "head minister" of the local Jehovah's Witnesses church.

DALLAS, Oct. 21 (AP)—The election of Miss Bernice Hess, Girl Scout director at Milwaukee, to the presidency of the National Association of Girl Scout executives was announced at a conference of the association today.

The three-day conference of the National Association of Girl Scout executives is a convention of the national convention of Girl Scouts, Inc., which will open tonight at Southern Methodist university.

AXIS CLAIMS

to knif through Soviet defense lines, but "the attacks were beaten off with heavy losses for the enemy," it added.

Tanks also reported violent fighting in the Kalinin sector, where Red army troops were credited with driving the Germans from a town identified as "K" in a large-scale battle of mechanized and motorized forces.

Inside Moscow, Red workers pledged themselves to "fight to the last drop of blood" as a Moscow radio broadcast said three factory workers had been sentenced to death for "spreading panic and looting." Others were imprisoned.

Preparations for a last-ditch defense were further illustrated by reports that Lieut. Gen. Artemiev, commander of Moscow garrisons, was using thousands of men, women and even children to throw a ring of fortifications around the capital, including anti-tank ditches and machine-gun nests.

The new war-time capital of the U. S. E. appeared to have settled at Kulbyshev, Volga river city of 390,000, about 550 miles southeast of Moscow.

Military advices reaching London said strong Russian counter-attacks had slackened the German drive but that the Germans were moving reinforcements from the Leningrad area to bolster Gen. Fedor von Bock's left wing striking from the Kalinin sector toward Moscow.

Harry Warner Says

Bloff Shook Him Down For $100,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Two bodyguards trailed his car, Movie Magnate Harry M. Warner testified today, because while he professed open friendship for William Bloff, west coast labor leader, he feared bodily harm.

"I considered Bloff as a man who shook our company down for $100,000," said Warner, head of Warner Brothers pictures, "but as a matter of good business, I thought it better to remain on friendly terms with him on the surface."

It was Warner's second day on the stand in federal court where Bloff and George E. Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage employees (AFL) are on trial charged with extorting $550,000 from motion picture producers in violation of the federal anti-racketeering act.

Warner previously testified that his firm had paid the defendants $100,000 to avert strikes and bodily harm. He said he was afraid of what would happen to the business and to himself if monetary demands made by Bloff were not met.

Michigan Now Ranked Third In Standings

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—You might suspect that when two football teams from the same conference collide, even with the league leadership and possible title at stake, the game would be one of sectional interest only.

But not the Minnesota-Michigan feud at Ann Arbor Saturday. The nation's sports writers in their second poll of the young gridiron season have decreed that the battle for the "title" between just about one for the country's mythical title as well.

The Golden Gophers of Minnesota retained their first-place rating of a week ago with 1,169 points while Michigan jumped all the way from sixth to third on the strength of its 14 to 7 triumph over Northwestern.

Sixty-nine of the voters thought Minnesota was the best eleven in the land, while only seven gave the Wolverines that much credit. Michigan collected a total of 907 votes.

Texas, easy victor over four foes, slipped between the pair of Big Ten behemoths with 1,096 tallies, less than 100 below the Gophers. The Longhorns are paired this week with Rice, stunned last Saturday by LSU.

Duke, which flattered down a notch to make room for Michigan's abrupt climb, harvested 758 points and this week has the chance of bowing over Pittsburgh, a dominant figure in the editor's poll in years gone by.

Navy, Fordham, Notre Dam, Santa Clara, Texas A. & M., and Tulane complete the first 10 but the Minnesota-Michigan fracas is the only one which pits two of the leaders against one another.

Reapers Down Borger Bull Pups 24 to 0

Scoring four touchdowns on long runs, the Pampa Junior High Reapers clung to the top rung of the Panhandle Junior High Football conference yesterday afternoon by downing Borger's Bull Pups 24 to 0 in a postponed game played in Borger. The game was originally set for last Thursday but was postponed because of a wet field.

White and Howard turned into side-stepping speedsters yesterday, each scoring two touchdowns. Howard romped 30 yards to give the Reapers their first six points and then White came through with a 20-yard run. Howard put the Reapers three up when he stepped 35 yards but not to be outdone, White raced 25 yards for another touchdown. All four attempts for extra points were blocked.

The Reapers lost two more touchdowns when ends were caught from behind after long passes. Sheehan fired one pass at Cree good for 35 yards, but he was caught from behind on the 15-yard line. Just at the final gun, Sheehan screeled one to Clay for a net gain of 60 yards with Clay being caught on the Borger 5-yard line.

White and Howard were outstanding on offense with Custer doing good kicking. On defense it was Cree and Allen who were in the thick of things.

Next game for the Reapers will be at Harvester Park here on October 30 when Sam Houston of Amarillo comes to town. Sam Houston is the only team to defeat the Reapers this season. They came from behind to win 26 to 20.

Aggies To Replace Stolen TCU Flag

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Texas A. & M. cadet corps intends to make a T. C. U. flag which was removed and partially destroyed at Fort Worth after the Aggie-Horned Frog football game Saturday.

The Aggies apologized yesterday. T. C. U. officials previously had said the incident might cause bad feeling between the schools.

A telegram to the head of the T. C. U. student body in care of President M. E. Sadler, and signed by Cadet Col. Tom Gillis and Head Aggie Yell Leader Skeen Staley said:

"The incident x x x is regrettable because it did not express the sentiments of the Aggie cadet corps. "We would like to add the apologies of the corps to those of the student who was responsible, and we will replace the flag with a similar one purchased with funds collected from our corps."

Contract System To Be Installed In Sandlot Teams

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 21 (AP)—A nationwide contract system will be installed in semipro baseball next year to prevent players from jumping to other leagues without obtaining formal releases.

President Ray Dumont of the National Semipro Baseball Congress said today the system would be patterned after that used in professional organized baseball.

Dumont predicted more than 500 sandlot baseball leagues, with an estimated 3,500 teams, would participate in the congress next year.

The 1942 league schedules will run from April 15 to Sept. 15, he said, but the club on top July 1 automatically will qualify for a place in one of the 48 state tournaments preceding the annual national tournament Aug. 16 to 23 at Wichita, Kas.

Earhart-Lee Feud Will Feature Game At LeFors

The forthcoming battle of speed between Ralph Earhart and John Kelly Lee and of power and drive between "Ox" Odham and Joe Cook is the topic of conversation not only in LeFors and McLean but in Pampa and other points in the Panhandle. On Friday night at 8 o'clock in LeFors, when the undefeated LeFors Pirates entertain the undefeated McLean Tigers, all questions will be answered.

Earhart is the LeFors speed demon who has scored 110 points in five games this season while Lee leads the McLean attack, featuring long and dazzling runs. When power is needed it's Odham of LeFors who is called into action while McLean issues orders for Cook to swing into action.

The four boys, so far, have had outstanding blocking and there is no reason to believe LeFors has the edge. LeFors, however, played Class B football last year and graduated into Class A this year. LeFors has the edge in lettermen returning and also in weight.

Both teams feature close blocking to break their speed demons into the clear where they are usually on their own.

McLean, because of performances in past years, is the favorite although some believe LeFors has the edge. LeFors, however, played Class B football last year and graduated into Class A this year. LeFors has the edge in lettermen returning and also in weight.

Both teams have played tough schedules to date, only common for the Pacific Association is feud with the National A. U. over the expense money given the San Francisco Olympic club last summer and hints that the coast boys may refuse to run in the national championships.

Carnegie Tech Holds Tag Day For Grid Team

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21 (AP)—Today was tag day at Carnegie Tech with the Tartan football team as beneficiary.

The gallant stand of the weary Tartans last Saturday apparently was the spark which stung undergraduates into sudden action, causing them to call out the famed student Kiltie band with gnomes, cheerleaders and go with work for their old Tech.

The immediate goal is $1,000 cash to be taken from the campus starting with mass meetings today and four or five times that much to be raised later from alumni and friends.

The students want the money to assure tuition for grid prospects, so, as one said, "we can have four or five good men who can just take away time from work to play football."

Only three years ago Tech was acclaimed champion of the East and but for the referee misinforming the captain about what down it was against Notre Dame, might have been national champs. In the first game this year the team bowed to little Westminster and then to Mullenberg.

Next on schedule were the mighty Irish, who rolled over the Tartans last year 61 to 0 and gloom was so thick there were rumors of a student strike against such an uneven match.

But after the visitors were held to a 16-0 count the picture changed in a jiffy.

Explained Charles Richardson, president of the Student Council: "The rally is intended not only to raise cash as an immediate indication that students are deeply interested in the success of their team but also to prod the alumni."

Eight Gridders In Wildcat Band

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS:
CANAMAN, Oct. 21—L. E. Cooper, director of music in the Canadian schools, states he is well pleased with the spirit shown by the members of the high school band and the progress they have made this year.

Mr. Cooper took a 33-piece band to parade in Amarillo during the Tri-State fair and has added one player since. There are 20 in his junior band and all doing good work.

Eight band boys are football boys, but there were 20 in the Canadian band to urge on the local Wildcats Friday night to their victory of 13 to 0 over the Perryton Rangers.

Five new players with only two practices on the open field took the places of the five suspended temporarily on technicalities as ineligible.

Last year's Wildcats won over the Perryton Rangers 20 to 6.

Friday's game was the second conference game this season for the Wildcats.

Sophomore Backs Make Penn Stronger Than Last Year

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Oct. 21—Pennsylvania picking up right where it left off with the defeat of Cornell last fall is one of the more remarkable stories of the current campaign by Having smashed Harvard, beaten Yale to the punch and over Princeton, the Quakers still have Maryland, Navy, Columbia, Army, and Cornell.

Navy is the only school which matches Penn in size and numbers. Their battle on Franklin Field, Nov. 1, will be worth going miles to see.

Only four members of the starting Penn eleven that was held to a 10-10 tie by Harvard last autumn were in the opening lineup this trip. Fifteen lettermen were lost by graduation and other causes, including such outstanding ones as Frank X. Reagan, All-America tailback, and Ray Frick, captain and center.

Yet Emerson Nelson of Yale considers the current Penn team stronger than the 1940 varsity.

"We knew the Quakers were big and powerful, but didn't realize how fast they were," says Spike Nelson.

VETERANS FEW BUT OTHERS—SERVED APPRENTICESHIP

The trick is that all save Kane are lettermen who served their apprenticeship last season as substitutes.

Coach Munger really had that 1940 varsity backed up, and so is this one. Coach Nelson of the Elis calls Stiff the best Penn fullback Yale ever faced, and adds that the Blue has met plenty of good ones.

Kane and Bob Odell, another sophomore, puts more punch, speed and versatility in Penn's rushing.

The readehead Kane is a 10-second man who really takes off on the deep reverse.

PENN'S RUSHING ATTACK KEEPS DEFENSE GUESSING
Penn's most consistent gaining play is a delayed buck by Stiff. The play starts with the quarter getting the ball and faking it to Kane or Odell. Kane or Odell starts around end, pulling opposing linemen wide. Stiff delays, then bucks or slices through for good gains. He has terrific drive.

The variation of this play is for Kane or Odell to get the ball and sweep end or cut in between the end and tackle. Mixing these two plays, enemy forwards never know whether to stay put and wait for the delayed buck or to swing out and follow the sweep.

Gifford, the tailback, is no slouch, and Davis is, of course, a blocker from Blockersville. The team is mostly one of power and simple plays.

TEXAS A. & M. DOWNS T. C. U. BY TWO TOUCHDOWNS—Texas A. & M.'s Moser (42), gains 15 yards through T. C. U.'s line after taking a pass and then running. Note Kyle Gillispie (40), T. C. U. star back, going down at right, as he is injured in the play. Before a sell-out crowd at Fort Worth, Texas A. & M. downed Texas Christian 14 to 0.

MICHIGAN TOPPLES NORTHWESTERN 14 to 7—Captain Bob Westfall (86), Michigan fullback, breaks through right side of Northwestern line to make 26 yards in first quarter of the game played at Dyche stadium in Evanston, Ill. In one of the most exciting games of the day, Michigan edged out Northwestern 14 to 7.

A. & M. Changes Thanksgiving Week
SPECIAL TO THE NEWS:
COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 21 (A-MC)—Official date of the Thanksgiving holidays at Texas A&M college have been changed from Nov. 20-22, as announced in the college catalogue, to Nov. 27 to Dec. 1, 6 p. m., Dr. F. C. Bolton, dean of the college, has announced.

The original dates were set before Governor Coke Stevenson announced that Texas would celebrate Thanksgiving on Nov. 27 instead of on Nov. 22 as proclaimed by President F. D. Roosevelt. The date of Nov. 27, the day of the annual Texas A&M-University of Texas football game here, had been declared as a holiday at the college but is now included in the new dates set by Dean Bolton.

Officers of the college will be closed Nov. 27-29 but the students will be excused from 6 p. m., Nov. 26 to 6 p. m., Dec. 1. Classes will be resumed at 8 a. m. on Dec. 2.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE—"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Control Of Prices Means Total Control

One big current question is price control. What has not been sufficiently emphasized is that there can be no adequate "price control" without rigorous "cost control." The price charged by a manufacturer is necessarily the total of his operating costs, plus a profit. Those costs include labor, materials, machinery, transportation, taxes and everything else that is part of industrial overhead. If the government establishes a price ceiling which is below the aggregate of a factory's costs, it will lose money and eventually go bankrupt. If it establishes a price ceiling which is precisely the same as the aggregate of costs, the manufacturer will lose the incentive which the profit system provides—at the expense of industrial progress and production. It is to the credit of American industry that, in general, it is doing everything possible to keep prices from getting out of hand. In the retail field, which provides a notable example of this, thousands of merchants, including both chain system and independent units, have established a definite, aggressive, "anti-inflationary" program. This sort of work is of the utmost importance. But stores like manufacturers, must price their wares to reflect their costs. As wages, taxes and other costs rise, there is no solution except to increase the selling price to the buyer. In short, price control isn't just a matter of establishing, by government fiat, fixed ceilings over the price of finished goods. Real price control means "total" control of all costs. Our country is being forced into a position where the people will have to give up temporarily the liberties they have enjoyed under a free economy. Left-wing groups are urging rigid price control without control of wages, taxes and other costs, in the hope that this would wreck the profit system. That must not happen—for if it does, American democracy will be as dead as if the nation had suffered ignominious military defeat.

What About The Farmer?

It is urged that agriculture be given equal representation with industry and labor in all Federal defense agencies and bureaus. That is an absolutely just demand. Food is as important as munitions to the winning of wars. The farm labor problem has disrupted normal farm operations—the farmer simply can't pay the wages that are offered by war industries. And the farmer's other operating costs are rising dangerously fast. The farmer asks only that he be given the same consideration that is given to other groups. That in itself is vital to the success of the defense effort.

The Nation's Press

IS OKLAHOMA A BAD NEIGHBOR? (Daily Oklahoman) Starting figures came before the state defense council recently.

Chairman E. J. O'Connor of the industries committee said that the nation will produce 85,000,000 tons of steel in 1941, of which not more than 20,000,000 tons can be used up in defense contracts. The remainder of not less than 65,000,000 tons is more than was used in 1929—former all-time high. Nevertheless, Oklahoma industry is hard hit because the priority authorities are diverting steel from civilian use, ostensibly for "defense."

The only reason discoverable for such action is that some steel is being allocated to "Latin American countries for 'good neighbor' reasons. Oklahoma produces no steel but it does produce much other material equally vital to defense. One is oil. You can't produce oil without steel.

A law weeks ago it was unanimously agreed by one man in a severe state of jitters that there was a serious oil shortage, and hysteria set in. Oklahoma is interested. It was shown that there is no such shortage. In fact, American oil is being shipped to Germany via Spain, according to Pearson & Allen. But normal oil production is still necessary to Oklahoma's economic health. Apparently the priorities authorities are afflicted with the same kind of hysteria, communicable to manufacturers acting in obvious self-defense. But even after steel stocks are piled up here and there in anticipation of shortage, it is still found that there is plenty of steel. Every body seems to know about it except the priority boys, most of whom are innocent of experience in business or industry, and would probably believe it if you suddenly screamed at them that there is a scarcity of gypsum or salt.

Two million workers are out of jobs because of various imaginary shortages, Oklahoma, despite its importance in the defense picture, is excluded from the "good neighbor" policy, and must naturally infer that it must sit at the second table and eat necks and haskets, if anything.

REMEMBER THE ALLIS VOTE FRAUD?

(Milwaukee Journal) Canada, which is in the "war," has had little trouble with the rank and file of union labor. The workers support the war effort, bend every energy to the business of getting out goods. But Canada has had no end of trouble with labor leaders. So now, by an order in council, the Canadian cabinet has decreed that there shall be no strikes in war industries, including defense construction projects, unless the strike action is supported by a majority vote taken by secret ballot. By a majority is meant a majority of all the workers on that job, not just those who come to the polls. The vote is supervised by the Canadian labor department. Thus Canada strikes at a weakness which is

SILK THREADS AND IRON FETTERS

I have recently finished reading, "The Reconstruction of Europe" by the Italian, Guglielmo Ferrero. It refutes the conditions that brought about the peace in Europe after the 25 years of revolution under Napoleon. The author points out that our leaders must establish rules and principles that the citizens generally accept. He says that if this is done, then society can have silk threads that hold them under control. If this is not done, then there must be iron fetters. Then Ferrero goes on and asks, "What is order? And I quote the answer: 'It is the aggregate of laws which man must respect so as not to live in permanent terror of his fellows, of the innate folly of man, and of his unpredictable outbursts, which philosophers call liberty. Man is a sublime brute, an angelic monster, a bundle of contradictions in perpetual motion. The greatest of these contradictions is that he is afraid and wants to be brave, because fear is the diabolical force which lets out all the evil in his nature. The most valuable function of order is to help man to be brave, by eliminating the most dangerous cause of his fear. Buy the laws which allow us to foresee the individual and collective conduct of men are of two kinds—silk threads and iron fetters. The more afraid men become of each other, the more they resort to iron fetters, which are the coercive laws of an ever-increasing brutality. It is in dark periods of history that law maintains order by legalizing terror. But order imposed by terror is a false order, and a contradiction in terms, for it can only be maintained by increasing man's fear, whereas the aim of order is to free him of that fear. For that reason, mankind has tended toward reducing the innumerable constructions of law, so as to entrust more and more the maintenance of order to moral, ritual, and religious laws, laws of prudence and wisdom, which individuals and groups impose upon themselves without physical coercion, by means of a reciprocal moral pressure. In other words, silk threads rather than iron fetters. Self-discipline is the highest form of the constructive mind. A great civilization is merely a system in which the process of self-discipline has become more and more complex and refined.'"

It is this lack of self-discipline that is causing us to be so fearful of the tyrants of Europe. This lack of self-discipline is causing many of our people to rush head-long into European wars. Lack of self-discipline is exemplified in our fear of economic competition. It has caused us to pass tariff laws, and immigration laws. The more fear we have, the more we want to use force. We need self-discipline, courage and less fear.

FRIENDSHIP AND SINCERITY

The President has taken exception to the German translation of his letter to Stalin. The Germans interpreted the complimentary close as "Yours in friendship," and Roosevelt claims he signed the letter "Yours Very Sincerely."

Evidently Mr. Roosevelt believes he can have friends without sincerity. If he really understood that there can be no friendship that is not backed by sincerity, he would not have taken exception to the German translation of his letter to Joe Stalin.

apparent in the United States, too. Time and again you hear it reported, "The workers say they did not want to strike." But the leaders manipulated it, calling the men off in dictator fashion, or, if there was a strike vote, the whole lot was diverted to "seller," individuals plastratedly through the hall, bulldozing anybody who tried to express a contrary opinion. The secret ballot is the better method, and certainly under governmental supervision. For the secret ballot is no good, either, if it can be stuffed—and stuffed and no accounting given to the fraud. Remember Allis-Chambers? The fraud took place in January, it was evidenced by union officials in March, when handwriting experts uncovered it, with a promise to find and punish the guilty persons. A great wrong had been done to the union, so the official's statement in October is now here, but nobody has been exposed.

JUDGESHIPS FOR SALE

(Tulsa Tribune) Sen. Elmer Thomas told newspaper men in Oklahoma City Friday that the reason he will continue to support Stephen Chandler for federal judge of the western district of Oklahoma is because Chandler was the chief contributor to the senator's 1938 campaign fund. Chandler, an Oklahoma City attorney, has never been approved by the department of justice.

"In politics you have to be loyal to people who are loyal to you," the senator stated with commendable candor. "You may not like it, but there is nothing else you can do unless you can change the system."

It will, of course, be argued that judges, not only of the federal district courts, but even of the Circuit Courts of Appeal and the Supreme Court, have commonly been selected on a patronage basis. Certainly Sen. Thomas has invented nothing new. But if Mr. Chandler deserves a life job at public expense paying $10,000 a year just because he gave Sen. Thomas a couple of thousand dollars then it appears perfectly clear that the judgeship was for sale. Moreover, if it is obtained it will be quite a bargain and should tend to stimulate contributions from other ambitious people when Sen. Thomas' next campaign rolls around.

A year ago an ex-congressman was sentenced to jail for selling an appointment to Annapolis. His colleagues clucked their tongues in pious indignation at this evidence of moral turpitude. Well, would it have been all right if the boy had merely contributed the money to the congressman's campaign fund? Where is the thin line that differentiates the man who contributes financial support and gets rich patronage rewards in return from the man who plainly buys a political favor?

DEBT OR DICTATOR

(San Pedro, Calif., News-Pilot) As an example of the loose talk emanating from high places these days, there was the statement by Wendell Willkie at a rally for the sale of defense bonds, that "I would rather own a United States bond which is part of a national indebtedness of 150 billion dollars, than a bond which is part of a 50-billion-dollar debt with Hitler in the world."

As a patriotic effort to stimulate the sale of defense bonds, Willkie's words were excusable; but as a public statement by a leader of American public opinion, they were not logical, and a minimum of consideration reveals why. To begin with, while Adolf Hitler is the person principally responsible for the current European holocaust, and is the leading motivating force behind the ideology of totalitarianism, the

A burst shatters the glass just above him. Then a bullet hits him. An ordinary mortal, struck in the head by a machine gun bullet, would go into a spasm at that point, but in the tradition of Cagney tenacity, he goes on fighting awhile.

It has been a four-day headache for Mr. C. what with the goopy red paint that keeps running down into his eyes, and with the din of eight imitation machine guns and the occasional cannon blast—from a semi-automatic shotgun.

"I wish I was dead," he says plaintively. "I want to get killed off so I can start my vacation."

When he was asked asked Paramount for bigger and better roles, she said she didn't care how tough they were. So today they took her at her word and did everything except toss her off a sound stage ramp.

As a German agent and the shenanigans of "The Lady Has Plans," Miss Hayes walks into a Lisbon hotel room, finds herself trapped by Ray Milland, playing an American news commentator. She yanks a gun from her leopard-skin muff and as she fires, he ducks and clips her on the jaw. After some discussion it was decided that she must crumple at the knees and fall on her face with the gun arm limply outstretched.

So they tried the scene, and with his first haymaker Milland cut his knuckles on her revolver. The next take started fine, and Milland continued by tying her hands and feet with towels. She did not object when he put her on a bed and roughly unzipped the back of her dress. It's really all right because the American was only looking to see whether the skin of her back bore the plans of a railroad, a torpedo, or what.

But that scene was spoiled when her ankles came untied. The last I saw of her, Miss Hayes was still being slugged, trussed, hauled and mauled. It's a hard life, girls.

Raft Refuses Humphrey Bogart is an outstanding demagogue, and he is doing about one man's meat being another's poison—or that one actor's ham is another actor's caviar. Anyway he's taking plenty of bows these days for his performance in "The Maltese Falcon," which is a very fine movie directed by John Huston. He bowed out of that assignment. Or rather, he indignantly stomped out of it.

It hasn't been recorded whether Raft misjudged the skill of Writer-Director John Huston, or whether he was insulted because no romance was culminated or clichés developed in the final reel. Raft had been allowed to win Marlene Dietrich in factor frequently overlooked, and usually ignored for propaganda purposes, is that Hitler was and is a product of circumstances. Had it not been Hitler, some other German leader would have arisen to the occasion sooner or later. It was written in the skies for all intelligent persons to read, with many historical lessons in the background.

It may be said, of course, that Wendell Willkie referred to Hitler not only as a person, but as a symbol of dictatorship, abhorrent to all liberty-loving peoples; that it is infinitely preferable to bear the burden of crushing debt with liberties remaining, than to have less debt and fewer liberties.

But the flaw in that argument is that crushing debt of itself breeds dictatorship; and if anybody doubts this, let him again turn to the pages of history, even so recent as the history of Germany since the treaty of Versailles.

The national debt of the United States, as reported by the treasury department, was at an all-time high of $59,920,960,233 as of Aug. 30. The congress now has passed tax legislation which will increase the tax load on the American people to a burden such as they have never before been called upon to bear.

Add to this condition authoritative estimates that the spending for national defense and aid to Britain, China and Russia has barely begun. Then consider the tax burden which would be imposed by a national debt of 150 billion dollars, and what almost certainly would follow.

Every loyal, liberty-loving American would vastly prefer debt to dictatorship; but let us not forget that debt leads to dictatorship and that unless we are alert to prevent it, we may be plunged into both.

ONE FREEDOM ATTACKED

(New York News) It has often been said that we are likely to lose our own freedom in the United States in the process of trying to bring the "four freedoms" to the whole world in this generation by war. Well, one of our most cherished freedoms has been the freedom of the press. The only direct attack yet made by this Administration on freedom of the press was Secretary of the Navy, Knox' suppression of news of British naval vessels putting into U. S. ports for repairs—a ban which, now lifted, its foolishness having become apparent.

But we have recently been notified that The News will have to use 5% less gasoline in October, 1941, than in October, 1940. Our daily circulation is up some 60,000 over this time last year, and our Sunday circulation some 125,000. We were not wasting gasoline last year in delivering papers; we never waste gasoline or anything else, knowingly. If this order stands, we shall have to print either fewer papers or smaller papers—and we have already got this paper squeezed about as small as a real newspaper can be. So this order is an indirect attack on freedom of the press. The papers, we presume, will be saved by Sec. Ickes for the purpose we believe, of making more people more warmed, Ickes has simply denied the repeated claim of J. J. Pellé, president of the Association of American Railroads, that from 20,000 to 24,000 tank cars are available if the Government only wanted to use them to carry oil and gasoline to the Atlantic seaboard. The recently torpedoed American-owned tanker I. C. White was plying between the Dutch West Indies and South Africa, which has ample oil and gasoline. Possibly this Administration would like to Emotions were burning at fever-pitch in the district courtroom yesterday in the Jehovah's Witnesses' injunction hearing against Cal Rose. In the center section were seated the Witnesses, and across the aisle in the south section were seated members of veterans' organizations, and numerous Catholics. The atmosphere was tense throughout the afternoon.

On the front seat in the section occupied by the Witnesses sat a number of children, among them two high school girls who took down in shorthand much of the testimony. After the hearing adjourned until today, one of the Witnesses, a woman slumped down on the steps leading to the first floor. I thought she had sprained her ankle, but then I saw a fixed, faraway look in her eyes which she directed upward, as she talked in an unrelayed voice about her "child." A crowd gathered around her and somebody began fanning her. She stayed there for some minutes.

Both sides in the controversy kept waiting for fireworks, but they didn't get many because the court ruled out all discussion regarding the Witnesses' flag, militarism, fealty to the flag, and oranges. However, those in the courtroom who were waiting for excitement got it when Curtis Douglas, attorney for Mr. Rose, made an impassioned plea in support of Mr. Rose's contention that he was the first time I had attended a trial in a long time, and I was impressed by Judge Ewing's keen awareness, and by the fact that advancing age hasn't changed him.

The judge immediately put the whole case on a legal basis. "There's a point of law to decide," he said, "and you could see him dismissing every issue except the legal points."

"Manpower," and he thinks it's important always to get the gas. The cynical Mr. Bogart, who himself has turned down many a role for other reasons, doesn't give a whoop about romance. A lot of actors have profited by others' errors. Al Johnson went into "The Jazz Singer," first talkie, when George Jessel refused it. Errol Flynn made his first screen fame as "Captain Blood" because Robert Donat turned it down. And Luis Rainer became a top star with "Escapade," when Myrna Loy flounced out of it.

see The News forced to curtail newspaper production. But we want to call their freedom as well as ours is menaced by this gasoline reduction. The interventionist as well as isolationist papers will suffer from it.

Arnold on Advertising A second indirect attack on freedom of the press was delivered Tuesday evening by Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, in a speech to a lot of advertising people. The gist of Mr. Arnold's message was that, much as the Government regretted it, advertising might suffer from the defense program.

Mr. Arnold wrote "The Folklore of Capitalism," a clever little work in which he voiced the opinion that advertising may be unhealthy; that it arouses false desires and makes for unsound competition. He feels that if some brand labeled, let us say, Heavly Whiskey, were advertised so heavily that all its competitors were driven out of the retail shops, this would be bad, though this Heavenly Whiskey were the finest in the world.

We would just like to warn our fellow newspapers that this Mr. Arnold, with his Pink ideas about advertising, has his eye on them, and also has a big Government job, and that a lot of papers will have to fold up if he succeeds in putting his ideas on advertising into practice.

WHAT IS NOT MONOPOLY

(Wall Street Journal) In his decision of the now famous anti-trust suit against the Aluminum Co. of America, District Court Judge Caffery had some remarks upon the subject of "monopoly" and "competition" that may be commended to the attention of all who are interested in the correct use of words.

He found that the Government had failed to prove its charge of "monopoly" against the company. The production of alumina requires, he said, only three things—bauxite, power and a company with brains. As there is no "monopoly" of either bauxite, power or brains, the Aluminum Co. is not a "monopoly" nor is it guilty of "monopolization." On the matter of "restraint of competition," the judge pointed out that these companies which had considered entry into the production of alumina had not refrained from doing so because of any action by the Aluminum Co. One of these companies gave "taxes and legislation" as the reason for its decision not to go into the business.

In one sense, of course, but a proper sense—any concern "monopolizes" the business that it does simply because it does it. In one sense—but not a proper sense—the successful competitor "restrains" the "competition" of the unsuccessful competitor. But neither such "monopolization" nor such "restraint" are unlawful upon any principle of law of common sense. For as a matter of fact both are formal processes of commerce and industry. Yet whenever a company is large and "successful" it is our habit—apparently—to demand that Mr. Arnold's branch of the Department of Justice get after it.

If we are looking for a way to keep down "size" and "success" in the field of trade and commerce, let us say so, but we shall have to use some form of words other than "monopoly" and "restraint of trade" to express the idea—that is if we want to suit the word to the notion. Also we shall have to write a new law, for to interpret the present anti-trust laws so as to achieve what seems to be the real objective of many of us, would probably tax the capacities of even the most "realistic" of "jurists" as those laws, and the Constitution, stand today.

Behind The News In Washington

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—If I had to name the senator who looks most like a senator, I'd probably pick Tom Connally, of Texas—the man who occupies the rank and file of all impending foreign policy legislation, including that package of legislative dynamite referred to as revision of the Neutrality Act.

More than six feet tall and of generous bulk, Senator Connally wears the stamp of 25 years in Congress. He has long wavy hair, now almost white. He wears black hats and dark suits. It is only in recent years that he has discarded his black Windsor tie for a black bow. He smokes cigars. And he talks with a tongue that washes out phrases and whips up humor that not only make good listening, but good reading too.

By the steady pressure of seniority, he has come at last to chairmanship of the Senate foreign relations committee and in his new job, he will have the task of steering the President's foreign policy, including legislation through the upper house. It's a big order, but one over which the White House has no qualms. For Senator Connally, on both sides of the fence, has proved his mettle. He is solidly behind the President's foreign policy, including even total repeal of the Neutrality Act, but he is no yes-man.

He gave Capitol Hill something to remember when he led the filibuster in 1937 against the anti-lynching bill. He gave oil men something to remember when he put over the "Connally hot oil act" which prohibits interstate transportation of oil produced in violation of state laws. He was one of four Democratic Senators to vote against NRA and he didn't leave any doubt about his vigorous opposition to President Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization bill.

Senator Connally's handle is Thomas Terry, but I doubt if there are ten persons in Washington and not more than three times that in Texas who know it, for he has been so plain Tom ever since he was a sergeant major in the Spanish-American War. He comes from Marlin, Tex., where he practiced law for a while. For 12 years, he was a member of the House of Representatives, taking time out to fight overseas as a World War captain. In 1918, he was elected to the Senate and has been around ever since.

He probably is the only major Senate committee chairman, who also sits on two other major committees—finance and judiciary—but when you ask him what he is most proud of in his life, he answers: "Of being a good country lawyer and the fact that my son Ben (now practicing in Houston) is a better lawyer than I am."

There are few members of either house who can match Senator Connally in the sense of humor and he's not averse to turning it on the whole Senate. One of his frequently repeated remarks: "Draco wrote his laws in blood; the Senate writes its laws in wind."

tively and Maudie continued, "You said the same thing about Miss Millie and that woman had good sense. She was observant, a good judge of human nature."

"Well, takes all kinds of people to make up a world," he said and I took the letters and started out, still hoping for a glimpse of Denny. The lobby and bar were empty. I supposed he was over at the State Police Post where, I hoped, some progress was being made to end all the suspense.

"No one put anything over Miss Millie," Her tone was sharp. "I'll grant you that she know too much. At least I should imagine that was what happened," she added hurriedly, when she saw I was ready to start asking questions.

"They're probably painting the town red," I said crossly. "Sowing their wild oats now that you're away." But anyway I went to the inn for the mail and a chance to prove to myself that the sight of Denny talking to that hussy, Margie Dixon, was of no importance to me.

"I sat around that afternoon making some notes for next semester's classes in Lit. I. I was seeing myself in the years to come doing the same uninteresting tasks. I was feeling pretty sorry for myself by the time Maudie and McCool came back, and I was glad enough to listen to her instead of thinking how badly I felt.

"I dropped around to the Morris house," she said lighting a cigarette and slipping her shoes off. "Jeanie wasn't in, but I had a little chat with Liza Holmes. She certainly was devoted to that poor dead woman. They were a lot alike, of course—same generation, same stern, thin faces, same dreadful clothes."

"She doesn't seem like one you'd enjoy chatting with," I interrupted. "You mustn't judge people by their appearances, Mary," she said sternly, rubbing McCool's stomach with a silk-covered foot.

JEANIE MORRIS was at the cottage when I got back and young Tod Palmer was with her. "Liza told me you had been over, Mrs. O'Connor, and I was sorry to have missed seeing you," she said. "It's nice to have friends at a time like this."

"I suppose people were already beginning to stare at her with curious eyes. I was glad Tod was around to ease that loneliness, and from the way he looked at her I could see that he wouldn't mind the hours he might spend acting as a Boy Scout.

"Do you and Liza Holmes stay in that big house all alone?" Maudie asked. "Quiet, yes. But is it safe?" The girl laughed a little. "Really it is. I'm not scared. Of course I've thought and wondered who—who would have killed my aunt, and the only thing I can think is that some poor, demented person must have seen her in the boat alone."

Her voice faltered then. "But as for myself or Liza—why, we've lived in that house all the summers I can remember and I've never been afraid, and I'm not now."

"Maudie reads mystery novels," I explained. "You mustn't let her upset you." Maudie sniffed loudly. "I'm not trying to upset anyone. I'm just trying to suggest the child use ordinary precaution."

"Precaution against what?" I said, but she glared at me and emptied her ginger ale glass. (To Be Continued)

FEMINE nerves can be a curse, and so can a silly feminine heart. I blamed my vile temper and cutting remarks on an upset digestive system due to too much murder in the air. Maudie accepted it without argument. She was beginning to act like herself again, and was finding the cottage too confining, which suited me since I would prefer being alone with my own thoughts.

"I sat around that afternoon making some notes for next semester's classes in Lit. I. I was seeing myself in the years to come doing the same uninteresting tasks. Dr. West To Be Lubbock Speaker

Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, was awarded the annual Parents' magazine medal for outstanding service to children, it was announced today by R. G. Hughes, who is president of the Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scouts of America, with headquarters at Pampa.

The presentation was made at the Better Parenthood weekly luncheon at Mayflower hotel, Washington, D. C. Monday.

Dr. West is known to a number of Scout leaders here and many more will become acquainted with him on Oct. 23 at the regional institute which is to be held at Lubbock at which Dr. West will be the principle speaker.

In previous years, the annual Parents' magazine medal for outstanding service to children was awarded to Katherine F. Lenroot, chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dr. Walter Dammrosch, Dr. Allen Roy Dafeo, Walt Disney, and Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., surgeon general and chief of U. S. Public Health service.

In making the award, George J. Hecht, publisher of Parents' magazine, and chairman of the Better Parenthood Week committee, acclaimed Dr. West as having built up the greatest organization dedicated to the welfare of children that ever existed in America.

"Dr. West deserves the major credit," Mr. Hecht said, "for building the Boy Scouts to a membership of more than 1,200,000 boys and with more than 300,000 adult volunteer Scout leaders. Dr. West is himself a product of a Washington orphan asylum, though he has a physical disability resulting from a persistent childhood illness, he has rendered a lifetime of outstanding service in the welfare of children.

"When still a young man, he organized a citizens' committee which persuaded congress to give Washington the juvenile court. He interested President Theodore Roosevelt to such an extent that he called a White House conference on the care of dependent children and every 10 years each succeeding president has called a similar White House conference on child welfare, in each of which Dr. West has participated.

"In 1910 he became executive officer of the newly-incorporated Boy Scouts of America, which position he has held ever since. In these three decades Dr. West's work has influenced the lives of more than 10,000,000 young Americans who are healthier and better citizens because of their participation in Scouting."

Other speakers at the Better Parenthood Week luncheon were Dr. Thomas Parran, Jr., Mrs. Clara Savage Littlefield, editor of Parents' magazine, and Charles B. Telford, assistant U. S. coordinator of health, welfare, and related defense activities.

With the German drive on Moscow slowed down by a determined defense—a historic stand in which the work of women and even children in building fortifications is playing its part—attention of military observers today shifted momentarily to the intensification of the Nazi attempt to capture the strategic city of Rostov at the entrance to the Caucasus.

This operation is of vast importance. Hitler must, of course, capture Moscow or suffer a defeat which will have a tremendous moral repercussion throughout the world, but it's equally true that he must break through to the Caucasus if his Russian adventure isn't to fail of two of its primary objectives. Those goals—to repeat what has been said often here before—are the oil fields, and the establishment of bases in the Middle East for operations against the British.

The Nazis claim to have taken the industrial city of Stalingrad and to be closing in on Rostov. If they capture this port and railroad center on the Don river they may well have secured the key to the gateway into the Caucasus to the south.

As a result of this German thrust we may find that the new allied front which is being insistently demanded by the British public will develop in this region, rather than by an invasion of western Europe. As a matter of fact, it might well be that, if the allied arms prosper, the British may find this their most feasible route for a general land offensive against Germany. That is, they first will attack the Germans from the rear rather than across the English Channel.

Because it is imperative from the allied standpoint to keep the Nazis out of the Caucasus, it would be logical for the British to send a large expeditionary force through Iran (Persia) into the region between the Black Sea and the Caspian to form a common front with the Reds. The British have close to a million men under arms in the Middle East and, while their mechanized equipment isn't up to requirements, they could present a formidable defense.

All Pampa Men Asked To Join Defense Guard

Members of the Texas Defense Guard today called on members of the Jaycees, Rotary, Lions, and Kiwanis clubs, and all other Pampa men between 18 and 64, to join the local company, a unit in the biggest state military organization in the United States.

As proud of the Texas Defense Guard as he is of the outfit in which he served and as a member of which he fought at Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Woods, is Major Roberts of the adjutant-general's office in Austin.

The major was in Pampa yesterday, conferring with County Judge Sherman White, and with officers of the Pampa company.

He told the county judge that members of the Texas Defense Guard were voluntarily and without pay training themselves to be of service to their community in the event of an emergency. If a serious local situation arose, the Guard would be the first organization called into service, he said.

He pointed out that at Houston it was known the Guard has saved at least a dozen lives and prevented the looting of millions of dollars worth of property from stores, while on duty during the recent floods.

Members of the local company are training themselves to be of service to Pampa and Gray county, and they want Pampa's company (Company D) to be the best in the 14th battalion.

To accomplish this will require a full company, at the least. Members believe that Pampa is capable of raising several companies, more than either Berger, Amarillo or Plainview.

Regular drill is held at 7 o'clock Thursday night at the new high school building. Pampans are invited to come out and watch the drill and to join the company.

WILL BRITAIN INVADE?

Britain is turning the tables on the Nazis by keeping them, and the rest of the world, wondering whether she will strike in the west to lure German troops from the Russian front, use her air superiority in the north to invade Norway, or attack in Italy to bolster spirit of revolt among peoples of occupied Europe. Map shows points where British troops may invade the continent of Europe.

Crop Failures Hit Farmers In East Texas

DALLAS, Oct. 21 (AP)—C. M. Evans, regional director of the Farm Security Administration, today said the FSA was moving in to assist many East Texas farmers facing a critical winter because rain and insects ruined their crops.

He said FSA field forces are making surveys and should know in a few days how much additional funds will be needed for loans and personnel to take care of the situation, adding that "arrangements have been completed in Washington to meet all demands."

Evans said many of the farmers would have to turn from the cotton field to the turnip patch for sustenance during the approaching winter months.

"It's no exaggeration to say that a dime's worth of turnip seed will do more to keep the wolf from the door than anything else East Texas can grasp right now," the director said.

"Our field forces are laying particular stress on the immediate planting of fall and winter gardens to help carry these people through the winter."

Worst hit by crop failure, Evans said, is an area four or five counties wide lying along the eastern border of Texas and extending almost from the Red river to the Gulf. He said estimates of the cotton crop indicate that the average yield would be less than 40 per cent of normal, with some counties picking only about a tenth as much as in average years.

"Chief sufferers from the cotton failure," Evans continued, "are those one-crop farmers who depended upon cotton as their only source of cash income and who still find themselves penniless at the opening of winter."

Evans said those who had borrowed previously from the FSA were not as hard hit as many of their neighbors because they had been operating under a balanced farm program in accordance with the agency's loan rules.

He said the FSA was preparing to assist those in need because of the crop failure through loans which are made to low-income farmers unable to get adequate credit from other sources.

He added, however, that the FSA was authorized to make outright grants in cases of acute need and that this might be necessary in some instances in East Texas.

14 Animals Die In Houston Park Zoo

HOUSTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Fourteen animals at Hermann Park Zoo have died from an epidemic of anthrax and Zoo Director Hans Nagel said today there appeared to be no way to check the epidemic.

"We burn the dead animals as soon as we can and keep all the cages sterilized. That's all we can do while we wait for the epidemic to run its course," he said.

The thirteenth and 14th victims, a bobcat and a mountain lion, died last night and today. The 14 animals were valued at approximately $1,500.

Nagel said, but some of them could not be replaced now "at any price."

Mexicans Protest Bridge Builder

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21 (AP)—Senate sources report that labor and business organizations have protested the designation of General Porfirio Cadena to administer the new international bridge to be built across the Rio Grande between Nuevo Laredo and Laredo, Tex.

These organizations were said to have urged the bridge be left in the hands of a government agency rather than be exploited by a private individual who would contribute no funds to its construction.

Various senators said the protests would receive consideration.

sent difficulties, but speedy delivery of railway equipment which has already been ordered in America would go far toward solving that problem. Iran has a railway from the head of the Persian Gulf to the Caspian Sea, where steamers could be used for transport. There also is a branch railway, which is either completed or almost done, connecting the main railroad with the Caucasus. In addition, Persia has many excellent asphalt highways suitable for military traffic.

Establishment of an allied front in the Caucasus couldn't be achieved in time to act as a diversion for German forces which are attacking Moscow. However, it probably could be got into action soon enough to meet the potential Nazi offensive into the Caucasus.

Army Too Small And Lacking In Guns, Russians Say

CAMDEN, S. Gen. Hugh A. Drum's First Army engage in training maneuvers over a 10,000-square-mile area of the Carolinas.

Their views were expressed at a press conference held at the army's public relations headquarters here shortly after their arrival from Washington for a four-day inspection tour.
