President Lashes GOP; Says Isolationism Is U. S. Suicide

ST. LOUIS —(P)— President Truman lashed out at Republican critics last night and declared that a vote for "isolationism" next Tuesday would be a vote for "national suicide" in the face of Communist imperialism.

In a free-swinging campaign address, the heavily-guarded President said American leadership to repel aggression in Korea is "the greatest step toward world peace that has been taken in my lifetime."

And he said the Democratic Party "has done more to defeat communism in this country than any other group, public or private."

Mr. Truman said isolationism and "greater strength and prosperity" are the main campaign issues.

Stassen 'Replies' Truman's Attack

NEW HAVEN, Conn. —(P)— Republican Leader Harold E. Stassen charged last night that because the Truman administration "coddled" Chinese Communists, American troops are now suffering their heaviest casualties of the Korean war.

Replying to President Truman's campaign speech in St. Louis, Stassen declared that thousands of American young men "are locked in a bloody battle with one hundred thousand Chinese Communists in the rugged mountains of North Korea."

Last week, he said, American casualties have been higher than any week since the start of the Korean war. Then he added:

"I solemnly charge that this is the direct and terrible result of five years of building up Chinese Communist strength through the blinded bewilderer American Asiatic policy under our present national administration."

"It has been five years of coddling Chinese Communists, five years of undermining General MacArthur, five years of smugly friendly freedom-loving states, and five years of appeasing the arch-Communist Mao Tse-tung," leader of the Chinese Reds.

Stassen, 1948 GOP presidential aspirant, also lit into the home-front policies of the Democrats under President Truman. He accused the administration of "careless, wasteful financial policies" and of taking the American people down a "slippery inflation path."

"The hour has come when, for the good of America, a sweeping Republican congressional victory should be voted from coast to coast," Stassen declared in a GOP bid for control of the new Congress.

Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, was booked on a nationwide radio hookup (Mutual Network) immediately after the conclusion of Mr. Truman's speech from St. Louis. The speeches built up to the campaign climax Tuesday, election day.

DC-3s Land in Pampa Nov. 8

Keith Kable, president of Central Airlines, has announced that the pre-inaugural flight to Pampa will land at the Municipal Airport at 2:46 p. m. Wednesday. Special welcoming ceremonies to be planned by Pampa Chamber of Commerce and city officials, Monday, will be conducted at the airport at the time of landing.

Kable stated that two DC-3s will land at the airport and that Pampa delegates have been invited to meet the flight at Woodward, Okla., and fly back to Pampa. Complete details will be worked out at the Monday meeting.

Officers Pick up Amarilloan, Drugs

Police were on their toes Saturday, with the arrest of a man under the influence of narcotics.

The man, an Amarillo insurance salesman, was arrested in connection with charges of "driving while under the influence of narcotics."

Officer Joe Wilkinson noticed a man driving his car on the wrong side of the street. Nearly hitting two other drivers, the man was weaving about the street.

"I couldn't smell any liquor on him, but he acted like he was drunk, so I thought I had better take him down to the station."

Found in the front seat of the automobile was one bottle of wine, partially full, almost 1000 grains of phenobarbital, numerous hypodermic preparations, and other drugs.

One-Hour Program Aired Here Today Supports Ben Guill

"Panhandle Roundup" a full one-hour program in support of the re-election of Rep. Ben Guill, will be heard over a 10-station Panhandle radio hookup to day from 1 p. m. until 2 p. m. The program will originate from the studios of KPDM in Pampa.

Guill will give a short talk during the program, which will also include brief talks by more than 20 outstanding citizens from all over the Panhandle, all Democrats, including mayors of some of the Panhandle's leading communities.

Included on the program will be Dr. Douglas Nelson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Jones Seltz, commander of the Pampa VFW post, and Mickey Ledrick, campaign manager for Guill. Clyde Warwick, publisher of The Canyon News, and E. G. Schuhart, mayor of Dalhart.

Said Ledrick, "These are just a few of the people who consider Ben Guill's candidacy a crusade for agency and independence in the Panhandle."

Ken Palmer, former manager of station KPDM, will fly in from Albuquerque, to act as narrator for the special program.

Stiffening UN Battle Lines Beat Back Commie Attack

Six Chinese Units Believed in Action

SEOUL, Korea —(P)— United Nations troops, forming a solid new battlefront in North Korea, fought off renewed attacks Saturday from a revitalized Korean Red army bolstered by Chinese Communist forces estimated to equal three to six divisions.

An American officer said South Korean army authorities estimated that six Chinese Communist divisions had entered Korea from Manchuria to oppose the UN forces.

The statement came shortly after other American officers announced that one Chinese Red division was battling the allies in northeast Korea and a equivalent of two other Chinese divisions were fighting allied forces in the northwest.

An American spokesman for the Korean military advisory group said Korean Republic officers placed the number of Chinese Communist soldiers already committed to the Korean war at 75,000.

A high-ranking officer of the U. S. Eighth Army said the Chinese Reds have probably 300,000 troops, deployed along the Korea-Manchurian boundary and perhaps about 1,000,000 more within "committing distance" — ready to strike from their present locations.

The Chinese units identified in the northwest are only of battalion size, the officer said, but the total number of battalions identified indicates the Chinese strength there amounts to two divisions.

So far, he added, there is no "pattern of proof" that the Chinese are fighting as regimental or divisional units.

A U. S. Marine spokesman, however, said a full Chinese Communist division operating openly as one unit, was identified in northeast Korea, around the Changjin reservoir.

The marine said the division was composed of the Chinese 37th, 371st and 372nd regiments. General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters said allied withdrawal strategy was "almost complete" in the big danger spot of the new UN front around Unsan and Kunu island from the west coast.

Field dispatches also indicated the situation there was about stabilized.

It was in this area that Korean (See BATTLE LINES, Page 2)

Politicos Await Voters' Decisions

WASHINGTON —(P)— The 1950 election campaign, perhaps the gaudiest and bitterest ever waged in America in an off-year, drove to a virtual finish this weekend.

Political strategists, who had used everything from helicopters and television to comic books and plain old-fashioned mud-slinging to impress the voters, settled back nervously to await the ballot box verdict next Tuesday.

Few politicians were at all sure of the outcome of a struggle of incalculable importance to the country and the world. At stake in the voting are: Thirty-six of the 96 Senate seats; 432 of the 435 House seats and 32 state governorships. (Republicans elected a governor and three House members in Maine in September.)

Though the issues were clouded and complex, one question before the electorate in many contests was this: Are Truman "Fair Dealers" or their foes better fitted to steer the nation in the "time of troubles" that may be ahead.

Spurred by war in Korea and the possibility of more Communist aggressions to come, the nation was arming and mobilizing, facing higher and higher taxes, perhaps years of belt-tightening and controls. It was the voters' task to pick an 82nd Congress that would best cope with these problems.

Republicans fought to gain control of Congress, which they lost in 1948. To do that they need a net gain of seven seats in the Senate, 49 in the House. As for governorships, the Republicans must pick up five to have an even break with the Democrats' 24 to 24.

Most campaign managers warily avoided prediction of a sweep. For one thing, they remembered the fate of the pollsters in 1948. For another they wanted to keep the heat on the electorate to get out and vote.

GOP Chairman Guy Gabrielson said his party would pick up at least five Senate seats and 25 to 30 in the House. His opposite number in the Democratic camp, (See POLITICOS, Page 2)

Shift Made in County Polls

There are several changes in the judges and places of voting in the coming election, according to County Judge Bruce Parker. Generally, all public schools in Pampa will provide election boxes, as arrangements have already been made with Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools.

Voting will be conducted in LeRoy in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

Box 13, located at the Phillips Community Hall at the Phillips plant, will have a new judge, however. James Goucher will replace A. A. Kelly in that area.

Box 18, Carpenter's Union Hall, will substitute Mrs. Jess Clay as judge.

The box at the Farrington School will be changed, as the building has been torn down. Voters in the Farrington area will vote at the Laketon School in Laketon.

Voters in McLean will have one change. The Methodist Church in McLean has been substituted for the Dysart Motor Co.

Under the new plan, the school under attack will be the subject of Gov. Allan Shivers' weekly report to the people Monday night.

An announcement from his office said the talk would represent "an important phase of Texas civil defense preparations."

Rogers Lays Down Barrage; VFW Commander Answers

Last minute fireworks in the congressional race between Representative Ben Guill, Republican incumbent, and Walter Rogers, Democratic nominee, began to go off late last week and were climaxed (prior to press time Saturday) with a broadcast at 12:45 p. m. Saturday by Jones Seitz, commander of the local VFW post, replying to Rogers' Friday broadcast.

The word battle started after a full page advertisement on behalf of Guill appeared in an Amarillo paper. The advertisement, in short, declared that Rogers would have to go along Democratic Party lines if elected.

Rogers took exception to the ad and changed the original draft of his Friday night speech to answer it.

Rogers charged Panhandle Republicans with spending huge sums of money on the campaign, "invading" civic organizations in the Panhandle "under the guise of non-political activities, criticizing, besmirching and vilifying, but never constructing, holding their conventions 'behind closed door' while at the same time 'invading' Democratic precinct and county conventions."

Rogers also brought a part of Guill's voting record under fire. Without mentioning the candidate by name but by referring to the "Republican vote," Rogers declared:

"... They have told you time and again they were against coddling Communists... but the Republican vote was cast against William L. Patterson for contempt of Congress." Rogers added, "The Republican vote was cast against citing Edward A. Rumley for contempt of Congress."

Seitz jumped on Rogers Saturday when Guill's name was mentioned in connection with an alleged Communist.

Seitz labeled Rogers' speech as "poisonous and untruthful" and "one of the most vicious and dastardly pieces of political poison I have ever known."

He continued, "I am an angry man today and every angry man I know is an angry man."

"The people of the Panhandle were subjected to a trade in which Walter Rogers attacked the Americanism of Ben Guill. Let's look at the facts. Mr. Walter Rogers stayed right here in Pampa when Ben Guill — and hundreds of other men of his age — were fighting for him overseas."

He continued, citing Guill's war record and quoted the citation accompanying Guill's Bronze Star medal he was awarded for volunteering and helping to carry Army casualties through hazardous areas and then was wounded on his last trip by shrapnel. Then Seitz added:

"Does that sound like a bad American to you? ... How low can politicians descend. During this entire campaign Mr. Rogers has made violent personal attacks on Ben Guill."

"Ladies and gentlemen," Seitz continued, "right now, to day, paid poison spreaders are working the southern counties of this district, spreading lies about Ben Guill. These men are paid employees of a big corporation, a corporation for whom Walter Rogers is a lobbyist."

"I say that any man who will accept money to spread poison against another is almost as low as a man who will pay him money to do it."

"Ben Guill is a fine American. He has pledged his allegiance to his flag with his own blood. He has been a fine American congressman. He is above the muck and mire of personal ambition and I, and every other veteran I know, am going to back him to the limit. This is more than a matter of parties — this is a matter of men and of principles," Seitz concluded.

Rogers, in his Friday speech, added:

"The Republican vote... was cast on two occasions against the stopping and controlling of gambling speculations in food commodities produced by the farmer. You will recall that it was this type of gambling that ruined the farmers in 1932."

On party line and tax voting, Rogers said:

Supplies Said Holding Factor in Korea War

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea —(P)— Could the Americans have pushed to the Manchurian border and thus forestalled the Chinese Red intervention that has turned a nearly-won war into an uncertain future of bitter fighting?

In this country of horrible mountain roads and tough supply problems, there might have been that chance, but...

When the Eighth Army was chasing the broken Red Korean army north from the Pusan perimeter in the southeast, it had to carry all its weapons, ammunition, fuel and food all the way from Pusan.

While the Eighth Army was chasing, the U.S. First Marine Division was withdrawn from its exploitation of pursuit positions north of Seoul and loaded into ships at Inchon, Seoul's port.

Inchon harbor was tied up nearly ten days in taking up supplies instead of bringing them in.

When the First Marine and Seventh Infantry Divisions were afloat, they were carried around Korea to the northeast port of Wonsan.

South Korean Republicans already had occupied Wonsan, but the Reds had so heavily mined the harbor that transports were steamed up and down six days before the Marines could land.

The Seventh Division was carried on north to Iwon and landed there instead of at Wonsan to try to make advance supply lines.

The already difficult supply problem in Korea was compounded because the landing vessels needed to haul gasoline and bullets cruised so long aimlessly offshore.

Thus, with its supplies moving over bad roads and by slow trains over damaged railways from Pusan, the Eighth Army finally ran out of gas.

Beyond Pyongyang, the Red capital which fell Oct. 19, the rate of allied advances was determined strictly by available gasoline. Most of it was delivered by plane.

Two American divisions, the Second and the 25th, had to be left in South Korea because there was no gasoline supply coming into Inchon to feed them. (See KOREA WAR, Page 2)

Absentees File 157 Ballots

The absentee voting phase of the Nov. 7 general election is now history with a record vote of 157 ballots cast in person and through the mails.

The deadline for absentee voting passed at midnight Friday.

However, 24 ballots of the 51 mailed have yet to be returned to the county clerk's office. Any of these bear a postmark date prior to midnight Friday they will be considered valid and will be counted.

In the 20-day period allowed for absentee balloting, 130 voted in person and 27 ballots were returned through the mails.

In the special beer legalization for Justice of the Peace Precinct 5, McLean, Alaneed and vicinity, only one person voted in person Friday. Three ballots were mailed. Of these, two were returned, but were illegally notarized and cannot be counted. The illegality of the notarization was noticed when county officials saw that a Gray County notary signed the affidavit instead of a notary outside the county according to absentee voting laws of the state. The remaining ballot has not been returned.

Baptists Flocking To Fort Worth for Annual Convention

FORT WORTH —(P)— Thousands of Texas Baptists will be headed for Fort Worth today for the 102nd annual session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and two of its auxiliaries, the State Brotherhood and Woman's Missionary Union.

They'll find the latch key out and the doors wide open for a welcome typical of the city "Where the West Begins."

Local arrangements committees have gone all out to provide all the comforts and conveniences to care for the thousands of messengers (delegates) and visitors.

And those in charge of the programs for the three meetings have obtained an array of outstanding speakers, including U.S. Senator Tom Connally and the most-talked about evangelist of the day, Billy Graham, who closes the convention Thursday night with a youth rally sermon.

Sessions will be held in the Will Rogers Coliseum and Auditorium.

William Boyce, predicted that his party will gain strength in both houses if there is a "great turn of events."

Mr. Taft's opponent Truman stuck his neck out. It will be a Democratic landslide, he said. That would be a rare event, for the party in power almost always slip back in off-years.

Guesses as to the size of the vote ranged from 42,000 to 15,000, either of which would be an off-year record.

Of those millions, one group was a prime puzzle to the politicians. What were the farmers thinking these November nights as the harvest moon shone on their fields? Would they repeat the history of 1948 when so many of them left the Republican standard and helped elect Truman?

For the nation as a whole, the picture was scrambled by the fact that no hard and cast line can be drawn between parties. For example, "Fair Dealers" were not likely to throw their hats in the air at the expected victory of Democratic Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, who has opposed so many things dear to their hearts.

Nor was the Republican old guard apt to dance in the streets if Republican Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon wins re-election.

But in some places the fight was clear cut. Notably in Ohio where Senator Robert A. Taft, often called "Mr. Republican," was in a hot fight for a third Senate term. There would be joy indeed in the White House if Taft, a leading GOP presidential possibility in 1952, could be re-elected from the Senate scene.

The CIO, AFL and other labor unions passed one of the fiercest campaigns in history against Taft, co-author of the Taft-Hartley Act they hate. An "American Fascist," they called him a stooge of the National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce.

Taft fought back at what he called Truman "socialism." The only issue, he said, was whether an independent, or a red stamp, Congress will be in power in the next two years.

Democrats feel better about the Korean war as an issue since Mr. Taft's end run there played

BATTLE LINES

Chinese Reds had trapped parts of two U. S. First Cavalry division regiments and slashed to pieces elements of the South Korean Sixth Division.

At least half of the cavalry division's Eighth Regiment had been captured from a Red trap springing Thursday south of Unsan. An Eighth Army spokesman said there was reason to believe that those still trapped would make their way out.

There was no further word from another First Cavalry unit, about half a battalion, trapped west of Unsan.

The First Cavalry Division had gone to the aid of the South Korean Sixth Division when both were hit sharply by a strong Red counterblow Thursday.

Generally, the new allied front in northwest Korea followed a line beginning at Chongju on the northwest coast and running northeastward, just north of the Chongchong River.

The line held firm under Red pressure. Only slight changes were being made as UN forces shifted from their onetime running advance to a solid defense front.

A U. S. First Corps spokesman said Red pressure existed all along the Chongchong River line but "it is not yet heavy."

The line, the spokesman said, was drawn for the next UN action as well as for defense reasons.

administration foreign policy, particularly in the Far East.

He said "the whole burden of redeeming the blunders in blood is thrust upon American armed forces weakened by a short-sighted, socially minded national administration."

The "mistakes" of the administration in foreign policy are not relegated to the past, Stassen said.

"The startling facts are that the same kind of mistakes are still being made," he added.

Elaborating, Stassen said it had "just been revealed" that when Mr. Truman last June ordered the U. S. Seventh Fleet to safeguard Formosa during the Korean fighting, "he also ordered the fleet to break the Chinese Nationalist blockade of the Communist Chinese coastline." He added:

"As a result, supplies for the Communist Chinese war machine have been flowing in, and are flowing in today in ships of every description, including Russian freighters."

As for Mr. Truman's trip to the Pacific Island of Wake last month to confer with General MacArthur, it was "staged as a political escapade to obtain publicity" for the current political campaign, Stassen declared.

Italian-born Pontecorvo recently resigned his position with the British Atomic Research Department and was last seen in Stockholm, Sweden, on Sept. 2.

munic imperialism to gobble up the rest of the world.

"If that should happen, the U. S. would be left alone to face the threat of Communist aggression."

Isolationism, Mr. Truman said, is one of two main issues in this election. He continued:

"The other main issue is whether this country is going forward here at home toward greater strength and prosperity. Only if we are strong and prosperous at home can we do our part to bring about world peace."

On the domestic front, the President accused the Republicans of trying to destroy labor unions "through the infamous Taft-Hartley law" and of surrendering all along the line to "special interests."

"And just as sure as I am standing here," he said, "we are eventually going to get rid of the un-American provisions of the Taft-Hartley law."

The President laid heavy emphasis on his answer to Republican claims of communism in government.

"It is our party — the Democratic Party — that saved freedom after 1932 — when communism was feeding on the misery and despair created by 12 years of Republican misrule," Mr. Truman declared.

"It is the Democratic Party that has prosecuted communism under the law and now has the Communist leaders on the way to jail."

"It is a Democratic administration that has strengthened and united the free nations of the world to stand up and fight against communism — to stand up and fight in Korea — and to win an smashing victory over Communist aggression."

"I believe the rank and file of the Republican Party must be ashamed of the reckless tactics of some of their leaders, and will repudiate them at the polls."

Asserting the 81st Congress repaired the damage the Republicans did to farmers, Mr. Truman recalled:

"I said in this hall in 1948 that any farmer who votes for the Republican Party is voting against his own interest — and ought to have his head examined."

That was true then, and is true now."

Today, he went on, business is "better off than it ever was."

"For a long time now the Republican Party has been claiming that it was good for business," Mr. Truman said. "There is no evidence to support this claim. I am getting sick and tired of it."

He said the 81st Congress stopped Republican efforts to undermine unions, broadened and raised social security benefits and raised the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour.

He charged that the country "is on the last mile to socialism."

"What a long last mile it must be," he said. "Private corporation profits are now running at a rate of more than 40 billion dollars a year, and there are more private business enterprises than ever before. Nobody but a Republican would call that socialism."

On some domestic issues, Mr. Truman was less specific than he has been in the past.

He called for a workable health insurance system "without saying such a system must be compulsory."

He did not mention the Brannan Farm Price Support plan by name. Some Democratic candidates have backed away from this plan, although Mr. Truman has been strong for it in many previous speeches.

And he devoted a single sentence to civil rights — the issue that has embroiled him in a fight with some southern elements of his own party.

He said merely that the Democrats are going to work for their program "without discrimination on account of race, creed or color."

On this occasion Mr. Truman did not call for all-out repeal of the whole Taft-Hartley Act but predicted the repeal of its "union-busting provisions."

"The American people," the President said, "will continue to move forward — a mighty force toward peace and progress. No little group of special interests or selfish politicians is going to be able to stop us."

Sucotash, corn and beans mixed, was popular with the Incas of Peru.

Stoves Cause in Two Fires Here

The Pampa Fire Department made two runs early Saturday, the first being to the home of Ervin Pursley, 1801 Christine.

Although no fire occurred, firemen were called when a furnace motor stuck and caused a great deal of smoke to enter the house. No damage was reported.

A second run was made shortly before noon to 736 Brunson, where several articles of clothing were destroyed. Firemen reported a housewife had hung her clothing to dry over an open fire and the cloth ignited.

Eighth Army now is to protect that bridgehead until it is learned how much of the Chinese Red army will have to be fought.

Free Book on Arthritis And Rheumatism

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Nov. 5.—So successful has a specialized system proven for treating rheumatism and arthritis that an amazing new book will be sent free to any reader of this paper who will write for it.

The book entitled, "Rheumatism," fully explains why drugs and medicines give only temporary relief and fail to remove the causes of the trouble; explains how for over 31 years The Ball Clinic has helped thousands of rheumatic sufferers.

You incur no obligation in sending for this instructive book. It may be the means of saving you years of untold misery. Address your letter to The Ball Clinic, Dept. 2348, Excelsior Springs, Missouri, but be sure to write today.—adv.

Lefors School Plans Program Tuesday In Education Week

LEFORS — (Special) — An open house will be held at the school Tuesday at 8:45 p.m. in observation of American Education Week, which is November 5-11.

A program will be presented in the high school auditorium at 8:15 p.m. The play, "Defendant: The Public Schools," will be given then. The characters are

The Judge, Jackie Taylor; Mr. Grant, the attorney for the prosecution, Dickie Maples; Mr. Cary, attorney for the defense, Dickie Davis; Mr. Citizen, Edward Wiggins; Mrs. Rich, Wanda Vaughn;

Mr. Taxpayer, Bob Wilson. The play will be directed by Miss Zona May.

The girls' robed choir will sing "Let Freedom Ring," "I Hear America Singing," and "Patriot's Prayer." The chorus will be directed by Mrs. Harold Turnbo and accompanied by Geraldine Dunn. Classrooms will be open and will have displays arranged. Parents are urged to come and meet the teachers. Members of the student council will serve as guides.

Boil green snap beans whole and serve with sliced almonds that have been toasted brown in butter. To silver the almonds, cut in thin strips immediately after blanching while they are still soft.

Frances Denney OILS of the WILDERNESS THE ONLY BALANCED LIPOID PREPARATION

$5 per only $3 plus tax LIMITED QUANTITY

A beautiful skin is a young-looking skin. But it only looks young when well supplied with lipoids... the natural oils so abundant in a baby's skin.

Do you look older than you want to?

Is your skin dry?

Do you have any lines or wrinkles?

Is there a hint, perhaps, of sagginess or "crepiness" around the throat or temples?

Have time, work, and worry, illness, too much sun and wind, robbed you of young-looking beauty?

If, then, you need Oils of the Wilderness, the only correctly balanced lipoid beauty preparation.

Oils of the Wilderness can transform a tired, lined, fatigued-looking face into one which looks fresh and lovely.

Plans for future recalls of naval reserve personnel and for their release to inactive duty were announced Wednesday by the Navy. Releases are slated to begin July 1, 1951 for enlisted reservists. These plans are based upon present circumstances, which require a build-up of the fleet and supporting establishment to a new presumably stabilized level, but do not take full mobilization into account. If a new emergency is declared, mobilization procedure would be necessary and all reservists would be counted on for active duty when required.

In compliance with Department of Defense directives, reservists will henceforth get at least 30 days notice before they have to report for active duty. Vice Admiral J. W. Roper, USN, chief of naval personnel, said.

Annual competitive tests to select 1600 applicants for the naval reserve officers' training corps college program will be held Dec. 9, Eighth Naval District headquarters has announced. Application blanks are available at Navy recruiting offices and at NROTC units at Rice Institute, the University of Oklahoma, Tulane University and the University of New Mexico.

To qualify, applicants must meet physical and mental standards and pass an aptitude test. State boards will select outstanding candidates to meet quotas assigned each state and territory, the Navy said.

Beer Issue Voted In McLean Tuesday

McLEAN — (Special) — An election has been called for Tuesday, in conjunction with the general election, to vote on the legalization of the sale of beer and wine not to contain more than 14 percent alcohol.

The election was called by the Gray County Commissioners Court after receiving a petition signed by 70 qualified voters.

Should the sale of alcoholic beverages be approved, both Alarred and McLean would be declared "wet."

A similar election was held May 15, 1941. It was defeated by a vote of 209 to 78.

Canada has never adopted an official flag.

Sunray Stock Dividends Up

Regular quarterly dividends on its common and preferred stocks were declared here today by directors of Sunray Oil Corporation.

The dividend payment of 25 cents per share on the company's common stock will be January 15, 1951, to stockholders of record December 1, 1950. Quarterly dividends on the company's second preferred stock will be at the rate of 27 1/2 cents per share payable December 1 to stockholders of record November 10.

Quarterly dividends on Sunray's series A and B preferred stock will be paid January 1, 1951, at the rate of 28 9/16 cents per share on the series A preferred stock, and 28 1/8 cents per share on the series B preferred stock. Record date for both A and B stock will be at the close of business December 1.

It was announced that Sunray was setting aside for retirement 15,200 shares of the corporation's 4 1/4 percent cumulative preferred stock, series A, held in the treasury of the corporation through operation of purchase fund provisions relating to the series A preferred stock.

Sunray's board of directors announced the purchase and retirement of 296,587 shares of 5 1/2 percent cumulative second preferred stock, series of 1950 ($20 par value), which were tendered at the time of the merger of Barnsdall Oil Co. into Sunray Oil Corporation. Second preferred stock aggregating approximately $24,600,000 par value, has been either purchased by the former Barnsdall Oil Co. out of 1.7-million shares outstanding on last June 23, remain in the hands of former Barnsdall stockholders dissenting to the Sunray-Barnsdall merger.

PLYMOUTH OWNERS ARE IN A CLASS BY THEMSELVES

They get the benefit of outstanding features found in no other lowest-priced car

SAFETY-RIM WHEELS

This patented feature gives Plymouth owners positive protection from the danger of blowouts.

SAFETY-RIM WHEEL Protective ridges hold tire on Safety-Rim.	CONVENTIONAL WHEEL No protective ridges to hold tire on ordinary rim.

When a tire on the conventional rim gives way, you get this. The deflated tire twists and whips, sets up a drag on the steering wheel—may throw your car completely out of control.

When a tire on the Plymouth Safety-Rim Wheel gives way, you get this. The deflated tire is locked firmly to the rim, enabling you to bring your car to a sure, safe, straight-line stop. You have complete control of your car.

No other lowest-priced car—only Plymouth—gives you this vitally important protection

SAFE-GUARD HYDRAULIC BRAKES

When a Plymouth owner steps on the brake pedal with a certain pressure, he knows exactly what to expect. That's because Plymouth braking is consistent and precisely predictable.

Plymouth brakes have a total of six hydraulic brake cylinders (four in the front brakes and two in the rear brakes). This places most of the braking action on the front wheels where it's needed. Each of the other two leading lowest-priced cars has only four brake cylinders.

No other lowest-priced car—only Plymouth—gives you the sure, smooth stops of Safe-Guard Hydraulic Brakes

CHAIR-HEIGHT SEATS

When Plymouth owners go motoring, they sit in a natural position with a clearer, closer view of the road. That's because Plymouth is the only lowest-priced car with chair-height seats. You don't slump down on your spine with knees drawn high.

IGNITION-KEY STARTING

Just turn the key—that's all. The ignition is on—the engine is running—the automatic choke is operating—all at once! No starter button or choke to fumble with—no flooding or stalling of the engine.

Plymouths are famous for delivering dependable, day-in-and-day-out transportation. That's why—of all standard-built cars used as taxicabs today—there are more Plymouths than all other makes combined!

ALSO, ONLY PLYMOUTH—in the lowest-priced field—GIVES YOU:

The brilliant performance of 97-horsepower engine with 7.0 to 1 compression ratio (highest among the three leading lowest-priced cars) ... the smoothness of Floating Power, gently cradling the engine in live rubber ... and many other exclusive advantages.

When service is required, Plymouth owners are in a class by themselves here, too. For Plymouth dealers offer the expert skill of some of the most highly-trained specialists in the automotive industry. Across the country, thousands of these men are enrolled in Plymouth's Master Technicians Service Conference. Whether you are looking for a new car, a used car, or for superior service, your nearby Plymouth dealer is a good man to know.

Safety Measures Laid for Lefors

LEFORS — (Special) — The student council of Lefors High School has been holding lengthy discussions on a safety program for the school. It has been decided that speed limit signs will be made and placed at the east and west corners of the school block. Posters will be placed in various business establishments in Lefors to bring to the attention of the public the need for safety.

Speaking of Furniture
By DON FOSTER

CORKING IDEA

No other one thing reflects our progress, our state of mind, so accurately as does our ready acceptance of Modern furniture. In the past "Period" furniture was generally designed to flatter and enhance the prestige of the ruling class. Not so with today's Modern. It is designed and constructed to meet the requirements and express the taste of a great cross section of mankind. . . . not a particular class. It is simple, unaffected, unpretentious. These qualities are responsible for its adaptability and flexibility. They furnish inspiration for a background ideas that add to the originality and individuality of our homes.

It's hard to believe that the background in the room sketched above was done on a shoestring. To relieve monotony of plain

HE CAME TO KILL

by ADELINE McFRESH
Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: After proposing to cut off her two nephews, Peter and Jasper, in a new will, and to give the bulk of her estate to the family of Leana Thorne, Miss Maggie Thorne is murdered. Youngster Leana and known Aunt Maggie was afraid and Leana had been sent for the sheriff just before the murder, but Leana is caught, apparently by the assassin, and choked into unconsciousness. Later the killer tries to create suspicion that Leana was trying to flee from the crime. Deputy Sheriff Mart Preston doesn't believe Leana is guilty, but the others seem to have motive plenty. Sonda, Jasper's discontented wife, had been accused of stealing a valuable lavaliere from Aunt Maggie. But when the sheriff attempts to question Sonda about it, she gets angry and is rebuked by Aunt Agatha, sister of the slain woman.

VIII

MART PRESTON caught Sonda at the door, but he was not quick enough to escape the slash of her wicked fingernails. Blood stained his tanned cheek.

Roughly, he whirled her around to face the sheriff.

"Furly scowled. "Mrs. Thorne," he said slowly, "that's no way to act. You want me thinkin' you killed that poor old woman?"

"I don't care what you think!"

"No?" Amusement flickered across the sheriff's sober face. "You wouldn't like our jail. It's dirty and it's got cockroaches." Then, without changing his reproachful tone, he shot at her. "Where were you?"

"In—" Sonda stopped. Her eyes widened. "I told you, I was in the living room. With Peter."

The sheriff chewed his lower lip. "Where was Jasper?"

"Why don't you ask Jasper?"

"I have," Purdy replied. "I'd still like to know your story."

Sonda got back, apparently relaxed. Leana couldn't understand why, for the sheriff's steady gaze held everything but belief in her innocence.

She made a tentative beginning. "Jasper and I argued—"

"Argued," her husband interrupted dryly, "is putting it mildly."

"We argued," Sonda went on, back, petrified with fright.

"Who did you see?"

"He can't make you tell, Cynthia," Peter Thorne put in swiftly. "He has no right to make you say anything—self-incriminating."

Deputy Preston shifted his attack from the Thorne family cook to Peter. "I am not trying to involve Mrs. Carstairs," he said coldly. "I am merely trying to solve a murder. Or do you object to that, too? Are you afraid of what she will say?"

"Why should I be afraid? I was with Sonda."

"I'm beginning to wonder about that, too," Mart snapped.

Surprisingly enough, it was Jasper who protested.

"You're being a bit ridiculous, Preston," he said. "You're as bad as Purdy."

"Thanks," Mart drawled. "Clem will be glad to hear that." He turned again to Peter. "Mrs. Carstairs' room is directly across the court from Jasper's—and yet she looked first to you when she came in here. Was that because she saw you—in Jasper's room and not in the living room?"

"In that case," drawled Peter Thorne, "where was Jasper?"

McLean Organizes Ministerial Group

McLEAN — (Special) — A ministerial alliance has been organized by the pastors of McLean's churches, with Rev. W. B. Hicks, of the First Methodist Church to head the group. Rev. Buell T. Wells of the First Baptist Church was elected secretary-treasurer.

At their first meeting the group went on record as opposing union services and favoring the denominational program of each church. Those participating in the alliance include Rev. L. R. Green, Assembly of God; Rev. C. D. Cliff, Nazarene and Rev. George R. MacDonald, Presbyterian.

A mass meeting has been called for 2:30 p. m. today at the Baptist Church to discuss the forthcoming vote on the legalized sale of alcoholic beverages in McLean and Alton. A parade registering opposition to the proposal to make McLean a "wet" town will follow the meeting.

Skiers Apparently Six Students Make Lefors Honor Roll

SUN VALLEY, Idaho — (AP) — People who think that all a skier buys are warm clothes and skis are dead-wrong. They buy articles which are only remotely connected with skiing, says Fred A. Picard, who started an exclusive mail-order house for skiers at the Sun Valley ski resort.

A unique item Picard sells is white chocolate. Skiers like to buy them because they are in the shape of snow-balls and because they are white—usually, a favorite color of skiers. Small cameras which skiers can attach to their wrists are also big-sellers as are antimagnetic pocket watches. A special men's cologne for skiers is another of the "odd items they buy. Swiss-designed beer steins are sold internationally by the Sun Valley business-man.

Picard has designed a special wall-paper for ski huts which he expects will be the next big request. What next?

LEFORS — (Special) — Six girls head the high school A honor roll for the first six weeks of school, according to Lawson Shaw, principal. They are Shirley Perkins, LaFern McCathern, Carolyn Maples, Mary Nel Gutherie, Geraldine Dunn and Rebecca Bremling.

On the B honor roll are Nancy Atchley, Katie Baumgardner, Alfred Bennett, Jane Boucher, Sylvia Bradford, Pat Carpenter, David Cooper, Dickie Davis, Norma Jean Fowell, Rachelle Howeth.

Also Dickie Maples, Eleanor O'Kelly, Vernon O'Kelly, Elaine Pearch, Betty Lu Pulliam, Frankie Quarles, Shirley Ann Smith, Jack Taylor, James Trusty, Wanda Vaughn, James Welborn and Jerry Williams.

When the sheriff did not return immediately Mart Preston shrugged to his feet. He dabbed experimentally at his cheek; it was still bleeding.

"There's a thing or two bothering me," he turned to Mrs. Carstairs. "Leana says you are not a hysterical woman," he said, "and yet Mrs. Thorne—" his eyes went fleetingly to Sonda—"says you were having hysterics when she went to call you."

Cynthia Carstairs' frozen face went colder than ever. "I was scared. That's all."

Martin smiled. "Oh, come now, Mrs. Carstairs! When Mrs. Thorne called you, you didn't know Miss Maggie was dead. Did you?"

"Certainly not!"

"Well, then—" Mart paused; then, "What did you see from your bedroom window?"

The cook started up, then sank

Senate Promises Investigation

AUSTIN, Tex. — (AP) — The Senate's Preparedness Subcommittee intends to find out why independent oil men apparently can not get pipe. Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said here.

Senator Johnson, in a statement here, said the subcommittee's staff has been looking into the serious shortage of tubular goods in the oil fields. He said reputable oil men "desperate for pipe to protect their leases" are having to pay $2 to $3 a foot on the Gray Market for casing on which the published price is around $1.25 a foot.

"A shortage and a Gray Market in tubular goods threatens the ability of oil operators to drill the wells and produce the oil needed for our preparedness program," Johnson said. "This threat is most serious to the independent oil operators."

"Pipe is being produced and somebody has it. Is anybody stockpiling it? Is anyone hoarding for better price or diverting for better profit? The independents apparently can not get it. The Preparedness Subcommittee intends to find out why."

Rote's Running Checked By Great Texas Linemen

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AUSTIN — (AP) — Texas arose from the bitterness of five heartbreak years Saturday to knock down Southern Methodist, the nation's No. 1 team, 23-20, and roar savagely to the pinnacle of the Southwest Conference.

The great Longhorn line battered the Methodists from goal line to goal line and Ben Tompkins, the ace Texas T quarterback, fought fire with fire — the forward pass — as Texas stopped the great Kyle Rote's running and hampered Flaming' Freddie Benners when the chips were down.

Benners was great, his passes carrying the Methodists to all three of their touchdowns, but he was taken care of as never before by the terrific charging Texas ends and tackles.

At the finish Texas was still magnificent and Southern Methodist was a battered and weary crew.

Texas, rated No. 7 in the Associated Press poll, committed few mistakes. Southern Methodist made plenty. Never before had SMU dropped so many passes. But Texas clearly earned the victory. It snapped back after telling penalties, it fought at high pitch all afternoon, it had lost Southern Methodist was undefeated and untied until Saturday and for three years had won over Texas, twice when the conference championship was in the balance. Texas was unbeaten in a conference year but had lost to Oklahoma 14-13 in an inter-sectional game.

The Longhorns thus are the last unbeaten team in the conference race and overwhelming favorites to rush on to the championship — their first in five years — and to represent the circuit in the Cotton Bowl New Year's day in Dallas.

A crowd of 65,498 rocked and swayed with the gripping, vicious game that brought the Methodists, twice conference champions in the past three years, to the end of their rope.

It marked the first victory over SMU for Blair Cherry as head coach of Texas, which he has been four years.

Southern Methodist discovered early that it could not run against the great Texas line and played almost exclusively in the passing game. The Methodists tried 47 passes — a probable record number even for a Southwest Conference team.

A stiff north wind got SMU in the hole early and the Methodists never could draw ahead although they tied the score.

The wind hampered SMU kicking in the first period and the Methodists never could get out of their territory before Texas had a touchdown.

SMU snorted back with a 59-yard drive for a tying score early in the second period, the payoff was a 25-yard throw from Ben Tompkins to Benny White on the Texas five and White lateraled to Rote for the touchdown.

SMU got to the Texas seven late in the second period on a 72-yard pass play from Rote to Pat Knight but with only 20 seconds left in the half Rote tried to jump pass to H. N. Russell, the ball bounced out of Russell's hands and fell into the arms of Texas' Ben Barton.

SMU tied it up with a 69-yard surge as soon as it had the ball in the second half. It required just nine plays, four of them passes by Benners. A 39-yard gain to Champion took the ball to the one-yard line and Rote plowed over.

Texas got its third touchdown as the result of an intercepted pass in the third period. H. J. Shands gathered in a Benners throw and ran to the Methodist 11. A 15-yard penalty for illegal use of the hands set Texas back but a pass from Tompkins to Procter in the end zone brought the touchdown.

SMU then marched with the kickoff to another touchdown. Benners' passes did the job, a 26-yard throw to White in the end zone being the payoff.

Tompkins had kicked all three extra points after touchdown and Bill Sullivan converted after the first two SMU scores to make his string 20 straight. But Sullivan missed the third try — the kick was wide.

However Sullivan was spared the humiliation of being the man who lost the game by that bad kick when Texas got a safety in the last minutes. It was counted when Russell took a pass from Rote behind the SMU goal line and Paul Williams downed him.

Southern Methodist gained 352 yards in the air on 24 completions but had two passes intercepted and many of the times Benners failed to connect it was because he was rushed and hurried so badly by the Texas line he couldn't hit the target.

SMU was held to a minus 88 — yes MINUS 88 — rushing while Texas got 140 yards. The Longhorns rolled up 139 in the air.

Texas Grid Victory Is Nation's Best

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK — (AP) — Texas smacked down top-ranking Southern Methodist Saturday and Army stretched its streak of invincibility to 26 games in a day of mighty decision for the nation's football powers.

Once-beaten Texas reached magnificent heights to shatter SMU's dream of a national championship, 23-20, in a savagely played game before 65,498 at Austin. It was the Mustangs' first loss.

The victory made the Longhorns a favorite for Southwest Conference honors and the host role in Dallas' Cotton Bowl. They have lost only to Oklahoma, 14-13.

Army, No. 2 in the rankings, kept its title hopes alive with a 26-13 triumph over powerful Pennsylvania before 75,000 at Philadelphia. It was the "big" game on the schedule of the Cadets, now favored to go through the season without a setback.

The post-season bowl picture also began to jell in games across the continent — played in snow and rain in the East and Middle West and near-freezing cold in the South.

Illinois became a solid favorite for the Big Ten Rose Bowl assignment by upending Michigan, 7-0, in a swirling snowstorm at Ann Arbor, Mich. Fullback Dick Rakovits and halfback Ron Stevens starred in the Illini second conference victory against a single defeat.

Ohio State, fourth-ranked nationally, continued to look like the titan of the Middle West by overwhelming Northwestern, 32-0, but the Buckeyes are ineligible for the Pasadena trip. They beat California in the Rose Bowl last year.

The Oklahoma Sooners moved nearer an almost certain lucrative post-season assignment by subduing Colorado, 27-18, for their 27th straight victory — a modern winning record. The great Cornell teams of the early twenties held the previous mark of 26 in a

Charlie Grimm Quits at Dallas

DALLAS — (AP) — Charlie Grimm quit Saturday as manager of the Dallas Eagles of the Texas Baseball League.

The former major league manager had two more years to serve under his three-year contract — at $30,000 a year — with R. W. (Dick) Burnett, wealthy Longview oil man who owns the Eagles.

The announcement did not say how much the former Chicago Cub manager was paid in severing relations. The Dallas News quoted a "reliable informant" that it was close to $25,000.

The News also said L. D. (Little Dutch) Meyer, former TCU football star and manager of Burnett's Gladewater farm club in the East Texas League, was reported to stand first in line to succeed Grimm.

"They're the greatest teams in the nation. Both have good offensive balance," he said. He had no alibis for the loss today.

"We just lost a ball game. It was a real thriller wasn't it? Our boys gave the best they had and that satisfies me."

His son quarterback Rusty Russell, Jr., thought the Mustangs got their toughest breaks when he muffed a pass from Benners in the fourth quarter.

Benners, who almost pulled his team through, praised his protection on passes. "I had good protection — just didn't get rid of the ball," he said sadly, thinking of the times he was dropped by hard charging Longhorns.

It is estimated less than one twelfth of the original timbers of "Old Ironsides" remain.

Isbell Leads Bears Past TCU Horned Frogs, 20-14

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Baylor University swept game Texas Christian University out of the Southwest Conference football race here Saturday, beating off a frantic last-minute passing flurry to win, 20-14.

The game ended with Baylor's back Robert Reid intercepting a long heave from TCU's Gilbert Bartosh on the Baylor six-yard line and dashing to the 30.

After a testing of strength in a futile last quarter, marred by penalties, Baylor got its attack going. Just 50 seconds deep in the second period, Baylor's Jim Jeffrey took a flat pass from Larri Isbell for a 13-yard scoring play.

Hank Dickerson's conversion kick was good. The Bears scored again with more than eight minutes left in the third quarter as Richard Parma plunged over from the one-yard line.

Then TCU drove back 71 yards in 12 plays, and hard running Bobby Jack Floyd counted for the Horned Frogs. He knifed and plunged 14 yards in four plays to climax the drive. Homer Ludiker's kick for extra point was good.

Just three and a half minutes in the fourth quarter Baylor roared back, the payoff a 23-yard dash by halfback Buddy Parker. Dickerson again kicked the extra point.

That made it Baylor 20, TCU 7, not enough for the Frogs and their ace quarterback Gilbert Bartosh. The Frogs went 90 yards in ten plays to score, the payoff to End Wilson George. Ludiker's kick was good.

There the scoring ended. Baylor 20, TCU 14. But about eight minutes of the fourth quarter was left, and both teams tried to make those minutes count.

Baylor mixed passing and running to reach the TCU 11. There Hank Dickerson made a try for a field goal, but failed.

Baylor's Johnny Curtis intercepted Bartosh's long pass on the Baylor 43; the Bears couldn't get going, and Isbell, from the TCU 46, kicked out of bounds on the TCU three.

Then Bartosh who completed 39 of 30 passes for 246 yards.

Kentucky's Wildcats became the major bowl plum in the South after smashing Florida, 40-6, for their eighth in a row this season. Kentucky is fifth in the Associated Press national ratings.

In the east, Princeton turned its razor-sharp single wing attack on Colgate, scored four times in the opening period and won, 45-7, breezing.

The unblemished Tigers dominated the Ivy League, which produced two of the day's first-class surprises. Underdog Columbia rocked defending champion Cornell, 20-19, on a last period touchdown by fullback Howie Hansen and a placement kick by Al Ward, Dartmouth upset Yale, 7-0.

Notre Dame, the defending national champion, came from behind twice to subdue Navy, 19-10, and add a bit of late luster to a season already marred by three defeats.

Sonny Grandelius scored three touchdowns as Michigan State mauled Indiana, one of the Notre Dame conquerors, 35-0.

Iowa whipped Minnesota, 13-0, and Wisconsin subdued Purdue, 33-7, in the Big Ten.

Tennessee, beaten once, improved its bowl chances by knocking over North Carolina, 16-0. Duke, rocked on its heels when Georgia Tech scored 21 points in the opening period, the Yellow Jackets at Durham, 30-21.

Maryland won over Georgia Washington, 23-7.

Texas Aggies Rout Hogs in Night Battle

COLLEGE STATION — (AP) — Texas A&M's angry Aggies massacred Arkansas, 42-13 Saturday night and they used a brilliant substitute—Yale Lary—to tomahawk the Razorbacks into quick and easy submission.

Erubring Bob Smith ripped and smashed the burly Arkansas line to bits and dandy Dick Gardemal riddled the Ozark team's pass defense with deadly tosses. When they had set the stage, they left the clincher to Lary.

Four times in the first half Lary crossed the goal line and a touchdown by teammate Bob Schaeffer and five extra points by Darrow Hooper gave the Aggies a 25-0 half-time lead. They built 19-0 to 42-0 in the third period, when Smith crashed to a touchdown and Hooper booted his sixth extra point.

It was only in the waning minutes of play, against A&M substitutes, that Arkansas' erratic passing paid off. These heaves set the stage for George Thurmond's four-yard scoring plunge. A 70-yard run by Louis Schaufele accounted for the other Porker tally a few moments later. Thomason made good on his first try for extra point, but missed the next.

Lary, subbing for the injured Bull Tidwell, ground out touchdowns runs of one, 15 and 16 yards. He snagged a 13-yard pass from Gardemal for a fourth score.

Shamrock Takes District Clash From McLean, 25-7

Dunnam Hits Pennington With 3 Touchdown Passes

SHAMROCK — Quarterback Harall Dunnam threw everything but the Blarney Stone at the McLean Tigers here Friday night at Denver Field, as the Fighting Irish throtled the Tigers, 25-7, before 2,000 chilled partisan fans in a District 2 A clash.

Dunnam threw four touchdown passes, and sticky fingers Van Pennington was on the receiving end of three. End Vaughn Terry caught the other one.

The Tigers took command of the game in the first four minutes of the game, when triple threatler L. M. Watson knifed through right tackle and wented eight yards to score. Watson kicked the extra point to make the score 7-0, McLean.

McLean's touchdown drive started on its own 30, when J. N. Smith pounced on a Shamrock fumble. With second and ten, Watson shot a pass to Don Tindall and the Tiger halfback carried it down to the Irish 29. Wayne Smith picked up 11 yards and Tindall four to move the

Mrs. Maysia De Howell

City Bowler Will Defend Class B Title at Amarillo

There was an eight-year lay off in Mrs. Maysia De Howell's bowling career, but it didn't seem to bother the Pampa kiegler. Because the second year she resumed play, she won the Texas Woman's Bowling Association Class B doubles title, along with her partner Ann Hayes of Galveston.

"I was just lucky and had a good partner," Mrs. Howell modestly explained when asked about taking the Class B bunting at Beaumont last year. But this isn't the first time for Mrs. Howell to achieve athletic fame. When she was 12 years old, she won the county deatchion in Comanche County, Texas.

"When I go back to visit, people still remind me of that race," Mrs. Howell laughed. She started hurling the bowling ball down the maple alleys in 1939, and she did all right her first year, too.

"I made my best score that year, 288," Mrs. Howell recalled. "But I haven't hit that score since I've resumed play." In 1948, she won the Class B trophy in the city bowling tournament at Lubbock.

White Deer Bucks Kick Groom, 18-7

WHITE DEER — (Special) — The White Deer Bucks tamed the Groom Tigers here Friday night by a score of 18-7 to stay in the race for the title in the south half, District 1-B.

Groom started off with a bang when on the first series of downs Johnny Quirk tore off a 40 yard run but the Bucks held, and after three passes had fallen incomplete, took the ball on downs. Ethen Noble, Buck back, was injured and was taken to a Pampa hospital.

The Bucks came through with a 28-yard run by Eddie Buchanan and a 32-yard sprint by Cordell Pugh, but, in turn, lost the ball on downs. Quirk again broke loose for 40-yards, and Kenneth Anglin picked up 10, before the Bucks intercepted a pass from Bob Hale. On the next play, however, Pugh fumbled the ball and the Tigers took over for the rest of the scores quarter. Five 5-yard penalties for Groom and two for White Deer partially accounted for the lull in the rally.

Early in the second quarter, Carl McCabe, sophomore end, sailed through for 56 yards and a Buck score. The conversion failed. During the rest of that period, Jackie Freeman, Buck's quarterback, pushed over the one first down, but neither team was able to make the necessary yardage for another first and ten, leaving the halftime score, 6 to 0 in favor of the Bucks.

On the third down after the halftime, Buchanan sped 45 yards only to be hauled in on the 12-yard line by Quirk. Freeman took the ball over from there to bring the count to 12-0.

Two passes completed from Hale to Kotara and Black put the Tigers down field, but they were held for two incomplete tosses and a 9-yard loss and they kicked out on the Bucks' 5. Runs by Pugh, Buchanan, and Freeman for 12, 20, and 11 yards respectively, and a pass from Freeman to Dale Imel brought the ball over into Tiger territory and a Pugh took it the rest of the way for the Bucks' final score.

In the closing minutes of the third quarter, Anglin dashed off a beautiful 82-yard run to put the Tigers in the scoring column and the conversion brought the tally to 18-7.

Notable plays in the final period were two nice runs of 11 and 30 yards by Buchanan along with Franklin Hussey's 33-yard sprint for the Bucks; and two first down plunges by Anglin plus a 7-yard pass completion to m Hale to Anglin for the Tigers.

Crippled Owls Snuff Out Tech Raiders, 13-7

HOUSTON — (AP) — Crippled Rice snuffed out a Texas Tech threat in the closing seconds Saturday for a 13 to 7 victory over the Border Conference team after speedster Riggs had given the Owls a two touchdown first half lead.

Rice took over the ball on downs on its 3-yard line with 10 seconds to play as a 17-yard, fourth down pass was short by two yards for a Tech first down.

With two of its first string players watching the game from the bench, Rice did not make a serious threat after Riggs, a 172-pound junior halfback, made quick opening touchdown runs on 31 and 51 yards in the first and second periods.

After a fumble and a fourth down incomplete pass had ended threats inside the Rice 10 yard line, Tech got back in the game in the third quarter as fullback J. W. Thompson scored from the 1 to climax a 44 yard drive.

End Billy Wright kicked the Rice extra point with end Dick Johnson converting for Tech.

A 15-yard penalty after the first Rice score broke Wright's successive string of conversions in six games at 14.

Tech dominated play throughout except for the two quick Rice touchdowns drives. The Red Raiders ran up 232 net yards rushing to Rice's 174 and led in passing, 71 yards to 61.

PLAYING THE DUCK—Herman the duck passes and reflects that he and his brethren had best fly high or lay low for the next few weeks. Herman himself will be relatively safe from the hunting season, however, for he is a pet at the Swan Creek Wildlife Experiment Station, hard by Allegan, Mich.

Fishing has dropped to second place in importance to sportsmen in this area with the opening of duck and goose season Friday noon. The cold weather on Thursday night, plus the strong wind on Friday, caused many hunters to return with something less than the limit on opening day.

Another reason for failing to get the limit was the fact that there simply weren't enough hunters to cover all the water available to the ducks for hiding out.

The men who hunted to the east of Pampa found more ducks than those going in other directions. Of course there were some exceptions to this, mainly between Pampa and Panhandle.

There were more teal and pintails killed than any other species. A few mallards were killed, but pickings were pretty slim. We got into one small flock on a lake where there had been two or three hundred mallards the day before season opened.

That's Rod and Gun for this week. Send me any news you have; I enjoy hearing from you. See you all next week; same place, same time.

Red Court Sends Player to School

PRAGUE — (AP) — This is a new case of making the punishment fit the crime.

A 22-year-old shockworker and amateur soccer player was banished from a game in Pardubice. He made an "indecent remark" to the referee. "Penal organs" heard evidence and passed this sentence: "He must enter the youth organization to educate himself and grow politically so as never in the future to be guilty of a similar offense."

OUTSIDE AGAIN — Glenn Davis goes around end on the Statue of Liberty.

I want to say a little bit about the setting of decoys. In the first place, decoys should always ride into the wind, as ducks and geese naturally do. Group the various species of ducks together; keep the mallards together, etc. Don't mix diver decoys and puddle duck decoys together, because they don't associate in real life. Place the stool conspicuously in a sheltered spot. Don't put them too close to shore. Make it easy for your game to see them. Make it look natural and you're all right.

If any of you come back from duck hunting this morning feeling the need of some more practice, you might run over to Lefors where the Lefors Gun Club is holding a turkey shoot today. They tell me there are plenty of

Wildcats Rip Mustangs in Grid Battle

CANADIAN — (Special) — The Canadian Wildcats, led by co-captain Bobby Fry, ripped the Wheeler Mustang line to shreds here Friday night to chalk up their seventh straight win for the season, downing the Mustangs 40 to 6 in a crucial District 1-B North Conference game.

Fry personally accounted for five of the six Wildcat touchdowns as his hard-blocking teammates bowled over the Mustang defenders like tenpins on wide end sweeps and sharp off-tackle stabs.

Big Tom Schaefer 215-pound Wildcat tailback, ripped straight through the middle of the Wheeler line for 80 yards to account for the sixth touchdown.

The Wildcats started their scoring parade early in the first period after halting the opening Mustang drive on the Canadian 30-yard line, reeling off five straight first downs with Fry carrying through tackle from the 18 on the final leg of the drive. Tepe's placement was blocked.

Fry scored again early in the second period, setting up the touchdown himself on a 50 yard run from the 10. The Mustang 12, then smashed over from the 7 yard line after a 5-yard pick-up by Schaefer. Tepe kicked goal for the extra point.

Big Tom Schaefer, speeding through a gaping hole opened by Wildcat linemen Conklin and Lemons, zipped 80 yards to score midway in the period — and was never touched as he sped the last 70 yards in the clear. Tepe's kick was blocked, and the Wildcats led 19-0 at the half.

Fry reeled off two more touchdowns in the third period, going 35 yards around right end, behind perfect blocking, for the first one; and repeating the play a few minutes later for 22 yards. Franklin Tepe ran the point after the first touchdown, and kicked goal after the second.

Fry scored the Wildcat's final touchdown in the fourth period, smashing through right tackle for 10 yards. Tom Schaefer drove through left guard for the extra point.

The Mustang score came late in the period, when Pendleton climaxed an 80-yard touchdown drive with a 20-yard end sweep. The conversion failed.

The Wildcats racked up a total of 458 yards on running plays, to 194 for the Mustangs; and added 20 yards on their single pass of the evening, a sharp toss from quarterback Jimmy Waterfield to Bob Fry which set up touchdown number four.

The Mustangs passed fourteen times, completing three for 52 yards. Wheeler kicked 5 times for a total of 181 yards. The Wildcats were never forced to punt. Only one penalty, a 15-yard jolt against the Wildcats, was called in the game. First downs were 19 for Canadian, 10 for Wheeler.

Lefors Smears Rockets for Two Safeties

LEFORS — (Special) — The Lefors Pirates smothered the Wellington skyrockets, 18-4, here Friday night in a District 2 A football battle at Shaw Field.

The Pirates struck early in the first quarter for their first counter when the alert Jimmy Doom covered a Skyrocket fumble on Wellington's 34.

After six ground plays moved the ball down to the one, Bill Watson bulled his way into the end zone. Fullback Ray Dickerson carried over for the extra point to put Lefors out in front, 7-0.

Wellington gave the Pirates another chance for a touchdown when Lefors recovered a fumble on the Skyrocket 21. The Pirates moved down to the one-foot line, but the drive fizzled out there. With first down and ten, Ingram was tackled in the end zone for a Pirate safety, and Lefors led, 9-0.

Canada's Schools Using Broadcasts To Aid in Lessons

TORONTO — (AP) — For 30 minutes every day during the school term children in approximately 20,000 schoolrooms in English-speaking Canada gather around a radio or loudspeaker to hear their history, science, music and English studies supplemented by dramatized versions of their texts.

The school broadcasts on a nation-wide basis began in 1942. Since that time 6,764 schools have applied for and received from the Department of Transport free receiving licenses. Hundreds of rural schools have a small mantle radio around which the pupils gather with their teacher to hear the programs. In larger schools a loudspeaker system is installed.

W. S. Rutherford, deputy minister of Education for Ontario, says the programs are very helpful.

Young Army Officer Was One Who Should Have Gone Far

By HAL BOYLE

U.S. 8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea — (AP) — There are some men in this world who meet but once — and they stick in your mind forever.

Such a man, to me, was Lt. Logan Weathers, a lean, tall young farrier from Shelby, N.C. He had three qualities that should have sent him far in life: a robust sense of humor, a kindly heart and courageous leadership. But the first quality probably would have kept him from becoming a general, he sometimes laughed at rank.

The second quality can now be remembered only with a sigh by those who knew his kindness. As for his third quality — the bright gift of valor — it brought him medals from his government and death in a far country.

The only day I ever saw him I didn't know the lieutenant had won the nation's second highest award for bravery in the second world war. He received his Distinguished Service Cross on Okinawa by drawing enemy fire on himself to save his company, and then reorganizing a shattered battalion and leading it back into the attack.

His sergeant told me about Weathers' valor in Korea. They had come out of Chinju when the southeast Korean city was a milestone in a massive North Korean drive to seize the port of Pusan in earlier days of this campaign.

I met him in a Masan hospital a few hours later, looking to see if any men from his company had been wounded. He told about the American retreat from Chinju in a cool, intelligent and impersonal manner I have never forgotten — like a historian who recognizes the importance of an event but who can detach himself from the bitterness of the moment.

That was the last I heard of the lieutenant for several weeks. It isn't every day that an ordinary war reporter bumps into a reconnaissance platoon, lead by whose ordinary job is to seek and locate the hidden enemy.

Then one night a military policeman — Cpl. Clifford M. Williams of Mansfield, La. — dropped into our press billet in Wegu. He had served earlier in Weathers' recon platoon and over a few cans of beer he told me the rest of the lieutenant's story.

"A few days after Chinju the lieutenant was supporting an infantry attack in his armored car," said Williams. "A rocket or artillery shell hit the car. It cut the assistant driver in half and it blew off the lieutenant's arm."

"A machinegun opened up on the car. The lieutenant crawled out and charged it. He knocked it out, too, holding his carbine in one hand. And then, well, I guess the people who owned the machinegun got the lieutenant."

For this feat Weathers was posthumously awarded a cluster to his DSC.

"One of our men picking up the debris found his body," said the corporal. "The lieutenant had been wearing a brand new pair of boots. But somebody had taken them off — probably the Reds."

Later the lieutenant's widow wrote his outfit.

"She said that he had been a wonderful husband and father," said Williams. "But she said she couldn't help wondering sometimes whether he had died in vain. And that is food for thought — when you come to think about it."

Voting Turnout Is Expected To Break Records for Nation

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Here's a quick run-down on Tuesday's national elections.

About 42,000,000 people are expected to vote. If they do they'll set a record for a non-presidential election.

Thirty-six of the 96 Senate seats and all 435 House seats are at stake.

And this year the people of 33 states have to elect governors. (Maine has already elected a governor and three House members.)

Democrats and Republicans have both spent around $1,000,000 each in this year's campaigns.

At this moment in the Senate the Democrats outnumbered the Republicans, 54 to 42, or 12 more. The Republicans need a net gain of seven to get control.

In the House the Republicans need 49 more members to grab control. To do this they must keep their present strength of 169, fill their own three vacant seats, and pick up 46 from the Democrats.

Among the 48 states right now the Democratic governors outnumber the Republicans, 29 to 19.

In the 33 governorships being filled this year, the Democrats hold 17 posts, the Republicans 16.

(In three southern states the Republicans have offered no candidates against Govs. Herman E. Browning, Tennessee; and candidate James F. Byrne, South Talmadge, Georgia; Gordon Carolina.)

To a Russian Communist there probably wouldn't seem much to choose between any of the Democratic and Republican candidates.

But to the people of this country, where the big fights are always between Democrats and Republicans, apparently there is quite a wide difference, since they seem to take the campaigns seriously enough.

This year the Republicans are putting up a ding-dong battle all over the country, two of the toughest fights being in Ohio and California.

In California two members of the House — Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democrat, and Richard M. Nixon, Republican — are battling for a Senate seat.

In Ohio, Republican Senator Robert A. Taft is trying to keep his Democratic opponent, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, from unseating him.

The President, going out to St. Louis to make a speech for his party tonight, has cheerfully predicted a landslide for the Democrats.

Except for him, the political bigshots in both camps have been pretty cautious with their forecasts, although both sides claim victory before the voting starts.

With the exception of one two-year period—1947 and 1948—when the Republicans had control of Congress, the Democrats have had a majority in both House and Senate since 1933, with a Democratic president in the White House now for 17 unbroken years.

YOU and the SERVICE

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — I have been expecting a call to active duty any day. But I have also made plans to get married. Suppose I get the call during the month I am on my honeymoon and can't show up for duty, what will be the result?

A. Those orders are sent as registered mail. They will know that you didn't receive your orders and try to forward them to you.

A. My son is 19 and has just joined the Navy. He has a withered hand and three bad fingers.

Why did they take him like this? And can he get out?

A. The Navy certainly knew what it was doing when they accepted your son. Obviously his hand was not bad enough to keep him from service. So it's just as obvious that they won't release him because of his hand, unless it gets much worse.

Q. I have two sons in the service. They both send money home to help me support myself and the other two children I have with me. Can I get the new allotment from both of them?

A. No. The best you can do is get an allotment from one and

There's No Place Like Home For Accidents Service Says

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — The U.S. Public Health Service says "There's no place like home—for accidents."

Aiding in a new campaign by public health workers throughout the country designed to help prevent fatal or injurious accidents in the home, the government agency gave these statistics: Every 16 minutes someone is killed by an accident in the home.

This year alone 4,500,000 Americans were either injured or killed in "preventable" accidents within the home. And, in terms of wages lost, medical expenses and increased insurance premium rates, the annual cost of home accidents approximates $650,000,000.

"These accidents were preventable because someone or something was at fault," declared the health service in special literature distributed at the opening of the American Public Health Association's (APHA) annual meeting.

"The matches should not have been left near the baby. The shag rug should have been made slip-proof. The broken stair should have been repaired. The electrical system was improperly installed. The stepladder was a poorly constructed."

Meanwhile, Dr. Hugh Leavell, of Harvard University's School of Public Health, and chairman of APHA's executive board, said at a news conference that one of the prime issues to be considered by the association would be ways and means whereby public health workers could help all that the other one will send you out of his pay.

Q. I have been in the National Guard for two years. Since joining I have gotten high blood pressure from nervousness. If they won't take me in the Army when my guard outfit is called, might I still be drafted?

A. It's possible. As stated in this space many times it's up to the doctor to examine each potential draftee and determine whether or not he meets the physical standards for the Army. Because one Army doctor turned you down, it doesn't mean the next one will, as logical as that might sound.

Q. I am in the reserves but have a wife and three kids. Will they take me? I understand they aren't taking men with four dependents.

A. They won't take you.

prevent accidents — especially those in the home. The Public Health Service, in a special exhibit at the meeting, said further:

"The present national home accident rate has continued with relatively little change for 15 years. By contrast, the industrial accident rate has been reduced 50 percent in 16 years. The motor vehicle accident rate, based on mileage, has been lowered approximately 40 percent over the same period."

The agency said the job of prevention is a three-way task calling for the cooperation of:

1. Health departments — to do such things as investigate the causes of home accidents, and recommend medical attention for "accident prone" individuals and those whose physical impairments make them susceptible to accidents.
2. Civic groups, voluntary agencies and local governments — to do such things as promote or assure the enactment of corrective legislation on matters like safe construction.
3. Individuals in the home — by practicing good housekeeping, selecting safe toys for the children, and avoiding hazardous tasks.

What's the most dangerous place in the home from the accident standpoint?

"The bedroom, where over 25 percent of all fatal home accidents occur," says the Public Health Service, also pointing to such things as smoking in bed, having gas or oil heaters in a poorly ventilated room, and leaving scissors where a baby can get to them.

Potato production in Aroostock County, Me., is greater than that of any other entire state.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Cue-Bidding Can Be a Real Help

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"We got into a jam on the bidding of this hand," confesses a New Orleans reader. "Obviously we shouldn't reach a slam, but we can't think of a logical way to avoid it."

This is an interesting hand and an interesting problem. There is a way for good players to explore slam possibilities on hands of this type without getting unmakeable slams.

When North bids three clubs he is clearly making a cue-bid. He may have the ace of clubs and he may avoid of clubs. (In the actual hand, South has the ace of clubs and therefore knows that his partner is void of the suit; but North cannot be sure that his partner will be able to read the situation.) North cannot, of course, have a real club suit. If he did, he would double two clubs for penalties instead of bidding three clubs.

When North bids four no-trump at his next turn, he is asking how many aces South has (Blackwood Convention). It is clear he could have done so without first going to the trouble of bidding three clubs. Why, then, did he first make that bid?

There can be only one answer: He wants to show that there are no losers in clubs and that he is interested only in the aces of the other three suits.

If South reads this message, he must give the negative response of five clubs, showing no ace outside of clubs. It was a mistake to bid five diamonds, showing one ace.

With this sort of understanding, North can confidently bid a slam if South shows an ace; and can bid a grand slam if South shows two aces. If South shows no ace (as he should have, in the actual hand), North stops at five spades.

These hands don't come up very often, but they count for a lot of points when they do occur. It's wise to remember that when either partner makes a cue-bid, a later bid of four no-trump asks for aces outside of the cue-bid suit.

Bird in hand that's a Beauty and a Buy!

Now it can be told. This clean-lined, smart-stepping 1950 version is the most popular Buick ever built.

Ever since early in the present year, a value-wise public has been taking them away from us as fast as—or faster than—the great Buick factories could roll them out. Within recent weeks, production and sales have set an all-time record.

Count off the distinguished and time-tried features of this winner and you'll know why. It has a Very Exclusive Motor—Buick's own high-compression Fireball—which gets its driving power from a combustion chamber found in no other car in the world.

It has the bump-smothering softness of coil springs on all four wheels and a torque-tube drive—a comfort combination that no other car provides.

It has Dynaflo Drive*— which ushered in a whole new concept of effortless travel.

It has a brilliant styling which sets it apart from every other car on the road.

And it has prices which say "buy me" to any motorist who's looking for maximum money's worth.

Isn't it sensible, while these great cars are still coming off the line, to check with your Buick dealer about getting one to call your own?

Only Buick has Dynaflo—and with it goes:

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD fender, separate through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK WHEEL, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rim, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

Crisis to Crisis Administration

One is tempted to wonder again for the twentieth time how much we are being governed by the policy of "crisis to crisis" and how much it is being used by the present administration to save itself and to obscure issues and make votes.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D. Written for NEA Service

Unfortunately, colitis, which is the ordinary term that doctors now use for spastic colon, is one of the most difficult things to relieve completely.

Q—If colitis is not relieved by six months of diet and sedatives is it advisable to resort to surgery? Does it affect the back?

A—A spastic colon is affected by diet but is also closely related to the nervous system.

Q—My son's heart rate is 60 and rises to only 71 after exercise. He has no heart murmur, his blood pressure is normal, and he plays football. Does this indicate heart trouble?

A—A slow pulse rate in a young athlete is more likely to be a good sign than a bad one.

Q—Is it all right to let a small baby cry and scream without paying any attention to it? Some people think it is good for their lungs. I believe some crying is all right, but to much will hurt the baby.

A—I agree with you. Too much crying in a small baby—particularly a boy—may lead to a rupture. On the other hand, a baby should not be picked up every time it cries.

Q—Is penicillin now used to reduce the appetite in overweight persons? N.F.P.

A—Not that I know of.

Q—I am 22 years old and for the last six years have had spots on my skin which do not tan with the rest of my body. What could this be? J.B.

A—The most likely possibility is a skin condition called leukoderma or vitiligo.

Q—Are vitamins helpful or harmful for one who has hypertension? Is it advisable or not for such a person to travel by airplane? J.G.

A—Vitamins in normal amounts should be taken by a person with hypertension but there are no reasons to believe that excessive amounts would be either helpful or harmful.

Q—A man of the world on one side and a man's picture on the other. This he made into a home-made jigsaw puzzle by tearing it into bits. Knowing that his son was too young to know anything about geography, the father thought this "puzzle" would keep him busy all evening.

But in ten minutes flat the boy was back. The picture of the world was fitted together perfectly.

"How in the world did you do that?" asked the tired business man.

"All I had to do," said the boy, "was to put the man right when I did that the world came out, right too."

Maybe that's what's wrong with our world today. Maybe we need to get the man right.

This analogy has its applications on the personal level. Psychologists tell us that our real problems are always inside us. No matter what seems to be the trouble in our environment or circumstance, if we work to put ourselves right on the INSIDE—the OUTSIDE ALWAYS SEEMS TO TAKE CARE OF ITSELF.

Success Secrets

By ELMER WHEELER

It seems that a certain tired business man came home one night from a hard day's work hoping to lounge around all evening taking it easy.

But his small son had other ideas. He wanted to play.

To keep him quiet and give him something to do, the old man took a sheet out of the newspaper which had a map of the world on one side and a man's picture on the other.

He made it into a home-made jigsaw puzzle by tearing it into bits. Knowing that his son was too young to know anything about geography, the father thought this "puzzle" would keep him busy all evening.

But in ten minutes flat the boy was back. The picture of the world was fitted together perfectly.

"How in the world did you do that?" asked the tired business man.

"All I had to do," said the boy, "was to put the man right when I did that the world came out, right too."

This analogy has its applications on the personal level. Psychologists tell us that our real problems are always inside us. No matter what seems to be the trouble in our environment or circumstance, if we work to put ourselves right on the INSIDE—the OUTSIDE ALWAYS SEEMS TO TAKE CARE OF ITSELF.

So They Say

We, all of us, have got to bring to the waging of peace the same energies of mind and body that we brought to the waging of the war.

—Paul Hoffman, former Marshall Plan head.

There have been Republican statements, such as the one made by New York's Rep. Len Hall, that the GOP would pick up a net of 30 seats in the House and that it "could" conceivably pick up 55 to 60 seats.

Rep. Hall is chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, and he is in a position to know how the reports run.

Present membership of the House is 258 Democrats, 169 Republicans.

Present membership of the Senate is 54 Democrats and 42 Republicans. The Democrats can lose five of its 13 northern Senate seats at stake, and still retain control of the Senate by one vote.

The Republicans need to gain seven more seats to win control of the Senate by one vote, and so be able to organize it.

Present membership of the House is 258 Democrats, 169 Republicans. There is one American-Labor Party representative (Marcantonio of New York) and one Democrat - Liberal (Roosevelt of New York).

Roosevelt should really be counted with the Democrats. Marcantonio is being opposed by a coalition candidate who, if he wins, cannot properly be counted with either party. There are six House vacancies.

Subtract the 125 southern seats from the 258 - really 259 - which the Democrats now hold, and it leaves you 134 House contests which the party in power has to win, to retain its present majority.

The Democrats can lose 42 of these races and win 217 members - 125 southern and 92 northern - still retain control of the House by one vote. Republicans on the other hand must hold all the 169 seats they now hold and gain 49 more to win control of the House by one vote.

Lone Vote Counts: Heritage Foundation Finds Single Vote Has Decided Many U.S. Issues

By NEA Service
NEW YORK — (NEA) — America's voting record is notoriously poor. During the 1948 presidential elections, only 52 percent of the eligible voters bothered to go to the polls. That means that 44,000,000 people were too lazy or too thoughtless to vote.

The American Heritage Foundation, the group that sponsored the Freedom Train, is trying to do something about it. They've changed their slogan — "Freedom is Everybody's Job" — for the occasion, and are running a pre-election "Voting is Everybody's Job" campaign.

They realize many potential voters don't go to the polls because they feel that one vote won't do much good, anyway. Digging back into history, the foundation has come up with several examples of single votes that changed the course of events.

Significantly enough, the very

NOVEMBER SCENE—This woman, waiting while her name is checked on the list of registered voters, went to the polls in 1948 along with 52 percent of the nation's eligible voters. Despite the fact it was a presidential election, 44,000,000 other eligible voters stayed home, too lazy or thoughtless to vote.

first test of America as a new-born nation revolved about one vote.

The nation's charter of liberty, the Resolution of the Declaration of Independence, was passed by the Continental Congress on July 2, 1776, when Caesar Rodney, a delegate from Delaware, rose from a sickbed and rode 80 miles on horseback through a stormy night to cast just one vote. That vote placed his state on the side of freedom and helped assure unanimous approval of all the colonies.

Within recent memory, the crucial balloting in the House of Representatives on continuation of selective service just prior to Pearl Harbor won approval by a one-vote majority.

An American president — Andrew Johnson who took office upon the assassination of Abraham Lincoln — escaped impeachment in the Senate by one vote.

The Senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, voted 35 for conviction and 19 for acquittal — just one vote less than the two-thirds majority necessary to convict.

Three ballots, decided by a one-vote margin elected another American president — Rutherford B. Hayes. His election had been contested and the matter was referred to an electoral commission. The commission gave the electoral votes to Hayes by just one vote — 8 to 7. Whereupon Congress declared Hayes elected. The vote in Congress was 185 to 184.

And if this is not enough to prove the importance of one vote: the Indiana senator who cast that deciding vote for Hayes won his place in Congress by just one vote. The man whose lone vote proved the margin of victory for the senator was desperately ill but insisted upon being carried to the polling booth.

American women should be particularly conscious of the importance of each vote. In 1918, woman suffrage in the United States passed the House of Representatives with but one vote to spare. When the bill went to the Senate, it failed to pass by just two votes. It passed both houses of Congress the following year.

The American Heritage Foundation is conducting a nationwide campaign to combat voter lethargy. The foundation is awarding sets of historic American documents to communities, counties and local organizations that do the best job in turning

Newspaper Publishers See Confusing Paper Situation

TORONTO — (AP) — Users of Canadian newspaper now have three prices in front of them, the most mixed-up situation in the industry in years.

It started with an announcement Oct. 12 by Powell River Co., Ltd., big West Coast producer, of a $10-a-ton increase effective Oct. 18.

This meant a New York base price of $110 a ton, and a Canadian base price of $106.

Abitibi Power and Paper Co., Ltd., followed Oct. 17 with the same increase, effective Nov. 1.

St. Lawrence Paper Mills Co., Ltd., Bowater Newfoundland Pulp and Paper Mills Ltd., and Consolidated Paper Corp., Ltd., other big eastern producers, fell into line.

Then Canadian International Paper Co. announced, Oct. 26, an increase of $6 a ton, $4 less than the others.

Recently, Abitibi took cognizance of this and stated:

"To avoid a period of uncertainty and confusion we have decided to meet this reduction without delay." But the announcement added:

"We believe that our previously-announced increase of $10 was in the best interests of consumers of newsprint as well as our own. It is needed to meet increasing costs and thus to encourage further expansion of supply. We do not believe that the increase of $6 will be adequate to accomplish this purpose."

Other companies made no comment.

So consumers have before them three prices: $110 from Great Lakes, St. Lawrence Consolidated and Powell River; $106 from International and Abitibi; and $100 from companies which as yet have announced no change.

Newsprint prices reached a high of $112.60 in 1920, and dropped to $40 in 1934-35 with most companies in difficulties. It was up to $50 in 1938-42, and post-war increases have included $14 to $24 in 1946, up to $90 in 1947, 59¢ in 1948 and $100 in mid-1949.

Canadian production is more than 5,000,000 tons yearly, of which more than 80 percent goes to the United States.

Canadian International is the biggest Canadian producer; Consolidated second; Abitibi third; St. Lawrence seventh; Powell River eighth; Great Lakes 11th. Among them they account for more than half of Canadian production.

Following the Powell River and Abitibi original announcements of $10 increases Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn., commented:

"There is a limit to the amount of money a newspaper can pay and stay in business." The industry, on the other hand, has maintained that newsprint is about the only commodity selling below 1920 prices, and that the increases have been necessary to take care of increased costs and to keep the industry on a sound basis.

BARITONE—Walter Cassel will appear here Thursday on the season's first concert, sponsored by the Pampa Community Concert Assn. The young concert artist has sung with such radio shows as "Telephone Hour," and the "Andre Kostelanetz Coca-Cola Program," besides having his own show, "Calling America."

Pampa Concert Group Brings Met Baritone Here Nov. 9

Walter Cassel, baritone, will appear in the first concert of the season, sponsored by the Pampa Community Concert Assn. Thursday at 8:30 p. m. in the junior high school auditorium.

The baritone first appeared several years ago on a national professional talent show. After this, he sang at "Hammerstein's Music Hall" and has sung parts in "Showboat," "Ford Sunday Evening Hour," and the "Telephone Hour," with the Andre Kostelanetz Orchestra.

Cassel had his own radio program, "Calling America" over Columbia networks from which he took a leave of absence during the war to tour Army camps. He was awarded the U. S. Treasury Award.

He has sung in musical comedy and operetta and studied under Frank LaForge. The young artist has received all his training in this country. In 1943, he was awarded a Metropolitan Opera contract and made his debut in "Manon" in the role of Des Grieux.

The New York Herald Tribune had the highest praise for "the power, free resonance and excellent diction that are by no means common these days."

for this performance in "Manon." Stewart Wille will accompany Cassel at the piano. He will also perform two piano solos.

Well Fancy This: Hollywood Actor Stars in Bathtub

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Fancy this, Guard! They're making a movie in which a male star is shown taking his morning ablution.

And, get this: it's a color movie.

Ricardo Montalban, who has accelerated more than a modicum of female hearts by his manly feats and gallantry, is disporting himself sans apparel in bubbly suds. It's called for in the script of the picture, "Don Renegade," almost to exploit the angle that

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Reports heard at the board meeting of the Girl Scouts this week show that $4,703.79 has been collected in the fund drive.

It was voted at the meeting for the council to send two adult delegates, Mrs. H. F. McDonald and Mrs. Glen Radcliff, and one senior scout, Carol McCune, to the regional conference in Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 16, 17, and 18.

Others to attend the conference are Mrs. J. R. Adkisson, Mrs. E. J. Ironmonger and Mrs. C. B. Chisum.

Work has started on the Girl Scout house for complete remodeling, it was reported by Mrs. O. L. Statton. Troops that have been holding their meetings at the house and the Leaders Club certain groups will meet elsewhere until further notice.

Officers elected during an October meeting were Susan Rogers, president; Lola Kay Lathrop, secretary; and Patsy Riggs, treasurer. Two of the October meetings were spent making doll beds from cigar boxes, spools and clothes pins.

A Halloween party was held at the home of Mrs. Joe N. Riggs, Jr. and a "Hobo Hike" was held Thursday. Members of the troop are: Carol Arney, Kay Baker, Cynthia Beard, Carol Falkenstein, Kay Layne, Kay McMurray, Judy Morris, Mary Pursley, Patsy Riggs, Susan Rogers, Sarah Weaver, Lola Kay Lathrop and Margaret Ann Williams. Leaders are Mrs. Matt Beard, Mrs. Elton Lathrop and Mrs. Bert Arney.

Troop 26 The third birthday of the troop was celebrated Oct. 23. Girls presented their leaders, Mrs. Joe Wells, Mrs. J. W. Alexander and Mrs. Nellie Sharp with green and yellow corsages.

Members of the troop told what requirements they have to complete to be second-class scouts. Birthday cake and punch were served to guests, Mrs. H. F. McDonald, Jr., Mrs. J. G. Crinklaw, Mrs. Cole Ford, Mrs. A. W. Kitchens, Mrs. W. B. Franklin, Mrs. Myron Spencer and Mrs. Montalban.

Montalban is flouting the tradition that only women are photographed in the bathtub.

No one points out, however, that movie audiences won't see any more than they saw when female stars were photographed in the tub. The net result will be the same: a tub and a lot of soap suds.

Adele Jergens, one of Hollywood's most fetching blondes, thinks it's a good idea. She says women don't care about seeing women in their bath. She reminds, in the same breath, that audiences are mostly women.

Doctors Transplant Kidney In Doomed Woman's Body

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN CHICAGO — (AP) — A dead woman's kidney transplanted into a once doomed woman's body soon after she performed the unprecedented operation reported.

Their tests indicated, however, that its activity is below par. And they added that conclusions "are necessarily withheld until there is more evidence of the permanency of the graft."

The operation that may bring medical science to a new frontier — the successful transplant of whole human organs — was described in the Journal of the American Medical Assn.

The "human guinea pig," Mrs. Howard Tucker, 44, reported she feels "fine" and is able to carry on her usual household activities. Ten weeks after the operation she was able to take a 300-mile automobile trip to attend a convention. For a week she participated freely in banquets, dancing and other convention activities.

"I hope the operation will mean something to the medical profession and to other sufferers elsewhere," she said in an interview. The doctors said other investigators in this work have reported there is no fundamental reason why organ transplantation should not ultimately become a practicable undertaking.

"At this stage the matching of donor and host is not completely worked out," they said, "but efforts to match more closely donor and host by tissue typing are being made with excellent results by workers at Presbyterian Hospital in Chicago."

In the kidney graft, the doctors made an effort to match tissue. The donor, a 49-year-old woman of the same blood type and physical build, had died 12 minutes earlier from a liver disorder.

Mrs. Tucker was suffering from a progressive polycystic kidney condition that had destroyed function in her left kidney and made her right kidney 90 percent useless. Mrs. Tucker's own right kidney kept her alive during the surgery.

In the subsequent tests, a dye was injected into Mrs. Tucker's bloodstream. One function of a healthy kidney is to remove impurities from the blood. X-ray tests showed the dye passed through both of Mrs. Tucker's kidneys, but was somewhat less in the transplanted kidney than in her own. However, this show-severed ureter stem in Mrs. Tucker's body when her useless kidney was removed. A ureter is a duct that carries urine from a kidney to the bladder.

An exploratory operation, however, showed the grafted kidney was normal in size and shape and was firm and solid. The doctors said they plan another exploratory operation to remove the obstruction.

The report was made by Drs. R. H. Lawler, J. W. West, P. H. McNulty, E. J. Clancy and R. P. Murphy of Chicago. Their medical report did not identify Mrs. Tucker by name but one of the doctors confirmed she was the patient described.

White Deer School Plans Education Week Programs

WHITE DEER — (Special) — The White Deer - Skellytown schools will observe American Education Week, Nov. 5-11, with special programs on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The Skellytown school will hold open house Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m., offering an opportunity for patrons of the school to see a cross-section of the children's work and to get acquainted with the teachers.

On Thursday, from 7 to 9 p.m. the White Deer Elementary School also will hold open house, featuring demonstrations and exhibits, as well as fellowship.

The high school will have a slightly different plan. In order that the parents may have a short time for visiting the grade school before coming to the high school, its program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. As they register, parents will be given copies of their children's schedule of morning classes and asked to report to the respective teachers for a 10 minute class session. Members of the Student Council will serve as guides to direct the "new pupils," and members of the Office Practice and Journalism classes are serving as publicity agents.

At the conclusion of the half-day schedule, the group will be asked to assemble for a brief "pop rally" before getting down to the business of the evening, a round table discussion of a problem which the student body has asked be presented at this time, that of suitable recreation

German City Has Compass Trouble

BERLIN (AP) — It's a bit difficult for Staakeners to find their way through the East-West cold war. Staaken is a small western suburb, about ten miles from the heart of Berlin. Its eastern half is British, its western half Russian.

When Communists attack "western imperialists," East Staakeners look at the Russian sentries on guard in the western part of their town. For West Staakeners, the "West" is still the Russian zone, to which their part of the suburb was ceded by four-power agreement in 1945.

But the "East" is British East Staaken and, still farther to the East, lies West Berlin.

Hot Oil Act Violated

SHREVEPORT — (AP) — A complaint charging violations of the Connally "Hot Oil" Act was filed against Lewis W. Hart, a partner in Hart & Davis, in federal court by Harvey L. Carey, U.S. Attorney.

Hart and several employees are charged with running 8,500 barrels of contraband oil in interstate commerce from leases owned by Hart & Davis in the Caddo-Pine Island field of Caddo Parish during the period from June through August, 1949.

They are alleged to have done this through a system of hidden pipelines — 4, 3, and 2 inches in size — connecting the wells on the leases, and through failure to keep proper records of oil produced, stored and delivered from leases.

The oil was delivered into Texas via lines of the Arkansas Pipeline Corporation unbeknownst to the Corporation, the complaint alleges. Since Arkansas was innocent in the violations, the company is not a defendant.

The main office of Hart & Davis is in Longview, Texas. The concern owns 20 leases in Caddo-Pine Island, has 80 wells producing from the Ammonia Chalk and 19 from the Woodbine, operates a gas-gathering system and a casinghead gasoline plant.

Named defendants besides Hart are Delbert W. Clumley, production superintendent; Robert F. Hooper, gang pusher; Paul B. Craig, Martin D. (Skinner) Webb, and Robert E. Collins, all pumpers; John B. Cheathan, gasoline plant superintendent; Tawner and Elliott gauger for Arkansas pipeline.

Craig supervised the installation of the hidden lines, the complaint alleges.

All are from North Caddo Parish except Hart whose legal residence is in Dallas.

Nationalization Of Oil Warned

JACKSON, Miss. — (AP) — Oil men were warned there is a rising clamor for nationalization of the oil industry.

Oilmen from Mississippi and Alabama attending the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association Convention, heard Guy H. Woodward, Washington attorney for the association, say:

"We have failed to impress the public with the vital relationship of the oil industry to public welfare and national defense."

Woodward said the industry's "rugged individualism" has protected its operating better than most other businesses despite 11 congressional investigations and action by three federal agencies.

But now is the time to start doing something about this movement for nationalization, Woodward said.

He added: "Minority groups have applied pressure far out of proportion to their numbers. They have distorted and confused the thinking of many members of Congress."

Members of the industry—not public relation firms—must develop a realization by the public that freedom of controls is essential, the attorney said.

Women Honored In January

BEAUMONT, Tex. — (AP) — Women in the oil industry will be honored Jan. 10 next year at the 50th Anniversary of the Spindletop Field.

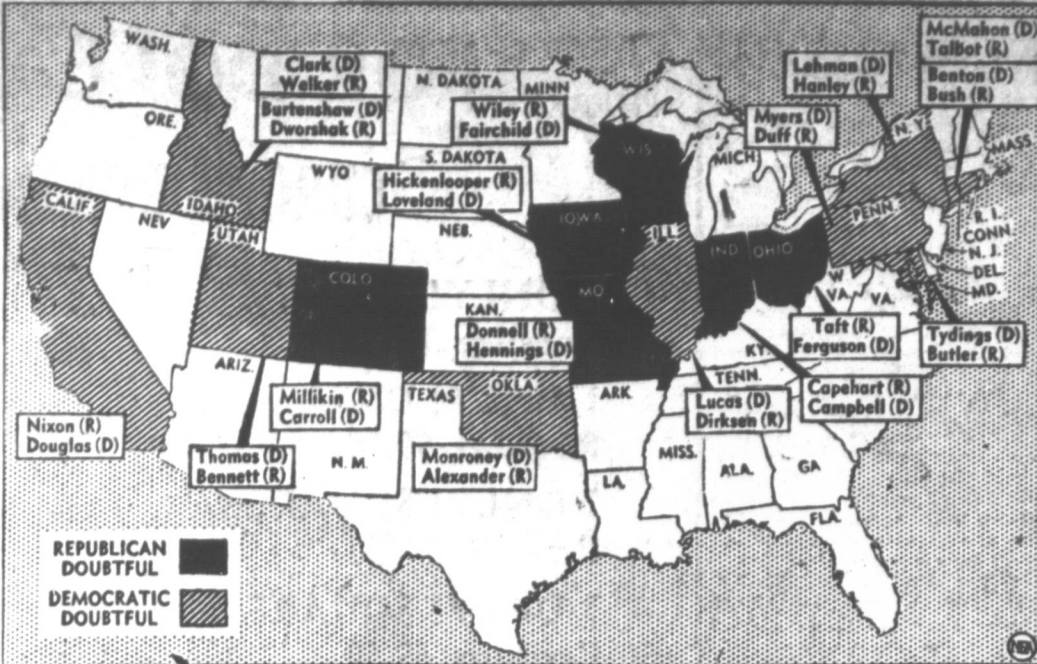

John W. Newton, chairman of the Spindletop Commission, said "This will be the first group to ever pay public tribute to outstanding women in the petroleum industry."

The commission was appointed by Gov. Allan Shivers to commemorate 50 years of progress in the modern oil industry since the beginning of the Lucas Gusher at Spindletop Jan. 10, 1901.

Newsmap shows states where close contests are expected in the November senatorial elections. Shaded states are those in which the Democrats may lose a seat or two in the United States Senate; states in black are those in which Republicans are in the same danger. The G.O.P. hopes for a double kill in Idaho and Connecticut. In the former, Republican Henry Dworshak is fighting for a four-year term and in the latter Democrat William Benton hopes to fill out the remaining two years of his term. Republicans need to win seven of the Dems' doubtful states to gain a majority in the upper house.

McLean Neighbors Help Couple Get Brand New House

M'LEAN — (Special) — Mr. A. Earl Carpenter and other friends. Following the fire, Carpenter and Mrs. Dave Henderson, whose home was destroyed a short time ago by fire, are getting settled in their new two-room stucco house, built for them by neighbors.

The Hendersons were working in a nearby field when fire, caused when an oil cookstove exploded, destroyed their home and all its belongings.

Following the fire, Carpenter, a carpenter by trade and owner of the destroyed house, and several of his neighbors went to work to build the new Henderson home. Work and materials were donated by Glenn Flory, Jack Laman, Jesse Chandler, Josh Chilton, Roy Wilfong, Roy McCracken, Jeff Treat and Luther Petty.

Miss Louise Jaynes, Vernon Miller Exchange Wedding Vows in Clovis

Miss Louise Jaynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Jaynes, 527 N. Sumner, became the bride of Vernon Miller in a double-ring ceremony read in the Baptist Church in Clovis, N.M., Saturday, Oct. 28. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Miller of Copan, Okla.

The bride wore a street length dress of pale pink slipper satin with a lace bodice in the same shade. Her hat and gloves were pale pink and she wore navy blue shoes and carried a navy bag. Her corsage was of white roses.

The bride's parents and her brother, Charles Lee, were present for the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are at home in Pampa.

McLean Couple, Wed 60 Years, Has Celebration

McLEAN -- (Special) -- Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rice of McLean held open house Monday celebrating 60 years of marriage. They feel that they have been greatly blessed, as they have five children, five grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren, and have never had a death in the family.

The daughters and daughters-in-law served punch and cake from a lace laid and flower centered table to the many friends who called to congratulate the still-hand-some couple. Mrs. Rice, with a white orchid pinned to her shoulder, greeted guests at the door just as she would any casual afternoon caller.

In addition to the many gifts presented to the Rices, their children gave them a breakfast set in canary yellow plastic.

C. S. Rice and Ibbie Nichols were married in Fort Worth on Oct. 30, 1890. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Nichols. She was only three years old when her mother died and seven when her father died.

When asked how she met her husband Mrs. Rice said "Well, I went to Baird to visit a friend who said 'Miss Ibbie, I've got a fellow here already picked out for you -- 'at Rice.' That was on a Tuesday and on Thursday we went to a church social and met him."

Young Mr. Rice was a clerk in a dry goods store in Baird, and after they were married they went there to live. In September of 1893 the couple moved to Fort Worth where Mr. Rice went to work for the Texas and Pacific Railroad. He later changed his work and June 15, 1904 Mrs. Rice and the children, Roy, Ruby and Erwin went to Shamrock where Mr. Rice had been sent by the firm with which he was connected.

The young woman and her three small children arrived at their new home in a dust storm and she said, reminiscing, "I thought I had come to the end of the world." Recalling the Shamrock of that time, Mrs. Rice said it consisted of the lumber yard, hotel, blacksmith shop, a few other places with "no water fit to drink." Drinking water, she said, had to be hauled from elsewhere.

In August of that same year, the Cicero Smith Lumber Company with which Mr. Rice was associated, bought out the McLean company and the Rice family moved to McLean, where he was manager of that branch. He held that position until Jan. 1, 1914. In 1908 he had become associated with the McLean Hardware Company, a partnership that dissolved in 1916, when he moved across the street, adding furniture and undertaking. Two years later he quit handling hardware, and in 1925 disposed of the furniture department. He continued in the undertaking business until 1941.

Thinking back to their early days in McLean the Rices mentioned the names of Chambers, W. T. Wilson, A. J. Hindman, E. A. Christian, W. B. Upham, R. S. Jordan, Lucas Oliver, Braxton P. Crawford, J. F. Healey, S. A. Cousin, W. E. Bentley, L. O. Floyd, J. W. Burrows, John Carpenter, Dr. Green, John Lee Guthrie, Sam Brown and Tom McCarty.

When McLean was incorporated in 1909 Mr. Rice was elected its first mayor. The term only lasted a year but he was re-elected five times. In 1922 he was appointed as Justice of the Peace, and held that office until 1925. He has been re-appointed several times since, and has just received that honor for the 1951-52 term.

When the Rices were married they were both Baptists, and in 1904 were among seven charter members of the First Baptist Church of McLean, but for the past 17 years have been in the Methodist Church.

In 1908 twins, Vernon and Verna, were born to the Rices, and were known as McLean's first twins.

Miss Helen Dudley and Doty L. Warner Are Married In First Christian Church; Now at Home in Pampa

Mr. and Mrs. Doty L. Warner are at home in Pampa after a wedding trip in South Texas and Old Mexico.

Miss Helen Dudley and Doty L. Warner exchanged wedding vows in the First Christian Church at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dudley of Pampa and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Warner of Myra, Tex.

The Rev. E. Douglas Carver performed the ceremony and Mrs. May Foreman Carr played "I Love You Truly" and the traditional wedding marches, and accompanied Kenneth Baumgardner, who sang "Because" and closed the service with "The Lord's Prayer."

TODAY BEGINS an event really worth celebrating. In fact, they should just turn school out and then young and old alike could make this a really memorable National Education Week! (Did I say something wrong, Mr. Wilson?)

AS THIS YEAR'S THEME, educators have chosen "Government of, by, and for the People." There will be all kinds of luncheons and radio broadcasts, but one of the most special events will be the open house Tuesday evening at 7:30. All the faculty members are looking forward to meeting the parents and they urge you to come WITH the students!

MOST ALERT people I know are the store managers who loaded their counters and windows with Halloween things and before the last "boo" sounded they had whisked all that away and set the scene for Thanksgiving. And I betcha that before we have cleaned the carcass of the Thanksgiving turkey, the stores will be full of Christmas trimmings! You wait and see. In no time flat we'll be humming "Jingle Bells" and such. December 1, I think, is the day the Christmas displays are "unveiled" and that's also the day of the Santa Claus parade, which is going to be at night this year and the daddies can go! My, Mr. Peg's shoulders are going to be nice for (See PEG O' PAMPA, Page 16)

Miss Evelyn Allen and Bert Haiduk Marry in Holy Souls Catholic Church

A double-ring ceremony read in Holy Souls Church at 9 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 27, united in marriage Miss Evelyn Allen and Bert Haiduk. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. E. B. Turner of Dalhart and a niece of Miss Virgie Denton, 811 N. West, Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Haiduk of White Deer. The Rev. Otto Meyer officiated.

Miss Joyce Duffy of Amarillo was maid of honor and Adrian Haiduk was best man. Ushers were Edd Allen, brother of the bride, and Fred Haiduk, brother of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her brother, Bert Allen, the bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white slipper satin. It was fashioned with a long moided bodice and a marquise yoke bordered by soft folds of satin edged in Chantilly lace. The skirt terminated in a long train. The mitre, which formed the sleeves of the gown, were tapered to points over the hands and were edged in Chantilly lace.

Her Juliet cap was bordered with shirred illusion embroidered with seed pearls, and caught the fingertip-length veil of French imported illusion which was edged in Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of white spider chrysanthemums, with streamers knotted with bits of stephanotis.

Miss Duffy wore an identically designed gown of soft blue satin. She wore short mitts that were tapered to points over the hands. Her headpiece was a halo of blue illusion and pompons dyed to match.

Following the reception, held in the home of Miss Virgie Denton, the couple left for a wedding trip to Roswell, N.M.

Fifty Years of Marriage Celebrated By Pampans, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams

Approximately 175 friends and relatives called last Sunday afternoon to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams on their golden wedding anniversary. A reception was held in the home of a son of the honored couple, Ewing Williams, and Mrs. Williams at 1615 N. Russell, from 3 to 6 p.m.

In the receiving line were the honorees and their children, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vincent (daughter), Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. John A. Williams, Amarillo, and Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Williams.

Arrangements of gold chrysanthemums and golden hued roses profusely decorated the home; on the mantel a bouquet of the yellow roses was arranged in a pair of old-fashioned button shoes which had been painted gold. Mrs. Williams wore a corsage of yellow roses on her plum colored crepe dress.

Alternating at the punch and coffee service were Mrs. George Saywell, sister-in-law of Mrs. Williams, from Los Angeles, Mrs. Kenneth McKenzie of Miami, who is Mrs. Williams' sister, and Mrs. Katie Vincent. At the register were Mrs. Bill Jolly and Mary Jim Vincent, Amarillo, granddaughters of the honored couple. Mrs. Jim Storms and Mrs. Roger McConnell assisted.

Mr. Williams, whose many years in this area give him the right to the title "Panhandle Authority," tells their story this way:

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams tell the folks of their adventures helping to pioneer this great Panhandle country.

Following the severe winter storm in 1885 and 1886. There have been no storms since to come near that one. I have been here since then and I know. There never will be such a destructive storm again, as ranchers now make preparation to feed and care for the stock in winter weather.

Dr. Nel Knottenbelt, May Jones to Be Luncheon Guests of AAUW Monday

Luncheon guests of the American Association of University Women Monday will be Dr. Nel Knottenbelt of the Netherlands, holder of an AAUW international grant for study in this country, and the Texas state president, May Jones, Tarleton Station, Tex.

The luncheon will be held at 1 p.m. in the Schneider Hotel with the president of the local branch, Mrs. H. Y. Cornelius, in charge.

Young Dr. Knottenbelt, who is visiting AAUW branches before her return home in December, has been specializing in gynecology and urology at the Johns Hopkins University Hospital in Baltimore, Md.

She is one of 49 young women from abroad to study in this country in 1950-51 on grants from the AAUW.

What's Cookin' In Gray County HD Club Work

By MARY ANNE DUKE

MEMBERS TO OBSERVE ACHIEVEMENT WEEK

Gray County 4-H Club members—along with 113,000 other Texas 4-H Club girls and boys will join with nearly 2,000,000 members in the nation to observe National 4-H Achievement Week, Nov. 4 to 12.

Working toward their 1950 theme, "Better Living for a Better World," 4-H youth have been a busy group during the past year. They have produced and conserved food, worked to make their homes more comfortable and attractive, helped to supply the extra labor needed to produce crops and livestock and furnished the "know how" for making their farms more efficient and productive.

During 1950 Gray County youth have made outstanding records in 4-H Club work. Barbara Edwards and Margaret Baggerman scored high in the County Clothing Revue and Records Contest to win free trips to the Texas 4-H Round-Up at College Station in June.

Jaquin Robertson, Johnnie Mae Osborne also scored high in the County Clothing Revue and Records Contest to win trips to the district 4-H Club camp held in the mountains of Cimarron, N.M., in August.

Margaret Baggerman was highest ranking 4-H Club girl in Gray County during 1950, as judged by members of the education committee of the Home Demonstration Council. Margaret will be awarded the Gold Star Pin for this achievement.

Jaquin Robertson won first place in the county Better Bake Show. Jaquin was one of 16 other county winners to enter the district bake show in Amarillo. In the district contest she won a baking kit, which contained most essential pieces of equipment needed for baking.

Nancy Harrison placed second in the county bake show and her sister, Fay Harrison, placed third. Amos Hinds, Jr., won first place in the Panhandle District Farm and Home Electric program. This honor carried with it $50 in cash and the opportunity to compete in the national contest.

If he wins in the national contest he will win a free trip to the National 4-H Club Congress held annually in Chicago late in November. Vernon Baggerman is the county nominee for the Santa Fe Award. His record is being kept at College Station.

If Vernon wins he will have a free trip to the National 4-H Club Congress, also.

John Lloyd Carruth is county winner in the 1950 National 4-H Achievement Award program.

Brent Carruth is the county winner in the 1950 meat animals contest. Brent was the 1949 state winner of the Santa Fe Award and had a free trip to National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

John Lloyd and Brent will compete on a state level with other boys in these contests.

A glance at the accomplishments of 4-H members throughout the nation reveals that 16,000,000 quarts of food were preserved during the year; 100,000 acres were planted to gardens; they produced 9,000,000 birds in their poultry demonstrations; they own one million head of livestock and the list could be extended to cover just about every job in the home and on the farm.

They participated in many worthwhile activities such as farm safety, fire prevention, health work, soil conservation, wildlife conservation, fruit tree maintenance and a large group of others.

Their work is not limited to producing and conserving the food and feed they produce, for they devote much time to personal improvement programs. They participate in leadership training activities, citizenship work and group discussions that help them to better understand some of the important social and economic factors that are now at work in the world.

They study and practice democratic procedure and are doing their part to develop the good neighbor spirit at home and abroad.

Gray County 4-H members are extending an invitation to the public to join with them in their observance of National 4-H Achievement Week.

FIFTY YEARS

(Continued from Page 15) She kept talking of moving back to Bell County, where she had come from, so I bought a buggy and began making the trip in it. It could tell, then, that she wasn't as homesick as she thought.

"We finally decided to get married and I just drove over there and we drove down to Canadian and got married in the old Moody Hotel, and there were just two witnesses, Sam Isaacs and Ben Baird. They were fine men, and both have now died."

Mr. Williams continued his story: "We didn't have a honeymoon — they weren't so popular in those days. In a day or two we went to the ranch. She took charge of things and made a pretty good ranch manager. She could rustle her own wood and water."

"Of course we encountered many hardships in our struggle in making a living, with the drawbacks before us. The first house I built on the ranch I hauled the lumber from Clarendon as that was the nearest town with a lumber yard. Of course we had dugouts and a storm house."

Of his family Mr. Williams said: "My wife, Mrs. Williams, was 54 years in the Panhandle."

PEG O' PAMPA

A MUET on my calendar this week is to stop at the library and see the traveling salon of photographic prints which is on display there ... There are 90 some prints of popular photography on display, including 1948 contest winning pictures.

PANORAMICALLY: Hear that plans for the concert series have started and the first concert is Thursday evening ... that group is one of the "workingest" I know ... I for one appreciate their efforts ... And at the mention of concerts, we are already looking forward to the Christmas "Messiah" ... Mrs. C. J. McNaughton was at her best the other day in a perky little velvet helmet like everyone's wearing ... shopkeepers say that they have re-ordered, re-ordered and re-ordered and still they're selling ... Next to these little helmets, I like the billed "little boy" caps ... I met Mrs. G. H. Newberry, an able conversationalist ... Once upon a time the A. D. Robinson's had the most marvelous old player piano that was the delight of their friends ... wonder if they still have it? ... That sweet, smiling face in Anthony's belongs to Mrs. Joe Dunham ... course there are others, but she's the one I've noticed most recently ... On the corner of N. West and Francis they're "building on the site" ... to beat the cold weather, I "spose" ... Is that where the Lee Banks live? ... Don't you enjoy knowing the A. D. McNamearas? ... Mrs. T. H. Beezley has the most beautiful complexion ... And of all the originaive people in town, Mrs. G. L. Damer is one of the best ... she's as good at reciting a poem as she is at writing it ... Nobody has a more friendly way of saying hello than Ina Petrie ... John Rankin and Rusty Ward were busy on the street corner getting blood bank donations ... Doesn't Olin Johnson have a new Ford? ... Mrs. John Thompson ... "no bigger than a minute," is such a sweet person ... Saw Mrs. Hal Upchurch laughing along main street ... funny to watch how some likeable people can't go two steps without being caught in one conversation after another ... she's one of these ... liked her grey two-piece dress, too! ... Don't forget about election day! ... and for the best transportation to the polls, take note of Inez Carter's new automobile ... It's a dream.

POST-MORTEM: There's noticeably two kinds of people on Halloween. There's the ones who douse the lights and make for the back exit—or there's the ones who turn the lights up so bright that the lamps seem to come alive and reach out arms of light to welcome the little spooks. Why, we wouldn't miss the trick or treaters for anything. We like them all — the little spooks still wet behind the ears who ooh and ahnh over the least little handout—and the "vets" who are participating in two or more Halloween campaigns, and who go away muttering, "Oooh, gollies, another Hoorie sucker!"

BEST SPORTS I saw all week were the service station attendants like at Milford Jones, Henderson & Wilson's or at Lewis & Comer's who put lots of elbow grease behind those "chummy clothes" and cleaned the Halloween soap marks "clear away!" And speaking of service stations, I never feel quite so inadequate as when I drive into one and the attendant starts going over the car, asking me what weight oil, or how much the tires carry. I cringe at the thought of all that rigamarole, but ever since Mr. Peg explained to me that cars didn't run on gasoline alone, I've been trying to remember to have the water, oil and stuff checked twice a year—you know, the same time I see the dentist. Women really should think about such things!

... For wisdom is better than rubies; and all the things that may be desired are not to be compared to it." Wonder how many know that quote, and from whence it came?

WELL, LOOKS LIKE we may be going to have some winter after all. I'm glad. We need cold weather to serve all those tempting, hot dishes we love so well. Things like Spanish rice and especially vegetable soup where you just throw in a little of everything! Um, boy, that's sounds good, especially to a gabby gourmet like

PEG O' PAMPA.

'Style in Dress' Program Tonic for Beta Sigma Phi

"Style in Dress" was the topic of the program for the second October meeting of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority which was held Oct. 18 in the City Club Rooms.

Current fashions were discussed by Nancy Sullivan, and Joyclin Quick modeled clothes to show how suits could be changed to fit different occasions.

Plans were made for a chili supper to be held Monday night, Nov. 4.

Firemen's Auxiliary Has Luncheon and All-Day Quilting

The Firemen's Auxiliary had an all-day quilting with luncheon at noon, at the club house, 801 W. Wilks, Thursday.

A surprise handkerchief show was given for Mrs. Ernest Winborne in honor of her birthday. A Birthday cake was also served, and was baked by Mrs. Pete Pierce.

Mrs. Paul Skidmore, president, presided at a business session.

and Mrs. W. A. Claunch, acting secretary, gave a report. Members present were Mrs. Paul Skidmore, Mrs. Tom Haggard, Mrs. W. A. Claunch, Mrs. Pete Pierce, Mrs. Charles Winborne, Mrs. Vernon Pirkle, Mrs. Elmer Darnell and Mrs. Ernest Winborne.

The next meeting of the group will be in the club house, on Nov. 16, with Mrs. Elmer Darnell as hostess.

The firemen and their families had a Halloween party and chili supper at the fire station with group singing and games.

Prizes were won by Mr. Albert Fuller and Pete Pierce for having the best costumes.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Darnell and family; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Pierce and family; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fuller and Brenda; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Haggard, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Brothers from Borger; Mr. and Mrs. Jake Winborne and Tommy; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winborne; Mr. and Mrs. John Meadows; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Skidmore and family; Mr. and Mrs. W. Mrs. A. McNamara Heads Catholic Altar Society

Mrs. A. D. McNamara was elected president of the Altar Society of Holy Souls Church at a meeting Wednesday in Parish Hall.

Other officers will be Mrs. R. A. Chisholm, vice president; Mrs. Frank Walker, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Stanley Brake, parliamentarian.

Announcement was made that the December meeting will be held in conjunction with all other parish organizations, the Parish Council Parent-Teacher Association, Household of Martha and Altar Society. This meeting will be a Christmas program.

Those present were the Rev. Otto Meyer, the Rev. Anthony Soklich, Mrs. H. W. Waddell, Mrs. R. E. McKernan, Mrs. Walter E. Rogers, Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. J. W. Garman, Jr., Mrs. Frank Walker, Mrs. Mickey Conley, Mrs. A. D. McNamara, Mrs. A. B. Zahn, Mrs. C. L. Sullins, Mrs. Stanley Brake, Mrs. John Kidwell, Mrs. Fred Neilage and Mrs. J. W. Garman III.

The Household of Martha met in Holy Souls Parish Hall recently for its first meeting. The organization has previously operated as a committee of the Holy Souls Altar Society.

Officers elected were Mrs. J. W. Garman III, president; Mrs. C. L. Sullins, vice president; Mrs. Walter Pung, secretary; Mrs. Harold Altendorf, treasurer.

Purposes of the organization is to help in the Christmas program, to help in the social activities, and to help in the social activities, and to help in the social activities.

The group will meet regularly on the fourth Wednesday of each month. Meetings will alternate, with a sewing session, and the next month a social activity. All funds and contributions from the socials will be donated to the Catholic Church Extension Society for needy missions both here and overseas.

'Messiah' Rehearsal Slated for Monday

Local singers have been invited to sing in the Amarillo presentation of the "Messiah" on Dec. 10. The first rehearsal will be at 7:30 Monday evening, Nov. 6, at the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. May Foreman Carr and Harley Bulls will be in charge of rehearsals.

"We reared three children and schooled them without a big yellow school bus, and I was in school with a big hack and a span of mules, and when the kids were small we boarded the teacher free to go with them and help them handle the team. When they got big enough to ride horseback they would go by themselves."

Mr. Williams said proudly "The children are all obedient and will listen to me yet. They are all doing well and I feel secure because I know they will look after us in our declining years. We are now trying them along those lines and they see to us."

Mr. Williams said that about five years ago he wrote a book about his life which he titled "54 Years in the Panhandle."

Death of Jolson Brings Out Facts About Brother Harry

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — When Al Jolson died last week, many people learned for the first time that he had a brother.
 But to the people in show business, the story of Al and Harry Jolson is a legend. I called on Harry at his comfortable home in the Hollywood Hills to hear about the long and stormy association of the Jolson brothers.
 "People are surprised to learn about me, because I wasn't in the Jolson pictures," said Harry, who bears a resemblance to the life star. "I always tell them that while Al and my mother and father were playing their scenes in our dining room, I was out in the kitchen washing the dishes."
 Also not shown in the film biographies were the two Jolson sisters, now dead.
 "Like all kid brothers, Al followed my example and I helped him get started. When I ran away with a show, he got the same idea," Harry said.

 Al, who had a "beautiful little soprano," returned home when his voice changed. Harry related, The older brother, who was doing well in vaudeville, suggested they team in an act.
 And so the team of Jolson and Jolson began. Later they were joined by an older vaudevillian named Joe Palmer.
 When Harry fell ill in New Orleans, Al deserted with Palmer. Harry said, That was the end of the brother act. Harry went on as a single act and was successful, especially in England. But he was always in the shadow of his younger brother's fame.
 When Al made a hit in the talkies, Harry was signed by Universal. But he never made a picture.
 When vaudeville started to die, Harry's singing career faded. He became an actor's agent and handled Al and Ruby Keeler for seven years.
 "Then Al walked out on me."

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Remember: It's Only a Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
 Try. Each one seems to have been trying to take legal advantage of his opponents and then been writing to me to find out if his legal advantage is really legal.
 Some of the things that canasta players have been doing to each other have made the wicked banker who forecloses the mortgage a blizzard rages outside the old homestead seem like a real gent.
 he recalled. "My friends persuaded me to bring a lawsuit for the money he owed me, but later I dropped it."
 His agency business folded and he turned to selling insurance. During the war he was a time-keeper at aircraft plants here. Recently he had been on salary at Al's office. From the estate of millions, Harry received $10,000.

warned him before he had landed in real trouble.
 And there is the case of the player who closed what he thought was a natural canasta of seven queens when there were only six queens. The opponent knew that there were only six in the supposed canasta but re-continued ahead until the end of the hand when he called attention to the error.

 That one caused a lot of argument as the player with the six queens claimed that when his opponent allowed him to close the canasta with only six cards in it he accepted the meld as a canasta. Naturally that last was not so.

DOG NOTES

AN EXPENSIVE GIFT

It will probably be a long time before Mrs. Cecil Engebretson gives anyone else a dog. About four years ago she presented her mother, Mrs. Nina Beglinger, with a small terrier as a gift. She thought perhaps her mother was lonely and needed companionship. Now Mrs. Engebretson, who lives in Rochester, Michigan, is contesting her mother's will. Why? Her mother's will left her almost nothing and gave the entire estate of more than $75,000 to the dog.

THE RIGHT LEASH

Are you in a quandary as to the correct type of leash to buy for your dog? Many dog owners wonder whether to buy a chain type or one made of leather. Both have their value and usage. Chain type leashes have a tendency to kink and rust, but have the advantage of not being able to be chewed in half by a dog. The chain lead is the best type to use when tying a dog to a certain place. He can't chew it in two as he might a leather leash and thus see himself. Kinking can be almost prevented by securing one that has a swivel near the end attached to the dog's collar.

For normal use, a leather leash will prove satisfactory. You will also find the flat type of leather leash superior to the round kind, as it is easier to hold securely in your hand.

NATURE IS WISER

Several experts claim that all pups beyond the number of six in a litter should be put to death—preferably the females—because the mother cannot care for a larger number. If the mother dog is young and healthy I can see no need for such deliberate killing of newborn canine babies.

Many of my own dogs have had litters of from eight to ten pointer pups—all of which grew to healthy maturity with no injury to their well-fed mother. Nature is wiser than are we humans. Seldom does she blunder. I have records of litters of from fifteen to twenty pups born to setters, Great Danes, etc. Probably one mother could not bring up so many children in full health but you will notice in most of the dog magazine advertisements of "foster mothers" whose services are available in such rare cases.

Your dog can safely nurse from eight to ten pups. Raise the pups. Don't kill them.

SELECT YOUR DOG

If you were ill you wouldn't go out on the street and ask the first person you saw to act as your doctor. Yet you might buy a dog of whose qualities you know nothing, and expect him to be a peerless watchdog in guarding yourself and your home. All dogs aren't watchdogs just as all humans aren't doctors.

However, the average dog is born with a guarding instinct. But this instinct must be developed before the dog becomes an ideal watchdog. Too many people expect even a six-month-old pup to be a peerless guard of their home and property. Even some of the biggest insurance companies were fooled by this belief. Up until a few years ago many insurance companies gave a ten per cent reduction in the premium for burglary insurance if there were a dog housed on the premises. Such a practice was soon discontinued after it was learned that many of these dogs were stolen and they found that they were paying claims on the dogs which, in many states, are classed as property. Many dogs do make wonderful watchdogs of home and family, but not all of them.

DOGS AND FIRES

If you go back through the files of any newspaper you will find literally hundreds of stories describing how dogs have detected fire and given a timely warning to their unsuspecting owners. Just how are dogs able to detect the presence of fire before we humans are aware it exists? Even a dog lying on the floor by your feet is often conscious of a smoldering fire long before you yourself are aware of it.

All this is true because a dog's highly-developed sense of smell enables him to know of the existence of flame and smoke quickly. But to me the most surprising thing is how a dog can distinguish between the ordinary smell of fire and smoke, perhaps from a fireplace, and that of a dangerous fire. I wish I knew how dogs make their distinction between harmless and dangerous fires. They do. Maybe it is just another example of the sense of impending danger that dogs have and we lack.

THE QUESTION BOX

Question: I was told that one reason my dog sheds his coat so much is that I feed him a lot of milk. Is this true? —O.V.F.

Answer: Feeding a dog milk will not cause it to shed its coat.

Question: At what age should a litter of cocker spaniels have their tails docked? —L.P.

Answer: As soon after birth as possible. By that I mean before the pups are a month old. It is best to do it during their first or second week of life.

of workmanship and beauty. They are not classified, but are a mixture of sports, nature and portraits. A member of the camera club will be on hand as host at the initial display Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m. and each evening during library hours, 7 to 9. The club, headed by Jim Elson, applied for the display about nine months ago. Other officers are Dave Redus, vice-president and Howard Weaver, program director.

Burman Wins Bond, Finds It Worthless
RANGOON — (AP) — A middle-aged Burman has for five years been trying to cash a bond representing 100,000 rupees. The bond in 1945 was the first prize in a lottery run by the Japanese. The unhappy winner has hounded government treasury offices, banks and money-lenders trying to cash in on his winning. All told him, "Sorry, no dice." Korean coal reserves are estimated at more than 1,500,000,000 tons.

Open House Scheduled for High School Here Tuesday

Highlight of American Education Week scheduled to begin today will be the fourth annual open house Tuesday night. All parents of high school students have been invited to attend the open house, program and social with their children. At 7 p. m. parents will visit with the homeroom teachers. A student program will be held in the auditorium at 8 p. m. and the social hour will begin at 8:45 in the cafeteria. Opening the week's activities will be a special 15-minute broadcast over KPND at 12:15 p. m. This transcribed program will be "Lift A Mountain," which is a short story of the life of Horace Mann, modern educator. At 4 p. m. today, the Tri-Hi-Y will hold its formal initiation at the First Presbyterian Church. Several special radio programs will be given over KPND during the week. These include an interview with Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools, over "Staff Breakfast" 9:30 a. m. Monday and Frank Wilson, principal of high school, Tuesday morning on the same program. "The Democracy Bank" will be presented by the radio speech class at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday. "Government Of, By and For the people," which is the theme for the week, will be given at 7 p. m. Thursday by the same group. A student assembly will be held Tuesday with Dr. Douglas E. Nelson as speaker. This will also be broadcast over KPND. For conclusion of the week, will be athletic activities. The Guerrillas will play the Amarillo Yankees at Harvester Park Friday afternoon at 2:30 and the annual bonfire will be held at the rear of the school building at 7 p. m. Friday. At 2:30 p. m. Saturday, the Harvesters play the Amarillo Sandies in Amarillo. This will be the final activity of the week. The term, "in the limelight," referred to the original calcium, or lime, light designed for theatrical use in 1816, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Texans in Washington

By TEX EASLEY
 AP Special Washington Service
 WASHINGTON — (AP) — A Texas couple who set up a Mexican restaurant here find many of their customers are novices at eating Latin-American foods.
 Formerly patrons of Mexican food places in San Antonio and Texarkana, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Whitley came to Washington a few years ago at the suggestion of some Texas congressmen. They said they found no place in the nation's capital where complete Mexican dinners were served. The nearest spot where Texas, New Mexican, Californian and Latin-American embassy folks could get such food was nearly 20 miles away in Maryland.
 "These are our regular customers," says Whitley, "but the ones we get a kick out of are the people from back East who never ate anything hotter than an onion."
 "Take the poor drunk who came in and ordered a meal. After a bit we discovered the fellow in tears, sitting there finishing up a bowl of peonias that hot pepper sauce we serve only for seasoning. He thought it was soup."
 Mrs. Whitley, the former Marie Orcutt of San Antonio, said she discovered one customer holding a lamale in his hand and patiently peeling off the corn stuck and eating it like a banana.
 Former Texas Christian University students here in Washington have organized.
 At their first luncheon meeting, with those old TCU gridiron greats, Sammy Baugh and Pete Stout, present, they elected Dee

Women Being Heard From in Texas' Political Campaigns

By MARTHA COLE
 Associated Press Staff
 Two women are on the ballot for state offices in Tuesday's general election in Texas.
 Two more are down for seats in the House of Representatives. And there's many a man whose name got out on the ballot because women got out and rang doorbells, wrote letters and exercised their privilege of being persuasive over a telephone.
 Both the women candidates for state office are Republicans. They are Mrs. Marjorie McCorkquodale, an attractive blonde from Houston, for lieutenant governor; and Mrs. Dahl Darden, Midland housewife, for state treasurer.
 "Women control the purse strings, anyway," said Eugene Nolte, chairman of the Republican Nominating Committee that chose Mrs. Darden.
 Mrs. McCorkquodale is the wife of a Houston lawyer, Malcolm McCorkquodale, and the mother of three children. She writes articles and is active in the Houston League of Women Voters.
 "I consider it the duty of the lieutenant governor to preside over the Senate in such a way as to increase the efficient handling of its business," she told the League of Women Voters; "to use the influence of that office to see that appointments on important committees go to members who believe in sound economical government."
 In her platform she called for revision of the election laws, jury service for women, modernization of the laws governing married women's property rights and improvement in the state educational system, state institutions, state prisons and adequate provision for the rehabilitation of delinquent children.
 Mrs. Darden, 34, is the mother of two children. She said in her platform for treasurer that the state's financial problems can best be solved by a business-like administration with a budget that must be followed. She approved a tax on natural gas.
 The women candidates for the legislature are both Democrats. They are Mrs. Dorothy Gillis Fuley of Del Rio and Miss Virginia Duff of Ferris. Their election will put two women in the House, as it was in 1949. Mrs. Fuley replaces a man, Tom H. Stovall, and Miss Duff replaces Mrs. Rae Files Still, Waxahachie, who did not run for re-election. The other 1949 woman member of the House did not run for re-election.
 In the Senate, the one woman member, Mrs. Nevelle H. Colson of Navasota, is a holdover.
 Among the women who rang doorbells and talked over the telephone, Mrs. H. W. Weir of Wichita Falls, a Democrat, and Miss Ruthelle Bacon of Amarillo, a Republican, are shining examples of what plain work can do.
 Mrs. Weir rang the doorbells for John C. White, the unknown from Wichita Falls who ousted J. E. McDonald from his reign as state agriculture commissioner. Miss Bacon pounded the pavements and highways for Ben

Britain's Socialists Ask Bold Move on Regulations

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
 AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
 One of the most daring and controversial issues yet advanced by Britain's Socialist government is its proposal to make numerous wartime economic regulations permanent.
 These include food rationing, price controls and allocation of scarce materials.
 Certainly the Socialists had to have the courage of their convictions to bring forward such a far-reaching program. Naturally it has brought from the opposition bitter charges of a further swing to the left and of being bent on regimenting the life of the country.
 You will get a quick denial of these charges of dictatorship if you inquire (as I have done) in authoritative British Socialist quarters. You will be assured that these are "democratic safe-

Curious Beaver Gets Shock of His Life

HELENA, Mont. — (AP) — While fishery men were operating an electrical shocking machine in Little Prickly Pear Creek, stunning fish so they could be weighed, measured and tagged, a beaver swam between the electrodes. The startled animal leaped from the water twice, then sank. The crew on the machine hauled the dam builder to the bank and in 45 minutes the animal recovered and scurried away to resume his wood-cutting.
 certy, even among his political opponents. I had a long private conversation with him at 15 Downing street not long after he displaced Winston Churchill as prime minister, and I came away with the conviction I had been talking with an honest man, irrespective of whether his political theories were sound.
 Mr. Attlee never has concealed from the public his party's program for nationalization. On the contrary, he has called each step he made it.

Suggestions Pouring in as Oblivion Week Gains Favor

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — National Oblivion Week is catching on.
 "Recently I suggested a week for doing away with certain items in the movie world that have seen too much service. Nominations included water-skiing shorts, stars who complain about income taxes and pictures that end with concertos.
 I am happy to report that further nominations have come in from alert movie fans (columnists are always happy to have someone else do their work). Here are some of them:
 A. C. Green, Abilene, Tex.: "Isn't there anything that can be done about movie bigwigs' hamstringing up half the newsreels by presenting plaques to President Truman, George Marshall, General Eisenhower, etc.?"
 A. Nonymous, Washington, D. C.: "I nominate background music. It's either too loud, or there's too much of it — too often."
 Ann Helming, Hollywood: "I'd like to see an end to that famed line in every film biography of a composer. He says, 'Will anyone ever hear my music?' And his girl friend replies, 'Some say everyone will hear your music!'"
 C. D. Shores, New York: "can't something be done to improve the vocabularies of masters of ceremonies on television? I nominate for oblivion the introduction that goes — 'And now I want you to meet a very, very wonderful talent and one of the most wonderful people in show business. Let's give a real welcome to —'"
 D. J. Ragno, Palo Alto, Calif.: "I'd like to nominate the movie hero who discovers — by complete surprise — that he is going to be a father."
 Albert Thompson, San Diego: "How about the gangster who is hauled up in a house surrounded by police? Does he always have to yell 'come in and get me!'"
 Lincoln Ross, Chicago: "I hope I never again see the movie church-mouse. I mean the wash-dout secretary who goes through the picture with a flat chest, braided hair and glasses. Then in the last reel she borrows a gown, lets her hair down and shows up at the ball looking like Lana Turner."
 N.K.T., Florence, Ala.: "My nomination is the lad who always goes to pieces when the submarine is resting on the bottom of the ocean. He always has to be slapped by Cary Grant or John Wayne, whichever is handier."
 As for myself, I'll select the Christmas nose-presser. He's the bedraggled guy who always looks in on the gay Yuletide celebration. When the family brings him in the house, he turns out to be Betty Grable's old vaudeville partner.

Wholesale Prices Rise 3 Percent

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Wholesale prices rose 3 percent in the week ended Oct. 31, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.
 The wholesale index of 169.4 percent of the 1926 average was just under the all-time high of 170.3 in the week of Aug. 17, 1948 and 11.8 percent above the comparable week in 1949. However, it was 0.4 percent less than four weeks ago.
 All commodities other than farm products and food advanced 0.5 percent to another postwar

Russian Made Vital in Red's East Zone

BERLIN — (AP) — Learning Russian has become the most important thing to do at school for the boys and girls of East Berlin.
 The education department of the Communist East Sector administration has ordered an investigation to be made of every case of failure in Russian, which is a compulsory subject.
 If it is confirmed that a student failed "because of open or concealed resistance against the Russian language," he or she cannot be promoted, the department says.

TO TEST CUSTARD

In testing a custard pie put a silver knife in the side of the filling to see if it comes out clean. The center may be a bit soft when the pie is done but it will set later.

Fruit garnishes make a ham dinner really festive. Serve minced pears, pineapple rings, glazed apricots, spiced peaches or pecan-stuffed prunes with the meat.

To make a delicious sauce for cooked vegetables, add a half cup grated sharp cheese to two cups of medium white sauce.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)— Behind the Screen:
Bring 'em on the flowered-print yardage and wrap it around Dorothy Lamour's chassis.

Dorothy's ready to give moviegoers the same blushing pink show she put on for London audiences at the Palladium.

"The story that I was through with sarongs forever was press agent stuff," she told me at the big party she tossed for Harold Peary.

"You know how press agents dream up things. If the public wants me in a sarong, I'll give them what they want."

Dorothy is looking at television

DOROTHY LAMOUR
Strong for Sarong

the way a puppy eyes a buzzing bee. Her verdict:
"I'm scared of it. I want to see what happens. I've already turned down eight top shows. One of them offered me $7500 for a single appearance. I think I'll wait."

Ronald Reagan, generally a Mr. Patience about his fellow actors, is muttering under his breath on the "Bedtime for Bonzo" set. The reason: A scene-snatching chimpanzee who plays Bonzo, Walls Reagan:
"It's worse than working with Errol Flynn. The only difference between this monkey and Flynn is that if you have a good line in a Flynn picture, Flynn goes to the front office and takes the line away from you. The monkey doesn't. This monkey is too good an actor."

Neither Howard Duff or any other star will be playing Sam Spade on the screen. Warners claims Sam belongs to them and has tied up the character through litigation... Republic is tacking a Korean sequence onto "Wings Across the Pacific," the studio's saga of the B-29's.

Billy Gray to a heckler at the Band Box: "I'm glad I don't know your name—I'd rather hate you incognito."

Evelyn Keyes will hit the personal appearance road to plug her co-starrer with Van Heflin, "The Prowler." She owns a piece of the film... Alan Wilson says a friend of his is cleaning up in Paris selling American postcards of Faye Emerson on television.

DRIVES A FORD
Glenn Ford now knows the philosophy of tournament golf play. Ben Hogan has been a stern master as he perfects Ford's golf game for his role as Ben in "Follow the Sun."
"Golf," Hogan told him, "is basically a very contradictory game. You have to strain every nerve to win but at the same time you've got to be completely relaxed."

Here's the inside dope on Fox's plans for this year's Academy Award tub-thumping: Bette Davis and Anne Baxter for "All About Eve" and Richard Basehart for "Fourteen Hours."

Dick Erdman, a paraplegic in "The Men," plays a one-legged Marine vet in "Cry Danger" and next plays a top role in "Weak Heart."

"As long as Hollywood keeps me working," he whispered, "I don't care if I never get well."

Estelita Rodriguez is balking at doing an out-and-out imitation of the late Lupe Velez in "Cuban Fireball," the picture that Republic hopes will cause Lupe's faithful fans to rush to the theaters again.

"I never see Lupe in picture," Estelita told me, "but I weel not take off my shoes and keeling people weeth the heels. You don't half to keel peoples to be emotional. For me will be half-sexy and half fire theang."

Take Off Ugly Fat With This Home Recipe

Here is an inexpensive home recipe for taking off unsightly weight and helping to bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Just get from your drugstore, four ounces of liquid Berostrone. Add enough grapefruit juice to make a pint. Then just take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. Wonderful results may be obtained quickly. Now you may slim down your figure and lose pounds of ugly fat without back breaking exercise or starvation diet. It's easy to make and easy to take. Contains nothing harmful. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky weight and help regain slender, more graceful curves, return the empty bottle and get your money back.

Search for Texas Oil Big Task

Those who know the oil business know what a vast business it is. Those who don't know still know that millions of dollars are gambled each year to make petroleum one of Texas' biggest industries.

It is a wonderful business, full of surprises and a feeling of constant expectation prevails. You never know what is going to happen next. Again, the oil industry is full of heartaches and disappointment. Oil is the biggest gamble known to man.

The Texas petroleum industry is risking an estimated $700 million dollars in the 1950-51 search for more gas and oil.

Indications were that approximately 70 million feet of hole would be drilled in Texas before the end of 1950. This means a rate of about 16,000 wells per year.

This, of course, is the highest drilling rate in history. And, it has been carried out, in spite of steel shortages and adverse tax factors.

A rough guess at cost for Texas wells which average a little over 4,000 to 5,000 feet in depth, is above $10 per foot, counting cost of making the hole, equipping it with pipe and production equipment, and various expensive servicing and testing operations.

The $10-per-foot figure seemed conservative enough. One of the largest operators in Texas, whose wells are deeper than the average, reported $13.79 as per-foot cost and averages well cost at $101,200. Another large operator's annual report showed costs approximating $18.00 per foot.

Wide variation in drilling conditions, with wells ranging from a few thousand dollars to more than a million dollars, make estimates of average costs difficult.

In 1949, Texas operators drilled 15,558 wells, including wildcats in new territory or new formations and development wells in so-called proven fields. The risk by the industry is shown by the fact that nearly one-third of all the wells drilled were dry holes, representing a loss of about a quarter billion dollars. Odds against operators involved in the 2,630 wildcat ventures were, of course, even greater since about 80 percent failed to produce gas or oil.

The percentage of wildcat wells which oil and gas operators put down in unexplored territory indicates the industry's extensive search for new oil. In mid-year 1950 about 20 percent of all wells being drilled were wildcats. More than 3,000 wildcats a year were predicted for 1950, compared to the 2,630 drilled during 1949.

About 40 percent of all the wells drilled in the United States during the middle part of 1950 were in Texas.

Completions Lag in Oil And Gas Production

Oil business was booming this week with 23 new locations. Of the total number of locations, 21 were reported during the first two days of last week.

Oil and gas completions are steadily dropping, however. By the end of the week, only seven oil completions and three gas completions had been recorded. There were two plugged wells.

Oil Dividends Are Announced

NEW YORK—(AP)—Tide-water Associated Oil Co. declared an extra dividend of 30 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents on the common stock, both payable Dec. 1 to stock of record Nov. 10. This brings 1950 dividends to $1.90 a share against $1.60 in 1949.

Universal Consolidated Oil Co. declared an extra dividend of $2 a share and a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, both payable Nov. 28 to stock of record Nov. 13. "Extras" of 50 cents each were paid in February and May and an extra of $1 was ordered in August this year. In 1949 extras of $1 each were paid in each quarter. Today's dividends bring the total for the year to $8, the same as in 1949.

Signal Oil & Gas Co. declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share and the usual quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the "A" and "B" stocks, all payable Dec. 1 to stock of record Nov. 20. Last year the company paid an extra of 25 cents at this time.

Continental Oil Co. (Delaware) declared a year end dividend of $2 a share on the common stock payable Dec. 13 to stock of record Nov. 15. This brings 1950 dividends to $5 compared with $4 paid in 1949.

McCarthy Gets New Oil Well

HOUSTON—(AP)—A new discovery well in the Collins Lake Area of Brazoria County was brought in yesterday by Glenn McCarthy.

The new well, No. 1 McCarthy Oil & Gas Corporation Jamison Estate, is producing from the Hackberry sand and is 7,000 feet northeast of a well which opened the field from the Frio sand a year ago.

More than a third of a billion dollars.

So you see, oil business is a big business. Oilmen love it and the average laymen love it because it is so unpredictable. You can lose as much money as you spend even faster than you can spend it, or you can hit the jackpot.

Sooner Oil Now On Downgrade

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—Oklahoma's unpredictable oil field reports slipped this week in activity.

There were 106 completions, compared with last week's 128, including 87 producers, 44 dry holes and five gas wells, the Tulsa World reported. New tests, too, slumped to 130 in 30 counties after 180 were staked out the week before.

Other data: daily initial output of oil in barrels, 4,814; of gas, 19,020,000 cubic feet a day; and—395,040 total feet drilled.

THE DRILLER'S LOG

By JACK COATS

The advisory board of the Pampa chapter of the American Petroleum Institute met Tuesday at the Schneider Hotel. That fact doesn't seem important in itself, but believe me, it is.

Pampa has one of the largest chapters in this area. Even Amrillo doesn't have one.

This is why the first statement was so important. Of course, those of you in the oil industry know that API is an organization consisting of the top men in exploration, production, and transportation of petroleum. They formulate a large number of policies to help the entire industry.

The chapters throughout the state of Texas have been instrumental in setting many standards that have been useful to the industry.

It seems that our prediction of increased dividends and the rising trend in business has come true. Phillips demonstrated that and Sunray has just published their report.

Sunray is enjoying an increase in business, and it looks like they will keep it up.

Increased defense needs are still in the limelight, and they will be for some length of time.

Although increased defense needs are something to think about, the complete picture is not so rosy.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America is quite worried about governmental restrictions and centralization of production control.

This is a serious thing, according to Russell E. Brown, general counsel of IPA.

The records show that economic restrictions during World War II proved that government controls "sap the strength and capacities of the petroleum industry and at the same time weaken its competitive forces."

Reviewing the position of the petroleum industry in relation to the new Defense Production Act, Brown warned that the oil industry has been confronted with proposals to set up centralized governing, coordinating or planning commissions "ever since removal of war-time controls in 1945 and 1946." Brown claims that efforts are now being made to discredit the oil industry.

He recalled that during the four-year period 1942-1945, under a strict government controls, the industry operated under severe limitations that reduced drilling activity from 32,000 wells in 1941 to 12,000 wells in 1942.

"Subnormal prices and inadequate materials and personnel prevailed throughout the war," he added.

Brown believes that the oil industry can operate, meeting defense needs and building up reserves, by using the same method that has brought them so much success in the past.

And that method is, of course, the same old principle of using the income from oil to find and develop more oil.

You figure it out. Which is best? Should we have governmental controls or not. How about some ideas? It would certainly help we had more local opinion than we do. How about it? All you need is a three-cent stamp.

Individual producers in many areas about Texas continue to report serious conditions with respect for tubular goods for oil field development.

Early attention by officials in charge of allocation programs are still being demanded. It is hoped that recognition will be given to the industry's requirements.

Estimates of petroleum products that will be required leave no doubt concerning the danger involved in denying the materials to carry on a proper rate of drilling.

It is hoped that a settlement will soon be reached that will give the oil industry what it needs to carry on its program. You can't operate without material.

Enough bad news for a while. We think that all or at least most of the problems facing the oil industry will be disposed of in the not-too-distant future.

We still think the industry is going to show its mettle during the next six months.

Statistics Jump as Government And Other Matters Enter

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON—(AP)—It may be the weather but statistics on petroleum storage are behaving peculiarly these days.

Gasoline storage is declining. Fuel oil stocks are increasing. In each case, this is the reverse of the normal trend for this late in the year.

Imports of foreign oil last week jumped above the 1,000,000 barrel daily mark. Crude stocks the previous week dropped 2,219,000 barrels to a United States total of 243,338,000.

Unpredictable weather has become an important postwar factor in the oilman's problem of keeping balance between supply and demand.

A severe 1947-48 winter season brought transportation headaches, spot shortages and congressional investigations.

A very mild 1948-49 winter caught the industry with huge fuel supplies. By the time the comparative mildness was repeated last winter, storage facilities were so full oilmen had no alternative but to start sharp cutbacks in crude output.

October was unusually warm in most sections of the country this year.

A U. S. Census Bureau report this week, however, indicated there will be an unusually heavy demand for heating oils should the next few months produce a severe winter.

The bureau said shipments of oil burners and units in August totaled 104,010, compared to 74,117 the same month last year. Unfilled orders at the end of August were placed at 145,175, compared to a year earlier 80,897.

Residual fuel oil accounts for a major portion of the big jump in foreign oil imports.

The American Petroleum Institute places crude and oil products imports for the week ending October 28 at 1,006,400 barrels daily. This includes 570,000 barrels of crude and 436,400 barrels of residual fuel.

Crude imports averaged 620,550 barrels daily during the four weeks ending October 28, while residual imports averaged only 320,000.

Another government bureau report this week showed imports increasing at about twice the rate of a decline in petroleum exports.

The Bureau of Mines said imports the first eight months of the year were 38.1 percent above 1949, while exports were down 17 percent.

Gasoline stocks last week dropped 320,000 barrels to a total of 105,062,000 compared to a year earlier 105,915,000. Light fuel oil climbed 84,000 barrels to 84,057,000 compared to 83,193,000 the same week last year.

Residual fuel storage increased 438,000 barrels to 44,310,000 compared to 69,459,000 a year earlier. There were predictions this week of further crude production cutbacks next month if current storage trends continue.

Commerce Department officials said an export license has been issued to Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for shipment of 37,000 tons of steel pipe to the Iraq Petroleum Co., during the last quarter of 1950. The pipe is to be used to build a 555-mile pipeline from the rich Kirkuk oil field in Iraq to Banya, Syria, near the Mediterranean sea.

A department spokesman estimated total requirements of the line at 183,000 tons of pipe ranging from 26 to 32 inches in diameter. He said pipe of this size is too large for domestic use, and is not in short supply. Should a shortage develop later, the spokesman said, further exports can be held up.

Johannesburg, S. Africa, was a tin-roofed village in its 1890 gold-rush days.

IPA Protests Exports To East

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The General Counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America protested against the export of pipe for a big new oil line across the middle east.

Russell E. Brown said in a circular to association members that the exports, recently licensed by the government, are "a diversion of steel from home needs."

RE-ELECT BEN GUILL TO CONGRESS

TUESDAY, NOV. 7

(Paid for by Democrats for Ben Guill; Mickey Ledrick, chairman)

IF THE ELECTION FOLLOWS THE PATTERN . . . Newschart above shows why the party out of power is the odds-on favorite to make strong gains or even capture the House (H) and/or Senate (S) in off-year election battles. The President's party has lost strength in Congress at every mid-term election since the Civil War save one. That was in 1934 when the late F. D. R. led the Democrats to an astonishing rout of the GOP. This year Republicans are banking on that "law" to shrink the Dems' majority in Congress to a minority.

1930 Republicans had a depression to explain and the Democratic donkey saw his chance for revenge after living through the Twenties on short political rations. Republican representation in the House slumped to 214 seats as the Democrats got 220, giving them a slim majority.

1934 The elephant sniffed the comeback trail but the donkey didn't give him peanuts. Dems boosted their representation to 322 seats out of a possible 435 and the GOP was left with only 103. This was the high-water mark for the New Deal and the donkey serenaded with a happy one.

1938 The next off-year election saw the elephant, his head "bloody but unbowed," able to hit back at the surprised donkey. Voters gave the GOP 169 seats but kept the Dems in with 262. "Give me time, I'll ruin that miserable hay-burner," trumpeted the bruised elephant.

1942 Four years later he almost did. Republicans promised to keep New Deal reforms, said they could do a better job of administering them. A lot of voters wanted to give them the chance and they closed the big gap. In that year, GOP took 209 seats but Dems won with 222.

1946 Story-writers tell us an elephant never forgets and this one certainly didn't. After 14 years in the wilderness, the GOP battered the Dems into temporary submission. It was a great year for Republicans, they got 246 seats, left the bewildered opposition with only 188.

1950 As usual, the boys are at it again this year. The elephant says he has a good chance, backed by the off-year tradition, to take over the lower House. The donkey says he broke tradition in 1934 and can do it again. It's anybody's guess as to the winner.

Baggerman, Carruth to Head Gray County's 4-H Council

Something new has been added to the 4-H Club work in Gray County. Finding there was a need for planning all county-wide 4-H activities, including recreation, the boys and girls put their heads together at county camp this past summer and came forth with a new Gray County 4-H Club Council.

The boy and girl that were selected for the co-chairmen roles were Brent Carruth of the Pampa High School club and Margaret Baggerman of the junior high club, Grandview community club. Grandview community club, Brent and Margaret are both outstanding 4-H'ers in the county. Other officers of the council are secretary, David Eagle of the Pampa High School Club; treasurer, Reuben Baggerman of the PHS Club, Grandview community; reporter, Billie Mae Osborne of the Blue Bell Club, Bell community.

These executive officers met along with the assistant county agent, Foster Whaley, and the assistant home demonstration agent, Joy Williams, in the home demonstration office Thursday night to discuss plans for the future. The recreation, program, membership, and finance committees were set up for the year. Discussion of the enlargement of council by having the president of each boys' and girls' club represent their respective club as a voting member in council took a major part in the meeting. In case of their absence, a delegate from their club may take their place.

The possibility of organizing a county-wide 4-H Club for older boys and girls, including educational and recreational advantages, was given consideration by the council. Plans for the Christmas party were made and various committees were appointed for the securing of the place, public address system, invitation committee, and gifts. This Christmas party is to be a county-wide affair with the families of the 4-H'ers being invited.

The formation of the Gray County 4-H Council is a part of a state-wide movement to have 4-H councils in every county. A state council was formed at the state 4-H roundup in College Station. The main function of the council will be to plan observance of the National 4-H Sunday, National 4-H Club Week, and National 4-H Achievement Week, and arrange the joint county camp, achievement days, parties, picnics and other 4-H activities. Committees set up and their members are as follows: Glen Harris, Christal Lowe, Johnnie Mae Dauer, Jeannie Noel, recreation; Jaquin Robertson, A. M. Harris, Paul Miller, Eva Mae Rutledge, program; Barbara Edwards, Joe Keel, Vernon Baggerman, Carolyn Anderwald, membership; John Loyd Carruth,

Actor Confesses Communist Style

VIENNA — (AP) — The popular Communist confession "I was bad, but I won't be bad any more" has spread from Moscow to Communist Hungary. The government newspaper "Szabad Nep" recently carried one by Ferenc Ladanyi, "worthy actor of the Hungarian People's Republic." It said: "In the film 'Sing While You Live,' I confessed 'Ladanyi, 'I played the part of a (Communist) party secretary in a factory. Did I ever see such a party secretary in life? I didn't. Did I talk to one? I didn't. Did I watch him at work? Never. 'I only knew the party secretary of the National Theater — but then he is an actor like me and not an ironworker. 'Also the criticism that in my role, my hair was long and dangling to my neck, was very just, I admit treating my role rather slightly."

Constable Giving Plenty of Blood

AMHERST, Canada — (AP) — A record was established at the Red Cross blood donor clinic here when Constable Andrew Duff made his 35th donation. Several others were over the 30 mark and a large number of new donors appeared.

BRITISH EXPORT MORE

LONDON — (AP) — British exports are averaging 17 percent more this year than the 1949 monthly average. Monthly imports are also up 12 percent on the 1949 average, the board of trade reported.

Jerome Weinheimer Fay Harrison, Shirley Keel, finance

Joe Keel, David Engle and Jaquin Robertson were appointed to write a constitution for the council.

The group will meet once each month, with the next meeting on Nov. 21.

In planning for the Christmas party, the recreation committee of the council will plan that phase of the occasion; the program committee; invitations will be sent out by the membership committee and expenses will be taken care of by the council finance committee.

Date of the party has been tentatively set for Dec. 16.

NEW MEXICO

THE LAND OF ENCHANTMENT

Nature and history have combined to mark New Mexico with scenic and historic marvels now preserved for this and future generations as a National Park and National Monuments. These wonders of the world, timeless and ageless in their interest and appeal for young and old, wait here to make your visit memorable in any month of any year. ● Carlsbad Caverns National Park, visited by nearly a half million persons last year, is open with full facilities the year around. Its changeless underground temperature never varies from a cool 56°, winter or summer, so take a coat or sweater with you there. ● The eight National Monuments sketched above stand unchanged by time or season, perhaps even more fascinating in autumn than when thronged with the larger crowds of summer travel. ● The eight million acres of National Forest that cloak the mountain slopes, are spangled with the yellow gold of aspen groves in autumn dress, while the valleys blaze with the deeper tones of cottonwoods along the water courses. ● Fall is the brightest season of the New Mexico year, with sunshine averaging 80% of the total possible amount. Sunsets turn the distant peaks to amethyst, bright across a hundred miles of crystal air. Everywhere is color and interest and beauty — yet everywhere is greater ease and quiet to double the relaxation of every vacation day. ● Come to New Mexico NOW.
