Moonshiners Vexing House Tax Writers

WASHINGTON (AP)—House tax writers sought advice today on how a big boost in liquor taxes can be put into effect without touching off an era of bootlegging and rum-running. Some members of the House Ways and Means Committee have said they fear a widespread increase in illicit liquor-making and sales if Secretary of the Treasury Snyder's tax plans are adopted. Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the enforcement problem was the reason for calling Deputy Commissioner Carroll Masley of the government's alcohol tax unit for testimony today. "Heavier liquor taxes may very likely make collections much more difficult to enforce," Doughton said. "I think it will depend on how closely we can keep after the moonshiners. It may be that we will have to have a great many more enforcement officers."

Snyder has proposed boosting the tax on whisky from $9 to $12 a gallon, on beer from $8 to $12 a barrel, and various increases for types of wines. The secretary estimated the added levies would raise $710,000,000 toward the administration's $16,500,000,000 tax goal.

Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) is among committee members feeling that higher liquor taxes will encourage moonshiners, bootleggers and smugglers on the theory tax evasions become all the more lucrative.

"This kind of tax is going to stimulate bathtub gin again," he protested. "It'll bring back the conditions we had under prohibition."

Dingell and Rep. Eberhart (D-Pa), another committee member, have mentioned the possibility of taxing soda water and other soft drinks. This was not among Snyder's recommendations, but he said such a tax at a penny a bottle would bring in about $280,000,000 a year.

A Republican committee member, Rep. Keane of New Jersey, recalled data submitted to the committee that the cost of producing legitimate whisky is only about 85 or 90 cents a gallon. He noted that means the proposed tax is more than 20 times the cost of the product.

Keane told reporters he wondered if a retail sales tax on liquor might be easier to enforce than the present tax on liquor manufacturers.

Letters Out Today For Contributions To Red Cross Drive

Letters are being received today by contributors to the American Red Cross.

Over 4500 letters were mailed by the local chapter officials Saturday, asking for donations to meet the $11,393 goal set for the year.

This is the amount set for the budget to keep the Red Cross operating under the accelerated motion of the organization during the Korean crisis, according to Herman Whately, chairman of the drive.

"If donations are mailed in as soon as letters are received by the contributors, the volunteer workers will have to spend less time on solicitation," said Whately.

Salary—$6000 Per Year

Modestly Paid Mathematician Builds Million-Dollar Fortune

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A professor whose annual salary never topped $6,000 built up a fortune of close to $1,000,000. This astonishing feat was disclosed today in the will of the man who pyramided the money—the late George A. Miller.

He left his entire estate to the University of Illinois.

Miller, 87 when he died Feb. 10, was a familiar figure on the campus. He dressed plainly. He often ate with students in the Illinois Union Cafeteria. Not even his intimate knew of his wealth.

Attorney James G. Thomas, who prepared the will for filing for probate today, estimated Miller's holdings at between $900,000 and $1,000,000.

The professor was a widely known mathematician. He bought stocks and bonds. But nobody knew precisely how he parlayed his modest salary into six-figure riches.

The executor of the will, Marc C. Norton, vice president of the First National Bank in Champaign, said Miller's holdings "represented a wide catalogue of stocks and bonds of solid worth in companies in many sections of the country and a small amount of real estate." He added:

"Many of the securities, purchased early in life, were held until his death. I don't know what his investment formula was.

THE ARMY DOESN'T WANT HIM Pvt. George Raymond, Jr. (bottom right) is a good soldier all right but he is only 15 years old. He gave his age as 18 when he enlisted without the knowledge of his parents. 'Fantastic' Escape Made By Prisoner

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 39-year-old convict wormed his way to freedom early yesterday after a night of twisting 70-foot tunnel from his cell to the unrestricted side of the massive state penitentiary wall.

He's still at large today. Joseph Holmes, "The Dinner-Time Burglar" of the '30s, was credited by Warden Edwin T. Swenson with "the most fantastic escape I've ever heard of." He was serving the 10th year of a 20-year sentence.

The warden said it must have taken Holmes two years to dig his way out.

A slender, rather light figure, Holmes started his tunnel under his bunk. He carefully lifted out a piece of slate about two feet square from the floor. Then he hit cement.

Piece by piece, he chipped away the cement, apparently working only between 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. when the loud speaker system blared out radio programs. This covered up the sound of his scraping and probing.

After 10 inches of this, he struck dirt. Then the real excavating began.

He disposed of the material scooped up with scrap iron he had smuggled in by flushing it down his toilet. With no apparent implements, this meant he had to carry the dirt—trip by trip—in his clothing.

He angled down almost vertically about 10 feet, then angled toward the wall. Ten to 15 feet farther, he ran into a small cavern, hollowed out either by a spring or the overflow from an old storm sewer.

Holmes took odd bits of clothing and stuffed them into the crevices of the hollow about six feet high and three feet wide to reinforce the walls and overhead against cave-ins. Then he started digging again.

Once under the wall that extended 10 feet deep, Holmes angled sharply up, 30 feet away. The tunnel emerged in a sodded area between the main wall and a seven-foot guard fence. A trench over this fence, and he melted into the pre-dawn darkness without an immediate trace.

His mother's house was only a few blocks away, on Preston Street. The escape was discovered at 9:15 a.m. by the cell-house officer, George P. Gearhart.

Denver Fires Fatal To Six

DENVER (AP)—Two million-dollar fires swept through two private clubs in the Denver area in as many days, leaving six persons dead today.

The swank Wolhurst Saddle Club south of here was razed yesterday by a blaze which took two lives. Four persons died in a fire at the Denver Athletic Club in downtown Denver Saturday afternoon.

Killed in the Wolhurst Clubhouse, which had housed royalty, gamblers and one United States president, were Bob Snell, 37, a cook, and Tamie Kaku, 64, a dishwasher. Two persons were injured.

Another 20 employees escaped when, started by a defective oil burner, broke out after the club had closed for the night.

Wolhurst was built in 1890 by U. S. Sen. Edward Wolcott. Mining Magnate Thomas F. Walsh later bought it. President Taft and royalty were at some of the parties at the huge estate.

Ova Eliza (Charlie) Stephens, who has a police record, bought it for a club in 1944. Two years later, 13 masked bandits obtained an estimated $150,000 in money and jewelry in a spectacular holdup, which still is unsolved. Since then it had been managed by Stephens' cousin, Eddie Jordan.

The athletic club fire started from a short circuit in the gymnasium which was being decorated for a dance. The blaze mushroomed through part of the six-story building, and was out of control when the first firemen arrived eight minutes later.

Eleven of 15 persons hospitalized by the fire were released yesterday.

Legion, VFW, DAV To Hold Barbecue

The Pampa VFW, DAV and American Legion organizations will throw a free barbecue tomorrow night at the American Legion Hall for all veterans.

Membership in a veteran's organization is not necessary to attend the barbecue.

Chicken, ribs, beans, potato salad, and refreshments are on the menu, according to Sgt. Davis A. Brown, who is in charge of the barbecue.

Boy-Soldier Gets Sent Back Home

TOKYO (AP)—PFC Kendrick Lee Cavil complained bitterly today about leaving his buddies in a U. S. second division mortar section.

He is being sent home to Des Moines because he is only 15.

Before the Army learned his age, the boy soldier had worked up from ammunition passer to second gunner in his mortar crew.

He joined the division's ninth infantry regiment last December in the midst of a brutal see-saw battle.

"I guess I'll have to go back to school," Cavil said. "But the day I'm old enough to come back they'll find me sitting on the steps of the recruiting office."

American Attack Smashes Into Ko-Red Stronghold

Solons Back AF Blast With Investigations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigating senators who accused the Air Force of a greedy grab for the cream of the nation's young manpower set out today on a nationwide probe of armed forces training centers.

"We want to find out if there is any more hoarding or waste of manpower in any of the services," Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) told a reporter.

Johnson is chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which rebuked Air Force leaders last night in a report of an inquiry into overcrowded conditions at Lackland Air Base, near San Antonio, Tex.

The group said it found a "total breakdown of training at Lackland because the Air Force enlisted some 40,000 more young men than it could properly shelter or even put into complete uniforms in late December and January." It added that this was "deliberately contrived to deprive other services of superior manpower" and called it a "reprehensible" and "calculated" policy.

This has resulted in a needless waste of critical manpower," the report said. "The men's time and the taxpayers' money have been wasted to an unjustifiable degree."

Summing up its findings, the committee said:

"If ever there was a persuasive argument for compelling all the armed services to draw their manpower from the common pool through Selective Service, this performance by the Air force is it."

At the same time Johnson made public results of two separate investigations on complaints at Lackland by the Air Force. One was by a three-member civilian committee and the other by the Air Force inspector general.

All three reports said there was no truth in rumors that had reached senators and newsmen of a premeditated epidemic, deaths and even suicides at Lackland resulting from a rash of enlistments in the late December and early January.

Of the three, only the Senate subcommittee report cited what it called "inexcusable waste of manpower caused by the selfishness of the Air Force."

"All of the problems at Lackland—i. e., housing clothing, etc.—resulted from the basic fact that the Air Force enlisted more men than it was capable of processing at the indoctrination and basic training base," the report said.

Diplomatic Officials Are Predicting Stalin's Blasts Against UN Will Backfire Three Ways

WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomatic officials predicted today that Premier Stalin's blast at the United Nations and the free world generally will backfire in three ways. These authorities speculated that it may have these effects:

1. To tighten up, rather than divide, the West in its determination to build military strength against Soviet expansion because, despite his avowals of seeking peace, the overall tone of what Stalin said was tough and uncompromising.

The first concrete reaction along this line is expected to be quick western agreement on a note to Moscow calling on the Russians to say if they are willing to hold Big Four talks on the real causes of world tension.

2. Inside Russia where Stalin's words are universally read, reread and debated for months or years, his descriptions of the array of nations against the Communist bloc—though not so intended—may give the Russian people a new idea of what they are up against.

The State Department's reply Saturday night, mildly denouncing the Stalin comments as "misstatement," expressed hope that Stalin's attack on the United Nations and all UN members who voted against the Communists in Korea will awaken the Soviet people to the dangerous road down which they are being led.

First Step Offered On Big Four Meet

LONDON (AP)—Britain, the United States and France proposed to Russia today a meeting of deputy foreign ministers in Paris March 5 as a first step toward four-power talks on disputes between the East and West.

The western Big Three's proposal was made in almost identical notes to the Kremlin.

Texts of the notes are expected to be released for publication tomorrow.

Space Travel Near Says Naval Expert

POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP)—Space travel is "closer than most people realize," says the senior test engineer for the Naval Guided Missiles Division at the Navy's secret missile test center here.

As proof, Arthur V. St. Germain offered detailed plans for a five-stage rocket which he said could carry two men to the Moon and back. But the fact that he could talk about it for publication indicates the craft is not an immediate project.

St. Germain is an authority on rockets, missiles and jet engines. Point Mugu is the site from which the Navy launches top secret weapons which travel hundreds of miles out to sea.

St. Germain's spaceship is one of the latest concepts for travel to the Moon and back. But the fact that he could talk about it for publication indicates the craft is not an immediate project.

The spaceship would tower 325 feet into the air above the launching site, weigh 360,000 pounds and attain a speed of 28,000 miles an hour. Power would be provided by four rockets, one telescoped inside the other, which would drop off one by one as the ship roared upward through the Earth's gravitational sphere.

The fifth rocket, carrying the crew, would coast to the Moon once it reached outer space. Its fuel would be conserved for the trip home. The return journey would require far less fuel because the Moon being smaller than the Earth, has little gravitational pull.

St. Germain said liquid hydrogen and oxygen would be the best fuels, pending development of an atomic engine.

He added that the landing on the Moon would be made tail first, with jets and rockets acting as brakes.

UN Forces Chalk Up Brilliant Local Victory By Baiting Bear

TOKYO (AP)—Military bearing has given the allies a brilliant local victory in Korea. UN forces smashed a Communist attack on the central front, piling up tens of thousands of dead and wounded. The allied cost was comparatively light.

The Red attack was provoked by American commanders under circumstances similar to the first battle with the Chinese last November.

It required a delicate and risky military maneuver—setting off an enemy trap without getting caught in it.

The campaign actually began late in January when allied forces began gingerly reaching northward of Suwon toward the frozen Han River. This started as a limited offensive which was to be pushed only until enemy opposition stiffened.

It was apparent then, say American officers, that the Communists were building up strength for a new thrust.

As the UN offensive ground forward, the resistance continued to be relatively light in the west. The Han River was reached. Kimpo airfield and Yonggungpo on the edge of Seoul were captured with relative ease. So was the port of Inchon.

Chinese Withdraw On Other Fronts

TOKYO (AP)—Counter-attacking Americans smashed four miles into the heart of a Korean Red stronghold in east-central Korea today. Hundreds of Communists were killed.

On the central and western fronts, the badly mauled Chinese withdrew from the battlelines.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said his allied forces had won a decisive victory on these fronts. But he said the Chinese Reds have enough massed troops to prevent a successful allied crossing north of Parallel 38 if the Reds commit them.

UN troops established a small bridgehead on the north bank of the Han River five miles east of Seoul but were driven back by Red mortar and machinegun fire.

The allies advanced all along the western front, as much as four miles in some areas. Their lines were jammed solidly up to the south bank of the Han near the ruins of the Korean capital.

7-Hour Blaze In Berger Out

BORGER (AP)—Firemen finally put out a fire in the downtown business district here early yesterday after it had burned intermittently for more than seven hours.

Four business houses burned and for a while a larger area was threatened. The business houses destroyed included two photographic shops, an apartment house and a beauty shop.

Target of the blaze were false-front, tightly constructed buildings which had stood on Berger's Main Street since the hectic days of the 1920's boom.

The fire broke out about 10 p. m. Saturday at the Courtyard Studio and quickly spread to another photographic shop, the MacGee Studio, housed in the same building.

All four businesses were gutted. The roof of the building housing the two studios collapsed about the time the fire was under good headway into the Fenland Apartments.

There was no accurate estimate of damage. Berger firemen reported the loss will run into thousands of dollars, but a comprehensive inventory must be completed before a good estimate can be made.

Wreck Kills Two Odessa Persons

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—The body of 20-year-old William Ray Beck was found in the Mad River near here late Saturday night.

Beck and two other persons were in a car that plunged over a 40-foot embankment into the flooded river last Feb. 4.

Still missing are Beck's wife, Betty, of Odessa, Tex. and his father, W. A. Beck, 43, of Arcata, Calif., a town near Eureka.

Young Beck's body was found by his uncle, A. C. Beck, 36, of Arcata, who had been shown down clear before the hurtling auto carried the other three persons into the river.

Medical Officer Reports Recoveries

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ninety-eight percent of the wounded American soldiers treated in Korea are recovering, an Army medical officer reported.

Col. Laurence A. Potter, assistant chief of medical plans and operations in the office of the Army surgeon general, told 350 reserve medical officers yesterday this represented a big gain over previous records.

Allied troops continued to operate on the west as though they did not know what the Communists were planning. But allied forces there carefully were not extended.

Meanwhile UN power was quietly built up in the center to meet the anticipated Red onslaught.

Spot it exploded into a series of attacks. The attacking Chinese ran into deadly allied firepower in depth.

The Reds, with heavy manpower reserves, tried to break through reserves of losses. But the stout American-French garrison in the mountain town of Chipungo held firmly. That held the center of the line. The eastern prong of the trap was smashed.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the Eighth Army, says the Red drive has been stopped and the Chinese are withdrawing.

This local victory will not win the campaign. But it helps to pile up Communist losses—and that is the basic strategy now.

If it comes from a hardware store, get it at Lewis Hardware.

ELECTRICAL TIPS FOR THE HOME

If Your Toaster and Coffee Maker Take Forever to Heat Up . . .

DON'T blame the appliance or your dealer. Chances are your wiring is overloaded. Overloading can cause as much as 10% voltage drop on a circuit. When this happens, a toaster will take 31.5% more time to heat up and a coffee maker will take 22.5% more time than when the wiring is adequate.

DO install at least two 20-ampere appliance circuits to serve cooking appliances in the kitchen and in the dining room. When there are enough circuits of large enough wire, your electrical equipment will operate efficiently and economically. You will also be assured of better cooking results.

Lighted Stand Adds Beauty

A simple combination bookcase and plant stand was constructed in a home workshop to create the charming lighted piece which conceals the broad, shallow opening in the fireplace.

Notice how the bookcase was fashioned without the top panel board in order to provide space for the plants and containers. To give highlights to the foliage, the shelf on which the plants rest was not made the full depth of the stand so that light from a 30-watt fluorescent lamp concealed inside would give light upward as well as downward light on the animal collection.

The front panel of the stand and the inside of the lower shelf were trimmed with a basket weave-type of paper.

General Electric lighting specialists point out that lighting can be built into many pieces of furniture without too much effort or expense. Fluorescent lamps and wired channels may be obtained completely assembled at many electrical shops.

Chinese Idea Has Improved The U.S. Army

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chinese have probably done more to improve the American army than anything since the invention of the Garand rifle. This odd contribution came as a result of their entrance into the Korean war last fall.

"That served as a kind of land version of Pearl Harbor in waking up our country up," said one staff officer. "And it has provided us with a proving ground in ways and means of fighting a modern Oriental foot army."

The big lesson the Chinese taught immediately was this: big guns alone won't defeat masses of people already disciplined by their leaders to accept death.

The American infantryman has learned he cannot wait in a foxhole and expect his own artillery to pulverize the foe before him. Artillery can't do it alone anymore than strafing airplanes can. So he has taken his bayonet out of the sheath strapped to his leg and put it back on his rifle where it belongs. And he is using his bayonet more.

Everyone knows that the enemy strongly outnumbered the United Nations forces in Korea. What most civilians fail to realize, however, is that even when one American division is matched against a Chinese division the American division is outnumbered in a vital respect — riflemen.

A division of 10,000 Chinese actually can muster twice as many riflemen as an American division of 18,000 men. This margin of superior small arms firepower on the combat line has been a tremendous advantage to the Chinese.

How can they do it? The Chinese soldier goes into battle expecting little — and getting nothing except what he carries on his own back. He is just a human animal under orders. And that tradition enables a Chinese division to use most of its troops as riflemen.

Couldn't an American division do the same thing? "It could if we made our men forage off the countryside, gave them nothing but weapons and ammunition, and let the badly wounded and the dead lie where they fell," said one officer. "But that is against our entire traditions as a people."

Attaching Garage To House Is Space Saver For Small Plot

By HENRY J. WINGATE

Nationally Known Architectural Engineer

Because many post-war purchasers of small homes did not need garages, builders saved costs by eliminating them. With so many families acquiring cars since that time, the majority of these home-owners require a car shelter.

Questions most often asked are where the garage should be located; what material for its construction; and whether a car-port will suffice.

If the plot is small but has side yard large enough to meet local zoning law requirements, the garage should be attached to the house. By building it of the same material and of harmonizing architectural design, house and garage will form a pleasing unit. The attached, fully-enclosed garage gives a rambling effect to the small house and uses a minimum of valuable yard space. A long driveway to a garage in the rear takes up about 16 percent of a 50 foot by 100 foot plot; if the garage is near the front of the house within 20 or 25 feet of the street, only 4 percent of yard is sacrificed.

In attaching a garage to the house, do not let it extend forward further than the front of the house itself. More interesting architectural lines are achieved if it is set back about 6 feet so that a job is formed.

Any attached garage should be built with a view to fire-safety especially as regards the walls adjoining the dwelling. Most builders meet this requirement by installing full-thick non-combustible mineral wool insulation in garage walls and roof. Should a fire break out, the flames will be held back from an hour to an hour and a half. Furthermore, the insulation will protect the living quarters from a cold garage.

The Lackland command and personnel thus became victims of a policy over which they had no control.

"Furthermore, that Air Force policy did a disservice to the welfare of the nation," Johnson has assembled a special staff of investigators to make this checkup of Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps training centers.

He said the investigations will include these training centers: Army — Camp Chaffee, Ark.; Air Force — Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

With a top emergency capacity for 27,500 men at Lackland, Senate investigators found that the center bulged with 68,731 persons on Jan. 17.

For Extra Storage Construct Cabinets Along Garage Wall

In these days of living space shortage, storage room is in great demand. Don't overlook the garage as a logical spot for storing things. Installation of shallow floor-to-ceiling cabinets with sliding doors is easy and inexpensive.

Such a cabinet is excellent for garden tools and outdoor equipment, as well as automobile washing and waxing accessories and a miscellany of other items. On the opposite wall, located high so it will save floor space, can be connected additional cabinets with shelves.

Because they require practically no room, sliding doors are wonderful for such cabinets. They are made of Masonite hardboards, which come in large panels readily cut to the required size. Fittings for the larger doors can be purchased at a hardware store. For the smaller cabinet, the sliding panel doors can be inserted in channels made from wood moulding.

tremendous cost — to crack the allied line in a five-day drive. Ridgway credited a magnificent stand by American and French forces at Chipyong with smashing the Red drive Thursday. He said the Chinese were so hard-hit that his patrols have been unable to make contact for 36 hours.

Ridgway, commander of the Eighth Army, said a news conference that although the Chinese have been beaten south of Parallel 38 they have enough manpower to prevent an allied crossing of the old north-south boundary.

"I have not given the 38th Parallel a thought," said Ridgway, "as far as I am concerned it has no significance."

Parallel 38 was designated as a temporary dividing line for occupation purposes after World War II. A United Nations' commission of Korea was refused permission by the Russians to enter Soviet puppet-North Korea to conduct elections for establishing a unified republic.

The commission held elections in the South and left vacant assembly seats for North Korean representatives. But the Russians' puppet regime in Pyongyang claimed jurisdiction over all Korea.

Lone Star Steel Boosts State's Building Total

AUSTIN (AP) — Contracts for $70,000,000 worth of industrial buildings this week rocketed Texas construction awards for the year to $196,009,000.

Heavy industrial activity included award of contracts for a new Lone Star Steel plant at Daingerfield.

Contracts for all types of construction awarded last week totaled $92,537,000 reported the Texas Contractor, building trade journal.

Residential lettings totaled $4,384,100 for 482 units.

For a man who has been in business less than a year David Caldwell has a lot to show in the way of experience and on-the-toes merchandising. David has done an outstanding public relations job in Pampa and has garnered for himself and his store a lot of fast friends and good customers. A good example of the enterprising nature of this rising business man of Pampa is the complete supply of fishing equipment he now has on display for the avid fisherman.

The results of the Caldwell trek to the sporting goods show in Dallas are now making themselves felt on the local sporting scene. Many of the items ordered by the Sportsman's Store management are beginning to arrive and are being placed on display as they come in.

The seasoned hunter as well as the novice will be pleased with the wide variety of fishing equipment and supplies now available at the Sportsman's Store. Take a quick run down your own list and see if there isn't a hole, or two, that needs filling. Caldwell has an excellent assortment of new innovations in plugs, poppers, flies, minnows, deceptive lures and similar items.

Sporting equipment manufacturers have gone all-out in attempting to increase the efficiency and longevity of rods and reels, both casting and fly type. Many of these latest examples are awaiting your approval at David Caldwell's popular store. In addition to the actual catching-equipment it is always necessary to have some mode of transportation designed to take the fisherman to the location of the fish. Here, too, is an example of why the Sportsman's Store is a fine place to do your buying. All ready to go, equipped with motor and other necessary raiment is a number one boat of the Yellow Jacket Variety. It wouldn't take a lot of coaxing to get that boat and its equipment out of the Caldwell Emporium. Don't let the size of the boat fool you, it doesn't take nearly so much cash as you would believe to become the owner of this fine piece of equipment. Caldwell has an "in" on some highclass motors to go with the boats purchased at his store. Don't be afraid to order both boat and motor while you're there. And don't be hesitating. That boat won't be there forever.

Every good fisherman needs clothes to help him look and act the part of a genuine angler. This is one of the prime reasons for a sporting goods store's existence. Caldwell's is no exception. He has accumulated a good assortment of everything needed by the modern fisherman: boots, waders, everything you can name is available. Now that you've decided that you're going down and buy a bit of fishing equipment from Dave, how about taking inventory of your camping gear. You'll need a new lantern, camp stove, table, sleeping bags, tents, camp stools and cooking equipment. Look on farther, friend. The Sportsman's store has the finest collection of the aforementioned items to be found in Pampa.

If you're afraid you'll need protection from the giants of the deep you snag with your new equipment, you might have a look at the collection of guns David has on display. There are some fine numbers left in stock — won't be there long. Let's not tarry. Now's the time to visit the Sportsman's Store.

IT WOULD require a pretty coldhearted individual to avoid a moment or two of mouth-watering contemplation of this display of piscatorial impediments on display at David Caldwell's Sportsman's Store, 115 E. Kingsmill. (Pampa News Photo and Engraving)

Conchas Fever At Work Early On Bert A. Howell

"This said the early bird always stands a pretty good chance of getting the worm. This story concerns an early bird, but there is no reference to the worm. I. E., unless that popular vendor of airconditioning, heating, refrigeration, boats, motors and kindred equipment has taken to oldfashioned piscatorial pirating methods.

Bert Howell is one person who doesn't let his inhibitions interfere with his desires. Little less than a fortnight back, Bert had a bit of difficulty deciding whether he wanted to fly or fish. He didn't take the "old boy" long to make up his mind. He did a little quick planning; wound up with a hefty yen for fishing; garnered a companion for a quick trip and pointed the nose of his Cessna for Conchas.

After due consideration of the man's feelings a concerted effort was made to discover just what luck was resultant of the hurried trip to the lake in New Mexico. You know the answer. Bert isn't talking. Can't say whether he met with lots of ice or lots of luck. You ask him. You might have better luck.

Bert did break loose with a bit of good advice to would-be Izaak Waltons. Don't procrastinate in your purchases of new equipment or in augmenting your supplies. There is no use kidding yourselves about major items of equipment. Boats and motors, marine hardware, tackle items and such like are going to get scarce. There is no time like the present to get that list of 'wants' put together and checked.

Don't delay another day in getting in your order for that new boat and motor. That fish-ware that spring isn't very far away. With such an event to be anticipated it's time to begin taking inventory of spring clothing, spring furnishings, curtains, drapes and the like. While you're taking that inventory it isn't such a hard thing to set aside those items that need cleaning and renovating and give Oliver Jonas a jingle. He'll put Service Cleaners at work on your valuables and have them ready before the vernal equinox breathes its first deep breath.

As The Soviet Sees America

Robin Burns, the concocter of that jaw-breaking Scottish rhyme, is the man who said, "Wud some power the giffie gie us to see ourselves as others see us."

We have the answer to Robin's prayers. Mr. Harry Schwartz, an economics professor at Syracuse university, has monitored a number of Soviet broadcasts and periodicals. Here are some examples of how the Russians see us.

"The problem of (American) university and college graduates this year is more acute than before. Out of an aggregate graduating class of 750,000 only one-fifth have managed to find jobs — as waiters, street cleaners, cemetery employees. The rest are doomed to a life of semi-starvation unless their parents can support them." —New Times.

"At the annual meetings of the National Association of Manufacturers since then (1945) there have been worked out detailed directives on problems of domestic and foreign policy, directives which are then followed exactly by the President, the State department and Congress." —Izvestia.

"Football players are often carried from the football field to the hospital or even straight to the cemetery at the University of Michigan. Football promoters in the United States are so profane that they try to turn every game into a fight. Let them learn to attack each other. This is the reasoning of the business men. After this training, it will be easier to send them to the shambles." —Soviet radio.

"A. Zardozhny, an electrical machinist, saw this in New York: 'There are no buyers in the stores. The stores are deserted; and it is not because people do not need clothing, footwear and goods, but because people have nothing to buy all this with.' Zardozhny told of the terrible unemployment in America. Some people work no more than 10 to 12 hours a week; others have no employment; others don't work at jobs for which they're qualified. In Brooklyn, decently dressed Americans came up to our sailors and begged a penny for food." —Pravda.

"A textbook now used in American schools declares: 'Always remember that your pupils are material being trained and prepared for combat. The instructor must attentively note and encourage the natural desire to fight and kill.' —Izvestia.

"Really, it's rather surprising how long a native-born American can wander around this land of his without detecting the first of these dreadful movements and characteristics the Russians have observed by means

Fair Enough-Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

This will be an unadorned statement showing that Drew Pearson plugged for Army commissions in his column which was published in many papers. Already, I have exposed Pearson's ballyhoo in behalf of John Gates, who became a Communist in 1933 and was editor-in-chief of the Daily Worker.

Gates was one of the notorious eleven Communist party leaders who were convicted in Judge Medina's court in New York of conspiring to overthrow the national government. Pearson apparently was in close communication with Gates, because in his column in the Washington Post of April 14, 1943, he quoted verbatim from a letter which he said Gates had written to President Roosevelt demanding that he be allowed to "fight for his country." Subsequently, Gates testified that he would not fight for the United States against Russia. In no case where he pleaded for a commission for an individual did Pearson intimate that the individual was a Communist.

Not only was Gates editor-in-chief of the Worker, he had been a colonel in Stalin's foreign legion in the Spanish Civil War. He had been an organizer of the Young Communist League in Youngstown, O., in 1933, where he was active in the riotous insurrections against the authority of our government. He was also director of veterans' affairs for the Communist Party and director of its legislative program. He joined the party in 1933. Pearson did not say that Gates was an assumed name.

In the same column, Pearson lauded Captain Hermann Batcher, whom he described as "The Sergeant York of the Pacific." Without any reference to communism, Pearson wrote that when Batcher had joined the Lincoln Brigade in Spain enlisted in the American Army, "they were cross-questioned as though they were social outcasts." He did not say that the Lincoln Brigade was Stalin's foreign legion. Captain Batcher got into the American Army early in the war. The War Department clamped down a thinly veiled discrimination against veterans of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, and this was able to become a caption in the Congressional Record of Jan. 22, an analysis of Pearson's pro-Communist propaganda, imported by Senator Joe McCarthy, states that Batcher was a member of the Communist Party.

In his column of June 1, 1943, in the Washington Post, Pearson complained that Malcolm C. Dobbs had the duty of an Army post of helping his colonel keep a record of his winnings on the races. Presently he was sent to "a post which serves as a dumping ground for undesirables." He depicted Dobbs as an admirable young man and good officer material.

The Daily Worker, the official Communist paper, on Dec. 19, 1940, listed Dobbs as one of a group who signed a petition to waive criminal charges against a notorious Communist. In its story on the American peace mobilization in Chicago, in September, 1940, the Worker published a picture of Dobbs and identified him as "one of three young Southerners" who took part in the mobilization, and as "president of the League of Young Southerners." This Chicago meeting, held during the alliance between Hitler and Stalin, opposed "war and conscription." Pearson said nothing about that.

On April 14, 1943, Pearson wrote that Sgt. Irving Fajans, on the eve of graduation from an officers' school at Fort Benning, had been told he could not graduate and was transferred to another post. The Daily Worker of March 28, 1948, listed a man of the same name as a member of the Communist Party. Irving Fajans also is listed as a member of the national board of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade.

Also on April 14, 1943, Pearson complained that "for some mysterious and unexplained reason" Morris Brier, who had soldiered in Spain, was denied a commission after he had qualified for one in an officer candidates' school.

"These," Pearson wrote, "are only a few of many cases in which an unseemly hand, similar to the influences found in both the State and War Departments in the past, have reached in to penalize youngsters who were farsighted enough to see what was going on in Spain and to risk their lives to stop it.

A man of the same name, Morris Brier, is listed as a leader of the Young Communist League of New York, in the Young Communist Weekly Review of May 19, 1942. A man of the same name is listed also as a speaker along with the old battle-axe, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, on a program at the Premier Palace, Brownsville, Brooklyn, Jan. 16, 1950, to get subscriptions for the Daily Worker. A man of the same name also is shown in a picture in the Daily Worker, May 19, 1942, feeding a belt into a machine to be spun. The scene was said to be Spain.

An article in the Maynard, Minn., Reporter, published in the Congressional Record, said the editor had often written to John Cowles, of the Minneapolis Star-Tribune, whose parent paper is the Des Moines Register, protesting about Pearson's column. The editor wrote that he also had lunched with Cowles and left with him "a seven-page report which should have convinced the most skeptical that Pearson was irresponsible, vicious and devious in his reporting."

"Pearson's column still appears in the Minneapolis Star," the Maynard editor wrote, "but they did explain that they watch it closely and blue pencil many of the most objectionable paragraphs."

It is fair, nevertheless, to ask why if a newspaper would continue to have anything whatever to do with a man whose reputation was so bad that it was necessary to watch his copy with constant suspicion.

Mr. Stanley seems to think that the majority, or the majority that he selects, can better determine what belongs to each other than can be determined on an unhampered market in a voluntary product agency. This is exactly the position that every believer in socialism and communism and tax supported schools has to take in order to try to appear rational. The answer is that jobs would be interchangeable so that if anyone thought that a certain person or group were getting too much or too little, competition would correct the inequality. It would be much safer to determine what belonged to each man by a free and unhampered market in a voluntary product agency than by volunteers who wanted all men's life and property protected, then it is to think that the bureaucrats will properly distribute what is produced. The way the bureaucrats are now distributing is to take from 90 to 96 per cent of what some men produce to give to others. That seems to be what the advocates of public schools believe and all the people believe who think that anything right and just can be done by might and thing that what people do on a voluntary basis is anarchy. If we would have anarchy by making men responsible for their own well being then the framers of the Declaration of Independence were trying to establish anarchy.

When Mr. Stanley was asked whether it was accepted for the purpose of the discussion that the Golden Rule and the moral principles of the Ten Commandments specifically forbid the initiation of force, Mr. Stanley answered: "Certainly not. They are silent on the subject. Then he asks: How can you jump at such conclusions? Where's your logic?" The conclusion is that the Commandments say, "Thou shalt not steal" and "Thou shalt not kill." And stealing and killing are initiating force and a violation of the Golden Rule, it seems only logical to conclude that the Commandments forbid the initiation of force even if Mr. Stanley cannot read that into them.

In answer to the question: "How can they (public school teachers) teach that might does not make right when they are practicing that it does?" Mr. Stanley answered: "Our laws define the majority as being 'right.' What would happen if every one became the law?" He is implying that those people who oppose being compelled to pay for something they think will destroy the country are advocating that everyone becomes the law. The opponents of tax supported schools do not advocate that everyone become the law, or that the majority become the law. They contend that there is a social law higher than man

Better Jobs

Questions Asked by Mr. Stanley Since I believe that any man who advocates any course of action or any system of morals should always be willing and able to answer every question about it without evasion or contradiction, I want to answer the questions Mr. Stanley has asked in connection to questions on public schools.

To our first question to Mr. Stanley which was, would he agree to accept the moral principles of the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule as a standard, and then went on to say: "but remember that Christ added to the Commandments. Why did he do so if the original ten were adequate?"

I know of no commandments that Jesus Christ added that were not included in the Ten as explained in the Old Testament. It is true that He said: "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another." This commandment was in substance included in the original commandments as explained in Leviticus 19:18: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these." It would seem that Jesus was just trying to get the Jewish people back to the commandments of the Old Testament. It does not seem that Jesus believed he came to change the law or add to the law when He said, "Let there be no thought that I have come to put an end to the law or the prophets. I have not come for destruction, but to make complete. Truly I say to you, till heaven and earth come to an end, not the smallest letter or part of a letter will in any way be taken from the law, till all things are done. Whoever then goes against the smallest of these laws, teaching men to do the same, will be named least in the kingdom of heaven; but he who keeps the laws, teaching others to keep them, will be named great in the kingdom of heaven." Yet Mr. Stanley contends that Jesus brought additions or a different law than the law of the prophets. I would like to know what new moral principle Jesus added?

Then the question is asked: When the Declaration of Independence omitted in the first question. For the sake of brevity, I believe the Declaration of Independence to be in perfect agreement with and embodied in the Golden Rule and the Commandments.

Mr. Stanley asks another question in this manner: "Incidentally, how can you say what part of a man's life energy product agency is creditable to him when he lives in a society which has established a protecting government which guarantees him certain rights and insures certain privileges without which he would have to shift for himself amidst anarchy?"

CHAGRINED — The Rayburn-Cormack movement to strip Mr. Cannon of power got off to a good start. Their operators within the committee were Representatives Albert Thomas of Texas and John E. Fogarty of Rhode Island, respectively. They rounded up eighteen of the twenty Republicans, giving them a majority of the 50-man group.

Chairman Cannon postponed the reorganization meeting several times in an attempt to twist a majority in his favor. When he could stall no longer, he agreed to take his chances, doubting that certain Democrats would dare to oppose him.

MANEUVER — Although this vote was supposed to be final, Chairman Cannon refused to accept it. He called a second organization meeting at which Representative W. F. Norrell of Arkansas moved to restore the majority that had been taken away from the man from Missouri. Again, the Cannon faction lost out. It seemed that the question was now settled once and for all. But Mr. Cannon still persisted. This time he resorted to a maneuver which only a thin dime in success, had made him the most unpopular chairman on Capitol Hill.

Without proper notification, he called for a third reorganization meeting for a Monday morning, a day when many members from New England, New York, Pennsylvania and other nearby states do not return to Washington. Only routine matters are brought up in the House on Monday, and many men defer return from weekend visiting homes until late Monday evening or Tuesday.

TACTICS — As a result, about ten anti-Cannon men were not present to vote against him. His friends, of course, had been giving notice of the meeting. So, he won what might be called a Pyrrhic victory. He has more enemies now made laws—whether made by the majority, the minority or any individual. They contend that there are moral laws that no man made and no man can unmake. They contend that the law "Thou shalt not steal" is a practical law that will benefit everyone. They are advocating universal and eternal laws—not a law by the majority or by any individual.

Our question No. 45 asked Mr. Stanley: "How can that definition fail to cover the process by which public schools are financed?" Mr. Stanley attempted to answer the question by asking: "What is the conflict?" The conflict is that the state is initiating force to take from somebody his property without giving him what the property represents as equal value. That is stealing according to the 8th Commandment, or the 7th Commandment according to the Catholic Bible.

WASHINGTON — In the face of opposition from the Rayburn-McCormack leadership, Representative Clarence Cannon has regained the one-man, dictatorial control of federal appropriations by a ruse which even his friends regard as questionable.

Chairman Cannon's inside manipulation of the Appropriations Committee's organizational procedure promises as stormy a relationship between him and his group as another stubborn Missourian — Harry S. Truman — suffers from in his contacts with Capitol Hill. Intra-committee muttering against the veteran chairman matches presidential invective at its best — or worst.

It has created bitter feeling among the three top leaders of the House: Speaker Rayburn, Majority Leader McCormack and the holder of the federal money bags. It may mean defeat for House-Senate efforts to reduce the White House budget by six or more million, for Mr. Cannon forgets his pledges of economy when his fellow-Missourian does him favors or puts the squeeze on him.

Instead, the Mexican government, with American acquiescence, forbade even newspaper discussion of the conference for seven days. The labor emissaries, therefore, could obtain no information. And when the major Mexican unions planned to hold a welcoming mass meeting for the two outside-looking-in Americans, the government arrested the leaders and forced them to call off the welcome.

STORY — When a top labor union officer was asked why his group had "gone sour" on the White House, in view of almost twenty years of pro-labor policies under the Roosevelt-Truman regime, he replied: "You have heard of the Veeep's famous political story, haven't you?"

The reply was significant. He referred to an anecdote Mr. Barkley tells of his early political days in Kentucky. Hearing that a long-time beneficiary was opposing him in a primary, the V.P. looked him up. The opponent conceded that Mr. B. had done favors for him, his family and his friends for many years. In explaining his opposition, he said: "But you ain't done nothing for me lately!"

Success Secrets

Whether you have a million dollars or only a thin dime in your pocket, never make the mistake of deciding that is your wealth.

The story is told of a famous painter who had one of his masterpieces stolen. His friends were frantic, but he seemed strangely unperturbed.

"Don't you realize," they asked him, "that your fortune has been stolen?"

"Oh no," he said, "you are mistaken. The picture on canvas was not my fortune. It was only a small check I had written on my real fortune in life here, pointing to his head. "It was from the fortune the picture was produced and there are many more pictures waiting to be drawn."

The principle difference in the philosophies of socialism and private enterprise is that socialism seems to regard material symbols as "wealth" and works out "plans and programs" for distributing them. These "plans" impoverish a nation's real wealth because they stifle the incentives for men to produce out of themselves. Private enterprise values the picture on the canvas. It enjoys the picture. But it does not make it for something it is not. Private enterprise knows that the real wealth is the thing behind the picture, and it seeks to provide more pictures by encouraging more people to paint, and by offering incentives for painting ever better pictures.

More On Phelps

By David Baxter

Not long ago this column contained factual, documented material on Dr. Dryden L. Phelps, for the last 29 years head of a large Baptist mission in China and also head of a Baptist university at Chengtu, China. Some readers thought I was being a little rough on Phelps and in raising the question of just what KIND of Christianity he was teaching the Chinese if he didn't believe in such Christian doctrines as the Atonement, virgin birth and others. I was supposed to have injected "theology" into the discussion. In other words I'm supposed to be a "bigot" and "intolerant" of Dr. Phelps right to believe as he pleases.

I do not deny any man's right to a belief whatsoever—or lack of a belief—but I do object to men PRETENDING to believe what they do not believe, usurping positions of authority under false pretenses and doing the opposite of what their followers are led to think they are doing. I object to obtaining money under false pretenses, too.

Sometimes I wonder just how much advancement in real spiritual things the unwashed heathen have made under the guidance of "missionaries" like Phelps. They've advanced in material and socialistic know-how, all right. Observe how scientifically they are butchering American troops in Korea after "education" by modernist missionaries.

That's about like our old friend the cannibal king. He came to this great civilized nation, graduated from Harvard, became pal with a young minister, and finally returned to his native island. Years later the minister became a missionary and visited his old Harvard buddy, only to find that worthy feasting on human flesh. "Why John?" the missionary ejaculated, "I'm surprised to find you haven't civilized your island. Here you are, a Harvard man, even wearing American made clothing, yet you are eating human flesh. What in the world has civilization done for you?"

"A great deal," the cannibal king replied, "I use a knife and fork now."

Now that even the erstwhile Northern Baptist Convention is forced to do a little explaining about Phelps, it is unfortunate that the church did not heed the resolution passed back in 1946 by the Oregon Baptist Convention asking for Phelps' recall on the basis of his published utterances. The American Baptist Foreign Mission Society ignored this request of a major constituent convention and refused to take any action. In retaliation for such "impudence," however, the Northern convention powers soon got rid of the Oregon group by expelling its churches from the Convention. Then they apologized to Phelps for the insinuations reflecting upon his dignity.

In a letter to Dr. L. J. Julian, First Baptist Church, San Francisco, Dan Carr, missionary recently working in west China and attending the university, wrote, "Poor old Dryden Phelps certainly took a beating the other day. He was extolling all the virtues of Confucius in one of his classes when one of his students asked, 'If you think Confucius was such a great man, why don't you go back and tell the people in the United States about him?' Phelps is certainly mixing up the thinking of these poor W.C.U.U. students. You should have heard his message to the student body last Easter in which he refuted the corporeal resurrection of Christ and claimed that our Lord's resurrection was simply a spiritual one. A transfer from one of the government universities made a remark something like this to a C.I.M. missionary a few weeks ago: 'I entered West China University as a strong Christian, but after sitting under the teaching of Dr. Phelps and Dr. Wilmot I just don't know where I stand.' This particular missionary, Frank

Harris, of England, who specializes in student works has heard so many complaints from students about Phelps and Wilmot that he almost feels like bringing the whole thing out in the open and challenging publicly the theology of these two men."

Incidentally, I find that Phelps was on the editorial advisory board of "The Protestant," a rag which, in spite of its high-sounding name, is about as "Protestant" as Pravda or the Communist Manifesto. Whether he's still on it I don't know but he was as late as 1949. Among his fellow board members were Dean Hewlett Johnson, the Red Dean of Canterbury and Francis J. Mc Connell, the Red Bishop of Methuen, a pair of the most notorious red frontiers in the world. "The Protestant" is listed as subversive and which "fanatically spreads Communist propaganda under the guise of being a religious journal" by the investigating committee of Congress.

In November 1950, Phelps wrote to the magazine Soviet Russia Today: "Ninety-five per cent of the U.S. press on the Far East is absolutely false. Believe the opposite and you will be close to the facts...How can we out here help you in the U.S. and the progressives?"

"To the Communist, a 'progressive' means just one thing—a fellow traveler.

Americans should listen carefully to the words of F.B.I. chief J. Edgar Hoover: 'I confess to a real apprehension, so long as Communists are able to secure ministers of the gospel to promote their evil work and espouse a cause that is alien to the religion of Christ and Judaism.'"

The Nation's Press

TAKING SALES AND PROFITS (Culver City, Calif.) Star-News)

With the prospect for higher taxes that will hurt even the politicians there comes some hope for more equitable taxation in the form of a national sales or transaction tax now under discussion in congressional committees. A general transaction tax at the production and wholesale level rather than the retail level would be a fairer tax than the graduated income tax based wholly on profits, and could be just as easily collected.

The graduated income tax upon profits rather than sales has always had great appeal to the politician who can tell the voters, some of whom do not understand how it works, that it is a "soak-the-rich tax." The cost of doing business in large or small volume must include taxes which are always passed along to the ultimate consumer, large or small.

Corporation or individual taxes, based solely on profits, are in many cases tax upon efficiency of operation. For an example, take two competing companies doing about an equal amount of business, one at a very good profit and the other with little margin of profit. The more efficient company is taxed heavily and the other escapes with little or no taxation on all its production.

A small transaction tax based on the volume of both companies might bring more money into the government treasury and enable the more efficient company making a good profit to sell cheaper if it did not have to carry most of the tax load on production of both companies. Even politicians out to win votes by "soaking the rich" should be able to understand this.

The weakness in the "soak-the-rich" argument is that there are not enough rich to soak in a national emergency, or even in normal times, if the truth were known. No matter how they are collected, taxes are paid by the consumer and patron in the final analysis, and it would be much more simple and equitable to collect them upon a basis of volume of sales or service rather than upon a profit basis.

Harris, of England, who specializes in student works has heard so many complaints from students about Phelps and Wilmot that he almost feels like bringing the whole thing out in the open and challenging publicly the theology of these two men."

Washington... by Peter Edson

By PETER EDSON

NEA WASHINGTON Correspondent WASHINGTON (NFA) — The television industry today offers as good an example as you can find to show why small business is scared by the defense production output.

The government has not yet issued any orders cutting back or shutting down on TV set manufacture directly. Through its grapevine, however, the industry has been anticipating that such an order may drop before March 1, to be fully effective about July 1.

National Production Administration refuses to confirm or deny this rumor. All NFA has done so far is limit the amount of a few critical materials, like cobalt, which can be used in non-defense manufacture. Moreover, the government has left the way open for the manufacturers to use their own ingenuity in finding substitutes for the restricted, scarce materials. Where such non-critical substitutes can be found, manufacture can be kept going full scale, indefinitely.

Anticipating that a cut-back or shut-down order will come eventually, however, Bemont Radio

MOPSY Gladys Parker

I'VE GOT A WRONG NUMBER. CAN ANYONE HERE USE ESSEX 4576?

Corp. of Chicago has recently been promoting a plan thought up by its vice president, W. L. Dunn. Purpose of the plan is to save TV distributor, dealer and repair organizations from destruction by defense production competition.

Main idea of the plan is to have the government let its contracts for new electronics equipment to the companies now making television sets. These manufacturers will in turn be required to let sub-contractors for parts assemblies to the TV dealers.

Repairmen and salesmen—even their wives if the men themselves are put to work making these sub-assemblies in their stores and shops. The completed sub-assemblies would then be shipped to the factories for final assembly.

There are now some 40 major U. S. television set makers. Each of these has 10 to 15 distributors and 5000 to 6000 dealers. In all there may be some 300,000 retailers selling TV sets.

If each had five employees to work on sub-assemblies, this would provide a potential labor force of 1,500,000. If only two-thirds of them in the area north and east of St. Louis were close enough to manufacturing centers to make shipping of materials and sub-assemblies practical, it would still provide a million potential workers.

This is the essence of the "Electron Dispatch Manpower Plan," as it's called. It is something like the "bits and pieces" production plans employed to a limited extent during the last war.

From the TV manufacturers' and dealers' standpoint, the beauty of this plan, on paper, is that it would leave the sales and service organizations intact. They would be instantly ready to go back to selling TV sets to the eager customers as soon as production curbs were lifted.

From the Defense Production Administration viewpoint, this plan is now looked on as somewhat fishy eye, for several reasons.

In the first place, new electronics equipment wanted by the armed services is now described as a little more than "a gleam in somebody's eye." What is meant is that some general thinks he would like to have some fancy gadget like a radar that will permit a jet airplane flying 1000 miles an hour at night to find a submarine at the bottom of the ocean, aim a rocket at it as soon as the sub gets in range, then fire automatically so it never misses.

Before any such Alley-Oop time-machine gadget can be built, the electronics engineering companies have to go to work. There are only a few of the 40 TV set makers who have research departments of about 100 scientists competent to tackle such assignments. So naturally, they get the prime contract.

The TV assemblers, who buy licenses under a couple of patents, buy the sets from one parts maker and the wooden cabinets from another, may do a better merchandising job and may sell more sets than the manufacturers. But they can't produce a new equipment.

Because the new equipment is so complicated, it is said to require special assembly lines. Present thinking therefore favors a brand-new plant, specially designed for their particular job. Production men say that these new plants, because of the greater efficiency, will pay for themselves in a few years' greater output.

Sub-assembly methods employing labor in scattered repair shops are considered so costly by comparison as to be impractical. Costs would be piled up by having to send instructors around to train workers, delays in shipping materials out and sub-assemblies back, extra inspection and repair of equipment damaged in transit.

What this all adds up to is a case history which shows why small business may have particular reason to feel glum over the defense production outlook, as now being planned in Washington.

Hadacol Helps New Mother

HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in Which Her System Was Deficient

Mrs. Lottie E. Edwards, who lives at Route 1, Inverness, Miss., has two careers. . . she is a registered nurse and also a wife and mother of a new baby. After her baby was born, Mrs. Edwards felt run-down; she knew she had to do something to help overcome this condition.

Mrs. Edwards would feel up to her many duties. Mrs. Edwards began taking HADACOL, and says it really helped her. Mrs. Edwards was suffering a deficiency of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is what Mrs. Edwards says: "I have taken one bottle of your HADACOL, and am now on my second bottle, and I can say it has really helped me. After my baby came I didn't feel like walking around, I had headaches and was very nervous, and even one bottle has helped me so much. I want to keep on taking your wonderful HADACOL. I will certainly recommend it to all patients I come in contact with. I think HADACOL is just the formula needed for Vitamin and Mineral deficiency."

Registered nurses, in increasing numbers, are showing a keen interest in HADACOL, and in the results that are being secured with this great modern formula. Requests have been received from many of these nurses for professional bottles of HADACOL, and many of them indicated that they recommended the HADACOL formula to their patients. HADACOL has helped folks of all ages when their condition was due to a deficiency of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron, elements which are contained in HADACOL. (© 1951, The LeBlanc Corporation.)

BEAUTY AFTER FORTY

MIRIAM HOPKINS

ACCESSORIES FOR BEAUTY

Silver jewelry, amethysts, emeralds, sapphires, either real or fake, will add a great deal to any costume. Of course, pearls are always in good taste, always in fashion and they add warmth to your skin tone. Complement amethysts by using purple eyeshadow over your eyes. Match green eyeshadow to emeralds and blue eyeshadow to sapphires. Use just a light touch of the shadow, smoothing it up toward the eyebrows. Never, never use it beneath the eyes!

Makeup is an accessory and you must select it just as you select other accessories, to accent, to match exactly or to harmonize with your costume. Mature women who are noted for their good taste in dress usually wear simple, basic clothes. They have many changes and accessories and a fashionable woman does not depend upon one shade of lipstick to wear with anything. They know the value of cleverly accessorizing their wardrobe. And though these women very often have unlimited means to dress well, clever manipulation of accessories makes it possible to dress within a budget.

Bags, jewelry, belts and gloves need not be expensive but they must be selected to suit your individual type as well as the clothes you wear and I think that they should go with your activities. We all know the unhappy sight of the BIG woman with the little handbag! The little type of bag will never be right for her. She should have a bag of dramatic proportions and the little woman should have a bag which is suitable for her size. Matching bag and gloves are very smart.

For clever accessorizing keep away from too much of one color, such as the bag, gloves and hat in the same color. This makes for a better balance of color. Watch yourself. Don't, for instance, in-

TO WED — Mrs. Elizabeth Riche of Galveston and C. M. Martin of Pampa will be married in a ceremony read in the early spring. Mrs. Riche formerly lived in Pampa. She has been in the business world for several years and has been associated with the Social Welfare Association of Galveston. She has also been active with the Red Cross there. Mr. Martin has been an employe of the Cabot Company for 23 years.

Intensive Rehearsals To Begin Friday For Symphony Concert

The Piano Symphony will rehearse Friday evening, Feb. 23, at the Tarpety Music Store from 7 until 9 o'clock inclusive. Mrs. May Foreman Carr has announced. Mrs. Carr urges each member to be present as intensive practice will begin on that day.

Approximately 50 pianists will perform in the annual concert, which will be given in May. As has been the custom, the members include piano teachers, talented pupils in piano and outstanding musicians of the community.

Six towns and cities will be represented in this year's program, including Pampa, Borger, Canadian, White Deer, Miami and Amarillo. Three well known artists will assist in the concert, John Branson, Mrs. Margaret Heiney and Mrs. Sublett Scott, all of whom have taken part the past three years.

This year's concert is being sponsored by the Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club.

J. C. Beezley, Sr. Home Is Scene Of Reunion

A family reunion held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Beezley, Sr., 538 S. Faulkner, on Feb. 11, brought all of the boys of the family together for the first time in four years. The oldest son, Sgt. Forest H. Beezley, who has just reenlisted in the Air Corps, came with his wife and son, Ronald, from Eglin Field, Fla. Others were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Beezley, Jr., of Lubbock; O. V. Beezley of Plainview, Mr. and Mrs. James Beezley, Sr., and their sons, Dencil and Sherman of Pampa, and Clarence Beezley of Lubbock.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Culver and daughter, Shirley, of Borger; Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Culver and son, Sammy, of Borger; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Snowden and children, Patsy, Elvin and Howard of Pampa, and Billy Mendenhall of Lubbock. Marvin Culver and S. G. Culver are Mrs. J. C. Beezley's brothers, and Mrs. Snowden is her sister.
