

First Birthday Of Woman's Society Of Christian Service Observed At Party

Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist church celebrated its first birthday with a party Monday afternoon in the church.

This organization was formerly the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. One year ago the Methodist Episcopal church, the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church, with aggregate membership of eight and a half million members were joined together at a general uniting conference and at this time both the names and the organizations of the church are the same for all three of the churches, so that now instead of having three churches, there is one Methodist Episcopal church, and the Woman's Society of Christian Service takes the place of the Woman's Missionary Society.

The fellowship hall was decorated with fall flowers and balloons. The charter roll of 179 members was called and read in presence of guests. Mrs. W. B. Burns of Wichita, Kans., and Mrs. R. M. Burgess, Mrs. W. G. Crowson sang "Child of the King," and dedicated it to all members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Each member of the executive board was presented a corsage, after which the March of Time was given by representatives of each group in the form of an I. Q. quiz.

The birthday cake was cut by Mrs. H. H. Boynton, president of W. S. C. S. who was escorted to the table by the vice-president Mrs. S. A. Hurst. The cake was served by Mmes. J. E. Ward and H. F. Barnhart. Punch was poured by Mmes. W. Purviance and Joe Shelton from a lace covered table decorated with fall flowers and leaves.

Mmes. John Hessey and J. M. Turner had charge of registration; Mmes. W. A. Rankin and Ed Weiss, decorations; and Mmes. Horace Mabee, J. M. Turner, and W. S. Exley, program.

Essentials Of Good Buying Listed By Nutrition Group

"Buying" is the topic of another in the series of articles prepared by the publicity committee of the committee of the nutrition campaign being sponsored by local women's clubs in the City Council of Clubs.

"For the first Thanksgiving, almost every step in preparation and processing of food from the raw material to the table was performed in the home, much of it by the housewife or under her direction.

"Today on the other hand, almost every food product is available for sale in commercially prepared form for those who have the money and the desire to buy it. Since homemakers do most of the consumer food buying, let us set down a few essentials of good buying.

1. Make a habit of planning your meals several days ahead by checking them by the Texas Food-Standard. Make a list of foods needed and amounts to buy.
2. Plan to do your marketing at a time to avoid "rush hours" or "rush days."
3. Study labels, grades and sizes of containers. Compare weights and prices on labels.
4. Ask for cans by definite sizes: No. 10 can contains 12 to 13 cups. No. 2½ can contains 3½ cups. No. 2 can contains 2½ cups. No. 1 can contains 1½ cups. 8 oz. or buffet contains 1 cup.
5. Do not handle foods, especially perishable foods.
6. Buy the quality which is suited to the use you wish to make of the product. Make a note of satisfactory brands. Know the grades in those brands.
7. Buy in bulk if the food is of good quality and conditions are sanitary.
8. Ask for price before buying. Ask for a definite weight or measure; not by the "10 cents worth."
9. Consider the size as well as the freshness of eggs. Color of eggshell has no influence on nutrition value.
10. The less expensive cuts of meat are as high in food values as more expensive ones. The secret of using the less expensive ones lies in skillful preparation and handling.
11. It is sometimes possible to buy day old bakery products at reduced prices.
12. Know and study current market prices. Take advantage of special food sales.
13. If you have storage space, ask the price of a case of food which your family uses often.
14. Eggs are high in food value and will take the place of some meat and fish, especially at a time when eggs are cheap.
15. Buy foods in season. Fresh fruits and vegetables are cheaper and richer in food value when they are being produced.
16. Prepare only the amount of food needed; use left-overs.
17. If fresh milk is not available, canned, evaporated milk can be mixed with an equal amount of water. For cooking evaporated milk is more economical.
18. Buy in keeping with your food budget. If your food money is limited, buy cheaper grades.

Ambassador's Daughter, 18, 'Dreams Up' Smart Dresses

LIKE A SLENDER CHILD who has just put her hair up for fun! That's the Senorita Maria

WASHINGTON—Senorita Maria Teresa Escalante, a good neighbor and ambassador to Washington, Dr. Don Diogenes Escalante, and is an 18-year-old combination of school-girl giggles and Parisian sophistication. Not long ago she was Queen Nicotiana in the LaPlata, Md., tobacco festival.

As she sprawls out on the lush embassy carpet, slashing satins and brocades into intriguing shapes for evening dresses of her own design, she looks like a slender child who has just put her hair up for fun.

The fact that she uses no patterns or forms in her dressmaking—only a million pins—further heightens the illusion that she's just playing paper-dolls.

HER DAY IS FULL OF CREATIVITY.

Then she gets self-conscious, murmurs severely to herself, "Mas, je suis idiote," and becomes the poised serene, young lady who received most of her education in France, and knows a lot about chemistry.

As she sews, she has a dignified mood. Senorita Escalante gives you some glimpses in her daily 8:30 to 5 work as apprentice laboratory technician in a local hospital.

"It's so bad for the hands, though," she sighs ruefully, gazing down at her tapering fingers, devoid of nail lacquer and with her Spanish-French accent somewhat blurred by boredom, she adds, "An' no leep-steek at the hospital either—eet always comes off on the pipettes."

Then the senorita runs upstairs to slip into one of the smart dresses she has "dreamed up" for herself. Incidentally, she admits that although she does the drawing, cutting, and pinning for her originals, she lets her industrious maid do most of the sewing. She is quick to deride of Eastern Star and dinners, she Maris Teresa makes a charming guide as she shows visitors the colorful murals and native Venezuelan paneling which adorn the embassy.

City Hall To Close At Noon This Thursday

Offices in the city hall will close at noon Thursday, Thanksgiving day, it was decided at a meeting of the city commission held at 9:30 this morning.

Adjusting their closing to that of the court house offices, the city hall departments will let employees have a half-day off starting at noon, but it is planned to keep a "skeleton" staff on duty the remainder of the day to accommodate any persons from out-of-town who might have business with the city.

Only routine business was handled by the commission today, such as approving adjustment on tax certificates $2 to $6, and looking over the monthly reports on tax collections and the water and sewer departments. All members of the commission, except the city manager, attended today's meeting.

October tax collections totaled $9,446,78, of which $6,819.99 was current. Water and sewer report for October showed 2,907 customers, 22,448,000 gallons of water consumed; September general ledger balance, $14,174.95; October general ledger balance, $13,887.58; trash and garbage collections, $1,554.05.

Thompson To Confer On Texas Rail Rates

AUSTIN, Nov. 25 (AP)—Chairman Ernest O. Thompson of the Texas railroad commission was en route to Washington today to confer with federal officials on freight rate differentials in North Texas and crude oil prices.

"I will try to show the authorities," Thompson said before leaving, "that the unfair differentials against North Texas and the Panhandle oil should be abolished and that oil should be increased in price on a parity with other basic commodities.

"Unless oil is increased appreciably in price, thousands of stripper wells now on the economic brink will have to be abandoned. Further, new discoveries are absolutely necessary at once and this cannot be done on a paying basis at present crude prices.

"A boost in crude prices of at least 35 to 50 cents a barrel will bring the new discoveries. It always has in the past and that's the best guide for the future."

Christmas Furloughs For 800,000 Soldiers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 (AP)—The army said Merry Christmas a month in advance today—with the tidings that between 700,000 and 800,000 soldiers would get Yuletide furloughs.

By the war department's estimate, approximately half of the land forces will be granted leaves to go home for the holidays and this raised the prospect of the biggest Christmas transportation rush in more than two decades.

Belief was expressed, nevertheless, that there would be enough trains for the troops, without undue snarling of railway passenger or freight schedules.

In cooperation with the Association of American Railroads, plans are being made to move service men to their homes well in advance of the rush which normally reaches a peak on Christmas eve.

As far as possible, soldiers are to be released on two dates, December 12 and December 20, depending on whether they receive furloughs of one month or two weeks. They are due back in the ranks on January 12 and January 4, respectively.

Nazis 'Promise' Destruction Of World Communism

BERLIN, Nov. 25. (AP)—The anti-Communist pact sponsored by Germany was renewed for five years and broadened to include 13 signatories today in a festive ceremony at which Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop declared that the western democracies had become "assistants to world Communism."

Following the "gleaming events in the chancellery where the pact was hailed as a demonstration of continental solidarity against Moscow, London and Washington, Ribbentrop declared the signatories "will never rest" until the destruction of world Communism.

Ignoring the real danger to themselves, the western democracies, out of pure egotism and opportunism, have made common cause with Communists, and thereby have become assistants to world Communism," he declared.

Son To Testify In Torrance Hearing At Monterey Today

MONTERREY, Mexico, Nov. 25 (AP)—Richard Loveland, Los Angeles attorney who initiated the inquiry into his mother's death testifies today in the trial of Arthur Torrance, accused of killing his bride, the former Mrs. Ada G. Loveland of Kalamazoo, Mich., by beating her over the head with a vacuum bottle.

Loveland went into the courtroom yesterday and saw Torrance for the first time. "I wish it had been me, instead of her," Torrance said last night after protesting his innocence before Criminal Judge Jesus B. Santos.

There were no spectators at last night's session but reporters and court attaches wandered about the judge's desk as the testimony was being taken.

Torrance said under oath that he was listed in Who's Who, had an income of $200 a month plus book royalties, and was sober when his wealthy bride was fatally injured near Monterey about two weeks ago. He has attributed her death to injuries she suffered in an automobile accident.

pretended for Judge Santos. Torrance testified the account of him in Who's Who was substantially correct, but that several years ago he resigned from clubs of which he was listed as being a member because he was not financially able to pay the dues.

The state has accused Torrance of killing his wife for financial gain. In the trial record, is evidence that Mrs. Torrance while on the honeymoon revoked an amendment to her will, which had made Torrance beneficiary of a $20,000 trust fund.

Cold Wave Sweeps Atlantic Seaboard

(By The Associated Press) Winter paid a pre-season visit to the ice boxes of northern New Jersey today.

Temperatures dipped to new lows for the year, registering 13 at 5 a. m., and remaining at that point for several hours at that point for several hours at Succasunna, and 18 at High Point State park atop New Jersey.

Other wintry marks were 14 at Flanders, 15 at Ledgewood, and 16 at Kenil, all in the Morris county freeze belt.

Ice formed on lakes and even in Newark where the airport weather bureau reported a low for the season of 28 at 6:30 a. m. An icy air bit into the faces of early risers.

Late November's chills also pushed thermometers under the freezing mark elsewhere in the eastern half of the United States with the cold spreading into central Mississippi, central Alabama, and north Georgia.

Caribou, Maine, had the country's lowest reading with a shivery 8 above zero, while New York City kept somewhat warmer with a 32 degree reading. Boston reported 29, Philadelphia 27, Washington 27, Cleveland 22, Chicago 22, Raleigh 20, Memphis 25, Vicksburg 31, Birmingham 28, Chattanooga 25, and Rome, Ga., 26.

Both Miami and Key West basked in 67-degree low temperatures while Jacksonville reported 47 this morning. Skies were clear over most of the United States. Light rains were reported in Washington and western Montana.

East of the Mississippi valley the weather remained generally below the freezing mark, while westward to the Pacific coast it was warmer. Forecasts indicated the warm weather front would push south and east Wednesday.

The sun rises earlier, actually and by the clock, in the eastern part of a time zone than it does in the western part.

Hunting On Game Preserve Limited To December 1-7

There are still not enough game birds on Gray county farms to warrant relaxing restrictions on hunting.

That was the decision today of the members of the Gray County Game Preserve Demonstration association, of which John Carpenter of McLean is president.

Hunting on farms of association members will be limited to the period Dec. 1-7. Written permission must be obtained by hunters from landowners to hunt any time during the week on any association member's land.

Under the game preserve agreement, it is the duty of each member to see that sufficient seed stock be kept from year to year to maintain the amount of game needed to stock the land.

Mr. Carpenter said there are many times as many birds on the preserve area as there were when the preserve association was organized two years ago, but there is still need of more birds on most of the area due to the fact that the stock was so depleted. It is the hope of the members of the association that the birds can be increased to where there will be good hunting over the county within the next few years.

Persons are cautioned to be sure and obtain written permission before doing any hunting of the land covered by the preserve, as according to the state law no person may hunt or fish on enclosed lands without the owners' consent—and every member is pledged to assist in enforcing state game laws.

The body will be taken overland to Quannah by the Curry-Nelson Funeral home.

Pair Hasn't Had Cross Word In Last Three Months

HOPEWELL, Va., Nov. 25 (AP)—Arnold W. England and his bride of three months haven't had a cross word—at least as far as they know. She's Portuguese and speaks no English; he's American and speaks no Portuguese.

Mrs. England, who has been in America only a week, is the former Emelia Marques Goto, a movie actress, of Ovar, Portugal. She met England, an older on the liner Ex-cambion, when she shipped there at Lisbon. They were married there on Aug. 21.

Spotters Discover Wrecked Army Bomber

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 25. (AP)—The burned wreckage of an army attack bomber, missing eight days, was spotted high on the side of the Sandia mountains today about 25 miles from the Albuquerque air base.

Ground parties were dispatched at once to the scene, on the southwestern slope of one of the 11,000 foot peaks which tower over the Rio Grande valley.

Two occupants of the ship were believed to have perished. They are Lt. Seldon T. Miller of Bellevue, Texas, and Staff Sergeant Howard L. Edwards, formerly of New York.

Discovery of the wreckage was made by ground searchers after more than a week of aerial search by planes from the Albuquerque and Tucson army bases. The ship was on a short operational flight November 17 in the immediate vicinity of the base, to which it failed to return.

Ground party reports said the wreckage was in a canyon difficult of observation from the air. The wreckage was reported to have burned.

Medical Alumni 'Just Begun To Fight,' Says Furman

FORT WORTH, Nov. 25 (AP)—Aroused alumni of the University of Texas School of Medicine "have just begun to fight" in the bitter controversy over administrative affairs of the institution, Dr. Jack Furman, acting secretary of the Regional Alumni Organizations, said here today.

Dr. Furman said the alumni groups, far from appeased by an agreement reached at a hearing before the university regents at Austin Saturday, would press the fight with the avowed objective of gaining the ouster of Dr. John W. Spies, dean of the medical school.

He described the Austin agreement as "merely a starting point toward bettering the institution." He asserted the alumni will not be content until they have not only brought about the removal of Dr. Spies as dean, but have effected a reorganization of the institution's program, which they believe has been set on a course contrary to the best interests of the school and of the state.

Orv Mathews Carries Ball And Shines

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 25 (AP)—It took the coach and the whole first team to get that sterling character, the modest quarterback, to run, but when he did the field was full of touchdowns.

Orville Mathews, Oklahoma's signal master mind and fastest on the hoof in these parts, was threatened last week with a splinter-collecting job on the bench unless he called his own number.

All season he submerged his own talents, did lots of blocking and tackling, and left the headlines to his mates, although the quarterback is an important factor in the Sooner system.

But Saturday Mathews reeled off a 56-yard touchdown gallop down the middle and another 27-yarder to pay dirt at the business end of a pass against Marquette, Oklahoma won, 61 to 14.

He called himself only four times on rushing plays but ground out 65 yards. He might have been running yet but a hip injury sent him limping out before the half.

Coach Dewey Luster said today that it took more than his own orders to cure the great little team player's passion for anonymity. Tackle Roger Eason abetted the conspiracy.

Eason went around fixing Mathews with a fishy eye and growling: "Listen, little man, call yourself against Marquette or you'll be callin' for help, and I ain't kiddin'."

Mathews fell to employing some of his fancier footwork in broken field dashes down alleys when he saw Eason's ample hulk heave into view.

Next Luster popped up in a practice huddle. "You all know I've been trying to get this guy Mathews here to carry the ball. Do you want him to lug the ball for our club?"

"Hell, yes," they howled.

"Bowling to his sad fate, the quarterback grinned bravely.

"Okay, it's a deal."

Hunters Asked To Examine Quail For Metal Leg Bands

AUSTIN, Nov. 25—With the opening of the quail season not far away, the game department's executive secretary today urged scattering fans to examine carefully all quail killed to determine if they have leg bands on them.

The quail season opens on Dec. 1 and extends through Jan. 16.

If a quail is banded, hunters are urged to remove the metal band and send it to the Game, Fish, and Oyster commission, Austin, where the information derived from it will be used in scientific studies of quail now being conducted in wide areas of the Lone Star state.

The quail have been banded, and still are being banded, in various localities by game managers and field biologists of the commission as a means of accumulating information that may prove valuable in studies of these birds. The average migration of quail, for one thing, is a vital factor that can assist biologists in the program of quail restocking now being undertaken by the commission.

During the white-wing dove season an appeal was sent out to sportsmen to return bands found on the legs of these birds in the Rio Grande valley. The response was highly satisfactory and much was learned that can be put to use in the future conservation of white-wings, the executive secretary said.

It is hoped that sportsmen will be equally on the alert during the coming quail season.

And don't let anyone tell you that it is unlawful to possess a dead quail that has a band on its leg. It's perfectly lawful.

Total state government debt rose from $270 million in 1902 to $3,505 million in 1940, according to the census bureau.

HERE IS 1941 NEA ALL-AMERICA TEAM

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—Results are in. The votes have been counted, so half the All-America team of 1941.

With the aid of coaches, scouts, officials and football writers, NEA Service offers a first team without a weakness and second and third teams hardly a step behind.

Each team has intelligence, speed, size, versatility, resourcefulness and dependability. Each can pass, run and kick, block and tackle.

Out of an avalanche of recommendations, these stalwart marked men who stood up under all conditions are honored with coveted places on the first team:

Backs: Stephen J. Lach of Duke, Robert B. Westfall of Michigan, Frank C. Albert of Stanford and Derace Moser of Texas A. and M.

Ends: Robert L. Dove of Notre Dame and John Rokisky of Duquesne.

Tackles: Ernest Blandin of Tulane and Richard Wildung of Minnesota.

Guards: Endicott Peabody II of Harvard and Ray Frankowski of Washington.

Center: Darold Jenkins of Missouri.

THERE ARE ONLY 11 MEN TO PICK

There will be dissenting voices, of course. There always are when the fine line that separates men of All-America caliber is drawn.

It is a shame to leave Bruce Smith of Minnesota and Bill Dudley, Virginia's 19-year-old talkback, off the first team.

Smith, remarkable as a junior, this fall as a senior threw the pass that beat Michigan, among other things, but that was his last act because of a knee injury, and Minnesota went on without him. An

All-America player has to go all the way. Dudley was undoubtedly a great runner and sidemarm passer, but the opposition wasn't what it might have been. More than one critic picked flaws in Dudley's defensive ability.

As outstanding as he was, there was too much support for Steve Lach, Bob Westfall, Frankie Albert and Moser to give the scintillating Cavanaugh a top berth.

LACH DUKE'S BEST BACK IN HISTORY

Lach is considered the finest all-around back in Duke history, and the Blue Devils have had some pippins, Ace Parker, the most valuable man in the National league in 1940, to name just one.

Lach, a 21-year-old senior, stands six feet two and weighs 190 pounds. Lach's figures would be more impressive had he not played the wingback. He averaged eight yards a carry and led the outfit in catching passes.

He led the country in that department a year ago. Hit punting average was 45 yards, and he was the best blocker in the Durham party. He played 55 minutes or longer in all of his school's tough games. On defense, he did not have a superior in the land.

Westfall is one of the slickest spinners the game has known. Fritz Crisler built the Michigan attack around Westfall, a fullback built close to the ground. Bob's 186 pounds is spread over no more than five feet eight inches. He averaged more than four yards per whack against the hardest kind of opposition. He fumbled only once in three years and then, in the Minnesota game this year, when he was bumped by a young wingback coming too shallow on a reverse.

A bruising fullback, Westfall also skirted the ends, was a superlative

Man Of Year In Football Hard To Name, Expert Says

By GAIL FOWLER

SEATTLE, Nov. 25 (AP)—The fellow shoved aside a batch of figures, and remarked:

"I don't even remember the man of the year in football. It looks like it will be a terrific task this year."

The speaker was Homer F. Cooke, Jr., who audits American Football Statistical Bureau figures dealing with intercollegiate individual and team football performances.

"As I understand it, the man of the hour usually has been a 60-minute player who hasn't missed a game," Cooke said. "He usually plays for a school with an almost unblemished record in won-and-lost columns against the best of major competition."

"Up to this year, he has been someone who ranks about as high statistically as his team in national standing."

"This year there's much talk for Bruce Smith, Minnesota's great halfback. Yet, Smith was out a couple of games. Nor has he been among the statistical leaders.

"There's Wilson 'Bud' Schenk of Washington university at St. Louis, having a terrific passing and rushing year. Yet, his team has been having a poor season."

"There's Frankie Sinkwich of Georgia, the broken-jaw boy who's way in front as a rushing yardage gainer. He personally outgained the opposing team four or five times.

"Or it could be Bill Dudley of Virginia, who seems certain to be among the first three statistically. There may be some question about the caliber of his team's opposition.

"Elmer 'Tippy' Madarik of Detroit has had a fine season.

"Owen Price, Texas Mines triple-threat, too far overshadowed his team's unsuccessful record against major competition.

"Derace Moser of Texas A. & M., one of the passing leaders all season, has a good chance, and he's with a winning ball club. "But apparently there are no such standouts as Whinnery White, Davey O'Brien, Nile Kinnick or Tom Harmon among the candidates. It will be a tough selection.

Borger Bulldogs Planning On Upsetting Harvesters

"I don't see how we are going to have a chance with those Harvesters," means Coach Winfield "Windy" Nicklaus over in Borger. "They've got everything. Their passing, blocking, tackling and running is great and their kicking—it's uncanny."

Coach Nicklaus was talking, for publication, about the Thursday game between the Pampa Harvesters and the Borger Bulldogs to be played at Harvester park here at 2:30 o'clock.

But under cover Coach Nicklaus is telling his boys that this is upset year and that the Bulldogs can come over to Pampa Thursday and topple the Harvesters from their throne. He's pointing out to them the fact TCU rose up and smacked down Texas and that the Harvesters stunned the football world by defeating Amarillo.

"So why don't we go over to Pampa and take the Harvesters," says Coach Nicklaus to his boys.

And from grapevine reports received here the Bulldogs are in just the frame of mind to upset the Harvesters should the men of Coaches Buck Prejaner and Mac Best falter for one minute.

Lavish Gunmen Put On Show In Tavern

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 (AP)—Two gunmen who held up a south side tavern were a jovial and entertaining couple and lavish with other people's money and liquor.

They robbed the bartender and four guests of $51.55 and then ordered the bartender to put in their automobile a quantity of beer, whiskey and wine.

Before leaving, one of the gunmen entertained with a dance; the second served drinks to everyone. Then they handed $1 to all of the customers except one—they only stole 55 cents from him.

Aggies Ranked Second In National Football Poll

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers, unbeaten and untied—and unbeatable, since their season is over—ride high again today in first place in the Associated Press football ranking poll.

Winners of 17 straight games and their second successive Western conference championship, Bernie Bierman's boys were made first choice by 95 out of 115 sports experts throughout the country. Sixteen writers ranked the Gophers second, three listed them in third place and one rated them fifth, for a total of 1,124 points out of a possible 1,180.

With one more poll to go, Minnesota appears a good bet to retain its 1940 No. 1 ranking when the final votes are counted next week.

The Gophers' only serious rivals are two more of the country's four major all-winning teams—Texas A.

Luisetti Injured Phillips Loses In New York Battle

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—Hank Luisetti, former basketball all-American while at Stanford, suffered a torn cartilage in his left knee while playing against the Hollywood 20th Century Fox Five and will be lost to the Bartlesville, Okla., Phillips 66 quintet for at least three weeks.

Luisetti was hurt as his club lost, 32 to 39, in the final game of the jubilee tournament in Madison Square Garden last night which inaugurated a five month's celebration honoring Dr. James Naismith, the game's inventor.

The Naismith plaque, struck especially for this two-day meet, went to the winners who slaved off a stout rally by the handicapped Oklahomans in the late minutes.

Bartlesville engineered the spurt with Luisetti on the sidelines and Center John Freiberger, Forward Johnny Adams and Guard Grady Lewis ejected for excessive fouling. All told, 38 demerits were called by officials.

Jimmy McNitt, one of the original boy seats at Oklahoma university, was the leading scorer, putting 14 points for the losers. Les O'Gara poured in 12 for the winners.

Third place went to the Ohrbach A. A. Metropolitan champions, who defeated the Roanoke, Va., Legionnaires, 39 to 33.

Man Of Year In Football Hard To Name, Expert Says

Unbeaten and untied Duquesne moved up a notch to fifth, changing places with Michigan. The Wolverines, though tied with Ohio State in their game last Saturday and also in the final Western conference standings, considerably outdistanced the Buckeyes in the poll, which gave Ohio State only 71 points and 18th place.

The rest of the first 10 consisted of Missouri, the Big Six champion, moved up from eighth; Fordham, back in the charmed circle on its wallowing of St. Mary's, Northwestern, probably the best 1941 football team that lost three games, and Texas. Outside of Texas, all of these except Fordham have finished their seasons. The Rams play badly-battered New York U. on Saturday.

Texas Aggies Drill Behind Locked Gates

(By The Associated Press)
The secretive Texas Aggies are drilling behind locked gates for their battle with the University of Texas Longhorns Thursday.

Coach Spriggs, perched the cadet camp, where Coach Homer Norton doled out exercise in the form of pass offense and defense yesterday. That's all the college publicity of Rice would say.

The Arkansas Razorbacks, making ready for Thursday's game with Tulsa, looked impressive on passing, but may have to go into the contest without End Clayton Wynne, who sprained an ankle in the Mississippi fray.

For the first time since Texas Christian played Indiana, eight seniors are likely to be in the Frog starting lineup when they face Southern Methodist, all of these returned to the fold are Kyle Gillespie and Frank King. Darrell Palmer, left tackle, broke a thumb in the Rice fracas.

News from Baylor, where the cripples generally abound, was that only Bill Coleman, speedy back, will be out of the Rice and U.T. He suffered a shoulder injury in the Southern Methodist melee.

The Rice Owls came out of their scoreless tie with Texas Christian without physical misfortunes.

Kelly Simpson, Southern Methodist end, re-injured a lame ankle in the Baylor game. Otherwise the Mustangs were in good shape, save for minor bruises.

All the Texas Longhorns will be in working trim for the Aggie joust except Jack Crain, who was a doubtful starter because of a pulled leg muscle.

Longhorns Have Fighting Togs On, Says Bible

AUSTIN, Nov. 25 (AP)—Making no allowance for anything, Coach Dana K. Bible of the University of Texas Longhorns today placed the team squarely up against the proposition of:

1. Defeating the undefeated A. & M. college Aggies at College Station two days hence and partially redeeming itself for the dismal showing against Baylor and the whipping at the hands of T. C. U.; or

2. Losing and branding itself the "greatest flop" team in the university's history.

Admittedly unhappy, the stubby little mentor declared point-blank: "We're going to play one of the fine teams in America—a team which is backed by one of the finest football traditions in the land. We are asking no quarter. A good team—and we have a good team—asks no quarter."

"We are thankful our season did not end with the T. C. U. game. Against A. & M. we're going to try to get back on the track without another wreck. There's a lot left to fight for, not the least of which is our self-respect."

"In the Southwest conference, of course, it's impossible to call your shots. However, we've learned from our mistakes and we've got our fighting togs on."

The tradition backing the Aggies is the one by which they have not lost to Texas on their home field since 1923. But Bible's words virtually guaranteed one whale of a battle in an attempt to crack that jinx.

with a winning ball club. "But apparently there are no such standouts as Whinnery White, Davey O'Brien, Nile Kinnick or Tom Harmon among the candidates. It will be a tough selection.

Menace To Labor

The troublemakers in the ranks of labor would do well to read the Gallup poll which was published recently.

The poll asked this question: "Are you in favor of the closed shop—that is, requiring every worker in a company to belong to a union before he can be hired?"

Seventy-seven per cent of those queried answered No. Only 13 per cent answered yes. The balance of 10 per cent was undecided. In short, sentiment against the closed shop was in the overwhelming ratio of six to one!

The important part of this is that the bulk of major union disputes of late have dealt with the closed shop issue. When wage and hour issues are involved, government mediation boards exist to protect the worker against exploitation and unfair treatment.

The radicals in the labor movement are digging unionism's grave. Let them remember the President's words—"That small minority is a menace to the true cause of labor itself, as well as to the nation as a whole."

Business As Usual In REA

Two of the scarcest materials at this time are copper and brass. Only industries with a high defense priority rating can purchase them. Small, non-defense businesses which depend on them are in danger of extinction.

Writing in the Dallas Morning News, Lynn W. Landrum says that he "is in a position to show the United States government where there are to be found hundreds of thousands of pounds of excellent copper now about to be wasted (put to an unnecessary, uneconomic, hurtful use).

The REA is busy as a bird dog in many other areas. If its plans go through, it will use gigantic quantities of vital defense materials, and it will use tens of millions of man-hours of labor which could otherwise be used for real and necessary defense projects.

And other government power bureaus are doing the same thing—duplicating existing facilities, at an exorbitant waste of money, materials and labor.

Is this the way to create an "all-out" defense establishment? Is this the way to fight a war against a ruthlessly efficient world conqueror? Is this the way to obtain maximum defense production in the minimum length of time? Is this the way to convince the people that "business as usual" is no longer possible?

RUSSIAN LOAN Steeped in Hypocrisy and Absurdity (Los Angeles Examiner)

This era in American history may well be named the "Era of Hypocrisy and Absurdity." On the eve of the twenty-fourth anniversary of the conspiracy formed in Russia to destroy the American system of free democratic government, President Roosevelt "loans" Joseph Stalin one billion dollars of the taxpayers' money!

Think of the absurdity of that. 1. This vast sum is "loaned" ostensibly to defeat Hitler in a war that was largely caused by Stalin himself, for Hitler would never have gone ahead if Stalin had not given him the green light.

2. The astounding provision is made in this "loan" that there shall be no interest, that payments on the "loan" are not to "commence until five years after the war's conclusion and be completed over a ten-year period thereafter."

3. This billion dollars out of our pockets is a gift—nothing more or less—to a country, a cause and a man who will, if Hitler is overthrown, use this money to not only help to destroy our government but to enslave all our people.

That is the record of the Administration's absurdity. Now for the hypocrisy: 1. President Roosevelt accompanies this gift of a free people to a people who would strangle

Common Ground

"I speak the plain-word principle, I give the test of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which is not based on their counterpart of on the same terms." WALT WHITMAN.

RAILROAD STRIKE NATURAL RESULT

When so many people have been telling the workers that wage levels are raised by labor unions and strikes, it isn't strange that a railroad strike should be called. It's just what could be expected. And if wages can be raised by strikes and labor unions, why not have a strike and raise the wages of railroad workers not merely 30 per cent as they are asking, but 100 per cent?

When people have been taught to believe that they have a right to combine to prevent any other worker from making a binding contract, so that they can extort any amount they wish for their labor, without any regard to its relative importance, it is only natural for an organization to have no regard for the inherent rights of other workers and say, "We will strike and show you."

To permit any group of people to prevent others from having the right to make a binding contract is to sooner or later destroy the American way of life.

The sooner the people realize that collective bargaining is just a form of civil war and can only lead to misery and poverty, the better off the country will be. The longer we compromise and placate, the worse the situation will become.

The sooner we abolish special privileges for some workers, as against all other workers, the sooner we will again return to prosperity. There is only one reason why we are in the condition we are in today and that is because of laws favoring one group as against another.

IS IT SMARING TO CALL A MAN A COMMUNIST?

Socialists object to being called communists. It is hard to see why. In fact, socialism would bring about the same results as communism, but socialists would have someone else to do the fighting and run the risk of getting hurt. Socialists claim they are smeared when they are called communists, but "communist" more accurately describes them than "socialist." And a word that saves words and properly describes an individual, certainly should be used.

Of course, socialists and communists do not like to have their real motives made clear to the public. It embarrasses them. It shows that they are men without principle; that they are egoists, willings and Godless men. Every individual wants to appear to his fellowman to be a man of principle and dependability; but socialists and communists are not dependable because they act without impersonal rules. Therefore, every person should be on his guard against the things communists advocate. They always advocate their schemes with a purely selfish motive, although they pose as being very humanitarian and a great friend of the underdog.

What they really want is the power to take the fruits of labor from one person and give them to another and get the credit for so doing, without being obliged to go through the sacrifice and drudgery of producing the wealth that they would distribute.

WHERE OUR SHIPS SHOULD GO

We should not send our ships any place that we are not willing to send our army to defend those men who sail the ships.

And when there is war between nations, it does not behoove us to send assistance to either side unless we intend to participate directly in the conflict. This has been an established practice for generations.

To contend that we are fighting for freedom of the seas and claim this gives us the right to supply one side with war materials, and to prevent the other side from using the seas, is to distort the meaning of words. It is a babble of tongues.

No, our ships should sail only in neutral waters.

us with a congratulatory letter to President Kalinin of the U. S. S. R.

2. He extends to him "my felicitations and sincere good wishes for the well-being of your country—the country which through its twenty-two-year-old Communist International has sought to destroy President Roosevelt's country."

3. President Roosevelt says that the Red resistance to the invader is "enhancing" to "the people of the United States and to all forces which abhor aggression." Again he tells, President Kalinin that he is "confident that the sacrifice of and the sufferings of those who have the courage to struggle against aggression will not have been in vain."

4. That was written with the picture, before him of Russia's aggression on Finland, the rape of Poland and the brutal conquest of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania!

5. That was written also with the clear fact in his mind that he warned Red Russia only a few years ago that all relations between the Kremlin and Washington would be severed if Russia did not stop its plottings on her own soil and ours against our institutions!

The "loan," the message to President Kalinin and Secretary Hull's order to England to stop her war on Russia all tend to weaken confidence in the sincerity of America's fight for the four freedoms, or for any one of them.

"'LL GET YOU SOMEWHERE IN A HURRY!"

Around Hollywood

By BERT GLENNON

Veteran Cinematographer and Today's Vacation Guest-Columist for Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25.—Camera amateurs around the studio often tell me that they're thinking of buying some fancy new equipment, and what do I think of the Gad-get-fest? I say, "Go ahead, it's your money, but why don't you learn to use the camera you have?"

And that is something I have always wanted to ask millions of other camera fans who keep putting around with different boxes and lenses, papers, films, developers and all sorts of accessories.

Basically, the camera has not changed since the process of photography was first developed. Improvements have been made, but mostly just in speed.

LOTS OF ANGLES

I thought of this often while we were working on that last Errol Flynn picture, "They Died With Their Boots On." It is the story of General Custer and is full of cavalry charges, Indian rides, and falls from horses. When we filmed Custer's last stand at the Little Big Horn, we worked four cameras on the ground, five more at various levels on a 90-foot high camera tower—nine cameras, nine different operators, 18 second and third assistants in all.

On the screen, the results from each of these cameras, each separate crew, were the same. Different bits of action, of course, and exposure, every other technical bit, but in perfect balance. Every one of us there knew his job and his camera.

Amateurs, however, won't take time to learn that simple fact. Stick to one camera, one negative, one paper, one soup until you know everything about it. There is to know. Then you'll be an expert. And you'll be saving money!

EXPERTS AREN'T PERFECT

Everybody makes mistakes. Here is an anecdote that goes back to the days of silent pictures, but it shows that even an expert cameraman can learn new things in handling a machine that is as familiar to him as a pair of old shoes.

This particular cameraman was one of the best in the business, and his picture was as good as gold. It says that the director of photography, operator, camera grip and everything else. And he had to do his own hand cranking.

The company was on location at the beach. Practically the entire picture was filmed in that one day, but when the results were seen in a projection room a day or so later, an unbelievable thing happened on the screen.

Further sidelights on the Amarillo game.

The following obviously exultant message has been received from Paul McKee, Santa Fe employee of East Vauclay, N. M., but formerly of Pampa: "I heard some Amarillo fans say that the referee should have examined the ball. Pampa had something on it. One thing I noticed: the ball had no handles and it was the Sandies fumbled. It was Amarillo's 20-yard line and of course was neutral—except when Pampa made gains."

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Voss and Harry Hoare attended the University of Oklahoma-Marquette football game at Norman last Saturday. On Sunday, Mr. Voss visited his mother who was ill, and Mrs. Voss and Harry attended St. Luke's Methodist church at Oklahoma City, and to hear them talk they enjoyed that more than the football game. Harry says that immediately after a really wonderful singer had sung a song, everybody began laughing, and that the laughter got louder and louder and that the singer turned red and redder. Finally he turned around and saw that the crowd was laughing at a kitten that had crawled up and sat back on its haunches in the seat between the pastor and assistant pastor. Harry says the preacher delivered one of the best sermons he ever heard. He said that "Trouble" was his subject and that he started off by telling the story of a woman who had lost her only child, a baby, and that she went to a philosopher who told her to visit every one of her neighbors and if every one of them was not in trouble of some kind to come back. She did not return.

This column has received the most recent edition of The Aggieville newspaper of Murray State School of Agriculture, Tishomingo, Okla., where four Pampa boys, Kenneth Mullins, Lefty Pendleton, Bert Isbell, and A. C. Enloe attend school, and the names of all four Pampa boys are mentioned in the paper. On the front page of the banner news tells how Murray best Miami Junior college, 14-7, and how Lefty Pendleton, whose father lives here and whose many uncles, aunts, cousins, and grandfather and grandmother live at Wheeler—well it says that Lefty was an outstanding player, and that he "showed up nicely on broken field runs." The Ag has won three, lost three and tied two this season and will play at Lawton Junior college this week.

In the game of the previous week Lefty cocked back and threw the scoring pass for Murray. The author of "Show-er Room Gossip" in the Aggieville wants to know "who those two co-eds are that dog A. C. Enloe's path these days," and in his opening paragraph the same columnist asks, "wonder who that charming lady from Frederick that invaded the Aggie campus last week? She deserves a bouquet for making 'Moon' (that's Kenneth) Mullins do a tie and slick his hair down." Another columnist writes in "College Campistry," that "Viola" is being mooned around that guy Mullins—the Pampa boys are giving them plenty to write about over at "Fish," as Bert Isbell calls it. Bert you will remember, is the president of the freshman class.

Highlights From Latest Books

"Sarotoga Trunk," by Edna Ferber ("Doubleday, Doran; $2.50).

According to the industrious Edna Ferber, a curious romance began some 60 years back in New Orleans. Since the romance has already been broadcast in one of the slick magazines, and shortly will appear on the screen, it will do no harm to tell something about it here.

It fell out, Miss Ferber says, that at that distant time a young woman named Clio Dulaine crossed that of the profits from this contract, while Ickes' Bonneville Power Authority had to furnish power at a fixed maximum rate and like it. Anyway, Ickes balked on the contract, however, there was a provision that if electric power was not available at any of the proposed sites, that plant need not be built. If Ickes granted no power to the company for the Bonneville plant, the plant would go some place else, and Ickes would be in the position of cutting off his own nose by preventing a new industry from coming into the Northwest.

And then it fell out that by chance Clio's path crossed that of Clint Maroon, whose remarkable Texas father had been ruined by the ever-encroaching railroads. Clint was a story-book westerner in everything but one. He understood what railroads could do, and what more, as done with them for profit. Clint and Clio joined hands—also for profit.

Behind a set of New Orleans jealousies they sat together, making plans. Clio wanted revenge, it is true, but she also wanted money. Clint wanted adventure, and a little more. If it came, and incidentally, revenge for the wrongs visited upon his father. Clio and Clint looked the country over, and since it was summer, decided that Sarotoga was the place to go. Sarotoga, those days, was a lush and steamy place and in spite of its pretense, not a difficult place to make one's way in. Given beauty, of course.

Like characters in a masquerade, the two went to Sarotoga. They had a reasonably strenuous time, they got what they went for, and a little more. Actually Clint so far forgot his revenge that he grew more ruthless than any of the railroad exploiters he had hated. The difference between him and the others was that he knew perfectly well he was an exploiter. As for Clio and her airs—I never believed in her at all.

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Closely in Washington has it that after Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones got his famous 3,000-word letter from Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes for the contract, he signed with the Aluminum Company of America, the air around the federal loan headquarters was every shade of the rainbow, and smoke poured from the windows.

For a while, there were periodic drafts of letters in reply, all of which were red hot, but none was sent. The drafts expressed what was felt, all right, which was to the general effect that Harold could go jump off any or all of his department interlocks, facing either way. All suave banter, Jones ever admitted was that "to be accused of making a contract unfavorable to the government was a novel experience." It was a classic of understatement. His reply to Ickes was a short telegram.

What got Ickes' goat was primarily the fact that power for one of the plants, a 90,000,000-pound-per-year plant to cost $11,000,000 or $12,000,000 was to be located in the vicinity of Bonneville where the power would have to come from Grand Coulee and Bonneville dams, department of interior pets. Ickes has consistently battled the Aluminum company because he believed it to be a monopoly.

THE SECRETARY SAW RED

With this background, Ickes had a natural objection to giving Alcoa a contract to build and operate any big new government plant. Even as a private citizen, Ickes would have a perfect right to this opposition, but as secretary of the interior, with overlordship of the Bonneville Power Authority, he saw it as being maneuvered into a position of having to furnish a big block of power to this one of his many personal devils.

Perhaps Ickes had a natural chagrin that Jones' Defense Plant Corporation had crossed the path of the profits from this contract, while Ickes' Bonneville Power Authority had to furnish power at a fixed maximum rate and like it. Anyway, Ickes balked on the contract, however, there was a provision that if electric power was not available at any of the proposed sites, that plant need not be built. If Ickes granted no power to the company for the Bonneville plant, the plant would go some place else, and Ickes would be in the position of cutting off his own nose by preventing a new industry from coming into the Northwest.

MORE KICKING AROUND

Earlier, there had been another squabble with Ickes on the matter of picking a site for one of these new government plants. Ickes wanted it at Cascade Locks, near one of his new reclamation projects. Both the Aluminum company and the Reynolds Metals company turned down the site and the OPM rejected it because there was no labor supply immediately available. That made Harold feel kicked on the mental shins, too.

Not having his way worth a darn, Ickes sulked. He picked the contract to pieces. A newspaper column appeared with a blast at Jones for still being a capitalist who could be counted on to trade the government's shirt away. The Truman committee investigators went into action, summoning Arthur Davis, chairman of the Aluminum company's board to Washington. When the Davis' had pneumonia, the doctor was ordered to bring the fever charts to Washington to prove it. The feud was on with all the fury that can characterize only a New Deal policy battle. The end is not in sight and it will probably go on all through the defense effort.

An independent appraisal of the affair would seem to indicate that Jones, by horse-trading, has done as much to break whatever real or theoretical monopoly the Aluminum company of America had, as the government's great trust action failed to do when Federal Judge Caffey recently decided Alcoa was not a monopoly. But the end of that hasn't been heard, either.

Meantime, Jones is negotiating another contract with Alcoa, for two more plants.

ALUMINUM ARGUMENT-LINEUP

Admitting that a perfect contract was never drawn and that the government's Defense Plant Corporation-Aluminum Company of America agreement has some bugs in it that should be more specific, the charges Harold Ickes makes against the contract and the Jesse Jones position in answer can be boiled down in this form: . . . It is charged that under the contract, production rate in the government plants is controlled by Alcoa. This is answered "No," because provision is made for the government to have plants in operation at the same rate as Alcoa's, instead of providing that government plants must close when demand drops off. . . . To charge that the price provisions are unfair to the government, the reply is that the government controls not only the production but the prices of aluminum and therefore can cut prices below Alcoa's. . . . The charges that Alcoa's 15 per cent of the profits, Corporation's 85 per cent of the profits are too much are matters of dispute based on what it costs to estimate aluminum ingot. . . . One estimate is 12 cents a pound, Department of Justice estimates put it at 9 cents. The price up to September was 47 cents and while making the contract, Jones negotiated

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWeese

DO you know that it is possible and not highly improbable that Plainville, England, will beat the Amarillo Sandies Saturday? It's a lead-pipe clinch that regardless of how much artificial stimulant is pumped into Amarillo's veins this week, the tumbled Sandies' morale is not going to be tops this Saturday. That Pampa victory over Amarillo constituted a severe let-down for the defending state champions. . . . We do not believe Plainville could have beaten Amarillo last Thursday, but the possibility that the bulldogs will sneak up on the Sandies this week is a wide one.

Furthermore, we do not believe the Lubbock Westerners could have beaten the Pampa Harvesters last Thursday. . . . That Harvesters line has been showing improvement every single game this season, with the exception of the game they played in Lubbock, and that's why we believe the Harvesters will continue their top-flight performances and whip Berger out at Harvester Park Thursday afternoon.

This is a throw-back to that Pampa-Amarillo game, but it's interesting. . . . Per McMillen, of Pampa, saw Pampa win, but it was the first Amarillo-Pampa game she had attended since the Harvesters beat Amarillo the last time in 1931—a lapse of ten years. . . . What a thrill! . . . McMillen bought her tickets for the game from School Business Manager Roy McMillen she told him that this was her first Pampa-Amarillo game since the last Pampa victory ten years ago and she thought it was good to see the game. . . . Mr. McMillen said she felt sure Pampa would win. . . . She said that on Wednesday before the game. . . . Mr. McMillen told her that if Pampa won the game he would refund the price of her tickets. . . . Mrs. McMillen called in a day or so after the game to remind the school business manager of his promise and suggested that he turn the money over to the Harvesters.

Lonnie Hood, the state unemployment agency man, is another who thinks Plainville might sneak up on Amarillo Saturday. . . . He also says Pampa must not take it for granted that Berger is beaten already. . . . Confidentially, Mr. Hood, Pampa is taking nothing for granted. . . . He says that practice sessions this week were so good that Pampa is training as if the Harvesters were meeting up with Notre Dame Thursday. . . . The Harvesters figure that Berger will be just as tough or maybe tougher than the Lubbock Westerners, but they are in town by now, but we had a card from Joe Lowe, the Shell man, the way from New York City. . . . It was a photo of that tall, tall RCA building. . . . Mr. Lowe says he was in New York picking up tickets for Pampa's dramatics and the 1942 Kiwanis Revue. . . . If you remember him, he's the fellow who did the radio quiz act in the aisles at this year's revue.

Maybe we can settle this for all time. . . . On an average of once a week somebody asks us about the origin of the term "Xmas" at the end of our newscasts. . . . "That's thirty on the news for now!" . . . There are innumerable answers to the question, but the correct one is that old-time folks used to put an X at the finish of a telegram, meaning "the end." . . . No need to worry about those gray hairs any longer. . . . It is reliably reported that Dr. Stefan Ansbacher's anti-gray hair vitamin works perfectly. . . . So, if you've a grayed head, get your week with your physician? . . . Whew-ee-ee-ee! . . . No more silver threads among the gold.

We want everybody, including the advertising department, the editorial department, the printers, proof-readers, etc., to know that we are opposed to the use of "Xmas" as an abbreviation for "Christmas." . . . You wouldn't abbreviate the "Christian" church as the "Xian" church, would you? . . . Well! . . . We just read where the United States is way out in front on divorce figures. . . . One out of eight married women in this country gets a divorce. . . . It's one of 80 in Great Britain, one out of 30 in France, one in 200 in Germany, and one in 1,300 in Japan. . . . It was Matthew Arnold who said, "with women the heart argues, not the mind."

If we are dragged into war contrary to the will of 111,000,000 American citizens, the war should be called by one name—the Roosevelt War.

The price is 15 cents. The government can force the price down to 13 cents. During the last war the price was around 33 cents.

SERIAL STORY

LADY BY REQUEST

BY HELEN R. WOODWARD

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: "I don't like it," says Mr. Tucker, farmer father of beautiful, red-headed Diana, when she comes home to tell him that famous Stephen Curt, writer and commentator, has asked to marry her for six months and $10,000 so that he can save a $200,000 inheritance he will lose unless he weds before he is 35. "I don't like it, but we will see when I meet him," Diana, freed from her job in a law office in the city after reading advances from her employer, tells a red-headed, serious-looking Stephen Curt, who is seriously considering the offer because he has told her that the woman he loves is married to another man, and because she does not want to leave the city, return to the farm, perhaps marry Bill Jackson whom she does not love. Stephen is coming down to meet her family the next day. Diana already having met her stepmother, Ellen Curt. That night Mr. Tucker, listening to Stephen's broadcast, expresses again his admiration for the man.

STEPHEN MEETS THE FAMILY

CHAPTER VII

ON Tuesday afternoon Diana walked down to Bill Jackson's store at the cross-roads. Her mother had gone off to a missionary meeting at the church and she had become so bored with her own company that she could stand it no longer. Bill greeted her effusively. "Well, this is an honor. Take the chair by the fire."

He pattered about making her comfortable, hanging up her coat and hat. Diana laughed. "I haven't come to stay a week, you know, Bill."

"Now that I've got you here I won't be letting you go soon." She glanced about at the orderly shelves. There was a little of everything in Bill's store. A "general" store, it was called. Canned goods, produce, hams, dry goods, thread, fishing tackle, overalls—the people of the countryside could buy almost anything they needed here. Bill was an excellent storekeeper—gentle, friendly, talkative. They all liked him. He was one of them. And Diana knew that the business was slowly, but surely making him wealthy.

As she sat by the fire, she watched the customers come and go. She knew most of them and they all called greetings to her. They were interested to know why she was home, when she was going back. "It's not curiosity," Diana thought, "but friendly interest."

During the lulls in business, Bill came and sat beside her and talked. He spoke interestingly and well. You'd think he'd had a lot more than a high school education. That was because he read so much and kept abreast of the times. They laughed about things that happened when they were in school. He told her about some of the boys and girls that she'd lost track of. He was in his element here in his own domain. Any constraint that had been present in his manner, the night before had completely vanished. Here Bill Jackson was king.

FINALLY he stood looking down at her, his eyes earnest and intent, his mouth a little grim at the corners. She saw a pulse beating nervously in his brown throat.

"I don't suppose it's much use to say it again, Diana, but you know I love you."

"Thank you, Bill. I cherish that. But you're right. It's no use. I'm sorry."

She saw his shoulders droop and was terribly sorry for him. "Oh, Bill, why does it have to be like that between us? It's so pleasant just being friends with you—like this afternoon. Why don't you fall in love with someone who like this sort of life and will make you a good, contented wife?"

He said, his jaw tightening. "You know anyone else or you would be like twilight after a lovely sunset."

She was touched and the quick tears came. "That was a beautiful thing to say, Bill. But you've got to get over me. You can't go on like this always—hoping—because I'm afraid I'll never really love you like you want me to. You see, there's something—I can't tell you just yet."

"You're in love with someone else?"

"No—it's not that."

"Then you can't stop me from hoping."

Later Joey Cowan, the boy who helped in the store, came in to relieve Bill and he walked home with Diana, stayed for supper. They played Chinese checkers with Mr. and Mrs. Tucker until late.

Once more in her featherbed nest with only her nose exposed to the cold air, Diana drifted off to sleep thinking, "Tomorrow Stephen's coming."

SHE awoke nervous and excited, accomplished her packing before going down to breakfast. Her mother and father seemed excited, too. They did not entertain such a distinguished guest every day. John stayed at home from school with his father's consent. "You'll probably learn more listening to Stephen Curt," Mr. Tucker said.

And about 10:30 Stephen's big shining coupe swung up the driveway. Diana welcomed him at the door of the dining-sitting room.

He was like someone from another world, yet perfectly at home with her father and mother, talking interestedly with young John. Drifts of their conversation came to her as she helped her mother prepare luncheon, or "dinner," as the Tuckers still called it. A healthy, substantial meal, well-cooked and appetizing. Stephen Curt ate as if he enjoyed it thoroughly, won her mother's high regard by his compliments of her cooking.

Yet there was nothing strained, no appearance of striving for adjustments to his surroundings in his manner. Easy, charming, distinguished. Diana glowed with pride in him and the thought that they were at least friends. "Liked each other on sight," Stephen had said. She'd treasure that, no matter what their future relationship might become.

After the meal her father said, "Would you like to go out to the barn with me, Mr. Curt? I'd like for you to see the new calf." And Diana knew that they would discuss the marriage in her father's stronghold.

She watched them go and wondered what would be the result of the conference. Would she want to go through with the strange affair if her father still could not place the stamp of his approval upon it? And what of Stephen Curt? Would he want to call everything off if her father did not approve? Would his apparent respect for Mr. Tucker color his future actions? Diana felt like a curio that must await the verdict of returning jury.

They stayed in the barn for some time and Diana began to grow nervous with the thought that they would not get back to town for the 6:30 broadcast if Stephen did not hurry. It was a good three hours' drive and already it was nearly 2 o'clock.

At last they came back in and both men were smiling. "If you're ready, Diana, we'll better start," Stephen said.

"We'll be listening to your broadcast tonight," her father assured him.

"Don't be surprised if you hear some of your own opinions," Stephen laughed. "You know, you've given me several new ideas."

He helped Diana into her coat and they all stood there saying goodby. Just before Stephen opened the door, her father put his arm around Diana.

"Why don't you tell your mother before you go, Diana, that you're marrying Mr. Curt very soon?"

FDR Endorses Seal Campaign

President Roosevelt today endorsed the 35th annual Christmas seal campaign of the National Tuberculosis association, in which Gray county is represented through the Gray County Tuberculosis association.

Letters containing the 1941 Christmas seals were mailed here Sunday to 3,449 Gray county addresses.

The campaign, which opened today, was termed by President Roosevelt "a valuable and far-reaching tradition" in the anti-tuberculosis fight.

The President's endorsement: "With the approach of the Christmas season, my mind turns to one of our most valuable and far-reaching traditions, the Christmas seal which supports the fight against tuberculosis."

"For 35 years the appearance of the small tuberculosis seal on the flood of holiday mail has proved that we Americans are sincerely trying to protect our country against an insidious, communicable disease."

"We have full confidence in the Christmas seal, a confidence deeply rooted in the victories which have been won over the disease. But the fight against tuberculosis is not yet won. We must continue to give our full support to the National Tuberculosis association and its 1,700 affiliated organizations throughout the country. We must help overcome a disease that still kills more persons between the ages of 15 and 45 than any other cause of death."

"The anti-tuberculosis campaign has long been a vital part of the foundation of the structure of our country, because health is the first requisite of a nation as well as of an individual. This year, above all years, we must, and I am sure we will, faithfully observe one of our oldest, most worthy American customs... giving health to ourselves and to others through Christmas seals."

Train Collision Kills Two Men

OMAHA, Nov. 25 (AP)—Two trainmen were killed and three injured in a freight train collision at Edison, Wyo., last night, the Union Pacific railroad announced today.

Officials said a westbound freight hit another westbound train in the middle as it was pulling out of a switch onto the main line. Twenty-one cars and their contents were destroyed by fire.

Killed were Walter W. Martin of Laramie, engineer on the main line train, and Lewis H. Haberland, Laramie, fireman on the same train. Their bodies were found in the ruins of their cab at dawn.

How To Get Out Of Jury Service

SEATTLE, Nov. 25 (AP)—Elmer Carlberg chose his examination for jury service as the inopportune time to expound his theories on man's veracity.

"All men are liars," said Carlberg, "in court."

He was excused promptly by the lawyers for both sides.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Thirteen had better be somebody's lucky number—having especially in mind Herr Hitler and Comrade Stalin—what with seven new governments joining the Nazi-sponsored six-nation anti-Communist pact (that is, anti-Communist) at the Fuehrer's Berlin conference today.

These 13 governments headed by the Reich, are giving what Berlin calls "a demonstration of defensive will to oppose all destructive powers which directly or indirectly support Bolshevism." Observers took this to include Uncle Sam and John Bull, who are giving Russia war-aid.

The 13 also represent "an alliance which will create the pre-conditions for a new order in Europe and for the application of principles of a new order in the entire world." So Herr Hitler is, after all, doing a bit of world-wide thinking.

However, the anti-Communist pact in itself has to do with Herr Hitler's avowed determination to destroy Communism. Since Stalin also is out to smash Nazism, the pact becomes a matter of no ordinary importance.

This is particularly true because either the Nazi government or the Communist government is likely to disappear in this war.

Today's development in Berlin makes pertinent a query which I have from a Wisconsin editor. He is wondering what part Stalin is likely to play when it comes to deciding the fate of the German people in a peace conference, assuming the allies win. Will the Communist chief's views be the same as those of Britain and America?

Well, the Nazi form of government presumably will have to go, and there will be no dispute between the allies on that point. It isn't unlikely that Herr Hitler and his principal aides also will be dealt with, to make sure they don't start a new conflagration.

However, the allies have avowed that they aren't out to crush the German people and there seems no reason to believe that Russia won't adhere to this declaration. But there can be small doubt that Moscow intends to bring Germany and the rest of Europe under Communist influence.

It's logical to assume that Stalin will insist on rectification of his western frontiers for defensive purposes. He will want back the territories lost in this war, and that will affect Finland, the Baltic states, and Rumania. In order to insure Russia's domination of the vital Black Sea, Stalin will likely insist on control of the three mouths of the great Danube on the Rumanian coast; he probably will demand the Rumanian seaport of Constanta for a naval base, and Bulgaria may have to give up naval bases as well.

If the allies win, Russia certainly will be the dominating power of eastern Europe, and a hot rival of Britain. The Bolsheviks will expect to supplant Germany in the politico-economic control of all that area.

From that position of power the Reds will read out politically across Europe in an effort to establish

Yule Shopping Expected To Exceed 1929

By FRANK MULLIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 (AP)—Spurred by the jingle of national defense dollars, a $2,400,000,000 national Christmas shopping spurge is in the making this season, merchandise trade experts here estimated today.

Such a volume of business would exceed that of the boom year 1929 by more than 5 per cent and would be 11 per cent more than last year.

These estimates were compiled in a survey of the nation's wholesale and retail trade during the last 12 years prepared under the direction of Percie Wilson, director of Chicago's merchandise mart.

With preparations complete for the flood of buying already under way in the name of Santa Claus, merchandisers were reported by mart officials to be ready with shelves and display rooms well stocked despite priorities and material shortages.

Wilson said the survey showed that although holiday business will be the largest on record, it will not keep pace with the year's average increase of 18.9 per cent in retail sales so far because there was an unusual spurt in Christmas sales last year as first effects of the defense program were felt.

The increase in dollar-volume of business will not fully reflect the huge amount of goods to be sold, he said, because prices average 12.5 per cent lower for Christmas items than in 1929. He estimated that the total amount of merchandise to be sold will be almost 20 per cent more than in 1929. Distribution of rising operating expenses over a greater quantity of goods has resulted in keeping Christmas prices below the 1929 level.

Despite precautions taken by retailers and manufacturers, bare shelves will be seen in many lines of home furnishings, apparel and piece goods. Delivery schedules for some items are averaging four weeks later than a year ago.

Communist governments which will come within Moscow's sphere of influence. Moscow of the continent, stricken as it will be from the ravages of war, will be fertile soil for the seed of any ism which affords even a glimmer of hope for recovery.

The comintern is known among Bolsheviks as the "general staff of the world revolution." Communism first tried to establish itself by a general upheaval but when Stalin came to power in 1925 he temporarily shelved this effort in order to make Russia strong militarily and industrially. When the signs of another European war appeared, the world crusade was intensified so as to take advantage of it.

This time, however different tactics were employed. A host of Communist agents have been advocating nationalism and establishing "popular fronts" while Communism has been kept in the background.

These agents cover Europe like a network. The Germans tried to suppress them but they still continue their labors underground. The same is true of other countries.

So it seems to me the answer is that Stalin will depend on political agents to spread Russia's influence, rather than try to achieve this by extreme demands in the peace conference.

ELIZABETH PROTHRO HOME given by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins, Wichita Falls

BRIDWELL HOME given by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bridwell, Wichita Falls

CULMINATING THE MOST outstanding year of more than half a century and launching the drive for funds to finance next year's $125,000 budget, the Methodist Home at Waco will dedicate five new buildings on its campus Friday, November 28.

Bishops A. Frank Smith of Houston and Ivan Lee Holt of Dallas will take leading parts on the program, and more than 2000 out-of-town visitors are expected from the six conferences of Texas and New Mexico which support the home.

The affair begins with a barbecue on the Home campus at noon, the dedicatory service following at 1:30 p. m. Each new building will then be opened, its donors and the boys and girls who are to live in it serving as welcoming committee and guides. Four of the new structures are residences, furthering Superintendent Hubert Johnson's long time dream of doing away with dormitories and transforming the orphanage into a group of homes, each with its own house mother, its own dining room, kitchen and bedrooms, so that children may be brought up in an atmosphere as near like actual home life as possible. Half the Home's 400 children are now living in cottages. The fifth building is an infirmary.

Donors are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins of Wichita Falls, who are giving a second cottage for girls after two years ago giving a home for senior girls; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bridwell of Wichita Falls, a boys' home; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Mitchell of Marfa, a girls' home; the late Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Williams of Ft.

Worth, who will be represented by relatives, a boys' home; R. P. Willis Sr. of Atlanta and the late Mrs. Willie Willis, who gave the infirmary. This building has been furnished by W. T. Penn of Wichita Falls and the late Mrs. Penn.

After the dedication, there will be an evening session of the 48 district superintendents of the Texas and New Mexico conferences. They will discuss the budget campaign, due to be held in all Methodist churches during the month of December. The Home, existing for more than half a century without endowment, has relied on free will offerings for support during its entire history. Because of the limited budget all buildings have been donated by private individuals, 1941 marking an all time high in gifts of this nature to the Home.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (The Special News Service)—Now that baseball men are about ready to start to Jacksonville, Fla., for the minor league meetings and a little warm sunshine, more and better "type trades" are appearing in the papers. The scribes apparently have given up on selling Hank Greigberg for the Tigers and are trading Rudy York instead. Another report is that the Browns may peddle Chet Laabs to the Senators. . . . Most complicated story says the Phils are ready to send Bobby Bragan to the Giants providing a dicker can be arranged to get them Claude Corbit, Jack Graham, Ed Head, and Al Sherer, Brooklyn's best quartet of farmhands, in exchange for Danny Litwhiler. . . . Ted Williams tells friends he doesn't blame the sports writers for picking Joe DiMaggio as the most valuable player because "he did a man-sized job." . . . He adds he will make 'em pick Williams next season.

No Coaching, Coach

Steve Owen tells this on himself: In Sunday's Giants-Redskins game he noticed that Hank Soar was tugging frequently to look at the clock. Steve was afraid Sammy Baugh would pitch a pass right at Hank's head, so he yelled, "Stop watching that clock and keep your eye on the ball." Soar didn't even look around to see who was hollering. He just called back, "Don't bother me—I'm busy."

Odds And Some Ends

Henry Armstrong is in town looking fat and prosperous, to see Mike Jacobs about getting a few fights for his lightweight, Mike Della of Los Angeles. . . . Jack Dunn, 3rd, a Princeton undergraduate, is getting his training for a future job as boss of the Baltimore baseball Orioles by playing in the outfield for the Tigers and working out the club's road security during summer vacations. . . . Scouts from seven pro football clubs watched Bud Schwenk of Washington U. pitch his passes in one game and four came back for a second look. . . . A Dubuque (Ia.) bowling team has been invited to play at the University of Texas. They'll fill in the blank after the season. . . . Normant Quarles has retired from fighting and is practicing chiropody in his home town of Hendersonville, N. C.

Today's Guest Star

Ken Alyta, Waterbury (Conn.) Republican: "The Texas A. & M. schedule this fall looks like a plate of alphabet soup, with Texas A. & I, N. Y. U., T. C. U., and S. M. U. having been vanquished to date. I'm believing the report that the players are on WFA, however."

Football Fricassee

The Orange Bowl promoters already have sold tickets to buyers in 36 states and expect to do better. . . . Coaches Andy Kerr and Babe Holmgren should play plenty of football in making points after touchdowns in their East-West game preparations. Kerr says his Colgate team was just two points away from a highly successful season and Babe's Washington State boys are only two points away from the Rose Bowl. . . . Dick Harlow calls large Vern Miller "probably the most remarkable athlete I've ever had." . . . Vern played end and guard as well as tackle and all in one game. . . . John Kimbrough is due to play his last football game for the Y. Y. Americans here Sunday and report Monday to his movie company in Hollywood.

Jehovah Witnesses Granted Injunction In 4 Texas Cities

FORT WORTH, Nov. 25 (AP)—Federal Judge James C. Wilson this morning granted an injunction requested by members of the Jehovah Witness sect against four West Texas cities which allegedly were discriminating against members of the sect in the practice of their religion.

Judge Wilson held that the four cities, Ranger, Comanche, Colleton and Dublin, were unlawfully applying their city ordinances in regard to Jehovah Witnesses.

Two hundreds members of the sect were present in court when the judge's decision was returned.

Baker school's football team was officially crowned ward school champions last night at a banquet in the junior high school cafeteria. The boys proved that they are champion eaters as well as football players when they sat down to a dinner of smothered steak, mashed potatoes and gravy, corn, string beans, slaw, hot rolls, pumpkin pie and a great big cake presented them by Dille Bakeries.

Members of the team, their coach, Homer Craig, their principal, Aaron Meek, coaches and captains of all other teams in the school system, and school officials were guests of C. E. "Dan" McGrew at the banquet. Mr. McGrew presented to Captain Leon English of the Baker team the Dan McGrew trophy, a beautiful statue trophy which the Baker team also won last year. One more victory for a Baker team and that school will gain permanent possession of the trophy.

Captain English, on behalf of the team, thanked Mr. McGrew for the trophy and the banquet and presented him with a beautiful bill fold with his name engraved in gold letters on the inside.

W. B. Weathered acted as toastmaster and he called on everyone present for a few remarks. The sportsmanship and wonderful condition of the Baker team was praised by speakers and the boys were urged to "carry on" their football without slipping any of the teams on the road up to the Harvesters.

Guests at the banquet included Supt. L. L. Sone, Roy McMillen, Jackie Weathered, Harry E. Hoare, Coach Orville Bratton, and Captain Lamar Lively of Woodrow Wilson, Coach A. W. Coltharp, Jr. and Captain Jimmy line of Horace Mann, Coach J. Roy Mathews and Captain Malcolm Douglas of Sam Houston, Coaches Buck Prejan and Mac Best and Captains Roland Phillips and Ralph Burnett of the Harvesters, Coach Jack Davis and Captain Billy Elkins of the Gordias, Coach C. P. McWright and Captains Rudolph Taylor and Clifford Howard of the junior high Reapers, Coach Dick Livingston and Captain Billy Washington of the junior high Peewees, Coach Bob Carter and Captain Wynne Proper of the junior high Peewees, Coach Craig and Clifton Allen, Floyd Matheny, Jimmie Lee Tucker, Junior Smith, Cantrell Nash, Mark Buzzard, Bennie Tice, Leon English, Billy Kelley Britton, Coy Jones, Giles, Bobby Binnion, Jackie Bowler and Bill Runyon of the Baker team and Principal Meek.

Youth To Be Extradited In Train Wreck

SUSANVILLE, Calif., Nov. 25 (AP)—Clarence J. Alexander, 24-year-old railroad section hand, waived extradition to Nevada today on his confession of wrecking the streamline train "City of San Francisco" in 1939 to steal from passengers in the confusion.

Sheriff Olin S. Johnson notified Nevada authorities they could come and get the Cleo Springs, Okla., youth who was arrested here Friday for a traffic violation.

The sheriff said he was convinced Alexander caused the night-time wreck which killed 24 persons and injured 108 near Harney, Nev., on Aug. 12, 1939.

"There is no doubt in my mind," Sheriff Johnson declared, "that his motive was solely one of robbery."

Alexander led a party of investigators to the wreck scene and his reenactment of the wrecking checked with the known facts, Johnson said.

Alexander told investigators he moved a short rail section and hid in a nearby tunnel, expecting to rob the passengers when the train crashed.

But the screams of the injured were so terrifying, Johnson quoted Alexander, that he became frightened and fled without attempting to go nearer the wreck.

Enid, Okla., authorities said a note to Alexander's police record there read: "Claims to be one who caused train wreck in Nevada, Aug. 12, 1939." But the claim was never investigated, because Alexander had been found insane and committed to a state institution.

Before 1853, Tasmania was known as Van Dieman's Land. Then its name was changed to honor its discoverer, Abel Jans Tasman.

Reporter Comes To Life

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 25 (AP)—"Okay . . . fire, you say . . . two—oh—eight month eighteen" drawled Walt Johnson, mechanically. The fire department was giving out the information.

Then the reporter jumped out of his chair and grabbed his hat. It was his own house fire he'd been called about.
