Great-Niece of Area Couple Appearing in Play

Missy Johnson, great niece to Vivian and Pauline Clark, is now appearing in Casa Manana's production of "Fiddler On The Roof" in Fort Worth.

The characters in it are not handsome heroes, beautiful heroines and saucy chorus girls, but people in rags and patches. Most of the men have beards and only a few are young. The women even the girls look plain and careworn. For these are the inhabitants of a Jewish village in Russia in 1905. Missy plays the part of Bielke, the youngest daughter of a poor dairy farmer. Mel Dacus, who plays Missy's father in "Fiddler On The Roof", is a poor milkman who has a cranky wife and five marriageable daughters for whom he can afford no dowries. When the going is rough, which is almost all the time, he has intimate conversations with God. Although his conversations all the time, he has intimate conversations with God. Although his conversations are never disrespectful, they call a spade a spade, "Send us the cure," he warns the Lord, "We got the sickness already."

This is Missy's third season to appear at Casa Manana. Other plays to her credit have been "Annie Get Your Gun" starring Ruta Lee, "Showboat", and "Damn Yankees" starring Van Johnson.

Missy, models for the "Dallas Apparel Mart" and Kim Dawson Agency in Dallas, Texas, this is the largest agency in the Southwest. The major clothing Previews are held four times a year and clothing manufacturers from all over the world show

Native Daughter Dies

Jessie B. Jackson

All of Borden County was saddened this week with the death of one of their native daughters when Jessie B. Jackson passed away Friday morning 6:20 am at Methodists Hospital in Lubbock.

Jessie B. was born at Fluvanna June 4, 1917, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Odom. She had lived in Borden County all her life serving as County Clerk and later as post Master at Gail. She was always an active member of the Church of Christ, an active participant in all Community affairs.

Although she will be greatly missed we can all rejoice in the knowledge that she no longer has to suffer the indignities of the dread disease that has ravaged her body these last three years. Although her illness robbed her body of her mobility and made her speech difficult Jessie B. remained always a gracious cheerfull hostess always happy to see her visitors, always eager for word of community activities and never a complaint or discouraging word about her own illness. May her life be an example for us all.

She is survived by her husband O. D. Jackson, two daughters, Carol Lewis, Fluvanna, Katherine Jackson of the home, a son Don of Abilene, A sister Ruby Lee Gooby of Arkdale California, a brother,

An Extra Special Neighbor

For many years, Jessie B. was our "Extra Special Neighbor". She was never to hurried or busy to stop for awhile and lend a helping hand the many times we've needed it through the years-with never a thought of asking anything in return. Her life always shown much brighter than most anyone else. Her life of doing for others, giving to others, and loving others is being rewarded richly as the final rewards have been given to her - who has spent a lifetime in Gods Service.

Falling Skylab Provokes Humor

By JIM CARRIER
Associated Press Writer
Even something like the fall of Skylab can't squelch Americans' humor. Some, with an "it-can't-happen-here" attitude, are daring Skylab to hit them: others are laughing all the way to the bank.

One neighborhood near Offutt Air Force Base in Bellevue, Neb., painted a huge target in the middle of its cul-de-sac street. "Maybe Skylab will fall here. We thought we'd give it something to aim for," said resident Patty Stahl.

A Minneapolis Tribune cartoonist, noting that Skylab carried a supply of mashed potatoes and pudding, recommended a Skylab splatdown picnic: "Supply your guests with spoons and bowls and wait for the fun to begin."

Skylab, scheduled to break up in the atmosphere between July 10 and July 13, also has brought out the entrepreneurs.

Stores in Montgomery, Ala., were selling 8-ounce bottles of "Skylab Repellent" with a money-back guarantee. For those actually struck by a piece of the 77-ton vehicle, the stores had "Skylab Impact Balm."

And in Atlanta a local radio station gave away T-shirts labeled "Official Skylab Target," with imprinted bull's eyes. Its promotion said: "Think of the fame, think of the glory - think of the mess."

A firm in Kansas City is thinking of the money. Seat-of-the-Pants Management has sold 2,000 paper Skylab Helmets at $2 apiece. The company stresses that the headwear doesn't protect you from falling Skylab parts, but you'll be "appropriately dressed for this once-in-a-lifetime event."

Another helmet distributor, Brad Rudolph of Denver, says he plans to stand in the open when the pieces start falling.

"Can you imagine how much money you'd make if that thing hit you?" His poster-board helmets contain an "early warning spike" protruding from the top to give ".00193 nanoseconds of warning" before Skylab hits.

And yet another entrepreneur, Steve Danzig of Bloomington, Ind., is selling an "Official Skylab Survival Kit." It includes a helmet that Danzig describes as "Skylab citizen protection helmets are printed in the federal Register." The federal document covers a wide range of topics, but Skylab helmets isn't one of them.

Songwriter Mike Nobil of Gorham, Maine, has penned a ditty that advises: "Learn to do the Skylab hop, and you'll be safer when she drops...The reason for this dance is this, a movin' target's harder to hit."

Congressional Comment

Washington, D.C. — On July 2, 1776, the Continental Congress declared that America was separated from Great Britain. Two days later on July 4, the Congress endorsed an extraordinary document, a Declaration that stated the Colonies' numerous reasons for leaving the British Empire. On this week of the 203rd anniversary of this event, I feel it fitting to pay tribute to the author of the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson. This man proved himself to be a skillful legislator, inventor, scholar, diplomat, and an influential president.

Jefferson began his career as a justice of the peace and then, in 1769, he took his seat in the House of Burgesses, the lower house of the colonial legislature. He served in this, and in the later revolutionary conventions, until 1775, when he was sent as one of the Virginia delegates to the Continental Congress in Philadelphia. Then in June, 1776, Jefferson was appointed to the committee assigned to prepare the formal statement on the reasons for separation from England. He later served as Governor of Virginia, Minister to France, Secretary of State, and President of the United States.

Jefferson's contribution to world events can not only be measured by his political career as a legislator and president, but also by his political philosophy which has helped shape American institutions for over 200 years. He was a firm believer in the ability of mankind to govern himself. The effort to establish republican government over a large area and a heterogeneous people was a novel idea, but in the end it turned out to be the most successful experiment in human history.

Thomas Jefferson's conception of government institutions was derived from the doctrines of natural laws and natural rights. He wrote in the Declaration of Independence that men were endowed with the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. He was of the conviction that the ability to own property was a natural right. Also he was a chief advocate of the principle of separation of powers as a necessary safeguard against abuses of authority. During the process of forming our government, Jefferson adhered to a policy of strict or narrow interpretation of the Constitution which he thought essential to the preservation of the citizen's liberties. In the early years of the Republic there was a continual battle over the scope of authority of the Federal Government. Jefferson founded a party that was opposed to a strong centralized government and he advocated the belief that a large sphere of the interests of the citizens could best be served either by state or local governments or by no governmental action at all. One of the phrases most associated with his philosophy is "the government that governs least governs best." In this 203rd year of our existence as a nation, America would be well served by a reaffirmation of this basic political tradition.

CERTIFYING YOUR FARM PROGRAM ACREAGE

WHAT IS CERTIFICATION?

Certification is the procedure by which farmers report their crop, set-aside, diversion, and other program acres.

WHO MUST CERTIFY?

All farmers are encouraged to report crop acreages. Participating farmers who grow barley, corn, grain sorghum, rice, upland cotton or wheat AND who wish to be eligible for price support and disaster, deficiency, diversion, or grazing and haying payments must report their acreages. Farmers growing these crops but not participating in the set-aside programs should report their acreages to insure the opportunity to fully participate in future programs.

Farmers who grow marketing quota crops (extra long staple cotton, peanuts, and tobacco) will continue to report their acreages as in past years. These crops are not affected by set-aside or other program requirements.

WHERE TO CERTIFY

Farmers certify their acreages at their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office.

BY MONDAY, JULY 16, 1979

BE ACCURATE

Farmers should be sure that they report their acreages correctly since an incorrect report could make them ineligible for program benefits. Adjustment of acreages after the final certification date is not permitted.

SPOT CHECKS

After certification, ASCS county offices will select farms at random for a visit and measurement. The measurements collected will then be compared with the acreages certified by the farmer.

NOTE: Farmers found out of compliance after a spot check may not dispose of crops to bring themselves back into compliance.

FOR MORE INFORMATION on certification or any other ASCS program matter, contact your county ASCS office.

Programs administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture are open to all eligible persons regardless of race, religion, color, national origin or sex.

Your County Agent Says By Sam Field

A rabies vaccination clinic, sponsored by Borden County 4-H, will be held at the county showbarn Saturday, July 14. Dr. Charles Church of Snyder will vaccinate area pets between 8:00 am and 12:00 noon. Cost for the clinic will be $5.00 per animal and will include vaccination and tags.

Watch Out For Rabies

Public awareness of rabies prevention is important due to the large increase of confirmed cases in Texas this year.

Rabies cases doubled during the January-March period of this year compared to the same period a year ago.

Rabies, one of the oldest and most feared diseases, is a natural disease of dogs, cats, bats and wild carnivores, points out the county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

All warm-blooded animals are susceptible since the disease is transmitted by a bite which introduces the virus-bearing saliva.

The virus may be present one to three days before the onset of clinical signs. Since there are no "typical" cases, animals exhibit a wide range of symptoms. Therefore, any unexplained central nervous system disorder should be regarded as possibly being rabies.

Clinical rabies in man and most animals is essentially 100 percent fatal. There is no specific therapy once the disease's course has begun.

Take proper precautions when encountering an animal suspected of being rabid. An apparently healthy animal that is not a stray that bites a person should be confined and observed by a veterinarian for 10 days. Immediately kill a stray that bites. Since the brain is needed for diagnosis, don't kill the animal by injuring its head.

Immediately clean all bites and scratches thoroughly with soap and water since this the most effective rabies preventive. Then contact your doctor for further treatment.

Protect all pets through a rabies vaccination program. Livestock should also be protected in areas where rabies is prevalent in wildlife.

Promptly pick up and humanely dispose of all stray animals. Also, warn children to stay away from strays or other wild animals.

The Rabies Clinic is a very good opportunity since Dr. Church is coming to us so lets bring "Ole Rover" out and get him vaccinated. In a case such as this an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure. All pets should be brought on a leash.

New Envelope, Card Standards Going Into Effect

July 15 is the deadline mailers have to use up small and undersized envelopes and cards, Gail Postmaster Nicolai Lackey said.

Starting that date, the postal service makes its new size standards effective. Cards and envelopes measuring less than 3 1/2 inches high or 5 inches long no longer will be mailable and will be returned to the sender. Extra large first-class envelopes more than 6 1/8 by 11 1/2 inches will incur a seven cent surcharge if they weigh one ounce or less.

Lackey advises these oversized pieces will be returned to the sender if they do not carry the seven cent surcharge, but can be remailed if the surcharge postage is then affixed. However, delays for these pieces can be avoided if mailers make sure that sufficient postage has been applied.

The new regulation also will prohibit thin or flimsy cards. After July 15, seven-thousandths of an inch thick.

"Small envelopes and flimsy cards tend to jam mail processing equipment and cause damage to other mail pieces as well," explained Postmistress Lackey. "The surcharge on oversized or add shaped pieces is intended to cover the added cost of handling such pieces which must be processed manually," she said.

"These standards," have been established to allow the postal service to process mail more efficiently and this will mean better service for customers."

Improper Gasoline Storage an Explosive Situation

With Texas motorists becoming increasingly concerned over short supplies of gasoline and strict allocation plans in the state's major metropolitan areas, a dangerous problem could become critical—the improper storage of gasoline.

Doug Williams of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office, suggests the only safe place to store gasoline may be in your car or truck's fuel tank or in an approved gasoline storage container in a well-ventilated area. A gasoline can stored in the trunk of a car is like carrying a bomb that could go off at any minute.

"Technicians have compared the destructive force of a two-gallon can of gasoline to that of several sticks of dynamite," Williams said. "A spark from starting the engine, the flame of lighting a cigarette, or the impact of a collision could blow the vehicle apart, causing death or injury."

Unfortunately, the TAISO chairman says, the fear of running out of gas may put a lot of rank amateurs into the gas storage game.

"Many of those who handle gasoline for a living are quick to note that a container with a small amount of fuel can be more dangerous than a full tank," Williams said. "The reason is that a small amount of gasoline in a can creates a highly explosive gas-air mixture which is more explosive than liquid gasoline itself."

Another problem brought on by the gas crisis, according to TAISO, is the use of secondary or auxiliary gas tanks, many of which are improperly installed or are not manufactured to industry standards.

Though an auxiliary fuel tank may extend the time between stops at the gas pump, it can also be just as deadly as a can of gasoline in the trunk if improperly installed. Many dealers of auxiliary gas tanks have seemingly sprung up overnight selling poorly constructed or poorly installed merchandise.

Though gasoline storage in cars is a major concern of safety officials, gasoline storage in homes can be as, if not more, dangerous. Houses have been lifted off foundations and set afire by a basement full of gasoline fumes ignited by a water heater or furnace pilot light.

In one California fire, seven members of a family were badly burned when they tried to store fuel in a plastic trash container in a bedroom closet.

Thus, what might look like a convenient way to bear a gasoline shortage on the road or in the home could have tragic effects if precautions are not taken. Here are a few tips from TAISO:

-Keep gasoline in containers tightly capped if they contain any fuel!

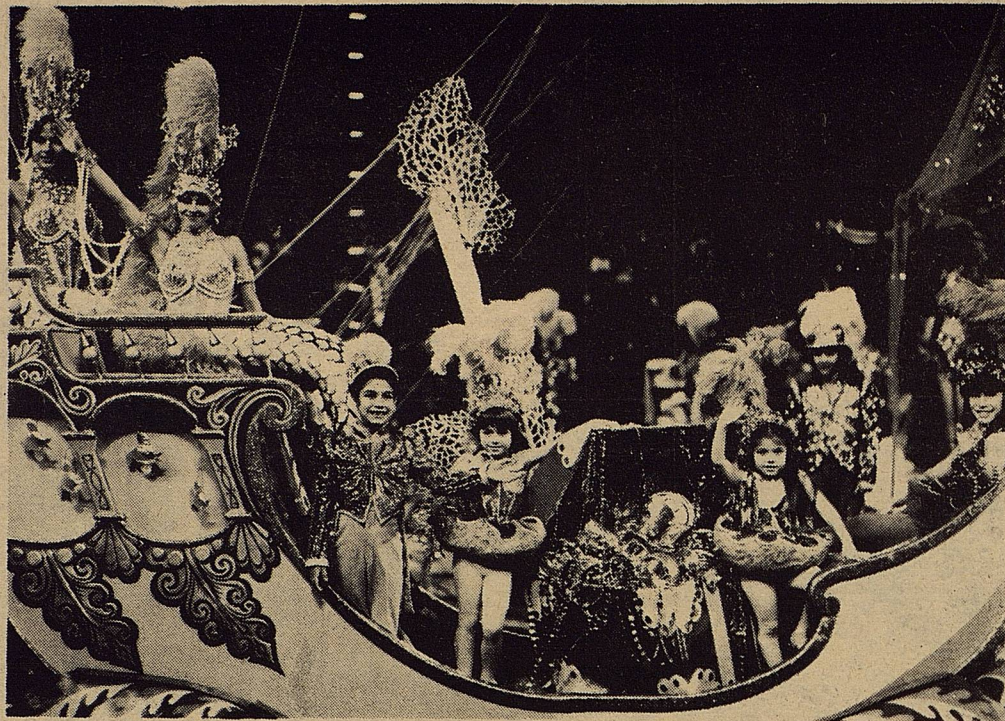

-Once a container is empty and thoroughly ventilated, leave the cap off to allow fumes from the remaining drops of gasoline to evaporate.

-Never put gasoline in anything but a container specifically designed for fuel.

-Keep gasoline where only an adult can get it. The smell of gasoline is often intriguing to children; don't let their curiosity cause them or anyone else harm.

-Stored gasoline must be kept away from heat and flame. Remember that gasoline will expand in volume as temperatures rise and may seep out of even the best container.

TAISO is licensed by the State Board of Insurance as an advisory organization. It represents approximately 350 insurance companies that write 98 percent of the premium volume of auto and related lines in Texas. The Service Office assists in gathering and maintaining statistics related to automobile insurance and offers counsel on forms and other technical matters considered by the State Board.

July 25-31, Farm Safety Week

July 25-31 has been proclaimed as National Farm Safety Week and reaffirms the need for a reduction in the number of accidents and fires that lower production and bring personal loss to farm and ranch residents.

Co-sponsored by the National Safety Council (NSC) and the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), Farm Safety Week was begun in 1944 to help reduce farm accidents impairing wartime food and fiber production. The annual rural safety event is supported by many organizations serving agriculture.

The theme for the week is "Personal Protection--A Defense Against Injury."

According to preliminary estimates by the NCS, in 1978 accidents claimed the lives of approximately 5,700 farm and ranch residents. Agricultural work accidents resulted in 1,900 deaths and 180,000 disabling injuries; farm and ranch residents accounted for 1,500 and 140,000, respectively, Total cost approached $5 billion. USDA officials urge farm workers to participate in the nation-wide observance and strive to attain a safer agricultural community year-round.

Dawson Girl All-Star In Cheerleader Camp

Lisa Brakebill, a student at Dawson Junior High School, was selected Junior "Miss All-Star" at the close of the Western Texas College cheerleader camp on June 29.

The Dawson Junior High squad was honored as Most Improved Squad and also won third place in the Junior High Division. Members of the squad in addition to Miss Brakebill are Tammy Hatley, Missy Gomez, and Sallie Gary.

Klondike cheerleaders also rated high with the instructors for the camp. Klondike High School's squad, Mindy Stone, Robin Robinett, Amber Echols, Roxanne Hart and Susan Holcomb, won first place in the varsity division. The junior high squad, made of Lori Lobstein, Kori Jensen, Dina Todd, Patti Harris and Bobbi Sterling, won first in the junior high division. Stanton high was selected Grand Champion Squad.

Second place in the high school division went to Stanton, with third going to Ropesville. In the junior high division, Haskell won second.

"Lisa's selection is really an honor for her and for the WTC camp," Mrs. Mickey Baird, WTC Activities Director, said. "In the six years we have had the cheerleader clinic, only one other All-Star Cheerleader has been selected. That was Kathy Brzozowski from Wylie High School in Abilene. She is on the staff of the All-Star Cheerleader Conference this summer as an instructor.

"Our staff this summer felt Lisa's radiance and talent as an individual all week were outstanding. As one of the instructors put it, 'She shone like a star all week, never letting her smile falter nor her energy fail her'.

"The staff rarely gives the honor of All-Star Cheerleader to a girl this young, but they felt they could not overlook the talent of this young lady, and we congratulate her."

Instructors for the WTC cheerleader camp come from the All-Star Cheerleader Conference which has its headquarters in Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Baird also assists with the camp. She sponsors the cheerleader squad at WTC and is a former coach and teacher

Keep Cool When Hot Days Hit

Throughout the nation Citizens Band radio operators have earned a reputation for passing on helpful information that has helped reduce traffic congestion and frequently has saved lives.

Looking toward a sudden hot spell that will bring on a rash of boiling radiators, Automotive Cooling System Institute offers some advice that might be disseminated via C.B. radio. If you're stuck on a limited access highway clogged with overheated cars, don't add to the confusion by causing your own car to boil over. Turn off your air conditioner! It can be worth the discomfort.

According to the Institute, some hot weather traffic tie-ups are self-perpetuating—one stalled car begets another. A marginal cooling system will overheat when it is subjected to abnormal periods of idling, especially when the added burden of an air conditioner is placed on the engine. CB'ers could help alleviate the situation by advising fellow CB'ers to keep their cool through the "parking lot" (CB lingo for traffic jam).

To further reduce the burden on your cooling system, put your car in neutral while you're stopped and run the engine at slightly more than a fast idle so that the fan can pull extra air through the radiator.

And if your car does overheat, pull it off the road as quickly as possible and do not attempt to remove the radiator cap until the temperature has dropped. When you do remove the cap, do it with extreme caution, protecting yourself with a wad of rags. Scalding water could spew into your face.

Whether or not you have a CB radio in your car, the following advice from ACSI can help you avoid engine overheating:

1. Give your car a good cooling system check-up before the hot weather hits. This should include a pressure test of the system plus a careful inspection of all belts, hoses, connections and the radiator pressure cap.

2. Have the cooling system flushed and install new antifreeze coolant if you have not had this done during the past year. Be sure you use the correct fifty-fifty solution of antifreeze and water. It's just as important in the summer as it is in the winter.

Your automotive service dealer can check these important cooling system components for you. Or, if you're a do-it-yourselfer, write to AUTOMOTIVE COOLING SYSTEM INSTITUTE for their new booklet, "A QUICK COURSE IN CAR CARE." Send a stamped, self-addressed number 10 envelope to the Institute at 222 Cedar Lane, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.
