Grasshoppers Plaguing Western Texas

Hordes of grasshoppers are stripping rangelands in the Texas Panhandle and have their sights on pastures, ranges and crops to the south and east.

Some 1.5 million acres of rangeland have already been treated or will be treated shortly in the Texas Panhandle, report Dr. Mike McWhorter and Dr. Phil Hamman, entomologists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System. Counties in the spray area have a grasshopper count ranging from 32 to 54 per square yard. A count of eight adult grasshoppers per square yard is considered serious enough for control measures.

According to McWhorter and Hamman, the spray program for rangeland involves use of the insecticide malathion and is being conducted on a cost-share basis with ranchers, the Texas Department of Agriculture, and the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Spray applications are made after grasshoppers hatch and before females start laying eggs.

The entomologists encourage farmers and ranchers as well as homeowners to check for grasshopper infestations along roadsides, fence rows or idle, undisturbed ground where the pests may be hatching. A key to effectively suppressing grasshopper numbers is to treat these hatching areas early before young hoppers begin to migrate.

A bait mixture using toxaphene has been effective in controlling grasshoppers along field margins and roadsides, point out McWhorter and Hamman. The formulation calls for 100 pounds of mill-run bran, 11-3 pints of Toxaphene 6E, 7 to 8 gallons of water, and 2 gallons of blackstrap molasses. Sawdust may be substituted for up to 1/4 of the amount of bran. Distribute the bait while still moist at 10 to 20 pounds per acre.

Another product, Hi-Plains Border Bait, is a ready-to-use formulation that is registered in Texas but currently has no distributorship.

To prevent extensive grasshopper damage to crops and home gardens, McWhorter and Hamman recommend the following insecticides:

Cotton--Malathion EC or ULV and Sevin 80S;

Corn--Alfatox EC, Diazinon AG 500, Malathion EC or ULV, Sevimol 4, Sevin 80S, Sevin 50 WP and Sevin 4 Oil;

Sorghum--Malathion ULV, Sevimol 4, Sevin 80S and Sevin 50 WP;

Wheat and Other Small Grains--Malathion EC or ULV, Pennacp-M, Sevimol 4 and Sevin 4 Oil;

Rangeland--Diazinon AG 500, Dibrom 8, Malathion EC or ULV, Pennacp-M, Sevin 80S, Sevin 50 WP and Sevin 4 Oil;

Home Gardens--Diazinon 25 EC, Malathion EC and Sevin 50 WP.

Another Pioneer Passes

Mrs. George A. (Ludie) Clark, 95 years of age, of Clovis, New Mexico, died Friday, July 6 following a two months illness. She was born June 7, 1884 in Brady City, McCulloch County, Texas, the daughter of Ambrose Tennessee and Molly Allison Locklear. Because of severe drought in McCulloch County in 1892, the Locklears drove their herd of 300 head of horses to Borden County. On the road west this fine racing stock was driven through the main street of the small village of Abilene. Eight year old Ludie and her ten year old sister, Tennie drove one of the wagons. On a bed made in a white top hack trailed behind the other wagon, were Mrs. Locklear and infant Elsie, born ten days before the family left Brady. After spending the fall of 1892 camped in their wagons under a mesquite tree and the winter in a three room dugout rented from the widow camp-the imprint of that dug out may still be seen on the old Smith place east of Gavitte-the Locklears purchased a dugout on the west bank of Gavitte where the road crossed. This crossing is quite near where Highway 180 crosses Gavitte today. There the Locklears lived by the side of the road, watching and aiding passersby. The children went to the school built by Mr. Locklear and Mr. York with Mrs. York and later Dr. Prince as teachers.

On April 30, 1902, Ludie Locklear was married in the newly built church at Gail to George Adrian Clark, son of another pioneer Borden County family. At that time George was editor of the "Borden Citizen". In 1904, George and Ludie and daughter Lorene, along with several other Borden County families, went to New Mexico and established the settlement of Puerto, southeast of Tucumcari. Later they lived at Vaughn, Santa Rosa, Las Vegas and other New Mexico towns where George pursued the newspaper game, publishing papers in both English and Spanish.

George died in 1935 and since that time Aunt Ludie has made her home with her daughter Lorene Vandevender at Grady and Clovis. Seven children were born to George and Ludie Clark, three of whom survive. They are Lorene Vandevender of Clovis, George W. Clark of Scottsdale, Arizona and Arlene Rudolph of Oklahoma City.

Aunt Ludie was a charming, gracious lady, always a joy to visit, alert an active until her last illness. Her memories of early days in Borden County were vivid and she has been the source of much information we have of those early days. She will be sorely missed.

44th Scurry Rodeo

The 44th annual Scurry County Rodeo begins Wednesday, July 18, and makes a nightly run through Saturday, July 21, at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Featured events in the rodeo will be bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, team roping, barrel racing, and bull riding. Special events include a wild cow milking and a junior goat sacking. Performances begin at 8 p.m., and tickets, based on seating, sell for $4 and $3.

Bill Zimmerman, president of the Scurry County Rodeo Association, said he anticipates as many as 12,000 persons to attend the four-day rodeo. Rodeo contestants will likely number between 500 and 550, he said.

"Besides Texas," said Zimmerman, "they'll come from Oklahoma, New Mexico, and probably Louisiana." Some contestants may come from even farther away, he said.

"We're expecting to have the best string of bucking horses in the amateur rodeo," Zimmerman said, adding that the stock producer for this year's rodeo will be Buster Webb of Blanco, N.M.

A dance, with music provided by Hoyle Nix and His West Texas Cowboys, will be held from 9 p.m. until midnight each night of the rodeo at the coliseum annex.

More Gas But Price Still High

HOUSTON (AP)—The price of gasoline in Texas is still rising - but not as fast - and there's more of it.

The American Automobile Association says its survey of 420 Texas service stations shows that only 4 percent of the stations are out of any grade of fuel and 2 percent are limiting customers' purchases, compared to 10 percent out of fuel and 3 percent limiting purchases last week.

The price of fuels stayed the same as last week or increased up to 1.1 cents per gallon. Last week the increases were 1.1 to 1.9 cents per gallon.

But the shortage also seems to be spreading to smaller cities and rural areas, forcing more stations to close nights or Sundays, the AAA reports.

By Renee Kientz
Staff Writer

Fourteen months ago, Janice Burrus gave birth to a child with birth defects. She went through the usual period of guilt and suffered months of depression, and came out of it all with a glowing outlook on life and a desire to help others.

The child, John, has a number of physical problems which include malformed ears, a micro-cephalic head and a kidney disorder that may or may not resolve itself. John also has a smile that would melt a glacier and the strong will of a trooper. His strength has helped Mrs. Burrus come to grips with the knowledge that the future may not be all rosy for her son, and to accept each day as it comes.

Her concern for her son also has led to a concern for other "special" children and their parents. John's kidney problems recently necessitated a trip to the Dallas Children's Medical Center and while there, Mrs. Burrus and her husband, Bobby, discovered there were other parents with similar problems.

One of the most immediate problems they shared was a place to stay while their child was in the hospital. High motel and restaurant costs added to the cost of the child's hospital pay made medical care doubly expensive.

That was when Dr. James Wilkes, a nephrologist, called Mrs. Burrus' attention to a project that would create a place, near the medical center, for out-of-town parents' to stay while their child was in the hospital.

The project (called the Ronald McDonald House because the McDonald restaurant chain is a major contributor to the construction and maintenance of the house), is a concept that has already been tried in three other cities and is proving successful.

A Special Love

The houses are built adjacent to local hospitals, and offer a place for parents to stay for a minimal charge. Private bedrooms are built around a central kitchen and "living" area which are shared by the temporary residents. The Dallas project is scheduled for completion in 1980.

Wilkes pointed out to Mrs. Burrus that the people that need a place like the Ronald McDonald House most, are those that live outside of Dallas. Therefore, fundraising had to be done in other areas of Texas. He asked the Miles woman if she would be willing to try to organize fund-raising efforts in the San Angelo area and she said yes.

"I was really impressed with the fact that everyone who is working for this thing is a volunteer. No one gets a salary," Mrs. Burrus explained. "And the idea is so great. It's only $5 a night, and if you don't have that, you don't have to pay anything. And, I can't say what it means to be with other parents who have children with problems."

She says the involvement with the center's fund raising has given her a new perspective on life.

"Something special happened to me when we went to Dallas last month," the dark-haired woman says. "You look at your life and see what are the most important things. Your family, your friends. You take care of each other and things will fall into place."

A few months before John's birth, Mrs. Burrus' mother had died with cancer. The discovery that John had birth defects deepened her depression and she admits it took her months to work her way back. The baby was having severe problems with keeping food down and his weight gain was poor. Intestinal problems, not related to the birth defects, necessitated two crucial surgical operations. Now, at 14 months old, he still only weighs 11 pounds, but the family is hoping tubal feedings will enable the child to gain more weight.

"My main concern for a long time," Mrs. Burrus says, "was to get him to eat and keep it down. Then in the fall, I got a baby-sitter and I think it helped me, and John and my other children..."

"I always was rushing. Now, it is just take it as it comes and live each minute to its fullest. That is no sign that tomorrow is going to be good. You don't know what tomorrow is going to bring."

The Burruses also have two other children, another son, Deen, 5 and daughter, Gera, 5. The experience of having to cope with the addition of a "special" child to the household has created some jealousy problems but for the most part, says Mrs. Burrus, has brought the family closer together.

JOHN BURRUS

She explains that John must undergo therapy at the West Texas Rehabilitation Center and says his brother and sister have found a way to share in that.

"Deen and Gera are constantly remembering all the little exercises, always helping John. They have really worked with him. To be just 4 and 5, and behave like this is really amazing."

For her, the experience of having a "special child," has made her see the value of enjoying life as it is.

"Why does it have to take such a headbeating experience to get me to realize that I have got everything," she asks. "I have everything that anybody can have in this world: a family, three kids, a husband that works very hard to support us, who is caring and loving, who loves his kids. I had all that for so long and did not realize it."

She says quietly that John's future is uncertain. His health is threatened by his inability to gain weight and by kidneys that are not functioning to capacity. While some problems, such as the child's malformed ears, will be corrected later by plastic surgery, the kidney disorder may worsen. In that case, transplant may be the only answer. And, John's brain may not be able to develop normally due to the smaller-than-normal size of the the cranium. His mental ability will be affected by this.

He has so many problems - his kidneys, his hearing, maybe his mentality - but, he's got such determination," the woman says. He has really got a will to live. They really don't know what to expect. He is unique."

Asked what she wants for her children, the young mother replies.

To really appreciate being alive. I hope they will be what I call special people. I think you can only be that type of special person when you make others feel special, if you have the ability to make another person feel they are the only one in the world and that you truly care. Learn to care for others and to care for yourself...

"As for John, I want him to be accepted as John for whatever John is. If John is slow, if he is friendly, whatever he is, accept him as he is and love him.

Half-gallon Gas Pricing Begins For $1 Plus Sales Per Gallon

AUSTIN—Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown recently announced regulations which allow certain retailers in Texas to price petroleum fuel products in one-half gallon increments.

The action was taken to ease the growing problem of dispensing fuel costing $1 or more a gallon through pumps which can register only 99.9 cents. An estimated 90 percent of retail pumps in the state fall into this category. Brown said.

The regulations will become effective on July 3, after publication in the Texas Register.

"The emergency rule will provide for a uniform method of sale where fuel prices are $1 or more a gallon," Brown said. "It will help eliminate confusion for the consumer about the per-gallon cost of fuel and the methods of calculating this cost at the pump."

Provisions of the regulation are as follows:

1. The regulation will apply only to those retail pumps which are not capable of indicating a per-gallon price greater than 99.9 cents, and only where the selling price per gallon exceeds that amount.

2. So that consumers will be fully aware when fuel is being priced by the half-gallon, adhesive labels clearly stating that fact must be attached to all pumps where this pricing method is being used. Price per full gallon must be also given.

3. A large, weatherproof poster shall be attached to each pump which states the following: "This pump indicates price per one-half gallon. The total dollar and cent value to be paid by the consumer shall be two times the actual amount indicated on the pump." Posters or billboards advertising price of petroleum fuel products shall continue to be expressed in price per gallon.

DOUBLE UP--Some Texas gasoline pumps, those unable to register over 99.9 cents, may soon have to show prices in half-gallon increments. Texas Department of Agriculture Weights and Measures stickers such as those depicted here will help eliminate consumer confusion.

APPLE AND CHEESE RING

Food packages are good sources for recipes and helpful hints. A case in point is the Fleischmann's Yeast package which carries "Hints for Better Baking" on each strip of three packages. The recipes include how to combine the yeast with other ingredients, time and temperature recommendations, pan sizes and approximate time needed for each step. Try this tasty Apple and Cheese Ring.

APPLE AND CHEESE RING

Makes 2 rings

- 2 cups peeled chopped apples
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup dark seedless raisins
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts
- 2/3 cup milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 cup margarine
- 4 cups unsifted flour (about)
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 packages Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
- 1 egg, at room temperature
- 1/2 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
- melted margarine

Mix apples, lemon juice, brown sugar, raisins and nuts. Heat milk, water, and margarine to 120°-130°F.

Combine 1 cup flour, sugar, salt and yeast. Add liquids and beat 2 minutes. Add egg, cheese and 1/2 cup flour. Beat 2 minutes. Stir in more flour to make a soft dough. On floured board, knead 8-10 minutes, let rise until doubled, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. On floured board, roll into two 12 x 10 inch rectangles. Brush with margarine. Top with apple mix. Roll up from long sides, sealing the seams. Form into rings on greased baking sheets. Seal ends. Cut 1-inch wide slices almost to the center. Turn slices on sides. Cover; let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Bake at 375°F for 20-25 minutes, or until done.

Youth tourers back from capital

Midwest Electric's 1979 rural electric youth tour winners, Carla Jones and Jimmy Byers, along with chaperones Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jackson, returned home June 19 from an exciting 12 day trip to Washington DC.

The trip included brief stops in Texarkana, Nashville, Knoxville, and Roanoke, Virginia. While in Washington, the group of about 44 Texas youths visited with other tour winners from all over the United States, visited their Congressmen, observed Congress in action, and was greeted and addressed by President Jimmy Carter's son, Chip.

Other points of interest visited were the National Archives, National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, Capitol Building, White House, Arlington National Cemetery, Smithsonian Institution, and a cruise down the Potomac River.

Rabies Clinic Held

With rabies on the rampage in South Texas and some cases close to home Borden Co. 4-H sponsored a Rabies Vaccination Clinic Saturday, July 14 at the County Show Barn. Dr. Charles Church assisted by Clayton Riley vaccinated thirty pets between 8 am and 12 noon. Folks from all over the County came for the clinic.

We hope this can be an annual event for Borden County so if your pet was already vaccinated look for us to have another one next year.

Next time you see Dr. Church let him know how much you appreciate him coming over to help us out.

Dr. Charles Church and his assistant Clayton Riley were busy during the Rabies Clinic held Saturday morning. "Missy" owned by Kelly Jo Ogden receives her shot a little unwillingly.

On The Western Slope Of The Rockies

MRS. GEORGE A. CLARK

I know a land that is very fair;
Our heavenly Father put it there,
He made it by His gracious hand,
And gave it to unappreciative man.
We fail to appreciate its grandeur and beauty,
We fail to thank our Father, (which is our duty).

For the western slope of the Rockies
The mountains high, the vale below.

More wonderous beauty we will never know.
The stately aspen, spruce, and fir of lace.
The towering pines in majestic grace.

Vari-colored flowers bedeck the vale and mountain side--
Their splendor would grace the brow of a bride.

Tis a fairy land, not make by man.
This western slope of the Rockies.

Tis here you'll hear the wise old owl,
On the distant hill the coyotes howl.

The big brown bear call this their home;
Here the deer are want to roam.

When summer's gone, and autumn comes,
You'll hear the report of hunter's guns.

The deer understands and feels
The hunters close upon their heels.

They speed away to the dark ravine.
Hoping, there, not to be seen.

Beneath the hanging boughs they creep.
Scarcely move, dare not sleep--

Every nerve tense, fast beating heart,
The snap of a twig, a leap, a dart,

'Tis joy to the hunter's mind
The hidden haunts of the deer to find--

On the western slope of the Rockies.
The sunset a painters brush can ne'er excell,

A poets pen can never tell;
They may paint and write for years to come

They'll ne'er describe the setting sun.
On the western slope of the Rockies.

The beauty of the falling snow,
You'll have to see before you know

It falls and falls, grows very deep,
In the vale below; on the rugged steep.

The ablest pen will never write
Of the mellow moon on the snow at night.

Soon we lose this beauty almost Divine
When comes the rays of warm sunshine.

It melts and feeds the bubbling springs
'Tis nectar for queens and kings

Here men and beasts may quench their thirst;

To everything it gives new birth.

On the western slope of the Rockies.

Mortal can never write the words,
That will half describe the birds.

Amore beautiful sight you'll never see
Than a flock of bluebirds in a tree

On the western slope of the Rockies grand
Where friends are true and man is a man

Where everyone gladly helps his Brother,
We obey our Lord and love one another

There are servants of God in this land, given,
Who point the way to home in Heaven.

They tell of James and John and Paul,
And of our Savior's love for all.

A land so full of wonderous bliss,
Who could wish for more than this?

The western slope of the Rockies.
In this fair land many, years may I live

In this land which our lord to us did give.
To live and enjoy the moon and sun,

And count my blessings one by one.
And when I'm called from this earthly bliss

I hope my home will be like this--
The western slope of the Rockies.
