4-H Members Attend Camp

Seven 4-H members from Borden County were cooler than the rest of us this past week. They were all a part of a group of 150 attending the 4-H Electric Camp, located 28 miles southeast of Cloudcroft, New Mexico, high in the Sacramento Mountains. The camp is sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Company.

Lamesa Rodeo Begins Thursday Night

Three big nights of rodeo action, beautiful Queen candidates, a parade, a dance and around 400 entries will all combine this weekend to make the 1978 Lamesa Rodeo one of the best ever.

The seven directors of the Lamesa Rodeo Association are pulling all stops to give the Dawson County area a rodeo to remember beginning with the parade Thursday evening beginning at 5 on through to the final awards and the crowning of a queen Saturday night.

Charlie Thompson's C-T Rodeo Stock of Lubbock is billed as the best there is for an amateur rodeo and all his bulls are leased for use at the national finals every year.

A bull scramble, barrel racing, bull riding, saddle branc and bare back branc riding, calf roping, county junior barrel racing, open calf riping and association calf roping and team roping are on tap for the three nights and Saturday morning of rodeo action.

Seven lovely young ladies are vying for the title of Queen of the 1979 Lamesa Rodeo and one will be crowned Saturday evening. The girls will be judged on the number of ticket and raffle sales, horsemanship, and personality. The 1978 Queen Lauri Britt will crown the new Queen. The drawing for the pair of boots will be held Saturday night.

Queen candidates include Debra Kountz, Lanier Beckmeyer, Terri Mires, Pam Harper, Jana Harris and Melissa Webb.

Entries for the rodeo will be taken by phone only by calling the rodeo headquarters number, 872-3175, between noon and 6 p.m. Wednesday Aug. 2.

Admission to the rodeo will be $2.50 for adults and $1.50 children under 12 years of age.

Thursday night the action begins with the parade and at 5:30 p.m. the Sheriff's Posse will begin the Bar-B-Q which will be held at the fairgrounds area in one of the community buildings. The rodeo begins at 8:30 p.m. with a dance set for 9 p.m. at the National Guard Armory with "The Rex Thomas Band" playing the music.

One of the highlights of the rodeo action will be the bull cont. on pg: 3

AJRA National Finals

The American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals Rodeo will be held in Snyder, Texas, at the Scurry County Coliseum August 8-12 at 8:00 p.m. each night sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and Scurry County Board of Development. AJRA was founded 26 years ago by Alvin Davis of Post, Texas. Secretary-Manager of the Association is Leslie McFadden of Rankin, Texas.

The AJRA continues to grow this year. There are 758 members this year, which is the largest membership in the history of AJRA. The members are under 19 years of age, with some as young as eight. In order to be eligible to compete at the Finals, a member must place in the event he wishes to enter sometime during the year. Approximately 30 WJRA shows are held throughout the season. Some members have taken a good lead in certain events before arriving for the Finals, and others are still competing so close that only a few cents could keep them from winning the championship. This situation keeps the Finals quite thrilling and exciting until the very last night. Yearly awards will be presented at the end of Saturday night's performance.

The AJRA National Finals

is a week of competition the young emembers and their families look forward to all year. They travel long and hard all year competing and building their points to the possibility of winning for themselves a title of "Junior World Champion".

Stock producer for this year is Burrell Markum, Valley Rodeo Company, of Valley Mills, Texas. Rick Chatman will be the clown.

AMAG Credit Union In Full Swing

The AMAG Employees Federal Credit Union has announced the successful completion of its' first full quarter of operation. The local credit union was initiated during January of this year and has grown significantly since inception. The current membership is 106 with share accounts of $20,000.00 and a loan balance of $15,000.00, according to David K. Henderson, Treasurer.

Credit unions are non-profit cooperation institutions organized to provide thrift services to members. To become a credit union member, one must have a "common bond" with members of the credit union. In this case, the "common bond" involves working at the same firm, American Magnesium Company, Snyder, Texas.

"We are pleased to offer the additional services to our employees which our credit union can supply," stated Henderson. Historically, credit unions have had two purposes-to provide a systematic savings program and to extend helpful credit at reasonable cost. The AMAG Employees Federal Credit Union is looking forward to a dividend rate of 5 1/2% on normal share accounts held during 1978.

ASCS News

Failed Acreage Destroyed Without Feed or Other Benefit:

Current regulations provide that a program crop affected by a disaster shall be appraised when the acreage will not be harvested for grain or lint. Furthermore, the appraised potential production shall be counted as production in determining eligibility and the amount of low yield payments (even though the producer may destroy the crop without any benefit).

CHANGE-Waiver of Appraisal by Farm Operator:

Regulations will be amended to provide that a disaster affected program crop need not be appraised (or charged with an appraisal) and will have an assigned yield of zero when the farm operator:

1. Files an ASCS-574 and certifies the acreage and the COC determines that the crop is disaster affected (either based on knowledge about the individual case or a farm visit).

2. Signs on agreement of understanding that:

(a) The potential production is so low that carrying the crop to harvest will not be feasible.

(b) The affected program crop will be mechanically destroyed without feed or other benefit.

(c) The affected acreage, even if normally double cropped, will not be subsequently devoted to:

(a) Another nonconserving crop (extending fall seeded crops for harvest the next year), or,

(b) A conserving crop for harvest (including hay or green chop) other than grazing.

(d) Should the agreement be violated, a yield shall be assigned to the affected acres.

This change will allow a producer to destroy disaster affected crop acres without having the acreage appraised and still be eligible for low yield disaster payments based on the planted acres. Payment computations are based on the following:

Cotton-Ac. for Payment x (75% of Established Yield) less Actual Production x 17.3¢ per lb.

Gr. Sorg.-Ac. for Payment x (60% of Established Yield) less Actual Production x $1.14 per bushel.

Wheat-Ac. for Payment x (60% of Established Yield) less Actual Production x $1.50 per bushel.

Supplemental wheat payment will be made after September 30 at rate increase of $1.70 per bushel (The increase is delayed by law until then)

QUICK QUIZ

Have you many mental resources on the subject of energy and the economy? This quiz can help you tell.

1. Energy experts estimate that, at current usage levels, our domestic supply of oil would run out in (a) under 50 years (b) about 5 years (c) over 500 years?

3. If Congress and the Administration do not excessively delay a Liquid Metal Fast Breeder Reactor demonstration project, unemployment could (a) increase (b) decrease (c) stay the same?

2. Increased energy consumption tends to cause the unemployment rate to (a) increase (b) decrease (c) stay the same?

4. How much does coal contribute to our total energy utilization? (a) 75 percent (b) 46 percent (c) 20 percent?

ANSWERS: 1. (a) If oil use is held at the current level, our domestic supply would disappear in under 50 years. 2. (b) Historically, there has been a close correlation between the Gross National Product, employment and energy consumption. As the last that, large enough to run commercially, could increase our available energy at lower costs since they create their own fuel. That would help the economy, employment and the environment. 4. (c) Because of strip mining and the like, coal contributes less than 20 percent of our total energy utilization.

Some time ago the FBI nabbed four men with four million dollars worth of counterfeit bills.

The word "counterfeit" means "a copy made in imitation of something else to deceive." These men hoped to go to a paradise by their deception. Instead they are in prison.

As long as the United States makes bills, there will be counterfeit bills. And as long as Christianity makes believers, there will be counterfeit believers. No one imitates anything that is worthless, not even the Devil.

You will find counterfeit bills in circulation, and you will find counterfeit believers in churches. But you will not find any counterfeit believers in Heaven.

"Not all who sound religious are really godly people," said our Lord. "They may refer to Me as 'Lord,' but still won't get to heaven. For the decisive question is whether they obey My Father in heaven. At the judgment many will tell Me, 'Lord, Lord, we told others about You and used Your name to cast out demons and to do many other great miracles.' But I will reply, 'You have never been Mine. Go away, for your deeds are evil.'"

According to the Internal Revenue Service, in 1975, there were 90,836 women millionaires—but only 89,164 men millionaires.

Chicken Is "V.I.F." In New Eating Style

Never before has the common chicken occupied a more prominent role in American eating habits. As homemakers search for appealing low saturated fat dishes to tempt their families, the chicken has become a "Very Important Food."

More and more doctors are urging Americans to decrease the amount of saturated fat in their menus and increase the amount of cholesterol-lowering foods. This means eating fewer dairy products and fatty meats and more poultry, fish and vegetable oils.

Chicken plays a big role in the program. More enticing ways to serve the "V.I.F." are needed. This Chicken and Rice duet is a good solution. It is a one-dish meal which means little cleanup. And it is low in saturated fat and high in polyunsaturates. Various spices and vivid green peas, chopped tomatoes, parsley and onion co-star with rice, chicken and Fleischmann's Corn Oil Margarine.

Fleischmann's Margarine is made from 100% corn oil. No oil is more effective than corn oil in reducing the level of cholesterol in the blood.

This colorful casserole combination will evoke the time-honored praise of all successes: ENCORE!

CHICKEN AND RICE

2 tablespoons Fleischmann's Corn Oil Margarine
2 tablespoons vegetable oil

3 pounds chicken parts
1 can (1 pound 3 ounces) tomatoes, chopped
1 cup chicken broth
1 cup sliced onion
1/4 cup chopped parsley
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 medium bay leaf
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1-1/4 cups uncooked rice
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas

Heat corn oil margarine and oil in Dutch oven or large heavy saucepan. Add chicken and brown well. Add tomatoes, chicken broth, onion, parsley, salt, pepper, bay leaf and garlic. Cover and cook over low heat 25 minutes. Add rice and cook 10 minutes; stir occasionally. Add peas and cook 10 minutes longer, or until done and all liquid is absorbed. Makes 6 servings.

Gun Control Legislation

By Phyllis Schlafly

When Congress recesses for campaigning this year, among the bills that will be left in the circular file are the gun control bills.

Letters from the American people run 18-to-1 against such legislation and the issue is too hot to touch in an election year.

Proponents of gun control are fond of trotting out a battery of statistics to justify their creative interpretation of the Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The banning or registration of firearms is needed, they say, because "studies show" that such laws lead to a reduced crime rate.

There is no hard evidence to support that hypothesis. A massive 1975 University of Wisconsin study concluded that gun control laws have "no individual or collective effect in reducing the rate of crime." The study compared homicide rates to rates of handgun ownership, state by state, and found no correlation.

Last year, GMA Research Corporation surveyed police officials and found that they place little faith in additional gun control laws as a means of reducing crime. More than 80 percent of the 6,000 respondents felt that existing gun control legislation has no effect of crime in their area.

A 1977 national poll by Decision Making Information, a respected national opinion survey firm, showed that 67 percent of the American people believe that additional gun controls are not an effective means to control crime.

Many experts believe that the unrestricted availability of guns actually helps in preventing crime. St. Louis University Law School Professor Don Kates Jr. points out that armed shopkeepers often foil robberies. His data show that armed civilians capture, wound, kill or scare off criminals in 75 percent of reported confrontations, while the police success rate is only 61 percent.

Above and beyond any empirical evidence about the use of guns for good and bad purposes is the constitutional argument for the right of American citizens to own firearms. The Second Amendment states simply: "A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

The gun control advocates try to argue that the right of the people to keep and bear arms is not an individual right, but a collective right which pertains only to the state militia. For authority they cite the 1939 U.S. Supreme Court opinion in United States vs. Miller, which appears to support this view.

Perspective on Wage and Price Controls

"The fight against inflation is not going well," reported Barry Bosworth to Congress recently. This candid admission by the director of the White House Council on Wage and Price Stability stirred fears among leading businessmen and economists that some form of wage and price controls are on the way.

Deceleration Theory

The administration's current strategy in controlling inflation is "deceleration." If businesses hold their price increases below those of last year and labor leaders seek smaller wage boosts, the theory goes, the inflationary buildup can be gradually chipped away without serious economic consequences.

Holding down wage and price increases is to be accomplished by "jawboning"—using the power and prestige of the White House in the person of Presidential inflation counselor Robert Strauss to pressure business and labor into moderating their demands.

Opponents of administration policy believe it addresses the symptoms of inflation, not the causes. They argue that inflation is not caused by business and labor, that these groups are merely trying to stay even with governmentally induced inflation. They feel that as long as the administration refuses to recognize the real cause of inflation, it is likely to look to an easy solution in stronger wage and price controls.

Fueling Inflation

Critics point to a number of actions taken by the federal government which have forced up the rate of inflation. They include:

- Running a projected $50 billion budget deficit this year, coming four years into our economic recovery.

- Spending an estimated $500 billion in fiscal 1979, an increase of 24 per cent in two years—well beyond the expected increase in inflation for this period.

- Allowing the money supply to grow at a 7.3 per cent rate in the last year with continued growth at 8 per cent, a rate of growth inconsistent with stable prices.

- Putting pressure on coal operators to agree to a contract which the administration itself now concedes is inflationary.

- Increasing the minimum wage—a move that both raises prices and destroys jobs.

Ineffective But Costly

These critics contend that the administration's current anti-inflation strategy, while ineffective, is not without costs. This is because it focuses attention away from the real causes of inflation. They fear that the failure of this program will cause the administration to look to stronger controls—rather than to re-examine the premises on which current policy is based.

On the surface, wage and price controls seem to offer a simple solution to a complex problem. Unfortunately, our two most recent experiments with anti-inflation controls—from 1962 to 1966 and from 1971 to 1974—resulted in even higher rates of inflation when controls were lifted. And as George Hagedorn, chief economist of the National Association of Manufacturers, has pointed out, "in each case, inflationary forces became so strong that (controls were) helpless to resist them and had become an economically disruptive factor."

Political Appeal

In 1968, Richard Nixon stated that wage and price controls "do not work, can never be administered equitably and are not compatible with a free economy." Nixon's subsequent imposition of wage and price controls in 1971 indicated the enormous political appeal of such a policy. Resisting the pressures for increased federal spending, on the other hand, has been politically impossible.

However, opponents of controls are encouraged by the recent vote to limit taxes in California. This suggests, they argue, that a genuine anti-inflation policy consisting of fiscal and monetary restraint may now be feasible.

Many lawyers, however, believe that this decision has such major defects that it cannot be considered binding on this point. For example, the defendant Miller was not represented before the Supreme Court. Since the essential adversarial element was absent, major legal and factual arguments were never considered.

The legislative history of the Second Amendment shows that it was passed only after the Congress decisively rejected a motion to insert the words "for the common defense" after the words "to bear arms." This demonstrates a clear intent by the Founding Fathers not to limit the right to bear arms to the common defense.

The first 10 amendments to the Constitution all guarantee individual rights, and there is no reason to believe that the Second Amendment is uniquely different. Many of the original states also provided for the right to keep and bear arms in their state constitutions at the time our Union was formed.

The gun control advocates have high motives but, as Justice Brandeis once wrote, "Experience should teach us to be most on our guard to protect liberty when the government's purposes are beneficent. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning but without understanding."
