Navy jet crashes on Nimitz, killing 14

NIMITZ CRASH. A U.S. Navy aircraft of the A-6 series, similar to the one above, crashed during a night landing on the aircraft carrier Nimitz late Tuesday night. The plane, an EA-6B Prowler outfitted for electronic warfare, is one of the trouble-plagued A-6 series, which has a history of crashes. The plane here is an A-6A Intruder version. (AP Laserphoto)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A radar-jamming jet crashed during a night landing on the flight deck of the USS Nimitz, killing 14 people and injuring 45. Navy officials said today.

The EA-6B Prowler, an electronic warfare plane that was temporarily grounded last year because of crashes, hit other aircraft and touched off a fire on the carrier's deck shortly before midnight Tuesday about 60 miles off the Jacksonville coast, according to Lt. Cmdr Ken Pease, a spokesman at the Navy's Norfolk, Va., Naval Station.

Although initial reports had said 10 crewmen had died, Pease confirmed that 14 perished in the accident and 45 suffered injuries.

The accident did not affect the 1,092-foot ship's nuclear propulsion system or the navigational ability of the world's largest warship, said Nick Young, a spokesman at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

Shipboard firefighters extinguished the blaze, Young said.

Shortly after 7 a.m. EDT, the Nimitz was off the Jacksonville coast while the injured were being taken ashore, Pease said. He added that the carrier, accompanied by the destroyer USS Moosbrugger, was to head back to its home port at Norfolk and arrive sometime Thursday.

The names and conditions of the victims were withheld until relatives could be notified, but Lt. Cmdr Dale Kneep said 20 victims brought to the Naval Regional Medical Center here were in "very serious" and "very critical" condition.

Most suffered second- and third-degree burns and some had lacerations, internal injuries and fractures, Kneep said.

The injured crewman were treated first in the carrier's medical department and a number of them were transferred by helicopter to a medical station at the Navy's Jacksonville facility, Young added.

The Prowler is a four-seater, but the Navy could not say immediately how many others were aboard when the jet crashed.

Officials weren't sure how seriously the ship was damaged, but Young said initial reports indicated the one EA-6B and four F-14 aircraft were destroyed and three A-7 aircraft and one SH-3 helicopter sustained major damage. The Navy began an investigation, he said.

The Nimitz, weighing in at 95,000 tons, returned to its Norfolk base a year ago Tuesday after a six-month deployment in the Mediterranean that stretched to nine months because of the seizure of hostages in Iran and the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

It was diverted to the Indian Ocean last spring and it was from the deck of the Nimitz that eight helicopters took off in an abortive effort to rescue the 52 Americans held captive in Tehran.

The EA-6B Prowler, of the A-6 family of jets, is an all-weather jet designed specifically for use in tactical electronic warfare. With a flying speed in excess of 500 knots, the Prowler uses receivers and jammers to deny the enemy use of radar and radio equipment.

The jet belongs to Marine Squadron VRAQ-2 based in Cherry Point, N.C. All A-6 aircraft throughout the continental United States were grounded briefly early in 1980 after seven crashes in three months killed a total of 14 fliers in different parts of the world.

Resident questions city zoning action

By DEBORAH BRIDGES
Staff Writer

Zoning for mobile homes in the central blocks of Nelson, Sumner and Faulkner was finalized Tuesday when city commissioners approved the renumbered ordinance concerning the zoning change.

However, some residents in the area against the mobile home zoning have questioned the legality of the renumbered ordinance.

D. P. Williams of 828 N. Nelson said today he believed the rezoning request should have been sent back to the zoning board when the first ordinance on the issue died for lack of a motion in the commission's April 28 meeting.

City Attorney Don Lane said following the death of the first motion, he felt simply renumbering the ordinance would be sufficient for bringing the matter back to the commission for action.

Lane said, "I felt it would be better to start over and resubmit it under a new number since no action was taken on the second reading as was presented under the old number."

"I felt it was correct to present a new ordinance. There was a motion to reconsider it and read it two meetings, a consecutive action," he said.

Williams also said he was not notified by the city about the rezoning request.

City Engineer Forrest Cloyd said his office sends out notices to the persons listed as owners of the property involved. The list is taken from the city tax rolls, he said.

I. W. Timney is presently listed as the owner of the property at 800 N. Nelson, said Dwan Walker, tax assessor collector.

Cloyd said Timney was notified of the rezoning request.

City officials said a problem with the notification of residents on the east side of Hazel Street in an earlier zoning dispute was not applicable in this case.

A rezoning request for mobile homes in the Hazel, Starkweather and Jordan area was referred back to the zoning board after the city was notified by the tax office that not all of the residents had been issued notices, Cloyd said.

Lane said requirement for notification set out in the city charter was met in the original Nelson, Sumner and Faulkner rezoning request.

The rezoning of the Starkweather and Jordan area was approved by city commissioners Tuesday morning in the regular meeting at city hall. Hazel was omitted from the request after reconsideration by the zoning board.

In other city commission action Tuesday, elected officials gave final approval for rezoning of three areas and first approval of two areas of Pampa.

Plans were okayed for the paving of Somerville Street near the Pam and Caprock apartment complexes, also.

The resignation of C. Warren Fatheree from the Planning and Zoning Commission was accepted by commissioners. City Manager Mack Wolford said Fatheree told him he was resigning because of "business matters."

No one was appointed to fill the zoning board vacancy in Tuesday's meeting.

A payment of $35,314 to Ray's Electric was okayed by commissioners. The payment was for the installation of the traffic signal at Decatur and Hobart streets.

Hail skirts Pampa, hits area cities

Despite a severe thunderstorm warning Tuesday night for Gray County and counties south and west of Pampa, severe weather skirted Pampa, dumping hail on area cities.

Booming thunder and heavy lightning was reported in all area cities, but only White Deer, McLean and Groom received hail.

The National Weather Service in Amarillo reported today they had received no confirmation of tornadoes "touching down in the Panhandle area."

An aircraft sighting of a funnel southeast of Quitaque was reported to the weather bureau at 9:15 p.m. Tuesday, but the funnel dissipated.

Carson County Sheriff's Deputy Warren Hart in White Deer said today hail in White Deer was mostly pea-sized, some larger, covering the ground and accompanied by rain. No damage was reported early today.

"It was pretty mild weather to bring the hail that we received," Hart said.

Carson County Sheriff's deputies in Groom said they were warned by the weather service Tuesday evening of possible golf ball size hail. Deputies said some small hail was received in the area, but no funnels were sighted.

Gray County Sheriff's personnel in McLean reported heavy rainfall in the McLean area for a short time. Some pea size hail fell. No weather-related damage was reported.

Roberts County Sheriff's personnel reported a few sprinkles of rain fell in the evening accompanied by heavy thunder and lightning.

Wheeler County Sheriff's Deputy Gary Davis in Wheeler said only light rain fell late Tuesday.

Shamrock police said the area received heavy rains for a short time.

Wind gusts of 45 mph were reported at Denton and brief gusts of 60 mph struck Bonham.

The weather forecast today indicates a 20 percent possibility of rain through Thursday. No severe weather conditions were forecast this morning.

Habib returns home under veil of failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today summoned home his special Middle East ambassador, Philip Habib, as reports circulated in Israel that Habib had failed in efforts to persuade Syria to withdraw its anti-aircraft missiles from eastern Lebanon.

But Reagan told reporters he did not consider Habib's mission a failure and Habib told reporters in Tel Aviv he would return to the Mideast for more talks next week.

Indeed, the president called the mission "a remarkable job" in that open warfare did not break out between Syria and Israel during Habib's three-week shuttle trip. Those two nations, he said, were on the verge of war and that has not happened.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Habib would return Thursday and meet with Reagan that day or the next "about the progress and future of his mission in the Mideast."

Reagan, speaking to reporters as he left for a speech to the graduating class at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, said Habib would be returning to the Mideast in hopes of defusing the Lebanese crisis.

"There's a kind of a pause, where everyone considers where they are. We felt that it was necessary now for him to come back here to see us and then he'll go back."

Asked if he expected Habib to return to continue his Mideast mission, Reagan told reporters on the South Lawn of the White House, "Yes."

But the administration source said no timetable had been drawn for Habib's possible return to the Mideast. In Tel Aviv, Israeli Radio, quoting a government source, said Habib, who had visited government leaders in Lebanon, Syria, Israel and Saudi Arabia, told Prime Minister Menachem Begin today that Saudi Arabia had failed in its efforts to persuade Syria to remove its missiles from the Bekaa valley in eastern Lebanon.

Begin later told reporters, "It must be admitted that so far the diplomatic effort has not borne fruit, but under no circumstances should we lose hope that after further efforts there will be a positive outcome."

And Habib, as he left Tel Aviv, told reporters at Ben Gurion Airport he is "convinced that all involved wish to avoid hostilities. Continued restraint by all parties, of course, remains essential to the achievement of peaceful resolution of the crisis."

He also said he will return for further talks next week, but did not tell reporters which country he will be going to or how many will be on his agenda.

Texas economy unscathed by recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of their numerous oil, energy and defense-related businesses, Texans probably will continue to enjoy an improved economy, according to a U.S. Chamber of Commerce study.

Those fast-growing sectors provided a source of employment that enabled Texas economy to move forward the past year or so while much of the United States was struggling, the report said.

The 1980 recession left the West South Central region relatively unscathed. Regional employment, income and retail sales continued to grow during 1980, albeit at lower rates than in 1979.

The decontrol of domestic oil helped the energy-related industries, which abound in Texas.

"Oil and gas exploration, mining, heavy construction, refineries, petrochemical and the mining machinery industries fared remarkably well during the 1980 recession and in some cases continued to add new jobs in spite of it," the report said.

According to the report, per capita income will increase from $9,500 in last year to $12,792 in 1983 over the United States. Texas' per capita income will increase to $11,600 next year and to $12,800 by 1983, according to the projections.

Per capita income was projected at $8,900 in 1982 and $9,900 in 1983 for Arkansas, $10,500 in 1982 and $11,600 in 1983 for Louisiana, and $11,400 for 1982 and $12,500 for 1983 for Oklahoma.

The New England, Middle Atlantic and East South Central regions "continue to suffer from their high dependence on the automobile, steel and housing-related durable goods manufacturing," the report said.

Manufacturing employment has been shifting to the Sunbelt states recently — a migration that is expected to continue.

The region's population is projected to grow at an

Two struck by truck, driver held for assault

A Pampa woman is being held in city jail on assault charges today, and a second woman is under intensive care at Highland General Hospital after two persons were injured when they were struck by a backing truck.

Deborah Maria Chambers, 22, 1109 S. Clark, driver of the three-quarter ton truck, was arrested by Pampa police about 2 a.m. today on assault charges.

Victim Penny L. Woods, 19, of 932 S. Nelson was treated and released at the Pampa hospital at 2:30 a.m. today, a spokesman said. She was readmitted to the hospital's intensive care unit at 5:30 a.m. for a head injury and possible internal injuries. Hospital officials said the woman was in stable condition at press time today.

The second person injured in the mishap was identified by police as Sammy J. Whitley, 35, of 1101 S. Clark. He was treated for lacerations and bruises at the Highland General Hospital emergency room and released, the hospital spokesman said.

Police said they are continuing to investigate the early morning incident, adding that no formal charges have been filed.

Police reports said officers were notified of an injury accident at 1:45 a.m. today in the 900 block of S. Wilcox.

The reports said a 1975 Ford three-quarter ton truck, driven by Chambers, was northbound on Wilcox when it came into collision with a legally parked 1979 Chevrolet owned by C. R. Newman of Pampa and then hit the two persons standing beside the parked vehicle.

State okays $5 speeding fine

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House tentatively approved a bill Tuesday that could eliminate virtually all deterrents to breaking the federally mandated 55 mph speed limit.

Without a whisper of discussion, House members advanced the bill on a voice vote. A final decision could come Wednesday. Senate action still would be required.

Watson, D-Deer Park, would impose a fine of only $5 for driving at speeds between 55 and 70 mph. A court convicting a driver of speeding would have to find that the speed was not "reasonable and prudent" under the circumstances.

In addition, the DPS could not enter a conviction of speeding on a person's driving record if the violation occurred on a highway and was less than 70 mph.

There's only one catch to the bill — it would be null and void if its implementation would cause the state to lose federal highway funds.

The U.S. Department of Transportation requires states to enforce the 55 mph limit, with proof of ever-increasing compliance by motorists, in order to continue receiving highway money.

deaths and funerals

DARRIN MICHAEL ALBERT

Darrin Michael Albert, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Albert, 1101 S. Christy, died Tuesday in Abilene State School.

He was born July 4, 1975, in Kansas City, Kan., and had resided in Pampa for four years.

Graveside services will be conducted Friday in Tonganoxie, Kan., under the direction of Elliot-Hamil Funeral Home in Tonganoxie.

Survivors include his parents and one brother, Christopher all of Pampa, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hunter of Tonganoxie, Kan.

police notes

Officers of the Pampa Police Department responded to 33 calls during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

Flo Rita Lamar, 846 Campbell, reported someone threw a cinder block through the rear windshield of her vehicle while it was parked at her residence. Damage was estimated at $400.

Barbara Kirkland reported for the Community Day Care Center, 600 W. Browning, that the building had been entered and someone had taken a tape dispenser and $201 in cash.

Ricky Frammell, 1601 Somerville, reported two speakers and a tachometer was taken from his vehicle while it was parked at the residence. Loss was estimated at $60.

Robert E. Lee Lindsey, 1601 Somerville, reported someone took a spare tire, valued at $140, from his pickup truck while it was parked at the residence.

David Strand, 617 1/2 N. Gray, reported someone entered his residence and took $20 and home movie box.

Grover A. Willoughby reported for Dust Rite Dust Control, 901 S. Barnes, that someone had broken into the building through the window and took 600 red grease rags valued at $120.

minor accidents

May 26

12:52 p.m. — A 1969 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven by William Arnold Baten, 68, of 940 E. Francis, was reportedly northbound on Gray when he came into collision with a 1979 Oldsmobile, driven by Refugio G. Hernandez, 49, of 1213 Oldway, which was traveling west on Kingsmill. Baten was cited for failure to yield right of way. Both drivers reported minor injuries at the scene of the mishap.

6:07 p.m. — A 1980 Chevrolet pickup truck, driven by Randy Lee Beck, 25, of 845 Kingsmill, came into collision with a 1980 Ford van, driven by Richard Roy Van Kluyve, 48, of 2239 Duncan in the 2300 block of Duncan. No injuries were reported.

fire report

7:25 p.m. — A car fire at 1010 Twiford was reported to the Pampa Fire Department. The 1968 Ford received heavy damage under the hood and the fire was attributed to a flooded carburetor.

OPEC action to aid motorists

NEW YORK (AP) — Motorists taking to the road for summer vacations won't have to worry about higher prices at gasoline pumps and might find some bargains, thanks to the failure of the OPEC cartel to eliminate a market glut of oil, U.S. analysts say.

Price wars already have broken out in some areas, with competition especially intense throughout the Midwest.

Saudi Arabia once again turned out to be the motorists' friend. The Saudis refused Tuesday to increase their oil prices and forced other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to accept a price freeze for at least six months. The Saudis also declined to join 10 of the 12 other oil ministers in deciding to cut petroleum output by at least 10 percent, starting June 1, in an attempt to relieve the global oversupply. The excess supply is calculated at 2 million to 3 million barrels a day.

Iran and Iraq, whose exports are growing as their war stagnates, joined the Saudis in not agreeing to the reduction.

The Saudis, whose average daily oil production is 10.3 million barrels, have taken credit publicly for flooding the market with oil as a means of attaining price stability and stemming inflation in the United States and other Western countries where they have substantial investments.

They also recognize their efforts to brake oil-price hikes could be appreciated by the U.S. Congress, which is considering a Saudi request to buy five sophisticated radar aircraft, known as AWACS.

The overall reduction in daily output by the 10 OPEC countries was not expected to exceed 1.5 million barrels — roughly equivalent to the amount the Saudis produce beyond their official target levels.

The price-freeze decision — the cartel's first since June 1978 — means OPEC oil will remain in the range of $32 a barrel — the Saudis' price — to $41 a barrel — Libya's price, U.S. analysts say. The decision means pump prices will remain stable or decline.

"Saudi Arabia will have to cut back in order to cure the so-called glut," said

Constantine Fliakos, an analyst with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. in New York. Without such a cut, he said, "You basically will see flat prices, but there may be some declines."

John Lichtblau, executive director of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, said some countries might base their cutbacks on sales levels before the glut, meaning the real reduction might be well below the 1.5 million barrels-a-day estimate. Lichtblau, however, did not foresee price reductions at the pump.

"The market won't permit price increases, politics won't permit price decreases, so you end up freezing the price where it is," Lichtblau said.

The OPEC countries produced about 25.2 million barrels a day in March, the latest month for which figures were available. Saudi Arabia provided 9.85 million of that.

Already in the United States, price wars have flared up, with prices down to $1.10 a gallon in some places, compared with highs of $1.50 a gallon in others.

Coal strike negotiations resume

WASHINGTON (AP) — The soft coal industry is facing an ultimatum from the United Mine Workers president to offer a contract package acceptable to miners or face a walkout by union leaders that could prolong indefinitely the 2-month-old strike.

Protracted contract bargaining by the union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association has thus far failed to resolve differences between labor and management.

With coal stockpiles dwindling, union president Sam Church issued his ultimatum Tuesday after a two-hour negotiating session in which the three-man BCOA team offered counter proposals to the contract demands the UMW made last month.

The UMW demands were shaped in strategy talks held after rank-and-file miners overwhelmingly rejected a tentative agreement in March.

Church planned to confer with his 39-member bargaining council again today and then face industry representatives in a noon showdown at the downtown Washington hotel where the two sides have been meeting since negotiations on a new contract opened formally Jan. 22.

New strike-related violence was reported Tuesday, when a non-union mine was fired on in Naugatuck, W.Va. Trucks and equipment were extensively damaged by gunfire during picketing by UMW members, but no injuries were reported, officials said.

Larry Compton, general superintendent of Marrowbone Development Co., said the mine came under "heavy fire" about 12:30 a.m. He said a portable generating unit worth about $8,000 was badly damaged, as were two 50-ton rock trucks and a private vehicle owned by a mine guard.

Because of earlier disturbances, a court order limited the number of pickets at the mine to three. However, police, company officials and union members agreed that there were about 100 pickets at the mine early Tuesday.

The strike in the coalfields of Appalachia and the Midwest entered its 62nd day today.

Lawmakers want Texas taxpayers to know who raised property taxes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas senators want taxpayers to know it wasn't the lawmakers in Austin that raised taxes after the 1979 property tax revision, but local governments.

"I think it's self explanatory," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene. He has complained previously that some city and county officials have blamed the Legislature for increased taxes after countywide appraisals began under the 1979 law change.

"The Texas Legislature does not set the amount of your local taxes," would be required to be printed on every local tax statement, according to Jones' amendment. "Your property tax is decided by your locally-elected officials, and all inquiries concerning your taxes should be directed to such officials."

The amendment was adopted on voice vote to a bill making numerous revisions in the 1979 law. It and other Senate changes must be approved by the House before the bill goes to the governor.

In another amendment the Senate votes to take the profit out of the practice of some delinquent taxpayers' to invest the money they should pay to local and state governments.

"This will be an incentive to people to pay their property taxes on time," said Sen. Dee Travis, R-Garland. "It will keep them from getting cheap loans from the state by not paying taxes."

Travis said a number of Texans, some of the businessmen with considerable amounts of delinquent taxes, invest the delinquent tax money in money market funds that pay 14 and 15 percent. Later, they pay state taxes with the current 4 percent penalty.

Travis' amendment, which passed 22-9, would raise the penalty to 6 percent with an additional one percent for each month for the first six months, then charge 12 percent interest.

"I am shocked to learn that some people who owe substantial taxes are willing to pay the penalty in order to invest the funds at a good profit," said Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas. Another Senate amendment says if a city or county government must hire an attorney to collect delinquent taxes, then the taxpayer can be charged the 15 percent collection fee.

Otherwise the bill, by Rep. Wayne Pevelto, D-Orange, makes more than 100 changes in the 1979 law in an effort to answer much of the criticism arising from the measure that requires a single appraisal of all taxable property in a county.

FBI evidence bolsters chance of convicting killers of four nuns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI's linking of a fingerprint and a bullet casing to two Salvadoran national guardsmen "bolsters" chances of a conviction in the killings of four American churchwomen in El Salvador last December, a State Department official says.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said the FBI has determined that a fingerprint found on the churchwomen's van belongs to one of six Salvadoran national guardsmen currently held on suspicion of the murders.

The official also said FBI ballistics tests have matched a bullet casing found at the scene of the killings with a gun registered to another of the guardsmen.

The findings are the first physical evidence implicating the men in the murders, the official said.

He said the arrests originally were made on the basis of hearsay statements by a single anonymous witness, who is not expected to be brought forward publicly until a trial is held.

"This (the FBI report) bolsters the case," the official said, adding that a trial of the suspects is now considered likely in the near future.

The bodies of the four women, three Catholic nuns and a lay worker, were found in a shallow grave along a dirt road outside San Salvador, the nation's capital, on Dec. 4. All four had been shot in the back of the head.

Their deaths led to a suspension of U.S. military aid to El Salvador's ruling military-civilian junta and strained relations between the two countries.

The military aid, however, was restored in January by then-President Carter during a general offensive by leftist guerrillas seeking to overthrow the junta. President Reagan, saying the guerrillas were supplied by Soviet-bloc nations, has since increased that aid.

The State Department official said the FBI completed its laboratory analysis a week ago and forwarded the results to the Salvadoran government.

FBI officials in Washington said they could neither confirm nor deny the State Department report about the tests.

After a week of government denials, Defense Minister Jose Guillermo Garcia announced May 9 that six members of El Salvador's armed forces had been arrested April 29 in connection with the murders of the four women.

Since early in the investigation, the FBI has assisted the Salvadoran government in developing evidence from the murder scene.

Families of the slain women have demanded that the administration press the Salvadoran government to find the killers. And Robert White, the ousted U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, accused the U.S. and Salvadoran governments this month of participating in a coverup of the murder investigation.

Reagan relieved White of his post in January for criticizing increased U.S. aid to the junta.

House votes on redistricting today

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members vote today on their most anxiety-ridden political task of the legislative session — redrawing their own districts to conform to the 1980 census.

Speaker Bill Clayton was at work Tuesday to undo decisions of the House redistricting committee on more than 30 of the 150 districts from which state representatives are elected.

Clayton said late Tuesday he and Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, the committee chairman, were preparing changes in districts approved by the committee for El Paso and Harris Counties and possibly Dallas County.

Clayton said the revisions he wants are "changes that have to be made to conform to the (U.S.) Voting Rights Act" and probably will come in the form of a complete substitute.

The speaker claimed the changes were necessary either to give Houston Mexican-Americans more representatives or to eliminate "packing" of El Paso Hispanics into three districts while diluting their influence over two others.

El Paso's district lines, however, were proposed by the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund (MALDEF).

Clayton also hinted that members of the redistricting panel who want to be on the House-Senate conference committee drawing congressional district lines had better vote for the changes he proposes.

Senators revised the House's congressional bill before passing it last week, but days have passed without any motion by Von Dohlen to send the measure to conference.

Asked why, Clayton chuckled and said, "We might get a better idea who to put on the conference committee" after the vote on House districts. "I have 19 (House redistricting committee) members to choose from."

The conference committee is a coveted assignment for any legislator who wants to cut a congressional district for himself, protect a certain member of Congress or increase the voting power of a political group or ethnic minority.

Houston firm is cited in worker's death

HOUSTON (AP) — The Occupational Safety and Health Administration has issued a safety violation citation to a mineral company in connection with the suffocation death of a 16-year-old worker.

OSHA Area Director Gerald Baty said Uni Mineral Corp. was cited for its failure to provide Harry Wayne Banta with the proper safety equipment when it sent him into a silo of barite.

Banta suffocated May 11 when he fell into the powdery substance, which is the main ingredient in drilling mud investigators said. The youth was sent into the silo to clear a clogged valve.

Uni President Pat DiClemente said Monday he had not received the citation, which was mailed Friday. He said he therefore had not decided whether to appeal.

Irish hunger striker treated, continues fast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — IRA hunger striker Brendan McLaughlin, warned by prison doctors that he was close to death, is accepting medical treatment for a bleeding ulcer but continuing his 14-day fast.

Sinn Fein, the Irish Republican Army's legal political front, said Tuesday the medical care "does not compromise McLaughlin's fast." A spokesman for the Northern Ireland Office, which administers the province, said the acceptance of treatment was "very limited in extent."

The 29-year-old prisoner is the first of eight Irish nationalist hunger strikers — four of whom have died this month — to allow doctors to treat him.

Neither Sinn Fein nor the government would say what treatment McLaughlin would receive, but the government spokesman said it was "very limited in extent."

launcher in the hands of the IRA Provisional wing's guerrillas battling British rule in Northern Ireland.

"This could be an extremely significant seizure," a senior police source said. "If, as we think, this is the last of the shipment, we have taken from the Provisional IRA one of their major weapons."

The rocket launcher with a charged warhead, several guns and 100 armor-piercing rounds of rifle ammunition were found in a stolen car driven by two IRA members, a police spokesman said. He said the two men were captured and one was shot twice in the back when he tried to escape. His condition was not disclosed.

The Provos have used the RPG-7 twice in the past two weeks, killing a police officer in an attack on a security vehicle and injuring two soldiers in a similar attack Friday night.

as a replacement for hunger striker Francis Hughes, who died the day before.

He was transferred Thursday to the military wing of Belfast's Musgrave Park Hospital because of a perforated ulcer. Doctors said he could die within days if he did not receive a blood transfusion.

Three other IRA men are also on hunger strike in the Maze to drum up foreign support for the IRA's demands that its members be given the privileges of political prisoners.

On the British mainland, two of the five soldiers killed last week when IRA guerrillas blew up an armored personnel carrier near Newry, Northern Ireland, were buried Tuesday in military funerals.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Decontrol via 'back door'!

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Welcome to the world of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978, a Byzantine realm of "old gas" and "new gas," tight sands and occluded seams, geopressurized brine and Devonian shale.

Behind that technical jargon, most of it relating to unconventional geological formations beneath the earth's surface, lies one of the most complex and controversial laws ever formulated by Congress.

To establish an intricate system of federal price controls, for example, the statute designates more than two dozen different classifications of natural gas.

This specialized information about the law might appear to be quite irrelevant to the daily lives of most citizens, but it is directly related to the price paid by millions of the nation's families for the natural gas that fuels their furnaces, heats their water and cooks their food.

As recently as the early 1970s, the price for natural gas averaged about 20 cents per thousand cubic feet (Mcf) but today the average price, under the phased decontrol program mandated by the 1978 law, has soared to $1.65 per Mcf.

Moreover, the cost of the relatively small amount of natural gas imported from Canada and Mexico, reflecting uncontrolled international prices, is approaching $5 per Mcf.

(Those figures generally are "wellhead" prices, covering the sale of natural gas to transmission companies as it comes out of the ground. Consumers pay considerably more because their bills reflect the additional costs and profits of at least two middlemen, inter- or intra- state pipeline firms and local utility companies.)

Although the federal law does not authorize widespread deregulation of natural gas until 1985, the producers are anxious to accelerate or eliminate that schedule. But efforts to abolish or amend that law undoubtedly would provoke a major battle in Congress and inspire fierce citizen opposition.

There is available, however, a "back door" method of rapidly escalating prices and profits without having to confront hostile legislators or angry consumers.

The 1978 law gave the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission authority to grant special price exemptions for "high cost" natural gas and "the FERC has been extremely liberal in its interpretation of the law," notes Energy Action, a Washington-based consumer group.

Disturbing reports already are circulating among both consumer and industry organizations here that the producers plan to circumvent the law through an intensified campaign to gain favorable concessions from the FERC — and the commission is likely to acquiesce to those demands.

Accelerated decontrol of gas prices, through legislative or regulatory action, would add more than $275 billion to the nation's natural-gas bills between 1981 and 1985, according to a recent Energy Action study, while the price of immediate decontrol would exceed $530 billion during the same period.

Who would receive most of those windfall profits? Here is a list of the country's six major producers of natural gas, all of them familiar names: Exxon, Texaco, Standard of Indiana, Mobil, Gulf, and Shell.

As in their successful campaign for deregulation of crude oil prices, those companies argue that decontrol would encourage exploration and production, thus producing more fuel for a nation rapidly depleting its energy resources.

Yet wellhead prices for "new gas" increased more than 730 percent between 1972 and 1979 while the cost of drilling gas wells increased slightly less than 300 percent — but there were no marked increases in the discovery of new natural gas fields during the 1970s.

In other words, the industry already has been given a substantial economic incentive — but has failed to share the benefits with the nation's consumers. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Today in history

Today is Wednesday, May 27, the 147th day of 1981. There are 218 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On May 27, 1941, the German battleship "Bismarck" was sunk by the British navy off France, with a loss of 2,300 lives.

On this date: In 1860, a force under Italian patriot Giuseppe Garibaldi invaded Sicily and captured the city of Palermo.

In 1937, the Golden Gate Bridge across San Francisco Bay was opened.

In 1964, India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru died in New Delhi. And in 1974, Valery Giscard d'Estaing was inaugurated president of France.

Ten years ago: the Soviet Union signed a 15-year pact with Egypt, pledging assistance in the recovery of all Arab territories occupied by Israel.

Five years ago: Syria agreed to extend the United Nations observer force on the strategic Golan Heights for another six months to avoid a new confrontation with Israel.

Today's birthdays: former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is 58 years old and British actor Christopher Lee is 59.

Pruning those PIOs

President Reagan has ordered a freeze on the production of pamphlets, booklets, magazines, films and audio-visual materials that pour out of government agencies for the presumed benefit of the public. As the president points out, much of this material is no more than publicity or advertising for the government itself, and has no place in a budget of austerity.

Neither Reagan nor the budget director's office could give more than a ballpark figure for what might be saved in this area — only that the production and distribution of these materials is now costing hundreds of millions of dollars. The catalog is enormous, and the costs are spreading through scores of agencies.

If this area is ripe for budget-cutting, it is also ripe for political controversy. This administration, if it is to continue as a publisher and distributor of such stuff, must distinguish between activities that are really helpful and those which are pure puffery. It must decide whether a publication or service should be abolished, or allowed to continue with a proviso that those who use it pay the full amount of the cost.

The Congressional Budget Office recently provided an example of how a government agency can be generous to a fault with its publications. The U.S. Geological Survey is the publisher of a popular series of topographical maps. It spends $75 million a year producing them — and gets back $7 million by selling them to the public.

Should the USGS (read taxpayers) be taking that big loss? The people who use the maps probably can afford to pay more for them.

There is no doubt the informational services provided by the federal government ought to be weeded. This is especially true, of course, when the government is forced to borrow money to pay its bills.

led005 01029e ompared with 1973, the year before the first oil crisis.

While, on the other hand, nuclear power development has been all but brought to a halt here in the United States as a result of safety and environmental concerns. If those concerns that are based on reality rather than hysterical emotions can be met, and if interest rates fall so that financing can once again become feasible, America can rejoin the world in nuclear power progress.

Nuclear power abroad

Other industrialized countries are proceeding with nuclear power development spurred by the continuing high price of OPEC oil.

France, to cite only one example, has set a record for nuclear electricity — 34 percent of the electric current being used in France during this past January was generated by nuclear power.

The increased use of nuclear-generated electricity has brought about a 31 percent reduction in oil use in France, compared with 1973, the year before the first oil crisis.

While, on the other hand, nuclear power development has been all but brought to a halt here in the United States as a result of safety and environmental concerns. If those concerns that are based on reality rather than hysterical emotions can be met, and if interest rates fall so that financing can once again become feasible, America can rejoin the world in nuclear power progress.

This is no doubt one of our best long-term hopes of achieving some measure of energy independence.

Farming in China

The news out of mainland China is fascinating. Over the past three years the government has been seeking to stimulate agriculture production by, of all things, leaving farmers alone. The method has been to lift restrictions on what farmers can plant and how they can sell it. Once peasants have met their contracts to produce for the state, they can keep the rest of what they produce, or sell it. Not surprisingly, with more personal initiative, Chinese farmers have been producing more.

Du Run-sheng, vice minister of the State Agriculture Commission, recently told reporters that "It is essential to leave the right to decide how to improve production and how to improve their lives in the hands of the people themselves." And the official press claims that the peasants' only fear is that the government will flip-flop in its policy and go back to the bad old days of equal pay for all and rigid restrictions on what to plant.

This news about China is especially fascinating when compared to official agriculture policies in the United States.

A glance at just a few of the news releases recently issued by the House Agriculture Committee reveals a pattern of extensive and intensive government involvement in agriculture.

HR 2401 provides a complex formula for projected purchases of surplus milk products by the government. Another bill sets forth an equally complex formula for payments to producers of wool products. A bill for indemnities to dairy farmers is extended for four years. Another bill authorizes long-term credit sales and donations of "surplus" agricultural products to the Food for Peace program. Legislation extended the Agriculture Department's farm storage facility loan program is approved by a subcommittee. Another subcommittee approves a bill that authorizes expansion of a number of agricultural research programs.

All this occurs in one month, in an era in which it is supposed to be fashionable in Washington to cut back government programs. Can it be there is more freedom for farmers, more recognition of the importance of incentives as opposed to government guarantees in China than in the United States?

Well, that may not be quite an accurate picture. Farmers in China must produce a certain amount for the state. Farming technology is much more advanced here than in mainland China. One should take pronouncements by China's official press with a healthy dose of skepticism. Despite all the regulations, there is a long tradition of independence and capitalism among American farmers which will take a long time to develop in China.

Nonetheless, it seems clear that, for the moment, the Chinese government seems in fact to be moving toward less regulation and less central control of agriculture.

Here in the United States, despite a tax-cutting atmosphere, despite widespread support for decentralization as a general principle, we still have more bureaucrats in the Department of Agriculture than we have farmers. And we seem struck on dead center.

The need for results

BY ANTHONY HARRIGAN

The recent protest march in Washington, aimed at the Reagan administration's policies on El Salvador and the economy, demonstrated that the political culture is alive and well.

Conservatives have been in a state of euphoria since the presidential election. Because the American people have rallied around Ronald Reagan, there has been the assumption that the New Left is dead. No such thing. If one reads the radical journals, one finds that the New Left is busy developing new strategies and preparing for a comeback in 1984.

The Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, the principal center of New Left theorizing, is as busy as ever. The New York Times continues to provide space for IPS writers on its op-page. These writers are the key element in the Big Lie campaign to characterize the administration's tough new policy towards communism in this hemisphere as vintage "McCarthyism" and cold war ideology.

The Nation, another safe haven for IPS radicals, is busy plugging away at the Reagan administration's attempts to hold down federal spending and eliminate welfare abuses.

In a recent editorial, The Nation offered this delicious comment on the American way of life. It said: "We continue to be the most over-transported, over-heated, over-cooled, over-fed (most of us), over-housed (many of us), over-defended (all of us), and over-advertised people the world has ever known."

The writer of this editorial didn't mention the central fact of our times, namely that we are the most- overtaxed and over-regulated people.

The Nation, like other liberal-leftists, sees no evil in high taxation and super-regulation.

This editorial sheds light on the attitudes of the New Left community. The Left is unhappy that, in some circumstances, the American people are comfortable. Unfortunately, their comforts are diminishing as a result of years of excessive spending government waste, welfarism, and share-the-wealth notions embedded in foreign aid.

The radical community hopes the Reagan policies will fail. It would be a colossal disaster for the American people if these policies were to fail and the Jane Fonda - Ralph Nader - Ramsey Clark element were to gain power in 1984.

There's no guarantee that the American people will continue to support conservative, pro-freedom policies. An economic setback could produce a political backlash favorable to the radicals. Conservatives, therefore, must be very mindful of the need to revitalize the economy. Legislators must make sure that changes in the tax laws are designed to create productive investment and jobs. Otherwise, the nation could be in for a wave of political income redistribution and nationalization of industry.

Blacks under Reagan - Free at last

The most cruel indignity suffered by black Americans has been in recent generations — the perpetuation of plantation politics.

Elected leaders doing out other peoples' money to make themselves appear generous.

Paternalistic politicians promising security in exchange for subservience.

Tossing pennies at dancing feet. It's going to be different under Reagan.

We're told that 82 percent of last November's black vote went for Carter. Nonetheless, blacks now have in the White House a president willing to defend their rights. And he'll do it with bayonets if he has to.

As Eisenhower did in Little Rock.

But way above and beyond the issue of equal legal rights is the long-dreamed-of opportunity for America's blacks to bust out of their high-rise cabins and into the mainstream of the American power structure.

While the elected leaders of Washington and Chicago and Los Angeles and New York have wrestled ineffectually with race-related problems, most of the South has proceeded quietly to amalgamate.

Mississippi has elected more blacks to public office than has any state.

Dixie schools have recognized for decades that, when the rhetoric has cooled and the chips are down — the South would accept and adapt to inevitable social evolution while the North continued to fuss about it.

Trying to legislate morality is like trying to put socks on an octopus.

The quota you adopt to force industry to hire blacks begets other inequities.

The subsidy you authorize to feed unwanted babies begets more unwanted babies.

The low-rent or no-rent housing you provide begets low-maintenance or no-maintenance.

Then the crowning indignity — when government mandates crosstown school busing which ingrains children with the noxious notion that blacks without whites are somehow less.

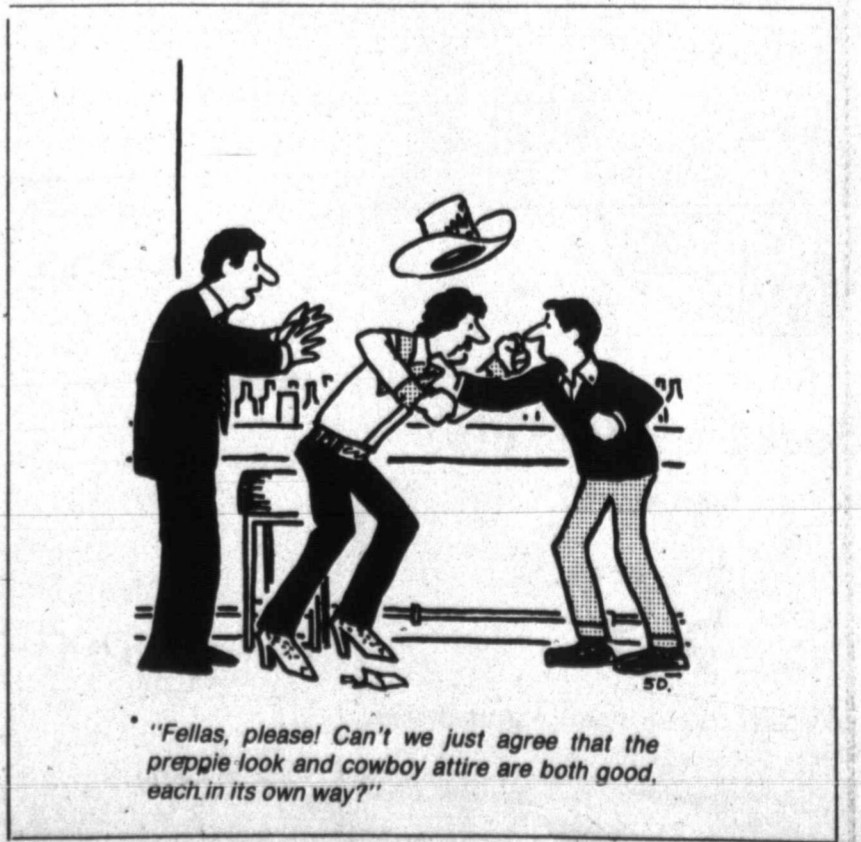

Finally, in between the new slaves and their new overlords come the new carpetbaggers — creating parasitic organizations — making themselves rich in the name of helping the poor.

There will be no plantation politics under Reagan — no hush-puppies to divert discontent.

What black Americans are going to be able to count on is a safety net under the genuinely needy, a gradual weaning of the lazy and all of the rights, privileges and rewards which the Republic can ensure for Americans willing to get off their knees and walk. And then climb!

Convict labor bill approved

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has given tentative approval to a bill allowing the state highway department to use volunteer convicts to pick up litter and do maintenance work along highways.

Rep. Rodney Tow, D-Woodlands, won voice vote approval of his bill, which faces another reading in the House before final approval. There was no debate.

Tow wants the state highway department to be allowed to contract with the Department of Corrections for inmate labor. The inmates, only volunteers, would not do highway construction work, but could be used to mow grass, fix guard rails, do landscaping, and other maintenance work.

Opponents to the bill have complained prisoners should be paid for any work they do.

Leaders see doctrinal dust settling, exchange felicities

HOUSTON (AP)— Presbyterian leaders said today that newly approved, clear-cut reaffirmations of a basic Christian belief in the dual nature of Jesus should settle recent anxieties about the church stand.

Aside from that central issue, church representatives, north and south, were in a mood for homespun amiability.

They showed it in a spontaneous get-together as concurrent governing assemblies of the southern Presbyterian Church U. S. and mostly northern United Presbyterian Church neared a close, late today for the southerners. Thursday for the northerners.

The northerners acted Tuesday, after similar action by the southern church, to proclaim firmly anew the age-old, disintoxicating Christian conviction that Jesus is "truly God and truly human."

Wide concern had arisen that challenges to that belief were being allowed in the church by admission of the Rev. Mansfield Kasemen to the Presbyterian clergy after an examination in which some felt he hedged about the matter.

"The actions here should bring clarity and confidence to disturbed congregations," said the Rev. Charles A. Hammond of West Lafayette, Ind., former moderator of the northern church.

"Many evangelicals who have been confused and disturbed about the issue will be grateful for the way it was dealt with."

Amid the heavier deliberations, the broken Presbyterian family, split north and south since the Civil War, got together temporarily, cheek to cheek, in affectionate, intimate style, acting as if they'd come home.

It was a potential harbinger of something planned for 1983—the reunion of the two denominations.

In their week-long assemblies, they've mostly met apart, the northerners in the convention center's "East Hall," the southerners in the "West Hall." But the boundary was crossed in a surprise, genial gesture as the cheery southern moderator Dorothy Barnard led her whole assemblage marching into the northern session.

"Getting to know one another is a wonderful thing," she told the milling, mingling throng of about 1,000. Calling the southern invaders "hugging cousins," she urged, "Look for somebody to hug."

Hesitantly at first, then enthusiastically, they embraced and kissed each other all through the hall, men and women, young and old, joining hands and holding them aloft, bursting forth in an old gospel hymn, "Amazing Grace."

In business sessions Wednesday night, the southern assembly approved a 24,000-word study document emphasizing the high, special value of human life in the Christian view, but citing dangers to it.

There is a "widely shared conviction that the value of human life is being questioned, even attacked from many quarters," the study says.

The southern church also shelved a measure designed to permit joint local units (presbyteries) with the mostly northern church in areas outside the southland.

You're Not Bad!

The next generation of Higgins men

A slack that fits this well, looks this good, and launders this nicely? That's Incredible!

That's an incredibly great gift for Dad, that is. We can talk a lot more comfortably about Fran Tarkenton now that he's not running 2 minute drills against our Cowboys. But we always admired his professionalism, on and off the field. That's why his endorsement of Higgins slacks should tell you a lot about their wearability... "I'm very picky about my clothes, with Higgins I find their styling is good, they're fashionable and they're comfortable. I can wear these clothes wherever I'm going." Higgins slacks are tailored of VISA® and cotton & wool blends of VISA®. VISA® colors stay bright and beautiful, the fabric "breathes", because its easy-care properties are superior to ordinary polyester. VISA™ releases most oily stains in the wash. And that's important for on-the-move fathers. So, if you're looking for a way to say "Dad, I love you." Say it with Higgins slacks from the Hub!

TRY THE REVOLUTIONARY NEW WASHABLE POLYESTER AND WOOL SLACK!
Also the familiar 100% polyester wash and wear pant in belt loop, slider and continental waist styles. Sizes 32 to 42 in navy, brown, camel, grey and new patterns of spring and summer shades, $25 to $35. Men's sportswear, all four Hubs, Amarillo, Pampa and Clovis.

Unser confident of reversal

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti's Indianapolis 500 victory was the result of "a snap decision" by race stewards who didn't want to risk the embarrassment of reversing their earlier finding, says Bobby Unser, confident he will be declared the winner on appeal.

The stewards awarded the victory to Andretti Monday after penalizing Unser one lap in Sunday's race. They said Unser passed at least a half-dozen cars and illegally improved his position as he emerged from the pits during a yellow caution period. The race officials turned down Unser's appeal of that ruling Monday afternoon.

Now, he has until midnight Thursday to make a formal appeal with the U.S. Auto Club, the race's sanctioning body. He said if that, too, is rejected, he would go to court.

"I honestly think it was a snap decision," Unser said Tuesday, referring to the rejection of his earlier protest of the official standings. "It was a snap judgment and a fear by them of reversing themselves again. To do it (declare a new winner) again was more than they could handle."

"So here I am, and it's a terrible place to be in," the two-time Indy winner said.

"If I had to guess, I'd guess that Mario and (Gordon) Johncock, when they started complaining (to race officials), were grasping Everybody always grabs for everything they can get. If I had to blame one item, it wouldn't be for people having it in for me. When they went down and saw it (the incident) on TV tapes, they didn't look any further after they saw me."

In one earlier appeal, Unser and his car owner, Roger Penske, claimed what he did was not illegal, and that it was wrong, Andretti and other drivers were equally guilty of similar infractions.

Astros win

HOUSTON (AP) — While rookie Joe Pittman was recording a series of personal firsts, something else quietly was happening in the Astrodome Tuesday night in Houston's 1-0 victory over San Diego.

Nolan Ryan, possibly more relaxed and definitely more effective this season, quietly pitched seven more scoreless innings to reduce his National League-leading ERA to a minuscule .098.

Appreciation for his efforts this season also seems to be small.

"He's gone out there real quiet and pitched some excellent games," catcher Alan Ashby said. "He's pitched seven shutout innings, then seven shutout innings, then seven shutout with one run, and not too many people have noticed it."

Ryan, 4-2, got San Diego's attention Tuesday night, holding them scoreless until Pittman, ticketed several times this season for a trip back to the minors, could punch out a seventh-inning triple to drive in the game's lone run.

Ryan earlier referred to himself as the Astro's forgotten man, but he added he liked it that way.

"I don't like the attention, but it doesn't bother my pitching," said Ryan. "I just like to come out and do my job. I'd rather the other guys get the attention. We've got plenty of pitchers on this team who deserve the attention."

"There doesn't seem to be anything different, but I certainly think there's less pressure," Ashby said. "He doesn't appear to pitch any different. He just seems more in command."

Pittman made his first major league start at third base, replacing Art Howe. The National League's leading hitter, who suffered a hamstring pull in Friday night's game,

Shoemaker moves closer to goal

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker needs just one more win to put him at the 8,000-victory plateau but the goal has become elusive.

Champion jockey on thoroughbred horse races won money and major handicaps won, the 49-year-old Shoemaker could have trouble reaching 8,000. He only had one triumph in nine mounts during the Memorial Day weekend. His victory aboard the favored Native Prospector in the fifth at Hollywood Park moved him to 7,999.

No racing was scheduled at Hollywood on Tuesday but Shoemaker will have four mounts on Wednesday but only one will be a favorite. He just missed with a second place with Fort McCloud on Monday yet the Shoe isn't worried, saying, "It will come and I think I'll be happy about it."

It took him a week of riding at Del Mar in 1970 to finally beat the record of 6,032 victories by John Longden.

Watson, Kite, Floyd top contenders in Kemper Open

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Tom Watson, Ray Floyd and Tom Kite, the three most consistent players in golf this season, top the field for the $400,000 Kemper Open.

There's no assurance one of the three will take the $72,000 first prize, but their records insist that they'll be among the prime contenders in the 72-hole chase that begins Thursday on the hilly, 7,054-yard, par-70 Congressional Country Club course.

Floyd, winner of consecutive titles in Florida earlier this season, hasn't finished lower than 12th since late January. Kite was seventh last week in the Memorial, and that was his worst in a month and a half. Watson won the Masters and seems to be in the hunt in every event he enters.

The three, all of whom play their best on the more difficult courses, have won five tournaments this season and have combined money-winnings of $631,000.

Floyd, enjoying the best season of his 19-year career, has finished in the top 10 in nine of 13 starts. Kite is nine of 14 and Watson, tied for third last week in the Memorial, is eight of 13.

They face an international field of 156 that lost a little quality to a wedding in Pensacola, Fla. Bruce Lietzke, the leading money-winner this year, was married Tuesday night to Rose Nelson. Jerry Pate's sister-in-law, and will not be here. Pate, Ben Crenshaw and Bill Rogers all were members of the wedding party and also are skipping this event.

Ron Streck, winner of the Houston Open, withdrew from the field Wednesday. Lee Trevino and Keith Fergus, the Memorial champion, also are absentees.

Pampa rodeo roundup

Pampa's Jo Linda Lowrey took third in goat tying and fifth in breakaway roping in the Canadian Tri-State Rodeo last weekend.

Lee Lowrey, also of Pampa, placed fifth and sixth in bareback.

Next weekend, Pampa High will compete in another Tri-State rodeo at Guymon.

Lena Stewart is one of the top five contestants in the queen contest June 4-6 at the Tri-State finals in Amarillo.

Jo Linda Lowrey will participate in the state rodeo finals next month at Seguin. She qualified in three events (goat tying, breakaway roping, and barrel racing) during the Region 1 qualifying rodeo.

Elston Rice and Billy Kincannon of McLean will also be going to state in the boys' division. Rice will be competing in bullriding while Kincannon qualified in steer wrestling.

PLAYER HOBBIES
NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League players have some unusual hobbies, according to the league office.

Place-kicker Toni Fritsch of Houston collects antiques. Tom Glassie, an offensive guard for Denver, has a collection of toy soldiers. Defensive End Ken Johnson of Buffalo has a lot of old coins.

Rangers make it five in a row

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — For seven weeks of the 1981 season, the most important weapon in Ferguson Jenkins' pitching arsenal was missing in action.

He still possessed the dazzling array of pitches, but the pinpoint control that made those pitches so effective had deserted him. Until Tuesday night.

He went eight innings against the Minnesota Twins, struck out eight and gave up no walks, and the Rangers won it 2-1.

But after the game, Jenkins sounded almost apologetic over waiting this long to regain his effectiveness.

"I felt like I wanted to make amends," he said, referring to six previous outings that had been shaky. At best. "The last six games may have been the worst I have ever had. I just didn't have the control to carry me through the late innings."

Jenkins got an early two-run lead on Pat

Putnam's solo home run in the second inning and Mario Mendoza's run-scoring single in the fourth, and he was in no trouble until Minnoesta rallied in the seventh inning.

"I kept their hits spaced out well until the seventh, and then they got three in a row," said Jenkins, 3-3.

Three straight singles resulted in a run by Twins third baseman John Castino and put Danny Goodwin on third and Pete Mackanin on first with no outs.

"I knew I had to have the strikeout in that spot, and I got it," Jenkins said. He struck out pinch hitter Hosken Powell and Mackanin, running on the pitch, was thrown out at second by Texas catcher Jim Sundberg.

"When Sunny (Sundberg) threw out Mackanin, that was a big, big play. It picked me up and I determined not to let down again," said Jenkins.

He struck out Sal Butera, stranding Goodwin at third; and ended the inning.

In the ninth, Castino again opened with a single and Jenkins gave way to knuckleball specialist Charlie Hough.

The first batter against Hough, Goodwin, hit a high chopper right down the first base line.

"I thought it was a foul ball," Goodwin said later. "He (first-base umpire Dale Ford) didn't say anything, fair or foul. He didn't make any gestures — I thought it was foul."

He was wrong. Putnam fielded the ball and forced Castino at second. Then, when Goodwin failed to run from the batter's box, the Rangers converted an easy double play.

When Hough got Mackanin on a called third strike, the Rangers had their fifth win in a row, and — perhaps more important to the team — Jenkins was back in control.

Pampa Hardware slips by Cree

Pampa Hardware and Cree Company were locked in a 10-inning struggle Tuesday night before a two-rbi single by Devin Cross gave Hardware a 7-6 win in the Babe Ruth 14-15 year-old division Tuesday at Optimist Park.

Pampa Hardware, the league leader and defending champions, pounded 11 hits, but couldn't shake stubborn Cree until Cross' base rap to left field with one out in the top of the tenth broke open a deadlocked game.

Still, Cree almost pulled it out in the bottom of the tenth, but could score only one more run after putting four runners on.

Hardware was leading, 4-1, when Cree exploded for four runs in the fifth inning to take command.

Hardware bounced back to knot the score at 5-all in the sixth on an rbi-single by Randy Harris.

Cross paced Hardware's hitting attack with two singles and a double in five trips. Harris and Shawn Clinkingbeard added two hits each.

David Parr led Cree with three singles in five at bats.

Winning pitcher was Dennis Kuempel, who allowed just one hit over the last 4 1/2 innings while striking out nine and walking four. Eric Quarles and Devin Cross also saw mound duty.

Marty Cross was charged with the loss after going 9 and a third frames before developing control problems in the tenth. Cross struck out 10 and walked six. He was relieved by Troy Beggs with one out in the top of the tenth.

First National Bank meet the Lions at 6 p.m. Thursday in 14-15 division play. Grant Supply and J.T. Richardson follow at 8:30 p.m. in a 13 and under game.

TL roundup

By The Associated Press
The Amarillo Gold Sox bunched together enough runs at the start and finish for a sweep of their Texas League doubleheader with the Shreveport Captains Tuesday night. Amarillo won the opener, 5-1, and took the nightcap, 3-0.

In other Texas League action, Jackson shut out San Antonio, 3-0. Tulsa beat Midland, 4-3, and El Paso defeated Arkansas, 7-4.

The Gold Sox scored three runs in the first inning of the first game and went on to take a 5-1 victory.

Jackson pitcher Dave Garrelts had a no-hitter going for six innings and retired 19 of the first 20 batters who faced him, but it wasn't enough as the Gold Sox scored three runs in the seventh inning for a 3-0 victory over the Mets.

READY TO GO. Sandra Farrah of Celanese looks like she's prepared to take off for second on the next pitch during a National Little League game with Dixie Tuesday night. Sandra Farrah became the first girl to hit a home run in Pampa little league history last week. However, Celanese fell to Dixie, 7-6, last night.

Little league baseball roundup

Dixie Parts captured the first half of the National Little League championship with a hard-earned 7-6 victory over Celanese Tuesday night.

Winning pitcher Brett Mitchell punched a two-out single to right field that brought in Terry Stroud, who had led off the inning with a single, and took second on a wild pitch.

Losing pitcher Greg Clayton had another fine outing as he struck out 14, walked five, and yielded five hits. He gave up a home run to Dixie shortstop Cliff Medley.

Mitchell matched Clayton is strikeouts (14), but he also walked 14. He gave up only three hits, however, with Clayton getting them all.

OCAW won the early game, 17-12, with John Thomas getting the win for his third victory of the season. Thomas also hit his third homer of the year.

In Monday night games,

Moose downed Dunlap, 12-5, with J.J. Jones getting the win. Jones led his teammates at the plate with a double and single.

In the late game, Glo-Valve won over Duncan by a 15-5 count. J.R. Presley went the distance for the win.

Dixie has a 7-0 record at the end of the first half.

They are followed by OCAW 6-1, Celanese 5-2, Glo-Valve 4-3, Moose 2-5, Duncan 2-5, Dunlap 2-5, and Cabot 0-7.

Second-half action starts Thursday night with Glo-Valve playing Dunlap, and Moose taking on Duncan.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Danger Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

Here are nine critical symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations which are usually the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these usually spells back trouble.

(1) Paresthesias (see above) (2) Headaches (3) Painful joints (4) Numbness in the arms or hands (5) Loss of sleep (6) Stiffness in the neck (7) Pain between the shoulders (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals indicate that your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these danger signals, call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

Dear Abby

Kids hope mom's 'habit' won't last

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a healthy, vibrant widow of 50. Dad has been dead for 12 years, and during that time my mother devoted her life to raising my brother, my sister and me. She is an R.N. with special training in intensive-care nursing.

So what's the problem? Mom wants to join a convent. I am overjoyed and feel that she has the right to follow the dictates of her conscience.

Mom has no encumbrances, as we kids are all raised and have families of our own. The order she has chosen has accepted her. The hang-up is my brother and sister. They are adamant in their opposition to Mom's decision. They act as though she is joining some kind of kooky cult!

It's tearing Mom apart. She wants so much to pursue her calling, but she wants the approval of all her children. How can I convince my brother and sister that Mom has the right to become a nun?

LOVING DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Instead of trying to convince your brother and sister that your mother has the

Registration June 1 for next WTSU term

CANYON — Registration for the first summer school session at West Texas State University will be on Monday, June 1 in the Activities Center.

Class instruction will begin Tuesday, June 2, which also is the last day for payment of fees without a $5 penalty. The first summer term will continue through Friday, July 3.

A variety of workshops, seminars and night courses are available during the first term in addition to courses during the day. Summer school classes begin at 7:30 a.m. and meet each weekday, unless otherwise noted.

The Department of Curriculum and Instruction in the College of Education will offer "Teaching Reading Through Children's Literature," June 2 - 18, taught by Claud Zevely, associate professor of education, from 12:45 p.m. to 3:50 p.m.;

"Teaching the Mentally Retarded," June 3 - 18, Dr. Wilma Jo Bush, professor of education, 11 a.m. to 2:15 p.m.;

"Diagnostic Teaching of Reading," June 18 - July 3, Dr. Helton Wilbur, associate professor of education, 12:45 p.m. to 3:50 p.m.

Other workshops in the College of Education include "Using Newspapers in the Classroom," Dr. Dan White, professor of education, June 14 - 17, admission by application only; "Human Relations Education Seminar," Dr. Jack Nance, associate professor of education, June 2 - 18, 9:15 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.;

"Multi - Culture Education," Nance, June 18 - July 3, 9:15 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Also offered are "Practicum in Teaching the Intellectually and Sensory Impaired," Dr. Jane Norris, assistant professor of education, June 18 to July 6, 11 a.m. to 2:15 p.m., and "The User and His Information Needs," a library science course, June 2 - 18, taught by Jackie Patterson of the Canyon High School library.

Evening courses are taught two nights each week from 6:30 p.m. to 10:05 p.m.

During the first summer term, 14 evening classes will be offered in accounting, business administration, business education, economics, English, health education, history, industrial education and technology, political science, psychology and speech.

Registration schedule for the first summer term is according to the first letter of the student's last name. All registration for the first term will be conducted on Monday, June 1.

right to become a nun, convince your mother that she doesn't need the approval of her children to follow the dictates of her heart and conscience.

DEAR ABBY: I think it's disgusting the way those big-league baseball players chew tobacco. My husband and I used to enjoy sitting down with a snack to watch the games on TV, but it's so unappetizing to see those baseball players spitting a stream of tobacco juice all over the place, we hardly watch now.

Abby, why do baseball players chew tobacco?
UPSET STOMACHS IN ALLENTOWN PA.

DEAR U.S. IN PA.: I don't know, but I'll ask. And if I get any juicy answers I'll let you know. (Steve Garvey, George Brett, Rod Carew, where are you when I need you?)

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with Elsie, the 68-year-old widow who had a crush on her 61-year-old lawyer. She had never gone out with him, but she brought him brownies once and sent him a valentine.

My lawyer is also a bachelor, but I've never tried brownies or valentines. I just keep making out new wills. Soon he will have all my money for drawing new wills.

Poor Elsie asked if there was any harm in dreaming. She said it took her 25 years to get over George Brent. Have you any suggestions for me? It took me 30 years to get over Robert Taylor.

HAPLESS WIDOW IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

DEAR HAPLESS: Hang in there, honey! (I'm still not over Tyrone Power.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old straight-A student. I, along with everyone else in the class, recently had to write 100 times, "I will be quiet during class time," because the majority of the class was talking. (I wasn't.)

I don't think that was fair, and I politely told the teacher so. She said that was the only way she could get everybody to be quiet.

Abby, don't you think teachers can find a more just and effective way to keep the kids from talking?
INNOCENT YET ARMSORE

DEAR INNOCENT: A more "just" way, perhaps, but possibly not one that's more effective.

"THE WARMING CUP," from the illustrations for the souvenir program for the 16th season of the musical drama, "TEXAS." The artist is William Moyers of Albuquerque, N.M. "TEXAS" will be presented in Palo Duro Canyon June 17 - Aug. 22. For more information, write Box 268, Canyon, TX 79015 or call 806 - 655 - 2181.

Artist from New Mexico to illustrate "TEXAS" program

CANYON — Each year the producers of "Texas," the musical drama in Palo Duro Canyon, choose a western artist to illustrate the drama's souvenir program. This year he is a man who knows horses, and this knowledge of their moods and gaits, their work and rest, shows on every page of the program.

Born in Georgia, William Moyers of Albuquerque, N.M. first discovered the West when he went to the San Louis Valley of Colorado. He never lived in the South again. He broke horses, worked on hay crews and helped out at stock auctions to work his way through Adams State College, where he now serves on the foundation board and was named a most distinguished alumnus. He graduated in 1939.

Moyers was already fascinated with the challenge of putting the cowboy life on paper and went to seek more training in art at the Otis Art Institute in L.A., and employment at the Walt Disney Studios, where he first learned how professionals work.

He taught school, served from private to captain in the army and finally became involved in book illustrations. A prize winner for the limited Editions Club, he wrote and illustrated "Famous Indian Tribes" for Random House and "Famous Heroes of the West" for Grosset & Dunlap.

WTSU to offer summer art courses

CANYON — Persons who enjoy painting with the scenic atmosphere of Palo Duro Canyon and who tour art galleries on the West Coast may earn course credit during the first summer term at West Texas State University.

The Department of Art in the School of Fine Arts will offer three workshops. Registration for the workshops and other WTSU summer courses is Monday, June 1 in the Activities Center, with class instruction beginning Tuesday, June 2. The first summer term will continue through Friday, July 3.

David Rindlisbacher, associate professor of art, will instruct a course in outdoor landscape painting at Palo Duro Canyon. The class will meet Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 10:50 a.m.

One semester hour of credit may be taken June 1 - 8, and two hours of credit may be earned June 1 - 16. Students will be allowed to paint in oil, acrylic and watercolor. The oil painting and open media painting classes will be for three semester hours' credit each.

John Malveto, assistant professor of art who has lived and worked in the San Diego, Calif., area, will instruct students in the use of oil and acrylic painting, pencil, pen and pastel during a landscape painting class at San Diego.

The class will meet Monday through Friday from June 1 through July 3; housing will be near San Diego State University.

The WTSU art department will also offer a one - hour credit course for students to tour a variety of art museums and galleries on the California coast between San Diego and San Francisco.

The "West Coast Gallery and Museum Experience" course will be July 6 - 10, with a week of research into the cultural and artistic resources in California.

Wine imports skyrocketing

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

America has developed a taste for wine. In barely two decades, wine shipments in the United States have almost tripled and per-capita consumption has more than doubled. Marvin R. Shanken, editor and publisher of "Impact," a newsletter on wine and distilled spirits, said the fastest-growing segment of the market is white wine.

"There are more occasions to drink white wine because it's also used as a cocktail beverage," he said. "It's refreshing. It's cold. It's light. People like the taste. And it's certainly fashionable."

Wine shipments in the United States in 1960 totaled 163 million gallons, the equivalent of less than one gallon per person. Last year, Shanken said, shipments totaled an estimated 475.8 million gallons, equal to just over two gallons per person.

Two decades ago, 74 percent of the table wine sold in the United States was red; 17 percent was white and 9 percent was rose. In 1980, white wine accounted for 54 percent of the market, compared to 26 percent for red and 20 percent for rose. In the last 10 years alone, white wine shipments have increased sixfold.

Table wines — generally dry and relatively low in calories and alcohol — have grown in popularity at the expense of sweet dessert wines. "In 1970, dessert wine held 28 percent of the market," Shanken said. "Last year, it held only 9.5 percent. This scenario reflects the changing American taste preference..."

Why the switch? "A more sophisticated palate appreciates a dryer wine," Shanken said.

He said a recent study by National Family Opinion Inc. of Toledo, Ohio, that the biggest wine consumer is a woman aged 30 to 39, living in the West with a household income of $25,000 or more. She drinks wine mostly at home, with dinner.

Shanken said consumers do not have to spend a lot of money on wine. "You can find much - more - than - adequate everyday wines for $2 to $5 a bottle," he said.

Most of the wine sold in the United States is produced here, but imports have been growing. In 1960, for example, imports accounted for only 16 percent of the table wine sold across the country. Last year, the imports had a 25 percent share of the market.

Sales of Italian wines in particular have increased. From 1979 to 1980, Shanken said, the volume of Italian wine imported into the United States rose about 26 percent. French wines, in contrast, which have been getting much more expensive in recent years have been declining in popularity. The volume of French wine imported into the United States dropped by about 12 percent from 1979 to 1980.

The single biggest source of wine sold in the United States is California, although the state's share of the market has fluctuated slightly over the last 10 years. In 1970, California produced 71 percent of the table wine shipped in the United States.

Wheat germ mask

If your skin tends to be dry, treat yourself to a weekly mask that nourishes and moisturizes your complexion. Place one tablespoon each of raw wheat germ and water in a bowl. Let soak until wheat germ is soft. Add one teaspoon egg yolk and beat together until fairly smooth. Pat on clean face and neck, wait one minute, then apply another layer. Let dry 20 minutes. Remove with a clean face cloth.

Lip tricks

Here are some tips from the makeup experts on how to use lipsticks to look your prettiest. Choose a shade that's compatible with your skin color — warm colors for warm tones, cool for cool tones. If the color changes on your lips, try applying foundation before lip color. Shop around until you find a formula that feels creamy and glides easily over your lips. What works best for a friend may be wrong for you.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

May 28, 1981

The coming year should be both a busy and exciting one for you. You are likely to become involved in a number of ventures, each of a different nature.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In career matters today even persons who normally back you may side against you. Don't do anything that could get them on your case. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In situations which you deem important, victory is not likely to come without a struggle today. Be sure to armor yourself properly to the fray.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Joint ventures will have to be handled with extreme tact today, or you could jeopardize valuable associations. Avoid erratic actions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be afraid to defend your position today if you feel you are getting a bum deal in a business agreement. If you don't speak up, no one will.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should misunderstanding arise with co-workers today, strive to patch things up quickly. Disagreements could fester if not resolved promptly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is a good chance you could have extra responsibilities to contend with today. They're apt to be frustrating, but you'll know how to cope with them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Competitive activities could appeal to you today. You should do rather well, provided you don't get uptight and negate your winning instincts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you expect to accomplish several things today, you'd better set up an agenda and stick to it. Some unusual distractions may occur to get you off-course.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Normally you're not too material-minded, but today could be an exception. You might find yourself in a dispute over a mundane issue.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't chuck the towel in early today if things appear to be going against you, especially if money is involved. Events could take a sudden advantageous turn.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take nothing for granted in any personal dealings today, whether they be large or small. Conditions are more complicated than they appear on the surface.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even though you'll be desirous of helping others today, be careful of becoming involved in their sticky situations. You might bite off more than you can chew.

Eleven workers hospitalized after fiery refinery explosion

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP) — Eleven men injured in a fiery explosion triggered by escaping gases at the Navajo Refining Co. plant here remained hospitalized today, one of them in critical condition.

A total of 17 workers were injured in the explosion and fire that rocked the large refinery Tuesday. Six of the men were later treated and released.

The two most seriously injured workers, Freddy Juarez, 29, and Gary Molina, 22, were transported to the burn and trauma unit at the University of New Mexico Hospital in Albuquerque.

Molina, who suffered third-degree burns over 90 percent of his body, was in critical condition today. Juarez had third-degree burns over 40 percent of his body and was in serious but stable condition, said hospital spokeswoman Carolyn Tinker.

Bill Gray, general manager for marketing supply for the company, said the explosion occurred about 7:45 a.m. Tuesday when propane and butane escaped and ignited while employees were working on a pumping unit in the new catalytic converter. The converter had been shut down Sunday because of a leak.

Gray said no estimate of damages had been made. He said the electrical control equipment was damaged, and estimated the fluid catalytic cracker unit of the plant, where the accident occurred, would be shut down for two to three weeks.

"Our safety committee is investigating this incident," Gray said.

A worker who declined to be identified described the accident scene as a "wall of flames."

"When we saw our brothers hurting, we pulled out who we could but after that we had to run," said the man.

Nine men were admitted to Artesia General Hospital, where they were being treated for smoke and gas inhalation and various burn injuries. All were reported in satisfactory condition. Six others were treated and released.

Gray said seven or eight people were working in the area at the time of the explosion, but that others ran to the scene to help.

Fire Chief Ray Castleberry said a fireball shot out from the site some 200 to 300 feet and the entire eastside of the plant was engulfed by the flames, which rose at least 100 feet in the air.

"We're very fortunate that we got out with only injuries so far," said Castleberry.
